

WILSON'S DEATH NEARING

TAXPAYERS TO CUT SLICE OF ECONOMY CAKE

REVISION TO BE EFFECTIVE IN 1923 PAYMENTS.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

Washington, Feb. 1.—When the American people make out their income tax returns on March 15th of this year they can count on a straight reduction of one fourth of the total tax they otherwise would have paid.

Both Democrats and Republicans are agreed on the proposal and the only question now is whether the present law will be amended by a joint resolution or whether the reduction will be made a part of the general revision of the revenue laws which have been under consideration for several weeks. The method is not important, for the result is assured.

In other words, Congress has decided to permit the American people to cut themselves a piece of cake. Out of the $323,900,000 surplus in the treasury, fully $225,000,000 will be refunded in the form of tax reduction applied to the 1923 incomes.

Change Original Plan. When tax reduction was first proposed by Secretary Mellon the general understanding, of course, was that the new bill would not apply to 1923 incomes but would be felt by the tax payer for the first time when he made out his income returns in March 1925. Political leaders wondered whether a promise of something that was to happen in 1925 would be remembered when the voter went to the polls in November, 1924 and the conclusion reached was that if the tax payer could be made happy when he pays his taxes during 1924 it would be of far greater value, politically speaking, than a reduction in the future.

The Democrats planned the same kind of action but whether the Republicans thought of it by themselves or heard of what the Democrats intended to do or whether the minds of the statesmen in both parties ran along the same channel is hard to determine. The plan on the Republican side originated with Representative Green of Iowa, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who obtained the tentative approval of Secretary Mellon of the treasury department which of course means the sanction also of President Coolidge.

A Shrewd Move. It's a shrewd move and will have important political effects. Naturally the treasury department would like to use the twenty-five per cent reduction which applies to 1923 incomes made a part of the general tax bill so that the course of the latter will be accelerated. Indeed, public opinion may now be expected to get behind the tax measure with unparalleled strength so that the tax payer may actually enjoy on March 15th next a reduction in taxes. The Democrats will try of course to separate the new proposal from the main tax bill on the ground that it needs quick action and that the tax bill which will apply to 1924 incomes can be debated for the rest of the present year if necessary without doing anybody any harm. In answer to this the Republicans will say that business should not be kept on the anxious seat but should know definitely during 1924 what taxes are to be payable in 1925.

As for the taxes that individuals will pay next March on their incomes of 1923, there are many who pay their whole tax bill in a lump sum and do not divide it into quarterly installments. These persons would get a one fourth rebate later on if the new proposal isn't passed by March 15th. On the other hand, the tax payers who pay one fourth on March 15th, one fourth on June 15th, one fourth on September 15th, and one fourth on December 15th, would have the privilege of omitting one installment so as to get the benefit of the one fourth reduction to which they are entitled.

Republican Initiative. The Republicans have taken the initiative in reducing taxes for 1923. Both parties are vying with each other to give the people a tax reduction. Little is heard about the bonus. Mr. Mellon's tentative approval is said to be based upon a desire to know what obligations will be incurred in connection with the bonus. The Republican leaders realize

GREGORY WILL NOT BE RETAINED BY PRESIDENT AS PROSECUTOR

Evidence Shows His Former Work For Oil Men.

Washington, Feb. 1.—William G. Gregory, candidate for president and Thomas W. Gregory, the Democrat selected by President Coolidge to assist in the prosecution of the oil lease cases, have had employment as counsel for oil interest, Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, testified today before the senate investigating committee.

Mr. Doheny said he personally had retained Mr. Gregory after his retirement as secretary of the treasury; that he thought his company had paid him "all told" about $250,000 in fees, and that it now pays him a retainer of $50,000 a year. His company and a half dozen other oil companies employed Mr. Gregory after he quit as attorney general. Mr. Doheny stated for the purpose of appearing before President Wilson or the state department in connection with Mexican oil matters. His company's share of the fee paid was $2,000, he said.

Testimony also was given that witnesses in which Mr. Doheny has an interest had given employment to two other members of the cabinet in the Wilson administration after their quit office, Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior, and Lindley M. Garrison, former secretary of war. Mr. Lane was assistant to the president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company. Mr. Doheny said while Mr. Garrison was associated with the New York banking firm of Blair and Company.

The committee was told by Mr. Doheny that he had advanced $5,000 to Leo J. Stack, of Colorado, who told him he wanted the money for George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information during the war, who was employed, Mr. Stack said, in connection with efforts to prevent the leasing of the naval reserve to Republicans after the change of administration.

Democratic Activities. Evidence relating to the employment of former Democratic officials by oil interests was brought out in response to inquiries by Chairman Lenroot put

DEATH CLAIMS OLD RESIDENT

Mrs. Hugh J. Robertson Passes Away Friday Evening.

Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, wife of Hugh J. Robertson, C. & N. W. dock agent here for years, passed peacefully away at the family home, 403 Second Avenue South, about 9:30 o'clock last evening following a three weeks' illness.

Mrs. Robertson had been in failing health for some months, but it was not until about three weeks ago that she was confined to her bed. Her condition was not regarded as extremely serious until two days ago when she manifested symptoms of approaching death, and she has been in a critical condition since.

Mrs. Robertson was in her 59th year and was one of the most prominent, widely-known and highly respected women of the city. She had been a resident for upward of 35 years, during all of which time she had taken an active and prominent part in all civic affairs, works of charity, church work in all denominations, and had given of her time and strength unsparingly during the more active period of her life in this city.

Born in Appleton, Wis., and came to Escanaba about 35 years ago as a teacher of music. Her superabundant energy, coupled with a cheerful

M'ADOO ASKS TO TESTIFY IN OIL QUIZ

RESENTS DRAGGING OF HIS NAME INTO PROBE.

(By The Associated Press.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—William G. McAdoo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, late today telegraphed Senator Walsh of the senate committee investigating Doheny and Sinclair oil leases, asking that arrangements be made for him to appear before the committee.

Mr. McAdoo's statement follows: "The dragging of my name into the investigation of oil leases at Washington is wholly without justification of any sort. In 1919, a year after leaving President Wilson's cabinet, my former law firm in New York, McAdoo, Cotton and Franklin, was retained as counsel by Mr. Doheny's companies and upon my removal to California in 1922 I was retained as special counsel here, such employment being entirely in connection with the Mexican affairs of Mr. Doheny's enterprises.

"I have never at any time been employed or consulted regarding any oil leases anywhere in the United States. When Mr. Doheny sought the services of McAdoo, Cotton and Franklin, in New York in 1919, it was represented to us that under article 27 of the new Mexican constitution (against which our government had filed a protest on its adoption some years before) an attempt was being made to confiscate the valuable properties of Mr. Doheny's companies in Mexico.

"The members of my firm, after consideration of the matter, concluded that the case was meritorious. We accepted it, did all that we properly could for our client over a period of about two years and the firm received a fee of $100,000 for the service, a sum commensurate with the very large interests involved.

Acts As Advisor. "When I moved to California in March, 1922, Mr. Doheny said that his companies would be glad to retain special counsel to act in an advisory capacity here.

"I regarded the Doheny companies as the outstanding independent oil companies in the country and felt perfectly free to act as counsel for them. My counsel and advice has been confined to the Mexican problems with which these companies are constantly faced.

"For the period I have acted as special counsel here I have received an annual retainer of $25,000 payable semi-annually. The employment of my former firm and myself by these companies has extended over the past four years."

Former President Fights Death At Close Quarters

"I AM READY. YOU HAVE DONE ALL YOU COULD. I AM A BROKEN MACHINE. IT IS BETTER THAT I SHOULD GO THAN REMAIN A HELPLESS INVALID."—WOODROW WILSON.

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Feb. 1.—Woodrow Wilson is fighting against death at close quarters with a tenacity born of the old indomitable spirit that carried him through so many desperate battles in the momentous days of his service in the White House, he clung to life tonight after those about him had all but abandoned hope of his recovery.

By nightfall he had snatched back a little of the strength that had ebbed in the earlier hours, but his condition remained grave and the watchers at his bedside realized how insignificant a turn for the worse it would take to snuff out the flickering flame of his earthly being.

As the evening hours passed the broken remnant of his vitality reached the stage in which both friends and physicians were powerless to do more than hope for the best. No one knew at what moment the supreme crisis might come, or whether he again would emerge victorious.

A conviction lay upon all of those closest about him, however, that even should he live to see the day, the end would be only a question of hours.

