ARMS MEETING IS DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Relationship With Protocol Is Debated

(By The Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—The exact relation to be established between the protocol on arbitration and security and the international conference for the reduction of armaments, which will be convoked after the protocol has been set up and adopted, caused one of the most laborious discussions today since the opening of the present assembly of the league of nations.

Eventually the delegates reached what is considered common ground. According to the most reliable information available tonight this tentative agreement will probably take the form of making it clear that after a sufficient number of ratifications the entering into force of the protocol will be suspended pending the convocation of the armaments conference.

This does not differ much from the original Beanes conception as to what should be the definite connecting link. The controlling idea behind the protocol discussion is that the protocol must not only be signed by representatives of the governments, but receive actual ratification by the respective national parliaments. What number of ratifications will be deemed necessary has not yet been fixed.

LARGE CROWDS ATTENDED FAIR FOR LOCAL DAY

Attendance Record Is Smashed Each Day, Report.

(By The Associated Press.)

Single day's attendance records at the Northern Michigan Fair were shattered yesterday when 14,477 persons purchased tickets at the gate to see the annual autumn exposition. The previous record was 12,682, established in 1923. The attendance, for the entire fair, thus far is nearly 30 per cent larger than it ever has been for the first three days, and with another record-breaking day predicted today. School Day—there is no doubt that the "marks" will be shattered all along the line.

The huge crowd on the big lot enjoyed itself immensely yesterday. Added to the harness racing program, and the Wooster horses, the Lepinsky dogs, Adair & Adair, Eli Rice and the band, who had been entertaining throughout the week, there was an exhibition airplane flight, with the bird-man zipping through an elaborate variety of hair-raising stunts. He will take up passengers in his plane today.

THIRD ARMY REVOLT "GREAT DISASTER"; REPLACEMENTS NOT AVAILABLE TO DEFENSE

OBSERVERS ARE NOT PERMITTED TO GO NEAR FRONTS.

(By The Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Sept. 19 (9 A. M.)—There is no evidence here this morning of any retreat on the part of the Chekiang army which has been defending Shanghai against the attacks of the Kiangsu forces. Neither are any changes noted in the positions of the two armies west of here.

Weakened by the repeated hammering of the Kiangsu forces, which are supported by the central government of Peking, a revolt of the third or home army and disaffection in other units, the Chekiang defense of Shanghai is on the verge of collapse.

BARNYARD GAME IS POPULARIZED

Horseshoe Tournery Holds Interest of Hundreds At Fair.

Horseshoe pitching has come to stay in Delta county. There is no longer doubt as to the manner in which hundreds of enthusiasts have accepted this ancient and honorable pastime as an outdoor sport and yesterday's patrons of the courses at the fair ground demonstrates beyond all doubt that this game will be a permanent feature of future county fairs.

As has been predicted, it was a case of being on the waiting list for a long period in order to get a chance at one of the courses, the judges and scorers being kept on the job throughout the afternoon and it was not until it became too dark to see a shoe or a peg, that the players unwillingly gave over the courses for the day.

Firmly Established. The horseshoe tournament has been and is one of the big things of the fair and has firmly established itself in the affections of hundreds of Delta county people who thronged the course all afternoon in the hope, in all cases, of not only being to play, but also to see the exhibition by Hiram Buckleser, champion of the middle states, who had promised to be here. As the afternoon wore on and no word was received from him, it was thought that he might be on a late train last night, but about 7 o'clock Chairman Needham received a message from Mr. Buckleser from Bloomington, Ind., stating that it would be impossible for him to keep the Escanaba engagement for the reason that he had just received a telegram calling him to his home in Vincennes, Ind., on account of the sudden illness of his wife. This was a distinct disappointment to Mr. Needham, who, last week, witnessed the work of Mr. Buckleser at the Brazil, Ind., fair, and who had planned a big surprise for Delta county people by persuading the champion to come here for an exhibition. However, this was the only disappointing feature about the tournament and participants quickly forgot it as they became immersed in the game.

