

U. S. HAS MOST ELECTRIC POWER

Leads All Nations in Hydro-Electric Power.

BY MILTON BRONNER
London.—The United States is destined to become the greatest power in the world.

This fact was brought out at the World Conference on Power, held at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley.

Engineers—British and American—testified to this destiny. It is true, they said, because America has more available hydro-electric power than any other nation in the world.

Hydro-electric power, engineers concede, is the future power. The United States already has developed more than any other nation in the world. And it can develop greater quantities than any other nation in the world.

An Appreciable Surplus.
Other nations are reaching the maximum production of coal, oil and hydro-electric power. The United States is the only nation with an appreciable surplus. United States has enough to sell to almost every nation needing it.

Thus, in a short time, the rest of the world will become economic tributaries to the United States.

Furthermore, this great power resting in the United States will enable America to outstrip other nations in peace time manufacturing. This great amount of power will be an insurmountable handicap to other nations in time of war.

Mr. Gen. Sir Philip Nash, outstanding British authority, showed that the coal, oil and water supply available in 1920, in terms of millions of kilowatt hours, was divided as follows:

|---------------|---------|
| United States | 584,000 |
| Great Britain | 165,000 |
| Germany | 142,000 |
| France | 29,550 |
| Italy | 10,582 |
| Switzerland | 7,517 |

Of this potential energy, the United States consumed only 8.4 per cent; Great Britain, 2.88 per cent; Germany, 6 per cent; France, 15.5 per cent; Italy, 32.1 per cent, and Switzerland, 36.2 per cent.

Britain Next.
Great Britain is the only other industrial nation capable of greatly increasing its electrical output. But even at that, the United States had almost four times as much power available.

In 1921 the United States produced 41,000 kilowatt hours against 4,900 for Great Britain, 4,300 for Italy and 3,130 for Switzerland.

Besides this great advantage, America has developed super-power. This is a term applied to the system whereby almost all of the power producers are linked together. When one system requires more power, it draws upon another. When another has a surplus, it sells to a third.

This means that power can be mobilized. It means that waste is eliminated. It means that the surplus can be disposed of.

It also means that coal and oil can be conserved to a greater extent than possible in other countries.

It is the lever by which United States can exercise international economic supremacy.

Original Of 'The Auctioneer' Still Selling Relics To Henry Ford And Other Notables

By HAROLD MATSON
Boston, July 9.—He came to this country with ambition, knowledge of six languages, and two glass bottle knickknacks.

The knickknacks brought him fame and riches.

David Abram Jacobs, immortalized by Brad Warfield in his famous play, "The Auctioneer," has continued his unobtrusive way despite the fame and despite the riches.

Surely, to look at him and to look at his dusty little shop in Cambridge street where one would think he had neither.

But he still sells gate-leg tables, samovars, brass candle-sticks, miniature ships blown in glass bottles, Windsor chairs, gongawo-palors to those who want—and those include notables from all parts of the country.

Henry Ford just stepped in to buy a round-top table. He paid $11 for it. Jacobs gave him a receipt. Ford went out. If a crowd hadn't gathered outside Jacobs would not have known.

It was the same way when David Warfield came in some time ago. He came again and again. And then one day Jacobs received fare to New York and tickets for "The Auctioneer." Jacobs went and saw himself characterized on the stage selling brass candle-sticks, and he went seven times more.

But he returned to his shop "just making a living."

"I don't care for money," he tells you, but one could hardly say that Jacobs passed up any opportunities to make money. In fact he has proved that his "junk shop" is pretty much of a mint.

With his two bottle antiques, brought over from Poland, he started his career as an antique dealer in 1897. The two antiques he sold for $5 each.

"Ach, this is a good country," he thought, "to make money so easily." Then he bought 400 cigars for $1 and sold them for 4.

"Ach, this is a good country beyond a doubt."

So Jacobs bought and sold and bought and sold and bought and sold until he became famous for his bargaining. David Warfield discovered him. Antique collectors called at his door. Prominent merchants, doctors, lawyers, manufacturers came to him for bits of period furniture—brass ornaments and various other relics of another age which Jacobs salvaged from attics and cellars.

