BRAZIL POLICY REACHES DEEP IN DIPLOMACY

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY MAY BE AFFECTED BY REFUSAL.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—The diplomatic corps has been talking of little else but the action taken by Brazil in blocking the entry of Germany into the council of the League of Nations.

And the consensus of opinion seemed to be that there was less ground for pessimism over the postponement than optimism. For it was reasoned here that it is far better to have Brazil's viewpoint satisfied in the long run than to leave the nations of this hemisphere without a seat in the council.

Whether the United States by such act as the assistance given the partition of Colombia when Panama was set up or in the handling of Mexican troubles does or does not merit the term "imperialism" from the viewpoint of Washington the important fact is that the nations south of the Rio Grande have never disabused themselves of that notion altogether.

It is regarded as unfortunate that Brazil's desire should in any way affect Germany's admission for Washington would like to see Germany admitted for the sake of European stability and peace.

Both to Get In? It is predicted here that when the whole controversy is ended the solution will be found in the enlargement of the council to include both Germany and Brazil as permanent members.

Monroe Doctrine Safe. The reservation in the covenant of the league inserted by President Wilson to the effect that the covenant does not impair the Monroe doctrine has always been counted as one bulwark for the United States whether inside or outside the league in the event that a dispute arose which might be brought before the league against the desire of the Washington government.

Officials at Capital Pay High Tribute to Father of President

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Expressions of sympathy for President Coolidge because of the death of his father were mingled in Washington today, in and out of congress and official life, with high tribute to the character of Col. John C. Coolidge.

The senate adjourned out of respect to Colonel Coolidge, an action which is rarely taken except as a mark of respect for someone who had been high in official life. The house, on motion of the Democratic leader, Representative Garrett of Tennessee, expressed profound sorrow over the passing of one whose "character, gentleness and simplicity of life furnished to all mankind an example worthy of emulation."

Vice President Dawes in a tribute to Colonel Coolidge, whom he styled a "personality in himself," said he imagined the people at Plymouth more often thought of the president as the son of Colonel Coolidge than they did of Colonel Coolidge as the father of the president.

Secretary Kellogg issued a statement saying that "in common with the other members of the cabinet, the news of the death of the president's father, although not unexpected, came to me as a shock."

Gibson Eulogizes Colonel. Senator Dale of Vermont reported the death of Colonel Coolidge to the senate and offered the resolution for adjournment which was carried without a record vote.

Both to Get In? It is predicted here that when the whole controversy is ended the solution will be found in the enlargement of the council to include both Germany and Brazil as permanent members.

Monroe Doctrine Safe. The reservation in the covenant of the league inserted by President Wilson to the effect that the covenant does not impair the Monroe doctrine has always been counted as one bulwark for the United States whether inside or outside the league in the event that a dispute arose which might be brought before the league against the desire of the Washington government.

LETTER HEIRS ON TWO SIDES OVER ESTATE

DIVISION OF FAMILY EXPLAINED BY COUNTESS.

Chicago, Mar. 19.—(AP)—The Countess of Suffolk and Berks testified today that heirs of Levi Z. Leiter, Chicago merchant prince, divided into two hostile camps as a result of efforts of British heirs to oust American beneficiaries from direct control of the great estate.

The countess, daughter of Mr. Leiter and formerly Marguerite Hyde (Daisy) Leiter, occupied the stand all day in the suit brought by herself and other English beneficiaries to oust her brother, Joseph Leiter, as trustee of the estate and compel him to render an accounting.

Tells of Family Split. She told of the family division when she identified a letter sent to her by her sister, Mrs. Colin Campbell, widow of a British army officer.

Mrs. Campbell, repatriated and now a resident of California, waned in November, 1921, that if Lady Suffolk persisted in her efforts to oust Joseph Leiter, their brother, from a co-trusteeship of the estate, that the paths of the two women "henceforth divide."

Mrs. Campbell's husband had just died unexpectedly while enroute from a trustee's meeting in Chicago. A few minutes after that evidence was entered, Leland K. Nevees, associate counsel for Lady Suffolk, sought to have the countess explain the exact nature of her relations with her brother and sister.

Kin Shun Each Other. "Has there been any recognition of you by your brother and sister during this trial?" asked Nevees. Leiter's counsel quickly objected and the matter finally was dropped without Lady Suffolk's response.

Upon each of the four days of the trials, Leiter and his sister and wife and Lady Suffolk and her court-room guests have formed two distinct groups, neither planning at the other.

Judge Dennis E. Sullivan ruled that Lady Suffolk might tell how she left and might say what had been the actions of her brother and sister but could not testify as to the states of their minds.

Upon direct testimony, Lady Suffolk reiterated her written charges of gross mismanagement and neglect of duty by Leiter, who supported by Mrs. Campbell and William Warr, named to succeed one of the original trustees who died, had directed the management of the estate.

Criticizes Brother's Actions. In a throny contralto, the stately, fashionable countess voiced her dissatisfaction with her brother's management. Leiter failed to inform her of leases of buildings, of constructing an irrigation reservoir in Wyoming, of the sale of Wyoming ranch lands, of the handling of Zeigler, Ill., bituminous mining properties.

Five times since her marriage in 1904 to the Earl of Suffolk and Berks, who was killed in action in the World War, Lady Suffolk said she had visited America and upon each trip familiarized herself with the handling of the estate.

Garbed entirely in black, excepting grey stockings, she sat upon the very edge of the witness chair as she followed the phrasing of the long question. Frequently she refused a no or yes answer and insisted that Mr. Platt "be a little more short."

Colonel Deeded Farm to Calvin Three Weeks Ago

Plymouth, Vt., Mar. 19.—(AP)—Three weeks before his death, Plymouth learned today, Col. John C. Coolidge transferred to his son, Calvin, the farm on which members of the Coolidge family have lived for generations. The farm consists of 225 acres with the white farmhouse which was the president's boyhood home.

Throughout the colonel's lifetime, the family property stood in the name of his father, Calvin G. Coolidge. The town records show that the transfer was made from the estate of C. G. Coolidge to the president.

The colonel died ostensibly penniless, although a man of substance. Neighbors say that all property other than the land was made over to the president during his lifetime.

KILLER FAILED TO FINISH LIST

Stockton Man Had Others Marked for Death in Notebook.

Stockton, Cal., Mar. 19.—(AP)—Not all the persons listed for death by John M. Goins of Stockton were slain by him yesterday in the series of six murders which terminated with his suicide as he was being pursued by officers last night.

This was indicated today when Alvin Mathews, former Stockton newspaper reporter, said that he saw a small book in which Goins had written a number of names, including that of Mathews, and that Goins had stated "these are to be settled with."

Scratched reporter's Name. Mathews said he was told his name was on the list because he had written a story about a court case that went against Goins. "But I only did my duty as a reporter," Mathews said.

The names of Captain Smith and Officer McHugh of the Stockton police force also were in the book, Mathews said.

Funeral on Monday. The funerals of Mrs. Florence Podesta Goins, wife of Goins, and her sister, Mrs. Minnie Podesta Clark of Stockton, the first one to fall before the madman's gun, are to be held on Monday, as are the funerals of Alexander Marzotto, 60, vineyardist of Galt, his wife, Mrs. Matilda Marzotto, their daughter, Mrs. Mary Datta and Mrs. George Mc-Noble, wife of the former district attorney of San Joaquin county.

TO RECOMMEND OPEN HEARINGS ON PROHIBITION

SUB-COMMITTEE IN SENATE FAVORS PLAN.

Washington, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Open congressional hearings on the prohibition question moved a step nearer today with a decision by a senate judiciary sub-committee to recommend to the entire committee next Monday that such proceedings be ordered.

Under the program agreed upon over the protest of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the wets and drys would be given six days each to which to present evidence and argument. Senator Walsh plans to carry his fight against public hearings to the entire committee.

Wets Are Satisfied. Senators Edge, Republican, New Jersey, and Bruce, Maryland, Democrat, leaders of the wets, are satisfied with the program proposed, while Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, said the league was not opposed to a hearing, but would oppose at every step of the legislative procedure any measure that would weaken or repeal the national prohibition act.

The sub-committee decided to postpone indefinitely consideration of the bill by Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, for repeal of the Volstead act. This will leave five measures on which the hearings would be held with attention given first to the constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Bruce to change the eighteenth amendment so that the government would control the manufacture and distribution of intoxicants, with the status quo of local option restored as it existed when the eighteenth amendment was ratified.

Several Beer Measures. Hearings then would follow on the four bills for modification of the Volstead act. One of these, by Senator Edwards, proposes to legalize four per cent beer; another by Senator Edge would legalize 2.75 per cent beer, and still another by the same senator would legalize beer "not intoxicating in fact." The fourth would remove the present restriction of prescription whisky.

The sub-committee decided that the hearings should be confined to the bills themselves without going into the general proposition of whether prohibition has been a success or a failure.

Senator Bruce expects to have one of two Canadian government officials come here to explain the operations of the Canadian law under which the government itself controls liquor distribution.

