

ROCK MAN DIES OF INJURIES

Automobile Accident Is Fatal to Gust Jarvenpa.

Gust Jarvenpa, aged 60, who was injured Monday while riding in an automobile driven by Carl Wadeen, 21, died in a local hospital yesterday.

The top of Jarvenpa's head was fairly torn off. These scalp lacerations and a fractured skull were the cause of death. Jarvenpa did not regain consciousness after having been brought to the hospital here in the automobile of a local man who passed by shortly after the crash.

The body was removed to the Alto Funeral Home where a post mortem examination probably will be performed before the inquest.

The deceased, who is single, is survived by three sisters and two brothers: Mrs. John Blake, and Mrs. John Ahola, of Rock; Mrs. Amelia Kovola, Ishpeming; Mack Jarvenpa, Rock, and a brother in England.

Funeral services will be held this morning from the Alto Funeral Home. Burial will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

While Carl Wadeen, driver of the death car, was sentenced yesterday to 90 days in the county jail for driving while drunk, a coroner's inquest into the death was started and after preliminary testimony was taken, was postponed until Thursday when the jury's verdict will be given.

Eric Lindah, Gladstone chief of police, who testified that Wadeen was drunk; John Stack, who picked up Jarvenpa, and Dr. W. A. Lemire, who cared for the injured man, appeared at the inquest yesterday.

The jurors are: Peter Thompson, Thomas Dufour, Fred Joranson, Matt Boudwin, Ed Lahaie, and Steve Brault.

HIGHWAY WORK FUNDS LIMITED

Many Projects This Year to End Program Already Begun.

Lansing, March 28.—(AP)—State funds available for new highway improvement projects promise to be limited this year, according to a report to the state administrative board today by Frank F. Rogers, highway commissioner.

A comparatively large amount of work probably will be done but much of it will be on contracts already let in connection with the program laid out by the previous administration.

According to the report contracts outstanding represent an obligation of $9,500,000. Of this the federal government will contribute about $2,500,000, leaving about $7,000,000 to be met by the state.

The expenditure of this amount, plus the fixed charges against the gasoline and weight tax revenues would leave the state comparatively little money for new projects.

Commissioner Rogers has submitted a tentative three-year program proposing the improvement of 1,392 miles of road at an estimated cost in excess of $50,000,000.

How much of the work can be undertaken this year is a question Mr. Rogers stated he is not prepared to answer until it has been determined what, if anything, the legislature will do.

about highway finance. Senator Charles R. Horrick requested the board to improve a trunk line across Gratiot and Montcalm counties connecting M-13 and M-14. Representative William Birk of Ontonagon urged the prompt awarding of contracts for the improvement of M-25 in Baraga county. He was told bids have been taken. Resolutions adopted by Sault Ste. Marie bodies, opposing the board's recent action of fixing a 25 cent fare for automobile passengers across the straits and urging a paved road from Sault Ste. Marie to St. Ignace was received. The board authorized an asphalt service for ten miles from Reed City to trunk line 63.

Monday evening, a sermon will be given in French by Rev. Fr. A. Colnard of Perkins, and on Tuesday evening the English sermon will be delivered by Rev. Fr. D. Joseph Breault of Bark River.

Confessions will be heard Saturday afternoon and evening at the usual hours, Sunday and Monday afternoons and after the evening services. Daily masses will be held at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock with holy communion distributed at all masses. On Tuesday evening the solemn singing will take place when forty altar boys and seventy-five girls in white will join in the solemn procession with the blessed sacrament.

A WONDERFUL WORK.

Probably because of a lack of notice and lack of attention, but few people in Escanaba either know of or appreciate the excellent work annually carried on in this city by the Escanaba Chapter of the Woman's Relief Corps, in leading encouragement to all girls of this city and section, who seek naturalization through the avenue of the night school citizenship classes.

The night school course for the current year has just been completed and on Monday night the annual Woman's Relief Corps banquet, in honor of the graduates of the class was staged. Those who were privileged to attend, as guests, could not fail to have been thoroughly inspired by the seriousness of the purpose of that magnificent class of 35 men and women, who will shortly take the oath of allegiance to the government of the land of their adoption.

Frankenstein created a monster that he could not control, and it destroyed him. The young Ohio inventor invented a machine that did not act as he expected it would, and he too was destroyed. We—all of us—have built up a civilization that contains within it the seeds of world-wide violence and destruction. Let us walk very carefully, and pursue our national and individual paths with extreme care, lest we too be destroyed.

with abrupt and visionary eyes, I saw the huddled tenements arise. Here where the merry clover danced and shone sprang agonies of iron and stone; There, where green Silence laughed or stood enthralled, Cheap music blared and evil alleys sprawled. They should be liberally pleaded, he says, to use a large amount of material.

