

CZAR'S JEWELS IN BROOKLYN GRAVE?

FRENCH OFFER ON WAR DEBTS MISSES TARGET

AMERICA WILL NOT CONSIDER PARIS PLAN.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright, 1922, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Jan. 4.—The reaction here to the cabled accounts of the Premiers Conference in Paris is that the expected has happened and that France under the guise of an attempt to make Germany pay the maximum is really trying to cut down her war debt to Great Britain and the United States.

Such a plan will not succeed so far as the United States is concerned. For many weeks the proposal has been anticipated. President Harding and Secretary Hughes have made it plain through diplomatic channels and publicly through the press that what Germany shall pay the allies and what Great Britain and France owe the United States are two separate and distinct things.

Proposal Absurd. France's suggestion that the 32 billions dollars of indemnity fixed by the London conference a year ago as the amount Germany should pay ought to be reduced to twelve billion dollars with the understanding that the bonds for the remaining twenty billion shall be used to cancel French indebtedness to the United States and Great Britain is looked upon here as bordering on the absurd.

The capacity of Germany to pay" says Mr. Hughes "is not at all affected by any indebtedness of any of the allies to us. That indebtedness does not diminish Germany's capacity and its removal would not increase her capacity.

For example if France had been able to finance her part in the war without borrowing at all from us, that is, by taxation and internal loans, the problem of what Germany could pay would be exactly the same. Moreover, so far as the debtors to the United States are concerned, they have unsettled credit balances, and their condition and capacity to pay cannot be properly determined until the amount that can be realized on these credits for reparations has been determined.

Hughes Answers One. In other words, Mr. Hughes has already answered the French proposal. His remarks at New Haven last Friday night are a special statement of the American government's position. What Germany can pay is an indeterminate thing and would be no matter whether the allies had any debts of their own to pay. If Germany can pay more than the first estimate, the United States wants Germany to be required to pay that sum. But if, as now contended by Great Britain and the experts of all countries but France, the Germans can pay only twelve billion dollars in a period of thirty years, then the other twenty billion dollars of bonds are just so much worthless paper and constitute a drain on Germany's credit position and tend to weigh down the value of the twelve billion dollars of bonds.

Bonds Worthless. France is in effect asking the United States to accept twenty billion dollar bonds which are admitted by most of the allied nations to be worthless in exchange for five billion dollars of indebtedness to Great Britain and approximately three billion to the United States.

At the view here is that there is no relationship between an uncollectible debt on the one hand and a perfectly valid debt on the other which France can pay. Nobody has said France cannot pay the amount owed. It is the French have called these debts to America and Britain "political debts" and have made no provision in their annual budget either for interest of sinking fund as the British have done in the case of their debt to America. On the other hand, if 12 billion dollars of reparations is assured to the allies, France will get most of it and her capacity will rise in value and her capacity to pay her own debts abroad will be correspondingly increased.

Questions Confused. That's why there is an unwillingness here to confuse the two questions. The belief prevails that the settlement of the reparations question should, come first and that when it is accomplished there will be an immediate effect on the credit situation of the whole world and particularly on the capacity of both France and Great Britain to pay their debts and make purchases abroad.

Some Frenchmen believe it to be to their interest to force Germany to pay by taking possession of her resources. Great Britain

Morehouse Breathless As Open Hearings Approach

LONDON STANDS ALONE AGAINST POINCARÉ PLAN

Refuses to Consent to Drastic Collection Measures.

Paris, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The alliance between France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium fell apart today over the treatment of German reparations. The Latin powers, France, Italy and Belgium, remain loosely grouped together on that subject, while England, although separating from them, expects to cooperate especially with France on other questions.

Mussolini Tips Scale. Premier Mussolini turned the scale decisively against the British plan. The Italian delegation had reserved their final declaration until today, and this morning it appeared that they were inclined to support Mr. Bonar Law's proposal with slight modifications. A telegram received from Rome just before the conference opened instructed them to vote for the French plan, as against the British, in case they should find it useless to push their own plan. This strengthened France and Belgium and Great Britain stood alone.

Poincaré Not Elated. M. Poincaré is not elated to-night over his success; he is described as in a sober mood, conscious of great anxieties and difficulties ahead. He will proceed warily and will report to the French parliament on its reassembly next Thursday. In the meantime the reparations commission will meet on Tuesday to pass upon coal deliveries and also upon Germany's request for a moratorium.

AWAIT FOREIGN MOVE.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The dissolution at Paris of the conference of allied leaders was regarded here as bringing the reparations crisis measurably near the point touched upon by Secretary Hughes in his recent New Haven speech. Although the allied statesmen have failed to agree among themselves there still stands before them an alternative to attempted forcible collection in Germany, pointed out by Mr. Hughes.

There was no word available in official quarters today to indicate that any further initiative was to be expected at this time from the Washington government. The only authorized comment on the situation was a statement at the state department that Mr. Hughes' suggestion was put forward to "leave several doors open" to the premiers in the event of an emergency.

Paris Must Move First.

Presumably word will come from Paris if the French government sees hope in the American suggestion that not alone the question of the amount Germany can pay but also the method of payment be referred for advisory recommendations to an international commission of financial authorities unhampered by political concerns or obligations. Mr. Hughes has already indicated that American financiers would serve on such a commission with the sanction of the government if they were invited.

There is still believed to be time for a decision abroad to examine the possibilities of the American suggestion before France can move to carry out the program outlined to the council by Premier Poincaré and rejected by the British prime minister.

Steps Await Expiration.

The present moratorium does not expire until January 16, and dispatch of a French civil commission into the Ruhr valley and other steps toward forcible collections included in the French plan, it is felt, cannot well be taken in advance of that date and formal announcement of Germany's failure to make required payments within the time limits.

London Paper Says "Dave" Is Engaged

London, Jan. 4.—The Daily News today says the engagement of the Prince of Wales to the daughter of a well known Scottish peer will be announced within the next two or three months. It was this newspaper which several days ago published the report that the Prince of Wales would soon be betrothed to a Italian princess a report which met with official denial.

The Daily News does not give the name of the peer but says he is an earl whose title dates to the 17th century, the founder of this line having been ennobled in the 16th century by the gift of a Scottish barony, and thus his family is one of the oldest in the peerage now.

TAX REVISION IS ADVOCATED BY GOVERNOR

MESSAGE DELIVERED TO LEGISLATURE YESTERDAY.

Lansing, Jan. 4.—Resignation of Attorney General Merie Wiley was announced tonight and Governor Grosbeck declared the name of Andrew B. Daugherty, first deputy under Mr. Wiley would be sent to the senate for confirmation tomorrow as the new head of the state's legal department. Mr. Wiley's resignation is effective immediately.

He plans to enter a Detroit law firm. The resignation had been expected for several weeks.

Lansing, Jan. 4.—Generally favorable comment was heard in legislative circles tonight on the message of Governor Grosbeck, read before a joint session in the house chamber this afternoon. The executive covered a wide range of subjects, many of which already had been discussed and publicly endorsed by numerous state political leaders.

Continuation of the highway program, establishment of a definite fiscal program, and revision of taxation laws to increase specific taxes and afford a measure of relief for property holders, were among the governor's suggestions that appeared to find popular favor.

Wants More Powers.

The governor's reference to the centralized state government was generally taken to mean he favored some extinction of the powers of the administration board, which he declared, had operated to the benefit of the state. No mention was made in this respect of a desire for elimination or consolidation of existing state departments although such a plan probably will be advanced during the session.

State institutions, the governor asserted, should not be neglected, but he indicated a feeling that they should be patient with their elaborate building program with the necessarily large appropriation and give the state a "breathing spell."

The building of two new prisons, one to replace Jackson prison, abandonment of which he recommended and another institution at Okemos, exclusively for women, to cost $200,000 was recommended.

Civil Service, Eight Hours.

Civil service and an eight hour day for state employees, provision of the corrupt practice act, regulation of motor truck and bus lines, state control of private banks, more extensive supervision of fire insurance rates and bureaus and a sales tax on fish taken for commercial purposes from Michigan waters are other recommendations.

Laws to prohibit race track gambling, establishment of a state ferry at Mackinac, and a building of a hospital for crippled children were urged.

The governor recommended the Isle Royale be taken over by the state as a conservation measure.

The joint session was staged with the usual formalities. The supreme court judges and state officers were guests of honor. In regular session, a few bills were introduced in each house after which adjournment was taken until eight o'clock Monday evening.

Completing Junkets.

There were new evidences today that the present session will cover much more ground than its predecessors, leaders in both branches indicating every effort would be directed toward obtaining speedy action on all matters.

The "junkets" are to be completed within a few days so that any appropriation measures may be handled intelligently but these inspection trips will be so timed that quorum will never be lacking in either house.

The first of next week probably will see some institutional appropriation bills ready for presentation to the respective committees.

Budget Director Henry Croll, expects that by midweek some of them will be started out, both by the house and the senate. Here tofore it has been as late as February before the ways and means committee chairman has completed the preliminary recommendations.

STATE FAILS TO START ITS DRAGNET GOING

Thirty-five Arrests Still Awaited in Klan Murder Case.

