ADDRESS IS CALLED BIG LIFE EFFORT

Critics Assert That Rev. Dr. Barth Set New Mark Even for Himself in Address at Flag Day Program.

5000 PEOPLE PRESENT

Rev. Dr. Barth, pastor of St. Patrick's church in this city, has long been known as one of the most eloquent speakers in the northwest. On Friday 5,000 people who heard his ringing, patriotic address at the big Flag Day program at Powers were prepared to give testimony that he had set a new mark even for himself.

"The Ethics of the State" was Dr. Barth's subject at Powers. He said in part: "Mr. Governor, Gentlemen of the Staff and Fellow Citizens: "On this memorable date, 1777, the stars and stripes were for the first time formally accepted by the Continental Congress to be the flag of the United States as an individual nation.

The report on the flag was made to congress by the flag committee, composed of George Washington, Robert Morris and George Ross. This committee gave the making of the flag into the hands of Mrs. Elizabeth Ross of the City of Philadelphia, the widow of a soldier killed in the Revolution.

This year, all patriotic Americans have on this date hoisted that flag at sunrise and at sunset will lower it without touching the ground, thus manifesting to the world their fidelity to the Declaration of Independence and the immortal Constitution of the United States.

Significance of Flag Day. "The significance of this anniversary compels me to address you on the ethics of the state, the majesty of whose age we acclaim today. I am led to examine before you this great subject because of the world war. Why is nation arrayed in deadly combat against nation? How is it possible that one set of people, believing in the autocracy of the state, is striving to throttle another set believing in the dignity and liberties of man?"

"Let us place before our vision the autocracy of the enemy and then consider the democracy of our own nation, and from the contrast make our act of faith and allegiance. All men aghast are asking the question, how is it possible for the German government to break the neutrality of Belgium, and when taken to task answer that treaties are only scraps of paper? How is it possible the so-called law might, regardless of human rights, upon the weak? Read the protests to the world of Cardinal Mercier, and the

Too Fast When Passing Horses

Wm. Duford, arrested in the township of Wells late Friday night by Motor Officer Earl Bourlaies, entered a plea of guilty to violation of the traffic laws in Judge McEwen's court yesterday. He passed a team of horses on the road at a rate of 40 miles per hour. The limit set by law in such case is 10 miles per hour. Since it was his first offence the court remitted the fine on payment of the costs.

Zionists Will Convene Today

Jews of the Upper Peninsula, who are interested in the re-establishment of a Hebrew nation in Palestine, began arriving in the city last night and are still coming this morning for the meeting in the Elks' temple at 3 o'clock this afternoon. A branch of the League of Zionists will be organized. Speakers of international prominence will deliver addresses.

WEATHER

Forecast: Sunday fair except probable showers; slightly warmer; moderate east to southeast winds. Highest yesterday, 63. Lowest yesterday, 52.

SHE SEEMED RELIEVED TO THINK THAT HENRY STILL HAD RACE AHEAD

"Is it true that President Wilson has appointed Henry Ford United States Senator from Michigan?" A feminine voice floated over the wire to the Morning Press office. She was assured that so far as the Press had been able to learn, the President had taken no such action. "Well, I'm glad of it," she said, a sigh of relief being plainly audible in the phone receiver. "You see we have one of Mr. Ford's cars and we don't think as much of him as we used to"

AUSTRIAN IS GIVEN BIG FINE

Man Who Wished Disaster On Yanks In Spasm of Anger Pay $50 and Costs Yesterday.

JAIL IS ALTERNATIVE

Mike Lefner of Kipling, an Austrian arrested at the Northwestern station here Friday afternoon as he was about to leave for Iowa to escape prosecution was arraigned in Justice C. D. McEwen's court yesterday morning and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of "willfully disturbing the public peace." Judge McEwen fined him $50 and costs totalling $59.25 with the alternative of a ten day visit in the county jail. Lefner decided to pay the fine.

The complaint against Lefner by fellow workmen at the Cleveland Cliffs furnace at Kipling, alleged that he had renounced when it was told in his presence that the Germans were murdering American prisoners. "I hope that they cut all their heads off," he replied. "It is good enough for them."

Because the Michigan statutes do not at the present time, cover addition as a separate offense, it was impossible for the authorities to deal more severely with the man. Unless the United States Department of Justice deals with him, nothing more can be done.

Three More Go To The Colors

Through the efforts of Recruiting Officer Roy J. Silger of the Escanaba station, three names were added yesterday to the rolls of the men sent to war by Delta county. They are Michael D. Mackin of Gladstone, who went to the medical corps, Roy Burr of Gladstone, who will become a "doughboy" and George Jermain who will become a member of the engineering corps. The men left for Jefferson Barracks last night.

HOUSTON RETURNS FROM ANNUAL FISHING TRIP

F. B. Houston, general manager for the Escanaba Manufacturing company returned yesterday from his annual muskungee fishing trip to Star Lake, Wis. Mr. Houston landed five muskies during his trip in addition to a large number of pickerel, bass and other game fish.

Bass Season Is Open Here Today

The bass season is open today and a number of local anglers are taking advantage of it. Reports from all parts of the Upper Peninsula are to the effect that lovers of bass fishing will be able to satisfy their craving for it this year. The lid is now lifted on all game fish.