SEVEN NABBED AFTER CHASE

3 Accused of $100,000 Diamond Robbery in New York.

New York, Mar. 19.—(AP)—An automobile chase and flight along Broadway late today resulted in the arrest of six men and a woman, one identified as an escaped murderer and convict from Baltimore, and three of the others accused with him of a $100,000 diamond robbery.

The six men were charged with being fugitives from justice, and the alleged murderer, Richard Rosa Whittemore, wanted in Baltimore, was charged in addition with homicide and robbery. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, 22, was arrested, charged with illegally possessing firearms as she was about to leave the city.

Whittemore gave his first name as Robert and his address as 1132 Thorndyke avenue, Cleveland. Three other prisoners, who said they were Leon Kraemer, Jacob Kraemer and Joseph H. Langdon, gave the same address. The other two men gave their names as Bernard Mortillaro and Paquale Chiarilli of New York City.

Mrs. Whittemore was registered at a hotel as Mrs. Margaret Collins, according to the police. In a trunk were three loaded revolvers, a quantity of cartridges and three black silk masks, the police said. She had the trunk check in her possession, they said, but denied ownership of the trunk or its contents.

The police announced that Whittemore confessed he had robbed a bank messenger in Baltimore of $7,000 on March 11. Leon Kraemer, arrested under the name of L. I. Lewis, was identified, according to the police, by Folmer Pripp, a jeweler, and a girl clerk, as the man who last December 23 robbed the jeweler's office of $11,000 in jewels. The police said that records revealed that "Lewis" served 18 months in a Belgian prison for larceny, 14 years ago.

When Edna Bruce, 16, of Des Moines, Ia., was betrayed by a young man, her father shot the young man and then killed himself. And then 14-year-old Robert Charboneau, above, stepped forward and asked to be allowed to marry the girl. Her guardians refused because he is so young, but he says he will work and save money until he can marry her.

ARCTIC FLIGHT PLANE WRECKED

Last of 3 Machines of Wilkins Party Is Damaged.

Fairbanks, Alaska, Mar. 19.—(AP)—The last of three airplanes of Capt. George H. Wilkins, explorer, was wrecked here today when the landing gear of the Detroit, a three-engine machine, buckled, throwing the plane on its nose. An engine was thrown out of position and propellers bent.

The big ship, which was being started on its first test flight, had shot along the ground only about forty feet when the accident occurred.

One Burned at Detroit. Captain Wilkins, who planned an air expedition to hunt for land in the Arctic region, and a trans-polar flight over the Arctic wastes from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen, originally started with two three-engine airplanes and one single-engine machine.

One of the big planes was destroyed January 17 when fire wrecked an experimental laboratory at the Ford airport at Dearborn, a suburb of Detroit. The machine had just been completed. The parts of the other two were transported to Fairbanks via Seattle and assembled here.

Alaskan Damaged Thursday. Yesterday the single-engine ship, named the Alaskan, was smashed in landing after a test trial. The propeller, landing gear and fuselage were damaged. The plane hit a wire fence at the end of the landing field. Carl R. Eilson and Capt. Wilkins, who were in the machine, escaped injuries.

Today's smash-up temporarily delayed the Wilkins party from proceeding on the expedition. The Detroit had been scheduled to leave here a day or two for Point Barrow on the Arctic coast, the supply base of the enterprise. It was to have flown to and from until all needed equipment and food had been transported.

Snow and soggy ground had delayed trial flights of the Alaskan and Detroit the last few days. Yesterday the ground was too soft for the big three-engine plane but the attempt was made with the Alaskan.

SOCIETY TO MEET. Detroit, Mar. 19.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Detroit Aviation society will meet tomorrow at noon to consider plans for continuing the Detroit Arctic expedition. Carl B. Fritsche, secretary of the society, said tonight. The announcement was made after Fritsche had read Associated Press dispatches from Fairbanks, Alaska, announcing the wrecking of the second of the two airplanes of the party.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

Washington mourned the death of Col. John C. Coolidge. The house held a memorial session for William Jennings Bryan. Public hearings on prohibition modification was decided upon by a senate sub-committee. Secretary Mellon outlined his views on the financing arrangements for the Boulder Canyon development project. The Des Moines farm relief bill was attacked in the house by Representative Tincher, Republican, Kansas. New York bankers were asked by the senate interstate commerce committee to explain Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul reorganization plans.

SIMPLE RITES AT HOMESTEAD AT 2 O'CLOCK

PRESIDENT TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON AFTER BURIAL.

Plymouth, Vt., Mar. 19.—(AP)—Col. John C. Coolidge, father of the president, will be buried tomorrow in the little cemetery near this hamlet with simplicity in keeping with his 80 years of life.

Arrangements for the funerals were made today after the arrival here of the president, who learned of his father's death while hastening to his bedside from Washington.

Services, brief and extremely simple, will be at 2 p. m. in the Coolidge homestead. They will be conducted by Rev. John Whitburn, who will use the latest revision of the Episcopal burial office. There will be neither hymn singing nor eulogy.

Spend Night at Woodstock. After the burial, President and Mrs. Coolidge expect to return to Washington, arriving there Sunday. The special train which brought them to Woodstock, 16 miles from here, is being held for the return trip.

The president and his wife are spending tonight in Woodstock. On their arrival there shortly after sunrise this morning, they went to the inn for breakfast, then set out for Plymouth, traveling for 10 miles to Bridgewater Corners in a closed automobile, and the remaining six miles in an open horsedrawn sleigh.

After spending an hour at the family farm house, where Colonel Coolidge lay in death, they returned to Woodstock for the remainder of the day and the night. They are making their headquarters at the inn. John, their son, a student at Amherst college is with them.

Much snow on ground. The presidential party detained at Woodstock to find the temperature about 10 degrees above zero and three feet of snow on the ground, drifted at places as high as a man's head. The sun shone brightly throughout the day and the temperature rose until mid-afternoon it was just above the freezing point. Tonight it became colder again.

Snow plows and gangs of workmen had worked far into the night to clear the road from Woodstock to Plymouth, and although it might have been traversed by automobile, it was decided to use sleighs and bobsleds for the last six miles. Stepping out of a limousine at Bridgewater Corners, President and Mrs. Coolidge climbed into a three-seated sleigh, their son, John, and Attorney General Sargent, who came with them from Washington, riding with them.

Sargent Arranges Funeral. Behind trailed other members of the party, including secret service men, newspaper reporters and photographers. At 10:10 o'clock, nearly 12 hours after his father had passed away, the president arrived at Plymouth. A detachment of Vermont national guardsmen were on duty there, as at Woodstock and Bridgewater Corners.

President and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, on entering the farm house went into the room in which rested the colonel's casket. They remained there several minutes, then called for the attorney general to join them.

While they were in the house, Rev. White called and the president discussed funeral arrangements with him. When the presidential party returned to Woodstock, Mr. Sargent remained behind to see that everything would be in readiness for the funeral services and burial tomorrow.

Old Friends Keep Vigil. A rotary snow plow and a score of men with shovels were pressed into service to clear for the funeral party to the cemetery which is a quarter of a mile from the family homestead. In the cemetery, another group was at work digging the grave, already marked by a headstone, which in a plot adjoining that in which the president's mother, sister and son, Calvin, who died in the summer of 1924, were buried.

Keeping vigil tonight over Colonel Coolidge's body were three friends who cared for him during the closing days of his life. They are Mrs. May Johnson, nurse, Miss Aurora Pierce and Deputy Sheriff Angus McAlay.

It had been expected that funeral services would be held in the little church across the road from the Coolidge home, where the colonel worshipped for years, but in accord with the wishes of the president, it was decided to hold the final rites in the house parlor. Folding doors, separating the parlor from the sitting room where by lamp light the colonel administered the oath as president to his son in August, 1923, have been opened for tomorrow's services.

Funeral at 2 P. M. From the Woodstock Inn, where the president is staying, it was announced tonight that Mr. Coolidge probably would leave for Plymouth at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, arriving about noon at the farmhouse here, where he would remain until the funeral services at 2 o'clock.

After the interment, it was said, the president would leave immediately for Woodstock where he would go at once on board his special train for the return trip to Washington. The party expected to arrive at the capital early Sunday.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, take their meals in the public dining room at the Woodstock Inn. Mr. Coolidge this afternoon followed his daily custom of taking a walk, trudging several miles through snow and slush. Governor and Mrs. Billings of Vermont paid a call of courtesy at the hotel.

No Palbearers. One telegraph wire at the hotel was kept busy today with messages of condolence addressed to the president. They came from members of the cabinet and congress, diplomats, close personal friends and organizations throughout the country.

There will be no palbearers at the funeral of Colonel Coolidge, it was decided tonight. Instead there will be six body bearers, national guardsmen designated by their officers to carry the casket to its final resting place.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 19.—Perhaps it is because I stopped to watch workmen building a "suicide fence" in Central Park...

You see, New York is rimming a lovely lake with ugly wire to prevent the despairing from ending their lives. Or such is the theory...

Anyway, the case of Peggy Clark keeps coming to mind. It's so typical of willful youth and impetuous New York.

Peggy came from Tennessee... Nashville, I believe... At 15, she was quite competent to decide life's problems for herself. So she married, though her parents thought her too young.

