

NEW BASEBALL SCANDAL IS UNCOVERED

Washington Ball Club Is Given Royal Welcome

WHEELS OF GOVERNMENT ARE HALTED FOR OCCASION; MEN ARE GREETED BY PRESIDENT

MANAGER HARRIS OF CHAMPIONS GETS LOVING CUP FROM CITIZENS OF DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The wheels of government stopped today for the coronation ceremonies of king baseball, a usurper who after 23 years of exile rode into the national capital at the head of a wildly heralded cabinet—the Washington Senators, pennant winners of the American League.

High ups in government life turned out to join with street urchins in shouting a hearty welcome to the city's baseball heroes who were escorted in a colorful welcome home procession up Pennsylvania Avenue from the peace monument to the Ellipse south of the White House where President Coolidge extended an official greeting to the players.

The keynote of the welcome home celebration was sounded by the president who in presenting Manager Stanley Harris with a loving cup from the citizens of the District assured him that his team had won "the affection of the 'home town' constituency."

"As the head of an enterprise which transacts some business in this town," Mr. Coolidge said, "I have the double satisfaction in welcoming home the victorious ball team."

Smiling as he spoke the president said that "when the entire population reached the point of requiring the game to be described play by play, I began to doubt whether the highest efficiency was being promoted."

The president, by leaving his desk to take part in the ceremonies, set the fashion for the day, for all Washington apparently swarmed to the avenue. It was about the first time in history that the capital city ever staged its own parade for its own heroes, and Washington made the most of it.

For well on toward a hundred years now, Pennsylvania Avenue has been the highway of processions and pageants—the parade ground on which a presumably representative cross section of the American people has expressed the national emotions.

The memories of the present day chronicler of events runeth not to the volume and duration of the huzzas by the peasants, villagers and others when Andrew Jackson rode his charger in lonely and simple state through the mud that used to be, for his inauguration; or what may have been the outbursts of enthusiasm from the solid walls of humanity banked high on each side when Sherman's bummers and Grant's victorious army marched up and pitched camp at the backdoor of the White House.

Many Parades. But it does recall that many presidents have passed along that historic highway to take up the duties and responsibilities of the greatest office in the world. Veterans of the great war birthed the states that gave birth to a nation have passed along there with thinning lines of grey and blue. The greatest statesmen of Europe, handling the allied war missions, come to help and guide America's effort in the titanic struggle not long ended, passed along here. Finally came General Pershing and the first division, fresh from the bloody victories of Cantigny, St. Mihiel and the Argonne and with half their heroic dead strewn from the Marne to the Aisne.

And on all of these occasions there were displays of the human emotions ranging from positive apathy, to mild curiosity, interested approval and Fourth of July enthusiasm.

But it remained for a pennant winning baseball club to extract looked as if tens of thousands of men, women and children were trying to turn themselves inside out.

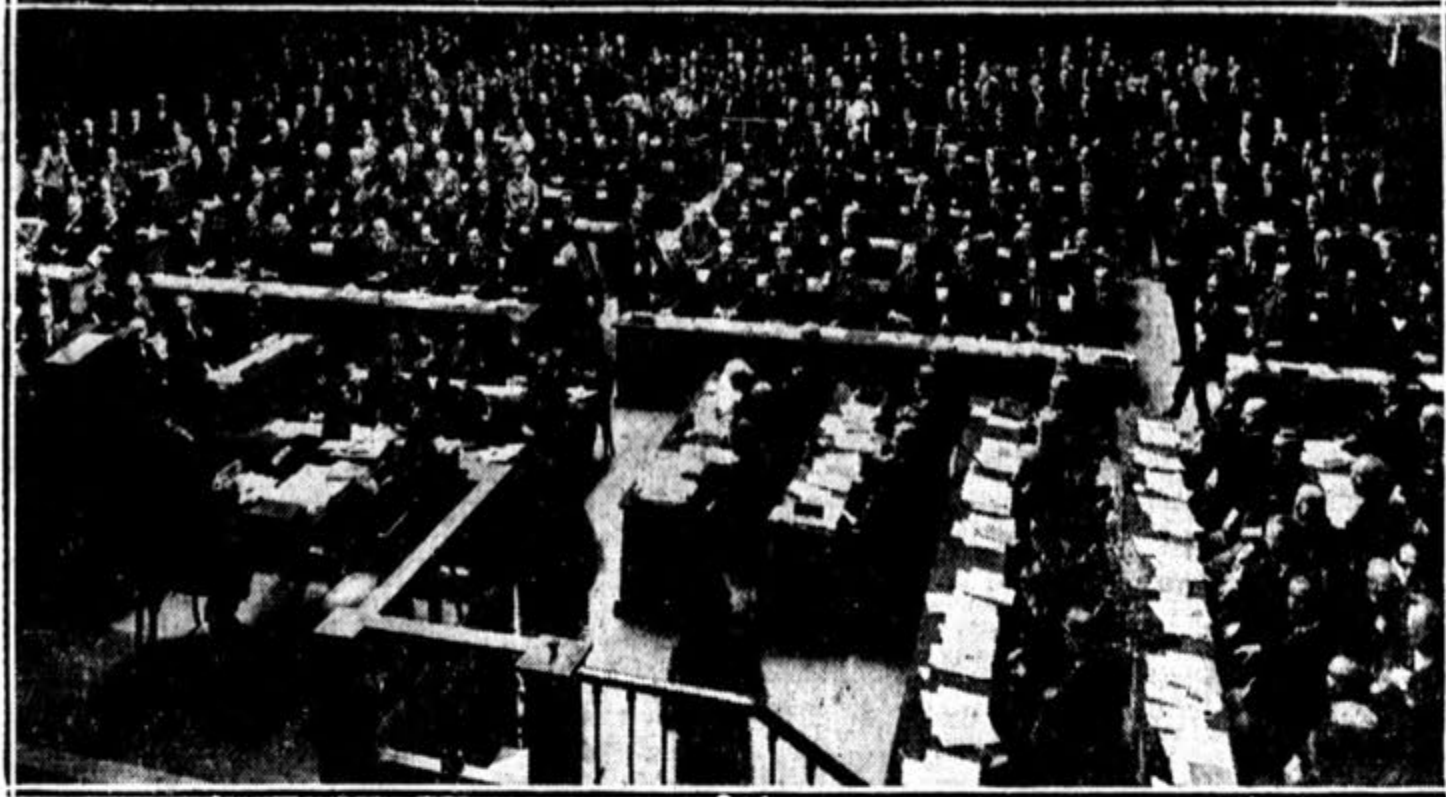

"Main Street" Day. And as it was Washington's first parade of its own, the city, supposedly a sedate capital, celebrated in the way it liked best, and a way tinged with the earmarks of Main Street.

