

Portrait.

Portrait of Edgar Allen Poe.

By Sarah Helen Whitman, in "Old and New."

Shy; rapt the purple folds concealing That face, majestic as the morning's beam; White-shirting memory thrilled at its revealing, Like Milton wailing from his marble dream.

April I saw the brow's transcendent gleam, The dark hair floating o'er like a plume; The eyes, in shadow, moon-like languidly gleam, Defied all fancies of impending doom.

Eyes planet calm, with something in their vision That seemed not of earth's mortal mixture born; Strange mystic gleam of the morning's beam; And far, sweet dreams of "fairies leads forlorn."

Unfathomable eyes that held the sorrow, Of vanished ages in their shadowy deep; As by that presence of a heavenly power, Which in high hours the immortal spirit keeps.

Oh, how that pale, poetic presence haunted My lonely moments of the twilight hour; Transforming the dull earth-life I attached, With marvel and with mystery, and with power.

Oh, how I heard the sullen sea-wind moaning, The dirge-like requiem on the lonely shore, Or listened to the Autumn woods in moaning, The wild, sweet wailing of the lost Lenore.

Oh, how some shadow loomed in October, How some strange vision of a maddening tomb, And felt that visionary Lake of Uliamere, Where sleeps the shrouded form of Uliamere.

Oh, in still, star lit nights have heard the chiming Of soft, mellow bells on the keen air, And felt that visionary Lake of Uliamere, Where sleeps the shrouded form of Uliamere.

Sweet, mournful eyes, long closed upon a earth's sorrow, Shone, when your heart's fervid dream, Sleep, wayward heart till on some cool, bright morn'g.

Thy soul, ethereal, shall bathe in morning's beam, Through cloud and sorrow rest upon thy story, And raise the dead, and bid them rise again, Time, as a twilight, shall restore thy glory, And Heaven reward all the stars that fall.

Selected Miscellany.

How I became a brakeman, and what became of it.

To whom can riches give rights and trust, Or to pleasure, but the good and just? Judges and senators have bought for gold: Honors and love are never sold to more.

At the time when my simple story commences, I had just returned from the office of one of the railroads, having applied, and applied successfully, for the responsible, respectable, and, as times go, the tolerably well-paid situation of a brakeman.

The situation, I repeat, is a respectable one, yet not exactly to the liking of one, who, but a few months before, dashed in his own buggy, after a pair of fast-goes, down the Bloomington road, who, as he called many other than his own, was a diamond-stalk, and was throwing the bricks of the Avenue into convulsions or sport, with the patterns of his waistcoat.

Of course, when I applied for the situation, with a letter of introduction from a former clerk of my father, who had to do with him, I took good care to strike my inelegant moustache with that delicately white hand of mine. Of course, I talked in a more correct, to the former clerk of my father, who had to do with him, I took good care to strike my inelegant moustache with that delicately white hand of mine.

My history was a pretty common one in our fast country; a rise from a corner grocery and bad liquor store, to a brown-stone front house, thence to bankruptcy, which carried my father to the poor-house, and thence to a more respectable position, which carried my father to the poor-house, and thence to a more respectable position.

Hardships—those of a brakeman are neither few nor light—give, indeed, my sensations, all finally by dint of attention to my duties, and good conduct, I worked my way from the platform to the inside of the car; and sported the label with the legend "conductor," with far more pride than I formerly did the best heaven of heaven's matches and matches.

"With the greatest pleasure," answered she, eagerly, a slight tinge of the rose coloring for a moment her usually pale countenance.

I thought I never saw her so pretty. In fact, I thought her very beautiful, and believe me, kind reader, I think her so still. We did go. I offered her my arm, and cannot account how it happened, that when that little neatly gloved hand came, by a natural sequence of position, within a few inches of where popular error places the heart, I almost heard its beating, and I am almost certain Kate must have felt it, though she denies it to this very day.

My lady, in the sacred edifice, the organ was already swelling its solemn notes, under the skillful hand of the performer. I had not been within God's house since the change of my fortunes. To be sure, at school I was made to attend divine services on every Sunday, and, during vacations, my mother insisted on my accompanying her.

