SENATE SESSION WAS BIG "SHOW"

Special Session Offered Plenty of Amusement for Washington.

BY HARRY B. HUNT, NEA Service Writer. Washington.—Many thousands of dollars could have been gleaned for Uncle Sam's treasury had provision been made for cashing in on the amusement value of the short special session of the senate which convened March 4.

All of the elements of drama, for which folks pay out hard cash, were supplied on a scale that has been equaled by no theatrical presentation seen in this city in a decade.

Daily long queues of spectators waited in line at the gallery doors for a chance for even a few minutes of the free entertainment provided within.

But it was a case of first come first served, and those who came early and got seats stuck through hour after hour of the show, with the crowds of late comers getting never a look-in.

Would they have paid for admission? Well—one doorkeeper estimated if he had been able to cash in on the pleas personally made to him to "see what he could do," with the hint it would be worth his while, he could have scored the summer vacation on a Mediterranean cruise!

The big crush, of course, came on March 15, when the senate had agreed to vote for a second time on the Warren nomination, which had previously been lost, due to the mid-afternoon nap of Vice President Dawes.

The senate was to meet this morning at 10:30. By 9 a. m., Capitol Hill had much the same appearance as on March 4, when President Coolidge was to be inaugurated. A steady stream of automobiles was discharging excited and interested grand dames and gentlemen. More lowly folk packed the footpaths and overflowed into the streets.

All the senate elevators were closed, except to members, to prevent possible jams and accidents. Police were on all the stairways.

I met Senator Willis of Ohio on the gallery floor at 9:20. He was out of breath and his clothing was awry.

Only his old technique as a football player had enabled him, in spite of the right of way, he was supposed to have as a senator, to get an influential constituent into the packed gallery.

"Looks as if you're going to have a good audience today, senator," I observed.

Willis wiped a perspiring brow.

"All I've done all morning," he said, "is to hold the audience. Eight million people have been in to see me. They all want seats. There wouldn't be half enough if I had 'em all. I'm going into history, right now."

Want Laws to Save Fur Bearing Animals

(By The Associated Press.) Washington, Mar. 28.—Introduction of legislation to govern the trapping of fur-bearing animals with a view to protecting their possible extermination, was advocated in a statement tonight by the biological survey which assessed the fur supply of the country as "seriously threatened" by a lack of uniform laws.

The statement said that three months was a sufficient open period for any fur-bearing animal.

The survey urged the placing of trappers on annual reports of the number of each species taken so that a sound foundation would be provided for a survey of the annual catch and its relation to the breeding supply.

Social Activities of Women Breaks Up Homes, Claimed

(By The Associated Press.) New York, Mar. 28.—Advocates of birth control must take the human element into consideration if their work is to be successful, Dr. Adolph Meyer, professor of psychiatry at Johns Hopkins University said today before the sixth international neo-nathusian and birth control conference.

"If science would take more care regarding the fundamental needs and sensitive spots of human beings," he said, "it would gain the confidence of the average person—a thing that it has failed to do thus far."

Max G. Schlappa, professor of neuro-pathology of the New York post graduate medical school and director of the New York children's court clinic, said that the American home is being broken up and inferior children are being bred as the result of the strenuous participation of American women in business and social activities.

Tobacco King Sued By Divorced Wife

(By The Associated Press.) New York, Mar. 28.—Although divorced nearly 20 years ago by James R. Duke, "tobacco king," Mrs. Lillian N. Duke is suing him for separation and maintenance, maintaining that she is still his wife.

This action was disclosed today when former Governor Nathan L. Miller, counsel for Mr. Duke, moved to dismiss the suit. He obtained a show cause order from Supreme Court Justice Mulvan and there will be a hearing April 16.

It is understood that when the divorce was granted Mrs. Duke was given $50,000 by the tobacco magnate. In 1922 she lost $25,000 cash and $50,000 worth of jewelry in a fraud engineered by Alfred E. Lindsay, a broker.

Bulgarian Police Have Lively Time Chasing Anarchists

(By The Associated Press.) Sofia, Bulgaria, Mar. 28.—The police had a running street fight today with a band of anarchists. They killed one of the anarchists and captured several of them. A Bulgarian lieutenant, a casual spectator who went to the aid of the police, also was killed.

The police wore on their way to surround the band as part of a clean-up necessitated by a recrudescence of anarchist and communist activities, but the anarchists got wind of the raid and were about to depart when the police arrived.

The four men were arrested in connection with the operation of the Detroit Show Card Company, a concern that advertises to teach howard writing and a number of other subjects by mail and place its graduate.

GIRL IS UNABLE TO SMILE, WEEP

May Goldhaar Can Only Express Emotions Through Eyes.

BY GENE COHN, NEA Service Writer. New York.—Never again can she smile! And never again can she weep!

Only the eyes of 14-year-old May Goldhaar henceforth will mirror what lies in her heart. And just now her eyes seem very sad.

It was an unusual accident that robbed her of the medium through which humans register their emotions, and that left her sensitive, girlish face a placid mask. Struck by an automobile her body was dragged for 25 feet.

The thin shell over the mastoid cavity, just behind the right ear, was cracked. And so the tiny nerves that control the muscles of the face and the ducts that lead to the tear glands were paralyzed.

A court has held that the value of these outward signals of happiness and distress are worth but $25,000, but there will be countless thousands throughout the world ready to argue that the charm that lies in a smile cannot be paid for with any sum.

"It's made her quite sensitive, of course," says her mother. She says that since the accident May prefers to stay at home and she hesitates to play with the other children. She feels they might be ill at ease because of her passivity. They are yet too young and careless to read what lies in the eyes. She cannot cry and laugh, like other girls.

May has three sisters and they understand, and so she is not without companionship.

"She is the best of the four to have around the house," says Mrs. Goldhaar. "She voluntarily washes the dishes and makes the bed and she's going to be a wonderful cook. Also she's a star pupil in her class at high school."

But if any or all of these achievements please May, no trace can be found upon her face.

Some day May will learn what all wise men know—if already she hasn't guessed at it—that most smiles are forced and many are artifice; that many of the merriest laughs ring the hollowest and that hearts can ache, tears or no tears.

The eyes more nearly register the truth and the spirit and through them she will always tell her story of sorrow and joy.

EXPLAINS K. C. BOYS' PROGRAM

New York, The Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus has issued a statement outlining the organization's boy program to correct misapprehensions which they fear may have arisen from publication of reports of the recent annual convention here of the Big Brother and Big Sister Federation, Inc. The statement says:

The boy program of the Knights of Columbus was inaugurated at the direction of the supreme council and is under the supervision of a special committee from the supreme board of directors composed of Martin H. Carmody, deputy supreme knight, Grand Rapids, Mich.; chairman; Luke E. Hart, supreme advocate, St. Louis; George H. Bolvin, supreme director, Montreal; Edward H. Ullman, supreme director, Chicago; and John F. O'Neill, supreme director, Jersey City, N. J.

Preliminary to the organization of units by the various subordinate councils of the order, courses in boy guidance were established at Notre Dame University in the fall of 1924 and 25 fellowships have been awarded by the Knights of Columbus to young men from various parts of the United States and Canada.

The entire expense of maintaining the boy life bureau at the headquarters in New Haven, Conn., and the boy guidance course at Notre Dame University is being paid by the Knights of Columbus from its general fund, and has no relationship to any other activity of the order or any other fund under its control.