Police could do little with the crowds—they were too busy cheering themselves. Traffic on the south side of the avenue, which was not cleared, became congested about half an hour before the parade left the peace monument.

Traffic officers didn't worry about helping the motorists move along, and from

PHAFF BATTLES JUDGE ALL DAY

Piracy Charge Against Man Dropped; Bail Set at $35,000.

(By The Associated Press.)

Brest, France, Oct. 1.—Max Jerome Phaff, the German-American who is to be tried on a charge of "complicity in organizing piracy on the high seas," growing out of the alleged removal on the high seas of 36,000 cases of whiskey from the French steamer Mulhouse while the vessel was off the Canadian coast last July, fought every inch of his way and withstood another 10 hour examination today before Magistrate Fournier who is examining the prisoner.

When the smoke of battle with the prosecuting officer cleared Phaff had succeeded in having the original charge of piracy on the high seas dropped and had caused the prosecutor, who yesterday refused even to entertain the principle of admitting him to bail, to decide that he would accept a bail bond of $35,000. Altogether it was considered by those present in court as a good day for the accused man.

Much Booze Running. Magistrate Fournier, who is a commandant in the navy, told The Associated Press at the close of the day's session that he never had any idea that whiskey running into the United States could have assumed such stupendous proportions as the evidence before him indicated.

Phaff continued today stubbornly to deny any knowledge of the Mulhouse affair. The confession he is alleged to have made with regard to the Mulhouse, he declared, was merely some remarks made to travelling companions aboard a Southampton-London train after he had partaken perhaps too freely of ill-qualified refreshments.

Commandant Fournier has called upon the owners of the Mulhouse to produce bills of lading for the cargo of the vessel, and also for the ship's log and its insurance papers. Today he expressed some surprise that this action had not been taken sooner. He also demanded that Captain Ferriero in command of the Mulhouse, should come to Brest and relate his story of the boarding of his ship, which is said to be somewhere in the West Indies.

Wants Insurance Policy. The magistrate said he was especially interested in obtaining the insurance policy of the vessel, as he was desirous of knowing whether the Mulhouse was insured for a cargo of fish, which he declared she was presumed to be carrying, or a ship load of liquor. The owners of the Mulhouse announced in financial and trade papers some time ago that owing to the heavy loss suffered that the protocol represented no attempt to make the council or the assembly of the league a super-state, with authority over the various governments. Such an attempt would court inevitable failure.

If the worst happened, and economic sanctions against any aggressor proved insufficient and force of arms must be resorted to, he added, the council would have neither troops nor ships at its disposal, but every government must decide for itself what it could do to help the victim of the aggressor.

Pothier, Confessed Cronkhite Murderer, Is Placed on Trial

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 1.—The federal government today, through J. W. Osborne, special prosecutor, stated the case it expects to prove against Roland Pothier, on trial in federal court for the murder of Major Alexander Cronkhite.

"Major Cronkhite died of a bullet wound," Mr. Osborne declared. "We will show that it would have been physically impossible for this wound to have been self-inflicted, either by accident or design. There were only two men present at the time, Pothier and Robert Rosenbluth. One of the two, Pothier, has since confessed that he fired the fatal shot at the instigation of the other."

"On these grounds we will ask the jury to convict the defendant, Pothier, of murder in the first degree."

After Mr. Osborne has concluded two witnesses were called to identify the spot at Camp Lewis where Major Cronkhite met his death, October 25, 1918, while on a practice march with the 21st Engineers. This testimony was taken in preparation for a visit of the jury to the spot.

In his opening address Mr. Osborne laid stress on the alleged impossibility of Major Cronkhite's wound being self-inflicted and also on the different confessions claimed to have been made by Pothier. He told of the investigation made by General Adelbert P. Cronkhite, father of the dead man, and of the subsequent investigations by the department of justice.

KILLED IN 1918. On October 25, 1918, while some 50,000 soldiers were training in the camp, Major Alexander Cronkhite, a graduate of West Point and a son of Major General Adelbert Cronkhite, was on a practice march. While the column was resting, he went into an adjacent copse of timber, followed by Captain Rosenbluth and Sergeant Major Pothier. A few minutes later several shots were heard, and it was reported that Major Cronkhite was wounded. An examination revealed that he had been shot in the breast, and he expired before medical aid could be summoned. The body of the officer was taken to the Camp

Lewis hospital, where it was found that he had been killed by a bullet that entered his chest on the right side, a few inches below and in front of the arm pit.

Five days later the usual investigation by an army board was conducted. This board arrived at the conclusion that the major had accidentally shot himself while firing at a target. At the time it was the general rumor that it was a case of suicide, according to subsequent statements of army officers.

Two Men Testify. Rosenbluth and Pothier both testified at the military investigation and their testimony was substantially the same. They said that Major Cronkhite had pulled out his pistol to fire at a tin can, that two or three shots were fired, and that the major fell mortally wounded.

The findings were sent to the war department and apparently the matter was ended with the burial of the brilliant young officer, and the deposit of the official decree of the investigating board in the government archives.

Major General Cronkhite, however, came home from France in June, 1919, and reopened the investigation in the belief that his son did not commit suicide, that he was too expert with a pistol to have shot himself accidentally, and that it was impossible for an accidental shot to have wounded him in the spot where the fatal bullet entered.

General Cronkhite consulted all available records in the case and declared them faulty. He then took the matter up with A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general under President Wilson, and several government investigators were set to work. Rosenbluth and Pothier, the last persons with Major Cronkhite before his death, were questioned again. On March 19, 1921, Pothier signed a confession that he was responsible for the death of Major Cronkhite. Pothier said his pistol was discharged accidentally.

Willfully Shot Major. The next day Pothier altered his story and confessed that he had willfully shot and killed Major Cronkhite at the request and command of Captain Rosenbluth. Pothier said he had borrowed a pistol and ammunition at the instigation of Rosenbluth, and had killed Major Cronkhite according to a plan mapped out by Rosenbluth. Pothier explained that Rosenbluth had a strange influence over him, but denied that he had received any reward, or promise, for accomplishing the alleged murder beyond the pledge that he would be protected completely.

