Tulsa Under Guard, Scarcely Knows It

Tulsa, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Several thousand Tulsans downtown, possibly failed to see an olive drab uniform today and Tulsa retired tonight after the first day of martial law, feeling that military rule as established here by the adjutant general was an almost invisible force. No soldiers were stationed on principal corners of the business district during the day. Occasionally a motor truck bearing a dozen guardsmen drove through the street but they attracted little attention.

GASOLINE WAR EXTENDS OVER MIDDLE WEST

WAVE OF SLASHING RESULTS IN BIG SALES

Chicago, Aug. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—American motorists from the Alleghenies and the Rockies today revived the quaint old custom of "rushing the gas" as price crushing tactics of competitors in the gasoline industry brought about lower prices and retail gasoline dealers reported the greatest day's sales in their history. The thrifty motorists who ordered their tank filled to the brim and brought along extra containers to haul home a reserve, brought forth no peans of prosperity from a petroleum industry, for all asserted that the prices were far below the cost of production and will prevail only as long as competition makes them necessary.

WOMEN FLOCK TO MINE

Great throngs of women, many of them widows of the blast, gathered about the mouth of the shaft as the rescue work went on. Many were hysterical. When cars carrying survivors of the blast came to the top, the crowd became almost uncontrollable rushing forward in a main effort to find a loved one and police and volunteer workers experienced the greatest difficulty keeping them from the mouth of the shaft.

The bride of yesterday is known to practically every person in this city and county having been in the millinery business here for a number of years and enjoying the friendship of a large circle of friends.

Mr. Fleishman is one of Chippewa Falls leading business men and one of that city's most prominent citizens.

Kiwanians Refuse To Reveal Site Of Thursday Fox Hunt; Lengthy Program Arranged

The Escanaba Kiwanis club, Thursday afternoon will stage its annual fox hunt and picnic, but members of the entertainment committee of the organization, of which Lew Stangby is chairman, steadfastly refused to reveal where the event would be staged.
Arrangements for the affair were virtually completed last night and a lengthy program arranged. Features of the day, in addition to the fox drive, will be a barnyard golf tournament, a Portuguese bull fight, a session at the grand old game of "yip-slip" and a picnic dinner.
Ben Kratze, of Davenport, Ia., a charter member of the club, was appointed information dispenser of the committee and let it be known, after the committee meeting, that he can be found in his temporary offices in the show window at Ludington street, Phone 262, by any members of the club who desire details of the event.

The barnyard golf tournament will select the two Kiwanians who will represent the club in the annual competitions of the Nineteenth regional district. Guy H. Ramsey, one of the club's most expert and best informed horse shoe players, has been appointed director-general of the eliminations proceedings.

Stangby to Lead Way.
Automobiles, led by Mr. Stangby as pathfinder, will leave the corner of Ludington and Seventh streets at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.
The outing, it was announced, will be preliminary to two or three other outdoor events which the club is planning. One of these will be an all-day, old-fashioned family picnic, it was said.

g'clock after which a social session followed at which a large number of guests were entertained. They received many pretty gifts. A color scheme of pink and green was carried throughout the home. Cut flowers and garden flowers were used in profusion. Pink shaded lamps and candles added much to the color effect.

Narrow Escape From Death On Way to Wedding

John E. Fleishman of Chippewa Falls, Wis. who motored to this city leaving home at five a. m. Sunday met with an accident near Oconto, Wis. Sunday noon which nearly cost him his life.
Mr. Fleishman was driving his Paige six when he neared a curve, he drove as close to the right side as possible expecting to meet a car there but just as he reached the curve a second car coming from the opposite direction passed the first car at the curve crowding him to the edge of the road causing his car to turn turtle and then over into the ditch. He stuck to the wheel and it seems a miracle that he was not instantly killed.
After getting the car back into the main road he proceeded on his way with a bruised wrist and thigh and managed to get as far as Bark River Sunday evening at ten o'clock as the engine head gasket was so badly damaged, and leaking that he had to stop for water at every ten or twelve miles. Not being able to come farther, he journeyed to this city by rail leaving the car there for repair where he took it yesterday enroute to home accompanied by Mrs. Fleishman who became his bride Tuesday morning in this city.
Bride is the most variable in size and quality of all the parts of the human body.

U. S. MAILS.

Ships flying the United States flag hereafter are to be favored with the exclusive privilege of carrying United States mail to England and countries in Europe, according to the Post Office department, which is going to do its bit in backing American lines to the limit of its capacity.