Fuller Made Proud Of His Home County

Auditor General Says Escanaba Made Good With Vengeance in Making War Conference Success.

"The immensely successful manner in which every part of the war conference program was carried out in this city, cannot but be a source of gratification to the people of Escanaba and Delta county," said Auditor General O. B. Fuller yesterday. "But the gratification of the people here cannot begin to measure up to the pleasure it gave to me to see my home town acquit itself so creditably. I have always been proud that my home was in Delta county and the manner in which this really big affair was handled has given me reason to be more proud than ever of my home city and county."

"When it became a settled fact that this conference was to be held in Escanaba, I made it my business to see each of the state officers and attempt to prevail upon them to attend this meeting. Some of them had never been to the peninsula and their ideas of what we really have up here, to say the least, were no credit to them. To induce all of the state officers but one to come to Escanaba I gave my personal pledge that they would be properly taken care of and that every man in the party would thank me for having induced them to go when it was over with."

Converted Quickly.

"I am most happy to say that not only but several times during the two days the conference was in session here, the men whom I worked the hardest with came to me and expressed their thanks for having influenced them to come. From Governor Sleeper down Escanaba has won a place in the hearts of every man in that party and not a man of them will soon forget their visit here."

"Had even the slightest thing occurred to hinder the conference program I would have been held personally responsible by the members of that board. Before they came I knew I had no cause for worry for I knew my home people. Escanaba has made good with a vengeance and the justification of my faith is a matter of extreme pleasure to me."

MISS WINEGAR TO GRADUATE

Mrs. B. D. Winegar left last night for Ypsilanti, Mich., where on Wednesday her daughter, Miss Isabelle Winegar will be graduated from the Michigan State Normal school.

Diplomas Are Given To Seven

Seven members of the senior class of St. Joseph's received their diplomas at the exercises held in the school auditorium Friday night. Three are from the academic department and three from the commercial. They are: John Grenier, John Bartel, Dan Breen, Edna Daniels, Leo Meloche, Rose Martin, and Dorothy Welosert from the academic and Alice Neermann Marion Quinn and Edith Savageau, who completed commercial courses.

Coliseum To Draw Many Dancers

For the regular weekly dancing party at the Coliseum on Tuesday night more elaborate plans than ever before are being made. Olmsted's six piece orchestra instead of the regular four piece orchestra will furnish the musical program for the evening and a number of interesting features will be introduced.

The Casualties

Washington, June 15.—Casualties in the American expeditionary forces were announced by the war department today as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Casualty Type, Count. Killed in action 8. Died of wounds 10. Died of accident 1. Died of disease 6. Wounded severely 52. Degree undetermined 4. Sixty-three casualties in the American marine corps attached to the expeditionary forces were reported at the marine corps headquarters today. Killed in action 8. Wounded severely 55.

ARE 800,000 YANKEES ON FRENCH SOIL

Provost Marshal Crowder Will Give Newspaper Men In Washington Weekly Interview.

Washington, June 15.—There are now more than 800,000 American troops in France.

The number we are shipping is limited only by the ever increasing capacity of the shipping that carries them.

These are the striking messages conveyed to the American people today by Major General March, chief of staff of the American army, in the first of his weekly talks with the Washington newspaper correspondents. He said:

"The four drives, one beginning on March 21, the next on April 9, the third on May 27, and the present one beginning on June 9, are all part of the common scheme of offensive. Looking at this map you see this red dotted line of interest running down to the Swiss frontier which represents the allied line when the Germans began their advance March 21. Summary of Drives.

Consider as a whole the success of their attacks; the first line was moved some 36 miles to Picardy; the second some 13 miles in Flanders; and the third a distance of 38 miles further along the Marne. Under the present drive the line has been penetrated an average distance of 5 1/2 to 6 miles. One very striking feature connected with the whole advance is the extent of the front which the allied have to cover as a result of the German advance.

The total strength of the line from Breaume to the sea is 66 miles. In order to hold that extra line the allies had to have more troops than they had in the start.

"In a condition of this kind where new lines had to be held, where the attacks of Germans have been made with such large forces as they have, the importance of getting American troops to the front is more and more pressing and we now have passed the 800,000 mark in shipments.

The matter of numbers of German troops on the west front is a question that must be considered with reference not only to the divisions which have been known to be there, all along but with the additions which might have been brought from the east."

"It is impossible to predict a day—a month ahead—or any other definite time when a mastery superiority will be in the hands of the allies, but the numbers of troops we are sending across is limited only by the capacity of the ships which carry them and we intend to keep them up."

General March told members of the senate military committee enough Americans have been sent over to make up for the wastage caused in the recent German drive. The troop movement in June is expected to equal that of May, which was a record month.

FIRST CONCERT.

The first of a series of band concerts to be given at intervals on Sunday afternoons will be given today at 3 o'clock by the Escanaba Military band in Ludington park. A special program has been arranged for the occasion.

Speedsters

All Ready For The Gun

Five of Northern States Best Motorcycle Men Will Burn Up Track Here This Afternoon.

Five speedsters—count 'em—are all ready to burn up the Delta county fair grounds track this afternoon. Promoter Villemure says that it is the greatest aggregation of clay scorcheres Escanaba has ever seen in one contest and Villemure knows motor racing. Unless the weather man pushes the wrong button on his switchboard, there should be a big crowd.

