Doctor Confesses Giving Germs To Shepherd

YOU'RE A LIAR, MCINTOCK
'HEIR CALLS COLLEGE HEAD;
FAIMAN INSISTS IT'S TRUTH

State's Attorney To Ask Indictment On Murder Charge.

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago, Mar. 16.—Charles C. Faiman, proprietor of a school of bacteriology, admitted tonight, according to assistant state's attorneys that he had given typhoid germs to William D. Shepherd, foster father of William Nelson McClintock, the "millionaire orphan," whose death from typhoid fever is now a subject for investigation by the grand jury.

"Liar," Says Shepherd.

Faiman said he had given the germs to Shepherd after the latter had told him he "was going to inoculate some one with them" and that "it is a million dollar deal." Shepherd said, Faiman told assistant state's attorneys that each of them would be rich "if the deal went through." The statement was made while Faiman was in the room with Shepherd.

Shepherd, nervous and pale, denied the accusations of Faiman. "You're a liar," he said, almost in a whisper, according to Assistant State's Attorney John Sbarbaro. Then clearing his throat, he said, with some of his old emphasis, "you're a liar."

"I have told the truth and you can't deny it," Faiman replied, looking steadily at Shepherd.

Faiman State's Witness.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, apparently elated by the statements of Faiman, obtained after days of almost ceaseless questioning, had little to say except that the grand jury would be asked to indict Shepherd on a charge of murder.

Faiman, he indicated, will be the state's star witness if an indictment is returned and the star witness, he said, would probably win the minimum penalty if not complete immunity, for his part in the case.

Faiman, who earlier in the day had admitted that Shepherd had offered him $20,000 to keep his mouth shut, but still insisted that the three tubes of germs had been stolen from his laboratory by unknown persons, finally with a shrug of his shoulders, made the new statement involving Shepherd, the assistant state's attorney said.

Faiman Outspoken.

"This man," Faiman said, according to assistant state's attorney, pointing to Shepherd, "came to me and asked me for those test tubes containing the typhoid cultures. I gave him the tubes. I gave them to him knowing what he wanted to do with them. He told me, and he told me in plain words, that he wanted them to 'inoculate some body with,' he said to me, 'this is a million dollar deal and I'll take care of you handsomely—beyond your wildest dreams—if you go along and give me these germs and Detroit, Mar. 16.—Tony A. Marto was exonerated in connection with the killing of Charles Sapano, 35, his son-in-law, a coroner's jury here today which condemned him.

Sapano was killed February 6, last, when A. Marto testified. Sapano rushed at him with a bayonet. Sapano at the time had been accused in connection with the killing of three men and was out on bond awaiting trial for homicide.

TAXICAB MEN MAKE PROTEST

Charge Mayor Hylan of New York Is Working For "Yellows".

(By The Associated Press)

New York, Mar. 16.—Taxicab operators and owners in mass meeting tonight to protest a proposed bill for the transfer of taxicab licensing power to the police department, accused Mayor Hylan of attempting to "chase independent drivers from the streets" in order to create a monopoly for the Yellow Cab Manufacturing Company, a Chicago corporation.

"John Hertz is here from Chicago to monopolize the streets of New York," Michael Donnelly, president of the Empire State Taxicab Chamber of Commerce, an independent organization declared, "and to that end he took Mayor Hylan's relatives into his organization."

Youthful Bandits Rob Detroit Home of Gems and Money

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit, Mar. 16.—The home of Dr. George A. Watson was robbed here today by four masked and armed bandits who bound the physician, his wife, two servants and shot and stunned a dog which sought to defend its master.

The robbers escaped with a fur coat valued at $2,500, jewelry valued at $5,750, and $115 in cash.

The bandits were in the house about 30 minutes, according to the doctor. They appeared to be about 25 years of age and of the "sheik" type he said. It is inferred they escaped in an automobile, the doctor hearing one of the robbers mention a motor car.

The stolen property was in-

Balloon Breaks Away At Bolling Field; Disappears

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Mar. 16.—A large army air service balloon broke away from its moorings at Bolling Field here today and was whisked up to the northward without passengers.

The balloon, a 19,000 cubic feet capacity draft, was being filled preparatory to flight when it escaped. It quickly ascended to a height of 10,000 feet and soon disappeared. It was about half filled with gas.

Rewire Old Days When 'Teddy' Was Police Head

(By The Associated Press)

New York, Mar. 16.—Theodore Roosevelt's career as a police commissioner was lifted from dimming recollections and given a permanent place today in the picture of New York life through the dedication, as a memorial to him of the room in the old Mulberry Street headquarters where he directed the activities of the force 20 years ago. The memorial will be known as "the Theodore Roosevelt room."

Reproductions of the furniture used by the former commander during his turn of office has been installed. The impressive services were opened by Police Commissioner Enright. In addition to a large oil painting

Quake Insurance Selling Readily, Company Reports

(By The Associated Press)

Boston, Mar. 16.—Since the earthquake of February 28, a demand has been created in New England for earthquake insurance. One Boston agency has reported writing $8,000,000 worth at rates varying from four to ten cents per $100 for three years. No rate for earthquake insurance has ever been established in New England, it was stated.

The outstanding facts of today's exchange of views are that France considers the league of nations protocol may yet serve as a means for providing an eventual solution of the security problem, while Mr. Chamberlain regards it as dead; that any agreement made with a view to guaranteeing peace will be made with all the allies.

During the interview, M. Herriot remarked that the French government would pursue its efforts to find a way of adapting the league protocol to the problem of security in the hope that formula would be discovered which would remove the British objections before the meeting of the league assembly in September.

There are ample reasons to suppose from the remarks made later by Mr. Chamberlain that he offered M. Herriot no encouragement.

SEN. COUZENS TAKES BLAME

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit, Mar. 16.—Senator James Couzens assumed full responsibility for his opposition to Charles B. Warren in a letter to the Union League Club here. The club sent Senator Couzens a telegram urging that he withdraw his opposition to the nomination of Mr. Warren as attorney general and pointed out the endorsement given the president by the Michigan voters.

The former commissioner's son, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, was among those present at the ceremony.

Roosevelt's favorite hymn, "How Firm A Foundation," was sung by Miss Mable McKinley Baer, niece of the late President McKinley. Commissioner Enright summarized Roosevelt's administration.

STATE POLICE FUNDS SHORT

Need More Money To Continue Prohibition Enforcement.

