"LINDY" GUEST OF AIR CHIEFS

Aviator in Washington to Talk Over Future Activities.

OPPOSES PLAN TO TALK OVER PRESENT PACT

Rapid City, S. D., June 23.—(AP)—Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood of the Philippines came to the summer White House today and in spite of severe physical pain, which handicapped him considerably, laid before President Coolidge a report of his administration.

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh dropped down upon Washington again today from out of the clouds and held a long conference with federal aviation officials and the backers of his trans-Atlantic flight as to his own place in the future picture of commercial air development.

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Great Britain has utterly failed up to the present to win over the United States to her proposal to reopen and discuss the Washington naval treaty at the Geneva tri-partite conference in continuing her efforts in that direction.

Asked tonight during a press conference about the views of the American delegation on the reopening of the decisions taken at Washington, Ambassador Gibson replied that the delegation felt that after all, President Coolidge had conferred the conference for the very clear and explicit purpose of extending the principles of the Washington treaty to auxiliary war craft and that while this did not exclude other questions from considerations, he believed that the time to discuss such questions was in 1931, as provided in the treaty itself—a conference which will be held before any replacements of warships begin.

"We can more profitably concentrate on the questions raised by the Washington treaty," he said, "when all five parties obligated to take it up are there."

Inquiry was made if there would not be some disillusionment if the Geneva conference did not take up the problem of reducing the size of warships, to which Mr. Gibson replied there could be no disillusionment for not taking up a thing for which the conference has not been convened.

The British spokesman informed the Associated Press correspondent that the British were convinced that reduction in the size of warships would not only mean economy to the taxpayers, but would be a real step toward outlawing war. He insisted that Great Britain was justified in reopening the Washington decisions at Geneva in the very text of Great Britain's acceptance of President Coolidge's invitation, when it declared that it "was prepared to consider to what extent the principles adopted at Washington can be carried further either regarding the ratio in different classes of ships between various powers, or in any other important ways."

Should Justice Requests. The British spokesman made it clear that the British idea is that each power represented at the present conference should justify to one another whatever requests are made for tonnage in the various classes of warships. He doubted exceedingly whether the United States could prove America's necessity for having as many cruisers as Great Britain, as, for instance, to protect trade routes, because it was generally recognized that a large part of American trade was transported on British ships.

The same thing could be said of Japan, despite the fact that the Japanese have sometimes voyaged afar to transport merchandise and acquire raw material.

In the meantime difficulties, which may still not be insuperable, have arisen over fixation of the proportion of auxiliary war craft for Japan and the United States. There are reliable indications that Tokyo is insisting upon Japan having 70 per cent to America's 100, which transformed into cold ratio figures, would mean five for the United States and 3.5 for Japan.

Favor Larger Ratio. Information from British sources is that the British statesmen would not object to according their former ally in the Far East somewhat better treatment for auxiliary warships than expressed by the 5-5-1 ratio fixed at Washington for battleships and aircraft carrier.

There is apparently a tendency in American circles to argue that in the absence of American fortifications in far eastern waters, one of the results of the Washington agreement really makes the Japanese ratio three considerably better than that figure when one talks in terms of effective naval action.

The Japanese issued a statement today that ships under 700 tons which include submarines—and these they want to be able to construct without any restriction whatsoever—are too limited in seaworthiness and radius to be used as modern weapons of war for anything more than coastal defense.

Concerning aircraft carriers under 10,000 tons, which they also want excluded, the Japanese insist that such craft would be merely utilized

Medford, Ore., June 23.—(AP)—Confessions that they held up a Southern Pacific passenger and mail train in the Stikiyi mountains of Oregon in 1923 and killed four trainmen were made today by the three De Autremont brothers, Hugh Ray and Roy. All were sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary at Salem.

Pleas of guilty were entered by the twins Ray and Roy, following a clean breast of the whole affair made last night by Hugh, the younger brother, who was convicted of first degree murder Tuesday with recommendation of life imprisonment.

In his cell in the county jail at Jacksonville today, Hugh in the presence of Ray and Roy, repeated the confession he had made to postal authorities and county officers last night. He said: "Each Killed Man. 'If the world must know, I killed the engineer (Sydney L. Bates of Dunsmuir, Cal.). Roy killed the fireman (Marvin Seng of Dunsmuir), and Ray killed the brakeman. (Coyie Johnson of Ashland)."

It was a busy day for President Coolidge. He conferred this morning with Representative Tilson and also received an enlightening report on farm conditions and farm policies in this section from Representative Winter, Republican of Wyoming.

After he had conferred with the president, Mr. Tilson repeated his view stated last night that he could see no real need for a special session of congress but that he was holding his mind open on the question and was willing to believe a special session desirable if only to expedite what promises to be a large legislative program.

Farm Views Change. Representative Winter told Mr. Coolidge that the farmers of the middle-west were no longer insistent upon passage of a measure incorporating the features of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill. Legislation to improve conditions under which co-operatives could function, Mr. Winter said, was in his opinion what the farmers wanted and he held the view that this could be accomplished through "a modified farm relief bill" or the Curtis-Crisp measure which was sidetracked in the last congress by the stronger support for the McNary-Haugen bill.

Lansing, June 23.—(AP)—The visit of four officials of the General Motors corporation and its subsidiaries here today and at inspection of the Olds Motor Works and Auto Body companies' properties has stirred rumors here to the effect that expansion of the two plants may be expected soon.

The visitors included Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors corporation, Charles Mott and Fred Fisher, vice president, and H. Jay Hayes, president of the Hayes-Isola corporation.

The Auto Body company plant is idle and the company is in the hands of receivers.

Winnipeg, June 23.—(AP)—A large nick in the blade of a knife found today in clothes sold at a second hand store by Earle Nelson, alleged "strangler" started police on a trail they believe will connect Nelson with the murder of two women in Detroit June 1.

The edges of the nick were burned and police pointed out that the Detroit slayer cut an electric light wire in the home of one of his victims. The women murdered in Detroit were Miss Marie Oswald and Miss Fannie C. May. A piece of electric wire was used to strangle Miss May.