5,000 Gather At Murder Trial In Bessemer, Alabama

(By The Associated Press.) Bessemer, Ala., Mar. 28.—At 6 o'clock the jury attempting to decide the fate of Dr. George T. Edwards, charged with wife murder, was locked up for the night. They will continue their deliberations at eight o'clock in the morning. The case went to the jury at 10:15 tonight. A crowd of approximately 5,000 people had gathered about the court house during the day but began to thin out as the proceedings for an early verdict vanished.

NATIONALS MAY REPEAT-EVANS

Umpire Says Harris' Aggregation Must Be Reckoned With.

BY BILLY EVANS. For some reason or other few of the experts are picking the Washington team to repeat in the American League race this year.

The claim is made that the Nationals were not the best ball club in the league last season and that either the Yankees or the Tygers, with a better break in luck and conditions, would have gone ahead.

But the proof of the baseball pudding is in the final figures and these figures showed Buckley Harris' team on top. To prove further their supremacy the Nationals stepped out and won the world championship from the strong New York club.

This would seem to prove that the team's victory in the American League race was anything but a fluke. Just the same the experts are still indicating a hesitant attitude.

Huggins Fears Solons. I notice, however, that Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, is very much impressed with the potentialities of the Washington team and predicts he must beat that team in order to win the flag.

Huggins is a shrewd judge of baseball strength. I recall he was none too enthusiastic about the Yanks' chances to repeat when I saw him at New Orleans last spring.

While practically everyone was conceding the flag to the Yanks again Huggins pointed out the league as a whole would be stronger, particularly the Washington, Philadelphia and Cleveland teams.

"This means," went on Huggins, "we are going to have a tougher time winning ball games from these teams than we did the year before. It is not so much a question of our being strong enough to win again as it is a question of the other teams being strong enough to hold us back."

Has Pitching Staff. Huggins was right. The Yanks did not repeat. Washington and Philadelphia were stronger. Cleveland alone did not come up to his spring forecast as to team strength.

Huggins may be right again in saying the Washington team is the team that must be beaten. Harris will start the season with a stronger outfit on paper than the one that faced the barrier last April.

Coveleskie and Gregg, to say nothing of Reuther, all veteran pitchers, aren't going to weaken his team any. Nor is Mike McNally, who is a versatile man for reserve infield work.

The Washington outfield is strong. The infield, if it goes along without mishap, will rank with the best in the league, if not as the best. Judge is a fine first baseman, Harris and Peck, a great keystone combination, and Blunge will more than fill the bill at third.

Ruel deserves to be ranked as one of the game's greatest catchers, and the return of Walter Johnson ought to be a big factor. All in all the Washingtons look mighty formidable.

Nationals Favorites. I'd say, off hand, the Nationals will start the season as favorites to repeat, but a close race is certain with New York, Detroit and possibly Philadelphia furnishing plenty of opposition.

Judge Testifies Against Judge In Impeachment Quiz

(By The Associated Press.) East St. Louis, Ill., Mar. 28.—The spectacle of a federal judge appearing as a witness against another whose impeachment is sought was afforded today at the congressional investigation of the actions of Judge George Washington English.

Judge Walter C. Lindley, associate of Judge English of the eastern district of Illinois, told the committee that his senior had sought to have him appoint his son, George W., Jr., as attorney or solicitor in a bankruptcy case, and that it was generally understood throughout the district that Judge English was appointing former Judge C. B. Thomas, his referee in bankruptcy to numerous lucrative receiverships.

The last witness of the day, W. S. Wilson of Pinckneyville, Ill., told the committee that in appointing him as a co-receiver with Thomas for the Gen. Coal Company, Judge English had referred to Thomas as "one of my best friends and my standing receiver."

REFUSE TO TELL WHERE $1,000,000 LOOT IS HIDDEN

Council Bluffs, Ia.—A $1,000,000 secret!

It is housed behind the grey walls of Ft. Leavenworth penitentiary and all efforts of government agents to solve the secret during four years of investigation have proved unavailing.

It has to do with the greatest train robbery of history, in which Keith Collins and Fred Poffenbarger and several accomplices got away with $3,000,000 in loot from the C. B. & Q. Transcontinental fast mail.

All but $1,000,000 of the loot has been recovered.

Collins and Poffenbarger, now serving 20-year terms, say they threw a satchel containing the money into the Missouri River between here and Omaha, Neb.

But federal agents do not believe them and are devoting their efforts to finding the missing loot.

The robbery, perpetrated in 1920, was the fastest and greatest on record. It took just four minutes to carry it out.

The fast mail, with a money car of registered mail, left the transfer depot at Council Bluffs and ran just one mile to the city depot.

During that mile run, Poffenbarger and several accomplices got into the money car and threw out 10 sacks of mail.

Collins, following in an automobile, picked them up. All involved in the robbery were mail service employees.

The robbers expected to get but a few thousand dollars. Millions fairly staggered them.

Dividing the loot was accomplished by midnight and Collins fled in a taxi carrying two suitcases loaded with $20 bills. He reached Oklahoma before being arrested.

The night was cool and while dividing the loot the robbers burned $850,000 in Liberty bonds in an old kitchen stove to warm their hands.

One package contained a handful of diamonds. They threw these valuable stones into a corner of a deserted house. For days afterward federal agents searched the house on their hands and knees to recover the gems.

More than $50,000 was recovered from an old church, while $40,000 in bills was found in a manger, from which a grey mule was contentedly eating hay. Under a board on the stairs was found $29,000 in cash.

But Collins had $1,000,000 in the two suitcases he carried away with him. He told government agents that he had three grips, but finding he could not easily manage them, threw the third one into the Missouri River.

For days the river was dragged and professional divers were sent down to explore the bottom of the river. No trace of the suitcase was found.

Investigators are satisfied that Collins and Poffenbarger caught the third suitcase somewhere, in readiness for their release from prison should they be captured.

Now it is a race between the two robbers and the postal inspectors.

But the latter say they will keep Collins and Poffenbarger in jail the rest of their lives if they do not "come across" with their secret.

"STAN" HARRIS IS SATISFIED

Thinks Washington Club Has Good Chance to Repeat.

BY BILLY EVANS. Tampa, March 27.—"Washington may not win the pennant this year and then again it is just possible my club will repeat," says Manager Stanley Harris.

"I realize the competition will be stiffer than ever this year. Last season we were the under dog, this year we are the world champs.

"Opposing teams always seem to get greater satisfaction in knocking off the champions than beating a dark horse. This year the slogan will be, stop Washington.

"That is the way it should be. It would be a good thing for baseball if the pennant shifted often. We expect rough going, but hope to overcome the many obstacles that are sure to be in our way, and emerge the winner.

Stronger Than Year Ago. "My ball club is stronger than it was last season and we managed to win the pennant in 1924.

"I know the other seven clubs regard us as lucky, that we got all the breaks. It has been my experience that winning teams invariably get the breaks. Incidentally, make many of them by their aggressive style of play.

"Whether or not Washington wins the pennant, the club will be in there fighting for every ball game. That's the style of club that gets the breaks. If possible, they may come our way again this year."

Pressed for his reasons for believing his ball club was stronger than last year, Harris replied:

"A stronger and better outfield. Goslin's success of last year should make him one of the star outfielders of the league. McNeely's year of experience will make him 25 per cent more efficient. Rice continues as good as ever.

"Much better reserve strength, particularly in the infield, where the club was lamentably weak last year.