(By The Associated Press)

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 16.—Charles Delano, secretary of state, said today he is opposed to any further advances from the emergency fund of the state for prohibition work by the state police.

While not against enforcement of the laws he stated, he believes that if the state and the legislature want the work continued the legislature should appropriate the money.

He referred principally to the participation of the state force in helping patrol the Detroit river and in Hamtramck. As far as his vote on the administrative board is concerned, he indicated, no further emergency appropriations for such purposes will be made. The state police overrode their legislative appropriation last year by about $300,000, he claimed.

Funeral Services For Camp Brief, Impressive

New Haven, Conn., Mar. 16.—Yale University and New Haven today paid tribute to the memory of Walter Camp, prominent coach and athlete, at the funeral services held at his home here today. Due to the wishes of Mrs. Camp, the services were simple and brief, but were impressive.

The Camp home was crowded with men prominent in university and municipal circles. Yale was represented by its president, Dr. James Rowland Angell.

Reverend Roy M. Houghton, pastor of the church of the Redeemer, officiated at the services, the short congregational ceremony being used. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

Besides intimate friends and members of the family, those at the grave included E. J. Hall, chairman of the intercollegiate rules committee; William Roper, coach of the Princeton football team, and William Langford of Trinity. They represented the football rules committee of which Mr. Camp was secretary.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received at the Camp home.

The newspaper asserts that for several months these bills have been returned to Canadian banks from British banks in various parts of the world.

M'Coy, EX-PUG, FOUND GUILTY

Convicted on 3 Charges of Assault; Now in Jail for Murder.

(By The Associated Press)

Los Angeles, Mar. 16.—Kid McCoy, former pugilist, recently convicted of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Theresa Morris here last August, was convicted in superior court today of three counts of assault, growing out of a shooting affray in Mrs. Morris' antique shop the morning after her death. He will be sentenced Friday.

The ex-prize fighter was acquitted on four counts of robbery based on the antique shop raid.

McCoy heard the verdict without emotion. His two sisters, however, who had been waiting the courtroom, embraced him and wept. Defense counsel made no comment.

The specific charge of which McCoy was convicted were assault with a deadly weapon upon W. G. Ross, for which the sentence is one to ten years imprisonment, assault with intent to murder Sam Schepke carrying a penalty of from one to 14 years, and assault with intent to murder Mrs. Anna Schepke carrying the same penalty.

Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Schepke were wounded in the antique shop affray, which began when McCoy, wild-eyed and disheveled, entered the store looking for Albert A. Morris, divorced husband of Mrs. Morris. A few hours after Mrs. Morris had been shot and killed in the apartment which she and McCoy occupied as Mr. and Mrs. Nichols.

Both saved were her sons, Clifford, 24, and William, 35. William's wife and two year old child. The sons said the knife knocked on Mrs. Wylie's door and believed she had escaped.

(By The Associated Press.)
Lansing, Mich., Mar. 16.—The legislature reconvened Monday night after week-end adjournment.

Debt wants legislature to decide whether state police shall have funds for prohibition work.

Throughout the session without ever getting the opportunity to hear a single word of the crackling debate.

Mrs. Dawes and a party of friends were among the early arrivals occupying the vice-presidential row in the private senate gallery and when lunch time came she opened a package of sandwiches and distributed them among her guests. Another guest in the senate gallery was Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who recently returned from Chicago with her baby daughter Pauline.

Debate was opened by Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia, a former assistant attorney general of the United States, who was making his maiden oratorical effort in the senate. He was joined in the presentation of Mr. Warren's case by Senator Gillett of Massachusetts, the former speaker of the house, who also made his first Senate speech.

Senator Butler of Massachusetts, the Republican national chairman and personal friend of the president, Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, another new member of the senate, and Senator Shortridge, Republican, California.

Borah Opens Attack.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, was the leading speaker for the opposition, dwelling particularly upon what he declared was the grave constitutional question involved in the deadlock between the president and the senate. Senators Reed of Missouri, Walsh of Montana, and Heflin of Alabama, Democrats, were other speakers at confirmation.

The debate was brought to a close by Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, for Mr. Warren and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, but neither found sufficient time to conclude his address under the agreement to vote at 2:30 p.m. Both devoted their attention to the constitutional question.

ASK FUNDS FOR MICHIGAN UNIV

(By The Associated Press.)

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 16.—An appropriation bill, requesting $3,492,700 for buildings and improvements at the University of Michigan in the next two years, was introduced in the house tonight by Representative Lemuel Preston, of Berrien county.

The bill calls for $1,500,000 in 1925-26 and $1,992,700 in 1926-27. The items specified are: $300,000 each year for an administration building, $450,000 each year for a museum and equipment, $250,000 each year for an observatory and equipment, $200,000 each year for an architectural building and equipment, $500,000 the first year and $250,000 the second year, for land.

Two years ago the legislature appropriated $1,500,000 for a hospital, medical building, tunnels, sewers and power.

Another University of Michigan bill is to be introduced shortly suggesting that the mill tax appraisal be increased. The last legislature limited this fund to $2,000,000 a year. The University would get a return to the old $3 million system, whereby it would get an increase with each increase in the state's valuation.

7 MEASURES ARE APPROVED

Bill Introduced To Revise School System; Morning Session

(By The Associated Press.)

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 16.—The lower branch of the legislature started speeding up tonight when it received several important measures, passed seven with scarcely a dissenting vote and decided to hold a morning session Tuesday.

Representative Wilber B. Snow, Kalamazoo, introduced a bill which would completely revise the county school regulatory system. It provided for the creation of a county board of education, which would appoint the county school commissioner to meet crises of politics in county school affairs, according to the measure's friends, the commissioner would change his title to county superintendent. County commissioners are now elected. The board of education would be named by the board of supervisors.

Port District Bill.

Representative Frank Darin of Detroit, put in an enabling measure under the new ports and port districts amendment to the constitution. It would provide for the creation of port districts in any counties or combination of counties by petitions and a referendum. A commission would be appointed by the governor, consisting of three members in counties of less than 80,000 population and five in larger counties. In counties of over 200,000 the commissioners, by vote of the people, could be compensated. In all others they would serve gratis.

The commission would have the power to condemn land, build and extend sea walls, wharves, jetties and so forth, fix rates for storage, warehouse, dockage and other facilities, improve navigable streams and draft a comprehensive plan of harbor improvement. Such complete plan, however, would be subjected to a public referendum. Rates on dockage and so forth fixed by the commission would be filed with the public utilities commission.