Bastrop, La., Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—"The open hearing" in the Morehouse kidnapping and murder cases began at the Parish courthouse tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Final preparations were completed by the state this afternoon in the proceedings by which an effort will be made to indict those persons believed to be responsible for the masked and robed actions on August 24, when two of the five men kidnapped were killed and their bodies cast into a lake.

Only one prisoner will face the bar at tomorrow's hearings, unless the state sets into motion its dragnet to scoop up 35 or 45 men believed by the authorities to be members of the mob.

State officials remained silent tonight as to when additional arrests will occur. It was understood they were in possession of a list of those implicated named by two men who were said to have confessed under the promise of immunity.

No Martial Law

Adjutant General Toombs failed to promulgate the martial law order he was said to have in his possession. He desired to put off such action as long as possible he said. However, it was known the slightest display of firearms would be met with military order.

Firearms are prevalent in both Mer Rouge and Bastrop in unprecedented quantities.

Mer Rouge citizens in particular are known to have armed themselves due to the strained feelings between the hostile factions.

Those nearing the courthouse tomorrow will be searched for firearms it was learned. The courthouse will be protected by two companies of state troops now camped in the court house and jail grounds.

Wholesale Subpoenas

Wholesale subpoenas were in preparation today for the summoning of witnesses for the hearing. In addition to those summoned all persons are privileged to enter the court of justice and asked to be permitted to testify. It was believed there would be more than 100 witnesses including many women. The witnesses will be sworn, examined by the district attorney but not cross-examined and the testimony taken down in shorthand. The hearing will be before the district judge.

At the conclusion of the state, if it thinks the evidence justifies will ask for a grand jury to return their indictments.

DRY ATLANTIC DEBATE ENDS

Washington, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Oral arguments in the cases involving the question whether foreign ships are prohibited by the 18th amendment and the enforcement act from bringing intoxicating liquors into the United States in their sea stores was concluded in the supreme court today.

Solicitor General Beck in behalf of the government, urged the court to construe the amendment and the enforcement act as prohibiting the possession, transportation of intoxicating liquors in all cases except where congress specifically provided that exceptions should be made, adding that he had not done so with reference to sea stores.

Former Attorney General George W. Wickersham counsel for the foreign steamship companies, contended that the constitutional amendment and the enforcement act should be interpreted with regards to the comity among nations and that since congress had not legislated on the subject of intoxicating liquors as a part of the sea stores, the bringing of such liquors into the ports of the United States did no constitute either "possession or transportation" as forbidden by the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act.

Lady Astor Ordered to Take Long Rest

Plymouth, England, Jan. 4.—Lady Astor has been ordered by her physician to take a complete rest with a change of scenery and is planning to go aboard for a month to recuperate. She has cancelled all her engagements here.

"I've Been Coued" writes Bronner; Tells About It In Series Of Articles

BY MILTON BRONNER. NEA Staff Correspondent. Nancy, France, Jan. 3.—I've been Coued!

Which rendered into every-day English means that, supposedly being ill with a nervous breakdown, I have come to the famous autosuggestion clinics held by Monsieur Emil Coue and have been taught that—Every day, in every way, I am getting better and better!

Coue himself is a bit over 60, with fresh pink complexion and silvery gray hair, mustache and beard. His dark eyes twinkle with good humor, with tolerance, with comprehension, and with physical mental and moral well being.

Years ago he was a pharmacist. Then he evolved his theories of how to help us heal ourselves of many ills. He retired from his pharmacy and has been freely spending himself on the new work ever since.

Here in Nancy—except when traveling—on Mondays and Fridays he has an open house for his comers, natives and foreigners.

On these days he has two clinics in the morning and two in the afternoon. So that for six solid hours he is on his feet, talking, demonstrating, inculcating his principles, and preaching a doctrine of hope.

There is No Formality.

There is in his clinics neither the formality of a new religion, nor of the old practice of medicine.

Coué Likes Informality.

Take my own case. I simply "barged" in on Monsieur Coue. Most people do. He is used to it. He likes it. He encourages it.

I took a taxi at the railway station and told the chauffeur to drive me to Monsieur Coue, 156 Rue Jeanne d'Arc.

The driver knew the place well. He is always taking Americans and Britons there.

Arrived at Monsieur Coue's residence, a simple two-story ce-

LEGISLATIVE HOPPERS FULL

BILLS POUR INTO BOTH HOUSES AT LANSING.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 4.—Two bills of major importance were among those introduced in the house today. They proposed the corporation tax law, and the corrupt practices act. The first is designed to provide for a more equitable distribution of the corporation fee, by fixing the rate at one mill per dollar of capital stock while the second would prohibit the assistance of voters at the polls and have the effect of depriving illiterate persons of suffrage.

In the senate, bills to require licenses for stationary engineers, give married woman equal contract rights, and make it a misdemeanor for any persons to interrupt a religious service or ridicule a clergyman or other church dignitary, were offered by Senator Condon, of Detroit.

One Mill Per Dollar.

Rep. Corliss of Detroit presented the corporation tax bill in the house. It provides for the removal of the $10,000 limit imposed upon any one corporation and Six Persons Slain In Race Outbreak at Rosewood, Fla.

BULLETIN. Gainesville, Fla., Jan. 4.—Three white men and three negroes are dead and a number of whites and blacks injured as a result of an outbreak at Rosewood, three miles from Sumner, Levy county, late today, and early tonight, according to reports received here late tonight by telephone from Cedar Key.

The report added that the population of Cedar Key was aroused and that many armed men from there were planning to go to Rosewood. The Gainesville Sun was requested to ask Sheriff Ramsey of this, Alachua county, to go to the scene with as many men as possible as it was feared the situation, apparently already beyond control of the Levy county authorities, would grow worse.

BRITISH DEBT JUGGLERS END LONG JOURNEY

Baldwin Mission Ready to Talk Business at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The British debt commission, headed by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and Montague C. Norman, governor of the bank of England, arrived in Washington tonight prepared to take up with the American debt commission the subject of funding Great Britain's war debt of more than four billion dollars.

Members of the American commission said today they were ready to enter into negotiations but would have no profers to make beyond the limitations established by law.

They have no information, they declared, as to the British proposal, and declined to discuss in advance of the receipt of the reported British plans. The denial was made today by treasury officials of any thought being given to change in the debt funding act to give the American commission more latitude in the negotiations. Some other members of the commission, however, including Secretary Hughes and Rep. Burton, republican, Ohio, have taken the view that certain changes would be made.

It was believed formal discussion of the funding question would be delayed until early next week.

No Official Statements.

Although there were no official statements on the subject, and American commissioners declared they had not intimation of the British program, reports persisted that the first step by the foreign delegation would be to attempt to establish to the satisfaction of the Americans the approximate annual amount that Great Britain can pay. The British delegation was declared to feel that without first reaching such a basis for calculation, the negotiations might be thoroughly expected to come to naught.

Fifth treasury officials on the other hand said today that they expected to see an early settlement of the British debt question and indicated the belief that no serious difficulties would arise.

24 DEAD IN KELSO CRASH

Missing List Reduced to 22 with Two More Fatalities.

Kelso, Wash., Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The list of persons known to be missing as a result of yesterday's bridge collapse here was increased to 22 tonight with the addition of five new names, thus bringing the total of dead and missing who are believed certainly to be dead to 24.

Two men died today of injuries received in the crash.

C. E. Andrews, state bridge engineer, today began an investigation of the causes of the collapse, though he said the bridge was under the jurisdiction of the county and not the state.

"The bridge during the past six months has carried 20 times its normal traffic," said Mr. Andrews. "The old four inch plank with which the floor was covered wore down some time ago and another layer of planks three inches thick was added. The rains have soaked the boards through the weight of the bridge."

Diver Begins Work.

"It was such an old structure which from causes yet to be determined gave way when the last straw was placed upon it."

A diver this afternoon began searching the bottom of the river for bodies. The river also was being dragged.

CROWN GEMS OF RUSSIA BURIED WITH A SEAMAN

TREASURY STARTS INVESTIGATION OF REPORT.

New York, Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—William B. Williams, special agent of the United States treasury department, today confirmed reports that he expected to find $4,000,000 worth of Russian crown jewels in a Brooklyn cemetery to the extent of admitting that he was working on a "Russian jewel case and that his search might lead him to open a grave."

Beyond this he would make no comment on a copyrighted article appearing in the Chicago Daily News which stated that secret service agents planned to examine the grave of James Jones, an American seaman in the National cemetery in Brooklyn in examination of a report that some of the royal Russian jewels had been smuggled into this country in 1920 in Jones' coffin.

IN SEAMAN'S GRAVE.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4.—Four or five million dollars worth of the crown jewels of the Russian czars are buried in the grave of James Jones, an American seaman, in the national cemetery at Cypress Hills, Brooklyn, according to a copyright story published today by the Chicago Daily News.

The jewels, The News says, were smuggled into the country by a band of New York men who obtained them in Vladivostok in 1920. Enroute to America, one of the conspirators, the story says, decided to doublecross his fellows, and hid the jewels in seven packages in the lining of the coffin of Jones, who had died aboard the ship.

Ask Grave Inspection.

The body was buried, the story says, before he had a chance to recover the packet and as the cemetery is under guard of soldiers at all times they are presumably hidden in the grave. The News says William B. Williams, chief of the New York office of the department of justice and custom officials will ask Judge Hand for an order to open the grave.

