beratic administration. The democrats for years felt the handicap, because they had not been in power and could not point to a record of good business conditions.

General Dawes in his acceptance speech referred to the third ticket as symbolizing a system of administration which was "unsound" and "untried."

Labor Looks Out For Self. The general impression has been conveyed that labor has been a solid political unit in all campaigns.

He has maintained for the most part a policy of non-partisanship largely because the membership of labor is divided between the two major parties.

Chose Banditry As "Vacation Thrill"

er's home. Much Encouraged. On domestic affairs, the president was said to be much encouraged over the business outlook in this country, principally in view of the successful outcome of the international conference on the Dawes reparations plan.

Likewise, he was reported as pleased over the political situation including that in Maine, although reports reaching here have been of a "casual" nature.

The president made it known today that he has asked the army to conduct itself with such tact in plans for Defense Day that no difficulties will arise between the government and civil authorities.

Mrs. Mors' Body Shipped to Home of Aged Mother

(By The Associated Press.)

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—No curious throng annoyed the undertaker's assistants who today removed the body of Mrs. Theresa Mors, shot to death here August 12, from the mortuary where it has lain since the day after the killing, to the baggage car of a train bound for New York, the home of the dead woman's mother.

Woman Is Seeking Vindication From Voters of Texas

(By The Associated Press.)

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 22.—Speaking campaigns of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, the first woman candidate for governor of Texas, and Judge Felix Robertson, her opponent for the Democratic nomination, ended tonight. Each predicted victory.

James E. Ferguson, husband of Mrs. Ferguson, during his second term as governor of Texas some years ago, was impeached by the state senate.

Robertson, judge of a criminal district court at Dallas, is supported by the Ku Klux Klan. He has had little to say concerning Mrs. Ferguson, but has attacked her husband in his speeches, and declared that if Mrs. Ferguson is nominated and elected, her husband really would be the governor.

He denied the Ku Klux Klan is involved as a vital issue, as Ferguson contended, and said the real issue is prohibition.

Harsh Dots Heard; Coming from Mars?

(By The Associated Press.)

London, Aug. 22.—An attempt by British wireless experts to "listen in" on Mars resulted in strange noises being heard at 1 o'clock this morning. The source of the noises could not be ascertained by the experts.

The attempt was made on a twenty-four valve tube set erected on a hill at Dulwich. Representatives of the Marconi company and of London universities were present.

Tuning in started at 12:30 a. m. and at 1 a. m., on a 30,000 metres radius, sounds were heard which could not be identified as coming from an earthly station.

The sounds were likened to harsh dots, but they could not be interpreted as Morse code. The noises continued off and on for three minutes in groups of four and five dots.

DARROW PLEA FOR DEFENSE MASTERPIECE

ates had agreed to take such an amount as the Chicago Bar Association thought proper.

He declared that the state's attorney was asking for a death sentence in the face of conditions that made it contrary to precedent asserting that only one murderer had ever been sentenced to death in this county after a plea of guilty.

Then Mr. Darrow frankly admitted that the defense had pleaded guilty because they "were afraid to place their case before a jury."

He said he and his associates fully realized the heavy responsibility that had placed upon the judge, and added: "If responsibility is divided by twelve it is easier to sway it. But if these boys hang there can be no division of responsibility. You can never explain a hanging by saying that other courts overpowered you."

Taking up an analysis of the case itself, Mr. Darrow read from a scrap of paper the epithets which had been applied to the crime by Thomas Marshall and Joseph Savage, assistant state attorneys: "Cowardly, dastardly, fiendish, cruel, premeditated and cold blooded," he read, and then proceeded to argue against the fitness of each of them.

Hanging "Cowardly." Hanging, he said, would be more cowardly and coldblooded than the crime itself. The killing of Franks, "was one of the least dastardly and cruel" he had ever known about, he said, and in justification of this statement declared that the standard to be applied here was the suffering of the victim.

"Bobby Franks suffered very little," he said. "He was dead within 15 minutes after entering the automobile. He may not have known what happened."