Conservation Bill.

Representative Fred R. Ming, of Cheboygan, put in the anticipated conservation department bill, providing for an appropriation of $150,000 to purchase 21,120 acres in Ellis and Walker townships, Cheboygan county. The tract would be set aside as a pine nursery, state prison camp, prison cement plant and reforestation plot, under the direction of the state administrative board.

A resolution calling for an amendment to the constitution to limit the governor's power to grant paroles to cases in which the consent of the trial judge has been received, was offered by Representative John E. Gillett, Muskegon.

To Check Bootleggers.

To keep pace with the modern methods used by rum runners and bootleggers, Representative G. C. Watson, of Capac, submitted proposed amendments to the liquor laws which would include air and water craft. They would also tighten the confederacy statutes, providing that automobiles, boats, aircraft and so forth seized, be sent to the state commissioner of public safety, from whom the aggrieved would have to make an attempt to recover.

Representative Charles W. Richardson, of Marquette, was the sponsor of a bill to prohibit the carrying of firearms in the woods in the closed season, without a permit. It would provide a penalty of $25 to $50 or a jail term for persons violating the act and stiffer penalties for those who secured a permit and then violated the game laws.

Representative Charles Culver of Wayne introduced a measure to allow trust companies to do a banking business.

Representative Harold Smedley, Kent, sent in a bill proposing $4,500 for the judge, $2,000 for the clerk and $1,500 for the bailiff of the Kent police court. Representative John Harris, Charlevoix, suggested a scale of pay for prosecuting attorneys. In counties of 6,000 population or less it would be $1,500 and would scale up to $7,500 for counties of over 150,000.

Another proposed change in the election laws was sponsored by Representative Albert E. VanEvery Emmett. It would empower the county convention to choose the county committee, chairman and secretary. They are now named by the party candidates. Representative Archie M. Reid, of Wayne, had a bill proposing placing plumbets under $500 bond. Some representatives put in some proposed amendments to the housing code.

Representative William F. Turner, of Mecosta, offered a bill to include Saturday afternoon in the list of legal holidays for banks. Representative Henry A. Olson, Chippewa, sponsored a bill prohibiting taking any game.

10 MILLION IN INCOME TAXES

(By The Associated Press.)

Detroit, Mar. 16.—Ten million dollars received in income taxes were deposited in the banks of Detroit at six o'clock tonight by Fred L. Woodworth, a collector of internal revenue for Michigan. A total of $16,000,000 has been received during the last month. The largest single payment amounted to $4,000,000.

The money was transferred to the banks tonight by clerks who carried it in ordinary handbags without any special guards. Most of it was in the form of checks.

Returns from 225,000 residents of Michigan had been received up to six o'clock tonight, said Mr. Woodworth, who predicted that returns would be filed by 250,000 persons this year.

The majority of returns have been accompanied by payment of the amount in full, he said. He attributed this to the lower rates, the raising of certain exemptions and removal of some taxes. Even those who pay large sums have in many cases paid in full, he said.

The supreme court held congress could not compel corporations to submit their books for inspection for the purpose of drawing out information to be used as a basis for making laws.

The District of Columbia supreme court refused to vacate a packers' consent decree but continued arguments to determine its effect upon the California co-operative cannery.

In a statement reviewing the activities of the last house, in which he was the Republican leader, Mr. Longworth listed among other matters to be disposed of, the Muscle Shoals problem, a new plan for the retirement of governmental employees and the "stupendous task of revising the laws of the United States."

Delay Sometimes Helpful.

Legislation "of great interest" which fails of enactment, he said, is frequently perfected "after further deliberation and in the light of additional information proves to be better than that which failed."

Mr. Longworth declared he did not know of a short session of congress in which the house had accomplished more business than the last, and added that in the next congress, "with an assured majority of real Republicans, we will take up the packers' consent decree to require one year's residence before being entitled to a pension."

Senate Busy, Too.

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 16.—Faced with a long file of bills awaiting consideration on third reading, the senate Monday night adopted twenty-six measures with hardly a negative vote. Eleven were appropriation bills and five house bills, which now await only the signature of the governor before incorporation on the state statute books.

The bills passed by the house included the DeBoer mothers' pension measure to require one year's residence before being entitled to a pension.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

Amateur baseball is dying out in the small towns and villages of the country, according to Major John L. Griffith, who backs his assertion with an array of facts and figures collected in a survey of 15,000 communities made by the National Amateur Athletic Association, of which he is executive vice president.

The survey shows the sport is holding its own in high schools and colleges, but has suffered a decided slump in the small towns. Professionalism is blamed by Major Griffith for the condition.

"Baseball," he asserts, "is not suffering because of inroads of other sports but because attempts have been made to conduct it on a professional basis in the small towns and villages where it is impossible to pay all the boys who want to play."

Major Griffith's conclusions contain nothing startling or even unusual, to those who have watched the transformation of sandlot baseball during the last ten or fifteen years, from a sport into a business. As an amateur sport it enjoyed the support engendered by community pride and civic spirit which, in many towns, was as intense as the spirit university students exhibit for college athletic teams. As a business it has divorced itself from those qualities, and has become a competitor of other types of amusement and entertainment.

The players have been much slower than the public to adapt themselves to the changed condition. They seem unable to understand why the public interest in the game has slumped. We do not claim they should not receive pay for their services. We do insist, however, that they must, in return for that pay, give the public something which will prove more attractive than other brands of entertainment. If they don't, their business is doomed.

Statistics collected by Major Griffith show there was 55 percent less baseball equipment sold in 1924 as compared with 1923. He also found that baseball had held its own in schools and colleges, where it is conducted on an amateur basis. At the same time, the sale of golf, tennis, basketball and football equipment has increased very materially.

The only possible conclusion is that professionalism has not been a healthful element in the sandlot territory.

OFFERS IDEAL TRAINING.

Justly proud of its efficiency is the United States Army, a model upon which other organizations might with profit be patterned. This efficiency results from a system of army training developed by long and careful study and experience; the result speaks for itself. Nowhere else are there military men who are "smarter" or better set up than the American soldier. Alert and responsive, drilling with a precision that always calls forth the applause of the crowd, and always ready for any duty or any emergency, the American-trained army man is a type in which America takes a special pride.

