FOREIGN DEBT PACTS PLAGUE PARTY CHIEFS

EUROPEANS ANGERED, U. S. SENATORS RESTIVE.

By DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1926, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Mar. 27.—If anybody in 1918 could have foreseen the international ill-feeling that would have resulted over the payment of war debts the government of the United States would have made definite and explicit arrangements for repayments. As it was the treasury department extended help quickly and without even asking about repayment and the net result is that not a single big country to whom the United States lent money feels that it should have been repaid at all.

France vs. Italy.

On top of this is the difficulty which the administration is experiencing in getting the Italian debt settlement ratified. The senate is debating whether the American commission which negotiated the agreement should not have gotten more. The Italians feel they paid too much. And now Senator Smoot, chairman of the American commission, in his opening speech pleading for a ratification of the Italian agreement is compelled to promise his colleagues that under no circumstances will France get the same terms as were granted to Italy.

No Downward Revision.

The significance of the debate is that the senate is in no mood to consider reduction of terms downward for France and that if Great Britain entertained the hope that her agreement might be revised by a kind-hearted congress, the speeches delivered in London this week will have the opposite effect. Congress is approaching a biennial election and issues are very scarce. There are plenty of voters who for traditional or other reasons like to listen to speeches twisting the British lion's tail and plenty of voters who have an inherent dislike for the French because of the latter's constant conflict with Germany. This makes it possible to make of the debt question an internal political squabble and there is evidence that members of congress will not fall to take advantage of the opportunity on the stump to align themselves with the groups with foreign prejudices wherever there will be political advantage in so doing.

Best Part Possible.

The Italian debt problem has already sunk deeply in the bosom of internal politics. The anti-Fascist influence is so strong in this country that Senator Smoot felt warranted in appealing to his colleagues to disregard considerations of fascist factionalism in America in considering the debt agreement made with Italy. His argument was that the American commission really got the best agreement possible and that it was the amount Italy finally agreed to pay or nothing for failure to settle at all would have meant indefinite delay. Replies will be made to the Utah senator's speech by Republican and Democratic senators who want the agreement tabled till a better one can be obtained.

Barbara Bennett, Dancer, Denies Suicide Attempt

Los Angeles, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Barbara Bennett, 21, daughter of Richard Bennett, actor, and herself a well-known dancer, denied tonight that she had taken poison today with suicidal intent. Miss Bennett was treated at the receiving hospital after swallowing a small quantity of poisonous antiseptic. "It's all a mistake," Miss Bennett declared tonight. "The story that I tried to commit suicide because of trouble because of my sweetheart is ridiculous. I am as happy as can be and there is no man in my life." Physicians who later took charge of Miss Bennett told interviewing officers that the dancer had swallowed the poison by mistake when she had reached into a cabinet for a bottle of ordinary household medicine.

GREEK VESSEL CATCHES FIRE

Seven Sailors in Florida Hospital Suffering From Exposure.

Tarpon Springs, Fla., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Seven Greek sailors of the sponge fishing boat Tarpon Springs were in Knowles hospital here tonight suffering from burns and exposure after their remarkable escape in a fire aboard their ship 63 miles from Cedar Keys.

Match Thrown Carelessly.

Members of the crew said the blaze started when Alex Cousolins lighted a cigarette and threw the burning match to the deck. Cousolins and Savas Haskals had just gone on duty. "A gas line to the engine had sprung a leak and the match ignited a portion of the deck which had become saturated with gas."

Shouting a warning to other members of the crew, Cousolins and Haskals leaped into the gulf. The others followed, fearing an explosion from the spreading flames which neared the gasoline tank. However, the fire soon died down, survivors said, and seven of the crew returned to the boat.

Flagged Boats in Vain.

Survivors told friends here that they made numerous attempts to flag passing boats while the Tarpon Springs drifted for days. Last Tuesday their supplies of food and coal gave out. On Wednesday, a tug from Cedar Keys answered their distress calls and rescued them.

Two Physicians Aboard a Speed Boat met the tug about thirty-five miles from the Tarpon Springs dock today and attended to the injured men.

Painted Women Lose Denver Judge's Favor

Denver, Colo., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Women who "appear in court with painted faces", and complain against husbands to whom they have been married for many years, do not "make any big hit" in county Judge George A. Luxford's court. The jurist so declared himself today in denying the application of Mrs. Ceila Kelley, which sought to restrain her husband from molesting herself and children.

There are too many women about your age who paint up their faces and come into court to complain against their husbands," Judge Luxford told Mrs. Kelley, who said she had been married 21 years.

Mrs. Newman was not injured.

Appeal For Gifts.

"Such pieces, of course, cannot be purchased," Mrs. Coolidge was quoted as explaining. "They have been in families for generations and are even now in possession of private families. The only way I can carry out my plan will be through the gifts of these antiques."

Washington, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Repeated efforts to have the public let in on the deep secret of how senators voted yesterday on the nomination of Thomas F. Concluding the evidence of "unfaithful and inefficient service" by the sheriff, they presented testimony that he was a visitor at a house described as a "very fast place," frequented by girls of "shady character," that he gave liquor to friends and that under his regime drunkenness, gambling and immorality was rampant at the jail. The hearing was adjourned for next Friday to give counsel for the sheriff further opportunity to prepare his defense.

4 CHILDREN ARE VICTIMS OF ACCIDENT

ALL OCCUPANTS OF CAR INSTANTLY KILLED.

Corunna, Mich., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Six persons, two adults and four children, were instantly killed at 3:57 o'clock this afternoon when the car in which they were riding was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train at the Shiawassee street crossing in Corunna. The dead are: J. L. Smith, 40, a farmer, living near Bancroft. Mrs. Pillsbury, his mother, who lived with him. Marion Smith, 7 years old, his daughter. Billie Smith, 3 years old, his son. Wayne Smith, one and one-half years old, his son. Florence Hemingway, 11 years old.

Were Driving to Owosso.

Smith, with his mother and children, were on their way to Owosso, where Mrs. Smith was employed, to get her for the return to their home in the country. The curtains were fastened on the car and it is not believed that Smith saw the train until the locomotive struck the car.

Engineer Listenfelt, who was in charge of the head engine of the train, a double-header, stated that he did not realize that there was a car approaching until he saw the wreckage flying from the crash. The automobile approached the track from the south, and the train was west-bound from Detroit to Grand Haven.

MRS. COOLIDGE DRESSES WELL

Believes in Economy But She's Best Dressed First-Lady

BY ALLENE SUMNER
NEA Service Writer.
Washington.—Grace Goodhue Coolidge, first lady of the land for nearly three years, is known to social Washington as "the best dressed woman who has ever graced the White House."

But this doesn't mean Mrs. Coolidge has deserted the cause of Coolidge economy. No president's wife within memory spent as little on her wardrobe as does Mrs. Coolidge. She has solved woman's hardest problem—how to spend little, but be well dressed.

And she makes no bones about it. She even chuckles a bit over the consternation she sometimes sees on the faces of high-hat guests when they see her in a made-over gown at a White House reception.

Dislikes Formality.
Mrs. Coolidge dislikes formal dress of stiff brocades and glittering stuffs. Hundreds of pictures of her have been taken—but rare indeed is the picture showing her in décolleté.

"The president doesn't like it," says one picture agency.
Besides, the expense! This is an economical administration.

Although Mrs. Coolidge is rarely seen without a string of beads of some sort, she does not wear expensive jewels. In fact, it is said that she owns no diamonds but her simple little engagement ring. But she loves earrings.

She is as conservative in dress as her husband is in politics. No matter what the mode, she wears skirts that reach nearly to her ankles. She seldom pays more than $2 for a pair of hose, although she buys large quantities of them, owning hose in a hundred shades to match various costumes.

Looks for Bargains.
When she does her own shopping in one of Washington's specialty shops she is not above picking up a "bargain," a flower from the tray of those "slightly soiled," a "sample" comb or a string of beads.

An incident at a recent glittering White House reception is illuminating.
The cream of Washington's society was in the line that moved past her. As the gowned and jeweled women walked up to take her hand, a woman less modestly dressed came up. She was a "society tattler"—a woman who has made her living for years by attending Washington's functions and writing articles about them.

Her eyes were busy as she approached Mrs. Coolidge, trying to note every detail of the first lady's costume. Mrs. Coolidge noticed it. Her eyes sparkled. She leaned forward and whispered:
"You can get the description from some old clippings, Miss ———. It's an old one again. Just made over a little bit."

I know this is a true anecdote, for I heard it myself. I was next in line.
Always Genuine.
White House attaches who have attended countless receptions in many administrations marvel at Mrs. Coolidge's poise. Always she manages to inject real warmth and sincerity into the hundreds of greetings she must give to strangers.

And she seems to enjoy it, too. She almost grins when she comes down the marble stairway into the Blue Room while the Marine band plays "Hail to the Chief." Some of her intimate friends say she has said:
"I rarely go through this act but what I am thinking of the days when I daily promenade consisted of going to market in Northampton with a basket on my arm, while I tried to decide whether to buy steaks or chops for supper."

Another woman, who knew her in the days before she entered the White House, says:
Still Light-Hearted.
"She has refused to be made miserable by the demands put upon her as president's wife. She giggles and chatters as much as in the days when we lived together at the hotel and borrowed one another's ironing board."

Everyone in Washington, in fact, has a good word to say for Mrs. Coolidge. It has been many years since a first lady was as well liked as the present one.

The young woman who comes to the White House to dress her hair is one of her boosters.
"I was scared to death the first time I was called in," she says. "I kept thinking, 'what if I get water down the back of her neck?'" But, honestly, I'm not afraid of it at all now. In fact, I did spill some water on her once, and she only laughed and said, 'Do I get a bath, too?'"

A White House attaché says:
"She gets a big laugh out of the funny letters people write her and the things they try to give her. And whenever a child tries to send her a guinea pig or a white mouse or a rabbit, she is especially sure that the little letter is answered at once."

Mrs. Coolidge does not give interviews. She did, when she first entered the White House—but she found that the reporters wrote of her only as an economical housewife. And her vanity was a bit hurt.

"They might at least have remembered that I like music as well as to bake shortcake," she is said to have commented.

Five Aerial Expeditions to Seek North Pole This Summer

By NEA Service

Washington.—The most romantic, dare-devil race in history—a race for the North Pole by air—will be on by the end of March.

Five expeditions, three of them American, will sail up the white reaches of the limitless ice fields on new quests for information, undiscovered lands and adventure.

