Charles Martell Shoots Big Lynx

Charles Martell, 340 Ludington street, came to Escanaba last night with a huge lynx, he shot in the woods six miles south of Northland. The animal weighed about 40 pounds, was nearly 4 feet long from nose to tail, and was about 30 inches high. He was charging at Mr. Martell, about 15 yards away, when a bullet from the hunter's rifle brought him down. Mr. Martell will claim a $15 bounty in Marquette county where the animal was killed, and it is estimated the skin is worth about $25.

Along with the lynx, the same hunter brought back a 150-pound buck deer. The lynx is a rare animal in the north Michigan woods.

Women Seek Jobs in Slaughter Houses

Berlin—Women have taken a hand in most of the trades and professions in Germany since granted the right to vote, excepting the butcher business, and now they are endeavoring to get into that. Several strong-armed women have been advertising in Berlin newspapers recently for jobs in slaughter houses, contending that because of their physical development and inclination they are fully qualified to do the work of men.

It has been the custom for years to employ women and girls as clerks in retail meat shops and in sausage factories, but not until lately has there been any indications of women taking up work in the slaughter houses themselves.

CLEAN SINK.
Clean up the sink carefully after each meal if you want to avoid trouble with the plumbing.

Bands of Gypsies Are Depleted by Civilization-War

Budapest—The gypsies of the world are said to be dying out. This is especially true of nomadic tribes which have roamed about Europe since the beginning of the fourteenth century. They have not been able to keep pace with modern civilization.

While definite figures are lacking, it has been estimated that today, in all countries, there are less than 600,000 gypsies, while 25 years ago there were more than a million scattered about the earth's surface. Hungary and Rumania have today over half the gypsy population of the world. Of these approximately 100,000 speak only the gypsy language.

There are gypsy settlements in both Hungary and Rumania, as well as other European countries where the gypsy has settled down, entering trade in the villages, tilling the soil, or serving as musicians and singers. But there are still many thousands wandering over the continent and eking out an existence by fortune telling, giving musical concerts or making minor repairs for the housewife encountered on the way.

The war is responsible for the decrease in the number of nomadic gypsies in Europe. It is declared. During the years that the armies fought across one country after another the wandering gypsy was driven from his favorite fields of travel, and he has never "come back" in numbers anything like those which existed prior to 1914.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 13.—The spirit of all New York, past and present, is epitomized in an ancient graveyard that lies just off the Bowery near Chatham Square.

It is in the shadow of the world's tallest buildings. It is a stone's throw from Chinatown and from the haunts of desperate criminals. The elevated trains roar by. Tenements box it in.

And above the graves washings hang, dripping clothes almost sweeping the tops of tombstones. This was the first Jewish graveyard in the United States. It was consecrated in 1654. Some of the tombstones have been standing almost three centuries. Once it was the center of the Spanish and Portuguese Jewish colony, the first Jews to land in America. It was already a landmark during the Revolutionary War and its site was used as a fortress at that time.

Times and men have marched on since then, but sentiment and tradition have remained immutable. Life is so crowded in that part of New York that it can hardly persist, but reverence for the dead protects the sanctuary of mouldering bones.

And there you have the symbolism of New York. This vast fabric of humanity is shot through with tragedy, drabness, selfishness, cupidity and avarice. But in it there are soft threads of sentiment.

And such a thread is this ancient Jewish graveyard, with its paradox of flapping clothes-lines and its revered tombstones.

Charlie Mathieu, dapper, nervous, popular newspaper editor, has lived in New York most of his life. He knows New York like your nose knows a rose, but he seldom visits Greenwich Village.

Last week several ladies from Cincinnati were guests at his home. They wanted to see New York's Bohemia, so Charlie volunteered to act as escort.

Arriving at Washington Square he asked a policeman where to go, what place would be a good one in which to show the out-of-towners a bit of life.

"You'd better go home," the cop answered. "They rob you in these places. You get a big check and you see nothing but four-flushers."

Still determined to explore the lairs of long-haired men and short-haired women, Mathieu approached five other cops.

And they all told him the same thing. "You'd better go home."

A friend of Pete Havenaugh, the actor, told me a little story about him today.

Some time back Pete had quite a roll in his pocket. It was late at night and, fearing a hold-up, he put some of the bills in the sweatband of his hat.

And he was held up. And slugged over the head. He awoke in a hospital, suffering with a mild form of amnesia. He lost weight and when he left the hospital his hat was a bit large.

It wasn't until he started to tuck paper in the sweatband that he found his forgotten wealth. —JAMES W. DEAN.

(By The Associated Press.)

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 13.—Cam-paigns to assure ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution and to curb the marketing of products of convict labor, were advocated today in separate departmental meetings of the American Federation of Labor.

