

Roor Farmhand Defies Wealth In Struggle To Retain His Boy

Tiptonville, Tenn.—The whole world, it seems, has turned against Bert Noles.

Everybody is trying to take his boy away from him.

Millions of dollars, churches, even the courts — are aligned against the poor, uneducated farmhand in his fight to keep his eight-year-old son, Jimmy.

Jimmy Noles, whose home is a 10-foot shack; whose bed is a pile of rags!

Jimmy Noles, who used to be club-footed and hobbled along on the outside of his ankles, but who now—thanks to the Sunday school folks and kindly doctors—romps around like other kids!

Jimmy Noles, whom the nurses in Chicago fought to wait upon, and who for weeks kept a big city laughing and crying at the things he said and did!

Jimmy Noles, bright as a shiny new dollar, though he never has seen a day in school!

Jimmy Noles, whose smile poverty and pain haven't been able to erase!

A score of wealthy families are asking for the chance to lay their love and riches at his feet!

It was one Sunday morning more than a year ago. The Young People's Association of the Methodist church here discovered it would be idle for awhile unless something, or someone, turned up on which it could center its philanthropic activities.

One of its 50-odd members told of running across a little club-footed boy whose parents were destitute.

The class investigated. Hugh E. Whitford, vice president, thus describes Jimmy, as he found him: "He was a ragged, dirty, young feller, surrounded by poverty of the meanest sort, yet cheerful in spite of his handicap."

"He was waiting on his sick stepmother when we arrived at the shack. She told us he would pick 75 pounds of cotton any day."

Much persuasion finally gained Bert Noles' permission for the class to send Jimmy to Chicago to have his deformed feet straightened.

The Bible students raised the money for his fare and $50 more, which, cut his shaggy hair and decked him out from head to foot.

Dr. R. W. Griffin of Tiptonville got into communication with Dr. Ryerson, a surgeon at St. Luke's hospital, Chicago. The latter offered to treat Jimmy free.

And the boy was tagged and actually addressed to the hospital and sent on his way alone, in care of a Pullman conductor. That was in May, 1923.

The hospital staff fell head over heels in love with Jimmie. The newspapers "played" him and his smile.

Men and women of wealth came to see him. Several families, right from the start, wanted to adopt him.

For weeks and weeks Jimmy sat with his legs in a plaster cast. One day a nurse was adjusting the cast—a painful operation Jimmy was bearing without a whimper. He noticed the nurse was crying.

"Why are you crying," asked Jimmy, "when it is my feet that are hurting?"

Last January his feet were pronounced cured. For the first time in his life, Jimmy walked like other boys.

There was a "going out" party for him when he left. Nurses, doctors, his wealthy callers loaded him down with toys. A limousine drove him to the depot.

Jimmy and his father have dropped out of sight. But inquiries revealed they were back in their shack near Hickman, Fulton county, just across the line.

Judge Charles D. Nugent and a community nurse went to see them. The stepmother was in the last stages of tuberculosis. Jimmy was sleeping on his pallet of rags in another corner of the room.

The family was sent to the poorhouse. A few days later Judge Nugent went out there with the intention of sending Jimmy to an orphan's home, from which he could be adopted.

"But I just couldn't do it," the judge said later. "He seemed to love his stepmother so. He waited on her as tenderly as anybody could."

After the stepmother had died, the Bible class wanted to take Jimmy away from the poorhouse. Noles wouldn't let him leave. He was afraid they would kidnap him.

The men finally took Jimmy into Hickman. Bert Noles went, too. He and Jimmy, all dressed up again, spent a week at Tiptonville, the guests of his class.

Then Bert, conscious that trouble was brewing, took his boy to Calvin Kelliston's isolated farm, six miles out of Hickman. There he is helping Kelliston "lay by" his crop.

There the interviewer found him watering the stock.

"Nobody's going to take my boy away," he declared. "I ain't going to let nobody have him. He's mine. And he's going to stay mine as long as I live. He's the only one I got now."

And meanwhile, as the fight still wages, Jimmy is having a good time with the old blind pony, and "Bob" the hound, the kittens and the little tame ducks, while wealthy families await opportunity to adopt and educate the boy.

GIVE CARNIVAL DANCE DURING TOURNAMENT

A carnival dance at which the four railroad brotherhoods, firemen, engineers, conductors and trainmen, will entertain, will be given in Gladstone the second day of the upper peninsula firemen's tournament Thursday evening, July 21, according to plans announced yesterday.

Tickets for the dance have been placed on sale and a big demand has led to their being disposed of rapidly.