Pothier made several statements in the course of his confessions and they varied considerably from each other. He was lodged in jail at Providence, R. I. near which city he was working on a railroad. Rosenbluth was taken into custody in New York City. He declared the charges utterly without foundation.

A few days later Pothier asserted in newspaper interviews that he had been induced to confess to the murder by third degree methods. He denied his guilt. Federal officials have contended that he never officially repudiated his signed confessions, though the trend of events may have precluded such action on his part.

There then arose a question whether the federal government or the state of Washington has jurisdiction in the case. This was finally decided in favor of the federal government, whereupon the depart-

"BOB" FLAYED IN ADDRESSES

Woman's Part in Banking Also Topic at Meetings Yesterday.

(By The Associated Press.)

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Woman's role as a financier was acclaimed, and her reputed role as a peacemaker questioned, Mrs. Mabel T. Reincke, Chicago, United States collector of internal revenue, in an address tonight before the National Association of Bank Women, meeting here in connection with the American Bankers Association.

"Isn't it usually mother who starts the battle?" asked Mrs. Reincke.

After a day in which the American Bankers Association had heard LaFollette assailed as "arch-demagogue" and "the nation's worst liability," heard programs known to have been advocated by him compared to the medicine man's "stew of dead toads," the National Association of Bank Women listened to an address by Miss Jane Adams, Chicago. Miss Adams happens to be one of the candidates from Illinois for presidential electors, pledged to LaFollette. She was invited to address the women's association in May, before she entered the campaign. Although she has announced she will speak for LaFollette, she said before going on the platform tonight, that she would speak on this occasion about the survival of the matriarchal age in Burma.

Adopt Resolution. Following the address of the day before the American Bankers Association in which "government in business" in general and LaFollette in particular was assailed, the association adopted, without dissent, the resolution submitted by the committee on resolutions, denouncing government ownership of railroads and limitation of the supreme court, "confiscatory taxation" and urging business men to heed the challenge of the present political campaign.

"Fatal tendencies" to amend the constitution were assailed also in an address by John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. "One of the proposals which embody the evidence of these fatal tendencies is the so-called child labor amendment," said Mr. Edgerton.

Talks On War. "I believe that only through a better understanding of the money question will wars be eliminated," said Mrs. Reincke to the women's association. "Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale believes that woman has been given a place in the sun just at this time in order that she may prevent the wiping out of civilization in the next world war. I believe she must have come in contact with a much more peaceful type of woman than I have."

At about the same time that these bank presidents were addressing the women's association, the national bank division elected Edgar L. Mattison of Minneapolis, president.

"No farmer can carry a union card and save his crops," said T. R. Preston, the retiring president of the national bank division, in his address. "Apparently a wave of radicalism is now here."

A desire to see the powers of the comptroller of the currency extended by a revision of the national bank act, was expressed by S. M. McAshan of Houston, Texas, in addressing the national bank division. Mr. McAshan would have the comptroller authorized to refuse applications where new banks were not needed.

GIANT PLAYER MADE TENDER OF BRIBE TO PHILADELPHIAN TO THROW GAME TO NEW YORK

CONVENTION OF STATE'S DEMOS IS HARMONIOUS

Klan-Wet Issues Cause No Disputes; Wayne Proves Very Meek.

(By The Associated Press.)

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 1.—The Democrat of Michigan today buried the differences for the good of the cause and held a state convention harmonious in its tone. The spark of conflict was entirely lacking on the convention floor. The strife supposedly bottled up in the Wayne county delegation went flat before the cork was pulled. The Ku Klux Klan controversy retained just enough life to fizzle weakly out before a resolutions committee that promptly stamped on it and cast it aside. The wet and dry issued without a struggle.

The party leaders, who were against injecting either prohibition or the Klan into the proceedings, because they feared the effect on the campaign of Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, the party's candidate for United States senator, and on the party ticket, had their way without trouble. The assembly adopted a platform that deviated but little from the one approved by the Democrats in their state convention last spring. It attacked the Groesbeck administration, censured the state police, went mildly on record in favor of a gasoline tax and lauded the Democratic policies and candidates.

Draft Candidate. Dr. Frank C. Jarvis, of Grand Rapids, was named as the party's candidate for secretary of state. Frank W. Merrick, of Pigeon, former state banking commissioner, was nominated for state treasurer. No candidate for attorney general was offered on the roll call but the convention finally drafted Howard W. Cavanaugh, of Battle Creek, to fill the place.

There was no candidate for auditor general. M. N. Kennedy, of Kalamazoo, the party endorser, withdrew, and simultaneously his spokesman offered a resolution lauding and endorsing O. R. Fuller, the Republican incumbent.

"The Democratic party stands for honesty and fidelity in public office, and appreciates these qualities in a political opponent as heartily as it denounces their lack," the resolution that created the strange spectacle of a Democratic gathering endorsing a Republican official, declared.

"O. F. Fuller, who has been the watchdog of the treasury, has faithfully performed his duty. As a tribute to an honest Republican official we refrain from placing a candidate in the field against him."

The resolution went over with only a few dissenting votes and Fuller's name was greeted with applause.

Ferris Talks. The other bright spots in the convention were the keynote address by Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace, and a brief talk by Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris. The senator declared that special privileges and an unjust arrangement of tax burdens have created a spirit of unrest. He cautioned his listeners that LaFollette will get more votes than either of the old parties anticipated. In addition to its set platform, the convention approved a resolution lauding Judge William F. Connelly, of Detroit, for the service he has rendered the party.

The platform, as finally adopted.

THOROUGH PROBE OF INCIDENT WILL BE MADE—LANDIS.

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Oct. 1.—Sensational charges of bribery in giving members of the New York Giants, National League team, on the eve of their opening world's series battle with Washington, were disclosed tonight by Commissioner Landis.

Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 young outfielder of the Giants, has confessed offering a $500 bribe to Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, to throw a game between the two teams on September 27, according to Commissioner Landis, who announced the player had been declared ineligible for the title games.

Cozy Dolan, veteran coach of the Giants and close friend of McGraw, also implicated in the attempt, according to O'Connell's confession, and three been ruled ineligible.

