

SOUDERS WINS 500-MILE MOTOR RACE

COLLEGE BOY UPSETS VETS, GETS $30,000

DEVORE IS SECOND, GULATTO THIRD, IN CLASSIC.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY, Associated Press Sports Writer. Indianapolis, Ind., May 30.—(AP)—George Souders, a shy unassuming boy from Lafayette, Ind., became somebody in the business of automobile racing today.

Souders, a former student at Purdue University, driving his first major event, won the fifteenth annual five hundred mile grind at the Indianapolis motor speedway before a record-breaking crowd of 145,000 spectators.

Souders' victory was spectacular because he did not figure to have any more chance to win than Bat Nelson.

This twenty-four year old youth from the sticks, driving the entire distance without relief and making only two quick stops, piloted his tiny racer, painted a dusty shade of gray, two hundred perilous trips around the bumpy two and a half mile track in 5:07.33 for an average of 97.54 miles an hour. He had a lead of seven and a half miles when he got the checkered flag as signal of victory.

Wins $30,000. By his victory Souders enriched himself to the extent of about $30,000 in critical cash money. He won $20,000 as first prize and picked up $5,100 in lap prize bonuses, getting one hundred dollars every time he led the field each lap. Souders can use this money because he intends to resume his studies in mechanical engineering at Purdue.

Souders is a product of the dirt tracks and this was his first attempt on the well traveled bricks of the famous old speedway. He did his first automobile racing on the county fair grounds track in his own home town back in 1923. Since that time, however, he has been steaming fast automobiles around the dirt tracks for five years. He was a big speed thunderstorm down in Texas, but he was just a local shower around Indianapolis previous to today's race.

By a strange twist of fate Earl Devore of Los Angeles, an old timer in major league racing game, grabbed second place and his prize of $10,000 due to the misfortune of Babe Stapp who when having second place within his grasp was forced out of the race with only two laps to go because his motor began to sputter. Stapp, working frantically over his motor was forced to see the $10,000 flash past him and to Devore.

Gulatto Gets $5,000. Third place went to Tony Gulatto of Kansas City, who graduated into the racing business by acting as a riding mechanic to famous drivers. Gulatto got $5,000 in cash for himself. Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis finished fourth, Dave Evans, another veteran, finished fifth. There were twelve of the original thirty-three starters in the race to finish and they were strung out all over the place from ten to fifty miles back of the winner.

For a time it appeared as if Frank Lockhart, winner of the 1926 event, was going to repeat his victory of a year ago but after leading for 297 miles he threw a rear right wheel and was forced out of the race to the disappointment of the great throng.

Lockhart's services were offered to Souders as a relief pilot but Souders promptly decided that he started the race and would finish it. Souders made only two stops at the pits for three minutes, twenty four seconds, once to take on oil, gasoline and water and the second time to change tires.

Lockhart started out to make a winning race of today's event. He shot into the lead on the very first lap and retained it except for a few minutes when he was forced into the pits to change tires. The youthful Lockhart profited to the extent of $10,000 in winning lap prizes for the time that he was showing his back to the balance of the field.

The race was replete with thrills, spills and death defying speed. There were three serious accidents and the display of

FRANCE LOOKS UPON U. S. AS FRIEND AGAIN

FLIGHT, GIFT, HELP TO EASE TENSE RELATIONS.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1927, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, May 28.—The high water mark in the relations between France and the United States since the Armistice has been reached. Official Washington is pleased and happy. Something indescribably companionable has taken the place of the awkward and embarrassing situation that has prevailed in the last two years.

The turn in the tide first came with the remarkable flight Charles Lindberg to Paris. This has been followed by the announcement of a gift of $1,600,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to help conserve the historic monuments of France. Now an American committee in Paris has started a fund for the families of the unfortunate French fliers. Deep sentiment which has been so characteristic of the relations between French and American people is being shown on both sides of the Atlantic once more, almost superseding for the moment the harshness which cropped out in the handling of the war debt problem.

Feeling of Confidence. Even if the United States were ever to consider some kind of readjustment or revision of war debts, a mood such as has now developed would have been an essential forerunner of any such step. Indeed, American officials have felt for some time that the discussion in the French press have given the French people a sense of confidence which it did not deserve and that the American government could be relied upon to deal fairly with every new circumstance in the future as it arose.

The fact that the French newspapers have been filled with laudatory comments of America is expected to furnish a better background than ever before on which a mutual understanding of the difficulties of the debt question can be built. The affection exhibited by France toward Lindberg has impressed people on this side of the Atlantic that stories of a deep-seated anti-American feeling were far from accurate. Instead of an atmosphere of doubt and suspicion about Franco-American relations, there has been substituted a feeling of confidence. And when the debt settlement comes up before congress next December, the chances of its adoption with a minimum of debate can be said to have improved materially. In fact, some new plan for the funding of the debt may be offered by the French next winter which will permanently put the relations between the United States and France on a satisfactory basis.

Statesmen Avoided It.

