Linen Shower.
A linen shower was given in the hall at Flat Rock last Saturday night, complimentary to Miss Irene Vau who is soon to be married. Fifty couples attended. Dancing furnished the principal amusement of the evening. Miss Vau received many gifts.

Schaffer Barn Dance.
The big new Daigneault barn at Schaffer is to be the scene of a popular dance Thursday evening, September 11, and indications are that one of the largest crowds ever gathered on a similar occasion will be present. These barn dances have achieved a marked popularity in the Schaffer vicinity and the famous Johnson orchestra of the city has promised an entirely new and novel program of dance music for the big party Thursday night. Lunch is to be served and reports of the Firpo-Wills prize fight will be received by radio.

Trainmen's Auxiliary.
The Ladies' Auxiliary of the B. of R. T. will meet Thursday afternoon, September 11, at North Star Hall. After the business session a pot luck lunch will be served.

Bergeon-Schlimberg.
A pretty marriage ceremony was solemnized at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when Miss Sarah Bergeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bergeon, 317 Ludington Street, became the bride of Charles Schlimberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schlimberg, 321 Ludington Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Bertrand Labinski at St. Joseph's rectory. The attendants were Miss Irene Shedor, niece of the bride and Charles Perryman, a close friend of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a pretty white georgette gown with white hat and wore a corsage of roses, sweet peas and swansonia. The bridesmaid wore a light grey canton crepe dress with hat to match and a corsage of sweet peas, roses and baby breath.
A six o'clock dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. Immediate relatives and close friends attended. A reception was held at 8:00 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Shedor, 892 South 17th St., where a large number of friends were entertained. The couple have a host of friends in this city who wish them happiness. The bride was formerly employed at the Press office in the jobbing department while the groom is employed in the printing department.
Out-of-town guests included Mrs. George Salt, Turin, Mich.; Mrs. Zana Rivers, Muskegon, Mich.; and William Bergeon, Battle Creek, Mich.

Dubard-Miller.
Miss Cecelia Dubard, daughter of Joseph Dubard, 625 North 30th street, and Leonard D. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Miller, 205 North 19th street, were united in marriage at St. Patrick's church Sunday morning at six o'clock. Rev. Fr. Raymond Bergeron performed the ceremony.
The attendants were Miss Cecelia Gaffner and Howard W. Miller, a brother of the bridegroom.
The bride was neatly attired in a gown of tan canton crepe with hat of corresponding color and carried a shower bouquet of roses and snapdragons.
The bridesmaid's dress was also of tan canton crepe but a shade lighter. Her hat and other accessories were of contrasting shade and her shower bouquet was of snappdragons and tea roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents, the guests being limited to the immediate relatives. Covers were laid for fourteen guests. The home was artistically decorated in ferns and cut flowers.
The couple left for an extended motor trip after which they will make their home in this city.
Both are popular with the younger set and have a host of friends who join in wishing them happiness.

Sociality Meeting.
The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Joseph's parish held a most enthusiastic meeting at the club rooms Monday evening when 77 girls were in attendance. This was their regular business meeting and plans were made for the annual Christmas sale of fancy work which will be held Dec. 2, 3, 4 and 5. The young ladies are planning on holding this sale on a larger scale than ever before attempted and early preparations are now under way. A baked sale is also planned for Saturday, Sept. 20. The place where the baked sale will be held will be announced later.
Miss Adeline Henry was named to succeed Miss Hazel Todd as secretary for the Sodality, while Miss Catherine O'Neil was named to succeed Miss Marie Scheriff.
Five new members were enrolled Monday evening. Thursday evenings the young ladies will meet at the club rooms to sew articles for the Christmas sale.