Three Mentioned. Frank Carson, George L. and Ross Young were mentioned by O'Connell, but they have been cleared by an investigation conducted by the commissioner.

Sand, whose prompt reporting of O'Connell's overtures to Manager Arthur Fletcher of the Phillies led to the investigation made so far, refused the bribe, but the Giants won the game nevertheless and definitely clinched the National League pennant.

Commissioner Landis, who left late tonight for Washington, indicated that his investigation was far from complete and that even more sensational developments might take place in the sweeping probe he will make.

Officials of neither the Giants or Phillies could be reached tonight, and efforts to reach the players implicated also proved unavailing.

New York, Oct. 1.—Commissioner K. M. Landis announced tonight that Jimmy O'Connell and Coach Cozy Dolan of the New York National League baseball club had been declared ineligible for the world series after charges of bribery against them had been investigated.

The suspension was based upon a confession made by O'Connell and evidence furnished by Dolan and followed information furnished by Heinie Sand of the Philadelphia National League Club. Sand stated that on September 27, O'Connell had offered him $500 to throw the game between the Giants and the Phillies players. New York on the day.

Sand refused the offer and immediately gave his information to Manager Fletcher of the Phillies who brought it to the attention of Commissioner Landis. The investigation, in which President Herdler of the National League and officials of the New York club also took part followed.

Dolan Investigator. The investigation, Commissioner Landis said, tended to trace the instigation of the scheme by Dolan, whose testimony was of a nature to indicate that commission.

PHAFF BATTLES JUDGE ALL DAY (Continued From Page One.) by the piracy of their ship. The company might have to pass paying dividends this year. During the hearing today Phaff told Magistrate Fournier that he had not the slightest intention of running away from France. He offered to send for his wife and his little daughter to come to Brest and remain here during the trial if he was allowed his liberty. But there was no $35,000 forthcoming as bail, and Phaff was again returned to the naval jail this evening. Jail Not Suitable. "This jail may have been all right in 1700, but it is getting to be a little damp now," Phaff told The Associated Press this evening when Magistrate Fournier permitted the correspondent to have a long talk with the prisoner. "I am caught in a snare between master smugglers," Phaff continued. "These people don't care how long they keep me in jail as long as they collect their insurance and don't have to pay their shareholders any dividends. Why was it that these people were insured against piracy? They must have been expecting it." Further examination of Phaff has been postponed until October 9 when the complainants must produce the documents requested by Magistrate Fournier today. Phaff then will be confronted by his accusers. Two Husbands Are Sought by Police (By The Associated Press.) Detroit, Oct. 1.—Two husbands both fathers of children—one a former Canadian soldier, John Naylor, who has suffered from shell shock—have disappeared, leaving their families destitute, and are being sought by the police today. Naylor weighs 165 pounds, is five feet seven inches tall and has brown hair and gray eyes. IN NEW YORK

New York—A native New Yorker in his ambitious twenties has gone west to become calloused with life.

Born in the world's biggest, most "hard-boiled" city, he has left New York to get a little "hard-boiled" himself.

There's a little eating shop under the shadow of the bright lights of Broadway that, innocent though it may appear, is as sinister a place as exists in all New York—or the country for that matter.

I am not permitted to reveal its exact location for obvious reasons. It is the rendezvous of most of the international crooks who might happen to be in the metropolis.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffers for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

PLAN TO SPEND FIVE MILLION AT MANISTIQUE

Gigantic Project To Be Explained at C. of C. Monday.

Details of a $5,000,000 development project on property adjacent to Manistique are to be announced at the regular meeting of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce next Monday noon. Details of the plan have been withheld, pending the arrival of the men who are behind this monster enterprise, and the nature of the proposition will not be known until it is announced by them at the Chamber of Commerce meeting on Monday. An architectural artist's painting of the proposed improvement, as it will appear when completed, will also be on exhibition at the meeting Monday. This painting arrived in the city this week. It is about 20 feet in length by 5 feet wide, and is said to have cost $3,000 to make. The painting itself is valued at $1,000. The promoters of the project, who are residents of Illinois, believe that Manistique business men should be advised of their plans, and decided on the Manistique Chamber of Commerce as the best medium for presenting the facts to the people of Manistique, who will benefit directly from such development of local resources as is proposed by the Illinois gentlemen. They have announced that there will be no stock selling plan pushed through the Chamber of Commerce, and have asked to appear before that body merely to tell Manistique business men what they are going to do here.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for Friday noon was originally planned, but it was found later that the men could conveniently be here on Monday, October 6, the date of the regular weekly meeting, and they have arranged to be in the city on that day, together with the engineer who has been at work on their holdings.

Students Busy Selling Tickets

Following a Students' Association booster meeting on Monday, students at Manistique high school have organized a ticket selling squad to push the sale of membership tickets in the Students' Association.

One salesman was chosen for each row of seats in the high school. Included on the ticket selling force were the following pupils: C. Hall, C. Ward, C. Atkinson, M. Van Dyck, R. Danielson, H. Mueller, V. Dalton, L. Pallin, E. Atkinson, M. Moulton, Ingeborg Nelsen, H. McMulkin, L. Gagner, L. Miller, H. Quick, and C. Ekstrom.

Roads Inspected by Highway Officials

Messrs. Boehler, Davies and Martin of the State Highway department went over Schoolcraft county roads this week on an inspection tour, and had a conference with J. E. McCarthy, local engineer.

Bids on the new highway thru Manistique will be received up to the seventh of this month at the office of the Schoolcraft county road commissioners.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish every mother with growing girls would try it for those troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."
—Mrs. L. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

FRED ATWOOD COMING HERE OCTOBER 28TH

At the regular meeting of Evergreen lodge, Knights of Pythias held in their Castle Hall Tuesday evening, a report of the Grand Lodge convention was given by Ira Crawford, who was the local delegate this year. "The most successful meeting held in several years," was the opinion of delegates who have attended for the past few years, and the success of the meeting was attributed in a large measure to the presence at the convention of Fred D. Atwood, of Minneapolis, Supreme Prelate.

The Grand Lodge of Michigan has secured the services of Mr. Atwood as lecturer and he will make at least two trips during the coming year to each of the ten Pythian districts in the state. Arrangements were made to have Mr. Atwood appear here on October 28, when it is planned to have a joint meeting of the Knights of Pythias and the Pythian sisters.

