LUTHERAN BODY TO OPEN DRIVE IN CITY TODAY

Meeting Tonight is Planned When Details Are to be Discussed

The Lutherans of America believe they can go congress one better in fighting the Bolshevism of Europe.

With a view to assist in reconstructing European countries, Escanaba and Delta county will open a drive today that will continue through the week to procure this county's quota of a $40,000 fund to be raised in the state of Michigan.

Hold Meeting Tonight.

A union meeting of the Swedish and Norwegian Lutheran church congregations of the city will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the Swedish Lutheran church.

Judging from the enthusiasm already displayed, the present campaign will eclipse all previous events of a similar nature.

The entire upper peninsula has been thoroughly organized by the Rev. C. A. Lund and the Rev. O. C. Dahlgren, both of this city, who attended the state meeting in Detroit where plans were formulated for the state drive.

The national plan is to send commissions to Europe and to get into direct touch with the conditions and influential men, to tell them of the experience of the American Lutheran church in establishing an independent church-life and then to offer the full assistance of the American Lutheran church to establish the same in Europe.

Commission in France.

The first step has already been made in France. A commission, consisting of Dr. C. J. Smith, of New York, and Hon. F. Ritter, of Philadelphia, went to France in the early part of last September.

Other Protestant bodies are planning to come to the assistance of Europe. The Lutherans feel that they have the greatest obligation because the Protestantism of Europe is Lutheran.

Getting Hearty Support.

The National Lutheran council is at present conducting a campaign for funds for overseas service. The call was presented to a congress of Lutherans, held in Chicago, January 21-22, 1918, and was endorsed.

Reports received at the national headquarters in New York indicate that the plan is meeting with the heartiest support of the rank and file. A number of states have agreed to double their quota.

Maple Ridge Women Preparing to Vote

Saturday was a banner day for registration of women in the Maple Ridge precinct, 31 women listing themselves as voters.

ASKS BRITAIN TO KEEP PACT

Washington, Dec. 15.—Edward M. Hurley, chairman of the shipping board, cabled to Food Administrator Hoover at Paris today, urging him to demand action by the British government toward living up to their agreement to transport food to Belgium.

Mr. Hurley's telegram resulted, it was stated, from a condition whereby American trade in foreign markets is seriously embarrassed and in danger as a result of the British failing to keep their word that they would help in Belgian relief work.

American tonnage, Mr. Hurley said, is 500,000 tons short of the amount necessary for immediate demands of ocean transportation of American products.

WILSON SAILS FROM FRANCE

Simple Ceremony Marks His Departure But Huge Crowds Attend.

Brest, Feb. 15.—President Wilson left for home today with the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the plaudits of those who gathered at the embarkation place ringing in his ears.

Little ceremony attended the departure. A presidential salute of 21 guns, a contingent of 2,000 American soldiers, a naval guard or honor and as many civilians as authorities would permit near the point of departure, were the figures in the simple ceremony.

President Wilson's special train arrived here this morning after an uneventful night's journey from Paris, and the ship George Washington was steaming up in waiting.

Huge crowds of Brest citizens were out early scrambling for points of vantage and the reception the party received was fully as warm and enthusiastic as that which greeted the president three months ago.

Russian Situation Discussed at Paris

Paris, Feb. 15.—The Russian situation was again taken up at the Paris peace conference today, according to the official communiqué.

A delegation from Lebanon, telling of the trials and sufferings of the people during the war at the hands of the Turks was also heard by the delegates.

The subcommittee on reparation this afternoon listened to the Belgian, French and Servian claims.

DEMAND RETURN OF GERMANS IN ALLIED HANDS

Wellmar, Feb. 15.—"Fins" is written on the dream of restoring the monarchy by civil war, according to the consensus in responsible quarters here. All German parties are expected to subscribe to the program outlined by Count von Brockdorff Rantzen, the foreign minister.

Herr Grosber, speaking for the Centrists party in the constituent assembly today, demanded the return of German prisoners of war and protested against the annexation by the French, particularly of the Saar district, which France is credited with coveting.

ONE DEMOCRAT IS OPPOSED TO LEAGUE DRAFT

Balance in Opposition Made Up Entirely of the Republicans.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Discussion of the league of nations plan by the members of the senate today was divided on strictly party lines. The Democrats, with one exception, gave the plan their hearty endorsement and praised President Wilson for his success in bringing the conference around to his view.

Republicans felt disposed to pick flaws in the league. Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, contented to holding himself aloof from discussing the plan, but Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has taken a leading part in the senate debate in opposition to the league of nations principles, gave out a statement vigorously attacking the plan.

Senator Smith, of Michigan, Republican, said: "The responsibility imposed upon the American government is out of all proportion to the benefits our country can derive from such an arrangement."

Senator New, of Indiana, Republican, said: "One of the greatest objections to the proposed constitution of the league of nations, to my mind, is that it affects adversely the Monroe doctrine, which I think is the very last thing the people of the United States want to surrender."

Senator Sherman, of Illinois, Republican, said: "I would oppose a league of nations which removes any part of the sovereignty of the United States and I would oppose this proposal insofar as it abandons any of our sovereign rights. It appears innocuous in its present form."

WITHDRAWAL OF YANKEES IS TO BE MADE—BAKER

Washington, Feb. 15.—Ottawa citizens headed by Representative Doremus, of Michigan, who appealed to Secretary Baker today to withdraw American troops from northern Russia, were told that the best military minds were dealing with the question of reinforcing the expedition if necessary; that there was no danger of the force being cut off from relief, and that the question of withdrawal could be worked out only in agreement with the allied powers.

The French conservative press for weeks have been heaping daily jibes upon what that high pressure labor at the Hotel Crillon, where the commission on the society of nations, President Wilson presiding, held nightly sessions preparing for yesterday's events, the reading of the full draft before the plenary session.

"Wakes at the Hotel Crillon." Every newspaper here today devoted the entire first page to the league of nations. La Nation had a picture of the rising sun with a streamer reading: "Pact of a new world."

"Magnificent dream becomes reality is the headline in the Petit Parisienne, which has been violently opposing the league idea. It now calls Mr. Wilson the "apostle of international friendship and prophet of world peace."

IRISH STRIKE LEADERS MAKE NEW THREATS

Belfast, Feb. 15.—In a drizzling rainstorm thousands of strikers paraded the streets of the city today. The atmosphere is again charged. The strike leaders have been uttering strong threats, prompting the military commander to recall all officers on leave to their barracks tonight.

Sympathetic Strike Formally Declared

NO PRIMARY ON MARCH HERE, DECISION MADE

No spring primaries will be held on March 5, it was announced yesterday by City Clerk Carl E. Anderson, inasmuch as only one candidate for each office of the Non-Partisan party and the Taxpayers' party has been nominated.

To dispense with the spring primaries will mean a saving of between $400 and $500 this spring, according to estimates of city officials.

It was first thought there would be none developed after the petitions were filed.

DOLLAR FLEET WILL REMOVE TO ATLANTIC

New York, Feb. 15.—Capt. Robert Dollars' famous fleet of cargo ships, plying between San Francisco and the far east, will abandon the Pacific trade and be transferred to the Atlantic coast, it was announced today by the company's New York office.

The far east trade will not be abandoned, it was explained. The fleet, which aggregates more than 25,000 deadweight tons, will ply between New York and Atlantic ports and the Orient, via the Panama canal. Water rates from the Atlantic seaboard to Japan and China via the Panama canal were described as much lower than by rail to Frisco, and thence by ship.

It has also developed that goods can be sent more cheaply as far west as Omaha by rail to New York, and then by ship via the Panama canal to the Orient, than from Omaha to the Pacific coast by rail, and thence by water route to the far east.

"PACT OF NEW WORLD," PRESS OF FRANCE SAY

Paris, Feb. 15.—The new armistice conditions which Marshall Foch is taking to Treves and which President Wilson approves, constitute a twilight injection for the palsied birth of the society of nations.

The French conservative press for weeks have been heaping daily jibes upon what that high pressure labor at the Hotel Crillon, where the commission on the society of nations, President Wilson presiding, held nightly sessions preparing for yesterday's events, the reading of the full draft before the plenary session.

"Wakes at the Hotel Crillon." Every newspaper here today devoted the entire first page to the league of nations. La Nation had a picture of the rising sun with a streamer reading: "Pact of a new world."

COURT MARTIAL LAWS WILL BE CHANGED SOON

"Too Much Flimsy Evidence" in Most Sentences of Soldiers.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The record of the military court in the American army during the war shows that too many men were convicted on flimsy evidence who never should have been tried at all.

This summary of injustice of court martial cases affecting thousands of American soldiers was made to the senate military affairs committee by General Samuel P. Ansell, acting judge advocate general. Most of the members of the committee were entirely in accord with General Ansell of the condemnation of the military laws.

General Ansell warmly endorsed the bill by Senator Chamberlain to revise the court martial procedures so as to insure a larger measure of justice to the men accused. He suggested a few minor changes, most of which were designed to make even more drastic the restrictions which the Chamberlain bill would impose.