Mr. Darrow declared "stupid" the theory of the state that the $10,000 ransom money was the motive for the crime. He pointed out Leob's private checking account of $3,000 and the testimony of the secretary to Leopold, Sr., that young Leopold was free to get money from the secretary for the asking.

"The murder was not for money," he charged with scorn emphasizing again the shaking forefinger. "It was the senseless act of immature and diseased children wandering around in the dark, whose lives we cannot thoroughly understand."

Ridicules Claim. He ridiculed the claim by the state that the boys stole a typewriter from the University of Michigan fraternity house last October as a preliminary to the Franks crime. He said Leopold had used that machine in writing many letters and that his family knew he had it. He asked the judge if such a course was consistent, compared with the care of the boys on other details. He then argued that the later purchase at successive stores of the rope, chisel and acid used in the murder showed plainly that it was not being planned when the typewriter was stolen.

Mr. Darrow overlooked no opportunity to philosophize against the futility of hanging as a preventative of murder. In one such interlude he quoted the text of a poem, the Soliloquy of a Boy on the Gallows; on another occasion he declared the world had long been and for long would be a "slaughter house."

Effect on Families. Just before the session ended Mr. Darrow began to discuss the effects of the crime on the families.

"I know how easy it is to talk about hanging when you want to do something cruel, as some men talk about patriotism when they want to get something," he said. "I know that any mother might be the mother of a Bobby Franks, as well as the mother of a Richard Leob or a Nathan Leopold. The trouble is this: That if she is the mother of a Nathan Leopold or of a Richard Leob she has to ask herself, 'How came my children to be what they are? From what ancestry did they get this strain? How far removed was the poison that destroyed their lives? Was I the bearer of the seed that brings them to death?'"

"No one knows what will be the fate of the child they beget or the child they bear, and that fate is the last thing they think of. I do not know what made these boys do this mad act, but I do know there is a reason for it."

"I know they did not beget themselves. I know that anyone of an infinite number of causes reaching back to the beginning might be working out in the boys' minds whom you are asked to hang in malice and in hatred and in justice, because some one in the past has sinned against them."

"I am sorry for the fathers as well as the mothers, for the fathers who gave their strength and their lives toward educating and protecting and creating a fortune for the boys that they loved; for the mothers who go down into the shadow of death for their children, who nourish them and care for them."

"They are helpless, but when you are pitying the father and the mother of poor Bobby Franks, what about the mothers and fathers of these two unfortunate boys and what about the unfortunate boys themselves, and what about all the fathers and all the mothers and all the boys and all the girls who tread a dangerous maze of darkness from the cradle to the grave?"

"And do you think you can light en it by hanging these two? Do you think you can cure the hatreds and maladjustments of the world by hanging them? You simply show ignorance and hate when you say it. You may here and there cure hatred with love and understanding, but you can only add fuel to the flame by hating in return.

Report Is Made on Fund Solicitation

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Aug. 22.—Preliminary to a meeting here tomorrow of the committee which is in charge of his campaign for the presidency, Senator LaFollette received a general report tonight from Attorney General Ekern, of Wisconsin, as to the success attending efforts to solicit funds from the public.

Tomorrow Mr. Ekern will meet with the campaign committee which is expected to devote its attention chiefly to the financing of the campaign. Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, national campaign manager, will be here for the meeting and during the day is expected to confer with Senator LaFollette and his running mate, Senator Wheeler, of Montana.

Thus far nothing had been disclosed as to the amount of money that has been raised. Mr. Ekern is concerned solely with receiving contributions from the public, while William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, is in charge of the solicitation of funds from labor organizations and their membership.

Prince of Wales Will Visit U. S. For Second Time

(By The Associated Press.)

London, Aug. 22.—The Prince of Wales spent a busy day packing his personal belongings for his second trip to the United States and receiving many of his intimate friends who called to wish him "bon voyage."

At 4 o'clock this morning he suddenly found it necessary to make more purchases of various essential traveling articles. He dashed into Pleadilly, driving his own little two-seated motor car, and rushed up to a sedate little leather store. There, he started the employes by hurriedly asking for the manager and exclaiming: "I am in a terrible hurry. I want some cases to pack my things in."

