HARVEY'S STAY IN LONDON TO BE TEMPORARY

HENRY FLETCHER IS MENTIONED AS SUCCESSOR.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Escanaba Press) Washington, May 19.—Evidence begins to multiply that Ambassador George Harvey will not long remain as ambassador to Great Britain. The fact that the ambassador is a guest at the white house and that he has engaged return passage for London have given the impression that stories of personal differences between him and the president are baseless and that he is returning to his post after the customary vacation. But such is not the case.

The ambassador brought with him twenty trunks containing, it is said, many of his confidential papers. He is going back, it is true, to clean up his affairs on the other side but his intention on arriving here at least was to resign his post at the time most convenient to the president. The name most prominently mentioned as successor is that of Henry Fletcher, ambassador to Belgium, who went to South America recently as the head of the United States delegation to the Pan-American conference at Santiago, Chile.

Has Wide Experience.

He was undersecretary of State and right hand man to Secretary Hughes before he went to Belgium and he has had a long and successful career in the diplomatic service of the United States under both democratic and republican administrations. Although he was in the army and one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, he turned to the diplomatic service shortly after the Spanish-American War and after an experience in various parts of the world became a minister to Chile and was elevated to the post of ambassador by President Wilson who later sent him as the first ambassador to Mexico when the Carranza government was recognized.

There is a warm personal friendship between Mr. Harding and Ambassador Fletcher and it so happens also that the secretary of state esteems the diplomatic ability of Mr. Fletcher very highly too, so that the appointment to London would not come as a surprise.

Repeats of Friction.

Ever since Ambassador Harvey has been in London, there have been reports of recurring friction between him and the government at Washington, but nothing has ever come to the surface on which a rumor of severance of relations would seem to be justified. It is known, however, that Mr. Harvey has not felt that the world court need be tied up to the league of nations and his whole background has been closer to the so-called "irreconcilables" than the viewpoint now taken by President Harding.

There would be nothing personal in Mr. Harvey's attitude nor on the side of President Harding for he is the kind of man who respects those who differ with him and harbors no grudges when conviction governs an opposite view from his. So the presence of Ambassador Harvey and Mrs. Harvey at the white house denotes a continuance of the pleasant relations that have existed but has no direct relation necessarily to the views of the American ambassador on what foreign policy should be.

Harvey Must Back Up.

When Ambassador Harvey went to London, almost his first utterance was a warning to Europe that the United States would not join the league of nations directly or indirectly with any commission or organization created by the league. President Harding did not see the speech in advance and it was felt at the time that Mr. Harvey may have interpreted the president's position with too much restriction on future freedom of action. Since then the president has publicly announced his willingness to have America enter a world court tied up to the league of nations. This refutes the Harvey prediction.

Incidentally it is pertinent to reproduce here a portion of the text of a cablegram sent by Elihu Root from London to George Harvey when he was a guest at Marion in the latter part of August, 1920, prior, of course, to Mr. Harding's famous Des Moines speech in which he declares against entering the league and prior to his later statement after his election to the effect that the league of nations was dead. Here is what Mr. Root cabled and the story goes that the Root cablegram was tossed into the wastebasket or at any rate brushed aside with adverse comment when Mr. Harvey presented it: "Declaration on which Hays asks an opinion cannot be defined. The Hague court cannot be made to cover anything but justifiable questions. Matters of state policy must be dealt with by conference of powers. See explanation in my letter to Hays of March 1919. It is very unwise to declare the league dead. It would not be true. The league has hardly begun to function because the terms of peace have not yet been enforced by the victorious nations.

It never has developed whether Mr. Harvey or Mr. Harding was increased at the contents of that telegram but the stories from Marion at the time represented Mr. Harding as believing that Mr. Root was wrong and that The Hague tribunal could accomplish all that was necessary in international cooperation plus, of course, conference and diplomacy directly between nations affected.

Many Changes Made.

Much water has gone over the dam since that time but President Harding has found Elihu Root's advice was sound, namely that the world court which Mr. Root helped to make it worthy of the support of the administration, and that its relationship to the league is not an insuperable barrier to endorsement of the project. Mr. Harvey went to London however, a confirmed "irreconcilable." Mr. Harding has turned somewhat from the extreme wing of the party and taken a middle ground on foreign affairs. Mr. Harvey is represented as believing some one else should handle the interpretation of American policy abroad under such circumstances. There have been denials and probably will be more before a resignation is announced but the discussion of a successor which has been going on in well informed circles takes it for granted that George Harvey will shortly say goodbye to London and the court of St. James.

CLARA OFFERS JAILER BRIBES

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The woman being held here as Clara Phillips, the California hammer murderer, has been definitely identified by Deputy Sheriff Walter Hunter, who arrived here from Los Angeles. She will be taken back to Los Angeles where she escaped from jail last December by a steamer leaving May 30.

Lawyers to Rewrite Law of Contracts

New York, May 19.—Four prominent authorities were chosen today by the council of the American Law Institute to undertake the work of restating the common law of the land. A fund of $1,075,000 was made available for the purpose recently by the Carnegie corporation. Samuel Williston will be the reporter for contracts; Francis H. Bohlen reporter for torts; Floyd R. Mechem, reporter for agency and Joseph H. Beale, reporter for conflicting laws. These reporters, who will be primarily responsible for the preparation of the preliminary drafts, will each have the assistance and advice of other leading experts. The work will be started at once.

LEAHY FREED OF BLAME BY CORONER JURY

AUBERE'S DEATH UNAVOIDABLE, VERDICT.

Chicago, May 19.—A coroner's jury investigating the death of Louis Aubere, Northwestern university freshman, who was killed April 27, when an automobile loaded with students crashed into another machine, decided today the accident was unavoidable. The jurors' only recommendation was that a bridge over the drainage canal where the accident occurred be widened.

Meanwhile little progress was made in the investigation of the disappearance following a class night 20 months ago of Leighton Mount, also a freshman. A skeleton believed by authorities to be his was found a week after Aubere was killed under a pier at Evanston.

Withdraw Charges. It is believed tonight that the coroner's jury verdict will result in the withdrawal of a manslaughter charge against James Leahy, student driver of the automobile in which Aubere was riding when he was killed.

Roseco Conkling Fitch, a student who was questioned at length regarding the Mount case, and who made conflicting statements regarding his knowledge of it, had testified that the accident in which Aubere was killed was perpetrated intentionally by students. He claimed that an automobile load of freshmen was chasing another machine filled with sophomores and in attempting to run down this car collided with a third machine driven by Mrs. Arthur Winslow.

Abandon New Theory. Assistant state's attorneys today practically abandoned another theory in regard to the Mount case, after questioning two brothers of Miss Doris Fuchs, girl friend of Mount's, in the belief that Mount's relations with her brothers had caused her brothers to take action. Both denied that they knew Mount and said they had been in Evanston only once, when they passed through in an automobile.

SUNDAY MOVIE SHOWS RAPPED

Indianapolis, Ind., May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Presbyterians of the United States of America today received a report from the committee of Sabbath observance demanding that the movies "clean up" and clear out of the Lord's day.

Will E. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, who is attending the assembly as an elder of the church, was absent when Dr. Harry L. Bowley, president of the Lord's Day Alliance, attacked the Sunday movies.

A resolution on the moving picture censorship and Sunday movie shows is expected to be presented to the assembly for action. The controversy between the ultra-conservative and progressive factions was quiet today, due to the absence of William Jennings Bryan, leader of the Fundamentalists, from the city.

Escanaba Girl Takes Second In News Competition

Milwaukee, Wis.—Second place in the news story contest conducted by Marquette university chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity, was won by Miss Lella Gabourie, of Escanaba, Mich., a sophomore in the Marquette college of journalism.

The contest was conducted, in the interests of better stories in The Marquette Tribune, student newspaper, and prizes awarded to those who wrote the three best stories during the school year. First prize, a loving cup, was won by James Powers, Muskogee, Okla., a sophomore. Members of the fraternity were not eligible for competition in the contest.

As winner of second place, Miss Gabourie will receive a copy of Hilltop IX, the Marquette university annual yearbook. Her story was a biographical interview with a Marquette professor and it appeared in the Oct. 6 issue of The Tribune. Miss Margaret Flower, Milwaukee, won third place. GEDDES GIVEN POWER TO AIR DRY SEA VIEW

British Ambassador Will File Protest of His Country.

Washington, May 19.—Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador, has been given complete authority by his government to deal with complications arising from the decision of the supreme court denying foreign shipping the right to bring liquor into American waters.

So far the only formal representation on the subject has been in the interest of such British vessels as would be prevented by their sailing schedules from reaching the United States from distant ports before June 10, the day set for the application of the new rule. It is suggested that such ships be given an extension to permit them to get rid of their liquor stocks without interrupting their sailing schedules.

The British disposition is to give the new regulations a fair test. The French, Italian, Spanish and other governments whose ships touch at American ports, however, are under greater pressure to secure relief from the ruling in view of their domestic laws requiring vessels to carry and issue wine rations.

TAFT ATTACKED BY SOCIALISTS

New York, May 19.—A demand for the impeachment of William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, for accepting an alleged annuity of $10,000 from the Carnegie corporation and an attack on the Lenin and Trotsky brand of Russian communism by Alexander Cahan, editor of the Jewish-Daily Forward, featured the opening of the National Convention of the Socialist Party today.

Mr. Cahan declared in an address that Trotsky was a "bombastic windbag" but he believed he was sincere, and that Lenin's physical breakdown was due in great measure to his moral incapacity. The resolution aimed at Chief Justice Taft was adopted unanimously, but none of the delegates expressed views on the subject.

Communists Denounced. The committee on resolutions was instructed to obtain the cooperation of trades unions and other bodies in making the demand for Mr. Taft's impeachment, nationwide in its scope. Mr. Cahan in his address said the Russian communists were more than two-thirds "fakers and grafters" and it was time for the American Socialists to stop temporizing with the Russian Soviet.

BERLIN FRAMES NEW PROPOSAL

Berlin, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany's forthcoming reparations proposal will stipulate definite annuities instead of offering a fixed total according to information emanating from political quarters. It is stated that the German league of industrialists is preparing a plan which will enable the government to make an offer based upon positive concrete guarantees for which the German industrial, financial and commercial interests, political parties and labor unions will go security.

Although the details of the forthcoming offer have not been divulged or even discussed in official circles, it appears that the powerful industrial league has succeeded in convincing Chancellor Cuno and Foreign Minister Rosenberg of the futility of speculating upon an international loan as a basis for reparations.

De Valera Is Not Talking for Peace

Dublin, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Eamon DeValera is engaged in no negotiations with the Irish Free State, direct or indirect, and the next move does not rest with him but with the people, who are rapidly organizing to assert themselves, according to a statement sent to the Associated Press by the Republican leader today. Asserting that there is no peace, DeValera added: "This one-sided truce cannot continue. We cannot stand passive indefinitely in the face of the continued aggression of the Free State forces." A mosquito is an unwelcome creature he always brings his bill.

SINCLAIR COLT DEFEATS SCORE OF 3-YEAR-OLDS

MARTINGALE TAKES SECOND, VIGIL THIRD.

