

SOO HIGH SCHOOL BOY SHOOT GIRL

AMERICA WILL NOT INITIATE WORLD PARLEY

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE CALL MUST COME FROM ABROAD.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 26.—President Harding is not opposed to the principle of a world economic conference but does not wish the United States to take the initiative in calling one.

This is the position of the chief executive as news comes from abroad that the American delegation to the Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce at Rome had succeeded in securing a unanimous adoption of a resolution favoring a world economic conference.

Mr. Harding has before been confronted by the same proposition, namely, when Senator Borah introduced his resolution in the senate which would have passed by an overwhelming vote but for the suggestion from the president that such action might be misconstrued, because feelings had already been sent out by this government on the subject.

"Insider" Not Revealed. The inner-history of what was going on at the same time that Mr. Borah was pressing his resolution has never been revealed by the American government but it has a direct bearing on the effect which the resolution just passed in Rome will have on the policy of the Washington administration.

Mr. Harding's first mention of an economic conference was in conversation with Premier St. Augustin, Arthur J. Balfour and other statesmen who attended the Washington conference on the limitation of armament in November 1921 and he explained then that he hoped some European power would take the initiative as he believed that upon the basic problems, such as reparations which would be inextricably a part of any world economic conference, there should be an agreement among the European powers. Both the president and secretary Hughes found themselves being urged, nevertheless, to take the initiative. They positively warned off these requests most of which came from American businessmen. The chief argument advanced then was that in any economic conference, the United States as host would have to lay down a program and this would involve sacrifices just as was done at the outset of the arms conference.

Europe Must Change Mood. It was also contended by the president that until the senate acted on the arms treaties there would be no use entering into further conferences and when the senate did act, the statement was made that until the powers which signed the arms agreements actually ratified them, it would be futile to propose other economic adjustments which involved questions even more delicate than limitation of naval armament. All the powers have ratified except France and action by the French is expected within a fortnight.

The arguments, however, against America's taking the initiative remain the same in the executive's mind. He feels that until Europe is in a more accommodating mood a conference on economic questions would be deadlocked. Belgium did take the initiative a few months ago and her invitation to an economic conference to be held at Brussels still holds good. Her activities had the warm approval of the American government. But when inquiry was made as to whether France would consent to permit the subject of reparations to be made a part of the program of the economic conference, the Poincare government at Paris flatly refused. There has been no change of ministry in France since then and the Ruhr situation has developed in the meantime introducing a new series of problems which France is demanding shall be settled between Germany and France directly.

Must Make Sacrifices.

The president has felt that the success of any economic conference hinges first of all on a willingness to make mutual sacrifices and upon a recognition of the fact that reparations furnish the keynote of the arch of world readjustment. Most Europeans insist that the debts of the allies to each other and to the United States are also fundamental but president Harding feels that American public opinion would not approve putting into the paper the subject of war debts because such a step might be construed as inviting a discussion of debt cancellation against which congress already has taken a determined stand in legislation limiting the powers of the commission.

COMMUNIST PARTY'S "DEATH" FAKED, STATE LAWYERS SAY

Secretary Admits on Witness Stand That Organization Is Still Functioning.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The Communist Party of America was meeting and functioning as a party organization and discussing illegal activities as late as a week ago yesterday, according to evidence produced by the state today in the trial of William Z. Foster, charged with violating the criminal syndicalism law of Michigan.

Attacking the claim of Charles E. Ruthenberg, a defense witness and co-defendant with Foster, that the Communist party had passed out of existence last January, mending its identity with the legal Workers' Party, the prosecution, on cross examination, won an admission that Ruthenberg had attended a Communist gathering in New York on Sunday, March 18. Ruthenberg admitted he had been elected as a delegate from this meeting to a district's convention, but said he had not attended the latter. Efforts of the state to get

BUCK LAW TO COME BEFORE LOCAL BOARD

Believed Sentiment Here Favors Continuation of Law

Two Counties Against Bill. Copies of resolutions adopted in Dickinson and Marquette counties have been received by County Clerk George Harvey, with requests that they be submitted to the supervisors of this county for similar action. It is believed that sentiment favoring the buck law is practically unanimous in Delta county and it is not expected that a similar resolution will be adopted here on Wednesday.

YOUTH CLAIMS KILLING WAS ACCIDENTAL

TRAGEDY OCCURS IN ROOM OF BOY AT SOO, ONT.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 26.—Mrs. Thelma Beyer, said to be the wife of Randall Beyer, a student at the University of Minnesota, was shot and killed here today.

Fillmore Heikkila, a high school student, was held pending the coroner's inquest. Heikkila is said by the authorities to have told them the shooting was accidental. Mrs. Beyer had been estranged from her husband for several months and with her baby has made her home with her parents in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. She was killed in a room here that had been occupied by Heikkila.

Randall Beyer is the son of City Commissioner R. R. Beyer. Heikkila is a senior in the local high school and has a reputation as a basketball and football star.

UP BAY YOUNG MEN ATTACK 2 YOUNG WOMEN

Police Nip Joy Ride and Irate Mother Finishes Job

Raymond Cullumb, of Rapid and Joseph Laburnard, of Gladstone, were arrested by Sheriff Joseph Carney yesterday on a charge of furnishing liquor to two Escanaba girls of tender years on Sunday night. It is charged the two young men came to Escanaba in an automobile and meeting the girls on the street invited them for a ride. It is charged that liquor was furnished to them and one of the girls became unconscious from intoxication.

The actions of the occupants of the car attracted the notice of a police officer on Stephenson avenue. He followed the machine to a point on Second avenue north where it had stopped and there learned the identity of the occupants of the car. He learned that one of the young women resided but a few blocks away and as she was in no condition to walk to her home, he ordered the machine driven to the house.

There the mother of the girl was notified and she immediately came from the house and after dragging her daughter from the car she attacked one of the young men, dragging off his coat and soundly pummeling him with her fists.

Cullumb is employed at a garage at Rapid River and after being arrested by Sheriff Carney yesterday he made a complete confession of the affair, while Laburnard maintained a stubborn silence. Both were arraigned before Judge C. D. McEwen yesterday afternoon on charges of possessing and furnishing liquor and their preliminary hearing was set for March 29.

Life's Drama Ends For "Divine Sarah"

COURT HEARS LIFER'S PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL

Detroit, March 26.—Hearing on a petition for a new trial for Leo Sauerman, now serving a life sentence in Marquette Prison for the alleged murder of Alex Dombrowski, a Wayne county farmer, was begun in circuit court today. Two witnesses testified they believed Sauerman was the victim of mistaken identity.

He was convicted late last summer. Several months later two men were arrested as accomplices. They confessed their part in the crime but declared Harry Hill instead of Sauerman was the man who killed the farmer. Officials doubted the existence of Harry Hill, believing the confession was a ruse to free Sauerman.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 26.—Charges in open court by counsel for the plaintiff that an effort was being made by leaders of the Israelite House of David to coach defense witnesses in the $80,000 suit of John Hansell and his wife against Benjamin Purnell, head of the Benton Harbor cult, enlivened this afternoon's session of the case.

Following accusations by Attorney Walter M. Nelson, representing the Hansells, that a representative of the cult was signaling to a witness on the stand, Judge Sater announced if there appeared to be proof of the charges he would conduct contempt proceedings against the accused, after expiration of the present case.

RIVER FLEET GRAB BLOCKED

St. Louis, Mo., March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A courier, armed with a temporary federal court order restraining the government's seizure of the river fleet, taken from Edward F. Goltz, lessee, by Colonel T. O. Ashburne of the War Department, tonight was speeding by automobile to Cape Girardeau, Mo., 131 miles south, to intercept Colonel Ashburne, who is sailing down the Mississippi River with the barges.

Attendants of the federal court said it was a matter of speculation whether Colonel Ashburne would yield to the order if served with it as planned at Cape Girardeau, as the War Department official was on the federal tow-boat Vicksburg, enroute to Fayetteville, Ill., and Caseyville, Ky., to complete seizure of the fleet.