A hidden Arctic continent that is believed to live about the pole, and that may contain oil and valuable ores, may be claimed for this or some other government as a result of the flight. Important air trade routes may be discovered. New knowledge of Arctic regions is sure to result.

But chiefly there is sport—adventure, competition, a five-sided dash for the glory of being the first to reach the North Pole by air.

Four of the explorers will go by airplane; the fifth will fly in a dirigible.

This latter expedition is headed by the famous Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole and life-long explorer of the lands of eternal winter. He will be accompanied by Lincoln Ellsworth, wealthy young American. A big dirigible has been especially constructed for them in Italy, and sixteen men will be in their party.

In a way, theirs is the most ambitious undertaking of the lot. For their flight, financed by the Norwegian Aero club and the Italian government, begins at Rome. They will fly the Norwegian flag.

They hope to be able to start late this month. From Rome they will fly to Spitzbergen, that lonely island far up on the edge of the northern sea. The explorers are undecided whether to fly by way of London or Petrograd.

At Spitzbergen a special mooring mast has been erected, and the dirigible will stay there for three weeks for a general overhauling. Then they will start for the pole. If possible, they hope to continue on to Alaska.

Provided all plans go through properly, another expedition will be taking off for the pole just about the time Amundsen's dirigible leaves Spitzbergen. This is the expedition sponsored by the Detroit Aviation society and the National Geographic society, and it has already established a base at Point Barrow, Alaska.

It is headed by two distinguished aviators—Capt. George H. Wilkins, native of Australia, and Major Thomas G. Lamphier, commander of the first army pursuit group, who has been given a leave of absence so that he can make the trip. Fokker planes will be used.

Also during this month, the steamer Chantier will sail from New York for Spitzbergen with a party of naval reservists headed by Lieut. Com. Richard E. Byrd. On arrival at Spitzbergen, a three-engine Fokker plane will be assembled and Byrd, with one companion, will hop off for the pole.

Byrd expects to fly first to Cape Morris Jessup, the extreme northern tip of Greenland, and establish a base there. This will cut the distance that will have to be made in non-stop flights.

Two members of the famous group of American army aviators who flew around the world will lead the fourth flight, an expedition backed by Edsel Ford, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and others. They are Lieut. Leigh Wade and Lieut. Henry H. Ogden, who recently resigned from the army to make the trip. They will use specially built Douglas planes, and are expected to make Spitzbergen their base.

The fifth air expedition will be headed by Lieutenant Fillassen of Norway, who expects to take off from the bleak shores of Nova Zembla.

A French expedition will also use an airplane, but according to latest reports will place its chief reliance on new motor sledges.

A trip to the North Pole by air has been the dream of explorers for decades. Actual attempts to reach the pole by air, however, have been few.

Outstanding in the popular memory, of course, is the attempt made by Amundsen and Ellsworth last year—an attempt that came within an inch of ending in death for both. That trip, incidentally, convinced Amundsen that dirigibles were better than airplanes for polar travel.

Donald MacMillan, also went north last year with airplanes, but was blocked by bad weather conditions. Late in the alpeutis a Swedish

SEE NECESSITY OF COMPROMISE

Consideration of Farm Bill Depends Upon Concessions.

Washington, Mar. 27.—(P)—Coincident with a warning from Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, that a political disaster would overtake senators and representatives in November unless relief legislation was brought up for consideration; members of the house agriculture committee indicated today that compromise must be resorted to, to get a measure before the house.

Delivering his pronouncement after Senator McKinley, Republican, Illinois, had explained certain activities of the government in aiding agriculture, Senator Borah asked whether the administration had abandoned all legislation concerning the farmer. His remarks drew half a dozen senators into the argument and finally Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, declared he had become convinced that nothing would be done at this session.

Brookhart Blames Congress. Senator Borah urged that measures now before the senate agriculture committee be brought out for consideration, even though it might be found that the farm problem could not be reached by legislation.

The difficulty in the situation was described by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, to the inability of farmers to get together on a bill.

Senator Brookhart placed the blame for the situation on congress and said both parties should get together and read their own platform pledges.

With the third week of hearings on the subject passed, and a solution apparently no nearer, house agriculture committee members predicted that it would be necessary for the committee to write its own bill, which would represent an effort to reconcile at least some of the wide differences aired in committee and on the floor of the house. Thus far, virtually every one of the 15 pending relief measures before it has come under fire.

4 Cabinet Officers Will Draw Contract for Leasing Shoals

Washington, Mar. 27.—(P)—Broad provisions of a leasing contract for Muscle Shoals will be drawn by four cabinet officers authorized to speak for the administration.

A draft will be prepared by secretaries Hoover, Jardine, Work and Dwight F. Davis to serve as a guide to the joint congressional committee charged with negotiating a lease. The cabinet officers met the committee in conference at the capitol today and agreed to turn over departmental experts to serve as advisers.

During the discussion, it developed that the cabinet members were not in thorough accord on the method of utilizing Muscle Shoals.

Secretary Hoover holds that the property should be leased in two units, one for fertilizer and one for power, while Secretary Jardine contends that fertilizer production should be the dominating feature at Muscle Shoals. Secretary Davis is known to hold the position that Muscle Shoals should be held in readiness to produce nitrogen for ammunition.

Anti-American Rows In Mexico Watched by Washington Gov't

Washington, Mar. 27.—(P)—The Washington government is taking note of the recent anti-American outbreaks in Mexico, but there is no indication thus far whether it will feel impelled to bring strong diplomatic pressure to bear at Mexico City. It was disclosed that American foreign office, asking that quick action be taken to capture and punish the bandits who kidnapped and robbed a group of American mining engineers in Durango.

The state department declined to discuss any details of the negotiations thus begun, or to predict where they might lead.

Despite the feeling that has grown over the new Mexican land and petroleum laws, now a subject of dispute between the two countries, officials at the state department manifestly are disposed to look upon the recent succession of outrages against Americans in Mexico as merely a recurrence of banditry, for which the Calles government cannot be held too strictly accountable.

presented its demand to Chairman Green of the committee who advised them to confer with the Democrats. This they did, but Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader who called Democrats on the committee to his office to listen to the women, finally informed them that they were talking to the minority party which could do nothing but sympathize.

The group then journeyed to the office of Speaker Longworth, who hastily made clear that he had no authority over the committee, and Representative Tilson, Connecticut, the Republican leader, who was present, asserted he also had no jurisdiction over legislation until reported by a committee.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

Latest Tacna-Arica correspondence was made public by the state department.

Cabinet members considered Muscle Shoals with a joint congressional committee.

Senator Borah declared "something disastrous will happen" at the next election if some farm relief is not considered.

Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, has delayed a proposed senate investigation of the Passaic, N. J., textile strike.

Announcement was made of a request to Mexico for expeditious action against bandits who kidnaped American mining engineers.

MINNOWS HELP EXTERMINATION OF MOSQUITOS

BY GEORGE BRITT
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—When putting a minnow on the hook for bait in this spring's fishing, you might pause a moment to salute the victim as one of man's best friends.

But for him, malaria would depopulate a great sweep of territory. His achievements in mosquito extermination give him every right to sneer at man's insignificant campaigns of spraying oil on the swamps.

"Without the gambusia, commonly called top minnow and pot-bellied minnow, it is highly probable that many cities in the malaria section would be uninhabitable," says Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the United States bureau of fisheries. "Cities may grow regardless of endemic yellow fever, but they are helpless against malaria unless there is some check on it."

Exonerates Watermelon. The anopheles mosquito in the south is the carrier of malaria. Science has placed its final denail on talk which attributes malaria to breathing lowland air or eating watermelon after October 1. The mosquito causes malaria. And the gambusia finds his favorite diet in mosquitoes, wiggletails and eggs.

Farther north the war on mosquitoes is carried on by the common sunfish, roach and killifish, and by various minnows. Even the pampered goldfish keeps mosquitoes out of park basins and pools.

In hundreds of communities this year, with the coming of warm weather, minnows will be placed in ponds and shallow, stagnant pools in order to keep down mosquitoes. The efficacy of the method has been demonstrated beyond question by the public health service and the bureau of fisheries.

Commissioner O'Malley gives particular credit to Dr. Samuel F. Hildebrand of the bureau, an expert on the subject.

"When the value of the top minnow was still speculative, some studies were made in a brickyard which contained a large number of sinks and shallow full of water," says the commissioner. "The pools were about 10 or 12 feet long and two feet wide, and each contained thousands of mosquito larvae. Six minnows were placed in each pool, and in about two weeks they had cleaned out the wiggletails."

Mosquito Is Tough. "One interesting discovery was of the comparative hardiness and toughness of the mosquitoes. Some experiments were made in the grounds of a chemical factory. The mosquitoes were breeding prolifically in a pool which was strongly tinged with sulphuric acid from the factory. The minnows could not live in the acid solution. But in neighboring pools untouched by acid, the minnows were a complete protection against mosquitoes."

"In ponds and swamps, of course, minnows must be put in by thousands to make a showing against the insects. In such conditions, the chief difficulty is with vegetation, particularly the silver leaf grass, in which the larvae are protected from the fish. Effective mosquito control requires the eradication of such grasses."

The gambusia has peculiar biological habits. The young are not hatched from eggs, as are most fish, but are born fully formed as in the case of mammals. They are self-sufficient at birth, which is fortunate for them because of the mother's tendency to devour her offspring unless they dart out of her way. The fully developed female is about 2 3/8 inches long, the adult male about 1 1/2 inches, and the babies about half an inch.

They are exceedingly prolific. A single mother will produce six broods in a season, averaging 40 or 50 to the brood. In exceptional cases, there have been 100 in a brood. The young have been known to start eating mosquito larvae when only a day old.

NEW FRENCH CRISIS SEEN

Peret's Plan for Taxing "Business Turnover" Much Opposed.

Paris, Mar. 27.—(P)—Ready cash for the French treasury to the amount of three billion francs, which must be found before the 1926 budget can be approved by the chamber and can pass the senate, was the problem confronting Raoul Peret, the finance minister, tonight.

The new minister of finance has for a panacea of all the ills confronting the French financial situation "a tax on business turnover." This is received with little favor by the right and center parties and the indications are that there will be another cabinet crisis next week.

All indications point to the probability that Peret will be defeated on the tax business turnover unless he agrees to shift the burden from direct to indirect taxes, especially on wines, beer and spirits.

Louis Marin, former nationalistic member, remarked today: "France must become a prohibition country like the United States."

