OVER BIG AREA. New York, Feb. 28.—Mother Earth shook herself just a trifle tonight, sending a vigorous little earthquake peil meil throughout the northeastern part of the United States and Canada.

In the country's great centers of population—New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Boston, Detroit and others—the quake was severe enough to alarm millions of people.

Estimate Center. Scientists at the Fordham station estimated that the center of the disturbance was at least 400 miles from New York.

Complete reports as to the boundaries of the zone were lacking at 10:45 o'clock, but a telephone message from Montreal said the quake was noticeable there and that it had also affected Sudbury, Ont., 300 miles north of Toronto.

The disturbance appeared to have been of varied intensity. Distinguished seismographic experts at Fordham University in Washington as "very severe," the quake was said to have lasted from 15 to 20 seconds in Hartford, Conn., but not more than two minutes in several other cities, including New York.

EAST SHOCKED.

New York, Feb. 28.—An earthquake shock of two minutes duration was felt in New York City and its suburbs this evening. Shocks were also reported from upstate counties in New York as far west as Syracuse and throughout New England.

Telephone communication was interrupted in several localities, notably in Springfield, Mass., where two distinct shocks were strong enough to break several trunk lines.

In Manhattan, New York's skyscraper borough, the shock was plainly felt by late workers in the great office buildings. The New York World building on Park Row was shaken.

Reports from Boston, Springfield, Mass., Albany, Detroit, Indianapolis and Louisville, indicated that the quake had been felt over a wide territory. Buildings were shaken in many cities, including New York. Press dispatches said that the tremors had lasted from 20 seconds to 2 minutes.

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 28.—Mrs. John Schaefer, 1919 Woodside Avenue, this city, reports feeling earth tremors lasting about 3 minutes. Her neighbor, Mrs. Matthew Schultz, went into hysterics. Several other persons reported feeling the tremors, floors rattling and in homes and buildings.

Employees of several local stores fled from their buildings when they began to shake.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 28.—Many people reported at 8:30 tonight that they felt a distinct earth tremor here. People sleeping in a school building reported that the lights in the structure swung noticeably and noises in the street were reported.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 28.—Reports of earthquake shocks were reported here at 8:23 tonight. Dr. Herman Ostrander and wife, seated in the parlor of the Administration Building at the Kalamazoo State Hospital, had their chairs were slumped across the room and pictures on the walls danced. A wardrobe in an upstairs room fell over on the floor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 28.—A tremor, beginning at 8:20 p. m., eastern time was reported here. A seismograph at the University of Michigan here tonight reported tremors, not appreciable to the people of the city.

Michigan, Feb. 28.—Reports of earthquake tremors tell in the Journal office, Detroit, that the quake was felt in the

Dryden Building, a five story structure, the shaking was very Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 28.—A recurrent tremor was noted at 10:10 o'clock tonight here, it was reported.

Washington, Feb. 28.—"Very pronounced" earth shocks were recorded tonight on the seismograph at Georgetown University.

The seismograph reports indicated that the quake was only a "slight earth tremor," but to millions of people living in the zone it was an exciting event, and newspaper offices were flooded with queries.

Boston, Feb. 28.—A strong earthquake at about 9:25 tonight caused eastern Massachusetts to rock. Newspaper offices were deluged with inquiries from many points where persons felt their homes and offices rock. No immediate damage was reported.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 28.—The earthquake tremor felt tonight in middle western states was slightly noticeable here. Persons on the upper floors of office buildings reported that the tremor caused electric lights and furniture to vibrate about 8:25 p. m.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—The quake that shook buildings in the eastern part of the country was felt in Indiana tonight when Marion reported a slight tremor there at 8:23. A distinct trembling for several seconds was felt.

Cincinnati, Feb. 28.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here early tonight, reports coming in from various parts of the city, notably from the hillsides. No damage was done, however.

Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—A severe earth shock was felt here and throughout Ohio tonight. Canton, Akron, Youngstown, Cleveland, Cincinnati and many smaller towns reporting distinct earth shocks.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 28.—A distinct earth shock that made business buildings in the downtown district quiver was felt here at 8:25 o'clock tonight. In a Courier-Journal Building, a telegraph operator's instrument was shaken loose from a table.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 28.—An earthquake shock was felt here about 9:23 p. m., tonight. The shock was of over two minutes duration. It was felt all over the city, buildings were shaken.

WORST SINCE 1755. New Haven, Conn., Feb. 28.—Dr. Adolph Knopf, professor of geology at Yale, said tonight that the extent of the earth tremors, felt through the northeastern part of the United States tonight, would indicate that it was the greatest in extent and intensity since the earthquake which shook the eastern part of this country in 1755.

Between the time of the settlement of the New England colonies and 1755 there were earthquakes of varying intensity in New York, said Professor Knopf. "Most of these were confined to New England so far as is known but the records show that the quake of 1755 was felt over about the same area as that of tonight."

"Since that time there have been quakes of unusual severity, notably the Charleston, S. C., quake of 1886, and the California earthquake of 1906. But the extent of these was not nearly as great as the reports of tonight's tremors would indicate it to have been, although in both cases there was greater intensity and considerable destruction of life and property."

WERE ON TOP. New York, Feb. 28.—Professor J. S. O'Connor, of Fordham University, tonight cabled to Oxford Observatory in England, 3,000 miles away, asking scientists there to find the exact center of the disturbance which jarred the seismograph at Fordham that a needle was shaken from the machine.

"We were literally on top of the disturbance," Professor O'Connor said, "and that fact makes it impossible to determine the exact center of the quake from this observatory."

"This could better be noted at a distant point," he continued. "I have cabled the Oxford Observatory of Oxford University in England, inquiring what has been learned there of the center of the disturbance."

Professor O'Connor said that he would not be able to make a complete report on the earthquake until probably late tomorrow afternoon by which time he will have thoroughly studied the three distinct phases of the disturbance.

"From 36 to 48 shocks of small amplitude were recorded on the seismograph," he said. "The effect was so great that it entirely blotted from the instrument any record of a distinct quake."

Wife Deserter To Return for Trial. Hasings, Mich., Feb. 28.—By report of Milwaukee police, Sheriff Charles Parker has arrested Peter Vandennollen, formerly of Kalamazoo, who has been conducting a shifting risk here. Mr. Vandennollen is accused of deserting his wife and two children. He declares, says the officer, that the woman took the children and went to Milwaukee last August to live with her sister, and that he will bring extradition.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee, proposed a plan to rebate taxes when the treasury balance exceeds $50,000,000 at the end of a fiscal year.

The federal trade commission's gasoline report said independent gasoline interests generally look to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana for establishment of price levels.

Officials of the National Disabled Soldiers' League declined to testify further before a house investigating committee on the grounds it would tend to incriminate them.

Secretary Weeks told the house aircraft committee Brigadier General Mitchell of the air service, had directly disobeyed President Coolidge's orders in writing magazine articles without obtaining war department approval.

The second and last deficiency appropriation bill was reported to the senate. The senate agriculture committee re-opened hearings on farm relief measures.

Democratic senators agreed to throw their support behind the rivers and harbors bill. Senator Borah, of Idaho, gave notice he would press his fight to repeal congressional salary increases.

Kendrick Measure Recalled by House

Washington, Feb. 28.—The Kendrick bill, proposing federal aid for settlers on reclamation projects hereafter developed, passed last night by the senate, was recalled from the house by that body tonight for further consideration on motion of Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah.

Johnny Bassler's Batting in 1924 Put Him in Front

Detroit.—Johnny Bassler, Detroit catcher, hit 346 in 1924. He ranked well up the list. Moreover, he clouted for a higher mark than a regular receiver in the American league has reached in some time.

Bassler's nifty work with the stick was one of the bright spots of the Coblian attack. His ability to come through in a pinch helped win many games. He was without doubt the best man on the club in this respect.