"Better pitching, due to the fact that I feel sure the veteran twirlers added to my staff will be able to stand up under the strain of the hard race we are facing, far better than the most likely recruits.

"Take it from me, 'Dutch' Reuther is far from through, even though waived out of the National League. I like his spirit. He is in great shape. I feel that he will win 15 ball games.

"The warm weather of Washington, the big outfield and his apparent excellent condition, make me feel that Stanley Coveleskie, veteran spihball pitcher secured from Cleveland, will help me.

"Discount the fact that Veau Gregg is close to 40 in figuring his chances. Aside from regular work he should be a whale of a relief pitcher, able to go at top speed for four or five innings.

Banks on Hurling Corps. "Frankly, I am banking on my pitching staff to carry the burden.

That is why I have gambled with veterans rather than rookie phenoms. I know just what the club can do on offense or defense.

"If we don't win I will be disappointed, not discouraged." The viewpoint of Harris sums up the Washington situation. Desiring to be in the running this year he has gambled with veteran players rather than experiment with recruits. He seeks quick action.

And while he has a half dozen likely youngsters, among them Kelly and McNamara, pitchers, and Adams, infielder, the Washington lineup of 1925 will be the same team that won the world championship of 1924.

Other teams in the American League look more impressive, perhaps, but the spirit of the club and manager make Washington a team that must be given serious consideration in dopping the 1925 winner.

Pair of Roof Fires Claim Attention of Fire Department

Two small roof fires claimed the attention of the fire department yesterday. One, shortly after noon, in the main building at the poor farm, had been extinguished by a bucket brigade, organized and headed by Marcus McNabb, county surveyor, when the department arrived. Mr. McNabb was working in the vicinity, saw the blaze, and proceeded to work as a fire fighter. Due to his promptness, the damage to the roof was slight. The second call was on the roof of the W. H. Pennywell home, 1114 Eighth Ave. South. Chemicals quickly conquered the small blaze. Sparks from chimneys were blamed for starting both fires.

Women's Fashions For 1925 Taken From Stone Age

Rotherham, England—That there is little new under the sun, even with regard to women's fashions, was pointed out by Elbert Brand, curator of the museum here in the course of a recent lecture. Referring to an illustration of women dancers on the walls of a Spanish cave, he said these paleolithic belles were very near to the present day women with their high hats, chinems, tight waists and bell-shaped skirts. The cave pictures were probably the earliest fashion plates in the world, and were drawn about 70,000 years ago, declared Mr. Brand. An illustration from Spain showed a costume very much akin to that of the modern flapper. In starting your garden, make it small enough for your wife to do all the work later on. Perhaps the wildest of the wild spring flowers are the bathing girls. Rent it the Classified Way.

Virginia College To Conduct Summer School in Mexico

Williamsburg, Va.—When the College of William and Mary opens a summer school at the University of Mexico, in June of this year, the second oldest institution of learning in the United States will make an effort to promote better understanding and friendship between the two nations by studying the civilization of Mexico at its birth, the oldest university in North or South America. It will be the first instance of mutual recognition between the University of Mexico and an American college, officials have declared.

The agreement with the Mexican university was obtained in line with the policy of William and Mary to enlarge its foreign summer school idea. A group of students, under the guidance of C. E. Castaneda, of the Spanish department of the college, will spend six weeks in Mexico City. Regular courses in English subjects will be offered by four members of the William and Mary faculty, but the students may avail themselves of any of the branches of study offered by the University of Mexico.

Co-eds Disprove "No-garter" Style

Seattle—University of Washington students almost universally adopted a "no-garter" style here this winter, but coeds expressed such strong disapproval of the fashion that a campaign of sewing silk socks with garters at formal dances was effected. Campus sheets advocating the non-garter style declared that garters were bad for the circulation of the blood, that ten hours a year were saved by not having them fastened to socks, that elimination of their purchase reduced the highest cost of a college education, and that it was always a bother to hunt for them in the morning.

Novel Brings Fame and Royalties To Young Negro Newsie

New York—Up the steps of a rooming house in Harlem, "negro capital of America," hopped an ebony-eyed, sensitive faced little darkey.

It was Sunday morning. He was clutching a handful of pennies, his earnings from the sale of newspapers. From a negro church, just around the corner, came the voices of the spiritual singers: "There's a happy, happy day."

The words seemed hard to believe. Hard times had come a knocking at the door.

But now, at the age of 19, Harry Lacroix understands what they meant. His name appears in advertisements in the book region columns in the public libraries. He finds himself being written about by the farmer and other humorists. Across the map of the United States people are clucking over what he has written; they are "bunching" with or at him—according to their tastes and humors.

For out of all he has gleaned from his newsboy and bootblack days, from the newspaper, headlines and dime novels, from the comic files and magazines, Harry has written a book, "The Prince of Washington Square," and the royalties are pouring in. Already he is at work on another tale.

"I had a grammar school education, but I didn't know a lot of the words you need for writing," he explains. "I just picked words up when I came across them. When I saw a word I thought was pretty good I memorized it. The result is reflected in his book which takes on all the "highfalutin" airs of a boy writer, with words usages that are highly amusing.

Harry's mother was one-time belle of the negro set in Chamberland County, Va., and a young woman of considerable brilliance. Harry, when he isn't writing novels, is messenger boy at the Customs House.

AUGSBURG CLUB HERE SATURDAY

Organization Spending

The Augsburg Glee Club has made Escanaba a part of call, to use nautical language, every second or third year for the past eight or ten years. It is coming to this city for the fifth time this week. To learn that this city has been on their tentative itinerary whenever their travels brought them in this direction has always been hailed with pleasure, and to have them come here on their tour this spring is no less an event than it has been heretofore. The Young Peoples' Society of the Norwegian Danish Lutheran church is sponsoring the visit of the singers also this year and it is with eager anticipation that their coming is looked forward to.

It is perhaps hardly necessary to mention that the Augsburg Glee Club comes from Augsburg Seminary, Minneapolis, Minn., the theological school and college of the Lutheran Free Church. But what may not be so well known is that it is out on a two weeks' tour through Wisconsin and northern Michigan during Easter vacation to bring a message in music and song of cheer, inspiration and edification to our churches in this part of the country.

The organization consists of 15 picked male voices who have been coached under the able leadership of Professor Opseth since the beginning of the school year last fall. The majority of the members have been in the club for years, so there is every reason why their renditions should be high class.

The success of an organization of this kind depends as much upon the director as upon any other factor. Prof. Opseth has proven his ability as a director by having been selected by the well known Prof. F. Melius Christiansen of Northfield, Minn., to be his assistant in chorus work there. During the war period he was bandmaster of the 354th Infantry band, A. E. F. He has toured other parts of the country with the Glee Club in previous years, each time with good success. The Augsburg Glee Club will give a sacred concert in the Norwegian Danish Lutheran church on Saturday evening, April 4th, at 8:20 o'clock. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity that is given to hear a good male chorus.

Nearly 2,000,000 bushels of onions were imported last year by the United States.

ANOTHER BOY BITTEN BY DOG

Head of Animal Rushed
for Rabies Test.

George Bonfeld, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Bonfeld, was the third Escanaba child to be bitten by a dog within a week. The head of the animal which bit the boy has been sent to Ann Arbor to determine whether it was suffering from rabies.