Then he drove back to St. James' Palace to resume his packing.

The Cunard Company has taken the greatest pains that nothing should be omitted which might make the prince's voyage a pleasant one. The entire suite which the royal passenger will occupy, can be isolated at will from the remainder of the vessels' accommodations, but it is fully expected that the prince will participate in the customary life of the liner and will take his meals in the regular dining room.

The ball room has been specially decorated for this voyage and a special dance orchestra has been engaged to cater to the prince's well known devotion to dancing.

Ku Klux Klan Is Flayed by Davis

(By The Associated Press.)

Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 22.—The Ku Klux Klan was denounced by name here today by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate.

In a fighting address to the democracy of New Jersey, Mr. Davis condemned that and any other organization raising the standard of racial and religious prejudice. Then he called upon President Coolidge as the standard bearer of the Republican party to join him by "some explicit declaration" in "entirely removing this topic from the field of political debate."

State Producers of Milk Convene

(By The Associated Press.)

East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 22.—Thousands of farmers from many sections of southern Michigan thronged the campus of the Michigan Agricultural college today for the first statewide meeting of the Michigan Milk Producers Association. It was estimated that about 7,500 persons attended.

Milking contests, demonstrations, exhibits, a picnic dinner and addresses by nationally known dairymen featured the event.

Will Further 1925 Acreage

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 22.—Michigan farmers intend to increase their acreage of wheat for next year by at least 80,000 acres, or nine per cent, according to a survey made August 1, the results of which were made public today by L. Whitney Watkins, commissioner of Agriculture and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician.

The increase for the country as a whole is seven and one-half per cent, all of the important wheat states except Pennsylvania, Illinois and Washington, reporting a greater intended acreage than was sown last fall.

A good yield, better prospective future demand, higher price, and a more plentiful supply of labor are the contributing factors toward the increased interest in wheat growing. While this is a marked change, a smaller area was sown last year, and the intentions for 42,919,000 acres; this year will bring the acreage up to the average of recent years, but three million acres under that of two years ago.

The acreage devoted to rye has greatly declined in the last two years, but apparently the farmers of the country are renewing interest in the crop as the survey shows an intention to increase the acreage over last year by 14.1 per cent, bringing the total up to 4,992,000 as compared with 4,377,000 one year ago and 5,157,000 two years ago. However, Michigan farmers have indicated a tendency to still further decrease their acreage of rye to be sown this year, the survey showing a cut of eight per cent as compared with last year.

The actual amount seeded to wheat and rye may not agree with these expressed intentions, but this information is intended to inform farmers as to what the growers in other sections expect to plant. By having a knowledge of the situation at this early date, each can adjust his acreage as he feels the situation warrants, and thereby aid in maintaining a normal production and preventing an over-supply.

Work was begun yesterday morning on the construction of a concrete asphaltic base on Seventh street, preparatory to the laying of the surface, and the street, it was intimated, would be ready for use by September 10.

Approximately one thousand yards of the black base will be laid daily, and after the entire road has been thus constructed, the surface consisting of two inches will be applied. Fifteen days will be required for the laying of the base, while the surface work will require only a few days' time.

The use of the black base is of more practical advantage than the concrete, inasmuch as a shorter time is required. With ideal weather conditions prevailing yesterday and permitting today, it was expected that the Danforth Road job would come to a halt some time this afternoon. The crews will then repair to North Stephenson avenue, where shoulders will be installed at the intersections.

Leo Germaine Is Called By Death

Leo Germaine, age 47, passed away at a local hospital at an early hour Friday morning after an illness of six weeks, due to paralysis. Mr. Germaine suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home, 713 South 13th street, where he lived with his father who is 85 years of age, and who depended solely on the companionship of this son in his old age. He was taken to a local hospital and was seemingly on the road to recovery when he suffered a second stroke.

Mr. Germaine was born in Switzerland and came to this country in 1880 with his parents. He was educated at St. Joseph's parochial school and was employed as a car repairer at the C. & N. W. Ry. shops. He was well known throughout the city and had a host of friends who deeply regret his demise.

