Sailor Postmen Lug Mail to Lake Boats

Detroit—Sailor postmen have manned for another season the Great Lakes' floating postoffice. The small white tug C. F. Bielman, Jr., for 32 years has plied the Detroit river, bearing the only official postal flag in existence, conferred by special act of congress.

A single letter for one of the 25,000 Great Lakes sailors sends the craft scurrying to the lane of big freighters near the Canadian tug halts and a small boat is lowered. The passing vessel makes no change in speed, and the carrier must maneuver his rowboat alongside and throw aloft the line to which the mail packet is tied. Sometimes six or seven boats moving in opposite directions must be served in quick succession.

More than one hundred steamers pass through the Detroit river daily during the navigation season, making it the busiest channel in the world. For each crew the marine postoffice has letters from home, money orders, telegrams and packages. More than 2,000,000 pieces of registered mail are taken to or from passing ships in a season.

Blonde men are going to wear tomato red suits this spring, says a style note. Add that to the advantages of being a brunet.

HENRY FORD'S FIRST APPEARANCE

This picture of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, taken at a campaign dinner opening a drive to raise $4,000,000 for welfare buildings, marks the first public appearance of the motor manufacturer since the accident to Mr. Ford on March 27. It also was his first appearance in connection with any campaign for funds. The Fords gave $400,000 toward the buildings. Between the Fords is seated Charles Beecher Warren, former U. S. ambassador to Japan. Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford also gave $400,000, bringing the total Ford gift to $800,000.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM H. ST. JOHN.

The sudden death of William H. St. John of Green Bay which occurred in this city Monday evening brought many expressions of sympathy for the members of the bereaved family although they were strangers in the city the circumstances of the case were indeed sad.

Motoring to this city Monday with his wife and daughter and Frank Noonon, Jr., combining business with pleasure, Mr. St. John did not complain of any illness. He attended to business matters here calling on George MacKillop, local Chrysler dealer, and had gone to the Delta hotel to make reservations when he was suddenly stricken with apoplexy.

He was rushed to St. Francis hospital where all that medical science could do was tried to save his life. He passed away at seven-thirty o'clock. The body was prepared for burial at the Alto Funeral Home from which place it was taken to the C. & N. W. Ry. station, Tuesday morning and shipped to his home at Green Bay, Wis. Burial will be in Oshkosh in the family lot. Mr. St. John was the distributor for the Chrysler automobiles and was affiliated with many other business concerns in Green Bay.

Miss Anna Erickson of Green Bay, Wis., sister of Mrs. St. John, arrived in the city Monday evening by motor and accompanied her sister on the railway journey. Miss St. John and Mr. Noonon returned to Green Bay by motor Tuesday morning.

SWAN ANDERSON.

Funeral services of Swan Anderson of Wells were held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Alto Funeral Home with Rev. J. H. Hanson, officiating. Many flowers surrounded the casket at the funeral home where many friends called to view the remains. Burial was in Lakeview cemetery. The pallbearers were August Blomstrom, H. G. Essington, Geo. H. Cobb, A. E. Nelson, A. W. Moberg and O. J. Thorsen.

Members of the E. & L. S. Railway company office and plant attended the funeral services in a body.

Kings and Queens Stamp Collectors

London—Royal stamp collectors exchange specimens among themselves just like ordinary persons.

King George has one of the finest collections in Europe. Other enthusiastic royal philatelists include the Queen of the Belgians and the Queen of Italy.

When Queen Elizabeth was here recently with King Albert she spent some time looking over King George's stamp albums at Buckingham Palace. The King's collection is considered by experts to be an exceptional one, containing many specimens bought with the money "saved up" for the purpose when he was a boy and was given pennies to do with as he pleased.

King George presented the Belgian queen with several specimens which she required to fill out a set. Not long ago Queen Elizabeth assembled as complete a set as possible of Belgian stamps and sent them to the other queen collector in Rome, and in turn the Queen of Italy sent the Belgian queen several varieties which she did not have in her albums.

Park Name to Be Selected Today

The Delta county highway and park commission will meet this morning in the offices of R. P. Mason, county engineer. It is expected that final selection of a name of the new park along the Escanaba river will be selected. Several hundred school children are competing for a prize offered for the best suggestion for a name for the tract of land recently taken over by the county.

The ground on which the White House stands at Washington is appraised at $10,500,000. The 16 acres in the plot were purchased originally for $1600.