General Ansell went over the bill, section by section, and illustrated the changes by relating the story of some court martial case among the thousands which his officers had revised. Important sections in the bill which met with his strong approval were:

Right to Challenge. Giving the accused person the right to challenge for prejudice any member of the court convened to try him. Making the judge advocate a judicial officer of the court to advise the court on law and evidence, and creating the office of prosecutor to present the evidence to the court.

General Ansell quoted Governor McGovern, of Wisconsin, now serving as judge advocate on the staff of a divisional commander, as having told him that in many cases where he reported the evidence against an accused man could not justify his trial, the answer was:

"Make Example of Him." "Well, there has been too much of that sort of thing going on around here and we will have to make an example of that fellow and try him anyway."

DIFFERENCES OF FRENCH ON PEACE ISSUES SETTLED

Paris, Feb. 15.—The differences between the Americans, English and French viewpoints, which were rather acute early in the week, have been composed. However, since these difficulties led Premier Clemenceau to appeal direct to American public opinion to support the French view, and this brought threats from American headquarters at the Trillion hotel to take the peace conference out of Paris unless the French propaganda was discontinued immediately, it is well to understand just what these differences were.

This understanding may be necessary to a full comprehension of future events. The trouble started over the proposal of the economic council of the peace conference to lift the blockade against Germany in order to permit shipments into that country and Austria of foodstuffs, to relieve the starving conditions, particularly in Austria where the situation is most acute.

It was further proposed to ship into Germany such amounts of raw materials as would enable Germany to get on her feet again industrially. The French saw in these proposals a great injustice to France, as well as a future menace.

Boston Prepares for President's Landing

Boston, Feb. 15.—President Wilson's acceptance of Mayor Peters' invitation to make Boston his landing place on returning from France, captured the entire city today like an over the top storming attack. Preparations were immediately started to accord Mr. and Mrs. Wilson a triumphant coming from the Paris peace conference.

Monroe Doctrine is Upheld by League

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Chicago authorities on international law today expressed the opinion that the constitution of the league of nations strengthens the Monroe doctrine, makes America's position more nearly absolute in regard to its own sovereignty; its position of leadership in the western hemisphere more secure, and increases its prestige and standing as a world power.

EXPECT WILSON TO ARRIVE IN U. S. NEXT WEEK

Invites Congressional Committee to Dine With Him Upon His Return

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Wilson today called members of the foreign relations committee of the senate and the foreign affairs committee of the house, asking them to dine with him at the white house, upon his return to this country, when he will discuss with them, article by article, the constitution of the league of nations.

The dinner has been arranged for the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 26.

Attends Plenary Meet. The cablegram from Paris, dated Paris, Feb. 14, follows:

"Last night the committee of the conference charged with the duties of drafting a constitution for a league of nations concluded its work and this afternoon before leaving for United States it is to be my privilege and my duty to read to a plenary conference the text of the 26 articles agreed upon by the committee.

Many Are Represented. "The committee which drafted these articles was thoroughly representative of the world. Besides the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, representatives of Belgium, Servia, China, Greece, Roumania, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Brazil and Portugal actively participated in the debate and assisted materially in the drafting of the constitution.

"Each article was passed only after the most careful examination and by each member of the committee. There is a good and sufficient reason for the phraseology and substance of each article.

Before It Is Debated. "I request that I be permitted to go over with you, article by article, the constitution before this part of the conference is made the subject of debate in congress. With this in view, I request that you dine with me at the white house as soon after I arrive in United States as my engagement permits."

Following receipt of the cable, the congressmen and senators invited were consulted and it was arranged that the dinner be on the evening of Feb. 26.

Expected February 24. From information received by the friends of the president, it is believed that he will reach Boston from France Feb. 24, and will speak that evening at a public meeting in one of the large auditoriums there. The president will leave Boston the same evening and his message indicates that he is anxious to reach Washington as soon as possible.

Great interest attaches to the plan of the president to reveal to the congressmen the various moves made by the various diplomats in reaching an agreement upon the draft of the constitution of a league of nations.

Prevent Any Discussion. As indicated in the cablegram, President Wilson is anxious to prevent any public discussion of the proposed constitution by the leaders of the senate and house until he has had an opportunity to point out to them the various conflicting desires of the nations.

It is not known whether Vice President Marshall or other officials will attend the dinner.

Belgium's Claims Opposed in Holland

Amsterdam, Feb. 15.—Violent opposition to the claims of Belgium before the council of ten at Paris is being manifested by the Dutch press. The report, which has been given wide circulation, that President Wilson is opposed to Holland's claim concerning the Scheldt waterway and Leopold's has given rise to bitterness in certain circles.

Mrs. Howard Jackson, who has been visiting friends at Wells, has returned to Chicago.

STITUTION OF TRADE IS URGENT TASK

Economic Problems to be Settled at Parleys Are Important

Paris, Feb. 15.—President Wilson is going home, not sadder by any means, but a much wiser man. His views on the situation as a whole as it exists today, and as he has given them to his associates here, have brought to the forefront one thing—his sincere belief that the greatest task before the world is its economic restitution.

This subject will be dwelt upon by him when he addresses congress and also in his conferences with the senate and house foreign affairs committees.

Still His Triumph.
Of course, the president's great triumph is the submission of the constitution of the league of nations before the plenary conference yesterday. The allied nations who gave him the work of formulating that constitution, with the sole exception of France, were willing, after it had been read, formally to subscribe to it. France's position may be said to be not one of opposition to the league principles, but based on the always recurring fear of invasion, such as she has suffered in the past four years.

Will Switch Stand.
Her big point is for the creation of an international military police force, but the president is confident she will come around to the way the rest of the Allies and associated governments think.

The freedom of the seas, it can be said, has entirely disappeared as a prospective problem of peace.

The president's original idea was the protection of the rights of neutrals on the high seas in time of war. Since his arrival in France he has discovered that a league of nations will adequately care for this, as in time of war there will be no neutrals.

Russian Problem Unsolved.
Mr. Wilson regards Russia as a problem that can't be solved at present. But he hopes that when Russians realize that the Allies want to make Russia a decent place to live in they will come back to reason.

ONLY FORCE OF ARMS WILL SET RUSSIANS FREE

Washington, Feb. 15.—Only through force of arms can Russia come, members of the judiciary committee of the senate were told today by Robert E. Simmons, Republican, of the bureau of Foreign Commerce.

Simmons, who recently returned from a stay of several months in Russia and Siberia, declared the Russian Bolsheviks were sparing no efforts to spread their propaganda.

Although the arguments of the Bolsheviks are very "pleasing and sweet-sounding," according to Mr. Simmons, Bolshevism in practical operation is as bad as any war could be.

GIRL VICTIM OF GUN SHOT IS NOT OUT OF DANGER

Whether little Hazel Osterberg, suffering from gunshot wounds as a result of an accidental shooting at the home of her father, John Osterberg of Maple Ridge, Friday afternoon will recover from her wounds could not be ascertained at the Lansing hospital last night. She has been under the constant care of a physician and nurse.

Finger is Amputated.
Lennie Osterberg, the other "little girl" of the family also accidentally shot by her nine-year old brother, Clarence, is not in a serious condition. The first finger on her right hand, shot almost off when the shotgun discharged, was amputated yesterday.

The charge of the shotgun tore away part of Hazel Osterberg's face and probably destroyed the sight of one of her eyes. Unless complications set in, however, she has a chance to recover, it was reported last night.

Accident Occurred Friday.
The accident occurred about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Osterberg homestead, near Maple Ridge. The children were rushed to this city by the father who reached the Maple Ridge depot just in time to catch the train bound for Escanaba. An ambulance met them at the depot and rushed them to the Lansing hospital.

Need Leader Now to Combat Bolshevism

Washington, Feb. 15.—Serious unrest, fanned by revolutionary propaganda, is spreading through the country while congress refuses to heed the danger and busies itself with "pork barrel" legislation. Senator Thomas of Colorado, declared in the senate this afternoon.

He insisted the calendar be cleared of all legislation so that the senate could busy itself with legislation to suppress revolutionary doctrines.

Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, declared the country needed a leader in stamping out revolutionary propaganda. No more important duty than this could be performed by President Wilson, he said.

BOWLING

Plan for Tournament.
Bowling—Not only one team but four or five will probably be Ishpeming's representation at the Upper Peninsula Bowling tournament which will be held in Marquette the latter part of March.

Considering the fact it will be a month before the meet is staged there may be considerable change in the repertoire of the teams. According to "Pop" Geelan, manager of the Empire alleys here, there will be several of the best teams in the city in the match.

It is not known as yet whether any of the old bowlers, like Arvid Braastad, J. M. Fitzpatrick and William Gray will be in the match, but efforts will be made to have the best teams possible from Ishpeming at Marquette for the meet.

One of the strongest teams from Ishpeming will be the one that defeated the High Flyers from Marquette at the Empire alleys last week. This team has already decided to attend the meet. It is composed of "Doc" Emblem, Eggen, Reidy, Dower and B. Emblem.