Federal officials, the story continued, have been working on the case for two years. They eventually unearthed records which filed it with anonymous tips received by the department and by the former imperial Russian ambassador, telling of the smuggling plot. These records show that the shipping-board steamer Edelyna, at that time in the army transport service, sailed from New York Jan. 17, 1920, and reached Vladivostok in May, leaving June 1, for New York by way of Gibraltar.

James Dies At Sea.

A short distance out of Gibraltar, the seaman, Jones, died on board and his body was embalmed and brought to this country, eventually being buried September 23, in the Brooklyn cemetery. All these details correspond to the information furnished in the anonymous letter, which purported to come from two members of the band who were doublecrossed.

The records also show that three members of the transport crew deserted at Yokohama. The letters say members of the band who had shipped in the crew to reach Siberia and get the jewels were forced to desert ships and proceed by another route because the transport had been delayed and would not reach the Siberian port in time for them to keep their appointment with the persons who had the gems in their possession.

At the department of justice offices here agents admitted they knew of the investigation and that the News story coincided with their information, but they said the case was in the hands of the treasury department secret service and Williams in New York.

John A. Doelle Resigns Position

Lansing, Jan. 4.—John A. Doelle, commissioner of the state department of agriculture, tonight announced his resignation, effective Feb. 1. Mr. Doelle is to become associated with a banking concern at Minneapolis.

The names of William P. Hartman, of the bureau of foods; L. Whitney Watkins, member of the board of agriculture, and August Carton, of the agricultural department, have been mentioned in the speculation as to Mr. Doelle's successor.

Coast Guard Waits Reported Arrival of Cleve Bergdoll

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 4.—The coast guard cutter Modoc is anchored off Carolina shipyards awaiting dawn to put to sea to "intercept a German ship" on which Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, alleged draft evader, is reported to be enroute to this port, it was officially announced. Aboard the Modoc is J. C. Meekins, Jr., of the department of justice.

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 4.—A woman, on whose person was found letters addressed to Mrs. Ben Meyers, Oklahoma City, was shot and instantly killed on the Dallas-Fort Worth Pike, one mile north of Arlington at 8 o'clock tonight. The assailant escaped through the woods abandoning the car in which he and his victim had driven to the spot of the killing from Arlington.

A WALL FROM POINT TO DOCK WILL BE ASKED

of C. Committee to Draft Brief for U. S. Engineer.

Extending from Sand Point to the end of the municipal dock, a breakwater for the protection of the dock, and to form a basin for the accommodation of small craft will be requested of Major F. S. Skinner, district engineer, at the hearing to be held in the city hall January 12.

MINE GUARDS STARTED RIOT

Marion, Ill., Jan. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Declaring that the first shot fired in the Herrin riots were poured from a hidden machine gun from the "strip" mine where the trouble started upon a peaceable crowd approaching the pit, witnesses at the trial of five men charged with murder today slowly unfolded the defense versions of the tragedy which cost the lives of three union miners and twenty non-union workers.

The armed guard stationed at the mine when it was reopened during the coal miners strike last June were pictured by witnesses as dominating and arrogant in their attitude toward persons approaching the mine and swaggered about armed with high powered rifles, steel jacketed bullets by the basketful, hundreds of deadly hand grenades, pistols and a machine gun.

MINE PARLEYS FALLING DOWN

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Failure to find any common ground upon which to base future negotiations for working rules and wages loomed as a distinct probability here tonight as the conference of operators and miners of 15 bituminous district adjourned after two days in which no real progress has been made.

With the failure of a special joint committee of twelve operators and miners, appointed to consider the operators proposal of district or group settlement, to agree, the conference will resume tomorrow at 11 a. m., probably the last day of the session, no nearer the object of its meeting than when it opened in Cleveland in October, 1922.

The proposal made by the operators that each district be made a separate wage scale making body with the privilege of grouping with any other district or districts as might be agreed upon, was rejected in committee by the miners on the ground that this matter had been fought out and settled in the strike.

"Irish Communist" Movement Reported

New York, Jan. 4.—Strange telephone messages giving information, it was said, "of an Irish communist movement" in New York were received here today by Lindsay Crawford, Irish free state counsel and communicated by him to the department of justice. Mr. Crawford has been based in his office for more than a week by Irish republican sympathizers. Crawford was understood to have told the department of justice agents sent to interview him that an Irish republican leader with a reputation for communistic activities in Germany after the war was organizing men in New York for an organization to work against the Free State government in Ireland.

CARLSON BUYS OLD OFFICE ON LUDINGTON ST. Will Use It As Center of Auto Camp Site

Sale of the former Standard Oil Co. filling station at the foot of Ludington street to C. A. Carlson was announced yesterday by O. I. Bandoen, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Carlson proposes to remove the building to a location at Fourteenth street and the state road, where he will serve refreshments to motor tourists stopping at a camp site which he proposes to open nearby.

FRENCH OFFER ON WAR DEBTS MISSES TARGET

publicly condemns such a proposal and the United States is standing squarely with the British on that question. Mr. Hughes position is recorded thus: "We have no desire to see Germany relieved of her responsibility for the war or of her just obligations to make reparation for the injuries due to her aggression. There is not the slightest desire that France shall lose any part of her just claims. On the other hand, we do not wish to see a prostrate Germany. There can be no economic recuperation in Europe unless Germany recovers. There will be no permanent peace unless economic satisfactions are enjoyed. There must be hope and industry must have promise of reward if there is to be prosperity. We should view with disfavor measures which instead of producing reparations would threaten disaster."

Will France defy America and Great Britain and go it alone? The confident expectation here is that she will not and that at the last minute France will make a satisfactory compromise.

WORK ON DOCK STARTS TODAY; SAVE MATERIAL

Lumber from Warehouse Will be Used on Old Fire Hall Site.

Demolition of the storehouse on the Stephenson dock—now the municipal dock—will start this morning at the hands of a crew of six men and a foreman. As fast as the building is torn down, the material will be hauled across the ice to the site of the old fire hall at the foot of Fourth street where it will probably be used next spring in the construction of a warehouse for city equipment.

When the building is razed, the platform will be removed, and the piles sawed off to a height of about a foot above the water level. Timbers, 10 by 12 inches, will be laid across the tops of the piles, and 3 by 12 stringers across the timbers. More 10 by 12's will be used for sills, and the floor nailed to them. The piles below the water level are better than when put in, it is claimed, having been "seasoned" by the water. It is hoped to have this work completed in time so that, if desired, a cargo of coal can be unloaded early in the spring.

The alterations will be so made that at any future time the dock may be sheathed, concreted, and filled for greater strength and permanence.

OBITUARY

GEORGE OLSON. Final arrangements have been made for the funeral services which will be held for George Olson, young ex-service man who died Monday at the Powers Sanatorium.

The body lies in state at the Allo-Funeral Home, where the line of march will be formed Sunday afternoon at two o'clock for the military funeral, which will be held under the auspices of the American Legion, who will meet at the Legion Dugout at one-thirty sharp to form ranks to attend the funeral services.

A firing squad will be chosen from the ranks of the legionnaires, also a color bearer and guard. All ex-service men are requested to be at the Legion Dugout not later than one-thirty o'clock Sunday afternoon. After the cortege leaves the Allo-Funeral Home, services will be held at the Norwegian Lutheran church. Rev. L. B. Sateren, pastor of the congregation, will officiate. Full military rites will be carried out.

Interment will be in Lakeview cemetery.

DRONNER TELLS HOW IT FEELS TO BE "COUED"

was the famous American sculptor, Jo Davidson, making a clay model for a bronze bust of Coue, which is shortly to be exhibited in Paris.

He's Thrifty Smoker. Coue paid no more attention to them than he did to the humblest peasant in the room. He is totally without narrow self-consciousness. And here's one thing which will make a hit with American men: Coue rolls his own!

Frequently, while he is explaining his theory, or while he is speaking to various patients, he gets out a cigar and contentedly puffs away at it. And with true French thrift, he smokes it clear down to the butt.

On the other days of the week, except Sunday when he rests, Coue has one clinic a day for people who have come to Nancy from a distance.

From All Over World. In addition to the French peasants and middle class people who came from all over the Lorraine country, I saw Americans from New York and Connecticut, Britons, Canadians and one couple from South Africa.

The Americans were mainly sufferers from neurasthenia. The French peasants came to be helped in their sufferings from stomach troubles, eczema, rheumatism, neuritis, all other kinds of chronic ills.

Coue himself says that young persons, and especially women, are most susceptible to his treatment.

In the clinics I attended women were in the great majority and many of them were old.

Coue spots the newcomers at once. He has an excellent memory for faces and for the illnesses of the individuals.

Makes Simple Inquiry. He came over to me at once and I thought—"Now for it."

But he simply asked in his keenly, interested way what I was suffering from.

"Ah, bad nerves! Many of you Americans seem troubled that way. You will get better—and soon."

There were no other questions that day, so far as I was concerned. But I was now a full-fledged patient at a clinic and welcome to get all the good out of it that I could.

TOMORROW—Bronner tells of his first treatment by Coue.