Coolidge Pays A Compliment To Mr. Wilson

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Feb. 1.—President Coolidge, speaking of the illness of former President Wilson at his semi-weekly conference with newspapermen today said:

"I am very much disturbed to hear of the illness of former President Wilson. I met him most pleasantly when he returned the first time from France. He landed in Boston. A public reception was tendered him there at which he made an address and I extended the welcome of the commonwealth.

"I have always recalled with a great deal of feeling that when I was chosen governor for the second time, though he was very ill, he sent me a message of congratulation. So that learning of the probable nearness of his end is a matter that touches me deeply."

STOP TRAFFIC ON WILSON ST.

Thousands Seek House Of Sorrowful Waiting.

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Feb. 1.—Up and down the steep, narrow street to Woodrow Wilson's home since he laid aside the presidency for the peace of private life, there flowed today a curious traffic marked by the hush of an impending sorrow.

It was not very great as numbers go, for "S" Street, where the Wilson home stands, shrouded to shoulder with a half dozen other mansions, is a byway of city traffic. But as word spread that the former president lay close to the end of his life's journey, a police cordon was necessary to free the street of motor cars that turned that way for word from the sickroom.

Admiral Grayson was the spokesman from the house of sorrowful waiting. Once, early in the day, he came out, weary with his long vigil and his own emotion, while the reporters clustered close about him on the sidewalk. "He could give them no word of encouragement.

The end was only a matter of hours away it seemed, and Mr. Wilson himself knew that it was near. The other doctors who had counseled with Dr. Grayson in the morning hours, would not talk of the condition of the patient when they came out. But they were grave when they said the former president was sleeping and in no pain. It was plain they entertained no hope.

Can't Use School For Card Parties

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 1.—Jackson school board tonight voted unanimously against permitting card parties to be held in the public school buildings. Prominent women of the city had requested the use of the Bloomfield school building for a bridge party to raise money to buy a piano, promising that no prizes would be awarded, thus eliminating the gambling feature. The board thought it would be a bad precedent.

If you just looked out for Number One this Christmas remember it is the smallest number.

The immediate cause of his relapse was a minor digestive dearrangement which first appeared last Monday. In the beginning it was not in itself alarming, but it was enough to undermine the slender and tottering support by which his vitality has been sustained since lingering illness first took a grip upon him four years and four months ago. He too a sudden serious turn in the early hours of today, and even since has lain between life and death.

While the great personages of Washington, and the lowliest of his followers far and near, were pouring in a flood of messages of sympathy or calling at his home to express their concern, he spent the long hours of the day and night sleeping fitfully and awakening to speak in faint whispers to those who were with him.

During the afternoon he was able to take some nourishment; he heart seemed a trifle stronger; his mind remained for the most part clear and alert; he suffered somewhat but bore it stoically. The sinking sun and the twilight hours saw him still fighting, but there were no signs that encouraged his physicians to believe that a material change for the better was in prospect.

"I Am A Broken Machine."

He himself understood that the battle through which he was passing probably would be his last.

"I'm ready," he said to his friend and physician, Dr. Grayson. "You've done all you could. I am a broken machine. It's better that I should go than remain a helpless invalid."

Mrs. Wilson, who has been his constant companion since his illness began, remained silent at his bedside as the battle went on. Miss Margaret Wilson, of New York, the former president's daughter, and Joseph Wilson, of Baltimore, his brother, joined her late in the day. Other members of the family also have been summoned by telegraph.

The digestive trouble that led to the present grave condition resulted from some injudicious choice of food taken Monday. Dr. Grayson was in North Carolina on a hunting trip, but Mrs. Wilson sent for him because out of her long experience with the delicate and feeble constitution of the former president she saw there might be real danger ahead. Meantime, Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who had helped care for Mr. Wilson in the White House, made an examination and prescribed a course of treatment.

Change Comes Rapidly. When he reached Washington yesterday Dr. Grayson found the patient up and around the house, although he had cancelled his daily automobile rides about the city. The physician ordered him to bed, but there were further stomach upsets, accompanied by a violent bleeding at the nose.

So rapidly had the new complication developed that Dr. Grayson spent last night at the Wilson home and toward morning he found symptoms that told him an alarming situation was likely. Soon afterward Mr. Wilson suffered a sudden collapse and at 9 o'clock this morning the doctor summoned other medical aid and announced that the former president's condition was very serious.

Awaiting The End. Dr. H. A. Fowler, a kidney specialist who also had treated Mr. Wilson previously, made an examination and acquiesced in Dr. Grayson's verdict that little could be done. They tried to make him comfortable, but they decided the situation did not warrant a resort to heroic remedies because they could not be endured by the wasted constitution of the patient. But they remained within call, and in addition two nurses and an orderly were on duty in the sickroom.

All of the former president's medical attendants were in agreement tonight that his death might come momentarily, or that he might linger on for hours. Bulletin Gives No Hope. After a consultation of more than an hour the three physicians attending Mr. Wilson issued a bulletin at 10:30 o'clock tonight saying that the former president "had gradually lost ground." At that hour he was conscious, and was in no pain, but there was nothing in the announcement or the demeanor of the attending physicians to raise hope that the end would long be delayed.

Doctors Ruffin and Fowler left the Wilson residence shortly after the bulletin was issued, but Dr. Grayson remained on watch during the night. He said he would make an announcement if there were any change for the worse.

During the sleeping Mr. Wilson remained conscious a part of the time, but there were frequent lapses into sleep. He was able to talk with those near his only in a whisper and then with greatest difficulty. Some of the old symptoms that had yielded to the careful treatment of months came back upon him, but for the most part he was free from complications and had to fight only with the languor of growing exhaustion.

All Washington Sad. The news of the serious turn in his condition, spreading quickly over Washington, aroused many echoes throughout the machinery of the government over which for eight years he had presided. President and Mrs. Coolidge were among the first to send a message of sympathy and express a hope of recovery to Mrs. Wilson. Chief Justice Taft called alone and on foot at the "S" street home and left his card.

Another of those who called in the constant flood of humanity that transformed the quiet residential street and kept it crowded throughout the day was John W. Weeks, secretary of war. There were several of the former president's old friends admitted to the house, but none of them were permitted to enter the sick room.

Flags Were Half-Masted. The sudden collapse of the former president had started many rumors of his death, and a one time in the afternoon, the flags on the great State, War and Navy building across from the White House, were lowered to half-mast. The order was recalled a few minutes later.