"For," said she, "it was so respectable; and you must pay particular attention to the Reverend Mr. Botly's pronunciation, it is so aristocratic."

But when the first words of the Epitaphic service were uttered, on that to me memorable Lord's day, when the sonorous voice of the doctor proclaimed to the congregation the touching numbers, "The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him," a gush of inexpressible tenderness and gratitude filled my heart, and now I remembered for the first time to whom I owed my present position, when, but a few days before, our train met with an accident by which several lives were lost, while mine was saved.

Then, I attributed it to chance, now, I know it to be the work of my Maker's merciful providence. I shall not describe my sensations during the service, and the eloquent sermon that followed. I shall not describe them, not because I fear to worry my reader, but because these being of the Spirit, may be better not to be spoken of.

On our return home, we scarcely exchanged a word, and soon after dinner Kate withdrew to her own room; and the following Sunday, and many Sundays after, she remained in bed, and I was left to rest with my arm on my way to my young friend's church—my church now, thank God!

Who cares to read the story of love and courtship of a railroad conductor and a beautiful native village, and I set my heart on giving her a week's wedding tour. I applied to the superintendent for leave of absence, and was graciously granted it.

Old Adam not being yet quite dead within me, for it is astonishing how hard it is to kill the ancient gentleman, I gave a rather saucy retort to a saucy refusal. "You are not so badly off, after all," said she, in conclusion, "you have three hundred dollars in the bank—I have nearly two hundred. Well, if my Reginald will lend me his treasure, I shall take that little store Mrs. Robinson wants to let, open a milliner's store, and you may look in the morning, for something to do."

It was agreed. And I thought then, as I think now, how wretched, how forlorn is the condition of him who hath no living woman for a counselor in the dark hour of his life.

"Why, young man," said he, "I have lost a trifle of between four and five thousand dollars. What then? I handed him the wallet."

He gazed at me steadfastly, rubbed his eyes, and murmured, as if to himself: "Yes, it must be he."

There was a short silence, which to me became embarrassing, and, fearing to stay longer, lest it should be suspected of waiting for a reward, I bowed and left the room.

The stranger followed me. "I have seen you before," said he. "Where did we meet? Do you not remember having ever seen me?"

"Not to my recollection," was my reply. "What is your name?"

"Augustus Reginald."

I dropped entirely my family surname with the full consent of my wife. "Reginald what?" inquired my interlocutor, with visible agitation. "You have another name, for God's sake, do not trifles with my feelings!"

He grasped my hand—tears started to his eyes. He made a gesture as if about to speak. Then, perceiving that a group had gathered around us, he checked himself—only desiring the water to show us to a private parlor, whether he led the way, desiring us to follow.

As soon as we were left alone, my strange new acquaintance, after giving me another long stare, inquired: "What is your name?"

"I am," I replied, "John William B—, of New York."

A Heart in Little Things.

By Henry Ward Beecher.

The strong are to bear with the weak.—But it is not probable that we can bear with another, unless there is some degree of sympathy; if not a common feeling, at least a common understanding. It is a lack of this insight and feeling of another's condition and necessities that makes men in vigorous health impatient of the views of invalids. Robust natures are likely to be unkind to feeble ones, either by neglecting them, or by severely blaming them, or by exposing their peculiarities to ridicule.

In nothing is this more apparent than in the country of the poor, or in the case of the invalid. Robust natures are likely to be unkind to feeble ones, either by neglecting them, or by severely blaming them, or by exposing their peculiarities to ridicule.

But perhaps half of mankind must extract their amusement from little things, if they obtain amusement at all. How many are ashamed by poverty to one place, made to go round and round every day over a barren ground of duty without excitement or pleasure! How many are confined for months to a single room, and even to the bed, without health or strength to relieve themselves by occupation!

How many are unable to read, for want of vision, or from want of books! How many are living in idleness, as it were, waiting for some outlet, and waiting for weeks and months! How many children are idle, and their parents are idle, and their hands have fallen the business of life, and who have that greatest of afflictions, nothing to do! But, even in the life of busy people, how many vacant hours there are in summer, in vacation, or during intervals of business.