Martha Washington Descendent Is Sued

Washington, Mar. 27.—(P)—Announcement was made today by counsel for Armistead Peter, Jr., defendant in a suit by his estranged wife for an accounting of securities and jewelry valued at $2,300,000 that he has "fully intact" all the property. He is a descendant of Martha Washington.

"Every step which Mr. Peter has taken regarding this property," it was added, "has been taken under the advice, direction and guidance of counsel. In due time there will be submitted to the court all of the facts and a decision which will protect all parties interested will be sought."

CRYSTAL FALLS FIREBUG

This Bad Blaze There Arouses Citizens of City.

Crystal Falls, Mar. 27—The third fire within the last two weeks, occurring Thursday night with the loss of two buildings, has brought terror to Crystal Falls and officials are preparing for an intensive hunt to find the firebug believed responsible.

Owners of buildings and houses are in fear lest they be the next victims of an arson fanatic who is thought to have applied the torch on two previous occasions, bringing the total fire loss for the last two weeks to a figure approximating $200,000.

The fire destroyed a storage garage and a store building on Superior street, east of the North-Western tracks. The frame structures were owned by Ed. Bregger, and while the loss has been estimated at only $5,000, the fire temporarily crippled two more business houses and has struck further alarm to the business section.

The first fire, which caused a loss of about $125,000, was passed off as being of natural cause. The second, following within a few hours and doing damage estimated at about $60,000 and $65,000, gave rise of rumors of incendiarism, but as no evidence was unearthed it was finally believed to have been merely fate.

Suspicious Aroused.
The third fire, however, has not only brought conviction that it was of incendiary origin, but has firmly planted the belief that the first two were also the work of a firebug. Every effort will be made to find the firebug, and the investigation will be pressed in order to avert, if possible, further losses.

The fear engendered here has been increased by apprehension that, despite the best work of the firemen, one of the fires may get completely out of control and turn the business district into holocaust.

ROUGH HOUSERS.
The undefeated Northtown Rough House quintet will play the Class of 1925 Cardinals at the Webster school gymnasium on Monday night. There will be no admission charge made.

Walk-Over

What have shoes to do with what girls' knees need?

Simply this: in these days of brief and skimpy skirts shoes have just naturally got to be pretty to compete with slim and youthful knees. Walk-Over shoes are. It takes more than merely pretty style to make a shoe attractive. It takes skill in making that style to fit the youthful foot. Here is one place where your slim and narrow heel can be fitted—the Walk-Over store.

"I BEG YOU, ALL TO DRINK MORE MILK FOR YOUR HEALTHS."

SO wrote Lord Timothy Dexter in his quaint book published in 1792.

Today physicians, dieticians, nurses, eminent scientists and food authorities broadcast this same message—"drink more milk for your health!"

Of the value of milk in the diet of children there has never been any question—now people of every age who enjoy good health consume good milk at an ever increasing rate and find in its nature's best health maker.

In supplying the people of this community with dairy products we have been quick to sense the responsibility of the task, and it will always be our pledge to guard the richness and purity of our milk and cream from its original source on the farms until it reaches your table.

We solicit your business on the basis of unequalled quality and service.

If you are not already a customer, a few days' trial will convince you.

AUGIE BAND IS 50 YEARS OLD

Has Won National Reputation as Musical Organization.

The Augustana College concert band which will appear in a concert at the Swedish Lutheran church auditorium Tuesday evening, April 6, was organized 52 years ago as the "Augustana Silver Cornet Band" and since that time has gained national reputation as artists of the highest ability.

The organization of the band took place in October, 1874, at Paxton, Ill., and was the first musical organization of Augustana college. There were twelve charter members of the band, four of whom are still living.

With the removal of Augustana college to Rock Island, Ill., in 1875, the band entered into its activities as a full-fledged, though inexperienced, band. Two years ago the 50th anniversary of its organization was celebrated and work was begun on the compilation of a history of its activities.

In its 1926 Easter concert tour the college organization will cover Illinois, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan and Minnesota. Plans for December call for a trip to Denver and during the summer months of 1927, to Sweden.

The appearance of the Augustana band here is the second within a period of two years. On its debut here in April, 1924, press comment said it "won more popularity in Escanaba, perhaps, than any other university of college organization that has appeared here in several years."

AMUSEMENTS

TODAY'S PROGRAMS.

At the Deft: "Braveheart," a romantic drama of college life, with Rod LaRoque, Robert Edson, Lillian Rich and others.

At the Strand: "The Isle of Hope," starring Richard Tamadge.

A bevy of beauties! That is one of the attractions of "Sally, Irene and Mary," the Edmund Goulding production coming to the Delft theatre Monday.

Not only are the three principals proteges of the goddess of beauty, but members of the supporting group are also disciples of Venus.

This production was made on a lavish scale and is studded with luxury from beginning to end.

Constance Bennett plays Sally, the gold-digger type of show girl. Irene is enacted by Joan Crawford. She is the unsophisticated little girl from the east side, who becomes a dancer in "The Dainties."

Sally O'Neil shines as Mary, the young Irish girl who is not lured by the glitter of gold.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" reveals the lives of three stage favorites and how misadventure in love happening to all three make Mary realize what a jewel she has in her nearly rejected sweetheart, Jimmie Dugan, an East Side plumber.

Edmund Goulding directed the picture and wrote the story of the screen version of this stage success by Edward Dowling.

"The Winding Stair," the first picture to be directed by John Griffith Wray for William Fox, which opens Monday at the Strand Theatre, is adapted from the exotic and romantic novel by A. E. W. Mason, noted English author. Its locale is Morocco, with the French Foreign Legion prominent in the action of the story. Edmund Lowe, playing the role of the hero, is cast as an officer of the legion, as is also Mahlon Hamilton, who plays the second lead.

Alma Rubens, as the heroine, is an American dancing girl stranded in a Moorish coast city and forced to earn a living by dancing in a Bohemian cafe. The romance between her and the hero starts when they meet in this cabaret.

In the supporting cast are Chester Conklin, Frank Leigh, Warner Oland and Emily Fitzroy.

Library Circulation Is Increased 25 Percent During Last Two Years

More than 4,500 Escanabans borrowed about 71,000 books from the Escanaba Carnegie library in the twelve-month fiscal period which is nearing a close. These figures will establish a new record in the patronage and circulation of the institution, and will show an excellent growth particularly during the last five years, a survey of the file of annual reports discloses.

The library is now 23 years of age. It was established in 1903 with the aid of Andrew Carnegie. M. K. Bissell was the first president of the board, Judge Emil Glaser was vice president and other members of the board were Peter Bloomstrom, J. F. Carey, W. A. Cotton, Rev. J. M. Kerrieger, E. M. St. Jacques and F. H. Van Cleave. Miss Mae B. Hewitt was the first librarian of the institution.

The first year's donors. The library was opened with 2,516 books on its shelves. During its first year it issued 2,016 readers' cards, and attained a circulation of 35,931 volumes, a daily average for the 242 days it was in operation of 144.

This year the library has 13,500 books, 4,500 card holders, a total circulation of 71,000 and a daily average of 289 "loans." The circulation gain for the last two years will be about twenty-five per cent over 1923.

The donors of the library, listed in the 1924-25 annual report, include the following names: Mrs. C. E. Andrews, Appleton Public Library, Miss L. Bascom, M. K. Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bloomstrom, Miss Ethel Briggs, J. F. Carey, Andrew Carnegie, H. W. Coburn, J. J. Cox, Mrs. C. A. Cram,

O. B. Fuller, Grand Army of the Republic, Miss Martha Green, Harper Brothers, William Look, Miss Jessie Linsley, Mrs. John M. Miller, H. M. Noble, Miss Georgia Oliver, J. F. Oliver, Mrs. C. Palmer, Mrs. A. Parkhurst, Public Schools, H. B. Sallinsky, Miss M. Selden, Miss Alice Setgath, Master Guy Stegath, Dr. and Mrs. A. Urquhart, E. F. Van Valkenburg, F. C. Van Cleave, A. Warn and G. B. Wurta.

The first year's files contained the following newspapers: Escanaba Daily Mirror, Escanaba Iron Port, Escanaba Journal, Escanaba Medborgaren, Chicago Record-Herald, Chicago Tribune, Milwaukee Sentinel and Chicago Sunday Inter Ocean. It is interesting to note that of this list only two—the Chicago Tribune and the Milwaukee Sentinel—are now being published.

The library's growth in scope and popularity has been constant since its foundation. Every year has seen a material increase in the number of books on the shelves and the number of borrowers.

The opening of a branch in the Webster school has made the institution more accessible to people of the north side, and special attention to the juvenile and reference departments in recent years have greatly increased the usefulness.

The librarians, who have been in charge of the institution during the 23 years of its existence, are: Mae E. Hewitt, 1903-6; Edith E. Harper, 1906-7; Helen D. Gorton, 1907-12; Wilhelmina Van der Hagen, 1912-13.

Laura E. Brubaker, 1913-18; Florence Day, 1918-19; Marion Dahl, 1919-21; Nancy B. Thomas, 1922-date.

"You Can Find It."

The record made by the library during the last three years is due, in a major measure, to the efficiency of Mrs. Thomas. Service has been the keynote of her administration, and she has extended the idea into a wide range of activities.

Annual observations of children's book weeks, the laying out of reading courses for those seeking to enlarge their knowledge and information along many lines of endeavor and interest, and continual attention to the tastes and demands of patrons in the way of new books, have been some of the factors which have worked greatly to the value of the library to the people of Escanaba.

The file of magazines and periodicals and the reading rooms are in constant use, and the public every day, is growing more and more to appreciate the truth of the phrase: "You can find out at the library."

State Sports in Brief

Michigan State college has acquired in Barney Traynor an assistant football coach who is fortified with 12 years' experience in playing and teaching the gridiron game. Back in the days when he attended West Division high school, Milwaukee, Traynor won letters in football and track. Even the war, which he entered almost as soon as he had been graduated from high school, could not banish athletics from him, for he played in France on football teams recruited from army ranks.

For four years, beginning in 1919, Traynor played on the College university football team which he captained during his senior year. Field sports were not forgotten, for he took two letters in weight events.

Traynor coached the line at Wisconsin in the two years immediately following his graduation from Colgate. There, too, he assisted in coaching track men and taught basketball theory. Last year he spent at Marquette university studying law.

Traynor will begin spring football work at East Lansing April 5. He takes the place of John Taylor, now on a year's leave.