The building trades, metal trades and label trades departments were in session today preliminary to the general convention of the federation beginning Monday.

While trade problems were considered in the group meetings, members of the executive council of the federation continued the work of gathering and classifying divergent views on political policy, in preparation for a special report to the general convention on future political action.

The metal trades division which devoted much of its session to the ratification campaign, called upon "every justice-loving man and woman to press for legislative action" on the amendment.

is "Very Important."

"No more important piece of legislation ever has been considered in state legislatures," James O'Connell, president of the department, said in his annual report to the convention.

"At the present time there are more than 1,000,000 children between the ages of 10 and 15 years earning wages in this country. Approximately 400,000 of them are between the ages of 10 and 13 years."

John J. Manning, secretary of the label trades department, in his annual report, characterized convict labor as one of the chief foes of progress in industrial unionism. To it he attributed in part responsibility for a decrease of 9,000 in the affiliated membership role of the department during the last year. The present membership of the 42 affiliated international unions he reported as 588,000.

"State and federal legislation is necessary to eliminate this competition with free labor," he said. "The unions affiliated with the department should act in unison with every group working for the abolition of convict labor."

Canada Played for Failure To Check Booze Exportation

(By The Associated Press.)

Mntreal, Nov. 13.—Criticism of the Canadian government for failure to stop exportation of liquor to the United States was expressed by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, who spoke today at the Quebec Prohibition Federation.

"The dominion bureau of statistics recently announced that 23,475 gallons of Canadian liquor were shipped to the United States," he said. "Most of it did not ever cross our boundary. Canadian thirsts were slaked by it in violation of Canadian law."

"The part that did slip into America was pirate liquor. Friendly nations should help each other suppress outlaws who use their territory as a base for crimes against a neighbor land. If Canadian customs laws were carefully enforced, not one gallon of that so-called exportation would have appeared on your dominion books as coming across the border."

Mr. Wheeler said government control had not eliminated bootlegging in Canada and asserted that only nation-wide prohibition would solve the liquor problem there.

Demo Politicians at Famous Resort

(By The Associated Press.)

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 13.—Thomas Taggart's hotel here today became the stamping ground of a number of notable figures in Democracy with the arrival of Governor Smith of New York, who was accompanied by several friends.

Although Governor Smith insisted he is here only for a rest following his strenuous campaign for re-election, the fact that Mr. Taggart, dean of Hoosier Democracy, is here recovering from an operation performed in Boston and George F. Brennan, leader of the Democrats in Illinois, is expected tomorrow, gives rise to reports that almost anything may transpire in the next day or two in the political line.

Los Angeles—Another prehistoric inhabitant of Southern California yielded the secret of his last resting place recently when R. E. Fisher, exploring the Santa Monica hills near here, stumbled across the remnants of the animal's spinal column. Fisher found several vertebrae, ranging in diameter from 10 to 13 inches, and some smaller fragments of bones imbedded in limestone that apparently had been fused by volcanic heat. Scientists partially identified the bones as those of a prehistoric whale, or possibly a dinosaur.

GIRL SCOUTS

A SERIES OF TALKS ABOUT SCOUTING IN GENERAL AND THE DELTA COUNTY SCOUTS IN PARTICULAR.

THE FIRST FIVE GIRL SCOUT LAWS

The Girl Scout promise acts as the foundation for Scouting upon which are built the 10 Scout Laws—the stepping stones of the organization.

The laws are studied in each beginning Tenderfoot class. One law is taken each week and lived up to by the Scouts. At the next meeting this law is discussed as to its meaning, the principal words in the law defined, its relation to God, country, family, and to the Scout herself, whether it concerns ideals, traditions or organization, and if the duties incident to this law require self-sacrifice, love or charity. Many interesting examples are brought out during these discussions by the girls themselves in living that particular Scout law for the week.

First Law: A Girl Scout's Honor is to be trusted.

When a Scout understands what it means to be "On her honor," it is an easy thing for her to say, "That is so, on my honor as a Girl Scout," and we can trust her with keeping the letter of the law; she does not require any guard, but her own sense of honor, which is always to be trusted.

Second Law: A Girl Scout is Loyal.

This means that she is true to her country, her family, her church, her school, and to those for whom she may work.

Third Law: A Girl Scout's Duty is to be Useful and to Help Others.

To be useful, to do a good turn daily, means not the performing of our every day duties, but it is the "extra mile," as Mrs. Ripplin tells us, in doing something over and above what is expected of a Girl Scout. "The more one does, the more one seems to do," and this is the spirit which is instilled in the heart of every Girl Scout from the time she enters as a Tenderfoot Scout. To be useful is a real asset in character building.