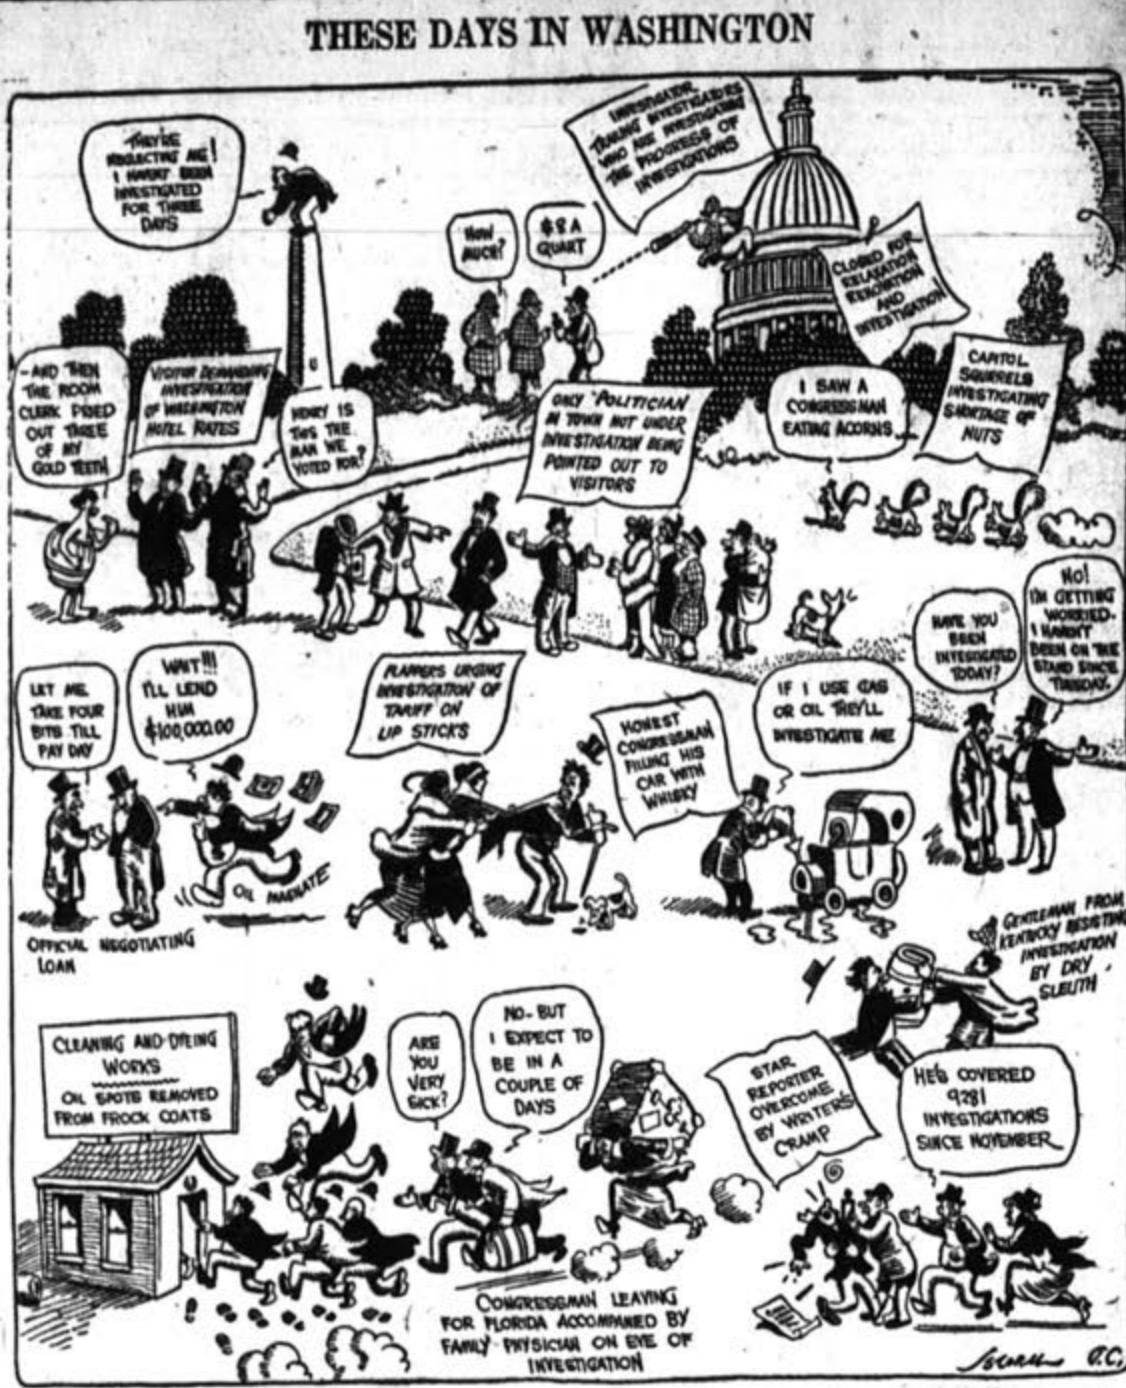

Throughout the day and into the night, Mrs. Wilson, at her long-accustomed post beside the sufferer, bore herself with the same fortitude that has made her devotion a subject of tender admiration throughout the nation's capital. It was she who first nursed him when the hand of affliction was laid upon him more than four years ago during his historic speaking trip for the league of nations.

Appearance Deceptive. To most of those observers who has appeared during recent weeks to have been somewhat improved in health, he took of flesh after he left the White House and the filled-out appearance of his face often was mistaken as a sign of returning health. Those who believed his condition materially improved have been further deceived by his recent activities in public affairs. He has been in constant communication with his old political friends on subjects of current interest to his party; by his recent visits with the distinguished men of Europe on tour here; and by lighting spirit he delivered by rain on Armistice eve.

AT THE DELFT.
For a story of exquisite charm told against an enchantingly beautiful background, the screen has seldom equalled, never surpassed, the Preferred Picture, "Maytime," which will be presented again today at the Delft. Adapted from Rida Johnson Young's play that has been a conspicuous success on the stage from half a dozen consecutive seasons, this Gansler production tells a love story at once plaintive and dramatic.

To Ethel Shannon's Otille easily go the major honors while Harrison Ford, always a favorite, must be signaled out for special mention in the role of Dick Wayne. Others in the stellar line-up who acquit themselves splendidly indeed, are Clara Bow, William Norris, Wallace MacDonald, Josef Swickard, Robert McKim, Martha Mattox, Betty Francisco and Bess True.

AT THE STRAND.
Viola Dana, the tiny, irrepressible comedienne appeared last night at the Strand theatre in her newest Metro picture appropriately enough titled "Roughed Lips." This picture, taken from Rita Weisman's short story which appeared in The Saturday Evening Post under the name of "Upstage," forms Miss Dana's most many which she has graced with her remarkably vivacious portrayals.

"Roughed Lips" is a roughish comedy of the stage. The supporting cast is lead by Tom Moore, one of the most sought-after leading men in pictures. Others, all able players, include Nola Luxford, Arline Pretty, Sidney de Grey, Francis Powers, George Woodthorpe, and Burwell Hamrick.

A charming scene is presented when the devil's chorus of "thirty under twenty" is flashed on the screen. A full stage is in view with an ensemble of beautiful girls led in imitable dancing by Viola Dana herself.

"Roughed Lips" was directed by Harold Shugh with scenario by Thomas J. Hopkins. It was ably photographed by John Arnold.

ANTI-FLIPPING DRIVE BRINGS IN SMALL BOYS

Practice Will Be Broken Up, Says Chief

Police, continuing their campaign against the small boys' practice of "hopping" and "hitching on" street cars and automobiles, seized a number of sleds and took their several owners to headquarters where their parents were notified to call for them. The "war" will be continued today.

It has been the practice of the department to issue a warning for the first offense. Second offenses, however, will result in placing of formal charges of violating the ordinance. It was emphasized by Chief Tolan.

"I know the temptation to a boy with a sled, to hitch onto a swiftly-moving street car or automobile is very great," Mr. Tolan said. "There is also a lot of danger to the boys. We want parents to understand that the campaign isn't for the purpose of keeping the boys from having a good time; it is to save their lives. Anyone can see how easy it would be for a youngster to roll off of a sled, accidentally, in the path of another automobile or car. I hope we will not have to make any arrests, but we intend to go as far as is necessary to stamp out the practice."

Motorists, drivers of delivery wagons and street-car men have been asked to report instances of violations of the ordinance.

COMMUNICATIONS

Escanaba, Feb. 1.—(To the Editor)—A recent issue of the Daily Press contained an editorial under the caption "Let's Copy Gogebic." The article showed the value of such a movement and expressed the thought that Delta county and all other counties could with credit copy the movement inaugurated in Gogebic. All who read the article recognized the value of the movement launched for the purpose of protecting road signs and other public property.

State Superintendent Johnson inaugurated the movement by requesting each school commissioner of the state to prepare a letter to be sent to the rural schools asking the aid of the pupils in the campaign against the wanton destruction of road signs. In Delta county a letter was prepared and sent to the boys and girls of every rural school. Each teacher received the letter and read it to the school. In a number of schools the letter was posted on the wall for weeks. The value of road signs to travelers was pointed out. The destruction of public property was re-arranged.

SARETT THRILLS BIG AUDIENCE

Poet-Lecturer Guides His Hearers Through Wilds of Northwest.

Who hasn't had Lew Sarett ride on a trip through the Rocky Mountains? Lew Sarett has never seen the district. Mr. Sarett left Escanaba last night on one of his "personal conducted tours" accompanied by a large crowd of tourists and explorers. He led the party back to its starting place—the high school auditorium—ninety minutes later, after a series of never-to-be-forgotten adventures.

The lecturer appeared in backwood's costume which immediately created a refreshing atmosphere. Then he wandered along the trails, introducing his followers to his French-Canadian friends and pursuing his friends to talk to the audience. He even interpreted the conversations of his animal friends of the wilderness. The Bull Frog band, Old Ma Bear and her unruly youngsters, Granddaddy Moose, "Br'er" Beaver all were given a chance to speak their little pieces. And he closed with a poem, "Folks are Like Fish."

This tour, Mr. Sarett revealed, was something of a long-delayed homecoming for ten years of his boyhood, he said were spent in the Upper Peninsula.

The program was opened with a short concert by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Leonard Shanklin, and the musicians made a noteworthy contribution to a highly enjoyable evening.

Studebakers Smash Record

Nineteen twenty-three was a banner year for the automobile industry in both production and sales of cars. Coming after the year 1922, which showed a remarkable improvement over the "off year" 1921, the increase in automobile business during 1923 is even more impressive.