ICE HARVESTING TO BE RESUMED EARLY MONDAY

The S. M. Johnson Ice company will resume ice harvesting operations, full capacity, on Monday. When the entire ice field began to move on Thursday the company was forced to haul all of its ice harvesting tools from the bay, for fear they would be carried out. Yesterday Mr. Johnson announced he will resume operations with a full crew on Monday and if conditions should warrant will employ crews to work both day and night to insure the storage of sufficient ice to meet all of the needs of this city.

COLD WAVE A GENERAL ONE

During the last 24 hours the great disturbance of the interior moved eastward from lower Lake Michigan, summarizes Observer Harvey H. Spindler in his weather report, and prevailed off the New England coast Saturday morning.

It was attended by general snows and rains in the upper and middle portions of the Mississippi valley, in the Lake region, the Ohio valley and Tennessee, and in the middle and north Atlantic states.

Temperatures were considerably lower in all sections of the country, except the districts west of the Rocky Mountains. It was indicated that today will be generally fair.

Flu Postpones Aggies School on Tractors

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 15.—The persistence of the influenza epidemic caused F. S. Kedzie, of M.A.C. to announce that the opening of the second training school for tractor engineers will be postponed from Feb. 17 to Mar. 3. Influenza reappeared on the campus a few days ago.

The row outbreak was not severe, but the college authorities decided that it would not be advisable to receive any newcomers for the time being.

The first training school for tractor engineers closed Friday. The second school, which has been postponed until March 3, was to have opened on Monday. The advance registration for this has already approached the hundred mark.

TOWN TOPICS

What Folks Are Saying in Regard to Some Matters of Public Interest

Is the upper peninsula to experience another siege of I. W. W. warfare?

This is a question being asked with startling frequency in various points in the mining districts.

Iron River has already had a touch of Redism in the past few weeks, according to news dispatches. Neogance officials and business men are attempting to find the person or persons who have been circulating "Wobbly" literature in that city. One woman agitator has already been discovered at work in the town.

Constabulary On Job.
Posters signed "American Anarchists" were circulated at Iron River not long ago and a detachment of the state constabulary was sent post haste to await developments—if there are to be developments.

The matter is one which is causing more or less concern in all quarters. While Escanaba and Delta county have been spared this brand of industrial strife in the past and there are few reasons to believe that I. W. W. could gain a foothold in any district the organization is capable of stirring up much unpleasantness, to say the least.

Too Close for Safety.
It is felt here that Iron River and Neogance are entirely too close for absolute safety.

A roundup of the agitators, few as they may be, would be viewed with considerable satisfaction in all parts of the north-state section.

Says Press Keeps City Posted on Lansing.

"The Morning Press is to be congratulated on the completeness of its daily report on the doings of the legislature at Lansing," a well known Escanaba man said yesterday. "It's state capital dispatches cover the ground completely and many hours in advance of any other newspaper serving the city."

Similar comments have been heard from many other sources.

Fire Department Up in Arms.

The persons guilty for the epidemic of false fire alarms in Escanaba are going to receive a sudden and severe swat in the neck some of these days.

The practice of sending in "phonies" from the call boxes about town has worn the patience of the fire fighters to a needle point. The three who runs made Wednesday night were the proverbial last straw. "They never were a joke to us," said a member of the department yesterday.

terday. "We have stood for them without much comment, thinking the perpetrators would live of it."

"There won't be any sympathy or leniency when we do nab them. And we are going to nab one of them some of these times. They can't get by with that sort of thing always."

Somebody started something the other day in Escanaba when they asked: "Where did the term bootlegger originate?" And we have solved the problem. Here's the dope on it:

"Bootlegger," the term for an illicit liquor seller, is said to have become a part of the language in early prohibition days. When Kansas went dry, cow-hide top boots were the almost universal form of footwear, and the large space between the boot and the leg provided a chamber at once convenient and capacious where the thirsty one might carry his stores. Hot-water bottles, automobile tires, false bottomed trunks, etc., are among a thousand or so of the synonyms that may be cited in a future thesaurus.

Cloverland's Farmers Prosperous, They Claim.

The most striking results in prohibition noted anywhere in the state are in the upper peninsula, says the Detroit News, in commenting on the version of the county agents in session at Lansing. It goes on to say: "It used to be no uncommon thing for many of the soil tillers there, of foreign extraction, to drink up most of their incomes. They were chronically and incurably down at heel, and they were known as 'poor farmers.' Now they are sober, and are increasingly rich, and they were recently spoken of by the conference of county agents at Lansing as 'prosperous agriculturists.'"

Fewer Women Votes Than Men Here, Belief.

Escanaba has fewer eligible women voters—or will have—when the registration is completed—than male voters, according to estimates at the city clerk's office. It is believed that a total of about 2,000 women will register before the spring election. Escanaba has about 2,300 male voters.

Without about three-fourths of the total estimate of women registrants already having signified their intentions to vote this spring, it is not improbable that the total number of women to register will exceed by about 200 the figure estimated by politicians who are watching the field carefully.

KITCHENER'S DEATH AWOKE THE BRITISH

At the outbreak of the war with Germany, England was getting prosperous, fat and lazy. All the faults that come with wealth and security were hers in some degree. But when one of her statesmen would goad her with taunts, telling her how poorly she was prepared to cope with a powerful foe, common folk would smile reassuringly at one another and say, "Oh, yes, but we have Kitchener!"

Great Britain looked upon him as at least a demigod—a man of sterling capability and will of annealed steel, to whom nothing in military accomplishment could be impossible. Then on a certain spring day in 1916 the transport "Hampshire" left Queenstown for Archangel. Whatever the date, or whatever the accident that happened—the British naval report said that the "Hampshire" struck a floating mine, while the Germans stated definitely that the submarine "U-29" later accounted for by the allies, sank the vessel—the "Hampshire" never reached port. F. of K. had been on board.

Many Rumors.

The week following the receipt of this news was one of mourning, horror, and uncertainty in Great Britain. Over one hundred vessels scoured the sea in the path supposed to have been taken by the "Hampshire," but not even a single body or piece of wreckage was recovered.

Certainty concerning his death never was reached, at least as far as the man on the street was concerned.

One rumor said that Kitchener had reached an impasse with the cabinet and that rather than have his hands tied, he had retired to Khartoum incognito.

Startling Developments.

Then came a startling development. A woman by the name of Biddy Cullough came forward with the statement that she had seen and spoken with Lord Kitchener. He had confided in her that his work in the present war was done, but that if England's necessity ever demanded, he would come back to help. Immediately the British Isles were in a furor. One diligent reporter discovered that Biddy Cullough was an old hag who lived in Ballylongford, near the head of the Bay of Taplee, Kerry Ireland, and that she was known about the country there as a witch. The British saw to it that she was pinned down to her statements, however, and the upshot of it all was that she admitted under pressure that she had seen Lord Kitchener in a dream, and not in the flesh.

Getting Rid of Colds.

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

SUFFRAGETTES BLAME WILSON FOR LATE VOTE

So Claims Correspondent of Suffrage Paper in Late Review

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American, a paper which was a pioneer in the cause of equal suffrage for women, in writing of the recent defeat in the United States Senate of the proposal to submit the woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution, says:

"The suffragists place the responsibility for this defeat upon the Democrats as the majority party, and upon the president as the man who might have influenced a sufficient number of Democratic votes to have put the measure through."

Indignation Is Strong.
"Against the President the indignation of the women is strongest. If the president really meant what he said in his speech to the senate when he declared suffrage to be necessary in the United States to enable him to settle for greater democracy throughout the world, they insist he should have exerted himself to gain the needed votes among members of his own party."

"Attention is called to the fact that a number of Democrats who voted against the amendment today are men who have been most subservient to presidential dictations with respect to other matters. Had the president called upon these men individually to aid him in making the world safe for democracy by supporting votes for women in the United States, in accordance with his former appeal to the senate, the suffragists feel that the result would have been different."

Dropped the Matter.
"Circumstances and the opinion of senators all confirm this view. It is obvious that after his speech to the senate urging the passage of the suffrage amendment the president gave the matter no more attention. He had established his own record, and the suffragists declare, this was all he wanted to do. As to whether the senate would act in accordance with his request was to him a matter of indifference, they charge. It is this that makes them so angry."

"The president can point to his speech as a reply to any criticism that may be directed against him, and yet, suffragists are convinced that he did not give them any real assistance in gaining the end sought, and they assert he had never intended to aid them."

For Himself, Not Suffrage.
"The agitation of the question and its militant advocacy by the White House pickets had so centered attention upon the president's attitude that he went before congress to divert that attention rather than to gain any support for the women's movement."

"They insist that it is made manifest by the fact that his speech did not influence a single Democrat to vote in favor of suffrage, whereas, in other matters, a mere intimation of his desires has been sufficient to control the vast majority of the Democrats even against their expressed convictions."

"A secret cablegram from the president, insisting upon the passage of the great naval bill was sufficient to bring that measure out of the house naval affairs committee with the unanimous vote of the committee, and is expected to put it through both houses, although a great majority of the members believe the bill unnecessary and wasteful."

"Suffragists are alert to the significance of these circumstances and they declare they will not forget them in the next campaign or permit the public to forget them. In the meantime they assert with confidence that new Republican congress pass the amendment."