Yesterday's Winners. The winners of yesterday's daily cash prizes were: M. J. Magoon, of Gladstone, who copped the $5.00 first prize with 49 points, while Phil Millican, of Foster City, tied his own high record of 46 on Wednesday for the $2.50 second prize.

A particularly gratifying feature of yesterday's tournament was the large number of women who were seen trying for the prize. Both courts for the ladies were busy all afternoon and the women are taking to the sport with a quickness and sincerity which is most pleasing to those who are already figuring on a mammoth tournament for next year.

Grand Prizes Today. Today marks the close of the tournament and the capital prizes will be awarded tonight. The keenest rivalry for the $25 cash prize is being manifested while the second prize of $15, the third of $5 and the fourth, of a pair of regulation "seshoes," are also to be fought for with spirit. The scores of Wednesday and Thursday are regarded as excellent but no one ventures to predict what today may bring forth in the way of classifying.

Everyone who took part in the tournament yesterday is more than pleased with the fun they had and with this feature of the fair. It has been educational and inspirational and there is no longer a question but what this sport will continue to be one of the big features of the Delta fair in the future. As an attraction it shared honors with the Wooster stable of thoroughbreds.

Resturant Man Didn't Eat His Own Food

My Beauty

Is all due to beauty helps
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I was a plain girl with little distinction. I made myself a famous beauty. Now, after 35 years as a stage star, I remain a beauty still. The thousands who see me daily on the stage know that I look 19.

When I was a girl, my rich mother took me on a world search for the supreme beauty helps. Those helps made me famous. Since then I have kept in touch with every new discovery. I have made many trips to France. So what I am due to scientific help.

Now women have convinced me that I should share these helps with others. Millions of girls and women want what I have gained. So I have combined all the helps I have discovered in four preparations, with 52 ingredients. And I have arranged so that all druggists and toilet counters offer them to all who wish.

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. Lucie Lanthe, the famous Parisian beauty, first told me what it did. Now great beauty experts the world over are advising this formula. No other cleanser which man has discovered does what this cleanser does.

My Facial Youth contains no animal, no vegetable fat. It cannot in any way assimilate with the skin. It simply cleanses to the depths, then departs. All the grime, dead skin and clogging matter comes out with it.

That is the first beauty essential—an utterly clean skin. But I never dreamed until I found this Facial Youth.

Now Edna Wallace Hopper's Facial Youth is supplied by all druggists and toilet counters. The cost is 75c.

Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send with it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. Adv.

BIG LEAGUERS SMASHING ALL PENNANT MARKS

New York—Every baseball season brings something new, something different. And the 1924 campaign isn't apt to be an exception.

At the two major leagues swing into the final stretch, at least four unprecedented feats loom possible. One of these is the possibility of the Giants copping the National flag four years in a row, a trick never before accomplished in the big circuits.

Another concerns Washington. The Nationals have yet to win their first pennant. Should they come through this season they will have added another unique feat to baseball history.

Then there are the White Sox. Evers' boys are groping about in last place. Unless they perk up a bit within the next few weeks, Chicago will likely see its first cellar team in the history of the American League. Outside of the White Sox and the Detroit Tigers, no other club in the Johnsonian loop boasts a non cellar team. Both of these outfits have slipped as low as seventh but have yet to finish the season in the doormat position.

Should the Yankees cop the gongfalon, it will tie the Giants, providing the McGraw gang wins, in grabbing four successive flags. And if both New York clubs come through it will mark the fourth time in as many years that teams representing the same city will battle for the world championship.

BUT DESERVED RECOGNITION

A resolution adopted by the Republican county convention here on Wednesday unqualifiedly endorsing the candidacy of Auditor General O. B. Fuller, before the state convention at Detroit next week, can be considered only as a deserved recognition of a most unusual record of public service. That such recognition should be accorded by Auditor General Fuller's home county cannot be considered unusual. It would have been an omission reflecting base ingratitude and a total lack of appreciation of Mr. Fuller's ability and the efficient service he has rendered the state of Michigan, if such a resolution had not been adopted.

