

THE PANSY.

Some folks say 'at roses are the sweetest kind of flowers. And they'll set and hold a bunch an' smell of 'em for hours--

THE LOVE OF NONA.

HE music of many violins throbbed on the perfumed air. The well-dressed crowd slowly emptied itself out of the vast auditorium into the noisy, populous night.

THEIR GLANCES MET.

As for him, he allowed himself no luxury of reflection, but lost himself at once in Titanic labor until the gray of morning, when he lay down on a couch and found a few hours' blessed oblivion.

self. They would go away and live somewhere together--such was her vaguely-formed plan. She dispatched a note to Jerome telling him to come to dinner that evening.

"No, Nona, it is impossible--I have no money," he said, at last. "O, is that all?" she answered, relieved and joyous.

He never guessed what an abyss had yawned between them during that brief silence of hers. She rose suddenly and glanced at the clock on the mantel.

She went straight to the hotel where she knew he always staid. It was the same to which he had brought her as a bride so many years ago.

After what had passed between them she felt that she could no longer remain under the same roof with her husband.

SOUTHERN HORSEMEN.

Their Recklessness on Green Horses Astonishes Northern Hunters. It is hard to fathom the spirit of recklessness that most sharply differentiates the southern hunter from his northern brother.

I have known one of my friends in the blue grass to amuse himself by getting into his buggy an unsuspecting friend, who was as sedate then as he is now.

He never guessed what an abyss had yawned between them during that brief silence of hers. She rose suddenly and glanced at the clock on the mantel.

She went straight to the hotel where she knew he always staid. It was the same to which he had brought her as a bride so many years ago.

After what had passed between them she felt that she could no longer remain under the same roof with her husband.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

In Europe at this time some 37,000,000 men are ready to take the field in a fortnight. The Parisian whistles at the theater in order to show his disgust; the Londoner to show his delight and approval.

Three good washes are received by an Abyssinian during his career--at his birth, on his marriage morn, and at his death. At all other times he shuns soap and water.

When Marshal Berthier was in Egypt with Napoleon he was insanely in love with Mme. Viconti, and committed so many absurdities that among his intimates he was known as Chef de la Faction des Amoureux.

FUNGI FOR EATING.

In the Fields and Woods Only Can Mushrooms Be Understood. Fungi, like human beings, give off carbonic acid, and not oxygen, as do most other vegetables.

The active chemical principle which, in very rare instances, causes inconvenience and even death from eating fungi, is called muscarine. It is the same principle which, I believe, is found in putrid, poisonous meat.

In casting steel there has always been more or less difficulty from the tendency of the melted metal to splash. This produces flaws and cracks on the surface of the ingots used for forging guns.

At the seaside or in the country, where the air is clear, 1,500 microbes must be inhaled into the nose every hour, while in London the number often reaches 14,000.

RATTLESNAKE COLORS.

They Come in Many Different Shades, Says a Westerner. A few days ago a Mexican was exhibiting on the streets of Pomona a rattlesnake that he had captured in one of the neighborhood canyons.

One of the interested spectators, who had been looking the snake over carefully, but had said nothing, was Jacob Morency, an old mining prospector who had traveled over nearly all the mining regions of southern California.

Well, said the latter, "you'd better not let him bite you, unless you're ready to pay your debts, say your prayers and die; for he's a rattler all right enough.

FARRAGUT AT THE BOSPHORUS.

No Sultan Could Stop Him from Going to Constantinople. The refusal of the sultan to allow the Bancroft to sail up to Constantinople is not an unprecedented occurrence.

Neither Farragut nor our minister to Constantinople, E. Joy Morris, "scared worth a cent." Farragut declared that in the geographies he had studied it was nowhere stated that the Creator had bestowed on Turkey exclusive dominion over the arm of the sea which divided Europe from Asia.

At the sound of those two words, which had so often irritated her before, her heart was inundated by waves of love and gratitude; and--there being none to see--she put her arms around his neck and hid her face on his shoulder.

Several times this fall sharks have been seen in the Biscayne canal, which was recently cut through from Lake Worth to Biscayne bay. But the shark finds no comfort there. It is the home of the good old alligator, and he resists intrusion.

A Squirrel's Capacious Month. A Dummerston (Vt.) man wished to ascertain how many kernels of corn a chipmunk could carry in its mouth.

PITH AND POINT.

She--"I think a girl looks awful cheap when she first becomes engaged." He--"She may look cheap, but you can bet she's not."--Yonkers Statesman.