STANTON—Otto Stuart, of Dowsiac, witness in the defense of Ada Shattuck, convicted of a statutory offense, has been arrested for perjury.

NOT A ROMAN CANDLE FOUND IN WHOLE CITY

PARIS, Jan. 8 (by mail, delayed).—Captain Jim Buchanan, who used to be a reporter in New York many years ago and then took to mining out in Nevada, now wears two silver shoulder bars and tops his son in rank by one grade. Returning from Rome yesterday, where he had gone as a military member of President Wilson's party, big Jim Buchanan gathered a circle of sympathetic listeners about him at the Hotel Crillon and poured out the tale of his great disappointment in Rome. Said he:

"You remember Fourth of July when we were lads, and how we used to dream for weeks in advance of the giant fireworks and the 'nigger chasers' and all the things that went 'whizz-z-z' and showered pretty sparks after we'd had the Fourth of July ice cream for supper, and the dark finally came on? Well, of all the big bursts of Fourth of July there was one thing that was dearest to my heart; I'd save my pennies for six months to lay in a stock of these, and I used to think if I ever could get to Rome—boy!"

"Well, here I've been to Rome and looked and looked it all over, and not a Roman candle in the whole blinkety-blank town!"

Wasn't Sent Abroad, Soldier Runs Away

Los Angeles, Feb. 15.—"Sore" because he had been in the army since 1912 and was not sent to France, Private Marquardt deserted. "It would make you sore," he told the policeman who arrested him. "Rookies who blew in with the draft got honor medals and I had to stay at home."

NEED OF PURE SEED IS TOLD

BY M. A. C. MEN

East Lansing, Mich. Feb. 12.—The fact that care should be exercised in the purchase of seed supplies has been brought out at M. A. C. by an investigator in the department of botany who has been testing samples submitted for inspection from every part of the state. "Inspect your seed" is the suggestion being made to farmers by the department as a result of the testing work.

Tests Show Needs.
"In one thousand samples of red clover seed tested recently in the seed laboratory," the report sets forth, "eight hundred contained pigeon grass; five hundred rag weed; six hundred buckhorn; four hundred Rangel's plantain and three hundred lamb's quarters. In two hundred samples of alsike seed tested, ninety-one contained night flowering catchfly; eighty-six sorrel, and seventy-six curled dock. Some of these samples were from dealers and others from farmers. These figures indicate something of the desirability for obtaining the best quality of seed possible."

Bulletin Explains.
The department adds that a bulletin describing the various Michigan weed seeds, and indicating methods for identifying them can be obtained by writing to the Experiment Station, M. A. C., and making a request for it.

Dreadful Cough Cured.
A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, of Maryville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

Matt Haga of Brampton was here on business Saturday.

Next English Queen May Be an American

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
London, Feb. 15.—The next Queen of England may be an American girl. The prince of Wales shortly will visit the United States and may return with an American bride, King George himself, I understand on excellent authority, is not averse to this.

War Narrows Field.
The war has narrowed the field of choice for royal marriages on the old lines of historic tradition and precedent. There is a keen desire here that the Prince should be allowed to choose for himself an American wife. The enthusiasm on both sides of the Atlantic would be unbounded and the union would go far toward cementing the bond of friendship, now closer than ever, between the United States and Britain.

The fact is there is nothing to prevent an unmarried sovereign of Great Britain marrying whom he chooses, providing the proposed consort is not a Roman Catholic. The idea of a royal caste exclusively marrying within itself is no part of English law and forms no written part of any Continental constitution.

It existed only as a part of the house laws of the different Tontonic dynasties. A member of the caste could only marry within it. All other marriages were morganatic and incapable of royal inheritance.

Is a Real Man.
But the democratic principles of a real fighting "he-man" like the Prince of Wales can't see this unwritten royal tomfoolery interfering and Canadian officers who have fought and worked with him on the Western front give it to me firsthand that he'll marry whom he pleases and make her his Queen sans morganatic, sans historic precedent.

"Why, he's a real man. There's none of the aristocratic bunk about him. I've known him since I was with him on the western front and he's a helluva fine fellow. He'd try to sneak into 'em and fight with the boys." Of course we couldn't let him risk the chance of capture, because there would be one big German hubbalo and raising of the Boche morale, but it goes to show where that kid starts. And when it comes to marrying, I got it from him straight, he'll pick out a girl he loves no matter whether she's a princess or the daughter of the butcher, the baker or the candlestickmaker."

Date Not Decided.

This Lieutenant Jack Gilles, of Detroit, characterized the Prince of Wales. He's an upstanding, clean-shaven, athletic type of youngster in his early twenties, and during the war he has been connected with the Royal Air Force as an officer.

The exact date of the Prince's trip to the United States and the Dominions has not been decided, but I understand it will be soon and may probably result in a romance, the example of which would be infectious and doubtless open up dramatic possibilities.

Already in London it is whispered the embryonic romance centers about a young American heiress at Newport, while there are other mentions of "eligibles" in New York, Chicago, Boston and other American centers.

Didn't Want Germans.
There is a story that when Great Britain declared war on Germany the Prince of Wales's first remark to his sister was a heartfelt thanksgiving that they would both be spared of German partners.

But there are still marriageable princesses in other European countries. The name of Princess Yolanda of Italy has been particularly mentioned during the Prince's visits to that country; but she is a Roman Catholic. Marriage with a Roman Catholic would involve the forfeiture of the right of succession except by a special act of Parliament.

Princess Marie of Rumania, Princess Elizabeth Margaret of Denmark might be chosen, but the prospect would arouse little enthusiasm. Princess Thelma of Greece is no longer talked of as a future queen.

MICHIGAN'S ROADS AND PARKS.

Michigan is to be congratulated—and Gov. Sleeper likewise—for a comprehensive program of good roads and parks proposed. The north central states can all take heart with this plan of Michigan to do its share in making the highways of the whole community into a network of industrial thoroughfares.

It probably would be going a little bit too far to say that Michigan needs roads as badly as Illinois. Illinois has been in the mud for a great many years, but is going to get out. Indiana has led the central west in good highways. Michigan is getting into line. The result, as we can foresee, will be an example on a big scale of the progressive life.

In his message to the Michigan legislature Governor Sleeper says: "We must have more roads and better roads. Money spent for highway construction is one of the best investments the state can make. Michigan should be the greatest tourist state in the union. . . . Better roads would bring millions of dollars into the state annually from the tourist trade alone. With the development of the rural motor express substantial highways are an absolute necessity."

Gov. Sleeper has touched on an important phase of Michigan's worth when he refers to its great natural beauty, and in a separate communication to the legislature he urges the establishment of a system of state parks to include outing spots at all of the natural watercourses, of which there are many. Of this he says:

"I therefore earnestly recommend that steps be at once taken . . . to acquire the land necessary to establish a great chain of state parks bordering our rivers and lakes, and in this chain I would include some of our inland lakes. . . ."

Thousands of Chicagoans, to say nothing of multitudes from other localities, flock to Michigan in the summer time. The incentive to go there would be vastly increased by the introduction of better motoring facilities. Also Michigan as the great center of the motoring industry should be by all means the foremost state in the inducement to travel by motor. Gov. Sleeper recognizes that the coming of the motor express will in a measure revolutionize shipping as well as develop distribution to a new power.

With good roads in every state there is a newer and wider sweep of interstate commerce. Conceivably the products of western Michigan will be much nearer the Chicago market with the motor car as an aid to the railroads in short hauls. The lakes traffic will always have its niche in industry and in no wise hampered by motor traffic.

Michigan proposes that road building be carried on in such a manner as to provide work for the thousands of returning soldiers. Illinois proposes the same program. The interests of the whole lakes community will be served by such thoughtful processes as the Michigan campaign and it should receive the support of all Michigan citizens.—Chicago Tribune.

JUST ONE PRINCIPLE.

Just why some men will view with complacency the careless expenditure of public funds, paid into that fund by themselves, is a sociological question that will never be satisfactorily answered. And yet there are those, and their number is not few, who will stand mute when evidence piles up that their money, paid in city taxes, is loosely and inefficiently spent and yet those same men would discharge on the spot a clerk who used the same methods while in his employ or if it were a member of that man's family who used the family funds carelessly, he would start a family rumpus.

Taxes are levied for the purpose of running the government and making public improvements. If the right business methods are not used in running the government and carrying out those improvements, the taxpayers have to pay more taxes. If city expenditures are as carefully guarded as are the expenditures in the average family or in the average business, the amount the taxpayers must raise, is naturally less than if public money is wasted.

It is on that principle and that principle alone that the Taxpayers party has been founded and launched for the spring campaign in this city.

It is a principle that merits and rightly shall have the careful consideration of every man who pays taxes.

FOR THE BOYS WHO GAVE ALL.

Those who have read the novel by Sir Walter Besant and James Rice "All Sorts and Conditions of Men," recall the "Palace of Delight," that Angela Messenger, the London heiress, conceived for all the people. The plan as outlined by the fiction writers created such a profound impression on social thought in England that it not only assumed something of a tangible, material form but more than all inspired British labor with a new, broad vision of its relation to every upward aspiration of mankind. This novel of Besant and Rice is credited with having had much to do with bringing English labor into its present commanding position in the highest councils of the British Empire, with giving it a vision not so much fixed on a wage scale as on the intellectual wage elevation of its order and the establishment of even handed justice in government throughout the world.