Studebaker's record in making 1923 its banner year with the sale of more than 145,162 cars follows a series of phenomenal sales records. Each year for the past six years Studebaker sales have greatly exceeded those of the previous year.

Students of statistics will recall the story that 1921 told. In that year the sales of Studebaker cars were 29.4 per cent greater than in 1920, while the total number of cars sold of all other makes except Ford was 40 per cent less than in 1920.

Stated otherwise, Studebaker's ratio of sales in 1921 was 129 and the total of other makes except Ford was 60, as compared with 1920.

In 1922, therefore, Studebaker had the showing of a record year to surpass and plans were laid for the production of 100,000 cars, as compared with 66,443 in 1921. Even with this large increase in production, at no time was Studebaker able to supply the demand for its cars. 110,269 cars were produced and sold during 1922, an increase of 65 per cent over 1921 which up to that time was the greatest year in the history of Studebaker.

Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 1.—Iron Trade Review today says: Spurred on by the backlog of new business accumulated during the present buying movement, producers have increased the rate of mill and furnace operations to a point not equaled in many months. Independent steelworks in the valley are operating at 86 per cent of capacity; from 88 to 90 per cent of the open-hearth furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Co. are active; and 93 per cent of the steelmaking capacity of the Illinois Steel Co. is engaged. The Illinois company's open-hearth has operated at 78, 83, 90 and 93 per cent respectively for the past four consecutive weeks. Valley sheetmakers are employing 77 per cent of their rolling capacity, the highest rate recorded since last July.

The volume of new inquiries is large, but the amount of actual business done is slightly below that of the preceding week. Thus far during the month orders taken by the Steel Corporation and by at least one of the largest independents have exceeded shipments.

Actual bookings of car orders now appear to have been much heavier than is generally known. For freight cars now before Chicago builders it is estimated 50,000 tons of plates, shapes and bars and 7,000 tons of wheels and axles will be required. The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has placed 2,000 box car bodies with eastern builders and is inquiring for 2,000 stock car bodies. The Norfolk & Western is in the market for 4,000 hoppers.

Structural steel awards have declined sharply from the reported total of 52,581 tons last week to 20,937 tons. Among the important inquiries pending are 18,000 tons for the Dupont hotel, New York; 5,000 to 6,000 tons for a building in the Grand Central district, New York; and 2,000 tons each for an amusement company, Chicago; an insurance building, Boston; and shop buildings for the Southern railway, Birmingham.

Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products reflects a slight stiffening of prices. The week's figure is $43.39 as compared with $43.35 last week and $43.02 four weeks ago.

Firmer prices dominate the pig iron market, although indications of advances are not uniformly pronounced in all markets.

Prompt settlement of the strike of locomotive firemen in England relieves the British iron and steel industry of the restrictions caused by curtailed transportation service.

The increasing demand for Studebaker cars continued in 1923. By the end of August, the 1923 record was exceeded, and by December 31 Studebaker sales had passed 145,162—making 1923 the greatest year, by far, in Studebaker history.

School Skaters Ready For Race

PRESS DERBY FINALS TODAY

Fourteen Youngsters will Fight for Honors and Trophies Today.

One brief minute, this afternoon at the Escanaba municipal skating rink, will determine the best grade school ice skater in the local schools.

The occasion will be the final heat of the Escanaba Press' first annual grade school ice derby. A silver trophy cup awaits the school which produces the winner; a set of gold, silver and bronze individual medals are ready to be pinned upon the sweaters of the lads who finish "one-two-three."

Flath Starter. The race will be brief—only two laps of an eight-lap track—but it will carry with it the deep-rooted interest of hundreds of youngsters, attending six of the city's seven grade schools. All of the lads who qualified for the finals in last Saturday's preliminaries are ready for a strenuous contest and will be able to show a word of speed in the deciding moments.

Richard Flath, manager of the Coliseum roller rink, will be starter of the race. He knows the racing game thoroughly. George E. Carr, county prosecuting attorney will be the commander of the battery of judges and Earl M. Williams will head the trio of time-keepers.

The starter's gun which will bark promptly at 2:30 o'clock, will send the following qualifiers away:

Dan Gallagher, Jr., and Milton Embs, Jefferson school. Leo Dube and Ray Dube, St. Anne's school.

Matt Erickson, Francis Boyce and Jack Fitzharris, St. Joseph's school.

Ingman Gustafson, Fred Wilhelm and Gilbert Burns, Washington school.

Raymond Lefleur, Landor Johnson and Verne Cass, Barr school.

Julius Brandt, Franklin school. One lad who qualified—Michael Gallagher of the Jefferson—was forced to withdraw because of illness.

Thunberg May Do His Stuff At Lake Placid

New York, Feb. 1.—Clas Thunberg, sensational Finnish skater, whose triumph in the speed skating events in the Olympic games at Chamonix won him the unofficial title of world's champion, will compete in the national and international championships at Saranac Lake and Lake Placid, respectively, if he accepts the invitation of the International Skating Union.

Joseph K. Savage, president of the International Union, said today that William Taylor, manager of the American Olympic skating team, went abroad with an invitation from the union to Thunberg to compete in this country. The invitation was extended, according to Mr. Savage, to gauge how the foreign skater would fare under American skating conditions.

The American skaters are due to leave for this country on February six in company with Thunberg, if he accepts the invitation, but skating authorities here haven't been notified concerning his decision. President Savage intimated that the national championships, scheduled to start on February 13 at Saranac Lake, N. Y., may be delayed a day or two because of the late arrival of the Olympic skaters from abroad. The international championships are scheduled at Lake Placid, beginning February 19.

Dundee Given The Decision Over Pal Moran (By The Associated Press.) New York, Feb. 1.—Johnny Dundee damaged the lightweight hopes of Pal Moran, of New Orleans, tonight, when he gained a judges' decision in a furious 15-round battle at Madison Square Garden. Dundee's early margin gave him a victory despite a spectacular closing rally by Moran. Dundee's featherweight and junior lightweight titles were not at stake.

Lombard College Whips The Aggies

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 1.—Lombard College of Galesburg, Ill., defeated the Michigan Aggies here tonight 13 to 12. The lead changed hands several times in the first half but in the second half the visitors took a lead of four points and stalled the greater share of the period. But two field goals were made in the second half. Swanson, visiting guard, was the outstanding star, netting three field goals in the first period.

ESKY LOSES TO IRONWOOD IN A 27 TO 16 SCORE

Game Described As Being Fast and Clean Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 1.—(Special)—The Ironwood high school basketball team decisively defeated the Escanaba team here tonight by the score of 27 to 16. The game was fast and clean throughout and was one of the best seen on the local floor this season. Ironwood took the lead immediately and kept it through out the game, although Escanaba put up a stubborn fight. At the end of the first half the score stood 12 to 9 in favor of the "Red Devils." In the second half Escanaba was outplayed, the locals scoring twice as many points as the visitors.

Rotarians Willing to Bowl "Contemps"

The Rotary Club is ready to enter a triangular luncheon club bowling match with the Kiwanis and Lions teams, Fred R. Harris said yesterday. "We were somewhat reluctant until we read the scores in the Kiwanis-Lions match," Mr. Harris admitted, "but we are now anxious." The match, if arranged, will be between three ten-man teams.

CANADA LEADS ALL IN HOCKEY

Uncle Sam, However, Has Not Been Scored On.

(By The Associated Press.) Chamonix, France, Feb. 1.—Canada with a record of 104 goals scored, leads all rivals for scoring honors in the Olympic ice hockey games, proof of the powerful offensive strength which the United States will be called on to face in the final contest at Chamonix Sunday for championship honors.

The combination from the United States is second in the scoring list with 72 points, but it has the added distinction of being the only team whose goal has not been denied by an opposing puck. Canada's clean slate was broken today when England scored twice against the Maple Leaf sextette.

The team standings in each half of the competition, showing goals scored and opponents' goals, follow:

Table showing hockey team standings with columns for team name, goals scored, and opponents' goals.

Today's results, (semi-final round): United States 20; Sweden 0. Canada 19; England 2. Sunday's schedule (final round): United States vs. Canada.

HEAVY MONEY GETS BIG PLAY IN STAR SALES

Rookies Started It, Veterans Getting Theirs.

(By HILLY EVANS) Who started "frenzied finance" in baseball, relative to the purchase of minor league stars?

Fifteen years back, if some "bush league" phenom sought by a half dozen major league clubs brought $7,500 it was regarded as a fabulous price to have paid for an untried recruit.

