

HANRAHAN LEADS COUNCILMANIC TICKET

TAX MEASURE IS REVAMPED BY SENATE

RATES URGED BY MELLON ARE TO BE REPLACED.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

Washington, Mar. 7.—Congress and the President have been getting closer together during the past week. Breakfast, luncheon and dinner saw some republican leaders at the White House discussing the legislative program.

Mr. Coolidge is beginning to exercise his influence on Capitol Hill. First and foremost has been the president's intervention in the tax situation. The Senate finance committee is virtually rewriting the tax bill passed by the House.

His decision against the levy of new forms of taxation is significant. The House repealed several taxes which Secretary Mellon did not recommend for modification at this time. As a consequence the House bill will not, in the opinion of treasury experts, get the needed revenue.

Mr. Coolidge finds that in summing up the leaders for conference, he cannot depend upon their getting to the White House during the day because so many of them have important committee meetings.

HEIR TO THRONE WASHES DISHES

Descendant Of Stuarts Bows To Hard Luck.

Oakland, Calif.—A claimant to the English throne washes dishes, mows the lawn about his kiddies while his wife goes shopping.

He is Charles Stewart, descended from the Stuart family which once ruled Britain. According to records handed down for hundreds of years he should be ruling over Great Britain today.

But only his closest friends know Charles Stewart—that's the way he's spelling his name—for other than an every-day citizen. Incognito, he lives in a four-room suite in a double house in a quiet residential section.

Occasionally Stewart will open this trunk and reverently tell the story of the Royal House to Charles James William, just turned 6, and Robert, going on 3, "next in succession should Charles die."

Alfred Irvine Leon Charles Francis Edward James Stewart—that's how he's listed in British records—is recognized as Lord of Achmores and Balmaddock.

It means little, though. Scarcely half a hundred men, women and children dwell on these estates in Scotland today.

Stewart, however, isn't expecting King George to abdicate in his favor.

RENTS BILL IS BADLY BEATEN

Labor Government In Commons Suffers Defeat.

London, April 7.—By the small majority of only nine votes the labor government suffered in the house of commons tonight one of those defeats which Premier MacDonald contemplated when he assumed office, and then declared that it would not involve the resignation of the ministry.

The government's defeat came on an amendment offered by Neville Chamberlain, unionist, to the rent bill, opposing the second reading. This bill had already been introduced by the government.

Disagree On Method. In point of fact the defeat was not on the question of principle, all the parties being agreed upon the necessity of giving relief to prevent the eviction of tenants who were unemployed, but they disagreed on the method of applying that relief.

The tactics of the two opposition parties were aimed at forcing the government to withdraw altogether the clause in the rent bill which proposed to give courts the power to refuse an eviction order in the case of tenants who were out of employment.

Among the important changes made in the bill by the house and disagreed to by the committee were the Longworth income tax compromise rates; the increase in state taxes; and imposition of the gift tax.

Mellon Rates Prevail. The Mellon income rates were adopted by the committee in place of the Longworth compromise. They provide for a reduction in the present normal rates of four per cent on incomes of $4,000 and under, and eight percent above that to three and six per cent, respectively.

Rotarians Of State Meet In Grand Rapids Plan To Admit Representatives Of Labor

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 7.—Nearly 1,000 Rotarians from Michigan and western Ontario and International Rotary executives are in Grand Rapids attending the 18th district Rotary conference which opened here today.

Leon C. Faulkner of Baltimore, executive chairman of boys' work; Arch C. Klumph, of Cleveland, past international president; Don A. Adams of New Haven, Conn., member of the international committee, and Hugh A. VanDeWalker of Ypsilanti, Mich., president of the Michigan society for crippled children, and Anthony W. Smith, Jr., of Pittsburgh, international director, are present to deliver addresses on Rotary standards and ideals.

Wont Admit Labor. Director Smith addressed the delegates today and advocated the broadening of Rotary membership classifications to admit representatives of labor.

Current Judge Clyde I. Webster, of Detroit, chairman of the committee on resolutions, will present a resolution to the conference Tuesday providing for the appointment by the district governor of five or six lieutenant governors to assist in caring for the increasing volume of Rotary work.