Last year was Bassler's fourth with the Tigers. He joined the club the same year Cobb took over the managerial reins. Away to a good start, Bassler has been improving right along. Many experts predict that within another year or so the Detroit slugger will be termed the league's premier backstop.

Besides being a stellar batter, Bassler is a smart chap behind the plate. He is a student of ball-batters; works his pitchers in a clever manner, and possesses a strong and accurate whip.

Bassler, like most catchers, is an especially slow runner. He loses many hits, little infield rollers that faster men would beat out. They must be solid shots to the outfield for the Tyger to reach the initial bag.

TO RAISE LUSITANIA. London.—Whether the Lusitania was carrying arms when sunk by a German submarine may be definitely established by Captain B. E. Leavitt, a famous salvager, who has announced his intention of salvaging the treasure aboard the big Cunard liner. The salvaging operations would require more than a year.

WOULDN'T GO WALKING. Montreal.—Charging that her husband refused to go walking with her, but loved to walk with other "damsels," a Montreal woman asserted that he passed as a young bachelor and didn't want these damsels to find out he was married by seeing him walking on the street with his wife.

Borglum Caught in South; Is Arrested

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 28.—Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, wanted in Georgia on charges of malicious mischief in connection with the alleged destruction of models and plans for the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, was arrested here tonight.

Borglum was held as a fugitive from justice. J. T. Tucker, superintendent of construction of the memorial, who was dismissed along with the sculptor, and who was said to have been traveling in this state with him, has not yet been apprehended.

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 28.—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, arrested here tonight, shortly after 10 o'clock upon his arrival on a train from Durham, was released about two hours later under habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Michael Schenck of the superior court, and boarded a train immediately for New York.

Three Lines Are Followed Out in McClintock Probe

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Three lines of investigation are being carried by the police in connection with the inquest into the death of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, whose foster father, William D. Shepherd, was the chief beneficiary under his will. All three lines of investigation have to do with typhoid, which a post mortem examination indicated was the cause of the youth's death last December.

The police are directing a thorough search into health department records to obtain the names of all pharmacists, physicians and others to whom typhoid cultures have been issued in the last three years. This search will extend to research laboratories, the staffs of which will be asked to what purpose the bacilli were put and what became of them.

Search is being continued for a letter said to have been written by Shepherd to a medical school here, inquiring about a course in bacteriology. The police have been told that Shepherd, who is alleged to have written the letter under an assumed name, tried to get it back, and that officials of the school were told that its possession was worth $50,000.

Braze Beam Breaks; Three Badly Hurt

New York, Feb. 28.—Three men testing brakes on cars on a scenic railway train at Coney Island were probably fatally injured today when a safety brake beam broke and the cars rolled 90 feet down an incline, crashing against heavy wooden beams.

Samson Freestone, manager of the railway, and two inspectors, Samuel O'Brien and Gus Youngclaus, were the men injured. Hospital physicians said there was little hope of their recovery.

Schaefer Nearly Equals His Play Thursday Night

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Jake Schaefer, former 18.2 balkline billiard champion, who started the billiard world two nights ago by going out from spot in the international 18.2 balkline billiard champion tournament, tonight approximated the feat again when he defeated Welker Cochran, Hollywood, Cal., 400 to 50 in two innings. Schaefer ran 112 in the first inning and went out on his next trip to the table.

Schaefer's feat tonight gave him the remarkable record of having made more than 500 points without a miss. In his match with Eric Hagelacher Thursday night he made 400 points from spot. His last run in his match the day before with Welker Cochran was 29 and his first run tonight was 112. Pair Have Narrow Escape from Floe Charlevoix, Mich., Feb. 28.—Jumping their horse and sleigh across four feet of open water in order that they might not be swept out into Lake Michigan on an ice flow was the experience of E. L. Deny and Patrick Holland, of this city, today.

The men had gone to Nine Mile Point to fish. On their return they discovered that they were adrift on a great floe of ice. Finding a place where the crack was four feet wide they whipped the horse into a run and the animal made the jump, hurling the sleigh over. They reported that the ice was getting weak.

HEARING RESTORED OFTEN IN 24 HOURS

Amazing Results Secured in One Day By Use of Virex Formerly Known As Rattle Snake Oil.

Deafness and Head Noises need not be dreaded any longer since the discovery of a widely known medicine. Now it is possible for some of the most obstinate cases of deafness to be relieved in a day's time.

Mr. D. M. Lopez, a Pennsylvania man, says: "I used the treatment at night before retiring. The following morning I could hear the ticking of the alarm clock that I was unable to hear before. Now my hearing is restored perfectly after many years of deafness."

Radio Bringing About Change In Lives and Habits of Nation

RADIO CAUSING SOCIAL REVOLUTION SAYS BABSON. New Habits Make Home Surroundings More Important Says Famous Statistician.

"Radio is rapidly changing our lives and habits as a nation," says Roger W. Babson, the statistician, who sees much more than entertainment or even education in the millions of radio receiving sets scattered throughout America.

"The great basic Law of Action and Reaction which governs our social and economic lives has been seen once more in the development of radio broadcasting and reception," he says.

"The coming of automobiles changed our lives. Quick and relatively easy transportation widened our horizons. We had held pretty much within a radius of five miles; and suddenly our individual world is expanded to a radius of fifty miles.

"The most revolutionary change, however, came in our habit of life. Business conditions are changing constantly, new industries are coming in, old ones are fading out, the risks involved in these changes are a part of the uncertainty that every business man and every investor must assume.

Mr. W. A. Lumkin, of Oklahoma says: "After being deaf 24 years, I used your treatment only a few days and heard fairly well."

Mr. Anthony Chapman, of Michigan, says: "The terrible head noises have stopped entirely and my hearing is practically back to normal."

Mr. Ota Valentine, of Arkansas, says: "My hearing, now 5 years old, had been deaf since about 4 months of age. Now he hears very well and is learning to talk."

Mr. Mather Pelley, says: "My young son, deaf for years, has used Virex for only three days and he hears almost as well as ever before."

Such amazing reports come from all over the country and Canada. The prescription which is known as Virex, is easily used at home and seems to work like magic in its rapidity on a number of all ages.

sort of thing; too busy to stop and think. Much activity with questionable progress. Some students insist that the American mind and the American home are going to pieces in this hectic age.

"It is certain that, as we have come to spend less time in our homes we have spent less time and less money in developing them and making them attractive."

"As the situation has become more serious—as congestion on highways has begun to rob motoring of its fun—nature seems to have taken a hand in the matter. Radio is developing and as the automobile took us away from our homes the radio is bringing us back.

"Radio with its magic is working a social revolution. The home is growing ever more and more intimate and more highly and more luxuriantly furnished."

"The home promises to become an even finer and more beautiful institution than it has been in times past when we have been proud as a home-loving nation."

HIGH COLORS ARE POPULAR

Separate Skirt Comes Back; Many Beautiful Shades, Materials.

BY ADRIENNE TOUSIGNANT Buyers of the various ready-to-wear and millinery departments about the city have returned from the eastern markets where they purchased merchandise for local stores.

All report a large showing of high colors in both millinery and wearing apparel. Two-piece suits were again very popular and the combination skirt and sport blouse is shown in all the leading shades and materials.

The separate skirt which for several seasons has been dormant has been revived and comes in plain materials, also stripes and plaids. The suspender skirt is very good this season and is shown made up of light weight broadcloths, flannels, and cashmires.

That beautiful soft material, "cashmere," has come in again and in such vivid colors that the young and old are clamoring for it in dresses, skirts, coats, etc.

Some of the two-piece models made of solid color flannel, are relieved by white collars and cuffs and pocket bindings.