Yet the shop has remained the same—they call it a "junk shop."

Vast Difference Between Herds of Dairy Cattle

(By The Associated Press.)
East Lansing, Mich.—The vast difference that may exist between herds of dairy cows was disclosed in the report of the Huron-Ubly association for the year, just received here by A. C. Baltzer, of the M. A. C. dairy department.

For the first year of the life of the association the herd of Donald Gordon was high with 490.3 pounds of fat and 11,313 pounds of milk. The average of the 229 cows owned by the 26 members of the association was 267 pounds of fat and 7,788 pounds of milk.

The average of the four poorest herds in the association was 196.6 pounds of butter fat and 5,629 pounds of milk. The four poorest cows averaged only 144.9 pounds of butter fat and 3,948 pounds of milk.

along Cambridge street. In the meantime Jacobs' two sons have completed college courses, he has bought valuable property in Boston, he owns a mansion, he owns a big car—

And he wears his same old black derby and sits in a dark corner of his shop, waiting for the Ford and the Warfields and the Morris Gest to come for his wares.

"The antique business is good," he admits, "but you have to watch what's going on. A year ago I couldn't sell a sailing ship in a bottle for any price. Today I can't supply the demand."

And Jacobs' bank account goes into six figures.

ARSENAL UNEARTHED.

Cordova, Alaska.—Twenty-two rusting and rotting muzzle-loading muskets and several copper sabres were unearthed in a sandstone cave on a small island 10 miles from the mainland by Emerson Wray, a blue fox farmer.

The weapons are believed to have been hidden by a landing party of Russians who acted as hijacker against sealers in the early days of Alaska's Asiatic history.

MARINE CORPS IS FINEST BODY OF FIGHTING MEN IN THE WORLD

Such Is Opinion of Ablest Critics Throughout World.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.
Washington.—If the state of the United States navy, as a whole, leaves a good deal to be desired, the marine corps is a detail of it which is pretty much all anybody could ask.

Navy men do say the marine corps has degenerated a little since the war, but even at that, the ablest critics throughout the world pronounce it the finest body of fighting men of its size any nation can boast.

The United States Marine Corps traces its descent from the British Royal Marines.

The Royal Marines came into existence officially through the process of natural evolution in 1664; the United States Marine Corps, a similar organization, in early Revolutionary days.

The Royal Marines today number 454 officers and 9,358 men; the Americans 1,145 officers and 19,352 men.

Most Ashore.
But of the American marines, normally less than 10 per cent are ashore; of the British, more than half.

The explanation is that England has naval bases scattered thickly over the whole world, each with its permanent force of defenders, so the marines stick to their ships. America's permanent overseas force are few and small; where and when she needs such a force she lands marines. Thus, many are on shore duty much of the time.

No navy, save the American and England's, has marines. In the event of hostilities abroad, the marines are the advance guard.

"The fleet," says Brig. Gen. Rufus H. Lane, adjutant and inspector of the corps, "will, on August Erickson and daughter, Myrtle, of Iron Mountain, were Escanaba visitors the first part of the week.

Miss Anna Ruess of Menominee and her guest, Miss Alice Jensen of Racine, Wis., motored to this city recently for a brief visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Keneally and daughter, Geraldine left for a two week's visit at Newberry.

the outbreak of war, strike for its objective, and the marine expeditionary force, should be far on the sea with the fleet while the army is still assembling."

Establish Bases.
Should war break out in the Atlantic, American marines doubtless would seek instantly to establish bases in the West Indies. Extensive maneuvers already have been carried out by the corps with Culebra Island, off the east coast of Porto Rico, as their base.

It trouble should start in the western Pacific, marines from Hawaii would be first; on the scene. More would follow from California as fast as transports could take them. If, for instance, Guam already had been seized by an enemy, marines would try desperately to recapture it. They would defend it if they arrived in time.

Each capital ship carries about 75 marines. Cruisers carry them if they happen to be flag vessels or if there is any reason to believe landing forces will be needed, as when a fast cruiser is rushed to some foreign port where American lives or property are threatened.