Not long after there was a separation. Yes, her parents had been right. And that made it all the harder. Well, she could face the world. She was pretty. She could dance.

Peggy came to New York. Most of them do, it seems. A baby came to Peggy. She went on the stage to support the baby. She got into the chorus of a musical comedy stock outfit. The show went into Connecticut. The baby took sick. That made no difference to the show. Peggy had to go on and dance and sing. Then the baby died. Peggy broke down. She missed several performances. Perhaps she might have pulled herself together to go back to work, but the show manager skipped out. The company was left stranded. All life seemed to go crashing about Peggy's ears. She was then 18.

Somehow she got together $3 and returned to New York. She was taken to a public hospital. There she took poison on New Year's eve. Two months passed before her identity was learned. Meanwhile she had been buried in Potter's field.

Now if Peggy had been just a little wiser, just a little more prepared for life...

If one could only warn all the Peggys to build themselves a strong, life-proof armor before they set out to conquer New York.

Which brings me back again to the grim "suicide fence" in Central Park.

Soon the ice will be melted upon the lake. Soon the buds will burst in the trees that hem its edge. Soon warm spring nights will call out the little army of moonlight paraders. Sweethearts will stroll up and down shadowed paths; up and down gold-dipped highways.

And the beauty will call out the despairing as well. It only to mock them. Their lots will seem all the more bitter because all about them is a beauty in which they feel, they have no share.

In former springs they have watched jonesingly the shadowy paraders. They have wandered to the lake-side and watched their reflections shivering in a moonlit circle.

The sense of being "out of it" overwhelms them. Suddenly comes the decision to be entirely "out of it." And the morgue book enters another suicide. It took many such to bring about the ugly wire fence.

But soon the sweethearts will stroll about the reservoir path. "What's that fence for?" the girl will ask. "It spoils everything."

"Aw they put it up to keep boobies from bumping themselves off," the man may answer.

And, at that moment, both may wonder how anyone can see life in anything but a golden halo.

Unable to convince the judge that their case was sufficient proof that the proposed child labor amendment should not be adopted by the United States, the Escanaba negative debating team was forced to lose to the Menominee affirmative team last night at the high school auditorium. The Escanaba team at Iron Mountain upheld the honors of the school by defeating the Iron Mountain negative team.

The judge for the affair was Dr. James Clowd Bowman, head of the English department of the Northern State Normal.

Atty. Charles E. Lewis, president of the Delta County Bar association, was the presiding officer for the evening.

The Escanaba teams are under the direction of Merrill Heaphy and the Menominee teams are under the direction of Mr. Eldt. The Escanaba team at Iron Mountain was composed of Janet Owen, Harry Erickson and Edward Curran.

The question for debate was, Resolved, that the proposed child labor amendment to the national constitution should be adopted by the United States.

Boston, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Discovery of "new and highly important evidence" has brought Dist. Atty. Asa W. Keyes of Los Angeles to Boston and Brookline, in a new probe of the killing of William Desmond Taylor, noted motion picture director, in Los Angeles three years ago.

The district attorney left here tonight with the admission that new witnesses have been examined in Philadelphia and New York and that investigation will be continued in Detroit and Chicago.

"But until we have located and questioned Edward Sand, Taylor's missing butler, I can make no further revelations," he told Boston newspapermen. "We came here from New York as a result of what was told us by Mary Miles Minter who was at Taylor's home a few hours before the murder."

"We are anxious to see Mabel Normand, who was with Taylor just before he died, but she left New York before we arrived."

He added that the success of the investigation and the apprehension of Taylor's slayer depends on absolute secrecy on the question of the new evidence.

NATIONS SHUN RESPONSIBILITY

Not Inclined to Answer U. S. Letter on World Court.

Geneva, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Disinclination by certain countries to take responsibility for answering the communication of the United States concerning American membership in the world court with reservations is believed in some league circles to have inspired the initiative of the league council in convening a conference of the members of the world court to discuss the American reservations, and the council's decision to request the United States to participate in the conference.

There was an informal exchange of views by the jurists of various governments present at the recent league assembly and the idea of making common reply to Washington seems to have come as a sequence to these discussions. It is learned that the jurists pointed out to their ministers the possibility that a government might unqualifiedly accept some of the American conditions, but hesitate as to others, thus delaying, if not rendering totally impossible, American membership in the court.

All the governments are described as desiring American adhesion and no one government, it is declared, wished to take the onus of refusing the American conditions.

The jurists apparently believe that if the American representatives come to Geneva and interpret the American conditions to the agents of the other signatories, a new protocol to the court's statutes could be drawn up and signed by all.

One suggestion is that Washington could send an ambassador, several senators and legal experts to the September conference for a general exchange of views and the drawing of an agreement.

Kresge Settles With Wife for Million, Claim

New York, Mar. 19.—(AP)—S. S. Kresge, proprietor of a chain of five and ten cent stores, and his young wife, Mrs. Mercer Kresge, have come to a financial agreement, which is understood to have resulted in Mrs. Kresge receiving a settlement of $1,000,000. Her suit for a like amount on the grounds of breach of promise in a pre-nuptial agreement was ordered withdrawn today from supreme court.

Trial of the suit was begun March 8, but was halted as Mrs. Kresge was about to take the witness stand. Resulting rumors of a reconciliation was said to be "premature."

At about the time Mr. Kresge's first wife divorced him in Detroit, he met Miss Doris Mercer, a vocal student. He agreed to finance her musical education. Four months later, they were married.

The late Mr. LaLonde had been a resident here for about 32 years, having been employed by the White Sewing Machine company for the greater part of his residence here. His wife passed away about four years ago. He has no known relatives in this city.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral Home to be prepared for burial. No funeral arrangements have as yet been completed.

CORN SURPLUS DISREGARDED

Washington, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Despite the corn surplus produced last year, the farmers of the country apparently are preparing to plant almost as large an acreage to corn in 1926 as they harvested in 1925.

Department of agriculture figures announced today, based on a census conducted March 1, disclosed a decrease of only one-tenth of one per cent in the intended planting this spring as compared to the harvested acreage of last fall.

Spring wheat acreage showed a decline of 1.8 per cent and oats and barley increases of 4.6 per cent and 5.7 per cent, respectively.

A jump of 19.6 per cent in intended plantings of sweet potatoes led the department to warn against a crop of that commodity too large to market at satisfactory prices.

The intended acreage of white potatoes showed an increase of 4.3 per cent over the acreage harvested in 1925; and tame hay an increase of seven-tenths of one per cent.

"The slight increase in potato acreage for the country as a whole seems reasonably safe, but there are marked differences in plans in different sections and over-production should be guarded against in some localities, particularly in the west," the statement said.

PRODUCTION OF STEEL SPEEDS UP IN MILLS

Cleveland, Ohio, Mar. 18.—Iron Trade Review today says: Further speeding up of steel production already on an unusually high plane points to the presence of another cycle of expansion of consumption. This increase is peculiarly gaged under the prevailing conditions where buyers are drawing upon producers only as they actually need material and are not discounting future probabilities. From the way new capacity is being called into service, there is every indication that March will set a new high mark for monthly steel output for all time.

The first two weeks of March find the Gary works well on the way toward the breaking of a world's record. To date output is ahead of March 1925, when the previous record was established. Leading companies in the Chicago district have their mills scheduled on the heaviest scale of any March in history.

The Steel corporation this week is running around the highest point in its history with operations of 97 per cent. One year ago, it was approximately 95 per cent active. The Bethlehem Steel Co. is blowing in three more blast furnaces this week. More furnaces have gone in this week in Pittsburgh and Youngstown area with others in line to resume soon.

The automobile industry is making good progress with some of the larger builders scheduled at the greatest March rate they have ever known. For this season, the farming implement manufacturers are at the highest point in five years.

The volume of prospective structural steel work makes a very impressive showing since it embraces a number of large projects. Probably 200,000 tons are in some definite stage of planning. New York reports a total of 65,000 tons in sight. In addition preliminary plans are being prepared for two bridges over Kill Van Kull, Greater New York, which will involve 35,000 tons.

Miscellaneous car orders footing up about 2000 are reported this week.

The cast iron pipe market shows a wide spread of buying among municipalities for spring use. Lettings of the week total 16,000 tons with over 50,000 tons pending. Pittsburgh mills will furnish the 45,000 to 50,000 tons of 22 inch line pipe recently placed by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Pig iron buyers are making more persistent efforts to get lower prices for second quarter and are feeling their way.

FARM RELIEF BILL DEBATED

Attack of Tincher Upon Iowa Delegation Causes Storm.

Washington, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Farm relief legislation, which has agitated the house committee for weeks, again became the subject of debate today in the house when Representative Tincher, a member of the committee arose to defend his fellow committeemen against charges of apathy.

His speech, in which he assailed the Des Moines farm delegation which has presented a relief bill, brought about a general exchange on both sides of the chamber and finally Mr. Tincher was called upon by several Democrats to say whether he was a "spokesman for the White House, named to prevent farm legislation from being enacted." This he denied.

The house debate followed another appearance before the committee by F. W. Murphy, of the American Council of Agriculture, who went again into details of the bill before the committee.