Variety of Material. A group of tailored suits comprising skirts and hip length coats made of mixture woolsens are also included in this season's showing, as well as brightly colored flannel blazers with flannel bindings of a darker shade; other two-piece models consist of white flannel skirts trimmed with the contrasting colored flannel which interprets the short boxed coat.

One particularly attractive design is the straight-line one-piece variety developed of flannel red and white candy striped flannel fastening down the center front from the neck to the hem with moderately sized red buttons.

Milady's Hats. And the hats, oh joy, the colors just bloom in warmth, open air. It provokes brilliancy of color—color as one sees in India and Persia which have ever been the source and reservoir of the world's color sense and inspiration.

The hats, high and supple of crown, jeweled and flower bedecked, of soft felt, some braided and fancy straws; some ribbed silk models, novelty fabrics, are all close fitting for early spring wear. The large hat is also shown but only in the later spring and early summer models. These are made of horse hair braids, folds and ticks of silk or tulle, felts and Milan hems, in droop style. The Gloria Swanson poke, and the head sizes this season will fit the bobbed hair miss and the head with an unusual wealth of hair, for the crowns are made to fit all heads.

Straws combined with taffeta or tulle are also very good. Tulle crowns, soft roll brims, crepe and satin are shown and the various combinations are very exquisite.

Youthful Types. There are many youthful types and the matrons' hats are very pretty this season, made of combinations of crepe and tulle or straws trimmed with burnt goose feathers. The sombre or shaded felts are very popular.

Colors Are Gay. The colors shown are black, taupe, shades of brown such as wood brown, rust, brick. Tan is known as "blond"; cranberry shade is now called "lipstick"; a beautiful shade between purple and lavender is called "chastebloom"; and there are the rosewood shades, rose of France, cherry, and many others too numerous to mention.

The finishing touch is added by a scarf of some soft, clinging material, chiffon or georgette, in sombre colors or in a color to match the dress and hat.

Greatest Tribute to Johnson's Arm Found in Records

Washington.—The greatest tribute to Walter Johnson's prowess as a pitcher can be found in the game's won column.

If a pitcher wins 20 ball games during the season's play he has had a most successful year. Johnson has turned the trick 11 times. From 1910 to 1919, covering a period of 10 seasons, Johnson won 20 or more games every year. In six of the 10 years he won 25 or more games.

Johnson's best season was in 1913, when he turned in 36 victories and suffered only seven defeats, a most marvelous record. The year previous he won 32 games.

Winning 20 or more games for 10 consecutive seasons is a record of which few pitchers can boast.

CAT CAUSED DEATH London.—A message on the screen of a movie show here asked a man to return home at once. When he arrived there, he found his wife suffering from a concussion of the brain. She was taken to a hospital and died two days later. The inquest revealed she had tripped over a cat and fell heavily on the floor.

PARLOR CAR BUS Berlin.—The parlor car motor bus is the latest here. It is equipped with lounging chairs similar to Pullman car and card tables.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

New Administration Will Improve Business--Babson

BY ROGER BABSON. Babson Park, Florida, Feb. 28.—Roger W. Babson, the statistician, is highly optimistic regarding the new administration and its effect on general business. He believes that President Coolidge is sound economically, and that the incoming administration should be a real factor in making better business during the next two years.

"It is true that conditions are a greater factor in making our Presidents than are Presidents in making conditions," says Mr. Babson. "On the other hand, Presidents can do much to help or hinder to speed up or slow down activity. Politics are like a dam with a sluiceway built across the stream of business activity. One administration may close the sluiceway and dam the water; while another political party may open the sluiceway and let the flood pass through. Although neither political party has increased or decreased, by even a teaspoonful, the amount of water in the river, yet the amount flowing down the stream differs very decidedly according to the control of the sluiceway. Thus the conditions of the country differ very decidedly according to the motives and wisdom of the man in control of our government at Washington. I am convinced that the motives and wisdom of the man inaugurated next Wednesday are the highest type. Moreover, I say this without regard to parties or politics, because I voted for Wilson twice during the strenuous years of 1912 to 1919.

"One of the chief factors in upsetting business during the past few years has been the attempt of politicians to stimulate business change wages, or reduce money rates by artificial and uneconomic methods. These politicians recommend stimulation for our business, labor, and financial difficulties when these difficulties are primarily due to the fact that they were already over stimulated. Take the farm situation, for instance. Everyone acquainted with the farm situation knows that the farmer has suffered unduly during the past few years and that we cannot have real prosperity any length of time unless his troubles are corrected. To have real prosperity in America, the farmers of America must be prosperous as they are the great basic producers of wealth. On the other hand, the difficulties of the farmer cannot be eliminated by giving the farmer more of such things as were primarily the cause of his difficulties. The same rule applies to the labor situation. What the wage earner really wants is to get more of the comforts and necessities of life for his week's labor, and to have better hours of work with better conditions under which to work. These aims are right and just.

"President Coolidge is anxious to help both the farmer and the wage earner. He, however, is wise enough to know that it does the wage earner no good to get more money in his pay envelope if this money does not buy as much in rent, clothes, and comforts as the former wage purchaser. The Federal Reserve Board has been subject to violent attacks by certain politicians. Doubtless some of these criticisms have been justified, but most of them have been unjustified. President Coolidge will do everything possible to keep business and prices on a normal and sane basis, aiming for a gradual improvement. He will not allow the Federal Reserve Bank to be used to stimulate what is already over stimulated, neither will he let the bears use it for selfish purposes.

"Capital is notoriously timid. Someone has said that there is only one thing which is more easily frightened than a banker and that 'a pair of bankers.' It always has been so and always will be. Furthermore, whether we like it or not, capital is necessary for the construction of cities; the erection of factories, offices, and homes; the building of railways and steamships; and, in fact, for almost all development. When capital is timid, building ceases, development stops, unemployment is common and we have a general period of depression. When capital has confidence, the reverse happens;—building expands, factories start up, and general prosperity follows. Whether we are Republicans, Democrats, or real red radicals, all must admit that we want capital to have confidence in President Coolidge and the men whom he himself selects. Capital believes that he is morally right, economically sound, and has a remarkable foresight. Many good people do not care for his party or for all of those who surround him; but those who know President Coolidge believe in him; in his honesty, his industry, his wisdom, and his fearlessness. He is right in his economics. These facts inspire confidence and this confidence lays the basis for distinctly better business conditions.

"In this connection it may be interesting to know what happened to the Babsonchart for the years following previous inaugurations. March 4, 1905 the Babsonchart stood at just normal when Roosevelt was inaugurated, and in the two years following, with a sound and harmonious administration, we had an almost continuous climb. On March 4, 1909 when Taft was inaugurated, a Republican president faced a Democratic House; the Babsonchart stood at 2% above normal and the following two years witnessed a general decline of business. March 4, 1913 when Wilson was inaugurated, the Babsonchart registered 5% above normal and the years immediately following showed a decline. On March 4, 1917, when Wilson was again inaugurated, this time with a solid backing, we were in the war boom and the Babsonchart was 14% above normal and for the two years following business went on its reckless spree. In March, 1921, when Harding took office with a Republican Congress, the Babsonchart registered 23% below normal, at the bottom of the depression, and in the years following conditions were improving and bringing us nearer normal. Now the Babsonchart stands at 5% above normal, and present indications are that it will average higher rather than lower during the months ahead of us. This is why I feel optimistic about the inauguration next Wednesday."

Father Daniel To Preach On Next Wednesday

On next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock Father Daniel will preach at St. Joseph's church on the subject, "The Trial of Jesus Before the High Priest Caiphas" a study in juridical arrogance and pharisaical justice, considering this trial from a legal standpoint.