It is to be "Johnny" Seymour's final appearance here, for the season at least. The local dare devil rider will soon be in Uncle Sam's service by the terms of the selective conscription. He said last night:

"Give me my share of the break and I'll win. You know how uncertain motorcycle racing is. The dope is easily spilled. But those other fellows have come down here looking for a real race and they're going to get it, take it from me. The man who wins will have to ride every minute and that's what I expect to do."

Pitted against the local boy are Charles Berger of Perogy, who will ride a Harley Davidson; Cliff DeGannon of Menominee on his 4-valve Indian, said to be a valuable machine; "Fighting Jack" Champagnon of Manistique, one of the best riders in this section and always to be considered, and Jack Byer, a 17 year old Pestigo lad who is said to be a dangerous contender in any race.

The track is in excellent condition. All of the riders realize that it will take real speed and lots of it to get them in on the money. It ought to be worth seeing.

Three Million Men By August Says Crowder

Washington, June 15.—Three million American soldiers will be under arms by August 1, according to the information given the senate military affairs committee by Provost Marshal Crowder.

Of this number two million will be men of the selective draft and one million volunteers. It was learned after the meeting that unless the draft ages are extended and the call upon Draft Class One continues to be heavy, it may be necessary next year to extend the call to Draft Class Two.

Sentiment in favor of the extension of the draft age limit grows in congress and it is predicted that rather than dig into Draft Class Two, at an early date, older and younger men than the present ages will be requested under a new law.

Senator France of Maryland presented to General Crowder his bill proposing the registration of all men from 18 to 45 years. The provost marshal who recently issued the "work or fight" orders told Senator France he was in favor of the principles of the bill and all enlarged enrollments.

Bigger Navy.

Washington, June 15.—A great United States navy as a permanent establishment is guaranteed in a change of policy announced today.

A minimum enlisted strength of 131,485 men for the sea forces, exclusive of naval reserves who have enlisted for the period of war, will be immediately authorized by congress.

The present authorized enlisted strength of the naval establishment is only 87,000 men. The increases proposed and now assured will be needed to man the new fighting ships which will be ready for service within the next twelve months.

HOPPE FUNERAL.

Funeral services for Henry Hoppe, who died suddenly in his room 1022 Ludington street Thursday night, will be held this afternoon at the J. A. Allo chapel. The service will be in charge of Rev. W. J. Datson and burial will take place in Lakeview cemetery.

VALUABLES SPILLED ON SIDEWALK WHEN SMALL BOY DROPS THE SACK

Seldom, if ever, in the life of an ordinary news-hound, comes the opportunity of seeing such an accumulation of riches as was scattered over the sidewalk in front of the Press office late yesterday afternoon. A small boy, scampering home with a small compactly filled package stubbed his toe. The sack flew several yards and burst open. In all directions flew the contents—genuine, unadulterated navy beans. At present prices—but why consider it further?

POLICE ARE TO REGISTER ALIEN WOMEN

Will Be Started by Chief of Police Tolan Tuesday, June 18—Same As Men.

PENALTY FOR FAILURE

Registration of German alien females, of Delta county, under the President's proclamation placing them in the same status as German alien males, will begin Tuesday morning and continue until June 26, by Chief of Police John J. Tolan. The same general plan used in registering German men will be followed, Chief Tolan said yesterday.

All women in this country more than fourteen years old who are natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of Germany are required to register. Austro-Hungarian women are not required to register.

Registration also is required of American women who have married Germans unless the marital relation has been terminated by death or absolute divorce and American citizenship resumed.

Any American woman who marries a foreigner takes his nationality the department rules. The naturalization of such foreign husband as an American citizen restores the wife to American citizenship.

A German woman who has acquired American citizenship by marriage to an American retains this status after the death of her husband or after an absolute divorce, if she continues to reside in the United States unless formally renunciation of citizenship is made.

Declared intention of becoming a citizen of the United States, attested by taking out first papers of naturalization does not permit women in the German alien class to escape registration.

Fingerprints of the registrants will be taken. Police officials in cities of more than 5,000 will have charge of the registration. Severe penalties are provided for violations.

Noted Priest Will Come To Escanaba

Rev. Father Edward Garesche, of St. Louis, Mo., one of the most noted priests in the United States, head of Boys' society work in the Catholic churches throughout the United States and editor of a magazine, The Queen's Work, published at St. Louis is coming to Escanaba today to inspect St. Patrick's Brigade in this city.

The noted priest is coming to Escanaba on his own initiative to learn the secret of the remarkable success that has been achieved by Rev. Dr. Barth in the perpetuation of St. Patrick's brigade, now closing its seventh successful year's work.

The men and members of the brigade will attend communion this morning and on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock the men of the parish, and the members of the six companies of the brigade will march into the church in a body to listen to a sermon by Father Garesche. Father Garesche will preside at each of the individual meetings of the six companies on Sunday afternoon and on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services for Julius Rosseau who died suddenly at the home of Percy Owen, 1123 Escanaba avenue, were held yesterday afternoon. Rev. Jacques of St. Ann's officiating. Interment was in St. Ann's cemetery.

EXPECTED SMASH FOR VENICE ON

French Recapture Ground Lost In Recent Crown Prince Smash—British Score in Flanders.