A good many local Pythians heard the Supreme Prelate when he visited Manistique in June during the convention of the Upper Michigan Pythian League. A large number were unable to hear him, however, due to the fact that he spoke during the day sessions. Local Pythians who did not hear him at that time have stated that they will not miss this next opportunity to hear him when he appears here Tuesday evening, October 28.

A committee from the local lodge will arrange a program of other numbers for this occasion. The Pythian committee is composed of C. E. Underwood, J. C. Wood and Ira Crawford, who will act with a committee which will later be appointed from the Pythian Sisters lodge.

PAPICH HOME ON CEDAR ST. AGAIN RAIDED

High Voltage Beer and Whiskey Seized by Officers.

Information furnished Manistique authorities by Marvin Condon of Cooks led to the arrest of Tony Papich, whose home on Cedar Street was raided for liquor on Tuesday afternoon, the search revealing about 30 bottles of high voltage beer and a quantity of whiskey and wine.

In the raiding party were Sheriff M. Klagstad, Deputy Sheriff Wilfred Beaudoin, Under-sheriff Andrew Ekstrom, Chief of Police John A. Peterson, and Officer Mike Bond.

The search warrant was secured by Chief of Police Peterson after a confession had been made by Condon as to where he purchased liquor found in his possession when he was arrested on Monday evening. His first story was that he had met a stranger on the bridge, and received the liquor from him on payment of $1 a pint bottle. Arraigned in a justice court, and told that he was confronted with a charge of possession that would take him into circuit court, Condon changed his testimony, and named Tony Papich as the man from whom he purchased the two bottles at the bargain price of $1 each. Condon's affidavit was taken, and the local officers got busy at once with plans for the raid on the Papich home, where Condon said liquor was kept for sale.

The officers took the family by surprise, and seized about three dozen bottles of beer found in the home, together with a small quantity of whiskey in a jug. Papich's examination will be held before Justice W. A. McKinney on Friday of this week. Condon, who was released from the county jail on $500 bond, has been subpoenaed as a witness. The charge against Papich is possession and keeping for sale. This is his third offense.

Extension of Corn Line Farther Into North to Be Tried

(By The Associated Press.) East Lansing, Mich.—Sending the "corn line" of profitable or safe production of corn in Michigan to still farther northern limits may be possible through the selection of a new strain of corn, largely frost resistant, by J. M. Duncan, corn breeder of the Michigan Agricultural College. The strain, which has not yet been named, has been developed from Golden Glow, one of the Duncan productions.

Jack Frost, arch enemy of corn, made the original selection. One hundred ears of Golden Glow corn were broken in halves. The kernels were planted April 2 of the next spring. This is from six to eight weeks before the average planting of corn in Michigan, according to J. P. Cox of the farm crops department here.

After three or four years of selection from this beginning the crops department now is ready to announce a strain of corn that shows marked frost resistance. It also, at the present time, shows the best growth of any corn on the college farm. It has shown in this way every year it has been planted, according to the college records.

The strain is not yet ready for general distribution. One half acre is all that was raised this year of what college experts are inclined to believe will be the best strain. Three acres of a slightly less resistant strain also has been produced this year. Next year the college will increase its acreage of the corn to quantity production. Some seed will be sent out to parent farms over the state to give it a trial under conditions other than those existing here. If these tests prove satisfactory, the new varieties will be offered for general use next year.

Churches Assist in Urging Prevention of Fires this Week

"The Church and the Fire Waste," is the topic of a communication sent to the clergy of Manistique by Fire Chief Charles E. Underwood, calling attention to Fire Prevention Week, which extends from October 5 to 11.

In churches and schools of the city the need of fire prevention measures will be emphasized, and home owners are being urged to clean chimneys and inspect them before stoves and heating plants are put in operation for the winter.

"Every home owner in Manistique should clean his chimney right now," said Fire Chief Underwood. "Fires should be in the best condition when fires are started in heaters and heating plants."

The following letter to the clergy shows the phase of fire prevention that will be emphasized through the churches:

"The Church can be of great value in the fight against careless fires and the enormous loss of life resulting therefrom. Announcements of fire prevention week should be made on the Sunday preceding. Sermons on the fire waste are always effective, and serve a valuable purpose in showing that fire should not be considered as an act of God, as was formerly the general belief, but that it is very definitely due to human carelessness. An appropriate text embodying the elementary principle of justice that the individual should be held responsible when his acts injure his neighbor, is found in Exodus:

"If fire break out and catch in thorns, so that the stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field, be consumed therewith; he that kindled the fire shall make restitution." Exodus xxii, 6.

"The following are a few statistics which may be of interest to you:

"At least 75 per cent of the present annual loss of $506,540,000—or $379,900,000, is preventable and therefore can be avoided.

"In Michigan last year there were 236 lives lost through fire. "Even in Michigan alone, our fire loss last year was $19,000,000, and this does not include over $5,000,000 in forestry."

"Last year there were 25 churches, 22 schools, 33 public buildings, 240 factories, 34 hospitals, 3,693 homes, and five court houses destroyed by fire in our own state of Michigan.

"The above facts show how essential it is for each person to make a home inspection regularly noting condition of electric wiring, chimneys, rubbish, and particular attention paid to oil rags and oil pots.

"Sincerely yours,
"Charles V. Lane,
"Chief, Fire Marshal Division."

New Treatment For Varicose or Swollen Veins

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at People's Drug Store and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.
Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. It is guaranteed.
So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that enlarged glands, wens and even goitre disappear when used steadily.

Examinations Will Start at 9 O'clock, Junior High School.

Michigan state department of health officials and their assistants, coming to Gladstone under sponsorship of the Child's Care Club, will open their two week-end clinic this morning at 9 o'clock in the Junior high school building.

The clinic will continue today
Friday with sessions from 9 to 12 o'clock and from 1:30 to 3 o'clock.

Three specialists of the state department and their assistants have been in Escanaba this week of the week, will conduct the clinic here. They are Dr. F.
Rose and his assistant, Miss Garnfield, who will be in charge of school children; Dr.
M. Likley and Miss Mahel who will handle children of school age; and Dr. Wallace Smith and his assistant, Miss A. Nash, who conducted the entire clinic.

Members of the Welfare club, Mrs. Elmgren, trained nurse and Margaret Kanney, school nurse, will also assist.

The clinic will be a health institute for well people with the idea of keeping them well through education to frequent examination. It will be general, for adults, children of school age and babies. Examinations will be conducted and advice given, with recommendation for treatment by the family physician in all cases in which ailments are found.