Larger forces are moved by transport.

Do Sailor Duty.
At sea, marines stand regular watches, guard magazines and stores, police decks and, in battle, help to man the secondary batteries.

Ashore, at home, they guard navy yards and bases; abroad, they protect American consulates, legations and American residents generally, restore order in disturbed countries, and, in war time, seize and defend temporary or advanced naval bases.

"The presence of an expeditionary force with a fleet," says a leading naval authority, "adds greatly to the striking power of the commander-in-chief. Admiral Dewey stated more than once that, had he had 5,000 marines May 1, 1898, he could immediately have accepted Manila's surrender and occupied it, avoiding the serious international complications which arose during the anxious three months before the arrival of a military force."

The marines are enlisted on a naval basis, but draw soldiers' pay.

They are divided about equally between the eastern and western coasts and fleets, with home headquarters at Quantico, Va., and San Diego, Calif.

MASQUERADES AS A MAN FOR SEVEN YEARS

Marshalltown, Ia.—Ruth Bundy successfully masqueraded as a man for seven years.

She did a man's work with railroad section gangs and as a farm hand.

As "Walter" Bundy, she married Elizabeth West at Newton, Ia., three years ago.

And none save "his" mother and own family—not even "his wife"—knew until the other day that "Walter" Bundy was a woman.

The section men with whom "he" worked say "he" always did his share without complaint. And "his" voice, though rather high-pitched, really had a masculine ring to it.

Even a physician who attended "him" during a long illness never suspected "his" sex.

The truth came out only after a quarrel with "his brother-in-law." The "brother-in-law" swore out a warrant for "Walter's" arrest, charging "he" had threatened to kill him.

In jail, Ruth admitted she always had disliked feminine attire. As a little girl at East Alton, Ill., she romped around in overalls most of the time.

When she was 17 she married Frank Arnold at Steelville, Mo. He obtained a divorce in Iowa. Since then she has had no knowledge of his whereabouts, she says.

After hearing her story, Municipal Judge B. O. Tankersley dismissed the charges against her when she promised to go back to "southern Illinois, near St. Louis," with relatives.

But Ruth still wore her male garb. And she declared she intended to keep it on.

"I never did like women's clothes," she said.

Shark flesh has always been considered a delicacy among the people of Japan and the Far East.

WHAT YOU NEVER CAN DO. It's amazing, the vast number of things that have been learned by the world's people through the centuries.

For instance, the carpenter has knowledge that is entirely unknown to the chemist. Every different line of work requires a great amount of knowledge that is unknown to outsiders.

It takes a man an entire lifetime to begin to learn about farming, chemistry, medicine, salesmanship or any of all the other long line of human activities.

We have barely scratched the surface of knowledge. And yet a man could live thousands of times, in each one following a different line of work, and at the end he'd only have acquired a fraction of the knowledge that has been found out by the human race at large.

Addressing companies sell mailing lists covering over 5000 different forms of business activity.

You know what is meant by "the lost arts." Much knowledge perishes as oncoming generations turn their attention to different pursuits.

It's like the practice of medicine. When a veteran physician dies, a large part of what he has learned by experience dies with him.

The old idea of education was to pour facts into the brain, the same as filling a jug with a funnel. But we have progressed and specialized so much that education is, by compulsion, being put on a different basis.

To succeed, a man must specialize on some one thing. In that field he needs all the facts he can soak up.

But when it comes to general knowledge, it is futile to attempt to learn everything. It simply cannot be done. The important thing is to be taught how to find knowledge when occasion arises for using it.

Some studies are primarily to train the thinking processes of the brain, rather than the actual knowledge acquired. Mathematics especially.

THE PRICE YOU PAY.

No matter what we get in life, we pay for it. Nature never gives something for nothing. Whenever we acquire anything, we lose an equivalent something.

Take the family that was poor until the war came and made them rich. Their wealth has brought wonderful things into their lives. But they have lost things that cannot be measured in dollars including association with intimate friends of the old days, and the joys of simple pleasures.

Maybe they are happier than they were back in the days when a dollar looked as big as a wagon wheel. If so, they are being rewarded for enduring past misery.