She the man. Is the man sitting behind a big theater hat? The man is sitting behind a big theater hat. Does the man breathe vengeance? The man goes out between the acts, and when he comes back he breathes vengeance right through the hat.--Detroit Tribune.

PLENTY OF SHARKS.

The Southeast Coast of Florida Infested This Year. That part of the Atlantic which bends upon the southeast coast of Florida is infested with shark. It is probably the "snarkest" water at this season in the world.

The mail from the north for Miami, Cocoanut Grove and other settlements at the south end of the peninsula used to be carried from Palm Beach by a lone carrier, who followed the beach and crossed the inlets in small boats.

This season vast schools of bluefish, snappers and salt-water mullets have appeared off the coast of Florida, and these have attracted untold thousands of shark from the warm water of the gulf stream, which at that part of the coast flows northward about four miles from shore.

A New Fiber. The pineapple leaf yields a fiber which promises to be of great commercial value. A rope 3/4 inches thick made of this fiber will support a weight of three tons, and from the same material a textile of the fineness of silk is made.

The Iron Port

THE IRON PORT CO., Publishers
LEW. A. CATES, Editor and Manager

The question of iron ore prices for 1897 is beginning to be a very general topic of discussion throughout the large district where Lake Superior ores are the chief supply of the blast furnaces. The Lake ore men throughout the past season maintained the high rates which were fixed at the opening of 1896, notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions of the market, and the furnace-men found themselves obliged to pay those prices in spite of the low quotations, for their iron. This of course, increased the advantage held by the large companies which control their own ore supplies, and were therefore enabled to put down their ores at the furnace at actual cost of transportation. In previous years a sharp decline in pig iron output, such as we have seen this year, would have been followed by a reduction in the prices of Lake ores, but this year it has not been the case. Should the production again increase, as anticipated, the Lake ore men can easily meet the demand, as they are in position to mine and ship any quantity of ore which can possibly be called for. So far they have given no intimation of their intentions. Should they decide to name higher rates, as has been reported, or even to maintain last season's prices, there will be a strong protest from the furnace men and a great deal of argument before contracts are closed.—E. & M. Journal.

Talking of a couple of prize fights lately "pulled off" near Detroit, having been arranged for in that city, the Journal says: "The law of this state is very comprehensive. It covers all the preliminaries of prize-fighting and forbids citizens under threatened pain of punishment to take any part in promoting prize-fighting. But certain citizens ignore the law. They are lawless fellows. They put up money as prizes and pay the expenses of fights. And they are not molested in case they are not discovered at the ring side. The men that arrange for midnight prize-fights violate the law. No matter where the fight takes place the violation of the law is just the same. After the law is thus violated the authorities make no effort to enforce its penalties. The law breakers exult over their evasion of the authorities and boast of their immunity from arrest. The effect is to degrade the law. The law ought to be enforced just as rigidly after the offense as it would be if the offenders were caught in the act. Escape from punishment only whets the eagerness of the violators to commit other like misdemeanors, or even worse ones. We do not treat burglars as we treat these lawless prize-fight promoters. It is not justice."

The best thing in President Cleveland's last message is his chuckling over the defeat of the popocrats. As to the foreign relations of the country—Cuba and Turkey—the message is fairly representative of the popular sentiment, but as to revenue it is not; Mr. Cleveland has revised his opinion as to the Gorman-Wilson tariff and now thinks it will do pretty well if it is let alone; an opinion utterly at variance with not only the popular belief but with the fact as proven by experience. The president has evidently lost nothing of the confidence in his own theories which has characterized him from the first, though the application of those theories in practice has carried his party down to defeat and disrupted it.

The secretary of the State Board of Health has just published (in reprint No. 472) official statistics on the results of the life-saving work of that board, which show that through compliance with the recommendations of that board during the five years, 1890-95, there were probably saved to the people of Michigan about 112,843 cases of sickness and about 5,361 deaths, from the four diseases—diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever and measles. At a very low estimate the money value thereby saved the state during these five years is $5,097,500, or over one million dollars per year, from these four diseases. If all the dangerous diseases were considered the saving would undoubtedly be much more.

Said Webster, "When labor is employed labor can consume; when it is not employed it cannot consume." This is the whole argument for protection in a nutshell.

Just as soon as we open our ports to the free importation of the products of foreign labor, just as soon as we begin to buy the products of foreign labor, American laborers are thrown out of employment and the power to consume is gone. Business comes to a standstill and industries are paralyzed. This has been our experience ever since the triumph of free-trade in 1892 and it is the only experience we can have under free-trade.—American Economist.

