The plan which has been under discus sion for some time is one that promises to enable all the banks holding Chapin Mining Company paper to realize 100 an annual rental and royalty on every ton of ore mined. There is now due them in royalties $200,000. It is in pursuance of the plan by which the creditors take possession of the mine that the present loan of $50,000 is made by the Fire and Marinebank, which institution, as stated elsewhere, holds the majority of the stock of the mine as collateral for former leans." Shortly before the suspension of the bank it took the labor lien of the vanced $35,000 to the Chapin Mining Company with which to pay the May wages of the mine. For its claim and with a view to what further aid the bank agreed to give the mine, the creditors at a meeting agreed to allow the Mitchell bank to hold a first mortgage bond on the property, which is a lien also on all the ore in store at the mine, amounting to about 140,000 tons. they were unable to make use of, and the other had the lumber on haud. Both represented wealth, but neither could be turned into cash to pay for the labor performed, and the problem to be solved was how was the pay roll to be met. All agreed that it was to their individual interest by far to shut down and stop manufacturing lumber, but they were decidedly opposed to take so radical a course until necessity compelled them to do so. A reduction of wages would furnish a partial relief as there would be so much less money to provide on each pay day, but it was questionable if the immediate future prospects would warrant them to feel that they could continue runningeven at a very large reduction. After considering the matter in every aspect, it was decided that no action be taken, but that an adjourned meeting be held on next Saturday to decide whether or not the mills should shut down. The disposition shown by those present was a willinguess to make considerable of a sacrifice, and if it was possible they would much prefer to follow the example of other places and make a reduction in wages instead of throwing their men out of employment.

that the Gazette's exposure came as it did. Now that the deal is off it is seen that there were some features of it not business like; for any one to propose put up such buildings in "the swamp" and haul the materials therefor a mile or more through the sand was scarcely conomical, yet the railway company ad not been approached concerning a branch track. In other particulars the operations of the Chicago parties were a little queer, but to criticise, now, is a waste of acumen.

Now that the cash is saved why not put it, or as much, into a railway "company and build that branch to connect us with the Soo system? With that done we need not pay bonns for industries, free sites will do it.

The foregoing was put in type Tuesday afternoon and, as it is substantially correct, we let it stand. There is, however, something more to be said. A meeting of those who had subscribed for lots having been called for that evening, Mr. Bischoff was induced to remain although the train. When the subscribers (and others) had assembled at the council chamber John Hartnett was called to the chair and John Zane made secretary, and the article in the Gazette read. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Jones Mr. Bischoff was sent for, came, and denied the truth of the story in the Cazette saying that the Green Bay people were in debt to him not he to them. At the same time he admitted that he owed his contractor and could not raise the money to pay him-repudiated and refused to proceed under the contract he had just entered into with the promoters of the scheme here-plead for the "confidence of the people" and said he would buy the for nothing until the works were in operation if the people would put up the thirty-five thousand dollars so that he could get it in a lump when the works had been thirty days in operation with one hundred employes. Many were the glospless nights I had passed, unable to sleep but from one to two hours through the whole night for months. On the third night after wearing the Beit I sleept until morning and awoke greatly refreshed, e I was not disturbed, nor had I to void my urine once through the night, and I have not been bothered in that way since. All the drains upon the system have ceased, and constitution and piles all have left me as if by magio. My nerves have regained their former strength, my syssight and mind have become clear, and I have gained in weight about is pounds, and I feel like a new man. My stomach has got back its power of digestion, and I can eat almost any kind of food that my appetite craves, without pain or distress. I am gaining daily and I feel better and weigh more than I have for the past ten years, and it seems I have a new lease of life. I cannot say genongh in favor of your wonderful Electric Body Beit. It is far superior to all medicines com-pounded for the relief and cure of chronic and complicated diseases and broken down constitu-tions. ### A FACETIOUS VIEW.

VEGETARIANISM CARRIED OUT TO ITS LOGICAL END.

The Arguments of the Advocate of Vegetable Diet Applied to Some of the liveognized Evils of Life, and Some Startling Deductions Are Derived.

The beneficent physical, moral, so-cial, financial and resthetic advantages of vagetable food are insisted upon by the members of the vegetariau congress at Chicago, and cach advantage is lauded as salutary in the highest degree. Pro-fessor Mayor, a well known classical acholar of St. John's college. Cambridge. avers that vegetarians suffer but fittle from thirst. They are "set free from cravings which the world without hears as the voice of instinct, strong, imperi-ons, inexorable." He drinks a glass of lemonade at 7:15 p. m. "from habit rather than to slake thirst." and he sometimes takes a swig of milk at railway station restaurants "to encourage the dairy at the expense of the brewery." Thus, so far as he is concerned, thirst is abolished. He needs no drink of any kind.