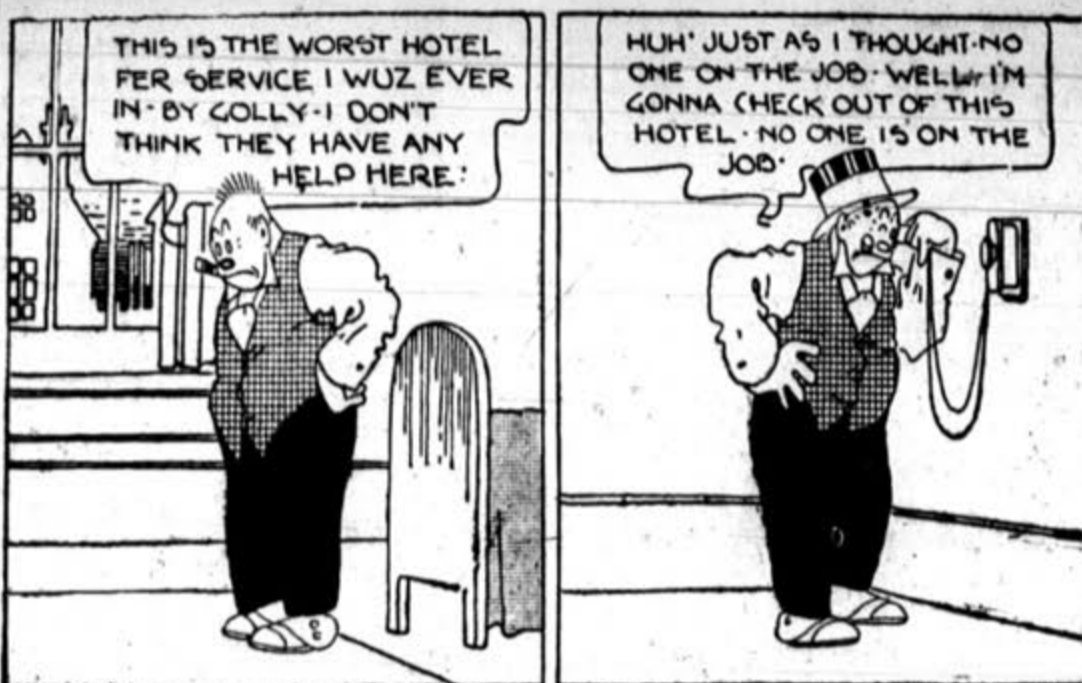

Auditor General Fuller has held state office longer than any other official in the service of the state, not because he is powerful politician, which he is not and has never claimed to be, but because he has made for the state of Michigan the best auditor general this state has ever had. It does not require the endorsement of his home county to emphasize Mr. Fuller's unusual record, as in every county of Michigan, irrespective of party lines, the people have come to hold this Delta county man in eminent respect and admiration. Mr. Fuller will be nominated for auditor general at Detroit next week because the people of Michigan want him to remain in that office as long as he will consent to serve in a position where he can conserve their interests and continue in his post of unswerving watch-dog of Michigan's public funds.

WELSH AS GOVERNOR.

The story that Governor Groesbeck is due for a portfolio in the next cabinet of President Coolidge will not down. The Lansing State Journal, steadfastly opposed to the plans are all laid for the governor to enter the president's cabinet next March 4, providing of course Coolidge is re-elected, and George W. Welsh, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, will become governor. Welsh, it is pointed out, is ready and willing to carry out the uncompleted program started by Groesbeck, and therefore the governor is willing to relinquish the reins of government to him.