This measure would levy an equalization fee against agricultural products to make up losses sustained in disposing of crop surplus. Mr. Tincher declared that although this fee would be levied against wheat, hogs, cattle and cotton, it would not be levied against corn, although corn would be benefited.

Mr. Murphy explained that it did not provide a fee on corn because it was largely a feed product and hogs would stabilize corn.

The Kansas representative told the house that the bill had been passed around the committee table but had not been introduced and "has no father or mother."

tonnage with foreign mills. This road purchased at least a part of its inquiry for 16,000 tons with German makers. Mills in the Saar also have taken 5000 tons of rails for Mexico.

Further close competition between domestic and foreign ferromanganese has resulted in another cut of $5 per ton by American and Norwegian producers.

Hot Senate Fight Seen Over Seating of Steek of Iowa

Washington, Mar. 19.—(AP)—A bitter senate fight is shaping up over the Steek-Brookhart election contest.

Rumblings of it have been heard in protests against the length of time taken by the subcommittee to reach a conclusion and now that this sub-committee has recommended against Senator Brookhart, the friends of the Iowa senator are preparing for the fray on the senate floor.

Senator Stephens, Democrat, Mississippi, who led the successful fight for the seating of Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, after the majority of the elections committee had recommended against that action, is preparing a minority report in which he holds that Senator Brookhart is clearly entitled to his seat.

Just how much support Senator Stephens will receive in the entire elections committee will not be developed until after the committee meets next Monday to act upon the recommendation of the sub-committee.

Automobile Deaths Still on Increase

Lansing, Mar. 19.—(AP)—Despite the efforts of state and local agencies to reduce the number of automobile fatalities in Michigan, the number of deaths due to automobile accidents last year was 1,088, as compared with 955 in 1924. The roll of fatalities has mounted steadily since 1910 when automobiles still were a curiosity, according to a report completed today by the department of health. In that year there were 49 deaths, in 1915 the number increased to 130, in 1920, 397 persons were killed, 403 in 1921, 529 in 1922 and 674 in 1923.

Despite the discouraging features of the report, departmental officials found cause for a mite of optimism in the fact that deaths are decreasing as compared with the increase in the number of automobiles on the roads. In 1910, there was a death for about every 500 cars, in 1924 the ratio was one fatality for every 873 cars and last year the deaths were one for every 910 cars.

Risko Decisively Defeats Paul Berlenbach in 10-Round Fight

BERLY FLOORED TWICE IN BOUT

Young Clevelander Furnishes Ring Upset of Season.

New York, Mar. 19.—(P)—Paul Berlenbach's quest for recognition as a heavyweight contender was abruptly checked tonight when he was decisively whipped in a slashing 10-round battle with Johnny Risko of Cleveland in the feature match at Madison Square Garden. The referee's decision was almost unnecessary to determine the result. The world's light heavyweight king not only was tattered from start to finish by his 22-year-old opponent, a comparatively newcomer to fistie ranks, but was close to a knockout in each of the first three rounds of one of the most sensational ring upsets of the season.

Berly Floored in First.
Berlenbach was floored for a count of four in the first round by a left to the jaw, saved only by the bell as he careened to the canvas again in the second round under the impact of another pile driving left and groggy under a hail of punches in the third.

Surviving this unexpected and terrific storm, however, seemed to have a stimulating effect on Berlenbach, for he rallied and nearly hit his own for the rest of the fight, staying off Risko's rushes and finishing with a spirited rally in the tenth round.

Risko Punches Hard.
Berlenbach's gameness and stamina, however, were unequal to offsetting the superior power in Risko's punches and the tremendous weight advantage enjoyed by the Clevelander, who tipped 190 pounds to the champion's 174½. Both titer under their terrific pace, but Risko was the stronger at the finish.

A crowd of 15,000 fans, whipped to a frenzied pitch of excitement, saw Risko pound his way to a sensational victory which stamped him as an outstanding heavyweight contender while it virtually blasted the hopes of Berlenbach of entering the heavier division. The young Clevelander displayed a granite jaw which absorbed Berlenbach's heaviest blows without damaging effect as well as a terrific punch in either hand.

MATTEOTTI'S NAME DEFAMED

Chieti, Italy, Mar. 19.—(P)—Roberto Farinacci, secretary general of the Fascist party, acting as defense counsel in the trial of Amerigo Dumini and four others charged with the murder of Giacomo Matteotti, turned today's session into a detailed indictment of the murdered man's alleged unpatriotic activities before, during and after the World war.

Matteotti, Socialist deputy and leader of the opposition to Premier Mussolini, was kidnapped and murdered January 10, 1924. Dumini has admitted responsibility for the kidnaping, but denied he killed Matteotti.

Farinacci drew a picture of Matteotti as a dangerous enemy of the nation. The Fascist leader frequently returned strong answers to repeated protests of Judge Danza against the interjection of irrelevant testimony of political nature.

To the judge's interjection, "but this has no bearing on the Matteotti matter in hand," Farinacci replied: "It has for us, since we shall show the reason why Matteotti and not another was struck."

Encouraged by Farinacci's boldness, even some of the witnesses fired back at Judge Danza, explaining that they were trying to contrast the nefarious actions of Matteotti's friends with the patriotism of the Fascists. Ferruccio Vecchi, a former army captain, declared:

"If Matteotti's friends were sane, we were malefactors worthy of prison."

Strong Hurling Staff and Al Tyson on Team Make Giants Confident

Sarasota, Fla., Mar. 19.—(P)—Fortified with stronger pitching and the addition of Al Tyson in the outfield, the New York Giants face the 1926 National League campaign with excellent pennant prospects, in the opinion of Manager John McGraw.

"Pittsburgh, of course, is the team we will have to beat," said McGraw, in discussing his outlook for The Associated Press, "but I regard the St. Louis Cardinals as a contender."

"We are stronger in pitching than we were last year, and for that matter stronger than for many years past. Tyson, the Louisville centerfielder, will help us."

"These two factors sum up our added strength so far as I can count with any certainty. Our team should at least be as stout this year as last. We ought to be able to count on less accidents. Johnson seems to be all right. Groh looks good this year. He is giving Lindstrom a close battle for the third base position."

Hoff Makes Final Indoor Appearance at Meet Tonight

New York, Mar. 19.—(P)—Charley Hoff will make his farewell appearance of the indoor track season tomorrow night in an attempt to exceed the world's indoor pole vault record for the tenth time. He will compete at the annual meet of the Postoffice Clerks. A height of 13 feet, 8 inches, surpassing his present mark by one full inch, has been set as his final indoor achievement.

Hoff has abandoned his intention of competing against Dehart Hubbard of Cincinnati in a special broad jumping contest, at which the Norwegian set a new world's indoor record of 23 feet 7-3-8 inches Tuesday night. Hubbard, holder of the world's outdoor record at 25 feet 10-7-8 inches, will be opposed, however, by William Dowling of Georgetown, intercollegiate indoor champion, and Paul Courtes, national pentathlon titleholder.

Kansas City, Mo., Mar. 19.—(P)—The Kansas City Athletic club went into the finals of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight by defeating the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company team of Akron, Ohio, 25 to 16.

PEORIA GIVEN 1927 PIN MEET

Baxter Named President of American Bowling Congress.

Toledo, O., Mar. 19.—(P)—Peoria, Ill., was awarded the 1927 tournament of the American Bowling Congress at the annual meeting here late this afternoon. Kansas City, Mo., was another bidder but threw its voting strength to Peoria when it developed that the sentiment of the Chicago delegation at the meeting was strong for Peoria. Flint, Mich., put in a bid for the tournament in 1929.

A. J. Baxter, Huntington, W. Va., vice president during the last year, was elevated to the presidency, succeeding Dr. C. C. Ryan of Kenosha, Wis.

LEADERS UNTOUCHED.

Toledo, Ohio, March 19.—(P)—Leaders in the minor events of the American Bowling Congress tournament today went through another day without being disturbed.

A Buffalo pair, the Juzak brothers, was the only new entry in the list of first ten in the two-men event with 1,241. It put the pair in ninth place in the standings.

There was some good shooting in the individual event, however. A Toledo bowler, H. Goodhill, found the pins for a 695 which placed him third in the list for the highest score of the day. Sheahan of Waukegan, Ill., collected a 672 which gave him a triple tie for seventh place with Olson of Minneapolis and Miller of Detroit.

Other good 600 scores in the individual event were: Ryan, Waukegan, Ill., 691. Kossek, Peoria, Ill., 637. Rybka, Toledo, 642. Straw, Flint Mich., 635. Decker Toledo, 634. Millrood, Buffalo, 616. Lavelle, Chicago, 614.

The New York contingent again failed to count in the prize money.

Teams from Kenosha, Wis.; Dayton, Ohio; Kalamazoo, Mich.; St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Cleveland and West Allis, Wis., were on in the five-men event tonight.

WOLVERINE CAGERS LOOP 374 POINTS

Are Outpointed by Only One Team, Indiana

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Michigan's basketball team totalled 374 points in the Big Ten conference season, 63 points more than the Wolverines of a year ago and well in the lead of the 280 score of two years ago.