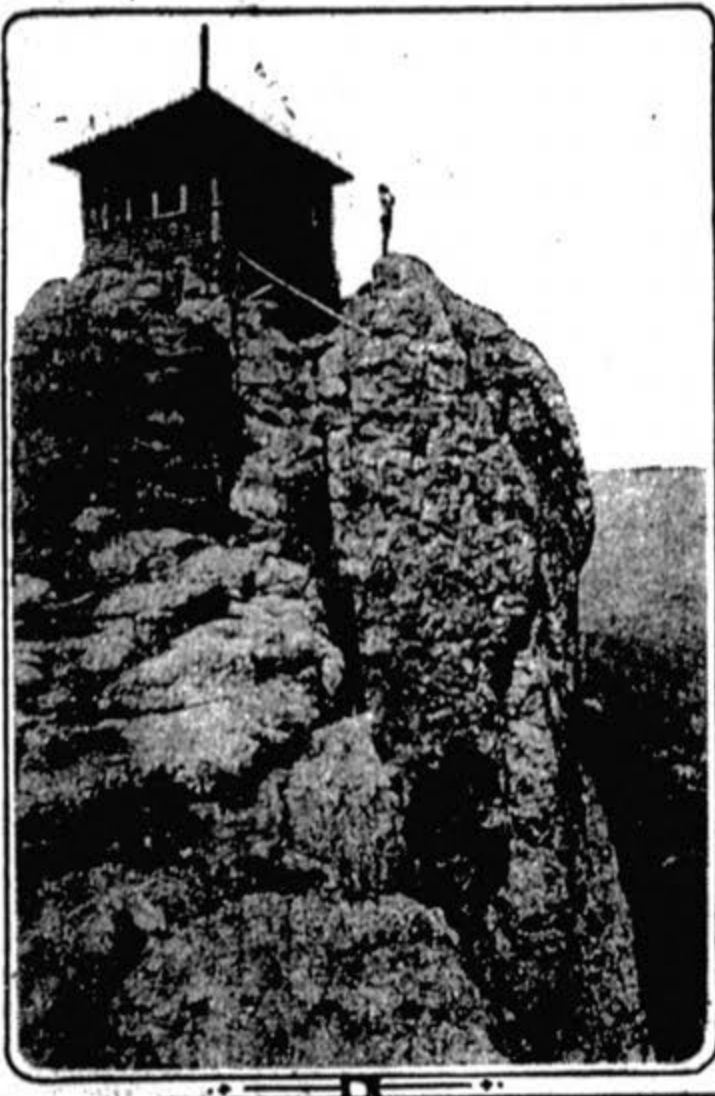

The difficulty in the past has been the unwillingness of some French statesmen to deal with the problem at all, and the efforts of certain French politicians to make the people believe that payment would never be necessary and that large indemnities would be forthcoming from Germany. The possibility is being discussed here that France may voluntarily pay off the debt which she contracted after the armistice, borrowing it from her own people in the form of long-term bonds. This might lead to a rearrangement of the payments on the debt contracted during the war, in any event the improvement of the fiscal position of France is a factor which has been noticed with gratification at Washington.

The main thing accomplished in the last ten days has been the change in the impression of America received by the French people through their press. There has never been any change on this side of the Atlantic in the esteem in which the French people have been held, but it has been hard to keep the French people convinced of this in the face of the adverse comments of the politicians in Paris.

Kindlier Attitude.

The Rockefeller gift is typical of the spirit that individual Americans have shown toward France throughout the reconstruction period. And the sum total of all these acts is to assist the two governments in developing a kindlier attitude toward political problems.

BUSINESS MEN BACK CHURCHES

Roger Babson Delivers Address at Congregational Meet.

Omaha, Neb., May 29.—Roger W. Babson today addressed the National Council of the Congregational Churches here at their biennial convention. Mr. Babson made the point that the business man demands of the church something that is neither intellectual nor dogmatic. He showed by statistics that the business men in the country are behind the churches and are backing them financially as never before in the history of America. He gave six reasons why some business men are not interested in theology nor in an intellectual religion, but desire a rational inspirational service. Mr. Babson's verbatim statement is as follows:

"The church needs a new catechism treating of God, prayer, love, service, spiritual power and eternal life in a rational way. This catechism will teach the same fundamental principles emphasized in the Old Testament as interpreted by Jesus, but would be stripped of the superstitious traditions and beliefs which have been added thereto, and built up around these principles since Jesus' time. I would not criticize the most ardent fundamentalists nor do a thing to undermine the faith of anyone; but I do ask that Jesus' Gospel be presented in a rational and simple way to the millions who are groping for a scientific faith with a spiritual power."

"There exist today philosophical teachings, but they lack spiritual power to hold the tempt-

WOMEN APPROVE FLOOD CONTROL

Federation Adopts Resolution at Meet in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 30.—(AP)—Adoption of a national policy which would eliminate the flood menace was urged in an emergency resolution accepted today by the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs meeting here in biennial council.

The resolution, which brought to 14 the number awaiting action of the council, may be presented in open session tomorrow. Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Estes Park, Colo., president of the federation, drafted the document. It was endorsed by Mrs. Ernest R. Latham of Grand Lodge, Mich., chairman of the division of conservation, and Mrs. Joseph E. Friend of New Orleans, director from Louisiana. The resolution calls for a policy "that will prevent the recurrence of any such flood catastrophe as that which has just swept through the Mississippi valley, and will ultimately eliminate the flood menace in all parts of the United States."

The document continues with reaffirmation of the federation's endorsement of the principles of the plan of the late Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, providing for the making of comprehensive plans for flood control, including all practical methods of protection and prevention through a commission that will co-ordinate all government agencies in cooperation with each other and with the states, and provide for all practicable utilization of water resources, standardize the flow of streams for beneficial use, and

FIFTEEN TAKE AIR IN ANNUAL BALLOON RACE

NO MISHAPS AS BAGS SOAR ALOFT AT CLEVELAND.

Cleveland-Akron Speedway, May 30.—(AP)—The 1927 national balloon race is on. Fifteen gas bags took the air for the long distance flying competition, the first at 5:01 o'clock this afternoon. The last balloon soared away 54 minutes later.

The national balloon race itself, while but a short part of the program which has been arranged, has as its prize for first place the Litchfield trophy, a silver pedestal. It is to be the largest balloon race of the 15 American nationals that have been held, and has drawn the greatest of American balloon pilots as its entrants.

Pilots Assemble The three whose balloons come to earth farthest from Akron are to compose the American team in the international balloon race, to be held from Denver on or about Labor Day, when American pilots will compete against Europe's men of the air in an effort to retain in America the James Gordon Bennett cup, now held here.

The pilots who battle for that honor have been assembled from every balloon center in America. Among them are Ward T. Van Orman and W. W. Morton, the Goodyear team, who now are national and international balloon race champions. Van Orman and Morton last year crossed the Baltic Sea to win the international race. In 1925, Van Orman was blown out to sea during the international race, and after hours in the air, over the storm-tossed Atlantic, came to rest aboard the S. S. Vaterland.

From the Pacific Lieutenant Robert P. Lehr, who for sport used to ride an east wind out of Los Angeles over the Pacific, and wait for the direction to turn so he could come safely back to land, is one of the entered pilots. He flies for Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, O., whose company has entered "The Davey Tree Expert."

