

FORMER KAISER IS READY TO RETURN

ALLIES MIGHT LEAVE FRANCE OUT OF PARLEY

FOUR NATIONS IN ACCORD, FRANCE ALONE KICKS.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. Copyright, 1923, by The Escanaba Press. Washington, Nov. 12.—The door is still open for a conference of experts to examine Germany's capacity to pay reparations but the question that the United States and Great Britain now must decide is whether the parley shall be held without the participation of France.

Secretary Hughes contends the purpose of the inquiry was merely advisory. So the powers that have accepted without reservation the British proposal that the reparations commission appoint experts to examine the question of Germany's capacity to pay can go ahead without France if they desire. Such a course might not offend France, as would be supposed at first glance, because then the inquiry could be conducted without acceptance by the French of any responsibility for the findings of the commission of experts. What Premier Poincare has wanted has been freedom of action so that he would not appear to be committing France to a reduction of the German debt.

France is not part of the inquiry, her rights will be absolutely safeguarded and the Poincare government saved from internal political attack. Situation Foreseen. Great Britain foresaw such a situation as has developed because in the original note to the United States the question was asked whether the American government would participate in an inquiry if there happened to be a lack of unanimity on the part of the allies as to the desirability of a conference. The United States naturally did not wish to anticipate any dissensions or seem to be threatening a course of action predicated on a division of the allies so the answer to that point was reserved for future consideration.

It now becomes pertinent for the government of Great Britain to ask again whether the United States would join with Belgium, Italy and Great Britain in an informal inquiry into German capacity to pay.

Since the original purpose of the British invitation was to get such an inquiry started as would result in placing before the world the facts about reparations and the best methods of getting an international loan floated to help Germany recuperate, the same object could be served by a commission of experts from Belgium, America, Britain and Italy. Possibly when the commission reported, France might then find in the recommendations a suitable basis for a settlement. As it is now the French are in the position of blocking an inquiry into the facts and there is nothing in the Versailles treaty to prevent the other allies from making estimates whenever they please.

If the purpose of the allied

It is further proposed that a technical expert be added to the committee for each country. The investigation would last two months at least.

LEGION HEARS STATE OFFICERS

Chaplain Seiffert, Vice Commander Herbert, Banquet Speakers.

The Armistice, five years ago, which terminated the world war, did not bring the era of peace to Europe and to the world that many persons expected, and the advent of international amity is still far removed, Rev. Father F. A. Seiffert, state commander of the American Legion, told several hundred service men at their annual Armistice Day banquet in St. Joseph's hall Sunday night.

Father Seiffert responded to the toast, "Our Country."
Herbert Also Speaker.
America's present condition, far superior in all respects to the conditions in all other countries, is due to the fact that the government machinery in the United States is so assembled that it can be speeded up tremendously in times of emergency, and quickly can be restored to a same old normal speed when the emergency is passed.

J. J. Herbert of Manistowic, state vice commander of the Legion, also was a speaker.
Mrs. Annette Pawlow, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, which was hostess to the veterans at the banquet, delivered the welcome address. John A. Lemmer was toastmaster and there were musical numbers by the Manistowic band and the Harmony Four—Dernon, Dwyer, Degnon, Hira. The quartet was encochored repeatedly.

The banquet was one of the most successful ever staged by the Legion.
Parade to South Park.
The annual parade, which left the foot of Ludington street at 2:30 o'clock, was headed by Mayor Judson and members of the city council, with a squad of police in uniform, a color squad of soldiers, sailors and marines, and a long line of members of patriotic organizations and automobiles. Elmer Swanson was marshal of the day.
The parade moved up Ludington street to Fourteenth, back to Tenth street, and on to South Park, for the Manistowic-Escanaba football game.
Hundreds of out of town visitors were here for the celebration.

W. C. T. U. Meeting Postponed.
The W. C. T. U. meeting, which was scheduled for Tuesday, November 13, has been postponed.

A charter has been granted for a workers bank in Los Angeles.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, said approximately $8,500,000 is paid out annually to such guardians without proper safeguarding as to their disposition.

