

WILSON ENTERS "THE WAY OF PEACE"

ALL PARTIES PAY TRIBUTE TO SINCERITY

WILSON IDEALS INSPIRE RESPECT OF ALL CLASSES.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright 1924, by the Escanaba Press.) Washington, Feb. 6.—Woodrow Wilson has passed into history. Partisanship, an attribute of life's fitful struggle, has vanished before death's mellowing influence.

For four and a half years the death of Woodrow Wilson has been anticipated—ever since his break-down at Wichita, Kas., the end of a life given to a great cause has been confidently expected.

Could Woodrow Wilson in life but have known the remarkable words of praise being given for his indomitable spirit even by the men who were his bitterest opponents, it would have made him glad.

For while all the tributes recognize that the problems of controversy have by no means been solved there is a uniform appreciation of one thing—a sincerity of purpose and a loftiness of motive.

The flags of foreign embassies and legations are fluttering at half staff, the crowds still pass silently before the house that shelters the dead president and over Washington itself there has come a pall of sadness.

The verdict of history? Already the testimonials give some indication of what statesmen and publicists of today think the appraisal should be.

There are those who would rank Woodrow Wilson with Lincoln and Washington as the third of America's national heroes.

There are those who would give Woodrow Wilson an even more conspicuous place regarding him as the greatest international figure America produced.

There are those who would give Woodrow Wilson an even more conspicuous place regarding him as the greatest international figure America produced.

SAYS NOTHING IS ILLEGAL IN TRANSACTION

HE CARRIED OUT EXPRESSED WILL OF CONGRESS.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Feb. 6.—On the eve of the renewal in the senate of the demands for his removal from the cabinet, Secretary Denby made public tonight an extended statement explaining and defending his course in assenting to the lease of the naval oil reserves.

Asserting that three basic questions were involved, the naval secretary answered them all in the affirmative; that the transfer of administration from his department to the interior department was legal; that the leases themselves were legal and carried out the expressed will of congress; that they were beneficial to the government, preventing further loss of millions of dollars worth of oil and greatly increasing the power of the navy to defend this country.

With the senate and its committee both in recess, Mr. Denby's statement was the only concrete development of the day in the oil situation. Debate in the senate will break out after tomorrow and the committee will get back to its hearings on Friday.

With new leads developing in apparently unending succession, the end of the senate inquiry seems to be nowhere in sight. Many witnesses prominent in political and business life, are yet to be examined, and there is no telling how many others will be called after expert accountants have gone through the books of stock brokerage firms, banks and quasi-business associations in search of transactions in any way related to the oil leases.

After the senate has renewed the authority of the committee to meet one of the objections raised by Alber B. Fall, central figure in the oil muddle, in his refusal to testify, it will plunge into the fight over the resolution by Democratic leader Robinson calling for Mr. Denby's resignation.

Doesn't Mention Resolution. The naval secretary made no mention of this resolution in his statement tonight, which was in the form of a telegram to Roy D. Chapin, of Detroit, in reply to the message of confidence received some days ago from 225 citizens of Michigan.

Stating that he had received hundreds of letters and telegrams from Michigan and all parts of the Union, Mr. Denby declared that "such a demonstration of faith requires that I shall give you the reasons why that faith is not misplaced."

"When I came into office," the message continued, "I was very shortly convinced that the oil reserves lands which had been set aside by congress for the benefit of the United States navy were being drained by private owned wells adjoining those reserves. That they were being drained is undisputed."

His under date of June 4, 1920, gave transfer powers to the secretary of the navy; "That the secretary of the navy is directed to take possession of all properties within the naval petroleum reserve as are or may become subject to the control and use by the United States for naval purposes—that to conserve and operate the same in his discretion, directly or by contract, lease or otherwise and to use, store, exchange or sell the oil and gas products thereof and those from all royalty oil from lands in the naval reserves, for the benefit of the United States."

"Under these powers the secretary of the navy was charged with the duty of protecting the oil thus confided to his care. In carrying out the will of congress I had three courses open to me: (1) To do nothing and guard what would have been ultimately an empty shell because most of the oil would have been drained away from it; (2) To endeavor to create the machinery for handling the situation under the navy department by governmental drilling, continuously represented from the first season of the organization.

GREEN OPPOSED TO THE MELLON SURTAX CHARGE

Thinks 35 Per Cent Is The Proper Figure.

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Feb. 6.—Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee came out tonight in opposition to Secretary Mellon's recommendation that the present 50 per cent maximum surtax be cut in half. He has agreed to vote tomorrow with other Republicans on the committee to report the treasury tax bill, which contains this provision.

Mr. Green outlined his views in a letter to Dr. T. S. Adam professor of political economy at Yale university, who had written to him on various phases of the tax problem. Although the chairman had been known to be lukewarm on the Mellon surtax schedule, he had not committed himself definitely until tonight on a maximum of at least 35 per cent.

