GREAT CROWD TO ATTEND

SECOND ANNUAL MOOSE PICNIC AND PARK DEDICATION TO ATTRACT MANY

Unless unforeseen conditions develop, the second annual picnic of the Escanaba lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, will attract to the new Moose park today, the largest crowd of people ever to gather in this district for a similar event. The dedication of the new park has added a particular interest to the big outing of today, which in addition will include a number of new and novel features. The work of preparing the park for the formal dedication of today has been in progress for some time and last night it was announced that everything was in readiness. The park is located on the bay shore, midway between Escanaba and Gladstone and it is believed is destined to become one of the big summer outing places of the district.

Special street car accommodations have been arranged by the Escanaba Traction Company to carry the great mass of people who will attend between both this city and Gladstone and the park grounds and a special low round trip rate will make the trip a popular one with all who are seeking pleasure.

Hyna's concert band has prepared a special program for the day and during both the forenoon and the afternoon will appear at the park.

This afternoon a unique program of sports and games, some of which have never before been included in a program in this district, will be carried out.

SICK FUND IS BENEFIT

A few weeks previous to January 1905, some of the members of Delta Homestead No. 1284, Brotherhood American Yeoman, made up their minds that they would like to add a sick fund to the local society in this city, and after a committee had been appointed and drafted by laws to that effect, this special sick fund was organized in January, 1905, with 17 charter members. It was agreed that only members, who belong to the Homestead could belong to the sick fund, and if a member did belong to the sick fund an additional dues was charged for to carry sick benefit.

It has been found that this fund has been a great help to members who belong, and the total amount of $2040 was paid out to members who were sick, from the date of organization to January 1, last.

At a regular meeting of the members of this sick fund held last evening at the secretary's office, the auditing committee's report was read, showing a balance on hand of $111.23 after all bills being paid. The report also showed a total membership of 115 in good standing, female members 25, male members 90. This sick fund has its own officers, president, secretary, treasurer, and two other members who constitute the sick committee, and who are supposed to visit all members in line of sickness. It was shown by the auditing committee's report that the last six months has been strenuous on the sick fund, the total amount of $574 being paid out to members who were sick or disabled.

At a previous meeting which was held at the secretary's office July 2, a membership contest was inaugurated which has proved to be a great success in the way of getting new members to join the sick fund, there being already 25 new applications added to the membership since last meeting.

COUNTIES MUST CARE FOR TUBERCULAR POOR SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Lansing, Mich., July 17.—Attorney General Fellows, in an opinion handed down today, declared that tuberculosis is a dangerous and communicable disease and that indigent persons suffering therefrom have to be cared for at the county expense.

COUPLE TOOK WEDDING VOWS

Miss Beattie Wehnert and Mr. Charles Carlson were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Starrine, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. The bride was attended by Mrs. Genesee and Miss Helen Starrine, and the groom by Mr. Genesee and Mr. Titus Starrine. The bride wore a pretty dress of cream lace carrying yellow roses and lilies of the valley, while the bridesmaid wore yellow satin, carrying sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a gown of pink chiffon and carried sweet peas.

Immediately after the ceremony an elaborate wedding dinner was served. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with ferns and flowers.

LOCALS BEAT MANISTIQUE

LAKE MICHIGAN CITY TEAM GIVEN TRIMMING IN FAST ELEVEN INNING CONTEST BY A SCORE OF 6 TO 3

(Special to The Press.) Manistique, Michigan, July 17.—In an 11 inning contest here this afternoon the Escanaba Independent baseball team defeated the locals by a score of 6 to 3.

The game here this afternoon was one of the fastest and most spectacular ever to be played in this city. It drew forth a monster crowd of fans who supported the local team until the last straw.

By winning his game today for Escanaba, Krause, a Marinette lad, who was being tried out by the Escanaba manager, was given his contract for the remainder of the season, at the close of the contest, which he signed and returned. He is now a permanent fixture of the Escanaba aggregation.

Weynath, fresh from Oshkosh, caught a splendid game for the locals today and he too will be signed up immediately. A catcher has been Manistique's weakest point this season.

Escanaba scored two runs in the fourth, one in the eighth and three in the eleventh. Manistique scored one in the first, one in the fourth and tied the visitors score in the ninth with another run. In the eleventh Escanaba won when Boyle singled to first base, Murray was hit, advancing Boyle to second, Krause singled, sending Boyle to third and with the bases full, Flath singled, scoring Boyle. Oltstedt went out from short to first and Hoffman singled to left field, scoring Murray and Krause. Nolden and flew out.

WILD MAN IS COMING HERE

"Look out! Here comes the elephants. The parade is just turning on Ludington street. Red lemonade, right this way, five a glass. Thick sticks of candy for five cents. Gentlemen, Ladies, the side show is about to open. Here we have in captivity the only living wild man in existence. He was captured in the wilds of the Ural mountains at the loss of 17 human lives and 25 horses, together with $10,000. In a secret cave he lived in the heights of the mountains on snow, melted with the temperature of his own body. Stand back, stand back, men, the show is now starting. Don't crowd, don't crowd."

In other words a circus is coming to town. It is Gollomar Brothers and they are coming on August 12 with two big rings of solid fun.

Look out for the elephants.

Conservatory Players At Chautauqua To-Day

The Conservatory Players, who do specialties with a great many instruments, interspersed with vocal, other instrumental and ensemble concert numbers, will be heard the afternoon and night of the first day of the Chautauqua.

Baldy Strang, the Story Lauder of the Chautauqua platform, who appears in costume as a Kansas farmer and as a colonial gentleman; he also wears the "kilties" and plays the bagpipes. A very interesting and entertaining artist. He appears with the Conservatory Players afternoon and night.

ALL READY FOR WEEK

A large crowd of local children and their parents gathered at the Ludington Park last evening when the Play Festival for the children, was given by Miss Mona L. Voght, who had local charge of the event.