Captain H. E. Honeywell, the "dean" of American pilots, who has flown in every recent American balloon race, and who is known as "the hard-luck balloonist," entered his monster "Franco-American," a huge varnish balloon. Captain Honeywell has never been "out of the money" in a national race in which he competed.

And Jack A. Boettner, who holds the Detroit News trophy, one of the air's most prized awards, flies this year for the Central Group of Scripps-Howard Newspapers. Boettner, two years ago, piloted a balloon through a Lake Erie waterspout which tossed him about like a rubber ball in a fountain. He placed in the last year's national race, and was one of the 1926 American Gordon Bennett cup race team. He placed in the 1925 Detroit News race, and was second in the Major Thomas Baldwin trophy race of 1925.

Dane Files Detrouser Svend A. U. Rasmussen, Danish balloonist, files Detrouser III, and Charles B. "Chuck" Williams, holder of the Ellis national trophy by virtue of one of the greatest balloon trips of all time, will be in the basket of Detrouser II.

The complete list of balloons entered is as follows: "Scripps-Howard," Central League of Scripps-Howard Newspapers; Jack A. Boettner, pilot. Goodyear, Ward T. Van Orman, pilot. "Davey Tree Expert," sponsored by Congressman Martin L. Davey; Robert P. Lehr, Los Angeles, pilot. "Franco-American," H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis, pilot. U. S. Army No. 1, Langley Field; Lieutenant Paul Everett, pilot.

U. S. Army No. 2, Scott Field; Lieutenant J. A. Powell, pilot. U. S. Army No. 3, Scott Field; Captain W. E. Kepner, pilot. U. S. Army No. 4, Norton Field; Lieutenant Frank McKee, pilot. Akron Beacon-Journal, Carl Wollam, pilot. Navy No. 1, Lakehurst; Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle, pilot. Navy No. 2, Lakehurst; Lieutenant G. V. Whittle, pilot. Navy No. 3, Lakehurst; Charles Bausch, pilot.

Detrouser No. I, Detroit Flying Club; Charles B. Williams, pilot. Detrouser No. II, Detroit Flying Club; Svend A. U. Rasmussen, pilot. Detrouser No. III, Edward J. Hill, pilot.

Londonites Banquet Flyer

London, May 30.—(AP)—Captain Charles Lindbergh's desire to return home at the earliest possible moment has brought into consideration his sailing on the George Washington June 2, though final arrangements are still held in abeyance. It is said that the aviator and those who have cooperated in his plans may reach a definite conclusion tomorrow.

The youthful American hero's whirl of entertainment in London comes to an end Wednesday, with a banquet by combined American organizations, and it is reported that he began packing his monoplane immediately so that it can be taken along with him on the George Washington in the event that he decides to return on that boat.

Rounding out one of the busiest days of his career since he flew himself into world fame, Lindbergh sat down at a banquet tonight, and confronting him on his plate was a pile of five luscious ham sandwiches, with a jug of water nearby, as a gentle reminder of his trans-Atlantic menu in the good ship "Spirit of St. Louis."

Correspondents Entertain. The birdman was the guest of honor at the Association of American Correspondents' banquet given in the Abraham Lincoln room at the Savoy, the American ambassador, Alonson B. Houghton, who sails tomorrow on the Leviathan for New York, was also a guest. Charles Stephenson Smith of the Associated Press presided.

Lindbergh, when he saw the sandwiches, blushed like a school boy and enjoyed the heartiest laugh he has had since he reached England. The sandwiches were hastily removed by the waiter, of which Lindbergh good-humoredly complained, because, as he explained, he had not had a chance to get a bite of even one of them. The water was led—the first real honest-to-goodness, real ice water since he left New York.

As the sandwiches slid out of sight, the menu card took their place. It was designed to indicate the progress of the flight, which brought the name of Lindbergh into the newspapers and the hearts of people throughout the civilized world.

Nations' Crossed Flags. On the front page were the crossed flags of Great Britain and the United States. Inside was caricature of Captain Lindbergh in flying costume. The first item was cocktails "Spirit of St. Louis," then consommé à la-tourte, followed by melon Detroit; saumon d'Inde; pommes gratinées; omelette de volaille; poulet à la Chateaufort; asperges; fraises de Chateaufort; caviar; corbeille d'honneur; café à la croquette.

As the dinner progressed the orchestra played "Dixie," "California, I am Coming," "The Last Rose of Summer," and many Yankee airs which made Lindbergh prick up his ears and want to talk about the land from which he came.

Several cablegrams from the United States wishes him all the good luck in the world and assured him that when he arrived at the Battery some 117,000,000 Americans, or at least a good part of that number, would be at the Battery to greet him.

The youthful captain, who now has become somewhat accustomed to public speaking, made a short talk, patting the reporters on the back. The reporters who had cooperated, he said, 100 per cent, in chronicling everything he did and even in anticipating some of his plans for the future.

Houghton To Ship. The banquet concluded at 9 o'clock in the first place to give Ambassador Houghton an opportunity to motor to Southampton so that he might go aboard the Leviathan, and also to allow Lindbergh a chance to get to bed before midnight for the first time in about two weeks.

An incident which amused and also greatly pleased Lindbergh preceded the banquet. As he passed through the hotel, two page boys approached him shyly and offered a package on a silver tray. It was a typical boys' gift—a scout's knife with numerous devices and with the boyish inscription:

"From 24 page boys, wishing you the best of luck. And we hope some day one of us may follow your example." The Scout's knife was not exactly a gift, since the page boys

RESPECT LAW, COOLIDGE PLEA

President Speaks at Arlington Memorial Day Exercises.

Washington, May 30.—(AP)—Law observance was declared necessary by President Coolidge today for the maintenance of America's institutions and for the continuance of its influence in world affairs. Results of the past are predicated, he said, upon a law abiding people.

Honoring the war dead as has been his custom in a Memorial Day address at Arlington National Cemetery, the President warned that "we are always confronted with the inescapable conclusion that unless we observe the law we cannot be free."

"We have made our place in the world through the Union and the Constitution. We have flourished as a people because of our success in establishing self-government.