Election of district governor will be held Tuesday and it is understood the nomination of Grover C. Good of Grand Rapids will be unopposed. Detroit will enter no candidate, according to Judge Webster.

Rotarians Tuesday will outline a district program for caring for crippled children. This work will be in charge of Hugh A. VanDeWalker of Ypsilanti.

The convention closes Tuesday. The first English Derby was run in 1789, and was won by a horse called Diomed, who later found his way to the United States, and helped to lay the foundation for the trotting horse family.

Detroit Voters Favor Annexing More Territory

By The Associated Press.—Detroit, April 7.—All questions submitted on the city ticket in today's primary met with the approval of a vast majority of the voters, early returns indicated.

The two charter amendments submitted for the purpose of doubling the pensions granted at present to the widows and orphans of policemen and firemen who are killed while on duty met with very little opposition.

The election was the lightest in the city's recent history. The vote in the city was overwhelmingly in favor of taking in portions of Hamtramck and Grosse Pointe.

The amendment to increase the appropriation in the city for paving and to provide a penalty for failure to pay special assessment taxes were being carried by large majorities.

MELLON RATES WILL PREVAIL

Finishing Touches Being Put-On Revenue Measure.

Washington, April 7.—Finishing touches were put on the revenue bill today by the senate finance committee preparatory to reporting it to the senate where it will be taken up probably next week.

The committee decided to exempt from the brokers' tax of 35 all produce and merchandise brokers and also voted several minor changes in the administrative sections of the bill.

Most of the amendments placed in the bill on the floor of the house have been knocked out by the senate committee in favor of the treasury draft sent to congress by Secretary Mellon.

Among the important changes made in the bill by the house and disagreed to by the committee were the Longworth income tax compromise rates; the increase in state taxes; and imposition of the gift tax.

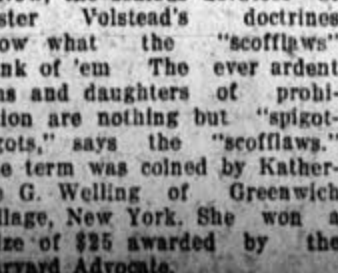

The Mellon income rates were adopted by the committee in place of the Longworth compromise. They provide for a reduction in the present normal rates of four per cent on incomes of $4,000 and under, and eight percent above that to three and six per cent, respectively.

The only new taxes carried in the bill were voted in by the senate committee and provide for levies of 10 per cent each on radio and Mah Jong sets.

Several miscellaneous and excise rates reduced or repealed by the house were restored. The taxes on telephone and telegraph messages were among those restored.

Articles exempted from the jewelry taxes were limited to those selling for $25 or less instead of $40 as provided by the house. The tax on drafts and promissory notes, repealed by the house, was restored and the full tax on billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys, cut in half by the house, was voted into the bill.

NEW DECLARES POSTAL RAISE UNWARRANTED

Postmaster General Says Further Information Necessary.

Washington, April 7.—Postmaster General New today condemned as unwarranted the postal salary increases proposed in bills before congress and sent to Chairman Edge of the joint subcommittee on postoffices his suggestions for salary increases with recommendations for increased postage and postal service fees to meet such a pay raise.

Pending bills would increase postal expenditures $150,000,000 a year, he said, and the state of the national budget would not permit such expenditures. If any bill is passed increasing salaries, the revenues to meet the increases must be raised by increases in postage rates, Mr. New declared.

Summing up a lengthy analysis of salaries of postal employees and similar classes of workers in private business, the postmaster general said comparison revealed that the advantages rested with the postal employees.

"I have urged the desirability of not undertaking the revision of postage rates until the results of the cost ascertainment now being conducted shall have become known, which will be in a few months," said Mr. New.

"It has been made evident, however, that there is a strong desire upon the part of the friends of these bills to legislate upon rates regardless of that situation."

The salary increases suggested as a substitute by the postmaster general were worked out on a scale of an increase of $200 for clerks and carriers in first class offices having $600,000 annual revenues, and $100 in first class offices having less than $600,000 annual revenues, and in all second class offices.

"Starting with these increases there has been an endeavor to readjust other salaries throughout the service accordingly," Mr. New said.