The law of compensation—cause and effect always balances the scales in the long run. The weights that balance the scales are not always visible to outsiders.

Possibly shame, even conscience, is lacking in some hearts during life. But no one knows what thoughts and feelings are at the instant of death. Nor the price that is collected beyond the grave from people who dodge payment in this life.

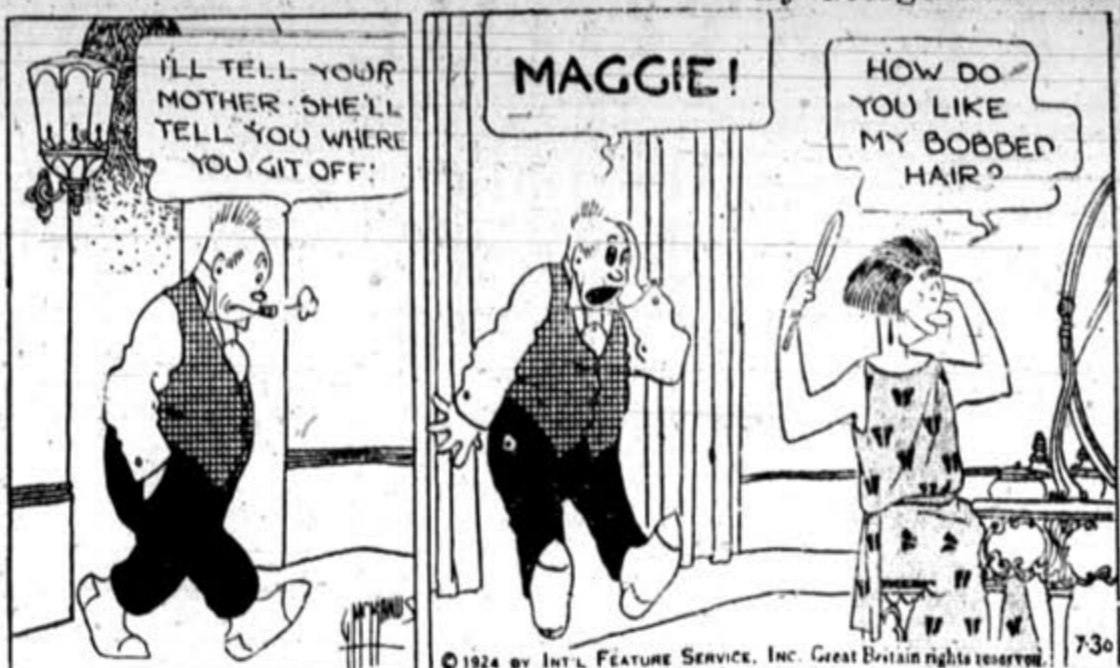

Most of the discomforts and reputed loneliness of bachelor life vanish when we marry. But we soon find that we have acquired new burdens and worries.

SPENDING MONEY IN HOME TOWN

Home Communities Can Only Grow and Prosper By Buying At Home.

As stated in The Press last week we intend to continue the discussion of the necessity of loyalty to the home town and community in the matter of doing business.

There is absolutely no valid argument for sending your money away from your home community. It is only by the merest accidental chance that one can hope to secure even a slight temporary advantage, and this is more than offset by the fact that the money has left the community never to return to the channels of trade in your locality.

If everybody, for instance, in Escanaba would make it a practice to send away for their merchandise, etc., business enterprises of Escanaba would vanish for they could not live without patronage. It is only due to the fact that all do not send away their money that the community is able to survive and those who do business in their home town are the ones who should have credit for the schools, churches, and public conveniences that are only possible through the public enterprise and business of your home town.

Of course, there are sometimes inequalities that arise to discourage home trade. There may happen to be a short-sighted business man in the community who does not fully appreciate his opportunity for service to the people of his community.

The value of the business done in the town is definitely reflected in real estate values throughout the entire county and neighboring territory, and thus brings the question of the importance of home trade directly to the door of the farmers as well as everybody else, for it determines the value of his farm, there is also the social side, churches, schools, etc., as well as many other things of public nature to be enjoyed by the general public.