Alma, Mich., June 23.—(AP)—A stock caused by an explosion of a fire of fireworks, gutted the Lock-Patterson Drug company store here tonight, destroying all stock and causing damage estimated at $40,000. A fire wall separating the drug store from the Alma State bank, owners of the building, saved the bank structure from serious damage.

Los Angeles, June 23.—(AP)—Lillian Gish, motion picture star, was named in a $5,000,000 damage suit filed in superior court today by Charles H. Duell, president of Inspirational Pictures, who charged breach of a motion picture contract in 1924.

The complaint also named the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures corporation and subsidiary organizations.

As a parting defense gesture, H. T. Dewhirst, colony member, and his legal advisor, offered a petition bearing the signatures of 945 residents of Berrien county asking that the charges against Purnell and the colony be dismissed. Dewhirst claimed the sixers who are neighbors of the colony are the best judges of whether the organization is a nuisance.

At the conclusion of testimony, W. J. Barnard, defense counsel, offered a motion that all testimony of former colonists regarding alleged irregularities, be stricken from the record on the ground that it was improperly introduced.

He contended there was nothing to show any of the colony buildings were used for immoral and therefore the property could not be construed as a nuisance. The charge that the colony is a public nuisance is one of the bases for the state's receivership petitions. Judge Fead took the motion under advisement.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 23.—(AP)—The state today rested its case in the dissolution proceeding against the House of David colony, following the testimony of a former member. Judge Louis Fead ordered a recess until July 11, when the defense will open.

Seventy-seven witnesses were called by the state and scores of depositions read into the trial record. Most of the state testimony had to do with alleged immorality at the colony, religious fraud and embezzlement by leaders of savings of members. Benjamin Purnell, according to witnesses, converted the title of all property held by members of the faith to his own name.

Mrs. Woodworth today declared she was coached to give false testimony at a grand jury investigation of the colony in 1923. She said Purnell and other leaders instructed her to say upon examination that Purnell was a man of lofty morals, a benevolent leader and a true messenger of the faith, whereas, she claimed the reverse was true. Purnell taught the truth need not be told in law courts, Mrs. Woodworth alleged.

DE AUTREMONT BOYS CONFESS TRAIN HOLD-UP

(Continued From Page One.) had the same thoughts. They have always been close. Visited by Roy. "Shortly before my graduation from the high school at Artesia, N. M., Ray came for a visit. He talked this thing to me and I felt the same way. I don't know why. After my graduation I came to Oregon and joined my brothers. "It was not out first idea to hold up a train. We figured on a bank along the Pacific highway. "When this part of our plan went wrong, we decided to hold up a train, and drove to the Sixtyfours. We picked the Shasta Limited. For three days and nights, we studied train movements through the tunnel. "The night before we got all ready all of us were undecided, but each was afraid to back out, because he feared the others would say he had cold feet. "About noon, Roy and I went to the north end of the tunnel and waited for thirteen. When the train came along, we ran for the blind baggage. Together we crawled over the tender and down into the cabin. I told the engineer to stop and he did. As soon as the engine stopped, we made ready to blow open the mail car. Before this the mail clerk stuck his head out of the door. Ray told him to come out—that we were going to blast the car. "Refused to Come Out. "We were giving him a chance. He again refused. I called to him the third time, and told him it was his last chance. "All of us, the Stroman and engineer, went to the detonator and Ray bore down on the handle of the blaster. "We then rushed back to the engine. Roy made the Stroman stand with his hands up against the wall, and I made the engineer get into the cab. We were going to make him pull the mail car down to White Pine. Ray went back to uncouple it. "While this was going on, we saw a man with a fusse, over his head coming down the right side of the train. Things were getting desperate. "Ray and I took a shot at him, when he got close. "I never will forget him. He staggered towards us and said: "Wait a minute, boys! I'll never forget the look on his face. He dropped down on the ground and died. "Boys All Excited. "We were all excited now. I made the engineer get back in the cab, while Ray tried to uncouple the mail car. "I told him it was my life, or his. He fooled around and still we didn't get ahead. "I was mad! "Well, if you and the world must know, I shot the engineer, Sidney Bates. I'm sorry. "Then, Roy shot the Stroman. He was the last. "We then ran back into the woods, where we had a secret cache—they never found it. We hid there for ten days."

Part of the specially tested gasoline for the three motors was at the runway, the rest was to be brought out after the weather report had been received. The food that the "Americas" will carry for its crew was assembled at the hangar tonight. There were two roast chickens, 18 cheeses and 10 turkey sandwiches, three quarts of coffee and two quarts of tea. Besides this food, emergency rations of pemmican, hardtack and water sufficient to last thirty days were stowed in the fuselage for use in case of an emergency landing at sea. An hour after the storm broke the stars began again to appear. By this time most of the water had soaked into the ground and the field was said to be in good condition for a take-off.

Gray's Inn Ravens Called Mogan, Pugin

London (AP) Two ravens, whose mournful "Nevermores" bring a strange note into the clanking marts of London, haunt the precincts of ancient Gray's Inn. They are called Mogan and Pugin, after the birds which, according to Scandinavian legend, perched on the shoulders of Odin and told him the secrets of destiny and the world beyond. There is a fitting antiquity in their surroundings. An old catkins tree on which they often perch, was brought to England from Virginia by Sir Walter Raleigh, and planted by Francis Bacon in 1593. CATS INHERIT $7000. Lindley, N. H.—When the will of Mrs. Emma P. Bennett was probated recently after her death it was found that her 8 cats had fared better than her 10 relatives. To the animal friends went a total of $7000, while the 10 relatives had only $4450 to divide among themselves.

ACCUSE MOTHER OF KILLING GIRL

Officers Arrest Woman in Rogers City Mystery Death.

Rogers City, Mich., June 23—(AP)—Mrs. Richard Arnott was arrested here today on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying near here May 31 of her daughter, Miss Florence Rilyous, 21. Arnott, stepfather of the girl, is serving a jail sentence for carrying concealed weapons, a charge brought as a result of the investigation of the girl's death. Officers tonight asserted a murder charge will be lodged against him also, in connection with the slaying. Miss Rilyous was beaten to death on a road near here and her body was found by four school boys. An iron bar believed to have been used by the slayer was found a mile from the spot where the body was discovered.