The system aims to train men physically, that they may be in truth images of their Creator; mentally, that they may reason for themselves and have a proper respect for the laws of the nation; and morally, that they may so live as to be a credit to this nation, which has always respected God, loved humanity and striven for freedom of all mankind.

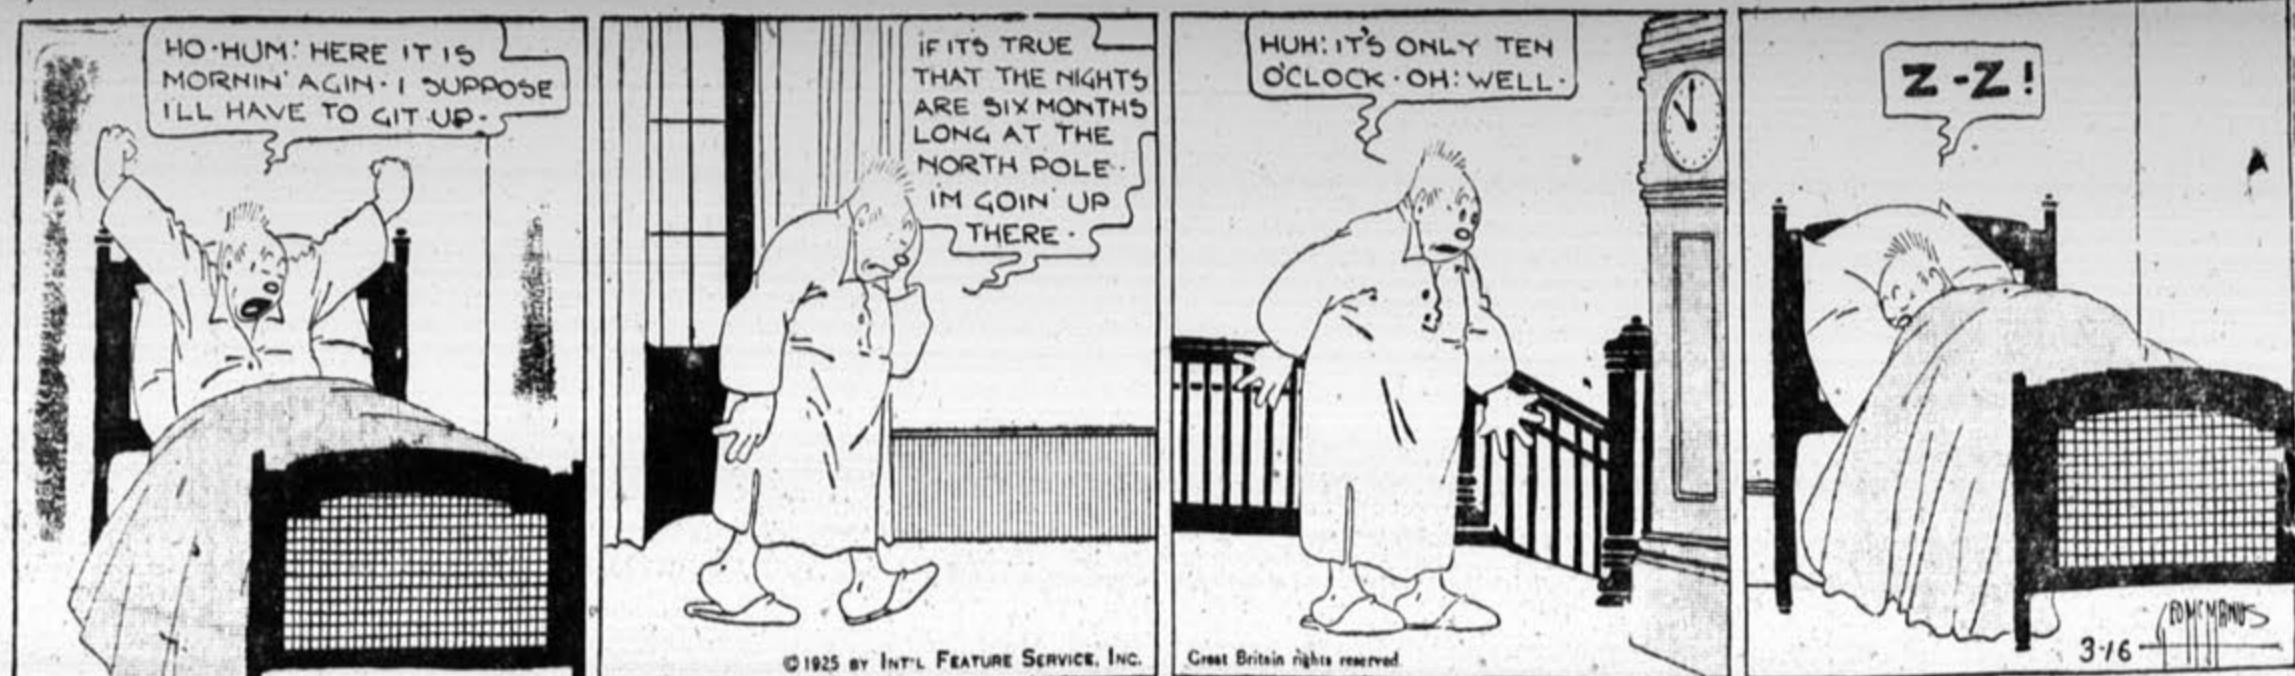

An important part of the system of military training in our country is formed by the Citizens' Military Training Corps. They do not contemplate teaching men how to destroy each other, but to equip them to defend themselves and their country against attack. Our army must be composed of normal, healthy, virile men; and the military training camps definitely develop that type.

Our camps are conducted without any expense to those who attend them. Recruits pay their own transportation to the camp, but this is repaid to them upon their arrival at camp and at the rate of five cents per mile for the distance traveled. This allowance usually suffices to cover the cost of food consumed on the journey. The government furnishes uniforms, shirts, shoes and leggings. Everything, in short, is furnished except underwear and toilet articles.

"Chow" is an important item at camp, for all soldiers are especially interested in what they are going to have to eat and how much of it there is to be. Meals at camp are appetizing in quality and liberal quantity; there is no law against second helpings, and sample menus compare favorably with those served in the average American home. The camp day is divided into diversified periods of instruction and recreation and the young man who graduates from camp instruction goes back to his home a better man and a better American.