The two other children, Olof Hanson, age 7, and Jackie Vezina, age 4, are in Ann Arbor taking the Pasteur treatment for prevention of rabies. It was determined by the state laboratory that the dog which bit the Hanson child had rabies. The Bonfeld boy will go to Ann Arbor for treatment if a positive report is received by the health department. The dog's teeth cut his lower left leg.

Eleven dogs were shot by the police yesterday, bringing the total number of executions, since rabies was first discovered here, to 177.

The campaign will be continued vigorously, city officials promised.

Topic For Sermon Wednesday at St. Joseph's Church

The topic of the sermon to be given Wednesday evening, March 25th, at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Gabriel Linfert, O. F. M., of Columbus, who is spending two weeks in this city, will be "Mary, the Sorrowful Mother."

Fr. Gabriel is a brother of Fr. Daniel Linfert of this city, and his oratorical ability is recognized throughout the peninsula where he has been heard.

WEEK OF STOCK CLOSES TODAY

"No, No Nora," Irish
Comedy, Will Conclude
Beach-Jones Visit.

Two performances of "No, No, Nora," an Irish comedy drama today will close the Beach-Jones Stock company's annual engagement at the Delft theatre. The company's unusually strong personnel, the excellent selection of plays presented and the elaborate staging of all the productions, earned the enthusiastic response it received from its old friends here.

and the week was highly successful in every respect.

"Our New Minister," a rural comedy, was the company's offering last night. Dudley Miller, as the young clergyman who carries a brand of practical Christianity into the hard-shelled, narrow village of Hardscrabble, was forceful and convincing. Guy Beach and Forrest Smith as two of the natives who liked the new preacher; M. T. Jones and Hugh Adams as two who didn't, and Frank Brooks as a clergyman of the "Hardscrabble denomination," also did excellent work, as did others in the cast.

The company goes to Fond du Lac, Wis., for two weeks. On May 3 it opens an indefinite stock engagement in the Regent theatre at Muskegon.

Japanese Royalty Writers of Poetry

Tokyo.—More than 22,000 poems were submitted for the imperial poetry party, held recently at the palace in pursuance of a custom dating from most ancient days. The subject this year was "Mountain against sky," and the judges awarded the first and second honors to the following:

"I see Mount Horomuki at the end of a field where are fleecy, sheep-like scattered clouds."

The second award went to these lines:

"Excepting Mount Hira all peaks, including Great Hie and Small Hie, stand bold against the sky."

The royal family also were contributors, some of them as follows:

"Mount Fuji alone is white with snow, although the tops of other mountains meet in the blue of the sky."—The Empress.

"I would that posture of the world is like Mount Takeyama, which stands bravely against the sky."—The Prince Regent.

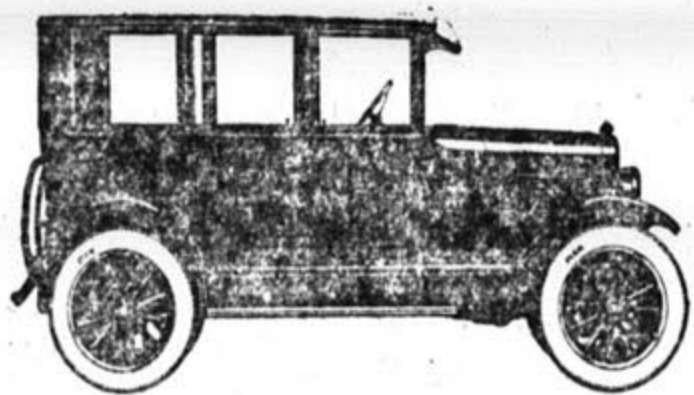

"I see the high peak of Mount Fuji against the sky, as I look back, after worshiping the rising sun on the New Year Day."—The Crown Princess.

"I see clearly mountain after mountain, all clad with snow, ranging against the sky."—Dowager Princess Higashi Fushimi.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred automobile miles are covered at speeds below 40 miles an hour. Jewett's exceptional performance is due, not to the 60 H. P., or better delivered at 55 miles per hour, but rather to the higher torque developed at low engine speeds. This low speed power accounts for Jewett's remarkable acceleration and unusual performance on the hills. Ask for a demonstration.

PENNY TEST IS PUT ON JEWETT CRANKSHAFTS

Variations Brought To a Minimum Assuring Smooth Running.

The weight of one, two or three pennies or the thickness of a cigarette paper means little to the various units of the motor car seat driven past you on the street.

Vary the mechanism of that motor car at any one of a dozen places or by the thickness of that thin slip of paper and see what happens. There are places where you might commit such an act and even ruin the motor. Precision methods rule today in the manufacture of the power plant of an automobile.

The mere addition of the weight of one penny to a side of the crankshaft, dynamically and counter balanced, will cause the shaft to roll over on a balancing stand. Picture the huge 192-pound shaft used in the motor of the new Jewett six being caused to roll over by placing a penny on one of the arms which project from the center to hold the connecting rods. Vary by the thickness of a cigarette paper the diameter of the wrist pin which holds the connecting rod to the piston and you will soon impair seriously the smooth operation of the motor by the vibration that is set up.

In the manufacture of the new Jewett motor, Mr. R. E. Allingham, manager of the Delta Motor Company, local Paige and Jewett distributors, states that the first pistons put into the first car made on January 2nd, 1925 and those in the last car made December 31st, 1925 will not vary so much as the weight of three pennies. If such an error occurred, the motor would not get to the block test in the factories of the Paige-Detroit Motor car company before the inspectors would detect it.

Balance is regarded as the life blood of a smooth running motor. The new Jewett power plant has balance, says Mr. Allingham, as is proved by its smooth running and the penny test. Precision is regarded as the heart of a motor's smoothness. The manufacturing tolerance allowed for making of tappets is just one twentieth of the thickness of a brand new one-dollar bill, Mr. Allingham states. It is upon this solid foundation of precise manufacturing methods, he says, that has been built the power, smoothness and long life that make true the new Jewett slogan "Permanent Perfect Performance."

DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Despite the fact that there are string-of-laws against the practice, there are some automobile drivers who still persist in passing street cars on the left when they are in a hurry. This has resulted in disaster so frequently that it has come to be known as "suicide turn," a name which intimates the consequences.

Another street car may be coming in the opposite direction of the driver may be confronted with another automobile coming in the opposite direction. Then there is always the innocent pedestrian, who, proceeding across the street on the other side of the auto coming around the back of the car.

National Safety Plan Brings All Agents Into Line

At the Hoover safety conference held recently in Washington there were forty-five national organizations present and a vast majority of them were there to lend their influence to bring about some coherent plan of safety before the country as a whole.

There was a wide representation of opinion, but every one present admitted that much had already been done.

Four things were concentrated on legislative principles, administrative and regulatory principles, suggestions for cooperative work, program for future activities. Of the four, cooperation was the most important.

Delivered to the conference were numerous in their belief that national organizations, associations of officials, automobile manufacturers, insurance companies, associations of automobile owners, and operators of fleets of motor vehicles, with schools and colleges and a general campaign of safety education of the public, must form a mighty force when working together, both as to means and objectives.

STUDEBAKER CO. UNABLE TO MEET DEMAND OF CARS

Plants Operating At Full Capacity Fail To Deliver.

South Bend, Ind., Mar. 28.—"We are unable to meet the demand made upon us for Studebaker cars by dealers from all sections of the United States and abroad," announced President A. R. Erskine of the Studebaker Corporation here today.

"After steady increases in production during the past six weeks, all plants are now operating at capacity. Our March production will be about 12,000 cars."