For a man in vigorous pursuit of business to drop his affairs that he may watch a fly or observe the motions of a worm, or count the cracks in a ceiling, or wave fan-like figures from the rim of a wall paper, or paint pictures on the wall, or in the shade, may be foolish or odd; but for the same man to do it in hours of idleness, or when interrupted in business, is neither more nor less than a waste of time.

There is such a thing as excessive enjoyment in simple consciousness of existence. But few have either the perfect health or the perfect mind to enjoy it. How a nature of simple consciousness of existence, but few have either the perfect health or the perfect mind to enjoy it.

To make much of little, to find reasons of interest in common things, to develop a sensibility to mild enjoyments, to inspire a love of nature, to carry upon a cheerful and homely and familiar things, will constitute a man master of his own happiness. How interesting trifles may become, one may see by reading Cooper's letters, which for simple beauty have never been surpassed in English literature.

A nature profoundly religious may yet be filled with satisfaction in minute duties and homely enjoyments. One may read in the letters and journeyings of Eugene de Guerin.—Christian Union.

A Terrible Story. The Scranon Republican tells the following story: "I see, it is one of the most terrible things that have occurred in this time, and strict inquiry should be made as to the exact circumstances, so that if any officer of the train is to blame, prompt and summary punishment should be meted out to him."

Peruvian Ladies.—How they Live at Home.

From the Advance (Chile).

A Lima correspondent of the Rochester Union says: "We will visit the family of a Lima aristocracy—the father, a leading senator and formerly minister of Peru; the mother, a lady of noble birth, and under Prado; the lovely daughters, patterns of fashion, models of beauty, and of the very elite of Lima society. We open one of the many glass doors and find our feet in an inner hall, the floor set in mosaic marble; a little Chinese, asleep on a mat, comes to us, and presenting our card, we are ushered across the hall, and through other grand glass doors, into the drawing room. Here we sit in French chairs, or on sofas of gilt and yellow satin upholstery, until we are invited to the parlor, where comes in smoking, if no later than 7 P. New Discoveries.—C. E. Brotherton and a party of men have been engaged in exploring Section 17 belonging to the Railroad Company and adjoining the new Smith mine, for the last three weeks and have made some fine discoveries. They have found the vein that has opened so promisingly at the mine mentioned, and traced it by means of test pits some 40 rods and in width sufficient to show a very large deposit. The vein or deposit does not hold exactly the same direction but bears off to the westward several degrees seeming to follow the winding of the river. The ore found appears to be the same as that taken out near the surface at the mine, and proves without doubt, what has always been contended by its friends, that this is one of the largest and most regular deposits ever found in the country. From 17 it passes over to Sec. 18 and although no explorations have been made there as yet, there has been sufficient work done near the line to prove that it holds both coarse and quality. The first part in the latter section is owned by S. C. Smith and other parties on Lake Superior and the remainder by parties living here.

On Section 17 and about 80 rods distant from the pits on the Smith vein, there has been found a large deposit of good specular ore in place. It is located at the foot of the hill and was first discovered by Mr. Schelen last fall, the upturning of a tree having disclosed the rock and shown unmistakable evidence of ore. The deposit has a good width and is about 100 feet lower than the other vein and pursues a different course, bearing about 20 degrees farther west. This deposit is also nearly to the river than the other and is in fact only a short distance from where the track will probably cross that stream.

Quite a large bed of Plumbago has also been opened between these two veins, which is too coarse on the surface to be valuable yet may improve in depth. It is similar in character to that opened on the Huron mountains and about which such a breeze was created on Lake Superior several years ago.

The workings at the Smith mine still remain their general appearance, turning out ore that is not only equal in quality, but superior in many other respects to that found elsewhere on Lake Superior, and now that the combined explorations have proven it up so well we hope to see a track laid out for a large shipment made from there next season.

The facilities for manufacturing Pig Iron are unequalled, the ore is of a superior quality, they have an advantage of from 15 to 20 miles over other mines in distance, and with these advantages combined, we expect to see a city located there that will be a formidable rival of Negaunee and Ishpeming, inside of the next five years.