Senator Reed was insistent as to why there has not been readjustments of ratings of disabled men which, he said, in some cases work to the disadvantage of the government, and in many more cases to the disadvantage of the veterans. Referring to the recommendations of a senate investigating committee on this subject, Senator Reed declared it was useless for congress to have committees inquire into this matter if the recommendations of such committees are not followed.

Dr. Rogers replied that the rating schedule is now under revision.

TRAINS CRASH IN DENSE FOG

Fireman Injured in Head-on Collision Near Menominee.

Two freight trains—No. 187 and No. 280—the latter pulled by two engines—collided head-on in the dense fog at Key Siding, four miles north of Menominee shortly before 11 p. m. Sunday.
Peter Lavigne, fireman on the northbound train was injured when he, with other members of the engine crews, realizing that a crash was inevitable, jumped from their cabs. Both trains were running slowly and although considerable damage was done to the locomotives and several cars on each train, the wreckage had been cleared away last night. Trains earlier in the day had been forced to detour by way of Iron Mountain and were several hours late in arriving here.

Train orders, it was said yesterday, provided for a meeting at the Key Siding. No. 280 was to have taken the siding and 187 occupy the main track, after stopping at the north switch. In the dense fog, the engineer on the latter mistook the north switch for the south one and was stopping his train when No. 280 appeared out of the fog and the locomotives crashed.

Fireman Lavigne was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Menominee. His condition is believed not to be serious.
Friends who accompanied Mr. Lavigne to Menominee returned last evening and reported that he was injured about the back and neck and arrangements had been made to make an X-ray examination today. Mr. Lavigne seemed to be resting fairly well under the circumstances.

CLOVERLAND AND SUMMER HOTELS

The following, which is an extract from a letter sent by G. E. Bishop, Secretary-Manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, to the editor, speaks for itself:

The 1923 tourist season in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan has been practically brought to a close. It has without doubt established a record for volume of traffic throughout the peninsula. There is one feature of this activity, however, which we would like to call to your attention, in the earnest hope that you will take every occasion during the succeeding months, before the 1924 tourist season sets in, to bring to the attention of the people of your community—and that is the deplorable lack of accommodation facilities throughout the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

So persistent have been the complaints, to this effect, and so apparent is this disadvantage, that it has come to be a serious problem, and we are taking this means in an effort to fully impress upon the people in every community the situation which we are facing for another year.

We have every reason to believe that the 1924 tourist season will even surpass this year in volume, and there seems to be little or no activity throughout the peninsula, in regard to new summer resort and commercial hotels. There are a few exceptions, of course, but compared to the rapid increase of the tourist trade, the improvement is but slight.

Of the hundred of tourists who visited the offices of the Development Bureau during the past season, the prevailing complaint was the lack of adequate hotel accommodations, and we have been urged to put forth every possible effort to encourage the provision of such accommodations whenever and wherever possible. Even at this late period of the season, we find that the hotels throughout the entire peninsula are taxed almost to capacity, to accommodate even the commercial trade, and we fear that the communities of the upper peninsula—with one or two exceptions—are gaining a very unsavory reputation with the tourist and commercial trade purely through the lack of accommodation facilities.

This, of course, is to be regretted. At the same time, it seems that there are almost unlimited opportunities for the successful operation of summer resort and commercial hotels throughout the peninsula.

It remains now for the press of the peninsula to take up the fight, and hammer it home during the fall and winter months. Certain it is that if next year does not show an improvement in this situation, we cannot reasonably expect to enjoy the continued rapid increase in the tourist and commercial trade which we have been experiencing in the past five or six years.

PEACE, PIFFLE AND PREPAREDNESS

"Selling Us Another War" is the title of an article by Frederick J. Libby in The Nation, New York City's principal squirrel food paper. Libby's argument is that when American military and naval authorities talk about strengthening the national defense they are plotting to plunge the nation and the world into war. George Washington, according to pacifists of the Libby stamp, was the first of our militarists, because he delivered the common sense opinion that one good way for this nation to keep out of war was to mind our own business and "maintain a respectable posture of defense." Washington's immediate successors had less judgment, and Jefferson not his understudy, Madison, let the American navy and army decay to such a point that we invited the War of 1812, disastrous on land except at New Orleans, and glorious on the sea only because in those days navies were readily improvised.