"Our schedule for the second quarter call for 40,000 cars. It is easy to exaggerate the volume of surplus orders, but I should say that business offered to us exceeds our production by 25 per cent."

The main demand is practically uniform for all of our nine different models of cars in three classes.

Supplementing Mr. Erskine's statement, it was learned that on the first business day of the month, March 2, sufficient orders already had been placed by dealers in America and abroad, to consume the entire production of the factories for the month.

Every week for a month and a half, the production schedule for the big box plants at South Bend has been increased. Last week, the volume of orders so exceeded the plant production that the schedule for production was advanced by 44 cars a day.

Pullman sales of passenger cars and motorcycles should increase steadily, with the former of Italian make and the latter British in large proportion. From the American exporters' standpoint, the growing number of Italian cars going to Australia, Spain and Switzerland is of great importance. Exports are running far ahead of the last two years, and the total number of automobiles exported for the year 1924 should be upwards of 200,000. Sales of all passenger vehicles are set.

BUICK SUCCESS IS RESULT OF FAIR DEALING

Organization Ambitious To Share in Making Car Desirable.

By T. E. STRONG (General Sales Manager Buick Motor Co.)

Being exceedingly difficult for any person not directly associated with the Buick organization to realize the extent of the favor with which Buick valve-in-head motor cars are received by the motoring public, it may be well to state that during the more than 20 years of Buick's history more than a million and a quarter Buick cars have been manufactured.

It is interesting, in this connection, to study and analyze the causes which contribute to this Buick popularity. We know, of course, that the Buick valve-in-head engine is the foundation upon which all Buick success rests; but the finished success must have a superstructure as well as a foundation, and since Buick popularity is, in all truth, a "finished house," it is interesting to trace the factors which have a contributory influence in the upbuilding and maintenance of Buick prestige and popularity.

Like individual organization is like an individual. The individual man wins respect and esteem among his associates just in proportion to his honesty and integrity; his reputation for fair dealing; his sincerity and unselfishness; and his apparent purpose to win and keep a permanent good name for himself. Same way with a manufacturing organization. Those of us who are associated with the Buick company have the same ambitions for the Buick as we have for ourselves. Just as we desire to win and hold high places among our fellowmen, so we are ambitious to do our full share toward making the word "Buick" a synonym for all that is desirable in the world of manufacturing.

And it is because we have kept this thought in mind that the Buick stands so well today in public estimation. We have in Buick the spirit, felt but unseen, is the very thing that has made Buick what it is.

Our engineers are always busy in the experimental field, and our dealers have their cars constantly to the ground to catch the first sign of any demand for additions to the Buick valve-in-head motor car family. And just as it was in response to indications of trends in public taste, as discovered by Buick dealers, that the present models were designed and built, so future requirements to meet developments in the motoring public's demands will decide when and how the Buick line is to be enlarged and extended. In the meantime Buick valve-in-head motor cars lead the field.

The demand for this car is greater today than ever before, and all signs point to an indefinite continuation of the extremely high favor in which this car is now held. From all parts of the world for it must be remembered that Buicks are welcomed just as much in foreign countries as they are at home—comes daily evidence that the Buick has won a popularity greater than it has ever won before. In short, it seems that the more Buicks are known the more eagerly they are desired.

As people learn about the engineering principles upon which Buicks are constructed, and about the manufacturing methods in vogue throughout the Buick factories, they want the Buick product more and more.

What To Do With Open Models New Sales Problem

Dealers who for the last year saw a satisfactory solution of the used car problem are now confronted with another knotty one. Now it's the open car. What are they to do with it?

The trend is now undeniably toward the closed models, at least two to one, and the greatly increased pressure on the dealer to accept open cars in trade for closed models means that the price of the latter is almost certain to be advanced.

The dealer who will profit most is the one who "knows the how" of buying and is able to develop a wide market for used cars at an attractive figure.

Here and there is a dealer who even now is declining to accept an open car in trade for a closed model. He is looking ahead and is satisfied in his own mind that the day of open type automobiles is passing. Manufacturers are watching their step more carefully than ever before in the matter of production of open cars.

NON-RUST METAL FOR RADIATOR SHELL ON "CHEV"

New Composition Of Airplane Type Is Being Used.

In the spring an automobile owner's fancy turns to cleaning up the old bus. During the remainder of the year the color of the car may be unrecognizable but somehow the bright sunshine and the clean breeze form a kind of tonic that gets into an automobile owner's blood and urges him to clean up the car, if for no other reason than to be in harmony with the spirit of the season.

The results of such manual labor are often real gratifying; in fact, inspire a kind of pride of ownership which may have palled during the year. But if the car chances to be a couple of years old, there are some tell-tale marks that reveal age.

It was because of the fact that rain and sunshine will form rust on most metals that the engineers of the Chevrolet Motor company set to work to find a type of metal that would not rust.

The results of their experiments along this line are embodied in the new Chevrolet—in an airplane metal radiator shell, which is non-rusting because of the composition of the metal used and has all the beauty of nickel. Like the Duceo finish on this car, this radiator shell actually improves in lustre with rubbing and age.

There is no possibility of rubbing through the coating because the whole shell is made of the same material.

PARKING FOR SHOPPERS.

Milwaukee department stores have combined to afford parking conveniences for their customers. Every motorist coming into a store to shop will get a slip entitling her to free parking for from 1 1/2 to 2 hours in any of the downtown storage places or garages.

USE NO MATCHES.

Now that alcohol is being used extensively as an anti-freeze mixture motorists are warned not to use a lighted match to inspect the level of the solution in the radiator. Every season this practice has caused explosions resulting in serious and sometimes fatal results.

NEW METHOD IS REAL ADVANCE IN TIRE MAKING

Kelly-Springfield Co. Eliminates Flipper Strip.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire company, after exhaustive experiments, has adopted a new and radically different process of building tires. This new process makes it possible to build the bead as an integral part of the tire, thus doing away with bead separation and permitting a far stronger and more flexible construction.

In the balloon and semi-balloon tires, with their large cross-section, their comparatively thin sidewalls and their low air pressure, a terrific strain is thrown on the tire just above the point where the bead is fastened in. Particularly is this true when the car is rounding corners or turning a curve, since at such times the weight of the car is not centered above the tread of the tire.

The new and great improved process of tire building adopted by the Kelly-Springfield Tire company makes it possible to build the bead as an integral part of the carcass, thus fortifying a heretofore vulnerable spot.

The wires which form the bead are absolutely anchored in place; they cannot separate or pull out. Aside from this great advantage, there is the added advantage that the cords are continuous from the beginning of the inner ply to the end of the outer.

This means that instead of some 6,000 or 7,000 short cords, each cut off at the bead, the new Kelly construction uses only four 460 long cords, making a far stronger yet more flexible construction. The process by which the new Kelly Cords are built makes buckling and wrinkling of the layers of cord impossible; the tension of the cords is absolutely uniform.

As the cords are not cut off at the beads, as in tires built in the ordinary way, but are continuous and are built in an absolutely uniform tension the tire naturally has more "give" and flexibility. The bead cannot break out or separate, and since there is no flipper strip to cause a stiffening of that part of the sidewall nearest the rim, a source of possible trouble is removed.

This new construction has been hailed by experienced tire men as a real advance in tire building that means a definite and tangible value to the tire user, said George D. MacKillican, local dealer.

FEW ESCAPE FINES.