Must Control Self. "Unless we are an industrious, orderly nation we can neither minister to our own requirements or be an effective influence for good in the world."

Recalling secession movements in the North as well as that of the South which were culminated by the Civil War, Mr. Coolidge took cognizance of "its heirs and successors in all the different brands of sectionalism with their special pleading who are oftentimes extremely vocal." He condemned efforts seeking to advance one section at the expense of another as a "species of disloyalty to the spirit of the Union."

On behalf of the nation the executive bestowed "affectionate regards of honor and acclaim" for those who gave their lives in its support but he called also for respect for its living protectors. Giving assurance of general prospects of peace throughout the world he declared that an adequate defense always would be maintained "with our forces dedicated solely to the preservation of peace."

Pleads for Reason. In world affairs the president asked for the substitution of reason and law in the place of force and compulsion, and added: "It is because of our belief in these principles that we wish to see all the world relieved from strife and conflict and brought under the humanizing influence of a reign of law. Our conduct will be dictated, not in accordance with the will of the strongest, but in accordance with the judgments of righteousness."

"It is in accordance with this policy that we have sought to discontinue the old practice of competition in armaments and cast our influence on the side of reasonable limitations. We wish to discard the element of force and compulsion in international agreements and conduct and rely gameness that stirred the emotions of thousands.

Norman Batten of Brooklyn, won the admiration of the spectators by his courage in driving his car engulfed in flames, refusing to desert it to save his life.

The car, speeding at nearly 100 miles an hour, caught fire on the back stretch in full sight of the thousands in the grandstands. Batten standing erect in the driver's seat and steering the flaming car with flames licking his hand, brought it to a stop in front of his pits so the fire could be extinguished. Batten steered the car with first one hand and then the other until they were so badly blistered and burned that he finished steering it with his left foot.

"Understand and law. We recognize that in the present state of the world this is not a vision which will be immediately realized, yet step by little, step by step, in every practical way, we should show our determination to press on toward this mark of our high calling.

"Our government has recently been attempting to proceed in accordance with these principles in its relations with China, Nicaragua, and Mexico, and in inviting Japan and Great Britain to participate in a three-power naval limitation conference.

Domestic Affairs First.

"While the foreign relations of this country are becoming more and more important, and constitute a field to which it will be necessary for our government and our people to give much more attention than is now realized, yet it is our domestic affairs that must always assume the first rank. Nations which are torn by dissension and discord, which are weak and inefficient at home, have little standing or influence abroad. Even the blind do not choose the blind to lead them.

"Foreign peoples are certainly going to seek assistance only from those who have demonstrated their capacity to maintain their own affairs efficiently. If we desire to be an influence in order and law, tranquility and good will in the world, we must be determined to make sufficient sacrifices to live by these precepts at home. We can be a moral force in the world only to the extent that we establish morality in our own country."

Residence Kept Up for Owner 40 Years

Seward, Alaska—Among the monuments to a past commercial glory which hovered over the Aleutians back in the eighties is the furnished residence of Mrs. Stanley-Brown (Mollie Garfield), wife of a president of the Northern Commercial company and daughter of the martyred President, James A. Garfield.

The residence stands at Dutch Harbor and is intact, even to the luxurious furnishings, including dainty mahogany chairs of the period, Parisian rugs, a square rosewood piano, crystal and silver candelabra, vases of cloisonne and crystal delft-willow ware and closets filled with Haviland china. The house, containing 14 rooms, has been in charge of a custodian all these years and is kept spick and span, even to the polish of the immense copper tanks and cauldrons, as if its mistress were expected on the next ship that slips into the harbor to weather a sub-Arctic storm, which is seldom.

Cabinet Minister Selected by Lot

Berlin—Choosing a cabinet minister by lot is a political innovation of the German free state of Mecklenburg.

When the Socialist-Democratic coalition government headed by Premier Paul Schroeder stumbled over the budget bill and failed to obtain a vote of confidence, the Mecklenburg parliament reassembled to choose a new cabinet by the prescribed method of voting. Schroeder was reelected by a vote of 25 to 24, as was also the minister of finance, Asch. When the position of minister of education came up for vote, three ballots resulted in a tie between the democratic incumbent, Moeller, and the candidate of the right, Stammer. The salons of Mecklenburg, finding that meal hour was well advanced, yet duly mindful of their responsibility to their constituents decided to cast lots. Moeller won.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The Yankees and Athletics ought to be in a league of their own, thinks Manager Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns.

Dan so expressed himself after New York had beaten his club four straight, despite the fact that a baseball here and there in any one of the four games might have changed defeat into victory for St. Louis.

"Don't let anybody tell you that New York hasn't a great ball club," says Howley. "There is more real batting power on that club than any major league team I can recall. There isn't a breathing spell for the opposing pitcher from top to bottom of the batting order."

"This thing of passing one certain Yankee to take a chance with some one else is all hokum. Let me explain:

"If you pass Ruth, you have to pitch to Gehrig. If you intentionally send Gehrig to first, then you have to get rid of Meusel. If it's Meusel who is franked, then you have to worry about Lazerri.

"The Yankees are simply bad news from a batting standpoint," concluded Howley.

There seems to be no denying the fact that the club that wants to win the American League pennant must beat New York.

Dan Howley's remarks relative to the New York Yankees recalls to memory what Bill Carrigan, new manager of the Boston Red Sox said to me after he had seen the club in action for the first time in a four-game series.

"I have been told New York isn't a great club," said Carrigan, "that the only thing it could do was hit and wouldn't do that consistently."

"Maybe my advisers are right, but, after looking New York over myself I am convinced that it is a great ball club, regardless of the opinion of the experts to the contrary."

"There is no doubt as to the club's ability to hit. It has also shown me a pretty good pitching staff, far better than I expected, and it is right smart."

"Possibly New York isn't a great ball club, as a lot of the wise men have told me, but I want to go on record that I would like to manage such a collection of players. I would almost guarantee a pennant."

Unquestionably the Yankees are stronger than last season, when the club was good enough to win the pennant. The improved play of Koenig at short and Lazerri at second is the most pronounced difference.

By the way, have you noticed the Boston Red Sox have perked up considerably of late? The general play of the club is improving with each day's game.