James E. Paroll, district attorney, said the action of the War Department is seizing the boats came as a surprise to him, as hearing on the restraining order was scheduled to be held tomorrow. He asserted he was without instructions from Washington as to his course at the hearing.

HUGO STINNES VISITS ROME

German Financier Favors Move to Call World Conference.

Rome, March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—From conversations which Hugo Stinnes, Germany's great industrial figure has had with American delegates to the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, it appears that he came to Rome when he heard of American proposals that a portion or all war debts owing to the United States would be remitted after the European states had given assurance they would put their finances in order.

While Stinnes refused to grant an interview today saying he had no statement to make, it is learned that he is in favor of the American suggestion to call an international economic conference at which all the countries interested would be represented by delegates having full powers in order to be able definitely to solve the reparations, inter-allied debt, and exchange stabilization questions.

He is represented as believing that the United States is the country best adapted for the conference, being outside Europe and unaffected by the influences of the contending parties.

KEENAN PLOT IS REVEALED

New York, March 26.—A $1,000 liberty bond and a valuable jade bracelet, gifts of John K. Mitchell, wealthy Philadelphia clubman, to Dorothy Keenan, slain model, set detectives on a new trail and offered a new clue to the slayer tonight. The bond and bracelet, as well as several hundred dollars in cash were given the girl by Mitchell on his last visit to her apartments on March 14, but were missing when her body was found the next day, authorities said.

Details of a plot to "shake down" Mitchell for $50,000 as the price of silence concerning his relations with Miss Keenan were revealed by Assistant District Attorney Pecora. Miss Keenan, he said, had been approached a few days before her murder and an attempt was made to enlist her in the conspiracy.

The plotter, whose identity was known, and who was said to have had confederates, sought to obtain the letters Mitchell had written the model, Mr. Pecora said. Whether Miss Keenan refused to be a party to the blackmail scheme and was slain by the conspirator through fear that she would reveal the plans to Mitchell has not been definitely established.

CURTAIN OF DEATH FALLS IN PARIS AT 8 P. M.

Paris, March 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son Maurice, at one minute before 8 o'clock tonight. In life she had an amazing power of emotion, of marvelous realism and pathos in her acting of death scenes. At the end of her days she quietly drifted into eternity, tired after her long fight against death, which she did not wish, but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned and half an hour before she passed away those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though, knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live throughout the night.

Made Hard Fight. Madame Bernhardt died in the large room on the second floor of her home, with windows wide open on the Boulevard Pereire, the noise of trucks and the railroad keeping up a low roar to which she was long accustomed. It was the sudden closing of these windows, opened on the finest day of spring, that gave the signal to those waiting and watching without that Bernhard was dead.

Death was due to a renewed attack of uraemic poisoning, which began Friday, but the actress astonished her physicians by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last September when hope had several times been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon when symptoms of the gravest nature appeared, but Bernhard rallied and gained lucidity. The priest administered extreme unction, which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hands and head, too weak to speak.

The widow of Edmond Rostand, whose fame was linked with that of Bernhard's, and the poet's son, Maurice Rostand, were at the bedside. Bernhard's grandson, M. Grosse, brought the first flowers into the death chamber—mauve and white lilacs. Flowers came from many friends quickly, and soon the room was heaped with them, those from the family and dearest friends being placed on the bed.

Many hundreds of friends, persons prominent in all walks of life, and others little known but quite as dear to Bernhard called during the three days of her last illness, but few of them were permitted to see her. Aside from the members of the household and family and her closest intimates only Dr. Marot and the other physicians visited the sickroom.

Lost Right Leg. Madame Sarah Bernhardt was more than seventy years old and had suffered amputation of her right leg, when she with her company visited New York in October, 1916, to fulfill an extended theatrical engagement in that city and to make a tour in Canada and the United States, playing in some of her most famous successes. On her arrival in New York it was evident to the group of friends and admirers who gathered to welcome her that it was with extreme difficulty that she was able to walk. Attendants virtually carried her from her stateroom to the pier. She was greeted with every evidence of a warm welcome.

After playing in Canada, she returned to the United States and began a tour of American cities. Her appearance in New York in December was attended by an unusual demonstration of friendship by her audience which seemed deeply to affect her.

While playing in New England she suffered an attack of cold, returned to New York and took a brief trip south for her health. A few weeks later she underwent in the New York hospital an operation for infection of a kidney and, while convalescing, received a

ONAMERS TO KNOW FATE ON THURSDAY P. M. Evidence of Prosecution Submitted in Court Yesterday

Abraham and Fannie Bonamer, to conduct a fruit and candy store at 327 Stephenson avenue, are arraigned before Judge C. D. Ewen yesterday, charged with sale and possession of intoxicants, and after the evidence of a prosecution had been submitted the case was continued until Thursday 29. When the evidence of the prosecution was submitted, the defendants were asked a continuance until Thursday that he might be given an opportunity to decide whether or not any testimony will be presented at the preliminary hearing by the defense. The application was granted and whether or not the two defendants will be bound over to the circuit court for trial will be decided on Thursday. The officers at the hearing yesterday described in detail the raid made on the store; of the finding of a glass of liquor in the hands of a patron and of the desperate fight made by Mrs. Bonamer to knock the glass from the officer's hand. It was shown that the analysis of the liquor seized showed it to have an alcoholic content of volume of 35.5 per cent.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT. Striking success of a stage production is no criterion that it will be able to duplicate its feat on the silver screen; when the fact that the stage production was founded on a best selling novel is taken in conjunction, the producer's task becomes even more difficult. In the face of these odds, to make a picture that exceeds the excellence of the play is a real triumph, and Universal is entitled to claim the credit, because its Jewel production, "Under Two Flags," now playing at the Delft, is one of the greatest pictures in the history of the cinema art. Despite the strength of the story two other things were vital to its success; the star and the director. In Priscilla Dean and Tod Browning, Universal found an easy solution of both these problems. Miss Dean is easily the best type actress to play the role of Cigarette. She brings to the characterization all the energy and fire, the boyish vitality and flaming orbs, that has made each and every one of her pictures stand out as masterpieces of the cinema art. The story of Ouida's great work is so well known that it is hardly necessary to recount the plot in detail. Sufficient to say that it deals with the adventures of an English nobleman who leaves his own country, in disgrace and exiles in the French army force that police Morocco. "Cigarette," daughter of the regiment, falls madly in love with him. Her affection is unrequited and she hates Victor even while she loves him. Then she learns who the other woman in his life really is, learns his identity, and also discovers a plot to annihilate her beloved troops. From this point on the story sweeps forward to a powerful climax that holds one spell-bound. Dynamic Priscilla is supported by an excellent cast. Handling the leading male role of Corporal Victor is James Kirkwood, star in his own right.

(Continued From Page 1.) created to negotiate for the funding of the war debts. Being unable therefore to propose a sacrifice on war debts, being unable also to persuade France to discuss a readjustment of German reparations, the president has the firm belief that a world economic conference would be a good thing if there were any assurance of progress being made on these important fundamentals. American Resolution. The resolution passed at Rome, largely through the efforts of John H. Fahey of Boston, former president of the United States chamber of commerce, represents the sentiment of the executive chamber and has the support of many groups of American businessmen who want to see the purchasing power of Europe increased through improved exchange rates. Mr. Fahey is an ardent champion of international cooperation and a firm believer in the league of nations idea. He is a democrat and a warm admirer of Woodrow Wilson. The present head of the United States chamber of commerce is Julius H. Barnes of Duluth, a republican, and an intimate friend of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce in the Harding cabinet. Both Mr. Barnes and Mr. Fahey have frequently been in conference with the department of state and administration officials generally in recent months in the hope of persuading the American government to participate more actively in the economic readjustment of world affairs.

Sheriff Carney led the raiding party and was assisted by Under-Sheriff Eimer Swanson, Deputy Sheriff Clement Tordeau and Chief of Police Erick Lindahl, of Gladstone. AGED ACTRESS DIES IN ARMS OF ONLY SON

Reappeared on Stage. The injury to her knee which compelled the amputation of her right leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before she appeared on the stage she was able to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris in February, 1915. Her reappearance on her own stage in that city elicited what was described as the greatest ovation of her career. She announced that henceforth she would interpret only motionless roles.