As member of the War Reconstruction Committee of the Michigan Preparedness Board specially charged with the task of planning a fitting memorial to soldiers and sailors who have given up their lives in the great war, the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Catholic bishop of Detroit, is planning a magnificent community hall for Detroit very much on the line of Angela Messenger's "Palace of Delight." The bishop has a vision of a Detroit Community Hall where the men of different racial groups, the rich and the poor, the laborer and the capitalist, can meet together on an equal plane and come to a better understanding.

Bishop Gallagher would have the Community Hall as beautiful and spacious as the cause for which the boys of Detroit gave the last, full measure of devotion. He would enlist the finest artistic talent in the world, for its planning.—Detroit News.

WHY?

Conscientious objectors were coddled by the war department and finally discharged from the service. They deserved stiff prison sentences fully as much, if not more, than the men who got long terms for violations of the military code. Contrast the treatment they received with that accorded some military offenders who were given sentences up to forty years for some such offense as absence without leave or refusal to participate in drill.

The country cries out against such injustice and no wonder if it is now a subject of investigation by the Senate military committee. Yesterday Brig. Gen. S. T. Ansell, acting judge advocate general appeared before the committee to urge the enactment of a law authorizing review of court-martial sentences by the judge advocate. Such a law should be passed. Sentences out of all proportion to the crime should be reduced.

The country has not yet learned why conscientious objectors were permitted to escape the law's penalty while hundreds of thousands of our young men have faithfully fulfilled all military obligations. And the country demands to know.

General Ansell was asked by the committee why conscientious objectors had been discharged, but he preferred not to answer. In this he was only tactful. It is not for General Ansell to explain. Secretary Baker himself should be asked the reasons and the country should be enlightened.

Just Like "Emma." At the new Ince studio Dorothy Dalton is well along in the production of her comedy-drama which presents her in the role of a traveling saleswoman, decidedly capable of taking care of herself in all emergencies. It sounds decidedly like a second "Emma McChesney."

In "A Master of Music," Capitol comedy by Goldwyn, "Smiling Bill" Parsons pictures the reason for the failure of himself and three of his chums to lead a many winsome lady to the altar. The picture is filled with funny incidents. Billie Rhodes and her company will go to Honolulu to obtain local color for her next picture.

AT THE DELFT. When David Wark Griffith, the famous producer of "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and "Hearts of the World," was in England "shooting" scenes of the latter picture, he was prevented by reason of his duties as producer, from obeying the "command" of King George to attend him at Buckingham Palace. Later, however, Mr. Griffith appeared before the King and Queen Mary and was graciously received. The king complimented Mr. Griffith upon his production of "Intolerance" which the monarch had seen and assured him of his ready co-operation in any picture production dealing with the war and British war time activities which he might project.

It thus happens that in "The Greater Love," Mr. Griffith's remarkable Aircraft photoplay which will be shown at the Delft theatre Monday and Tuesday many of the most illustrious women of the British aristocracy are pictured.

AT THE DELFT. The gowns worn by May Allison and many beautiful girls who are forth in the great ballroom set of the forthcoming Metro play, "The Testing of Mildred Vane," which will be the attraction at the Delft theatre today only will prove a source of delight to every girl and woman who sees this delightful play which is a unique combination of comedy and mystery. Miss Allison is seen in a creation of cream and silver which sets off her perfect blond beauty while the many other charming and attractive girls to be viewed in this scene are all clad in exquisite frocks of the most approved "evening" shades—these colors which show up to the greatest advantage under soft or brilliant evening lights.

AT THE STRAND. Masquerading as a girl of twelve summers, Betty, by her childish sympathy, wins the heart of Dick Mentor, embittered against all women since his wife left him with their baby years before. This remarkable masquerade is delightfully pictured in "The Beloved Imposter," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature, which will be seen in the Strand Theatre today for last time, Gladys Leslie, Vitagraph's irresistible "Sunshine" star, has the role of Betty, who plays this game of hearts on a wager of a kiss against a thoroughbred horse.

Just Jests

Impossibility.

What are called "random shots" of speech often have a peculiar knack of hitting the mark. Not long since, a negro customer entered a barber shop, and said: "I hope, gentlemen, you don't object to smoking?" The barber, without turning around, replied: "Go on; smoke till you are black in the face."

The Zoo. "Let's go see the animals this afternoon." "Not again. I've seen them all this morning." "Where?" "In my own zoo. The fact is, my cock's tiger, the butler's bear, the office boy's a monkey, the clerks are wise as serpents, the bank cashier's a gorilla, and my whole family is like a swarm of bees."

Efficiency. Male Shopper—My wife sent me for some flax. Clerk—For yourself or for her? Male Shopper—What difference does that make? Clerk—If it's for yourself, it beef; if it's for her, it's face.

His Bad Example. A physician upon opening the door of his consulting room, asked: "Which one of you has been waiting the longest?" "I have," spoke up a man in a stentorian voice. "I'm your tailor. I delivered your clothes four weeks ago."

Little Home Helps.

Oyster salad may be served hot or cold. A good salad is made of asparagus and salad. Cleanliness is one of the highways to good health. Buttermilk custard is delicious and inexpensive. Food should be so palatable that the gospel of the clean plate needs no preaching. A harmless light green coloring for candies is obtained by macerating lettuce leaves. Marvelous puddings, cakes and breads can be made when one has buttermilk and soda. Never put away cotton or linen clothes with starch in them; they will not last nearly as long. Bread puddings and hashes can be really delicious dishes if sufficient pains be taken with them. Nothing starts a cake with a handcap like not thoroughly creaming butter, sugar and eggs. Grapefruit and sliced onions marinated with French dressing form a favorite winter salad. To be wholesome, pork must always be thoroughly cooked. Bean stew with little odd bits of meat added is nourishing. Creamed sole is a pretty dish served in green pepper cases. Cabbage is nourishing because of the gluten contained therein. The feverish patient enjoys cold water mixed with fruit juices. Veal is better in late winter and spring, while pork and fowls are better in the autumn and winter. Sweet green peppers chopped fine add interest to scrambled eggs. Do not wash a child's face just before going out into the cold. Baking in Boxes. How many women know that the success of good fruit cake lies almost entirely in the baking? Of course, care should be used in the mixing, too, and the very best materials should be used if the real old-fashioned fruit cake is wanted. To ensure the best results, try baking your next in the long pastboard corner boxes. Take boxes at least three inches deep, line each one with well-greased wax paper, pour in the batter, place a piece of well-buttered manila paper over the top of the cake and then put on the lid. Place the box or boxes in a slow oven and bake only until the cake is done through, which may require from three to four or five hours, according to the depth of the cake. When baked in this way the cake will come from the oven retaining the fruit flavor, with no hard crust and will cut into tempting even slices of a convenient size and shape to serve. Fruit cake should not be cut in for at least two weeks and longer time is really better. The cake can be put away in these boxes and each box should have the cover kept on and be well wrapped in a strong piece of paper or a towel and kept in a cool place. Never frost the cake until it has been kept at least a week.

Practical Recipes.

Stuffed Prunes (As a Confection). Wash prunes, soak two hours, dry. Make a lengthwise cut and remove the seed. Fill the cavity with peanuts or any desired nut. Roll in granulated sugar.

Canned Corn Griddle Cakes. Mix together one small cupful of canned corn pulp, one lightly beaten egg, half a teaspoonful of salt, one third of a cupful of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of melted shortening, a few drops of molasses and half a cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat well and fry slowly on a hot griddle. These cakes are also good to serve with creamed chicken where there is plenty of sauce and little chicken; when used in this way add one-quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika to the batter.

Japanese Sandwiches. One cupful cold boiled rice, one teaspoonful grated onion, one teaspoonful finely chopped parsley, half cupful sardines (skin and bone removed) or any cold fish can be used, half teaspoonful paprika. One tablespoon chopped stuffed olives. Put the rice, fish and olives through the food chopper, and the onion, parsley, paprika and oil from the sardines; mix well to make a paste; spread between two slices of brown dry bread. Do not use butter, as the oil from the sardines is very rich.

Welsh "Rabbit." Melt 2 tablespoons of butter, add 1 tablespoon of flour, 1-2 tablespoon mustard and 1-4 tablespoon salt mixed together. Now add 1 cup milk; when hot, add 1 cup cheese, cut fine, stir until melted. Just before removing from fire add 1 beaten egg. Serve hot. This will serve four people.

Rice Muffins. Two and one-fourth cups flour, 3-4 cup hot cooked rice, five teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons maple syrup, one cup milk, one egg, two tablespoons butter, half teaspoon salt; mix and sift the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder, add half of the milk, egg well beaten remainder of milk mixed with rice; beat thoroughly, add butter.

Prune Nut Whip. One pound prunes stoned and chopped, whites of four eggs and one cup sugar beaten lightly, one-half cup chopped walnuts. Bake until brown. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Frills and Furbelows

Smoke gray and black make a new combination. The short, close net sleeves are much worn for evening.