RUSS ARE SLAUGHTERED

The long expected offensive on the Italian front is in full swing. It was launched yesterday morning along the entire front from Asiago to the Adriatic sea, a line of 50 miles.

"We are everywhere resisting magnificently" Premier Orlando told the Italian chamber of deputies according to a Rome dispatch relayed from London, soon after midnight on Sunday. That is all that is known so far of the drive which has been expected ever since weather conditions permitted infantry action and artillery transportation in that theatre of war.

Ludendorff Again.

The central powers recently included the Italian front in their centralization of command in answer to Foch's appointment as Allied generalissimo. It must be presumed, therefore, that Ludendorff, who is credited with last fall's Isonzo drive is again directing the attack with the inference that he has now absolute control, the Austrian staff being only a nominal body.

The last Italian official statement to be received on this side told of a "barup of violent artillery bombardment from Asiago to the sea, but recorded no major scale infantry action."

The logical strategy of the Teutons in the new drive would be to try to surge southward through the mountain passes into the Venetian plains and cut the Treviso-Verona railway, while at the same time trying to cross the Piave to the western bank and drive the Italians to the Brenta.

150 Mile Front.

The Italian front from the Swiss frontier to the mouth of the Piave is 150 miles long.

At last accounts a certain number of French and British units were with the Italian army and it is not believed they have been withdrawn since the western offensive began. A considerable Italian force, however, has come to the west of late. Gen. Diaz, the Italian commander according to all recent cable dispatches is thoroughly prepared to meet the Teuton onslaught.

On the west front infantry fighting has died down to local operations in which the French, however, won important ground yesterday.

They recaptured Caucres and Valvery villages, south of the Aisne in the very region where the Crown Prince's latest attacks have been most menacing. The poilus also gained ground further to the southeast near St. Guber where the enemy was threatening the important railway line of Villettes-Cotterets. The British scored a success in a raid on the Flanders front near Bothune taking prisoners and machine guns and advancing their lines on a front of two miles.

Murder 10,000.

Important, though tragic, news came from what may again be called the "eastern theatre" in further official reports.

Ten thousand Muscovites of the Cossack steppes, born freemen and determined to die as such if need be, set out to liberate Russia. Trapped like rats where they thought they would fight it out man to man, as in the fashion of the prairie. They were shot up, mangled and drowned by the murder machines of a world of which they had known naught until they set foot upon the coast of the Azov where this tragedy took place.

Seeing virtue in brutality—"The virtue of throwing a scare"—in all would be rebels against the solid yoke the Berlin war office states specifically what happened to the few survivors of the Russian bands.

"Some of the enemy who endeavored to escape in boats or rafts were shot down in the water."

FLY THE FLAG

The fight is on between—the backyard gardener and the thousand and one varieties of bugs, worms and beetles, massed for the drive on his rows and beds.

One could view with considerably more complacency of defense of Garden's patriotism, attacked by sons of the village in recent communications to the Press, were it not for the fact that some 40 of Garden's citizens are on the county slacker list.

MUCK'S NEW JOB.

We learn with considerable artistic gratification that the more or less celebrated Dr. Carl Muck, whose expressed aversion to "The Star Spangled Banner" as an inferior piece of musical composition started him toward the interment camp which he now adorns, has organized an orchestra among his fellow prisoners and is preparing to elevate the artistic tone of that community through the allowed charms of music.

This is a very excellent idea on the part of Dr. Muck.

The poor German spies and bomb artists who have been placed inurance require the solace of music in their lonely hours. We remember Mr. Gilbert's celebrated plea, "When the coster's finished jumping on his mother, he loves to lie a "basking in the sun" and it is no doubt equally true that when the bomb thrower has concluded his genial effort toward the spread of "kultur" his soul craves some soothing strains of Wagnerian or other Teutonic music. Especially would this be true in his activities had terminated in a prisoncamp.

We trust that Dr. Muck will be permitted to engage his orchestra in such music as will prove to be uplifting and ennobling to them and on no account that he be required to have his performers assault their sensibilities with American music of any character.

And but for the possibilities of the plan being regarded as cruel and unusual punishment, we might suggest that the inmates of the interment camp who are not members of the orchestra be required to assemble and listen to Dr. Muck and his organization in the throes of rehearsal of some of the most cacophonous German music that can be selected.

Miss Katherine Sharpe is visiting for the week end at Green Bay.

Red Cross Section Meeting A Success

The Red Cross headquarters was filled by a large and appreciative audience when the meeting was called to order by T. M. Judson, promptly at 9:30 a. m.

Mr. Judson in opening the meeting spoke briefly of the aims, object and work of the Red Cross. He eulogized the women of this community in the practical interest they are taking in doing this noble work of serving to minister to the wants and needs of our suffering soldiers, who are serving in defense of our nation.

Mr. Sidney T. Miller, chairman of the Red Cross in Michigan, was asked to take charge of the meeting. Mr. Miller said in part:

"It is with a sense of great pride that we turn to the record of the Red Cross in the Upper Peninsula in the noble work it has performed.

"Michigan was the first state in the union to subscribe its quota to the war fund. The Red Cross is a fine exemplification of the "golden rule." There is a crying need for Red Cross nurses at the front, there is also a need for men to do Red Cross work. The part the Red Cross can play in keeping up the morale of the country is very great."