It is a fine spirit of patriotism that the post office department shows in its endeavor to increase American ship earnings, but the wisdom of the move may be questioned.

The prime essential should be the delivery, as quick as possible, of the document placed in the post office department's hands for delivery.

The favoring of American ships should be a second consideration. Overseas mail service is too slow as it is.

FILLER.

No newspaper "filler" that has come to our attention surpasses in interest bulletins issued by various departments of the federal government.

There was issued the other day a story telling how the Turks like American linoleum. This story revealed that fifty per cent of the better class of homes in Constantinople use linoleum as a floor covering.

The purpose of this bulletin was to inform American manufacturers of a great market for linoleum in Constantinople. But it has a general interest in that it advises Americans something of the intimate customs and preferences of the Turks.

PARASITE DAMAGE.

Damage by pests and disease to American forests amount to $130,000,000 a year, according to a bulletin from the Department of Agriculture. The cost in dollars to fight these damaging pests would be but a fraction of the loss they cause.

THE WALTZ STEP.

Dancing masters propose to boost the old time waltz as "an art that cannot be improved upon." The dancing master, or such of them as were gathered in the convention of the International Association of Masters of Dancing show excellent judgment and can do much, if they hold to their convention action, and "boost" the old-fashioned waltz.

"UMPIRES should be accorded the same respect given judges on the bench," says an eastern sport scribe. Can you imagine an umpire, say our Mr. Evans, asking John McGraw and Pat Moran to submit an argument over a close decision at the plate on briefs before he hands down his decision?

Picture, if you are sturdy enough, Mr. Tyrus R. Cobb arising from the dust after having been given the umpire's thumb-over-the-shoulder on an attempt to steal second base, and with a sweeping bow remark humbly: "If it please the learned court, I should like very much to call your attention, your honor, to the fact that I was on my feet dusting off my pants before Mr. Collins received the ball, known here as Exhibit A at the sack, which we have designated as Exhibit B."

IF YOU ARE still with us, and feel like participating in a dash to the other extreme, visualize an attorney jumping to his feet, waving his arms and shouting at the judge: "Why you agate eyed pimento, what circuit was you ever judge in before yuh seen the president of this one commit a murder an' made him give yuh a job fer keepin' yer trap shut?"

Filling stations for fountain pens are in use on the campus of the University of Chicago. A penny in the slot, operates the machine. The dropping of the coin and the turning of the handle releases ink from the reservoir, and the fluid runs into the right-hand well where it can be sucked directly into the pen or by means of the dropper provided.

A THOUGHT

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT. Priscilla Dean, dynamic emotionalist of the screen, and one of filmdom's most cultured women, has longed though her whole career for such a role as she plays in "The Flame of Life," the Hobart Henley Universal-Jewel production now at the Delft.

Her desire has been a role of real emotional depth and yet without the influence of beautiful sets, fine clothes, and the splendor of a golden ending. In "The Flame of Life," the heroine is a girl of the mining country of North England, a toiler by day and a much-cursed, inhumanly treated daughter by night. She is uneducated, reading and writing is wholly foreign to her; and the real "kick" for the critics lies in the fact that the end of the picture finds her the same! She is merely shown at the climax on the high road to better things.

Frances Hodgson Burnett, England's brilliant woman novelist, knew the locale of the story by personal contact. Above all, she knew how to inject humaneness and naturalness into a story dominated by dramatic stress. The story has no tiresome involved plot; it pictures the impingement of natural forces in a strong, clear way.

Robert Ellis, Wallace Beery, Beatrice Burnham, Kathryn McGuire and others support Miss Dean, directed by Hobart Henley.

Hobart Henley spent several weeks in rehearsing the players in their parts in much the same manner that a stage play is rehearsed. In this way each player was familiar with the entire story.

AT THE STRAND. Any screen "fan" at all versed in "Who's Who in Films" will recognize that Nigel Barrie, Charles Gerrard, Charles Clary, Mona Kingsley and Ethel Kay constitute an exceptionally fine supporting company with Katherine MacDonald in her newest Associated First National production, "Heroes and Husbands," which will be seen for the first time, locally at the Strand theatre today.

Miss MacDonald has the role of a successful novelist in this new picture, which is typically comedy drama in that its earlier scenes are of the most happy and diverting sort imaginable, while toward the end melodrama, in the form of a mysterious shooting, stalks into the midst of a private theatrical entertainment and threatens for a moment to engulf Miss MacDonald and a number of the others of the story.

A timely twist provides a happy and entirely satisfactory ending to a story that is as out of the ordinary in character as it is in its development.