How many more affairs like that at San Francisco last week will it take to put a stop to prize fighting? Not another one should be needed. They are not, now, trials of strength, skill and endurance in which "the best man" wins; they are just bunco games, the public and, incidentally, the fighters themselves being the victims and sharp gamblers the beneficiaries. The whole brutal, crooked business should be banned and the so-called "athletic" clubs, too. They are but "stalls" for the gamblers.

The big Rockefeller steel plant at Chicago don't go. Rockefeller and Carnegie have struck hands. Rockefeller will mine ore and transport it to Lake Erie ports and Carnegie will take it there and thence to his furnaces near Pittsburg. The contract runs for ten years and the ore to be handled will be not less than 1,600,000 tons, and the Rockefeller fleet will be increased by the addition of two or more ships. The "combine" is a powerful one.

Counterfeit silver coins—dollars and half-dollars—are plentiful. They contain as much silver as the true coins and their bullion value is the same but the makers can buy the bullion at so low a price that the trade is immensely profitable and detection is very difficult. The treasury officials are endeavoring to devise some change in the coinage to meet the exigency but so far without success.

By invitation of the president-elect Congressman Stephenson stopped off at Canton on Friday of last week. What was wanted of him or what good thing awaited him is, of course, unknown but it may fairly be inferred that he was not invited there merely to shake hands, and it is safe to say that matters connected with the U. S. will have been considered at the interview.

The friends of the Hon. Emil Glaser, (who will upon January first relinquish the office of probate judge, which he has so efficiently filled for more than a quarter of a century,) are urging that gentleman to become a candidate for mayor next spring, and if he consents to the use of his name before the republican city convention there is little doubt that his nomination and election will follow.

Once more word comes from Europe that "the powers" are about to compel the Turk to behave himself. It is bosh. The only remedy for Turkish misrule is the dismemberment of the Turkish empire, and the jealousies of "the powers" will prevent that until Russia is strong enough to absorb it.

"But, Mr. President," says Secretary Olney, "this is a very perplexing question, of vast and vital importance."

"Yes, yes, Richard," replied the president, "so it is—we'll pass it over to McKinley." And it was so ordered.

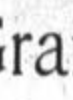

Ex-president Harrison refuses, peremptorily, to be a candidate for senator from Indiana and Washington gossip says that his refusal means that he will be or has been offered the secretaryship of state in McKinley's cabinet. President McKinley could not choose more wisely.

Talk of the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty now in power in China may mean something but to think of establishing a republic in that country is wild; the Chinese are not fit for self-government nor will they be for a century to come.

One of the first questions to be dealt with by the incoming administration and congress will be that of the annexation of Hawaii and there is little doubt that it will be favorably considered.

The News-Tribune talks about "Pingree" and "Anti Pingree" legislators, but does not explain that the "Antis" are the few popocrats and all the rest republicans.

TRIBULATIONS OF ELIZABETH

BY MILLER PURVIS.

"I guess you're from the city?" There was a note of interrogation at the end of this "guess" and the tone in which it was uttered, and the peculiar accent took me back to the gentle hills of the Western Reserve, which I knew must be a-blast with the splendor of the autumn, burning red and yellow, purple and brown under the dun skies of Indian summer.

you ever heard of. Say, are you old enough to remember the wide-awakes?" I acknowledged a dim and misty recollection of those days. "Them was the times," he asserted, slapping his hand on his knee and with a grimace carefully caressing that member immediately after this display of enthusiasm.

"Gone Before."
In loving remembrance of Hattie Ackerman who died Nov. 18th, 96. Aged 7 years, 9 months and 9 days.
There's a beautiful face in the silent air,
Which follows me ever and near;
With its smiling eyes and flaxen hair,
With voiceless lips yet with breath of prayer.
That I feel but cannot hear.

There's a sinless brow with a radiant crown,
And a cross laid down in the dust;
There's a smile whose never a shade comes now,
And tears no more from those dear eyes now,
So sweet in their innocent trust.

There's a beautiful region above the skies,
And I long to reach its shore,
For I know I shall find my treasure there,
The laughing eyes and the flaxen hair
Of the loved one "gone before."

"Calm on the bosom of thy God,
Fair spirit rest thee now;
E'en while with us thy footsteps tread,
His seal was on thy brow."

Dust, in thy narrow cell beneath;
Soul, to its place on high,
They who have seen thy look in death,
No more need fear to die."