Those Sentiments Again.—We have no doubt our readers are becoming tired of the arguments over those shipments but we would like if possible to see our friend of the Journal give the correct figures in the matter before the close of the discussion. It claims to be the organ of the Iron district and we have no desire to dispute this very modest assertion, but shall dispute now and always, any attempt on the part of the "organ" to injure this place by making unfair statements in regard to the business done at the two ports. It has not last given shipments from Marquette, making them 146,071 tons, or nearly 3,000 tons more than those given by us. Now our figures were obtained directly from the docks, and compiled by a gentleman who makes few errors and are undoubtedly correct, the Journal's statement to the contrary, notwithstanding, and we still claim that Escanaba was ahead on the first of July 10,674 tons of ore. Its efforts to give shipments of Pig Iron from this place are somewhat ludicrous. First they are given as 530 tons and last week they raised sixty tons, while either statement is as we proved last week several thousand tons too small.

We shall hereafter give the monthly and total shipments from each port, knowing as we do, that such statements are more satisfactory, than to publish them in any other manner.

Correspondence Escanaba Tribune, Escanaba, Michigan.

comprises all the former O. S. and N. S. churches of Wisconsin, the Northern Peninsula of Mich. and St. Louis County Minn. held its first sessions at Milwaukee on the 12th to 15th insts inclusive.

The Presbytery of Lake Superior was represented by Rev. N. E. Pierson of this place and elders H. B. Smith and G. P. Cummings.

This presbytery as reconstituted by the Synod covers as much territory as all the other four Presbyteries of the Synod. Commencing with St. Louis Co. Minn. at the head of Lake Superior, our territory covers in addition Douglas, Bayfield, Ashland, Marathon, & Oconto in Wis. and Menominee, Delta, Marquette, Houghton, Keweenaw, Ontonagon, & Chippewa Counties, in Mich. A territory of over 2,500 square miles, exclusive of Mackinac and Schoolcraft which naturally belong to us, involving 575 miles travel from the Zenith City to either of the wings on the South & East. This is an expensive necessity which cannot be obviated until the field has been more largely occupied thereby enabling the Synod to form two Presbyteries of this one, covering a field on which there should be churches enough for a respectable General Assembly.

The attendance though large was not complete and those who failed to be there missed the enjoyment of a rare privilege. Nothing could be more complete than the Union between the two great bodies of the church. So complete is it that all party or school lines are entirely obliterated and as easy could you slip a cup of water from the mouth of the great Mississippi and say whence it came as well to which school and brother has been attached. The usual routine of business was disposed of in addition to which the reconstruction of Presbyteries, appointment of District Secretaries or Missionaries and the condition and prospects of Carroll College at Wauskesha occupied largely the attention of the Synod and the anxiety of Ministers to be home on Sabbath materially abbreviated the discussion and consideration of important measures and hastened a rather premature adjournment. The next meeting will be at Madison and will hold over Sabbath giving more time and we venture to predict adding largely to the interest and profit of the sessions.

Synod received and accepted an invitation from the managers of the Soldiers Home near the City to visit and inspect their quarters and such was our gratification in inspecting that home, provided for our country for those who suffered in its defense, that we recommended all persons visiting Milwaukee to see the "Home" with out fail. The grounds comprise an area of 2,000 acres which are being fitted up in a very pleasing manner and it is destined to be the "Home" of the future of the Cream City. There are from 400 to 600 invalid and honorably discharged soldiers there who can have there a home when they desire. They are a little community of themselves and so complete are the appointments that Physically Mentally and Spiritually they scarce could ask more. Socially of course they lose the charms of the home circle in the cozy corner beside loving sisters and kind parents made dear to them by years of patient care and watching.

The gas for the "Home" is manufactured on the ground and the kitchen and laundry outfits are sights worth seeing. The heating, cooking, washing, wringing, ironing and drying are all done by steam and for ought we know the scrubbing and sweeping too if perchance the place is not so clean as it need neither. The citizens of Milwaukee cannot be outdone in cordial hospitality and indefatigable attention to the delegates in which we fancy our Scotch brother Walker outdid himself even.

Success of the Hope Mutual Life.—The average number of policies issued by the 33 Life Companies doing business prior to the 1st of January 1897, during the first entire year of their work, was a fraction less than four hundred and fifty six.

rivaling forty-one of the 62 holders established Companies, and earning position, as 21st in point of business, against rank as 62nd in point of age. At the same rate and ratio of increase, for the balance of the current year, it will stand not further than 9th from the front in volume of current business.