Born in 1844.

Her long life story is almost legendary, closely woven with dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage. As she herself and others have told it, it is summed up here: The record of the date of her birth destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1844.

Her parentage, a Dutch Jewish mother, and a French official, as a natural father. In her early years left much with relatives in Paris. At twelve sent to Grand Champ Convent, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play. At that early age, as a fragile child, she displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

A desire to become a nun became a passion with her. Her mother was flatly opposed to this and the child was sent to a conservatory when thirteen years old. At the end of the first year she gained the second prize for tragedy. A subscription among the stage folk at the Comedie Francaise enabled the girl to spend another year at the Conservatory. She then carried off the second prize for comedy.

Debut in 1862.

Her debut at the Comedie Francaise came in August 11, 1862, a minor part, without any marked success. Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of King Lear, at the Odeon, then at the Queen in Victor Hugo's Ruy Blas, and above all, as Zanzett in Francois Coppee's Le Passant (1869).

Then came the Franco-Prussian War. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. She became a life member of the Comedie Francaise. M. Perrin, the manager, and she had repeated clashes over the roles she should have. In a fit of pique she once fled from M. Perrin's office, decided to give up the stage, and plunged into sculpture. Her first piece "After the Storm"—finished some years later—won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin only to break with him again, incurring a forfeit of $40,000 which she paid.

She invaded England, receiving great ovation. She toured Denmark and Russia, and then came to America.

DELFT PRISCILLA DEAN in "Under Two Flags" Mae Tinee Says— "UNDER TWO FLAGS" was a great hit with a lot of folks who began to sit up and ask questions about Priscilla Dean, the star. She made a sulky, tempestuous, lovable Cigarette not soon to be forgotten. Tod Browning, the director, took the book by Ouida and made the story live again via the silver sheet—a vivid bit of screen portraiture. ALSO A Lyman Howe "Hodge-Podge"

AGED ACTRESS DIES IN ARMS OF ONLY SON

Reappeared on Stage.

The injury to her knee which compelled the amputation of her right leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before she appeared on the stage she was able to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris in February, 1915. Her reappearance on her own stage in that city elicited what was described as the greatest ovation of her career. She announced that henceforth she would interpret only motionless roles.

Born in 1844.

Her long life story is almost legendary, closely woven with dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage. As she herself and others have told it, it is summed up here: The record of the date of her birth destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1844.

Her parentage, a Dutch Jewish mother, and a French official, as a natural father. In her early years left much with relatives in Paris. At twelve sent to Grand Champ Convent, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play. At that early age, as a fragile child, she displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

A desire to become a nun became a passion with her. Her mother was flatly opposed to this and the child was sent to a conservatory when thirteen years old. At the end of the first year she gained the second prize for tragedy. A subscription among the stage folk at the Comedie Francaise enabled the girl to spend another year at the Conservatory. She then carried off the second prize for comedy.

Debut in 1862.

Her debut at the Comedie Francaise came in August 11, 1862, a minor part, without any marked success. Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of King Lear, at the Odeon, then at the Queen in Victor Hugo's Ruy Blas, and above all, as Zanzett in Francois Coppee's Le Passant (1869).

Then came the Franco-Prussian War. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. She became a life member of the Comedie Francaise. M. Perrin, the manager, and she had repeated clashes over the roles she should have. In a fit of pique she once fled from M. Perrin's office, decided to give up the stage, and plunged into sculpture. Her first piece "After the Storm"—finished some years later—won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin only to break with him again, incurring a forfeit of $40,000 which she paid.

She invaded England, receiving great ovation. She toured Denmark and Russia, and then came to America.

LATE OPENING OF NAVIGATION IS NOW CERTAIN

Heavy Ice Blocks All Channels in Great Lakes.

Little hope of an early opening of lake navigation this year is entertained by seamen, because of the extensive ice fields that block all channels and straits.

Although insurance on cargoes and hulls becomes effective April 15, there is little prospect of open waters before May 1.

Ten coal cargoes were loaded at Ohio ports last week, ready for movement to the northwest as soon as the channels are open.

Heavy Ore Shipments.

The movement of ore from the northwest to Lake Erie this year is expected to reach a total of 55,000,000 tons compared with a movement of 42,000,000 tons last season.

The worst blockade will be found in the Straits of Mackinac. The weather bureau's weekly survey showed the ice at the straits to be twenty-two inches thick and solid and covered with snow. Ice in the Detroit river has started running freely and is leaving Lake St. Clair.

In Green Bay the ice is twenty-five inches thick at this port. At Charlevoix the ice is breaking up and clear water is beginning to show. At Port Arthur in Lake Superior the ice is reported 32 inches thick. The ice continues solid at Whitefish Bay and in St. Mary's river.

Conditions in Lake Erie are far better and navigation between Detroit and Cleveland was opened last week. There is no ice in the west end of the lake and Buffalo reports that the heavy galce of the last week broke up the ice and large open spaces of water are visible.

HUNDREDS FAIL TO FILE INCOME TAX BLANKS

Crowley Remains On Job to Aid Delinquents About Here.

Hundreds of individuals in the upper peninsula have learned, since March 15, that the only man to take advice from regarding the payment of income taxes and filing of income tax returns is one who is officially connected with the internal revenue department.

As usual, there are many persons who should have filed returns, but who failed to do so. They are now being called on by collectors under J. O. Leonard, chief of the upper peninsula division. Many will have to pay penalties because they did not send in returns. In most cases, Mr. Leonard says, the delinquents were ignorant of the fact that they were required to file returns.

Ignorant of Law. "We find that many men, not knowing whether the regulations require them to file returns, have sought information from their employers and have been given wrong advice," said Mr. Leonard. "Most cases of this kind involve men who do not have to pay an income tax, but whose income is large enough to require them to file a return."

Mr. Leonard has detailed three deputies to round up the delinquents. Daniel Crowley is working in the district about Escanaba and is headquartered in this city. Ed. McKinney is working out of Sault Ste. Marie, J. S. Kennedy is covering the district around Ironwood and R. H. Peterson is working in the copper country, with headquarters in Hancock.

Mr. Leonard cited the case of one man who, after being told three times by deputy collectors verbally and by letter that he would have to file an income tax return, still insisted that he was not required to do so, because his employer had informed him to that effect.

BUILD SEWERS TO STOP FLOOD ON PAVEMENTS

Hartnett Avenue and East End to Get Attention

Among the early improvements contemplated by the city administration this spring will be the construction of storm water sewers to relieve present flood conditions on Hartnett avenue and the east end of First avenue south.

When the concrete pavement on Hartnett avenue was constructed, catch basins were built and connected up, but no outlet was provided for that sewer. The result has been the formation of a miniature lake each spring and following each heavy rain storm during the summer near the intersection of Hartnett and Stephenson avenue. This spring it will be necessary to provide an outlet for that sewer from Hartnett avenue, under the Northwestern tracks and to the bay.

East End Hard Hit.

Because the storm water from a large section of the city is drained into the water sewer on First avenue south, that sewer for years has been inadequate to supply the demands made upon it, with the result that each spring and following each heavy summer rain the pavement and sidewalks from Sixth street to Fourth street, are flooded with several inches of water. An intercepting sewer must be constructed this season to divert a portion of the load from the First avenue south storm sewer line, to a sewer line of greater capacity and relieve conditions that have proven a menace to property for a number of years.

Konkel-Dusterhoff Nuptials.

Miss Nona Konkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Konkel, of Powers, and William Dusterhoff, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dusterhoff, of Powers, were married Saturday evening, at eight o'clock, at the parsonage of the Salem Evangelical Church, S. 12 St., by Rev. Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Crose were host and hostess to a number of friends at their home, 206 North Nineteenth street, Saturday night in honor of their seventeenth wedding anniversary. A sumptuous 7 o'clock dinner was served to twenty-five guests, after which card playing and dancing served as the evening's diversions.