The affair of last night proved a most pronounced success and should serve as an excellent prelude to the Chautauqua opening this afternoon.

The big tent was raised last night by the College boys and all in readiness for the first of the six big days of show and entertainment.

NEW MACHINE FOR DITCHING

The Raymond Log Loader Co. has a new device for ditch and sewer work. One man can operate it and a good many hundred yards can be handled daily.

The apparatus consists of a self-driven truck, having two speeds. The slow speed is a worm gear drive to gradually feed the shovels which are attached to an endless chain, while the second speed is to make quick and long moves.

This apparatus is arranged to dig any depth of ditch or sewer required and as the weight of the truck is ahead of the trench, there is not so much danger of caving the sides in.

Mr. Raymond expects this new device to be a winner as there are thousands of acres of land to be trenched and the cost of the new idea will be small in comparison with other methods. It will be called the Raymond Trucking Machine.

According to the inquiries being received, the log loader company expect to have a rushing season.

NOTICE

A meeting of the Bay View Golf Club will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the office of the Delta Title Land & Loan Company. Business of importance will be transacted. All members are urged to be present. (Signed) E. J. NOREUS, Secretary.

GREAT LINER NEAR GRAVE

(Special to The Press.)

New York, July 17.—After a miraculous escape from a torpedo and shrapnel shell showered at her by a German submarine only 30 miles off Queenstown, the Cunard liner Orduña, with 220 badly frightened passengers aboard, reached here today. There were 22 Americans aboard. Fully one half of the passengers were women and children. The attack was made July 9, the day after the ship left Liverpool. Captain Taylor, by hurriedly maneuvering, missed the torpedo by ten yards. Then she was shelled for half an hour until she got out of range. A protest will be made to the United States Government by at least one United States citizen, and possibly others, who was aboard. William O. Thompson of Chicago, Counsel to the Federal Industrial Relations commission, returning home from a journey to England in behalf of the commission, said: "I consider myself duty bound to make a protest. No warning of any kind was given," he said.

(Special to The Press.)

Washington, July 17.—Although all the state department officials refused to make any comment, it was obvious that the attack on the Orduña has caused alarm here. They probably (Continued on Page Six.)

TAKES AGENCY FOR THE HUDSON

John E. Jackson, who has taken the agency for the Hudson motor cars, yesterday received a 1915 Model seven passenger, six cylinder Hudson, which he is demonstrating for public approval. The car is indeed a beauty and in its mechanical equipment, it is a work of art. It sells for $1350 and is perhaps the best car on the market for the money.

COOL NERVE SAVED MANY

An unusually effective organization of the crew and a rare display of presence of mind prevented a heavy loss of life when the steamer Choctaw, of the Cleveland Cliffs fleet, was sent to the bottom of Lake Huron on Monday, after being struck by the Wahcondah.

That is the opinion of Capt. Charles Fox of the wrecked Choctaw, who stopped in Detroit on his way to Cleveland. He and the crew were picked up by the Wahcondah a few minutes after the accident. Although the Choctaw's crew had but little time to get clear of the vessel, they did so with no confusion, Capt. Fox says.

The Choctaw is a total loss, lying in 200 feet of water. The amount of damage to the Wahcondah has not been determined. Experts have been examining the vessel at Windsor, where temporary repairs will be made, and the vessel will proceed to Montreal. The Choctaw was insured for her full value, about $80,000.

"That there was no loss of life I think was due to the fact that all of the members of our crew knew their places and there was no confusion from the time the collision occurred until the last man was landed aboard the Wahcondah," said Capt. Fox. "The Wahcondah hit the Choctaw between No. 1 and 2 hatches and punched a big hole in her. We launched the lifeboats and put off from the sinking ship. One boatload of sailors had boarded the Wahcondah and the other life boat was about 400 feet away when the steamer went down.

"The Choctaw settled by the head soon after the collision, but shortly before she disappeared she rolled to starboard and capsized, going down bottom side up.

"We were steering an inside course, according to the rules of the Lake Carries' association, and were running under check when the collision occurred. The best treatment was accorded us by the crew of the Wahcondah."

"The Choctaw was a seaworthy vessel, and of substantial steel construction. She had seen 23 years' service on the Great Lakes.

GOLF CLUB TO HOLD MEETING

Members of the Bay View Golf Club will meet on Monday evening to decide whether the local course shall at once be improved, to take its place as one of the best in the district, or whether the early policy of making gradual improvements shall be adhered to. By increasing the now nominal dues of the club for a period of two or three years, funds would be available to make the course second to none in this district. The Chicago golf course architect, who recently visited here, announced that the site was an ideal one and with minor changes recommended by him already carried out, permanent improvements can proceed at any time. The entire situation will be discussed and some definite decision reached at the meeting of Monday evening.

LINDSAY GETS BIG CONTRACT

LOCAL MAN, SUBJECT TO APPROVAL OF COUNCIL, GETS CONTRACT FOR BUILDING THE TRUNK LINE SEWER

Subject to the approval of members of the Escanaba city council, John S. Lindsay, of this city, has been awarded the contract for constructing Escanaba's new trunk sewer line by the board of public works.

Nine bids for the contract were submitted and Mr. Lindsay's proposal, of $32,300 was lower by $300 than that of the next lowest bidder. The second lowest bidder was the J. B. Sheets Contracting Company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

A total of nine bids were submitted for the work, a number of outside bidders competing with local contractors for the work.

All of the proposals were fairly well bunched indicating an earnest effort by all to secure the job. The action of the board of public works, in awarding the contract to Mr. Lindsay will be submitted to the city council at the meeting of Tuesday night for the formal approval of the aldermen.