STATE GUARDS RELICTED LAND

New Law Expected to Protect Escanaba's Park Rights.

Belief that the state legislature will, at its present session, pass a law which will guarantee the city of Escanaba the perpetual use of the relicted lands skirting Ludington Park, was expressed by city officials here yesterday.

The state senate, last Saturday, passed a measure introduced by Senator Horatio Karcher, which renders it unlawful for the conservation commission to sell or lease lands bordering on lakes, streams or the Great Lakes, or within a radius of one-half mile of such waters. The bill, however, is understood to have carried an amendment, proposed to Senator Karcher by City Attorney F. J. Riley, which permits the department to lease to municipalities for park purposes, any relicted lands on the Great Lakes which now border on the municipalities. This exception will make it possible, under the bill, for the city definitely to add the hand reaches, recently deserted by the waters of Bay de Noc, to the Ludington Park tract.

The passage of the bill will settle, also the authority of the conservation department over the relicted lands and guarantee that such lands will not be exploited for commercial purposes.

It is believed that the bill will be passed in the house. Representative Henry A. Ross, of Delta county, is understood to be especially interested in it, because of its direct application to the situation here.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

STYLES IN CLOTHING HAVE LITTLE RELATION TO HEALTH NEEDS.

Few people care enough about their health to select clothing with health problems in view primarily.

Unquestionably style plays a great part as any other factor in the selection of wearing apparel. Indeed, it has been asserted that styles extremely detrimental to health are frequently selected, even with the detriment in mind. It has been asserted that the craze for reduction in weight and slenderization is a response to a change in feminine fashions.

It seems doubtful if human nature will ever be modified sufficiently or intelligently at such a high level that clothing will invariably be selected for its hygienic qualities rather than for the other considerations that may be concerned.

From the hygienic aspects clothing should protect against cold and permit diffusion of heat by circulation of air in warm weather. Moisture must not be permitted to collect on the body surface, where it may tend to macerate the skin, to open the way for infection and to produce disagreeable odor.

Under modern business conditions women workers seem to make little provisions for changes from the hot season to the cold, making it necessary to overheat rooms to accommodate their light clothing and thus causing male workers who wear heavier clothing to suffer unduly with heat and dryness of the atmosphere.

Woolen clothing has the value of warmth and of taking up perspiration. It is, therefore, suitable wear for winter.

In the climate of the United States the color of the clothing seems to bear little importance to its healthful qualities. It is generally believed that white clothing absorbs fever heat rays, which is presumably the reason for its popularity in warm weather and in the tropics.

DR. BENSON NAMED U. S. INSPECTOR IN CHICAGO YARDS

Dr. David A. Benson, veterinary surgeon, who for the past seven years has been practicing at Bark River and in the surrounding vicinity, will leave this evening for Chicago where he had been appointed to a government position as meat inspector at the Union Stock Yards in Chicago.

The new position is one of responsibility and the salary offered was the inducement which caused Dr. Benson to give up his practice at Bark River and go to Chicago.

A banquet was served last night at the Bark River cafe in his honor. Thirty friends were present. Speakers on the evening program were Helmer Bruce, Dr. Hyden of Escanaba, C. J. Huss, and Benjamin Cook. Dr. Benson made a short responsive farewell. Another social affair is in line for this evening at the Bark River hotel in the form of a farewell party and dinner.

During his stay at Bark River, Dr. Benson has won the friendship of a host of friends and while they will rejoice in the recognition of the government position offered him, they will regret his departure from this section of the county.

"Labor efficiency starts in the heart," says John A. Piquet in an article published in Independent Management.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes that to be a profound observation, economically sound.

The efficiency achieved in the organization of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is the result of its recognition of the human factors that enter into business.

In this highly complex modern world, every man has his specialized job whose ultimate object is the serving of his fellowmen. That is the conception of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) exists to serve the thirty million people of the Middle West. Supplying them with petroleum products of the highest quality is part of that service.

Twenty-nine thousand men and women are employed in this vast task. Capital to carry on this work of service is furnished by more than fifty thousand stockholders.

The time and energy of thousands of people and the money of many thousands more, wisely combined and directed, have made it possible for you to get gasoline for your car—or any other product of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—wherever you may happen to be in the Middle West. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) exists to serve you.

A spirit of service dominates the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), not only in its attitude toward the public, but in the relationships between the different parts of the organization.

There is a feeling of sympathy and fellowship among the employees and the directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). The size of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has not destroyed its personal, human qualities.