Young men between 17 and 24 are eligible for training in the camp, if they are physically sound and of good moral character. The government insists on these two things. Michigan is in the Sixth Corps Area, which includes Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, and the state camp will be held at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, July 24 to August 21.

A MEETING WITH DOROTHY

Chapter XLV.

Mrs. Drayton had told Dorothy to have courage, but she really felt very anxious. She had been told of Margaret Cramer, shown in the newspaper paragraph, and heard of the linking of Reed's name with Margaret's by the gossips. Her anxiety, her sorrow for Dorothy was increased by her feeling—one that had gradually grown upon her and increased since her husband's death, that she had been in a great measure to blame for all Dorothy's mistakes.

Dorothy had told her of her insistence that Reed sit beside her while she ate, because her mother always did, of many things trifling in themselves, perhaps, but which might be intensely annoying to man trying to get on—especially to a writer whose mind was intent upon some plot or theme.

Congress has adjourned. Left a lot of bills. Wish we could adjourn and leave our bills.

Dorothy mounted the steps and stood, a hesitant, palpitating little figure waiting to be admitted. The door opened, for just a moment Dorothy was silhouetted in the shaft of light from the hall, then Lucile drew her in, and closed the door.

"I was watching, Dorothy," she said. "Reed hasn't come yet, go into the library, I'll send him there."

"Oh, Lucile, can I go through with it?" Dorothy asked as Lucile helped her remove hat and cloak.

"Yes, dear—you can. It's the only way. Be brave!"

As Lucile turned away left

Dorothy in the library, she thought Reed would find it hard to resist her. Dorothy looked so childlike, so lovely, although she was deathly pale.

Dorothy sank into a chair as the door closed but she was too restless to remain quiet. She rose and paced back and forth, listening, trembling at every sound—it was Reed?

Dorothy stood hidden behind the heavy window drapes, staring out into the night. She was so absorbed she did not hear the bell ring and was startled when she heard the beller say:

"Mrs. Maynard will be down soon." And Reed's voice in reply.

Dorothy thought she was going to faint and clutched the curtains for support. She heard him draw up a chair, strike a match, then the odor of a cigaret came to her nostrils.

Reed was there—in the same room with her—smoking—

With an effort almost superhuman, Dorothy pulled herself together, her lips forming the word "courage" although no sound escaped her. Then she emerged from behind the curtain, trembling, but with determination.

"Dorothy!" Reed sprang from his chair, almost as pale as she.

"Dorothy!" he exclaimed again.

"Yes, Reed it is!" Dorothy moved further into the room.

Reed went to meet her, stumbling, like a man in a dream.

He took Dorothy's hands in his, hands cold as ice, and held them.

"When—where—oh—Dorothy,

"Oh, Lucile, can I go through with it?" Dorothy asked as Lucile helped her remove hat and cloak.

unhappy woman, Reed. Because I made myself unhappy by demanding more than it was right for you to give." Reed's manner, so strange, had quieted her. Dorothy spoke calmly although her lips quivered.

"I tried to find you."

"I know—Reed. You have not been to blame for anything. The fault was all mine."

Why did he act so queerly?

Why didn't he take her in his arms, tell her he was glad she was back?

Margaret Cramer.

At the thought, Dorothy cowered as if struck a blow. Seeing Reed she had forgotten Margaret, forgotten everything but that he was there, with her.

"Sit down, Dorothy," Reed pulled up a chair for her. "I am so dazed I can't think—you are in black—"

Dad died six months ago. He wanted me to come back—to see her. Dorothy added that last because she must. Something warned her not to let Reed in, then she came because she loved him, wanted him to take her back—to wait.

"I'm sorry. Father was always such a good scout."

Dorothy's eyes misted as Reed said the word "father" so unconsciously, just as he used to. But she didn't speak; she watched Reed quietly as he lit another cigaret with hands that trembled.

"Dorothy!" Reed sprang from his chair, almost as pale as she.

MANAGER BACK FROM LANSING

State Inspection Bureau
In Touch with Improvements Here.

Representatives of the Michigan Insurance Inspection bureau will visit Escanaba in June to determine what effect, if any, the electrification of the city water plant, and the completion of the motorizing of the fire department should have on fire insurance rates. There is a rate reduction may result, City Manager Fred R. Harris said yesterday. Mr. Harris returned Sunday from Lansing where he held a conference with inspection bureau executives.

Mr. Harris' visit to Lansing primarily was for the purpose of attending a conference of the legislative committee and the directors of the League of Michigan Municipalities, called for the purpose of determining the league's attitude towards legislation now before the state assembly.

For Utilities Reports.

The committee endorsed a bill requiring managers of all publicly owned utilities to install a uniform system of accounting under direction of the state utility commission, and providing that such plan be established by an annual financial statement. This approach received energetic support of Mr. Harris who backed his arguments with the manner in which such reports have been received by the people of Escanaba, who own the water, electric and gas services here. The objectives to the bill offered the argument that such reports would furnish privately owned utilities with "inside" information to which they were not entitled.

Bus Line Regulation.

The committee urged the legislature to authorize the state utilities commission to take steps, whenever necessary, to regulate bus lines which are in competition with electric interurban lines, and to establish a tax on bus lines, based on percentage of their gross earnings. It was revealed that there is only one interurban line in Michigan that is now in the hands of the receiver, much of the financial difficulty being due to bus competition.

A number of other measures, of interest to cities of the state, were discussed at the meeting, Mr. Harris said.

PROGRAM WAS INTERESTING

A decidedly interesting program was presented before members of the Escanaba Rotary club yesterday under the direction of the Better Business Methods Committee, of which E. J. French is chairman. The program was unique in that it was entirely extemporaneous, Charman French calling upon various members of the club to discuss pertinent questions founded upon business ethics. Those who responded with brief addresses were: M. J. Ryan, Guy W. Sullivan, Coleman Nee, John S. Lindsay, A. H. Grossbeck, John A. Allo, E. C. Voght, Leslie French and Atty. J. C. Baker.

Wilson Resident Dies At Hospital

John Trousil, 52, residing on a farm near Wilson, died at a local hospital at 2 o'clock yesterday morning after a brief illness due to a complication of diseases.

He is survived by a widow and several children.

The body was removed to the Alto Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and in the afternoon was taken to the Trousil home, near Wilson. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Burial will be in the Spalding cemetery.

Players All Set For Home Talent St. Patrick's Day

SPANISH "CON" MAN ARRESTED

Had Written Thousands of Appeals to American Citizens.