Opportunity.
The sessions, both morning and afternoon, will be crowded, but it is asked that those who are able to be at the clinic during the morning, take that time, and leave the afternoon hours for those who cannot attend at any part of the day.

The clinic is an institution whose value is well appreciated by Gladstone and it will draw all those interested in good health and in keeping that good health.

CENTRAL PARK'S CAVE
New York.—Police are investigating reports that a cave in Central Park is a "port of missing girls."
They pooh-hoed the story of Joan Koski, 17-year-old runaway at Leveand, that she had slept with about a score of other girls in a cave in the park, but now they are guarding the entrance to the cavern.
The cave is hardly known to any except the most curious of the park explorers.

BOOSTER CLUB WILL COLLECT PARK FUNDS

Money Will Reimburse Club and Form Backing for Band.

Collection of funds from those who subscribed to the tourist park fund a year ago but whose money was not received by the general park committee and canvassing for subscriptions from those who have not been asked before to contribute to the park fund was decided upon at the regular meeting of the Gladstone Booster Club held Tuesday evening in the city hall.

This course of action will be taken as a means of reimbursing the club for the large amount of its treasury money spent in improvements to the park and in this way, leaving a fund in the club treasury to promote the organization and financing of a Gladstone band.

A committee to take charge of the canvassing will be appointed by Attorney Glenn W. Jackson president, and announced within a few days.

The tourist park committee a year ago, before organization of the Booster Club, canvassed the city for funds with which to put the park in condition for tourists and outings by the townspeople.
Only a part of this subscription has been collected.

Took Over Work.
In the spring the original park committee asked that the Booster Club go ahead with the park work and this was done. Improvements were made, conveniences supplied, and in addition, but in line with the work, the new bath house built. This work, not covered by the partly collected park subscription, took a good share of the Booster club treasury money.

It is now planned to collect the rest of the park money and to canvass for funds from those who did not previously subscribe. In order to place everyone on the park fund list and evenly divide the subscription. Those who subscribed to the tourist park fund and whose subscriptions have been collected will not be included in this canvass.

When this money is collected,
it will be placed in the Booster club fund to re-pay part of what was spent by the club in park improvements and this will give the club the financial backing necessary in organizing a band.

Membership Drive.
It was also decided at the meeting to begin a membership campaign with a view to increasing the number of club members.
Dan Sullivan, chairman of the membership committee, will appoint a special committee to handle this.

GLADSTONE- ESKY CLASH SATURDAY

The annual clash between old football rivals will be seen Saturday afternoon on the home field when the Escanaba and Gladstone squads meet.

in the line-up when the men line up for the kickoff Saturday.

Experts See No Chance Of Planes Displacing Ships

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington—Has aviation reached the stage to make a strong navy any less important that it was?
In the last few days the suggestion has been made that it has.

The suggestions came from the White House.
Government experts are very backward about taking issue with the president. But among themselves—the idea's too ridiculous for words, practically all of them say. Here and there, perhaps some out-and-out aviation fanatic may hold otherwise, but he's a hard fanatic to find, even in aviation circles.

That aircraft are important as naval auxiliaries is agreed.
It is conceded readily that a war fleet without them would be at a tremendous disadvantage—probably a fatal disadvantage—against another fleet adequately equipped with such auxiliaries.

"But to compare a battleship and an aeroplane, as weapons," to quote an officer who holds an important Navy Department post,
"is like comparing an automobile with a piece of pie. They're unrelated, entirely. One's for one thing, the other's for another.
There's nothing interchangeable about them."

"For purely defensive purposes," went on this authority, "aircraft, in sufficient numbers, might do."
"But if ever the United States has trouble with any foreign country, naturally we will want to carry our campaign to the latter's shores, to sweep enemy commerce from the ocean, and to protect our own."

"How could we reach the waters of any overseas foe without war ships?"
"We certainly couldn't do it with airplane-carrying vessels. For if they were unprotected by warships the enemy would sink them as soon as they put to sea."

"Dirigibles may serve the purpose if the time ever comes when one of them can transport several thousand men, and we have a big fleet of them, but that time isn't here yet and it's unlikely it ever will be.

"Neither is it likely we ever shall see the day when an aero-plane can fly overseas, operate and return without a landing.
"Such voyages as the round-the-world flight, made during favorable weather, from well-equipped base to well-equipped base, at convenient intervals, is one thing.
"A trans-ocean flight by a great fleet of planes would be altogether a different matter. How many such planes, taking off from New York or San Francisco, ever would reach the European or Atlantic coast!"

"It isn't even certain," continued the officer, "that planes would be cheaper than surface men-o-war."
"The ordinary military plane costs about $12,000.
"With good luck, no accidents,
its life is about a month, or 75 flying hours.
"The life of a battleship, costing $8,000,000 or $10,000,000, is about ten years.
"A $12,000 plane must be replaced 120 times in ten years at a total cost of $1,440,000. And nobody will argue that a single plane is the equivalent of a battleship.
One hundred would be more like a fair comparison."

Japanese Labor Is Becoming Restless

Tokio, Japan.—Japanese labor, growing in class consciousness, is becoming increasingly unruly. Official statistics compiled by the home department show that strikes were more than twice as numerous in the first half of 1924 as in the first half of 1921.
There were 435 strikes involving 55,000 workers in the first six months of this year, as compared with 182 strikes involving 25,000 workers during the first half of 1921.

Strained Enjoyment.
Mrs. Rufus White, head of the White family, having joined the church choir, Rufus was obliged to put up with her practising morning, noon and night.
"Does you, enjoy yo' wife's singing?" he was asked one day.
"Oh, yas," he answered dutifully, "but," he added, sotto voce, "it ain't because Ah particly likes to."

'WAY DOWN EAST'

Based on Wm. A. Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and J. R. Grismer.

Here you have something more than a motion picture—it is a story of human hearts, unfolded in a simple, soul-reaching way, under the master guidance of Mr. Griffith—a production that will go thundering down the ages just because it is so human.

TWO LINEMEN ON THE SHELF

Injuries May Keep Lefty Johnson and Buck Curran Out of Battle.

Escanaba high school will probably be minus the services of two of its huskiest linemen next Saturday afternoon when the Orange and Black team meets its old rival, Gladstone, in the upbay city.