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Zev, Harry F. Sinclair's brown colt, the horse that came back after finishing next to the last in the Preakness a week ago, today entered the racing hall of fame when he won the 49th Kentucky Derby before a crowd of 75,000 persons, the greatest throng that ever witnessed a horse race in America. The little brown colt by the Finn-Miss Kearney, defeated 29 of the best three-year-olds in the nation, the largest field that ever started in the Derby.

Martingale Second. Starting from the inner rail, Zev shot into the lead a few feet after leaving the barrier and led the field until the fall of the flag, crossing the wire a length and a half ahead of Martingale, owned by J. S. Couden. Walter J. Salmon's Vigil, winner of the Preakness, finished third, one length behind Martingale.

The race, at one and one quarter miles was run over a lightning fast track, the time being 2:05 2-5, two seconds slower than the record for the event set by Old Rosebud in 1914. Nassau, owned by Frederick Johnson, pulled up in fourth place, while Changanag, owned by Mrs. John F. Hertz of Chicago, was fifth.

Winner Gets $53,000. The race was worth $53,625 net to Mr. Sinclair. Martingale's owner received $6,000 as second place money while $3,000 went to Vigil for third and $1,000 to Nassau for fourth. A $2 ticket in the Mutuels paid $40.40 on Zev's victory. The price on Martingale was $25.80 to place and Vigil's show price was $12.30.

RUSS FORWARDS DEATH PROTEST

Lausanne, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Two strongly worded protests from M. Tchitcherin, the Russian Soviet foreign minister to the Swiss government and the near east conference regarding the assassination of Vorovsky, head of the Russian delegation at Lausanne, contributed to produce another day of almost violent controversy.

The conference itself is struggling along against numerous discouraging obstacles, such as the threatened open clash between Greece and Turkey over reparations and the deadlock on the problem of foreigners resident in Turkey. M. Tchitcherin, in his note to the conference raises the spectre of failure of the conference and declares that the Soviets reserve all rights and will continue to address communications to the French, British and Italian governments regarding Vorovsky, if necessary.

Saunders Will Sell More of His Stores

Memphis, Tenn., May 19.—Clarence Saunders, president of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., announced tonight that he would proceed with his original plan to dispose of a sufficient number of Piggly Wiggly Store units to strengthen the finances of the company and declared negotiations virtually had been completed for the sale of the Denver unit for approximately $400,000.

Ruhr Production Raised to Normal

Essen, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—In authoritative German quarters it was declared today that the French and Belgian offers have not been diverged or even discussed in official circles, it appears that the powerful industrial league has succeeded in convincing Chancellor Cuno and Foreign Minister Rosenberg of the futility of speculating upon an international loan as a basis for reparations.

SONS OF FOES ENTER 'POINT'

Young Funston To Be Class Mate of 'Aguinaldo Boy.'

Washington, May 19.—The names of Frederick Funston, "United States at large," and Emilio Aguinaldo, "Philippine Islands," appear on the list of successful candidates for admission to West Point next July. Thus will the sons of captor and captive in the concluding dramatic scene of the Philippine insurrection be classmates for four years at the military academy.

Young Funston, son and namesake of the late Major General Frederick Funston, was appointed by President Harding, according to custom, with regard to the sons of high army officers who seek to follow their fathers into service. The young Filipino, son of Don Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the uprising of the Philippines, first against the Spanish and afterward against the Americans, received his appointment under the law which permits one Filipino to be trained for service as an officer of the Philippine scouts.

London Awaits Soviet Answer

Moscow, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia's reply to Mr. Curzon's suggestions as outlined to Leonid Krassin, the Russian Soviet commissar for foreign trade, in a two hour conference at the London foreign office Thursday, has not yet been sent to London. The conference was concerned with the recent exchange of notes by the two governments and Lord Curzon is understood to have made it clear to M. Krassin that his government would accept nothing short of full compliance with all British demands.

Reduce Dependents, Frank Lowden Asks

Washington, May 19.—Declaring the care of dependents tonight more than a quarter of the revenue of the federal state, former Gov. Lowden of Illinois said tonight at the National Conference on Social Work that some way must be found to stop the constant increase of dependents in proportion to population. Employment of social experts and establishment of research institutes with a view to decreasing prison and other institutional populations, Mr. Lowden said, prove profitable investments for states even if they achieve only slight results.

Secrecy Surrounds Bonar Law Illness

London, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Great secrecy is being maintained regarding Prime Minister Bonar Law's condition, which is causing his friends grave concern. The premier, who recently left on an announced voyage of one month for his health, looked tired and worn out when he reached London this afternoon from Paris, and was compelled to rest because of his exhausted condition when he reached the house where he is staying. Sir Thomas Harder, the noted specialist, was called and remained with the premier for a long time.

An engineer declares that 50,000 people now do the work, with the aid of machinery, which needed 16,000,000 persons to do a generation or so ago. Included in the four million odd inhabitants of London are only 138,382 foreigners. The most of these are Russians, with Poles, French and Italians following in the order named.

ENVOYS ARGUE AS DEATH FOR VICTIMS NEAR

FOUR CAPTIVES BE SHOT TUESDAY BANDITS WARN.

Peking, May 19.—(By Associated Press)—Fifty foreigners, six of them Americans, some of them ill, all of them weary, bruised and sore, poorly fed and clad tonight are looking death in the face in the hills of Shantung province, as the approach of the end of the second week as captives to the bandits who raided Shanghai - Peking express near Suchow May 6.

If the foreign and Chinese governments are unable to satisfy the brigands Tuesday that their terms of the release of the prisoners will be met, and the robbers' chief makes good his threat that the brigands mean force compliance with their demands sent out Saturday. "We are pleading for lives," and unless Peking, Washington and London realize that the bandits are ready to sacrifice their own lives and those of their captives in their fight for reinstatement in the Chinese government, immune from punishment, "we are surely doomed," the statement made by L. Friedman, one of the Americans.

Seven Have Died. Death has descended sometimes this week on the barbed wire corridors in the Pootung, some of the Chinese captives because their ransom amounts had not been paid, five others were shot down cold blood for failure to obey orders. Two factors apparently clogged negotiations for the lease of the captives. One is bickering between Chinese officials at Tsoochwang. The other is the bandits' statement that, because they cannot trust the promises of the Chinese government, they must be given from a responsible source.

Diplomats Opposed

Opposed to this position is stand of the foreign diplomats that the Chinese government responsible for the safety of prisoners and that it must obtain their freedom. British War Debt Talks Resume. Washington, May 19.—Negotiations for the funding of the British war debt to the United States have progressed to a point where officials, both at the treasury and at the British embassy are confident the agreement will not be affected by any change in the British cabinet resulting from the news of Premier Bonar Law.

Gives 212 Divorces in 245 Minutes

Houston, Texas, May 19.—Judge J. D. Harvey, in district court here today, granted 212 divorces in 245 minutes. This record surpasses any previously recorded in district courts here. A very forgetful bridegroom was John Kemble, the celebrated English actor. After the ceremony he had to go back to the theatre. He became so absorbed in his part that he forgot that he was married, and when the play was over he went home to his bachelor lodgings. The beautiful colors seen in the soap bubble arise from the fact that the bubble, being very thin, reflects light from both the outer and inner surfaces of the film.

His condition for several weeks had been critical and his brother, Emil Peterson, and wife, with whom he had made his home for more than a quarter of a century, were at his bedside when the end came.

The body will arrive in Escanaba Monday and will be taken to the Anderson Undertaking rooms where it will remain until arrangements for the funeral are completed.

THREE NATIONS HAVE CAPTURED THE DAVIS CUP

Play for Trophy Was Commenced 23 Years Ago.

BY VINCENT RICHARDS. Famous Tennis Star.

The international lawn tennis championship, which really means Davis cup matches, have more than justified their name, since they were first put into competition.

It is more than two decades since the Davis cup was first contested for—in 1900, to be exact. The cup was not contested for during the war (1915 to 1918 inclusive), and in one year (1910) there were no matches at all.

U. S. Won Six Times. Only three nations have won the Davis Cup. They are the United States, the British Isles and Australia. The United States has won the cup six times. The British Isles won it five times and Australia has equaled the United States record.

Belgium and Japan were the only nations who ever got to the challenge round. In 1904 Belgium's win from France gave her the right to challenge the British Isles for the famous trophy. Japan in 1921 defeated the Australians in the challenge round but was defeated by the United States for the famous cup in the next round.

The outstanding Davis Cup players are undoubtedly the late H. L. Doherty and Norman E. Brookes. The Briton represented his country five times in international matches. Out of the 13 matches that he played he won every one. Doherty was a truly great player.

Brookes in 30. To Norman E. Brookes belongs the honor of having played in nine times, the greatest number in any living tennis player. In a period of nine years Brookes played the greatest number of matches, 39 in all. He won 25 and lost 11 in this period of time.

Wilding comes next with 29 matches. McLaughlin with 20, Bala Wright with 15 and Larned with 15. Of late years Tilden and Johnston are, of course, the outstanding figures in the Davis Cup matches. According to Gerald L. Patterson, captain of last year's Australian contenders, as long as America has Tilden and Johnston to defend the famous trophy it will remain in the United States. We agree with him perfectly.

HUBBY WAS BRAVE. As Tompkins was on his way home after nightfall he collided with Jenkins, who was running as fast as his bulk would allow him.

"Why this hurry, Jenkins?" he inquired. "I'm going—for—the—the—poor," said Jenkins, between pants. "We've got a burglar in our house."

"But surely, you haven't left your wife alone?" "Oh, no! She's holding the burglar!"—Pittsburgh Commercial Telegraph.

UNLUCKY SUGGESTION. A countryman went to London to visit some relatives and to see the sights. He remained until patience upon the part of his hosts, a married couple, had ceased to be virtue.

NORTH POLE BY RADIO

Course of Arctic Explorers Followed by Wireless

MAP SHOWING THE COURSE FOLLOWED BY AMUNDSEN IN THE MAUD, AS REPORTED BY RADIO, AND INSET, SOREN SVERTDRUP, THE RADIO OPERATOR.

By NEA Service. Washington.—Out of Spitzbergen, northernmost habitable point on the globe, come wireless reports of the progress of the Amundsen arctic expedition across the north pole.

Before the days of radio, folks at home waited months and even years before any word came in from such out of the way places as the arctic or antarctic regions. Now, thanks to the new space and time destroying science, Amundsen is able to keep in touch with the world from his ship, the Maud, wherever he might be.

Sitting at the transmitting instruments, Soren Sverdrup, Amundsen's radio expert, is able to report the Maud's movements through the permanent wireless station at Spitzbergen. At Washington, the United States Weather Bureau gets these reports after they had been relayed from Spitzbergen through Kristiana and Paris to the naval station across the Potomac.

Course Traced. Thus, by being in constant touch by wireless, the scientists here can trace the course of the Maud across the pole. Thus far she is shown to have covered approximately two-fifths of the distance to the pole, according to Edward H. Bowie, chief forecaster of the weather bureau, who has studied the Amundsen wireless reports.

"The drift apparently is carrying the Maud westward, but also northward, about the north coast of Siberia," Bowie says. "That radio communication is now by way of Spitzbergen instead of Nome does not, however, mean that he is closer to Spitzbergen, but that means for relaying the messages via Kristiana are much better.