Much of Michigan's total was accumulated in the final drive for the title for the championship in which Michigan outscored all the records of the last three years.

Indiana proved the high scoring team of those bunched at the top with 389 points, Purdue following Michigan with 353.

Defensively, Michigan had much the better of the two Indiana teams, having held its opponents to 285 points while Purdue had 319 points scored against it and Indiana 323.

Frank Harrigan, a former Grand Rapids player, was high of the individual Michigan scorers, getting 89 points. This is but 11 points behind the mark set by Haggerty a year ago as the leading scorer of the Michigan team.

Harrigan failed to go well in the time he was being played at forward, but when the reorganization of the team sent him back to guard, from which position he ran the floor as a center, Doyle taking the guard work, he rapidly took the position of the most valuable player on the team, displacing Chambers in this respect.

Captain-elect Edward Chambers was second scorer as he was last year. He scored 71 points this year compared with his 46 of last year. Had he been played at the start of the season, he would most certainly have had a higher total.

Edward Reece, Jackson, took third place away from Captain Doyle in the last two games, Reece ending the season with 69 points while the captain had 57.

Doyle, former Kalamazoo center, scored 136 points in his three years of competition, 36 his first year, 43 the second and 57 the third. The fact that he controlled the tipoff in all the games played by Michigan was one of the large factors in the Michigan scoring of this year.

The individual scores of the Michigan men for the year follows:
Harrigan 89
Chambers 71
Reece 69
Doyle 57
Molenda 25
Ginn 23
Oosterbaan 16
Martin 9
Cheery 8
Rasnick 5
Babcock 2

SHOT PUT KING

HERMAN SCHWARZE

Another world's record went by the boards at the national indoor track and field championships in Chicago the other night when Herman Schwarze put the 16-pound shot 50 feet, 7 5-8 inches. His effort exceeded by a few inches the mark hung up by John Kueck of Kansas State Teachers' College a short time ago. Schwarze is a Wisconsin athlete, but competed unattached in the Windy City games.

Americans Score Heavily in Track Meet for Oxford

London, Mar. 19.—(P)—American Rhodes scholars now students at Oxford university, scored heavily for their English alma mater in the fifty-eighth annual track meet with Cambridge today. But Cambridge won first place in eight of the 11 events. Two of Oxford's firsts were accounted for by R. L. Hyatt, a former Harvard athlete—the broad jump and pole vault.

The American contingent, including also S. Harrison Thompson, formerly of Princeton; R. H. Jack, formerly of Pennsylvania, and W. A. Rosenbaum, formerly of Oregon, also took one second place and four thirds. Hyatt, in the shot put, accounted for one of the third places. Only first places counted in this meet.

Lord David Burghley, England's foremost hurdler, and R. S. Starr, Cambridge distance runner, also won two first places. Hyatt set a new varsity record in the pole vault, clearing 12 feet in an exhibition leap after having won the event at 11 feet, three inches. The former record, 11 feet, 6 inches, was his own.

Table with columns: Date, Industrials, Railroads. Rows: Friday, Thursday, Week ago, Year ago, High 1926, Low 1926, Total stock sales.

New York, Mar. 19—(AP)—Heavy liquidation of the motor shares brought about another sharp reaction in today's stock market. Net declines in the active issues ranged from 1 to 9 points with the average of 2 1/2 points...

Hudson Motors was the outstanding individual weak spot, falling from an early high of 107 to 96 1/4 on total sales of 172,500 shares. Selling of this issue was accelerated by the publication of a report for the fiscal quarter ended February 28, showing net profits of $2,746,623, a decline of more than $1,000,000 below those of the corresponding period last year...

Mack Trucks dropped from an early high of 120 3/4 to 115 1/8, a new record for the year. Chandler-Cleveland, Chrysler, Jordan, White and Willys-Overland common also sagged to new low levels for the year on widespread rumors that spring sales of automobiles were disappointing.

Publication of brokers' loan statistics for the week ended March 10, showing a reduction of $162,782,000, failed to stem the tide of selling.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported irregularity in business. Dun's states "the main aspects of the general business situation continue favorable, though its irregularities have become somewhat more marked," adding that "current news from the great steel trade, upon whose prosperity so much depends, is distinctly encouraging, with promise of a new which record in output at different mills and yet with no sign thus far of the over-production which was evident a year ago."

Forced liquidation was again apparent in a number of industrial specialties. American Can dropped from an early high of 289 1/2 to 281 3/4 and then rallied to 283 1/2 for a net loss of 4 points on the day. American Brown Boveri, Case Threshing Machine preferred, Christie Brown, Fidelity Phoenix Insurance, Kelsey Wheel, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Sloss Sheffield Steel, Western Union and Woodworth all showed net declines of 3 to nearly 7 points.

United States Steel common dropped 1 1/2 points to 123 1/8. General Petroleum continued to move against the current trend, closing 1 1/2 points higher at 63, after having passed 65. Ward Packing B rallied feebly on short covering.

Rails again yielded with the industrials, but except in a few high-price issues, such as Atlantic Coastline and Nickel Plate common, the net declines were not large.

Call money continued to hold steady at 4 1/4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Establishment of a new low level since 1924 in French francs at 25 1/2 cents featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand stilling held firm at $4.50-4 while the Italian and Belgian rates showed nominal recessions. Norwegian kroner advanced 15 points to 21 1/2 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Mar. 19—(AP)—Wheat sliding down today to a new low price record for the season and with wheat shipments from Nebraska to Chicago threatening to break up any shortage of wheat here for delivery on May contracts, the wheat market today underwent a collapse of nearly 7 1/2 cents. Wheat and corn both finished wild, wheat 4 1/4 to 6 3/4 net lower, May (new) 1.59 5/8 to 1.59 7/8 and July 1.38 7/8 to 1.39 1/8, corn 2 3/4 to 3 3/8 down, oats 1 to 1 1/2 off and provisions varying from unchanged to a setback of 22 cents.

Throughout the entire grain list, the closing prices were without exception at the day's lowest level. Wheat suffered its worst break in the final hour of trading, after unusual shakiness had been evident for some time in the corn market, a condition largely due to word going around that no legislation to help producers appeared likely of enactment. Coupled with the depression of corn values, however, and with reports of a prospective influx of wheat here from Omaha were glowing advices of crop condition for wheat in the southwest. Under such circumstances, the relative steadiness of the wheat market disappeared as the day neared an end.

The world will be safe until they start using pictures of good-looking men for magazine covers.

CHICAGO BUTTER.

Chicago, Mar. 19—(AP)—With prices on all grades from 1 to 1 1/4 lower, the market tone still contained weak and unsettled with trading quiet in the butter market today. Buyers showed practically no interest beyond their most urgent needs and were curtailing purchases, as much as possible in anticipation of further declines. The centralized car market appeared weak with more liberal offerings than for some time past. The supply of 89 score cars was especially heavy and buyers showed practically no interest. Fred 92 score: 40 1/2, Centralized 90 score 40 1/4.

BASKET :-:

necessary. Make a gravy with the liquor in the casserole and pour over heart on a deep platter.

To serve slice down through the heart cross-wise like a jelly roll.

English Monkey Three-fourths cup cheese cut in small pieces, 1 cup stale bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 table-spoons butter, 1 egg, toasted crackers.

Combine bread crumbs and milk and let stand 15 minutes. Melt butter, add cheese and when cheese is melted add crumbs and milk. Cook, stirring constantly for three minutes. Add egg well beaten and cook over hot water for five minutes. Serve on toast-ed crackers.

Cheese Fondue One cup stale bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 3-4 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup finely chopped cheese, 3 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, toast.

Melt butter, add milk and crumbs, salt, pepper and must-ard. Cook, stirring constantly until smooth. Add cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Stir in yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon-colored and cook until the boiling point is reached. Fold in whites of eggs beaten un-til stiff and dry. Cook 15 min-utes over hot water and serve on toast.

Oysters and Bacon. Clean large oyster and sprinkle with lemon juice. Wrap each oys-ter in a thin slice of choice bac-on and fasten ends with tooth-picks. Have the blazer very hot and put the prepared oysters in the pan. Cover pan for five min-utes. Then cook, uncovered until bacon is crisp on all sides. Serve with olives and brown bread sand-wiches.

Breakfast—Grape fruit juice, cereal, thin cream, broiled bacon, scrambled eggs, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Vegetable soup, croutons, hot cheese sandwiches, canned cherries, drop cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Smothered veal steak, mashed potatoes, scalloped toma-toes, apple-celery and nut salad, cheese cups, lemon sponge pud-ding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Children under 10 years of age should be served orange juice in place of the grape fruit juice sug-gested in the breakfast menu.

The dinner salad for juniors should be made of finely diced apple and celery combined with finely shredded lettuce. A dress-ing of lemon juice and oil is used sparingly.

Hot Cheese Sandwiches. Cut bread in slices about 3-8 of an inch thick and trim off crusts. Butter half the slices evenly but lightly and sprinkle generously with grated cheese or thin slices of cheese if more convenient.