Mr. Davidson said there was a wonderful spirit in the state of Michigan as war proven by the spirit of helpfulness which has been shown by the people of the whole state in raising $5,000,000 for war activities. This amount being just 100 per cent more than the state allotment. The Red Cross up to date has only received for enrollment registered nurses. A strong appeal for enrollment of registered nurses was made. Stating that the need is very great. Mr. Davidson went into detail in explaining how systematically the Red Cross is organized with headquarters at Washington. Each chapter reporting to headquarters once a month.

In answer to a question, "What work is the most necessary," Mr. Davidson stated all knits goods are desirable and necessary. There is no reason to believe that too many of this class of article will be made.

The result of the meeting is, a more complete and comprehensive knowledge of actual conditions pertaining to Red Cross work and the class of work that is in most urgent need.

DELFT THEATRE 2-DAYS--STARTING MONDAY JUNE 17 THE MAN WHO STANDS UNRIVALLED WILLIAM FARNUM IN "The Conqueror" A Gripping Drama Picturizing the Career of General Sam Houston Matinees at 2:30 5 and 15c Twice Nightly--7:15 and 8:45 5, 10, 15c and 20c

THEATRES- AT THE STRAND. Harry Morey, one of photoplays most virile and forceful stars, tried Shakespearean roles and also musical comedy before finding his forte in moving pictures. He first faced the camera in Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio, and he has been with Vitagraph from that day. He registered success from the start and is remembered I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of sheriff of Delta county at the primary election. My years of experience on the police department of the city of Escanaba and the knowledge that I have gained through years of faithful service in the law enforcement branch of our government, fits me, I believe, to faithfully and honorably discharge the duties of the office of sheriff. I respectfully ask the support and vote of all voters of Delta county who believe my claims for recognition to be well founded. (Signal) NELSON. -Political Advt.

FLORENCE DESHON in Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Feature "A BACHELOR'S CHILDREN" 12-B-16 first for his strong work with Alice Joyce in "Womanhood" and "Within the Law." He is most happily cast, with Florence Deshon, in "A Bachelor's Children," the Blue Ribbon Feature, which will be the attraction in the Strand Theatre today. In this fascinating romance of love and millions, by William Addison Lathrop, he plays the part of a mining prospector, transported East, master of millions, who tries to give his fortune to a poor girl whose father his uncle had degrauded of mining claims. In the supporting cast are Alice Terry, Denton Vane, William Shea and Jessie Stevens. AT THE DELFT. Francis X. Bushman, co-star with Beverly Bayne in "With Neatness and Dispatch" a Metro All-Star Series picture will be shown at the Delft theatre today, wears a bizarre tramp make-up in many of the scenes of this unusual screen play. So realistically did he dress the part that on several occasions employees of the studio mistook him for an intruder. An amusing incident of this kind happened when Mr. Bushman's chauffeur came and told him that something was the matter with his car, suggesting that he take it to a garage for repairs. The star is something of a mechanic himself and as he had on the old "togs" went to work to repair the car. So interested did he become in his work that he forgot how quickly the time was passing and did not return to the studio until Director Davis had almost despaired of finding him again that afternoon. There will also be high class vaudeville. Monday and Tuesday, big, strong, likable "Bill" Farnum will be seen in "The Conqueror" picturing some of the stirring incidents in the life of General Sam Houston. Critics have said that it is Farnum's masterpiece. It will be one of the summer's best attractions at the Delft. Mrs. R. E. Hoson returned to Chicago last night after visiting in the city for a few days.

"Better" and "Still Better" Here are the two Willards—the good old time-tested Willard that has proven its worth on over a million cars, and is as good today as ever—and the "Still Better Willard," with Threaded Rubber Insulation. The "Still Better Willard" costs a little more, but it pays you back with interest. In the vital matter of insulation, it's head and shoulders above anything else on the market. If you need a new battery you can hardly afford not to get the latest, finest and most dependable battery quality to be had. Drop in and let us tell you more about it. ## ADDRESS IS CALLED BIG LIFE EFFORT

Belgium atrocities enumerated by the eye witness Brand Whitlock, ambassador to the Belgian court at the opening of hostilities, and then marvel as the world marvels, how any government can pursue a villainous system completely setting at naught the dignity of man and his inalienable rights.

Vice of State-Craft

"How can this state-craft of the German government be best understood? Let us examine briefly the basis of the German state. But first of all what is the origin, nature and end of civil society? Various solutions have been offered. Some regard the state as an aspect of the Absolute which is to be identified with the substance of beings. Others regard it, if not as God, at least as directly instituted by him, making the political regime to be of divine positive law. Others again, on the contrary, assign it a purely human origin, regarding the state as the result of individual wills freely united by contract.

Another view sees in civil society a real organism, the product of an evolution which embraces the whole of nature whilst other recognize it as an institution at once natural, human and divine.

Theory of Germany.

Now without stopping to examine here these various theories what from evident appearances may be the theory of the German state? I answer at once, judging from the writings of men who for the last one hundred years have largely influenced German university thought, judging from the actual course of the German state at home and abroad, in peace and at war, the German government is pantheistic, hence teaches and practices the complete absorption of the individual by the state, for pantheism is by its very definition the negation of human personality. I can see with my mind's eye the pro-German or the deluded German himself shrug his shoulder and mock this assertion and pretend to pity the ignorance which prompts it; but my fellow citizens, this assertion bears complete scrutiny which I present forthwith.