The Extremely Wealthy. Referring to Dr. Adams' letter, Mr. Green said it contained a statement to the effect that the extremely wealthy now defy the government and intend to continue to defraud it out of its just share of tax.

"It is unnecessary to say," he continued, "that the political party which proclaims such a doctrine will seal its doom with the announcement. You say that they will not pay and we cannot make them. But Canada makes them pay a much higher tax than we have now and England makes them pay a higher tax than any which is now proposed for the new bill so far as I know—certainly very much higher than any I would advocate. If other nations can do this what reason can we give for not doing it?"

"You say in effect that they will not pay 35 per cent, which I have advocated. I say that the men with immense wealth who will evade taxes at 35 per cent will do so at 25 per cent. In either case has he any need for the money which he keeps from the government?"

An Inconsistent Theory. "I agree with you in your criticism of legislators who clamor the extremely high surtaxes and at the same time favor tax free bonds; but here again I make the assertion that a reduction from 35 per cent to 25 per cent as the maximum surtax will have little effect on the investments of the extremely wealthy in tax free securities and it will still be largely to their advantage to invest in them. It would require a still lower rate to make them unattractive to the multi-millionaires."

The announcement of Mr. Green as to his stand on surtaxes, and the decision today of Democrats on the ways and means committee to stand pat on their demand that the surtax maximum be reduced no more than 44 per cent on incomes in excess of $2,000 insures a lively fight on the floor when a vote comes on this phase of the tax bill. Mr. Green and other Republican members of the committee out of sympathy with Mr. Mellon on one or more provisions of the bill, have reserved the right after voting to report it, to swing away from the administration position during consideration of the measure by the house.

Plans for Reporting Bill. A meeting of the ways and means committee has been called for tomorrow for the express purpose of voting to report the bill. Immediately after the session, committee members will hurry to the floor to take part in the fight that will develop tomorrow with the calling up of the resolution amending to prohibit issuance of tax exempt securities. Eight hours will be allotted for general debate with a vote probably Friday. A two thirds vote is needed for passage.

HOLD TRAPPER IN DEATH CASE

Last Man With Edward Connors, Shot Three Times.

(By The Associated Press.) Marquette, Mich., Feb. 6.—Thomas A. Doane, a trapper, said to be a friend of Edward Connors whose body was found Monday night on the floor of his Big Bay home with two bullet holes in the chest and one under the left arm, is being held in the county jail pending the outcome of a post mortem and inquest Friday.

Monday night it was reported that Connors had committed suicide, but subsequent examination of his body and of circumstances surrounding his death aroused suspicion that he was the victim of foul play and Doane's arrest by Sheriff Johnson followed.

Last Man With Him. Doane is said to have been living in the house with Connors, who had been a resident of Big Bay for about 12 years. Monday night it was reported, Connors and Doane were in the house and it is alleged that they were drinking from a half gallon jug of moonshine which Connors is said to have purchased.

When Connors' body was found, a .32 calibre automatic pistol was lying under his right arm. There were three empty cartridges in the chamber. Two bullets had entered Connors' chest, the holes being about three inches apart. The third bullet hole was about three inches below his left arm pit.

Suspect Denies Shooting. When Doane was arrested he denied he had anything to do with the shooting. He is said to have admitted that he and Connors were in the latter's house Monday night and that they were drinking moonshine, according to Doane's story, Connors took the pistol, which was hanging on the wall and shot himself. Then Doane ran out of the house, he said, and he declares that he heard Connors shoot twice more.

NATION'S GREAT SON IS LAID TO REST WITH HONORS HEAPED UPON HIM BY GREAT OF EARTH

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Feb. 6.—A bugle, calling softly in the fading day, told that Woodrow Wilson had passed today down "The Way of Peace" to his earned and honored rest.

It sang the same soldier requiem that once before, at the lips of the same loyal comrade, it sang to lull America's Unknown to his sleep in Glory. And as the bugle called, out over the hills that look down on the city, a stricken woman turned away from the entrance of the stone crypt down in the dim chapel, leaving her dead to the mercy of God.

At the end, there still stood beside the vault one staunch friend of the dead president, a friend who had battled death for him to the bitter end, who had shared in the great days of triumph, the bitter days of disappointment even as now he stood to render the last loyal service. Not until the great slab of stone had been swung back to close the vault did Dr. Grayson end the vigil he has kept with Woodrow Wilson for more than a half score of years.

A Day of Sorrow. Tonight the somber casket of black steel lies in the western niche of the great vault below Bethlehem Chapel. Above, towering from the hillside, looms the gray mass of the Cathedral; below, the lights of the city that has turned back from its day of sorrow to the crowding cares of life twinkle through the dark of an overcast night.

And on that casket where the great dead lies alone at last for his endless rest, beside the plate that sets forth only his name and the days of his birth and death, there still lies the handful of soft hued blossoms that were the last touching gift of the grief worn widow.