Don't miss the dance at Eagles' hall Saturday night; you'll have a good time. Autos for Gladstone afterward.

ST. LOUIS IS DELEGATE TO LEGION MEET

Will Discuss U. P. Convention—Funeral Sunday

Harry St. Louis was appointed delegate from Cloverland Post, American Legion, at a meeting last night, to attend the meeting of representatives of the various upper peninsula posts which will be held here January 14, for the purpose of deciding whether or not the upper peninsula convention will be held in Escanaba next summer, or merged with the state convention in Ironwood. The entertainment committee will take care of the delegates while here.

Last night's meeting was a point one with the Auxiliary. Dancing and cards followed.

All service men are requested to turn out at the city hall promptly at 1:30 Sunday afternoon, in uniform if possible, to attend the funeral of the late George Olson, sergeant, man, which will be held from the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Schoolcraft Votes Land Clearing Fund

Schoolcraft is the first upper peninsula county to make a 1923 appropriation for land clearing work. "Larry" Livingston, land clearer extraordinary, announced last evening upon his arrival in Escanaba from Manistique, where he had appeared before the county board to ask an appropriation for the land clearing meetings, which are to be held within the next month or two, and the land clearing schools, which will take place during the coming summer. He is expected to present the matter at the meeting of the Delta county board next Thursday.

FERRY FIGURES SHOW INCREASE IN TOURISTS

Traffic Jumped from 700 in 1918 to 9,300 Last Year.

An increase in the volume of tourist traffic into upper Michigan, of from 700 cars, in 1918, to 9,326 cars ferried over the Straits of Mackinac during the season of 1922, is indicated in a letter received recently by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, from George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau.

The figures for each year during the period follow:

1918	700
1919	1600
1920	3472
1921	4731
1922	9326

Some conception of the increasing popularity of upper Michigan as a tourist objective is derived when it is considered that these figures refer only to the passenger automobiles ferried across the Straits of Mackinac, and that they do not refer in any way to any of the various other points of entry into upper Michigan—Watermeet, Ironwood, Menominee, Sault Ste. Marie, and other points. We have every reason to believe that next year will see even a more marked increase in the volume of tourist traffic into upper Michigan, declared George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Development Bureau in commenting on the above figures. "We must bear strictly in mind however," he added, "that with this increase there must necessarily be a corresponding improvement in our own facilities for accommodation."

More Facilities Needed.
"We must have more camp sites; more hotels, and—in some sections, better roads. We must do our full share if we are to bring our visitors back each year. Now the logical time to give these features every possible attention, for this region is just at the time coming into considerable prominence as a summer resort."

They will be back next year in increasing numbers. We must not turn them away from our hotels, for lack of rooms, nor from our cities, for lack of camp sites. Every community in the peninsula, located along the main routes of travel, should have a camp site established and equipped next year.

SILENCED HIM.
"If you find yourself getting riled," remarked Congressman Adam Dyant, of Pennsylvania, "it is time to begin to emulate the example of a wealthy old farmer in my state. He was noted for years as an old miser, but was converted during protracted meeting. Shortly afterward, a poor man who had been burned out and had nothing for his family to eat came to him for help. The farmer thought he would be liberal and give the man a ham from his smoke-house. On his way to get it the tempter whispered to him:

"Give him the smallest one you have."
He had a struggle with himself as to whether he should give him a large or a small ham, but finally he took down the largest one he could find.
"You are a fool," the devil whispered to him.
"If you don't keep your darned mouth shut," the farmer snarled at him, "I will give him every blasted ham I have in the smoke-house!"

"HOWDY."
While discussing the various ways of saying "Howdy Do," Dan Reed, congressman from Dunkirk, N. Y., gave these varieties:
"How do you do?" That's American.
"How do you find yourself?" That's French.
"How do you stand?" That's Italian.
"How do you fare?" That's Dutch.
"How can you?" That's Swedish.
"How do you perspire?" That's Egyptian.
"How is your stomach?" That's Chinese.
"How do you have yourself?" That's Polish.
"How do you live on?" That's Russian.
"May thy shadow never be less." That's Persian.

But Peggy and Albert are heavy contributors to the cable company's profits.

WIDOW SEEKS HOUSE SEAT OF HUSBAND

BY GENE COHN, NEA Service Staff Writer.

San Francisco—Does her intimate knowledge of her husband's affairs make a widow the best successor to her husband in public office?

That question has been made a political issue here by Mrs. May Hunt Nolan who is campaigning for the seat in Congress made vacant by the death of her husband, Congressman John L. Nolan.

Mrs. Nolan already has mustered a strong backing and chances seem good that her campaign will succeed and she will be the second congresswoman in the present Congress.

Mrs. Nolan's backers point out that she did a tremendous amount of her husband's work, that she always discussed his policies with him and that while he was ill she carried on nearly all his work.

"The voters elected Nolan because of his policies," say Mrs. Nolan's supporters, "and his widow is best able to carry out those policies. To elect any other would be to go contrary to the original will of the voters."

And Mrs. Nolan says: "His work wasn't finished. He had in mind child labor legislation and a great deal of humanitarian legislation. It is my ambition to complete this."

NATURE'S FIREWORKS

Often has the ocean traveler remarked the greenish light which follows in the wake of his vessel. This is one of nature's fireworks displays.

The illumination of the summer seas is caused by tiny creatures not fish which are almost invisible to the naked eye. Millions of them, each giving out a tiny point of light, make the waters glow as if countless electric lamps were burning beneath them.

Almost all sea creatures possess this wonderful power to some degree. It is caused by the presence in their bodies of phosphorus, the substance which is used for making matches. If a box of matches is opened in the dark, a similar lurid glow may be perceived, coming from the head of each.

DELAND SENDS INSTRUCTIONS ABOUT PERMITS

Strict Enforcement of Motor Vehicle Laws Requested.

Escanaba motor dealers and Chief of Police Tolan have received from Charles J. Deland, secretary of state, copies of the rulings on the newly adopted transit permits for dealers and manufacturers. Each dealer is given a number, to be used for the year, and a sample permit form to be used for printer's copy. His permit cards must be printed in exact accordance with the sample, even to the size of type prescribed.

He is then permitted to use these cards in place of license plates on machines which are being driven from factory to warehouse, from warehouse to salesroom, or from salesroom to customer. They are not to be used while demonstrating, nor on cars for the dealer's own private use, nor after the car has been transferred to the customer. The operator of a car being driven under permit must be provided by the dealer with a letter, giving the date of sale, and the engine number of the machine.

Dealers in other towns or states securing cars from factories or warehouses for drive-aways, must bring their own permits, unless the manufacturer desires to have the cars transported under his number. In this case, however, they will be considered his property while under his permit, and in all cases, the drivers must be provided with the letters described.

Like license plates, the permits must be in plain view, front and rear, unobscured by bumpers or other obstructions. They must be kept clean and free of mud and oil at all times.

The instructions to Chief Tolan review the provisions of the motor vehicle law, requiring the display of two white front lights and one red tail light at night. (Smith's are not considered regular light equipment), requiring that every driver of a motor vehicle be ever fourteen and possess an operator's license and that a chauffeur hold a chauffeur's license. Strict enforcement of the motor laws is asked.

Advertising Needs Time to Develop Opportunities

Give Advertising Time: That is the thing it needs most.

The advertising agency is the precocious infant among the professions. One of the oldest agencies in New York prints on its letterheads the date of its founding, and that date is 1869! Think of it—almost ten years after the Civil War; and the boys of the Civil War are still alive among us.

Law traces its ideals and traditions back to Moses; but even Law is not free from missteps. The physician takes his Hippocratic oaths, and Hippocrates lived 400 B. C.

Yet it was only yesterday when doctors discovered that bad teeth can cause anything serious. Is it fair to expect perfection in a profession that counts only a single generation to its credit? Should it occasion surprise when even a well-laid advertising campaign goes wrong? Is it any wonder that workers whose chief raw material is human nature should have to confess that they cannot always tell in advance just how that raw material will act?

We are learning. We have just passed through one great cycle of inflation and deflation. We know now what happens to the automobile business, and the shoe business and the perfumery business when prices go up like a rocket and come down like a stick. How much wiser counsellors to our customers we shall be when another cycle swings around. How much better we shall be able to read the signs of the storm, having passed through one such tempest.

Do you remember the references in English novels to those old law firms—solicitors—in which sons have succeeded their fathers to the third and fourth generation? Each new generation of lawyers has handled the affairs of the new generation among its clients, dealing out counsel based on records which run back for a hundred years or more. There is no reason why advertising agencies, too, should not outlive their founders and the successors of their founders and gathering a priceless possession of recorded experience.

Think of an advertising agency in 2020 being able to turn back in the records of 1920 and say to its clients: "In the Fall of 1920 this happened in silk, and this happened in leather and this happened in wheat, and the selling problems which followed were so and so. The present situation has certain aspects that are similar; and the recommendations which we are presenting are based on a recognition of that fact."

We are gaining experience; we are growing more and more valuable as advisers every year.

Don't expect the impossible. Give advertising time.

EMPLOY LEISNER.

A movement has been launched by the sportsmen and businessmen of Escanaba and Gladstone to raise a substantial fund and in cooperation with the county board of supervisors, arrange for the employment of Herman Leisner, deposed deputy state game warden, as an independent game warden for Delta county.