The increases in postage and fee rates suggested by Mr. New to meet the pay increases, with the various classes of mail and services to which they apply and the estimated increase in revenue are:

Second class matter, $4,985,000; by increasing rates on advertising matter 1 1/2 cents a pound in first and second zones; 1 1/4 cents in third zone and 1/4 cent in fourth zone.

Third class matter, $500,000; by incorporating in fourth class matter all third class matter above eight ounces.

Fourth class matter, $3,100,000; by increasing parcel post rates beginning at 9 ounces to and including eighth zone and on the pound rates to and including 7 pounds for local delivery and for first, second and third zones; increasing rates for fourth, fifth and sixth zones from 9 ounces to 5 pounds, and for 7th and 8th zones to four pounds.

Insurance fees, $1,750,000 by increasing fee from 3 to 5 cents and 5 to 7 cents the 10 and 15 cent fees remaining unchanged.

Post office service, $1,200,000 by increasing fee from 10 to 12 cents for up to $10, establishing a 15 cent fee for collections from $10 to $50, and continuing 25 cent fee for $50 to $100.

Registry service, $1,100,000 by increasing fee from 10 to 12 cents and charging 1 cent of return receipt requested.

Special delivery service, $900,000; by increasing fee to 15 cents for articles of 2 pounds to 10 pounds and 20 cents for articles of 10 pounds and over.

PEONS SEIZE THE HARVESTS

Mexican Land Owners Give Up Estates Because of Agrarian Act.

BY BOB DORMAN NEA Service Writer. Vera Cruz, Mexico.—The agrarian law of Mexico was hailed as the greatest advance made in the history of Mexico.

From the start of the Madero revolution in 1910, the cry in Mexico has been for the division of the large estates—the furnishing of land to the great mass of the people.

Each leader, seeking to enroll under his banner the peons of the country, promised them land. Throughout the list of revolutionary presidents from Madero down to Obregon, the promise was never kept.

Land Seized. — But Obregon made good—the agrarian law was passed. It provided that the land of the big estates might be taken over by the government, paid for by government bonds (which have so far proved worthless) and divided up among the people.

Lots were to be drawn for it, as in land thrown open to entry by the United States government. How has it worked out?

Badly—if one is to take the word of the foreigners who have lived in Mexico for many years and who have seen how the law has been applied.

In the first place only the choicest land has been denounced, and as a rule, only after it has been prepared and the crop planted.

Then it has been taken over, the land divided, and the people have lived on it until they have harvested the crop, after which they have deserted it.

It has also been the means of rewarding political favors. Land has been denounced, divided up among some peons, who then sold their rights to it for a sum to one man, who has thus acquired title to the whole property at about one-fourth the price he would have had to pay in the open market.

This would be rewarded by some politician for political support. Under the agrarian law the state of Morelos, which formerly was one of the richest states of the Mexican republic, and was known as the largest sugar producer, has become bankrupt.

It has dropped far down in the ranks of the sugar producing states and its government is receiving financial aid from the national treasury.

One example of how the law has worked out there will suffice. A Mexican, a relative of Diaz, owned a sugar plantation in the state of Morelos, comprising about 5000 acres.

Today he has abandoned it, and the estate has gone back to a tropical jungle. Harvest Troun. Quit Land. With the passage of the agrarian law, the natives of the region asked for the seizure of part of the estate. They only denounced that part whose crop was ready to harvest.

This was turned over to them, the crop harvested, and the next year the land was abandoned. Meanwhile the land on which the next year's crop was maturing was denounced, with the same results.

The land which had been abandoned by the first set of peons, was taken over again by the owner of the estate, plowed and planted. It was promptly demanded by the peons who had abandoned it. In disgust the owner gave up trying to work the estate.

TUESDAY. The Eternal Spirit.

Read Mt. 13:31-44. Text: 13:33. The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till it was all leavened.

MEDITATION: As Jesus was able to communicate to his disciples the nature of his divine life so that they too became partakers of God's grace and joint heirs with Him, so has His Spirit during the years led countless thousands into life eternal.

PRAYER: Almighty God, may we be like-minded with Christ, that we may with confidence seek to do thy will. Let us take our daily duties in the spirit of love, that we may learn of thee.

LENT IN THE HOLY LAND

English Writer Relates Woods Experiences 35 Years Ago In Delta Co.