The home was very prettily decorated with pink and green as the color scheme. A huge pink wedding cake with 17 pink and green candles adorned the center of the table together with a large bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Crose were presented with a dozen iridescent sherberts and a dozen tumblers. The guests enjoyed a fine evening and declared their host and hostess fine entertainers.

Olson-Speers Nuptials.

A quiet, but pretty marriage ceremony was performed Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, when Miss Mabel Katherine Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Olson, 320 S. 15th St., became the bride of Mr. George Speers, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Speers, of Milwaukee, Wis.

The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Swedish Methodist Church. Rev. O. R. Palm, pastor of the congregation, pronounced the words which united the couple in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Olson, while William Speers, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of blue silk and carried a shower bouquet of roses while the bridesmaid wore a gown of silk with corsage of sweet peas. For the bridal journey, the bride wore a traveling suit of blue with hat and other accessories to match.

After the wedding ceremony a sumptuous six o'clock dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents to the members of the family and a few close friends, covers being laid for sixteen guests. The home was artistically decorated and the tables were most elegantly set for the occasion. The color scheme was lavender and yellow.

The couple left in the evening for Milwaukee, where they will make their home at 210 Ninth street, apartment 23, after May first.

The bride is one of the city's most charming young ladies and was born and reared in this city, having attended the local schools and was popular with the younger set.

RYALL TELLS OF UNIQUE SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS

Rotarians Hear Fine Impromptu Address Yesterday

Atty. A. H. Ryall, who returned last week from a two weeks' visit at New Orleans, delivered a most interesting impromptu talk to members of the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday on unfrequented but interesting spots in the old French-Spanish city. Mr. Ryall described particularly the cemeteries of New Orleans, in which he said were found the most beautiful and artistic monuments in the world. Because of the fact that the city of New Orleans is constructed on land nine feet below the level of the Mississippi river, it is necessary to bury the dead in "ovens" constructed above ground and this fact is accountable in part for the most elaborate mausoleums and vaults that fill the cemeteries there. Mr. Ryall told of the effort exerted in the past few years to restore the ancient French and Spanish buildings about the city and asserted that New Orleans is fast becoming one of the most interesting cities in the United States.

Tells of Conference.

George G. Geniesse also told the Rotarians yesterday of the Tenth district conference at Milwaukee and of plans being made by the district officers to send a large delegation to the international convention at St. Louis in June. Delegates from this district will travel by automobile in a group, concentrating in Milwaukee and traveling in an auto caravan from that city to St. Louis. It is expected that several members of the Escanaba club will take part in that trip.

THE PORTS OF MICHIGAN. In a very few years, fewer than any realize, the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway will be a completed project.

One reason Helen of Troy had such a reputation for her beauty is because she never had to spend a night in a Pullman.

Even a woman who is not religious will do a lot of praying that moths won't get into the fur coat she bought during the January sales.

Dancing with your own wife, according to the other porch climber on the opposite side of the table, is like drinking near beer. You don't care how soon the party breaks up.

Sir—I rise to the defense of the modern girl. She is all for the uplift, devoting time, thought and work to the higher things.

Among the other things you read about but never see is the crease in a fat man's trousers.

A married friend is not surprised at the declaration of a New York policewoman, that women, in years to come, will be successful bandit gang leaders.

Sir—Wuxtree! wuxtree! Massachusetts man who speaks ten languages has just been married to a woman who speaks only seven.

The present session of the legislature has recently passed a Port Development Amendment which is to be placed on the April 2nd ballot.

"To authorize the Legislature to provide for the incorporation of port districts and confer power and authority upon them to engage in work of internal improvements in connection therewith."

This Amendment is a question on which it does not seem possible that negative votes can be cast with any sound reason.

The future needs of every Michigan Port can best be gauged by the experience of every American port which indicates the necessity for immediately giving the Legislature the power to create these port districts and make a start in the development of the water transportation of the State.

It would be particularly unfortunate if the cities of our State should suddenly awaken to the need of dock facilities and find that the waterfronts desired are already used for other purposes.

There are so many examples of cities throughout the country that have neglected this improvement until too late that it does not seem necessary to emphasize the point.

Almost any recently enlarged port will prove without question the necessity of planning in advance for the development of the trade that is bound to come to Michigan if we are in a position to take care of it.

While the interested cities of the State are still working for the acceptance of this Amendment which will provide the Legislature with power to create the personnel and authority to plan this tremendously needed program, other states are years ahead of us.

Chicago, Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo, and many smaller cities outside of Michigan, have all been spending millions of dollars in the actual development of their ports.

Michigan must not be the least of the Great Lakes engaging in this world trade.

The answer of every voter in the State to this Port District Amendment should be "yes."

Opponents to the council plan for establishing a sinking fund to meet future bond payments, will be forced to take the position that the city's business should not be conducted upon the same sound business-principles as that of a private corporation.

The so-called Escanaba plan for a more equitable distribution of the primary school fund appears to have won the backing of about every essential organization in Michigan, short of the legislature. The big test comes this week.

"A PURITAN WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

ANN MEETS GRACE EDMUNDS Chapter 5. Dick Belden was very proud of his wife, very much in love with her. He grieved when he hurt her, and yet because of his inability to say "no" he occasionally did. Ann neither nagged him or cried when he came home from the trip to town with the smell of liquor on him, his errands forgotten; but she would look so sad, and the sparkle that was so much a part of her, would leave her—perhaps for days. They had been married a year before Ann really owned to herself her fear of this weakness of Dick's, before she said: "Dick, unless you learn to say 'no' to the men you meet in town, you will forget some time when it will mean disaster to us." "Don't worry, Ann! I never forget big things. Don't I always bring home machinery, and—" "That's because you buy them before you meet the boys from the other ranches. You never remember anything after you have been with them. I should think it would frighten you, Dick—losing your memory as you do. It does me—dreadfully." But always Dick consoled her with loving words, kisses, and laughing reminders that he didn't go where the boys were often; that she must not make a prig of him, that he wasn't brought up as she had been, and so on, his good-nature undisturbed. "He's too easy-going," she said to herself, "so much so it amounts to weakness." Yet per-

Bessie. A look of pain seemed to flash into Bessie's eyes, her quick face, but it was so quickly gone that Ann wondered if she had imagined it. It was a selfish speech, but probably Grace meant nothing unkind. She was enthused over the groves. All through the dinner, served by the Chinese boy, Ann had to help her. All through the long evening that followed Grace monopolized the attention of both Ned and Dick, constantly referring to the, almost ignoring Ann and Bessie. "She's a city girl, it's just her way," Ann thought as she observed. "We must have some parties, Ned," Grace declared, "and you must get a victrola right away so we can dance. I love dancing, and I am sure both you and Mr. Belden would make delightful partners. I'll teach you all the new steps." Ann knew that Bessie had been longing for a victrola. Bessie was musical, and had talked often of the delight it would be to hear the opera rendered on an instrument—opera she never had heard because of the distance from any large city, and the necessity for economy until their ranch was paid for. But Ned put her off. Bessie was not strong. It was necessary for her to have a "china boy" to help her and they could not afford the victrola. So Ann was surprised when Ned smiled at his cousin and said: "Sure I'll get one, Grace. You shall dance all you want to." The dislike Ann had felt at first increased before the evening was over. The girl was very beautiful, but very selfish, and rude—at least, Ann thought it rudeness to ignore Bessie and herself as Grace did. Dick seemed as intrigued with her as did Ned, and for the first time in her (To be continued.)

NEW FASHIONS TO GIVE WORLD DISTINCT JAR

Will Go Far Away from Flapper Types, Says Ernie Young.

By ROY GIBBONS. NEA Staff Correspondent. Chicago, March 27—We've hit the depression peak in feminine loveliness and style. Half, then, to the rebound!

Say goodbye to the vamp, the bobbed-haired flapper and the "new woman." The lot of them with their swaggers, slinks and fags are due for the gate.

For girls, like clothes, are going to be evolved into some startling new fashions.