A coroner's jury which investigated the slaying recently, returned an open verdict. While evidence was being heard, Floyd Wandell, a friend of the slain girl, who had been called to testify, committed suicide. Mrs. Arnott in testifying at the inquest, declared her husband had warned her to be careful of what she said at the hearing and also declared he had threatened her life. The peculiar action of the Arnotts at the inquest, officials said, focused police attention on them, and resulted in today's arrest. Officials said a witness had been found who told officers he saw Mrs. Arnott and a man driving away from the scene of the slaying in an automobile on the night the girl was killed. The officials asserted they have other evidence implicating the couple and establishing a motive, which is being withheld, pending further investigation.

Ludendorff Heads Reichstag's Wild Men

Berlin (AP)—The German reichstag has four "wild men." None other than Gen. Erich Ludendorff heads them. The term "wild man" in German parliamentary parlance signifies a member of the reichstag who belongs to no faction, or party. "Wild men" are not elected as such, however, but become "wild" only after disagreements with their parties. Ludendorff, for instance, was elected as a member of the "Voelkische" or fascist party, but after those noise-makers of the extreme right split, the general resigned. He was seconded by Paul Seiffert, who also left the party. The other two "wild men" are Hermann Lange-Hagermann, elected on the Centrist ticket, and Dr. Arthur Rosenberg, who was so disgusted with Communist policy in China that he got out of the party in a huff and has since become the special butt of communist vituperation.

German Theaters Bar Hostile Films

Berlin—An ultimatum to foreign film producing companies, either to eliminate all anti-German films or to take the consequences of not doing any more business with German picture theatres, has been sent out by the Association of German Cinema Proprietors. The association comprises more than 1500 members. At the instigation of the German foreign office, this ultimatum has been sent to all film producing countries. It sets forth that unless the producers in question comply, the association will make further cooperation between the foreign producers and the German market impossible. The resolution states that this move is directed also against firms producing films hostile to any nation. Although their core is actually made of graphite, lead pencils are so called because metallic lead was used in them as late as the 19th century.

Hindenburg Visits Land of Choice Hams

Berlin (AP)—Pleasure at the receipt of a delicious, juicy ham induced President Von Hindenburg to make a trip recently to the county of Ammerland in the state of Oldenburg. Every day a delegation of Ammerlanders, famous as producers of exquisite hams, calls at the German White House on the president's birthday to present him with the best ham in the country. They march up to the palace steps in their native costumes black knee breeches, white stockings, vests in various colors, and striped stocking caps with tassels. Touched by this fidelity of the Ammerlanders, Hindenburg returned the visit. What pleased him most was the fact that the children of Ammerland danced folk dances in his honor. The soldier-president was seated under an ancient elm while the children performed on the green.

"Once Tasted Water" But Didn't Like It

Paris (AP)—The best wine-taster in Paris is Marcel Le Cudrec, winner in a test of powers by 86 wine stewards of restaurants. He gave the correct age and description of 12 wines. He received 5000 francs, a loving cup and two bottles of ancient brandy. Le Cudrec is a young Breton. He says he drank nothing but cider until he was 16. The contestants, supervised by officials of the ministry of agriculture, each had 30 minutes in which to identify six white wines and six red ones. They were given these in numbered glasses. They sniffed and looked and took sips repeatedly, but obviously had only 2 1/2 minutes to judge each wine. When time was called carafes of cool water were brought for the tasters to cleanse their palates of the dozen tastes. But the tasters all looked at the water with suspicion. "I tasted it once," said one of the wine stewards, "and I didn't think much of it."

SOUTH CANTON FORCES UNITE

Feng Breaks With Communist Element at Hankow.

Shanghai, June 23—(AP)—Cooperation of Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, once known as "the Christian general," and Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, leader of the moderate nationalists in a drive on the north, and a break between Marshal Feng with the communist element at Hankow which have been supporting him, today marked an important step for possible removal of the breach between the Hankow and Nanking regimes in south China. As a result of conferences at Suchow between the two powerful southern leaders, Marshal Feng has sent an ultimatum to Hankow demanding that certain members of the Hankow regime, including the Russian, Michael Rodzid, who has been acting as advisor, leave for abroad and that the remaining members proceed to Nanking immediately to join in the operations against the north. At the same time Marshal Feng and General Chiang issued a proclamation stating that communism must go and calling upon their troops to uphold the principles of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Republican leader, "for the everlasting glory of China." General Chiang Kai-Shek announced the immediate launching of a drive northward through the province of Shantung on Tientsin and Peking, while it was stated that Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang would begin his northward drive on July 1 from the province of Honan. It was reported that the two generals planned to meet in the Tientsin-Peking area and then to make a triumphant entry into the northern capital. Feng has returned to Chengchow, which he recently captured, to prepare for the launching of his drive. Hu Han-Min, executive head of the civil government at Nanking, declared today that the Nanking regime would assume the honest obligations of the Hankow government, but that Berodis, Eugene Chen, the Hankow foreign minister, and George Hsu-Chin, the Hankow minister of justice, must be eliminated. Hu Han-Min said that George Hsu-Chin was a confirmed radical and that Eugene Chen, who played a large part in the negotiations that followed the capture of Hankow by the nationalists, was undesirable.

Flood States Want Congress to Stand Levee Repair Cost

New Orleans, June 23—(AP)—Appeal to the federal government to bear the expenses of repairing levees broken by the recent Mississippi flood was made today by the presidents of five Louisiana levee boards. Telegrams urging congressmen and senators to request the chief of engineers to instruct the Mississippi river commission to defray the expenses of the high water fight, to repair the broken levees and reconstruct the scarred levee line were sent after a meeting of the officials with engineers and members of the boards. The telegrams pointed out that the people of the valley were unable to meet the assessments that the river commission to repair the levees and that the levee boards have no funds to draw upon. The total assessment of the Mississippi river commission upon the levee boards was $12,000. Under the prevailing system, the expense of building and maintaining the levees is divided among the federal government, acting through the Mississippi river commission, the state government and the local levee boards.

SCOTT DEFENSE WITHOUT FUNDS

High Court's Granting Sanity Trial Brings New Problem.