It is acknowledged that there is no man in the entire state of Michigan better qualified for the duties of game warden than Mr. Leisner and it is also recognized that no matter who may be assigned to this position of the peninsula by the state department of conservation, not a semblance of the game law observance by the natural poachers of the county could be hoped for, without Mr. Leisner on the job in some capacity.

It is the knowledge held by the natural game law violators of this county, that Mr. Leisner is absolutely fearless and will arrest and haul into court any violator, no matter who he may be, that resulted, in a large measure, in the elimination of game law violators in this county.

It is recognized that with Leisner off the job the element that has established general observance of the game laws will be removed and the conservation of the world life remaining in this county, demands that he be retained in a capacity that will accomplish the same results as were obtained when this efficient official was employed as a deputy state warden.

THE PEACE OF SECURITY.

Lewis Urintzoff, a Russian refugee in St. Paul, told newspaper reporters the story of his escape from the tyranny and dangers of bolshevism. "Here I can sleep at night!" was the terse comment by which he summed up his experiences and feelings.

The general reaction of the soldiers who returned from the Great War seems first to express itself in that same concrete phrase of contrast: "Here I can sleep at night!" To anyone who has endured the uncertainties of war, of pioneer life, of life in the wilds, of life amidst civil disruption, whether by victory over the opposing circumstances or escape from them, may well lie in that same sentence: "Here I can sleep at night!"

Man clings instinctively to his habits. Those whose work comes in the night hours labor under a strain unknown to the day worker. The nurses who watch over patients in the hospitals through the dark hours are never quite reconciled to the task, even though ample time is afforded during the day for sleep. The fact is, that broken nights have a sinister effect on the person who must suffer them. When these nights, as in the case of the Russian refugee, are rendered terrible by unseen enemies, even death itself, his belief at the prospect of normal living conditions may be imagined.

"Here I can sleep at night!" marks the difference between a nation of peace-loving civilized homes and one whose will, like that of the untamed beast, is not yet awakened unto itself.

ON BEING BUSY.

Americans are said to be a busy people. The hurrying crowds of city streets are unique in this country; those who tread foreign streets do so in more leisurely fashion. Yet it is an English writer who observes anxiously, "There are people in the world of whom it may be truly said that they never rest... who never read and never think, but who spend their time in moving from place to place and in talking."

It is of English folk that he speaks? The description fits accurately near at home. Certainly, restlessness becomes a habit, and there are no people more restless than Americans.

As Mr. Young, the English writer, goes on to state, some persons continually insist that they will go to this place and that "for a rest," and strive feverishly to that end; only to find themselves looking forward from this resting place to another quite as unsatisfactory.

So follow the mind curves, the thought-healing, the self-analysis, to which these people find plenty of time to devote.

The cause of this sort of national "business" apparently lies in a lack of individual goal. Life is lived not as a unit, but as a day-to-day affair. A worthwhile life cannot be lived without reflection. Mind curves may or may not make opportunity for this a possibility. A much easier way is for each person to realize that he needs time to think, and then for him to take that time.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

"Brothers Under the Skin," the picture at the Delft Theatre is one of those light, exceedingly entertaining comedy dramas that come once in an age, and which are always received with delight. This is a Goldwyn picture, quite up to the usual Goldwyn standard, based upon one of Peter B. Kyne's popular magazine yarns. The story tells of the similar domestic difficulties encountered by two young husbands in widely divergent layers of society—one a general manager, at $36,000 a year, the other a shipping clerk at $30 a week, in the same big corporation.

The wives of both are young, beautiful, charming, but luxury-loving and irresponsible. Both keep their husbands in eternal debt and eternally worried.

But there finally comes a last straw at which the two husbands respective wives are shown the error of their ways. And all, presumably, is well thereafter.

"Brothers Under the Skin" has one of those small but distinctive casts that are seen too infrequently. Helen Chadwick, as the shipping clerk's wife, repeats the notably fine performance she gave as the young wife in "Dangerous Curve Ahead." Claire Windsor, whose beauty and acting ability have made her one of the most popular leading women of the screen, appears as Dorothy Kirtland, the other wife. The two husbands are respectively Pat O'Malley and Norman Kerry. Mae Busch is again the vamp in this laugh-a-minute picture, and as usual a fascinating one.

The film was directed by E. Mason Hopper, whose deft, light touch was evident throughout. Whether you are a picture fan or not, we unhesitatingly recommend "Brothers Under the Skin."

AT THE STRAND.

Much can be written of Raymond Hatton, who plays the leading role in "His Back Against the Wall," a Goldwyn picture coming to the Strand Theater for two days commencing Friday. First of all, Mr. Hatton is that valuable and rare thing, an excellent character actor. Without the character actor as a background, the most popular star would have a hard time putting his photo-plays over. Will Rogers, comedian and star realized this, and generously accorded a fair share of the credit to Hatton when he made "Jess Call Me Jim," in which Hatton did a remarkable characterization. Tom Moore, who was starred by Goldwyn in "Stop Thief," was as quick to acknowledge Hatton's worth to the picture, and Reginald Barker, eminent director, lauded Hatton's characterization in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," while from the picture going public has come a flood

"Chapters From a Woman's Life"

By JANE PHELPS.

WALTER SYMPATHIZES WITH DOREEN.

Chapter 21.

Mrs. Page accepted Jennie's apology most ungraciously. But I was so glad to keep her, that I cared little about that, and talked to Jennie as kindly as I could, begging her to be patient. Walter had seen by her manner that something had gone wrong and questioned me.

"She was impudent to your mother, and I made her apologize," I told him.

"Gad! How did you do it?" I had no idea of telling him I had shed tears over the affair, so passed off the matter as lightly as possible. But when Jennie came into the room he said:

"I hear you wanted to leave us, Jennie. I'm surprised. I thought you liked living with us. He threw her one of his brilliant smiles.

"Oh, I do sir!" as usual perfectly emenable when he talked to her. "I—well, Sir, I don't like that dog!" I realized she had been about to say something about his mother and had caught herself in time.

"Did you apologize to the dog, too?" he asked laughing, and after a moment she joined him.

"No sir! I'd rather not if you don't mind."

"You spoil her," I told Walter as she left the room. "You laugh and joke with her too often."

"Nonsense! Just as easy to make folks like you as to dislike you, and a sight more pleasant."

That was Walter all over. He loved to be popular, even with a servant. Yet on occasion he would flare up at anyone who opposed him. But as he was over his temper's quickly no one held them against him.

"I set my myself," Jennie said once to me when I told her she mustn't mind something Walter said, "and I gits over it just like Mr. Page does. He don't hold nothin' against nobody, no more do I." It amused me immensely to have her make the comparison. But she did hold anger against Mrs. Page; had disliked her from the first. Now I know that after this tilt I should have an even harder time to keep things smooth between them.

Helen Ralstrom was back in the studio. Whether she came and went in a taxi cab, or whether in the car with Walter I did not know for several days. Then I asked him to hurry home as I wanted him to take me to call upon a sick friend. I had some dainties ready, and would need the car.

"Take a taxi," he said. "But why, Walter. It seems so foolish."

"I am taking Helen home. Where you want to go isn't far. The taxi won't be nearly as much as one to send her home."

"So you are playing chauffeur for her?"

"Oh, nothing! I was thinking of your mother's objections."

"What she doesn't know won't hurt her! And you can keep your mouth shut about my affairs," he returned disagreeably.

"I intend to—buttoned up tight," I replied lightly. "I have so wish to fight your battles for you. I have enough to do to care for my own."

"The Mater gets fussy at times, doesn't she, old girl?" his manner changed, "but her heart's all right."

"I know it! I have seen her give evidence of it several times. She is different from my mother and, sometimes, I scarcely know how to take her."

"I don't wonder! I can't see your mother taking things in her hands the way the Mater does." We were both thinking of the day she bundled Helen Ralstrom out of the house, although neither of us mentioned it. "She's a holy terror when she's on the rampage. But as I said her heart's all right and she has always been just as she is now. I used to get furious, but it never did me any good. Mother's clever all right gets what she wants in this old world."

I felt like telling him he was like her in that particular, but it would only start another discussion and he was in good humor again.

"Well, so long, old girl! Take a taxi. Don't try to walk!" And he was gone to take Helen Ralstrom home in the chummy little roadster.

TOMORROW—Helen is Entirely Recovered.

A THOUGHT

No teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.—Psalm 90:12.

It avails us nothing unduly to bemoan our errors or losses. For happen what may to the man of simple faith, still, when the last minute comes of the sorrowful hour, when the week or the year is ended, still will he find some cause for gladness as he turns his eyes within.—Maeterlinck.

NEW LINGERIE.

Some of the newest Italian silk lingerie is in a figured pompadour pattern instead of a plain color. Often it is bound in plain silk, the predominating shade of the garment.

KLAN ISSUE TO BE FOUGHT OUT BY THE SENATE

Earle B. Mayfield to Face Battle For His Seat.

By NEA Service. Chicago.—Whether the Ku Klux Klan shall be permitted to continue as an institution in America and a hundred other issues connected with the hooded fraternity will be threshed out in the United States Senate when an attempt is made to deny a seat to Senator-elect Earle B. Mayfield of Texas on the charge that he was a member of and was actively supported by the Klan.