The English soldiers and civil servants in the tropic stretches of Asia and Africa have only to follow Professor Mayor's example. Thus the value of vegetarian-ism to military science becomes evident. In fact, not merely the operations of the commissary department, but the whole art of war would be wonderfully changed and simplified if Mr Thomas Atkins would forswear meat. Professor Mayor has not attained his victory over thirst without sacrifices, at which the grosser race of meat eaters will grin. For instance, he takes the white of an egg. neat, without salt or pepper. Thus he avoids the incitements to thirst and keeps his palate in condition to receive with rapture that British vegetable, the Brussels spront Doubtless a vegetarian pilate, long brought up on herbs an Lyrasses and salads gniltless of condiment, becomes capable of receiving savory sensations from di des of the simplest sort, and a turnip picked up in the fur-row may be sweeter than a stalled or, tenderloin

We hope that Professor Mayor will now go on to the abolition of hunger, He has put thirst away from him, and there seems no reason why he should be test successful with its running mate. Of course he will be allowed to nibble a radish now and then from habit, even after he has conquered imperious, inexorable instinct. The economic advantages arising from the abolition of thirst would be very great, and Professor Mayor has it in his power, if he can get the world's hnuger throttled, to add enormonsly to the wealth of the world. Still greater would be the saving if the world would eat vegetables from habit only. It's cheaper to keep a cow than a man. We are afraid, however, that the majority of men would go on perpetual strike if the necessity of eating and drinking were removed, so that there would be a hose of wealth after all. But what's the use of being wealthy if you can become hearthy and virtuous by eating yege tahies only The profound moral which vegetarian ism holds for prolificitionists is obvious. "The consumption of flesh." says a vegetarian resolution, "creates a thirst for intoxicating liquors and should be abandoned by all who desire to promote temperance reform." This goes to the root of the matter. Prohibiting graps and corn and hops and apples wouldn't be enongh. There will always be some intoxicant as long as men continue to be subject to the demands of thirst. Here's the real gold cure, the elixir of tempermace, the pill of prohibition. Prohibition and garden "sasa," one and inseparable, now and forevert flor is intemperance the only evit which will not and cannot grow in the garden. Dr. Paul Foster of Berlin is confident that the adoption of vegetarian principles will "end the war between the poor and the rich, solve the social problem, complete the work of religion and in all ways ameliorate the unhappy condition of the human race." Reflect upon these things, erring carnivores, and think that every time you urder a beefsteak at the butcher's, you are ordering unhappiness, the deterioration of the human rare and the debasement of society. Go to the grocer's and buy a peck of potatoes and some cucumbers and a plug of tobacco, and carry peace and potency of social regeneration home to your cook. Who can tell that the future of Europe may not be peaceful if Professor Foster can induce the German emperor to live upon string beans and asparagus tips for a few months? Will anybody pretend that Ezzelino might not have been a man as mild as milk if he had been restricted to a diet of spaghetti m his youth? Does anybody suppose that Jeffreys lived upon olives? In addition to the moral, physical and economic advantages of vegetable diet there is the æsthetical advantage. Mrs. Bruce, the English woman whose paper on "The Æsthetics of Vegetarianism" was read at the congress, believes that "meat eating is opposed to idealism, while vegetarianism has much to offer that connects it with the highest and best in life. The highest aspect of veg-etarianism is aestheticism. It is full of vital truth and beauty." We now see why Mr. Oscar Wilde ate huckleberries when he was in the United States. Using the term æstheticism in its larger sense, we see why Emerson ate beans and why, judged by results, so many of his disciples seem to have lived on cabbages. -New York Sun.

DIVORCE IN BURMAH.

Imprisonment For Snoring. The club member who goes to sleep and snores in the reading room or library is a nuisance, but the punishment of his offense by a term of imprisonment has not yet been heard of. The magistrates at Aston police court, however, are, it would seem, in favor of such treatment. The London Truth calls attention to a case heard at Aston, where a laborer named John Groves was charged with vagrancy for having slept in a furniture van in the public street. A police constable on his rounds heard loud snores. He was not at first able to discover the origin of the sound, but on getting over a wall into a yard he found the prisoner asleep in a furniture van, snoring in such a manner as to make himself heard at a considerable distance from his hiding place.

The prisoner, in reply to the bench, said that he had been at work at Sutton, and on returning to his home to Aston he was unable to gain admission, so that he went and slept in the van. The deputy magistrate's clerk pointed out, however, that he was disturbing the neighborhood with his mighty snore, whereupon the magistrates, probably taking this heinous offense into consideration, for nothing else was alleged against the prisoner, positively sentenced the wretched man to six weeks' hard

Uncle Peter's Circus Ticket.

On Saturday last Uncle Peter L. Scaggs of Louisa came down to see the circus and brought along a ticket purchased 12 years ago, when Robinson's circus exhibited at Louisa. Uncle Peter is a widower, and when the show was at Louisa he purchased two tickets, expect-ing to take his lady love to see the "animals." Before the show began they had one of those lovers' quarrels which so frequently turn anticipated pleasures into bitter disappointment, and as a re-sult Uncle Peter went to the circus in single harness. He placed the extra ticket in his pocketbook, and for the 19 long succeeding years kept it as a re-minder of a lost sweetheart. Last Saturday he presented this ticket to the gatekeeper, who demanded to know where he got it. "I paid my money for it 12 years ago, when this show was at Louiss," replied Uncle Peter. "Well, my old friend, you look like an honest man, and I guess the ticket is all right. Pass in," was the reply made, and Uncle Peter waltzed in, feeling that if he had lost the old girl he had saved the money paid out for her edification .-- Catlettsburg (Ky.) Democrat.