Before the United States was backed into the World War by the watchful waiting and too proud to fight program, Col. Wm. J. Bryan used to go around over the country lecturing in favor of peace, which he said this nation could procure by giving notice to the whole world that it couldn't and wouldn't fight. One of Colonel Bryan's brilliant schemes for repelling invasion was to have the farmers of the Middle West arm themselves with corn knives, jump into their flivvers and rush to the coast to meet the oncoming armies of the enemy. He also declared that if an invading army were met without resistance, the invasion would soon break down of its own weight. The Germans have recently been trying Colonel Bryan's defense program in the Ruhr, as well as his method of making themselves rich by printing all the money the presses could turn out. Neither scheme has been much of a success. But before the world war Colonel Bryan's remarks along this line used to bring tears and Chautauque salutes from his audiences. Later the Bryan method of keep-out-of-war was tried on, with the result that we got into the biggest war the world has known, and because of our unpreparedness we had to spend billions of dollars in feverish, wasteful and in many instances inefficient preparation.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Third party is talking politics. May be all right, but third parties are like innocent bystanders. Wonder what the friendly newcomers will do in Europe? How can the war vets expect a dental bonus if it has been spent for war department frauds? News from France. France is selling her old forts. We could buy one and try the Stokes case in it. Turkey has become a republic. All it reminds us of is Thanksgiving turkeys are democratic. News from England. Her birth rate is declining. This is because her prices are not declining. A London professor is trying to learn what makes mountains. That's easy. The valley's in between. Society girl will hunt lions in Africa. May think they can't eat her without knives and forks. They are claiming again Columbus didn't discover America. Perhaps this isn't it after all. Had lots of wrestling at the Plectina-Zbyszko match in New York. Seats fell and threw 200 people. News from Germany. Poker players like aluminum money. Maybe it is light and matches their heads.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT. Pola Negri's second American made Paramount picture, "The Cheat," a George Fitzmaurice production with Jack Holt featured as leading man and Charles de Roche in support, opened to capacity at the Delft Theatre last evening. The picture scored a veritable triumph.

The second screen version of this immensely popular story, which was produced about eight years ago by Cecil B. DeMille, has been entirely rewritten and modernized and now offers tremendous opportunities for highly dramatic acting to the principals. It is an ideal screen vehicle, and Fitzmaurice has made the most of it, the action throughout being staged with much realism. Miss Negri's far-famed emotional acting was never more wonderful.

AT THE STRAND. A platonic bachelor party. This is the latest social innovation introduced in "Drums of Fate," a Paramount picture, featuring Mary Miles Minter, from the novel by Stephen French Whitman, which shows at the Strand theater the last times today. The party is of a type extremely trying on the hostess, however, for it is a case of one popular girl entertaining many men guests, all of whom in the present instance, are anxious for an opportunity to renew their proposals to her. When the party has progressed to a certain point, however, the hostess springs a clever surprise on the lonely bachelors. The picture is packed with thrills, the action taking the characters from New York to Africa. Maurice B. Flynn has the leading man's role opposite Miss Minter.