A movement aimed to keep Mayfield out of the Senate is definitely under way, says Gray Keyes Rutledge, editor of the publication, Tolerance, here and secretary of the American Unity League, an organization claiming millions of members and devoted to combating religious and racial intolerance.

This means that Mayfield, who already has run the gamut of legal opposition to his election in Texas courts on the ground that his campaign expenditures exceeded the legal $10,000, a charge he denies will face further obstacles when it reaches Washington in March.

Seven Senators Enlisted. Seven western senators, who cannot now be named have pledged themselves to demand that Mayfield be barred, say Rutledge and Patrick O'Donnell, lawyer and executive chairman of the American Unity League.

"H. D. Lindsey, former commander of the American Legion, now is in Texas gathering information regarding the Texas election which will be presented in the Senate as the basis of charges for Mayfield's ouster," says Rutledge. The method of procedure, Rutledge hints, may be along the line of a charge under the corrupt practices act. Thus, since Mayfield is a Democrat, the Democrats will have on their hands a parallel to the case of Senator Newberry, Republican, of Michigan.

"We claim that because of Mayfield's alleged membership in the Ku Klux Klan and because of the Klan's endorsement of his election, he cannot take the oath of a senator," Rutledge says. "We believe this is so because every klanman is sworn not to reveal anything concerning the actions of a brother klanman and because the so-called Klan kraft tenets make every Ku Kluxer an enemy to the religious and other freedom of American citizen guaranteed under the constitution."

Protest Meet. Before the Mayfield case is heard, a giant protest meeting of anti-Klan delegates representing hundreds of hostile organizations throughout the country will be held at Chicago, O'Donnell says. "The Mayfield case is only the start of our fight on the Klan," he says. "We shall push our fight to the end through pitiless publicity and political battle."

When Mayfield ran for the Senate there came whisperings that he was a klanman, that the Klan had pledged him its support and that he had addressed Klan gatherings in the robe and hood of the order.

"Klan No Issue." But when Mayfield was asked to come out flat-footedly on the Ku Klux issue he said that it had no place in his campaign, declaring his issue was the repeal of the Bach-Cummins railway legislation. He repeatedly refused to state his position on the Klan.

Later Mayfield asserted he had been a member of the Austin Klan, but that he had resigned in January, 1921. James E. Ferguson, Mayfield's anti-Klan opponent, declared during the Texas campaign that high officials of the Klan had written letters endorsing Mayfield and declaring he was a klanman in good standing long after that date.

JAIL TWO. Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—The mystery of the deaths of Victor Joki and Hannes Niemi, Finnish trappers, who disappeared in October, 1921, and whose bodies were found last August, may be cleared up through the arrest of two other trappers, Kalli Maki and Urpo Ojanen, of Mile Sixty-Eight, on the Algoma Central Railway.

The bodies were discovered in a 25 miles from the railway, near the Montreal River. They were reported to have been weighted with boulders.

Four trappers testified at the inquest that Maki and Ojanen had heard that Joki and Niemi were trapping on their line and went to investigate the matter.

A NEW MEANING. Brother Rufus Abraham, who had been pastor of a colored church for several years, had lately fallen under suspicion. Some of the worthy brethren accused him of using the Sunday collection for purposes not related to the cause of a religious institution. Finally the matter was taken to court. Brother Abraham was called on to testify.

"Mr. Abraham, how long have you been pastor of that church?" queried the attorney. Rufus' quizzed brow wrinkled as he pondered long and hard. "Well, you honor, I reckon I been pasterin' there about eight years," Indianapolis News.

BURBANK ANSWERS CRY OF "FAKER"!

Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, irked by recent onslaughts by Ohio State University professors, replies to his critics in the following statement written especially for NEA Service and Daily Press. Burbank directs his reply to W. M. Barrows, assistant professor of zoology at O. S. U., who charged Burbank as a scientist is a faker.

By Luther Burbank. Well! thank you professor, I have never claimed anything for myself, save the right to make the best use of head, heart and hands, anything save the right to create from nature's crucible those things most necessary to the lives of men.

Yet many things have been claimed for me, most of them true, some of them quite ridiculous; especially this one, that I pilfer from others (by an alleged orthodox scientist).

This is not the first time my work has been impeached. I have heard such things before, mostly long ago, but have given no answer. My products have been fully able to do that.

The flea bites because it is in this manner that the flea must sustain its life, and I am not resentful; some of them are hard pressed. My life mission has been to create, to produce, to improve, and to do what I can for the world while yet living. I do not propose to tangle my feet in pseudo-scientific discussion and quarrel.

There are many who are resentful that I do not stop on my course and teach the science of my work in detail to others. That problem confronted me many years ago, and several of the great universities offered most tempting salaries for such service.

I decided I was a naturalist and horticulturist; not a university teacher; that I if stopped to explain, as a professor I would probably be less useful than in my own chosen field of effort and would be investigation by field agents to learn what their home life has been like, whether they had a god or bad record of employment, whether they were assets or liabilities. Most of them really are assets, and many suffer by the vagaries of courts—by the hysteria that influences some judges particularly during a crime wave.

"Reforming criminals may be a worthy aim. But more necessary is the reform of laws to help the vast majority of first offenders. The others cannot be reformed, and it is waste of time to try."

DAZZLED WITH GEMS. Beatrice D'Este belonged to a family which occupied a principal place among the rich and powerful houses of Fifteenth Century Italy. During her short, gay life she kept nobles and commoners on their toes to see what startling effect she would exercise next in the luxuriosity of her apparel and appointments. She was called the "Sweetest lady in Italy."

Beatrice's husband was a duke, and one day when he wished to dazzle royalty with his young wife's triumphant beauty, Beatrice wore a marvelous gown embroidered with her husband's robes of arms, done in large pearls, rubies and diamonds. The Duke, an ardent collector of jewels, expressed in pearls and diamonds and rubies and sapphires his devotion to his lovely Beatrice, and guards were always in attendance to protect the jewels of the little duchess.

When she died Beatrice was borne to her last resting place by the light of a thousand torches, and a writer of the times said such grief had never been known in Milan.

AN EVE TO BUSINESS. One morning little four-year-old Elwood was in the berry patch with his father. "Elwood," said his father, "I'll bet you a penny I can pick a quart of berries quicker than you can."

In a few minutes Elwood was quite encouraged to find that he had finished picking his quart first. "Well, Elwood do you want to bet a penny on another quart?" "No," replied his business-like son, "let's bet a nickel this time."

—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. "Science would aid us in deciding when to release such prisoners," he said. "The big thing

THE ATTACK. My quarrel with Luther Burbank is not as a horticulturist; but as a self-styled scientist, he is a complete faker. No man of scientific integrity would permit himself to be sensationalized in the columns of the Sunday supplement as Burbank has done. He conducts all his work in secret and refuses to be investigated by learned societies and organizations, which is contrary to all laws of science. The Carnegie Foundation appropriated $10,000 for a complete investigation of his work and sent a representative to California, but after a few months he declared the attempted investigation was a waste of money, for Burbank kept no records of his researches and experiments and had nothing to teach science about the laws of plant growth.—Professor W. M. Barrows, Ohio State University.

that I could be of greater benefit in continuing my own special work. What I have striven to do, I may say, by my books and scientific work, is for the benefit of my fellow passengers along the stream of life. The most noted of contemporaneous scientists have been kind enough to credit me with having done even that, if nothing more.

The things I have created through more than a half century of thought and toil were born in my mind, and developed with the labor of my own hands. I have never imported a discovery from anyone else, as has been charged, and claimed it as my own.

I do not need to do as they can now be produced on my grounds as fast as the whole world trade can absorb and distribute them. This whole matter is for a laugh; let the ball keep rolling.

FARMERS WILL SEE FILMS ON LAND CLEARING

Winter Meetings to Open in Delta County Next Week.

Delta county farmers will be given the premier showing of the new land-clearing moving pictures put out by the Extension department of the University of Michigan, under the direction of "Larry" F. Livingston, as well as lectures on the latest scientific methods of land clearing, it was announced yesterday by Joseph Turner, county agricultural agent, and "Larry" himself, who was a visitor last evening enroute from Manistique to Marquette.

The first meeting will be held at Cornell, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The next will be held in the Danforth grange hall at 8 p. m. Stonington will be visited Wednesday afternoon, and the Beach Grove grange hall Wednesday evening. Thursday afternoon will see a meeting at St. Nicholas, and in the evening at the Finnish hall at Maple Ridge. Friday will be spent at Alton.

Cheaper purchasing of explosives, further distribution of government explosives, use of equipment, and plans for the summer land-clearing school campaign will be discussed. The films, in addition to showing the operation of various land-clearing devices, and the use of explosives, will show the quarter-mile ditch blast set off in Menominee county last year as a feature of the school work there. Livingston expects to attend some of the meetings here, but the press of preparations for the year's work will keep him confined rather closely to his office for the next few months.

"HOT STUFF" SAID EDITOR AS HE READ IT. New York—Bob Dorman, staff writer for the NEA Service, says Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, of Biblical fiery furnace fame, have nothing on him.