The curtain will rise this afternoon at 2:30 and again this evening at 8:15 when local talent will present the beautiful Irish drama, "Kathleen Mavourneen," to two packed houses, judging from the advance sale of tickets and the unusual interest which has been created among the people of this city.

The sale of tickets has far surpassed the expectations of those in charge of the play, but we announce that there are still a few seats available.

Those wishing seats are urged to make their reservations this morning. Indications are that seats for the evening performance will be all sold by noon.

At 6 o'clock last night there was a number of seats left and those who intend to see the show, but have the afternoon at leisure will be doing the sponsors of the play a special favor by attending the matinee, those in charge announce.

A touch of "Old Erin" in song and costume, seasoned with verdant color throughout, will mark the event March 17th which will be celebrated in this city.

The proceeds of the play are for the benefit of St. Patrick's church.

AMUSEMENTS

[AT THE DELET]

The Pola Negri of "Passion" has returned.

In the Herbert Brenon Paramount production of "Shadows of Paris," which opened at the Delti theatre last night, the star once more comes into her own. She is quite her old self as Claire, leader of the Apache bands of the Parisian underworld. Then there is Charles de Roche as her Apache lover, who is called away to war and falsely reported killed; Huntly Gordon as Raoul whom Claire, posing as a Polish war widow, marries.

The story is one of the upper and lower world of Paris, the playground of the entire world.

Gareth Hughes and Vera Reynolds head the strong support.

The picture will give way, today, to the St. Patrick's amateur production, "Kathleen Mavourneen," which will be presented by a splendid cast.

"Shadows of Paris" will be on the Delti screen again Wednesday.

WRIGLEY'S

Pioneer Resident Is Laid To Rest

One of the largest funerals held at St. Anne's church in many months was that of Monday morning when the last rites were performed over the body of Mrs. Laurent Boudreau, a pioneer resident of this city.

Solemn requiem o'clock mass was sung at ten-thirty o'clock with Rev. R. G. Jacques, pastor of the parish, as celebrant, assisted by Rev. Fr. Weather as deacon and Rev. Fr. Daniel Linfert, O. F. M., as sub-deacon.

Among the altar boys who served mass was Anthony Grenier, a grand nephew of the deceased. A nephew and five grand nephews followed the casket to and from the funeral car: Messrs. Hubert Bray, Marshal Barkhurst, Robert Gabourie, Clayton Schram, Lawrence Grenier and John Grenier.

Eloquent Sermon.

Rev. Fr. Jacques delivered a most eloquent funeral oration. Quoting his sermon in part, Fr. Jacques said: "Again we are assembled here in the temple of God to pay our last respects to one who left this world and I say about me today the same gathering as we had here a short time ago. Death visits some families more often, perhaps, to have us consider the purpose of life. What is life? Why do I exist? Why have I a body, soul, and a mind?" These questions could be answered by one answer and that is the fact that there is a Supreme Being, a God, that I must love and serve and thereby save my mortal soul."

"It matters not whether we live one score or four score years; we must make use of the time allotted us and if we live many, many years in the service of God our reward will be greater. Why weep? They may have lived their lives death's portals have been opened to them. To die honored by God, His Angels, and His saints. May her good works abide in glory before God. May He tuck the souls of her life and may He find a place for her in His heavenly mansion."

Interment was made in the family lot in St. Anne's cemetery where the body was consigned to the grave in a steel vault.

Out-of-town relatives and friends who came to this city for the obsequies were: Wm. Grenier, Antigo, Wis.; Henry Pichette, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Georgiana Koch, Chicago, Ill.; Napoleon Boudreau, Mrs. Jennie Goulette, Mrs. Frank Barkhurst and son Marshall, from Mountain, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Adelor Boudreau, Flat Rock, Mich.; Frank Grenier, Northland, Mich.; Mrs. V. Blair, Marquette, Mich.; Mrs. Charles Oesterling, Niagara, Wis.; Hubert Bray, Niagara, Wis.

The members of St. Anne's Sodality and St. Croix Society, Branch No. 3, U. S. C. F., attended the funeral services in a body.

ATHLETIC CZAR LIKES THE U.P.

Thompson Praises Tournament at Marquette Last Week.

Marquette, Mar. 15.—Before presenting the trophies to winning teams in the basketball tournament, A. W. Thompson, of Lansing, state director of high school athletics, called the attention of the crowd to the fact that "at every game there are two contests. One is the physical combat between the contending teams. The other is a contest of sportsmanship."

"Each student body and delegation of townspeople should vie with each other in seeing who can treat the visiting team, coach and official with the greatest courtesy. Too often a game is nothing but the excuse for a young riot," said Mr. Thompson. "It should not be. There ought to be the best of friendly relations between student bodies of opposing teams. Go back to your homes and preach the doctrine of courtesy."

In commenting upon the tournament, Mr. Thompson congratulated officials for the manner in which it was conducted and the spectators for their courteous conduct towards teams and officials. He praised the district system used in the upper peninsula whereby sectional tournaments are conducted to choose representatives for the championship tournament. He concluded his remarks with the prediction that an all-state tournament system similar to the upper peninsula district plan would be adopted.

Presents Trophies.

To Wakefield, winners of second honors in Class B, went a loving cup and individual silver fobs; Ishpeming, winners of second place in Class A, received the same award. In the winter, first honors in Class A, and runner-up for runners-up, and individual gold fobs, Linden, winners of Class I, champions of the upper peninsula, were called up and presented the trophies emblematic of upper peninsula titles. Individual gold fobs were presented to members of the team; a loving cup for the class honors, and a silver basketball, symbolic of upper peninsula honors, along with the tournament ball, were presented to Captain Brown, of the Lake Linden squad.

Orchestra Plays on When Lights Go Out

(By The Associated Press)

An Arbor, Mich., Mar. 16.—Ossip Gabrilowitch, director of the Detroit symphony orchestra, had his part in the entertainment of the delegates to the Michigan Federation of Music Clubs here tonight, a part not on the original program. The big voiced symphony orchestra had just swung into the full measure of the opening overture when the Hill Auditorium lights went out. There was a moment of intense silence broken by the whisper of the director telling his men to continue. Following the first violin, Mr. Gabrilowitch's elbow, the orchestra moved through the overture at slow measure, only to break out at full tilt again when the lights flooded the big auditorium and the baton of the director could be seen.