Cover with remaining slices of bread and press together firmly. Put on a baking sheet and place on the middle grate of a hot oven. Toast until cheese is melt-ed and bread is brown. Both sides of the sandwich are toasted.

Tiny sandwiches made and toasted in this fashion are deli-cious for afternoon tea.

Breakfast—Stewed dried peaches, cereal, thin cream, French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Eggs in potato cases, raisin brown bread and butter sandwiches, scalloped bananas and apples, milk, tea.

Dinner—Lamp stew with vege-tables, creamed celery, stuffed prune salad, graham bread, crisp nut cookies, milk, coffee.

No dessert is planned for dinner since the salad is more or less of a combination dessert and salad. Canned fruit can be served with the cookies if wanted, but is not necessary as the meal is well bal-anced.

Scalloped Bananas and Apples. Four tart apples, 3 bananas, 1 lemon, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 cup bread crumbs from soft part of loaf. Pare, quarter and core apples. Cut in thin slices and sprinkle with lemon juice. Put a thin layer of crumbs into a well-buttered baking dish. Add a layer of apples, cover with a layer of bananas cut in thin slices. Sprinkle with sugar and dot with bits of butter. Add another layer of crumbs, fruit and seasonings and continue layer for layer until all is used. The last layer should be of crumbs. Pour over boiling water, cover dish and bake thirty minutes in a hot oven. Remove cover and bake ten min-utes longer to crisp the crumbs on top. Serve warm with cream.

John Larkin is dead. Thou-sands of women will mourn his loss. He probably is responsible for more Brussels rugs and golden oak furniture in farm and urban middle-class homes than any man in America. The oft-ridiculed "Larkin soap club man" whereby a club member who bought one dollar's worth of soap and coffee and cold cream a month could select at the end of ten months a chair or rug or some tid-bit for the home, boasts a membership of hundreds of thousands of women throughout this nation.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Millions of persons, in all parts of the world, will have their first opportunity of viewing at close range famous valleys and mountain ranges of Arizona where Bat Masterson, Wyatt Earp, John Slaughter, Peter Kitchen and other noted gunmen of fiction and history roamed in the years that are gone, when "The Golden Strain," Fox Films version of a Peter B. Kyne story, is flashed across the silversheet. The picture is now showing at the Delft theater.

This colorful story, starring Madge Bellamy, Kenneth Harlan, Ann Pennington, Hobart Bosworth, Frank McGlynn, Jr., Frank Beal and others, was filmed by Victor Schertzinger in the very heart of the locale once frequented by some of the worst—and a few of the best—men who have figured in the making of the West.

When executives of Fox Films selected famous old Fort Huachuca in Arizona as the base of operations for the Schertzinger company, they did so with a conscious knowledge of the splendid opportunity that was theirs. This quaint post, which has figured so prominently in the history of America, has been the home of countless brave men—and it is only a short distance from Tombstone.

AT THE STRAND.

Reed Howes, the handsome young "action" star, and new chapters of the serial, "The Green Archer," form the program which will be shown at the Strand again today.

Howes is seen in a snappy comedy drama, "The Cyclone Cavalier," which offers many laughs and not a few thrills.

The cast includes Crawford Kent, Carmelita Geraghty, Jack Mower and other well-knowns.

MICHIGAN TO AGAIN HONOR HERSELF.

Announcement in press dispatches of the past few days that O. B. Fuller, of this county, will be a candidate this fall for his tenth term as auditor general of Michigan, is being made the subject of widespread comment among the newspapers of Michigan. Without a single exception the press of Michigan is enthusiastic in its endorsement of the candidacy of one who is today recognized as the state of Michigan's most faithful public servant. Mr. Fuller enjoys the distinction of having held office continuously for a longer period than any other individual ever to occupy an important state office and that record has been made possible through the fact that no other Michigan official has ever so thoroughly gained the confidence of the people as has Mr. Fuller.

For many years the people of Delta county have drawn a tremendous measure of pride from the record being established by a fellow townsman and each new expression of statewide loyalty to Mr. Fuller, but accentuates the pride of the people who know him best.

The Ironwood Globe is one of the Michigan newspapers to comment upon the announcement of Mr. Fuller's candidacy. The Globe says editorially: "Downstate dispatches announce the fact that Oramel B. Fuller will be a candidate for a tenth term as auditor-general of Michigan. For twenty years the Republican party has been strengthened by his candidacy."

"The Upper Peninsula is unusually interested in Mr. Fuller because he originated north of the Straits. He has served the state faithfully and well—as well as most men and considerably longer than the average."

"Comparatively few are the elective federal and state officials in Michigan who were in public places when Mr. Fuller started as auditor-general, and who are still in official positions. Rep. James C. McLaughlin of the Ninth district, is the only one of the congressional delegation remaining. None of the supreme court justices of 20 years ago is now on the bench. Of the present legislature, only two members sat in a session the first time Mr. Fuller was elected. They are Senator William J. Pearson of the Charlevoix district, and Rep. Fred R. King of Cheboygan."

"The services of Senator Pearson and Rep. King have not been continuous. John E. Bird, now chief justice of the supreme court, was attorney general. Eight others who were state legislators at the time are Carl E. Mapes and Louis G. Crampton, now representatives in Congress; Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of Detroit; Fred L. Woodworth, collector of internal revenue at Detroit; Samuel O'Dell, now a Michigan Public Utilities commissioner; L. Whitney Watkins, state commissioner of agriculture, and Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller of Detroit and Charles E. White, of Niles."

"There have been times when efforts were made by indiscreet or intriguing politicians to involve Mr. Fuller in questionable political tricks, but always without success. Mr. Fuller, in his twenty years of service, has shown time and again that he is not a political trickster but rather a citizen who desires to serve his state and its people honestly and well. Unquestionably this fact has made it possible for him now to be numbered among the state's oldest employes in point of service. It is the same reason which will give him the Republican nomination and the election for another two years to the office of auditor general."

PROVIDE NECESSARY SERVICE.

Councilman George G. Genesse sounded a highly popular chord, at the meeting of the city council on Thursday night, when he unequivocally advocated the purchase of sufficient snow removing equipment to allow the city of Escanaba to cope with any snow storm emergency that might develop in future years.

And the espousal by Mr. Genesse of this publicly popular effort met with the enthusiastic support of all of the members of the council, thus laying the foundation for the development of an adequate snow removal program for this city next winter and for every winter of the future.

It was pointed out by Councilman Genesse and other members of the body that, compared to the loss and inconvenience suffered by the public, when city streets are blocked with snow, the monetary outlay necessary for the city to purchase needed equipment, is inconsequential. It is now made practically certain that funds will be provided in the forthcoming budget to give Escanaba a snow removal service equal to the demand and the need in future winter seasons. Such a service will cost some money but after Escanaba's experience of the present winter the greater portion of Escanaba's people will agree that such a service will be worth all it may cost.

TASTED LIFE'S RICHEST PROMISE.

Up in a little Vermont town, which but a few years ago was unknown outside of the immediate locality in which it is located, there died on Thursday night a man who had tasted the fullest satisfaction of life's promise and yet he was neither a great statesman, nor learned scholar. To him had come the most unusual privilege of having administered the oath of office to his only son when he assumed the highest office within the gift of the American people. To have been accorded such an unusual privilege crowned the life of just a plain, straight-forward American citizen. The experience that came to Col. John C. Coolidge when he swore into office, as President of the United States, his son, Calvin Coolidge, accented the privileges that even the most unassuming of the citizenship in this nation, enjoys under the free government that is ours.

Every community in the land is today the home of a father, to whom time may give the privilege and the honor that came into the life of Col. John C. Coolidge.

Rattlesnake oil is said to be selling at $100 a gallon in Texas, in spite of the fact that Delta county could supply that state with moonshine liquor at a considerably lower figure.

Normal college authorities at Superior have banned a campus vaudeville act because the girls' skirts were too short, illustrating what mathematicians mean by the "irreducible minimum."

The federal government announces that more than a billion dollars will be spent on American roads this year. That is, of course, on condition that the workmen are able to find the roads after the spring breakup.

Coads of a midwest college declared, in a questionnaire, that they considered smoking by women more sinful than drinking which probably accounts for the fact that smoking is more popular.

The next war, says Sir Esme Howard, will be a fight over markets. Sir Esme is another statesman who has forgotten that the last war ended all wars.

The London Morning Post thinks Senator Borah is a "great joker." Isn't the Post taking Idaho Bill too seriously?

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch

IT BEATS THE DEVIL.
He says, says he, says Mike McGee,
'I used to swear most beautifully.
When somethin' jammed, say some machine,
Or horse or heifer acted mean.
I used to swear by many a saint,
And many a name I guess that ain't,
When somethin' broke or somethin' bent
Or somethin' else contrary went.
But Father McNamara, though,
Yes, this was years and years ago.
He drove the cusswords from my heart,
Until I've almost lost the art.
'For Father McNamara he
Remarks to me, 'Young Mike McGee,
Perhaps you thought it was the cow
Or horse that acted ugly now,
Or that machine that acted like
An omadhaun. It wasn't Mike—
It was the devil all the while!
That filled the horse or cow with guile,
Or bumped your head or barked your shin,
To try to lead you into sin.
Let's just the devil ev'rywhere,
Because he wants to hear you swear.'