The pointed bodice is often seen on dresses of black velvet.

Busby balls of sable fur are excellent millinery trimming.

A sweater coat of bright green uetvyn has a high collar of skunk.

The new spring frocks illustrate extreme simplicity or even severity.

The new grays for spring include mist gray and nickel, as well as taupe.

Almost every model wrap or gown from Paris is astonishingly close around the knees.

Smart vestees with high collars to wear with spring suits give a pleasing touch of color to the strictly tailormade. These vestees are in velvet, rich silk and even of ribbon, embroidered and beaded and of brocades and fancy ribbons.

Waistcoat chemisettes are made of embroidered net.

The long-waisted blouse has evidently come to stay.

Women do not wear long gloves in the evening, but beautiful bracelets are much in evidence.

Black taffeta is to be one of spring's smartest materials.

Some spring dresses have the slant overskirt bordered with beads, wool embroidery and appliques.

It is not to be wondered that French blue—the soft lovely blue is much in evidence. In spite of the fact that some of the newest frocks have not white at the throat, and that others favor the rounded neck, with lace and a tucker, still other feature a white satin collar that is high at the neck and that extends in the front over the bodice quite to the wasteline.

The transition from war time simplicity may have something to do with a demand for youthful clothes. There is a joyous note of color, a hint of gladness in every gown. Touches of red on dark blue dresses, flecks of sky blue and buttercup yellow in bits of embroidery are seen here and there.

The triumphant tri-color is suggested by a lining of red and a collar of white. Again the black, yellow and red of plucky Belgium are seen on a hat band, or the cream, white and red of the intrepid Alpine fighters of Italy are found in small embroidery on the border of a blouse.

MEETING TODAY TO PLAN TRIP TO CONFERENCE

Older Boys Will Complete Arrangements for Their Ironwood Meeting

Following a visit to the city by F. S. Gooding, of Marquette, secretary of the Older Boys' Conference to be held at Ironwood Feb. 21-23, arrangements have been made for a meeting to be held this afternoon in the council chambers of the city hall, at which time arrangements will be completed for sending a delegation from this city.

800 Will Be There.

This will be the final meeting before the registration cards are sent to Ironwood indicating the number of boys who will attend, and it is essential that every one who intends to go, take his dollar with him to the Sunday afternoon meeting.

Mr. Gooding stated that preparations are being made at Ironwood to entertain 300 of the Older Boys and he confidently predicted that the conference will be one of the most entertaining and profitable ever held in the upper peninsula.

Splendid Program

The program printed in Thursday's Morning Press, will be of deep interest to every "Older Boy" and one that should not be missed if it is at all possible to attend.

REGISTRATIONS END; 1,715 IN CITY HAVE QUALIFIED

When City Clerk Anderson closed his books last night, the drive for the registration of women came to an end with a total of 1,715 registered in this city.

The sixth ward leads with a total of 394 registrations, while in the fourth ward, 369 women qualified as voters. All but two wards have at least 200 women voters, the registration here indicates.

Register Again in March.

The registration books will be opened again on March 6. From that day until March 22, registration of men and women alike will be received again. After March 29 there will be no general registration until Saturday March 29, when booths in every ward of the city will be opened for voters, feminine and masculine, to qualify.

Estimates placing the total number of women registrants in the city at 2,800 probably will be exceeded by at least 200. At least, such are the indications from the present figures.

Final Count of Wards.

Ward	Registrations
First	62
Second	211
Third	206
Fourth	369
Fifth	317
Sixth	394
Seventh	156

Fashions

Collars of Various Types Add Immensely to General Appearance of Capes.

The following are the hints on suits and coats in Miss Alma Gauffin's letter today:

Collars of different types, offering novelty and practicability give an interestingly different appearance to capes.

A gray tricotine, for instance, embraces the irregular bottom with a one-sided collar, draped long and on surplus lines, to be held by a buckle on the straight Tuxedo rever at the left. Navy blue soutache embroidery, covers this rever and matches the peau de cygne lining.

Collars Are Unique.

Another unique collar is shown on a covert gabardine model. While it is a short shawl in front, it rises to the Medici back with vertical pin tucks grouped. In the center, the streamer-like panels which are cut in one with it falling at either side-back. Silk arrows tailor a center slit seam and curved hip pockets follow the lower front edge of the cape.

Navy blue tricotine is used for another number which features a detachable Russian blouse front having its square neck piped in French blue tricotine. Soutache embroidery enhances the panel back which achieves the straight lines of this cape, having rippling sections at either side.

Various Trims Shown.

There is a tricolette vest and sash in an evora cloth, collarless dolman having a notch shaped yoke at center back. The shawl collar on the vest finishes the neckline and bands of floss stitchery offset the upper part of arm vents draped in one with the body of garment.

A double collar effect is noteworthy on another blue tricotine cape for bordering a stitched down shawl collar of tan tricolette, from either side of which the circular yoke begins there is another, semi-attached, of self material. A band of embroidery follows the circular fullness of the full-length model.

The skirt, drop cuffs on a leather color tricotine velvet cape are, perhaps the narrowest part of it, generous proportions being given to other parts. In front, a modified Empire effect is introduced and the collar which points to center back is a circular cape in front.

Square Cape Back.
Something new in a black velvet-ton novelty shows a square cape back dropping to below waistline and a draped surplus bodice, which fastens underneath in back. Discs of silk floss embroidery stitched at points to reveal the lines of this wrap which has loop fringe edging the bottom of back.

Women, although many of them are unaware of it, are far more sensitive to outward impressions than they themselves young.

The fact that many people think women grow old quicker than men has nothing to do with the case, as many women do not tell their right ages in the first place. Perhaps with a large family to look after a few indications show quicker than with the sterner sex. But in later life the difference is more than made up.

The woman who would remain young cultivates this keen sense of beauty and takes her enjoyment more or less as a child in the swift-blowing cloud, in the song of a bird in the sunshine and the blue sky, and forgets quickly the petty gossip and annoyances which fill the lives of the women who fail to appreciate life's best gift—simple mindedness.

Suggestions on the coat styles for the coming season are contained in Miss Gauffin's New York letter today:

The short sports coats which are wanted in high shades of the fluffy woolen materials, such as evora, frost-glow and Worumbo, or the knitted, Bonbonette. In more conserved shades these same fabrics are developed into street coats and wraps, none of which are really full length.

Self color yarn embroidery embellishes the scarf collar and side panels of a tan frost-glow coat made with loose bodice suggesting the Moyenne, and triple buttons fasten at the bottom.

Trimming Touches.

The trimming touches on many of the models aid in bringing out their lines. Burgundy buttons toning in with a rose color Worumbo number embroidered in floss.

A dolman coat in silverstone has pockets in the upper part of sections which are drawn to either sidefront from a one piece back.

A short silverstone sports coat, belted in the front has its lower section slashed into wide tabs and outlined with braid across the back.

Use Silk Lining.

An attractive black and white block silk with black stripes on the white blocks is used to line a black Moon-Glo satin cape having a generous shawl collar, while vividly colored linings are used in capes of black velvet.

In this latter range there is a novelty garment which shows four cir-

Iowa Soldier Wants Home Made Sinker

Oscar Johnson, of Dubuque, Ia., wants a doughnut. No ordinary creation will do. It must be a savory cake, creamy and soft as the powdered snow.

Johnson is more recently known as Private Oscar Johnson, B. Company, 168th Inf. En route from the Lorraine front, where, incidentally, he was wounded and cited for bravery in action, this soldier is scouring every port for a doughnut.

Swinging from the foremost car of a Michigan Central train carrying 533 returned soldiers, Johnson hailed the women of the Red Cross Wednesday and called for a fried cake.

"I've got to have a doughnut," he said. "My life depends on it. If there's a cake of that species between here and Dubuque equal to the one I got in France, I'm going to have it."

Well, there were cup cakes, sandwiches, and turn-overs, but in all that delicious array of food that waited the transient regiment on the platform, there was nary a doughnut. Private Johnson looked dismayed.

"No doughnuts?" he inquired sadly.

"No, not a single, solitary doughnut," was the answer.

Johnson grimaced and looked discouragingly at the truck, creaking under the weight of five gallons of coffee and more than a thousand sandwiches.

"Well," he said. "There are two stops between here and Dubuque and I ain't going to give up the search now." And then Johnson explained why he wanted the doughnut.

"I was sitting in the trenches after a hard fight, wet to the skin, tired, sore and hungry. There wasn't a morsel of food within 10 miles and ocular tiers posed one above the other on a Victory red satin lining. A tricolette vest matches the lining.

I was literally dying for a bite to eat.

"All of a sudden one of the Salvation Army workers came along with some coffee and doughnuts. Oh, Boy! They looked like a feast fit for royalty and tasted the same. I ate three of these doughnuts and then went into a dug-out and wrote a letter home.