On her way, shortly to be taken to the public bosom and embraced as ruling favorite, is the baby-eyed, demure little miss of "Orphan Annie" fame, destined to rule as successfully as she did 50 years ago, over the enraptured hearts of an adoring retinue of swains.

Such is the picture painted by Ernie Young, nationally famed musical comedy producer here. Backed by 25 years of theatrical experience during which he has hired and fired over 100,000 ladies of the chorus, Young predicts that the 50-year cycle in feminine beauty and style once more has started to swing.

Swing Is Started. With ear to the ground listening to what theater-goers think and say, Young has read their verdict yet unspoken and translated it into action during the past month by firing all blondes, red-heads and others at his theatres whose tresses have been longed.

Likewise, his official ax has fallen upon ladies in his employ given to quaffing from the forbidden bottles.

"You're through," he tells them. "I'm sorry, but the public has spoken. Go out and learn how to get along without rouge. Forget your crazy methods of living and get back some of the natural bloom and sweetness that goes with real femininity.

"Do that and I'll talk to you. But until then stay away. You jazz babies are putting a stamp upon yourselves that the public doesn't want to see any longer. Folks are tired of the hectic life. Start acting like your mothers' did."

They'll Be Tall. According to Young, the new-style girl will be about five feet seven inches tall. She will be decidedly brunette, push the cosmetic dealers into bankruptcy, and be of the homey kind, fond of her knitting, with only one love for one man.

"The change is bound to come," says Young. "Stylish in girls change about every 50 years. It's like a circle. The flapper rage we're just passing out of, represents the final turn. From now on we'll be getting back to the point from which girl styles started.

"I'm making changes in my various theatres and road shows to conform with what's going to take place. In another two years the flapper won't dare show her head outside the house. Why? Because the world's nerves are aching from excitement.

Show, With Flowers. "Slow music and plenty of flowers is the order of the day. Life—not liveliness—is what is wanted now. Everything is going to become normal. And so are our women.

"There are too many 12 and 14-year-old babies running loose nowadays masquerading as mature women of 30 and above. And too many women of 30 and 40 masquerading as babies of 18."

Young holds out great hopes for the new-style girl. She'll be in our midst before we know it, he says. Her manner will be spiritual and her slightest wish will be the signal for service from all men at hand.

Floyd Johnson Wins Bout in 20 Seconds

Boston, Mass., March 26—Floyd Johnson of Iowa, knocked out Ray Thompson of New York in 20 seconds here tonight. The Iowa heavyweight sent Thompson reeling to the floor with a punch to the jaw after 12 seconds of milling and the New Yorker stayed down until the count of eight. A blow to the right temple felled him for the last time.

HATS OF RIBBON. Ribbon is the preferred trimming at present. Frequently it makes entire hats. Flowers are used, massed or in nosegays. Occasionally a single large flower is posed with distinction at the back of a hat.

BUSTLE BOW. The bustle bow is appearing on many of the season's smartest frocks. It harks back to the 1830 period and introduces a certain quaintness and charm in a sophisticated age.

A measure to give women equal political recognition in party organization has been defeated in the Kansas legislature.

BIG BIRD PULLS A BIG BIRD

Floyd Johnson, the big new heavyweight sensation, doesn't put in every last minute training for his bout with Jess Willard. He's shown here behind one of the speedy ostriches at Hot Springs, Ark., where he's working out.

HUTCHISON AT 39 IS PLAYING STELLAR GAME

Is Jack Hutchison, former British open golf champion, due for another big season?

Hutchison is unquestionably one of the most remarkable figures in golfdom. For years he has been one of the ranking players of the country, always in the money. At 39 years of age he is going better than ever and looks to be in for a big year.

Despite the fact that Hutchison weighs only about 145, he hits one of the longest balls of any of the professionals. He accomplishes this by getting his body into the swing. Few players pivot as much as Hutchison when they hit the ball.

Hutchison has just completed a tour of the coast and south in company with the national open champion, Gene Sarazen. On the entire trip Hutchison has outscored the present title holder by a comfortable margin.

On the tour just closed, competing against the best players in the country and on strange courses, Hutchison has not played a round above 75, while his average for the trip has been a trifle over 71.

When it is remembered the two players were traveling almost constantly, getting but little sleep other than on Pullmans, Hutchison's record stands as a remarkable bit of golf, and makes it seem that the colorful "Hutch" is in for a big year.

BOOZE BUYERS LAW BREAKERS SAYS ASL HEAD

Lansing, Mich., March 26—The belief is general in Michigan that only the seller of intoxicants is guilty of a law violation, officials of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League find in their trips about the state. Even dry friends seem to have the opinion that the buyer of contraband is innocent of a prohibition law violation and many of them have written to the Lansing headquarters of the state dry league advocating the preparation of a bill for this session of the legislature which would make the buyer equally guilty with the seller, of a violation of the Volstead Act.

In a statement issued here today, W. V. Waltman, superintendent of the state dry league, calls attention to Section 6, National prohibition act, which makes it unlawful to purchase bootleg liquor. Advice from the office of the federal prohibition enforcement commission indicate that an energetic campaign of prosecution by the federal government against buyers of illicit liquor may be expected.

May Change Plan. The statement corrects the impression that it is within the law to buy illicit liquor and intimates that the prosecution of the patrons of the bootlegger might bring about a far more effective enforcement of prohibition than the prosecution of the bootleggers themselves.

Continuing it, it says: "The law applies to rich and poor, high and low. The purchaser of bootleg liquor is as guilty of a violation of the law as is the seller. The energies of a few industrious prosecuting officers directed at the so-called respectable patrons of the bootlegger will do more to curb lawlessness than the conviction of every bootlegger who ever flourished."

"The thought of conviction strikes little terror to the heart of the bootlegger; it is veritable nightmare to his supposedly respectable patrons.

"A vigorous campaign of prosecution directed against the purchasers of illicit liquor will have a more wholesome effect in producing respect for law than a one-sided campaign directed solely against the sellers."

Walter Hagen Is Jinx for Barnes

In baseball every pitcher has a certain club that is his jinx. Likewise, every star batsman has some pitcher who is hard for him to hit. Often the pitcher to puzzle some star batter is just an ordinary twirler.

The jinx idea seems to hold good in every branch of sport. Perhaps the most pronounced case of jinx in golfdom is the spell that Walter Hagen seems to hold over Jim Barnes.

Hagen and Barnes are two of the greatest golfers in the game, yet Barnes is always the easiest kind of picking for Hagen. Against the British open champion Barnes never looks better than a very ordinary player.

"Hagen just seems to have my goat. Any time I play him I expect to get trimmed and I'm seldom disappointed," is the way, Barnes explains it.

LOVE DOES NOT LEAD FOLKS TO HYMEN'S ALTAR

Cupid's Work Placed On Shelf, Says "Expert."

New York.—People aren't marrying for love, nowadays. They may marry for a home, or money, or companionship or because they are young and he looks like those nice pictures you see in the collar ads.

But not for love, says Leonard McGee, attorney-in-chief for the New York Legal Aid Society, who during the past 13 years has listened to the marital woes of something like 35,000 persons.

"Love's about the one thing people don't marry for," says McGee, "even at that things wouldn't be so bad if people could only be sure of the substitutes. But they can't."

Disillusioned. "The elderly traveling salesman who thinks he's about due for a little home cooking picks on a girl that he's dead sure is domestic. After they're married she tells him she's not going to be any man's slave and they drag around from one cheap boarding house to another."

"The girl clerking in the department store watches the married women who come in to shop and thinks it must be great to lie in bed in the mornings and not have to worry where the money's coming from. She marries the nearest available young man and finds out that to get her household done and look after her growing family she's got to work 12 hours a day instead of eight."

"He marries her because she is dainty and sweet and pretty and after they're married he finds out that it takes all of his money and all of her time to keep her dainty and sweet and pretty."

"She marries him because of his high moral rectitude and then discovers that he's a crank on religion."

Divorces Increasing. "If these people had ever really loved each other they would weather the domestic storms somehow. As it is, they make hot haste to a lawyer. Occasionally when a young husband discovers what an expensive process a divorce is, he decides that his wife's temper or dish-throwing proclivities are perhaps not so bad after all, and goes home to make things up."