Lefty Johnson and Buck Curran are on the shelf as a result of injuries received in the Newberry game last week. Curran has a bad ankle, while Johnson's left shoulder is bothering him considerably.

Prince Lore Wins Over Favorite in Circuit's Feature

Columbus, O., Oct. 1.—Deduct of Baron Worthing and Colonel Bidwell, equal favorites in the Ohio State Grand Circuit program when racing was resumed after a postponement of two days because of rain.

Making his first start in two weeks Baron Worthing was not a contender in the first mile which was won by Prince Lore. In the second, Baron Worthing led to the stretch where he was nosed out by Colonel Bidwell.

Racing was halted for half an hour at four o'clock when a memorial tablet was unveiled in memory of E. F. (Pop) Geers, who drove his first mile in less than two minutes on the track.

The veteran horseman who was killed in a race at Wheeling, W. Va., September 3, drove Napoleon Direct in 1:59 1/2 here August 16, 1916.

Miami To Invite Tigers To Train There Next Year

Miami, Fla., Oct. 1.—Miami will invite the Detroit Americans to make this city the training headquarters next spring as a result of action taken today by the Chamber of Commerce.

Big League Clubs May Be Brought to Escanaba for Game

NEGOTIATIONS with the St. Louis Browns and the Cleveland Indians, for an exhibition game to be played here one afternoon next week, were under way last night and those sponsoring the project declared that the contest would be staged if sufficient financial encouragement was found about the city today.

The two big league ball clubs will be in this section on a barnstorming exhibition. They will meet in an exhibition game in Menominee next Monday.

Intimation Given As to Lineup of Michigan's Squad

Any Arbor, Mich., Oct. 1.—First indications of the Michigan lineup for the opening of the football season were given today when the varsity eleven came out of its secret practice long enough to hold a scrimmage with the freshmen.

The men who started the tilt this afternoon and who were joined to by the coaches, committing themselves for the first time, as likely to get into the opener Saturday against Miami in the original lineup were: Marlon; Edwards; Slaughter; Brown; c. Hawkins; r. Habcock; rt. Grube; re. Rockwell; quarter; Stammen; lb. Captain Steger; rb. and Miller, full.

During the play, Parker, crack punter and passer, replaced Captain Steger, and Domboff took the burden of running the team.

Aggies Scrimmage Before Big Crowd

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 1.—Scrimmage in the Michigan Aggie football camp today was an open one, the only one of the week at which the gates to the new stadium swung open, and was largely attended.

To all appearances the varsity did not forget the touch-down scored by the freshmen in Tuesday afternoon's scrimmage. Coach Young's eleven showed that it remembers an affront, and when this afternoon's practice game was started went right into things like an old enemy and had nothing to hold to reserve.

Big Race Takes Blaze From Zev

New York, Oct. 1.—Big Blaze, Glen Riddle Farm entry, won the $3,500 interborough handicap at a mile and a sixteenth at Jamaica today, the feature event of the opening day's program. Zev, was standing favorite in the race, was beaten by a length in a driving finish, with Stazwix, his stable mate, third. The time was 1:44 4/5.

HURLING TO BE BIG FACTOR IN WORLD SERIES

Power of Attack Takes Secondary Position This Year, Belief.

New York, Oct. 1.—With Walter Johnson, veteran ace of Washington's sharp shooting corps, as the outstanding figure, pitching may be the decisive factor in the 1924 world's series between the Senators and the Giants.

Depend On Twirlers

This year, however, with a less lively ball, pitching may come into its own again. The "big four" of the Washington staff, Johnson, Zachary, Mogrige and Marberry, put the club in front, although it was attacking power that kept it there in the final drive.

Whatever the merits of the rival twirling corps, however, interest will center in the achievements of Johnson, probably the only ball player of all time who rivals in popular esteem the former Giant marvel, Christy Mathewson.

Johnson's major league record of 18 seasons is studded with marvelous achievements. He holds by a wide margin the world's strikeout record. With the completion of this season, he had passed the 3,200 mark, and is practically 1,000 ahead of his nearest rival, Mathewson.

Epinaud-Ladkin To Race Again Oct. 11

New York, Oct. 1.—Epinaud, French crack, and his conqueror in the second international special, Ladkin, were shipped today to Lantonia where it is likely they will compete in the third classic on October 11 with the largest field that has started in any of the international tests.

St. Paul-Baltimore Series Opens Today

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—The "little world series" opens here tomorrow with the Baltimore Orioles, six-time champions of the International League, pitted against the St. Paul Saints, honorem in the American Association.

BREAKS FAVOR AMERICAN GANG

Lady Luck Has Always Smiled on Junior Circuit, Says Evans.

THE breaks in the first game of the world series have helped the National League win seven games, the American six.

In the second game it has been a fifty-fifty proposition, each league being favored in two games.

High School Notes

The high school gymnasium is being re-wired to provide additional lights for use during the basketball season. The lighting of the gym has been the source of considerable annoyance and complaint on the part of spectators and visiting teams for several years. This will be remedied by the addition of new ceiling clusters.

Plans to make Escanaba high school's representation 100 per cent at the annual up-state teachers' convention at Marquette on Thursday and Friday of next week are under way. The schools of the city will be closed on those days.

Class advisors and officers, at a conference last night, arranged for the program of stunts and attractions to be given at the Halloween carnival to be staged October 31 for the benefit of the school's athletic fund. Each class will provide four shows for the carnival. The Girls' League will serve refreshments and the Grange & Black Society will stage a vaudeville show in the study hall.

Principal R. E. Cheney and Coach Glenn C. Thompson are framing next year's football schedule. Letters, offering contracts to the schools of the peninsula which Escanaba would like to meet on the gridiron in 1925 are now in the mails. It is expected that the schedule will be virtually completed before the present season ends.

The new trophy cabinet in the main corridor on the second floor is attracting considerable attention. It was installed by the Orange & Black Society and contains sufficient room for the attractive display of all cups and similar trophies won by the school, or temporarily in the school's possession. The lighting and trimming effects and the arrangement of the trophies is very attractive.

ARE MATED AT AGE OF FOUR

BY MAURICE HENLE NEA Service Writer New York.—The white man knows all his neighbors now. In South American jungles beyond Theodore Roosevelt's "River of Doubt," Americans have studied and photographed what is believed to be the last people on earth to come under the gaze of the white scientists.