FR. COIGNARD TO BE SPEAKER
Defense Day Program Is Completed by Local Committee.
The Rev. Fr. Alphonse Coignard, of the Perkins Catholic church, will be the principle speaker at the Delta county observance of National Defense Day, to be held Friday night, O. I. Banded, chairman of the committee in charge of the event, announced yesterday. Fr. Coignard's skill and power as an orator are well known here, and his discussion of "Defense Day Studied in the Light of History and Common Sense" is certain to be an illuminating and instructive exposition.
The meeting in the high school auditorium, will follow a parade which will form on Ludington street, opposite the federal building, at 7:30 o'clock. It will be headed by the Escanaba Municipal band and a legion color squad. Included in the line of march will be three units of the 332nd Engineers and one unit of the 337th Infantry—reserve detachments which have their headquarters in Escanaba. Volunteers will fill the ranks of the four companies. Every man of military age who could be counted upon to offer his services to the government in case of a national emergency is urged to take his place in the line. This act entails no military obligation whatever.
C. N. Wood to Preside.
At the high school, Charles N. Wood will preside, opening the meeting with a call to order. The assembly, led by the band, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner." Charles E. Lewis will explain the "Purpose of the Defense Test," and Capt. L. D. Goddard, adjutant of the 332nd Engineers, will give an explanation of mobilization. Then will follow Fr. Coignard's address and a prayer for national safety and the preservation of peace to be pronounced by the Rev. A. I. E. Ross, of St. Stephen's Episcopal church.
The singing of "America" will close the meeting.
Numerous civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations have signified their intention to participate in the affair.

BILL CLARK WILL BE BARRED FROM "GOLF TOURNEY"
The committee in charge of the Horseshoe Tournament, which will be one of the big features of the Northern Michigan Fair beginning Sept. 16th in Escanaba, is facing what is generally regarded as a rather delicate, if not serious, situation.
When plans were first made for the tournament in which $25 in cash and other valuable prizes will be awarded, it was considered the logical thing to throw the competition open to everyone. But within the last two days the committee has received information which may make it necessary to bar one citizen of Escanaba who has one declared that he is going to pitch horseshoe for three days steady just to show that he holds no prejudice against the game.
"Bill" Clark a Pro.
W. J. Clark, the genial, affable and athletic secretary of the Kurz Bros. company, is the man who is giving the committee cause for thought. Personally they all like Bill and would like to see him do well, but they claim he will have a big advantage by reason of activities at an earlier stage of his business career. They say that in the old days when Kurz Bros. were the biggest horse dealers in this section, and it was necessary to shoe a horse with speed and eclat and four-pound shoes, a barn man would grab a hind leg of Dobbin, turn the hoof in the general direction of Bill Clark and that worthy workman would cast a shoe 23 paces, landing it squarely in position for nailing on.
Naturally, it is contended, Bill would be likely to run away with all the prize money and so plans are now being formulated to keep him out of the game without injury to his feelings.
Careful Supervision.
Otherwise, everything is moving along splendidly for the big tournament. Everybody in the county but Bill Clark can compete. There will be approximately $50 in cash prizes. There will be a 30-foot course for women "pitchers" and a $5 prize is offered for the best score.
P. J. Groos will be in charge of all competition and special judges of his own selection will assist him. The courses for the men will be 40 feet long and the rules of the National Horseshoe Association will govern all contests. Players will be expected to compete as individuals and team play scores will not be figured in the tournament. A fee of 25 cents will be charged for each game, which entitles the entrant to pitch 45 shoes. One may enter or play as many games as he wishes.
Regulation courses will be laid out in sufficient number to accommodate all players and they will be afforded ample "elbow room" through having the courses roped off to keep the crowds back.
Would Popularize Sport.
The idea is to introduce this revived sport to men from every part of the county and stimulate interest in a game which is again sweeping the country. Horseshoe has displaced golf in some sections and the national tournaments held in the south each winter have gone far toward reviving this popular and healthful pastime.
It is confidently believed that this will be one of the big events of the fair and the committee in charge, under the leadership of W. H. Needham, is leaving nothing undone to make it a great success.

"Straight G. O. P." Vote Demanded Primary Ballot
The Michigan primary has been operative for many years, yet it apparently is not well understood by some voters. An elderly man, who asked for aid in marking his ballot in one of the local polling places, yesterday, was greatly incensed when he was told there was no way in which he could "vote a straight Republican ticket." Precinct officers had considerable difficulty in making him understand that nominations were in order and that the election will not come until November.

ANTHRAX IN SOUTH.
Anthrax has been discovered among the cattle of several southern and western states. Cattle and sheep are most susceptible, although none of the domestic animals is exempt. It is caused by a germ taken in with food and through wounds, and multiplies rapidly in the blood.
Between 1912 and 1922 the national wealth of the United States was increased by 72.2 per cent, according to a British statistician.