Fourth Law: A Girl Scout is a Friend to All and a Sister to Every other Girl Scout.

A Girl Scout is a friend to all, especially the old, the little children, the sick and the helpless. She has been trained to help others, and is proud of her handiwork and knowledge in this way. This is the older Scouts' best law, for it makes one feel that they need never be without a friend or a helping hand as long as there is another Girl Scout in the world.

Fifth Law: A Girl Scout is Courteous.

Polliteness is within the reach of all, but true courtesy is to help others and to do it pleasantly. Real consideration for the rights of others is proof enough that you are anxious to "Do as you would be done by."

Next Week: The last in Scout Laws.

GIVES AWAY HIS SALARY

WILLARD BURTON

Giving up his salary to charity and being 75 years old marks Willard Burton, mayor of Fort Worth, Tex., as probably the most unusual mayor in the United States.

The aged mayor was selected by the city commission upon the resignation of Egbert R. Sockrell to assume the presidency of William Woods College, Fulton, Mo. Burton, a lumber man, who heads a lumber company with nearly 30 yards in Texas cities, announced on assuming office that his salary as mayor, $3800 a year, should be given to charity in the city.

Evening, Miss Isabell Cass gave a very interesting talk on "Scouting for girls from 10 to 14 years," and Scouting for girls over 14 years." She spoke of the younger Scouts as "Little Birds," and trying their wings and that their greatest need was leadership. As a leader, she spoke of what a leader finds in a troop. First, a great deal of thought to the individual girl and a great deal of time and work with the troop. But with the time and work there was always a real feeling of satisfaction in seeing the results of Scouting. With shyness of some girls on one hand and boldness of other girls on the other hand, she found Scouting to be one of the greatest means to balance the two extremes and whatever effort the leader did have to put forth, was returned in the joy of doing for others and playing the part of the Girl Scout herself.

With the older girls, Community service was the keynote. She said the Older Scout did want to "do things" and while they loved to have a good time in Scouting, they could do serious things, too.

Miss Cass also spoke of the benefits derived by the girls in the home, especially that of health and citizenship. She mentioned the study of Home Arts combined with economics. Home nursing, first aid, child nursing, and other badges, that tend to develop the best of health and citizenship for the girls and their homes.

Miss Mary Nee outlined a tentative program for a Junior Leaders' course. As a foundation for this course, girls who have been Girl Scouts and who have proved themselves to be "Good Scouts," will be eligible for the course. Miss Nee had the course very well planned, with a study of Scouting from the Scouts own viewpoint to the responsibility of doing leadership work with a group of girls. Miss Nee announced that Miss Ruth Malloch, Miss Alda Robb, Mrs. Bandoen and Miss O'Connor would have charge of various activities during the course. Miss Nee having charge of the lectures. Definite plans will be announced later.

Plans were discussed for the leaders' Thanksgiving camp at Nee's cottage and a county leaders' day will be held all day, Saturday, November 29.

Leaders will meet again Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the Library Hall and a formal model troop meeting will be conducted. New leaders will be invested as Tenderfoot Scouts at the Thanksgiving Camp, and it is urged that all leaders who have not been invested or who have not completed their Tenderfoot work, attend the meeting Monday evening to finish up all work for the Tenderfoot test.

Council News.

The Escanaba Council held a very interesting meeting Monday afternoon. Each member of the council, during this month, will visit one or more troops, during their regular meeting time and report on their activities at the next council meeting.

Troop News.

Troop 8, at the Washington School, have reorganized. Mrs. St. Louis, former leader, has moved to Detroit. Miss Gertrude Gentessee and Miss Elizabeth Oudeans of the Washington school, will be their leaders and Mrs. Ada Lindstrom and Mrs. Joseph Feller, members of the Washington P. T. A., and Mrs. George Harvey and Mrs. T. G. Byrns, members of the council as sponsors. Miss Ryan, principal, donated her services as a booster and Troop 8 promises to be one of the best troops in the city.

Patrol 1, the older girls of Troop 12, under the leadership of Miss Reade and Mrs. Frost, went on a hike Saturday morning and learned the trick of frying bacon and eggs on a flat stove.

The Tenderfoot girls of Troop 12 enjoyed a social meeting at the home of Mrs. Frost, on Thursday afternoon.

Gladstone Scout News.

The leaders' scout, held every Thursday evening in the Scout room of the Community building, have completed their Tenderfoot work and will start on their second class work next Tuesday evening.