NOTE: The following article by Edward Valpy, of London, England, appeared recently in "Shooting Times and British Sportsman," a high class sporting publication published in London. "Old-timers" of the community especially will find it interesting.

In the year 1889 I lived at a place called Escanaba in the upper peninsula of Michigan. I began to live there as a chain and axe hand for a survey party but in a few days, after an accidental shooting affair at a town, just getting itself put on the map, I was introduced to a theodolite and put in charge of it. By means of the gratuitous accuracy of this instrument, with a large painted sign-board and a Molesworth's engineering pocketbook, I was soon converted into "city engineer."

Summers presented, to by recollection, little but unbroken warfare against the tyranny of mosquitoes, but remembrance of those little appreciated winters brings me satisfaction.

Locating Camps. The program was to travel as far as there was a road by sleigh and then "pack" into the woods. All that country had been divided up by government surveyors fifty years ago into townships and the townships into 640-acre sections, and the sections into quarter-sections, and the quarter-sections into 40-acre quarters (known as "forties") and each corner marked by a stake.

Camp was always on the bank of a stream, a 6 by 9 tent on ground inside covered deep in spruce boughs, a soft and pungent bed. At 4:30 a. m., in brilliant star light, with the thermometer well below zero, the mad Englishman used to get up—that's me—taking from the tin basin, an axe and a towel down to the river, kick off pajamas and moccasins, dip a handful of ice and water from a hole in the ice for the purpose, had a slice it over himself from head to foot—a fierce and fiery antidote to "tent frost" and a galvanic appetizer for breakfast of salt pork, beans, biscuits and coffee.

Hardwood Valueless. From breakfast to sundown we were slithering, creeping, crawling, and climbing on snow-shoes through an endless tangle of fallen trees and snow-laden underbrush, counting the trees, each of us, for five rods on each side of us. To each of the party would be assigned two or three varieties—white pine, Norway pine, hemlock, spruce, cedar, tamarack, etc., and a record taken after two sides of a "forty" had been travelled. The land was valued accordingly. Timberland or "hardwood" land was valueless. In the keen air one could walk all day without tiring; intervals were few and purposeless except for the mid-day meal, the same as breakfast, with green tea to drink instead of coffee.

"The Black Ape." I remember a huge and handsome French Canadian who answered to only one name, "The Black Ape." He was a marvelous log rider, no matter what the tumult of water. The most accomplished slack wire dancer or trick cyclist on the stage would have to take off his hat to the skill, agility and fearlessness of these Mackinac and river gods.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters! Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker. There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole. Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Send your name and address plainly in a letter together with 50 cents (and this also to Chamberlain's Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, and receive in return a trial package containing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, "flu" and whooping cough, and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for stomach troubles, indigestion, gassy pains that crowd the heart, biliousness and constipation; Chamberlain's Salve, needed in every family for burns, scalds, wounds, piles, and skin affections; these valued family medicines for only 5 cents. Don't miss it!

slippery she couldn't get up again. Such a gift for the larger had to be seized, so while one sat on her head, another tried to kill her, but beyond a corkscrew knife there wasn't a weapon among us nearer than camp. I am ashamed to say that we made the effort to kill her by hitting her over the head with a hefty stick, but beyond tantalizing her we might just as well have been teasing her with a red pocket handkerchief.

Wolves Like Dogs. The camp cook was an enormously fat and ingenious youth who left all alone all day, would from time to time describe to us on our return, how he had seen large dogs in the distance on the ice, how he had whistled to them and how in return they sat down and howled but would not approach. Just as well, perhaps, for they were the larek variety of timber wolf whose taste is hot blood, go only to make a clean bite and never return to a cold carcas for choice.

This reminds me how one day in the summer were disturbed a black bear mamma with two cubs. I don't know what she said to them, probably that they were too small to run or words to that effect, but what happened was the old lady disappeared and the two cubs ran up a tree and presented to us the oddest sight in the world—their two ridiculous heads peering at us on either side of the tree with their bodies well out of sight; and so we left them.