Costs Railway Big Sum for a Tickle

Los Angeles, Feb. 15.—It costs a Los Angeles suburban railroad company $10,000 because one of its motormen tickled a boy passenger and caused him to fall under the wheels crippling him for life. ### Civilians Give Way to Returning Yanks

London, Feb. 15.—Owing to the tide of American soldiers having set homeward, it is becoming no easy task for a civilian to get accommodations aboard the big liners used as transports. These vessels may be armed with Lewis guns for some time yet. It is proposed to destroy floating mines by firing explosive bullets, experiments having proven that they will blow up or sink mine.

WOMAN KISSESS SHE MAY GO

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Written record of the Superior Court, the story of a woman who, on wedding day conceived as being a loveless and kissless marriage a super-platonic union.

It is in a suit for annulment on behalf of David Mallalieu, general manager of a large typesetting concern, against Mrs. A. Mallalieu, now a school teacher at Jersey City, N. J.

In Name Only.

Mrs. Mallalieu cared to be in name only. It is upon that the husband seeks to have the marriage annulled. The husband ports his allegations by offering letters written by his wife, in which she wrote: "It's no use, can't make our marriage go, another she says."

"Dear David—You can come 'New Jersey' and rest up a while you wish, but you must not utter other word of love or want to this argument is not to be repeated."

Before their marriage, May 1917, says Mallalieu, his wife of their coming marriage, expressed wish, akin to his, of being bed with a son who would be his father. The wedding bells to the requiem of her love, he says.

Letter Produced.

A letter in which his wife charged him for marrying her will be in court. It reads:

Dear David—You are deeply responsible for the position I am in how deeply I cannot express. were the man, you were the older knew more than I did. You deny knowing I was unhappy night before our marriage, and know you had no more right to marry me than the man in the street.

"Try to be big enough to see great moral question involved."

ANN ARBOR—A. L. Sullivan Ypsilanti, has been appointed county auditor for Washtenaw county to fill a vacancy caused by the death of William Bacon, Chelsea.

The Honor Roll for Delta County

Is Nearing Completion

We have secured the pictures and the war records of the majority of Delta county men who had a part in the great war. There are many, still on duty, whose families have failed to heed our repeated appeals. The time is growing short and unless the now missing pictures and records are placed in our hands within a few days they will be missing from the only complete, permanent record that is to be compiled of Delta county's contribution to the great and bloody struggle waged in the cause of humanity and world democracy. You owe it to your boy to have his picture made a part of this handsome volume that we are compiling.

The picture and war record of every soldier and sailor of Delta County is made a part of this record absolutely without cost or obligation of any kind on the part of any soldier or sailor or his family.

If you have not sent your boy's picture and war record to us and cannot come to our office, fill out the attached coupon and mail with his picture at once. Don't delay. Do it Today.

WATER GOOD, IS SHOWN IN TEST AT CITY OFFICE

The condition of the water in Escanaba is exceptionally good for this time of the year, Dr. A. J. Carlson, city health officer, reported yesterday after repeated tests in the past few days.

Because of ice covering the bay, which presents the good effect of sunlight and air, the water is not generally up to the standard during this season.

The queer taste of the water in the past several days has been occasioned by the flow of refuse from the chemical plant into the bay.

Red Cross in Russia Proves a Big Benefit

A dispatch dated January 22nd, from Sorok, North Russia, tells of the arrival there of the American Red Cross Mission from Archangel, 320 miles away.

It is stated that the peasants in many of the remote hamlets visited had never seen a doctor and were entirely destitute of medicine of any kind.

Arrangements were made in a number of cases to have patients transported by sled, to the Red Cross hospital at Archangel.

This work has been going on for some time, but new force is being given the work since the starting up of labor trouble and other agitation.

Melting Pot of Ages Is the Paris of Today

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE.

Paris, Jan. 8 (by Mail, delayed).—A delightful comedy occurred near noon today on the Champs-Elysees when all the broad, beautiful avenue was roaring with traffic. And in this incident lay the suggestion for this story.

A long string of British camions, splashed with chalk mud of the battle line, was grumbling and snorting up the avenue. In its midst a most monstrous appearing thing of canvas, for all the world like a magnified shoe box on wheels. The mystery was only twenty feet long, ten feet high and broad in proportion. And as it trundled, trailing after a camion, its canvas sides waved and quivered, but did not part to reveal what might be hidden within.

Driver Brings Aid. Suddenly, without warning, one of the tires neatly detached itself from the off hind wheel, rolled lazily out into the midst of traffic and nearly wrecked a speeding taxicab. There was a shout from the Cockney driver of the following camion and the crippled mystery finally came to a halt, tilted rakishly at an angle. Several camion drivers clambered down from their high perches and for many minutes there was a chorus of high, whining curses in the curious English nose-buging manner. Of course a crowd gathered, and one Paris gamin, more daring than the rest, managed to pry apart the rear curtain and peek in. He shrilled his surprise.

What the Gamin Saw. Well he might. The wrecked monster was a British army traveling theatre—stage, row of footlights, curtain and wings complete. Such a contraption as used to wander from rest camp to rest camp behind the British lines and serve as a medium for the demonstration of amateur soldier talent and, incidentally, as a blessed distraction for battle-weary men. For all its cumbersome, the thing was neatly put together and complete, even to the storage battery for lighting the stage.

Here was the added element of the grotesque in the incident. Not twenty feet away from where the traveling theatre was temporarily wrecked, a Punch and Judy show was going full blast; to the delight of scores of children seated on rough benches before the classic stage.

Motor Theatre. While mechanics tinkered with the errant tire, a dozen or so Tommies from the other camions strolled over to enjoy the antics of a French Mr. Punch. They laughed as loudly as the youngsters when Punch clipped the Kaiser over the head with his truncheon.

I wondered for a minute why this drama of Mr. Punch nearby should and the performance of the age-old conjunction of circumstances—the breakdown of the traveling theatre strike me somehow as significant, and then I knew. Here was the latest thing in theatres—motor drawn, electric lighted, collapsible scenery and all—come to grief before the single survival of the oldest of all drama forms. In Paris the very old and the very modern were met on the same street.

Melting Pot of Ages. Yes, this incident was indeed typical of Paris of the moment when from the East have come representatives of the old, old order of things—of the world that ceased to exist five hundred years ago—to meet the younger, eager, daring West in settlement of the greatest agony ever visited upon earth. Paris awaiting the opening of the Peace Conference is like some great crossroads where all paths meet and all manner of wayfarers find themselves brought together in a strange company. Never before have the Old East and the New West found themselves in such a remarkable conclave.

This morning up near the Arc de Triomphe, where the great sweep of the Elysees spreads itself into the Etoile, five Indian Sikhs, each wearing a full British officer's uniform but retaining the great watchings of the turban on his head, stopped to ask direction of the French gendarme there. They spoke pure English. The gendarme answered in French, which the Indians could not understand. A Portuguese captain was no more understandable. The Sikhs looked around for assistance.

Up stepped a ruddy faced, stocky little corporal with the maple leaf of Canada on his cap, saluted stiffly his five dark skinned superiors, chattered voluble French for a minute, with the gendarme and then told the Sikhs just how to reach their destination in speech that was true American.

East and West Smoke. Another instance of this fraternal touch between East and West: Yesterday I went to a moving picture theatre. In the row before me sat three Spahis—those big, fierce looking Arabs with their white burnouses about their shoulders who have played such a valorous part in the French army. On the same row of seats with them were two American Doughboys. Said one of the two Americans to his pal:

"These poor ginneys next to me are smoking the leavin's from a breakfast food factory. Gee, but the small is fierce!"

"Well, loosen up," challenged the other. "Hand 'em over a 'Hump'." The first Doughboy dug down under his blouse and pulled out a package of the army's favorite smoke; this he passed to the nearest Spahi. "Feed yourself a real smoke, amigo," he belted in the manner all Americans assume when trying to speak to a foreigner, "and don't forget your little friend, Shoky Joe and Mike the Bije, next door."

The big man from the desert looked surprised for an instant, but he could not misunderstand the proffered package of precious American cigarettes. He took the packet, made a salaaming movement with his right hand and grinned so that his rows of shining white teeth flashed through his curly beard. Thereafter five "Humps" instead of only two were clouding the surface of the silver screen.

Babel of Tongues. Enter any of the boulevard cafes or popular—and tremendously high priced—restaurants when all Paris is at its dinner after 7 o'clock, and there you'll find the journeymen workers from the Babel monument enjoying their ease.

The predominating sartorial tone is military to be sure, for technically war still exists and Paris is filled with soldiers. Here is a group of Polish officers in their horizon blue, patterned after the French, but with the distinguishing caps resembling the square mortarboard of collegiate dignity. Next table to them is occupied by Serbs, whose rough brown uniform is relieved at collar and sleeves by rank markings of brilliant silver thread patterned closely after the German insignia. Perhaps a group of Belgians is nearby; their non-commissioned officers wear the strangely double-peaked cap with the dangling tassel long over the eyes. Italians, Portuguese, Roumanians, Turcos, men from the Foreign Legation and, yes, coal-black Senegalese soldiers, all are mingled in the cafes.

Sleek as Diving Seals. Sleek Chinese gentlemen with oily black hair brushed back so flat their heads look like those of diving seals pore over the menus and give their orders in crippled French. Dapper Japanese who are here in advance of their delegates take their after-dinner cigarettes in jeweled holders four inches long. British officers from South Africa, from Australia and New Zealand each with his distinguishing divisional patch of outlandishly designed cloth on his right shoulder, sip from tall glasses of prized whiskey and soda.