Tributes From the Great. Distant rumblings of saluting guns in the cloud-darkened dawn ushered in the day when the nation would pay to Woodrow Wilson the simple tribute that he had claimed of it. The busy life of the capital surged on for a few hours before its course was checked in the last moments of silent respect for the dead. But to the door of the stricken home and into the dim chapel where the last rites would be said, poured an endless stream of flowers that banked and overflowed every space with tender beauty. The names of kings and the great of the earth were on these tributes, and the names of loyal, humble friends and comrades.

As the hour of the double services drew on, thousands took their places along the way from house to chapel to stand long in the chill air, unmindful of the flurries of snow and rain that beat about them. The wide avenue over which the dead war president would make his last journey was banked with people and kept clear of traffic until he should have passed.

Oblivious of Cold. Before the house, across the street, a solid rank of people had gathered before the first of those who would join with the family in the home service had arrived. They stood, oblivious of cold, waiting to bare their heads a moment. Opposite them the guard of honor came to stand in ranks before the house—soldiers, sailors and marines.

Singly and in groups the little company that could be admitted to the house came and passed within. Thus came President and Mrs. Coolidge, the honor guard saluting as their commander in chief passed to stand beside the bier of a dead colleague. Thus came others who had stood shoulder to shoulder with Woodrow Wilson in his days of greatness and came also those few humble ones who could not be forgotten at such a moment, the faithful friends of the old days.

His Oldest Friends. In the study, where a great vacant chair before the fire place stood untouched since last he had sat there to ponder in the warm glow the casket had been set. On the walls about clustered the old, trusty friends of many years, whose ranks row on row from wires obviated the necessity. Radio broadcasting of news from Chicago continued today. Associated Press news had been coming in yesterday and again today over a circuitous route from New York by way of Atlanta, New Orleans, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver and St. Paul, but that wire failed for a time. The New York office of the Associated Press then arranged to receive radio news through the air mail wireless service and the St. Louis Post Dispatch began radio transmission. Radio news was reported in the surrounding country but the radio dispatches did not reach Chicago.

Chicago Isolated From Rest Of Nation For Three Hours

(By The Associated Press.) Chicago, Feb. 6.—A third day of partial paralysis of communication in the central states was experienced today as a result of the two day blizzard which took a toll of nearly a dozen lives, with radio again spanning the gaps of silence where wire were down.

WHY DO PEOPLE HAVE TO BE SOLD ON INSURANCE?

It's The One Thing Every Press Subscriber Should Have.

Odd as it may seem, it is nevertheless true that insurance—life insurance or accident insurance—is the one thing in the insurance line that absolutely MUST BE SOLD.

But if a man has a $200 barn stapled on the back end of a lot, he doesn't let it stand over night without "protecting" it. Yet he will go along day after day without life or accident or health insurance, feeling secure and confident in the knowledge of his present strength and health and never dreaming that in a world where death and accident occur all about him, his going to be his turn some day. And he doesn't know the day.

Cost Absolutely Small. So, in a sense, that is why the Daily Press is endeavoring day after day to dig it into the heads and hearts and minds of its subscribers that they now have a wonderful opportunity to protect themselves or their families at the absurdly small sum of 75 cents for a full year's protection.

In the event that accident overtakes you while traveling or from your work, or on pleasure, in an auto, on a motorcycle, in a street car, on a train, on a steamboat, or riding in a horse drawn vehicle, you will collect anywhere from $10 a week for not more than three months, to a lump sum of $500 or $1,000. That's what 75 cents will do for you. Seems absurdly small, when the benefits are considered, doesn't it? But that is exactly what a Daily Press travel accident policy will do for you—protect you or your family for a full year. It covers many other things not mentioned above.

Just Added Service. And the interesting part about it is that the Press is not in the insurance business, or making one penny out of the transaction. The Press is merely extending this opportunity in the form of an added service to its subscribers. Arrangement has been made with the Inter-Ocean Casualty company, one of the oldest and larger concerns of its kind, whereby each subscriber of the Daily Press may take advantage of this offer to protect the family. When the wages of the breadwinner are cut off by accident, a matter of $10 a week is not to be sneezed at. It marks the difference between being able to "get along" and the painful pinch of being dependent wholly upon the tender mercies of friends or relatives. Or in the event of the loss of a hand or foot or eye, a lump sum of $500 is paid. Or should two members be hurt, both eyes, both hands, both feet, or a hand and foot, a foot and eye, or hand and eye, the sum of $1,000 is paid. In the event of death, from accident while riding in a power-propelled vehicle, the sum of $1,000 is paid to the family of the deceased.

Easy To Get. All that is required to get this policy is that you be a subscriber to the Daily Press. And all the members of your family between the ages of 15 and 70 may have a policy at the same time, simply by paying the registration fee of 75 cents. It isn't necessary for each one of them to be a subscriber to the paper.

Better Come Down Today. Really there are so many splendid things about it that you ought to come right down to the office today and find out all about it. Take one home with you. Or phone and ask about it and the office will send a representative to see you and explain. It isn't playing the game safe to be without one of these policies if you are a Press subscriber.

