

HOUSEHOLD ART TO BE FEATURE

Exceptional Exhibits In Kitchen and Handicraft Work Promised.

The arts of baking, canning, and sewing, as practised by the women of this section, will be exemplified in the many fine exhibits which will feature the woman's department of the Northern Michigan Fair at Escanaba, Sept. 16-19.

Hundreds of articles will be exhibited. Canned vegetables, will probably lead in point of numbers. All of the common garden vegetables, canned by use of latest recipes, will be shown. The cold pack method of canning vegetables, endorsed by specialists everywhere is proving a popular one with the women and children who will compete at the fair.

The artistic and mouth watering feature of the canning show, as always, will be the rows of jars of shapely pears, delicious strawberries, round cheeked peaches, and red plums, lying in their beds of rich syrup. Plum and apple butter, jams and marmalades, and glasses of jelly, all colors, will complete the picture. Liberal Prizes.

Only one glimpse of the tempting array of bread, cake, doughnuts, pies and cookies will be necessary to prove that the modern cook is better even than her grandmother. Visitors will find that styles in breads and pastries have changed in recent years. Housewives have adopted the improved recipes that have been worked out in every field by students of cooking.

The Northern Michigan Fair is devoting much attention to women's activities. Prizes amounting to liberal sums are being offered for the best displays of baking, sewing, and canning. Entries close Sept. 16.

Bringing Up Father Is Record Breaker
as Musical Comedy

The greatest record breaker in theatrical history "Bringing Up Father" comes to the Delft Theatre for an engagement of one night, Monday, Sept. 15. "Bringing Up Father in Ireland" is the newest stunt of the "Tiggs" family. Father is still on intimate terms with Dinty Moore. "Maggie" still has a big stock of rolling-pins and the pretty daughter still manages to "keep that School Girl Complexion." This is the tenth consecutive season of the "Bringing Up Father" series and still playing to absolute capacity everywhere. This remarkable record is undoubtedly due to the fact that the entire production is absolutely new every year. Irresistible girls, Entrancing Music, Alluring Dances and always a beautiful scenic production will be found with this attraction.

STOLE 1000 PURSES
Manchester—After confessing to the theft of more than 1000 purses in a period of three months, Peggy Weaver, 19, was given an indeterminate sentence in prison by the Manchester stipendiary. The girl told police that she "worked" only the exclusive shops where the most expensive purses were to be found.

The contest between W. S. Baird and Harry K. Bay for the probate judgeship cannot be decided until the returns from Erwin township have been received. Baird is leading his opponent by 42 votes, and since Erwin township is reported to have given Bay a majority, it will be necessary to await official returns from this precinct to determine if this majority for Bay is sufficiently large to overcome Baird's lead.

Luce.
Several county offices were hotly contested. James Minard won the Republican nomination for county treasurer by a plurality of 35 votes over the nearest of four contestants. Harry Leighton was chosen as nominee for county clerk, and John Quinlan for judge of probate. John Turnbull defeated the present sheriff, Charles Carlson, for the nomination.

Fernando Cigar Factory Changed Owners Recently

Matt Hemes recently purchased the Fernando Cigar Factory from Walter Leopold located at 1001 Ludington, over the Peterson Flower Shoppe and has begun to manufacture the old standard make of cigars which was established in this city more than 35 years ago. Local dealers and smokers are acquainted with the brand and Mr. Hemes' many friends wish him success in his new enterprise. Mr. Hemes is recognized as a very competent cigar maker and his many years experience in this line of work will enable him to conduct the factory along the most up to date business lines.

The business will be conducted under the old name Fernando Cigar Co.

IRONWOOD SIGNS UP.

Voters in the city of Ironwood, on Tuesday, recorded themselves in favor of the adoption of a council manager form of government, by a small majority.

The council manager plan is radical in that it substitutes sound business principles in the conduct of a city's affairs, for political expediency.

Escanaba will welcome Ironwood into the growing sisterhood of peninsula cities who have had the stamina to abolish politics from city affairs.

Helen Lorimore's Legacy

BY JANE PHILLIPS.

THE RANCH COUNTRY RE-CLAIMS ROY DRAYTON. Chapter LII.