"Plato in ancient times, was the chief exponent of the spirit state, but in modern times, he is mild and humane.

An Infamous Doctrine.

"Hegel, who follows Schilling and Fichte, is the great exponent in modern times of the pantheistic state, so let us pause a moment to study his doctrine. I am quoting Hegel's work, 'The Philosophy of Right,' translated by Dyde, wherein the following is taught, and he who marvels over the inhuman atrocities, hitherto in the annals of the world unknown and unparalleled, let him here in this state doctrine find his illuminations. The state, says Hegel, is the social substance that has arrived at self-consciousness. It is the rational of itself and for itself. It is a terrestrial divinity.

Here in this infamous doctrine we find, according to Hegel, that the state has become an aspect of the absolute which is the common substrate of all things the universal substance of which individual being are but so many modes of determinations. The state, thus blended with the eternal substance of the universe is not therefore a human institution, such as Rousseau taught. It is anterior to individuals. Far from being founded by men it is the very principle of their subsistence. Since then, as Hegel teaches and the kaiser practices, the state is identical with the divine essence, it has its own end, super-exalted above all other ends, whether of other states or churches.

"Germany Over Everything."

"Deutschland uber alles, uber alles in der welt," which feebly translated means: "Germany over everything, over everything in the whole world." Without its own self-destruction it cannot use its authority to subserve the interests of individuals. Yet is not its function to protect their liberty and their goods? Hegel's answer is that the state must be viewed as an organic and living unity having its own subsistence as its own end.

"Now again, and let all Americans attentively consider, since the state is a divine being its will must be the sovereign law, the source of all rights and all duties. Therefore against its decisions no individual right founded on nature can be of any avail."

"Treaties Scraps of Paper."

"Face to face with the logical consequences of pantheism in the state, do you marvel that the German government can call treaties scraps of paper, invade a neighboring nation, claiming biological or political necessity a sufficient extenuation, sink neutral ships sailing on natural rights upon the sea, inaugurate a reign of frightfulness terrorism unparalleled in the world?"

"Let all honest men read the pastorals of Cardinal Mercier and the revelations of Mr. Whitlock who certainly are competent and reliable witnesses. Then let the writings of Hegel, and Bernhardi be examined, teaching the omnipotence of the state, the German super-man and the duty of wading through oceans of blood, murdering, hanging and burning if necessary to achieve their destiny, and surely all mystery will fade away and all will understand the grim purpose, based on justice, of the allied nations of the world to fight until the very last resource is used upon this modern terrestrial divinity of which the kaiser with the mailed fist is the visible head.

The Great Issue.

"Fellow Citizens, the American government is at war with the German-

Is there, I ask, an issue? Yes, there is an issue. It is between autocracy claiming to be absolutely sovereign, and democracy, which is but a guaranteed pledge according to law, to protect the liberties of man. How then, came the American state into being and what is its doctrine?"

Here the speaker recalled the events leading to the Declaration of Independence, and the complication of the Constitution. He described the personnel of the signers and declared that the Declaration should be inscribed on every church, school and public building; that the names and memory of the signers should be enshrined in the mind of every American citizen, lest the people forget their heritage because the corruption of our democracy will begin with the decay of American principles.

The American Doctrine.

The speaker said: "Ladies and Gentlemen, what is the American doctrine on the state? How often we have been told that sovereignty is vested in the people. Even Mary Antin writes: 'At one bold stroke we shattered the monarchical tradition and installed the people in the seats of government substituting the gospel of the sovereignty of the masses for the superstition of the divine rights of kings.' Is this correct? Let us see. Sovereignty is indivisible, incommunicable, and inalienable. Its substance is not in supreme power, but in some form of moral obligation defined as a right inherent in the entire body politics to unite by free association for its own protection and government.

"Thus conceived, sovereignty is not derived from force, but from the right to employ force for the protection of society. Sovereignty is not derived, as is asserted, from the people, but from the body politic as a moral organism. It is not an attribute of individuals considered singly or as a mass, but of a community of free men united to secure and preserve their inherent rights to life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness. As an expression of a moral necessity the substance of the state is not supreme power."

Moral Principles.

"The state has authority because it is a moral organism founded on moral principles, and representing a totality of human rights. Thus it belongs, according to David Jayne Hill, to the category of right rather than to might. As a moral organism endowed with consciousness of its rights and duties it may be regarded as a moral person. As a member of the society of states, every state is responsible for its acts and possesses outwardly as well as inwardly its rights and duties.

State is Responsible.

"Justly considered, says Hill again, it sustains to other like communities of men all the relations of a person. It may properly sue and be sued in a legal process before a court of its own election. The state is in brief a responsible being and the human mind cannot, without a defect in its logical procedure or the sacrifice of a fundamental principle essential to the very conception of a state, plead its irresponsibility.

"Now according to all teachers of American democracy, the above principles may not be asserted of a state regarding itself as supreme power. With such a state goes the crude conception embodied in the old absolutism maxim: 'The prince is above the law,' which unfortunately has outlived the system of which it formed a part.