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Russell Scott's legal defense was assured today by the granting of a new sanity trial by the Illinois supreme court has brought a new problem, the finding of money with which to pay alienists. In a decision handed down yesterday in Springfield, the supreme court gave the young slayer of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk, another chance for life—an opportunity to be declared legally insane and incarcerated the remainder of his life, always with possibility of being adjudged sane and hanged, at state penitentiary for criminal insanity at Chester, or of being adjudged sane and immediately hanged. William Scott Stewart, who took Scott's case at the last minute and has saved him repeatedly from the rope to which he was sentenced for slaying of Maurer in a drugstore robbery, has promised, said Mrs. Scott, to continue to fight the case. "But where is the money to come from to pay the alienists who are indispensable?" she asked. The mother of three children, Mrs. Scott has been earning her living as a waitress in a downtown lunch room. Scott at first pleaded guilty and was sentenced to be hanged, but his lawyer at that time pleaded successfully for permission to withdraw the plea and have a jury trial. After it Scott again was sentenced to be hanged. Since then his life repeatedly has been declared forfeited but each time a new legal angle has been uncovered to keep him from paying the penalty.

Rebuttal Testimony Will Prolong Trial of Dorothy Mackaye

Los Angeles, June 23—(AP)—Rebuttal testimony expected from the state probably will extend the trial of Dorothy Mackaye, charged with conspiring to conceal the facts in the death of her actor husband, Ray Raymond, into next week. A large calendar in Judge Charles Burrell's court forced postponement of the dramatic actress' trial from yesterday until tomorrow morning. The rebuttal testimony is expected as a result of a question asked Miss Helen Wilkinson, chum of Miss Mackaye, who preceded the actress on the stand Wednesday. It was whether the girl had not said "what is a little perjury if it will save some one from going over the hill. If they call on me, I am going to fight." She denied having made the remark to a police woman.

Call Guard to Curb Possible Lynchings

Raleigh, N. C., June 23—(AP)—A troop of national guard cavalry was ordered tonight to proceed at once to Morganton where posses have been searching for the negro assailant of Gladys Kincaid, aged 15. The girl who was fatally attacked Tuesday was buried today. Efforts to locate the negro charged with the crime had failed up to tonight, and fear was expressed at Morganton by Sheriff's deputies that the crowd of searchers might seek vengeance on some of the negroes arrested on suspicion. This situation led to the issuance of orders for the cavalry troop, a crack unit of the militia, to go to Morganton. Before 1848 there was no leprosy in the Hawaiian islands. It came in with Chinese labor imported to work in the fields.

Ohio Student Champ Speller of Nation

Washington, June 23—(AP)—Dean Lucas of Cooness, Ohio, won the third annual national spelling bee held here tonight under the auspices of seventeen newspapers in various sections of the country. Thirteen girls and four boys, ranging in age from 10 to 15 years, participated. Ralph Keenan of Waukon, Iowa, who spelled "abrogate" "abrogate," was second, and Minerva Resler of Lancaster, Pa., was third. The two boys were both 13 years of age and the girl twelve. It took three hours of spelling to develop a winner. Young Lucas, sent here by the Akron Beacon Journal, won $1,000 in gold, Keenan, winner of regional contests held under the auspices of the Des Moines Register, received $500, and the Resler girl, entered by the Lancaster New Era, $20.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

HAM AND EGGS FOR THE GODS

No authority on the classics of ancient Olympus has ever reported how often the gods had stomach ache, eating such rich stuff as nectar and ambrosia the way they did, but if these gods were anything like our own Lindbergh, they relished now and then an order of ham and sunny side up, a good cup of Java and a side of home fries.

Lindbergh, dodging the hero worshipers and the newspaper men in New York, had such a breakfast at the home of a humble flying person in New York the other morning, and pronounced it the best meal he had had in weeks. But St. Louis couldn't take the hint, and so, when they set the festive board for the hero's homecoming to Missouri, the committee on lunch loaded the table down with a repast that would give even a French dictionary indignation.

Jungle Breath

By Ben Lucien Burmon

He reached the clump of trees. Elise and the old man were in their saddles, Nunnally clutching the bridle of Vilak's restless stallion. Vilak tied the bridle around one arm, then with the captain still in front of him and the horse trailing behind, walked to the mounts of the soldiers tied to the trees.

He raised the flaming ember he had in his hand and dashed it close to their heads, shouting loudly. The frightened animals whinnied, snorted, and tugged frenziedly at their halters to escape the flaming enemy. The weakened leader snapped, the panic-struck beast dashed wildly into the forest.

Vilak put his foot into the stirrup of his own steed, whinnying nervously as it witnessed its fellow creatures' terror. "Adios, amigos," he called cheerily to the captain, and springing into his saddle, raced off toward the road. His two companions followed. They gained the highway. Vilak turned his horse to Villapa. They sped on through the darkness, hearing behind them a few futile shots and volleys of passionate curses as the soldiers searched blindly into the woods for their vanished steeds.

Vilak listened and laughed. Elise gazed at him thoughtfully, then leaned over and kissed him. Their horses did not slacken their headlong pace.

In half an hour they had reached Villapa. Quickly they found Wilson, the superintendent. His face, long and tapering like a carrot, was gaunt, his eyes hollow, after effects apparently of a long attack of fever. Judging, however, by his quick movements, he was well on the road to convalescence.

His astonishment on seeing them for a few moments was so great that he could only stammer out a few broken sentences; then quickly he told them, as Vilak has suspected, that he had sent no message. Though the river was rising hourly and a bad flood now very likely, if not certain, he said that he felt so much improved that he was perfectly able to cope with any emergency. Unless, of course, the dam broke at Avilos, in which event no one could do anything.

To their dismay, however, when they asked him for guns to take the place of those which had been stolen, he apologetically replied that he could lend them only the two pistols which he had in his own cabin. The Villapa fazenda never had more than a few rifles, he went on; and only the day before an Indian laborer had taken them to the paint shed to oil them and carelessly lighting a cigaret, had set the whole shed on fire.

The flames had consumed everything in it the workmen himself barely escaping with his life. He had discharged the workman, of course he added, but that didn't bring back the guns.