Killed a "Dragon." On another occasion I had gone to a recently abandoned camp which an old black bear was said to visit and had waited for him until dark without result, and was walking home along a narrow "tote" road, the faint line of which I could see in the gloom disappearing at a point about 30 or 40 yards ahead of me, when all of a sudden a long dragon with a white Elizabethan frill around its neck took the place of the streak in the road, and I felt my hair rise in my hat as I shot twice at the middle of the frill. When the smoke cleared I saw the middle disintegrating in haste on either side of the road. It was a large family of skunks in single file, with the materfamilias in front, (just as a doe always precedes the buck deer shot dead with two bullet giles through her ample bosom. This reminds me of another story, almost tragedy.

the survey party was doing some railway work and just before dawn one morning we had started out along the track of the Soo line, when we caught sight of a black bear feeding in a blue-berry patch close to the track about a half mile away. The track was raised a bit above the swamp, making an approach to the bear easy from the other side. After we had walked what we thought was enough, we took a cautious peep, but the bear was still on ahead of us and what made it more interesting, an unusual patch of white showing on the neck.

so the conventions were strictly observed. In the morning when I left them, their charge was half a dollar, and the loggers' for the horse, two dollars.

He Bought Hardwood. But in all of the woods of that country, the hardwood woods were the most fascinating. White pine and Norway grew and stood prodigious, but the undergrowth obscured your view to just the stumps of a few trees. The growth of hardwood is different—smaller, but clean and hardy, each tree a Sampson Agonistes without a vestige of broken timber or brush of any kind about it, so that you can see for miles around you and it looks like ten times multiplied miles of Cathedral lilies; and silence—such a silence—solemnly without chill, tunable, mellow and immense. So I coveted and bought hardwood timber, bought miles of it, for the sake of the benedictory silence and I felt like Zeus retired to Mount Olympus.

It was up near this hardwood country that a man named McEachron lived. He was holding down a government claim of 160 acres of pine land, and in the meantime exercised an ingenious mind for his own amusement. He had made a salt-lick by the usual method of continually sluicing a dead tree stump with salt and water, which deer in the summer would come to and lick. One day he took a notion to dig a hole close to the lick to hide himself in, and there he crouched until a deer came along, which he seized by the hind legs and had the time of his life subduing and carrying to his log hut. It happened to be a doe; the head of which he very cleverly stuffed and mounted with a pair of horns. He always insisted that she looked "kind of foolish" although all we could see was that the horns were from a "kill" in the blue, i. e., killed in the winter when the horns were smooth and the hair is blue, soft and short, so as not to hold the snow, and she being killed in the snow, wavy hair, a protection against mosquitoes and of course then the horns would be "in the velvet."

STORY OF CHET MILLAR GIVEN IN FARM PAPER

"From Failure to Success" Is Tribute to Schoolcraft Farmer.

C. R. Millar and his farm near Manistique are the subjects of a front page article appearing in last week's issue of the "Wisconsin Agriculturist," entitled "From Failure to Success."

The story, which is by L. D. Tucker, occupies the entire first page of the farm paper, and is illustrated with pictures of Mr. Millar's Schoolcraft county farm homestead, also scenes in his grain, corn and potato fields.

Following is given the text of the article, which is a splendid tribute to this well-known Schoolcraft county dairyman and farmer.

"In ill health, and with little or no financial resource, C. R. Millar, nineteen years ago, purchased a 100 acre tract of sandy loam, cut over land, four miles east of Manistique, in Schoolcraft County, upper Michigan, and moved onto the land. His friends looked on, admired his spirit, but shook their heads sadly. 'It can't be done,' they said, and went about their business, confident that Millar would never make the grade.

Today Mr. Millar is the owner of a pure bred, registered, federal-accredited herd of Holsteins, seventeen in number; he has one of the most completely equipped dairy farms in that section of the peninsula; he is 'on his feet' financially and he says he wouldn't take one hundred dollars an acre for the poorest corner of his lot.

"How come? Girl: A loyal family; study and diversified farming are the reasons underlying Mr. Millar's success, and he emphasizes the 'family'.

"Standing in the center of that 100-acre tract of cut over land, nineteen years ago, Mr. Millar said 'It can be done.' And, today, standing in the front yard of his comfortable farm home, surrounded by a happy family, and with his barn, chicken houses, tractor sheds, and other modern equipment spread out in prosperous array about him, he smiles and simply says: 'There you are.'