STOLEN.—Escanaba always had the name of being an honest town, but only a few nights since, a man did steal Doors, Sash, Paints, Nails, Glass & Iron enough to build a house, yet strange to say there is PLENTY MORE left at Wallace's.

Young People go to the Corner Hardware Store and get your Hardware to go to housekeeping with.

Old people go there and replenish what you bought when you were young.

Why they should call a man John Buffalo, who has been on Lake Superior 15 years, and never saw a Buffalo, except Tin one, we can't tell.

BADYS', go to the Hardware Store to buy your Rattles; Boys go there to buy Skates; Young Men go there to buy Guns and Ammunition, Married Men go there to buy Household Goods and Building Materials; Old Men go there to see the "wonderful improvements that have been made since I was a boy;" and everybody goes there to get anything they want in the line of Hardware.

I also have a large and complete assortment.

St. JOSEPH'S CHURCH. Rev. CHARLES LANGRISH, Pastor. Services: Morning 8:30 to 10:00; afternoon 4:15. Catechism 8:15 P. M.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. Mr. Vahey a Catholic Priest of Beaver Dam, Wis. will preach at St. Joseph's Church at half past ten o'clock to-morrow, and will lecture in the evening on the Infallibility of the Church at 7 o'clock. The citizens of Escanaba are most respectfully invited to attend.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. J. M. Johnson of Mandala, Ill., will preach in the Presbyterian Church, to-morrow Morning and Evening.

COUNTY ROAD TO DAY'S RIVER.—Seventy-five names, including those of many of the property holders in the County, have been signed to a petition for the above road and we sincerely hope that the matter will be favorably considered by the Board of Supervisors at their next session.

A man fell from the deck of the Propeller H. J. Hackett, through her hatch to the bottom of her hold, injuring himself severely, on Monday last.

PERSONAL.—Frank Tilton, of the Green Bay Advocate, called on us a few days ago. It always makes us feel better for a week, to see his jolly face, even if he does sometimes have a William in his pocket.

Dr. Gribble, Marquette's pet Dentist, has been in town for a few days, fixing up the teeth of our citizens. Mr. Hopkins, of Brown, Harris & Hopkins, Hardware Men of New York, dropped in a day or two ago. All Lake Superior swears by this firm as we suppose three-fourths of all that kind of goods, used in the country, passes through their hands.

Dr. Hamilton, Eclectic Physician, from Chicago, has been in town during the week, delivering a course of medical lectures, treating patients, &c., but we are afraid has not met with much success, for two reasons: 1st, because we have a good resident Physician, and 2nd, "because," as a member of the same profession once remarked to us, "Escanaba Lake Superior is so infernal healthy anyhow."

We send this copy of our paper to some parties, who are not subscribers, hoping that they may become such.

High Dugan, "The Rattler," undertook to rattle some stamps, to which he had no legal claim, and is now engaged in examining the architecture of Marquette's prominent public buildings.

A MISTAKE.—A sailor was arrested a few days ago, charged with picking a man's pocket, and as the complainants swore positively that he was the man, of course was committed. After the complaining party had sobered off somewhat, he thought the matter over, and as the "property lost was modest, and if the thief can collect anything on them he will do better than ever I could," and as he was right sure but he had got the wrong man anyhow, he withdrew the complaint, paid the charges, and started for home, a soldier, a poorer, and we hope a wiser man.

MORAL.—That Big Bay Stomachs are not strong enough for Escanaba whiskey. NEW BUILDINGS.—John Sipeha proposes erecting a large two-story building on Ludington Street opposite Strass, the lower story to be used as a Billiard Room, Bowling Alley &c., the upper for a Public Hall. The building will be 25x80 feet.

F. O. Clark is making preparations for putting up a two-story building, on the corner of Ludington Street and Tilden Avenue, the lower story to be used as a Store, and the upper as Offices.

Many other buildings, some of which have been spoken of before are being pushed ahead rapidly, and the prospects for the growth of Escanaba, never were as bright as they are at present. According to the census just taken, the increase in population has been about 40 per cent in the last eight months.