Those three gentlemen were cast into flames by an irate king and emerged unscathed upon which the king reformed. Dorman was cast into the flames by a diabolical editor, Dorman, too, emerged unroasted but the editor did not reform and is still as diabolical as ever.

The secret of Dorman's rescue is that he wore a specially constructed asbestos suit made by the Johns-Manville Company, New York. Dorman was in the flames 15 minutes. He says he experienced no discomfort and proved it by indicating the following poetic lines on his typewriter as soon as he was released:

"Now here, sir, is a suit of white, not only a Palm Beach delight, but you will also find it good, gainst any fire of coal or wood; a suit like this if I'm not amiss, was worn back in the days of old when three brave men (or so we're told) into a pit of flames were thrown.

"Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego were they and down until this very day, their hap's known as a miracle: Perhaps 'twas just asbestos suits they donned with helmets, gloves and boots. "But here for you is just one warning, if you'd avoid a nice-hot warning, stay not too long in the flames" embrace, shield well thy whiskers on your face, for the suit holds heat and hair will burn, until you'll think you're done to a turn."

"Check Booze Output"—headline. Too many checks on the booze output are cashed at the bank.

STEPHENSON HI HERE TONIGHT

Orange and Black Open Their Basketball Season in Local Gym.

The Escanaba High School basketball team will open its 1928 season here tonight, with Stephenson high. This contest will be the first of the five interscholastic games to be staged in Escanaba this season, and because of the light home end of the schedule, a large crowd is expected.

The Stephenson team is expected to provide some stiff competition for the Orange & Black.

Coach Loucks was still undecided last night as to the personnel of his outfit when the first whistle blows. In high school circles it was believed, however, that Shelton would start at center, Carl Christensen and McGuire or Yeland at guards, Kitchin and Gleason at one forward and Coffey at the other. Tojan, one of the "big men on the squad, is not eligible for this contest, it became known.

The Stephenson-Baky game will follow a preliminary contest of the interclass series, to be staged by the Juniors and Sophomores. Another interclass game between the Seniors and Freshmen is to be played at the gymnasium this afternoon.

Andrews Heads Scrubs. John Andrews was elected captain of the second team at a meeting held after practice last night and will lead the reserves tonight. Loucks will have a big squad in uniform and frequent changes in the lineup are believed likely.

FIVE REGULARS FAIL TO SMASH HOMERUN DRIVE

Last season 574 home runs were made in the American League. Fifty-nine players participated in 100 or more games during the season. Such players are regarded as the regulars.

Most of the home runs made were contributed by the 59 regulars, yet five of them failed to break into the circuit-swat column.

This quintet included Ernie Johnson of the White Sox; "Mud" Ruel, Boston; Bill Wambach, Cleveland; Bassler, Detroit; and Mulligan of Chicago. The first three named took part in over 140 battles, while Bassler toiled in 121, and Mulligan 103.

Not only did Bassler fail to lace out a single four-ply swat all season but he didn't even get a triple. The only extra base pokes the Cobb backstop accrued were 14 doubles. Ruel wasn't much better, either, the Red Sox catcher compiling but one three-bagger, and 15 two-base hits. Bassler, though, was the only one of the five to bat over .300.

Of the "big fives," Eddie Collins, Chicago star, and "Stuffy" McInnis, Cleveland, just escaped the ignominy of not getting a home run throughout the season. Each knocked out one "round-the-bases" crash.

Chicago Basketball Meet, April 4 to 7

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The University of Chicago's fifth annual national intercollegiate basketball tournament will be held April 4, 5, 6 and 7 it was announced tonight. Entries will be limited to 32 prep schools but there will be no limitation on high schools entered.

The tournament last year drew teams from 16 states, and was won by Lexington, Ky., with Mount Vernon, Ohio, as the runner up.

Two New Swimming Records Are Set

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Two world swimming records were broken tonight in the Illinois athletic club swimming meet.

Richard Howell, a Hyde Park high school boy defeated Norman Ross in the 440 free style, and set a new mark for the event of 5:08 4-5. The old record of 5:05 1-5 was held by Johnny Weismuller of the Chicago Athletic club. Weismuller set the second new world mark when he broke his own record for the 220 yard race, defeating Oliver Horn in 2:14. Weismuller's former record was 2:18 2-5.

Mrs. Mallory Will Play Tennis Abroad

New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national women's tennis champion, has practically completed plans. It was learned today for departure early in February for France in quest of new court laurels and incidentally another test of skill with Suzanne Lenglen, French leader of the International Women's title.

AND SHE MEANT WHAT? "Read any fiction lately?" asked Porth Ornament No. 1 at the scene of the hotel.

He hadn't had a letter from my husband for two weeks," replied Ornament No. 2 abstractedly.—New York American.

FIRST GAS STOVE.

The first gas stove on record was used in 1876 by a baking powder company to demonstrate cake-baking at the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition. At that time the gasoline stove was in general use, and until the end of the century the gas stove made no great headway. When, about 1900, the quality of gasoline became so poor as to decrease the usefulness of the gasoline stove, its coolness and speed were found to exist in the more dependable gas stove, and the latter grew rapidly in favor.

CANNON LOSES PLACE

With the departure of Uncle Joe Cannon, March 4, Nick Longworth of Cincinnati, son-in-law of T. R. and the hottest man here, promises to become the bitching post for congressional jokes. For two score years, Uncle Joe has been the acoustical butt of every good story around the capital.

Stanley Bowdler, now dead, who defeated Longworth in the Democratic landslide of 1912, probably hung the one on Nick that will stick the longest. Apropos of Longworth's past, Bowdler said: "Nature scalped Nick, but I skinned him."

BASKET BALL QUIZ by Referee

PERSONAL FOULS. If the two captains agree, may the personal foul rules be set aside? Such agreements are sometimes made but have no place in the game. No referee should agree to work under such conditions, as it means much trouble for him. The personal foul rules were made to keep the game clean and help the referee and the official should see they are lived up to.

TIME-OUTS. If a team does not use its three "time-outs" as is the right of the team under the rules, and the game results in a tie score, can the remaining "time-outs" be used in the extra periods of play? Whatever remains can be used in the extra periods of play, which are merely regarded as a continuation of the second half.

CROWDS FLOCK TO ICE RINK

Legion's Fair Grounds Playgrounds Popular.

Ice at the Legion's enclosed rink in the automobile exhibition building at the fair grounds continues to provide an amusement place for large crowds of skating enthusiasts. The floor was crowded yesterday afternoon and last night. School children are admitted free in the afternoons. There is a small admission charge for the use of the ice and the big comfortable warm room after supper and street cars are providing special service for the throngs who are taking advantage of the opportunity for participation in the most healthful of winter sports.

PETER DUBE'S BOYS OFF TO GOOD START

Followers of "big time" ice skating here, predict a big season for Peter C. Dube's two Lake Placid stars, Charles Jewtraw and Val Blais, Jewtraw, whose past performances have shown him to be a lad who doesn't get well under way until the season is in the same condition, took second place in the Middle Atlantic championship at Newburgh, N. Y., Wednesday and Ballis, a 19-year-old youngster about whom very little has been heard heretofore, took third. Joe Moore was first place winner.

Dube is coach and trainer for the Lake Placid string.

Basketball Game Friday Evening. The Escanaba high school basketball team and the Stephenson high school team will clash at the high school gym Friday evening.

It is expected that a large crowd will accompany the Stephenson team to this city. The sophomores will serve Eskimo pies and candy during the game.

Lineup. The lineup for the game is: Capt. Murdoch, C. Feeney, L. F. Ackley, R. F. Gerardeau, R. G. Kitcher, L. G.

Three substitutes who are trained to go at top speed will be taken to Manistique. They are Barry, Cowell and Latimer. Robert Hill of Escanaba will referee.

According to a superstitious belief of the Japanese if a spider falls from the ceiling in the morning it brings pleasure, but if at night it is thought to be very unlucky.

O'DAY PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO WEE WILLIE KEELER

Chicago, Ill.—Hank O'Day, veteran umpire of the major leagues, who has been looking over the big league stars for nearly two score years, regards Willie Keeler, who died New Year Day, as the most difficult batsman to fool that he has ever umpired for.

"Keeler certainly was a wonder," said O'Day in discussing Keeler. "I don't believe I ever saw him off, at a bad bill."

When Keeler was at the bat, umpiring was a cinch. It was almost safe to call anything a ball that Keeler failed to offer at.

"Keeler was a wonderful bunter and no better place-hitter ever faced a pitcher. Slight of stature, Keeler never hit a ball hard. Opposing him perfectly, yet so unannoying was Keeler's judgment in hitting the ball that he could invariably outguess the opposition."

"I have often heard Keeler shut to the opposing third baseman to get ready, that he was going to bunt. Then he would proceed to do that very thing, and in a majority of the cases would beat the play."

"Keeler used a short bat and gripped it almost in the center when he faced the pitcher. His holding of the bat was in some ways as freakish as the style of Heine Groh."

"I've seen them all, Wagner, Cobb, Ruth and the rest of the great hitters, but never have I seen a batter with so keen an eye as Keeler."