Besides his father he is survived by two brothers, Gottlieb, of this city, and August, of Detroit, several uncles, aunts and cousins.

The body was prepared for burial at the Alfo Funeral Home where it will remain until the hour of the funeral services which will be held at nine o'clock Monday morning at St. Joseph's church of which parish he was a devout member.

Fire Fighters Are Called To S. Park

The fire department was called to South Park at ten thirty yesterday morning to extinguish a small blaze originating in the grass on the west side of the park. The fire had considerable headway when the department arrived, and it was only through their timely arrival that a further spread to the building was avoided. The cause of the fire is unknown.

LAUGHTER IS SLOWLY DYING
At Height Of Civilization Man Will Not Laugh.

BY GENE COHN NEA Service Writer
New York.—Laughter is slowly dying! It still has a long time to live before relapsing into a chuckle, then a grin, then a smile—and, finally, complete extinction.
But when man reaches the high state of civilization toward which he aims he will cease to laugh. There will be nothing left to laugh at and, with all strain removed from life, no need for laughter.
Dr. Charles G. Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York University, has figured it all out along logical lines.
Laugh at his conclusions, if you will—many already have done so—but, as Prof. Shaw points out: "To do so is to prove my case."
"People have always laughed at what they didn't understand," he said, laughing frequently as he talked. "They laughed at Columbus and at Galileo. And that's a very important reason why they will cease to laugh some day. On that day they will be thoroughly educated and thoroughly civilized and science will have triumphed, and so they will have risen above laughter."
"There are men alive in this very day who are practically at that state. But they are few. Einstein, the great mathematician, astronomer and scientist, is one of them. Lenin was such a man, and Mahatma Gandhi and Trotsky, to some extent. Einstein is probably the best example. Yet he is laughed at, as was Columbus and the rest. When he is understood and proved they will no longer laugh.
"To bring the matter down to our own affairs: they used to laugh at the old maid, but the feminist movement and changing sex standards are ending that. They laughed at bobbed hair until nearly every woman had a bob. Even prohibition slowly ceases to be so mirth-provoking. My point is that when people become accustomed to things they laugh at they cease to laugh. That is certainly quite obvious.
"Comic supplements, film comedians and stage comedians, joke books—all will find their way to the museums where they will be labeled 'the age of laughter.' But the people who see them will not laugh. Comic strips and all that sort of thing are artificial boluses pumping at full force to keep the dying laughter alive."
Here the professor drew a diagram of what people laugh at and why.
1.—Incongruities—Such as a man in a funny hat, a man slipping on a sidewalk and all the tricks and devices of the stage and screen funny man and the joke books.
"Complete education will end this type of laughter," he says.
2.—Inequalities—People laugh at their inferiors and their betters.
"The coming of socialism, communism or social readjustment will end this," he goes on.
3.—Criticism—This is laughter aimed at things people do not understand; the sort of laughter aimed at the Columbooses and Einsteins.
"Science will kill this type of laughter," he concludes. "This is an age of great laughter because it is a day of great strain. People laugh to relax. Had Lincoln had the easy administration period of a Taft I doubt if he would have gone into history as a great jokesmith. He told funny stories at a time of great crisis to relieve the strain.
"It is well known that some of the funniest men are the most serious. Why? To let down the tension. But when men reach a high state of civilization they will have done away with this strain and so there will be no need of comedy relief.
"Primitive people never laugh. There is rather a shout of triumph, announcing victory. It is essentially cruel. And the basis of a great deal of laughter is cruelty. Think it over. Isn't there some degree of cruelty in laughing at a falling man; at a man who tries to achieve something but is misunderstood?
"Already we have to resort to synthetic smiles. And it is even becoming impolite not to laugh under certain social circumstances. In other words, artificial stimulants have to be given to keep a considerable portion of laughter alive to-day.
"Of yes, I shall probably be laughed at for my opinions; but, then, I enjoy a good laugh myself. It certainly is needed in this hectic generation."