"RIDE FOR YOUR LIFE"

They cheated the good-natured cowboy out of his hard-earned money—they robbed him of his ranch! But they couldn't get away with it! Quick as a flash he mounted his horse and cleaned out the gambling den. It's a typical Hoot Gibson drama—full of action and thrills—horsemanship and marksmanship.

Hoot Gibson's droll portrayal of Bud Watkins, cowpuncher—mournfully in love, but bold as a bandit—it marks a new phase in his career. The break-neck feats of horsemanship in this picturesque romance will make you gasp.

Orange and Black Holds First Meet Of School Year

Plans for the year's activities were discussed at the first meeting of the school year of the Orange and Black Society of the local high school, held last night. Various phases of school activities and a large number of plans were suggested and considered, but no definite action was taken on any of them.
An interesting talk was given by Hugh Kitchen, an honorary member of the society, who gave a number of sidelights and descriptions of various points of interest he had visited last summer during a tour of Europe.
New officers of the Orange and Black who took office last night are as follows: Almon Arnold, president; Victor Powers, vice president; Roland St. Mitchell, secretary; and Warren Edwards, treasurer.

Helen Lorimore's Legacy

BY JANE PHELPS.

HELEN STRUGGLES AGAINST LONELINESS. Chapter XLIX. Chet Warren's declaration of love had been a complete surprise to Helen. His youth, his friendly ground upon which she had received him, had not warmed her. She perhaps underestimated the young rancher who had met so few girls and women of her type. But it was with a sort of self-flattery that she thought of him. She was still attractive, men still admired her. Helen thrilled to the knowledge. She was not yet in the old maid class, although she had declared so many times she was. It is hard for a girl, a woman who has been accustomed to admiration all her life, who has been sought after, to feel that she is in the discard insofar as awakening interest in men is concerned. Helen was honest with herself, as honest as she was with others. And the self-conscious thrill it gave her to know she still had the power to quicken a man's pulses gave her a sort of courage, while she was sorry for Chet. But she believed—as she told him—that he would find someone else. He was young, charming, wealthy. But—she had attracted him. Why couldn't she have won Roy Drayton's love? Never had Helen consciously tried to win Roy's love. She had given hers unasked, unsought, unconsciously at first. Often as she thought of Roy she recalled the way his face would light up when he saw her, his eagerness, away, to leave her. Instinct rose in Helen, strong, combative. Conflicting emotions took possession of her. Had he after all cared, and for some reason of his own gone away? If he did not return her love, why should she have been so strangely moved when with him? "If he were only here I should know," she said to herself. And at another time: "If I could be spared I'd go to him, be sure." But to leave the ranch was out of the question. Helen had not an idle moment all day long, and often worked late over her books. Wheelock's job had been no sinecure, and now she did his work as well as that she had done when he was with her. Helen rode with the men when they branded or rounded up the cattle. She kept strict watch of all the different phases of the business end of the ranch. She made her own deals, bought and sold, relying on her own judgment. Only occasionally did she seek advice, and then of the elder Mr. Downing. She never weakened her position by consulting her own men. To them she gave orders that must be implicitly obeyed. If she made mistakes she alone suffered from them. And she made very few. The years Helen had so dauntlessly studied the needs of the ranch, the things she had learned from Wheelock, had given her a clear insight as to what she must do, what avoid. Men at times tried to take advantage of her, especially in buying and selling, but she kept herself too well posted for it to happen often, knew the value of her stock too well. No cattle buyer could take advantage of her the second time. With all her varied interests, all her absorbing duties, there were times when Helen was almost unbearably lonely—lonely for appreciation from one she loved, lonely for companionship. Occasionally she would steal an hour, and by the little brook where she had first met Roy Drayton, would live over those days when they chatted together. But it was oftenest at night when loneliness seized her; and she would stand at her window gazing at the blur of distant mountains, thinking of him, steeling herself to go on alone. No one dreamed Helen was lonely. She turned a bright smiling face to those about her at all times. She was no love-sick maiden, whining because she had been passed by. But she was a loving, steadfast woman, only letting her own heart know the bitterness it carried day after day. The future held no golden promises for her. All her world was centered on the ranch. Claire had a baby son, and Helen had gone over for the christening. Something very like envy stirred her as she heard the grandfather talk of the "some day" when the little atom of humanity would inherit his broad acres. Unless Roy outlived her, who would inherit the L.M. Ranch? The day the baby was christened Helen was 32. Claire had tried to make a double delight of the day by having a birthday dinner party for Helen, with a cake, candles and the like. But although she gave no sign, Helen's thoughts would not cease straying—wondering what the REASON FOR PRIDE. Americans are justified in taking considerable pride in the successful flight of army aviators around the world, the first time the feat has ever been accomplished. It is an epoch in the history of aviation which will have a marked influence upon the future aerial development in the world. Fifty years ago if a man had predicted the accomplishment of this feat, he would have been branded a lunatic. Yet on Saturday the flight of the American aviators which has held the world's attention during the last four or five months was completed. The accomplishment emphasizes the rapid strides taken during the last half century by science through inventions and the application of old principles to new things. The aviators who made the flight are modest heroes. To them the flight was a business and they nerved themselves to complete it, despite its dangers and its hardships. They are typical Americans. Praise is due to the mothers who hoped and prayed that their sons might return. They gave their sons unwaveringly that the feat might be accomplished. They rejoiced as much in the safe return as the successful accomplishment of the feat. They are typical American mothers. Through them the spirit of America is perpetuated. HEAVY PRICE FOR CRIME. Word from Chicago is that the Leob-Leopold hearing will cost the community not less than $100,000. That sum is less than a regular trial would cost, but it is illuminative in that it informs the public, not only there but everywhere, that crime is enormously expensive in dollars and cents, to say nothing of its hideousness. Chicago now has attained a record of a murder a day. Not all of these crimes will entail such expenses as are attached to the Leob-Leopold hearing, but one of them will fall to take the money toll from the pockets of the taxpayers. And what is true in Chicago is also true in every other community where crimes, great or small, are committed. Every time an offense against the law is perpetrated, whether it be a minor or major degree, it takes to the pocket of every citizen who takes therefrom, in either so many cents or dollars, as the case may be. Soak your hide!