GREEN BAY IS PLEASED

The Lincoln Chautauqua System, opened the annual Chautauqua program at Green Bay on Thursday and as features booked for the week's program opening here today, are appearing first in Green Bay, the following from the Green Bay Press Gazette concerning the first day's program will be read with interest in this city:

Two programs that provided the best of entertainment for the audiences were presented at the Chautauqua tent yesterday afternoon and last evening by entertainers of the National Lincoln Chautauqua system in formally opening the Chautauqua. The audience last evening comfortably filled the tent, but the calibre of the entertainment warranted a much larger crowd.

Booth Lowrey, after telling his audience last night that he would serve the consommé and that Colonel Gearhart would give the chautauqua patrons the meat today, gave a talk interspersed with wit and humor that was highly entertaining. "There are three great tyrants of today," said Mr. Lowrey, "and I consider them existing customs, current fashions and public opinion." On the third tyrant he said: "In our social, religious and civic life we are governed largely not by our own independent thinking but by the opinions of others." Quoting Mark Twain, he said that the trouble with the American people is "that they express an opinion before they have one." "The average person," he added, "never has an opinion. He has an impulse, prejudice, or a sentiment but not an opinion. An opinion is a conviction that is based upon evidence and requires stronger counter evidence to remove it."

ARCH-BISHOP IS IN CITY

HIGH CHURCH DIGNITARY TO OFFICIATE TODAY AT BRIGADE SUNDAY SERVICES

Archbishop Sebastian Messmer, of Milwaukee one of the most noted churchmen of the country, arrived in Escanaba last night and today will officiate at the elaborate Brigade Day services at St. Patrick's church. Archbishop Messmer's visit to Escanaba comes as an expression of interest in the great work that is being accomplished by Rev. Father Barth, pastor of St. Patrick's church, among the boys and young men of his parish.

The organization and perpetuation in this city of St. Patrick's Boys Brigade has attracted wide-spread notice and it is as a mark of special interest in the great work going forward here that Archbishop Messmer has come to Escanaba. The people of Escanaba, the congregation of St. Patrick's church and members of the Brigade, particularly, are honored by the visit of the high church dignitary. The Archbishop arrived in the city last night at 7:25 o'clock and is a guest at the home of Rev. Father Barth.

The choir of St. Patrick's church under the direction of H. O. Brotherton and with Miss Anna Doner at the organ, assisted by an orchestra, have prepared a special Mass for the occasion.

This afternoon at South Park, baseball teams, representing Companies A and B, will meet in the annual brigade ball game and tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the brigade members with their guests will leave for their annual encampment at Fayette.

WAR

Mendon, July 17.—The Austro-German armies, which now appear to be working in perfect concert as the result of the German organization, are giving the Russians little rest or time to reorganise themselves after their retreat from Galicia.

Simultaneously with the German effort to reach Warsaw, or the Russian lines serving that fortress from the north, the Austrians have attacked along the Dniester and have succeeded in crossing that river at several points. General von Mackensen's army, which doubtless had been waiting for Field Marshal von Hindenburg to move in the north, has also come to life again and the fighting has been resumed in southern Poland. In fact, there is fighting of more or less severity all along the Russian front, except in central Poland, where the Russians are in such strong positions that in the opinion of military men, it would be impossible to break through.

The Germans claim to have made further progress with their northern operations, but with the Russians retreating it is not likely that the air forces have clashed as yet. The combined operations are the most gigantic yet undertaken, the aim being, according to military experts, to squeeze the Russians out of Warsaw and the great slice of country which they hold to the north, south and east of that city, and at the same time to attempt an invasion of Bessarabia.

So long a stasis effort to crush Russia, or to break her power of offensive, continues, there is little possibility, military writers say, of the Germans attempting any important movement in the west, for it is believed that the Austro-Germans will, for a long while, require all their available troops in the east.

The German army corps did try to break through the French lines in the Argonne, but it is the opinion of military experts that his intention was simply to weaken the French hold on Verdun. A German official statement claims that one result of this offensive was the capture of seven thousand French soldiers in three weeks. On the other hand, the French claim to have regained most of the ground they had been forced to give up and which they state did not exceed four hundred yards in depth. British critics describe the effort of the crown prince as a costly and partially successful advance, followed by a counter offensive which definitely checked his progress. Fighting is now in progress on the Lorraine frontier and in Artois, where the French continue their attempts to capture Souchez.

Further progress is unofficially reported from Athens to have been made by the allies on the Gallipoli peninsula in the Dardanelles campaign, and, as the Athens dispatches are generally ahead of the official reports, this statement is credited here.

More important is the news that Roumania has declined to accede to Germany's demand that Roumania allow munitions to pass through that country for Turkey.

The entente allies announce another victory in Africa, where they captured Ngaurere, an important trading center of Kamerun, a German colony, in western equatorial Africa.

The German submarine U-51, noted for its long voyage from German waters to Constantinople, is reported sunk in the Black Sea by Russian warships.

In the Italian war theater the Austrians assert they have repulsed, with heavy losses, attacks by several Italian battalions near Ruveddo. An artillery engagement is in progress in the coastal district and Carinthia.

BERNSTROFF SEES EARLY SETTLEMENT

Washington, July 17.—German Ambassador, von Bernstorff informed Secretary Lansing today that he believed the German reply to the last American note would present an opportunity for a settlement of the differences existing between the two nations by further diplomatic negotiations. The ambassador conferred with Lansing for an hour.

Secretary Lansing heard with interest Count von Bernstorff's explanation of Germany's purpose to satisfy public opinion at home and at the same time to maintain friendly relations with the United States.

Von Bernstorff urged that the United States take advantage of the intimations in the German reply that Germany was willing to have the entire questions of the freedom of the sea mediated with Great Britain thru the United States.

Right now, when my fever is attacking its victims and when asthma is causing so much distress, there is a demand for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound—the remedy that brought relief to thousands in previous years. Don't continue to suffer. It will help you. Contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.

FRENCH KILLED BY THOUSAND

"France has undoubtedly suffered the most and the hardest of any of the allies in the world war," said Oswald Schuette, former Milwaukee newspaper man, who has been representative of The Chicago Daily News as staff correspondent at Berlin. Mr. Schuette is home for two weeks, and will return to Berlin and resume his duties the last of next week.