"The number of divorces is growing. Our office took care of 4,000 the last year, an increase of 600 over the year before."

"The majority of divorces come from young persons who have married under age. They prove conclusively that it is a mistake to marry too young."

"Marriages to legitimize children are seldom happy. In most cases the man disappears immediately after."

OUR ERROR.

THE Daily Press Sunday printed a story which gave the date of the banquet of the Chicago & Northwestern bowling league as "next Tuesday." The item should have read Tuesday, April 3. The article also stated that the league season was not complete which also was an error. The league season is over.

BOSTON BRAVES NOT LAST ONES

Evans Sees Mitchell's Club Climbing Ladder Towards the Top.

BY BILLY EVANS. St. Petersburg, Fla., March 26.—The Boston Braves will not finish last in the National League this year.

The Braves at this time last year were picked for the first division, a possible pennant contender, yet they finished a bad last.

In the spring of 1922, Manager McGraw of the New York Giants in sizing up the opposition, expressed the opinion that the Braves would make trouble.

I am not making any predictions for the Braves for this year other than that Fred Mitchell's club will not finish last.

The drop to the cellar position was an awful blow to Mitchell and his veteran players. They are equally positive that the club will not repeat as a tail-ender. In fact, some of the more optimistic are sure of fifth place, and hint at the possibility of a first division berth.

Braves' Board of Strategy. One of the things that impressed me at the Braves' training camp was Mitchell's board of strategy.

The veteran Dick Rudolph, one of the smartest pitchers that ever threw a ball, looked after the recruit twirlers. He was ably assisted in his efforts by Charley Farrell, one of the greatest catchers that ever donned a glove.

Handing out pointers to the young insiders, was Arthur Devlin, who, as member of the New York Giants, won the honor of being classed as one of the greatest third sackers in the history of the game.

As I watched the Braves at practice, and in actual competition, it seemed impossible that a club with as much strength as Boston could possibly finish in last place. A talk with a few of the veterans will readily explain the reverse suffered by the Braves in 1922.

Boston Club Was Jinxed. I talked it over with Hank Gowdy, who looks in wonderful shape, and who seems destined to do much of Boston's catching, rather than being shipped to the minors as Dame Rumor had it last winter.

"From the very beginning to the end of last season the Boston Club was jinxed," explained Hank.

"Only two of the regular players escaped injury. At one time in Chicago we had only 16 players in uniform, and two of those were in no condition to play. On 50 different occasions last year some regular was forced out of the game because of injuries."

Billy Southworth and Tony Broeckel, two of our best men, were out of it a greater part of the year.

"Remember how the New York American club was killed off in 1916 because of injuries, when it seemed the team had a chance for the pennant? Well, we had twice as much tough luck last year."

"No club could stand up under what we did last season, it was inevitable that we sink to the depths of baseball, last place."

All the other veterans said amen to Gowdy's words.

Ketchell Loses to Lisse on a Foul

Hot Springs, Ark., March 26—Johnny Lisse, New York featherweight, was awarded the decision over Eddie Ketchell of Toledo here tonight at the end of the second round of their scheduled 10 round match. The referee ruled that Ketchell had fouled Lisse.

Argentine Great Sporting Country—Really Wants Champ Battle

BY CHARLES P. STEWART. NEA Staff Writer.

People who think it's foolish to talk about a $500,000 to $1,000,000 offer from Buenos Aires for a fight between Luis Angel Firpo and Jack Dempsey don't know the Argentine. I do know it. I published a paper down there.

Buenos Aires, with its suburbs, is a city of 2,000,000 population, there's barrels of money there, the South Americans are free spenders and they're fight crazy.

What's more, they don't like North Americans. There are mighty few Argentines, even among those who don't care particularly for fighting, who would not dig up the last centavo they could steal, beg or borrow to see one of their countrymen try to lick a "Yanqui."

And the certainly do believe Firpo can lick anybody. The personal element enters into it a good deal more than in this country. Jack Dempsey's only name to the average North American. About a fourth of the population of Argentina lives right in Buenos Aires where Firpo lives, and in Buenos Aires, which has a lot of small-town characteristics in spite of its size everybody knows everybody. Mighty few of the inhabitants have seen Firpo with their own eyes and there are thousands who, even if he is not aware that he's acquainted with them, they know him, at least to speak to.

Then again, in fight matters, South Americans lack a sense of perspective. They have lots of fights but the fighters, have precious little sense. In Buenos Aires a good pork-and-beaner ranks as a top-notch. Now Firpo, though possibly not in Dempsey's class, is better than a pork-and-beaner. The Buenos Aires fans have seen him knock the tar out of men that they don't realize aren't the best the world has to offer. Naturally they overestimate him.

Fight Sure to Draw. Buenos Aires, as a crowd center, is at the disadvantage of being a long way from other big towns whence to draw visitors.

Buenos Aires itself, however, could be depended on to turn out almost in a body and there certainly would be a big attendance also from places like Rosario, Cordoba and Bahia Blanca, which are pretty fair sized Argentine burghs; from Santiago and Valparaiso, over in Chile; from Montevideo, in Uruguay, and even from as far away as Santos, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, up in Brazil.

Maybe if an Argentine syndicate should put up as high as $1,000,000 it would have to gamble a little on getting all its money back, with a profit, but at that it wouldn't be such a bad bet—not half as bad as other chances Argentine money has taken aforetime.

Police Objections. It's also suggested that perhaps the Argentine authorities wouldn't permit the fight within their jurisdiction.

Hugh! True, theoretically fights are forbidden in Buenos Aires, but the Universities Club and the Police Club hold them there right along just the same, with the utmost publicity, and nobody interferes with them.

Even if the municipal "intendentes" were to have a fit of virtue and shut down on a go between Firpo and Dempsey, there are plenty of facilities for getting outside the city limits, and beyond them anybody can pull off anything.

But that Buenos Aires itself should object is beyond the bounds of reasonable probability. If a fight offer should come, or has come, from Buenos Aires, it's an absolute certainty that one of the principal men behind it is Carlos Seguin, the leading Argentine amusement magnate and a multi-millionaire. Anything Seguin asks the Buenos Aires authorities for he gets, and he's proved it by asking for and getting some things that aren't mentioned here for fear he might come up and sue for damages.

And behind Seguin is Carlos Tornquist, the Argentine banker, who was reputed a couple of years ago to have bought the Monte Carlo gambling concession for the equivalent of $10,000,000 in United States money. Whether he really did buy it or not is neither here nor there. The point is that nobody questioned his ability to pay $10,000,000, for it without missing the money.

That's the kind of cash and influence that would look after a Firpo-Dempsey fight, if one should be staged in Buenos Aires.

Tex Knows Country.

Of all the people mentioned in connection with the fight-in-Argentina plan, aside from Firpo himself, Tex Rickard's the only one who knows much of the country.

Tex knows a lot. Tex lost a roll there, estimated to have contained about $1,000,000, U. S. gold.

Rickard's idea was to found a big estate in what's known as the Chaco, which roughly translated, means "wilderness," a vast region—the country's extreme north—good land, but practically uninhabited, except for a few Indians and vast numbers of man-eating wild animals and poison snakes.

He got a concession the size of a Texas county, fitted out an expedition at Embarcacion, the point of rails; and started to trek a week through the jungle to the Pilcomayo River, on which his land was situated.

The expedition left Embarcacion with everything necessary to build a modern city on the Pilcomayo bank, but not much of it ever got that far. The mules and cattle strayed away in the jungle and were lost. Expensive machinery, finished lumber, all kinds of supplies were dumped alongside the trail for lack of transport. Indian guides deserted. Imported American cowboys got sick of it all and went home.

Finally Tex himself abandoned the enterprise as a bad job. Following his departure the Chaco Indians rounded up the lost mules and cattle, salvaged what they could from the wreckage and have lived in clover ever since.

Didn't Get Far. Later the indomitable Rickard made a second Chaco attempt from the Paraguayan side. He didn't get far. An American company took the venture off his hands.