"He says, says he, 'Yes, Mike McGee,
It's the devil's work it's plain to see.
Says he, 'Now why the devil do
You let the devil master you?
Why help the devil with his coal?
Just hold your tongue and save your soul!
So, when the devil plays a trick,
I laff, and make the devil sick.
When somethin' whacks me anywhere,
I fool the devil—I don't swear.
It's for the best. But all agree
I once could swear most beautifully.'

THE YELLOW STUB
by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, oo, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket. JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "diagnose." JIMMY RAND his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer. Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints when she learns she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands. Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave the city and later is attacked by two men, but escapes. With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy and Olga, one night, see a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assistants. The man escapes, but they identify him by his police photo as IKE JENSEN. Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness causes her to break their engagement. Mary writes a letter, explaining, but the office boy forgets to mail it. Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Jensen. He rushes to her apartment to find her gone. While he and police are in the apartment, a mysterious phone call comes for him, threatening his life. The papers are full of Olga's mysterious disappearance. Police lieutenant O'Day then tells Jimmy he found a picture of Henry Rand, taken when a boy, in Olga's apartment. The thought that Olga may have been implicated in the murder, after all, rises to torture him. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY Chapter XLV The next morning there was a night letter for Jimmy from Detective Mooney. He was still in New York, it said, and he had found Marie Rellane. She was living in an apartment in New York, alone, still unmarried, and wealthy. But the amazing part, to Jimmy, was this: "Twenty years ago she ran into Thaddeus Rand, down in Mexico City. He was living there. Had changed his name to Thomas Rolfe. He came one night to hear her sing and recognized her. Asked her if she knew whereabouts of Henry Rand. "She did, but she hated old

Thaddeus and didn't tell him. She had never seen Henry Rand since she gave him the ring. That was years ago when she was making an appearance in Grafton. She never wrote to him again, not even to tell him about seeing Thaddeus. "She hadn't read about your father's murder and was broken up when I told her. I think with her it was one of those romances that never die. I'm writing you in full and we're looking up Thaddeus Rand in Mexico City. "Well, can you beat that?" cried Barry. He looked at Jimmy in blank amazement. "O'Day told me," said Jimmy, "that Thaddeus Rand had said something about not being worthy of the name of Rand any more. It's not surprising to learn that he changed his name." "He kept the same initials. Isn't it queer how people do that when they change their names?" "Not so queer, when you realize how often they have clothing and jewelry and different things marked with their initials." Jimmy shoved his hands in his pockets and strode over to the window, to gaze thoughtfully at the street below. "I wonder if old Thaddeus Rand is still alive. Lord, Barry, this thing might be cleared up before we know it if we continue to make this progress. I tell you that fellow Mooney is a wonder. Imagine finding Marie Real, or rather Marie Rellane, as she's called now, so soon!" "All I hope is that we're not following a blind trail to be running down Marie Rellane and Thaddeus Rand." "Something tells me we're not, Barry. Something tells me the trail is going to lead direct from Mexico City to Milwaukee. When we find out what's happened in the years that Thaddeus Rand has been in Mexico, we're going to be at the root of all this mystery." "What gets me," Jimmy said later that day as they were eating lunch, "is why Marie Rellane should refuse to tell Thaddeus Rand about my father."

"I think I can understand it," Barry said. "If she really loved Henry Rand as much as Mooney seems to think she did, she certainly wouldn't have much use for the man who broke up the affair—even if at the time it was nothing but a school kid romance." "But if she thought so much of my father, why shouldn't she think of his happiness? Wouldn't she realize that he would like to know where his own father was?" "Not necessarily. Like most of the other people in their little town, she probably figured that Thaddeus Rand had killed any affection Henry might have had for him. She's of the type herself, you know, that harbors a grudge for a long, long time. All she could see was old Thaddeus eating his heart out—if he could possibly relent that much—for his son. And why should she, with so much to hate him for, try to make him happy?" "Oh, well, it takes all sorts to make a world, I suppose. But if she had only told my father, things might have turned out so differently. All this—with a vague wave of his hand—"needn't have happened."

"Nothing doing, Barry." "Well, let me be your financial manager, then." Jimmy laughed. "I'll agree to permit you to keep me from starving, old socks. When I'm up against it hard, I'll call on you." "Knowing that Lieutenant O'Day's rising hour was somewhere about noon, Jimmy hastened to call him by telephone and apprise him of the latest news from Mooney. "Fine!" said O'Day. "He's a smart lad, that Mooney. Tell him if he ever needs a job there's a place waiting for him in the detective bureau here." With Barry, O'Day agreed that it was not so strange—Marie Rellane's refusal to disclose to Thaddeus Rand the whereabouts of his son. "If you ask me, Rand, I think the old boy had it coming to him. Punishment, you know. . . . I think we're coming along fine now. Somethin' tells me we're going to get at the bottom of this before very long. . . . O'Day had no idea when he said it just how wonderful a prophet he was." "I know I'm going to win my case, Jim," Barry said when, fresh from his conference, he met Jimmy Rand again. "I think they see I've got 'em licked. This fellow Church made me another proposition today and it was just twice as good as the first one he gave me." "You're getting pretty cocky, young man, aren't you? You know what they say about this man Church. He doesn't know when he's licked." "I'm not afraid of him. Matter of fact, he seemed to be a good deal worried." "Did you see Mary Lowell, Barry?" Barry paused to light a cigaret. From behind his cupped hands he watched Jimmy narrowly as he spoke from lips that were clamped tight on the cigaret end. "Yes, I saw her. She asked about you. "Asked about me? No, Barry—oh, don't kid me about it." "I'm not kidding, I say she asked about you—and she seemed greatly interested, too—a good deal more than you deserve. You're just a stubborn blockhead. "Wait a minute. Jimmy grabbed the other's arm and stopped him short. "Stay right where you are. Now what the devil are you driving at?" "Oh, I'll put you out of your misery. She doesn't love Sam Church. No more than you do." "And yet," Jimmy said bitterly, "she's going to marry him." "Wrong again, youngster. She's not going to marry him. She broke off with him some time ago." "Barry, if you're lying I'll—" "Yes, I know you would, Cocky. But I'm not lying, I'll swear it on a stack of Bibles as high as the Woolworth building. "Listen." He laid a hand on Jimmy's shoulder. "Do you remember my saying to you some time ago to mark down the date in your notebook? You remember? I told you some day you'd appreciate me for the great benefactor to mankind that I was?" "Yes, I remember. What's it got to do with what you're telling me?" "Just this. I told Mary Lowell your story. I explained to her who Olga Maynard was. Now wait a minute let me finish. I realized I was butting in and all that sort of thing, but you're such a darn fool, Jim." "And what did she say?" He waited, breathless, for Barry's reply. "She was really glad to know it! No doubt about it. You know she had the notion, Jim, that you were in love with Olga Maynard." "But Church—you said—" "I just learned today that she had broken off with Church, and it was before I told her about you, too. Jim, she's crazy about you. But you're such a pig-headed fool. She wondered why she hadn't heard from you." "Why has she heard from you?" (Continued on Page 8)

FASHION SHOW. Critics who have already seen Colleen Moore's latest film, 'Irene,' proclaim it the greatest motion picture fashion show ever exhibited.

For the production a fortune was expended in designing and creating original gowns for the little star and a troupe of sixty Hollywood beauties who appear with her in the picture.

The fashion plate episode in the production is said to be heightened by the fact that it is filmed in natural colors. First National released the picture, which was made by John McCormick.

The story of 'Irene' is based on the musical comedy stage hit of the same name. Many of the song successes of this show now enjoy a wide popularity. 'Alice Blue Gown' is one of the ballads.

'Irene' comes to the Community theater Thursday and Friday. In addition to Miss Moore the cast includes Lloyd Hughes, George K. Arthur and Charles Murray.

TOURIST FARES ARE RESTORED

Chamber of Commerce Told Local Petition Is Granted.

The Chicago and North-Western railway, on May 15, will restore Escanaba to the list of towns favored by special summer tourist rates, it was announced yesterday at the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

Escanaba had no such service last year, the railroad company discontinuing it because of the competition had, in many instances, with the strictly commercial passenger business.

The Chamber of Commerce has been negotiating and discussing the matter with North-Western officials for several months, pointing out that the north woods country is as legitimately entitled to the fare concessions in the summer as the Gulf states and Florida in the winter. T. A. Carney, general agent with headquarters here, notified Secretary Bandeen yesterday that the tourist fares would be granted between May 15 and September 30.

In addition to the special rates, the North-Western will conduct an intensive advertising campaign concerning them, throughout the South and East, it was disclosed. In fact, some of this advertising already has been placed. Attractive booklets describing the charm and beauty of the Upper Peninsula are now in the making.

Round Trip for $12.40. The rate on season tickets from Chicago to Escanaba and return will be $18, and from Milwaukee to Escanaba and return, $13.10. These will be purchasable between May 15 and September 30, and the return trip may be made any time before October 31.

Thirty-day return tickets from Chicago to Escanaba will be $15 and from Milwaukee, $10.95. This service will begin April 30.