"The French soldiers have been killed by the thousands, and I was informed on good authority that there were no more than 180,000 men in France between the ages of 20 and 40 who have not been called into service. France is holding by far the biggest portion of the long battle line in the west."

Mr. Schuette declared that the end of the war was uncertain; that it might end at any time, and that it might last for years. He declared that the entrance of Italy into the war had no effect upon the contest.

"It is understood that Italy and Roumania have an agreement in which each is to help the other in case of an attack by Germany," said Mr. Schuette. "Roumania's refusal so far to take part in the war has resulted in no attack by German upon either nation. In fact Germany is not actually at war with Italy, and so long as she is not there is no call for Roumania to enter on Italy's side. It is even considered possible that Roumania may yet join the war as an ally of Germany."

"I was in the Champagne district in March, and saw 20,000 bodies of dead French soldiers rotting between the trenches. The refusal of the passing forces to call a truce long enough to bury these bodies was, in my opinion, the most barbarous act of this war. After the bodies began to decay the stench was horrible, and the soldiers were compelled to wear masks to shield themselves from it. The Germans made three proposals of a truce to take care of the burial, but the French army refused to yield."

Mr. Schuette declared that in some places the trenches of the opposing forces were not more than twenty yards apart, and that they ran from this distance to 200 yards. He declared that the various attacks in which so many soldiers were killed occurred at points where the trenches were near together.

"A man doesn't need to hold his head high; he is not proud when he walks through the trenches, especially if he is about six feet tall," he said.

Diarrhoea Quickly Cured.

"About two years ago I had a severe attack of diarrhoea which lasted for over a week," writes W. C. Jones, Buffalo, N. D. "I became so weak that I could not stand upright. A druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose relieved me and within two days I was as well as ever." Obtainable everywhere.

WANTS LARGER U. S. ARMY

Kansas City, Mo., July 17.—"The nation needs a standing army of at least 200,000 men and a system of reserve enlistments whereby a man may serve one year in the army and retire to business life, but be subject to call for three years," said Lawrence Y. Sherman, United States senator from Illinois, in an address here on Thursday at a luncheon of Republican businessmen.

"The country has been blind to the subject of national defense," said Senator Sherman.

"Both parties are guilty. The navy should be run by naval experts, not cabinet officers who are politicians. It should be larger."

He predicted that the next President would be "a sane progressive Republican."

GERMAN TALK OF INVADING ENGLAND

London, July 17.—The war has developed into a race between Lloyd George and the German General Staff for Calais, declares Loyal Fraser, a prominent British writer, in a letter to the Mail, urging that everything else should be temporarily laid aside in England for the work of reinforcing the efforts of the new Minister of Munitions.

"With the Germans and their monster guns at Calais, we should lose control of the narrow seas," writes Mr. Fraser. "If we get enough shells and guns in time Calais may be saved. There is every reason to believe the Germans will soon strike another blow at Calais. It is no answer to say that they tried and failed last November. The first battle of Ypres was a hurried affair which developed on both sides without careful preparation. The next time the Germans try to burst through they will throw into the attack every ounce, and they will only move when they are able to advance with a strength which they think overwhelming."

"The enemy regards the seizure of Calais as an essential prelude to the destruction of England. The question is far graver than the country thinks and the attack will probably come this summer or autumn."

"This country still laughs at talk of invasion. Not many months ago it was laughing at Zeppelins. No one laughs at Zeppelins now. Far stranger and more unlikely things than the invasion of England have already happened in this war. The German talk of invading England is more than a dream. They began to think about it very early in the war, and in their usual practical manner began to prepare for it. They have ready today the transports, the wharves, the railway sidings, and the stores."

If they make the attempt it might not succeed, but there is more than a chance that they might effect a landing. The problem does not admit of detailed public discussion, but it ought to be regarded quite seriously and gravely. The best authorities now believe that the Germans will try to land."

Mr. Fraser is not sanguine as to the situation in Russia or the Dardanelles, but believes that England must fight out the war right at her doorstep, in Northern France.

"The Germans," he observes, "believe they are winning the war, and if a stranger from another planet alighted among us and judged by surface indications alone, he would probably think so too. Take the Western theatre; the Allies are stuck fast; the French, who have done wonders on their own front are waiting for the British. The British are waiting for more weapons and more shells, and as we have now reached midsummer, they will wait a long time. All through Europe there is not a single big man visible, for this is a war of myriads directed by pygmies."

"The country ought also to know the real significance of the Russian retreat in Galicia. There has been far too much talk about magnificent withdrawals and the unimportance of Lemberg. The fact is that though Russia has fought bravely, she can do nothing much more this summer owing to the lack of munitions and other causes, and unless the coming winter is much harder than the last, her movements may be greatly restricted until next spring."

"The Dardanelles is almost too painful a subject to write about. We must stick to it now, but we only win our way there by inches and at grave risks, and to get through we may need diversions from other quarters which are not yet forthcoming."

TO GIVE CABINET NOTE

Washington, July 17.—The situation which has arisen between Germany and the United States over Germany's failure to grant the American demands growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania will be laid by President Wilson before his cabinet next Tuesday.

Several drafts of a note setting forth the course which the United States intends to follow as a result of the German reply, have been prepared and will be discussed by the president with Secretary Lansing Monday and submitted to the cabinet the next day.

Although officials generally are reticent, the purpose of the United States to continue to assert its rights on the high seas probably will be announced in definite form in the next note. In authoritative quarters it was stated that the new note very likely would include in no extended discussion of the principles already stated and reiterated.

It became known, too, that there was little likelihood that the United States would subordinate the Lusitania case or assertion of its rights to the intimations from Germany of a willingness in an effort to restore recognition of the principle of the freedom of the seas.