Arraigned For Minor Breach

Maintaining that he had openly violated the state laws relative to the selling and handling of gambling devices, Vincent Jansen of Green Bay, Wis., was arraigned before Justice Doherty Thursday evening and fined $50 and costs, amounting to eight dollars.
Jansen arrived in this city Monday from Iron Mountain, where he asserted that his partner, F. Walter of Kaukauba, Wis., was engaged in a similar enterprise. Both are disposing punch boards to individuals and confectionery shops, and Jansen was in the act of selling one to a local individual when apprehended.
Jansen awaited the arrival of his associate from Iron Mountain before a disposition of the case was made yesterday morning. In the meantime he had deposited sufficient property at the police station to insure his appearance the following morning.

ANNOUNCE 1924 MICHIGAN AGGIE GRID SCHEDULE
To Play U. of M., Northwestern and S. D. State

(By The Associated Press.)
East Lansing.—Completion of the 1924 Michigan Aggie football schedule with such teams as Northwestern, University of Michigan and South Dakota State listed, coupled with the fact that the new Aggie Stadium will be formally dedicated this fall, forecasts an unusually successful season in the opinion of college athletic authorities. They are generally elated with the line up of the schedule. The big home game of the season will be October 11, when the University of Michigan will meet the Aggies in a dedication game. Appropriate ceremonies will mark the opening of the stadium but they will not be needed to make the game attractive.
Although each year the Michigan-Aggie game is the magnet for thousands of fans who are interested in the ancient rivalry between the schools, this will be the first clash between the two on the Aggie grounds in ten years.
The remainder of the schedule is:
September 27—Northwestern College, here.
October 4—Olivet, here.
October 18—Chicago Y. M. C. A., here.
October 25—Northwestern University, at Evanston.
November 1—Lake Forest, here.
November 8—St. Louis University, at St. Louis.
November 15—South Dakota State, here.

GARDEN PLANS ON BIG DOING SUNDAY P. M.

One of the greatest picnics in the history of Garden will take place Sunday afternoon, August 24th. Plans are being arranged by special committees to have everything ready for that date. This outing is to celebrate the recent victory that Rev. Fr. Moran achieved during the late Morning Press Campaign.
The Manistiquie Council of the Knights of Columbus have arranged to hold their annual picnic at the same time on the DeLoria Picnic Grounds, and a good time can be expected.
The general public is cordially invited to attend and also to take part in all the games and sports that have been arranged by both the special committees and the K. of C's.
It is hoped that all who are at liberty next Sunday will take advantage of this opportunity to spend a pleasant afternoon, hence the reason for the everybody welcome policy. There will be a ball game in the afternoon, also a picture play and vaudeville in the evening at the Rex theatre.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Emil Johnson and daughter, Elaine, of Iron Mountain, have been called to the city by the illness of Mrs. Johnson's father, Gihard Olson, of Bark River, who is a patient at St. Francis hospital.

SUFFERED TWELVE YEARS WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

"My recovery has been a surprise to myself and all my friends," recently declared Jacob Ferdinand, R. F. D. 2, Fond Du Lac, Wis., a prominent citizen of this city, in relating his remarkable experience with Tanlac.
"The suffering I went through from stomach trouble for 12 or 13 years simply can't be described. In my efforts to find relief I spent over one thousand dollars, but kept getting worse instead of better. A large part of two years I was laid up in bed and for four months of that time I couldn't get up at all.
"Finally I sent my daughter for a bottle of Tanlac with the result that I found immediate relief, and seven bottles made a well and happy man of me. I will gladly talk to anyone personally and answer all letters regarding my experience with Tanlac. It proved a godsend to me."
Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

SWEEP OFF THE SCUM.
Members of the Escanaba city council, through instructions to the city manager, have taken commendable steps to wipe out in Escanaba the habit of loafing about the entrances to billiard halls and street corners of the city.

A lot of slick haired, near shiks, who consider their afternoon and nighty presence at certain locations necessary to the proper decoration of the business district, need parental attention about as badly as they require police action. It must be an eminently high ideal of manhood held by parents who permit their sons to degenerate into curb lizards—mere street loungers of the lowest type. It is truly an elevating spectacle, indicative of the high standard of Escanaba's coming manhood, to find each afternoon and evening, grouped about the sidewalks, in front of pool halls and at popular street corners, veritable gangs of cigaret smoking, foul mouthed youths who consider a calloused hand an eternal disgrace and a work troubled brain a thing to be religiously shunned.