Those days, however, are over, for at present there is no limit to what a big league will pay for a player of promise.

The increased value now placed on the bush league also goes for the veteran who is rated as one of the outstanding stars.

When Eddie Collins was sold by Connie Mack to the Chicago White Sox the price was reported as $50,000. That is probably what it was, certainly no more.

The other day the wires carried a story that the Boston Red Sox had purchased infielder Dudley Lee from the Tulsa, (Okla.) club of the Western League for $50,000.

Fancy Price for Rookie. Lee Fohl, manager of the Browns, tells me that someone slightly padded the figures in the Lee case, the exact amount being much closer to $25,000 than $50,000. Even at that, here is a club paying at least half as much for a youngster as did the Chicago club for Collins, then rated the best second secker in the game.

When John McGraw put the Indianapolis club of the American Association $11,000 for Rube Marquard it was heralded as one of the sporting sensations of the year. It was used as first page news.

Yet, to my way of thinking, the sale that started "frenzied finance" in baseball with relation to buying minor league stars, was the deal that Barney Dreyfus of the Pittsburgh club made for the famous St. Paul (Minn.) battery O'Toole and Kelly.

Remarkable pitching by O'Toole who was a spitballer, caused practically every major league club to bid for him. Dreyfus finally secured O'Toole and his catcher, Billy Kelly, for the sum of $22,500 a figure heretofore unheard of in baseball. For weeks the magnitude of the transaction was the main topic of conversation on the sport pages of the country.

Check Proves Big Sale. In certain quarters the sale price was regarded as mere "bunk." The St. Paul club finally produced the canceled check as proof. Said check was reproduced in many papers as the photographs of O'Toole.

O'Toole proved more or less of a fizzle. The possessor of a deceptive spitball, he lacked control, and when the major leagues waited him out his effectiveness was greatly minimized. He is classed in the light of a failure.

It is said that O'Toole's failure caused Barney Dreyfus to put a ban on all spitballers, and that his scouts were instructed to pass up any pitcher who depended on the spitter for success. No more trick pitchers for Barney.

Today $22,500 is a piker figure for a minor league star. A coal mine planted in soil where there has never been coal before will be one of the many wonders at the British Empire Exhibition to be held near London this summer. This attraction alone will cost half a million dollars.

New York, Feb. 1.—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone if today's active market despite considerable bear selling and profit taking in various sections of the list. Establishment of a new high record for all time by American Can at 122 5/8 and a further rise in United States Steel common to 107 1/4, the highest price since last April, were among the day's features although both stocks cancelled their gains and closed at small fractional losses.

CHICAGO GRAIN. Chicago, Feb. 1.—With the striking unanimity, wheat, corn and oats today all overtopped or more or less previous price records for the season. Active speculative buying was largely responsible, but was later offset in part as a result of sales to realize profits. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 higher, May 1.11 1/2 to 1.11 5/8 and July 1.09 1/2 to 1.10 5/8. Corn made net gain of a shade to 3-8 at 1/2. In oats, the outcome varied from 1/8 decline to 3-8 advance and in prairie oats close ranged from 1/8 off to a rise of 1/8.

DON SMITH IS EXCEPTION TO COMEBACK RULE Most of 'Em Don't But eteran Goller Did.

(By JOE WILLIAMS) On the bleak, gray walls of time, writ in letters ominously large, are the words, "They never come back."

And some of them don't. Jeffries, the fighter—Walsh, the spittball pitcher—McLoughlin, the tennis mite.

But here and there along the way you find the inevitable exception, the abrupt turn in the long road.

Ranked High In 1910. MacDonald Smith has just made the turn and now for the first time in more than 10 years is back on the heights of golf, mingling with the giants of the game.

Smith recently won the open championship of California from a field easily comparable to the one that competed in the national open at Inwood last summer. Smith won largely through the wizardry of his putter and finished with a winning total well under 300.

In years gone by MacDonald Smith, youngest and most brilliant of a famous family of golfers, was the country's high ranking professional. In 1910 he tried with his older brother, Alex, and Jack McDermott for the open championship, only to be beaten in the 18-hole playoff. For a stretch of several years he was well up among the leaders in the professional classes.

Then He Blew Up. Then, with the promise of a continued brilliant future at his feet, Smith disappeared from the competitive field, completely and mysteriously. The big tournaments came and went, but Smith was not among the competitors. There were whispered rumors; he had lost his funds, become disheartened, succumbed to the white lights, given up the game.

A year or so ago a brief news dispatch came out of the west announcing the marriage of one MacDonald Smith, a golfer. Months later came word that this same Smith had broken a course record in California and subsequently had starred in the California championship.

In the spring when a squad of Americans sailed for Troon to compete in the British open this same Smith finished third in the event, just back of Walter Hagen, defending champion, and was one of the most feared players in the tournament.

Started Comeback. That was the beginning of a notable comeback—a comeback that had its inception at a church altar and its climax on a Los Angeles golf course a few days ago when the "prodigal of the links" won his first big championship in more than 10 years.

WHEELER TAKEN TO U. S. COURT

Alleged "Bad Check Artist" Visits Jail Here Between Trains.

Ed Wheeler, alias George Reed, alleged bad check operator, wanted for trial here on several charges, arrived in Escanaba yesterday afternoon in the custody of Matt Miller, a deputy federal marshal, Wheeler, who had been held for trial in Menominee county for several months, gave himself up to federal authorities. He will be taken to Grand Rapids where he will face charges of using the mail to defraud.

In the event of his acquittal at Grand Rapids, he will be returned to Delta county for trial, Sheriff J. P. Carney said last night.

Wheeler spent several hours between trains in the Delta county jail yesterday afternoon. He was in a talkative mood, although he refused to discuss the details of the activities which led up to the federal government's desire to try him on the mail charge.

He told Sheriff Carney about the lengthy and exciting hunt for him late last summer, which covered three counties and ended in his arrest in Iron Mountain.

"They needn't take any credit for picking me off in Iron Mountain," Wheeler declared. "I had made up my mind to submit to arrest and fight the charges. I had passed Sagola and was on my way out of the state when I made up my mind to go into Iron Mountain and give myself up. I knew the federal officers were after me and I figured I could save myself a lot of trouble by sending my wife and boy back to Cleveland and remaining here to fight it out."

"The Dickinson and Menominee county sheriffs were closer I imagined and got to me. Everything turned out fine because I wanted to go to Menominee. I knew the cases in the other counties were stronger than those they had against me in Menominee."

Wheeler described his movements, during the day of his arrest, in detail. Leaving Schoolcraft county on the day previous where he bluffed a posse of deputies leaving him because they could not produce a copy of the warrant, he came to Escanaba and proceeded to Rapid River, he said. There he had breakfast.

Leaving Rapid River about 10 o'clock, he went to Marquette, where he had dinner about 2:30 o'clock. Late in the afternoon he reached Sagola, headed out of the state, and then changed his mind and decided to return to Iron Mountain, he asserted.

During the time Wheeler was in jail in Menominee awaiting trial, his seven-year-old boy died in Cleveland, he told the officers, tears filling his eyes when he expressed his regret at being unable to attend the little fellow's funeral.

Lumberjack Carries Supply of Cosmetics

Matt Maki and Charles Sjolander, a pair of woodsmen who were found wandering about an alley in the East side of the city early yesterday morning, plead guilty to charges of disorderly conduct yesterday in Judge C. D. McEwen's court and were fined $18.50 each. Neither had that much money and both went to the county jail to send out appeals to friends for loans. Women in the neighborhood were frightened by their presence and called the police.

Among the articles found in Maki's pocket was a gold face-powder case, containing powder, and a powder puff.

JUNK DEALER CASE DROPPED

No Evidence Nimzinskis Knew Property Purchased Was Stolen.

Charges of receiving stolen property, against Daniel and George Nimzinski, local junk dealers, were dismissed yesterday by Judge C. D. McEwen at the conclusion of a preliminary examination held in his court. There was no testimony on the part of the prosecution to prove that the Nimzinskis knew that the property they purchased was stolen.

The charges arose in the loss of considerable property by the Delta Chemical company, where it was disclosed, an aggregate of several thousands of dollars worth of tools and metals have been lost through theft, in the last few years. Witnesses yesterday supported the contention of the dealers that they had taken the usual precautions to learn whether the seller had acquired it honestly.

Other cases involving similar charges against others in Escanaba were said to bear a climax as a result of the Chemical Company's attempts to protect its property against theft.