The Chief Justice on the Geary Law. The chief justice of the United States has filed his written opinion in the case of Yick Wo, unregistered Chinese laborer. It is very interesting reading. He holds that the provisions of the fifth and fourteenth amendments shelter all persons of whatever nationality, race or color within the territorial jurisdiction. He describes the punishment of deportation sought to be inflicted on Yick Wo under the provisions of the Geary act as in effect a legislative sentence of banishment, unknown to the organic law and in violation of it. Concerning the Geary act itself, the chief justice says that it "contains within it the germs of the assertion of an unlimited and arbitrary power in general incompatible with the immt . lo principles of justice, incon sistent with the nature of our government and in conflict with the written constitution by which that government was created and those principles se cured."-Hartford Courant.

1 Original and Exhaustive Method of Settling Family Troubles. In Burmah, as in civilized Europe, suspicion often disturbs the family circle, but instead of filling lawyers' pockets and giving society papers highly spiced paragraphs the following effectual mode of divorce procedure is adopted: The famil, relatives on both sides are called in-even distant cousins living a long way off-and many are the long journeys 50 Cedar Choppers! the animated discussions by the cigar puffing circle of relatives squatted ceremoniously on the bamboo matted floors. If an amicable settlement can be obtained thus-and very difficult it is to smooth down the quarrels, as a rule, for the Burmese are a spirited race-the eld-ers or patriarchs of the village or district are called in, and after the circumstances are explained arbitrators are ap pointed from among them, who proceed as follows: Two candles-wax if possi-ble, but generally rushlights-are selected of equal length and thickness, and being simultaneously lighted are placed on the table if the establishment boasts of one; if not, on the floor.

This is done with the greatest gravity, care being taken that neither party has any advantage over the other in the shape of drafts through the doors and crannies, and that all present are seated at sufficient distance to prevent their breathing from affecting the flame. The gradual burning down of the flames is then watched with breathless and solemn silence, which culminates as one or the other of these slowly burns down and splutters out its life in the waters of the basin in which it is fixed.

A deep "Ah!" a gutteral sigh of relief greets this termination, and if it be the husband's candle that burns out first he and his relatives walk slowly out of doors, solemnly and silently, leaving his better half in possession of the goods and chattels contained therein. If the wife's candle expires first, she and hers do likewise, and with a small present to the judges and umpires, the divorce is completed.-Chicago Herald.

Advance In the Value of Pictures.

At the sale of the art collection of the late Mme. Denain, once a famous actress of the Theatre Francais, a comparison of prices with those obtained at the auction of the Didier collection in 1868, from which most of the paintings, etc., brought to the hammer were derived, is most instructive as showing the wonderful variations in the value attached to masterpieces of art. Thus "The Four Seasons" (Prudhon) brought 80,000 francs, against 33,500 francs in 1868; a portrait of Mme. de Sombreval and of her son (Nattier), 40,700 francs, against 6,000 francs; a portrait of Rembrandt (by himself), 40,000 francs, against 4,000 francs; "The Rainbow" (Th. Auxious to Break Gladstone's Heart. Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking at Leicester on Wednesday, revived the history of the three conspicuous Irishmen who had broken their hearts over the repeal of the union, or something equivalent to it-O'Connell, Butt and Parnell. Now Mr. Gladstone is engaged in the same enterprise and will experience just the same fate. Great Britain will soon have an opportunity of showing its determination not to allow this empire to be disintegrated to please "the civilized world" or the powers who grudge England her prosperity and would gladly see her weakened by her own folly in taking a step backward in-to division, when all other states are taking steps to attain a stronger unity and a completer organization. Lord Randolph evidently expects an early dissolution.-London Spectator.

Stanford's Two Palm Trees.

Mr. Stanford was not sagarstition: but he believed that his life was linked with that of two paim trees which he had planted in front of his Palo Alto home. He bestowed great care on these trees, and they flourished until a few weeks before his death. when their leaves began to turn yellow. No one noticed this change until one evening the sena' or called the attention of one of his closest friends to the trees and said he regarded this as a bad omen. He said solemnly, "When those trees die, my life will end." The palm trees are now dead, and Stanford lies lifeless in the shadow of their withered tops .- New York Tribune.

"What Did the Privates Do?"

Pæans of praise have gone up at Admiral Tryon's refusal, with the words 'Save yourself," of a life belt offered him. He would have been base indeed had he taken it, and his heroism is simply naught compared to that of the man who had tendered the life belt. Not a single paper has touched on the grand unselfishness of the subordinate, yetfrom a woman's point of view at any rate-his offer was a fi lobler act than the admiral's refusal.- Cor. Pall Mall

On the other hand, a few works by Prudhon and Decamps were knocked down at prices far below those obtained in 1868, and a portrait of a girl by Velasquez, presumably his daughter, was sold for 10,000 francs, against 15,100 francs at the Didier sale .- London Telegraph.

OFFICE, NO. 803 LUDINGTON STREET

We are told that what the country needs is "confidence." True enough; but confidence in what ? The government ? No one has a doubt of its stability or economic line any tariff policy for the future, besufficiency. It could float a billion dollars' cause he did not know to what extent he worth of bonds to-day at two or three per cent interest. Confidence in what ? In the currency? A government so thoroughly solvent should not have a bad currency.

But if there is no lack of confidence in ditions? In one word, it is a lack of confidence in secure and reasonable profits.