Week-end tickets, on sale Fridays and Saturdays, with a return limit the following Wednesday, will sell for $12.40 at Chicago and $9.05 at Milwaukee. This class of ticket also will go on sale April 30.

Peterson has established an enviable record for service to the department and popularity among citizens generally.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL & JUDY

THE INEVITABLE QUESTION. Jim Costello's voice was raspy. I could see that he had felt the cuts which the presumed society young men had given him.

"I had always thought it was only women and girls that kept up that idea of class. I had always thought that men were more democratic."

"My dear Judy, men are the most snobbish animals on earth. They seldom cut one of your sex but they can be nearer to one of mine and not see them than one would think possible. But I don't want to talk about men or women in general. I want to talk about you."

"You say that if you didn't stay here and work, you'd have to go home and marry Becker. Isn't this a free country? Can't you do as you please? I thought all that old melodrama stuff went out with the old plays of our grandfathers."

Jimmie struck an attitude right in the middle of the sidewalk, and proclaimed:

"Daughter, you must marry Sir George Heathcock, or your father will go to prison and your mother die of shame."

Then he came back to earth and again tucked me under his arm and said:

"That might have been the bee's knees in 1850 but in 1925 it's the bunk."

I laughed and then I blushed, for I didn't want Jimmie to know why Dad had insisted I should marry Charlie Becker. I hesitated as I tried to decide how much I should tell this clever Irishman and how much I should keep to myself.

"You know, Jimmie, Dad thinks a girl ought to marry as soon as she can. He thinks that some man must always be the master of a girl's destiny. Father is the best judge according to himself, as to what I should do and say and think, until my husband appears on the scene and then he's perfectly willing to turn the management over to him. I don't think it would make any particular difference to Father if the young man had the worst reputation. He still has that lie implanted in his brain that a girl can marry a man and reform him. I don't want that kind, Jimmie. I want to think. I want to work. I want to be something and somebody all by myself."

"Don't you ever think of marrying, Judy? Don't you expect to fall in love some time. I always thought that was the only thing a girl thought of."

"Tut, tut, man. It's a side issue with most of the girls today."

They walked along briskly. Days later, when Jimmy had time to reflect, he wondered that Mary Lowell should have appeared just as they were talking about her.

It was sorry who first attracted his attention to her. "Speaking of angels," he sighed, "here she is now."

And then Jimmy saw her. The

Williams Named in Cooks Caucus

Cooks, Mar. 19.—There was no opposition for most of the offices in the Cooks caucus this year, the following being nominated:

Supervisor, Milton Williams; Clerk, C. E. Fulsher; Treasurer, Otto Hinkle; Highway Overseer, Frank Wilfred; Board of Review, Albert Bluscher; Constables, Francis Black and Charles Rivers; Poundmaster, Arthur Gray.

The refusal was in spite of the fact that Landl claimed to have been "rolled" for a large sum of money by someone in a bootlegging joint the previous night. He was rescued by a patrolman from a snow bank into which he had tumbled and the services of a physician were required to revive him, but his weird idea of "loyalty" restrained him from giving any information which would have enabled the police to attempt to locate his bank roll.

LOG MOVEMENT AGAIN HEAVY

Railroad and Shippers Recover From Snow Handicap.

Movement of timber products on the Chicago and North-Western is again at its winter peak. T. A. Carney, general agent of the road here, said yesterday. All of the road's branches and lines where log movement is heavy have been cleared of the thick blanket of wet snow under which they were buried during the last two weeks, and the loggers and log shippers are again able to move their product to the station. The current season is expected to see the largest movement of forest products in several years.

"Everything is going along splendidly," Mr. Carney said. "I hope—and I guess everyone joins me—that the snowfall season is about over. If we have a reasonable break in the thawing, and high water complications do not set in, we'll have a great log season."

Present forecasts are for a record-breaking movement of ore over the Escanaba docks during the coming summer, he added, and the road is making preparations to care for this traffic, which is of great importance to Escanaba.

Forest Fire Flyer to Be Shown to Escanaba People This Morning

Speakers traveling with the Forest Fire Flyer, on tour of the state, will address the public meeting at the Strand theater at 10:30 o'clock this morning instead of at the lecture car in the railroad yards. It was decided last night by those in charge. So much interest has been shown toward the fire prevention work that the lecture car on previous stops in the county has been too small to accommodate the large crowds that have turned out to hear the lectures.

Through the courtesy of L. J. Jacobs, the Strand theater will be thrown open to the public this morning for a showing of four reels of motion pictures depicting the forest fire fighting work and other phases of forestry. Lectures will be given by Crosby Hoar, district forest inspector of the U. S. forest service, on "The Forest Fire Situation in Michigan"; by F. A. Kroodsma, forestry specialist at Michigan State college, on "Future Timber Supply"; and by N. A. Kessler, specialist in agricultural engineering at state college, on "Land Clearing Work in Michigan."

To make room for the older folks, children under 12 years of age will not be admitted to the meeting. No admission charge will be made and a cordial invitation is extended to the public. Exhibit at 9 a. m.

The train will anchor at the Chicago and Northwestern yards near the federal offices. The exhibit car will be open at 9 a. m. for inspection. It is hoped that hundreds of Escanaba men, women and children will avail themselves of the opportunity to see what has been described as the most forceful concrete illustration of the slogan: "Everybody loses when the timber burns."

Good Crowd at Rock.
Schools in Maple Ridge township were closed while students visited the Forest Flyer Train on its stop at Rock yesterday. The speakers, Crosby Hoar, F. A. Kroodsma, N. A. Kessler and Joe Turner, county agricultural agent, addressed a public meeting at 6:50 at the Rock school auditorium. L. F. Livingston, in charge of the special train, was chairman of the meeting.

About a hundred persons, representing practically the entire population of McFarland, visited the exhibit car and heard the speeches in lecture car when the train stopped at McFarland during the day.

Large and enthusiastic crowds have inspected the exhibits in the "Fire Flyer" and listened to the lectures by experts in forestry lines, since the train started out several weeks ago. In about twenty-five stops below the straits, more than 18,000 visitors were "clocked." The attendance, since the train came into the Upper Peninsula, has been almost as large.

The exhibit car contains graphic animated pictures of burning timber and many other charts, paintings and views of the damage done by fires. There also are demonstrations of modern and efficient methods of preventing, checking and extinguishing fires and much information about reforestation.

The personnel includes a number of men of prominence in the forestry profession, some of whom will address the crowds in the lecture car today. These include national and state forest advisors and superintendents, development leaders and well-known conservation specialists.

The railroads serving the Upper Peninsula, Michigan State college, the federal government and the Upper Peninsula Development bureau are included in the list of sponsors of the train.

The "Flyer" will remain here over Sunday.

HAROLD CLEMENTS.
The body of Harold Clements, six years old, who was drowned at Niagara a month ago, was recovered yesterday and will be brought to Escanaba this afternoon.

The body will be taken to the home of the boy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Clements, 304 South Eleventh street.

MRS. WILLIAM TURAN.
Funeral services for Mrs. William Turan of Isabella will be held this morning at 9 o'clock at the Catholic church at Isabella when Rev. Fr. V. C. Savagau will be the celebrant at the requiem high mass. Burial will be in Isabella cemetery.

SWAN LUND.
The body of Swan Lund was removed from the Anderson Funeral Parlors to the home of Mrs. Anna Lund, 514 South Twelfth street, where funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30. Rev. C. A. Lund will officiate. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

OSHINSKY'S EXTENSIVELY REMODELED

Extensive alterations and improvements in the fixtures and arrangement of the ready-to-wear store of R. Oshinsky and Sons, 806 Ludington street, have been completed and the store will be opened formally to the public today.

The store now consists of one long, spacious aisle, on each side of which are booths containing the garments and other merchandise. There are two well-lighted selling rooms which have been furnished and decorated attractively and with a view to the customer's comfort. This also insures privacy for the customer. No selling will be carried on on the floor.

Farther back are two well-equipped fitting rooms, the offices and the tailoring department.

In front, near the door, is a rest room, with a telephone, writing desk and other facilities. Another addition is a large, vrmin-proof vault for furs of all kinds.

The design and plan is original with I. H. Oshinsky and represent, he says, the planning of his years in the ready-to-wear trade. The excellent cabinet work was done by John Bergman and the equally attractive decorations by Arne Swiland, both local contractors.

Outstate Cities to Intervene in Telephone Case

Lansing, Mar. 19.—(P)—Outstate cities may intervene in the Michigan Bell Telephone company case against the state public utilities commission in the federal district court in Detroit, it was decided in a conference here today between Ganson Taggart, Grand Rapids city attorney, John Farley, Flint city attorney, and members of the commission. Taggart and Farley are counsel for the League of Michigan Municipalities.

Indications were the municipalities will take the stand that the commission would be justified to grant the telephone company rate adjustments until the details of the 4 1/2 per cent contract between the A. T. and T. and the Michigan Bell have been revealed. The outstate cities apparently will support the state's position in the federal court litigation.

Taggart and Farley planned to leave for Detroit where they will decide definitely whether to file an intervening petition.