"The Spitzbergen station, which is an outpost for weather observations, is in communication twice daily with Kristiana. In a direct line, the Maud's position, when last reported, was just under 1000 miles from the pole. The distance covered from Nome would be about 700 to 800 miles."

Whether the Maud's progress is altogether due to the movement of an ice field in which she is frozen fast, or whether she has had open water in which partially to shape her own course are unknown. The intention of Captain Amundsen was to lie up for the winter near Wrangel Island, permit his vessel to freeze fast in the ice and then to drift polewards with the ice field. His theory is that the ice fields above northeastern Siberia are carried gradually northward and across the pole.

Scientists charting the movement of the Maud, as reported by the occasional wireless messages to Spitzbergen, are particularly interested in the rapidly and angle of the movement that will be shown after the 75th parallel has been passed. If the course continues persistently northward, it will tend to confirm Amundsen's theory of gravitation toward the pole and that point may ultimately be reached even though the Maud may circumnavigate it entirely before reaching it.

If the angle flattens out and becomes a more western course, the likelihood will appear to be that the polar pack is grounded and stationary and that the pole never will be reached by the Amundsen party. The movements recorded during the next six months probably will forecast the result.

the great McGovern to the canvas for the fatal count. And thus was another ring champion deprived of his much cherished crown, and by a boy who hadn't hardly been heard of east of the Rocky Mountains.

A couple years later Corbett showed that his victory was not a fluke, knocking out McGovern a-rain. This second whipping practically sounded the knell of Terry in the roped arena, though he took part in a few battles after that, but mostly with second-raters. But as championship timber, Terry McGovern, the "pugilistic idol of America," was through when he was handed that unexpected, unthought-of beating at Hartford.

Babe Ruth may or may not break the home-run record during the season of 1923. In order to break it Ruth must make 60 circuit drives. I don't believe that he will be able to set a new mark.

As a result of the careful pitching that is being handed Ruth, the big fellow is not hitting home runs with the regularity with which he delivered in other years. Many of the experts are of the opinion that if Ruth doesn't hit home runs the Yankees will be up against a lost cause. I do not concur in such a belief.

MARINE.

Ice Conditions Serious. Sault Ste. Marie.—Ice conditions at the Sault are regarded as the most serious in many years. The St. Mary's River, from the upper entrance of the locks to Point Aux Pins is jammed to the shores with ice. More than thirty steamers are anchored above the locks awaiting their turns to lock down. The average rate of locking through is about one vessel every two hours. Two tugs are being used to assist each steamer through the locks.

Steamer Strips Wheels. Sault Ste. Marie.—The Steamer William Livingstone, which stripped its wheel during a north gale near Eagle Harbor Wednesday, was towed to St. Mary's river by the steamer Thomas Walters today. The boats have been anchored in the vicinity of Big Point for a day or two on account of the ice jam.

Coal Barge Arrives. The Barge "Constitution," towed by the tug, "Guardian," arrived in Escanaba late yesterday afternoon with a cargo of coal for the Relas coal docks. She was unloaded and cleared from the Northwestern docks last night with 7,000 tons of ore. The Constitution is one of the largest barges on the lakes.

Frost, and his brother, Edward. Mr. Frost met his bride-to-be in Chicago several years ago while he was in an officers' training camp. They will make their home in Escanaba.

WID MATTHEWS "SPARK PLUG" OF ATHLETICS

Philadelphia, May 19.—Eastern critics are a unit in pronouncing Wid Matthews, Connie Mack's recruit outfielder, the "peppiest" youngster that has broken into the major leagues in years. When Matthews reported to Mack, he was so slight of stature that Connie weakened on him, despite the many good reports he had received on the recruit.

That made Matthews job all the tougher. The fact that it was necessary for him to beat out Tilly Walker, one of the home-run stars of the American League, was in itself a big enough task for a bushy in his first year. Matthews is a hustler, the spark plug of the Athletics. The spirit of the recruit outfielder has permeated the entire club. Matthews never quits, hustle is his middle name. He tears down to first base as nimbly on a tap to the pitcher as a clean single to the outfield.

Mathews is just an ordinary hitter but very fast on his feet. He has a weak arm, but when it comes to covering ground he is all over the field. Scores of recruits come to the majors every year with more natural ability than Matthews, but few with a keen brain or a greater desire to do things.

Hustle has won Matthews a major league berth against the most discouraging odds. AN AMBITIOUS CLIMBER. "Of all the nerve I ever saw, Miss Upstart has the most complete supply! She seems to think her newly acquired wealth will take her anywhere," said a disgruntled acquaintance of the lady. "Well, it has taken her into the exclusive Country Club, anyway, I hear," said another.

"Yes, but that is not the limit of her ambitions, by any means. I heard her bragging at luncheon that she thought she would send in her application to join the League of Nations!"—Harper's Magazine.

SHOTGUN BACKS UP PREACHER'S PLEA

His Pulpit Grimly Decorated

Oklahoma Cit. Okla.—Some folks say a shotgun and a "billy" club are handy things to have around—even when preaching religion. F. W. Lubbes, adjutant of the Gospel Army Volunteers, is one of them.

Lubbes is known in these parts as "The Pied Piper of Religion." And it has been a well-earned title, those who know him intimately vouch.

But, as Hans Anderson once said, "let's begin at the beginning." And so it would be well to explain how the shotgun and club came to decorate the pulpit, as shown in the accompanying photo.

Has Been Unafraid. Lubbes has been fearless in his attacks on vice, booze and gambling. He was determined to drive them from the community. And so he would take his big drum and trumpet and parade the street. Crowds that trailed in his wake gathered about him in his little mission.

His has been a single-handed morality campaign. They came the climax! He announced his next sermon would be on the subject, "The Dirty Bums of Southtown." He would use names, too, he vowed.

Now "The Dirty Bums of Southtown" is a thesis that is bound to attract attention. It did! All paths led in the direction of the little mission that night. Most of the people came in, but many stayed outside. The group on the outside gathered in numbers, until, as crowds go, it developed into a mob.

Many of the unwelcome intruders may have had experience in throwing hand grenades. If so, they utilized their newly acquired art, but substituted stones. The cobbles crashed through the windows of the mission and the mob crashed through the doors. Leaders carried buckets of water, which they intended—and did—use to extinguish the fire of the preacher's eloquence. Thus the meeting was broken up.

But never flinching, Lubbes next day announced the regular service would go ahead as usual. And if any disturbers appeared, they would be greeted by buckshot and club.

Now all is serene. The police, whom he has helped rid the community of bootleggers and other undesirables, rallied to his aid. They placed an extra patrol on duty, and the sidewalk outside of the mission resembled for a time the courtyard of Buckingham Palace when the king's guard is holding a review. Relies on Armory. Passersby are scrutinized carefully, and those carrying buckets of water are viewed with downright suspicion. No jostling is permitted in front of the little mission house. Go in, or go on, say the police.

"If they want shot-gun religion," snaps the fighting parson, "I'm here to give it to them. No intimidation goes with me. I'm converting folks every day and lifting them to a higher plane of life.

"And," he paused significantly, pointing to his armory, "I'll keep on, too, until I convert the very fellows who stoned my mission and doused me."

TWO CORBETTS STAGED UPSETS

"Young" and "Jim" Both Surprised Sporting World.

There may have been many famous upsets in the realm of fistiana since "Gentleman Jim" Corbett tipped over the old dope pail by grabbing the world's heavyweight championship from John L. Sullivan over 30 years ago.

But it is extremely doubtful, however, if a more startling and unexpected surprise was ever handed followers of the ring than the defeat of Terry McGovern by Young Corbett in their featherweight titular battle at Hartford, Conn., Nov. 8, 1901. Not only in the outcome of the bout is this true, but in the quick and precise manner in which it terminated as well.

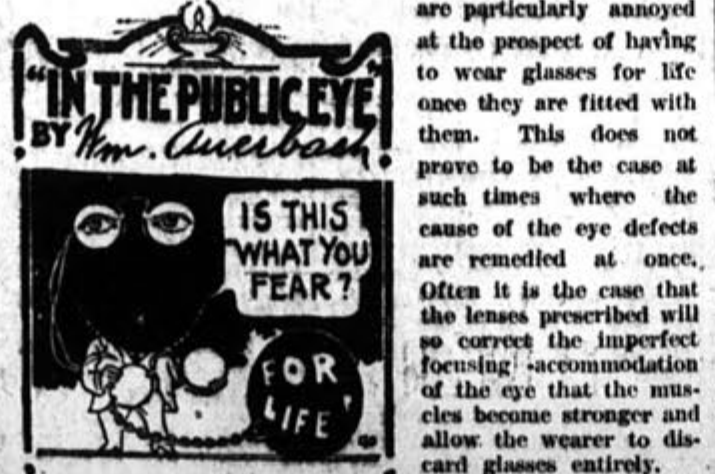

Never Forgotten. The dethroning of the Brooklyn boy on that memorable occasion will never be forgotten. It created a sensation which shocked the entire pugilistic world. It came almost like a great catastrophe, for "Terrible Terry" had been dropping ambitious opponents in reckless fashion ever since he won the title from that gallant fighter, George Dixon. Terry had waded through the field in easy manner, leaving a trail of beaten foes in his wake. His followers, and they included folk in all walks of life, thought him well nigh invincible unbeatable.

But out of the wets came one Young Corbett, practically unknown, save for a few bouts he had participated in out on the coast. A good boy in his class, ventured the wise ones, but out of place with a lad like McGovern. Consequently, Young Corbett was a rank outsider as the two boys squared away in the Hartford arena. Just another "set up" for the champion was the general opinion.

Now It's History. What the clean-cut Denver youth did to McGovern, however, is history. For Corbett, undismayed and unafraid of the savage-like attack of the redoubtable Terry, went right at the titleholder, and ere that first round was over had the crowd "sittin' up."

The end came in the second session when the challenger sent

EXPERT THINKS AUTO WILL BE SALES CARRIER

The day is not far distant when large sales organizations and large service organizations will be as completely motorized with fleets of passenger cars as the great commercial and trucking houses are with fleets of trucks.

C. J. Nephler, general sales manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Mich., makes this prediction as the result of letters from such organizations which have purchased Oakland two-passenger coupes and roadsters from their salesmen and service organizations. The sale of two-passenger coupes and roadsters so far this year has been the largest in the history of the Oakland company, Mr. Nephler reports.

"Summing up the reasons given for fleet passenger cars for salesmen," explains Mr. Nephler, "indicates that these cars increase as much as 25 per cent the number of calls made in the city and as much as 50 per cent in the rural districts and small towns, and consequently the same higher percentage of sales. They are economical because they increase sales."

"Incidentally, too, we are told that the use of passenger cars by salesmen strengthens the morale of the sales organization, and the self-respect of the salesmen makes them like their positions better, and often gains for them a greater respect from their customers."

The general opinion seems to be to standardize on one make of car, noted for performance, endurance and economy, and keep these cars in the same station, with repair men always on hand to keep the cars tuned up. This has been found more profitable than to encourage salesmen to purchase motor cars and allow them so much per mile, as it enables the company to keep closer tabs on the cars at all times. This system also allows the more economical purchasing of insurance, tire, tubes, gasoline, oil, etc., through one central organization."