Much stress was placed on this point by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, in an informal interview with Secretary Lansing today, but high officials, recalling that one effort to mediate on the subject of submarine warfare and consular already has failed, indicated that the new note would not be repeated unless a the request was made by one or the other of the belligerent.

Inasmuch as Count von Bernstorff had no instructions from his government, his visit today, some officials said, was unlikely to change the purpose of the United States to take into consideration solely what was said by Germany in its last note. The ambassador exchanged views with Secretary Lansing on all phases of the question and sent a long report to Berlin. The interview, it was believed, might have tangible results during the course of later negotiations, since the American viewpoint was explained to some extent by Secretary Lansing.

The ambassador expressed confidence late today that the situation between the two countries was not critical.

Vienna, July 17.—From a highly authoritative source at the foreign office a representative of the Associated Press has received an explanation of the motives that are said to have inspired the dispatch of the Austro-Hungarian note to the United States regarding the American traffic in war munitions.

The Austro-Hungarian statesman who spoke said that although the facts upon which the note is based had been in existence for a long time the communication was sent now only when, after great victories in Galicia, it could not be interpreted as a cry for help from a land in distress. He disavowed in advance any idea that the note was sent at the request or inspiration of Germany, asserting that the step was taken spontaneously in the hope that, owing to the undisturbed friendly relations between Austro-Hungary and the United States, the note would be assured a sympathetic reception in the latter country.

The Soldier's Ignorance.

The soldier's ignorance is not always restricted to the place in which he is fighting. The prospect of having to regard the khedive as an enemy reminds one of an anecdote of the Sudan campaign. It was after the fall of Omdurman; the khedive was being pursued, and there was a false report that he had been captured. "Hooray, Bill," one British soldier was heard to shout to another; "we've got the bloomin' khedive!" Tommy was in charming ignorance of the fact that he had been marching under the khedive's flag ever since he had started on the campaign.—London Chronicle.

PROBATE JUDGES RAP "LITTLE KNOWLEDGE"

Cadillac, July 17.—Committee reports by Judges Reid, Mt. Clemens; Stone, Hillsdale; Velland, Escanaba; Kirby, Grand Haven; Potts, Ithaca; Correll, Charlevoix, and Aneke, Bay City, took up the time of the session of the Probate Judges in convention here on Wednesday.

Judge Fred Stone, of Hillsdale, chairman of the committee on legislation attacked the judiciary act of the last legislature, declaring the association disclaimed all credit for the law. He said his committee had been assured by the house judiciary committee, with which the bill was quietly slumbering, that they had not time to discuss it fully and doubted very much if it would be reported for favorable enactment.

Also referring to the judiciary act, Judge K. P. Rockwell, of Pontiac, said "Most of its provisions, I am credibly informed, were never read by the members of the legislature. I am not opposing the many changes provided by the act because they are new, but I am not in sympathy with legislation fraught with so much importance being enacted with so little knowledge of its contents."

Doctors Barrett and Peterson, of the University of Michigan hospital, are scheduled to address the convention this afternoon and Judge Edgar Durfee, of Detroit, will speak Thursday morning.

ADVISORY BOARD SIGNAL HONOR

Washington, July 17.—Secretary of Navy Daniels, upon his return from a conference with Thomas A. Edison, who will head the new naval advisory board, said general plans for the new bureau of invention in the department, and the civilian board were talked over, but the personnel of the board was not discussed.

"Mr. Edison thought," said Daniels, "that the plan offered possibilities of getting the foremost engineers of the country to aid us. He is impressed with the idea that the methods of warfare are undergoing radical changes and that what has been may not be in the future."

It is his idea that the board should be purely advisory, and that navy officers, skilled by practice in their work should continue the development of the work, getting the board's advice where it could aid them.

Mr. Edison thought that to serve on this board would be regarded as a crowning honor for an American engineer, the equal of decorations given foreign governments for scientific achievement.

DRIEST SPOT WAS A RIVER

Harold Morton Kramer, lecturer and novelist, who is to lecture here during the Chautauqua was recently discussing with some platform people the hard drives they have to make occasionally Kramer was telling of a drive he and a party of chautauqua talent had made one day from Minden, Neb., to Kearney, over roads that were almost impassable because of the deep mud and water.
"Finally," Kramer said, "we came to a bridge, about half a mile in length, spanning a sand course. In the sand were footprints and wagon tracks, but not a drop of water showed.
"What is that?" I asked the driver.
"That 'ere's the Platte river," he replied.
"It was the driest spot I saw that day," added Kramer.
The Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir of Cardiff, Wales, under the leadership of Madame Hughes-Thomas, has been widely heard and praised in its American tour. His Majesty, the King, and various newspapers as well as Madame Melba, have written of them as follows:
Madame Melba says: "The Welsh Choir is magnificent; they are perfectly splendid, and you may say I said so."

H. I. M., The King at Cardiff: "Well, you Welsh people are passionately fond of music, and you have beautiful voices. I have certainly enjoyed your Choir immensely. I must congratulate you (Madame Thomas) and your choir on your excellent performance."
Winnipeg Telegram: "The program was of high class, and the artists were artists of distinction and recognized talent, and the manner in which they acquitted themselves evoked repeated encores from a discriminating audience." The Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir will appear in the Chautauqua here.

Mrs. R. Freeman and son, Richard, have returned to their home in Milwaukee, after a two-weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Ramsey, on Wells, Ave.