These benefits are the direct results of cooperation. On another page appears advertisements at the business men of Escanaba who have selected the Press to carry their message of service in this home trade campaign to our people.

AMUSEMENTS

W. R. C. BENEFIT AT THE DELFT.

Mary Pickford in "Rosita," will be the attraction at the Delft theatre today. The program also will include vocal selections by Mrs. John Kress, Mrs. George Casey and the Degnon Male Quartet.

An appreciative feature of "Rosita," in which Miss Pickford plays the first "grown up" part of her career, is the feyness of titles.

An average of less than ten per cent is the maximum number of titles throughout this special feature photoplay. Only titles of necessity are embodied in the story. The swiftly moving action combined with the dramatic portrayal of the competent cast of principles, under the capable direction of Ernst Lubitch, tells this romantic tale of old Spain so clearly and thoroughly, hence the scarcity of annoying and unnecessary sub-titles.

The story is replete with thrilling incidents, scenes of dramatic intensity, interwoven through the picturesque surroundings of Spanish life of the eighteenth century; spectacular scenes of carnival co-mingle with palatial splendor, while intrigue and romance predominate.

The entire story is unfolded in a straightforward manner and the feyness of explanatory titles adds greatly to the entertainment which Mary Pickford in "Rosita," brings to this city to be presented at the Delft theatre under auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps.

AT THE STRAND.

Tom Mix scores one of the biggest hits of his screen career in his new William Fox offering, "Soft Boiled," which will be the attraction at the Strand again today.

"This is the best picture Tom Mix has ever made," enthuses a New York critic.

"It has everything—fast action, thrills, romance, pretty girls, fun, and attractive settings. As for the star, he shows that he is a real comedian; in addition to being a stunt actor par excellence."

"Soft Boiled" is really Hom's official bow as a comedian. Dressed in a checker suit that isn't too modest to shriek for itself, with tortoise glasses, and a hat balancing perilously atop his head, Tom proves he's 'soft boiled' by getting a job as a shoe clerk.

Auto Business Chased State Capitol Away From Detroit

By WILL M. CRESSY Detroit, The City that Ruined the Shoe Trade.

The first record we find of Detroit was in 1701, when a French automobile manufacturer, by the name of Cadillac, came there and established a Detroit branch of the Cadillac factory.

The town and the shop did real well until 1812, when a party of English tourists, under the command of General Brock, came to town, knocked the town apart and put it together to suit themselves. But a year later an American patriot, Sir Henry Ford, recaptured the town, built a little shop and started making Eagle boats for the U. S. navy and Ford cars for the rest of the population.

By 1824 the town had grown so big that it was made the state capital. But it was not a success. The minute a legislator would get there he would throw up his job and go to work for Henry Ford. So, in 1847 they moved the capital to Lansing, where there would be nothing to disturb the deliberations of the law makers.

Detroit is a real pretty little village, with street cars, a moving picture theater, several paper-mache hotels and 21 public parks. Belle Isle, the largest of these parks, is on an island that it cost three and a half million dollars to get to. Just illustrating what Detroit folks are willing to pay to get out of town for an hour.

On this island is the largest flock of tame canoes on earth. It was started in 1896 with only one pair of canoes. And by letting (Human) Nature take its course it has grown to its present size.

In former years, during hard times, the other 20 parks were devoted to potato raising. But now they are given over entirely to fruit, Peaches, Pears, Prunes and Night-Blooming Dates.

They also abound in Wild Life, such as Squabs, Goslings, Ducks, Deer, Old Bucks, Sad Dogs and Young Pups, Old Hens and Young Chickens, Night Hawks, Chicken Hawks, Sparrow Cops and Nurse Girls.

If all the automobiles made in Detroit in a year were PAID FOR nobody in America but automobile makers and agents would have a nickel.

Detroit makes more stores in a year than all the countries of Europe would use in 50 years. In addition to all the automobiles made in Detroit, Henry Ford also makes money.