The story sounds as plausible as any that has been originated in the past. Groesbeck has been mentioned prominently in connection with a cabinet portfolio for several years. It is known the governor has such aspirations for he is desirous of becoming a national figure in politics. When Newberry resigned, it was believed for a time Groesbeck would resign the governorship and permit his successor to appoint him to the senate. But he appointed Cousins. When Denby resigned as secretary of navy under fire, Groesbeck was mentioned as his successor but Wilbur was appointed. Again when Daugherty resigned under fire and at the request of President Coolidge, it was felt certain Groesbeck would receive the appointment because it was known the governor aspired to this office in the cabinet. Now the Lansing State Journal feels that the manner in which the Republican vote for governor on Sept. 9 was divided among so many candidates for governor and lieutenant governor "was a master stroke in the political game and made the nomination of Groesbeck and Welsh a dead certainty." That's a lot of credit for two men to have but the Journal is bitter enough in its feelings toward Groesbeck to charge him with most anything. The fact remains that Michigan voters are strongly in favor of Groesbeck's return to Lansing, carried 40 counties in the republican column, and most of them by large pluralities. If Groesbeck receives a cabinet appointment his successor should be pathetic with the Groesbeck team, and apparently Welsh

The Piffle Hook

THE sunlight is streaming through my east window, and my eyes wander hungrily over the majestic lines of the postoffice building. There should be inspiration in that. In fact there ought to be inspiration there. But there isn't.

A man just drove by with a flea-bitten gray horse (we didn't know whether he was really flea-bitten or not but "flea-bitten" goes well with gray) and perhaps, if we tried long enough and hard enough we could say something clever about the good old county fair days when the fair was not a success unless there were a half-dozen "shays." But if we did write that, there wouldn't be anything particularly clever about it.

Somebody in the post office lobby is waving at us but the sun is in our eyes. We waved in reply, of course. We hope it was a girl - a pretty girl. It probably was. That's the sort of girls we attract.

The Escanaba municipal band is coming down the street. We can hear it and we just raised the window to give the sound waves a better chance to reach our critical ears. We just got the window raised and the band stopped. That's the way it generally goes with us. We're always late.

Now the band is playing again. Oh, what's the use.

Who can work when the band's playing? H. K. R.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Anna Q. Nilsson's role in "Painted People" now playing at the Delft Theatre, is a very familiar one. Her real role is her real role. In other words, Miss Nilsson portrays an actress in this picture, which, featuring Colleen Moore, is one of the brightest comedy-drama gems of the decade.

In "Painted People," which is a picturization of a story by Richard Connell, the famous actress plays the part of a stage leading lady, the mentor of Miss Moore, who, enacting the role of a hoydenish "tomboy," goes on the stage and becomes famous. The supporting roles give splendid opportunity to some of the screen's most notable players, including Ben Lyon, Charlotte Merriam, Charlie Murray, Sam De Grasse, Joseph Striker, Russell Simpson, Mary Carr, Mary Alden, June Elvidge.

Clarence Badger directed "Painted People," infusing it with the same rare blend of humor and pathos which characterized his direction of "Potash and Perlmutter." Critics who have previewed this First National picture say that the title role is admirably suited to Colleen Moore, and that those who saw her in "Flaming Youth" will find an entirely new personality when they see her at the Delft Theatre in "Painted People."

AT THE STRAND.

There is an interesting cast in the new Paramount picture, "Fair-Week," which will be shown at the Strand theatre today.

Interesting because it marks the first appearance of Constance Wilson as a leading woman. It was also directed by a newcomer, Rob Wagner.

Walter Hiers fills the stellar role of a small town jack-of-all-trades, whose mirth-creating adventures as a detective supply the motif of the drama. Carmen Phillips, well known for her "vamp" parts in the past, appears here in a similar characterization, strongly contrasted toward the end of the play by a touching display of mother love. The part of Jasper Remus, a small town banker, is well filled by J. MacDonald, popular with Paramount fans.

Bobby Mack plays the part of a stingy country hotel keeper. Little Mary Jane Irving, a remarkable and thoroughly experienced child photographer, gives character to the part of Tinkie, a six-year-old who wants to be an actress. Earl Metcalf is a sharper disguised as an evangelist. Knute Erickson aids Metcalf's nefarious operations. Mary Ellen Allan is cast as a puritanical old maid.