KELLY DEFEATS INVADING STAR IN ROLLER RACE

First Defeat for Wirtz in Six Years

John Kelly, Escanaba roller skater, defeated Clarence Wirtz, of Green Bay, at the Coliseum Sunday night, skating the mile course in 3:15. It was Wirtz' first defeat in six years and although worn out by an eight-hour ride on a railway train before his arrival here, he gave Kelly a hard fight. Kelly won by less than three feet.

About 600 persons saw the race. Clem Revard defeated Wallace Cobb by about six feet in their special one mile race on the same program. In the skate boys' special event, John Flath was first and Clarence Tauchak second. Eddie Gentry, a colored boy, was a close third in a driving finish.

Tonight Kelly, Revard and Cobb, forming a three-mile relay team, each skating a mile, will skate against Wirtz, who will go the entire three-mile course. There will be a matinee program at the rink this afternoon.

MINSTREL SHOW
PLEASURES CROWD

High School Girls Prove Splendid Entertainers
in Black Face.

Those who saw the minstrel show at the high school Friday afternoon marvelled at the display of stage talent by the Senior girls, who, unassisted, had planned, directed, and produced the most enjoyable assembly entertainment that has yet been shown this school year.

Attired as black-face minstrel men and women of all sizes, the girls rendered a program of songs, jokes and novelty numbers, that was applauded at every turn by the audience, composed of high school and central school students, besides a generous sprinkling of visitors.

The producers had also shown good judgment in choosing costumes for color effect, and the scene of the minstrel circle was enlivened by the presence of the brightest of colors. None of the costumes were indifferently and carelessly prepared, as is often the case in impromptu shows.

To the average spectator, the identity of a few of the "coons" could be recognized, so black were their faces, and so clever the make-up. Questioning however, revealed that the four end
"men" were, Doris Morrison, Marguerite Bryce, Ina Martin and Florence Williams.

Then there were the "Gold Dust" twins, two tiny chocolate fats; one could hardly believe them to be senior girls. "Bugs"
Peterson and Lorraine Cusson played the twins so effectively that merely to look at them was to laugh.

Among the specialties were some numbers that were mighty clever. "Git You Satchel Packed," by Miss Martin and "Rover" by Miss Peterson, with whistling chorus, were two good songs.

Then there was a "sheikess" dance by Dorothy Hovey that was a knockout. Attired in a costume of bright blue and bright pink combination, she did a comedy dance that was a decided novelty. Another number that tickled the funny bone was the
"rush order" mock wedding.

This was an innovation, for the entire procession "hopped" in on tiptoe to the solemn tones of the jazz march. After the dignified preacher had pronounced the couple man and wife, the lumpy bride lifted the groom up and kissed "him" after which they pranced out again.

The high school orchestra opened the entertainment with two selections, and the final pre-vacation affair was closed with a vill by the seniors.

Alma College Five
Plays Here Tonight

Basketball fans will not be disappointed by another postponement of the season windup game scheduled for the high school gym tonight, when Alma College, on a harmonizing tour, meets the local Legion team. Assurance has been received that the visitors will be here to fill their engagement tonight.

The best battle of the year is promised Alma College's quintet, runners-up for the M. I. A. A. championship, is a classy team,
and will give the vets here a hard rub.

In the preliminary, the juniors and seniors will mix to decide the school championship for the year.
This will also be a tight scrap.
The juniors are favored by many of the fans, but the seniors may win, at that.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER.
Spring colors formed the color scheme in the decorations used by Mrs. W. S. Crowe Friday evening when she was hostess to a number of friends at a six o'clock dinner.

Daffodils in glass flower holders were used on each of the five small tables, green baskets filled with small candles were the favors at each place, and place cards represented dainty Misses dressed in their spring finery.

After the delicious three-course dinner was served five tables of bridge were formed, highest honors going to Mrs.
George J. Nicholson.

The following guests were present: Mesdames Waddell,

STORM AGAIN
CAUSES DELAY
OF SOO TRAINS
Gladstone Has Zero
Weather But No
Snow

Another late March blizzard hit the peninsula east of here Saturday night and trains from the direction of the Soo were able to make this station only after battling the snow drifts near Gil-place for several hours and afternoon, or about 16 hours late. The local train from that direction was in even harder fix, the one due here at 6:30 Saturday night not getting here until about nine o'clock Sunday night.

After successfully making its way through the drifts at Gilchrist, the local train into another blizzard the other side of Isabella and we held up for several hours more at that place.

Gladstone shivered in near zero weather throughout Saturday, Sunday and yesterday but the

COMMITTEE ON TEACHERS HAS
SPECIAL SESSION

Positions to Be Tendered
This Week, Supt.
Teague Announces.

Following a special meeting of the teachers' committee of the Gladstone board of education in conference Saturday night with Supt. C. H. Teague, whose recommendations were requested at that time, positions will this week be tendered the present members of the faculty of the Gladstone public schools.

The teachers, to whom the offers of positions will be made before Friday when the schools close for the Easter vacation, will be given two weeks in which to make known their intentions to acceptance or resignation, and following this lineup of the situation definite action will be taken by the board at its regular meeting called for that purpose.

It is usual to hold a meeting in April for the selection of the teaching staff and to advance contracts in May, without any preliminary meetings, but the teachers' committee composed of James T. Jones and Dr. James Mitchell, meeting Saturday with Supt. Teague, found the lining up of the situation advisable before the meeting of the board to act upon the matter.

Several recommendations as to salary increase and other matters directing under the observation of the superintendent, were made by Mr. Teague, and it is presumed that the board will act as much as possible in accordance with his recommendations.

"If it could be found possible," said Mr. Teague Monday in discussing the situation, "I would wish to keep every member of the faculty we now have with us.
However, I can but make recommendations and await the action of the board."

It is probable that as has been customary, two meetings will be called by the board, one in April to select the faculty according to the changes to be made

Garden Bay News

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Henry Courchane and wife east of town about 3:30 Saturday morning. The alarm was turned into the local fire station by Nelson Tarrow, a son-in-law, and close neighbor. It was not long before the greater part of the Courchane neighborhood was on the scene of conflagration. But it was soon found that the flames had too secure a hold on the building to extinguish them. Forthwith, the efforts of the crew of workers were concentrated on removing the furniture from the burning building. Of this some considerable part was moved to the home of Mr. Tarrow.

It is supposed that the fire started from the chimney. It is only two years ago that the owner put on a fire proof roof. The village fire fighting outfit was not used in fighting the fire at the Courchane home on account of the impossibility of pulling it through the deep snow drifts. Fortunately, the building and furniture were amply covered by insurance. Mr. Courchane is one of Garden's oldest residents. He and his wife have temporarily made their home with their son-in-law.

Vernon Hazen of Kates' Bay, saw the Courchane fire at an early stage. He frantically called up the central telephone office in town to inquire whose place it was. He was under the impression that it was his father's residence. The operator, who had been awakened out of her sleep by the telephone bell and not the fire bell, was not able at the time to give him any information. The Hazen residence is but a stone's throw from the scene of the disaster.

A serious fire was averted about 1 a. m. on Monday morning in the LeDuc home east of town, when Mrs. LeDuc emptied the contents of all the milk cans on to a fire which had got beyond the limits of the family stove. Mr. LeDuc was away at Nahma at the time, and before retiring for the night, his wife fancied she could smell smoke. An investigation revealed nothing to cause alarm, and she, with her family went to bed for the night. Later, she again smelt the suspicious odor and she arose and made further investigation. This time there was no room for doubt. The chimney was on fire. She brought an axe into quick service. With the help of the children, water was thrown on the fire, but the supply was limited for the pump was temporarily out of commission. With foresight and commendable presence of mind, she went for the milk containers and it was the milk that saved the premises from destruction.

Jas. S. Arno and wife have returned from Isabella. Henry Baker took them down to their home at Fairport on Wednesday. John Plante and Sylvia Roberts returned to Cooks, on Wednesday after visiting for a few days at the Philip Plante home at Puffy Creek. They would have returned earlier but for the storms and bad roads. Noah Rushford of Fayette, was in town on business on Thursday.