Liquor Cases Are Thrown Out In Lower Court

Charges of liquor violations against Helmer Groth, Mrs. Groth, Mrs. Hilma Hanninen and Mrs. Lampi Lusananti of this city were dismissed yesterday morning when the cases were brought up in Judge McEwen's court for preliminary examination. The reason given was that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant holding the quartet for circuit court trial.

Groth was charged with keeping a place and with possession of liquor. His wife and the Hanninen woman were charged with possession and sale and the Lusananti woman with sale only. All four arrests were the outcome of a raid on the Groth establishment at 200 North Tenth street on Wednesday. No liquor was found on the premises. Dismissal of the charges was asked by the prosecutor on account of the scanty evidence on which to base a circuit court action.

2 Gallons a Minute!

LUBRICATION is life—in motors. Because it defeats wear and vibration. Jewett has a hollow crankshaft, high-pressure system, forcing 2 gallons of oil per minute to all main and connecting rod bearings, and spraying the entire internal mechanism. Metal never rubs metal in a Jewett motor—a thin film of oil safeguards bearings.

The results of such ideal lubrication are real smoothness and decided silence. Further, the continuous oil-stream tends to keep bearings cool, and Jewett takes long distances at high speeds, climbs continued grades, or trudges soft roads, without overheating. You know what happens to cars equipped with circulating and splash lubrication, under like conditions. Let us show you the Jewett! You try to overheat it.

SOME SHIFTS IN ESKY'S LINEUP

Jack Loell Will Play with Locals; New Outfielder Signed.

One addition to the Escanaba baseball club, and a shift or two in the lineup, marked Manager Jack Perrin's preparations for the Gladstone-Escanaba game to be played in the Upper Bay city today.

Sashatt, a new arrival in local railroad circles, will play right field, it was announced. Jack Loell and Murray Boyle will decide, before the game, which will play first base and which left field. Either is competent for either job, as fans know and there will be little difference in the strength of the club which ever way the decision goes. Loell, who was out of baseball last year, is in good condition and fans are certain that he will be a valuable player on the local club, while Murray Boyle is at home in any position on the lot. Manager Perrin will play center.

Freddie Olmstead will play second base, Lantz shortstop and Freddie Terry third. Moberg will be in his regular place back of the bat. Eddie Schwartz, Wells, splitballer, will pitch.

In reserve, Perrin will have Lefty Sodermark for slab duty if the unexpected occurs, Peterson, Bink, Rhoda, Van Effen, Dawson and O'Donnell.

It became known last night that Hegg, the lanky Minnesota pitcher who worked on the mound for Gladstone here last Sunday, will again pitch for the upbays.

The game is Gladstone's first home contest of the season and a large number of booster tickets have been sold. It is expected that a big crowd of Escanaba fans will see the battle.

BILL EVANS SAYS

One feature of the game that has shown a decided improvement this spring is the pitching. The brand of twirling that has been on tap to date is the best spring stuff I have seen in 10 years.

Why this improvement? That is, perhaps, rather difficult of explanation. Possibly it has been due to the late start, which gave the pitchers a better chance to get into the weather. It has been excellent since the opening of the season has no doubt played its part.

A warm spring with plenty of sunshine is all in favor of the pitcher. Such weather works to the advantage of the pitcher, tends to give him the edge. Bad weather is a big handicap to the pitcher. It resets decidedly in favor of the batter.

Of the first 34 games scheduled in the American League only one contest has been postponed on account of the bad weather. Rain caused the loss of that game at Washington. In the National League the percentage of games played has been practically as high. That is a very remarkable record for the spring.

The lively ball is still doing business. Home runs are still frequent occurrences. Despite all this the advantage of the batter this spring is not nearly so pronounced as it was last year. Better pitching has brought about such a condition. The lively ball has indirectly been the cause of this improved pitching, strange as that statement may seem.

The lively ball, and the fame and glory attained by some of the stars who were able to hit a goodly number of circuit drives, made for an era of swat. Such conditions created a desire on the part of every batter to hit the ball a mile. It caused most of the batters to take a stance at the plate that indicated they intended to take a healthy swing at every pitch.

The lively ball has for several years played havoc with pitchers who depended mainly on speed for success. Speed was made to order for the hard swingers with a lively ball in use. The rude manner in which a great many pitchers with a good fast ball were treated called for action on the part of the pitchers.

The lively ball has wrought so much destruction for several years that the pitchers, it seems, decided it was up to them to combat the feature by calling upon brain rather than brawn alone. The result is that more pitchers are pitching intelligently this year than has been the case for some time.

Pitchers in most cases are really pitching instead of merely throwing. It became evident to the major league twirlers that a change of pace was absolutely necessary in order to throw the batters off their stride as they set for a fast one. It is a rarity these days to see a pitcher without a change of pace, when not so long ago the pitcher with an effective change of pace was the exception.

In addition the knuckle ball instead of being an unusual delivery has become rather common. It has proved a great weapon against the lively ball and slugging tactics.

ELEVEN YEARS A CHAMPION

Featherweight Champion of the World.
Copyright, 1923, by NEA Service, Inc., in the United States and all foreign countries having copyright laws. Reproduction is prohibited.

Fighters got knocked out from many causes. Sometimes it is overtraining that does it, but it is safer to say most of the better fighters go down because of overconfidence.

I shall speak of this overconfidence more fully in a later article, but I must mention it here because it undoubtedly caused the downfall of George Chaney, a game little fighter, and one who looked promising before he met me.

We were signed to meet at Cedar Point, O., for the championship. Those close to Chaney had filled him with tales that I was growing old, and that he would have to do to beat me over, and the little would be his.

The fight lasted three rounds, and ended in a knockout, just as Chaney's friends predicted, but they made a slight mistake as to the identity of the one who would be knocked out.

Chaney Overconfident. George looked almost sorry for me as he entered the ring. Poor Kilbane! And such a nice fellow! It is a shame to muss his hair!

But he saw visions of fame, and apparently forgot his pity for old man Kilbane. When the bell sounded, he rushed out to meet me with all the fury of a thunderstorm. The storm broke all right—but for him. I shot over a left jab, a left hook, and a right cross to the jaw that shook him violently.

I had all the force of my body behind those blows, and the end was only a matter of minutes. He managed to hang on for two rounds, but in the third he sank to the canvas, and before he got up, all championship ambitions had fled from his mind, and he was a W. O. L. ever since.

Might Have Stayed. Overconfidence was all that did it. Had he waited me out, it might have been a different story.

He Didn't Cost as Much as Willie Kamm But Money Isn't Everything

BY BILLY EVANS.
From Willie Kamm to Howard Friegau is a difference of $100,000.

Both are junior big leaguers and judging by the reports of the critics, fans and players who have seen these rookies this spring they are destined to become major league stars.

The White Sox paid $100,000 to the San Francisco club for Kamm.

The St. Louis Cardinals did not pay a plugged cent for Friegau. Friegau is already a sensation in the National League. His career reads like a fairy story but it is the truth—nothing but the truth.

The kid was covering shortstop for the Steele High nine at Dayton, O., during the summer of 1919 when Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals was visiting relatives in Dayton. He accepted the invitation to see the home boys play for the high school championship. That night Rickey was in communication with Friegau's parents.

Rickey Discovers Friegau. Two years later Friegau served as the clubhouse boy for the Cardinals and worked out with the team as if a regular. There was a reason—Rickey wanted the youngster to familiarize himself with the ways of the big leaguers, feeling that eventually he would have a phenom for shortstop.

Last summer Rickey was convinced as to the youngster's remarkable ability and Friegau was turned over to the Syracuse club of the International League for development. A year's experience made him big league caliber.

This spring Friegau, together with Roscoe Holm of the University of Iowa, the veteran John Lavan and George Toporcer were entered in the race for shortstop. When the Cardinals opened the season against the Reds Friegau was at shortstop.

Branch Rickey loves to talk about Roger Hornsby's success, yet he makes this statement: "Friegau is a better ball player today than when Hornsby broke in with the Cardinals in September, 1915."

Friegau Is Unusual Type. It will be remembered that Hornsby arrived as a shortstopper, and after playing all positions on the field finally earned a toehold on second base.

There are some baseball experts who say that many kids are plucked too young. Yet Friegau was born at Dayton, O., Aug. 1, 1902, which means that he is on his way to his twenty-first birthday.

How many kids have won their way into the major league circuit at the tender age of 20? Friegau is an unusual type for a shortstop. There have been many small fellows, as Freddie Parrett, Donnie Bush, Cotton Turner, Rabbit Maranville, Charley O'Leary, Dave Bancroft and others.

Like Mickey Doolan. Friegau is just the opposite—a reproduction of Mickey Doolan when Mickey was lean and slim. The kid is one inch short of six feet, weighs 160 pounds and has an arm of steel. He had to be a jewel to shove a player of Lavan's class to the bench. Now that Friegau has arrived, Rickey is figuring on Roscoe Holm, the Iowa University star. The Cardinals' manager feels Holm is only a year away from stardom.

"I'm Tired. "What are you quitting for," he was asked. "Aw, I'm tired," sighed the boy of 33. "Pop" is pitching on the varsity nine this spring. And some mighty good games, too. Reddick came to Springfield from Washington, Pa., where he played on high school teams. He also was physical director of the Y. M. C. A. there.

Yankees take Fourth from Browns, 6 to 5. St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—St. Louis lost its fourth straight game to New York today in a contest featured by five home runs. The score was 6 to 5, the game going 10 innings. Ruth got his seventh homer of the season.

Score: R. H. E. N. York 2 0 0 0 0 10 2—6 11 1

AMERICA KEEPS WALKER TROPHY

Five Down at Noon, They Come Through At Finish.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—From the limbo of the lost, eight American golfers fought their way upward to a gallant victory over the best amateurs of Great Britain this afternoon and retained for their country possession of the Walker cup, emblem of team supremacy in the realm of golf.

This ancient seat of the game has been the scene of many a thrilling competition, but never a braver battle against seeming defeat than the visitors from the United States made today. Last night they had one victory to three defeats as their record in the foursums. At noon they were down in five of the eight singles and the other three were square.

Then with only eighteen holes to go in all eight matches, and the Brits needing only four matches to gain the cup, the Americans stepped forth upon the fairways and came home with five victories, one tie and only two defeats. Thus they kept the cup by a score of 6 1/2 matches to 5 1/2.

The list of applicants for the job had been boiled down to two, and those were told to call again the following day. After they had gone the foreman said, "I think I would choose the dark fellow."
"Who?" asked the boss.
"Well, I noticed as he was going out he pushed on the outer edge of that heavy door, showing that he conserves his energy. The light fellow tackled it nearer the middle."
"Well, I don't know," said the boss. "I think perhaps the light fellow would suit us best. The way he tackled that door shows he isn't afraid of work."—Boston Transcript.

MAE MURRAY'S "JAZZMANIA" OPENS MONDAY

Beautiful Star at Her Best in Latest Leonard Production.

Mae Murray has done the best work of her photoplay career in her latest Metro picture, "Jazzmania," to be the feature by Robert Z. Leonard at the Delft theater, where it will be seen for the first time Monday. The amazing versatility of this gifted screen star was never more fully evidenced than in this film, and it is by all odds the most popular and entertaining of her ventures.