The public can but extend a vote of sympathy to parents who are raising by harbouring, such sons. But our sympathy for those unfortunate parents should not imper the decisive action of the police department to accomplish what the parents have so palpably failed in doing—to banish this scum from the sidewalks.

CLAIMS WOOD HURTS SCOTT.
While the Soo News asserts that Frank D. Scott holds an advantage because of his wider acquaintance, in the race for the Republican nomination for congressman in this district, it is admitted by that newspaper that Dr. W. A. LeMire of Escanaba, will profit in the Soo from the fact that James C. Wood of Manistique, will take more votes from Scott than he will from LeMire.

Those who feel that way include some, of course, who feel that it is time the upper peninsula sent a man to Washington to represent the Seventh district. The district comprises thirteen counties, seven below and six above the Straits of Mackinac, and the six counties above the Straits have at least 60 per cent of the population of the district.
Two men of the upper peninsula are in the race. James C. Wood, of Manistique, and Dr. LeMire, of Escanaba, both former members of the State Senate. If the upper peninsula could only be got to unite on one man, there would be little doubt of his nomination and election. But it does not seem to work out that way. Take the Sault, for instance. Here Wood and Lemire will both get votes as will Scott, of course. Wood will probably take more from Scott than from Lemire, and so be a source of help and strength to Lemire, in a sense. Meggison is not expected to figure strongly here, although he will have a good deal of farmer support, as a result of his leadership of the farm bloc in the state legislature.

SPREAD TOP-SIDE.
When there was vigorous agitation in favor of a reduction in the tariff on vegetable fats the market price of butter fats declined 7 cents per pound. The vegetable oils come into competition more or less with butter fat. Even the fear of a possible injury to the domestic market was sufficient to cause a decline in the market. How much greater would be the injury if a Democratic victory next November made it certain that oils and fats would go on the free list or be deprived of adequate protection. To use an old expression, the dairymen know which side of their bread the butter is on.

LOVE

BY HAROLD MATSON.
Boston, Aug. 22.—The City of Boston doesn't want to let Minnie Yuda marry Kieve Kaplan. Minnie is a waitress, 42 years old. She is a big, strong woman of Russian peasant stock. Some-how romance escaped her in her youth. Minnie has always worked, serving meals in restaurants where tired laborers eat. Here has been a lonely life.
And now that Minnie has found one she loves the law, which she does not understand, says that it cannot be.
When she first applied for a license she was given an application blank to fill out, and after the name, Kieve Kaplan, she wrote the age, 21.
The clerk balked. She would have to bring the groom, if he was that much younger than she. "But he cannot come," she cried. Minnie's tears and plead left the clerk wretched.

Helen Lorimore's Legacy

PUMP-HOUSE VISITOR.
Chapter XXXV.
Helen and Edward Lee had met again and had talked longer than usual. Guardedly she tried to show her sympathy, hoping he would at last confide in her. But save on impersonal subjects he kept silence.
"Did you ever know my uncle, Mr. Drayton, and his son Roy?" Helen once abruptly asked. When he fell silent her thoughts wandered to the subject not long absent from her mind.
"How should I know them? I am taboo about here," he replied.
"Forgive me—I thought perhaps you might have met them sometime." Helen commenced to talk of books she had read, and he joined in their discussion with zest, as he always did whenever she talked of subjects other than himself, his habits.

caught. Almost, Helen wished she had wakened Wheelock and asked him to come with her. Scarcely had the thought crossed her mind when the man turned slightly. It was Wheelock himself!
He was dressed as he had been on that other night, but his hat was pushed off his face and Helen saw him quite plainly. He took up the stones as had done before. The girl altered her position slightly, and saw an open bag at his side. He put the money and a bundle of papers in the bag, thrusting the canvas that had held them into his pocket.
Was Wheelock the owner of the money? Had he chosen this place to hide it instead of putting it in a bank? Helen knew there were people who did such things.
She had changed her mind about letting the man know he was observed as soon as she realized it was Wheelock. But she must wait as long as she dared to see, if possible, what he did with the satchel.
To her surprise, he took a shovel leaning against the wall and, digging deeper, put the satchel in the hole, replaced the dirt and commenced to put back the stones.
Quickly Helen left, and ran swiftly to the house. Listening intently she heard him come in a few moments later. Then all was still.
The mystery was greater than ever, or so it seemed to Helen. Tomorrow—Helen Obtains The Canvas Bag.