The promise of organized baseball this year has aroused enthusiastic interest not only in Ludington but in many cities and towns nearby.

Hart, Manistee, Shelby, Pentwater and Scottville fans welcome the renaissance of professional pastime at Ludington because it will offer convenient diversion for the hundreds of baseball-loving resorters who summer thereabouts.

Baseball has been more successful in Ludington than in many Michigan cities of larger population. It is remote from cities of southern Michigan, but its being linked in a circuit with Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Kalamazoo will make the matter of long and expensive road trips a much simpler one than that of teams in the Michigan-Ontario league which in past years have labored under the expense of long road trips to and from Ontario cities of the circuit.

From the financial side, the Ludington baseball enterprise will start auspiciously. There is a fund remaining from the former Ludington Central league club, and this is being swollen by a drive for more funds.

Definite plans, the signing of a manager and players and other details of baseball organization are being held in abeyance until it has been definitely determined that the new league will function.

Elevation of tennis as a college sport in Michigan is seen in optimistic announcements from several state schools concerning plans for their 1926 net teams.

At Michigan State college the netmen are being looked to in part to redeem the sad season suffered by the basketball team. The racket talent at East Lansing is the best in several seasons and the number of candidates for place is larger.

Most of the junior colleges of the state contemplate having tennis teams this year. Grand Rapids junior college has such a wealth of talent that it has eyes on the state intercollegiate title. It also is sponsoring a state junior college meet which will be held May 28, 29, and 30. If sufficient interest is shown by other junior colleges, including those at Flint, Pontiac, Port Huron, Highland Park and Bay City.

Hope college, Western State normal, Ferris institute and Calvin college, as well as most of the schools making up the Michigan intercollegiate athletic association, are planning to play tennis on a competitive scale this spring.

The state intercollegiate championships will be decided at East Lansing June 3, 4 and 5. The University of Michigan teams will not take part in this meet, confining itself to dual meets and to the Western conference championships, which will be held early in June.

LOSE TO DIANAS IN FINALS, 25-17

Players Get Individual Awards and Silver Loving Cup.

Ishpeming, Mich., Mar. 27.—(Special)—The Ishpeming Dianas defeated the Escanaba Independents in the finals of the Class A Independent basketball tournament here tonight by a 25 to 17 score.

The Eskey Indees put up a stubborn battle, holding their fresher opponents to a 15-15 tie until the fourth quarter when the Dianas slowly drew into the lead.

The Escanaba quint was forced to play three preliminary games, while the Dianas played only two before their final competition, receiving a forfeit in the opener.

In the preliminary round Escanaba trimmed the Marquette Green Devils 26 to 13. They followed this in the afternoon with a 31 to 22 win over the Marquette Celtics in the afternoon and at 7 o'clock last night took the Negaunee Maroons into camp in the semi-finals.

The Escanaba lads had one of the classiest passing combinations seen here. They put up some mighty fine games and were doped to win from the Dianas until Soderberg, Eskey guard, was taken out on four personals during the last quarter of the final game.

The line-ups on this game follow:
ESCANABA Ishpeming
Andrews McNamara
Gagner LeClaire
Christensen Holmgren
Soderberg Corkin
Schram Nelmi
St. Louis Watson

The members of the Escanaba Independents were awarded silver basketball fobs and the team was given a silver loving cup.

The Negaunee Blue Devils by defeating the Escanaba Polar Bears by a 17-15 score won the Class B title for the peninsula.

Wakfield was awarded a cap for displaying the best sportsmanship among the Class A teams, with the Munising Central winning the same cap in Class B.

Sixteen teams were entered in the Class A meet and eight in the Class B section of the tournament which was sponsored by the Ishpeming Y. M. C. A.

NAVY BOXERS WIN.
Annapolis, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Navy mittmen successfully defended their inter-collegiate boxing championship here tonight by carrying off titles in three divisions and amassing a total of fifteen points, a margin of two over Penn State, which played second. Close decisions marked almost every contest, extra rounds being ordered in three bouts.

Official dictum meet only two Western conference schools in baseball this spring—Michigan on Ohio State.

The M. S. C. schedule is largely concerned with out-of-state schools, the list including, Bradley Polytechnic, Syracuse university, Lake Forest, Butler, St. Viators, Armour Tech and Western State Normal.

Besides two games with the University of Michigan, the Staters' Wolverine opposition will come from Albion, Olivet, Hope and Western State Normal.

The southern training trip schedule provides for games with the Bowling Green Fort Benning and St. Xavier.

There are nine six-footers on the Tigers squad now training at Augusta, Ga. They are Cobb, Rip Collins, Samuel Gibson, Harry Hellmann, Kenneth Holloway, Carl Hubbell, Heinie Manush, George Smith and Big Ed Wells.

The "Thy Tim" of the outfit is Jack Twener who towers only 5 feet 5-inches skyward and weighs 142 pounds.

Both St. Louis Ball Teams Are Contenders for Pennant in 1926

New York, Mar. 27.—(AP)—Although at least five clubs figure themselves likely to be in the thick of each of the major league championships frays for 1926, the main discussion of chances so far has centered about the two clubs in each circuit which did most of the 1925 battling—the Senators and Athletics in the American, and the Pirates and Giants in the National.

St. Louis, however, has a double rebuttal for the followers of this division. The Athletics occupy Philadelphia's leading role, with the Phillies not regarded as pennant factors. Boston Braves may be the National League sensation, if their pre-season expectations are fulfilled, but the Red Sox are not classed as contenders.

Chicago White Sox look powerful in the American League race, but the Cubs appear to critics to be doomed to another season in the second division. NINE NEW FACES IN DETROIT LINE

Infield, Pitching and Catching Positions Strengthened.

Detroit, Mar. 27.—Nine new faces and two that have been missing for a year beam among the 33 men that have been signed by the Detroit Tigers for the 1926 American League campaign.

The new material came by purchase, recall and draft. Eight were purchased, two recalled and one drafted.

The men for whom the Tigers' management laid down either gold or players are: Smith, Barfoot, Gibson, Hubbell and Johns, pitchers; Mullen and Warner, third baseman; and Ruble, outfielder. Thomas McCarthy, a catcher, is the single drafted man, while Manion and Gehringer were recalled.

This what new strength has been given the club has been in the pitcher's box, at third, at second and behind the plate. The improvement in the box remains to be demonstrated; early training camp reports are that either Warner or Mullen will be able to handle third satisfactorily; while Gehringer is crowding Leslie Burke and Frank O'Rourke hard for second base.

The real beneficiary of the new talent, however, appear to be in the catcher's box. Manion, who formerly was a third string receiver for the Tigers, has blossomed into a skilled player. McCarthy (correct), has shown such class that Cobb will have a hard time of it when it comes to reducing his staff.

The outfield probably will be the same as last year, with the possible exception of replacement in centerfield, for part of the season at least. Manager Cobb has not indicated that he will not play, but indications are that he will be content to devote his entire time to managing the club from the bench, provided his outfield shows sufficient strength without him.

M-O Ball League Votes to Readmit Hamilton, London

Flint, Mich., Mar. 27.—(AP)—By a vote of three to one today, directors of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League voted to re-admit Hamilton and London into the 1926 circuit.

Flint opposed, but Saginaw, Bay City and Port Huron acquiesced on the petition.

The directors tied a string on their votes, however. Their demand that the Canadians, who were ousted from the league for failure to comply with the constitution, in posting $1,250 forfeits, show legal organization papers and negotiable securities to President T. J. Halligan at his office here by next Saturday.

When you talk pennant, Bancroft interrupts with a "that's what I am shooting at but I have no thoughts for 1926. We are on the way, however."

Since taking charge of the Boston club the Braves have shown steady improvement under his direction. Last season the club finished at the top of the second division and was playing as good ball as any team in the league when the curtain was rung down.

"It is really remarkable how some slight change can bolster up a ball club," said Bancroft as he continued to discuss his team. "Take, for instance, the signing of Second Baseman Walter Gautreaux. When Connie Mack turns a ball player loose, the opinion is general that he isn't quite ready. Needing assistance at second, I took a chance on the former Holy Cross star.

"Little 'Gat' at once became the sparkplug of our team. He's never going to be a Rogers Hornsby at that but he will wedged together our infield in a most effective manner."

"Who is the best looking youngster on your ball club?" I asked.

"I have several promising recruits but I lean strongly to the pitcher warming up over there." He pointed to a husky athlete by the name of Wertz, with Worcester last season.

"That boy is going to be a great pitcher. As a matter of fact, he is pretty good right now. I look for him to win a lot of ball games."

Later as I watched him toy with the Washington club for three in-

Detroit Southeastern Is Class A Champion by Beating Muskegon

Treado and Holman Lead Attack for Michigamme Five; Beat St. Bernard of Alpena, 27 to 15

Waterman Gymnasium, Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Michigan took home the Class D cup, the ball with which the final game was played and a 27 to 15 victory over St. Bernard of Alpena, here tonight. The boys from upper Lake Huron won a silver cup for second place and the knowledge that in Vannini they had one of the stars of the tournament.

The victors left little doubt of their intention from the opening moment of the game. Vannini, of the Green-clad team sank the first basket, but St. Bernard came back with two before the St. Bernard star tied the count.

Treado and Holman Star.
The Alpena lads had two men to guard, however, and Treado took up the scoring when Holman was too closely guarded, setting three baskets in the first half. Vannini made a third basket from the center of a group of guards and Holman made a long, hard shot after missing a couple of dogs from directly under the baskets. Directly at the quarter was 9 to 4 and at the half 14 to 8. Michigamme, Holman, Treado and Ball made a pair of baskets in the third quarter and Beale a foul point, but Michigamme was held scoreless in the fourth. Vannini made a basket and a foul point, Shea two fouls and D. Bowen added another basket for St. Bernard after the intermission. Most of these scores being made in the fourth period.

SOUTHEASTERN WINS

Waterman Gymnasium, Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 27.—(AP)—Southeastern is Michigan's 1926 high school basketball champion. The Juncoaters won the title here tonight in one of the most sizzling games ever played on a Michigan court, defeating Muskegon, 26 to 20.

The big Detroit team had the best of the battle all the way through, leading progressively as the quarters were passed. It was 8 to 3 at the quarter, 16 to 7 at the half, 21 to 16 at three-quarters, and 26 to 20 at the end of the brilliant battle.

Muskegon Misses Chances.
While statistics were not available, Muskegon probably took twice as many shots as the victors. It was not their night for general baskets and it took several of the Anglers his team in scoring with four baskets. Shea had the same honors for the victors.