The material that Manager Bill Carrigan has to work with at Boston is rather limited, and in some cases, quite green, yet his system is beginning to get results.

Carrigan is building for the future at Boston and well understands that a major league ball club cannot be put together overnight.

He traded the veteran Short-stop Rigney for the youngster Myer, because he believed Myer had a future and that Rigney was going the other way. He "wants future greats rather than slipping stars.

Dol Lundgren, a big husky right-hander with a great fast ball, failed to win a game for Boston all last season. In the first month of play he has won two finely pitched games for Carrigan.

Defeat means little or nothing in the life of Bill Carrigan at present. Realizing he must weld together a team, he is giving every man in his squad a chance to prove his worth.

Carrigan is of the opinion that he may finish sixth. He says more surprising things have happened in major league baseball.

Rusco stops quicker, rain or shine. After a test of its stopping qualities, Mr. Samuel Burke of 2492 Roscoe Street, Chicago, Ill., said: "I stopped my Marmon with two-wheel brakes lined with Rusco, in 43 feet going 25 miles an hour. New Copyright Law Sought for Author

Berlin—The Prussian Academy of Arts is sponsoring agitation for a modernized copyright law which could extend copyright privileges to 50 years. The existing limit is 30 years.

Authors, playwrights and composers argue that they or their heirs are entitled to income from royalties for a longer period. Cosima Wagner, 88-year-old widow of the famous composer, it is pointed out, isn't receiving a cent in royalties on her husband's compositions which others are exploiting at a handsome profit.

Many publishers, however, oppose the plan. Works of men like Theodor Storm, Gustav Freytag, Gottfried Keller and many others, they say, are never really available for the large majority of the people until the copyright expires and prices fall.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

Industrial Poisons Affecting the Nervous System.

One of the most common industrial poisons is carbon disulphide, used in the manufacture of this rubber articles, artificial silk and in the preparation of cellulose.

When this substance is taken into the body, it seems to have a particular effect on the nerve tissues, so that the patients become paralyzed, sometimes show symptoms of insanity, and sometimes blindness due to its action on the optic nerve.

It will be remembered that wood alcohol seems also to have a special affinity for the optic nerve, and that it also produces blindness.

Illuminating gas contains another important poison, carbon monoxide, which is responsible for sudden death when it is inhaled from the exhaust of motor cars in a closed garage. In 1882 an investigator announced that he had discovered changes in the brain following poisoning with carbon monoxide and recently numerous instances have been described in which such poisonings have resulted in serious disturbances of the brain.

In addition to mental disturbances, this poison may also result in blindness and in producing changes of great seriousness in the blood.

It would be possible to list dozens of other poisons which produce serious changes in the body when they are taken in. They include all of the combinations of the coal tar derivatives, many of the poisons developed in the war industry, particularly in the manufacture of powder and benzene and its derivatives.

Benzene causes dangerous changes in the blood, and it is a question whether any system of ventilation can possibly control the fumes of benzene. A committee appointed to investigate the use of benzene in industry recommended that some substitute be had for it whenever possible.

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 30.—This is the time of year when Broadway trucks its attractions up in mothballs and dozes off until the cool days.

Theatrical attractions pull down the shades, leaving but a few very hardy musical shows and one or two dramatic attractions to face the summer. In most of these the stars get substitutes for the hot months and the travelers from way points look upon a scanty list of attractions in the cut-rate ticket stores. The movies begin to put in their ice plants and one by one the night clubs close and silently steal away, some to open roadhouses in the country and some to call it all off for the season.

There's a tired expression all over the big street just before June hops on the calendar. Those who have basked under the moon and slept under the sun begin to take on that drawn look. The night club regulars get ready to call it a season, and some step off to Europe to whoop it up more than ever. Some actually take a rest.

Broadway seems to stretch, yawn and ask to be left alone. Surely it offers little to invite the curious. It dims its lights and mutes its music.

Already the jazz banditti gather at "musicians' corner" and inquire about summer resorts that may want musicians. In a few weeks the corner will be jammed as eager college students add their presence and the bidding for resort jazz gets under way. Those for whom the season has been a bit tough angle for "pick up" engagements in the seashore hotels or mountain camps.

the hinterlands. Europe-bound folk stop over to "catch New York" before sailing and newcomers wander up the warm and dusty looking big street trying to figure out what the attraction of it is.

A USELESS WAR.

England has virtually declared war on American movies. A law is now pending that would require all movie house owners in the British Isles to present each week a certain percentage of British-made films.

England cannot compete with American made films until it has the actors and actresses, scenic and electrical equipment and directors. When it acquires these essentials it then may be able to give our producers a run for their money.

The average Briton is international in his movie tastes. He doesn't care whether the film is made in Hollywood or Timbuctoo so long as it is entertaining.

Jungle Breath

Vilak rubbed the towel vigorously against the old man's face, then hurried outside. Nunnally followed automatically behind. They half walked, half ran down the road, along a small stream which drained into the river on which lay the town.

The old man stopped to rest for a moment and gazed after the other with a strong inclination to shudder. But resolved to imitate his companion's coolness, he repressed the impulse, took a cigarette and reached in his pocket for a match he could not find.

"He's white, white you occidental egoist," Vilak returned, "white as the lilies of Sharon. You'll probably be interested to know that his name is Gayford Prentiss."

"None other, my dear Nanny," the old man had found the matches in the lining of his coat. "What's the matter with him? How did he get that... mark on his forehead?"

"Several have... And been potholed down for their pains. Can you run for a little? We're in a... minute."

"That's one of the things I'm interested in finding out. The natives believe he's the center of all the apparently diabolical things which have been happening. Elsie has tried to talk to him and failed miserably. She took an interest in him naturally, because he's a fellow-countryman, but particularly because there'd been a lot of bad blood between his father and her own, when old Prentiss lived on his fazenda near here, and she hasn't any use for silly family feuds."

Nunnally glanced at him quizzically. "You think very highly of your... cousin," he murmured. "Are you... in love with her?"