REPUBLICANS MAKE CUT IN DEPARTMENT

Civilian Employees Reduced 52 Per Cent Under G. O. P. Rule.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Efforts of the Republican Administration to substitute economies in the various departments of the government, without affecting efficiency, have made themselves manifest in striking fashion in the War Department, according to reports circulating here.

When President Harding was inaugurated, on March 4, 1921, this branch of the government service had a payroll of 90,406 civilians, of whom 9,548 were in the offices at Washington. Recent statements by the Department reveal that the total number of civilians now employed throughout the country is only 43,458, of whom only 4,609 are in Washington. This is a reduction of 52 per cent.

This reduction has been accomplished gradually through institution of policies of consolidation and retrenchment. The actual reduction becomes a more pronounced indication of the strict enforcement of a policy of economy when it is considered that the field of endeavor for civilian employees was materially enlarged during the world war.

Technical Experts Needed.

"The need for technical experts is greater in many branches than before the war," a recent statement by the department says, "and, in addition, there have been organized two new branches which have unusual requirements in this respect, namely the Air Service and the Chemical Warfare Service. These services, combined, have more than 2,500 civilian employees. If this total, therefore, is deducted from the present grand total, there would remain fewer than 29,000 such workers, as compared to 55,911 employees before the war. A measure of the benefits accruing to the country from this curtailment of War Department expenditures may be found in the estimates for the department's appropriations for the fiscal year 1925. These cut the 1924 appropriation by $179,334 for pay of civilian personnel, which will mean even a further reduction in the ranks.

NUMBER OF SUN SPOTS INCREASE

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington.—Old Sol's getting his "measels" again. Between February and August of last year the sun had a minimum of spots. Professor George H. Peters of the United States Naval Observatory here has observed. The number of spots now is increasing and will increase for a number of years. The sun spot cycle occurs every 11.1 years, says Professor Peters, and has just passed the minimum, with the next minimum in prospect for 1932.

For a number of days during the middle of 1923 no spots were seen on the sun's disc. Just where the sun spot for sun spots is given by a difference of opinion.

During the period of sunspot minimum the intensity of the northern lights in the lower latitudes, some evidence of intense magnetic conditions. Some spots do not produce marked northern lights, while others do. Just which spots cause probable increase in the rainbow colored aurora is a problem which Professor Peters is working on.

Such clear day of the year at noon, Professor Peters photographs the sun. A photoheliograph, with five inches aperture and 40 feet focal length is used. The image of the sun is taken on a plate four and a half inches in diameter. The light is thrown into the camera from the surface of an unsilvered mirror.

Professor Peters has been in charge of this work for 25 years.

GREAT BRITAIN TO BUILD NEW GIANT AIRSHIP

(By The Associated Press.)

Cardington, England.—To make room for the laying down of Britain's new giant airship of 200,000 cubic feet capacity, the old R-33 is being reconditioned for an experimental flight to India where a mooring mast and gas generating plant are to be erected.

At the same time that work commences on the big ship at Cardington, another of similar size will be begun at Howden. Each of these immense airships will be approximately 760 feet long, 110 feet in diameter, and capable of carrying 200 passengers at 80 miles an hour on a non-stop flight of 3,000 miles.

It is stated that such a vessel cruising at 40 miles an hour will be able to remain in the air for nearly three weeks without needing to replenish fuel. Steel is being considered as a possible substitute for duralumin in the structure, and engines that will burn a mixture of hydrogen and oxygen are being experimented with.