A HIGHWAY CLEARING GROUND.

Members of the Upper Peninsula Road Builders Association will come to Escanaba on Thursday for their annual convention and conference with state highway officials.

For the accomplishment of the greatest good for all of the upper peninsula counties, it should be an occasion for compromising individual county ambitions and the working out of a peninsula wide, permanent highway construction program.

Jumping the Broom

Vilak drew a pin from the lapel of his coat and touched the point to Barbetta's arm. The flesh did not twitch as ordinary living flesh would have responded to the experiment, but the little Italian's eyes showed that he felt the pain.

Nunnally leaned to obey. As he did so a step sounded near him. Prentiss, the archeologist, came forward from the bushes where he had been watching, the curious mark on his forehead sullenly aglow.

Vilak nodded. "I'll tell her, Tony," he said soothingly. "Don't you worry. And he hasn't killed you. You're all right now. You're not going to die. You're going to live a long time. You'll take a long rest. Then you'll go back to Italy maybe and see your mother and father. Tell me what happened?"

THE Italian armered and clutched Vilak's arm for support. "I tell you, sure I tell you, I near my house. In bushes. You know my house. Pretty house. Little red roof. Like houses in Italy. Looking for snakes who steal my little chickens. Then I see a man creeping through bushes. I wait. He comes closer. I see him. It is Limey. Limey he badda, the evil Limey that I hate. In his hand is something. I think he come to do me harm. I want him far, oh far from my little house with the red roof. He badda man, badda Englishman. I follow through the bushes. And then I see Miss Marberry in the road driving in her car. It is she he follows. And then I have great fear for her, for the last days I have heard him talk much against her. Evil talk. Because last week she have make me head foreman and not him. He climbs a tree to a limb where the leaves well hide a limb. He holds his knife. But I, Tony, I see his plan. When the carriage will pass under the tree, he will jump down upon it and kill her."

He went on feverishly. "I cross to the road where it is not so bushy, where I can run faster and warn her. I run. I cry out. 'Run Miss Marberry! Run! Fast!' She hear. She drives fast. Too fast for him to fall upon her. She is gone. Limey jumps from the tree to the ground. He runs after me. 'What you mean by screaming like that, you dago blighter?' He shout. 'What you mean? What you mean?' I not dago blighter. Good Italian. Good American. Not."

Vilak withdrew from his pocket a thin bronze cigarette case, a bit of expert Oriental workmanship fashioned in the form of a Chinese dragon. He pressed it. It snapped open, exposing a row of brown cigarettes. Stop looking for those matches and lace and try one of the cigarettes of yours, and try one of these favorites of mine," he invited. "They're good for old men's nerves. Cheer you up. A little discovery I made down in the Malay Peninsula on my last trip east. I make them out of perique and the ground-up leaf of the eucalyptus. May find them a little bitter. But they're powerful as opium. Maybe they'll give you the answer to your question about the paralysis. I haven't it. In fact my ideas on the entire subject of Tony's death are notably vague and scanty. Except that I'm quite positive that Limey Potts did not kill him!"

French Carriages Go Into Museums

Paris—The passing of the horse-drawn carriage in France is likely to be linked in history with the opening of two carriage museums this year.

A permanent display is ready at the Compiegne palace, and a smaller one is being installed at the palace of Fontainebleau, the only royal residence that has not had such an exhibition.

Carriages have been in use in this part of the continent just four centuries. In the reign of Francois the First there were three carriages in Paris. There probably are not many more than that in use here now, although many of the old nobility still have their stables and coach-houses, with a carriage or two still kept polished and with automobiles in adjoining stalls.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

The causes of heart disease are numerous. Any factor that causes unusual wear and tear on the human tissues may have a secondary effect on the tissues of the heart. These tissues are then unable to withstand the strains of ordinary life.

The heart may be incapacitated from birth due to some deficiency in its development before the child is born. Infection of the throat during infancy frequently is carried to the heart, as are also infections of the nose and throat during childhood and adolescence.

It was long believed that over-indulgence in alcohol brought about degenerative changes in the tissues of the heart as did also such constitutional disorders as syphilis. The latter is a potent cause of disease of the entire system of blood vessels. Its presence has been associated with hardening of the arteries, inflammation of the lining of the blood vessels, the appearance of clots in the blood stream, and particularly the presence of weak spots in blood vessel walls. These weak spots cannot stand the blood stream and gradually give way, producing what is called aneurism.