"Innocent, innocent as a babe. Women to a criminologist are an unmitigated nuisance. They arouse emotions and clog up the machinery. The really perfect detective should be born like a amoeba, without father and mother. This way, he'd have no emotional traditions to affect his judgment. My position here, as most things are nowadays, is a purely economic one. Elsie sent for me because it's getting very difficult to hire labor for the fazenda. Incidentally, it's toward Prentiss' place we're heading. Elsie's men often use this as a short cut to town. Now don't start talking again," he flashed as the other's lips parted. "Save your breath, we must be running."

They sped forward again. For a short distance the highway skirted the antiquated railroad paralleling the stream. A short distance farther on was a siding on which stood a few battered freight cars. Here they left the road and took a narrow lane which led up the

Silk Hats to Try Comeback in England

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

DR. LOOMIS TO GIVE TESTIMONY

Detroit Physician Will Tell His Story of Wife's Death.

Detroit, May 28.—(P)—Assurance that Dr. Frank R. Loomis will take the witness stand to tell his own version of what occurred in the Marlowe avenue home the night of February 22, when his wife was murdered, was given Judge V. Brennan at the close of the physician's first week on trial today.

Louis J. Colombo, chief of counsel for the defense, previously had said Dr. Loomis would not be a witness unless the state "made out a case."

Sixteen-year-old Dori McClure, a telephone operator, was the principal witness of the day. Her testimony that she heard a scream over a wire from the Loomis home at 9:05 the night Mrs. Grace Loomis was found beaten to death served only to involve further the prosecution's efforts to fix a time for the slaying.

The time element was uppermost in the trial today. Dr. Loomis insisted during a long grilling by police after the slaying that he left his home at 9 p. m., and returned 45 minutes later, finding his wife dead. Mrs. Ethel Bell, young divorcee, whose name is endorsed on the information against Dr. Loomis, testified at the physician's preliminary hearing that she heard a woman's scream as she passed the Loomis home shortly before 9 o'clock, the night of the slaying. Mrs. Bell is expected to take the stand next week to reiterate this testimony.

The testimony of Miss McClure that she "plugged in" on a signal from the Loomis home while she was attending the telephone switchboard at a branch exchange was a subject for cross-questioning during today's session. Under cross-examination by Colombo, Miss McClure admitted she had violated a rule of the telephone company by failing to report hearing the scream.

Dr. Loomis has maintained he was walking several blocks from his home when the murder occurred. His assertion that he walked from his home to St. Mary's avenue, 16 blocks away, on a stroll, was the basis of another attempt by the prosecution today to determine the time of the physician's return. Claud Massey, assistant city engineer, was the first witness of the day. He testified that the distance, one way, might be covered on foot in about 12 and one-half minutes, as was previously claimed by Prosecutor Robert M. Tomp.

The trial will be resumed at 9:30 Tuesday morning.

German Town Offers Hindenburg Castle

Medin.—The president of the German republic will have a permanent summer capital and vacation grounds at Wilhelmshoehoe castle, near Cassel, if the plans to designate it finds favor with Field Marshal von Hindenburg and the cabinet.

Wilhelmshoehoe was the favorite summer resort of the late Emperor Auguste Victoria, wife of William II. The city fathers of Cassel in offering Wilhelmshoehoe as permanent summer residence for the chief executive point out that Wilhelmshoehoe is "identified with great historical memories" and is "known and famed far beyond the confines of Germany."

They urge that "its unequalled natural location, its unique park—one of the finest in Europe—the healthy mountain air of the Habicht Forest and the proximity of the Hessian Highlands make it an ideal place for recreation."

Finds Tunis Tea Drinking Makes Wine Parties Pale

Paris.—(P)—Tea drinking has hit Tunisia and left moral and social ruin in its wake. So says Dr. A. Dinguilil, of Tunis, who told the French Academy of Medicine that a revival of interest in the fragrant herb has had a deleterious effect on his countrymen.

"The workman's whole salary is spent for tea," the doctor explained, adding that tea drinkers would not only exhaust their salaries, but would pawn the family plate and even steal from their neighbors to get money wherewith to buy more tea.

Eye disorders, lassitude, loss of sleep and appetite, increasingly prevalent in Tunis, could all be charged up to tea excesses. Dr. Dinguilil said. The unprecedented desire for tea, he declared, had arisen since the war, before which almost none was consumed in Tunisia. At the present time importations are about 3,300,000 pounds annually, with the drinking on the increase.

American flappers on a cocktail party can't compare with a bevy of Tunisian ladies at the tea hour, the doctor concluded.

THE DUMB LADY.

LODGER.—I'm going out tonight to see "The Barber of Seville."

LANDLADY.—Will you find out what he charges for ladies?—Passing show, London.

If a barrage was thrown across the Bristol Channel, near the mouth of the River Severn, in England, it would produce nearly twice as much electric power as is obtained from Niagara Falls.

HER MAJESTY OF THE OIL FIELDS

Miss Bernice Martin has been named queen of the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at her home city, Wichita Falls. Her staff, topped by a miniature oil derrick, is symbolic of the vast oil industry "that faith and patience built." The tiny derrick is electrically lighted.

Simple Paintings Bring Peak Prices

Paris.—Startlingly high prices for the primitive canvases of Henri Rousseau, a "painter who couldn't paint" again are smothering the world of modern art.

These queer splashes of color, crude in design, devoid of studio technique, revive stories of the fuses made a quarter of a century ago over the French customs employee. He never had an hour's instruction in composition; but 55,000 francs was paid recently for a picture that many art critics consider nothing more than the odd effort of childish, untrained ability.

Rousseau painted to amuse himself and his friends. Sometimes he copied figures from catalogues. His human figures are clear-cut spots of color, like paper dolls.

"The cult for Rousseau," explains one critic, "was the sign of a reaction against all the mannerism, falseness, trickery, and mechanical formulae of a school of painting as empty as it was artificial."

Rousseau once said his dead wife "sometimes" directed his brushhand and he showed the mysticism of a child excited by nightmares.