Of 76,151 traffic violation cases in traffic court in New York City during 1924, only 337 persons escaped conviction. Fines for the year totalled $444,438 and 2,392 persons went to jail in default of fines, 1,396 received straight prison sentences, and 135 licenses were suspended or revoked. Of the 75,814 convicted, 12,993 were taxi drivers.

USE NO MATCHES.

Now that alcohol is being used extensively as an anti-freeze mixture motorists are warned not to use a lighted match to inspect the level of the solution in the radiator. Every season this practice has caused explosions resulting in serious and sometimes fatal results.

Hardly a Chance For Saturation

The annual bugaboo of saturation gets another knockout wallop, this time from George H. Townsend and F. A. Sieberling, both well known in accessory and tire industries.

Townsend gives three reasons why there will be no saturation of automobiles. They are: 1. Replacement of used cars requires 1,050,000 new cars annually. 2. There are always new customers. 3. The two-car man is coming into prominence.

Sieberling adds there will be no saturation as long as children are born. For every baby is a prospect.

15,000 MILES WITHOUT A LOOK AT THE ENGINE

Oakland Sealed Motor Sets Record Test of Endurance.

Just what it means to own and drive an Oakland has been proven in the test which Escanaba people were interested last fall when "Brownie" of The Milwaukee Sentinel drove a stock touring car into Escanaba, with the hood of the car sealed. Previous to taking the car out of the show rooms, the car had been jacked up and run three days without stopping, and then turned over to "Brownie" who toured the whole Upper Peninsula, making Escanaba one of his stopping points. After his extensive tour of Michigan and Wisconsin the car was put to several other extended and severe road tests, which covered over 15,000 miles, and the hood of the car has never been lifted, the official seal remaining intact. The above test was inaugurated by the Wisconsin Oakland Co., and commented on by auto writers as follows:

"Last August they had officials of the dealer's association seal up the hood of a stock Oakland touring car with appropriate ceremonies. The car was run continuously for seven days and nights, and then turned over to 'Brownie,' automotive editor of the Milwaukee Journal, who loaded it with five passengers and luggage, and drove it over a 1402-mile tour of the state in 44 hours of driving time."

"At the completion of the run, the car was used continuously to visit state dealers, and the Milwaukee Sentinel used it on several hard runs. 'Slim' MacCracken, of the Sentinel, recently drove it on a four-day test run over unbroken roads and through a heavy snow storm. He writes:

"During this entire time the motor has not been opened. The car still shows the same amount of 'pop' and power that it demonstrated last August. . . . I have driven this car over a good share of its 10,000-mile journey, and I am satisfied that Oakland endurance is a proved fact."

"Mr. Hokanson has used a number of such testimonials in his newspaper advertising, and also in extensive mail advertising. "Since last tested the speedometer has rolled around to 15,000, a distance equivalent to five times across the continent. And the motor is still sealed!"

200,000 CARS STOLEN.

During the last six years approximately 200,000 automobiles were stolen in twenty-five of the principal cities of the United States, of which only about 25 per cent were recovered. This means a money value of about $1,000,000 a year.

In an effort to fight this lawlessness a vigorous campaign against automobile thieves is one of the important features of the 1925 campaign schedule of the American Automobile association, the program being to establish in each state a law adopting universal certificates of title for automobiles.

AUTOMOBILES ARE LIKE STAR BALL PLAYERS

Constant Strain Soon Places Them in the Discard.

Motor cars are like the big league stars of baseball. So fierce is the competition—so severe the tests of daily excellence—that it is seldom indeed that we see a player who has stood the gaff for ten years in the major leagues.

The Ty Cobbs, the Walter Johnsons, the Grover Alexanders are outnumbered 100 to 1 by the more fleeting careers of the average performer. "And that," according to A. J. DeGrand, dealer for Hudson and Essex, "is just the way it is with automobiles. Nine tenths of the big league players you will see when the parks open will be men who play five, six or seven years 'under the big top.' Many of them will slow up even faster than that or be unfortunate enough to meet the competition of some new blazing star from the bushes.

"The men who win against odds, who battle down all competition both from others and from their own increasing age, are the super-men of baseball. "If we extend the comparison to that great other American pastime—motoring—we find there too a severity of competition which only a few of the 'immortals' can stand against. Think over the motor cars of today, and then check—on the fingers of one hand—the principles of competing points. After his extensive tour of Michigan and Wisconsin the car was put to several other extended and severe road tests, which covered over 15,000 miles, and the hood of the car has never been lifted, the official seal remaining intact. The above test was inaugurated by the Wisconsin Oakland Co., and commented on by auto writers as follows:

Mothers of U. S. Urged To Teach Traffic Safety

Woman not man, is now the chief defender of the home. This was the message brought to the New Jersey Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations at its convention in Atlantic City by George H. Pridmore, member of the traffic planning and safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"Throughout the course of history and today in times of war man has taken the role of the chief defender, the warrior, the protector of his family," he said. "But in our peace time perils the burden of protection, especially for the children, falls upon the woman."

"With the most diligent care the mother rears and trains her children. It is only natural that this interest should be carried still further and that women should take a leading part in the prevention of traffic accidents."

"The proportion varies in different communities, but from 30 per cent upwards of the motor vehicle fatalities occur to children. "If the mothers of America will train their children to stay on the sidewalk and cross at crossings; if they will see to it that their local schools provide safety education; if they will get behind the playground movement in their towns so that the children may have proper and adequate places to play, they will bring about a condition which will save thousands of lives every year."

MICROSCOPIC MEASUREMENTS IN STAR MOTOR

Fitted Twenty Times Finer Than a Human Hair.

Mechanically speaking, one-thousandth of an inch is exceedingly fine. Three one-thousandths of an inch is a comparatively universal tolerance in the making of many kinds of machines and mechanism. But minute as a single one-thousandth of an inch may be, Star engineers exceed it. In producing the new Star motor, they split the single thousand into fractions ten times as fine. In other words, the construction of this motor is based upon measurements that are reckoned in the ten-thousandth part of an inch.

A human hair measures in thickness approximately two one-thousandths of an inch. Can you imagine a measurement one-twentieth as fine?

It must be understood, of course, that all parts of the Star Motor cannot be assembled within the exacting limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. There are some working parts that must have more clearance to allow for expansion due to heat. Thus, in a number of places, this minute measurement, because of mechanical necessity, must be expanded to two or possibly three ten-thousandths of an inch. Even these measurements, however, are so fine that the mind can scarcely grasp their significance.

AVERAGE CAR TAX.

The average tax for each automobile is estimated at $32.65 annually. The average valuation for each car is $845.

Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, O., Mar. 27.—Iron Trade Review today says: Cross currents at play in the iron and steel situation are bringing out some contrasts more sharply. Specifications appear to be tapering off where they have been heaviest, notably in the Chicago district, while new buying generally is showing an inclination to expand.

Only slight changes in operations are exhibited. Actually, the Steel Corporation has increased its production this week to 95 per cent of ingot capacity although at Chicago, the first heat is shown by the taking off a small blast furnace. The Pittsburgh district is on a 90 per cent basis.

The work has been the largest in structural steel contracts of the year with awards totaling $3,425,000. A more or less demoralized sheet market has finally been responsible for breaking the reversal weeks' deadlock over sheet bars for second quarter and the market now has been defined at $37. Pittsburgh of Youngstown.