Imminence of the flood is added to the other dangers that beset Elise and her friends in Porto Verde. Meanwhile, there is much of mystery to be solved.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 23.—It's a safe bet that about 60 per cent of Manhattan at some time or other makes some serious effort towards going on the stage, writing a play or backing a show.

So completely is the New York atmosphere charged with theatrical zephyrs that a healthy percentage of all tea-table or parlor conversations start with "Have you seen so-and-so?" "You can't miss it." Not to have attended a recognized Broadway show is a recognized social error.

Millions are dropped every year by sound business men who have piled up their fortunes through careful and methodical investments, but yield to a Broadway siren-song that sounds so true to the ear of any practiced theater man.

A check of a season's output in Variety, the theatrical publication, shows a solid column or more of failures to a mere dozen financial successes. And to each of the failures has been contributed a fat bankroll. Many of the failures show losses that mount into the hundreds of thousands.

In the young society circles the vogue for getting on the stage or

AT THE STRAND. When a perfectly good man is fired from a perfectly good job because of class prejudice, does he cease to make further effort and become an outcast? He does not.

Donald Norton is an outpost manager for the Hudson Bay Company. When he reports to the district manager at the close of a most successful fur-trading year, he is promptly fired. Not because he is a failure as a manager but because he is believed to be a half-breed and therefore, in the judgment of John Corrigan, a failure as a man.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

Genius—Born or Made? Persons who achieve eminence in life are distinguished in childhood, ordinarily, by behavior that indicates an unusually high intelligence. This conclusion was reached by the psychologists of Stanford University who analyzed the records of 300 eminent men and women in an attempt to find the key to success.

Voltaire wrote verses "from his cradle." The author Coleridge could read a chapter from the Bible at the age of three years. Mozart composed a minuet at the age of five. Goethe, at the age of eight, produced literary work better than that of most adults.

A study of the individual records of these geniuses brings out many more records that are astounding. Oliver Cromwell entered Cambridge at seventeen. Ulysses S. Grant had a passion for horses when a boy, riding about alone at eight years of age. Before he was ten years old he drove forty miles from Georgetown to Cincinnati and brought back a load of passengers on the return trip.

The accounts of the early years of these great men are full of examples of extraordinary mentality. In their reported interests, in their school standing and progress, and in their early production and achievement, these children were in general phenomenal. Their achievements were definitely foreshadowed in their early behavior.

their study, the California investigators are convinced that we are probably warranted in expecting superior adult achievement whenever the intelligence quotient of the child is well above the average, but that we may not be warranted in expecting a world genius even if a very high intelligence is found. For there are other factors involved in achieving greatness besides an essential degree of intellectual capacity. Tests of intelligence do not measure the spontaneity of intellectual activity nor differentiate between great ability and unique ability. The tests do show that the extraordinary genius who achieves the highest eminence is also the gifted individual whom intelligence tests may discover in childhood.

Young Deer Escapes Dogs' Falls Dead

Rapid River, June 23, (Special) — Completely exhausted from its frantic swimming in the water near Masonville, a young deer staggered out on the beach here Wednesday, reeled dizzily and fell dead. District Game Warden Herman Liesner was called. An examination showed that the animal had a considerable quantity of water in his lungs. The deer first attracted the attention of residents when he was swimming, frantically for shore and it is believed he had been chased into the water by dogs.

Have You Ever Eaten Bananas, Baked, Broiled or Fried?

TRY ONE OF THESE TREATS—TODAY

BANANA FILLING FOR CAKE

1 cup BANANA pulp, 1/2 cup sugar. Juice of 1/2 lemon, 1 tablespoon butter. Cook together a cup of sifted banana pulp (peeled bananas passed through a sieve) the juice of half a lemon or orange, the sugar and butter. When thick and cold, spread upon the cake. Or, beat the ingredients in a double boiler and then stir in an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of water. Cook and stir until thickened. Then cool and spread on cake.

BANANA BLANC MANGE

Soak a tablespoon of gelatine for an hour in a cupful of water. Bring a cupful and a half of milk to the boiling point, add a pinch of baking soda, and stir in a half cupful of sugar and the soaked gelatine. Boil for five minutes, stirring steadily. Line a jelly-mould with sliced bananas and pour the lukewarm blanc mange carefully in upon these. Set on ice until firm. Turn out of the mould and serve with whipped cream.

BANANA TOAST

Remove the crust from graham bread and cut into thin slices. Spread one piece with thin slices of banana and lay another slice of bread upon this. Press the two pieces together that they may not fall apart, and toast quickly to a light brown. Keep hot in oven until wanted, as these sandwiches are not good when cold.

BANANA PORRIDGE

Cut ripe bananas into small pieces, mash them with a fork, then gently boil in just enough water to cover. Serve with hot milk. A very small quantity of sugar may be added, if required.

BANANA RICE CROQUETTES

Peel the firm bananas, and cut in halves crosswise. Take cold boiled rice and mould around each section of banana. Dip in crumbs, egg, and then crumbs again. Fry in deep fat until a golden brown. Serve hot.

BAKED BANANAS

Remove skins from six firm bananas and cut in halves lengthwise. Put in a shallow granite pan or on an old platter. Mix two tablespoons melted butter, one-third cup sugar, and two tablespoons lemon juice. Slice bananas with one-half the mixture. Bake twenty minutes in a slow oven, basting during baking with remaining mixture.

TRAIN CLERKS, FARLEY URGES

Courtesy and Efficiency Are Demanded By Public.

Asserting that many merchants are spending thousands of dollars annually to get people into their stores, and then are causing many of the people to leave the establishments, angry and dissatisfied because of indifference and poor service, W. H. Farley, of Dayton, Ohio, in two addresses here yesterday urged better training for salespeople.

Mr. Farley addressed a luncheon at the Delta hotel at noon yesterday. The audience being made up principally of retailers, executives and department heads. Last night he addressed a gathering of owners, managers, executives, department heads and salespeople in the city hall.

"Some merchants spent small fortunes in advertising, seeking to draw people to their stores," the speaker said. "Yet they don't spend one dime on the proper training of their salespeople, in order that the stores might properly serve the patrons attracted by the advertising. The result is that the effort to draw people to these stores has just created that many more 'knockers' because of the merchant's failure to complete the work his advertising started."