The capitalist does not conduct business merely for fun nor solely to give occupation to the laborer. Profit is his chief motive, and he would much rather his capital should be idle than employ it without a reasonable prospect of gain. He knows very well that there is no such prospect if he is to manufacture at tariff prices and pay the high rates of wages which protection has established for the American laborer, and then be compelled to sell at free-trade rates in competition with the pauperized labor products of other lands. While there is a probability that such will be the case he will either do as little as he can, merely filling orders as they come in, or close his works entirely. This takes him and his workmen out of the ranks of consumers, except of mere food products and other necessities of life.

Because of this same reason, too, the seller and consumer of manufactured wares will naturally keep their stocks as low as the barest exigencies of business will admit. They know that the poll parrot, who shrieked with silly pride, as if the idea had really fructified in his own brain, the senseless aphorism, "the tariff is a tax," is now President, with his party bound hand and foot, wholly subservient to his will, They expect the repeal of all protective legislation, and know that such repeal would be followed by almost universal bankruptcy of American manufacturers and the influx of an immense amount of foreign goods which, coming free of duty and manufactured by cheap labor, can easily underbid the American manufacturer. Then will come failure, broken prices, bankrupt sales and the like. That will be the time to buy, he says, and holds his money and bides his time. So, too, the mere speculator waits until necessity compels the holder of property to sell, and then seizes the opportunity to realize enough to make it pay to keep his money idle while waiting for his opportunity. All these conditions and many resultants exist to-day merely from lack of "confidence" in reasonably secure profit in the conduct of business at present prices of labor, and with the present prospect for the continuance of existing conditions. But, alas, the Democrats can give no assurance on which a business man would dare rely. To do so would be to stultify all their own declarations in the past and admit themselves either to have been inerror, blind leaders of the blind, or willful deceivers of the simple whom they led to destruction. Besides that, they have at their head one without sympathy for the weak or regard for the prosperity of the people; intent only on his own purpose and the exercise of autocratic dominion according to his own notions. He gave notice to the world in his inaugural address, that the American people must go through the valley of humiliation to reach the haven of free trade, low prices, poor living, and humble dependence on other lands for the comforts they enjoy, to which he was determined to drive the ship of state before he let go the helm of power. As the chief qualities of his nature are a dogged adherence to his own purpose and an absolute insensibility to the wishes and needs of others, the Nation may well wait in fear and trembling the personse the Democracy must make to the question which many thousands of its besotted victims wonderingly and hopelessly ask: "Where are we at ?"-A Bystander's notes. Mr. Vest, senator from Missouri, has already introduced a bill for the free coinage of silver upon a new ratio, approaching the "silver question" from the side upon which it is soluble. His bill proposes a dollar containing 516 grains of standard silver-1031/2 grains more than is contained in the dollar as at present coined. The proposition to make the dollar of silver as valuable, intrinsically, as the dollar of gold would seem to meet the views of those whose demand is for "more money" though it would not those of the pro ducers of silver. If the former are made content congress can afford to disregard the latter; its duty towards the business of silver mining is the same as towards the business of iron mining, no more and no less, its protection against foreign competition, in the interest of the labor employd and there an end. Senator Vest's bill

When will the closed mills be started again and how many factories now running will be forced to shut down unless existing conditions are changed ?-New York Herald, July 24, 1893.

These are important questions that it is hard to answer, and which, probably, can uct be answered except by the President of the United States. Just so long as the "existing conditions" of panic and financlal distress, brought at out through fear of tariff reform, continue, it is impossible to say when the closed mills will be started again or "how many factories now running will be forced to shut down." For just as long as the people are in ignorance of the intentions of the Free-Trade President and the Free-Trade Congress in regand to tariff changes, for just so long will our factories be compelled to close and remain closed. The trouble is that the Free-Trade President has been unable to outcould control his Free-Trade Corgress .-American Economist.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, will intro. duce a bill to repeal the "Sherman law," but the repeal will be fu the second secthe country or the currency what sort of tion, the first will provide "that gold and confidence is it, the lack of which has had silver bullion brought to the mint for so potent an influence on our financial con- coinage shall be received and coined by the proper officers for the benefit of the depositor; provided, that it shall be lawful to refuse at the mint any deposit of less value than one hundred dollars, and any bullion so base as to be unsuitable for the operations of the mint; and provided also, that when gold and silver are combined, if either of these metals be in such small proportion that it cannot be separated advantageously, no allowance shall be made to the depositor for the value of such metal." It is the fourteenth section of the coinage act of 1837, and means free coinage of silver at the rate of 16 to 1. It will hardly "go" but the fight will be hot.

> Lochren, commissioner of pensions, is a mistake. He is not, like Grover and Hokesmith, impervious to criticismpachydermatous. He announces that, because of the persistent misrepresentation of the action and intention of his bureau, the time within which suspended pensioners may make proof to re-establish themselves upon the roll is extended to October 10. The commissioner will learn, after a while, that the intention of his bureau has nothing to do with the cases-that he is but a figure-head-that Grover and Hokesmith "have it in" for republican pensioners, and that all he has to do is to carry out their orders.