FILTERS.—We have had one of the new Filter wells put down at our future residence on Wells Avenue, and it works to a charm. We are not disposed to be selfish, therefore having a good thing we are willing that others should have it too. Stonehouse can put one down in just an hour.

Mr. Kinsman the Artist, has taken some good views of the Tilden House, during the week, which may be found at his gallery.

PROMOTION.—We notice with pleasure the promotion of A. W. Sweet, late brakeman on the Pen Division to the position of Conductor.

CLOSE OF SCHOOL.—The summer term of school closed yesterday, and will not open again until after the house is raised, some time in September. We understand that neither of the present teachers will continue another term.

The Telegraph wire at Centreville, was struck by Lightning yesterday morning, which broke the connection north, for the day but did no other material damage.

We are indebted to Hon. T. W. Ferry, M. C. from this district, for public documents. We notice his name being used in connection with the Senatorship of this State.

ERRATA.—In our last paper we gave the capacity of the Schar. Alva Bradley, at 13,500 tons which is just one cypher too much. She carried away 1,340 net tons of ore on her last trip.

REVIVAL.—As stated by our Marquette Correspondent, the Plaindealer is to be revived at Negaunee. It will bear the title of the "Negaunee Weekly Review."

S. S. Kauffman proposes to remove his Merchant Tailoring Establishment to Marquette, about the first of September. He proposes to show the Lake Superior people "how to keep a hotel."

NEW BAKERY &c.—On Monday last we stepped into the new Bakery and store of Joseph Cheverier, and were pleased to find everything so neat & convenient for carrying on the business in all its branches. The new oven is capable of baking 1600 lbs. of Flour per day, and is under charge of John Forgrave, a practical baker of many years experience and a reputation for turning out the best bread on Green Bay. Mr. Cheverier will also keep all kinds of Family Groceries, Canned fruits &c., usually found in stores of the kind, and invites the attention of buyers.

We propose to issue a Supplement containing our Tax List and will receive a limited number of advertisements at reasonable rates for insertion therein. For terms enquire at this office.

FINDING OF THE EXPRESS SAFE.—As stated in our last week's paper a submarine diver was sent for and he came in with his apparatus on Tuesday evening on the Dunlap. Wednesday Morning about 9:30 he made his descent in the presence of a large number of our citizens and in about seven minutes he returned to the surface having secured a rope to the safe which was found 25 feet from the dock and in 30 feet of water. He was greeted with three cheers by the enthusiastic crowd and the safe was raised to the dock without difficulty. We imagine the contents was slightly dampened but care and a warm fire will undoubtedly bring them around all right.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.—One of the most terrible accidents, it has ever been our painful duty to record, happened at the Jackson Mine on Monday last, which resulted in the death of a young Englishman by the name of Wm Thomas, nephew of Capt. Merry, the Agent of the mine. The deceased was the Engineer of the little Locomotive which attends to the hauling of ore cars in and near the Jackson Tunnel, and in the absence of his fireman had jumped off his Engine to change a brake leaving it moving slowly forward. While crossing the track his foot caught between the rails, known in rail road parlance as a frog, and he was unable to extricate it. Can anything more terrible be imagined? Fastened in this position and watching the Engine as it slowly approached him knowing that there are none near to rescue him, that he has turned on the steam with his own hand that is slowly but surely impelling that monster forward the arrival of which certain death. The Engine passed over him near the center of his body giving injuries that proved fatal almost instantly. The remains were taken to Oude where the parents of the unfortunate young man lived, passing through here Tuesday night. He was well known and respected here, having been in the employ of the R. R. Co. in the capacity of Mechanic in the shops.

We notice beautiful little bouquets and lots of fresh vegetables, at Darling's Stand.

MARQUETTE, July 21st, 1870. Dear Tribune.—The Young Men's Christian Association, gave an excursion on Monday last, to Stanfield's Rock, about 10 miles due north of this place. The Steamer City of Toledo, was chartered for the occasion, and everybody enjoyed themselves, as in duty bound. The party caught 375 Lake Trout, weighing from 10 to 20 pounds each. There will be another excursion to the same place on Monday next.