The first symptom of a failing heart is usually either shortness of breath on slight exertion or pain in the region of the heart. The patient is seldom able to diagnose the presence of heart disease for himself, and too much attention to his heart is likely to make him organ-conscious.

It is a common saying in medicinal circles that when a patient complains of his heart the wise physician will think of his stomach. On the other hand if he complains greatly of his stomach, it may be well to examine carefully his heart.

If the heart does not seem to be able to do its work properly some condition has been at work to damage the heart muscle. This is usually the circulation of a poison in the body, either bacterial or chemical. An excess of smoking affects the heart both through the effects of tobacco on the nerves controlling the heart action.

UNIQUE MOVIE AT THE DELFT

Alaskan Adventures Said to be Unusually Thrilling Film.

To bring to those millions who have no concrete conception of the stupendous workings of Nature which occur in that vast area of 600,000 square miles, known as Alaska, was the purpose of the trip undertaken by Captain Jack Robertson and Arthur H. Young, champion big game archer of the world, in "Alaskan Adventures" which comes today to the Delft theatre. To gaze upon the awe-inspiring spectacle of the breaking up of the Yukon, to journey through the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, to scan the heavens illumined by the rays of the midnight sun and to witness the birth of the giant icebergs were the main objectives.

Into this wilderness, Robertson and Young carried nothing but bows and arrows for weapons. They lived off the land and their pursuit of Alaskan sheep, the giant moose and the great Kodiak bear, the largest carnivorous animal in existence, furnish many additional thrills in this thrilling of thrilling pictures.

Their journey from southern Alaska over the mountains down the Yukon, along the bleak shores of Siberia and then back down the coast was filmed with a fine sense of the dramatic and with a careful attention to detail.

"Alaskan Adventures" is a true picture of that country Robert Service so aptly described as a "land where the mountains are nameless and the rivers run—God knows where." It is a gripping saga of the Northland where Nature's moods are sternest and where change is ushered in with cataclysmic ferocity.

On the same program is "Naughty Nanette," in which Viola Dana is starred.

During the year 1926, American airplane manufacturers constructed 636 newly designed planes for commercial purposes. At the first of this year approximately 1200 modern planes were in commercial use in the United States.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

The Delft, today and tomorrow, is offering a special "double-feature" program with Alaskan Adventures, said to be one of the most remarkable pictures ever filmed, and Viola Dana in "Naughty Nanette" sharing the "top-line" honors.

Concerning Alaskan Adventures, the Grand Rapids Press recently said: "Great alike as hero and villain, nature probably has never had in the movies as sensational a presentation as in the Alaska films gathered by the doughty pair, Captain Jack Robertson and Art Young. The latter is a young man who takes on seven 1300-pound Kodiak bears in a brief skirmish armed only with a bow and arrow. That one brief moment on the screen was worth more than the whole rest of the program. The popularity of this film proves that sheer beauty, the wonder of strange creatures,

Gets 30 Days for Resisting Arrest

Harvey Carlson of Cornell is spending 30 days in the county jail as a result of his resisting arrest by a deputy sheriff at a Cornell dance Monday night. Carlson was drunk and disorderly when placed under arrest by the deputy. A fight started and Carlson was assisted by John and Lewis Tuyls, both of Cornell. The latter pair were fined $10 each and costs and were placed on parole for one year when arraigned before Judge Doherty.

AT THE STRAND.

Among the many huge sets which distinguish "The Heart Thief," which will be shown at the Strand theatre today, is one showing a portion of an ancient castle. It occupies the entire space in the studio building, barely permitting side and overhead lights headroom.

"The Heart Thief" is an adaptation of an original story by Lajos Biro, titled "The Highwayman" which served Joseph Schildkraut as a stage vehicle for more than four years. Lya de Putli, Robert Edeson and Eulalie Jensen are cast in prominent roles. Henry Cronjager photographed the production.

MARKET NEWS

CREDIT SOUND, MARKET KITES

New York, May 31-(AP)—Prices moved upward in impressive fashion today in response to cumulative evidence of easy credit conditions for some time to come.

Speculative interest shifted quickly from one group of stocks to another with more than 50 issues, led by U. S. Steel common, touching new high records.

Call money held firm at 4 1/2 per cent all day, but with about half a billion dollars to be distributed tomorrow in the form of dividend and interest payments a lower rate is looked for before the end of the week.

