CHAS. D. JEWELL, Proprietor. VOL. I. ESCANABA, DELTA CO., MICH., SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1871. NO. 34.

INDEPENDENT IN ALL THINGS.

TERMS: $2.50 a Year, in Advance.

Personal. BANCOS GEBOUZE and family have sailed from Baltimore, on the steamer Berlin, for Europe. The Empress Eugenie, it is reported, is in treaty for the sale of her diamonds, valued at $1,500,000. WM. SHAKESPEARE died of apoplexy in Medina, Ohio, on Friday, while sailing on a lake with a party of young ladies. A LONDON jeweler has been five years at work upon a watch, and it will be worth ten thousand dollars when finished.

Several weeks since it became known in New York that the Hibernians were making preparations to attack and disperse any procession of Orangemen which might attempt to move through the streets of the city on the 12th of July, the anniversary of the battle of Agincourt, which was fought in 1415, the Catholics suffering a disastrous defeat. These preparations finally became so alarming that on the evening of the 10th, Police Superintendent Kelso, with the advice and consent of Mayor Hall, issued an order prohibiting the proposed procession, and instructing the police to disperse all bodies of men collecting on the 12th, for the purpose of joining in target excursions or processions. This order created much indignation, not only in New York, but throughout the country, and was rescinded on the following day by Gov. Hoffman, who gave the police no other orders than that they should assemble and march in peaceful procession in the city of New York, could do so, and that they should be protected by the military to the fullest extent possible. The preparations to suppress the threatened disorders were of the most complete description. The 1st, 2d, 5th, 8th, 12th and 20th regiments of the city militia were assembled at their respective barracks in the city, and the troops in the forts were ordered to hold themselves in readiness to move at a moment's warning. Batteries of artillery were stationed at various points along the line of the proposed procession. The police force was organized into three battalions of ten companies, under the command of Superintendent Kelso. Wednesday morning the city was filled with bayonets and cannon, but notwithstanding this fact, large mobs gathered at various points, intent on mischief. Shortly after noon fighting broke out at several points, but the military and police quickly dispersed the rioters. At two o'clock the neighborhood of the Orange headquarters became crowded, and the police in great numbers kept the mob within bounds. About half-past three the Orangemen formed on Twenty-ninth street, below Eighth avenue, and at the same time the Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth and thirtieth streets, and the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets, where they were met by the military and police. The military and police were ordered to the front of the street and the militia to the rear. The Orangemen were ordered to march in a line on Eighth avenue, where they loaded with ball and cartridges. Next came the Sixth Regiment, which took up a position on the north side of the Twenty-second street. The police were on the east side of the street and the militia on the west. The Orangemen marched between the two files. The procession was small, numbering not more than 500, and it proceeded slowly down the street. Cradle Song.

By DAVID D. HUDSON. Come to baby, gentle sleep, Come to baby, gentle sleep, Come to baby, gentle sleep, Round his rosy brow, softly close his tiny eyes, For his little bed, Charm his slumbers where he lies, Till the sky is red.

How I Bought an Organ.

If at one period of my life anybody had told me that I should ever be able to buy an organ for my parish church, I should have laughed him to scorn. How this unlooked-for event came to pass, I am about to relate.

The Scientific Value of Cheese Factories.

Nature, a London journal, says the American system of cheese factories was established nearly twenty years ago, and in its present condition of maturity it remains an essential feature which is characteristic of its infancy.

A Paris Horror.

I heard, yesterday, this incident related, and an quite satisfied that it is true. A few days after the overthrow of the Commune, a member of the National Assembly had the curiosity to go to see some of the female captives of Paris confined at Versailles.

The West.

TAD LINCOLN, the second and youngest son of the lamented ex-President Lincoln, died in Chicago, on Saturday, after an illness of several weeks. He was a very promising young man of eighteen years.

The West.

The deepening of the Illinois canal having been completed to the summit, the offer dam at Bridgeport was removed on Saturday, and the murky and pestilential waters of the Chicago river are now flowing through the Illinois river into the Mississippi. The success of the undertaking is, however, as yet far from being established.

A Fire at Winona on Saturday.

Wm. Richardson's stable and warehouse, D. Van Garder's grain and harness establishment, H. D. Perkins' warehouse, Bonner & Wheeler's warehouse, Owen & Co.'s building, wheat owned by Otto Kroen, etc. Loss, $100,000—insurance, $6,000.

A Boy named Burns, out in Indiana.

A boy named Burns, out in Indiana, was promptly extinguished by falling into a hoghead of water.

The Spanish Cortes in an Uproar.

A letter from Madrid, in the Courrier de Bayonne, says: The discussion in the Congress of a proposition of M. Noceval, to the effect that the chapter should congratulate the holy father on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the pontificate, and join in the sympathetic manifestations of the Roman faith, gave rise to a regrettable incident.

A Female Odd Fellow.

An old man 60 years of age, George Slaats, who was the janitor of the Odd Fellows' hall, and had charge of all the private books and works, as well as the keys, for some time past, has been under the domination of a woman named Pillsbury, who acquired a fearful influence over him, and prevailed upon him to let her witness three initiations in Odd Fellowship while she was concealed from view.

How an Experiment Ended.

A story comes from Delaware of an eccentric philosopher who has paid the penalty of his criminal attempt to enlighten mankind. To some extent he did enlighten that abstraction, but not as he intended to do.

The Prussian Losses Officers.

A list of the officers of the Prussian army who fell during the late war, has lately been published at Berlin, under the title 'Gedenkbuch der Preussischen Armee.' Through all the details of the laborious compilation may not always be entirely correct.

Statue to Father Mathew.

Some of the Irish temperance societies are moving vigorously to secure subscriptions for a statue in memory of Rev. Theobald Mathew. This is a commendable movement.

Lead Ore.

One of the richest veins of lead ore in the United States has been discovered on the Ohio river, in the property of the Rose Clay Mining Company, Ross County, fourteen miles, Illinois.

An Anecdote of Emerson.

There is a story told of Mr. Ralph Waldo Emerson, that once upon a time he determined to live after the fashion of the world, and stopping, while on his way, at a country tavern in a village where he was to lecture, instead of retiring to meditate in his cold and cheerless room, he manfully sat in the bar-room, like the rest of mankind.

'Tend the Corn Late.' A correspondent of the Iowa Homestead says sensible words, as follows:

The hay crop this year is abundant. It is of more value than any other crop. Last year, tame hay was almost a failure.

Better put up the hay when it is light cured. It will come out green, and will go further. Hay cut in the forenoon of a fair day should be put into cocks in the afternoon.