ATHLETIC RECRUIT SET WILD RECORD

Bruno Haas, the former Worcester Academy pitcher, who signed with the Athletics, has set a new American league record for issuing bases on balls. He passed 16 New York Yankees in one game. The previous record of the American league was held by Carroll Brown and Eddie Plank, each of whom issued 14 passes in a game. It is believed Billy George, once a Giant, and Ed Reulbach are tied for the major league record. Each gave 17 bases in one game. Reulbach won his game. He held the opposing team Boston, to three hits. George lost his to Anson's Colts. That was in 1897. Davidson, then of Newark, is believed the wildest man, as he gave Buffalo 20 bases on balls in one game. The wildest game recorded was that pitched by Seymour and Eddie Doheny against Chicago at the Polo grounds in 1869. Or perhaps it was 1895. Seymour gave 14 bases and hit two men. Doheny, finishing up, gave nine passes and hit three men. Another freak of pitching was the first inning of a game between Chicago and St. Louis in 1909. Chicago drew four passes and made five runs in the first inning. In the last half of that inning, Cole, Ritchie and Reulbach gave eight passes and hit a man. St. Louis made five runs before hitting the ball at all, and got eight in the inning. Then the game settled down and was a hard fought to the finish.

BOSTON MARKETS

There was very little interest in local markets this morning with the exception of a further advance in Mass Gas. It is beginning to be a seventh day wonder that the copper shares do not advance, but except in spots, Boston seems to be without strong leadership and speculators are confining their operations to sections where that is found as in the case of the Zinc and Coal stocks. Later on the leadership will come or, if it does not the public may assume leadership itself. Such things have been known to happen and can happen again. The prices being received for copper, spelter and lead certainly warrant higher prices for the stock of producers and it is to be remembered that war orders will take from two to three years to be filled and that the goods must be taken and paid for, war or no war, so that the war demand for the metals will last two or three years at least.

DECLARE WAR ON BRYAN

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The suffragists have declared war on William Jennings Bryan. An official statement declares that Bryan unbarred a party of congressional union suffragists because they opposed Democratic candidates in equal suffrage states in 1914.

Mr. Bryan declared before the national council of women voters that world suffrage would finally bring about world peace, but when Mrs. Sara Bard Field invited him to speak for the congressional union organization of Oregon the peace advocate became sufficed.

"Madam," said he, "I would never speak for a body of women which had opposed the Democratic party." "Do you believe in standing by your party, right or wrong?" asked Mrs. Field. Mr. Bryan replied: "The Democratic party has solved the two paramount issues before the country—tariff and currency reforms, and any body of women which opposes a party making such a record has not my support."

Flowers Bloom on Icebergs.
Arctic explorers often report the discovery of flowers blooming on icebergs. The explanation of this is as follows: It appears that some animals carry on their feet a growth of moss, which is deposited on the ice while it is attached to the mainland in polar regions. In time this decays and forms a shallow soil in which the seed of buttercups and dandelions often find a lodging, borne by currents of wind that doubtless caught them up in some southern clime. These take root and bloom when the great gleaming iceberg floats out to sea and is carried southward, where the soft winds melt the surface and give the plants the moisture they need.

FERRIS IS PROBING STATE INSTITUTIONS

Lansing, Mich., July 16.—That there is a quiet but well planned investigation being made by Governor Ferris with the various state institutions is assured here from facts that have already become known.

Almost any day, when the governor is here, a stranger to the capital will be seen sitting quietly in the executive office waiting for a call. In many cases these men are employed or state institutions and have been requested by the governor to appear and be questioned.

Governor Ferris says there is something wrong with some of the state institutions. Some of them are costing too much money to operate and the governor proposes to find out why if the head of the institution is found to be incompetent then he will be asked to resign. If it is found that it is the system, that will be changed and if the employees are at fault, they will be changed.

The governor has expressed himself that many of the teachers in the institutions of the state are incompetent. His investigations have demonstrated that much to him, for as a head of a school that turns out teachers he is in a position to know. A close friend of the governor is authority for the statement that the governor believes new blood is needed in the state institutions; that many of them have been operated for the past 30 years along the same old lines and that a change with modern methods and better judgment is necessary.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and found pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. obtainable everywhere.

Malaria and Moonlight.

Indulgence in moonlight serenades or other nocturnal diversions down in the Panama Canal Zone is unsafe unless one is willing to pay the penalty in subsequent large doses of quinine. Malaria has so largely infected the Americans in the Zone after they have spent an evening at pleasure resorts, especially in the suburbs of Panama, that the health department has been obliged to issue a special warning that it is unsafe to do so. In case necessity or the search for pleasure leads one to so expose himself, it is said that quinine should be taken.

MENOMINEE MAN CAN STOP WAR

Menominee, Mich., July 17.—That he can make the weakest nation in the world the strongest and that he can stop the European war are the claims made today by Jud Vogelzang of Menominee who some time ago offered his invention to Secretary Daniels of the navy department.

Vogelzang's of Menominee who some time ago offered his invention to Secretary Daniels of the navy department. Vogelzang's claims that he has invented a device by means of which he can extract electricity from the air thus enabling an airplane to remain in the air for any length of time. About a year ago he presented his ideas to Secretary Daniels by means of a letter, but was advised that the government was not prepared at that time to take up the project.

The Menominee inventor who is a nightwatchman in the Crawford Manufacturing in company's plant has a long list of inventions some of which he has already received invention papers on. The sanitary street sweeper upon which he has secured his patent papers was invented by himself and Frank Morgan, a Green Bay policeman, according to Vogelzang's story, and an offer of $10,000 for the patent has been refused by the inventors.

Another device on which patent rights are pending, is a blueberry picker, which, according to the claims of the Menominee man, will revolutionize the berry industry because of the fact that it will minimize the expense of picking.

Probably one of the most remarkable inventions of the Menominee man is a device which makes maple syrup from the maple wood. Vogelzang scoffed at the idea of waiting for the "sap to run" and claimed that his invention will make maple syrup less of a luxury than it has been in the past.

One of the most recent inventions of the Menominee inventor is an auto muffler which he claims completely smother the cough of an engine in an automobile.