We were visited by quite a "gale" on last Tuesday night. One or two roofs were taken off and several chimneys blown over.

Vessels are arriving faster than they can be loaded, and there are now some 36 lying in the harbor, awaiting their turns.

Our hotels are crowded with tourists and pleasure seekers, and many are leaving because they are unable to procure accommodations. Building operations are being vigorously prosecuted. Mr. J. P. Peadill of Negaunee, is putting up a large store Superior Street, which he will occupy with a stock of goods himself. The foundation walls of the new Methodist Church, are nearly completed.

The Municipal office at Negaunee, has been purchased by Messrs. Drake and McLaughlin, formerly the Journal Office, who I understand, will soon issue a new paper.

Governor Baldwin and suite, visited our City on Monday last.

The boys have an idea that Hillier sends the water direct from his force pump into the glasses in front of the fountain, but we can state from experience that this is a mistake, and that it is the most beautifully refreshing drink ever invented.

MARRIED.—On 17th. inst by Cha's M. O'Malley, Justice of the Peace, Mr. Henry Ahricoff of Delton, to Miss Caroline Carpenter, of Ford River.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

To Patrick Farley, Sheriff of Delta County.—You are hereby notified that I have written to Judge Goodrich, withdrawing my name from your Bonds. C. B. STRASS, Escanaba, July 18th, 1870.

Supervisors Notice.—Notice is hereby given, that the Board of Supervisors of Delta County, will hold a meeting on the 2nd Monday in August.

$500 REWARD.—The above reward will be paid by the County of Delta, to any one who will furnish sufficient evidence to convict any person of selling or giving, directly or indirectly, any spirituous or intoxicating liquors, or any mixed liquor, a part of which is spirituous or intoxicating, to any individual whatever within this County after this date.

The sure, steady and rapid growth of the village of ESCANABA, is the best guarantee for its advancement, and we feel assured that its increase in the future will be even greater than it has been in the past, believing that a small beginning has been made. The extension of the C. & N. W. R. R. to Westward in Marquette county, the establishment of a Railroad, the extension of the Marquette-Lake Superior, and the erection of ore and other Docks, Grist Mills, Planing Mills, &c., all point with increasing vigor to an increase of business and population in the village.

We have on hand business and building Lvs. excelled by few, if any that have been sold, and we are prepared to dispose of those at fair prices and on almost liberal terms, to parties buying for the purpose of improving.

The village has recently been incorporated by the Board of Supervisors, and contains about 1,000 inhabitants, with five General Stores, one Hardware store, one Jewelry store, two Wholesale Liquor stores, one Drug store, one Tailor shop, one Meat market, three first class ones of which is the finest on the Upper Peninsula, and five second class Hotels, one Livery stable, one Harness shop, two Cabinet and Carpenter shops, two Barber shops, one Bakery, one Photograph Gallery, one Printing Office, and several Saloons; besides the R. R. Co's Round-house, Machine shop, &c. There are also Presbyterian and Catholic Churches, a good school, and a considerable amount of literary culture for a place so young. In this and many other respects it challenges comparison, and it can be claimed for it also, that there are few places if any that have grown up so rapidly to which a gentleman can go with his family, and have the advantages of education and social intercourse that he can find here.

To all therefore who are in search of a good business point, a rapidly growing village, and one that is certain to continue so, we say come on, and we will welcome you with open hands to hospitable homes. DAVID LANGLEY, Agent for Proprietors. Escanaba, Feb. 25, 1870.

MRS. JOHN STONHOUSE. MILLINER.

The undersigned, thanking her customers for their past patronage, would announce that she is prepared to supply them with all kinds of Hats, Bonnets, Ribbons, Veils, &c., and all other articles pertaining to her line of business.

Having been the expense of erecting a new building and over, for furnishing everything in the line of Groceries, and other kinds of Family Groceries, &c., usually found in a Store of this kind, I take this means of notifying the patrons of the public as well as supporting the home industry, I have secured the services of a good practical Baker, and shall endeavor to turn out the BEST BREAD that can be found elsewhere in the Upper Peninsula, or on Green Bay, and at as reasonable rates.