Frequent surges of selling swept through the list today as "bear" traders tested the market. As a rule, offerings were well absorbed, but weak spots developed in American Borden, Continental Baking A, Corn Products Refining, General Refractories, Murray Corporation, Pittsburgh Coal, Stromberg-Caretur and United Fruit, some of which sank to new lows.

The unexpected month-end improvement in the steel trade brought fresh buying into those shares. U. S. Steel common touched a record high for all time at 176 and the "when issued" stock at 125 1/2, but both reacted from their high levels.

Motors also attracted a larger following despite the price cuts on Oldsmobile cars. General Motors closed 1 1/2 higher at 197 and Chrysler closed nearly a point higher at 46 1/2.

Saint and Sinner

By Anne Austin

Bob Hathaway almost flung himself against the body of the yellow and brown taxi before he could halt in front of Hutchinson, who had so amazingly proved to be the passenger in the pursued car.

"Get out of that cab, driver, and take your place alongside your master. And don't try any funny business. There are three of us," he added significantly, as his pistol continued to point at the heart of Hutchinson.

"You're crazy! I don't know what you're talking about!" Hutchinson spoke for the first time, his ashen face suddenly going dark red with forced anger.

"You have no authority to arrest me," Hutchinson spluttered. "Let me see your warrant. I know you—you're Hathaway."

WOMEN DISCUSS MANY SUBJECTS

"Back Seat Drivers" in Peace Societies Hit by Confab.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 31.—(AP)—The keynote of the convention sounded in the presidential address of Mrs. John D. Sherman of Estes Park, Colo., the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's clubs today moved into active discussion of a part of its more than 100 activities.

A report on the status of the American Indian, a declaration that the hope for world-wide prohibition rests with the outcome of the policy in the United States and the assertion that too many of the peace societies in America "are trying to run the government by driving from the back seat," provided the background for a series of forums at the afternoon session.

Mrs. Sherman urged an earnest campaign against communism and atheism, favored a national policy for the elimination of the food menace and made a plea for the federation's movement for better equipped homes.

Indian Needs Citizenship. The American Indian, said Mrs. Stella M. Atwood of Riverside, Cal., needs citizenship more than any other class, and legislation necessary to this end can be accomplished only through a complete investigation of Indian affairs.

"One of the most disconcerting features of the Indian legislation," she asserted, "is the slipping in of riders or jokers in the deficiency appropriation bills which would rob the Indian of much of his rights."

She cited as an instance "a rider in the second deficiency bill of the last short session of congress, an amendment to the federal water power act, which would have been disastrous in its effort on the Flat-head Indians in regard to their valuable power life."

"We are informed," Mrs. Atwood added, "that no hearing was had on this important amendment." Failure of passage of the deficiency bill was the only redeeming feature, she said.

Frank A. Arnold, director of development for the National Broadcasting company of New York, after telling tonight of the plan of Walter Damrosch, former conductor of the New York symphony orchestra, for a "university of the air" in taking orchestral concerts to the schools of the country, suggested the opportunity for club women to assist in furnishing facilities for reception of the programs.

"Back seat drivers" among the peace societies were mentioned by Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes of Evanston, Ill., in a report as chairman of the department of international relations.

Peace societies and defense societies, each declaring peace as the objective, but in reality in hostile camps, "will either have to work together for a common end, or cease trying to be the moulders of American opinion," she said.

Clifford Gordon of Melbourne, Australia, pointed to America as the beacon light for a move toward world-wide prohibition, but warned that there is no hope of its accomplishment until the question is settled here. He affirmed his confidence in the younger American generation and denied that the use of liquor among them had resulted from the institution of prohibition.

BUILT THE PLANE

While the world cheers Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh for his hop across the Atlantic, an unsung hero in Los Angeles is having more of a thrill out of it than most of us. He is William H. Bowlus, who designed and built the Ryan monoplane that carried Lindbergh across. This picture was taken when Bowlus was told Lindbergh had made it.

ENGLISH BANK CHIEF HUNTS OLD VOLUMES

London.—(AP)—Montague Colet Norman gets a greater thrill out of finding a bargain in an old book store than he does of putting over a million pound sterling financial deal for the Bank of England.

Norman "loathes" publicity. Outside of banking circles he has few intimate friends. Known as "the Elusive Pimpernel" of English banking circles, Norman, who is serving his seventh term as governor of "The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," as the bank is known, has a reputation on two continents for his sudden appearances on secret missions.