CITY LOOKING FOR ENGINEERS TO MAKE SURVEY

A representative of the engineering firm of Hoad & Decker, Ann Arbor, will arrive in the city within a few days for a conference with city officials concerning the proposed sanitary survey to be made in an effort to find some means of eliminating the croonote taste from Escanaba's city water supply.

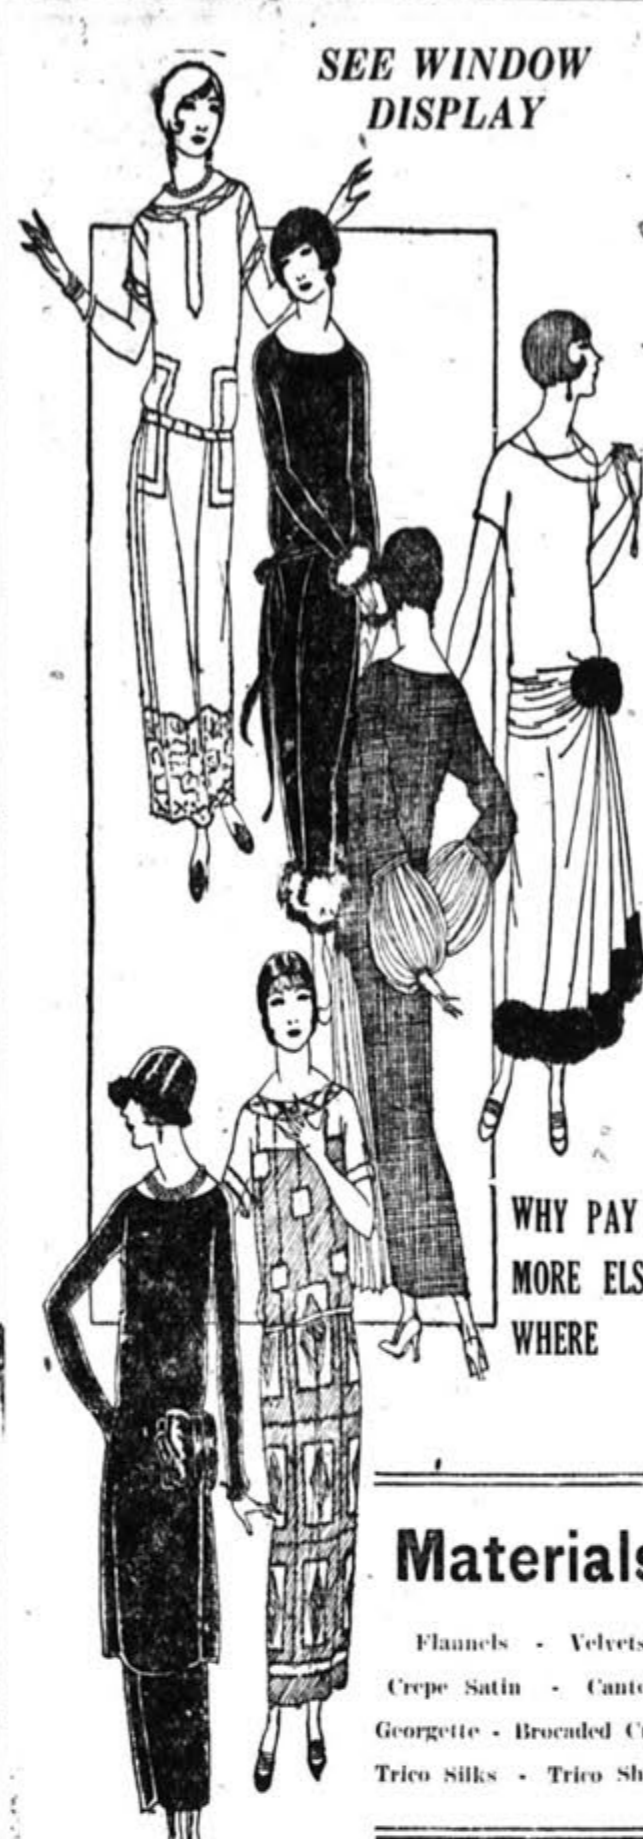

Hoad & Decker have been retained by the city on other similar work, particularly during the "water plant" fight of a few years ago. The firm is thoroughly familiar with the local situation.

No engineering firm will be retained, however, it was said, until we have heard the proposition and terms of a number of recognized concerns.

PRESS POLICY SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOME

One Thousand Dollar Protection For 75 Cents a Year.

Death or accident are constant traveling companions of every man, woman and child, who steps into or upon any sort of a vehicle for the purpose of being transported from one place to another, whether on pleasure or business. This fact is inescapable. Everyone is subject to accident, regardless of how careful they might be themselves.

You can't assure yourself that some other person is going to be as careful as you are in driving a car, or dropping an obstruction in front of one you are riding in, or that any one of a thousand different accidents will not happen to you while on your way from one point to another.

Probably all the accidents have happened to some one else up to this time, but the next one may be your turn. How are you fixed to keep yourself or your family from the annoyance or suffering which will follow the stoppage of your income while you are laid up? Have you a policy which will pay you a little something in the event of trouble of that kind?

Giving Greater Service.

The Daily Press, believing that it could render its readers a still greater service than the daily furnishing to them of the news of the local and world field, has made an arrangement whereby a travel accident insurance policy for $1,000 is made available to every Press subscriber at the trifling cost of 75 cents for a full year's protection.

There are no ifs and ands, no red tape connected with this offer. The Press has the policy for you and wants you to have it. The Press is not in the insurance business for profit and therefore passes the policy right along to you at the actual cost—75 cents a year.

And, of course, the deal for the policy was not closed until the Press had made thorough investigation of a number of companies selling this kind of insurance and selected the one it is assured is one of the strongest and most reliable in the country. All claims are paid promptly and without trouble. Hundreds and hundreds of such claims have been paid in various parts of the nation and the Press can assure its subscribers that they will have no difficulty in getting prompt and satisfactory settlement on all just claims.

Pays Splendidly.

The policy pays a weekly indemnity of $10 a week for a period of 13 weeks in case of injury. It pays $500 in spot cash for the loss of an eye, foot or hand. It pays $1,000 spot cash for the loss of any two members, and it pays $1,000 in case of death due to accident while traveling.

One added feature is that the value of the policy increases $100 each year for five years until it is worth $1,500 and it costs just 75 cents a year. All persons between the ages of 15 and 70 years of age are eligible.

Every member of the family between those ages can have a policy on the strength of one single subscription going into the family circle. The payment of the registration fee in each case, or for each policy, is all that is necessary. There is no medical examination required and the Press has made it as easy as possible for its friends to secure these policies by passing them along at actual cost.

Accident Always At Hand.

Yesterday morning you read of two fatal accidents, one where three people were killed when a train struck an auto, and one where a child was run down by a truck and killed. These are the sort of accidents in which the people usually need protection and there is nowhere else in the world that one gets $1,000 for 75 cents except through a travel accident policy such as is being offered by the Daily Press.

You simply can't afford to go along day after day without this sort of protection. The trifling cost of 75 cents for an entire year is wastefully spent day after day by the ordinary family. Try to see that one of your 75 cent investments is made in some protection, for yourself or your family.

Call up the Press office, phone 693 or drop into the office, and have the proposition fully explained. If you never need the protection, it has been a wise investment, and if misfortune comes your way and you really need some help, you will find that the best 75 cents you ever invested.

Mysterious Spot Matinee Today

The Mysterious Spot party held at the Coliseum last Thursday proved such a great success that it will be repeated this afternoon at the special children's matinee.

Louis Klutze was the winner on Thursday night and will receive one month's free skating as a result of finding the "mysterious spot," which proved to be a tack placed within the skating circle. It took him about 15 or 20 minutes before he found it, however.

The usual skating program will be carried out Sunday night.

EDITORIAL

RADIOSYNCRASIES. The development of radio and the increase of radio "bugs" is so dazzlingly rapid that one must have the speed of a chickadee to keep within hailing distance. The "radio widow" has arrived. She has supplanted the "golf widow." And by that same token, a successor has arrived for the fellow who was proud of his piscatorial prowess as related in many a delightfully deceptive yarn. Now it's the radio bug.

The fellow we have in mind is the one who gets all the stations you can't get. "Yesir, got 'em just as clear as a bell last night." That's the night when your set wouldn't even whistle at you. Some of these bugs have remarkably keen hearing. For instance, there is the fellow who picked up the message from the Shenandoah while it was riding out that midnight gale a few weeks ago. He will tell you he heard the radio operator TALKING to the station at Lakehurst. Well, he didn't, for the rather simple reason that they didn't talk—they used Morse, or continental, or whatever sort of code it is that they use.