Lower pig iron prices is the general rule, apparently influenced by the further fall of coke. Informal appeals have been made by some domestic producers and sellers of steel for increased protection under the flexible tariff against foreign importation of cast iron pipe, pig iron and various steel products.

An association of women bank executives in the United States has been formed. Canadian government railways have placed 15,000 tons of rails in England though receiving a price over $8 per ton lower than German mills.

Does Manager Plan Bring Lower Taxes?

The following item on the efficiency of the city manager form of government should be of interest to Manistique voters, inasmuch as they will decide on April 6 whether or not the city of Manistique is to change its plan of city administration:

"Her Marriage Vow" Announced

Mother love has been called the most wonderful thing in the world. So fierce is the love for offspring that animals will attack intruders many times their size, with a savagery so intense as to be unaccountable.

"Her Marriage Vow," the screen version of the famous play by Clyde Fitch, revolves around this same mother love. It is coming to the Lyric today, and is being anticipated by all screen lovers.

When Carol, the mother, driven away from children and husband, finds the situation unportable, she braves a blinding storm of rain, thunder and lightning, first, with no other purpose than to see her loved ones, but on an impulse decides to kidnap them. It is one of the biggest dramatic situations ever filmed.

PUBLICITY FOR TAX PAYMENTS WILL CONTINUE

Advocates of Repeal Admit They Are Losing Fight.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
"Convicted" 1924, by the Escanaba Press.
Washington, Mar. 28.—Income tax returns for the year 1924 on which first payments have just been made will surely be published though the lists will not be available for a few months.

Despite all the furor which first publication made last autumn, the advocates of repeal are gradually losing their fire and energy and beginning to acknowledge that it's a losing fight—that publicity has come to stay.

The supreme court of the United States still has before it some cases which will settle whether newspaper publication or "private publication" if there is such a thing was intended by congress and the lower courts have already said that publication means by any method—newspaper or pamphlet or anything else that conveys the information to the public.

Could Be Broadcast.
For example, an enterprising individual might even go to the collector of internal revenue in a district and get all the data on dozens of individuals and step up to the microphone in the evening and read them off on the radio. The present law would not prevent that if the decisions of the lower courts are affirmed.

It is significant, however, that the administration after denouncing the publicity sections of the law as vicious did not attempt to get a resolution of appeal through congress. The reason was a fear of provoking a controversy in which the insurgent republicans, radicals and some of the democrats might join and the result would be a tie-up of appropriation bills and other urgent legislation.

Face Same Problem.
The administration faces the same thing next session. The new tax bill which will be drawn by the house ways and means committee in co-operation with the treasury department probably will mention the publicity sections as the new measure will in a sense repeal large portions of the existing law. But it is certain that the radical group will start a fight for the retention of the provision and then the administration will again have to decide whether it is more important to suppress facts about income tax returns and make a stand on that or use the provision as a trading point for lower surtax rates on which the minority and the radicals may again combine.

The trouble with the publicity provision is that while there has been denunciation of it as unfair to the income taxpayers, most of the members of congress are not yet convinced that any great damage has been proved. Most of the taxpayers, in fact, more than a million persons pay belatedly, small sums and their returns are of no special importance to any except a few of the cynics.

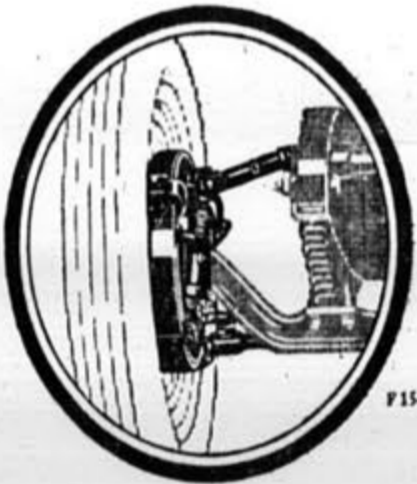

The returns of corporations and wealthy persons are more and more a subject of scrutiny. Some of this class are taking the position that publicity is going to be a good thing in the end for it will prove how unproductive are high rates of taxation and how much is going into tax exempt securities that might have come into taxable securities if the tax rates were not excessive.

Dozens of cases of injustice done through the publication of income tax returns have been brought to the attention of the treasury particularly in those instances in which companies report deficits and a damaging impression is created about their financial status. More sympathy with the repeal of the publicity section has been developed in congress on this account than any other but the prevailing idea is that this is offset by the advantage to the public in knowing more about the operations of large corporations and individuals from whom a large part of the entire annual revenue of the government is collected.

The administration will not recede from its position. Publicity of the income tax returns will be made in the autumn as provided by law and a denunciation of the practice will be made by the president and the treasury in due time but the feeling now is that the administration will wage a losing fight on this particular section of the existing law unless public opinion really does become aroused when the 1924 returns are made available.

A STORY WITHOUT WORDS

BABY HAS NOT TASTED FOOD FOR 3 YEARS

Will Soon Be Able to Eat Again, However.

By NEA Service

Memphis, Tenn. Gaston Rutledge, 5, "The Tube Baby," who has not tasted food in three years, will soon be able to eat like any normal child.

This little fellow, who has been kept alive by food administered through a tube leading into his stomach, is having a new throat made.

Success of the operation is forecast by the fact that already he has been able to swallow tiny bits of fluid food.

Three years ago Gaston, son of a Memphis auto mechanic, swallowed a piece of wire while playing in the yard of his home.

The powerful chemical seared his throat, and stricture developed that closed the throat completely.

He did not receive medical attention for some time and was slowly starving to death when the Kiwanis Club became interested in him and agreed to finance an operation.

Surgeons cut through his abdomen and inserted a rubber tube. When the child was hungry he was fed through this tubing.

But Gaston grew too rapidly to be kept alive by such a method and doctors decided to build a new esophagus—the passage from the throat to the stomach.

The new esophagus is being made from part of an intestine. It is brought up from the stomach over the breastbone and just under the skin to a point below Gaston's chin, where it joins the throat.

Twice each week Gaston goes on the operating table. More than 200 times the little tot has had the plastic tube fitted over his face and has woken up with a raw and bleeding throat.

He knows, however, that he is being benefited, and takes much interest in his frequent operations.

"Aw, they're fixing my throat up fine," he says in a typically boyish and slightly lanky voice.

Gaston prattles on, such as any other boy, about when he will start to school, and Evelyn, who lives next door, and how he is going to get in on the marble tournaments when he gets well.

And what he's going to be when he grows up—"Guess I'll be a doctor," he says. "I like doctors and nurses."

Contagious Disease Situation Here Is Good, Records Show

Escanaba has just passed through one of the healthiest winters in recent years, as far as contagious disease is concerned, according to the records of Dr. Harry J. Defnet, city health commissioner. At present there are two scarlet fever cases. The last diphtheria case was reported March 21. There have been a few cases of chicken pox during the winter, but the city has been free from many of the other diseases which have bothered other winter localities, including smallpox.

Baby Boy Given Away in Lottery

Probably the only baby boy was awarded in a lottery in a lot of cases in the history of this city. The child was found abandoned in the early part of the year and was taken care of by the city. Within an hour of the child's appearance had sought adoption through the foundation.

The mayor had difficulty in choosing among the would-be fathers. So he arranged to raffie the baby and sold off tickets to be taken by persons who would make desirable parents. The tickets brought a good price and all the proceeds of the lottery were turned over to the winners of the child to purchase a baby.