BY JANE PHELPS.

ALVIRA REACHES YOUNG GIRLHOOD. Chapter II. Alvira's teacher loved the quiet, gentle little girl and tried to draw her out, help her to overcome her shyness, but with little success. Aunt Drucilla's warnings, her reiterated cautions were too frequent for the teacher to overcome. When the other children would romp home, Alvira would walk sedately along clinging to the teacher's hand until she reached her gate, then as sedately go inside to report all that had happened at school to Aunt Drucilla, who believed that only by constant watching could a child be brought up properly. "I'm going to be a teacher when I grow up," Alvira declared. "Then you must be very good," her aunt would say. "A teacher must never do anything wrong or naughty." One thing Aunt Drucilla absolutely prohibited: Alvira, under no circumstances, was ever to play with little boys. If one came into the yard Drucilla would at once bring Alvira into the house and order the boy away. She was a firm believer in the segregation of the sexes, even as children. Drucilla Anderson was extremely pious, an active worker in the church, an educated, refined woman; but she was extremely narrow as so many of her type cilla, and the aunt keen to her responsibilities drilled into Alvira the old adage that "beauty is only skin deep," that it was beauty of soul, of perfect living that counted. All Alvira's clothing, of good material always, was simply made; but "trills and gewgaws" as Drucilla termed them were strictly absent. The girl's long, brown hair that fell in long, broad waves was tightly braided and tied with a ribbon of black or sober color. Alvira begged for a red ribbon. "Lots of the girls have them, Aunt Drucilla," she urged. "It is only an anxiety to their pride, their anxiety to make themselves noticed," Drucilla softened her refusal. But when tears came to Alvira's eyes, she gave her a long-lecture on the sin of worldly pride, on the desire to deck oneself ostentatiously. Alvira scarcely understood, but she gathered that somehow the wearing of red ribbons was wrong, that it was harmful to her soul. Drucilla Anderson really loved the orphan girl who remembered no other mother, no other home; she loved her and watched over her constantly. If Alvira were ill, even ailing, Drucilla went without sleep, caring for her tenderly, her hands gentle, her voice softened; but at other times her manner was stern, unyielding. "I like you dreadfully when I'm sick," Alvira said to her once, emboldened by her aunt's gentleness. "I hope you like me when you are well, Alvira," Drucilla replied, unconscious of any fear that she might lose the child. "Of course I do," Alvira hastened to assure her, frightened a bit at her boldness, "but when I'm sick it's different."

Harold Tolan Takes Long Hiking Trip During Vacation

Harold Tolan, well known Escanaba high school athlete for several years, who now is living in Akron, Ohio, has just finished a long and interesting hiking trip, according to the South Akron Post, which recently printed the following article:

"Over 5,000 miles on a 'hiking' trip is nothing to be passed by unnoticed. But that is just what Harold Tolan, Akron university student who lives at 411 Firestone boulevard, has done in the past nine weeks. He returned late last week from the trip, which included many cities of Ohio and other western states.

While on the trip he was given lifts by many passing motorists, who carried him about two-thirds of the distance. He carried a pack of 40 pounds and camped in an army pup tent throughout the trip.

"Some of the larger cities visited were Columbus, O., Adrian, Mich., Ind., St. Louis, Mo., Des Moines, Ia., Davenport, Ia., Madison, Wis., Escanaba, Mich., Milwaukee, Wis., Chicago, Ill., Detroit, Mich., and Cleveland.

"Tolan stated that his trip was exceptionally economical, he having spent less than $20 on the entire journey. He also stated that during the trip many interesting adventures were encountered, many of which he will never forget.

"He will return to school at the university next week."

Sea-bathing is now forbidden to Turkish women living in Constantinople.