Norman is a quiet, serious man, a little past middle age, with a soft pointed beard and keen brown eyes. He spends most of his spare time in his library at his Campden Hill home. He is a bachelor.

When a New York farmer killed a cow he found in her stomach nails, pieces of wire and iron washers. Several pieces of wire had penetrated the animal's heart, but had not caused suffering.

Two Bound Over on Bootleg Charges

Oscar Johnson and Fred Sandburg whose soft drink parlor at 208 South Tenth street was raided by members of the sheriff's department, were arraigned before Justice James S. Doherty yesterday and were both bound over to circuit court.

Johnson's bonds were placed at $1000. He was unable to furnish them and is in custody in the county jail. Sandburg furnished bonds of $500.

BRIEFLY TOLD

Presbyterian Church Night—H. K. Hammel, managing editor of the Daily Press, will speak on the subject, "Newspapers and Public Morals," at the Presbyterian church night service tonight. The talk will include a discussion of so-called "yellow" journalism, and a newspaperman's answer to repeated charges that sensationalism is the dominant keynote in modern journalism. There also will be special music.

Social Meeting—The Swedish Baptist congregation and friends have been invited by the pastor, Rev. John Hugo, to attend an outdoor service on the Nels Johnson farm, Danforth, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Reverend Hugo's topic will be "The Holy Spirit in the Book of Acts." Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Johnson.

Sunday School Rehearsal—Those in the Swedish Methodist Sunday school taking part in the Children's Day program are called to meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock and also on Friday afternoon at the same time for rehearsal.

Monthly Social—The Ladies' Aid of the Swedish Methodist church will hold its monthly social Thursday, June 2, in the church parlors, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Fred Edmark and Mrs. Gust Sanders will serve as hostesses. A hearty welcome is extended to everyone.

Flag at Half-Staff—The flag at the C. & N. W. Ry. yards was at half-mast Tuesday in respect to Mrs. Hall, wife of the superintendent of motor power and machines at Chicago who passed away at Chicago Monday.

Terrace Gardens—Dude Voyak and his New York Entertainers will be at Terrace Gardens Thursday and Saturday of this week. Dude has just completed a long engagement at Syracuse, N. Y., and is now playing the summer resorts of this district. He has a seven-piece band of entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rathack and son Robert spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lafave.

W. L. Lapine, formerly of this city, was here yesterday arranging for the opening of his home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Clark of Pittier, Wis., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lahale Saturday and Sunday.

State Highway Party to Arrive In City Tonight

Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner, will arrive in Escanaba tonight to attend the annual convention Thursday and Friday of the Northern Michigan Road Builders' association.

He will be accompanied by G. C. Dillman, formerly of Escanaba, who now is deputy state highway commissioner; B. C. Tiney, state maintenance engineer; C. A. Kellick, state bridge engineer; and "Pop" Hannon, editor of Michigan Roads and Pavements. The party will be met at the Straits by H. I. Davies, division engineer.

The NUT CRACKER

by Joe Williams

A Southern League hurler has turned evangelist. In his first sermon, the stories say, he "hit short skirts." Which leads Mr. O'Goofy to remark that the lad certainly didn't quit pitching because he lacked control.

The Snyder trial gave us one tip anyhow. . . The married battlers all come to the ring at sash-weights.

Yoshio Ota, Takelohi Harada and Teizo Toba are three smart Japanese net stars named for Davis cup play and said to be a threat to the United States. . . They certainly are, to the headline writers, anyhow.

Japan, England and the United States have agreed to a disarmament conference. At a late hour Ty Cobb had not been invited.

Well, that right hand of Jack Sharkey's that tucked the fish-peddling Mr. Maloney back into the hallbut' roadster certainly ought to be a good one. Sharkey saved it long enough.

President of France Can't Eat Fish Stew

Paris.—(AP)—Gaston Doumergue, President of France, is so hemmed in with social rules and regulations that he can't always even eat what he likes.

He comes from the south and he likes the famous "Bouillabaisse," a rich fish stew. As a humorous incentive for several of his ministers to accompany him on a recent ceremonial trip the president promised them they would have at least one dinner on bouillabaisse at a place where it may be had at its best.

Beq, de Fouquieres, the social mentor of the presidential palace, however, vetoed the plan.

Bouillabaisse requires a napkin and a finger-bowl. Besides large pieces of lobster there are good-sized crayfish in it and the only practical way to get the full benefit of some of these morsels is with fingers.