Ad valorem duties deprive American manufacturers of nearly all the benefits of incidental protection, and drive American merchants from the business of im-ulists are more numerous than in any pre- tion the fact that the tide has turned and ceding one any action tending to carry out the gold is coming back faster than it the president's idea that gold and silver "must part company." On the contrary it purchase law being still in force, would becomes every day more clearly apparent that the repeal of the "Sherman law" can the advocates of free-coinage may be trustbe brought about only by conceding to sllver its place in the national currency-at a new ratio, perhaps, but as a permanent as to the cause of the outflow of gold. arrangement.

Somebody asks, concerning the body now in special session at the National Capital, "Will it stand to its declaration of [the Chicago platform, of course] but one year ago, that the protective policy that began with the first Congress and, as a matter of fact, has been continued in varying degrees of intelligence in application up to the present time, is unconstitutional?" Well, hardly. That platform was made to "get there" on, not to stand on afterward. That declaration was made merely to keep the populists from carrying the south. It's the White City to a Texas jacal that the 58d congress will "fizzle.

The republicans in congress are not criticising President Cleveland's message; that they leave to the free-silver democrats and populists, who are not slighting their work in that respect. The president's backdown on the tariff issue (it can be regarded as nothing less) makes the republicans feel kindly towards him, but it exasperates his free-trade associates as much as his "part company" declaration exasperates the silver men. It looks as though Grover was not atterly impervious to the logic of events-as if an idea could be driven into his hesd if it was given momentum enough-

The state campaign now on in Ohio has national significance-the administration of Gov. McKinley is spotless-no attempt is made to criticise it-and he is opposed (having been renominated) solely as the foremost representative of the protective policy of the republican party. As such he should be and no doubt will be re-elected by a majority largely exceeding that of two years since. The present condition of trade is largely the result of the fear of free-trade and Ohio feels it as acutely as Michigan.

Perhaps Grover won't accept the sug gestion, but if he wants to write a state paper which will go thundering down the ages he is advised to this style:

To the Congress: Gentlemen-Don't monkey with the tariff. Repeal the Sherman law,

Go home right away. Grover Cleveland With such a message before it the Congress could know "where it is at," and could proceed to business without frills or fretting .- Herald, Grand Rapids.

Hokesmith's and Cleveland's test, to be applied to determine the question whether a veteran is or is not entitled to a pension nder the act of 1890 is his ability to per form "manual labor." If they find the reteran able to blackboots, no pension for him. If he can turn the crank of a hurdygurdy, no twelve dollars a month for him Their "roll of honor" is a list of paupers, and they have found a man who wore the blue-one Lochren-to be their cat's paw. Free-traders contradict each other, often, but it is rather out of common for one to contradict himself in the same speech or article. That, however, the Philadelphia Record does by accusing the steel manufacturers of creating "a gigantic monopoly" and exciting "an excessive competition." It does not explain how there can be an excessive competition in a line of business which i monopolized, and nobody will ask it to do so.

went out. To have done that, the silver have spoiled the effect of his message, but to bring the fact to the notice of congress and to insist that Mr, Cleveland is in error, Being mostly democrats it can not be expected that they will give the correct explanation, but there are republicans enough to do that and it will be done, no fear. Twelve millions a week of gold coming in is answer to more than half of the president's jeremiad.

It is "whistling, to keep their courage up" for the thick-and-thin supporters of the president to bank on the fact that the leaders of the free-coinage wing are not agreed at all points. On one point, namely, that free-coinage must come with the repeal of the law for the purchase of silver, they are a unit; not one of them but will oppose to the uttermost the plan of the president for the establishment of the single, gold, standard; not one of them but will support that provision for the use of silver which seems most likely to be adopted. The president has no sinch on his party, no walk over for his plan.

Mr. Carroll's fine yacht, the Navahoewhich is an object of apprehensive interest to our British cousins just now, takes its name, as most people know, from the tribal designation of one family of the Apaches, those fierce Indians of the Southwest. Their tribal name originated among the Mexicans, who in recognition of their bloodthirsty attr.butes called them "Apaches Navajosas," or knife-bearing Apaches. Nevaja is the Spanish term for knife, -Exchange. "Cuchillo" is the Spanish word for knife, a fact which rather tends to spoil the paragraph.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, threatens "riots which will shake the country" unless the financial stringency is relieved by congressional action. It is the act of a demagogue and naught else; he is not authorized to speak for the laborers of Chicago and he slanders them by his rantings.

Marinette's sewer system will not be completed this season as had been anticipat d; the contractors took the job at a figure involving loss and are shirking; their laborers are unpaid and there's every prospect of trouble.

The club is for England and against America at all points of the financial policy. In other countries ad valorems as a basis of tariff legislation are foolish; in this country they would be criminal.-The Bulletin of The American Iron and Steel Association, July 19, 1893

The Menominee Democrat is surprised that The Iron Port should "object to the efforts of the present administration to make the pension roll a roll of honor." It does not; what it objects to Hokesmith's endeavor to make it a list of paupers, and the undisguised hostility of the administration to the payment of any pensions for service in the civil war. To that it does object, though it has no interest-no pecuniary interest in the matter, no person connected with it being now or likely to become a pensioner. It may be that the Democrat will find the case moreo#difficulty to understand" than ever, but we can't help that.