The concert was one of a series for the meeting of the State Federation of Music Clubs here. Sometimes you can learn a lot by turning over a new leaf.

GIBBONS MAY BATTLE WILLS

15-Round Match At Milk Fund Show On May 29 Is Planned.

(By The Associated Press)

New York, Mar. 16.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, and Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., will meet in a 15-round match at the Yankee Stadium, May 29, providing the managers of the two principals can be given assurance that there is no possibility of a title match with Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, before fall. This was revealed by Tex Rickard, promoter of the bouts, today, after he had had a conference with Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills.

Mullins withheld definite assurance that he would sign articles for the match with Gibbons, until Wednesday when he will know definitely whether there is a possibility with Quattrin, though Brave Bob, owned by C. M. Ferris, is given some consideration.

Ruz Fuz, owned by H. M. Howard, is looked on by some as the dark horse of the field.

BOXING FIRM IN PROSPECT

Firpo to Join Desamps Stable with Carpenter, Planned.

(By The Associated Press)

Paris, Mar. 16.—Firpo, Carpenter, Desamps and Company is a formidable pugilistic firm, the formation of which may be announced any day, if negotiations in progress between Desamps, manager of Carpenter, and the wild bull of the "Pampas," come to a successful termination.

The first real offensive of the new combination will be staged about mid-summer. Carpenter and Desamps are considering an offer from Floyd Fitzsimmons, the Michigan promoter, for a bout between Carpenter and "Young" Strubing at Macon, Georgia, the home town of Strubing, some time around August. Desamps is certain that if Firpo will place himself under his care he will have no trouble in getting matches for his new protege in the United States and may be able to start Luis again on the road to another fight with Jack Dempsey.

Wills will receive a guarantee of almost $150,000 for the Gibbons match.

Rickard told Mullins that Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, had conferred with him on his arrival in New York Sunday and had informed him that Dempsey would not be in shape to meet either Gibbons or Wills before fall.

HERRIOT RETAINS HOPE IN GENEVA PEACE PROTOCOL

the Berlin government for a security pact offered a basis for discussion, and he proposed that consideration of that plan continue through regular diplomatic channels.

He was altogether optimistic after the interview. His talk with M. Herriot had been quite satisfactory and he was sure continuation of the negotiations through the chancelleries would bring an agreement satisfactory to both countries and beneficial to the peace of the world.

Benes Satisfied.

Dr. Benes, who called on M. Herriot soon after the British foreign secretary left, displayed his usual conciliatory attitude, expressing himself as the representative of one of the countries of the little entente favorable to any arrangement. In his opinion even a partial agreement with Germany which offered proper guarantees would relieve the tension in Europe.

Mr. Roberts then entered into a long argument in which he contended that in cases where a question was not obviously one which might incriminate a witness the court should investigate and decide whether such witness was within his constitutional right.

Mr. Wise argued that it was the right of every witness to decide in his own conscience whether or not the answering of questions would tend to incriminate him.

Both Mr. Roberts and Atlee

Pomerene, also of government counsel, made no secret of the fact that the decision of Judge Kennedy tomorrow on the Everhart testimony would be of the utmost importance to the government's case.

Mr. Fall is scheduled to be called to the stand tomorrow. In the event of Mr. Herriot's absence, the French premier, before and after the Geneva meeting, the league made no clearer perception of the difficulties and possibilities surrounding the question of a new security pact by the British and French governments, have evidently left the main question still a subject for diplomatic negotiations.

It seems unlikely that Mr. Chamberlain, when he again meets the house of commons, will be able to throw much additional light on the problem to be solved.

Solution Difficult.

In view of the favor in which France held the Geneva protocol, which Mr. Chamberlain's visit to Geneva virtually killed and of the reluctance of Germany to enter the league of nations until she is well assured of the terms upon which she will be permitted to enter, it would seem that very protracted negotiations would be necessary before any solution could be reached.

The question also arises in political circles, in London as to whether the possibility of another disarmament conference on American initiative may not further complicate the security problem, and since the two institutions of security and disarmament are so closely bound together, whether it would not be desirable to postpone setting the security problem pending the result of the suggested disarmament conference.

REGULARS BEAT TYGER ROOKIES

(By The Associated Press)

Detroit, Mar. 16.—The regulars turned on the yannigans today at the Tigers' training camp at Augusta, Ga., and thrashed them, 9 to 0, in a full seven inning game.

Hermin Pillette proved the undoing of the yannigans, all runs of the regulars being made off him, seven in the fourth inning and two in the fifth. Pillette relieved Jim Collins who had held the regulars scoreless through three innings.

In Blue and Ty Cobb added to Pillette's misery in the fourth by closing out a home run each. Cleo Carlyle, who was slated for Heinie Manush's place, had that out-fielder refused to sign, made a great running catch off Manush in the sixth.

Quatrains of Johnson Stable Picked Looms Up As Favorite.

(By The Associated Press)

New Orleans, Mar. 16.—Eleven thoroughbreds will face the barrier tomorrow in the fourth annual Louisiana Derby with $17,000 added money which is the feature race on the card for the closing day of the spring meeting at Jefferson Park track.

Of the eleven, all of which are nominated for the Kentucky Derby, Quattrain, Frederick Johnson's three year old colt, winner of the New Orleans handicap with $25,000 added money, is the favorite and seems most likely to follow in the footsteps of Black Gold. Quattrain has made only one start since winning the rich handicap purse and that a few days ago when the colt showed an amazing burst of speed in the straight away to win after a poor ride.

Quattrain No. 11.

Quattrain has drawn the outside position, No. 11, which by coincidence is the same position from which Black Gold broke away last year and, considering his speed, is considered a decided advantage. Quattrain is carrying top weight of 126 pounds and will be ridden by Joe Harry Stotts, who came direct from Miami to ride the colt in this race.

Brach Talk, a filly entered by the Idle Hour Farm, with Buttin in and Benedict Vow, are considered as the most likely contenders with Quattrain, though Brave Bob, owned by C. M. Ferris, is given some consideration.

Ruz Fuz, owned by H. M. Howard, is looked on by some as the dark horse of the field.

SPARKLES THE HORSE.

High-priced spectacles were the hardest hit. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 10 points to 208. General Electric dropped 103 to 262½ and net losses of 4 to nearly 7 points were recorded by United States Steel common and American Can. Standard Oil showed good resistance throughout most of the day but the weakened with the rest of the list at the close showing losses of 1½ and 4½ points, respectively.