CAB CURTAIN LAW IS VALID

Michigan Supreme Court Upholds Act, Chaison is Notified.

Charles Chaison, of this city, chairman of the legislative committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in Michigan, yesterday received official notice that the Michigan state supreme court has rendered a decision sustaining in its every provision the cab curtain law passed by the Michigan legislature of 1921 and amended in 1923.

The law is designed to compel the railroads of Michigan to provide protection from the weather of locomotive engineers and firemen while at work on their engines during the winter months.

The validity of the law was brought up for trial in a test case in Ingham county, where Judge Collingswood rendered a decision upholding the statute. The case was appealed to the state supreme court and the decision rendered in the Ingham county court was upheld in every particular.

Several Have Complied.

A number of the railroads in Michigan have already complied with the law, without waiting for the decision of the court, in response to an order issued by the Michigan Public Utilities commission and the placing of curtains on engine cabs, on those roads, has resulted in a tremendous degree of winter comfort for the engineers.

The cab curtain law was initiated before the state legislature by the engineers and firemen of Michigan and the fact that the law has now been upheld by the state supreme court will be received with a wide measure of satisfaction by all railway employees.

Demented Man Not Identified; Sent to State Hospital

Unless medical specialists in Northern State hospital are able to restore the memory of the man picked up last week in a demented state by the local police, his identity may never be known. He was still muttering unintelligible phrases in Russian when doctors here examined him in probate court Friday, but he was not able to tell who he was or where he was from. He was taken to Newberry yesterday for treatment.

Several persons called at the county jail in an effort to identify the man. Among them were men who spoke Russian and several kindred languages, but none was able to converse with the demented man.

To The Voters of the City of Escanaba

I am a candidate for reelection as a member of the Escanaba city council at the municipal election on Monday, April 5, 1926.

I have served for nearly two years as a member of the council, through appointment to succeed the late L. A. Rose.

I am thoroughly in accord with the principles of the council-manager government and if reelected, it will be my determined aim to permit our charter to operate as it was intended by its framers—for the good of Escanaba and its people.

I believe in a continuation of the present program of paving, lighting and beautifying the city, in-so-far as our citizens may find to be expedient.

I believe thoroughly in the encouragement of new industries and will urge that the city administration take every possible step, in cooperation with other civic organizations, to advertise Escanaba to the commercial world, to the end that new industries may be established here. By the encouragement of industries already established here and the location of new industries in Escanaba, profitable employment may be provided for our wage earners and encourage others to make their homes here, adding to the prosperity and the wealth of our business interests and workers alike.

To the attainment of this end I pledge my most earnest effort and upon this platform I respectfully solicit the vote and the support of the electors of Escanaba.

No Circus Parades This Year, Owners Announce

Peru, Ind.—The annual circus season this year will lack one of its greatest thrills for the children. The circus parade, it has been decided by showmen here, is to be abandoned. The high priced performers, especially the Europeans, will not parade. The big circuses now visit only the large cities, it is explained, and noon-day traffic problems and the growing distance of the circus lot from the railroad make the parade physically impossible.

There are about 250 on the permanent staff of these three, and these, mostly the "convansmen" of the traveling days, are the nucleus around which is forming the band men, acrobatic teams and other specialties. The animal trainers, however, have been here all winter as usual, as the animals must be put through their stunts every day, else they quickly forget. Virtually all of the circus people come from small cities, probably because in the early days of the circus the performances were given mostly in smaller communities and the small boy of those places caught the circus fever. Then, too, the small town boy had a barn in which he could practice on the trapeze. In the garage of the city boy's father, there is no haymow to flop in.

The three circuses which spend the winter here have finished their winter overhauling, which includes inspection, repair and a fresh coat of paint.

Ten years ago there were twenty circuses with a train of ten or more railroad cars. Now there are only a dozen, but these have expanded until the largest circus in the country travels with 1,500 persons, and the smaller ones carry about 600.

Tennessee, Not Monkeys on Trial in Stribling's Book on Famous Trial

BY THE NEA BOOK SURVEY. Outstanding books of a week that fairly poured Spring volumes to this Survey to be T. S. Stribling's "Teetotal" (Doubleday, Page), Heywood Brown's "Gandhi Follows His Nose" (Boni, Live-right), F. W. Bronson's "Spring Running" (Doran), William Faulkner's "Soldier's Pay" (Boni, Live-right), Douglas Goldring's "Cuckoo" (McBride), and, for smaller audience, perhaps, the psycho-analytical Mr. O'Higgins's "Clara Barron" (Harpers).

Of class, particular attention is called to Stribling's novel, which has the ingredients of a sensation and to the low legend of the erstwhile colonizing Brown.

Some question exists whether he is able to continue to do so if this volume gains any general attention. The "Main Street" of the novel is Tennessee. In a sense of Tennessee it may be said that those who might be inclined to "ride him out" are like the very characters of his impressive books, and hence unable to read. The literate folk of the larger communities will probably have no quarrel with him.

We who journeyed to Dayton last summer were given small doses from the excellent conception Stribling has brewed out of a lifetime passed largely in the South. We saw the standing excursions of the "hot rollers" under the elm; we were quickly made aware of the joy taken in the "outspringing" of the city lawyers by the hilltop set; we lived in homes where a woman never entered a court house because that was a man's work; and only because of historic significance was the barrier lifted; we rode down to Chattanooga with humans made more of paradox than of clay; we heard much of the wages of sin and heard little of the rewards of virtue—on this earth; we felt the pressure of intolerance and enjoyed the child-like attitudes, marveling at the mixtures of ignorance and shrewdness.

In our simple way we paved the way for Stribling's book. It is not a pleasant story, but it is remarkably well done—impersonal, melodramatic, all encompassing. The hero, Abner Teetotalow, is thrice blessed because he "ain't had no book learning," his "mammy having died in the crazy house" and his grandfather having been a judge. There are lynchings and night ridings and beatings and a thorough covering of the complexities of the hill-billies. This will be one of "the books of the season.

As for Mons. Brown, he has strayed far down this column into a "Jurgensone Land, where philocephalic symbols point the way of life and where Gandhi, much confused and often baffled, follows his nose to the abrupt end where all noses bump into eternity. He threads a highway of gentle humor and understanding and into his experiences you may read what you will. It seemed to us that his adventures with the Genji, with its amusing moral—if you wish to call anything in this book a moral—contained some most mellow thinking and presentation. Not long ago this same Brown wrote a book called "The Boy Grew Older"—that boy sure has!

"Spring Running" is a first novel. Already there is a conflict of opinion among the "majors" regarding its merit. It is certainly a young man's novel about youth and its viewpoint and its chasing of dreams and lusts. There is in it much beauty and promise, and is marked particularly by a vivid presentation.

"Soldier's Pay" is quite as ironic as its title. It is a book that could be written only some years after the war, for it tells of the return of a veteran and how he looks upon the astounding changes in the world; it tells of the disillusion and fulfillment. In a measure it is a composite veteran and his composite views.

In "Cuckoo" we suspect young Goldring of having kept close company with Norman Douglas. This is a book belonging to the so-called "sophisticated" school, is witty and "naughty," but it caused us to chuckle merrily.

"Clara Barron" is psycho-analytical, without belonging to the laboratory brand. O'Higgins can write as well as any man in these United States. His tale is that of a woman who goes in for "causes."

Hexry-resorcinoal, a new anti-septic, is fifty times as strong as carbolic acid in its power to kill disease germs and is perfectly harmless to human beings.

WOMEN ARE TOO STOUT, TOO THIN

His Job to Pick Three Most Beautiful Men at University.

By NEA Service. Berkeley, Cal., Mar. 27.—Women, the beautiful sex? Not on your dimpled knees—at least, not in the place where the standard is sought to be. A young man named Byron F. Rivers, who lives in Louisville, Ky., and who is made up for a part in a college play. At the right is Miss Fay Lauphler, "Miss America" in the last Atlantic City beauty pageant.

Is the doctor right—are men more beautiful than women? This picture may help you decide. At the left is a young man named Byron F. Rivers, who lives in Louisville, Ky., and who is made up for a part in a college play. At the right is Miss Fay Lauphler, "Miss America" in the last Atlantic City beauty pageant.

And no beauty contest judge had to hard a task as does he when the lovely, pretty, beautiful boys come trooping around the professor of philology, all attired in their cut-throat-woolie bathing suits, showing every pale-bronzed charm.

The professor contemplates on his subject thus— "Take girls in bathing suits. What do you see? Bumps and cavities and all sorts of imperfections.

"Now take the boys. What do you see? Greek Gods, straight as spindles, filled out where they ought to be filled out, and scooped out where they ought to be scooped out.

"Look at the chorus man—handsomely formed, rarely lean, rarely stout." Then the professorial champion of the beauty that is the male's basis this out to the girls—

"Girls do everything to promote their beauty—gaudy dress, cosmetics, unceasing care. Men do not dress to enhance their beauty or think much about it—

"And yet—women remain unattractive, slop-sided, clumsy, too thin, too stout, round-shouldered and men are true objects of human beauty."

Attribute Vogue of New York Sex Plays to Visitors

Detroit, March 27.—Certain kinds of visitors from interior cities and towns are responsible for the vogue sex plays are enjoying on Broadway, in the opinion of Jessie Bonstelle, producer of several New York successes and now operating her own theatre here.

"New York is spotted with sex play measles," Miss Bonstelle said. "It is an epidemic that will pass. Such things perish of themselves, of their own rapidity.

"Your New Yorker is no more unhealthily in his tastes for drama than anyone else. He enjoys clean plays and patronizes them. The travelling public, the man in New York for a good time, keeps these sex things going. He wants to see 'naughty' plays. He neglects the clean shows. The 'good' plays, he reasons, will come to his home town and he will see them there because they are the kind he can attend with his wife and daughter."

A play has no chance of New York production, Miss Bonstelle holds, unless it carries across its pages the "Broadway Success" mark. She spoke of Channing Pollock, and is hawking his play, "The Fool," from manager to manager, each turning it down because it did not have the Broadway hit mark.

"Don Marquis has written a wonderful thing," she said. "The Dark Hours" is called, and it deals with the life of Christ. It would be somewhat costly to produce, and producers shy from it as they shy from all plays that have biblical foundations. Ben Hur had to have its great chariot race scene or it would not have succeeded. The Paradise of the Prodigal son which was staged under the title, 'The Wanderer,' needed the big second act, with its touch of Babylonian licentiousness and sex appeal, to make it go over."