This travesty on justice founded upon the most inhuman, impassioned hatred of the God-man and his teachings, on hypocrisy and envy, on voluntary blindness and hardness of heart, will be graphically portrayed by the speaker, showing that this was the last act of the rivalry of envy and hatred against that humble and honest sanctity in person—Jesus Christ, which finally reached its culmination in the greatest tragedy in all history on Mt. Calvary. All are invited to attend the services, irrespective of creed.

Service and Cost MORE articles have been bought, sold, rented and found through the Press Classified column than through any other channel. It has rendered the greatest service to readers at the lowest possible cost, so much so that classified advertising has been carried practically at cost of production, consequently, it can be looked upon as an accommodation to Press readers. Keeping books, postage, and rendering statements has driven the cost up to considerable expense and labor, and oftentimes the account is lost entirely, through non-payments. Using the telephone in placing a "Want", "Lost" or "Rent" ad is a convenience to advertisers and in accepting the ad over the phone is an accommodation and service to Press advertisers. These small charge accounts are often neglected to the extent that a new statement must be rendered, again adding more expense. So, in order to bring about a quicker response to these small charge accounts, The Press will, beginning, March 1st, place a premium of one cent per word or one-third the total amount of the bill sent on all classified accounts not paid within six days after the advertisement has appeared. For instance: The Press Classified ads now cost 2 cents per word. After March 1st you will be charged 3 cents per word, with a deduction of one-cent if paid cash or within six days after first insertion. YOU SAVE ONE CENT PER WORD IF YOU PAY FOR YOUR CLASSIFIED AD CASH OR WITHIN SIX DAYS AFTER FIRST INSERTION.

Dawes Is Silent as Inauguration Time Approaches

Chicago, Feb. 28.—"No statement" was all that Vice President-elect Charles G. Dawes would say to newspapermen gathered to see him off on the trip to Washington for the inauguration ceremonies next week. His party, consisting of Mrs. Dawes and the children, Dana and Virginia, left on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shortly after noon. Earlier in the day Brigadier General Dawes had driven from his home in Evanston to the Central Trust Company, where he was bade good-bye by officials and employees of the bank. Although General Dawes' resignation as chairman of the board of the bank has been in the hands of the board of directors for some time, it was announced that his post, both as chairman and as a director, will not be filled during the interval of his public service. When the vice president-elect left his desk Friday afternoon it was the first time since his graduation from law school that he had been out of business. The Dawes family, while in Washington, will make their home at a hotel, and as soon as the inauguration ceremonies and the extra session of congress, called by President Coolidge, over which the new vice president will preside, are over, they will return to Chicago until the sixty-ninth congress assembles next December.

Mrs. Ralph Pratt returned from Chicago where she was called by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Chris Paulson.

- There are fewer words in this giant crossword puzzle, although it's of the same size as most of those that have preceded it. Despite this, you'll find this one more difficult, because many of the words are long and need a dictionary to reveal themselves. "A Smothering Angel"

BY JANE PHELPS.

REED BEGINS TO RESIST BEING DRIVEN Chapter XXXIII.

Margaret's love for Reed grew with what it fed upon until she was miserable when away from him.

"I love you, Margaret, I need you," Reed said impetuously. And Margaret reached up, and putting both arms about Reed's neck, said:

"I love you, Reed! I love you so much I have no thought, no wish, but to be with you."

Yet even after this decision of love Margaret held Reed to his work with the same insistence she had always used. Love for her should make him work all the harder, as love for him made her more ambitious for him.

They went out less often now, spending their idle time in Reed's study, talking of the work in hand, or of new work Reed was planning. Nothing else seemed to interest Margaret.

Edward Jenner discovered the value of cowpox vaccine in preventing smallpox? Louis Pasteur laid the foundation for modern bacteriology and showed how rabies can be prevented?

Emil von Behring discovered the antitoxin of diphtheria? Charles Louis Alphonse Laveran discovered the parasite of malaria?

Who contributed most to mankind—the warriors or the "medicines"? Don't begrudge the doctor his money when he does accumulate a "pile."

Remember that the average yearly income of the physician in the United States is $2,600. Upon this sum he is expected to be well housed and well dressed, to present a better appearance than the average and to run an automobile.

American doctors give away about one million dollars' worth of service every day in the year to the indigent and to those who don't pay their bills.

When the physician does acquire a bank roll, he usually deserves it.

his coffee, was annoying to say the least. And when he tried to read the morning paper, to be constantly interrupted by some idea of how certain passages could be improved, fretted him—not much, Reed never showed it, but it was there, the bit of impatience, because he wanted to finish his breakfast before thinking of his work.

And Margaret absorbed in her wish to help, noticed nothing. Back in his study, Reed forgot his impatience, and absorbed in work the two would discuss each idea, each paragraph, Reed often discarding his own ideas for Margaret's, giving her frank acknowledgment of it.

"Your idea is clearer than mine, dear." Or "you express it more clearly than I have" was praise enough for her, thrilled her with the thought that he needed her, always would need her.

Margaret collected every clipping about Reed or his books, and spent hours arranging them in scrap-books. He had been rather indifferent about such things. He read what the critics said, other items if they came under his observation, but he never had gone out of his way to hunt them out; never subscribed to a clipping bureau.

Margaret's entire mind revolved about two items: Reed's success in his work, her love for him. And strange as it may seem they came in the order named, to win him the success she craved for him.

And Margaret held Reed in the vise of her ambition for him, almost as closely as Dorothy had held him in her selfishness. He never was quite his own man now even as he never had been his own man then.

But it was only occasionally that Reed felt annoyance, noticed the pin pricks. He was busy, too absorbed, to give small annoyances much thought, and too, he was still in love with Margaret; loved the adoration she lavished on him.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON CHRIST BEFORE PILATE

TEXT: Matthew 27:11-26

And Jesus stood before the governor; and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest.

And when he was accused of the chief-priests and elders, he answered nothing. Then said Pilate unto him, Harest thou not how many things they witness against thee?

And he answered him to never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly. Now at that feast the governor was wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas. Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

For he knew that for envy they had delivered him. When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that man; for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him.

But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Barabbas, and destroy Jesus. The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, Barabbas.

Pilate said unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified. And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he took water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it.

Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children. Then released he Barabbas unto them; and when he had scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 1, Christ Before Pilate: The Trial of Jesus.—Matthew 27:11-26.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist.

Jesus stood on trial before Pilate, but it was Pilate who was really being tried. He who posed as judge had stood condemned throughout the ages.

History has been full of such strange reversals of judgment. The despised prophet, stoned or disregarded in his own generation, has frequently been the chief occasion for the world to remember that generation.

Though the Christian movement had not gathered great external strength when Paul wrote the words, he was a true seer when he wrote of God choosing "the weak things of this world to confound the things that are mighty, and the things that are mighty to bring to naught the things that are." Pilate regarded Jesus with the not-unkindly contempt which the man of ambition, and power, and success, has for the impractical man, the dreamer and visionary.

There is no indication of venom, or of hatred, or even of prejudice and antagonism. If there is any prejudice it seems more against the accusers of Jesus, whose fanaticism and rabid intolerance Pilate seemed to regard with scorn.

There is evidence in the narrative that Pilate, assuming at first toward Jesus an attitude of amused and careless contempt, ended by assuming a measure of respect and fear. He discovered that he had before him no vague and ordinary dreamer.

What Is Truth? There was the calm dignity of a king in this Galilean carpenter, and when Pilate asked him, apparently teasingly, "Art thou a king then?" he was hardly prepared for the answer: "Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth."

The cynical retort, "What is truth?" was the reply of a man on the defensive, weak and doubtful in the presence of a man of calm assurance and conviction.

What we ought to realize is that Pilate was as much responsible for the death of Jesus as Judas, who betrayed Him, or the Jews who demanded His death, or the soldiers who actually crucified Him.