"The old slogan, 'A satisfied customer is our best advertisement' is still as true as the day it was coined."

"Merchants in an Indiana town found that a large proportion of the community's residents were shopping in a metropolitan 40 miles away. These merchants circulated a questionnaire to learn why these people were not buying at home. Thirty-one per cent replied that they did their shopping in the city—not because city prices were lower, but because the salespeople in the city stores were more efficient and courteous."

"Courtesy and efficiency among salespeople build more business." The speaker's general topic was planning ahead for better business, and he showed how a comprehensive plan for the future could bring returns to any store.

Col. John G. Emory Escanaba Visitor

Giant Carp Caught by Garden Fisher

Garden, June 23—(Special)—A 37-pound carp was landed from the local beach by George Beveridge, who pulled the big fish with a potato hook. It is one of the largest such fish ever seen in this district. The carp came up to the beach annually for spawning. Mr. Beveridge and his companion Harrison Mark, landed between 500 and 600 pounds of the fish during the morning. The big one was sent to Escanaba to be mounted and will no doubt be seen by many persons who will demand some proof as to the veracity of this fish story. Fishermen here would like to see the lake entirely cleared of carp on account of their undesirable qualities.

"Cyclone Sweeps Over Michigan"—DOING THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS DAMAGE!

This is fresh in mind because it happened but a short time ago. Several counties of the state suffered heavy losses—Houses, Barns, Silos and Orchards were destroyed and stock killed.

This big, new barn, 40x60 feet, was built about 3 years ago of the very best grade of material. Was located 4 miles east of Glaze and belonged to Jas. A. Reeder. This picture was taken just after the barn was built and before it was painted.

This is the same barn taken just after the cyclone of May 9, 1927, showing its complete wreck. We promptly paid a $3,000 loss on this building. Several head of purebred stock, including a two thousand pound Durham bull, were killed; no insurance. Also three autos; no insurance.

LAST PIONEER COOKS SETTLER PASSES AWAY

With the death of Pierre Archambault this week, Cooks lost the last one of five pioneer settlers who came to this community nearly 50 years ago to carve homes for themselves in the wilderness.

Mr. Archambault, who was 80 years of age at the time of his death, emigrated to Cooks in 1881 as a homesteader. He was born near Montreal, and was married about 55 years ago to Marcelline Boucha. Recently he had been making his home with a son at Cooks, where his death occurred this week. Funeral services were held Thursday morning at the Catholic church in Cooks.

The survivors include three sons and two daughters. Of these, John Archambault and Mrs. Joseph Hardy reside at Cooks, Joseph and Peter Archambault are at L'Anse, and Mrs. Paul Smith is at St. Ignace. All were present for the last rites yesterday. There is also a brother of the deceased, Alberic Archambault, whose home is in Montreal.

Caretaker Faces Judge on Charge of Shoting Cows

Julius Barnhart, caretaker at the Schoolcraft county free camp site, Indian Lake, was arraigned before Justice W. A. McKinney yesterday on a charge of cruelty to animals.

It is alleged by the complainant, John Fragile of Thompson, that Barnhart shot three of the plaintiff's cows which chanced to stray near the Chesbrough camp site property.

One of the animals, it is claimed, was so badly injured that its flow of milk was curtailed, and the other bovines are also reported seriously injured about the legs. In court yesterday, the caretaker admitted that the animal annoyed him and said he shot to scare them away.

BOYS' BAND HAD OUTING LAST WEEK

Twelve members of the boys' band, recently organized by and working under the direction of James Belland of Escanaba, enjoyed an outing at the Pioneer park last week.

The boys held an open air rehearsal on the picnic grounds and after the rehearsal spent the time in a variety of sports. A marshmallow and wener roast was enjoyed in the evening.

During the week past several prominent citizens of Gladstone have been approached to find out their attitude in regard to the organization of a boys' band to be supported by the city. Conditions for such an organization are very favorable at this time, due to the fact that a nucleus for a band has already been formed.

In a number of cases boys who have already made a start in the work have been forced to drop out due to reasons that could easily be done away with if the organization was taken over by some group with a financial background.

It is expected that the proposition will be presented to the business men of Gladstone in the near future.

FARLEY BRINGS VITAL MESSAGE

Noted Economist Is No Expounder of Vague Theories.

Bringing a message of better store service, improved salesmanship and new advertising methods, W. H. Farley, noted business expert of Dayton, Ohio, is certain to attract a large audience of Gladstone business men, store proprietors and sales people when he speaks at a luncheon of the Gladstone City club at the Community tonight.

Saint and Sinner

Not two whole weeks had passed before Faith asked Bob Hathaway the inevitable question, a throw of fear and hurt love in her voice.

"Darling, don't you love me any more?" And Bob, pain and reproach, both of himself and her, darkening his brow rather tired blue eyes, swept her into his arms and held her hurtlingly tight against his breast as he answered, huskily:

"Love you? Why, you foolish darling, I love you so much I can't work comfortably without torturing myself with the need for a glimpse of you."

"You haven't told me so for two days," Faith gasped, but a smile shone luminously through her tears.

"Honey-girl, if I don't tell you so again for six months, the truth itself will not be changed an iota. I love you for keeps, sweetheart. With me it's the great principle that makes the world go 'round.'"

That had kept her tremulously happy for a day, but the next day and the next she listened for the words and wept a little after Bob had gone to sleep at night because he had not uttered them. She told herself, sorrowfully, that during those first three heavenly days Bob had uttered them a hundred times, as if the sound of the words could never grow monotonous, as if they were new each time he said them.

Of course the omnipresence of the family had a great deal to do with his more casual attitude. Bob was reserved, he kept reminding herself. He could not give her one of those long, dizzying kisses with her father or Joy or Cherry looking on.

The first time that Bob left for his office without kissing Faith goodbye was a day of stark tragedy. He did not love her any more, or if he did, the flame had died down, and he moved her coolly, as all husbands do. She did not want kindly affection, absent-minded tenderness; she wanted passionate love, leaping in his eyes and tingling in his fingertips when he caressed her hair adoringly.

Those three days, when love had been so gloriously realized, had made her greedy. These staid, calmer days made her fearful, a little desolate, her heart oppressed with tears she was too proud to shed.