The Press wants you to have this protection because the policy is purchased for your special benefit and all readers ought to have one. The policy costs the Press 75 cents and it goes right along to you at that price without a cent of profit to the Press. Could anything be fairer? This is a simple, sincere desire to give you a little more service. The policy is here for you. Don't delay until it is too late to get it.

After you are injured it is too late. Just attend to this little matter today and get it off your mind.

GOITER FACTS ARE REVEALED

Percentage of Victims in Escanaba Schools Is High.

Out of a total of 1357 pupils examined in the Escanaba public and parochial schools, in the campaign against goiter, 621 are suffering from enlarged thyroid glands, it was announced yesterday in a bulletin issued by W. E. Olds, superintendent of schools.

The bulletin covers the work done thus far in the intensive survey being conducted by Dr. H. J. Defnet, city health commissioner, and Miss Flora Bowman, school nurse. A total of 66 boys were examined, with the following disclosures resulting: Symptoms of goiter 257, slightly enlarged 216, considerably enlarged 27, very much enlarged 14. Girls examined 687; symptoms of goiter 464, slightly enlarged 294, considerably enlarged 135, very much enlarged 35.

Bears Out Estimates. The survey, thus far, bears out previous estimates that more than 60 percent of the girls of the city between the fifth grade and the fourth year of high school are victims of the enlarged throat glands. The actual percentage for girls is 67.5, and for boys, 38.6.

By grades, the following summaries are announced: Fifth grade, boys 35.3 percent, girls 55 percent. Sixth grade, boys 40.7 percent, girls 68.1 per cent. Seventh grade, boys 39.1 percent, girls 79.2 per cent. Eighth grade, boys 38.7 percent, girls 67.5 per cent.

In the high school, examinations have been limited to people who returned consent cards to the nurse's office. In St. Joseph's high school, out of 144 examinations, 19 boys and 52 girls were found to be victims. In the Escanaba high school, 99 examinations were made, with 15 boys and 57 girls found to have goiters.

EDITORIAL

FOOTING OUR OWN HORN. The Associated Press, the Escanaba Daily Press extends its abundant admiration for the ill-dog tenacity of purpose characterizing its successful efforts to overcome all obstacles, that its news regardless of any and all weather conditions.

Again yesterday, when great portions of the nation were isolated by reason of sleet, rain and snow storms burdening wires so that telephone and telegraph poles were snapped as matches, while commercial wire companies were in many instances prostrate, while railroads were able to operate only a portion of the time, if at all; when the whole business of the nation was shattered the Associated Press again made good on its implied obligation to the public and its clients.

Never a thought of faltering, never a thought of giving up, never the suggestion of an idea that might be well to wait for better conditions, seems to have entered the minds of those charged with the responsibility of surmounting all obstacles, taking all hazards and getting a wire through somehow. If it be necessary to rent, buy, beg lease or lead wires up through Canada to establish service between such short distances as Marquette and Escanaba, the Associated Press does that thing. There is no hesitancy, there is no whining, there is no apologizing—the boys simply go out and turn the trick.

And so all through the years. The Associated Press has built for itself the reputation of service and reliability. Leased Wire services, such as the Daily Press is giving its readers, is something of which to be proud; something to be to, something to depend upon and the Press takes this decision to publicly call attention to its promises to make the Press "A Better Paper Every Day" through the installation of the leased wire service.

It is especially valuable at times like this when Escanaba has no trains or mail service, when Chicago and Milwaukee papers cannot get in, because Escanaba Daily Press readers get all the news of the world—old and new, accurately and with a detail which cannot be secured in any other publication.

If you want the news you must read the Daily Press. You are not getting a bunch of information prepared weeks in advance in some coming event and sent here by mail—you get the news for the wires and you get it fully and while it is news. There is no attempt to fool the public with a patched up, garbled service.

When the Daily Press leased wire service fails to deliver the goods, readers of the Daily Press will be frankly informed of that condition. But it hasn't happened under the most trying strain and this publication doesn't believe it will happen.

Daily Press news is a safe, reliable, dependable, day in and day out service. You pay for that service, you are entitled to it and you will continue to get it, regardless of weather conditions, if it is humanly possible to maintain a wire to this city.

"Keep the wires working" is as fundamental with the Associated Press as that ancient tradition in the circus business "the show must go on," a spirit which has earned the admiration of all Americans for that great institution in American life.

OH, WELL, HE'S BEEN BUSY. Down in Hamtramck the police found a man who said he had never heard of the eighteenth amendment. At first blush that might seem odd. It has been mentioned in the papers several times, but it is possible this man was too busy to read the paper that day.

Someone ought to invite "Mrs. Mayor" Dever of Chicago up here. She wasn't allowed to go to church last Sunday because all the seats were filled. Always room for one more here.

The treasury proposes to spend thirteen million dollars to fight rain running. Wonder if that's going to be unlucky?