Good Will Farm Belongs to All Upper Peninsula

WHAT do you know about Good Will Farm? Do you know that this most constructive charity belongs to all you who belong to the Upper Peninsula? Do you know that it serves every community in the Upper Peninsula and that it has done so for twenty-five years? Do you know the needs in the Upper Peninsula for a home of this sort? Do you know the purposes, humanitarian and economic, upon which its methods are built? Do you know that each year many children are made homeless by the misfortune of death, illness or worst of all, degradation at home? Do you know that for twenty-five years Good Will Farm has been working earnestly for the Upper Peninsula, converting these liabilities into assets by saving little children from neglect of all kinds to establish them in normal, happy homes to go out, as they become men and women, into the world useful and helpful citizens?

Do you know that this great service depends upon the generosity of all those who can offer help to the helpless, that this work has been carried on so far by voluntary gift from our many friends? To quote from the past year's report by the Superintendent, "More and more, as the work of Good Will Farm is saving unfortunate children to futures of happiness, health and usefulness, becomes familiar to the public of the Upper Peninsula, the various communities of the district are realizing its value and their own direct interest in it. More and more is this interest shown by their fine response in every way to the needs of the work and the workers—to the deep appreciation of all those active in its administration."

CITY TO BUILD TOBOGGAN SLIDE

Municipal Skating Rink Also Decided Upon By Council.

First steps towards the erection of a set of toboggan slides in Ludington Park and the establishment of a municipal skating rink there, were taken last night by the Escanaba city council. City Manager Fred R. Harris was instructed to investigate the cost of those projects and to report on whether there might be a possibility that they could be made self-supporting, like the municipal bathing beach.

The toboggan project was suggested last winter by Mayor W. J. Hanrahan, and has had the enthusiastic support of all the members of the council. The councilmen also voiced their approval of the municipal ice rink idea, and urged that a larger and better rink than that maintained last season, be made available to skaters this year.

Another "winter breeze" was in evidence when it was decided by the council to continue the plowing of snow-blocked streets throughout the winter. Additional equipment may be purchased for the purpose. Sidewalks, however, will be left to the property owners, and the snow-shoveling ordinance will be rigidly enforced. This provides that if the property owner does not clean the sidewalks in front of his premises within a certain time-limit, the city shall do the work and add the cost of the work to the tax roll.

Lights for North 11th St. Present lights will not be removed from Ludington Park, because of the installation of the new lights on Lake Shore Drive, it was decided. It had been planned to move the park fixtures to North 11th street. Instead, North 11th street will be given the same sort of installation as South 9th street. The work will be completed this fall, it was stated.

Potato Growers Should Continue To Fight Blight

(By The Associated Press.) East Lansing, Mich.—Potato growers of Michigan should continue to spray a preventative of late blight which thus far has shown at only one point in the state, according to H. C. Moore of the farm crops department of the Michigan Agricultural College. Conditions have been ideal for development of the blight, and its presence in any extended form will mean that the larger buyers will seek other sections. There is another and good incentive to continue spraying, Mr. Moore said, and that is that it has been shown that it adds to the amount of the crop by as much as 40 bushels an acre. The blight has appeared already in New York state, reports received at the college say. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture is recommended, pressure being maintained at 100 pounds through a three way nozzle. The pressure induces a misty leaf covering spray, while the three nozzles, one on each side and one on top, get the mixture on the under side of the leaves where blight makes its first attack. Potatoes look unusually promising, Mr. Moore has reported, after a trip through the principal producing sections.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Broad new demand for corn sprang today following yesterday's big collapse in price. Closing quotations for corn were strong, 1 to 1/2c net higher, December 1.09 3/4 to 1.09 1/2. Wheat closed firm 1 1/4 to 2 1/4c up, oats at 1/2 to 1c gain and provisions sprang from unchanged figures to a rise of 25 cents. Buying in the corn market appeared to a surprising extent representative of fresh purchasing from traders who looked for an upward movement of prices, and who had been waiting a chance to take hold at an advantage. An accumulation of overnight orders to sell stood in the way, however, of any rally at the opening. Continued favorable weather was likewise an obsta-