Then out of the babel of voices leaps clear as a bugle call some racy bit of Americaneese: "I told that stiff of an Adjutant just where he got off, and not a come-back!"

Sharks There? Of Course. Just as at a circus or county fair back home, all the sure-thing boys and shot-card men gather to take in sucker coin, so at this greatest show in the world a number of international confidence men have flocked to see if there's any pickings. Of course we Americans outside the Secret Service do not know these notorious personages but the clever Paris Surte does, and from time to time appear little paragraphs in the French press telling how this outlawed banker and that shady confidential agent had been asked to leave town.

Only last week a man who was once on every front page in the world's press was told that it would be "advantageous" for him not to remain in Paris. He had been too friendly with the Germans after the Kerensky revolution.

Daily the sad pilgrimage of late comers courses the boulevards and streets of the capital, each pilgrim staggering under the weight of handbags, umbrella and shawl roll. Alas for those who have delayed their arrival! Hotels, pensions and even private houses are jammed to the limit of capacity. As William Allen White famous editor of the Emporia Gazette, sadly remarked today: "It's hell to be a fat man. Twenty years ago I could have fitted comfortably into a bureau drawer. Now I have to have a bed, and I don't know how my paper's circulation is going to stand up under the price of beds."

EXPRESSMEN TO STUDY METHODS TO HELP WORK

The nation-wide campaign inaugurated by the American Railway Express shipments, began today with methods of packing and marking express shipments, began today with the first of a series of meetings of express employes to be held in this city during the month of the drive.

At convenient periods throughout the day, Agent Lawrence, called together groups of his co-workers and urged them to put their full force behind the comprehensive campaign now under way and to work with shippers in accomplishing decisive results in bettering the express service.

Speakers Address Men. Vehicle men, depot platform and claim bureau and office employes were each addressed by the agent of his "Four Minute Men," who made stirring appeals. The speakers told the express worker that they, individually and collectively, could give valuable aid in the campaign by bringing their work up to the highest standards. There is room for improvement everywhere, they stated. Owing to conditions brought about by the war, they admitted, the express service had not been as good as the company had expected to make it. But with these obstacles removed and every expressman doing his part the way has been cleared for a very marked change for the better.

Co-operation Urged. In urging the men to seek the co-operation of shippers in the drive, the agent brought to the attention of the drivers the necessity of giving them all the aid possible in bringing their packing and marking methods up to the required standard. It was acknowledged that the manner of packing and marking varies with the commodities, but the question of whether a shipment is in proper condition for handling to destination safely must be left to the good judgment of the driver who has been thoroughly instructed on the rules and regulations.

Committee Named. After the "Four Minute" speeches, Agent Lawrence, announced the appointment of a Better Service Campaign Committee, made up of the following, R. MacDonald, J. E. Kreas, C. Johnson and M. L. Lawrence, representing each branch of the local organization. He requested the men selected to keep watch on the conditions of business as it passed thru the terminals and to call personally on shippers whose consignments needed attention.

"No Mark" Problem. One of the most serious problems that the express company has to face is that of "No Mark" express matter, the agent stated. These are shipments which, because of their inadequate packing or marking, lose all trace of identification, either of the shipper or the consignee, and must be sent to "No Mark Bureau" where an effort is made to put them

UBERCULOSIS CENSUS MAY BE TAKEN SHORTLY

Ann Arbor, Feb. 15.—The holding of a tuberculosis census throughout Michigan is suggested by Dr. William De Kleen, president of the Michigan Anti-Tuberculosis Association, as one other means of curbing the disease in this state. The suggestion is made in connection with the plans that are now being made by the United States government for the taking of the federal census next year.

2,100 Homes in Doubt.
"Recently in Detroit," he declared, "Dr. Herbert M. Rich found that there are in that city 2,100 homes in which there is a member of the family afflicted with tuberculosis. That fact called the matter to my attention. It would not only be interesting to know how many such homes there are in every county and city in Michigan, but it would be of a highly practical value. If it were merely interesting it would not be worth making the suggestion; but a case of tuberculosis known is a case of tuberculosis half conquered. Under present conditions it would be impossible to hold a TBC census that would in any way be complete. The state is not well enough organized to take a census. There is no machinery in existence for taking it. But the cities of the state could at least make a considerable attempt at it. The cities that have health departments could list their tuberculosis homes, and in that way much information would be gained for the use of the Michigan anti-tuberculosis association and for the use of the local anti-tuberculosis societies."

Government May Help.
The ideal way of course would be to have the United States government make it a part of its federal census. There seems no reason why such information not only in regard to tuberculosis but in regard to important other diseases such as venereal diseases for instance, should not be listed by the census department. It would be of immense practical value to the cause of public health. Of course it would necessitate employing medical experts as census takers for at least this branch of the census, but that would not be revolutionary. Many kinds of reports are employed in taking federal censuses to gather information in regard to industrial conditions, and there is no reason why medical reports should not be placed on the same plane. But even if this would be considered too much, the task, each city could do for itself. A book, with great benefit to the state.

C. A. STRANGE GIVEN SENDOFF IN CAMP PAPER

How C. A. Strange, manual training instructor in the Escanaba High school until he enlisted in the army in the spring of 1918, designed the large auditorium at Camp Holabird, Md., and superintended its construction, is told in the following article from the Holabird Spark, camp newspaper. A photograph of Strange, now a sergeant, is inserted in the article.

"The vast amount of credit due the various men who have helped to make the Auditorium cannot be recalled until the full workings of the plant are known and the functions of these modest superintendents have filled. Of course the major share of glory goes to the founder, but to those lesser known who have done their share just as meritoriously, a word of credit should be given also."

Sergeant C. A. Strange is and has always been the leading working man. It was he who designed the big building and he labored unceasingly in it from the start, from mixing concrete and hauling lumber to supervising all the details of construction. Sergeant Strange's practical knowledge and stick-to-it-iveness have won for him the admiration and praise of those who know."

Oscar Kraus will return this morning from a trip to Chicago.

League Idea Helps Wall Street Stock

New York, Feb. 15.—The league of nations idea gave Wall street a buoyant market today under the leadership of oil stocks, but steel was not lagged. Motor shares, hides and leather, international paper and marine shares were strong. St. Paul went to the lowest price in many years. Cotton had an upward swing of about $5 a bale and corn was strong.

Misses Cora Villeneuve and Marge Beauchamp left Saturday for a visit at Foster City.

Talks About Japan.

"If you are shopping in Japan, learn to show a studied indifference in regard to the articles under your inspection. The Japanese are great mind readers but if you exhibit a marked lack of interest in their wares, they'll soon come from five dollars down to fifty cents." This is one of the many interesting insights on Japanese life, given by Mrs. J. W. Wells of Menominee in her address before the Escanaba Women's Club Saturday afternoon at the Delta hotel.

Mrs. Wells, who has traveled extensively through Japan, gave in her talk yesterday, a number of interesting incidents and novel experiences based on her trip through the country. She outlined her trip from the boat, her experiences keeping house in Japan, journeys to various points of interest, including the imperial cherry trees, the Japanese theatres and movie houses, and what is known in America as "The Red Light District," near Tokio.

Throughout her address she brought in the characteristics and queer customs of the people and contrasted them with American and English customs. A number of beautiful curios, including both the Chinese and Japanese kimonos, parasols, rice shoes, as well as a collection of photos, were shown by Mrs. Wells and used as illustrations of her descriptions.

Following the address tea was served. The meeting yesterday was largely attended and was highly successful. The next special feature meeting of the club will be held Feb. 26.

If Lincoln Lived Today

Again would he speak those now famous words:

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in."

This is the spirit which America has taken across the seas to the battle-field and to the conferences around the peace table.

As evidenced by Lincoln's words and deeds, it saved America in the days after the Civil War.

This same spirit in triumph will save the shattered world today.

Last of Tunnelers Returned to Jail

Jackson—With the arrest of three men charged with escaping from the Michigan state prison at Jackson a month ago by the tunnel route, the last of the 12 men have been captured. The men are: Anthony Kolodczak, 22 years old, alias Frank Wipple, said to be the ringleader; Leo Schmielski, 24 years old, alias Leo Merz; and John Orduksi, alias John Daski. Detectives Frank Rhoad and Frank Dlasak made the arrests at Gratiot avenue and Dequindre street.

Kolodczak was caught after a short chase, and while being taken to the station boasted that he would never have been caught if he had carried his pistol. The same officers had arrested him for the offense for which he had served two years. "I won't be in jail six months from now" Kolodczak told the officers. "They can't keep me in." Descriptions of the three men tally closely with that of a trio held responsible for a series of holdups during the last few weeks.

WAUSAUKEE—Mrs. L. M. Fehl, discovered a stranger looting her wood pile, and when she appeared the man fled, $5 falling from his pocket as he ran.

KALAMAZOO—A proposed ordinance licensing city dance halls, was considered at a special meeting of city department heads. Action was deferred until next week.