The sin of Pilate—the sin of a weak impartiality in relation to moral and spiritual issues, the sin of cynical self-satisfaction and sordid self-preservation, the sin of a worldly ambition which flouts all spiritual considerations and questions of truth—is much more widely prevalent than the sin of Judas, but it is no less deadly in its consequences.

What is our verdict? Does He fare better before us than He fared before Pilate? Do we state that we "find no fault in him," but none the less send Him away as Pilate did?

Knew He Lied. Pilate took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person." But he knew that he lied.

No ceremonial can cleanse the guilt of a man who has consented to wrong, by not doing what is in his power to prevent it.

It is easy to say that Pilate was a coward, but it is more important to discover the things that made him a coward.

What were they? Vanity, ambition, lust of preferment and power, cynicism, and the failure to find any law of justice and service.

The Pilates have been many, but there is only one Jesus of Nazareth. They have been seemingly triumphant, but the world is strewn with the wreck of their rule and empire, while the King of Truth still goes forth conquering and to conquer.

THE NEA PLAY JURY'S TEN BEST PLAYS

- Candide, Is Zat So? Mrs. Partridge Presents Old English. The Firebrand. The Guardsman. The Show Off. They Knew What They Wanted. What Price Glory. White Cargo.

BY THE NEA PLAY JURY. New York, Feb. 28.—The stage comedy of Y. Hill Brady, Woods, Dave Belasco, Police Commissioner Enright, the editor of the New York World and Prosecutor Banton chasing each other around the block with smut still in hand is still the most diverting farce on Broadway.

When it comes to being with the famous Barba had nothing Bill Brady, Brady is willing to be "The Good, Bad Woman" off boards—if Dave Belasco and other boys will withdraw their nasty pep shows. So far, Belasco is making too much gold with fly-swarming ballyhoos to listen that proposition.

In the meantime Prosecutor Banton is trying to find something Broadway to prosecute and Police Commissioner Enright has organized some of his finest traffic cops and fly bulls into a play jury to determine the degree of decency of various shows and the New York World gets set up about the matter on Page One every day.

In all of this hullabaloo the paid lady of the stage waxes fat and the overworked boys in the box seats and speculators' dens hardly make change fast enough.

Your play jury hereafter wear uniforms of brilliant red order that it may not be confused with the police play jury which has adopted a uniform of blue brass buttons. No color could be more appropriate than scarlet, the theatre as it is now conducted.

Little hope is held out for success of "Cape Smoke." It's only one "damn" in it and that the first word spoken in English thereafter profanity ceases.

On the other hand, there is considerable drinking of an African concoction called "cape smoke," most unusual plot to fleece a Teutonic millionaire with a fake option of diamond ranch and thrilling episodes of a kaffir witch doctor.

It is thrilling kokum, revealing Jan Rennie as a very pleasing actor and Ruth Stevely as not so pleasing.

"Houses of Sand" is a clean play that in itself should not be against it, but it is trivial and consequential and headed straight for the storehouse. It is the story of a young collegian who falls love with a Japanese girl. There would have been disastrous had not been disclosed that there was a bit of Jap in him. His mother, parently having been the original Madame Butterfly.

Mr. Belasco in producing "T. Dove" momentarily deserted sidewalk and its walkers for a casino and gambling house in Mexico, the result being a rip-snorting melodrama played with great gusto. Holbrook Blinn, Miss Judith Herson is the lovely lady among snafus. You know that beauty she wears a blue ribbon while second cousins of the "ladies of the evening" wear badges of red.

Tschakowsky originated the music for "Natja," an operetta with royal Russian background. It is by far the most tuneful play town. Further, it's a proof that comedy and music may be combined in highly delightful entertainment, unalloyed by incoherent lines of speech or nudity.

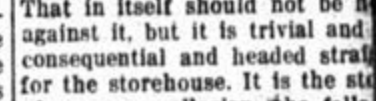

The lure of the stage is the play of "Tangletoes" with the somewhat familiar situation of a Broadway dancer returning to her beloved calling after an unsuccessful attempt at domesticity.

If you are coming to New York for a bit of mirth and melody give your ears to these: "Rose Marie," "Lady Be Good," "Natje," "K. Boots," "Big Boy," "The Follies," "Artists and Models" and "Top and Eva."

SHARED OF SENIORITY.

In both the senate and the house at Washington on Friday night, action was taken to share seniority rights from Senator LaFollette and all of his open supporters in the last presidential campaign. In spite of threats made by congressmen, who joined the LaFollette false hope last fall, to attend the caucus of their former party and force an ouster vote, not any of the insurgents made good their threats.

Wisconsin, the only state carried by Senator LaFollette in his presidential campaign, is hard hit in committee assignments as not only LaFollette, himself, but twelve members of the house who chose to cast their lot against the party they used only as a means of riding into office, are bereft of all standing previously won through party allegiance.

The government of the United States is of necessity a party government.

Governmental policies are determined through party participation in elections. Supporters of Senator LaFollette for the presidency at the last election and now holding seats in congress, were definitely committed to certain governmental policies that differed drastically from the doctrines of the Republican and Democratic parties.

They deliberately left the Republican party to cast their lot with a new party. Many of them were nominated under the standard of the Republican party and then turned traitor to that party and sought the election of a candidate, who dedicated his campaign to recrimination and merciless slaying of his own former party.

LaFollette supporters in the last campaign, by no stretch of the imagination, can be classed as Republicans. They called themselves Independent Progressives and as such must take rank as representatives of a new party.

PUT TEETH IN IT.

To make the highways of Michigan safe for sane drivers is the apparent determination of the present legislature. Two bills have been introduced in the house and one in the senate fixing severe penalties for driving an automobile on any highway or street in the state, in an intoxicated condition. The penalties provided in the bills proposed vary in severity from 90 days to two years imprisonment; revocation of driving license for from six months to a year and a fine ranging from $500 to $2,000.

While the legislature has taken no official action on any of the bills the temper of the members of the two bodies is reflected in the measures that are before them. Observers at Lansing are confident that a law will come out of the present legislature that will be both severe and definite in providing punishment for autoists who attempt to drive their machines while in an intoxicated condition.

AN IMPRESSIVE SIGHT OFFERED AT BUICK SHOPS

Tourists Get View of Big Factory While Enroute On Trains.

By H. H. BASSETT
(President Buick Motor Co.)

One of the most impressive sights the business world has to offer may be seen from the windows of trains that pass the Buick factories at Flint. For a mile and a half the factory buildings extend parallel with the railroad in regular rows, two full blocks in width, while through the car windows comes the hum of thousands of busy machines, punctuated by the beat of the great drop forge hammers.

The immensity of the plant is surprising in itself and is a striking contrast to the small building in which Buick started over 20 years ago. But the real surprise comes to the first-time visitor who accepts the invitation to explore the factories and sees the unity and precision that exist in the individual departments and in the factory as a whole.

Hydraulic Presses.

He sees the powerful hydraulic presses that mold the bodies from sheet steel with the aid of complicated dies. He sees the great battery of drop forge hammers, many of which can strike a blow of 12,000 pounds each, turning out the hundreds of forgings that are used in Buick cars, from big front axles down to small brake parts.

He sees how gasoline tanks, fenders, dust aprons, and other sheet metal parts are made up from the raw materials. He sees the two big foundries, one for iron and steel castings, and the other for brass and aluminum parts. He sees the group of buildings where all Buick axles are manufactured. He sees the enormous motor building, the transmission building, the clutch building, the various stages, and he sees the service building, with its immense stock of parts in the bins for past and present models.

Each of the factories is a separate unit of the organization, with its own general manager, superintendent, assistant superintendent, and cost system. These factories specialize on particular assemblies for Buick cars, building them complete from raw materials.