Fear that it was her fault that love had become a less flaming thing goaded her into nervous little attempts to charm him.

"Is it new? Of course it's pretty, but honey-girl, you look beautiful to me in anything you put on."

She wished, with a pang of envy, that she had Cherry's irresistible lure, her inborn coquettishness.

"Hello, what are you doing here, old fellow?" "I'm on my honeymoon."

Tigers Whip White Sox in Eleventh Frame, 6 to 5

BASE RUNNING DEFEATS LYONS

White Sox Moundsman Allows Six Hits; Gets Poor Support.

Chicago, June 23 (AP)—Detroit defeated Chicago, 6 to 5, in a thrilling eleven-inning battle today and dropped Chicago to third place. Heratich, who coupled with daring base running by the Tigers defeating Ted Lyons, although he allowed only six hits. Lil Stoner weakened in the ninth and Pinch Hitter Earl Shely, the first man to face White Sox pitcher, singled, scoring Heratich with the tying run. The visitors won out in the eleventh on Blue's single. Tavenner's sacrifice, Blue's steal of third and Woodall's sacrifice fly.

The game was featured by the first triple play of the season in the eighth.

Chicago which was made by the Tigers in the third inning. With Lyons on third and Metzler on second, Hunnefeld grounded to Gehrig, who threw Hunnefeld out at first. Blue pegged to Tavenner to catch Metzler off second. When Lyons attempted to score, Tavenner's throw to Woodall made the third out.

The Tigers went scoreless until the fourth inning, when four runs crossed the plate, putting Detroit in the lead. The White Sox had counted two in the third. Manush was safe when Hunnefeld muffed his grounder. Fothergill hit to Hunnefeld and both runners were safe when the Chicago shortstop threw low to Ward. Helmann got a pass and when Blue cracked out a double to the left field fence, the three runners scored. Tavenner sacrificed. On Woodall's grounder to Hunnefeld, Blue went in. Thus only one hit figured in the scoring of the four runs. Hunnefeld, incidentally, was credited with three errors during the game, while his teammates went through unscathed.

The visitors raised their total to five by making one run in the sixth. Blue singled and Tavenner was safe on Hunnefeld's third error. Woodall then sacrificed and on a squeeze play when Stoner sacrificed, Blue went home. Warner made the third out by flying to Barrett.

The Detroit triple play was executed in the third inning following two White Sox runs, aided by Detroit misplays.

Ward Gets Single.

After Mamm singled, Ward was credited with a single on his bunt when no one covered first to take Woodall's throw. Lyons repeated the performance when Woodall allowed his bunt to roll, expecting it to go foul. Kamm scored after Metzler hit to Gehrig when the Detroit second baseman heaved a wild throw to second. Ward tried to score as the ball rolled away and was successful when Tavenner threw the ball past Woodall.

Paris Girls Taught How to Keep House

Paris—Marketing for girls and baths for boys are two recent innovations in Paris grade schools. These are the first departments of the kind organized in the public schools. They exist only in one of the poorer quarters of Paris but eventually they may be added to other schools, if the results are good and the expense not too great.

The girls get a regular house-keeping course, three days a week. They are taught how to dust, scrub, polish floors, wash, iron, cook and how to market. They will buy the supplies and prepare them.

The boys, with their baths, will have a simpler task. Fourteen showers have been installed and each school in the district will have a separate day for its scrubbing.

Famous Wine Cellar Will Dispense Beer

Berlin—Auerbach's Keller in Leipzig, the mecca each year of thousands of tourists with a love of Goethe and a taste for wine, is about to undergo a fundamental change. Beginning July 1st the historic drinking emporium, built in 1530, will dispense beer in addition to wine, to cater to the taste of a large part of the traveling public.

Even then, Bavarian suds will not be tolerated in the so-called historical rooms, which will be reserved for wine drinkers as before. From these rooms, so the legend runs, Faust departed seated on a barrel of wine. He rode successfully up the steps and into the world.

Finds Fragments of Nibelungen MS

Berlin—Fragments of a Nibelungen manuscript, which is believed to be one of the oldest in existence, were discovered by Dr. Hermann Menhard, director of the Klagenfurt library, at Klagenfurt, Austria, while he was cataloguing the ancient handwritings of the Carinthian archives.

The fragments are written in the Bavarian-Austrian language of the middle ages and are supposed to have belonged to a wandering minstrel of the 12th or 13th century. They are closely written in columns of 30 lines each on a page and are without the ornate initials at the beginning of chapters, customary in manuscripts of a later period.

GEHRIG CLOUTS THREE HOMERS

Yankees Run Away With Red Sox for Ninth Straight.

Boston, June 23 (AP)—Lou Gehrig made three home runs today as the Yankees defeated the Red Sox 11 to 4 and won their ninth straight, including the entire five game series against Boston. Gehrig now has made 21 homers, three less than Babe Ruth. This was the second time this year that three home runs have been hit in one game in the majors. On June 11, Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees made three circuit countering against the White Sox at the Yankee Stadium.

The first homer for Gehrig came in the second inning with Ruth on base and cleared the left center field fence. Lundgren then was pitching. As first man up in the sixth and eighth innings, Gehrig drove MacFayden's delivery into the center field bleachers. It was the first time three home runs ever have been made in one game at Fenway park.

The record in the big leagues for home runs is held jointly by Robert Lowe and Edward Delahanty both of whom hit four.

ATHLETICS 4; SENATORS 1

Philadelphia, June 23 (AP)—The Athletics won the odd game in five from Washington by taking the final today, 4 to 1, and winding up their home stay. Charley Willis, youthful southpaw, started his first game of the season for the Mackmen and after the first inning kept the Senators' hits well scattered. Al Simmons led the attack on Marberry with a perfect batting average of three hits in three times up. He hit his tenth home run of the season and his third in two successive games when he broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning.

Paris Housemaid Gets Her Rights

Paris (AP)—The Paris housemaid is in a fair way to becoming spoiled. A labor contract just drawn up, signed and sealed, reads:

"The lady of the house engages herself to treat with all the desired solicitude her new domestic, Mademoiselle Emma. She will accord her two hours every day to go to her courses in clothes-cutting, stenography, piano playing and singing.