UNLUCKY

Charles Seigward of Louisville, Ky., has made a public request for a luck piece to ward off his evil fortune. He was in an auto crash; got on a street car to finish his journey only to be struck by a car when he alighted. At the hospital some of his clothes got lost. Recovering, he started for police headquarters to trace them and was hit by another auto.

Death Pursues "Cousin Jacks" as Decay Overtakes Gold Cities

Denver, Mar. 27.—(AP)—The "Cousin Jacks," prospectors after gold, are passing. Hardly a week now goes by but word comes down that another has been found dead in a rotting cabin in the "ghost cities" that dot the high country of Colorado and the mining west.

The towns, many of them, are dying too. Once well worn streets are grass grown, and pack rats haunt the buildings.

Decay—a sort of dry rot—has overtaken them. Doors creak mournfully in the breezes or rattle in a mountain gale, sunshine and rain pour alike through gaping holes in roofs, and the skeletons of houses are outlined through walls bare of stumps.

The name "ghost cities" is apt, descriptive in the direct way of the names of the old camps; Crested Butte, Bald Mountain and Crazy Woman ranch were all named Indian fashion for obvious reasons.

Down in the southwestern part of Colorado, there is even a Cannibal plateau, so called because a guide named Parker charged parties of hunters and tourists high rates and then ate them. The graves of some of his victims may be seen today.

The names now longer in memory, but most of the bonanza mines are flooded or caved in. Scientific methods have supplanted the old time prospector and Colorado is talking about a new kind of mining boom in deep ores.

Central City is perhaps the most striking example of the change. Thirty years ago it boasted a population of 12,000. Today there are approximately 500 persons there, and the place has fallen from a booming city to a sleepy, though hopeful village.

President Grant and his daughter visited Central City and the residents paved the sidewalk from the street to the old Teller House with gold. The Teller House, a four story building, is one of the few things in the town that attempts to keep up an air of prosperity. A few travelers stop there and some miners make it their home.

Most of the other buildings are deserted. Saloon signs hang over the streets and are legible. In one of the dance halls the proprietors did not bother to remove a grand piano and it has settled with the caving floor. Bars are covered with years of dust.

Black Hawk, near Central City, is in the same plight. Some old tunnels have been opened, a few people work them but vacant houses stand row on row. The two towns were the center of the Colorado mining boom which for years held the nation's interest.

sonic lodge charter in Colorado and the third in Kansas territory, which then embraced this state. The lodge still exists and men travel by burro, in automobiles or afoot long distances to attend regular meetings. Aultman was called the highest town in the world, although it lost the title to several places in the Chilean Andes.

Gunnison, Colo., on the western slope, started as a mining town. It has become the center of a rich ranch and livestock region. Ouray, the most famous gold camp in the San Juan district in southwestern Colorado, is still existent but only as a country town. Tom Walsh discovered the Camp Bird mine outside Ouray and sold it to British interests for millions of dollars.

The late Senator Samuel D. Nicholson, rose to wealth in the San Juan district by ownership of the Pio and Flay properties. Silverton, Telluride and Lake City were other leaders in the district which embraced a population of more than twenty-five thousand.

The towns once spelled romance in capital letters to a large part of the nation. They were built with infinite labor and money, the materials often being hauled for miles over treacherous mountain trails. Most of them were too inaccessible to make razing the buildings and shipping the lumber out practical. So they are left to rot.

LETTERS SEEK SENTIMENT ON HOME COMING

Letters through which the sentiment of Gladstone people in regard to the staging of a home-coming during the July Fourth holidays, will be secured during the next two weeks through letters which are being mailed out by Adjutant Percy Cameron of August Matson post of the Legion, which has been asked to sponsor the home-coming.

The letters are being sent to the heads of all organizations in the city with a request for a prompt reply giving the ideas of those organizations on the matter of the home-coming.

Replies should all be well in before the next meeting of the post on April 9. These will be taken up at that meeting and using them as a fair indication of sentiment in regard to the project, action will be taken by the post in accordance with them.

The plans for the home-coming, provided it goes through, will be for a celebration on a bigger and more elaborate scale than any ever staged in Gladstone.

It will be, too, the first home-coming held in Gladstone since the founding of the village.

A BRILLIANT VICTORY.

High school students of Escanaba made a clean sweep of the principal honors in the district oratorical and declamatory contest, at Sault Ste. Marie, on Friday night.

In addition to winning the two principal honors in the meet, Escanaba also annexed second place in the declamatory contest, when William Peters, of Escanaba high, was awarded that position for this city.

The double victory at the Soo constitutes a scholastic attainment that cannot but impress the people of Escanaba.

It is too often the case that athletic prowess is permitted to enjoy greater emphasis than scholastic accomplishment in the activities of a city's schools and the people of Escanaba can draw a considerable measure of satisfaction that such is not the condition at either the Escanaba high school or at St. Joseph's high school.

NO FIRE-WORKS.

One week from tomorrow Escanaba's third election under this city's council manager government, is to be held.

The oldest resident of Escanaba can recall but few campaigns under this city's aldermanic government that were not marked by political mud-slinging, displays of violent partisanship and a politically inspired whoop and hurrah.

Under the council manager government there is no basis offered for political fire works. The candidates, in the very nature of things, are forced to make clean, dignified campaigns, based wholly upon their ability and willingness to serve the city.

When a campaign is ended and the election result is recorded there are no sore spots to heal, no broken friendships to mend.

TO STOP AUTOMOBILE SLAUGHTER.

Herbert Hoover has been holding a conference in Washington this week to make life and limb safe in American streets and highways.

hour "under all other conditions," or on the highways. Police officials have to do with motor vehicle traffic and accidents were at the meeting.

The majority of automobile owners who think of safety first will endorse the speed schedule adopted. The schedule does not deal with transportation, road capacity or any other question, but solely what can make the streets and highways safer.

As a matter of fact, increased speed does not automatically increase road capacity nor time in city traffic.

All of the public officials at the conference pleaded for laws that give judges little discretion in assessing penalties.

The Washington conference ought to commend itself to the law-makers of every state.

THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a catarse singer.

Jimmey meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga Maynard at the house of a theater ticket agent.

Later, Jimmy accidentally sees KID DIVIS, a known male Jew, and trails him to a lonely house where he and Jensen are holding Olga prisoner.

Jimmey sneaks in the house. When Jensen goes upstairs to answer the phone, his Divis cuts the head with a broken sword, then rushes after Jensen.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER LIII
The echoes of the shot slowly rolled away, a small puff of blue smoke ascended to the high ceiling.

Rand sat in his chair, leaning forward, his face expressionless save for the hard glitter in his eyes.

Four minutes, Church. Jimmy's words, though low spoken, seemed explosively loud in that tensely still room.

And Church, with stark fear in his eyes, writhed in his terror.

"Do you know where I've come from by Church? I've just come from a lonely house in the country where Jensen and Kid Divis have been keeping Olga Maynard."

"I've known for some time, Church, that the Jensen was the murderer. But not until today did I know that you were the man who hired him to do it."

At the words "Mexico City" Church raised his head sharply, but Rand went on.

"Church, several years ago a man known as Thomas Rolfe died down in Mexico City. He was wealthy—very wealthy. He had made something more than a million dollars out of a mining venture."

"When he died he made a very strange will. It seemed that he had a son, but he didn't know whether the son was alive or dead. So when he drew up the will he told his lawyers that his name was not really Thomas Rolfe, but Thaddeus Rand."

"Thaddeus Rand, as you know, Church, was my grandfather. And Thaddeus said that years ago a son of his, Henry Rand, had run away from home as the result of cruel treatment. Thaddeus had spent years trying to locate Henry Rand, but had never succeeded."

"I did, eh?" he snapped, and there were in his voice hate, contempt, new life. "I did? Well, listen, I'm not through yet, see? Do you know how good a confession is, when it's drawn from a man at the point of a gun? Not worth that."

"I'm clearing out, Rand—after I finish with you," and he tapped the revolver significantly. "If I'm ever caught, remember you are a housebreaker. They have nothing on me for that."

He laughed, and slowly raised the weapon until it was on a level with his eyes.

New York—Low Fields—yes, the Low Fields of White and Fields—blossoms modestly out of the picture and presents to the stage-world his little boy Herb.

Herbert Fields is the author of one of the three musical shows, which opening within a single week, give further proof that Spring is just around the corner and that producers are getting ready for the summer trade.

"Faps Lew," who has been gradually fading from the active stage, personally supervised and directed his son's show, which made its bow under the title of "The Girl Friend," with Eva Peck and Sam White.

"Rainbow Rose" is a musical version of Zola Sears' "Luck Break," which did not succeed as a comedy production, but may now be saved by a few music hits, not the least of which is, "When the Hurdy Gurdy Plays."

TEACHINGS OF JOHN'S GOSPEL

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

The first great teaching of the Gospel of John is concerning God and his revelation of himself in human life.

I understand, incidentally that most of New York's Spanish eating places are operated by Hindus.

Dropping into this place the other night I heard a young man give his order in Spanish.

The Very Idea!

A WARNING.
Hey, look where you're going. Your nerves are too tense. You're driving in showin' you haven't much sense. You'll save but a minute through speedin' along and there it is, it's gettin' in wrong.

This rain and toun' has gotta be stopped. The thrill of it's wearin' in till good as is dropped. Your nerves will be wrecked. Take your foot off that gas pedal, you est-tye, now foolish you are!

But whoever wrote it, the Gospel of John is a profound and noble document. Interpret it as one will, it speaks of the deepest things of the soul and it is in that pre-eminently Jesus appears as the way to God, the bond between earth and heaven.

You can't sow thistles and have roses. You can't sow sorrow and reap joy. Yet many a man it seems supposes.

You can't sow hatred and reap kindness. We dare not even hate a few. Fate sometimes seems a thing of blindness. But fate has watched us all life through. SENIOR SQUAD COPS HONORS

All of the honors in the inter-class basketball tournament at Manistique were annexed by the seniors. They defeated the freshmen, 36 to 14, in the first leg of the tourney on Thursday, and made a clean sweep by beating the sophomores Friday afternoon, 26 to 12.

By winning the tournament, the seniors not only carried away the class tournament banner, but also won the high school championship cup, given to the team with the highest percentage. M. McRitchie of the seniors led the player scoring the highest for the player scoring the highest number of points during the contest.