SEVENTEEN PLAY IN EVERY MAJOR LEAGUE CONTEST

There were just 17 players in the two major leagues who appeared in every game their team played during the 1922 season. Of this number, seven were supplied by the National circuit and 10 by the American.

Four men in the older loop were tied for high honors, and oddly enough three of them wore Cincinnati uniforms. This quartet included Ralph Pinell, Jake Daubert and George Burns of the Reds, and Dave Bancroft of the Giants. These four took part in 156 contests.

Max Carey and "Rabbit" Maranville of Pittsburgh never missed a game all year, but the Pirates' played one fray less than did their Cincinnati and New York rivals. Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals also participated in every one of the 154 games played by the Missouri club.

In the American wheel, "Chick" Galloway of the Athletics, and Emory Rigney and Bobby Veach of the Detroit Tigers divided the leadership, each getting in 155 encounters.

Eddie Collins of the White Sox, Sam Rice and Stanley Harris of Washington, Marty McManus of the Browns, Derrill Pratt of Boston and Everett Scott and Aaron Ward of the Yankees didn't miss a game throughout the entire campaign, playing in 154 bouts.

AL SOTHORON'S NERVES VICTIM

Career of Star Pitcher Most Unusual in Baseball.

BY BILLY EVANS. Allan Sotheron, recently given his unconditional release by Cleveland, should have been one of the greatest pitchers the game ever produced.

Sotheron, to use the slang of the ball field, has everything—speed, curves, and a change of pace. Those were his assets.

In addition, Sotheron has a temperament. That has been his great liability.

Sotheron's temperament would crop out in divers ways during a game—always, it seemed, at a most crucial moment.

When Sotheron first came to the American League he could field bunts as well as the average pitcher. Like all pitchers, Sotheron had his bad days. On one of them, after fielding a couple of bunts, he threw wildly to first base.

League Knew His Weakness. Some player, because of that exhibition, got the impression that Sotheron was weak on bunts. That player told some other player. The word was passed down the line. Soon the entire league held the thought that Sotheron was weak on bunts.

In due time, every club would start to bunt the moment Sotheron stepped on the rubber to start a game. It made no difference if he handled the first two or three attempts perfectly, the opposition would keep firing away.

The hunting system got on Sotheron's nerves. It was only a matter of time before he fell a victim to the thought entertained by every player in the league.

Sealed His Own Doom. The moment that Sotheron made up his mind that he really was weak on bunts, he sealed his own doom as a big leaguer.

Sotheron's temperament would break out in other ways. If his team would get him a commanding lead, instead of going along in the even-tenor of his way, Sotheron would start to experiment. He would bring into play in a championship game some of the new-fangled ideas he had been working on while warming up.

Changing his style of delivery would cause him to lose control and that is usually fatal. I have seen Sotheron taken out of many a game simply because he was on the verge of throwing away his commanding lead by some fool experiment.

Sotheron knew his failing. He would fight it as best he could, but invariably he would lose out. The passing of Sotheron marks the failure of a great baseball career because of a temperament.

Heisman Signs to Succeed Neale

Washington, Pa., Jan. 4.—John W. Heisman, former University of Pittsburgh and Georgia Tech football coach, has signed a three year contract to coach the Washington and Jefferson gridiron squad, it was announced here tonight by R. M. PIRATES STAR CATCHER PUT ON THE BLOCK

Pittsburg.—Walter Schmidt, first-string catcher of the Pittsburg team, is on the market. Any club that will give Barney Dreyfus a reasonable return for his star catcher can have him.

Schmidt seems to have brought about his own undoing on the Pirates. Last spring, inability to get along with Manager Gibson, then in charge of the Pirates, caused Schmidt to refuse to report. The trouble, it seems, started over the salary question.

When Gibson retired, and was succeeded by Bill McKenchie, the first thing the new manager did was fix things up with Schmidt, and he finished out the season.

Failure of Schmidt to report in the spring forced Pittsburg to use young catchers. Given the opportunity to work regularly, both recruits, Gooch and Mattox, made good.

Evidently Bill McKenchie is satisfied the club can get along without Schmidt and profit thereby, for he has been placed on the market.

Schmidt is a great backstop. It was believed that he would be immediately gobbled up by some club, but as yet nothing doing. This has come as a surprise to Dreyfus and probably an even greater one to Schmidt.

TIGERS SLATED TO GET FASTEST MAN IN GAME

"Maurice Archdeacon is the fastest man in the history of baseball."

So says George Stallings, manager of the Rochester team of the International League.

Archdeacon was a member of the Rochester team last year. He is slated to be with the Detroit club of the American League next season.

George Stallings and Ty Cobb are personal friends. There is a working agreement between Detroit and Rochester as to players. Stallings is familiar with the great speed of Cobb, yet he says:

"Archdeacon is without a peer in baseball, speed alone considered. If he turned sprinter, I believe he would smash every record."

"He has still considerable to learn about running the bases, but under the direction of Cobb, the brainiest base runner I ever saw, Archdeacon should come fast."

In the International League last season, Archdeacon pirloined 55 bases, made 202 hits and scored 151 runs.

Matched Games Scheduled For Saturday Night

The bowling fans of this city are looking forward with great anticipation to the matched games which are scheduled for Saturday evening when two of the best aggregations will clash at the Arcade alleys for honors as pin smashers. The All Stars which is composed of the old timers, Priestler, Moersch, Sawyer, Krause and Taylor will meet Olmstead, Driscoll, Cope, Anderson, George Spears and VanderWiele in one of the fastest games ever rolled on the local alleys. It is expected that a large crowd of fans will be on deck to see the pin artists down the wooden men. The game will be played at seven thirty sharp.

FREE CUTTING ALONG ROADS TO BE SWATTED

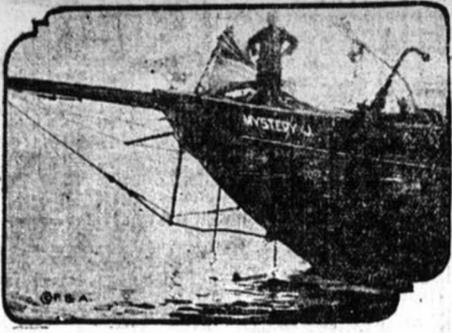

Penalty Will Be Rigidly Enforced, Rogers Warns.

It is unlawful to cut or injure trees or shrubs within the limits of public highways without a permit from the authorities having jurisdiction over such roads.

Make Roads Attractive. The great majority of abutting property owners along the highways, as well as the general public, are interested in having the roadside attractive and thousands of trees have been planted and protected by land owners, by public spirited associations, and by the highway authorities for this purpose.

From the thousands of communications he has received on the subject, Commissioner Rogers feels that the people of the state in general want the roadside trees protected. The public wants the trees to make the highways attractive and to make travel more comfortable, while to the farmer, the trees are a benefit for their food products, for wind breaks and above all for their protection to the birds that destroy their insect enemies.

Must Get Permits. It is recognized by the Highway Department that in some places it would be a benefit to remove certain roadside trees on account of their being so close together, diseased or of unsuitable varieties and this would be taken into consideration when permits are applied for.

ALTON PACKARD NEXT LYCEUM ENTERTAINER

Cartoonist-Humorist Will Appear in Escanaba Wednesday.

Alton H. Packard, cartoonist and humorist, will come to Escanaba Wednesday night, Jan. 10, for one of his popular entertainments.

Concerning Packard, Thomas Brooks Fletcher, widely known platform orator, says:

"Alton Packard is one of the few, one of the elect, one of the immortals of the platform. He makes tens of thousands laugh every year, he makes them weep, he makes them think themselves into nobler living, he sings himself into the hearts of the people with some of the jolliest songs ever written—he writes them himself, he makes pictures that cover the biggest sheets of drawing paper ever made—he has them made especially for himself—pictures that slam the message into your memory so that you cannot forget.

"This season he will have a new message for the thousands of Lyceum audiences who have heard his 'Uncle Sam's Folks,' his 'Vanity Fair' and 'Funny People.' It will be notable in that it is a new message coming out of the fully ripened experience of a master, with all the mirth, original wit and humor in cartoons, comedy and songs which are characteristic of him and also a message of hope for these troublous times.

Charles H. is said to have first encouraged the appearance of women on the stage in England in 1662.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

DELTA COUNTY TAKES LEAD IN LAND CLEARING

Livingston's Report Shows Total of 52,000 Acres Cleared in U. P.

The Upper Peninsula of Michigan is richer by some 52,000 acres of cleared, agricultural land today, as compared with a year ago, as the result of "Larry" Livingston's land-clearing campaign.

Delta's Acreage Leads. Although Delta county leads in the total acreage cleared with 6,000, first honors for individual effort goes to Alger county, with an additional 5.8 acres cleared, per farm.

This, however, is not the only record achieved by the land-clearing section of the Michigan Agricultural College extension division.

Savings On Explosives. In addition, there was shipped into upper Michigan last year—some carloads of commercial explosives, representing a shipment of 198,000 pounds at a saving to the farmers of $13,860.

The latter feature was accomplished entirely through the carload quantity system of buying, introduced into upper Michigan this past season by the land-clearing section of M. A. C.

A total of $69,300, therefore, was saved to upper Michigan farming interests, during 1922, through the efforts of this department. It is, indeed, an unusual achievement.