The executives in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) today were once subordinates. As a consequence they have an intimate understanding of the problems confronting the men and women who are following their leadership.

Many tributes have been paid to the labor efficiency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). That efficiency emanates from the heart.

A man who is engaged in a work which inspires his loyalty and enthusiasm—who knows the comradeship of other men engaged in the same big task—who has the confidence that a great organization is back of him, interested in his welfare and happiness—is ready to give the very best that is in him to his work. He is an efficient, happy worker.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is made up of 29,000 such workers.

Because of this efficiency, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to operate at a profit which provides reasonable returns to the stockholders on their investments. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has proved that when service is the first concern the profits take care of themselves.

Solons Approve $5 a Day Expense Money for Themselves.

Lansing, Mar. 29--(P)--The house of representatives today flew in the face of a recent ruling by the attorney general and adopted a bill giving $5 a day expense money for the members during the current session.

Representative Charles Culver of Detroit objected on the ground that the members cannot vote in a form which amounts to an additional salary of $5 a day without violating the constitution and perhaps invalidating the entire appropriation.

Representative John Holland of Gogebic stated he would follow the example of Senator William Borah and refuse to accept the extra compensation. The people voted last fall to deny the members additional compensation, he argued. Others expressed similar views but the bill passed in its amended form.

Members prophesied that Representative Holland and others won't get their money until they have been expelled from the house.

The house passed and sent to the senate the DeBoer bill fixing a salary of $1,800 for the bill of the Grand Rapids superior court, and the Richardson bill setting a day limit of five on rabbits and fixing the season on jack rabbits in the upper peninsula from October 1 to February 1.

A resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit excess condemnation of land for public improvements by Representative Charles Culver. An excess condemnation amendment was defeated in the last election.

Representative Wilbur M. Snow of Kalamazoo submitted a bill proposing penalties of $100 fine or 90 days jail for commercial airplane pilots who operate without a federal license.

The French have always been clever in making froth of domestic oppressiveness and a neat Gallic touch is much in evidence in this offering, which was adapted from the Parisian stage success, "An Angel Passes," by Jacques Bouquet and Henri Patte.

SAINT and SINNER

Stephen Churchill, strutting vaingloriously between Faith and Bob, as the two made their way toward the parking station across the street from the courthouse, interrupted his conversation with them only to pose for news photographers.

"Of course we mustn't be too optimistic about this little incident," Churchill reminded them, but his eyes were shining. "We have managed to discredit, in a measure, the testimony of the state's star witness, but we must remember that Cherry admits all the facts to which Mary testified except two--"

"That she was wearing gloves after she entered Uncle Ralph's bedroom and that she threatened to kill him if he did not let her go," Bob Hathaway interrupted. "And those two points are mighty important, Churchill. You're a wonder. I didn't think you had a chance to score with Mary Kearney, but of course we weren't expecting her to perjure herself."

"When Cherry takes the stand, she will testify that she removed her gloves to give Cluny back the engagement ring, and that she did not put them on again until she had entered Chris' car," Churchill commented with satisfaction. "But of course we have only her word against Mary's--and Mary is now a partially discredited witness--that she did not threaten to kill him. Just wait until I get you on the stand, young fellow."

"That envelope of papers that you got from Alexander Cluny--you know, the blackmail letters and Pete Gonzales' report to Alexander on his shadowing of Cherry. Cherry says she didn't destroy it; it was in her dresser, and it's missing now, since the detectives went through her room. They ransacked it the night of the murder, you know, before I got home."

"If they try to use that," Bob said grimly, "they may find it a boomerang. I hope to God they do! Churchill can twist all that so it will discredit everything Aunt Alice and Alexander testify to, to show them up as plotting to prevent Cherry's marriage to Uncle Ralph."

Increased Ferry Rates Defended, Attacked In Discussion of Problem

Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner, in reply to the protests which have been printed throughout the peninsula against the increasing of ferry rates at St. Ignace, declares in a letter to the Press that the increase is made necessary by the mandatory features of the law creating the ferry service.

The publisher of the Press, replying to Mr. Rogers' letter, points out that the state's own figures prove the raise is not, in any manner, justified.

The correspondence is printed, in full: Mr. Rogers' Letter. Editor Daily Press: A number of clippings from the Upper Peninsula Press have come to my attention concerning the recent action of the State Administrative board in authorizing a change in ferry rates for the coming season, and it is apparent that the reason for the action taken is not clearly understood.

The resolution of the Administrative board provided "That in addition to the rates as charged on the Michigan State Ferries last year, which shall remain the same for the season of 1927, twenty-five cents be charged passengers in automobiles with the exception of the driver and children."