"Mr. Millar's achievement is a striking example of what diversified farming will do to swell the family purse. Starting, from the outset, with a small herd of Holsteins, converting the roughage of the farm into dairy products, via the cow, and adding nitrate to the soil through the successive planting of clover and alfalfa, Mr. Millar today owns one of the outstanding herds of Holsteins to be found throughout that region.

"The following report, showing the income derived from the herd alone during the past year, is ample proof of the economic value of the dairy herd: Sale of milk by the 100 pounds to the local creamery $3,690.00 Estimate milk program and butter used on farm 200.00 Sale of pure bred stock 900.00 $4,790.00

"If this amount were credited to the original herd of seventeen producing cows, the gross annual income, per cow would average $293.52. The herd includes, however, a number of young stock whose up-keep, together with that of the original herd, must be taken into consideration.

the easiest way, Mr. Millar declares, and more than that, it contributes considerably to peace of mind—which, after all, is a healthy factor in any field of endeavor.

"Do most of us ever stop to realize what it will mean to the agriculturist of the Upper Peninsula three years from now when our land clearing program and goal have been reached? Instead of the 12,000 farms in the Upper Peninsula being only 50 per cent efficient, they will be 100 per cent efficient, and all those who are connected with them will be in just twice as good shape financially. It will affect not only the farmer in this way but each and every one of us who lives and works in this region. There's no 'bunk' about land clearing. The future will prove that, beyond a doubt, Mr. Millar has proved this to the entire satisfaction of himself and all who know him.

JACKIE COOGAN FILM PLEASURES BIG CROWDS

Undoubtedly the greatest picture in which Jackie Coogan has been permitted to use his remarkable genius is Metro's "Long Live the King," now the feature at the Community theatre. Last night its premier in this city was attended by a great and appreciative audience which through the evening continued to give ample evidence of the tremendous popularity which Jackie now has at his command. In fairness to him it is such beautiful and impressive productions as "Long Live the King" that enhance his popularity and make him more beloved.

The story of "Long Live the King" is a familiar one to readers of American books. It is a screen version of the famous novel of the same name written several years ago by Mary Roberts Rinehart and which attained a tremendous sale. It hinges around the romantic adventures of the little Crown Prince of Lavonia—a country threatened at every turn by revolution and anarchy. It is a highly exciting romance and the producers have not only done none of the fascination of the novel, but have added to its delight by giving it a wonderfully beautiful presentation.

SOO LINE ENGINEER IS INJURED

Jumping from the cab of his engine after he had applied the air brakes when a freight train on to a siding at Larch, seemingly inevitable, John Murdock, veteran Soo Line engineer, was badly hurt Saturday night, when he landed on a pile of ties in the fall.

Oscar Olson, fireman on Number 7 with Mr. Murdock, who also jumped, was injured. The accident occurred Saturday night shortly after Number 7 had pulled out on its trip west. The passenger had reached Larch, where it passed the freight on a siding. The train was almost to the track intersection when Engineer Murdock saw the two rear cars of the freight still on the main track.

He applied the air brakes and then jumped for safety. Unfortunately, however, he struck a pile of ties in falling, suffering injuries the extent of which is not yet known. The train was brought to a stop without a collision.

Mr. Murdock was hurried to his home here, after first aid treatment had been given. Medical examination showed he was suffering from injuries to the back, cuts and severe bruises. No bones had been broken.

His condition yesterday, at his home, was said to be still unchanged. Dr. George Bjorkman, the attending physician, refused to give any statement as to Mr. Murdock's condition, pending developments of the next few days.

Miss Lillian Harkens of Escanaba spent the week end in this city at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Raiche, Minnesota avenue.

"Tre Ore" Will Be Held Good Friday At Saint Anne's

The solemn "Tre Ore" exercises will be held in St. Anne's church on Good Friday. It has been announced by the pastor, Father Jacques.

The "Tre Ore" or Three Hours, from noon to 3:00 o'clock have been observed in all parts of the world since the beginning of the Christian Era. Father Jacques explains. To commemorate the agony and death of Our Savior on the Cross—to pass these hours in prayer and meditation—to bring man to a realization of his debt to the Redeemer of mankind and to contrition and sorrow for sin, are a few objects of the "Tre Ore."