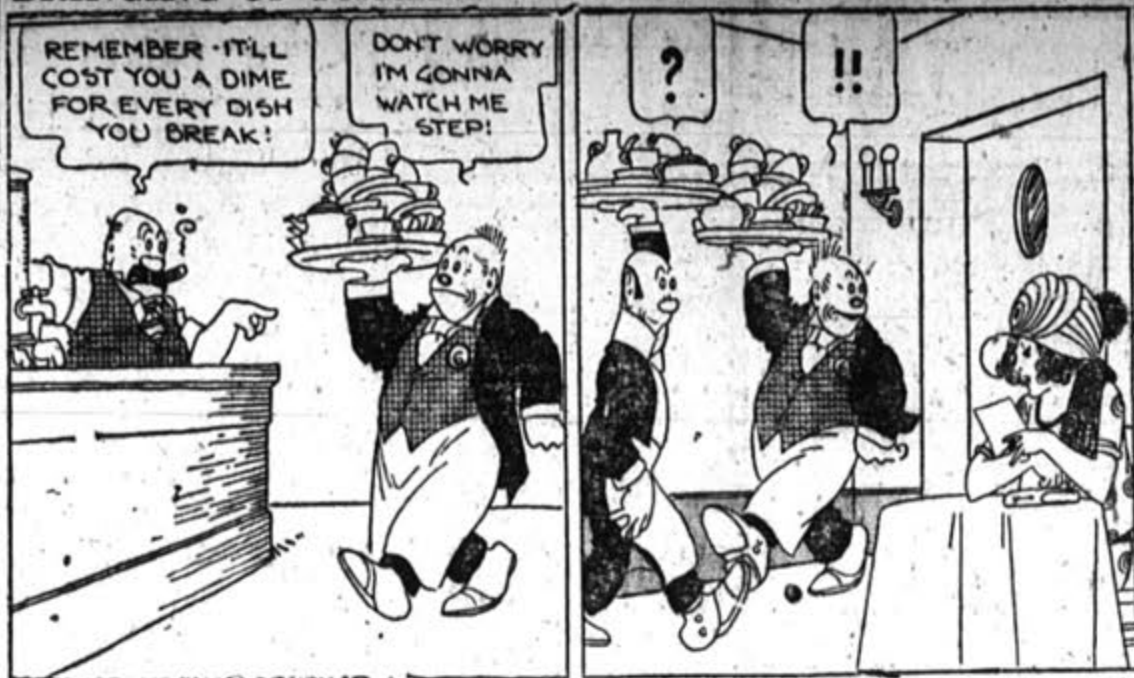

A THOUGHT

Every man according as he purporteth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver.—2 Cor. 9:7.

Posthumous charities are the very essence of selfishness, when bequeathed by those who, when alive, would part with nothing.—Colton.

"THE REVELATIONS OF A PAID COMPANION"

BY JANE PHELPS.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS. Chapter I.

I looked helplessly about the room, the place that for two years had been my only sanctuary, and that was mine no longer. I had hated it, the sordid meagerness, the dull drab walls, yet now found tears coming to my eyes when I realized it was mine no longer.

It was my birthday. I was 19 years old. My lip quivered as I remembered. I wondered if any other girl was ever so lonely, so alone on her birthday? Other girls had parties, gifts, wishes for happiness and—I had nothing. Absolutely nothing.

After tonight I wouldn't even have a roof over my head. Late sunlight from the small window illuminated the dingy room, and cast a spot of light upon my small trunk strapped and ready to go—where? I caught a glimpse of myself in the mirror, a slender, stricken thing. I had lost faith. Petty and contemptible seemed the old familiar teachings about God. What did he, God, care for a girl like me? He had let me be deceived, allowed me to get into this terrible condition. He had taken from me those I loved, had let me suffer. He had not answered my prayers. I would pray no more. If God refused to help me, why prayers were of no avail. My thoughts flashed back only a little over two years, years that had seemed a century so filled with loneliness and misery were they. Tears filled my eyes. Then I had had a home, a father and mother. Now they were gone. God had taken them from

Man who Helped to Nominate Lincoln for Presidency Talks Today.

Addison G. Proctor, of St. Joseph, youngest delegate to the Republican "Wigwam" convention which met in Chicago and nominated Abraham Lincoln for the presidency, will deliver an address at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon at the high school. Pupils of the high school and the eighth grades of the city will hear him. On account of the lack of room in the high school auditorium, the public cannot be accommodated, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Proctor has been actively identified with American politics for 60 years. He was one of the pioneers of Kansas, taking an active part in the early days in that free-state fight on the border which helped to save the west from slavery and dedicate it to "Free Homes for Free Men." In 1860, when only 21 years of age, he was selected one of Kansas' six delegates to the National Republican convention that nominated Lincoln, and he is the only surviving delegate of that historic gathering.