"Jazzmania" has everything in it as a matter of fact. It is more than one photoplay. It has its background for the most part in the colorful kingdom of Jazzmania, a tiny Balkan principality. It shifts to Paris for a while; to the Casino at Monte Carlo; and finally to New York. Scenic scenes follow each other with incredible swiftness; so soon as one has glimpsed a rare beauty than another is flashed on the screen in its place. "Jazzmania" is really a New York Hippodrome of film.

The story is concerned with the troubles of a young Queen—whose kingdom is beset by enemies. She flees to avenge a wrong, and her love of jazz excitement leads her to Monte Carlo and New York. During her stay in the American metropolis she learns of the plight of the poor and children of her own country, and is persuaded to return to them. She arrives in time to prevent the betrayal of her kingdom. The people rejoice at her return, and she turns her they state into a happy jazz kingdom. Miss Murray is throughout admirable in her portrayal of Ninon. She makes the transition from sheer comedy to dramatic emotionalism very easily, and her dancing and costumes are even more attractive to the eye than usual.

The star receives splendid support from the cast among whom are several players of prominence. Rod La Rocque, one of the most popular of leading men, appears opposite the star as Jerry Langdon, an American, with whom Ninon falls in love at Monte Carlo. Robert Fraser is the trustworthy Valmar, aide-de-camp; Edward Burns, Sonny Damsler, another admirer; and Jean Hersholt appears as Prince Otto of Como, a neighboring principality.

"Jazzmania," based on the story by Edmund Goulding, is the product of Tiffany Productions, Inc., of which Robert Z. Leonard is Director General and M. H. Hoffman General Manager.

STRAND MONDAY.
"The Cave Girl," a vivid, pulsating story of youth, romance and adventure, enhanced by magnificent outdoor scenery, comes to the Strand theater next Monday and Tuesday.

The Yosemite Valley, one of the nation's greatest natural parks, is shown in all the glory of its winter garb, giving film audiences the first opportunity of seeing this outdoor playground as it has never before been screened.

Such a wonderful setting has been given to the spontaneous comedy by Guy Bolton and George Middleton, which, in its stage version, scored a successful run on Broadway. All the elements of appeal that made the play a popular success have been retained in its transformation upon the screen and the result is said to be a picture of tense interest and stupendous thrills and scenic effects.

Conflict, action, romance, adventure and humor mingle together as they reimagine cave girl, struggling for existence in the snow bound mountain fastness, finds a legitimate prey in a party of social New Yorkers who occupy a neighboring cabin. The smile continues even to the point of seeking a mate in the manner of the cave days and the resulting climax, with a close escape from death over the waterfalls, promises one of the biggest thrills the screen has known.

Teddie Gerard, American beauty whose name is a byword in European theatrical successes, returns to her native land in the leading role. She is supported by an excellent cast that includes Charles Meredith, Wilton Taylor, Eleanor Hancock, Lillian Tucker, Frank Solomon, Boris Karloff, Jake Abrahams and John Beck.

ALL HE COULD SWALLOW.

When the battle of Mobile bay was over and the ships had anchored, Lieut. Comdr. Perkins, who commanded the Chickasaw, went on board the Hartford to report to Admiral Farragut. Perkins was a handsome, dashing fellow, bright and popular. After calling on the admiral he went below to the wardroom, where he found his officers standing around the table and the chaplain with prayer book in hand just about to read the prayer of thanksgiving for victory. Perkins stopped at the door, and the chaplain, seeing him, said, in a solemn voice, "Captain, won't you join us?" "No thanks, old man," replied Perkins. "I've just had two with the admiral."—Judge.

APPROPRIATE TITLE.

He was an English artist. What is more, he was an artist of that school who never spilt the picture for a pennyworth of color. He had just given the last touch to a purple-and-blue landscape when his wife came into the studio. "My dear," said the artist, "this is—landscape I was—er—telling you about. I am at a loss for a title. Can you suggest one?" "Why not call it 'Home'?" she asked, after a long, lingering look. "Home?" said the artist. "Why call it 'Home'?" "Because," she answered, meekly, "there's no place like it!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE EVOLUTION OF DANCING

In the old days of minuets and cotillions, these stately figures expressed the starchy and stately conventionalities of those times. Then society developed quadrilles and the lancers, which would be considered slow and tedious for these times, but seemed the quintessence of society grace and polish in those days.

Thirty to 40 years ago the old timers revelled in the "contra" or "country dance." People would travel for miles to see noted dancers cut their fancy pigeon wings, and pirouette and prance around the hall in their heavy boots as if they were ballet artists. This dance was complicated, and the young crowd often got tangled up in its many and conflicting steps.

Then the round dances became popular. These pretty waltzes, two steps and schottisches gave graceful people a better chance to display their rhythmic steps than was ever seen in the formal old quadrilles.

About 10 years ago called "modern dancing" began to come in, with the rage for the tango and one step. Everybody from Grandfather down to the kindergarten began to attend dancing classes. One figure quickly succeeded another, and before the awkward squad had learned to stumble through one style of steps, it might be informed that the same was going out of style.

Many people have a strong feeling against these modern dances, believing that they incite young people to rough and unmannerly conduct. But that is more because of the temperament of the people than anything inherent in the steps.

If well done, the fox-trots and tangos of the present day are very pretty and full of a variety that keeps the dancing crowd more interested than ever before. But awkward folks find that they have more feet than they know what to do with, and the girls have to clean many hoof prints off their white shoes the next day.

WHY CITIES GROW.

The rapid growth which many progressive cities and towns succeed in attaining has been one of the marvels of American life. People who are ambitious to have their own communities go ahead often ask how it is that these advancing places secure these quick gains.

Investigation would commonly show that such progress is not usually due merely to favorable locations. The citizens of such places have not sat down and waited for progress to come to them. They have done a lot of hustling themselves.

The reputation that a certain city is a live town has a lot to do with its advance. People like to buy real estate or engage in business in such communities, as they feel that investment values will gain. They enjoy the feeling of life and activity that prevails in such a city.

Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, etc., have had much to do with the advance of these fast growing towns. The results that such organizations get are broader than what shows on the surface. It is commonly true though that when men band themselves together in an active association of this nature, they usually achieve some of the definite results that they aim for, in the shape of public improvements, new industries, etc.

But even if such an organization does go along for a time without much tangible achievement, the mere fact that the business men are working untidily for new facilities and advantages, creates an atmosphere of progress. The activities of such an organization are reported in the newspapers and discussed by travelers and residents. The idea spreads around that such a city is a place of active and working community spirit, where the people are hustling to get things done. When a place gets that reputation, it will grow of its own momentum.

Spring poetry may be all right, but a little spring poetry in the gardens after the weeds start would be more useful.

Nation Awaits Legislative Action in Florida Whipping Scandal.

Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died following a beat in a Florida prison camp, is buried in one of the two spots shown above—But there is a dispute as to which one. The Putnam Lumber company says he was buried in the cemetery below, while a fellow prisoner says the body was buried in the swamp above. At the right is Representative C. H. Kennerly of the committee probing charges of beating prisoners. He is holding the strap with which witnesses say Tabert was beaten.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 19.—Martin Tabert did not die in vain. The state of Florida, shaken to its foundation by the realization that virtual slavery exists within its boundaries is cleansing its soul.

The lash must go! The convict lease system must be ended! These two thoughts dominate a report just completed by a joint legislative committee investigating reported brutalities in convict camps in Florida.

It only remains for the Assembly to act. Who is Martin Tabert about whom so much has been written? What is the convict system, tolerated in Florida?

Tabert, 22, left his cozy little home at Munich, N. D., in the fall of 1921. He wanted to see the world. For the past few years he had generously devoted all his time to his family, because he knew he was needed on the farm.

Things worked themselves about, however, so that a time came when he knew it would be all right to go away for a while and find out what the outside world was like—that world from which those big, snorting locomotives came.

He could have taken more money had he wished, but boyish thought suggested it would be great to work his way about the country. All went well until he came into Florida. The labor situation was not good and he found himself without funds.

He tried to steal a ride on a train. Florida was not looking for such men. He was arrested in Leon county, Fla. His choice was a $25 fine or 90 days at hard labor.

Tabert wired home for the money and his family sent him $50 by registered mail and urged him to come back. He had seen enough for his first big trip, they wrote.

But that letter never reached Martin. And because it didn't, Martin died and a whole nation was to read later on of what seemed in this age and time an impossible reality.

The letter, sent in care of the sheriff, was returned to the family, "unclaimed." The family thereupon believed their boy had been able to leave and forgot about the matter.

In the meanwhile, however, Tabert was taken under guard to the lumber camp of the Putnam Lumber Company, at Clara, Fla., 60 miles away, to work out his fine.

Under existing laws, this lumber company, owned by State Senator T. J. Knabb, utilizes convict labor from several nearby counties.

A month and a half after his arrest, Tabert died in camp. The cause given was fever. Company officials assured his family in North Dakota, the lad had been given a Christian burial.

A fellow prisoner in the prison camp wrote to the Tabert family five months later, strongly intimating that Martin died under unnatural circumstances. The investigation machinery then started into action.

A long hearing followed. Witnesses by the score testified that the "whipping boss" of the camp had beaten Tabert unmercifully, because Martin was too weak to labor as fast as the boss liked throughout that particular day. To help grade a road Tabert was forced to stand knee-deep in mud and water in the treacherous swampland. It was work that only those seasoned to that part of the country really could bear.

On a certain Friday night the youth was called out of line just after dinner. A leather strap, three and a half feet long and some four and a half inches wide, was obtained, and used, men testified.

"Get down," the boss demanded.

Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died following a beat in a Florida prison camp, is buried in one of the two spots shown above—But there is a dispute as to which one. The Putnam Lumber company says he was buried in the cemetery below, while a fellow prisoner says the body was buried in the swamp above. At the right is Representative C. H. Kennerly of the committee probing charges of beating prisoners. He is holding the strap with which witnesses say Tabert was beaten.

Tabert dropped to a prone position, and then blows as hard as it was possible for the "boss" to strike, rained on the lad's back, which was left a mass of pulpy welts.

After the death, it was testified by the negro who helped prepare the body for burial, a sheet was dried to the body, fastened by hardened blood.

The "boss" is now under indictment, charged with murder. Sheriffs of two counties probably will pay with their official heads before the investigation is completed.

Just now the question is, "Where is Tabert buried?" Fellow convicts swore the body was dressed in cast-off clothing of a negro and put in a hole half filled with swamp water. No mound to show the spot of the grave. No stone to tell its sad story. Just smooth earth, said these witnesses.

But company officials deny this. They say three white women and a minister were present at the burial which took place in a hallowed Florida ground. This body will be exhumed soon, just after authorities down there receive a chart of Tabert's teeth, which remain the only possible means of identification.

These three women testified they sang, and that the minister asked for the peace of the soul of the departed. But they admit they did not know whom they were burying. They did not know his name. They did not know what he looked like.

North Dakota, as a state, is satisfied that Florida as a state, did not know of the conditions that made possible the death of one of the former's young and lucky labor boys.

"But it must not be again," came the warning, and now on completion of the report which, when enacted into law, will abolish the whip and the convict labor system, the mid-western state congratulates the southern one and assures that instead of becoming estranged, the two will draw closer together as sisters pledged to the task of making the union a place really free—for free men to live in.