"Her wages will be 350 francs a month for the first three months, with an increase of 25 francs every month at the end of the fourth, up to the limit of 600 francs monthly. The new servant shall have the right to use the bathroom twice a week.

"Mademoiselle Emma will not be called by her first name, but 'Mademoiselle'.

"She must be aided by a chambermaid or char-woman, according to the needs of the household."

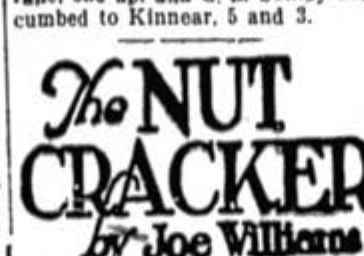

DOG IS OFFICIAL CADDY

St. Paul—George P. Metcalf has a caddy which neither talks back nor has to be tipped. He is Elger a St. Bernard dog. He carries an official caddy's badge conferred by the White Bear Golf club.

Malloy, Linnear in Detroit Golf Final

Detroit, June 23 (AP)—Johnny Malloy of Ann Arbor, defending champion, and Larry Kinnear, of the Detroit Golf club, will match strokes tomorrow on the latter's home course for the district golf championship.

Malloy advanced to the finals by defeating Howard Tyson, youthful star of the Detroit Golf club, this afternoon, 3 and 2, in an 18-hole semi-finals match. Kinnear won the right to be opponent for championship honors, by putting out Stanley Ford, unattached, and runner-up to Malloy last year, 4 and 3. Today's match play began with eight contenders still in the running. In morning rounds, four fell by the wayside when Malloy defeated Dr. Harry Hosmer, 4 and 3; Carlton Wells went out, 3 and 2, to Tyson; Ford beat M. W. Cochran, one up, and G. L. Conley succumbed to Kinnear, 5 and 3.

No more striking of umpires. Judge Landis rules. It seems some of the visitors on the west coast from other countries couldn't make out whether the game consisted of smacking the umpire or hitting the ball.

A headline calls Miss Fumiko Terao of Tokio, Japan, the "fastest girl in the world." Boys, you should see her!

Frank Navin says Ty Cobb will fold up just as soon as the weather gets warm . . . and we pause to remark that Tyrus will have to go some to beat Mr. Navin's ball club to that folding-up business.

The same fans now hissing gritty Earl Sande are the type who would boo old Walt Johnson if he accidentally beamed a batter.

Uncle Wilbur says his Robins have improved since he had all the players' bum teeth jerked out and now, we presume, the Cincinnati Reds are in for a flock of extractions.

Let's see now, is this Ban Johnson's week to be head of the league or is he on his vacation?

Clemenceau Honors His Dead Friends

Paris—Remembrance of lifelong friendships has caused M. Georges Clemenceau, "Old Father Victory," to stay in Paris much later in the season than usual. It also caused him to forget his well-known repugnance for appearance in public and for facing the camera.

At the Gobellins tapestry works a great exposition was staged in honor of the late director, Gustave Geoffrey, appointed by Clemenceau. "The Tiger" and he had been fellow-journalists, and fought side by side through the long struggle for the revision of Captain Dreyfus's famous sentence.

As soon as Clemenceau rose to ministerial power, Geoffrey was the first man he took care of. Naturally he had to attend the opening ceremony and brave the photographers.

It was the same exhibition of the latest works of the great impressionist painter, Claude Monet, another lifelong friend of Clemenceau. "Monet and Clemenceau," said a cynical critic, "have two things in common: They adore nature and despise mankind." Again "The Tiger" turned out and ran the publicity gauntlet.

Borough Abandons Hall for Fire House

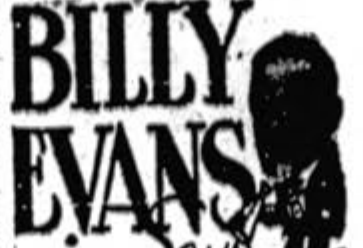

Berlin—The mayor and aldermen of a little borough of Mueggelheim, in an outlying district of Greater Berlin, have a new abode. For years the mayor and his legislative aides have been compelled for economic reasons to exercise their official function in a veritable shanty of a city hall, built around 1830, of baked clay and latched with straw. This undignified abode wore on the nerves of the Mueggelheimers until the good burghers decided that some place more worthy the proud estate of their civic mentors should be provided.

This feat now has been accomplished. The opportunity came with the erection of a new fire house, which the bigger city authorities thought compulsory. It is a modern, brick and stone-trimmed building with a bell tower. On the second floor snug but sufficiently commodious quarters have been provided for the borough functionaries.

BOXING

BILLY EVANS

A NEAR PRIZE "BONER" A slight misunderstanding as to just how many are out has been the cause of many of the prize "boners" that have been pulled in the majors.

According to wire reports, Hack Wilson, who is playing such a sensational game in the outfield for the Cubs, came close to being such a victim in a recent game with New York.

Incidentally, the habit many outfielders have of throwing the ball into the bleachers when the game is over, for the fans to scramble after, has led to as many peculiar situations as the lack of knowledge as to how many are out.

Since there are only three outs to an inning, it would seem no great mental strain to keep track of them, yet such trivial lapses of memory make for prize "boners."

The story about Wilson is that when he caught Lindstrom's fly, believing it was the third out that ended the game, he started to throw the ball into the bleachers as a souvenir for his followers. Their shouts of protest averted it.

HOW STAGE WAS SET.

It so happened that Wilson's catch of Lindstrom's fly made only the second out of the inning. Had he thrown the ball into the bleachers, believing the game was over, runners on first and third at the time would have scored.

Since Chicago was leading 6-1 at the time, such a slip on the part of Wilson would simply have added two runs to New York's total, still leaving the Giants three runs to the bad. As it was, the runner on third scored.

Wilson, by his great work in the field and at the bat, is a big favorite with the center field bleachers in Chicago. His every move is cheered and his throwing of the ball up against them any time he makes the final out of the game is a bit of reciprocity on his part for their applause.

OTHER COSTLY MISTAKES.

In a measure the habit seems contagious with Chicago outfielders. Some years ago "Doc" Henderson of the Cubs, with two runners on, caught a fly ball for what he believed was the third out and chased to the club house.