Patrol 1, of the Star Troop, under leadership of Mrs. A. G. Peterson, gave a dinner to their mothers and friends at the home of Mrs. Peterson, Wednesday evening. Invitations, planning, serving and cooking were all carried out by the girls themselves, in preparation for their hostess badge. Each girl had her own particular duty to perform and the mothers and friends present complimented the girls on the capable manner in which they acted as hostesses. Kathleen Brophy, Josephine McGoon, Mary Bushong, Reno Payne and Dorothy Solberg acted as hostesses and will receive a hostess badge.

Mrs. Gordon Page, leader of Troop 3, has had a number of new members and will soon have two full patrols.

Children's Book Week at Library Is Huge Success

Children's Book Week at the Carnegie Library yesterday continued to attract large crowds of parents as well as the young folk to the institution. MOON ECLIPSE DUE ON JAN. 24

(By The Associated Press.)
 New Haven, Conn.—For a few minutes on the morning of January 24, next, the moon will get between the earth and the sun and cut off all the light we get from that body. This eclipse will be visible in the United States, and doubtless will be seen by more millions of people than any such occurrence in the past, according to Professor E. W. Brown, of Yale University.

An eclipse is not a rare event, but one or two occur every year, but the one next January is notable for the fact that it occurs in a territory from which the light of the sun has not been wholly obscured by the moon within the memory of anyone living.

"If we look over the records for past eclipses, Professor Brown said, and the predictions for future eclipses we soon see that in any one place there will be a total eclipse of the sun only once in every few hundred years. The coming eclipse will produce darkness over a narrow band of territory which stretches from a point somewhat west of Duluth and, after crossing northern Michigan and Wisconsin, is seen in Connecticut, and then passes out to sea. The hour of the phenomenon is between nine and nine-thirty, eastern time."

Eclipse in 1919.
 There was an eclipse in 1919, visible in Brazil and Central West Africa, and another last September seen by the people of California and Northern Mexico.

The accuracy with which the time and position can be predicted for an eclipse is high. Professor Brown went on to say. The staff of the United States Naval Observatory at Washington is always at work calculating the positions of heavenly bodies years in advance in order that the predictions may be useful. The northern and southern edges of the shadow band will be laid down within a mile, when the almanac predicts that the southern edge will cross the upper end of Central Park in New York City it is fairly certain that the shadow will not keep off the grass. All this knowledge, however, is not a product of the present generation. It has been slowly accumulating through many centuries. Most of it is due to the work of the law of gravitation which was given by Isaac Newton toward the end of the 17th century.

"But we have to pay our homage to observers for their industry much further back than that," the professor continued. "More than 2000 years ago the Chaldeans were able to predict when eclipses would occur, because they had learned that there is a long series of them repeated in a little over 18 years. It is remarkable that they should have been able to get this knowledge because any eclipse does not cover quite the same part of the earth's surface as the corresponding one which occurred 18 years before. They must have kept records over at least a century, perhaps over many centuries, before the cycle was discovered. The eclipse of next January will be seen by many millions of people. In the map which has been issued by the naval observatory it is seen that the southern boundary of the band over which the sun will be totally eclipsed just covers Duluth (Minn.), Menominee (Mich.), Frankfort (Mich.), London (Ont.), Dunkirk (N. Y.), Wilkes-Barre (Pa.), and New York City north of Central Park. Well inside the northern edge are Manistique (Mich.), Toronto (Ont.), Auburn, Hudson (N. Y.), New Bedford (Mass.), while a mile or two outside are Syracuse (N. Y.), Springfield (Mass.), and Providence (R. I.).

The observations which are to be made by the observatories within the region of totality are not yet fully known. Some of them will devote the brief two minutes during which the eclipse lasts to photographing that marvelous fringe of light which is never seen except at a total eclipse, is known as the corona. Others will try to get accurate positions of the moon and also photographs of it so that its size and shape shall be better known."

Professor Brown is chairman of a committee appointed by the American Astronomical Society to inform the public concerning this eclipse.

THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL

Stoughton, Oct. 27, (Indiana),
 Sioux City, Iowa.

Gentlemen:—

It gives me pleasure to inform you concerning the wonderful success which we are having with Polarine "F" OIL.

We have always been more or less skeptical of the different kinds of oil which have been placed on the market, especially where they were designed and produced to serve in the transmission parts. Therefore, we hesitated in using this oil at the start. For fear that we would have the same experience as we had had on other oils in the past.

However, we purchased two barrels to start with, and used a big part of this in our own service cars and in the care of our four-wheel salesmen. The results were satisfactory in every respect. So then ordered it to our Ford customers. All of them are very highly pleased and are having the best possible results.

We believe that it will eliminate band trouble to a large extent and it also gives perfect lubrication in the motor.

We have not hesitated to contract for sixty barrels, and we wish you much success in the marketing of this oil.

Very truly yours,
FRANKLIN H. CLARK COMPANY