"A PURITAN WIFE"

BY JANE PHILIPS

ANN SKEELS ADVICE FROM HUGH NORTON. Chapter LX.

Ann was frightened, also almost at the end of her patience. She saw the danger to Dick in Grace's light way of talking of his drinking, his forgetfulness. But what could she do? When ever she had interfered, even so carefully, she had made matters worse. She thought of Hugh Norton. He would help her if he could.

Yet Ann hesitated to say anything to Hugh. There was something in his manner, his thoughtfulness for her, his way of speaking and looking at her that gave her an inkling of his secret—that he cared for her. And although Hugh never had said one word of what was in his heart, the thought brought a blush to Ann's cheek, kept her from going to him for help, for advice.

Doctor Grayson might warn Dick, but would that do any good? Ann knew Dick felt a little embarrassed before the doctor, although he liked him. But it was hard to forget how they became acquainted—that Grace had pretended to poison herself because of Dick.

Grace had said it was "Ann's stunt" to scold Dick. Ann worried over that speech. She feared she had occasionally made Dick feel she was scolding him, when she only meant to warn him. She wanted Dick to be happy; but also she desperately wanted him to be good and true.

That habit of his that made him forget—what might he not do when in that state? She was at her wits' end, as her mother used to say when she was undecided what to do. There was no use talking to Grace, she only made a joke of it; then, too, she managed to convey to Dick the impression that Ann was narrow, not a good sport. And that roused Dick's indignation. Bessie did his she could, so there was no use bothering her. She would have to bear it alone, say nothing; but by keeping with Dick, going where he did, she might be able to prevent a recurrence of the incident. His forgetting that he went to the theatre, his failure to remember anything of the picture, and that he was with Grace, seemed to her to prove he was growing worse.

Grace had thought it "screamingly funny," even though she must have seen how she suffered. What a queer, hard-hearted girl she was.

After Dick had finished fixing the bougainville vine, Grace had made him beg her pardon for deserting her, telling him he would have to take her somewhere soon to make up for his action in leaving her alone in the theater.

"After blowing us to that luncheon, you were a bad boy to spoil it all by getting spifficated," she said. But there was nothing in her tone or manner that showed resentment. She treated the whole affair as a joke. Ann knew that it made Dick also consider it in that light, as he answered her banter.

Ann was fair, and said to her self: "How can I expect him to feel any remorse when she talks to him in that fashion?" So she said nothing more about it, tried to forget.

Grace now was over with them nearly every day. Sometimes to meals, often with Dick in the groves. Ann's presence there had seemed to deter her for a time, but as Ann tried to be with Dick as much as she could, she evidently had decided not to let her prevent her coming.

Nora had taken the entire care of the every-day housework from Ann, also she helped with little Jack. Ann loved the open, was happy helping Dick wrap the young trees, look for blight, anything she could do—and she had learned to be very helpful.

Grace had a way of keeping Dick from work, of playfully teasing him by snatching his hat off, pulling at his coat, teasing him to stop and talk to her, and at the same time ignoring Ann, that was maddening.

Upon such an occasion Ann had gone back to the house, her eyes filled with tears. Grace had been even more than usually free with Dick; he more than ordinarily responsive, until Ann could endure it no longer.

She found Hugh Norton sitting on the porch waiting until she should come in to dinner. Almost without volition she sobbed out her misery, her unhappiness.

"I am so helpless, Hugh," she said, wiping her eyes and trying to smile. "My bringing up hasn't fitted me to cope with a girl like Grace. I can only look on and suffer."

"You mustn't be too meek, Ann," Hugh replied, his heart aching for her. "Meet her on her own ground if you can. Laugh and joke too, and don't let her drive you away. She'll soon tire of her nonsense if she sees it doesn't get her anywhere." He invariably made light of Grace's actions to Ann, but in reality he was almost as fearful as Ann that she would ruin her home. Dick seemed like wax in her hands.

"I do try, Hugh. But it grows harder all the time," Ann replied as Grace and Dick appeared, arm in arm, laughing merrily.

Chapter LX.

Ann had many times tried to act as if she either did not notice or that she enjoyed Grace's and Dick's nonsense, but now she determined to try harder than ever to hide her feelings; to join with them.

"Hello, Norton," Dick said, as he and Grace came up on to the porch. "Stay to dinner, Grace is going to, and we'll have a game of bridge afterward."

"Do, Hugh," Ann added, saying nothing to Grace, whom she had not expected to remain.

"Thanks, I'd enjoy it," Hugh said, then led Dick to talk of his crops, how his young trees were coming on, so rather shutting Grace out of the conversation, while Ann went in to attend to the dinner, to tell Nora they were to have guests.

When she returned to the porch Grace was sitting in the hammock, and Ann at once went over and sat beside her, and complimented her costume.

"I don't wonder you like it," Grace replied carelessly, "but if it wasn't for Dick there'd be no use wearing anything smart. He's eating toast and jam with him at the table.

Tebrick's happiness was short lived. The characteristics of fox gradually overcame the characteristics of lady. Mrs. Tebrick killed a rabbit and ate it, skin and all. At last she ran away and her husband was sorely tormented. Later he found her in the woods with a litter of little whelps.

The romance came to an end when Mrs. Tebrick was pursued by hounds and was killed while her husband held her in his arms. Tebrick, gallant man, was severely wounded in her defense.

David Garnett, the author, vouches for the truth of the story. In fact, Tebrick is still alive, he says. If I didn't believe this story I wouldn't think it such a fine tale.

SCOTT FITZGERALD takes a flight into the realm of fancy in "The Vegetable," a fantasy in play form. His hero, Jerry Frost, had always been ambitious to be president, but his natural inclination was toward the work of postman. His wife had made him a railroad clerk.

A bootlegger furnishes Jerry with a gallon of "sympathetic" gin, which, imbued, lifts Jerry immediately to the presidency. The state of Idaho demands Jerry's impeachment, so Jerry seeks to swap Idaho and five million dollars for the Buzzard Islands, property of Irish Poland.

Jerry's presidential term lasts only a week, evidently, for he is soon back home delivering letters, trying to please people by giving them letters he thinks appropriate, and happy in the belief that he is the best letter carrier in the country.

The blur on the jacket says three theatrical producers refused this farce, but that "two severe and celebrated dramatic critics" held differed views. For the business of the theater it seems to me that the producers had the sounder judgment. But that is not gaining the fact that "The Vegetable" is "fascinating reading of the lighter sort."

MARGARET CULKIN BANNING has achieved a very skilful weaving of two themes in "Country Club People." The book is a mirror of small minds, hypocrites, awayed by petty prejudices. Among them is one girl with a will all her own, who maintains a judicial attitude toward all about her, having an independent estimate of acts and persons. She is the principal character of the story, but moving along like a silhouette in the background of a picture is the romance of her father and a young girl. It represents a mature man's bid for the return of youth. It is the story of "Clythera" viewed from that widely separated from that taken by Hergesholmer.

MEMOIRS as a rule make poor reading for a busy book reviewer. They usually concern people about whom much is generally known. "The Nineteenth Hundreds" of Horace Wyndham is different in that respect. He deals with people he calls "nobodies." Dealing with actors, playwrights, novelists, critics and the like I found the book so engrossing that I have read 217 of its 271 pages in a week in which many new works of fiction clamor for attention.

TURNING THE PAGES. Jane Abbott has been called the successor of Louisa May Alcott. Her new book, "Mingled Streams," is such a romance as Louisa Alcott wrote (having matured enough by now to admit that I used to read girls' books). Recommended to mothers seeking the "right kind of books" for adolescent daughters. "The sound of a kiss is not so loud as that of a cannon, but its echo lasts a deal longer." This quotation from Holmes is the theme of "Echo," by Margaret Rivers Larmine. It concerns the happy ending for a girl who has bravely faced the consequences of an early mistake. . . . Received a copy of "Through the Whirl" (Thomas Boyd's story of Belleau Wood, and passed it on to a man who had taught there. He tells me it is "the real goods."

BY JAMES W. DEAN. NEW YORK, May 19.—There is only one way for a grown-up to thoroughly enjoy a fantasy, and that is to become a little child again, implicitly believing everything the author writes. Doubt is the ugliest monster in human existence. Doubt kills Santa Claus and changes fairies into ogres and turns lovely goddesses into things of ivory.

Thus, I recommend to simple, glibly reads the story called "Lady Into Fox." If you will only put yourselves in the attitude of believing that no author lies you will enjoy the revelation of the most unusual occurrence that ever befell man.

Mr. Tebrick was walking along a road in Oxfordshire with his bride. As they stopped to watch a hunt she drew her hand from his and cried out. Where his wife had been before was a small fox of a very bright red. The fox had the eyes of his wife.

Tebrick waited until night and took his wife, now a vixen, home under his coat. He discharged his servants and shot his dogs and for a time lived happily, she dressing in a very becoming gown and

MUSCLE SHOALS FIRM REPLIES

Declares Company Offers Worthy Proposition, Denies Report.

Nothing was misrepresented to Manistique people in regard to Muscle Shoals real estate, according to Leo Weiss, of the Muscle Shoals Land Corporation, Detroit, who objected to statements issued in Manistique this week warning local people not to invest in the Alabama real estate.

Some local people had already invested with Mr. Weiss' company, he said, and these were reassured of the genuineness of the prospect by the salesman, who told them he had wired to his company at once for official denial of the statements made here. He also exhibited a telegram received by the Boyne City chamber of commerce when they investigated the real estate proposition recently.

The parcels of land owned by the Detroit company are shown on a map to be located at Sheffield, Alabama, and across the street from the government holdings at nitrate plant number two. Development of the land was not dependent on the taking over of the Muscle Shoals by Henry Ford, Mr. Weiss declares.

Warning Had Been Issued.

The salesman will remain in this city until Monday, when he expects to leave for Escanaba.

Warnings not to invest with the Muscle Shoals corporation were issued to Manistique people in a statement signed by the Manistique Civic Club.

FIRST BASEBALL PLAYERS HERE, READY TO OPEN

Handshakes were in order at the Debut Barber shop Saturday, as baseball fans welcomed to the city the first new arrivals for the Manistique baseball team, Leo "Red" Paige, and George J. Goodwin, shortstop and second baseman respectively. Chas Burns, third sacker, was also expected yesterday, but did not arrive with his team-mates.

Bats protruded from bulky bags carried by the two arrivals, showing that they had their favorite sticks ready for the opening tilt of the season with Marquette next Sunday.

Today opens the first week of practice, when the newly improved diamond at the fair grounds will again be marked with corked shoes and the empty grand stand will again echo with the crack of the ball against the bat.

Just one week from Wednesday, on Decoration Day, local fans will get their first treat, weather permitting.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY.

Hostesses for the day are to be Mesdames Moulton, Kaye and Ponder.

On Wednesday evening the Missionary Study club will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. W. A. McKinney.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown drugist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and is restored to its natural color and looks glossy soft and beautiful. Adv.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyperacidity resulting from an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten soars in the stomach much like garbage sores in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mucus, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is intensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results. Adv.

BOOTLEGGERS GIVEN ONE YEAR

Attempt to Bribe Officer Is Told in Evidence At Trial.