The Joseph McGoldrick expedition of Philadelphia traveled up the Amazon river, up the "River of Doubt," now called the Roosevelt river, and into the jungles far beyond to find these people. It took 40 days, from Manaus, the last white settlement, to reach these tribes.

"White men probably have never been there before," said Alec Besso, guide and interpreter to the expedition, which has just returned.

Women Like Slaves. The beliefs and customs of this primitive group, which has never been in contact with white people, are unique. Women are virtual slaves of the men.

"We met two different tribes," Besso says, "the Pirahas and Parintintins. The latter are the more warlike, the most ferocious. They battle continuously between themselves and their enemy is a bitter one."

Their marriage views and social customs are curious. The usual custom is for a boy, as soon as he becomes 13 or 14 years of age, to go out and prove his courage. He must hunt and fish. He must fight. Once he has proved he can take care of himself, he is allowed to choose his wife.

Marry At Ten. "The wife usually is a girl of 10 or 11 years of age. They are married. There isn't any ceremony, but the relations between man and wife is just as rigid as if there were a million ceremonies."

"Sometimes it happens that the father of a little girl takes a liking to a boy. Even when the girl is too young to marry—say three or four—he gives her to the boy, who takes her into his father's house and cares for her. This continues until she becomes about 10 and then their marriage is considered as completed.

"Society, in one sense, is much alike in the United States and among the wild tribes of Brazil. An unworthy woman is shunned by other women just as she is shunned up here.

"Within the Parintintins are two clans. The Montans (wild turkey) and the Quandus (hawks). Every member of the 2,000 in the tribe belongs to one or the other tribes. A Mountain woman must marry only a Quandu man. A Mountain man can only wed a Quandu woman. In this way they keep the blood of the tribe clean.

"That they have been successful is evident. They are wonderfully built creatures and fight like tigers."

Solved Problem. Incidentally this expedition to Brazil erased the question mark which has hung over the "River of Doubt" ever since Theodore Roosevelt first named it that on his famous trip to South America.

Roosevelt, after plunging through the jungle came out at the source of a river, the identity of which he then was in doubt. Hence its name. At first it was thought to have been a branch of the Arripuna river which flows into the Amazon. But the expedition established the fact that the "River of Doubt" now called River Roosevelt, in the main stream and the Arripuna is merely a branch of it.

A wreath was placed by members of the expedition at the marker made by the Roosevelt expedition. In canoes Besso and his party went up the stream. Fast, dangerous rapids were encountered but otherwise the trip was uneventful until they were about 1,000 miles from Manaus where Pirahas and the Parintintins range.

"Nature provides for these savages wonderfully," Besso said. "The warriors and hunters make strings for their bows from wild cotton that grows everywhere in the jungle."

"There is always plenty of wild game to shoot and plenty fish to catch. Natives are skilled in the art of spearing fish. But the most interesting thing to know about this phase of their lives is that they eat considerable monkey meat.

"Clothing is not worn in these regions. When we brought them dresses and other articles of clothing they were much delighted. They put it on for the purpose of some pictures, but no sooner had the cameras clicked than off came the clothing. They have no sense of modesty."

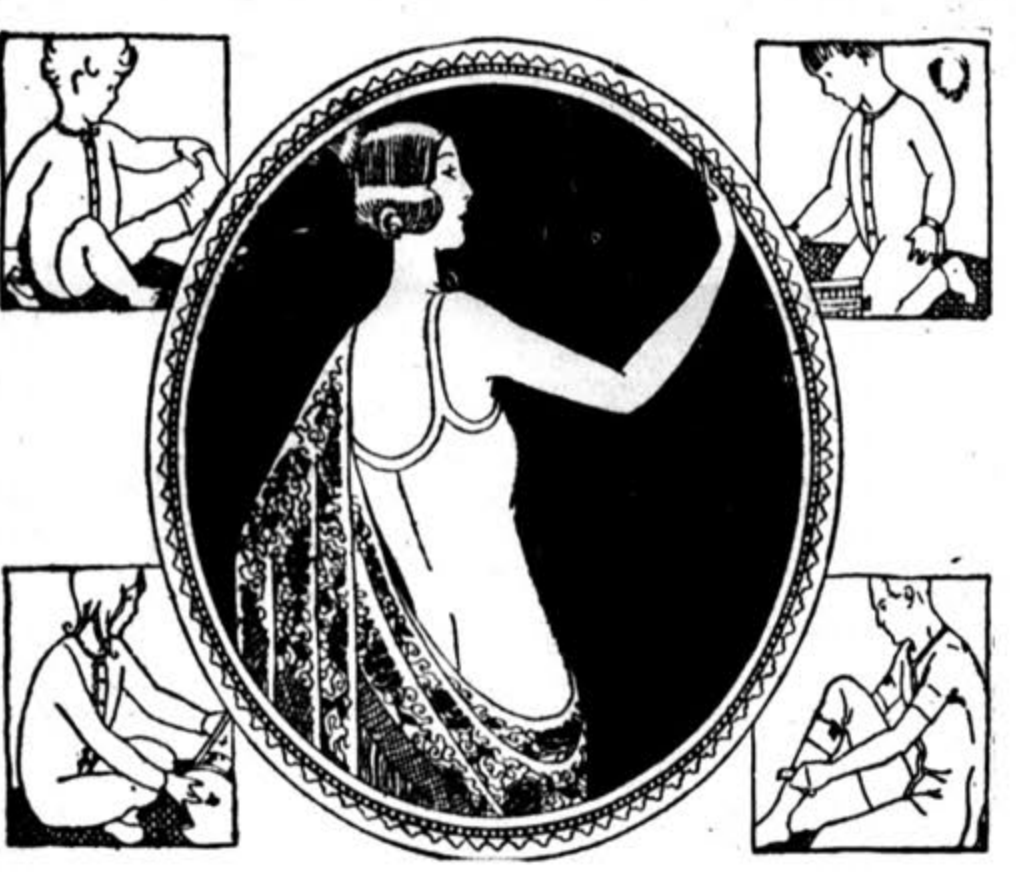

HURRIED FORGIVENESS. Council Bluffs, Ia.—When Heater Goodrow and Ray Edle of New Underwood, Ia., eloped in Council Bluffs, the young woman's father, the Rev. W. W. Goodrow, pursued them and caught them in time to forgive them and officiate at their marriage.