LUMBER TRADE AWAITS SPRING

Building Activities Picking Up Slightly; Soon To Be Active.

The mild weather which has prevailed during the last few weeks practically throughout the North and East has enabled contractors to start much new building, and increased deliveries from retail yards have stimulated wholesale trade. The season, however, has not yet gathered full momentum, and the season can by no means be called active. Another couple of weeks of favorable weather will be required before the long-expected improvement will set in, says the American Lumberman, Chicago.

The southern pine market has firmed up somewhat with the increase in business, but there is still considerable competition for smaller orders, especially among the smaller operators, so that prices are spotty. The large mills are counting confidently on a greatly expanded business in April, and are holding firms to their gross price lists. Transit car stockpiles are less plentiful, and there is less pressure from this source. The tone of the market, taken as a whole, is stronger, and distributors expect some price advances, especially on inch No. 2 common and long joists.

No Change in Hardwood.
The Douglas fir mills recently reported an encouraging increase in demand from rail territory, due to the better weather. California also appears to be slightly more active, but the Atlantic coast market is slow. Exports are about normal volume, and the outlook is for a steady firming during the next few months. There is not much Douglas fir available, as the mills are operating on a four to five day basis and are accumulating little or no stock. Prices are being firmly held, and the manufacturers regard the outlook as entirely satisfactory, counting especially on building construction for their firming business.

The hardwood market has shown no change, but remains dull and exceedingly spotty as prices.

Radio Craze Hits Argentina Hard

Buenos Aires, Feb. 5.—The radio craze has grown to such proportions in Argentina that one can hardly find a house without a radio antenna on its roof. It is estimated that the country's population of only 9,000,000 is now buying radio outfits at the rate of nearly $2,000,000 annually. American manufacturers probably sell the majority, but there are also in the market German, English, French, Italian, Belgian and Argentine radio sets.

The Radio Club Argentino, organized about a year ago, by amateurs and experimenters, now has a membership of 500. In Buenos Aires there are four radio-casting stations, one of which is continually maintained by a group of importers, dealers and local manufacturers of radio material, who organized for the purpose the Association Argentina de Radio-casting.

A radio exhibition to be held in Buenos Aires in May of June has been projected by the Radio Club Argentino in order to give "fun" or a club house and experiment work. They are inviting exhibitors from all countries.

ETHEL: FAMOUS RUSTLES OF HISTORY

INTELLIGENT BUYING IS BUSINESS STABILIZER

BY ROGER BADSON

Babson Park, Fla., Mar. 25.—Prices have again turned upward. Various commodity indices and the cost of living figures show that the average is rising. The question is to the effect of this tendency on general business was put today to Roger W. Babson, the statistician and economist.

The best effect of rising prices is a stimulant to business, says the statistician. "When things start to go up the people who have been waiting buy. Manufacturers also stock up with raw materials. As this movement continues, however, the same tendency becomes a brake on business. When prices get above the level that most people consider fair value they stop buying altogether. As a matter of fact the average buyer goes at the thing in haphazard fashion.

Statistics have their uses, but also their abuses. The cost of living indices are useful to the statistician, but are of little help in the hands of the layman. Fisher's index is probably the best one, being index in existence today, being weighted scientifically. Even this, however, must be used with discretion. When the Fisher, the Bradstreet, or any other price index shows an increase it should be remembered that this applies only to the average of all commodities. When we put in a commodity as do not buy the average list but we buy people's goods. The statistician's job is to watch Fisher's index, get the important things when it is used to study the position of the price of commodity, or article of interest, put in his own.

Statistics, however, are given showing that although the general price index has risen, all prices have not risen. In this status, one can obtain more correct value for a dollar than when prices are going down.

going down. In this respect, the electric power business is just the opposite of the telephone business. The cost of the latter increases per unit as the telephone sales there increase in number, but the cost of electric power decreases per unit as the amount used increases. Electricity for light and power is being bought for less today than in any time in its history, and even lower prices will be introduced in many communities during 1925. Among the household commodities there is sugar which has gone down, and which is selling for less today, with the exception of late 1924 and early 1925, than it has for nine years. Other illustrations might be given such as these to show the point in mind.

The above products are cheaper owing to definite fundamental tendencies, but in addition there are many commodities that are lower today because of seasonable and other temporary reasons. When taking a list of 100 commodities which are the basis of one of the price indices, we find 11 commodities selling for less than they did a year ago. Among these may be mentioned:

Fats, chemicals and drugs, textiles, cotton and silk, coke and coal, naval stores, turpentine, building materials.

Without doubt the American people need to be educated in connection with buying. The advertisement which attracts them into the store has been developed until it can be depended upon for almost certain results. The sales person is carefully and thoroughly trained. The selling of goods has become a fine science, but very little has been done to help the public to buy intelligently. As a result of this people buy everything when they are flush, and then stop almost entirely and buy as little as possible. This is one cause of our successive periods of prosperity and depression. The average buyer, whether a man or a woman, is a good deal like the brakeman on a railroad train. If some lone passenger suggests that the car is too cool the brakeman turns on all the heat and shuts the ventilators. The car stays that way until someone suggests that the car is getting too warm; then the brakeman turns off all the heat and opens wide the ventilators.

There is always some commodity or article that is too high and careful buyers restrict their purchases of such a product until it comes down in price. On the other hand, there is always some article that is selling around normal or even below the cost of production. Certain lines of shoes are an illustration of such an article today. When such a condition exists, even though the price index, which is the average for all articles, is high or then over. Such a sensible policy on the part of the buyers would do much to put down the dangerous peaks of over expansion and fill in the valleys of depression. Moreover, these erratic conditions are stimulated if we are to have business really healthy, happy and prosperous.

Nearly every week I have referred to the Babsonchart as the best index of business conditions when considering all sections of the country and all lines of business. We, as readers, will remember that the Babsonchart was six per cent above normal in the spring of 1923, and was five per cent below normal in the fall of that year. During 1924 it has varied from nine per cent below normal to 8 per cent above normal, and today stands at nine per cent above normal. Letters are continually coming to me asking if it is not possible to eliminate these erratic changes. Some of these letters blame the changes on the bankers and others on the manufacturers. It is wrong, however, to blame either of these groups. No banker enjoys turning down a borrower, and no manufacturer purposely closes down his mill, thus throwing people out of employment. This is done because we and our families quit buying. The peaks and valleys of the Babsonchart are due to the erratic buying habits of the American people. Hence, I appeal to buyers to change their present policy of buying everything in sight one year and then instituting great economy the next. Try to both spend and save a reasonable amount of money every year, seeking out those things which are the best purchases for the time being. This would lay the foundation for a real period of prosperity from which everyone would ultimately benefit.

Vienna, It has been estimated that of the marriages hastily contracted during the war, 80 per cent have resulted in divorce. Many of these unions began and culminated, when officers and sailors came home from the front on leaves of absence.

Artists Employed Painting Slippers

London—Hand painted slippers for evening wear, which are the vogue just now, have created work for numerous artists who had never thought of doing anything of the kind before but who have found that this kind of painting pays them better than turning out pictures.

The novelty was introduced in London by the popular Duchess of York who is one of the smartest of the smartly attired young women. The idea spread like wild fire, and was quickly taken up by other society women.

The foundation of these shoes is satin, mostly in delicate shades, although there have been some exquisite models in old gold, bronze and black. On the toe cap, and tapering off along each side, neat designs are painted in delicate shades to match the color of the satin.