Upon the return of Chief of Police John A. Peterson to this city from federal court duty at Marquette, Manistique people learned of the conviction of Henry Demarse of this city, who was sentenced to one year in the Detroit work house. One member of the jury convicting Demarse was from Manistique.

An important item of evidence that led to the conviction of Demarse was the deposition of Officer Larry Bamrick of this city showing that Demarse had paid out a tip or "hush money" to the local officer in the attempt to get a guarantee that he would be advised immediately by the officer if a raid on his place was contemplated.

Bill In Evidence.

The ten dollar bill paid out by Demarse in the attempted bribe was offered with the officer's affidavit as evidence. Officer Bamrick paid no attention to the request, and Demarse was not warned of the raid previous to its taking place.

The local man's trial was a speedy one. Starting late in the forenoon, the testimony was soon completed, and the verdict speedily reached. Shortly afterward, Demarse received his sentence, and by two o'clock was sent on his way to Detroit, accompanying 34 others in the "moonshine special." Demarse's sentence, however, was one of the severest meted out.

Arrested Before.

He will be remembered by Manistique people as having been connected with what is known as the West End hotel, where his name had on several occasions been connected with the liquor business, though he has never been previously convicted. He is unmarried, and about 28 years of age.

Shower Is Given for Manistique Bride

A pleasing social affair of the week was the miscellaneous shower given Friday evening by Miss Alice Lundvall, 425 Delta avenue, in honor of Miss Alice Rasmussen, who is to be married very soon to Antoine Weingartner of this city.

Pink and green were the colors combined in the decorations. Refreshments were served, and music helped to make a delightful evening. An attractive and useful assortment of gifts was received by Miss Rasmussen from her friends.

Those present were: Mrs. Frank Hutt, Mrs. Jasper Laurion, Mrs. Peter Rasmussen, Mrs. Chas. Lundvall, Mrs. Clifford Jackson, Mrs. John Podleski, Misses Alice Christensen, Loretta Eakley, Stella Eakley, Pearl Podleski, Mable Swansen, Anna Salstrom, Alice Lundvall and the guest of honor, Alice Rasmussen.

Charles Flodin Dies at Hospital

Local people learned Saturday of the sudden death of Charles Flodin, 419 N. Houghton avenue, whose demise occurred at the Rutledge hospital at two o'clock Saturday morning, following a critical operation.

Known as a healthy, robust man of splendid physique, Mr. Flodin's death came as a shock to his many friends in this city, where he was employed as foreman in the White Marble Lime Company yard.

Mr. Flodin's family of three children is left orphaned by the loss of their father, Mrs. Flodin having passed away only last fall. Funeral arrangements were being made yesterday.

Save Your Date for Fremant's Party

"Save your date for the Fremant's party!" is the advice of local friends who are arranging for a community dance under the auspices of the Manistique Fire Department on the first Monday in June.

According to the plans announced, the ball will be at the high school gymnasium, which was proved to be an ideal place for an affair of this kind last fall, when a community ball was staged there, the "Tunesters" orchestra officiating.

Morrison Returns from his Lawmaking

Taking a welcome vacation from his legislative duties, Hon. D. F. Morrison of Germfask, representative of this district in the state legislature was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Morrison declared that he was glad to get back home again, and anticipated a fishing trip to one of the many snny haunts in Schoolcraft county.

The representative had motor-cycled to this city, and returned to Germfask in the afternoon.

RADIO STATION IN MANISTIQUE MAY BE SOLD

Reports Indicate that Railroad May Take It

Just what disposition will be made of the government naval radio station here had not been determined in latest advices received here yesterday, though it is known that some change in the ownership of the local station is to take place very soon.

It is known, however, that the Radio Corporation wishes to lease the station, and also that the Ann Arbor railroad has had under advisement for some time the purchase of the equipment which is of great value to them as a means of communication in the operation of their car ferry. Rumors have previously been circulated to the effect that the Manistique outfit had been purchased by the railroad interests.

In any event, the transfer of the station from government control to other owners will mean that navy men now stationed here as operators will be transferred from Manistique to another post in the near future.

Junior Prom Gayest Event of the Year

Gowns of rainbow hues vied with bright vari-colored balloons to make the junior prom held at the Manistique high school gymnasium Friday night one of the gayest and most-pleasing social affairs of the school year.

Scores of couples from Manistique's younger set enjoyed a program of dancing from nine to one in the beautifully decorated gymnasium, where the junior class colors of purple and white formed the basis of the color scheme, with hundreds of balloons suspended just out of reach over the dancers' heads. At midnight, the dancers charged on the balloons, and the puncturing of them afforded much amusement.

Much credit was given the committees from the junior class for the staging of this very successful "Junior Hop."

CITY BRIEFS

H. Cilek returned Saturday morning to his home at Engadine, after attending the junior prom at Manistique high school Friday night.

H. K. Bundy returned Friday evening for a short visit at the Sault.

After a visit at the Wm. Pray home, Mrs. Ferguson and small daughter have returned to their home at Flint, Mrs. Ferguson is a sister of Mr. Pray.

Morris Farney left Saturday morning for his home at the Sault, after a week's stay in this city, during which he attended the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Wm. Turpin, Jr.

The Methodist Ladies Aid Society will meet in the church parlors next Wednesday. A program and refreshments are planned.

First Gypsies of Season Show up

Four wagons of gypsies, the first to arrive here this season, passed through Manistique yesterday.

In the wake of the train were a number of horses, the trading stock of the wandering band.

The dusky travelers said that they were Roumanians, and were on their way to the copper country to work in the mines.

Telephone calls from farmers east of the city advised the sheriff here of the approach of the band before they neared the city. Mr. Klagstad made a trip out to meet the arrivals, and found them encamped for the night just outside the city. No violations of the law had been reported against them, and they were allowed to proceed.

Ian B. Winn Will Be Masonic Delegate

Chosen as a delegate to the Grand Lodge meeting at Kalamazoo, Ian B. Winn, senior warden of the local Masonic lodge, expects to leave here Monday morning enroute to the convention city.

Mr. Winn will represent the Lakeside Lodge No. 371, F. and A. M. of this city. He will remain until the close of the Grand Lodge meeting, returning to Manistique on Thursday. His duties at the Manistique Post office will be taken care of by Homer LaFollette during his absence.

A THOUGHT

There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape.—I. Cor. 10:13.

As there is much beast and some devil in man, so is there some angel and some God in him. The beast and the devil may be conquered, but in this life never destroyed.—Cokeridge.

HEGG RETURNS TO MOUND IN BATTLE TODAY

Fans Set for Good Return Clash with Escanaba This Afternoon.

Here's good news for Gladstone fans. Lloyd Hegg, who last Sunday held the Escanabans to four scattered hits but lost for Gladstone by a 2 to 1 score, will be here to pitch against the same team to pitch against this afternoon. Manager John Matby received a telegram yesterday morning from Hegg saying he would arrive this morning.

The rest of the lineup will also be practically the same, with the exception of Berg at third. Moravitz, who played short last Sunday, will probably be shifted to third and someone else placed in his position. Fans will also be glad to hear that Bill Butts, who wore a Gladstone uniform in 1921, will be with the team this afternoon. Last year Butts played with the Menominee team and is credited with driving in more runs than any other player on the team.

Germaine, a well known pitcher in these parts is slated to do the flinging for the visitors. The locals would have preferred to wreak revenge on that bird Zyrd who got away to a lucky win last week, but they will have to be satisfied with an opportunity to take it out through Germaine.

Foye, who made a good showing behind the plate, will again do the receiving. Capt. Gervais will again be stationed at first and will be prepared to wield the old war club effectively. Miller, who played left field last Sunday, did not get a chance to display his ability as a slugger, but the fans know that he's got the "goods" and will go to the game Sunday expecting to see him "bust" a few.

Booster Crowd.

The greatest crowd ever gathered at the local ball park is expected at the game. Many tickets have already been sold but there is still room for those who will be buying their tickets at the gate.

MANAGER WILL SUBMIT BUDGET TO COMMISSION

Statement of City Finance Will Also Be Made at Meeting Tuesday.

A budget covering expenses in every department of the city for the year is being prepared by City Manager C. W. Ham and will be placed by him before Mayor I. N. Bushong and other members of the commission at the first business meeting of the commission Tuesday night.

The budget being worked out by the city manager will be for the fiscal year, which ordinarily is from April 1 of one year to March 31 of the next. In this case, however, the budget will cover expenses beginning with May 14, the date on which the new city government went into effect.

The budget on which the manager is now working will cover every department of the city, and from the estimates made a fair idea of how much money will be needed to run the city until the beginning of the fiscal year, March 31, 1924, will be known.

It is also probable that a statement of the condition of the city's finances at present, with a detailed account of the amount of bonded indebtedness will be made by Manager Ham at this time in connection with the budget figures.

Special Meeting.

The meeting Tuesday night will be the first real business meeting of the new commission and the city manager, the regular meeting Monday night having been adjourned until this time and action will be taken on a number of important matters.

BIG CROWD TO HEAR TALK BY HEALTH LEADER

What will probably be one of the finest addresses to be heard in Gladstone in some time will be that which will be given here tomorrow by Mrs. Alta N. Fulcher, state health worker and organizer of the Bureau of Child Hygiene in the Michigan department of health.

Mrs. Fulcher will appear in Gladstone at the request of the Child's Welfare club. She will give two addresses, one in the afternoon at 3 o'clock before the students of the high school and the second, a public address in the evening, at 8 o'clock at the high school assembly.

The state worker is known as an exceptionally interesting speaker and her subject is one that everyone should know something of. She was a speaker in Escanaba a few weeks ago and will again give an address there tomorrow noon before coming to Gladstone before members of the Escanaba rotary club.

Arrangements are being made to take care of the large crowd which will undoubtedly hear Mrs. Fulcher when she appears here tomorrow night.

FILLMORE IN LEAD AT FIELD AND TRACK MEET

Freshman Sets Pace in Several Events Yesterday.

Fillmore lead all participants in the field and track meet at the Gladstone ball park yesterday afternoon the young freshman being awarded 28 points for his showing in the various events between the classes of the high school, the next having been arranged in preparation for the upper peninsula track meet to be held in Menominee June 9.

Greenlund was second in points awarded, receiving 24 and Johnson was third with 16 points and Reese fourth with 10.

Fillmore led in several of the track and field events, being first in five of these and second in another. Probably the most exciting event was the one-mile race, when he and Geraldau finished the last four laps, with Fillmore less than a foot behind, when they crossed the line.

Rees led in the 100-yard dash, with Soren Johnson second, and Murphy third. Fillmore, Greenlund and Karpacia were the winners of the 40-yard dash, in the order named. Fillmore also won the high jump and the high hurdles. The low hurdles went to Greenlund, Peterson and Segar. The pole vault went to Greenlund, Fillmore and Reese.

In the 220-yard dash, Johnson, Reese and Peterson were winners and the 880-dash went to Fillmore, Greenlund and Karpacia. Soren Johnson won the running jump with 17-7. Murdock second with 17 and Reese third with 16-11 1/2. Theodore Feldt won the discus throw, with an 85-foot throw.

There were a few other events, but in points, the juniors and seniors had an even number of points, 23, the freshmen were third with 28, all made by Fillmore, and the sophomores were last with only two points, according to the awards made by the judges, C. H. Teague, Lex McCauley and J. A. Sturgeon.