Another enthusiast who heard the Edgewater Beach station in Chicago broadcasting to McMillan, the explorer near the North Pole, has such keen hearing and such a wonderful set that he "heard McMillan's answer just as plain." Well, his intentions may have been good, but he didn't hear McMillan, because McMillan doesn't "TALK." He uses wireless code to some land line station and his answers come back to Chicago by wire. Yes, they're developing pretty fast.

STOP IT. Boys of Escanaba who are participating in the dangerous practice of "hitching" on street cars, particularly on the Tenth street line, are merely courting death. On Thursday two boys, each riding skis, were seen clinging to the side of a fast moving car on that line. Both were apparently enjoying the experience, in spite of the fact that every turn of the car wheels threatened them with death or permanent injury.

The practice is so obviously dangerous that it would appeal to only unthinking boys. To call upon the police department to stop the practice would require the detailing of the entire police force to watching the car lines. The home is the best agency for stopping this dangerous practice. Parents who neglect to warn their children of the danger are inviting a tragedy into their homes. And if a warning fails to accomplish the desired result a good sound paddling for the offenders, might, with a considerable degree of benefit, be resorted to.

Old Man Ground-hog will, it is said, peer out of his burrow today and then, in these parts, will go back to sleep for six or eight weeks, without a conscience murmur. It now develops that plans have been made for completely revamping and remodeling the First avenue south storm water sewer. The apology of the city administration is accepted.

When it's all ironed out and the campaign is over, it likely will be found to be little more than a tempest in a tea-pot. 'Stunny how many people will rant against yellow journalism and then criticize a newspaper for failing to carry all of the intimate details of the latest church scandal.

Time was, when the Chi Trib was a model of decency and decorum. In these days it outdoes the yellowest of the yellow. Take away the editorial page and its strips and there's little of value left in the old Trib. It appears that the Anti-Saloon League could, with credit, pause long enough to clean house. A Detroit boot-legger overpaid his fine by $50. But what's fifty bucks to an over-worked boot-legger? Time counts.

"The Doctor's Story"

BY JANE PHELPS. NANCY WITHHOLDS AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE. Chapter XVIII. As the time passed I grew anxious, worried. Lauretta had not relapsed, was better, growing stronger every day. Her paleness had given way to a natural color, and that she was happy no one who saw her could doubt. Yet I felt her marrying a man unaware of what she had done, of the hold the habit had for a time gained on her, was little less than a crime. If because of circumstances the craving should return, would she be strong enough to resist it? If not, what the outcome?

mained longer than I otherwise should on account of the apparent neglect of his message. "If you ever hold back a message again," I told Nancy, "I shall take an outside office at once. Mrs. Fowler is very ill. She should have had attention as soon as I got home." "Another woman sick, of course," she replied. Then put on my dinner. I knew she feared I would make my threat good, not realizing that as soon as I could afford it I intended to make the move. Having my office at home, hearing her complaints, trying to argue away her objections, was too wearing. We had scarcely finished dinner when Mrs. Hunt called me. I went at once, a sense of impending trouble upon me. "I took only the tiniest bit," Lauretta wailed, tears streaming down her face. "I wanted it so I could hardly stand it, but wouldn't have got it if one of the girls who takes it occasionally hadn't come in. She had some, and I begged her so bad she gave it to me. Now I am all nervous and shaky again, and Don is coming over tomorrow. He'll be so alarmed if he finds me this way." I gave her something to quiet her. Told her I would drop early in the morning, then left, my mind made up to the hardest task I ever had undertaken, making Lauretta see she had no right to marry unless Holbrook knew, and was willing to take the risk, to help her. I felt I couldn't endure Nancy just then, her reproaches, followed by her caresses, and her pleadings for undivided love and attention. So I walked until bed time, considering just how I should approach Lauretta, what I should do if she refused to tell her fiancée, as I was almost sure she would. Just as I turned the corner by the house the door opened, and

I like an open winter. It never makes me frown. And I'd rather see the prices Than the snowflakes coming down. "Mits" in the Soons "You are the only person ever knew," said Old Les Stade, the cashier of the Daily Mealticket, to us the other day, "who can add up the same column of figures four times and get four different totals." THE MAN who reads the ad dropped into an Escanaba clothing store yesterday. He found the ad-writer pinch-hitting for one of the salesmen. "Will you show me some distinctive new wear and some hose that indicate the connoisseur?" asked the customer. "We shall be only too happy to display, for your discriminating selection, any of the epochal merchandise value which we have selected for this unprecedented profit-sharing event," replied the ad-brewer.

PRAISE SHANE FOR WORK ON SIRE CAMPAIGN

Under the caption of "More Laurels" this month's issue of the Development Bureau News lauds the efforts of County Agent T. R. Shane and his committee in putting Schoolcraft county first on the list of counties that have completed a census of the scrub bulls.

"Not satisfied with having been the first to enroll in the pure-bred sire campaign, this district is the first to complete the scrub bull census, as the census shows the Bear Cats topped sires in that community. More power to Schoolcraft—more credit to Shane and his committee."

CRITICS GIVE MUCH PRAISE TO COMPANY

The well known Di Giorgio Concert Orchestra, consisting of five notable instrumentalists, is announced to appear here on the Lyceum course Wednesday evening, February 6.

The Minneapolis Journal recently contained the following item regarding this remarkable musical family. "Di Giorgio is a name in music that carries great weight all through the Northwest although it is not so frequently seen on concert programs in Minneapolis itself as it is in the great territory surrounding this our musical metropolis. Like many another Minneapolis musician, the members of the Di Giorgio family are too busy making music while touring to have much time for local appearances. It was not always thus, for music lovers with a memory will very well recall the activities of Signor Di Giorgio as alpine horn, trombone or guitar soloist, or as director of the string quartet made up of members of his own family. In connection is remembered the Diletanti Mandolin Orchestra which he conducted here for five years, and which grew into a group of 46 musicians."

The Di Giorgios present a delightful program ranging from classical to popular music, with the aid of such instruments as the violin, cello, cornet, piano, clarinet, trombone or alpine horn.

WOMAN SO ILL! COULD NOT WORK

Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped her Suffering and Restored her Health. Mornence, Illinois.—"I surely can recommend your medicine to other women who have female weakness, as it has helped me very much in every way possible. I was working in a dining room in town, and sometimes I could not do my work; had pains in the lower part of my body and had to stay in bed. One of my neighbors told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for her, and it has surely done wonders for me. I hope all women who suffer will take my advice as the Vegetable Compound has done so much to bring back my vigor and strength."—Mrs. ALBERT E. DESCHAU, Mornence, Illinois.

'Last Of The Jesuits' In Michigan Tells Story Of Early Missionary History

Iron Mountain, Feb. 1.—The story, replete with romance, saddened, yet made more impressive by touches of deep tragedy, of the finding, the expiring and the proselytizing of the great Northwest by the Jesuit fathers, was related here before the members of the Tuesday Study Club, by Father William Gagnier of Sault Ste. Marie, the last of the Jesuits in Michigan. Father Gagnier, now 73 years of age, bent with years' toll among his Indian and white parishioners, but with eyes twinkling brightly as he related proudly the story of his predecessor held his audience for nearly two hours as he delved into the past. The story he told was one of suffering, privation and sacrifice; a story of men whose names have been long forgotten but whose work moulded history.

Many Are Unknown. With the exception of the great and saintly Father Marquette, and in case of the better informed among readers, of Fathers Dablon and Claude Allouez, and in the memory of man (but surely dying out quickly) Fathers Menet, Baxter, Chambeau and such like, how many others could even a well-informed reader recall to mind? Father Gagnier asked as he opened his address. "And yet," he continued, "there among them are several grand and great men of the heroic age."

All are well acquainted with the difficulties and hardships the great missionaries had to contend with, from the year 1641 up to the middle of the nineteenth century, the speaker declared. The stories of those men, he said, "all are interesting and inspiring; most of them are marked by heroism; many are absolutely harrowing and heartrending."

It was in the year 1641, Fr. Gagnier said, that the first Jesuits, Fathers Jogues and Raymbault came to the shores of Lake Superior, making their headquarters at Sainte Marie du Saut, or, as it is called today, Sault Ste. Marie. For that reason, he explained, he delved back no farther into the history of the missionary work of which he is a member.