20 TUBS OF BUTTER IS BOOTY

Dowagiac, July 17.—Sheriff Reed and Special Detective Decker, of the Michigan Central railroad, are looking in South Bend for two men who boarded a freight train at Niles, rode to a desolate spot near Barron Lake and pushed 50 tubs of butter valued at $20 each, from a dally car. They then jumped from the train, loaded 20 of the tubs into a touring car, hid the remainder in a fence corner and drove to South Bend. The police found 30 of the missing tubs, in the fence corners. It is the police theory that the butter was sold in South Bend and they are making a systematic search for it. It is believed the guilty parties will be apprehended when the place where the butter is disposed of is located.

STUMBLE UPON LARGE PLANT

Chicago, July 17.—Two detectives sergeants at work on a routine disorderly conduct case early today, stumbled on what is said to be one of the most important counterfeit plants in the country.

Four were arrested. Nearly $50,000 in $1, $2 and $5 bills were found in a trunk. Supplies and machinery for making the bills also were found.

The find was made at 1502 West Thirtieth street. The detectives went there when it was reported that men and women in the building were fighting. The fighting was over when they arrived, but in searching for the men, the detective ran across the counterfeit plant.

Samuel Robbins, 22, Duluth, confessed, it is said. Police believe him the ringleader.

Discovered Jules Verne. Hetsel, the French publisher, discovered Jules Verne. Hetsel began with Verne by a life contract, guaranteeing an annual sum of $4,000 which seemed immense riches to the unknown writer. It was not at all proportionate to the rapid success and sale of his books throughout the known world. Jules Verne was content with his bargain and for many, many years furnished dutifully his two volumes a year. At his death he left several more finished, or nearly so, which explains the continued appearance of new works bearing his name.

Hetsel took pains to provide the writer who was laying golden eggs for him, with a yacht and all other apparatus necessary or useful to stimulate his inventive powers.

LOVE WAS NOT BLIND

By GEORGE MUNSON.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Julia! Is that you, dear?" The sick man stirred uneasily upon the bed, and Julia Crothers ran out to where her younger sister, Dulcie, waited upon the landing.

"It is terrible. I cannot stay there," she whispered.

Dulcie, who had been trembling, suddenly managed to pull herself together and entered the room with a firm tread. She went up to the bedside.

"Is that you, Julia?" murmured the sick man again.

"Yes," answered Dulcie bravely.

Two days before, Jim Ridgely, her sister's fiance, had been struck by lightning. His recovery, at first despaired of, now seemed assured, but he was blind, and the doctors held out no hope of his regaining his sight.

"The optic nerve is paralyzed," they said. "There is the barest chance, but the cure must be a spontaneous one, and it must happen within the next two or three days. Unless by a miracle that should happen, he will be blind the rest of his life."

Julia Crothers was the belle of the town, and Ridgely a rising young lawyer. Though Julia and Dulcie were alike in speech and manner, and were often mistaken for each other, when side by side it was plain that Dulcie was only a poor image of Julia. She was generally considered plain; the difference, however, existed principally in Julia's dashing ways and Dulcie's unattractive and simple ones.

Poor Dulcie, whose tender heart went out to Ridgely, knew that her heartless sister would never dream of marrying a blind man. She could trace the unconscious processes in Julia's heart even now. And it seemed to her that she must do her best to shield Ridgely until he recovered. Possibly his sight would come back to him, and then he need never know that it was she, and not Julia, who had sat at his bedside all those long hours when he lay racked with pain and fever.

"He is sleeping," she told her sister, when at last she went out to her.

"What shall I do, Dulcie?" moaned Julia. "I cannot bear to look upon suffering. What shall I do?"

Then Dulcie told her her plan. And it worked surprisingly. A week elapsed, and at the end of that time, although the doctors announced that there was now no hope of Ridgely's ever recovering his sight, he was able to sit up. And he had not guessed that it was Dulcie who had sat by his bedside and read to him in her gentle voice. He had thought it was Julia. And in the midst of the pain Dulcie felt to think of Ridgely's coming disillusionment, there was a fierce exultation in her heart.

For Dulcie loved Ridgely. She had loved him from the beginning, and now more than ever before her heart went out to this blind man, doomed to be dependent throughout his life upon the help of others.

Ridgely had been brought into the Crothers home simply because he had no one to care for him. Old Mrs. Crothers, a gentle old lady, alternately dominated and petted by Julia, had assented to the plan with alacrity. But when she understood Julia's intentions she shook her head mournfully.

"He thinks I am Julia, mother," Dulcie whispered to her. "I don't know how to tell him."

"The old lady stared up for the first time in many years. "If you ask me," she said, tossing her head, "I think that Jim is well rid of her."

"Will you tell him, mother?" asked Dulcie, eagerly.

"No, my dear. That is for you," said the old lady.

And then, resolved to end a situation which had become unbearable, Dulcie ran up the stairs and into Jim's room. He was lying on the sofa, looking out of the window with his sightless eyes.

"Do you know, dear, that I have neither asked nor received a kiss during the whole of my illness?" asked Jim patiently.

Dulcie blushed painfully.

"Is it something terrible?" he asked gayly. "Tell me, Julia, and let me see whether I find it as bad as you think it is."

"Oh, you don't understand," the girl burst out. "And yet you don't know how you can have been so blind—so unable to understand. I am not Julia. I am Dulcie, and Julia—Julia—oh, Jim, how can I manage to tell you that she does not care for you any more, and has not been near you since the second day of your illness? Oh, Jim, she doesn't care for you and never did care, and it is hard to have to tell you, and—"

Jim's hand fell lightly upon her own. "I knew it was you, Dulcie," he said softly.

"You see, dear, you only deceived me for a few hours," he said. "You see, Dulcie, love opens one's eyes, and I have come to realize that it is you, and not Julia, and I have dared to hope—"

He drew her toward him.

BRITAIN TOLD ORDERS CANNOT INFRINGE

Washington, July 17.—Formal notice that the United States hold that the rights of Americans who have cases before British prize courts rest upon international law and not upon various British order-in-council or municipal law, is given in a brief statement cabled to Ambassador Page and presented by him today to the London foreign office.