Each day each factory is required to deliver to the assembly plants a definite number of assemblies, complete, tested and ready for installation in cars. In order to prevent the delays that would at times be unavoidable every factory has an excess stock of assemblies built up and ready, which insures perfect adherence to the schedule.

Traffic Department.

The traffic department of course has large office and field forces, which are occupied in securing the necessary freight cars for shipments, tracing incoming shipments to the Buick factory and tracing outgoing shipments of cars to the delivery points. In this work they are constantly in touch with thousands of freight cars in all parts of the country.

The traffic problems alone have grown to considerable proportions and it is only by keeping constantly on the alert at all times that Buick traffic men are enabled to keep the big production moving outward with regularity. Starting with a production of 37 cars in 1904, Buick now builds over 200,000 cars each year and to date there have been over a million and a quarter Buick cars made in the complete Buick factories.

New Branch Office Opened by Flint Co.

A. B. Clapp, for a number of years connected with the Automobile business in Memphis and its trade territory, has been made head of a direct factory branch of the Flint Motor Company, which has just been established in Memphis, Tennessee. This new branch will take care of the wholesale needs of the subsidiary dealers in the territory and will also be a retail branch to handle the trade in Memphis. The opening of this Southern Branch is another step in the program of the Sales Department to increase distribution of the Flint Cars throughout the South, where the FLINT models have met with a splendid reception.

THROW OUT CLUTCH.

Always throw out the clutch when rounding a sharp corner. It has a beneficial effect upon the tires. Whenever the car tends to skid, due to its deflection from the straight course, a cross strain is brought to bear in the tire tread, which is directly proportional to the weight of the vehicle and the radius of the curve and proportional to the square of its velocity. If the power is applied in rounding a curve, the tendency to rip off the tires is further aggravated by the backward drag due to traction. If the clutch is released, however, the factor is eliminated and the strain is thereby reduced.

BUY REAL PARTS.

Because every part must be made to the highest standard and machined to extremely close limits, so that it will fit properly and give the utmost in performance, replacement parts of a car should be genuine and not imitations. The price of cheap parts may be more attractive, but the sacrifices made in quality and safety. Many counterfeit parts are only one-third as strong as the genuine.

RUST IS FATAL.

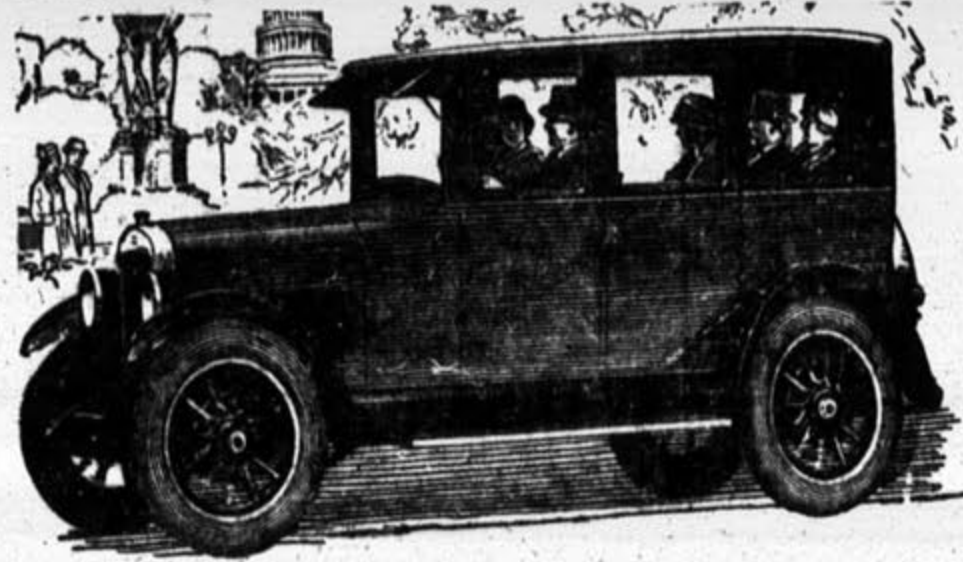

Rust causes all kinds of accidents including broken springs. The spring leaves will not slide smoothly over each other, as they bend if they are badly rusted. The result is a hard riding car and eventually a broken leaf or two. When changing the crankcase oil, use the old oil by loading up the grease gun and squirting it over the springs.

A driver of an automobile in Washington, Pa., while trailing a small coupe, noticed very small letters on the spare tire covering. Anxious to know what was being advertised, he drove close enough to read the inscription, which said: "If you can read this you are too close."

HUDSON-ESSEX PLAN GREATEST YEAR ON RECORD

Plan To Eclipse 1924 Output Which Was the Largest.

Scoring the largest gain in production in the whole automobile industry, the Hudson Motor Car Co. produced more than 134,000 Hudson and Essex cars in 1924, or an increase of greater than 50 per cent over 1923, according to complete figures for 1924 which have just become available.

This sensational gain in business was scored, it was said, despite a general set back in the industry, and was based jointly on the success of the Essex six-cylinder car and the great wave of public demand for closed cars at moderate prices, which was exactly met by Hudson and Essex coaches.

The successful record for 1924, it was said, marked the third successive year in which Hudson-Essex has established new production records. In 1922 about 60,000 cars were made—a new record at that time; in 1923 a 50 per cent increase boosted this total to 89,000, and in 1924 another 50 per cent raised this to more than 134,000.

These three successive years of advance have been the years in which Hudson-Essex has specialized in the coach. The first coach ever developed was shown at the 1922 show on an Essex chassis. It was the automobile industry's first attempt to produce an enclosed car at practically an open car price.

The strong tendency to enclosed cars since then has carried Hudson-Essex on a wave of ever increasing business. This year found Hudson-Essex business 50 per cent in coaches, with open cars in recent months a rarity. This specialization has so simplified manufacture that both Hudson and Essex coaches are now sold at a low price than open cars—the only case of the sort on record.

In three years Hudson-Essex has made more than 180,000 coaches. With public demand as it is, the Hudson-Essex plans are once more to increase volume on the coaches so that a new high production record is expected in 1925.

In recent months, the demand for enclosed cars has greatly increased in foreign countries as well as in America, so that coaches shipped to Great Britain now outnumber open cars. The same tendency is noted in other markets. This is held to confirm the fundamental advantages of the coach.

DON'T "COAST."

It is considered better practice not to release the clutch on down grades. Better and safer braking power with clutch engaged is not only obtainable, but injury is prevented to the clutch mechanism. It is better not to drive with clutch depressed unless absolutely necessary.

CHRYSLER SIX MAKES RECORD

Stock Car Averages 76.32 Miles An Hour for 1,000 Miles.

Driving a Chrysler Six touring car—strictly stock in every detail except that a gear ratio of 3.75 to 1 had been substituted for the standard 4.6 to 1—Ralph de Palma, the famous racing driver, made 1000 miles in 786 minutes 6 1-5 seconds elapsed-time on the Culver City track near Los Angeles January 5—an average of 76.32 miles an hour.

This is the fastest speed average ever made by a passenger automobile in distance run, according to J. E. Fields, vice-president in charge of sales of Maxwell and Chrysler Motor Corporations.

Not a single stop was made for mechanical adjustment, tire changes or even to add water. Beating its own previous record for 1000 miles by 3 hours and 41 minutes, Chrysler, in this fastest time ever made in a similar event.

The run was clocked and the time certified to by representatives of the American Automobile Association. The car was not certified by them as to stock specifications, this being done by Harry Miller, the famous engine builder, and several of his engineers. Their finding showed that the car was stock in every respect except gear ratio.

This latest record is an addition to the one De Palma made last September when he drove an absolutely stock Chrysler 1000 miles in 1007 minutes elapsed time. For that record the Greer-Robbins Co., of Los Angeles, Chrysler distributors, was awarded the Los Angeles Times competitive trophy for long distant speed and endurance, which it has since continuously held.