Would Make One Saint. "I shall pass over the question (seeing that it is not to my purpose) whether or not they were the first white men to visit our shores," Fr. Gagnier said, "but it is an exceptionally great honor that one of the first missionaries, Father Jogues died at the age of 39. He died, after his hands had been brutally mutilated, by a blow from a tomahawk."

The aged priest then related the story of the work of Father Raymbault, who came to Canada—then known as New France—in 1627, struggled on with his martyr companion, Father Jogues, and finally died, broken in health in 1642, when his body was buried "at the governor's request, in the grave where lies the body of the famous Champlain, founder of Quebec."

The death of Raymbault came just one year after he had "stood near our rapids, evangelizing the Indian name of 'Baotig' and adding that glorious name of 'Mary,' henceforward to be known as Sainte Marie du Saut."

Then was related part of the little that is known of the life and death of "the great and saintly Father Menard, who feeble, and bent with age, answered the call of God." Father Menard, the speaker declared, died at the hand of an Indian murderer or was lost in the woods after he had labored for nine months among the Indians. "He passed through the Sault in 1659—and probably visited Gete Kittinganig, or Lake Vieux Desert, as it is called today, the source of the Wisconsin river," Fr. Gagnier said.

Conjectures, more or less plausible have been made, but so far we have no historical evidence as to the exact spot where that great and saintly missionary gave up his pure soul to God.

Spoke Six Dialects. Telling his hearers of the wonderful abilities of the great Marquette Fr. Gagnier stressed the fact that the missionary could speak with fluency six different Indian dialects.

"I have been laboring among the Indians for nearly 35 years," Fr. Gagnier said. "I have mastered one tongue—the Ojibway. When we remember that there are in the Indian language 20 regular and 34 irregular conjugations we begin to understand what the great Marquette had accomplished. One cannot speak 'bad Indian.' There is no 'bad Indian.' The grammar must be correct or speech becomes nothing but nonsense. Yet Marquette mastered six of those languages!"

After dwelling briefly upon the life of Marquette, the speaker turned to the story of Marquette's successor, Father Claude Allouez, the founder of the mission St. Esprit (Ashland) and with Father Joseph Marett, that of Green Bay. With Allouez, he said, were Fathers Gabriel Drulillettes, Louis Andre and Charles Dablon.

"Father Allouez called the 'Francis Xavier of the Northwest,' was an extraordinary man," Fr. Gagnier asserted. "He entered the order at the age of 17 and became a great preacher. He evangelized the Indians from Quebec and Three Rivers up to the Sault Ste. Marie and down to Green Bay. He is reputed to have converted 100,000 Indians and to have baptized 10,000."

Father Louis Andre, the speaker declared, though at times found bark and boiled caribou hide his only food, found time to write an Indian-French dictionary, which is "now treasured in the McGill university at Montreal."

Father Dablon, who historians have given a niche in history with Marquette and Drulillettes, as one of the "Illustrious Triumvirate," gave to the world the first information of the Lake Superior district, Fr. Gagnier said. He also gave to posterity the letters and charts of the "great Marquette."

The Michigan Jesuit then briefly recounted the stories of Father Pierre Bailloquet and Father Charles Charlevoix, who appeared in the eighteenth century. Charlevoix, who Gagnier termed the "greatest historian of New France" was the last Jesuit in this region until the recalling of the order in the nineteenth century.

The speaker then returned to the seventeenth century, dwelling upon the life and works of Charles Albanel, who died and was buried at Sault Ste. Marie.

Blazed First Trail. "For 18 years the French had been endeavoring to find an overland route to Hudson Bay, in those days a gigantic undertaking. Three expeditions already had failed. Undaunted this father, with two Frenchmen and six Indians traveled 2,400 miles and reached Hudson Bay. Later he made a second trip over the same route."

Charlevoix was taken prisoner by the English and sent to England. In 1675 he again returned to Canada where he remained until his death in 1696 at Sault Ste. Marie.

Fr. Gagnier passed over the period when there were no Jesuits stationed in the Northwest, all having been recalled when there was strife between England and France.

"It is in 1846 that we find the Jesuits stationed again at the Sault," he said. "In 1846 and up to today we find that city the center of several white missions."

Brought First Press. The first printing press in the state of Michigan was brought by Father J. B. Chardan in 1748. With this press, Fr. Gagnier said, a bible was printed for use in the schools. The press also was used for printing circulars and newspapers. It was brought to Michigan in 1748.

In closing Fr. Gagnier dwelt at length upon the career of "the great Etienne de Carheil—the 'admirable unknown'."

"Carheil was a man doomed to endless failures," Gagnier said. "But he was of Breton birth," the speaker said, "and failure never daunted him. He fought on to keep the mission at St. Ignace despite the presence of profligate soldiers, wicked 'Socours de Bois' wild scapegraces of all kinds, vendors of liquor and immoral."

"Carheil was beaten in every encounter with Cadillac, the most lax of the commandants. The mission buildings finally were destroyed by the priest when the mission had dwindled to nothing and he went to Quebec. Had the French court, the French officers, the French governors, been what they should have been St. Ignace would perhaps have been the Detroit of the upper peninsula."

Though Carheil failed to achieve his purposes for 60 years a triumph that won him a place in history was to be his, Fr. Gagnier said. It was he who converted the great Huron chieftain, the "Rat," and won over to the French the people of that nation and of the great Indian confederacy, which was formed to combat the Iroquois.

Fr. Gagnier closed his lecture by reciting the Lord's Prayer in the Ojibway, and singing a number of Indian hymns.

POSTAL ORDER SPEEDS PAPERS

Far-reaching Edict Issued By Department Will Improve Service.

As a result of several months of investigation and study by experts of the postoffice department, Postmaster General New this week issued the first definite, concise and complete program that has ever been put out by the department for the mailing, transmission and delivery of newspapers.

This order, which was received yesterday at the Escanaba post office, is most important. It is far reaching. It gives the same expedition to newspapers as is accorded to first class mail.

The order is the result of painstaking effort on the part of the postoffice inspectors, under the direction of First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett. Carefully worded and minute instructions have been issued to all employees engaged in handling the mails, so that there will be no possibility of misunderstanding the importance of getting newspapers to the reader with a minimum of delay.

Must Not Be Mixed.
The essence of the order is that newspapers shall not be mixed with parcels post at any point in their dispatch from the publishers' offices until their delivery to the addresses. Papers shall be handled by themselves and kept in constant transit, not being sent to railway terminals to be reworked. In other words, they are to be handled in the same manner as first class mail.

An important feature of the order is that no publication shall be given any less efficient or less expeditious treatment than at present. That means that publications other than newspapers will not suffer one iota from this progressive innovation, made by the postoffice department.

Another striking feature of the order is the elimination of sacks of mail which are known to the business world as "mixed mail." Sacks of mixed mail sometimes contain letters, papers and parcels post, and often times the entire contents are treated as parcels post. This order will prevent a recurrence of that condition.

Another important feature of the order is that postmasters are required to notify publishers in each instance when they do not hit the dispatch which they advertise to hit; also to notify publishers when they are sending wrong addresses and to the addresses of deceased persons. Publishers will also be notified when they are putting up their mail in an incorrect manner.

Order Means Much.
Under the new system, newspapers will be made up in separate sacks plainly labeled with the word "Newspapers." If there are only a few copies of newspapers at the point of dispatch, they will be placed in pouches with first class mail or in separate sacks, even tho the sacks are only partially filled.

This order means much to the American public. It is one of the most important and far reaching steps in postoffice history. It is for the benefit of those who desire to have their newspapers placed before them at as early a moment as possible. This should keep both the city and rural population in closer and quicker touch with their several fields of activities.

PRIEST'S ARM IS FRACTURED

Rev. Fr. Bertrand of St. Joseph's Suffers Injuries Cranking Auto.

Rev. Father Bertrand Labiniski, O. F. M., of St. Joseph's church suffered a sprained fracture of the right elbow yesterday forenoon while cranking his car. Father Bertrand was preparing to leave for the down town district to attend to some business. When the self-starter on the car did not work properly, he cranked it and the crank, after making several turns, hit him in the elbow, causing the lower part of the arm to swing completely around. He was alone in the garage at the time and went into the rectory where the assistant pastor, Rev. Father Daniel, and Brother Germain hastened to help him.

A physician was called and he was rushed to St. Francis hospital where X-ray radiographs were made by the Raetjenologist at that institution. The X-rays showed the ligaments were torn from the bone and although no bones were fractured, the pain is intense. He will be unable to attend to his duties for some time. Members of the parish and his many friends are hopeful that his recovery will be speedy.