"If in fact the prince is exempt from obedience to the law, then the state has no place in the sphere of jurisprudence it is merely a force among other forces of its kind. If it is the stronger, it may overwhelm and destroy without scruple, everything that opposes it. If it is the weaker it must submit to the iron law of conquest and surrender to its physical superior.

Arbitrary Commandments.

"Sovereign power is indeed essential to the very existence of the state; but it is not an unlimited sovereignty capable of issuing purely arbitrary commandments. To be a science jurisprudence must maintain that even the state cannot be permitted to be unjust or to impose unjust commandments. It must stand for that which is defensible in the realm of thought and must be consistent with clear principles of justice. The law in this sense cannot issue from mere arbitrary will, no matter whose will it is. If it is to be considered as an expression of will at all, it must be a determination of will emanating from reason; for reason is to will what the united evidence of our senses is to our personal sensation and emotions, the objective standard by which error is to be corrected and the truth determined.

"Reason teaches us that the individual is by nature a personal and social being. He has been created for an end which exceeds every other end since it identical with God himself. No civil society or the state is not a superior being, some transcendental divinity having an end of its own. It is constituted by the personal members who united to form it but yet it is not exclusively the product of their individual wills. Its foundation is in nature and it partakes of the objective reality of nature for in the first place the rights and duties which it implies find in their last analysis their support and their supreme sanctions in the moral law.

"It is so often asserted that the doctrine which declares law to be merely the expression of the will of the people is a doctrine of the American Revolution, and therefore necessarily forms a part of the American conception of the state. This is a great error. The American Revolution, quote from Hill again, on its negative side was a revolt against absolutism in every form; and on its positive side it was a defense of the inalienable rights of man. It was an appeal to general principles and as such opposed to the arbitrary will of a parliamentary body, as to the arbitrary will of a royal person.

Unlimited Power.

"It is not difficult to perceive that the transfer of unlimited power from the prince to the people adds nothing of rightful authority for the simple reason that, if there exists in the individual inherent and inalienable rights, no power whatever, no matter how constituted, may rightly take them away. How is it possible to ascribe to a mass of individuals an unlimited right which no one of them possesses? Can it then be contended that absolute sovereignty is a defensible juridical conception? Is it not on the contrary plainly and in terms a denial of subjection to law and in reality a complete denial of the authority to the law together?"

"How then, can a collection of mere private wills, considered as so many personal expressions of desire, or interest, or determination, possess rightful authority over any individual? If no one of them regarded singly, possess such authority, all of them together do not possess it. If there is nothing absolute in the mass.

The French Revolution.

"The French Revolution is often quoted by amateurs as a fore-runner of American democracy. It is not such a thing. As I said above, the American Revolution on its positive side is as much a protest of absolutism in the masses as in the prince. The French Revolution was a transfer of despotism from one depository to another, but not a revolt against despotism as such as was the American Revolution. It was not in any sense a defense of the rights of the individual but an assertion of the authority of the mass.

"If the power formerly possessed by the king was in that revolt taken over by the people undiminished in amount and untempered in quality. The despotism of the Paris mob was more fierce, more arbitrary and more sanguinary than that of any French monarch had ever been.

The French Revolution put the sovereignty of the people in the place of the sovereignty of the king, and it did nothing else. It declared the reprehensible doctrine of the omnipotence of the people in place of the omnipotence of the king, and the result was bloodshed, confusion and anarchy.

Declaration of Fathers.

"But what now is the American conception of the state? Listen to the Declaration of the Fathers: 'What now is the American conception of the state? Listen to the Declaration of the Fathers: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they were endowed by the Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.' From this Declaration we see that sovereignty in some sense the state must possess, but it is subject to the limitation of its source. That source is the community and correlation of rights possessed by the persons who compose its citizenship.

"What is the significance of this? It signifies that in the United States, conception of inalienable rights lies back of our whole system of legislation; it signifies that there is no power recognized under our government

Grangers' Programs Announced

State Master John C. Ketchum and State Lecturer Laura Stockman as well as other high officials in the Grange, will be the principal speakers at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon, June 22, to which the public is invited. The event is one of a series of similar meetings which are known as "Grange Institutes."

There will be a morning business session, which will include the roll call and annual reports of subordinate granges in this locality. This will be followed by a Masters' conference headed by Mr. Ketchum and a lecturer's conference under the direction of Mrs. Stockman.

The public meeting in the afternoon will be called to order at two o'clock. Mr. Ketchum will speak at Rapid River, Mrs. Stockman at Dark River and Mr. Taylor at South Ford River. All of these will be open meetings and the public is urged to attend. The three officers are all clever and entertaining speakers and well worth hearing.

Chronic Constipation.

Perhaps you have never thought of it, but this disorder is due to a lack of moisture in the residual matter of the food. If you will drink an abundance of water, eat raw fruits and take a lot of outdoor exercise, you may be able eventually to overcome it entirely. In the meantime use the most mild and gentle laxatives. Strong and harsh cathartics take too much water out of the system and make a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are easy and pleasant to take, and most agreeable in effect. Give them a trial.

Authority From Principles.

"It is evident then that the state equally with the individual must derive its authority from principles which can justify their existence before the bar of reason. 'Are there any principles so clear so self-evident and so imperative in their nature that men may justly observe them? Can men agree upon any such principles?'