BEAGLES ARE WINNERS AT KENNEL SHOW

Beagles from the Superfine Kennels at Manistique were numbered among the winners at the Chicago Kennel club show, held Friday and Saturday at the First Regiment Armory, Chicago.

John N. Schuster, proprietor of the Superfine kennels, returned yesterday morning from attending the show, and reported the following entries as among the winners:

Superfine Tiney, owned by Joseph Boyer, Escanaba, went winners in the 13-inch female class, competing with the cream of the New York, Baltimore and St. Louis show winners.

Superfine Sapper, owned by Mr. Schuster, won first place in the open class, and went winners in the 15-inch class.

Superfine's Queen, another product of the Schuster kennels, was first in the novice class.

Rockywood Driver, also owned by Mr. Schuster, won second in the 13-inch class.

Due to the fact that the local man left Chicago early Friday afternoon, he was unable to secure a full list of the winners, and additional prizes may have been garnered by the local entries.

Superfine's Tiney was reserve winner at a show held in Milwaukee recently.

Movie Kiss Minus Kick, Says Connie

Hear what Constance Talmadge has to say about kisses. Connie comes to the Gero theater tonight in a jewel of a picture, "Her Night of Romance," a comedy with a kick. Regarding kisses he asserts:

"Movie kisses do not have the emotional reaction which they seem to have on the screen," says Constance Talmadge.

"There is absolutely no privacy about a motion picture kiss, and for that reason all of its charm is lost.

"Real love-making does not screen satisfactorily. Only simulated emotion is convincing to the public, paradoxical as that must sound. But every actor knows it."

Constance's latest First National comedy is "Her Night of Romance," which was produced by Joseph M. Schenck.

Constance's leading man is Roland Colman, last seen in "The White Sister," Jean Hersholt, who appeared with her in "The Goldfish," Albert Gran, Sidney Bracy, Joseph Dowling and Tompkins Sarax also are in the cast. She wears a beautiful array of new gowns.

THREE TIED IN LEAD OF ELKS ALLEY LEAGUE

After checking over the results of last week's bowling on the Elks alleys there are three teams tied for first place. Quick's Lions easily disposed of their rivals, the Pirates, by taking two out of three games. The Giants also found little opposition in the Tigers and won two out of three. The Cubs also took the long end of the series from the Bear Cats.

Dan Perry of the Giants secured the best average for the week, getting 192. Perry hit the maples for counts of 205, 161 and 211. Dr. Southard also kept up his good work with an average of 191, with Nightingale third with 179.

Porsbar showed some old-time form with counts of 234 and 211, his first game being the highest scored during the week. Others registering over the 200 mark were Southard and Stanley Crowe.

According to the schedule the three leading teams will take on the teams in the second division, the Pirates playing the Tigers Monday night, the Lions and Cubs being matched for Tuesday night, and the Giants and Bear Cats on Wednesday night.

This will be the last series on the regular schedule, and inasmuch as there are three teams tied for first place, considerable interest is being shown as to the outcome of this week's bowling.

Finish Elimination Doubles This Week

Due to other club activities, the Manistique Elks were unable to conclude their elimination doubles match last week, as originally planned, and the event will be carried over another week. This far eight of the 13 teams have rolled their sets, and the committee in charge requests that the teams who have not as yet rolled, do so by the end of the week without fail, so that the leading six teams can start their elimination next week.

DEATH CLAIMS PERRY HANNAHS

Perry Hannahs, 73, veteran railroadman, and resident of Manistique for over 42 years, died suddenly Saturday morning at his home, 229 Bear street.

Mr. Hannahs was born in Indiana in 1852, and came to this community when Manistique was a struggling village. His employment as a railroad man dates back to the days when the Soo Line first came to this city.

Death claimed Mr. Hannahs shortly after midnight Friday, as he was taking with other members of the family. The survivors include his wife, a daughter, and two sons.

Definite funeral arrangements have not been made as yet, pending word from one of the sons who resides in the West. Masons will have charge of the services, which will be held from the home.

Verdict Favors B. Carey; Amount Asked Is $133.61

In the case of Byron Carey versus Martell and Gordon, tried before Justice W. A. McKinney at Manistique on Friday afternoon, the jury found a verdict in favor of the plaintiff Carey, awarding him the sum of $133.61 the full amount asked.

The sum asked by Carey was to cover the operation of his portable mill in sawing timber for Eugene Martell and Edward Gordon of Gladstone who are operating near Gulliver. The defendants contested the claim, and submitted counter charges, claiming that they had taken out insurance for Carey, that he owed them for moving the mill and other items.

Byron Carey, Lee Carey, Gregor McGregor and Robert Melton were witnesses for the plaintiff. Mr. Martell appeared for the defendant co-partners.

The jury included: P. H. Miles, Fred Ekberg, Charles Adkins, Gust Nelson, Henry Orndel, Ed Hogarty. Their verdict was returned in a few minutes after the conclusion of arguments.

Funeral Is Held Saturday Afternoon

Frank Simonds, 74, who died Monday afternoon at the county house in Manistique, was buried here yesterday. Complications of old age, together with heart trouble, were given as the cause of his death.

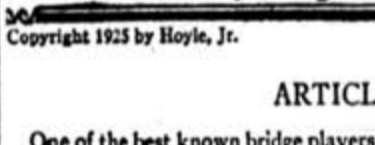

The deceased had no known relatives.

Worker Injured By Contact With Wire

While engaged in electrical repair work at the paper mill in Manistique, Arthur Curran of this city came in contact with a charged wire, and was knocked down, receiving bruises about the face.

He was reported yesterday to be recovering from his injuries, and expected to return to his work this week.

Exploded! The Old Theory of Low-Cost Design

In developing and introducing the new Pontiac Six General Motors has completely shattered the theory that high quality could not be achieved in a low-cost Six.

From the day of its public presentation, the Pontiac Six has been making giant strides toward leadership in its field—because it is the living expression of quality in every aspect of motor car value.

With the Pontiac Six priced at $825, it is no longer necessary to accept the limitations of high-priced fours nor those that have hitherto characterized low-priced sixes.

In breath-taking performance, in striking beauty, in luxurious comfort, in staunch construction, the Pontiac Six is the vital embodiment of quality—yet it sells for a price so low that only General Motors could possibly achieve it.

Easy Lessons in AUCTION BRIDGE

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

ARTICLE No. 21

One of the best known bridge players was asked the other night what he considered the greatest quality for a player to have and he replied without any hesitation: "The ability to play losing cards well." Think that over carefully for it is a regular lesson on the game. Learn to play your losing cards well and the good ones will take care of themselves.

Spades—6 The proper bid with this hand is one club. If overbid by either opponent or partner, bid the heart. The reason for preferring the club to the heart as the first bid is that partner is more apt to overbid the club than the heart and so gives you a better chance to bid both suits.

Hand No. 2 Hearts—8 Clubs—6 Diamonds—K, Q, 9, 4, 2 Spades—K, J, 10, 7, 6, 5 With this hand the better bid is one spade. The spades are much stronger than the diamonds and should be rebid before showing the diamonds. For that reason the one spade is preferred to one diamond.

Hand No. 3 Hearts—none Clubs—A, K, Q, 10, 4 Diamonds—10, 7, 6 Spades—A, K, J, 10, 7 In this hand both suits are of fairly equal value so one spade should be the first bid. If overbid, show the clubs.

Hand No. 4 Hearts—A, K, Q, 7 Clubs—K, Q, 10, 8, 7, 6, 5 Diamonds—none Spades—Q, 6 With this hand, one club is the proper bid. Clubs should be rebid at least once before showing the heart suit. The clubs are so much longer and stronger that the hand will undoubtedly give the best results with that suit as trumps.

Hand No. 5 Hearts—A, 8, 6 Clubs—K, J, 9, 5, 3 Diamonds—K, J, 9, 5, 3 Spades—none This is a very doubtful hand. It is really a sound pass but the two-suit character of the hand makes it a tempting proposition to bid. If you do decide to bid, one diamond is correct. Whenever the two suits are of fairly equal value, always bid the higher value first.

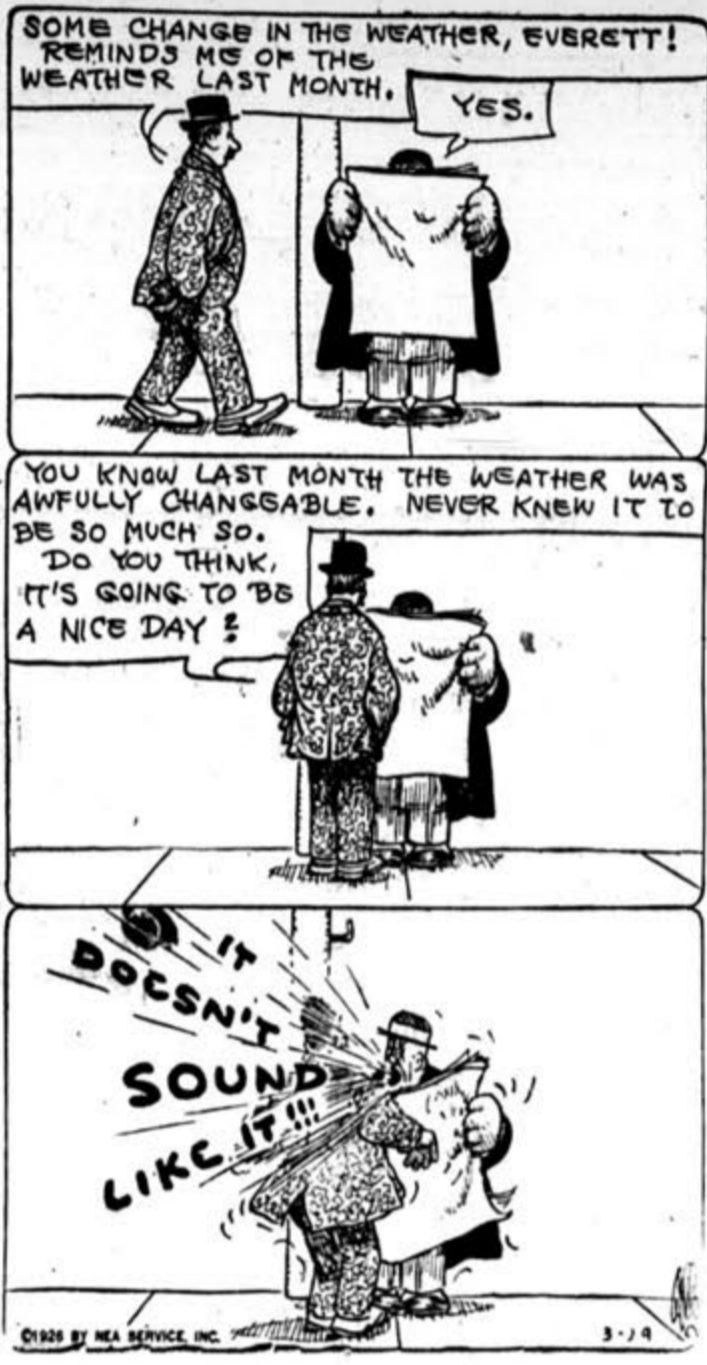

Hand No. 6 Hearts—K, Q, 8, 4, 3 Clubs—Q, 10, 9, 8, 7 Diamonds—7, 2 Spades—J This hand should undoubtedly be passed. Hand No. 5 is on the border line but this hand is just under. Pass with the firm intention of bidding the hearts on the next round if the bidding makes such a course expedient. These example hands comprise most of the usual types of two-suiters, and the bidding as given should be carefully studied.