"The Doctor's Story"

Chapter XXIII. No one but a physician, a conscientious one, as I tried to be, could put himself in my place, imagine my feelings. I no longer talked of my ambition to be a great surgeon to Nancy, but was working hard and steadily toward that goal in spite of my discouragements. I was doing good work at the hospital, was often called by older physicians and surgeons to assist them in some peculiarly delicate operation, was working and planning to the one end.

BY JANE PHELPS.

She never interrupted me once while I told the whole miserable story. Her face full of sympathy. "I mistrusted something of the sort said Miss Hunt," she said when I finished. "Father had such a case once. Her going out so spasmodically, your anxiety when I knew she had no dangerous illness told me pretty nearly the truth, so you needn't worry about breaking your promise. And Nancy, poor girl, was her innocent victim. Father used to say no one on earth could match a drug addict in cunning. She probably saw you go out and timed her visit accordingly. She must have gotten a pretty good idea of Nancy that time she called on her, know she was as innocent as a baby."

LEGION PAYS LAST TRIBUTE

Simple But Impressive Ceremony Marks Hour of Funeral Here.

A memorial prayer said by the Rev. A. I. Ernest Boss, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church; "taps" by a bugler and the salute to the rank of commander-in-chief of the United States army comprised the memorial services, conducted here yesterday afternoon by Cleveland Post, American Legion, in tribute to the memory of Woodrow Wilson.

Legion men, in uniform, headed by color and firing squads, met at the Post's headquarters and marched to the city hall. The ceremonies were conducted on the steps to that building. They were brief and the impressiveness was increased by the simplicity which marked the service.

Dr. J. J. Walsh, commander of the post, presided. He explained that it was the wish of Mrs. Wilson that there be no elaborate ceremonies in connection with the funeral and memorial services, and that in compliance with these wishes, Cleveland Post had arranged for no eulogy.

The Rev. Mr. Boss, in his memorial prayer, expressed gratitude for "the example which he has left us—of love for honor, justice and humanity, and of unflinching loyalty to a righteous cause."

The prayer follows: "O God, Eterna: Ruler of the Universe; the God of Nations and of families; and of individuals; our Heavenly Father; we are assembled at this time to pay our tribute to the memory of our beloved Nation; to do our last honor to him who was Commander-in-chief of America's forces during the great world-war; to him under whose leadership every true American, whether in uniform or in civilian dress, gave of himself and his all.

"In rendering this token of our respect and veneration, we thank Thee for having raised up to lead us in that dark hour of world-wide peril and disaster, a man such as him whose loss we mourn today; a man of dauntless courage and indomitable will; a man possessed of those qualities so necessary for leadership in that most critical period of our National and International history. We thank Thee for the example which he has left us—of love for honor, justice and humanity; and of unflinching loyalty to a righteous cause.

"None of Thine earthly children are infallible in wisdom or in judgment. It is asked of us only that we use those talents which Thou hast given us to promote and support the Truth as it is permitted to us to see it. In him who has now passed from the activities of earth to the wider activities of the great Beyond, we have the memory and the example of a man who gave of himself willingly even to the making of the Supreme Sacrifice in the cause of Truth as he beheld it. "For him we pray—that Thou wilt grant him rest and peace in Paradise and a richer work in the spacious fields of eternity. "For his stricken family—those that were nearest and dearest to him in this life we pray—May they feel and know that the heart of the entire Nation goes out to them in deepest sympathy. With Thou grant them that Divine comfort, strength and companionship which alone can support them in this dark hour of trial.

"For the Nation which he served so faithfully we pray—for it we would invoke thy divine guidance and blessing. May its people no longer selfishly cherish the false security of an isolation which is no longer either possible nor desirable, but grant they may in Thine own good time catch in all its rich fullness the perfect vision of which he had glimpses far beyond our ken. May this Nation continue in peace and prosperity to work out Thine hidden purposes for itself, and, through its influence and example, for all the peoples of the world. When unforeseen emergency confronts or disaster threatens, wilt Thou raise up leaders qualified to lead it through its perils; yes, and even up to and through its Calvaries, if Calvaries there need be in order to accomplish its resurrection to a new and higher life. Above all selfish thought of national aggrandizement may it realize its Heavenly-sent mission for the other peoples of the world, and give of itself generously to the fulfillment of Thy purposes.

"For ourselves, as citizens and soldiers of this great republic, we pray. May we always prove ourselves faithful to the great trust committed to us. May we be loyal to our Nation and to our Nation's God. Grant, we beseech Thee, that in our relations with one another and with all Thine earthly children by whatever name or race they may be called, we may be actuated by the same high motives and the same sincerity of purpose as that which was the impelling force in the life of him whose memory we honor today. Help us to perpetuate his memory by taking our part in the erecting upon the solid rock-foundation of National and international righteousness and justice."