John Christensen drove over the ice to Nahma on Wednesday. While there was considerable slush, the going was fairly good and he arrived home in respectable time the same day. He expects to make one or two more trips before the ice goes. Lela Winters went to Munising Saturday where she expects to be employed. David Horning went to Nahma yesterday with farm produce. Lee Foote went through town yesterday with a large load of wire fencing which he will use on his turkey ranch south of town.

Garden citizens are viewing with a little alarm, the situation caused by the continued snow storms. Last spring, while not much actual damage was done, considerable embarrassment was caused by the vast amount of water. It is generally conceded that the danger is much greater this spring and the probability is, that there will be a much larger volume of melting snow to be carried off. If this is augmented by much rain as was the case a year ago, it is likely to prove a real menace to a number of property owners, especially those adjacent to the village creek.

According to news dispatches, the legislature has voted to take off the bounty for rats. This was deemed advisable because, say the bill's sponsors, a large amount of money has been spent and the vermin continue as numerous as possible. This is open for discussion though, and we are afraid that the pests will be still more numerous in the future. Garden has one of two very accomplished rat catchers in the community and we view with grave concern any move which is likely to deprive them of a livelihood. Alice Lamkey has gone out to the Frank Laloue farm residence east of town and will remain there indefinitely. Her father drove her out on Wednesday. The Ladies Guild of the Congregational church held their regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chester Winters. In spite of bad roads, a good number of friends and members of the society were present.

Whether based on a superstitious fear, pure and simple, or calmly calculated from hard facts and occurrences we are not in a position to state, but there is a general impression in this neighborhood that whenever there is an outbreak of fire here, this is followed by two or more and then, a period of rest. The supposed inevitable has happened once more in this district. In this issue we report the fires at the LeDuc home and the Courchane home. These were but about half a mile away from each other. Only a little more than a week ago we reported a fire at the Angus McDonald home which is but a stone's throw from the Courchane home. A coincidence is that, so far as can be ascertained, all these fires originated from the same source, that is, in the chimney. It impresses the importance of carefully keeping tabs on the condition of the chimneys at all times.

Robert Lester returned from Nahma on Wednesday walking over the ice. Ed Paulson of Kates' Bay accompanied him. They made a pretty well-matched team for both men were suffering from a bad attack of flu and were partners in distress as they made the long hard trip to their homes here.

Robert Lester has rented his place on the Harbor Road to Ed Paulson. Mr. Paulson will occupy it on an early date. Loretta Truckey left Garden on Saturday for Brampton, where she was called to fill a vacancy in the public school, caused by the sickness of one of the teachers. The unfortunate lady has since died and Miss Truckey has been asked to finish out the term at this school. We have not heard at the time of going to press whether or not she has accepted the offer. Miss Truckey has been for a number of years, one of the instructors in the local grade schools.

Walter Bennet returned from Manistique yesterday. He had been up there a week and was unable to get away on account of the condition of the weather and the roads. He brought back with him a load of freight. He left Garden early in the afternoon for his home at Fayette. Wilmer Bennet and Earl Clifton have returned from camp where they have been working a good part of the winter. John Christensen drove to Manistique yesterday with a load of dairy produce. He expects to return today.

Mrs. McKenzle returned Saturday morning to her home at the Soo. She has spent the greater part of the winter as a patient at the cancer hospital. She is feeling very much better and quite happy to be able to return to her home, and without the cancer.

Mrs. Neil Bakke left yesterday afternoon for a visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. D. Page, at Larshend, Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tully left for LaCrosse, Wis., where Mr. Tully is receiving treatment at a hospital. Jos. Girard, formerly employed at the Fair Store, left for Chicago where he has accepted a position.

The Misses Anona and Thelma Anderson, who have been attending the Northern State Normal at Arquette, are spending the Easter vacation at the parental home. Mrs. Charles Oesterling and daughter June, of Niagara, Wis., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mary MaYes, Third Ave. South. Edward Roland returned to his home at Carney, after spending the week-end visiting with relatives. Kodak finishing. Good pictures made quick. The Photo Art Shop, 3954-11.

Henry J. Boileau returned to his home at Enderlin, S. D., Sunday evening, after attending the funeral of his father, Michael Boileau. 38 YEAR RECORD IS APPROACHED HERE YESTERDAY

Coldest March Day Since 1885 is Recorded Here

With a record of five degrees below zero registered here at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the coldest March day recorded at the Escanaba weather station since Mar. 29, 1885 was reported. On that date a record of 14 below zero was hung up. On but one other late date in March has yesterday morning's record been approached. On Mar. 26, 1899 a temperature of four below zero was registered. Sunday and Monday combined to make up two of the most disagreeable days of the present winter. Although the official temperature record on Sunday was but six above zero the mercury did not rise about 15 degrees during the entire day and the effect of that temperature was heightened by a 30 mile gale of wind out of the north through the greater portion of the day. On Sunday night the mercury in the official thermometer began to tumble rapidly and after registering at 6 below early in the morning, remained at that low point until after 7 o'clock.

Relief is promised for today by Observer Spindler, as a low pressure area approached this section out of the northwest, indicating that a mild temperature will prevail this morning with a gradually rising temperature throughout the day. There will be a sea-Scout meeting Tuesday night in the St. Joseph's Club Rooms at 7:30. ERNEST PETERSON, Skipper. 1845—William C. Roentgen, discoverer of the X-rays, born in Prussia. PART OF STREET WINS PAVEMENT

Unless some further action is taken in interesting property owners in the improvement, the pavement on First Avenue south will be reconstructed only from Fourteenth street west to Lakeview cemetery. Property owners on that portion of the street have signed practically a unanimous petition for the improvement, while a sufficient number of property owners have not signed for the remainder of the street. City Manager Harris will probably invite property owners on some other street to petition for the rebuilding of their pavement, eliminating First Avenue south from further consideration.

Figure your Roofing this way. A large share of the expense in any roof is the labor of laying it. If you put on the right kind of roof, that settles the matter for good and all. You are never going to have to fuss with it and your first cost is going to be your last cost. That is the result when you insist on having "HALF CENTURY" BRAND WHITE CEDAR SHINGLES. Made with Galvanized or Copper Nails. There is no wood that can excel White Cedar in weather-resisting quality. That's why it is such a wonderful shingle wood. And "Half Century" Shingles are the best White Cedar Shingles because they are made the right thickness and are air cured. Shingles that are cut too thin or are too hastily seasoned, as is apt to be the case when they are cured under the dry kiln process, are liable to split in nailing and they have a tendency to crack, curl and warp. "Half Century" Shingles are cut right, cured right and they last as long as their name indicates. And they stain beautifully in any shade. All lumber dealers can supply you. (Look for the trade-mark on every bundle. It's your guarantee of quality.) Ask us for a copy of our valuable booklet, "How to Lay a Shingle Roof." It's free. WHITE CEDAR SHINGLE MANUFACTURERS F. R. My Perennial Beauty

And my debt to France By Edna Wallace Hopper

All who see me on the street, who wish may get it anywhere, and elsewhere know that I look 19. My youthful bloom is the envy of countless debutantes. Yet for 32 years I have been a musical comedy star, and am now of a grandmother's age. I owe this to France. Her experts perfected the beauty helps I use. And I served with France during all the great war to help repay that debt.

Now I go further. I am offering these formulas to all woman-kind. I am sharing with all the helps I found, and what they brought to me. White super-clay. My chief help is a facial clay. Not the crude and muddy clays so many use today, but a white, refined clay, clean and dainty, wondrously effective. It is the final result of 20 years of scientific study.

French beauty experts, many years ago, taught me what clay can do. Then few women used them, and those women became the marvels of their time for beautiful complexions. But science has gone far since then. It has found that rare clay mineral-laden, which brings maximum results. It has learned how to refine it—to remove the useless mud. It has added factors which give it a multiple effect.

No ordinary clay gives on any conception of what this new 45¢ clay can do. Now I am having this superior clay prepared by able experts, so