PUEBLO BANKER WON'T TESTIFY ON BANK DEALS

the Pueblo bank. The questioning then began.

When asked if he deposited with Rule any bonds belonging to Fall, Everhart said:

Refused to Answer.

"I respectfully decline to answer on the grounds that to do so might tend to incriminate me."

The sustained reaction of the last few days has again brought to the fore the question of whether the "bull" market which began on the day after election has ended. Stock market observers are still widely divided in their opinion of the next major trend.

A acute weakness of the textile industry was based on reports that conditions in the industry were showing little or no improvement over last year. American Woolen fell more than 3 points to 164½, the lowest price since 1916, and Consolidated Textile touched a record low at 3¾.

Baldred Share Sell.

Selling of the railroad shares was stimulated to some extent by the publication of the 1924 earnings report of the New York Central, showing a shrinkage of over $6,000,000 in net income last year as compared with the year before.

Cell money held steady at 4 per cent. True money and commercial paper rates also were unchanged with business quiet.

Further strength of Japanese yen, which touched a new high for the year at 41½ cents, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled just above 47½ and French francs were quoted just under 5.15 cents. Danish krona moved up 12 points to a new top at 18.15 cents, but other European rates showed only nominal changes.

Mr. Roberts then entered into a long argument in which he contended that in cases where a question was not obviously one which might incriminate a witness the court should investigate and decide whether such witness was within his constitutional right.

Mr. Wise argued that it was the right of every witness to decide in his own conscience whether or not the answering of questions would tend to incriminate him.

Both Mr. Roberts and Atlee

Pomerene, also of government counsel, made no secret of the fact that the decision of Judge Kennedy tomorrow on the Everhart testimony would be of the utmost importance to the government's case.

It seems unlikely that Mr. Chamberlain, when he again meets the house of commons, will be able to throw much additional light on the problem to be solved.

Solution Difficult.

In view of the favor in which France held the Geneva protocol, which Mr. Chamberlain's visit to Geneva virtually killed and of the reluctance of Germany to enter the league of nations until she is well assured of the terms upon which she will be permitted to enter, it would seem that very protracted negotiations would be necessary before any solution could be reached.

The question also arises in political circles, in London as to whether the possibility of another disarmament conference on American initiative may not further complicate the security problem, and since the two institutions of security and disarmament are so closely bound together, whether it would not be desirable to postpone setting the security problem pending the result of the suggested disarmament conference.

CHICAGO GRINN.

Cicago, Mar. 16.—Sudden trade in death of buying went through the entire grain market today at the last and resulted in big selling and a general up-swing.

What followed was a general up-swing, mostly in wheat, 100 to 120 bushels per barrel, and corn, 100 to 120 bushels per barrel, and oats, 100 to 120 bushels per barrel. The general up-swing was reflected in the grain market as well as in the meat market.

Fresh butter, 50 cents per lb.; Centralized carloads, 90 cents per lb.

Mr. Warren admits he was buying up the stock but says a number of people knew it including other stockholders. His opponents deny this. Mr. Warren insists that the Michigan companies went to the "trusts" for aid and rescue. The opposition says the plan was devised by Mr. Havemeyer.

In any event when control of the Michigan companies was obtained, a central board was instituted at which prices and methods of operation were arranged in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Havemeyer and frequently Mr. Warren was revealed in letters to have been a spokesman for the American Sugar Refining Company.

Then came the famous northern securities decision by the supreme court of the United States on the Sherman anti-trust law and Mr. Warren admitted as do other lawyers that the evolution of the court's decision indicated that it was unwise for a company like American Sugar Refining Company to appear to have control in certain other companies.

Holding Reduced
Accordingly on Mr. Warren's advice the "trust" reduced its holdings in the Michigan companies which had been grouped under the name of the Michigan sugar company and of which Mr. Warren was president. It reduced them to about one third of the stock. Mr. Warren contends that from 1900 on he was simply president of his sugar company and had no connection with the American Sugar Refining Company. Senator Cummings, who made the principle defense for Mr. Warren, insisted that Mr. Warren did what any lawyer would do in acting either as business or adviser in the acquisition of stock and the reorganization of companies. The opposing senators declared that he went beyond the bounds of law and actually aided the trust in a business way. Senator Cummings at the conclusion of his address, of his own accord conceded that the only mistake he thought Mr. Warren made was in allowing his stock to remain on the books of the American Sugar Refining Company until as late as 1911 even though they were en-

SUGAR COMBINE WORK IN 1906 HURTS WARREN

dored in blank to the so-called "trust".

No Attack on Honesty

The senators fighting Mr. Warren made quite a point of this and Senator Reed of Missouri said he was afraid Mr. Warren, if confirmed as attorney general, might forget to do other things and think he was still the counsel for the sugar trust, several years after he was supposed to have severed connections.

Senator Cummings pointed to the way co-operation by the farmers and consolidations of railroads were being urged nowadays as revealing a difference in the public attitude toward combinations and said that he believed Mr. Warren was an honest man and that was enough. The opposing senators said they were not questioning Mr. Warren's integrity but his alleged prejudices in favor of corporations and that Mr. Coolidge ought not name a man who had to make a defense of his connections with a "trust" which had been the subject of a successful suit by the Federal government itself.

Counsel for Havemeyer

Mr. Warren as a lawyer of note had been interested in Michigan sugar companies from 1902. During the period thereafter, lasting until 1906, he was counsel for H. O. Havemeyer, head of the American Sugar Refining Company, frequently called da trust and finally ordered by decree of the federal courts to refrain from entanglements with other companies which would bring about a monopoly in restraint of trade.

The charge directly laid against Mr. Warren is that he quietly bought up stock in the beet sugar companies in Michigan and that while he was doing it and obtaining control of them the prices for sugar were being fixed by the "trust" so as to force the smaller companies into the bosom of the trust.

Denies Secrecy

Mr. Warren admits he was buying up the stock but says a number of people knew it including other stockholders. His opponents deny this. Mr. Warren insists that the Michigan companies went to the "trusts" for aid and rescue. The opposition says the plan was devised by Mr. Havemeyer.

In any event when control of the Michigan companies was obtained, a central board was instituted at which prices and methods of operation were arranged in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Havemeyer and frequently Mr. Warren was revealed in letters to have been a spokesman for the American Sugar Refining Company to appear to have control in certain other companies.