The prayer follows:

"O God, Eterna: Ruler of the Universe; the God of Nations and of families; and of individuals; our Heavenly Father; we are assembled at this time to pay our tribute to the memory of our beloved Nation; to do our last honor to him who was Commander-in-chief of America's forces during the great world-war; to him under whose leadership every true American, whether in uniform or in civilian dress, gave of himself and his all.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in over-coming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

lated by reason of sleet, rain and snow storms burdening wires so that telephone and telegraph lines were snapped as matches, while commercial wire companies were in many instances prostrated, while railroads were able to operate only a portion of the line, if at all, when the whole business of the nation was shattered the Associated Press again did good on its implied obligation to the public and its clients.
Never a thought of faltering, never a thought of giving up,
never the suggestion of an idea that might be well to wait for better conditions, seems to have entered the minds of those charged with the responsibility of surmounting all obstacles, taking all hazards and getting a wire through somehow. If it be necessary to rent, buy, beg lease or to wire up through Canada to establish service between such great distances as Marquette and Escanaba, the Associated Press does that thing. There is no hesitation, there is no whining, there is no apologizing—the boys simply go out and turn the trick.
And so all through the years,
The Associated Press has built for itself the reputation of service and reliability. Leased Wire services, such as the Daily Press is giving its readers, is something of which to be proud; something to be proud, something to depend upon and the Press takes this opportunity to publicly call attention to its promises to make the press "A Better Paper Every Day" through the installation of leased wire service.
It is especially valuable at times like this when Escanaba has no trains or mail service, and Chicago and Milwaukee papers cannot get in, because Escanaba Daily Press readers get all the news of the world—old daily, accurately and with a detail which cannot be secured in any other publication.
If you want the news you must get the Daily Press. You are not getting a bunch of information prepared weeks in advance in some coming event and sent to you by mail—you get the news right off the wires and you get it daily and while it is news. There is no attempt to fool the public with a patched up, garbled service.

When the Daily Press leased wire service fails to deliver the goods, readers of the Daily Press will be frankly informed of that condition. But it hasn't happened under the most trying strain and this publication doesn't believe it will happen.
Daily Press news is a safe, reliable, dependable, day in and day out service. You pay for leased service, you are entitled to it and you will continue to get it, regardless of weather conditions, if it is humanly possible to maintain a wire to this city.
"Keep the wires working" is as fundamental with the Associated Press as that ancient tradition in the circus business "the show must go on," a spirit which has earned the admiration of all Americans for that great institution in American life.

OH, WELL, HE'S BEEN BUSY.
Down in Hamtramck the police found a man who said he had never heard of the eighteenth amendment. At first blush that might seem odd. It has been mentioned in the papers several times, but it is possible this man was too busy to read the paper that day.
Someone ought to invite "Mrs.
Mayor" Dever of Chicago up here.
She wasn't allowed to go to church last Sunday because all the seats were filled. Always room for one more here.
The treasury proposes to spend thirteen million dollars to fight rum running. Wonder if that's going to be unicky?

"The Doctor's Story"

BY JANE PHELPS.
Chapter XXIII.
No one but a physician, a conscientious one, as I tried to be, could put himself in my place, imagine my feelings. I no longer talked of my ambition to be a great surgeon to Nancy, but was working hard and steadily toward that goal in spite of my discouragements. I was doing good work at the hospital, was often called by older physicians and surgeons to assist them in some peculiarly delicate operation, was working and planning to the one end.
Now a feeling swept over me that it never would be accomplished. Nancy, while I loved her, was too much of a handicap. It is a dreadful thing for a man to realize that the woman he loves, the woman he has made his wife, a successful life impossible for him. For days I struggled against this feeling, until at last it drove me to Jesse. I had turned around in a circle, in a maze of doubt. Her belief in me, her sensible way of looking at things might help me to get myself straightened out.
"You're in trouble, Horace, you look really ill. What is it?" she said as she laid down her sewing, tiny garments that brought a lump in my throat as I saw them and recalled Nancy's talk of children.
"I am in trouble Jesse, and I am going to break a solemn promise to tell you about it. It sounds silly for a great six-footer like me to say they need help, a woman's help at that. But you know me so well, are perhaps more interested in my success than anyone in the world, unless it is uncle Henry, that I feel justified in breaking the promise.
She never interrupted me once while I told the whole miserable story. Her face' full of sympathy.
"I mistrusted something of the sort called Miss Hunt," she said when I finished. "Father had such a case once. Her going out so spasmodically, your anxiety when I knew she had no dangerous illness told me pretty near the truth, so you needn't worry about breaking your promise. And Nancy, poor girl, was her innocent victim. Father used to say no one on earth could match a drug addict in cunning. She probably saw you go out and timed her visit accordingly. She must have gotten a pretty good idea of Nancy that time she called on her, known she was as innocent as a baby."
"I try to exonerate Nancy, but it's hard to do so. It was her fear I would come in and talk to Lauretta that made her such a willing tool."
"Poor Nancy, I wish I could help her, Horace. I honestly think she needs help more than you do. She has such a warped idea of life, of what makes for happiness. You have your path cut out straight before you. These things, so hard to bear, I admit, cannot swerve you one iota, if you are one half the man I take you to be. I don't believe Nancy's foolish act will become known, if it should you can only tell the entire truth about it, but I think you are worrying needlessly about that. Miss Hunt won't tell it, and if Nancy keeps still no one will know. I hope she won't tell Mrs. Calhoun. She's clever enough, knows enough of the world to put two and two together. You must make Nancy promise never to tell her. Frighten her a little if necessary. I cannot tell you anything about your duty as far as Lauretta Hunt is concerned, about telling her fiancée but I believe you are right, and he should not marry her without knowing."
For another hour we talked. Jessie inquiring as to the cases at the hospital, my particular work there. She was bright, almost gay, yet I felt she was heart and soul interested, that she was giving me the best cure for my depression she knew: showing faith in me.
When I reached home I tackled the subject of Mrs. Calhoun at once.
"You have got to promise me sacredly you never will mention Miss Hunt's visit to her, never tell her you took anything from my cabinet to give her," I told Nancy.
"My, what a fuss you are making over nothing! Just because I cheated you out of being shut up alone with that Hunt girl."
"I don't see the need of making any such promise. There must be something terribly wrong between you and that girl to make you so afraid people will know she came here."
There was no use telling Nancy that it wasn't because Lauretta visited the office I wanted her promise, but because she had given her medicine. So I resorted to a threat.
"Unless you give me your promise and keep it, I shall engage an office in the Robert's building today. Now take your choice."
"I promise!" she wailed. "I'd promise anything rather than have you do that! Be away from me all day."
"See that you keep that promise, Nancy. I am in deadly earnest. One word of it leaks out and I leave the house at once, no longer to have an office here. Tomorrow—Fate Takes a Hand in Lauretta's Affairs.