ALUMNI MEET WEDNESDAY TO ARRANGE PARTY

A meeting of all alumni of the called for Wednesday night to consider what plans shall be made for the annual alumni reunion this year.

Announcement of the meeting which will be held at the high school was made by Attorney Glenn Jackson, who is chairman of the Gladstone alumni association.

The alumni last year secured an elaborate banquet, followed by a dance party at which each alumnus was permitted to invite a friend, and it is probable that an affair somewhat similar will be arranged for this year.

Mrs. Anna Kinsella left yesterday for a visit at Lake Linden.

Mrs. Wilfred Marlin and baby returned to their home at Marquette after a visit at the home of Mrs. Jbs. Devett, Sr., at Kipling.

May Festival And Dance To Draw A Crowd

Everything is in readiness for the May Festival dance and party to be given at Terrace Gardens Tuesday night under the auspices of the Fraternal Reserve Association. LeDuc's orchestra is prepared to render one of the finest musical programs ever to be given on any party at this popular dancing place this year.

The committee in charge of the plans for Tuesday night's party has spared no efforts to provide for the comfort and enjoyment of the large crowd which is almost certain to be in attendance. Several novelty features have been added to make the occasion enjoyable.

Miss Ada Wilson left Saturday for a week-end visit at her home in Manistique.

MISSIONARY IN INDIA TO SPEAK HERE

Edna Bacon, On Fur- lough, To Be Here Wednesday

Miss Edna Bacon, missionary worker in India, who has returned to this country for a brief stay will deliver an address here at Alice Memorial Methodist Episcopal church on Wednesday evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Miss Bacon, whose familiarity with the eastern country as well as wide experience in missionary work will make her talk doubly interesting, is connected with the Northwestern Branch of the Foreign Missionary society of which the local church organization is a part.

An effort was made by the Rev. H. W. Colenso, pastor of the church, to secure Miss Laurance who has just returned from China to speak here but she was unable to come because of the illness of her mother, and the church was fortunate enough to secure Miss Bacon to take her place.

Among the activities of the society with which Miss Bacon is connected are:

Donation of $2,000 toward the building of a vocational school at Akrafah, India, where the schools are literally "bursting out at the sides" with girls.

Donation of $2,000 to the Mary Wilson Tuberculosis sanitarium at Talanua, India, where every conference in India has sent patients.

Preliminary work on the establishment of a community center at Peking, China.

Establishment of a kindergarten at Changli, China, money for which was donated by the Detroit Methodist conference.

Providing a playground for the children of Hiroshi, Japan.

Establishment of a Camp Fire unit for girls in Buenos Aires, Argentine, South America.

Special Music.

Miss Bacon will tell in detail her part in these good works and will outline the work to be accomplished in the future and heard by a large number of people.

Special music both instrumental and vocal selections will be given on. A free will offering will be taken at the close of the lecture.

CALL FIRE CHIEF WHEN CHIMNEYS NEED CLEANING

Beginning Monday there will no longer be any excuse for a chimney fire caused by a plugged up chimney.

An official chimney sweeper has been engaged by the fire department, and any persons who have not attended to the thorough cleaning of every chimney on their homes, need only to call the fire department number and give their addresses, for prompt service.

The scouring of someone to clean chimneys has followed an unusual number of such blazes, all due to neglect on the part of property owners to have the chimneys cleaned after the heavy soot and smoke of winter.

Chief Raddant of the fire department also asked that continued observance be given the recent order to use a phone call for a chimney fire, rather than the general alarm.

Runeberg Plans Annual May Party

Garden Bay News

Lewis Londo, with his wife and Mrs. Albert Cousineau, had a thrilling experience recently when making a trip over the plains with a team bound for Manitowish. It was very early in the morning just before daybreak. They had arrived close to the McPhee camp near Cooks. Mrs. Londo and Mrs. Cousineau insisted that they repeatedly heard strange sounds but he discredited their alarms. It was not long before his team of bronchos commenced to act in a strange manner. They reared and plunged, and Mr. Cousineau, thinking that something of the harness was irritating them, got out and made an investigation. In the gray twilight, he faintly discerned the forms of five wolves. He did not look further for harness misfits but it was all aboard in short order. When seated on the drivers' seat, he saw ten more of the animals not very far away. His bronchos were terrified and it was all he could do to hold them in. In fact, he was quite willing that they should go and for three miles they went as hard as they could tear. Mr. Londo declares that when they got into the city, the horses were all of a foaming lather. He also makes a solemn pledge that he will never take that route again unless accompanied by a trusty firearm.

A number of flowers were received here in celebration of Mothers' Day. It is a good plan to remember our dear ones while with us rather than to place the flowers upon the casket after they have departed. Captain Hansen and son, Henry, of Fairport, were in town on business on Monday. Before leaving for their home, they took a trip to the Dayton Beardsley farm at Kates' Bay. Fred Van Remortel, of Fayette, was in town on Sunday night. Wallace Blrk has returned from Steger, Ill., where he was employed during the winter. Before coming to the home of his parents at Fayette, he spent a few weeks with his brother, Leslie, at Two Rivers, Wis. Mrs. Coleman, of the Soo, arrived here on Tuesday and is taking a course of treatment at the cancer hospital. Mr. Myers, of Escanaba, arrived here today and is taking treatment at the cancer hospital. Mr. McNamara, of Munising, has returned and is completing his treatment at the cancer hospital. After a period of several weeks' uncertainty as to their plans, the management of the LaMotte cancer hospital announce that they have definitely decided to remain in this village. The natural advantages of Garden are such that it would be impossible to duplicate such an advantageous location anywhere in the state. The bracing atmosphere, the "close to nature scenery," and the nearness of Lake Michigan, are all factors which mean much to the patients who come here for healing. Plans are being made to enlarge the sphere of service which this institution is rendering to humanity. These will be announced in this column as soon as they have developed sufficiently.

Convention Delegates Despite Youth

Jackson, Tenn., May 17.—If there have ever been delegates to any state convention younger than Carolyn Cawthon and Helen Buck of this city—let them come forward! The older of the two, Carolyn, is but 11 tender years, and as president of the Juvenile MacDowell Club recently attended the Tennessee Federation of Music Clubs in Chattanooga, Helen, 9, went along as delegate. The two youngsters gleaned valuable experience in the rudiments of parliamentary law, and friends are hopeful it will stand them in good stead in future years should they decide to enter the political arena. Those attending the convention say it was a decided and refreshing inn vation to see the young president swinging down the aisle with her nine-year-old delegate, each clad in doiled stockings! Their club has 49 members, and plans to be a power in state musical circles. At least the convention showed they were alive to the importance of proper representation. The breaches made on the bridge which spans Garden Creek near the White Barn east of town. Since the spring floods, traffic over this structure has been impossible. Lloyd McNally spent a pleasant evening on Saturday snaring suckers in Garden Creek. He caught so many that he was unable to take them all away at one haul. Accordingly, he left a part of his catch on the bank and returned bright and early the next morning. But the gulls were earlier than Lloyd and he was saved the unpleasant task of dressing and preparing the suckers for the breakfast table. Abel Shires, of Fayette, was in town on business on Monday. Work is continuing apace with the building of the Resort Camp on Fayette Bluff. It is expected that this will be opened on schedule time. J. B. Jette, of Marquette, secretary general of a Canadian insurance company was in town on Sunday. A meeting of the village board was held on Thursday night. Road Commissioner Feldhuzen was requested to make a thorough investigation of the condition of the township roads and make a report of the flood damages, with estimates of the cost of repairing. Ed. Deloia, of Cooks, was a Garden visitor on Sunday. He brought joy to the hearts of many after the regular mail stage had left Cooks. Among this was a quantity of flowers and greetings for Garden mothers, who were remembered by their absent sons and daughters. These flowers would have languished and wilted all day Sunday in the Cooks post office, had it not been for Mr. Deloria's thoughtfulness. Exceptionally large congregations were present at Garden, Fayette and Fairport on the occasion of the celebration of "Mothers' Sunday." At each of these places a special musical program was rendered, and appropriate recitations by the young people. Appropriate discourses were given by the pastor. Mrs. Jos. Thill and Wm. Folio were the special singers assisting with the Mothers' Day services in the Fayette church. Miss Florence Pizzala, of Sac Bay, was the organist. "Mother's Sunday" will be observed in the Cooks Congregational church on the coming Sunday. This latter date was observed on account of the inability of the pastor to be present on the former date. An appropriate program of music and recitations is being prepared for this occasion. The pastor will speak on the subject, "A Mother's Influence and a Mother's Need." All fathers and mothers present on this occasion will receive a little souvenir of the occasion. It is especially hoped that a large number of the members and friends of the church will make this a rally day. Edward J. Purtil, of the Garden-Motor Co., made a business trip to Escanaba yesterday. The Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church held their regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Rost, of Van's Harbor. A good attendance was recorded. A large part of the afternoon was spent in sewing and making various preparations for the forthcoming sale of work. While the run of spring fishing at Van's Harbor has been quite good, the prices have been poor, and some of the fishermen are taking up their nets and quitting the game. The Hansen fishing tug put out to the lake on Monday, but were unable to lift on account of the high winds which prevailed. TIRES WITH 500 NAIL HOLES LEAK NO AIR Mr. R. B. Milburn of Chicago has invented a new puncture-proof inner tube, which, in actual test, was punctured 500 times without the loss of any air. It covers your mileage from 10,000 to 12,000 miles without removing this wonderful tube from the wheel, and the beauty of it all is that this new puncture-proof tube costs no more than the ordinary tube, and makes riding a real pleasure. You can write Mr. R. B. Milburn at 356 West 37th St., Chicago, as he wants them introduced everywhere. Wonderful opportunity for agents. If interested write him today.—Aiv.

Periscoping

A well known Escanaba merchant stood at the curbstone in front of his place of business cheerfully talking with a farmer's wife, who, with her daughter and sons, had come to town to do the spring shopping. The daughter was trying to crank the car. The tonneau of the machine was filled with small children, new milk pans, fruit jars, two hoes and a rake and an armful of packages that had just come out of the store operated by the well known merchant. The packages contained clothes for the children and for the mother, with a new pair of overalls for Dad and other articles purchased with smooth silky greenbacks. The merchant chatted with the mother. The daughter continued to experiment with the flyover's mainspring. "Yes, yes!" bubbled the merchant. "Mighty glad to see you folks in town after such a terrible winter. We're always pleased to see our friends from the country come in for a visit. Come in again and make yourself at home—make this place your headquarters while you're here, the more you act as if you owned the place the better we like it!" "Thank you very kindly," answered the farmers wife. "We'll surely take advantage of that offer when we come in again. We must be going now if we intend to get back in time for the milking. What's the matter, Rose? Can't you get it to start?" The merchant's smile flashed forth like the dazzling incandescence of his own windows. Here was an opportunity for him to show his keen interest in his customers welfare. He stepped to the fore. "Having trouble getting started?" he queried, in a tone full laden with sympathetic understanding. The daughter straightened from her fruitless spinning of the motor. Relief shone in her eye at the prospect of assistance from a strong musculline arm more powerful than here to twist the stem of the gasoline carrrail. "Yes," she admitted.