The seven last words of Christ on the Cross form the theme of the "Tre Ore." There is a short sermon on each word with hymns and prayers appropriate to each. It is expected that several members of the clergy will be present and will take part in the exercises. St. Anne's choir is preparing special hymns for the occasion.

A complete program of the "Tre Ore" will be given to the public in a few days, but Father Jacques wishes to say at this time, that all, regardless of denomination, will be welcome to these exercises.

Coughing only aggravates a cough

Control coughing—the first step in curing a cough.

COUGHS are frequently due merely to irritation caused by a congested condition of throat and lung tissue. Persistent hacking will then only increase the congestion and continue the cough indefinitely. Such coughs can and should be stopped at once because they are a futile waste of strength. Dr. King's New Discovery checks coughing quickly and without any bad after-effects. It quiets violent throat and lung spasms and gives the congestion a chance to clear away. It has an agreeable taste. All druggists.

MINES LOADING ORE ON CARS

Navigation Opening Expected Before Easter, Say Rail Officials.

On shipping from the Escanaba docks may be started this year before Easter, according to Chicago & Northwestern officials, who announced yesterday that the first iron which will eventually find its way to the local docks, will be loaded on freight cars at mines in the "west end" district of the Peninsula division today.

"The average date for opening navigation has been April 21," it was explained by P. G. Tonne, assistant superintendent of the Peninsula, "but the advanced season may enable us to beat the average by a few days this year. We are hoping to start the season at our docks next week. It may be the latter part of the week, but we are arranging for motive power, men and the other elements necessary to start work sometime before the twentieth of the month."

Officials In East. H. J. Robertson, superintendent of the Northwestern docks, and George Stok, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul docks, are in Cleveland to attend the annual conference of ore shipping men which will open April 10. The conference is not expected to be an extended one, and while no one would predict how long it might last, there were indications that both probably would be at home before the first of next week.

The Senator, one of the Reiss boats, which has wintered here, was steaming up yesterday. The four others were fitted out. There were rumors that the company was planning to send in ice-breaking tugs as soon as such action seemed practical, but there was no confirmation of this report.

Ice Remains Solid. The ice yesterday remained at 15 to 16 inches in the harbor and it had not disintegrated greatly. It was still being used by cross-bay farmers for a roadway. Weather Observer H. F. Spindler pointed out, however, that the honey-combing process during the week would probably be very rapid and that a quick change might be expected in conditions, due to higher temperatures and the rains which have come and which are expected to follow.

All reports from eastern iron receiving ports, as well as from the mines, give weight to the predictions current throughout the winter that the season would be early and busy.

"PROSPECTOR" TELLS OF FIND

L. N. Schemmel Speaker at Kiwanis Club Meeting.

Escanaba's iron field, extending from this city and Wells far to the Westward, connects directly with the producing mines of the Menominee range, Louis N. Schemmel, of the Escanaba Iron Range Exploration company, told members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon.

Illustrating his interesting talk with a set of charts and maps, Mr. Schemmel traced the iron formation of the range, as it had been located by a magnetic survey, from Lake Michigan thru to Waucaedah, Vulcan, Loretta and Iron Mountain. This survey, he said, had been made by state geologists, before the company started drilling in the Pine Ridge section.

Sunk Three Holes. Three holes were sunk. Samples were taken from two of them, which reveals extensive deposits of ore which averaged about 40 per cent metallic iron and something less than .045 per cent phosphorus. The formation in the third hole was so soft that it was impossible to procure samples. The drilling there, however, showed a deposit of soft hematite, apparently a "concentration" of a thickness of about 400 feet, the top of which was about 500 feet down. This was characterized as the most important "find" of the series of prospect holes sunk, and has great promise, Mr. Schemmel declared.

He also read figures to show that much ore, not as rich, and lying deeper underground, is being mined in cities which are considerable distance from a lake port. The Escanaba field, he pointed out, is less than four miles from the docks.

Two railroads, the Northwestern and the Soo Line run directly through the heart of the "Escanaba Range."

Roy Olson, who recently returned to this city from Davenport, Ia., where his pleasing voice was heard frequently from the radio broadcasting station of the Palmer school of Chiropractic, sang several solos which were enthusiastically received by the Kiwanians. Mr. Olson played his own accompaniments.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat fever and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c