LEGION PAYS LAST TRIBUTE

Simple But Impressive Ceremony Marks Hour of Funeral Here.

A memorial prayer said by the Rev. A. I. Ernest Bosa, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church; "taps" by a bugler and the salute to the rank of commander-in-chief of the United States army comprised the memorial services, conducted here yesterday afternoon by Cloverland Post, American Legion, in tribute to the memory of Woodrow Wilson.

Legion men, in uniform, headed by color and firing squads, met at the Post's headquarters and marched to the city hall. The ceremonies were conducted on the steps to that building. They were brief and the impressiveness was increased by the simplicity which marked the service.

Dr. J. J. Walsh, commander of the post, presided. He explained that it was the wish of Mrs. Wilson that there be no elaborate ceremonies in connection with the funeral and memorial services, and that in compliance with these wishes, Cloverland Post had arranged for no eulogy.

The Rev. Mr. Bosa, in his memorial prayer, expressed gratitude for "the example which he has left us—of love for honor, justice and humanity, and of unflinching loyalty to a righteous cause."

The prayer follows:

"O God, Eternal Ruler of the Universe; the God of Nations and of families; and of individuals; our Heavenly Father; we are assembled at this time to pay our tribute to the memory of a former President of our beloved Nation; to do our last honor to him who was Commander-in-Chief of America's forces during the great world-war; to him under whose leadership every true American, whether in uniform or in civilian dress, gave of himself and his all.

"In rendering this token of our respect and veneration, we thank Thee for having raised up to lead us in that dark hour of world-wide peril and disaster, a man such as him whose loss we mourn today; a man of dauntless courage and indomitable will; a man possessed of those qualities so necessary for leadership in that most critical period of our National and International history. We thank Thee for the example which he has left us—of love for honor, justice and humanity; and of unflinching loyalty to a righteous cause.

"None of Thine earthly children are infallible in wisdom or in judgment. It is asked of us why that we use those talents which Thou hast given us to promote and support the Truth as it is permitted to see it. In him who has now passed from the activities of earth to the wider activities of the great Beyond, we have the memory and the example of a man who gave of himself willingly even to the making of the Supreme Sacrifice in the cause of Truth as he beheld it. "For him we pray—that Thou wilt grant him rest and peace in Paradise and a richer work in the spacious fields of eternity.

"For his stricken family—those that were nearest and dearest to him in this life we pray—May they feel and know that the heart of the entire Nation goes out to them in deepest sympathy. Wilt Thou grant them that Divine comfort, strength and companionship which alone can support them in this dark hour of trial.

"For the Nation which he served so faithfully we pray—for it we would invoke the divine guidance and blessing. May its people no longer selfishly cherish the false security of an isolation which is no longer either possible nor desirable, but grant they may in Thine own good time catch in all its rich fullness the perfect vision of which he had glimpses far beyond our ken. May this Nation continue in peace and prosperity to work out Thine hidden purposes for itself, and through its influence and example, for all the peoples of the world. When unforeseen emergency confronts or disaster threatens, wilt Thou raise up leaders qualified to lead it through its perils; yes, and even up to and through its Calvaries, if Calvaries there need be in order to accomplish its resurrection to a new and higher life. Above all selfish thought of national aggrandizement may it realize its Heaven-sent mission for the other peoples of the world, and give of itself generously in the fulfillment of Thy purposes.