WE ARE very happy this morning. The tremendous cast for us yesterday for the governorship of the State of Superior far exceeded our most optimistic expectations. We had expected to be successful, of course. But we had not hoped to be favored by the terrific landslide of ballots which completely buried our opposition. We prefer to regard the demonstration, not as a tribute to us, personally, but to the principles for which we stand. Right, as ever, has been triumphant. Justice has prevailed. The great State of Superior has rallied to the clarion call of Liberty and Equality. As a governor of Superior, we shall endeavor to merit the confidence the people have exhibited in us. Secretly, of course, we believe that it is the people who should be congratulated.

WOOSTER BANS BOBBED HAIR

There Are No "Bang-Tails" In His String of Thoroughbred Horses

Bobbed hair no longer is considered the proper thing on the big racing tracks of the country, but long before "bang tails" had disappeared from turf circles, Alie T. Wooster had been refusing to barber his horses. There isn't a single horse in the Wooster string, now working out at the fair grounds in preparation for next week's fair exhibitions, that has ever worn his tail shingled.

"I love horses," Mr. Wooster said. "I wouldn't own so many if I didn't. And I know that Nature provided long tails for the equine family because long tails were necessary to the horses' comfort. Further than that, long tails add to the animal's beauty. So I decided years ago not to do any more bobbing. I have adhered rigidly to that decision, no matter where my horses happened to be."

Horses Like the Town.

Mr. Wooster was a pioneer in the anti-bang-tail movement which, in the last few years, has swept the big stables.

The 18 thoroughbreds in the Wooster stable seem to be enjoying their stay here.

"I've never seen them more contented," said the owner. "They like your town, which makes it unanimous for all the human members of the party like it too. At of the horses are in splendid shape and we'll show you some real speed next week."

A FAST STEPPER AT 83!

John A. Parker, 83, of Tacoma, Wash., traveled all the way to Chicago in search of the Fountain of Youth. And, judging from this picture, he found it. Now he is proving himself quite some stepper. He is going to learn to trip off all the latest dances. But just to get back into practice, he's rehearsing with Mildred Sterberg, the old "buck and wing", in which he says he was quite proficient half a century ago.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CHARACTER

The following tribute to the character of Robert M. LaFollette is published at the request of the Progressive Voters League of Escanaba:

Who is this man LaFollette? Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney of Philadelphia, moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, one of the most distinguished clergymen in America, answered the question in a sermon delivered in Pittsburgh last Sunday night.