It was to be expected that President Cleveland would charge all the woes which now afflict the business world to the operation of the "Sherman law" and he does so. It is, however, but the "red herring" trick-putting or trying to put the law makers on a false scent. That law should be changed, is of no further use, but what business wants is assurance of stability of tariff laws; the president should have made his back-down more distinct and positive, Assure the country that the threat of the Chicago platform will not be carried out and the wheels will be turning in a week,

"Repeal the law authorizing the pur chase of silver and go home" is the gist of the president's message to congress. It won't do. There are too many democrats in congress who will insist that repeal of that law and remonetization of silver shall go together. As a western senator put it -"we do not surrender a note until the mortgage is canceled." Those men may be brought to concede a new ratio but none of them will admit that the time has come, or ever will come, for gold and silver to "part company."

Believing as we do that protection is necessary for the welfare of the country at large, for the maintenance of prosperous conditions and for the betterment and improvement of our wage earners and working classes, we await with no little anxiety and interest the promitigation of a financial policy on the part of the free-trade party that will not "cripple our merchants, stop the wheels of the manufacturers, bring distress and privation to our farmers and withhold from our workingmen the wage of labor."

The silverites who convened and orated at Chicago last week said many foolish things and made many statements not susceptible of proof, but they hit the truth, plumb center, when they said that the "Sherman law" has little to do with the depression in business, Mr. Cleveland to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Lucy mine, which was abandoned last week, has been wrought by two mining companies, has produced 500,000 tons of ore, yet no man has made a dollar except the owners of the fee who have received royalties amounting to $200,000 Both the companies which have operated it sunk the cash they invested.

"We must redeem our pledges" is the howl of the free trader. That means remove from American industry "the last shred of protection." Go ahead, gentlemen, you have the power; redeem your pledges, if you dare, which is doubtful.

"Business sense, not politics" is what a contemporary asks of congress. Put it another way-"business sense in politics" -and the prayer is a good one, though there is little hope that congress will hear or answer it.

Philip D. Armour is a short set, broad built, prosperous looking man, with a ruddy open face, darkly sidewhiskered. He is severely self-made, Six-and-forty years ago he drove a mule team across the plains of California and invested what little capital he had in the grain business in Milwankee. Then he bought an interest in a pork packing establishment, and to-day his fortune is estimated as something like $50,000,000. He is now perhaps the most conspicuous of all Chicago's multi-millionaires, and is growing richer every day; yet withal he is as modest as the proverbial schoolboy ever was, and is one of the plainest and most quiet going of men, both as to manner and mode of life. Of late ill health has obliged him to restrict his diet to bread and milk. This would be a sad affliction to some rich men, but Mr. Armour has never cultivated his palate to an appreciation of ortolans and Aruffles, and he likes a baked apple for breakfast as much as Beecher or Jay Gould used to. His recent gift of a million and a half of dollars to the University of Chicago brought him into prominence as a practical philanthropist. ### THE IRON PORT, SATURDAY EVENING AUG 12, 1893.

PRESIDENT'S MESSACE

BRIEF DOCUMENT AND DEALS WITH FINANCE ONLY

It Puts the Administration Squarely on the "Gold Standard" Ground and is Cursed by Suver Men and Both Parties.

The existence of an alarming and extraordinary business situation involving the welfare and prosperity of all our people, has constrained me to call together in extra session the peoples' representatives incongress. to the end that through the wise and patriotic exercise of the legislative duty with which they solely are charged, the present evils may be mitigated, and the dangers threatening the future may be averted.

Our unfortunate financial plight is not the result of outward events, nor conditions related to ovr national resources. Noris it traceable to any of the afflictions which frequently check national growth and prosperity. With plenteous crops, with abundant promises of remunerative production and manufactures, with unusual invitation to safe investment, and with satisfactory assurance to business enterprises, suddenly financial distrust and fear have sprung up on ever 7 side.

merous moneyed institutions have ended because abundant assets were immediately available to meet the mands of frightened depositors. Surng corporations and individuals are tent to keep in hand the money they usually auxious to loan, and those aged in legitimate business are sured to find that securities they offer for as, though heretofore satisfactory, in no longer accepted. Values supposed be fixed are jast becoming conjectural l loss and failure have invaded every nch of business.