This resolution had the unanimous approval of the Board. The schedule as it was operated last year is not suitable nor business-like, inasmuch as while the business increased between fifteen and sixteen percent, the foot passengers carried across the straits decreased during the year about seven per cent. A schedule must be adopted that will at least collect some revenue on all the business that is to be made in any manner, it should be made on the rates charged per car rather than to carry passengers free.

The act which provided for this service says, "The rates shall be fixed by the State Highway Commissioner on the basis of cost including interest on investment and proper allowances for depreciation." If we forget the cost of the docks on both sides of the Straits, now amounting to about $179,000, and only consider the boats, the net revenue now received amounts to $140,000 less than the total money invested in the boats. In the face of this, the state will have to purchase another boat which will cost two or three hundred thousand dollars, not later than 1928.

Considering the mandatory features in the law above noted, it is quite apparent that instead of overcharging, the state is undercharging for the service it is rendering the public at the Straits of Mackinac. Very truly yours, FRANK F. ROGERS, State Highway Commissioner. Reply to Mr. Rogers. My Dear Sir: Referring to your letter of March 25, in which reference is made to certain editorials that have recently appeared in upper peninsula newspapers, including The Press, protesting against the charge authorized in ferry rates at the enabling act and, I believe, have a right to expect your department and the state administrative board to respect that limit, no matter how the charge may be pro-rated between automobiles and passengers.

In your letter you refer to the fact that, forgetting the cost of the docks erected by the state on both sides of the Straits and considering only the boats, "the net revenue now received amounts to $140,000 less than the total money invested in the boats."

I contend that the ferry service, established by your department at the Straits, is a part of the state highway system. When the act authorizing the establishment of the service was proposed in the legislature and when the service was inaugurated, I do not believe there was a member of the legislature or a thinking person in the state, who believed that the state of Michigan was entering a money making enterprise, by engaging in the ferry business.

The idea back of the service was, I believe, to provide an easy means of transportation between the two peninsulas of the state, at the lowest possible cost to those using the service. I do not believe it was the intent of the legislature, when the service was authorized, that the original investment made in its behalf should be returned in proper annual interest and depreciation charges.

The state spends annually large sums of money, derived from weight and gasoline taxes, for the construction of highways. Because of the fact that the ferry service may be classed as an extraordinary service, there may be a legitimate excuse for the imposition of a carrying charge. In spite of the fact that the ferry service is a part of the state highway system, but a claim cannot be successfully maintained on any premise, that the state is any more entitled to a return of its complete ferry service investment, than it is to a return of funds it has invested in highways.

The need and the demand for the ferry service, I believe, is most eloquently reflected in the manner in which its use has grown since it was inaugurated and I believe it should be the policy of the state highway department and the state administrative board, viewing the service as a part of the state highway system, as it rightly is, to reduce the carrying charge, rather than to increase it. I do not think that anyone in the peninsula, or in the entire state of Michigan, is interested in keeping that charge within the limit intended by the act authorizing the service. But the people of the peninsula and of the state at large are interested in keeping that charge within the limit intended by the

LARGE CROWD TO HEAR SMITH

Engineer's Waterfront Plan to Be Explained at Forum.

Because of the unusual interest in the address to be given by Dr. Leonard S. Smith and the heavy demand for places at the chamber of commerce forum dinner at which he will appear, reservations for the affair should be made as early as possible, it was announced yesterday.

The meeting will be held at 6:15 o'clock Thursday night in the Ludington hotel. Dr. Smith, a leading consulting engineer, recently was retained by the municipal park board to devise a method of restoring Escanaba's "old swimming hole" in Ludington park, to a usable depth and purity. He has worked out a practical plan. This plan will be the topic he will discuss at Thursday night's forum, and what he has to say will be of intense interest to all.

Anyone who is interested is invited to attend. Membership in the chamber of commerce is not required. All that is necessary is that a reservation, by telephone or otherwise, be made at the chamber of commerce offices as early as possible so that orders for dinners may be placed with a degree of accuracy.

Municipal Band Planning Second Indoor Concert

The Escanaba Municipal band is planning another free indoor concert in the near future, it was announced last night by Joseph Greenfield, director.

One of the features of the program will be a "contest" between the old and new dance music. An old-time orchestra, with the instruments in general use a quarter of a century ago, will play old-time music. A modern "jazz orchestra," playing modern dance tunes, will follow. The audience will be asked to pass judgment on the merits of the two brands of harmony. Mr. Greenfield will play a cornet solo during the evening and there will be other specialty numbers. The date for the concert will be announced later.