The carnival dancing party will be held at the Community building auditorium with the Arcadians furnishing the music. Every carnival feature will be present, hats, horns and other noise makers and confetti will be distributed at the door.

A final meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Sunday morning for the committee members arranging for the dance to complete details. This will be the final meeting before the big party and all members are requested to be present.

The proceeds of the party will be given to the city firemen to help defray expenses of the tournament and the brotherhoods are working hard to make it a success and a real means of helping the firemen.

FLAG POLE ARTIST DRAWS SPECTATORS

F. C. Dunham of Escanaba, attracted considerable attention Friday morning when he scaled the city hall flag pole, in somewhat the manner of a human fly, and began giving the pole a coat of silver paint.

The pole is around one hundred and twenty feet in height and the spectacle of a man perched near its top drew the attention of passers-by. Mr. Dunham completed the job in a few hours.

The pole, which supports the national colors as well as the weather forecast flags, has been painted silver from top to bottom and presents an attractive appearance.

Mrs. Donald Ramsey, who left Thursday night for her home at Loveland, Col., after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McDonough, of Escanaba, was the guest of honor at a picnic given at Terrace Gardens Thursday afternoon by a group of friends of the former Gladstone family. An enjoyable program of picnic amusements was carried out and a delicious picnic supper served. Mrs. Ramsey, before her marriage, was Miss Florence McDonough.

DISMISS CASE AT HEARING, NO EVIDENCE

The case of Mrs. Emma Brown of Escanaba township versus Peter Brown, her husband, whom she named in a warrant charging drunkenness, was dismissed Friday morning by Justice Phil Hugu, when it came before the court for hearing, because of lack of sufficient evidence.

Mrs. Brown claimed that during the two weeks since her marriage to Peter, he had been intoxicated continually and had given her a beating on the average of once a day. The court after the hearing set for yesterday morning decided that there was not sufficient evidence for prosecution.

The case was dismissed upon order for payment of costs and Peter displayed a spirit of true charity by settling for the amount himself.

REV. HERRGARD, HONOR GUEST AT BIG PARTY

The Rev. Hugo Herrgard, pastor of the Swedish Baptist church here, who went to Escanaba Thursday evening to conduct services, found himself, upon his arrival there, the guest of honor at a surprise party which had been planned for him.

A most enjoyable social evening was spent with a program featured by a talk by the Rev. P. Ockerstrom of Manistique and vocal solos by the pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Herrgard was presented with a set of books as a token of the esteem in which he is held.

Charges Scott Brot Out Wood

That the entry of James C. Wood, of Manistique, into the race for the Republican nomination for congressman from the Eleventh district, was inspired by Congressman Frank D. Scott, is charged by the Cheboygan Democrat in its current issue. According to the Cheboygan newspaper, Dr. Lemire of Escanaba, is considered an important contender for the nomination while the candidacy of Mr. Wood is not treated seriously by that newspaper. The Cheboygan paper says:

"Since our last issue of the Democrat, another candidate has jumped into the political limelight and asks the suffrage of the Eleventh district electors at the coming fall primaries. The last man to throw his hat into the ring is Hon. James C. Wood of Manistique, who through his home town paper, the Manistique Pioneer Tribune, last week comes out in a big announcement of his determination to beat Frank Scott and all of the other would-be candidates for congress from the eleventh district to a frazzle. Mr. Wood is quite unknown to the voters of this bailiwick but he has been a state senator for three terms, he is a republican and he says he is a consistent fighter. He says he stands for economy in government, reduction of the tax burden, relief of the agricultural interests, fair treatment of labor, and a lot of other things that most of the aspiring politicians have worn threadbare repeating over the gaping public. It seems Mr. Wood ought to be resourceful enough to devise some new campaign slogans but inasmuch as he has not, we believe he will be able to put all of his ideas into practice once he gets well settled at the national capitol. His entry into the congressional race, against Hon. F. D. Scott, the present incumbent, Hon. Tom McGarrison of Central Lake, Hon. F. B. Aldrich of Long Point and Hon. Mr. Lemire of Escanaba, surely ought to provide the nucleus for a very interesting race this fall. It is possible that his entry has come about through the visit of Mr. Scott to the upper peninsula."

THREE PIECES. The three-piece idea, with a coat or cape for every costume, is to be exploited further this fall than it has been during the summer. When the wraps are not exactly matching, they harmonize.

WAS NERVOUS WRECK FOLLOWING THE FLU

"It is indeed a blessing to possess such health as Tanlac has given me," recently said Mrs. Mary Barnett, R. F. D. No. 3, care of C. Lutz, Niota, Illinois.