The street will be opened for traffic for two weeks, to allow thorough packing of the face courses. The entire surface will then be given a surface of tar and small gravel.

THE greatest achievements throughout the ages have been those discoveries and inventions which have made it possible for men to do the work of the world better and at the same time, gain the leisure needed to develop their own powers.

No single class of achievements has done more to overcome the obstacles which confronted mankind in his climb toward better things than those which are grouped about the discovery of petroleum. From this source he first secured cheap and abundant light, lubricants and power.

The discovery of kerosene gave him a clear, dependable light which made systematic night study possible.

The development of unnumbered lubricants made the operation of the countless machines which serve the world practical.

The refining of gasoline made the internal combustion automotive engine practicable.

In the development of these helps, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a leader.

For years it has maintained, at its refineries, research laboratories and testing stations where men were constantly at work finding new uses for petroleum, and as the discoveries have been proved of practical worth they have been given to the world.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has done more than develop a large number of products and manufacture them in quantities. It has priced them at reasonable figures and has organized a comprehensive system of distribution which makes it possible for any man in the ten Middle Western States served by the Company to get what he wants quickly and easily.

Of these achievements the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is justly proud—particularly so, as the public has paid no premium for the enjoyment of these comforts.

In contradistinction, every additional product that this Company is able to take from petroleum bears its just proportion of the total manufacturing expense and tends to keep down the manufacturing cost and the selling price of all petroleum products.

Thus do the activities of a big organization, founded and operated on the principles of equity, fairness and justice, accrue to the benefits of the public for the common good.

Gas Crews Laying Connecting Mains

City gas crews have started work on a cross connecting main to extend from the main in the alley between First and Second avenues south to the main on Third avenue south. Another connecting main is to be run south on Nineteenth street from Ludington street to Third avenue south. These cross mains will connect up sections of the city gas distribution system, where the pressure is low due to heavy consumption and great distance from the gas plant, acting as pressure equalizers. The Nineteenth street main will bring gas service to the three blocks it will traverse.

At Delft Tomorrow

HOWARD F. JOHNSON.

Howard F. Johnson, Marquette baritone, who has been spending a vacation in the upper peninsula before returning to New York where he is a student in the Herbert Witherspoon vocal school, will appear at the Delft theater here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Johnson, recognized as one of the most promising young singers in New York, had not expected to appear in public during his stay in Upper Michigan, but the Delft management persuaded him to agree to a tour of the Delft chain of theaters.

The Marquette Mining Journal says of Mr. Johnson's work: "Every seat in the Delft theater was filled last night when Howard F. Johnson, Marquette baritone, opened his engagement there. It was his second public appearance since he returned from New York, where he studied in the Herbert Witherspoon vocal school, and his singing was given the same enthusiastic applause that it was accorded at his recent recital in the Normal school auditorium. "Mr. Johnson sang "Roadways," "In the Gloaming, O' My Darling," and "Wines of France." He sang the latter song in the American Legion opera, "The Blue Bandits," presented here last year."

HOME BUILDING PERMITS PASS $100,000 MARK

Convincing evidence that Escanaba is enjoying a period of unusual prosperity this summer, and that the people of this city have faith in the future of their own community is seen in the amount of home building work which is being carried on here this season.

Building permits for more than $105,000 in new construction, most of it residential building, have been issued since the first of the year, according to the records at the office of the city clerk. In addition, permits for minor alterations and improvements in the amount of nearly $15,000 have been issued.

The addition of fully fifty per cent to these amounts would still leave the total for building work at a very conservative figure, according to those well posted in the building game. The natural tendency when taking out a permit for the construction of a new home is to give a very low figure for the cost, with the thought of thereby obtaining a lower tax valuation.

Partridge Season Opens October 15

There is such a thing as carrying game conservation work too far, in spite of all that Ed. Voght and that fellow Baird in Lansing think about it. No less a publication than the esteemed Daily Press yesterday reported that the partridge season in Cleveland would extend only from October 19 to November 9.

It's all a mistake, according to George Haiver, county clerk, and it's gotta be corrected. Alright, lets go.

The partridge season in the upper peninsula will extend from sunrise on October 15 (Fifteenth) to November 9 (Nine). The hunter is permitted to have not more than ten of the birds in his possession at one time, if he's fortunate enough to bag that many.

ALL SORTS OF CHANCES. "The king can do no wrong," orated the foreign visitor proudly. "He must be an awful dumb-bell," retorted the American tapper.