PLANTED BY THE STATE

Originally Intended as Food for Landlocked Salmon.

Further information concerning the presence of the smelt, a species of which recently was found in the Bay de Noc in this territory, was received here yesterday. Prof. Charles W. Crosser, of the College of the City of Detroit, has exhibited a lively interest in the local "find."

Crosser has sent to E. J. Goss, a copy of a monograph, "Establishment of the Atlantic Smelt in the Upper Waters of the Lakes," written by him and edited by the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

Started in 1906, the author of this document, the author in 1906, several attempts were made to introduce smelt (mus morax) into the upper waters of the Great Lakes. At least of these attempts have been successful and the species is now being bred from one of these ponds, not from both. At each of these places, the fish is not propagated itself and has become a true native to the fauna.

The first attempt to introduce smelt into the upper waters of the Great Lakes appears to have been made in St. Mary's river in the Michigan State Fish Commission sought to make a success of introduction of landlocked smelt by the propagation of smelt in food. Their report states a small consignment of smelt from New England waters was sent to the Sno hatchery in the spring of 1906 and deposited in St. Mary's river. This was not a success, apparently, as the species has been taken in that region.

Tried Many Specimens.

The author then tells of repeated attempts of eggs by the federal fish bureau to Michigan between 1909 and 1921. Among these were planted were Lake in Antrim county, Crystal Lake in Benzie county, at Marquette and other points in Lakes Superior and Huron.

A result of these plantings, have been taken in the upper waters of the lake itself; trout in Marquette county, and in the Bay de Noc.

His Authorship Accomplishments

Mr. G. Genesee, automobile man and city councilman, has time to develop another accomplishment—authorship—recently the "Alemitic High Pressure" magazine. In its current issue carries an illustrated article of Genesee based on sales and methods. Several other papers have asked Mr. G. for contributions since the "High Pressure" article appeared.

Sets of Teeth

UPPER OR LOWER $14.00 Absolutely Guaranteed NO FIT — NO PAY

Here is the opportunity you have been waiting for! I am going to make it possible for every person in Escanaba and vicinity that need teeth, to have them.

This is an unheard of price for sets of teeth and no one should miss this opportunity. Just stop and consider—You save $11.00 on each plate—you are getting guaranteed plates—guaranteed to fit or no pay—you see a sample of the kind of plate you are buying—these plates are made from the best material that money can buy and by a Dentist who is specializing in plate work and the extraction of teeth.

Don't sacrifice your health—your looks—and the one greatest pleasure in the world, that of being able to sit down and enjoy a good dinner.

A bad breath—a bad stomach—rheumatism—dizziness and the lack of pep are caused by the slow poisoning process resulting from bad teeth.

If you are interested come in for an examination and consultation—They are free.

Let me show you a number of finished plate samples ranging in price from $14.00 up. I can make you anything you want in a plate, from the ordinary $14.00 service plate up to the most artistic plate that Modern Dental Science can produce, and at a reduced price that will appeal to you.

Teeth extracted by the most modern Painless methods.

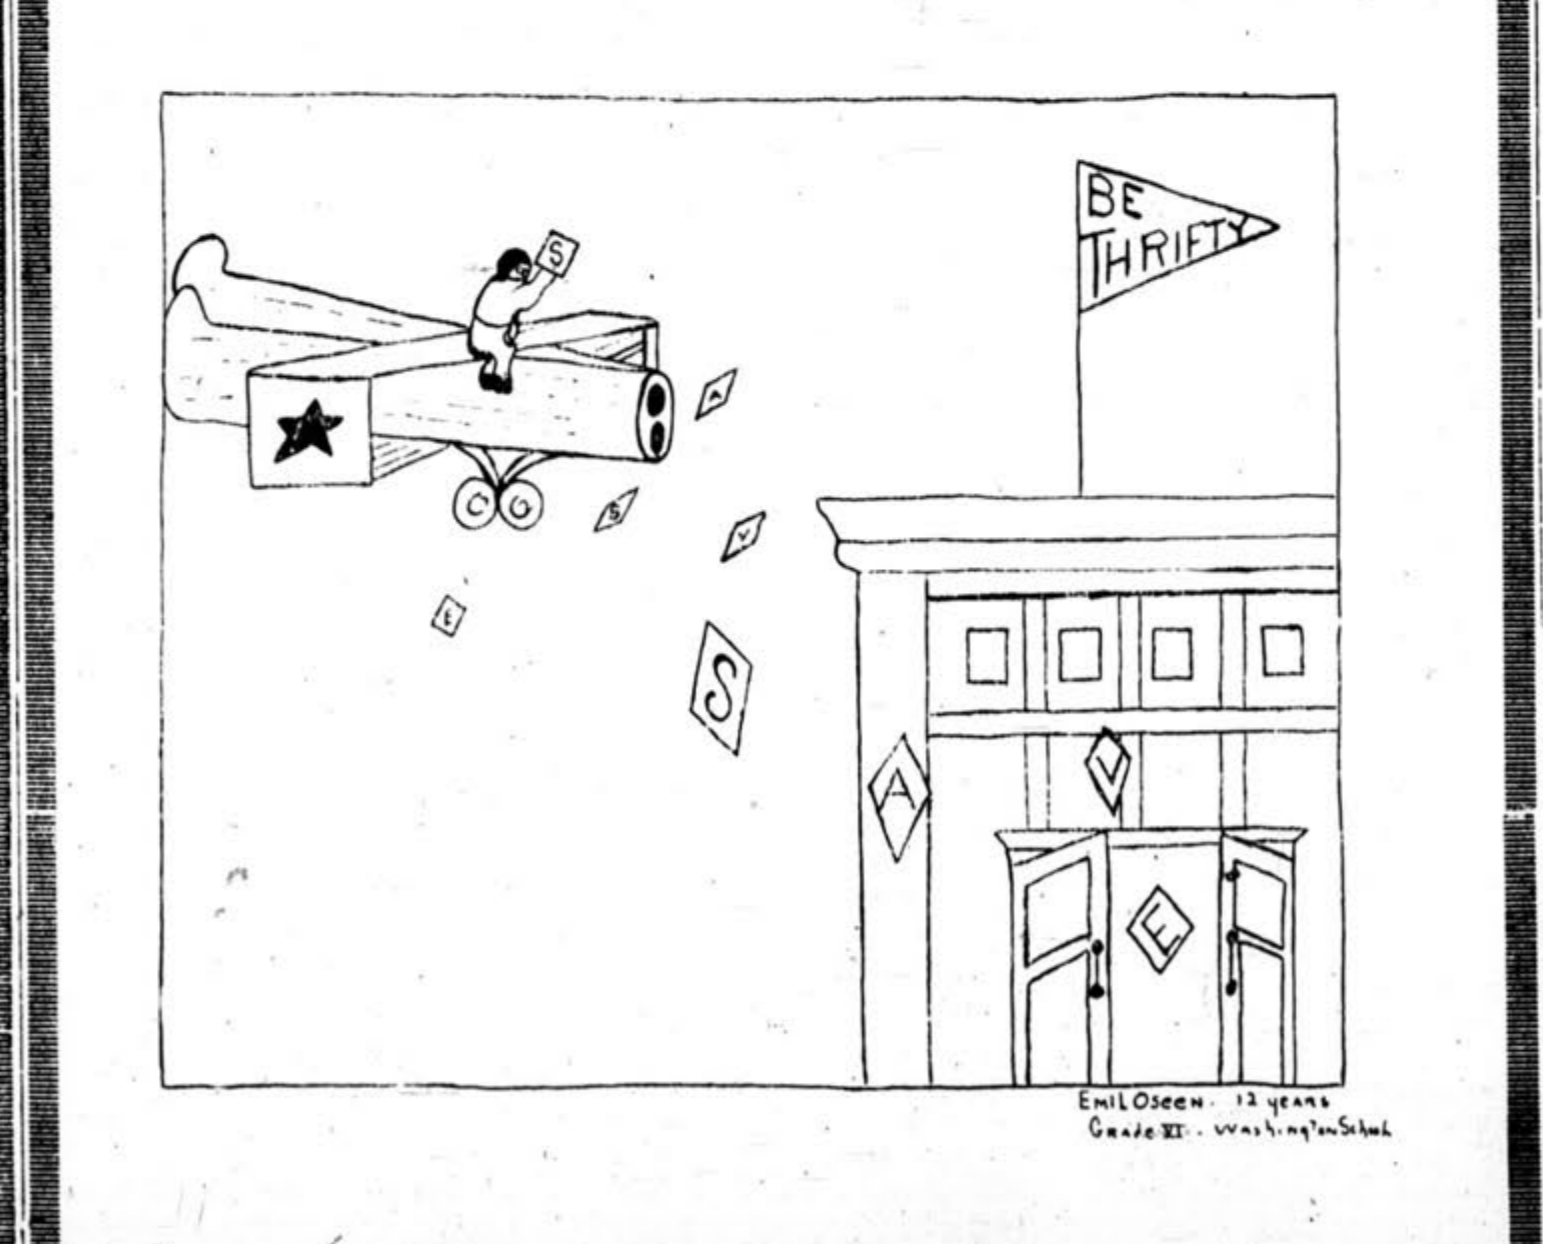

My opening date in Escanaba will be announced in this space about April 1st. My office will be located at 815 Ludington Street, first stairway west of the Strand Theatre. I will be in my office one day each week from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.