For a while there was talk of putting a Ford in the White House; but it was a flivver. Detroit is called "The Working Man's Paradise." No matter what trade, business or profession you follow, you can have your own newspaper or magazine in Detroit. For there are:

The American Elk, the Beekeepers' Review, the Bulletin of Pharmacy, the Concrete Magazine, Electrocraft, the Gleaner, the Horse-shoers' Journal, the Medical Journal, the Dairy Farmer, the Investor, Motorman and Conductor, Motor News, the Retail Druggist, the Stove Mounters' Journal, the Studio, Perin's Stenographer, the Therapeutic Gazette—and, although I do not know where they get their subscribers—the Truth. Vive la Detroit.

INTRODUCE ICE CREAM AND ICED DRINKS IN CHINA

Teehow, Shantung. — Having imitated the foreigner in many other respects, the Chinese are now taking to the summer custom of ice cream and iced-drinks and especially iced tea. A short time ago ice cream was obtainable only in Peking in the Legation Quarter hotels and in foreign communities in the port cities; now the Chinese shops that sell it are legion and the urchin in the street has the ice cream cone habit.

Chinese cities away from the tourist routes.

Widespread Imitation. The widespread imitation of the foreigner's custom of indulging in cold drinks, without a corresponding limitation of the sanitary methods employed by the foreigner in their preparation, promises serious consequences. Drinking water in most Chinese cities comes from polluted wells or filthy rivers, and the ancient custom of drinking only boiling water or boiling tea has been the salvation of the Chinese.

In taking to cold drinks they are abandoning this old time protective custom. The iced tea stands are the most dangerous of the innovations. The vendor gets his ice supply from some stagnant pond perhaps in the middle of the village. This ice is put into the tea and not around the container. Thus the patient, unthinkingly takes with his new drink water that in former days he would not have dreamed of drinking without its first having been boiled. Doctors predict that if the custom continues to increase certain epidemics are bound to occur.

Most of us have an ambition not to have any ambition.

Just Two More Days After Today

The Escanaba Daily Press Circulation Campaign Ends at 10 O'clock Next Saturday Night

Help Your Favorite

The following are the candidates in The Daily Press Circulation Campaign together with the votes accepted for publication up to noon Wednesday, July 30th. This is the last count of votes to be made by the campaign department, and will not be changed from this date on, until the judges have met and made their final count of votes to award the prizes.

District No. 1

Includes All of the City of Escanaba.

Table listing candidates for District No. 1 and their vote counts, including Miss Mary Andrews, Thomas Arbagey, Miss Marion Beaumier, etc.

District No. 2

Includes all territory outside of the City of Escanaba in which The Daily Press circulates. This includes sections of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Table listing candidates for District No. 2 and their vote counts, including Charles Duranseau, Miss Elorine M. French, Miss Gertrude Grandchamp, etc.

This is the last count of votes to be made by the Campaign Department.

Observations

By The

Campaign Manager

Just two more days after today.

The Press Circulation Campaign ends Saturday night at 10:00 o'clock.

The locked and sealed box will be placed in The Escanaba National Bank at noon today.

The names of the Judges will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

New subscriptions and extensions from the first period count the greatest in vote value right at this time.

A four year extension from the "first period" will count you 188,000 regular votes; also 30,000 on each year NEW (120,000), and will also count in the $25 Clubs of 100,000 Extra Votes.

Figure this Extension proposition out with pencil and paper. See how easy it will be to get a million more votes.

Remember this—Once NEW, always NEW, and once "first period" always "first period." Be careful in filling out your report sheets and get the reports down right. If not sure about it them come in and ask the campaign manager.

Candidates in District No. 2 have the same opportunity to work up until the closing hour as the candidates in Escanaba. As long as your report is mailed by 10:00 o'clock next Saturday night, it will count just the same as if it was in the sealed ballot box.

The last vote count by the campaign department appears in this issue. This count will not be changed until the judges make the final count and award the prizes.

It's a close race with many of the candidates bunched, and the work done during this, the final vote period, will without any doubt determine the winners of the automobiles.

Get Busy and do your best. Better by far to win with a million votes too many than to lose out by just a few thousand.

Remember—just two more days after today.