Tells "Unwritten Story."

Mr. Proctor's story of the unwritten incidents which led up to that nomination and of the great men with whom he came in contact in those stirring times, has been pronounced a valuable contribution to the nation's fund of memories of Lincoln.

Mr. Proctor arrived last night from Marquette, having spoken yesterday at Northern State Normal college.

MORAL LESSONS SPORT OBJECT

Coach Thompson Speaks to Kiwanis Club on Value of Athletics.

The mental and moral training which a youth receives in school athletics is far more important than the physical benefits, Coach Glenn Thompson told members of the Kiwanis club yesterday at their weekly luncheon.

"It is the mental and moral traits developed on the football field which the boy carries through life," Thompson declared. "The physical development all too often is forgotten when the youngster completes his school career, because he has no use for it in his every day life."

Football is the "game of games" as a character builder, Thompson declared. There was a time when a quarterback did all the team's thinking and the rest of the eleven was "beef". In modern football, the players, if the team is successful, must think together—each man for the other ten as well as for himself—and consequently each is almost as much of a football strategist as the quarterback.

Lessons of Fair Play.

Lessons of fair play, of team work, of tenacity of purpose and taking hard knocks with a smile, are the qualities which football develops, he asserted. A worth while program of athletics must be pointed towards definite objective in which character building is more important than physical development.

"Success isn't rags," says the feat of winning games. A team which plays poor football and wins is more to be censured than one which plays good football and loses."

1920—Remains of Mary Campbell ("Highland Mary") removed to a new grave at Greenock, Scotland.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet, or fear of bad effects.

Why Druggists Recommend Swamp-Root

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

Lost in the Woods

EXPERIENCED woodsmen say that when a man gets lost in the forest he usually travels round and round in a circle.

That's just the way some folks shop. They hit the buying trail, stray from it a bit and before they are aware of the fact, they are lost—wandering is a maze of counters—gradually growing wearier and wearier—and finally get back home mentally and physically tuckered out without having accomplished much.

Up-to-date shoppers make up their minds what they are going to buy before they leave the house. They know exactly what they want, how much they want to pay, and just where they will find the right goods at the right prices. To them shopping is a pleasure.

These modern shoppers read the advertisements carefully and regularly. They find that the advertisements save them steps, bother, trouble and time.

Let the advertisements guide you. That's their job.

WHEN GOOD FELLOWS GET TOGETHER!

They were a bunch of jolly fine folks—these members of Texas' delegation to the American Legion convention. And they sure painted the town while they were in San Francisco. Now, they're giving a little toast to California's far-famed hospitality. But the sparkling fluid in their glasses is pretty far away from the old stuff, although they call it "near."

CAN'T DO THE WORK

It's too much to try to work every day against a constant, dull backache, or sudden darting pain in the small of the back. Be rid of it. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Your neighbors recommend them. Mrs. A. Johnson, 1219-1st St., N., Escanaba, says: "I had an awful sore back and when I had any washing or lifting to do, my back ached terribly. Rheumatic pains had me feeling so badly I could hardly attend to my household work. I had sore and swollen feet and lots of times I could hardly stand. My knees were swollen and I was stiff and had sick headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and bought a few boxes at the City Drug Store. They rid me of kidney complaint in a short time." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Johnson had. Picture Arouses Patriotism. "The Man Without a Country," the picture shown at St. Joseph's Auditorium Sunday afternoon and evening to two packed houses was very interesting and a most patriotic lesson was given in the story.

The members of the American Legion attended in a body and members of the Spanish American War veterans and G. A. R. were there also. A banquet was served at St. Joseph's club rooms at 600 after which the guests attended the show. Outbursts of applause were heard each time the American flag appeared on the screen and a more patriotic audience could not be found anywhere than the crowd who witnessed the shows.