"Endurance in high speed work was the real test put up to the car," says Mr. Fields. The combination of 1000 miles at an average speed, including stops for gasoline and oil, of 76.32 miles an hour is a speed that tells a story of amazing endurance.

"If you have ever driven the ordinary car at 60 miles an hour you know it is a terrific strain on the car—even on very high priced cars. You can feel that the engine is working far beyond its normal limit. Not so the Chrysler. With the identical engine, pistons connecting rods, oiling and cooling systems built into every Chrysler, averaged 76.32 miles an hour for 1000 miles. Did it easily, without straining effort, without destructive vibration.

"It is one thing to show a burst of speed for a mile or so. It is quite another to hold that speed for 1000 miles. The first takes power alone—the second, power plus unprecedented endurance. "A car with destructive vibration could not stand 1000 miles at 76 miles or even 56 miles an hour. An engine with anything but a perfect oiling system would be wrecked long before it traveled 1000 miles with the throttle wide open. A car with anything but a perfect cooling system could not possibly keep an engine cool at its topmost effort for more than 13 hours. What is even more impressive is the fact that not a drop of water was added to the radiator, proving not only that there was no boiling, but that the engine did not once get hot enough to have the water even approach the boiling point.

"It is logical to assume that a car that can stand 76 miles an hour for 1000 miles has the endurance, reserve ability and perfection of design to permit it to stand up for an abnormally long time under normal usage."

The "Wandering FLINT" which left San Francisco in November on a tour of the United States, which is to take approximately one year, has arrived in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moasberg of California, owners of this Flint Six, are taking a year's vacation and plan to drive from New Orleans to Florida from which state they will tour the East and then return to San Francisco by Chicago and the Yellowstone Route. According to Mr. Moasberg not a single adjustment on the car has been necessary nor have they had any mechanical trouble.

CLOSED MODELS ON CHEVROLET SHOWN MARCH 2

Local Dealer To Have First Display Ready Early This Week.

Because of the fact that only open cars were on display to the hundreds of thousands who viewed the new Chevrolet at the various dealers' showrooms throughout the country early in January, it has been decided to make a special display of the new closed models locally, beginning the week of March 2nd, stated H. D. Brackett of the L. K. Edwards, Inc.

Although but few dealers have had any considerable number of the closed models, sales of the closed body types have run into the thousands, the majority of which were purchased from a reading of the specifications and a photograph of the particular closed car desired.

Particular interest is attached to this display of closed models due to the decided public preference for the closed car, as attested by the fact that schedules of production for the current year call for more than 50 per cent in this body style, for the first time in the history of industry.

The bodies of the three closed cars in the Chevrolet line—the coach, coupe and sedan—are built by Fisher and have the rounded curves and graceful lines that have come to be associated with all the products of this company. They have the "VV" one-piece windshield, with hinged located above the windshield and automatic windshield wiper controlled from the dash.

The closed cars, like all the body types, are equipped with cowl lights and new instrument board, refined and designed for maximum leg room.

All bodies are finished in Duco, the new and lustrous finish which is practically impervious to damage, and all bodies are finished in color other than black. Chevrolet is the lowest priced car to introduce Duco on all its standard body types and also the lowest priced car with all models in colors other than black.

The coupe is finished with lower panels and hood in sage green, upper panels and fenders in black. The coach is finished in a rich, dark blue with fenders in black—special artillery wheels and balloon tires. The sedan is finished in aqua marine blue on the lower panels and hood and a deep black on the fenders and upper panels. Both the coupe and sedan are equipped with balloon tires and disc wheels.

There is a dome light in coach and sedan and robe rail in sedan. These models have all the new mechanical features of the new line—new, improved dry-plate disc clutch, semi-elliptic springs and entirely new, strong rear axle with banjo-type pressed steel housing. The new and heavier channel steel frame, 38 inches longer, with five sturdy cross-members gives the chassis a dugged construction indicative of the longer life being built into the car.

The new Harrison radiator shell of highly polished non-rusting airplane metal is in keeping with the beauty of the new stream-line bodies.

Many improvements and refinements have been made in the famous Chevrolet motor.

STAR BASEBALL PLAYER DRIVES NEWEST JEWETT

Harry Heilmann Buys His Seventh Paige-Built Automobile.

Eighty per cent of the production of the Oakland Motor Car company for the first six months of 1925 will be in the enclosed models. Factory schedules have already been set for this proportion of closed cars. Just what the proportion of closed cars will be in the second half of 1925 will depend upon the sale of the open models during the early spring and summer months.

The exact demand for closed versus open models during the present year is something that factory production executives can only estimate, according to A. R. Glancy, president and general manager of Oakland.

"There is no question but that more than 50 per cent of all cars built during this year will be in the closed body type," he states, "but just what the proportion will be must be determined by each company, depending to a great extent on the price class in which their cars are listed.

"At the best it will only be a rough estimate. After the present year, officials will have data or which to plan future production. The price differential between the closed and open body types is, at the present time, so small that I believe the greater production will be in the closed models.

"There are, however, certain advantages of vision and air which the open cars afford, particularly in our southern states. How strong this appeal actually constitutes the unknown factor in our production plans, I believe, that, because this is a somewhat experimental year as to exact public preference for closed models, manufacturers are not planning production schedules further in advance than actual commitments for large production demand.

Harry Heilmann, held many authorities to be the world's most valuable baseball player, principally because of his good batting judgment, he just purchased his seventh Paige built automobile. This time was a Jewett DeLuxe sedan.

Year after year, Harry has either led the American League batting or has been well among the leaders. Mr. R. Allingham, manager of the Detroit Motor Co., local distributor when he heard that Heilmann was buying his seventh Paige product, smiled and said: "It's easily apparent to me why Harry Heilmann is such good batter. He has judgment for good values, both on the diamond and in buying automobiles."

Incidentally, Harry was told a surprise that the Paige Detroit Motor Car Company is going spring in its line of new Jewett Sixes and the result was that paid one a deposit; ordering first down to be built by the company. That will make two Jewetts in the Heilmann family.

Million Dollar Motor Big Attraction At Auto Shows.

Three factors determine the length of wheelbase of a motor car.

First, the general size of the car. Second, the effort to give it greatest traffic ability, so the driver may take it in and out of traffic congestion, back it into small space for parking, or turn it in narrow streets.

Third, the endeavor to add comfort to its riding through distribution of road bumps over a long wheelbase.

Taxicabs, which have greatest traffic problems to meet, have established 110 inches as the ideal wheelbase. The longest wheelbase for comfort that has been built for standard use is 143 inches.

The average, or ideal, all around wheelbase, giving comfort and yet traffic ability, is 126 1/2 inches. Studebaker's Big Six chassis is on a 127 inch wheelbase.

Not satisfied with this, its engineers, by means of full balloon tires, long, flexible springs and the world's most restful cushions, have given it all the comfort the long wheelbase would provide.

Moreover, by means of a patented steering unit for use with balloon tires, and with gear-shifting that is soft and noiseless, traffic ability rivaling that of the taxicab has been provided. Like any other feature of this make of motor car, the ultimate has been provided.

Flowers and golfers grow wild every spring.

Cherry Sisters To Parade Down Broadway as Protest Against Wicked "Drammer"

Oeder Rapids, Ia., Feb. 28.—Bar from the footlights all propriety, barefoot dancers and thinly clad ladies.

Revive clean dramas of home life and such plays as "Old Money Bags," "Way Down East" and "Under Southern Skies." Amputate all jazz music. Eliminate organs from theaters as irrelevant and appropriate for churches only.