believe these things are principally irgeable to congressional legislation tching the purchase and coinage of silby the general government. This legation is embodied in a statute passed the14th day of July, 1890, which was e culmination of much agitation on the bject involved and which may be conlered a truce after a long struggle beveen the advocates of free silver coinage id those intending to be more conservave. Undoubtedly the monthly purtases by the government of 4,500,000 ances of silverforced under that statute, ere regarded by those interested in siler production as a certain guarantee of s increase in price. The result, howver, has been entirely different, for imrediately following a spasmodic and light rise, the price of silver began to fall fter the passage of that act and has ince reached the lowest point ever known, This disappointing result has led to relewed and persistent effort in the direcion of free silver coinage. Meanwhile, not only are the evil effects of the operation of the present law constantly accumulating, but the result to which its execution must inevitably lead is becoming palpable to all who give the least heed to financial subjects. This law provides that in payment for 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion, which the secretary of the treasury is commanded to purchase monthly, there shall be issued treasury notes redeemable on demand in gold or silver coin at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, and that said notes may be reissued. It is, however, declared in the act to be "The established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals upon a parity with each other, upon the present legal ratio, or such Jutio as may be provided by law." This declaration so controls the action of the secretary of the treasury as to prevent his exercising the discretion nominally vested in him, if by such action the parity between gold and silver may be disturbed. Manifestly, the refusal by the secretary to pay these treasury notes in gold, if demanded, would necessarily result in their discredit and depreciation as obligations payable only in silver, and would destroy the parity between the two metals by establishing a discrimination in favor of gold. Up to the 15th day of July, 1893. these notes had been issued in payment of silver bullion purchased to the amount of more than $147,000,000. While all but a very small quantity of this bullion remains uncoined and without usefulness in the treasury, many of the notes given in its purchase have been paid in gold. This is illustrated by the statement that Letween the 1st day of May, 1892, and the 15th day of July, 1893, notes of this kind issued in payment for silver bullion. amounted to a little more than $54,000, 000, and that during the same period about $49,000,000 were paid by the treasury in gold for the redemption of such notes. The policy necessarily adopted of paying these notes in gold has not spared the gold reserve of $100,000,000, long ago set aside by the government for the redemution of other notes, for this fund has already been subjected to the payment of new obligations amounting to about $150,000,000, on account of silver purchases, and bas, as a consequence. for the first time since its creation, been encrouched upon. We have thus made the depletion of our gold easy, and have tempted other and more appreciative nations to add it to their stock. That the opportunity we have offered has not been neglected is shown by the large amounts of gold which have been recently drawn from our treasury and exported to increase the financial strength of foreign nations. The excess of gold exports over its imports for the year ending June-30, 1893, amounted to more than $87,500,000. Between the 1st day of July 1890, and the 15th day of July 1893, the gold coin and bullion in our treasury decreased more than $132,000. 000: while during the same period the silver coin and ballion in the treasury has increased more than $147,000,000. Unless government bonds are to be constantly issued and sold to replenish our exhausted gold, only to be again exhausted, it is apparent that the operation of the silver purchase law now in force leads in the direction of an entire substitution of silver for gold in the government treasury, and that this must be followed by the payment of all government obligations in depreciated silver.

At this stage gold and silver must part company, and this government must fail in its established policy to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other. Given over to the exclusive use of currency greatly depreciated according to the Pat Manning and others, and a wind-up standard of the commercial world, we could no longer claim a place among nations of the first class, nor could our government claim the performance of its obligation so far as such obligation has Leen imposed upon it. to provide for the use of the people the best and safest money. If, as many of its friends claim, silver ought to occupy a larger place in our currency and the currency of the world ed these times. through general international co-operation and agreement, it is obvious that the United States will not be in a position Gooding and Kruger on Thursday. They to gain a hearing in favor of such ar. found her O. K. and renewed her papers. rangement so long as we are willing to continue our attempt to accomplish the result single handed. The knowledge in business circles among our own people that our government cannot make its flat equivalent to intrinsic value, nor keep inferior money on a parity with superior money by its own independent efforts, has resulted in such a lack of confidence at home in the stability of currency values that capital refuses its aid to new enterprises, while millions are actually withdrawn from channels of trade their billet hereafter. and commerce to become idle and unproductive in the hands of timid owners.

Foreign investors, equally alert, not only decline to purchase American securities, but make haste to sacrifice those which they already have. It does not meet the situation to say that apprehension in regard to the future of our finances is groundless and that there is no reason or lack of confidence in the purposes or power of this government in its promises. T e very existence of this apprehension and lack of confidence, however caused, is a menace which ought not for a moment to be disregarded. Possibly if the undertaking we have in hand were a maintenance of a specific, known quantity of silver at a parity with gold, our ability to do so might be estimated and gauged, and perhaps in view of our unparalleled growth and resources, might be favorably passed upon. But when our avowed endeavor is to maintain such a parity in regard to an amount of silver increasing at the rate of $50,000,000 yearly, with no fixed termination to such increase. it can hardly be said that a problem is presented whose solution is free from doubt. The people of the United States are entitled to sound and stable currency, and to money recognized as such on every exchange, and in every market in the world. Their government has no right to injure them by financial experiments opposed to the policy and practice of other civilized states, nor is it justified in permitting an exaggerated and unreasonable reliance on our national strength and ability to jeopardize the soundness of the people's money. This matter rises above the plane of party politics. It vitally concerns every business and calling and enters every household in the land. There is one important aspect of the subject which especially should never be overlooked at times like the present. When the evils of unsound finances threaten us, speculators may anticipate a harvest gathered from the misfortunes of others; the capitalist may protect him- predecessor. self by hoarding, or may even find profit in the fluctuation of values; but the wage earner is the first to be injured by a depreciated currency, and the last to receive the benefit of its correction. He is practically defenseless. He relies for work upon the ventures of confident and contented capital. This failing him his condition is without alleviation, for he can neither prey on the misfortunes of others nor hoard his labor.

Jones "Catches It."

As was to be expected, since the failure of the deal with Bischoff and the exposare of his fizzle at Green Bay, every one less venomous as well as for no end of ridicule. M.N. Jones, especially, gets the rough side of many a tongue that a week ago was sounding his praises. His good faith in the matter is questioned, very unfairly we think. His pecuniary interest in the affair took effect only in the event of the construction and successful opera tion of the proposed manufactory, and could in no manner have been served by a fizzle or a fraud. He thought Mr. Bischoff a safe man to deal with, but so did the gentlemen who proposed to put up the cash to purchase the lands, alter such inquiry as they saw fit to make; the difference between them and Mr. Jones is merely that they lost faith when they learned of the Green Bay affair and he did not. He is out good money and nobody else (except this office, for some printing) is. No one will say that, had fue plan of the promoters been carried out, the city would not have been benefited, and this paper holds Mr. Jones in honor for the endeavor he made to bring about that result, not blameable for its failure nor fairly open to the accusations of the critics. All the same he "catches it."