"To these two questions we say once more, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States are the answer. They are the answers of American democracy to the world. To safeguard these imperishable principles, our armies, millions strong, at home and abroad, are lined up in battle array; our navy dauntless and unafraid is patrolling the seas; our manhood and womanhood with grim determination resolved to sacrifice the last drop of blood, is organized as no nation in the history of the world has ever been organized; our treasures are offered without stint or measure, because we are resolved to save liberty or perish valiant and true from off the face of the earth.

Our Cause is Just.

"Oh, but our cause is just, therefore we may not perish! To God, the author of liberty, we turn. Save us, Oh Lord, hear our prayer, and let our cry come unto Thee. My Country 'tis of thee I sing, Long may this land be bright with Freedom's holy light, Protect us by thy might, Great God Our King."

Government Will Help Find Labor

The United States government department of labor, in its efforts to solve the labor problems has decided to open an employment office in Escanaba. It was announced yesterday by Melville LeMarsh who was in the city for the purpose of making the necessary preliminary arrangements.

The location for the office has not been selected and the manager has not yet been named but Mr. LeMarsh believed that it would be possible to find some one for the job who is familiar with Upper Peninsula conditions.

The government hopes by means of the long list of similar bureaus that are being opened in all parts of the country, to find labor and place it where it is needed, especially among the skilled tradesmen. Men who are unemployed in any section of the country may register with the bureau which will be in touch with every other office in the country and provisions will be made immediately to transport them to some field where men of their particular training are needed.

There will be no charge for the services of the organization. All expenses will be taken care of by a special appropriation by congress to the department of labor. It is a part of Uncle Sam's plan to "keep the home fires burning" as brightly as possible.

Mr. LeMarsh stated that probably two offices would be established in the Upper Peninsula, the other, possibly, at Marquette. He came here yesterday morning from that city and left last night for the state capital.

"There is no excuse for idleness at the present time," he said. "The country is facing a serious shortage of labor in all lines. The only hope for relieving the situation is to keep every man working at the trade in which he is most efficient."

Fish-Blanchet.

The ceremony will be read by Rev. Father Raymond Jacques. Miss Fish will be attended by her niece, Miss Irene Cotnor and Thomas J. Toussaint will serve as groomsmen. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast will be served at the home of the bride's mother where a reception will be held. The couple will leave on the evening train for Minneapolis and other points in Minnesota, returning here in two weeks to make their home at 324 South Mary street.

Young Man Dies Yesterday P. M.

William Van Effen, aged 25, died at his home, 121 May street, at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. He had been ill for several months.

Surviving are his wife and a baby, his aged mother, one sister and two brothers. His father was killed in an accident at the Escanaba Woodengraving company's factory about two years ago. Deceased was employed until his illness, as a conductor for the Escanaba Traction company.

The body was taken to the Alto undertaking parlors where it was prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Closed Season On Partridges

Yesterday's issue of the Press carried the formal and legal announcement by the Public Domain commission that the season for the shooting of partridges in Delta county will be closed until July 15, 1918. This action was taken in response to a petition from a number of Escanaba sportsmen who saw that unless the birds are protected they will be entirely wiped out. The notice will meet the approval of the majority of hunters who have the best interests of the sport at heart.

Former Escanaban Is Again Honored

Atty. Chauncey W. Yockey, of Milwaukee, son of Mrs. W. H. Yockey of this city, has again been signally honored by the Elks of Wisconsin by being re-elected as president of the Wisconsin Elks' association at the annual state convention of that order at Fond du Lac. The present is the third time Atty. Yockey has been honored by the Elks in Wisconsin, an honor that has seldom been accorded a member of the order in Wisconsin during the 16 years in the history of the state organization.

In addition Mr. Yockey is head of the Milwaukee lodge of the order.

Metropolitan Man Took Severe Oath In Readiness For Campaign

Andrew Rian of Metropolitan, who last week was sentenced to pay $250 to the Red Cross and to purchase $1,000 worth of War Savings Stamps, for violating rules of the federal food administration, was required in addition to reaffirm his allegiance to the government of the United States and to pledge a careful observance of all of the food distribution rules in the future.

Following is the pledge taken by Rian:

I, Andrew Rian, who conducts a grocery store at Metropolitan, Mich., wish to publicly admit that I have knowingly and flagrantly violated the United States Food Administration regulations by selling wheat flour without at the same time selling the required amount of substitutes.

I do hereby pledge myself that from and after this date, I shall observe all of the rules and regulations of the United States Food Administration so far as they pertain to my business and I further promise and agree to aid the local and State Administrations by calling to their attention any case of violation of said rules and regulations that may prove to my knowledge or under my observation.

And I hereby reaffirm my allegiance and fealty to the United States and pledge myself to support our Government in its thorough prosecution of the war against Germany, and I hereby pledge myself to immediately report to the proper officials the names of any persons whom I hear make any disloyal utterances concerning the United States Government.

And I hereby pledge myself to pay forthwith $250 in cash to the Dickinson county chapter of the American Red Cross. And I further promise to pay for immediately, War Savings Stamps in the amount of $1,000, not later than June 13, 1918.

ANDREW RIAN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 13th day of June, 1918; at Escanaba, Michigan.

VALESKA C. ECKE, Notary Public. My commission expires Jan. 13, 1921.

Mrs. C. E. Kaye, of Manistique, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Anderson, enroute to Chicago for a visit.