Secretary Lansing explained tonight that this communication was not to be confused with the general note now in preparation relating to contraband and interference with American commerce on the high seas. He said it was more in the nature of a legal caveat generally conserving the rights of citizens of the United States, whose cases are about to be tried by English prize courts.

Inasmuch as the prize courts have not yet ruled on any American cases, but are believed to be about to do so, the statement from the United States signifies, in fact, that if there is a denial of justice, diplomatic protests will be entered, based on the general principles of international law existing before the outbreak of the war.

IF EVERS DID

New York, July 17.—If Johnny Evers made a statement to the effect that the National league umpires have been instructed to keep the pennant race close, then he will be punished and the penalty will be stiff enough to make him think twice before he makes such a statement again in the future.

This was President Tener's announcement on his return to New York yesterday and after reading the accounts of the Boston tangle. A long distance conversation with Umpire Rigler and Hart, who were in charge of the Boston game Monday, brought out the information that they had failed to hear any such talk from the former Cub star, but Tener is not going to let the affair drop here. He is going to Boston today to investigate for him self and he says there will be no attempt to let the matter drop until a final report is made.

The president also explained Hank O'Day's case. He scoffed at the theory that the umpire-manager was boycotted. Tener said he received a letter from O'Day, April 22, asking his status in the National league and on March 15 wrote him, explaining that he was a free agent. On March 29 he received another letter from the veteran applying for a place on the National league staff.

FEDERALS SAY THEY'LL HAVE FUND

Chicago, July 17.—Regardless of what the present season costs the Federal league, organized baseball will have a million dollars fight on hand when the bell rings for the 1916 campaign. From the extreme cities of the old league war was flashed yesterday that a war fund of $1,000,000 (six ciphers—that's right) was assembled when the Feds met in New York recently.

Harry Sinclair, owner of the Newark club, let the story loose in Kansas City, and Vice President R. B. Ward of the Brooklyn Feds confirmed the report in New York. Both declared the money had actually been gathered at the New York meeting. Sinclair is supposed to have the cash in his possession at the present moment.

Coming so long after the meeting, the story has all the earmarks of a press agent's dream, but it is confirmed by President Weeghman of the Whales, and Charley is a truthful person. According to Weeghman of a committee of five was appointed to take charge of the tremendous war fund. Sinclair is chairman of the committee. Weeghman is another member, and the balance of the board includes R. B. Ward of Brooklyn, Ed. Gwinner of Pittsburgh, and Phil Ball of St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—Bobby Wallace day will be celebrated at Sportsman's park the first day he umpires here. Wallace, for fifteen years a shortstop in the big show and part of the time manager of the Browns, soon comes here as an umpire. The show is arranged in honor of Wallace, but it is not a "banquet."

Land of Babel.

The region of Transcaucasia has the most curious mixture of races of any district in the world. It is, indeed, a huge ethnological museum. Of its ten million inhabitants only half a million are Muscovites, though all, of course, are subjects of the czar. Four millions are Tartars, two millions Armenians, two millions Georgians, and the remainder are Turks, Kurds, Persians and members of minor nationalities, varying in race, language and creed. It has been estimated that no fewer than sixty languages are current in the Caucasus between Mount Elbrus and Mount Ararat.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 17.—Although her brother made a valiant effort to save her life by allowing his blood to be transfused to her veins, Mary C. U. S. MAN DISCOVERS METHOD

Cincinnati, O., July 17.—Two Cincinnati chemists, Al C. Roach and his brother, William Roach, after many experiments in methods of combating the use of poisonous gas in warfare have perfected what they declare to be an effective plan for "deflecting or dissipating" these gases. "We are now negotiating with an agent of the allies in Washington and he has informed us that he heartily approves of our invention. We feel sure our proposition will be carried direct to the war office at Paris and to Rome," said Al Roach today.

WOMEN TO WORK IN STEEL MILLS?

Pittsburgh, July 17.—J. G. "The European war has resulted in a steady drain on the supply of foreign laborers in mills, mines, and factories. Italy's entrance into the conflict has precipitated a shortage of Italian work men."

SEEK PLACE FOR MICHIGAN LEPER

The man left Ann Arbor today for his home. He came here yesterday to be treated, his home doctor having diagnosed, his trouble as a different disease, and he was not told the real nature of his trouble until this morning. While here he was isolated more to quiet the fears of other hospital patients than as a measure of safety, for leprosy is much less contagious than many diseases against which the public takes no precaution whatever.

Escaping the watchful eye of his parents, the little tot evidently traveled rapidly as when his absence was discovered he was nowhere to be seen. A search was at once instituted by the frantic parents and after a time the police were notified. All efforts were in vain however, for over three hours, when the lad was found calmly walking near the No. 1 fire station. He was returned to his joyful parents immediately.

The manner in which the building is being constructed should indeed be a source of much pleasure for the contractors.

BRITIAN NOTE IS FIRM ONE

(Special to The Press.) Washington, July 17.—The state department today gave out a summary of the note it has sent to Great Britain informing that government that it will uphold the rights of American trade. The note is a firm, flat, denial of England's self-assumed right to interfere with American commerce to an extent uncountenanced by the recognized rules of international law. It is a vigorous statement that this government cannot permit its commerce to be treated according to the autocratic regulations of the British orders in Council and Municipal decrees. Later the state department will send a formal protest against the seizure of over 100 cargoes of American goods. The effect of the note is to shift the shadow of the real international crisis from the affairs of the United States and Germany to an issue between the United States and Great Britain. Officials are now concerned in speculation as to what the reply of England will be. If England stands firm the United States has two remedies. One is to take up particular cases and assert that there has been a denial of justice. That is one of the forms of pursuing cases further when a country thinks injustice has been done by foreign courts. The assertion that there has been a denial of justice is diplomatic action which can result in the gravest sort of a situation. An other recourse is to treat England, if she concedes nothing, as a nation which will not be bound by the international law.