COOL EYES WATCHED MURDER

Here is a new picture of Miss Florence McKinney, 19, who sat at the wheel of an automobile on a lonely road near St. Joseph, Mich., while her sweetheart, Emil Zupke, strangled to death Miss Cora Raber, whom he had also promised to wed. The picture was taken of Miss McKinney in the county jail at Benton Harbor, Mich. It gives a remarkable facial study of the girl, showing the cool set eyes and stern mouth.

HAZEN BROS. MAKE SUCCESS OF EXPERIMENT

Delta County Canned Strawberries Placed On The Market.

Strawberries raised and packed in Delta county have been placed on the market by the National Grocer Company of this city.

As an experiment to demonstrate the possibilities in that field Hazen Bros., of Garden, strawberry growers, have packed 100 cases of canned strawberries at their farm and the Garden product is to be marketed by the National Grocer Company under the nationally known Light House brand.

The shipment from the Garden canners was delivered yesterday and will be immediately reshipped to purchasers already hooked by the local company.

"Best Ever Tested."

"We have been opening canned strawberries in this house, to test their quality, for the past 20 years and none have ever surpassed the product put up by Hazen Bros.," said M. J. Ryan, Escanaba manager for the National Grocer Company. "The pack is unusually solid, in heavy syrup, and the flavor of the berries is the best I have ever tasted. We could sell thousands of such berries if we could get them."

Members of the Garden firm returned to that locality a few years ago after spending several years at Rockford, Ill., where one of the brothers had considerable experience in fruit preserving work. They established a strawberry farm at Garden and originally planned to dispose of their entire product as fresh berries.

Enlarge Output.

Last fall, members of the firm took up the matter of marketing canned strawberries with Mr. Ryan and were assured that if their product was of a high standard there would be no limit to the market. A small cannery was established at the farm and this year but a portion of the crop was canned. The experiment has proven so successful, however, that next year all of the strawberries from a large acreage will be canned and in addition, Hazen Bros., next season will can a large quantity of red raspberries.

REPORTS ARE ENCOURAGING

Encouraging reports regarding the position of the lumber industry continue to come in from all producing sections, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. Southern pine statistics show that bookings continue to exceed production by a big margin. Shipments also are considerably above output, with the result that stocks are declining. Distributors state that it is not always easy to place an order, especially for mixed cars, on account of many mills being over-sold on staple items. Southern pine prices are steady and are tending upward, though no appreciable advances have occurred during the last two weeks.

Douglas fir mills are taking a firm attitude toward the market. Demand has developed satisfactorily during the last several weeks, and is well ahead of output. There has been an especial improvement in the call from the middlewestern agricultural districts, due to the better financial position of the farmer, which permits him to go ahead with much repair and construction work that heretofore has been postponed on account of lack of money. Foreign trade meanwhile holds up at around the normal mark, and domestic cargo markets absorb a good volume of lumber. This fact is proved by the statistical showing that nearly half of all recent sales by mills reporting to the West Coast Lumbermen's Association have been for water delivery, about one-third of these being for foreign delivery and two-thirds for domestic destinations. Lumber stocks on the west coast are low and much depleted, and prices are steadily strengthening.

The current barometer of the Western Pine Manufacturers' Association shows that orders for inland Empire forest products leaped up to 108 per cent of normal—the best showing made by this wood for many months. Western pines have been exceedingly drabby, but the recent developments lead manufacturers and distributors to predict that the turn has definitely come, and that good business will be enjoyed for probably the rest of the year. This prediction is based on the activity of most of the large consuming industries and the good outlook for fall retail trade, particularly in the country districts, as well as on the fact that stocks in consumers' hands everywhere are very low. Current western pine production is 10 per cent below bookings, and stocks are as a whole not heavy. Prices on common have advanced again during the last week, while those on shop remain firm. The hardwood trade is described as satisfactory and improving. Furniture interests are buying on a larger scale than for several months, and are expected to increase their purchases still further in September. Flooring, cash and door and interior trim makers remain the heaviest consumers, and a good deal of trade is also transacted with box, agricultural implement and miscellaneous manufacturers, while export trade is well maintained. Comparatively little activity in the market is yet being shown by the automobile industry. Hardwood prices are firm and have shown some advances, notably in common oak and red gum.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.