No waiting—one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads the pain is gone. After the corn is healed it never comes back. If new shoes irritate the spot again, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight. Old methods of paring, cutting, or using caustic acids, are dangerous.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Lon Chaney, portrayed of weird cripples, as a dogged fighter—leading a force of United States Marines in a desperate encounter with Oriental bandits—this is one of the remarkable variants for the famous actor's usual activities—in "Tell It To The Marines," in which he plays a veteran sergeant in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular epic of the Marine Corps, now playing at the Delft.

The picture, filmed with Government cooperation, was made on battleships, in Marine barracks, and in Oriental locales, with regular Marines in thrilling battle scenes, ship practice and other details of Marine life. George Hill directed it, with Lon Chaney in the role of a veteran sergeant, William Haines as a recruit, Eleanor Boardman as the heroine, a navy nurse, and Carmel Myers, Eddie Gribbon, Frank Currier, Maurice Kains, Mitchell Lewis, Daniel C. Tomlinson, and others in the cast. Several hundred regular Marines take part in the production.

AT THE STRAND.

Hard riding and swift action mark Tom Mix' latest, "The Canyon of Light," which had its first showing at the Strand Theatre yesterday. For breath taking suspense, nerve tending excitement and hair raising escapes, it is doubtful if even Tom has surpassed what he does in this gripping drama of of the frontier.

Not only are there some real shock producers in the mountainous country, where many of the sequences are taken, but battle scenes in France, where Tom plays the part of a dispatch rider, are also full of action and suspense. Dorothy Dwan plays the role of the sweet heroine with Tom, while William Walling, Ralph Sipperly, Carl Miller, Camelia Geraghty and Barry Norton are seen in roles of importance. Don't miss this one if you want to enjoy some real thrills.

SEE MOVE TO OUST 'SHIFT'

Two-Second Stop Ruling Regarded as First Step In Drive.

Chicago (AP)—Action on the part of the Western Conference coaches placing a definite restriction on the backfield shift, in which the mentors agreed on a two-second hiatus in the maneuvering of the backfield before the ball is snapped, is regarded by many as the opening gun in a campaign to amend the rules so that the shift will be tabooed altogether. Failing in step with the Big Ten movement, the Missouri Valley officials adopted a rule calling for a pause of one second between shifting and putting the ball into play. Curbing this play will hamper the running attack of many teams.

The contention is advanced that there is no way to combat the advantage gained by the backfield players when they gather momentum just before, and at the time the ball is snapped back by the center. The restriction is that present rules properly regulate shift formations, and penalize violations.

The famous shift originated in the middle west, and was first used as an offensive weapon by the great Minnesota teams coached by Dr. Williams. For years this phase of football attack was known as "the Minnesota shift." The shift was introduced to the East when Tom Shevlin, the old Yale star, returned to his alma mater to assist in coaching. Shevlin lived in Minneapolis, and he had plenty of opportunity to observe the effectiveness of the shift as practiced by Minnesota.

Later, many coaches took over the shift, and developed it, but perhaps Knute K. Rockne of Notre Dame made the best use of the shift to launch the running attack of his teams. There were some rumblings against the move several years ago, when Rockne's team invaded the East and beat the best in the section.

A great many teams employ the shift formation, and this method of attack now has generally become to be known as "the Notre Dame shift," or Notre Dame style of play, simply because Rockne's teams have made spectacular use of the play.

Rockne is one of those opposed to any change in the rules that would hamper the free use of the shift. His argument is that football is an offensive game, and if the teams are prevented from using legitimate methods of scoring, football will become a purely defensive game, with the teams that are nearly evenly matched being unable to score at all. It was pointed out that the Army-Navy game at Chicago showed the followers of the game and there were 110,000 in the stands that Saturday afternoon, how much kick there is in a contest in which the teams show a scoring punch. Each of the service teams counted three touchdowns. The Army used the shift considerably, but the Navy relied on the forward passing attack. The Army was penalized several times because the officials believed that the backfield was illegally in motion when the ball was snapped.

Dr. Spears, the Minnesota coach, who is an advocate of the shift, readily agreed to the new ruling in the Big Ten games, although this play is one of his team's principal offensive weapons.

Rockne argues that defensive play is over-emphasized, that the game is good sport as it stands, and he urges that there be no changes in the present playing code. Others, however, including Fielding H. Yost, the famous athletic director of Michigan, and Robert Zuppke, coach of Illinois, are just as insistent that scoring plays can be devised without the use of the shift, as it is used now by many teams.

The contention is advanced that there is no way to combat the advantage of the "crashing" backfield players, when they gain momentum at the time the ball is passed.

Happy weeks are Born on MAYTAG Mondays

Because Washday Takes But an Hour!

THINK of a washday that takes but an hour. When big tubfuls are washed sanitarily clean in 3 to 7 minutes. Washed spotlessly clean in the Maytag's life-lasting, cast-aluminum tub that keeps water cleansingly hot for an entire washing. Think of a washday when even collars, cuffs and wristbands are washed positively clean without hand-rubbing. When even grimy rompers and greasy work-clothes are washed clean as new in 10 minutes.

Try the Maytag. Let it do a big washing in your home, without obligation or expense, just to prove how much shorter and easier a washday can be—how much cleaner clothes can be washed. If the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor

Bengals Divide Double Header With Cleveland

FORCE UHLE TO RETIRE IN 7TH

Tigers Make 19 Hits in Second Contest for 27 Bases.

Detroit, May 30—(AP)—Detroit earned an even break with Cleveland in the Memorial Day double-header by winning the after game, 11 to 2, after losing the morning contest, 9 to 8, here today. In the second engagement the Tigers made 19 hits for a total of 27 bases off Uhle and Karr.

Uhle was driven from the box in the seventh when the Tigers clinched the second game with seven runs. Two triples and a double were included in the seven hits Detroit made in this inning.

When Uhle was removed he left the bases filled. Tavener, the first batter to face Karr, cleared them with a triple along the right field line.

In this seventh inning rally 12 Tigers went to bat. Charlie Gehring made two hits in this inning, one a triple. This brought Gehring's base hit total for the game to four, giving him the lead among the batters of those teams.

Two Base Hit.
When George Burns, the Cleveland first baseman, doubled in the sixth inning of the afternoon game he was credited with his sixteenth two-base hit of the season. Last year Burns set a world's record for this specialty when he made 64 doubles.