"For ourselves, as citizens and soldiers of this great republic, we pray. May we always prove ourselves faithful to the great trust committed to us. May we be loyal to our Nation and to our Nation's God. Grant, we beseech Thee, that in our relations with one another and with all Thine earthly children by whatever name or race they may be called, we may be actuated by the same high motives and the same sincerity of purpose as that which was the impelling force in the life of him whose memory we honor today. Help us to perpetuate his memory by taking our part in the erecting upon the solid rock-foundation of National and International righteousness and justice."

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale." According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in over-coming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Tanlac Means Health Says Saginaw Women

"Tanlac has meant health and happiness to me," declares Mrs. Amanda L. Lemay, of 219 South Michigan Ave., Saginaw, Mich. "and I don't believe anyone who will give the medicine an honest trial will be disappointed.

"For months, my health had been very poor. Indigestion was bothering me, nervousness kept me from sleeping well, and I was badly run-down and lacking in strength and energy.

"My brother had used Tanlac off and on for years so I decided to try the medicine, and to find such great relief and help is truly wonderful. It has given me a fine appetite and digestion and has strengthened my nerves so that my sleep is sound and restful. That's all, helplessness feeling is gone and I have been built up to splendid health and strength. I am glad to make a statement about Tanlac so that others may know what a grand medicine it is."

NEW SCHOOL AT COOKS FINISHED

Four Busses Carry Students To And From The Building.

Cooks, Feb. 6.—School work in the new $50,000 building, at the Meadows corner, has started and the four big busses, which carry the pupils to and from school are combating the snow drifts successfully. The building is of the most modern type and has been pronounced one of the most efficiently arranged structures of its size in the state. Mr. Witt is superintendent. The grade teachers are the Misses Isaac, Cool and Vincent. Miss Lippert, who has charge of the home economics department, arrived here last Friday and has commenced her classwork. The school has been fortified against the cold weather by the arrival of a carload of coal which Janitor Couglin has stowed away in the basement.

Eye Is Injured. Mr. Tonquay suffered a painful cut just under his left eye Sunday when a fork slipped from a load of hay and struck him in the face. Injury to the eye was narrowly averted. Cooks experienced the excitement of a "runaway" Saturday when Hennessey's team became frightened and dashed down the street from the depot at a terrific speed. Mr. Deloria headed them off and they went to their barn. Mr. and Mrs. Perry are the parents of a 12-pound son, born last Thursday in St. Francis hospital in Escanaba. Geo. WORKER KILLED AT NO. 1 DAM

Claude Seward's Neck Broken in Fall from Scaffold Yesterday.

Claude Seward, 37, was fatally injured early yesterday when a scaffold on which he was working at the No. 1 dam of the Escanaba Traction Company, at Flat Rock, gave way, dropping him a distance of several feet. His neck was broken and he died a few minutes later at the office of a surgeon, where he was taken immediately after the accident. Two companions who were working on the scaffold at the same time, escaped from the fall without injuries. Seward and the two other workmen were removing concrete from the flume. They had been at work only a short time when the three-inch plank on which they were standing gave way. The exact cause of the accident had not been definitely determined last night. Workers who were with Mr. Seward at the time did not stop to investigate that feature, but hastened to procure medical attention for him. For several years, Seward was a member of the Escanaba Fire department, stationed at the North Escanaba branch. He left that service about four years ago and purchased a farm in the Grooms settlement. Part of his time since then was occupied by a position with the Escanaba Paper company. More recently he had been a member of the repair crew of the Traction company, and it was in this work that he met his death.

ALL PROBLEMS NOT SOLVED

"We have not solved the final problems in any line of the automotive industry," C. F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research Laboratories so told the gathering of 500 Oakland dealers at their recent mid-western meeting at Chicago. In the course of his remarks he told how Duco was developed and how Oakland has been the pioneer car in helping solve the practical problems connected with this satin wax finish and the first to adopt it. "The painting of automobile bodies took too long," he declared. "We got the paint manufacturers together and they were finally able to cut down the time of drying of paint to one day. Finally there was developed a material that dried and flew away in small particles even before it could be sprayed on the automobile. "Then our problem was to get the paint not to dry so quickly—swinging from one extreme to another. The problem of drying less quickly was finally solved. The satin wax finish so developed is now used on all Oakland cars. C. J. Nephler, general sales manager of Oakland announced at the same meeting that the Oakland dealer organization has increased the last year from 40 to 45 per cent over 1922.

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR Forecasting A Tremendous Spring Demand 739,626 more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent. In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled. This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery. These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor. Ford Motor Company Detroit, Michigan A small deposit down, with easy payments of the balance arranged, or your enrollment under the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan, will put your order on the preferred list for spring delivery.