"Two years ago, influenza left me almost a nervous wreck and so weak that I would have to go to bed for hours during the day. My stomach was terribly upset and I was never free from severe headaches and nervousness. I was bilious and constipated; my back felt like it would break, and I felt miserable all over.

"But since taking Tanlac, I haven't a single ailment. My appetite, digestion and nerves are perfect; I sleep peacefully and have such strength that I do my housework and work my garden, too."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

HOUSE ROBBERS TRY TO ENTER ANOTHER HOME

House prowlers, who have been striking at regular and frequent intervals during the last few months, made an unsuccessful attempt to enter the B. J. MacKillean home, 1417 1st Ave. north, Thursday night. Gaining entrance through a cellar window, the intruders climbed a flight of stairs and attempted to break a door leading to the bedrooms.

Woodman Arrested For Waving Knife

Frank Pieniski, a woodman, was fined $25 and costs by Judge James Murphy yesterday afternoon when he pleaded guilty to a charge of recklessness and flourishing a knife. Pieniski was arrested by Police Officer Fred Papineau in the vicinity of the Chicago & North Western passenger station late Thursday night. He had a knife in his hand, and had told friends that he intended to use it in resisting arrest. He was very docile, however, when Papineau arrived on the scene.

When A Town Starts

W. G. Sibley, writing in the Chicago Journal of Commerce, under the heading "When A Town Starts," has some things to say which are of particular interest in Escanaba, on the eve of the Chamber of Commerce campaign for renewal of memberships.

MEANING OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The final question to be answered today is: "Will the results of the expansion movement be permanent?" The answer is: "Yes. According to the experience of hundreds of reorganized chambers in the country the results have been permanent and Escanaba should be no exception."

"A chamber of commerce is an organization whose life depends upon activity and cooperation of the membership. A board of directors does not constitute such a body, for a board without the support of the membership is impotent. Consequently the plan of organization and operation must deal all the time with the membership."

"The members who will come in large numbers to the chamber next week will be eager and insistent that the chamber do something. Therefore, the members will be asked at once 'What is the chamber to do?' The answers will form the program of work, as has been explained. The next question will be 'Who shall carry this program through?'

... whose members seek by united action to increase the business of the communities in which they are located. All of them which have natural resources or raw materials in abundance, or especially good transportation facilities, seek new enterprises which may utilize to advantage their ores, or their timber, or their coal, or their transportation. They are on the lookout for factories and mills, for manufacturers of cotton or wool or leather or whatever may be used to advantage in their several localities. They start campaigns to advertise their resources and interest strangers in the opportunities they have to offer.

Shun Gift. "These efforts are all to be commended. Location at or near raw materials, or where transportation is cheap, is a powerful and legitimate inducement—far more valuable to the community concerned than any gifts of money or land they are able to give. Raw materials or cheap fuel attract manufacturers, of the best and most enduring sort. Gifts of money or land attract adventurers, who should be shunned. They flock to places which offer them, grab the gifts if they can, and then seek to have local investors finance their doubtful enterprises. Losses usually follow for all but the adventurers, who get out from under as soon as they can dispose of their holdings, and with the gifts they have received seek pastures new."

"A town's best assets in industrial plants are those which come solely because natural resources make it worth while for them to move their factories or establish branches in them. Abundant fuel supply and cheap water transportation, for instance, are worth more to any established industrial concern than any gift a town may tender. Where such gifts are stressed or demanded it is, as a rule, the gift that is sought rather than the sound resources, as many a looted community over the country knows by sad experience."

Local Opportunity. "Another influence almost invariably develops when a town attempts to start an industrial career. Under the stimulus of local club enthusiasm, local men see opportunity for themselves and organize companies to which the people are urged to contribute by the purchase of stock. Seldom do these enterprises have experienced or competent men in control. Usually the management is mediocre, and after struggling a few years the insufficiently nourished industry collapses to the loss of all concerned. A very wise financier once said that the difference between mediocre and expert management of an industry is the difference between failure and success. It is true that 'any business that is run right will make money,' but the history of business is said to be that from 70 to 90 percent of the businesses of the country ultimately fail. However that may be, the town seeking industrial expansion may well beware of men who want to come to it if paid in cash or in stock sales for doing so. Better two new plants, founded on economic natural advantages than a dozen that come to receive gifts."

Police Plan Drive On Traffic Outlaws

Plans for a city-wide drive against speeders and violators of through-street regulations were being framed at police headquarters yesterday.

The department will recommend heavy fines for all persons arrested during the campaign. No date has been set for starting the general onslaught against traffic "outlaws" but it was clear that it would begin soon and that a thorough job would be made of it.