Lochren's Kind of Justice.

Here is a case exemplifying Lochren's method of giving his beloved comrades all they are entitled to. We find it in the Detroit Tribune:

Fred Smoots of 800 East Fort street is the latest victim of Hoke Smith's pension policy. Mr. Smoots enlisted in the Twenty-fourth Michigan Infantry when seventeen years old and was discharged for mental incompetency in July, 1868. His mental trouble was brought on by typhoid was given a pension of $30 a month in 1888. His condition is such that he is entirely unable to take care of himself and after his pension was granted his sister, Miss Marie A. Smoots, was appointed guardian of his estate. She invested his back pension in the house and lot where he now lives. Miss Smoots has been a teacher in the Detroit schools for the past twenty years, and during that time she has been obliged to care for her brother, and in part for her invalid father as well. Miss Smoots filed her account as "unrdian of her brother in the Probate Court a short time ago, and Judge Durfee found it perfectly satisfactory and gave it a formal approval. But "Major" Crutchfield. formerly of Texas and now special pension examiner, thought that the account was not sufficiently minu'e, and that the proceeding by which the account was approved should be reopened. Judge Durfee refused to consent. Shortly after Smoots' pension was cut off. The loss of this sum, Miss Smoots says, will cause no little inconvenience to her even if it should be but temporary. She says that her brother has not earned $5 since she began teaching school. She has several times in years past attempted to find something which he could do, but he has invariably failed to hold any position and has had to be taken home. His condition is such that a short exposure to the sun renders him dangerous'y ill. Miss Smoots has written to the pension department asking the reason for the suspension but has received no reply and no other reason has been assigned than that of "Major" Crutchfield that he account is not satisfactory to him.

The stock-piles We may hope, too, that calm councils will prevail, and that neither capitalists nor wage earners will give way to unreasoning panic and sacrifice their property or their interests under the influence of exaggerated lears. Nevertheless, every day's delay in removing one of the plain and principal causes of the present state of things enlarges the mischief already done and increases the responsibility of the government for its existence. Whatever else people have a right to expect from congress, they may certainly demand that 'egislation condemned by an ordeal of three years disastrous experience shall be removed from the statute books as soon as the representatives can legitimately deal with it.

It was my purpose to summon congress in special session early in the coming September, that we might enter promptly upon the work of tariff reform, which the true interests of the country clearly demanded, and which so large a majority of the people, as shown by their suffrages, desire and expect, and to the accomplishment of which every effort of the present administration is pledged. But while tariff reform has lost nothing of its immediate and permanent importance, and must in the near future engage the attention of congress, it has seemed to me that the financial condition of the country should at once and before all other subjects, be considered by your honorable body.

I earnestly recommend the prompt repeal of the provisions of the act passed

July 14, 1890, authorizing the purchase of silver bullion, and that other legislative action may put beyond all doubt or mistake the intention and ability of this. government to fulfil it pecuniary obliga tions, in money universally recognized by all civilized countries. [Signed.].

GROVER CLEVELAND, Executive Mansion, Aug. 7th, 1893.

The Model derites only the choicest se-out to work. A few years later and the children, who may go into the mills at 14, will be able to earn enough to make the family entirely comfortable. Indeed many such families as this one promises to be in the course of a few years can save enough from their earnings to buy a home for themselves after awhile.

It seemed to me that it would be quite a practical thing for this family to combine with other families and start a kind of kindergarten, where not only the baby, but all the children under public school age might be cared for at far less expense than was now paid for "minding the baby."

Such a movement as this would doubtless not only meet with the hearty and practical support of well mean. g people in general, but it would be supported by the officials of the mills. I was especially pleased to learn that many of the corporations of these Fall River mills support a bed in the local hospital for the free use of their operatives. The kindergarten would be a philanthropy along the same line.

It will be quite a practical thing to give some statistics of the earnings of this family for the week previous. Those of the man had been $9.72; those of the wife $7. Deduct from this total $2.50 for "minding the baby," and $14.22 is left as the net income of the household. For rent they pay $7.50 per month, and a barrel of flour lasted seven weeks.

The wife explained that she was only working "for a spell to help them out of debt." Of course to do this all the housework must be done after returning tired from the mill at night, when both of them must work late and early in the morning before going to the mill. As the mills start at about half past 6 in the morning it will be seen that very early rising is necessary.

. Nor is this all. It makes life a treadmill with no evenings for recreation. Besides the wife has no time for her needle, and the appearance of the children must greatly suffer. The great relief is found in the fact that, by the most frugal living and by the strictest economy, this wife was not compelled to work in the mill all the time. Still it seemed about impossible for the family, with the strictest economy and sobriety, to do better than was being done until the "boys get big enough to work."

That visit enlightened my understanding, broadened my view and deepened my sympathies. While there are many of the operatives who, like us all, live far below their privileges, still if many of ns could study life from their view point our sympathies for the broadest brotherhood would be deepened .-- Boston Commonwealth.