For the first six innings the afternoon contest was a pitchers' battle between Holloway and Uhle, with the Tiger right-hander having an advantage. He blanked the Indians until the sixth when they grouped three hits with two passes for two runs. Holloway retired the side in order in the seventh and eighth, but yielded another run in the ninth on Hodapp's single, McNulty's pinch double and Eichrodt's sacrifice fly.

Cleveland captured the morning game by scoring five runs in the ninth. They forced Carroll off the mound and continued their bombardment at the expense of Whitehill.

The deciding factor in Cleveland's victory in the forenoon was Eichrodt's double in the ninth with the bases filled. Eichrodt was a pinch hitter for Bennie Karr.

RAILS WIN IN FIRST BATTLE

North-Westerns Rally in Eighth to Beat Indees.

The Chicago & North-Westerns defeated the Independents, 5 to 4, in the opening game of the Delta-Scholcraft League season here Sunday, coming from behind with three runs in the eighth inning to nose out a one-run victory after trailing all the way.

Burns, pitching for the Indees, whiffed ten men and pitched good ball, but the North-Westerns made their hits count to better advantage. Ranguette and Jonas kept the Indees' blows well scattered after the first frame.

The feature of the week-end was the 14 to 13 victory of Cooks over Manistique, Sunday, which went 16 innings in its wild scramble.

All of the games in the league except the Gladstone-North-Western game were postponed yesterday on account of rain. They probably will be played later as double-headers.

YANKS DIVIDE WITH MACKMEN

Babe Ruth Collects 14th Circuit Clout This Season.

Philadelphia, May 30—(AP)—The league-leading Yankees divided a double header with Philadelphia today, losing the first game, 9-8, and winning the second in the eleventh inning, 6-5, on a home run by Babe Ruth, his fourteenth of the season.

Grove granted 15 hits in the morning game, but struck out 11 batters and fanned Grabowski in the ninth with the tying run on third base.

Philadelphia played the second game under protest after the umpires refused to allow Cobb to score in the fourth inning when Grabowski caught a foul and fell in the Athletics dugout. More than 80,000 persons saw the two games.

A triple play unassisted by Jimmy Cooney, Cub shortstop, was the fielding feature of the opener which was marked by heavy batting by both clubs.

They don't come any better

I DIDN'T know it, but Prince Albert was just the tobacco I had been looking for all the time. I hate to think of the time we lost getting together. But let that go. We're all set now—me and the pipe and P.A. We've been pals from the very first puff.

I had a hunch I was going to like P.A. the minute I got that breath of Nature's noblest gift to pipe-smokers. What a treat! It made me think of a hike through the woods, when the trees and the vines are in full leaf. I found the taste "as advertised" by the aroma.

Cool as a customs-inspector. Sweet as the thought you have nothing to hide. Mild as a milk-shake, yet with that full-bodied flavor that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. That's Prince Albert, Fellows. They don't come any better.

No matter how set you appear to be on a smoke-program, try P.A. I give you my word, no other tobacco that ever came down the pike ever brought so much downright satisfaction out of a pipe. "That fellow knew his groceries." you'll say, or words to that effect.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tin, pound and half-pound tin tins, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

ANCIENT FEAST OF JEWS TO BE OBSERVED JUNE 6

Pentecost Commemorates Birth of Race.

The Jewish Pentecost or Feast of Weeks (Shaboth) will be celebrated on the 6th of June. Its name is derived from the fact that it is celebrated seven weeks after the second day of Passover.

In post-biblical times this Feast was observed as the anniversary of the birth of Judaism with the promulgation of the Divine Law at Sinai.

When the Reform Synagog introduced the rite of Confirmation for the Jewish youth, the Pentecost, by virtue of its traditional association with the ancient revelation was the day most naturally selected for charging the young boys and girls through an impressive public ceremony.

The agricultural side of the Feast, however, was not lost sight of, in that it was customary to decorate home and synagog with plants and flowers in season.

Wild Animals Haunt London After Dark

London—London, the world's largest city, is still bothered by wild animals now and then owing to its rapid extension into the rural districts.

Wild animals driven from their native haunts by the house builders come back at night to prowling about, making weird noises, which often alarm the unoppressed residents, who are mostly city reared.

Owls hold first place as noise makers. Rabbits and hares are plentiful in all the suburbs.

Same Pay Is Allowed Coolidge, Doumergue

Paris—(AP)—President Gaston Doumergue of the French Republic gets practically the same pay as President Coolidge.

President Doumergue gets 2,500,000 francs a year, which, figuring the franc at about 25 to the dollar, amounts to approximately $100,000.

The French president's entourage claims that the two and a half million francs allotted their chief just about suffices to make ends meet. While his traveling expenses are normally less than Mr. Coolidge's he has to entertain them asert on a far more lavish scale.

Highway Markers Show Sitting Bull's Slayer

Mandan, N. D.—The silhouette of Red Tomahawk, slayer of Sitting Bull, has been painted on every highway marker in North Dakota.

Red Tomahawk was an Indian policeman in the early eighties when he slew Sitting Bull, chief of the Sioux tribe of which he was a member.

Today he lives near Wishek, N. D., as quietly as his public duties will permit—for whenever a distinguished visitor comes to the state he is summoned to help receive the guest.

When Queen Marie crossed North Dakota, Red Tomahawk gave her a feathered war bonnet on behalf of his tribe, and he was disturbed not a whit when, after donning it, her majesty retired to her private car and washed her hair.

A missionary taught Red Tomahawk to write his name recently, but he is weak on spelling and the best he can do is "Red Tommy Hawk."

GOPHERS FIGHT.

San Francisco—Gophers were eating up the prize vegetables of Seth Van Patten of Van Nuys, Calif., so he dug a hole in the middle of the gopher run and lit a small can of sulphur. When he came back to see how many were dead he found that the gophers not only had put out the sulphur blaze with soft dirt but had plugged up all the holes leading from it to their underground chambers.

A British Air Force aviator, in a single seater, flew upside down for four minutes and forty-five seconds, thus setting a new record.

An American eagle with a six foot wing spread was found dead recently after a battle with a porcupine, its head filled with quills.