"May I come in?" At the deep musical voice Helen's heart almost stopped beating, then pounded so that she raised her hand to her breast, held it there. At last! Regaining her composure as Roy Drayton stepped into the room, Helen rose from the table and welcomed him with outstretched hands, although she trembled so she could scarcely stand.

meant to her. "I couldn't stay away longer," he said with an apologetic air. "I'm not made for cities." "Then you—are going to stay?" "Here, or somewhere where I can breathe," he laughed. "I am sure I can find a place somewhere," simply. Of course! Helen hadn't thought of that. He was poor and would have to find work. "I might have succeeded fairly well in the East," Roy said in reply to a question, "but I couldn't stand it. My very heart was sick for the ranch country, so I gave up and came back. I guess I'm what they call 'rooted in the soil'."

the ranches that had drifted into to her. They spoke little of themselves. Long silences filled with unspoken words often halting their speech. As quietly, as simply, as it had been offered, Roy had accepted her hospitality for the night. In the morning he would ride over to the Downing ranch to consult Mr. Downing. "If you will, it would be kind if you would ride over with me," he said as he bade her goodnight. If she would! Kind! Long Helen sat in her window, too excited, too happy to sleep. Roy had said she looked younger, more beautiful than when he had gone away. It was the excitement, the joy in his coming that had made her seem so; that had lighted her face with a glow he had mistaken for youth. But even as she said this to herself, she glowed again at the thought of his praise. Not once did she allow herself to think of the future. Roy was back, she would see him, perhaps be with him occasionally. He was here—sleeping under her roof—the roof that should in all fairness belong to him. How well he looked, how handsome he was now that the somberness had gone from his eyes! He was sure of himself, too, had no fears now that he was back in God's country, his country. Finally Helen went to bed, a happy smile on her lips. She was to ride with him in the morning. Wouldn't Claire and Walter be surprised! She would have Martha put up a lunch and they would picnic on the way. So Helen's thoughts ran on until she fell asleep. Tomorrow—The Ride. BEST GARbage CAN. YOU—AND THE... (A Correction to... And You", by Jan... Hungerford... The world wants to see you a winner, my friend; The more in your pockets, the more you can spend; The more you can spend, that much more it can gouge; Its grateful to God, there's no pockets in shrouds. The guy whose hip pocket will hold all his stock is he whose old sock is just chuck full of "rock"; He picks up some juice he can put a kick in; And he don't need samples to help him to WIN!

The world gives its prize to the fellow who's there; There's nothing can stop him if he has red hair; It gladly rewards him, and gives him its best; And he's got the stuff for the hundred-proof test; It sure is hard going if you have no pull; And "work hard and late, boy," is mostly just "bull"; You must have a billboard to draw the world's eyes; To your great achievements—it can't hear your sighs. A master of "bluffing" don't need to sidestep; A millionaire lad, now, don't need any "rep"; The world gets your size by the trumpet you blow; You must put your own back, and not hurt your elbow; But when you've succeeded, remember this rule; Tell other poor suckers you think you can fool; If they've got the goods, they'll surely win fame; They'll think that you mean it—and try it the same. —SLIVER

REALLY, now, don't you think we might give Silver the credit for writing the whole column this morning? Why, to be sure. —H. K. R.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT. Film fans of Escanaba who have seen Tom Meighan's new picture, "Pied Piper Malone," at the Delft, a highly original comedian with a high-powered laugh-provoking talent. His name is Charles Winger. He is the husband of the musical comedy star, Blanche Ring, sister of Mrs. Thomas Meighan, and a brother of Frank Winger, well known to the Delft patrons. Winger has starred on the stage for many years, his most recent appearance being in "The Good Old Days," a comedy based upon Prohibition which amused Broadway for many months. He is one of those spontaneous comedians, like Charlie Chaplin and Ben Turpin, who have but to heave into sight and the spectators start to laugh. Such fun-makers do not need elaborate "gags" to put them over. Winger has the role of the village barber in a "down East" seaport community in "Pied Piper Malone," and his every move is declared to be a laugh. It is a Paramount picture, and, besides Handsome Tom and Funny Charlie, the cast includes Lois Wilson, the "Covered Wagon Girl," Peaches Jackson, and several other favorites. Booth Tarkington wrote the story.

AT THE STRAND. The final showings of Richard Talmadge's excellent picture, "Watch Him Step," will be had at the Strand theatre today. This is a thrilling comedy-drama, and aside from its thrill of dramatic flavor there is comedy galore. Ethel Shannon, a charming actress, plays opposite Mr. Talmadge. The first episode of "The Fortieth Door," the new "chapter play" has pleased the Strand audiences and promises to have a highly successful run, from week to week, at that popular show-shop.