According to the report printed in the New York Times, Dr. Macartney said:

As for the candidate of the third or independent party, Robert M. LaFollette, he has been more tried, as by fire, than any other of his competitors.

The fires of excretion and passion and hatred have swept around him.

But after his long service as governor, representative, Senator and Independent leader, there he stands, his character without reproach, his beautiful home life without a stain, and his most insane enemies unable to point to a single act in his long public career which would discredit him.

Dr. Macartney is not a "radical." By many he is regarded as an ultra-conservative, but his conservatism does not blind him.

He recognizes greatness when he sees it, and, having recognized it, he does not hesitate to publicly acknowledge it.

"His most insane enemies unable to point to a single act in his long public career which would discredit him."

What finer tribute could be paid to any man?

Dollar bills just naturally seem to be afraid of collection plates.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Every once in a while a screen star whose work has reached a definite standard of artistry, is presented in a feature, in which he outdoes all his former efforts. That is precisely what "Rudolph Valentino" does in "Monsieur Beaucaire," the photoplay which brings him back to the silver screen after more than a two years absence. Time has but added to his irresistible fascination so that if the feminine hearts have fattered more violently last night at the Delft Theatre, there has been a mighty good reason for it.

The role of the Duke de Chartres, champion duellist and lover extraordinary, is a particularly congenial one to the handsome Valentino and part affords an even wider dramatic scope than he has previously played including, "The Shiek" and "Blood and Sand."

The production has a thousand points of interest. It is one of the most extravagantly mounted historical romances, yet preserves its distinction by satisfying the eye in the matter of lavish settings and marvelous costumes without permitting them to overshadow the dramatic value of the story.

As notable a cast as ever assembled is seen in support of the star. Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson, Lowell Sherman, Doris Kenyon, all featured, and others too numerous to mention appear in the all-star cast.

The story by Booth Tarkington is too well known to need retelling. It is enough to say that Forest Halsey, who adapted it to the screen, has preserved its essential appeal and flavor. Sidney Olcott, who produced the picture version, has reason to feel proud of his efforts. "Monsieur Beaucaire" is the biggest feather in his cap, which

Cartoon Comedy Is Certain to Attract Record Audience

"Bringing up Father in Ireland" comes to the popular Delft Theatre for an engagement of one night Monday Sept. 15. This is the tenth consecutive tour of this record breaking attraction. Absolute capacity is the regular order of business wherever it plays. Due to the fact that the cartoon creation of that peer of artists George McManus is the most famous strip of the funny page in every worth while newspaper throughout the entire world. Ireland undoubtedly gives the producers a fertile field for science and electrical display, which have both been taken advantage of to their full extent. Irish music will, of course, permeate. As will also "Colleen" of the rosebud hue. "Jiggs" should be in the height of his glory with the flower of his native sod on all sides of him. He is wondering if they use one piece bathing suits over there. en cffunnyyOsga lttelub rdoem

New York, Aug.—The first are light in New York was installed on the Bowery.

It was used to light Harry Miner's Theatre in 1879. Wires were strung over the tops of the buildings from the generating machine to the light. There were no telegraph poles those days.

The story is recalled by David E. Drake, 76, who recently retired as dean of a large electrical company with which he was associated 38 of the 50 years he spent in the electrical industry.

"Two boys who were running a department store at Zanesville, O.," said Mr. Drake, "thought one day would like to have illuminated with arc lights. Not inside—just the windows. The day and the hour when the lights were to be turned on were announced to the public. Farmers came from miles around. All Ohio seemed assembled outside the shop. They had never seen an electric light before. The lights were turned on and there was great excitement. It wasn't long before people were asking themselves why they had never realized how dull gas light was."

Though our present electric lights are taken for granted today, children of the present generation may be the Mr. Drake's of the future detailing the sensation of seeing the Shenandoah, the navy dirigible, the forerunner of transatlantic as well as transcontinental aerial transportation, on its experimental trips.

One-Eyed Connelly, champion gate crasher, is losing his grip. I saw him pay a nickel to enter a street car yesterday.

A patrolman saw two slinking figures in the shadows of a cloudy night in Battery Park.