Here is a code for the modern stage and it comes from no other than Effie Cherry, of the famous sisters, Effie and Addie. And if New York theatrical producers believe that they can continue to run immoral plays, they had better beware. For Effie and Addie will pack their grips, hurry to the bright light zone and march into Broadway to revive their famous "Ta-ra-ra-boom-dee" song.

In the good old days when Effie and Addie and their younger sister Jessie trod the boards, they set the country laughing. Perhaps they were good—yet it has been said that their entertainment was well deserving of left-over fruit.

Whether the audience laughed with them or at them did not matter. Whether they were good or bad—the Cherry sisters always packed 'em in.

Effie Led Way.

It was Effie who started the name of Cherry on the theatrical road of fame.

With her four sisters, Addie, Jessie, Lizzie and Ella, a program was presented in the Daniels Opera House at Marion, Iowa, Lizzie and Ella, however, did not continue on the stage. Jessie died at the age of 16 while touring the south.

Effie opened the show with a song "I Am Growing Blind," written by her cousin. She wore a long, trailing, blue, henriette dress trimmed with lace.

Little Jessie Cherry followed, singing, "Oh, Why Did They Dig Ma's Grave So Deep, Little Nellie?" Ella then followed with "Old Sam Scratch," which she wrote herself. She was blackened up like a colored man and wore her father's overcoat and high boots.

Effie and Jessie, to add a little variety to the program, leaped from comedy to drama.

They presented a soul-stirring sketch, "Nancy and I Were Sisters," which taught their listeners that despite the barrier of wealth, the rich girl, played by Effie, was after all a "sister under the skin" of Rag Tag Nancy in her rags and tatters.

Got Reputation.

All Iowa heard of the performance and soon the Cherry sisters were in demand throughout the state. Then they ventured into Illinois and finally reached Peoria.

Here Oscar Hammerstein heard of them and Effie, Addie and Jessie were signed for an eight weeks' run at Hammerstein's theater on Times Square, New York.

Thirty minutes were allotted them for their entertainment which was of their own composition—words, music, costumes, stage settings and all complete.

Effie, the leading light of the Cherry sisters, opened the act singing "Before and After."

Addie then gave a monologue "The Pulpit and the Stage" and Jessie rendered "Her Bicycle Ride

Gloria Swanson Headlines Monday Program At Delft In 'The Wages Of Virtue'

TODAY'S PROGRAMS.

At the Delft—Laura La Plante, supported by Norman Kerry, Ruth Clifford, Kenneth Harlan and others, in a screen version of Kathleen Norris' novel, "Butterfly."

At the Strand—Buddy Roosevelt in "Walloping Wallace," a western drama in which the star has an unusually opportunity to display his special wares.

"Wages of Virtue," Gloria Swanson latest Paramount production, directed by Allan Dwan, who made both "Manhandled" and "Her Love Story," will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The story is an adaptation by Forrest Halsey of the popular novel of the same name by Percival Wren.

The picture is a pleasing love tale woven about a young girl, product of the slums, who becomes the toast of the French Foreign Legion. As Carmelita, Miss Swanson has a role ideally suited to her, a part that makes "Wages of Virtue" stand out as the greatest thing she has ever done in her lengthy career.

The story has interest, appeal, comedy and all the rest, and we sure miss our guess if it doesn't prove the finest entertainment you've witnessed in many months.

Ben Lyon, you remember him in "First Natlow's," "Flaming Youth" call "Painted People," plays opposite the star, heading a real all-star cast. Norman Trevor, Ivan Linow, Joe Moore, Armando Cortez, Adrienne d'Ambri-court and Paul Panzer are but a few of the prominent players in the other roles.

"The Turnoff" Coming.

"The Turnoff," adapted from Booth Tarkington's novel, will be the Delft attraction Friday and Saturday. Eileen Percy, Emmett Corrigan, Pauline Gordon, Edward Hearn and Winter Hall are in the cast.

On Thursday night, at the Delft, Donald B. MacMillan, famous explorer, will deliver his lecture,

Wherahiko Rawei Comes Here Friday

Wherahiko Rawei, a native Samoan, one of the most uniformly successful lyceum and chautauqua entertainers in the world will come to Escanaba next Friday night, for a lecture in the high school auditorium.

He appears in the native costumes, and sets before his audience a picture of the arts, crafts, customs, beliefs and unusual talents of the native Polynesians. Robert Louis Stevenson once said of him:

"Wherahiko Rawei is a Polynesian raconteur who fascinates one with the witchery of his word paintings, so beware lest he start you roaming over Southern Seas. Apart from this bad habit, he is a fine fellow and one of my choice friends."

Mr. Rawei's lecture will be given in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Community Educational Bureau, and it will be the last number on the bureau's 1924-25 lyceum course.

The New Good MAXWELL

FOR TEN YEARS "The World's Greatest Buy" Everyone Says It—Sales Prove It

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone. That is acknowledgment of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle.

The reasons for that position affect all motor car buying. They cannot be ignored.

A supreme and exclusive motor principle, adding power, smoothness, performance, without added weight, cylinders or cost.

The largest production of 6-cylinder closed cars in the world—and the value advantages of that position.

Actual proof of greatest value—which is SALES.

And now the greatest price advantage with the finest quality Hudson ever offered.

It is only as you find the real comparisons for Hudson qualities among the costliest cars that the enormous difference in price is so astonishing.

All now know that higher price can buy no smoother performance than Hudson's. It cannot buy more brilliant results in pick-up, power or speed. It cannot buy greater reliability or endurance.

And with all this capacity and flexibility Hudson keeps the economy, simplicity and easy maintenance of the "Six."

At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

to the Fair."

Then came the crowning achievement of the Cherry sisters' artistry—Effie's male impersonation of "The Traveling Man." Garbed in a frock coat and silk hat, Effie established a character for the stage which will always be remembered.

Audiences Held Noses.

"A Gypsy's Warning," a sketch, was then given and the sisters advanced to the footlights to sing "Ta-ra-ra-boom-dee," which like the First Show of the Minute Men of Lexington was heard around the world.

"Cherries red, cherries ripe, 'Cherries' show is out of sight," ran the old doggerel which came to represent a trade mark for the sisters.

The Old Waverly theater on Wabash in Chicago heard the sisters as did Haverly's at St. Louis, and many other houses throughout the east and middle west.

They have confidence in their artistry which no buffeting of a rude world can jar. That is why some say they are good—and others, close both eyes and hold their nose.

But be that as it may, the Cherry sisters will soon be on their way to Broadway in resume the artistry of the stage from naughty plays.

"My Winter in North Greenland." Mr. MacMillan is being brought here through the combined efforts of the Escanaba Community Educational Bureau, the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. He will show 8,000 feet of motion pictures taken in the far north.

Strand Program.

"Big Timber," featuring William Desmond, will be the Strand feature Monday and Tuesday. It is a thrilling story of the "big pine" country, adapted from a novel by Vingie E. Roe. There are dramatic situations and thrills of outdoor struggles, both with men and the elements which give the story added interest.

Supporting Desmond in other roles are Olive Hasbrouck, a recent "find" at Universal City, Betty Francisco, Lydia Yamans Titus, Ivar McFadden, Albert J. Smith and other well known favorites.

Wednesday and Thursday Hoot Gibson will be seen at the Strand in "Sawdust Trail," which critics everywhere have pronounced the best work of his screen career.

Friday and Saturday, "A Fight for Honor," a railroad story, with a cast headed by Eva Novak, is to be the Strand headliner.

March Arrives Like Lion: L'kout Lamb!

Snow, with colder weather, was predicted by the weather bureau for this locality for today. Indications were there would be little relief from the cold wave which, beginning Thursday, carried the mercury below the zero mark. Snow, and a brisk wind, throughout yesterday, gave the air a biting quality and the storm was expected to continue throughout the night and a part of today.

Paper from the mulberry tree is now made into various flexible and durable garments.