OBITUARY

STANLEY HARTEAU. The body of Stanley Harteau will remain at the Allo Funeral Home where services will be held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and at two thirty at the First Methodist church. Mr. Harteau was an ex-service man, having served 26 months overseas as a dispatch motor rider and was disabled while he was with the Army of Occupation. He was injured in the left foot. He returned to Gwin to the home of his parents and later went to Lathrop where he engaged in farming. He was well known on that section of the county and numbered his friends by the score.

The funeral will be in charge of Cloverland Post No. 82 American Legion. Members of the legion are requested to assemble at the Allo Funeral Home Sunday afternoon at one fifteen to take part in the services. Interment will be in Lakeview cemetery.

A THOUGHT

Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Iron Trade Review today says: Evidence of the continuing expansion of steel consumption and of a sustained revival of the market is more tangible and convincing. August's record of heavier buying, enlarged steelworks and mill production and the increasing appearance of new requirements by various branches of demand, are being carried forward in September with some further though not spectacular gain. General operations are little changed at 55 to 60 per cent. An increase in the Steel Corporation's unfilled orders for August now expected would represent the first break in the steady decline since February.

August's gain in steel ingot production after three months of decline proves to have been greater than was previously indicated and represents an improvement of 36 per cent over July. Production in August moved up to an unusual rate of 30,400,000 tons compared with 22,350,000 tons in July. This is on the basis of 60.5 per cent of the rate of ingot production in March which was the highest in history.

Middle western business more plainly shows returning vigor. One important Chicago mill the past week had the largest bookings of any week since March and other orders totaling 50,000 tons came up too late for entry. Bolt and nut makers placed 13,000 tons of bars at Chicago for September rolling.

A slight drooping tendency of the market is registered by Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products this week which shows

Deer Increasing in Up-State Woods Warden's Declare

It is evident from the number of deer signs and deer reported seen by wardens and hunters that deer are on the increase in northern Michigan and predatory animal control work is having its effect on these animals, says the Michigan hunters' news letter.

"During the past fiscal year wonderful improvements were made in the Michigan predatory animal control forces. Deputy game and fire wardens took an active part in the poison campaign. They are becoming experts with traps, and during their spare time and while patrolling have accounted for a large share of the animals taken during the past year. The field forces also report large numbers of young partridges, and we are certain of a good crop of partridge for the bird hunters this coming fall. The killing of large numbers of fox, weasel and skunk helps materially in conserving this noble game bird.

"Hunters report a great many traps stolen each month. This practice interferes with the hunters and adds considerable expense to the work. Many of these traps are taken by people who do not realize what they are doing, thinking these traps have been lost or left in the woods by some trapper, while there are others who maliciously steal traps and animals to interfere with the state and government predatory animal control work. The state and government urgently request the people to cooperate in this work and where traps or animals are found to report it to the nearest warden, hunter or deputy game warden.

"During the spring and summer months there have been but very few forest fires of any importance. However, as soon as the great growth of vegetation becomes dry and game hunters begin flocking into the woods, there will be more danger of forest fires and warden hunters should be constantly on the lookout for fires and lend every assistance to fire wardens in exterminating forest fires."

In Massachusetts Christmas trees are being raised as a regular market crop.

NEWEST SLEEVES.

The newest sleeves show a tendency to be wide below the elbow and are decorated with fur or embroidery. Full sleeves and tight cuffs are occasionally seen.

SPIRAL RUFFLES.

Spiral ruffles and tiers are featured on the silk and cloth gowns for winter. They fit the silhouette quite flat with suggesting any straight lines.

COULDN'T RAISE HAND HE WAS SO HELPLESS

But Tanlac Relieved Him of His Troubles, Declares John Coakley.

"After all Tanlac has done for me I will sing its praise the longest day I live." is the grateful statement of John Coakley, 518 Spies Ave., Menominee, Mich., a resident of this place for 50 years.

"When I began taking Tanlac I was helpless from rheumatism. I couldn't raise either hand and had to have help to put on my clothes and get up when down. I couldn't eat or sleep and my wife and children were downhearted thinking my time was about over.

"My wife wrote a Mrs. Miller in Milwaukee about my condition and the reply came back: "Give him Tanlac." So I began taking Tanlac and after my fifth bottle I was able to get back to my work. And in seven months my weight increased from 125 to 165 lbs. and my troubles were in the past. I am feeling fine now and I want the world to know that Tanlac is what did it. Anyone wishing to verify this statement, just call on or write John Coakley, 518 Spies Ave., Menominee, Mich."