He trailed them and pounced upon them. They were Omaso V. Junquito, a laborer, and Horace C. Corinaldo, an elevator operator.

They had a match box shaped like an automatic pistol, a pair of handcuffs, a police whistle, several skeleton keys.

They were released when it was proven they were correspondence school detectives practicing "shadowing."

Abraham Lincoln's bodyguard on his visits here is dead. He was Isaac D. Blake, 94, born in Boston. He joined the New York police force when he was 19 years old.

While on mounted patrol in Central Park many years ago he is credited with saving the life of Cornelius Vanderbilt, when he halted a vicious horse on which the founder of the Vanderbilt fortune was riding.

Down in Battery Park, near the Barge Office, is a monument to wireless operators who have perished at sea—the men who share the most sacred tradition of the sea, that of being last to leave the ship, to go down with it.

The list begins with Jack Phillips, the operator who went down with the Titanic, the "unsinkable ship" that struck an iceberg in the Atlantic on her maiden voyage and sank in a few hours.

The ship struck the berg on the night of April 14, 1912. Phillips stuck to his post and attracted the attention of the Carpathia before the waves closed above the Titanic in one of the greatest sea tragedies ever recorded in history.

Wireless operators who lost their lives on the Atlantic, Pacific or the Swedish coast, the Black Sea, the Caribbean, Puget Sound, and the Great Lakes are included in the list.

The last name on the list is that of Fred Salim, wireless operator on the steamship Conesja who was lost with his ship in the Black Sea on Dec. 27, 1923.

In front of the monument is a water fountain, an ironical reminder of the water that plunged them into heretofore. Put it also is a service to humanity, an aid-giving monument dedicated to these men who died calling for aid for others.

Three sides of the monument are already filled with names. On the fourth side is room for a few more inscriptions. There will be more names inscribed some day. For men who go down to sea in ships are the bravest of the brave.

JOYS OF MOTHERHOOD

Often Prevented by Female Trouble

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was working after I got married and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knows who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WERBECK, 1824 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

child and I was afraid that I could never have any more, for I had been told that I never could have a living child for I was not strong enough to carry one. But they were mistaken and I had a nice baby boy and now I have five children. I can't praise your medicine enough. My youngest sister has taken it, too, and praises it."—Mrs. G. L. WISWELL, 43 Mechanics Row, Auburn, Maine.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements and to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

How the Motor Industry Set the Pace for Highway Building

The "horseless carriage" of yesterday is now being produced as the modern automobile at the rate of 4,000,000 a year. The total number of motor vehicles registered in the United States is over 16,000,000.

And automobiles built today are more than ever capable of economically serving both business and recreation needs.

But there is an obstacle standing in the way of its maximum service to owners.

For while the automobile industry made paved highways an economic necessity, the mileage of such roads is today years behind the requirements of modern traffic.

Happily motorists everywhere are boosting for more and wider paved highways.

And extensive experience has taught them that Concrete Highways are one of the best all-around investments they can make—an investment that pays big dividends.

As one of our 16,000,000 motorists you know better than anyone else the need for more and wider Concrete Roads. Start now to help your local officials provide them.

Under Window and Rifle Office Cash Drawer.

Breaking through a rear window, thieves rifled the cash register at the Manistique Garage company office Monday night, escaping with $58 in currency and silver.

The garage is not open all night, and the robbery is thought to have occurred after the last of the garage employees had left. Rushing through a window on the north side, the robbers entered the rear of the office, and emptied the cash drawer, which was not locked.

The theft was discovered Tuesday morning, and was immediately reported to the local authorities. Sheriff John A. Peterson started his work on the case early Tuesday morning, and was following a strong clue which was expected to lead to the arrest of the robber before night.

"SCARS OF JEALOUSY" AT LYRIC

"Scars of Jealousy," Thomas H. Ince's romantic modern drama of the Southland which comes to the Lyric theatre today and Thursday is jammed with red-hot thrills, according to advance reports from critics who have previewed it. The story deals with the little known "Cajans" or descendants of the Acadians who settled in the mountains of Northern Alabama more than a hundred years ago. It also depicts life as it is really lived today on the big plantations of the South and has for a prologue quite the most pretentious scenes showing court, peasant and city life in the time of Louis XV of France that the screen has ever seen.
