

328 MUTINOUS CONVICTS SURRENDER

"Lindy" Plans National Air Passenger Line

FLYER PLACES SELF IN HANDS OF AIR CHIEFS

GIVES GOVERNMENT HIS IDEAS ABOUT AVIATION.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright 1927, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, June 24.—Colonel Lindbergh has put himself at the disposal of the federal government for such conference and planning as may be desired before he enters into business himself.

The plan to bring him here for consultation with all the officials who are in charge of aviation activities and to have him confer with the heads of the airplane industry and all others interested in aviation was made some time ago in the belief that the transatlantic aviator could do more than any single man to encourage aviation at this time.

For the last few years as private capital has been again and again on the verge of interesting itself in large measure in aviation, serious accidents have come along to dampen enthusiasm. The fatal accident to the Shenandoah together with the series of tragedies constantly reported in the press have made those interested in aviation feel that something sensational would have to be done to prove the dependability of both dirigibles and airplanes.

Use His Influence. Colonel Lindbergh's success, was, to some extent, so sudden and so productive of enthusiasm that the airplane industry is taking inventory of what can be done to make the public see the opportunities in aviation.

From a national defense standpoint, of course, the government is alive to the necessity of encouraging aviation but commercial aviation is something over which the government can exercise only an indirect influence.

Colonel Lindbergh here simply means that his influence will be used in arousing the businessmen of the country to the importance of air transportation.

Also on the first of next month, the air mail service goes into private hands. The government is not in the habit of advertising to get business as it does not have the profit making incentive.

The airplane companies which want to develop air mail will not hesitate to do everything that private business ordinarily does to stimulate sales. Thus, for example, one city which has a university is asking for an airport air mail service and one of the arguments made is that hundreds of thousands of letters written by boys and girls to each other in the scholastic age would come by air mail just as tons of it annually now go by special delivery.

Anxious to Develop. The government is so anxious to see the air mail service developed that it will not regard it as in any sense a competitor of other classes of mail, though it is realized some of the revenue coming in now might be that Colonel Lindbergh will accept the position tendered him in St. Louis where a big airplane manufacturing business is planned but that he will at the same time hold himself free to co-operate with the aviation units here so as to be available for speaking and for consultation with congressional committees in the hope of forwarding the general cause of aviation.

Obregon Put Forth to Succeed Calles Mexico City, June 24.—Former President Obregon today was endorsed as presidential candidate for the elections next year by the socialist labor party at Toluca, in the state of Mexico, as well as by another convention at Oaxaca representing a half-dozen different political parties.

Perpetual Peace Pact With Japanese Looms at Geneva

More Marines May Embark for Orient

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—Possibility that additional marines would be sent to Tientsin to reinforce the 1150 now enroute there, was foreshadowed today at the navy department where it was said that the actual number would be determined by necessities in Tientsin and by transport facilities.

DE AUTREMONT BOYS IN PRISON

Neighboring Town Hangs Three Train Bandits in Effigy.

Salem, Ore., June 24.—(AP)—Prison doors closed on the De Autremont brothers today as they began serving life sentences for four murders committed in the Siskiyou mountains train holdup of October, 1923.

While they were being put through penitentiary routine and given their prison garb, they were hanged in effigy in Ashland, not far from the scene of the crime which one of the brothers confessed. Popular feeling at Ashland, home of Charles O. Johnson, the Southern Pacific brakeman, one of the four men killed in the holdup, stirred several hundred citizens to participate in a hanging bee, in which dummies labelled Ray, Roy and Hugh were strung up. Ashland people were indignant because the brothers had escaped the death sentences.

On their way to prison from the train the brothers consented to be photographed. Ray interposed one condition—that one of the pictures be sent to his wife, Hazel De Autremont, at Hanging Rock, Ohio. Their minds freed from the burden of the secret they had carried for nearly four years during which they eluded the law, the brothers discussed their crime with the officers who brought them from Jacksonville. Their carefree spirit had vanished, however, when they entered the prison gate early today.

CHURCH ROBBER TAKEN IN OHIO

Confesses to Robbing, Burning 22 Catholic Buildings.

Upper Sandusky, O., June 24.—(AP)—A brief, but intensive career of pillage and arson against the Catholic church was revealed in the alleged confession of Ray Marsden, 42, of Flint, Mich., here today.

Police officers say he told how he and four accomplices robbed and burned 22 churches of the Catholic faith in Ohio and Kentucky. He is being held here for trial June 30 on charge of stealing the sacred image from the shrines of Our Lady of Consolation at Carey, Ohio, May 20.

Marsden told officers in this confession, they said, that he and his confederates robbed Catholic churches "because they were the only ones that had any money." The confession resulted in the arrest today at Covington, Ky., of four accomplices in the church depredations.

When arrested a day or two after the shrine robbery at Carey, Marsden was said to have told deputy sheriffs that he robbed the shrine "because he had been forced into the Catholic church and had a grievance against it."

RUMORS SEEM WELL FOUNDED

Delegations Deny Making Overtures, Confess Possibility.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 24.—(AP)—The possibility that the American government and people may soon have to decide whether they wish to negotiate a perpetual peace pact with Japan is now looming as an outgrowth of the tripartite naval conference at Geneva.

The Japanese delegates to the conference deny that they have made any overtures on this subject and Hugh S. Gibson, head of the American delegation, has made a similar denial, but the impression nevertheless prevails in authoritative circles that Admiral Viscount Saito, head of the Japanese delegation and a close counselor of the emperor, may suggest some sort of treaty outlawing war between Japan and the United States to supplement the four-power pact which was created at the Washington conference as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Want Assurance. It is believed that before making any overtures officially, the Japanese would want to receive some assurance that such overtures would have a reasonable chance of meeting favorable consideration. In this connection, it is felt not unlikely that the conclusion of such a pact, suggested along the lines of the suggested Franco-American treaty, might influence Japan's attitude in her demand for a higher percentage in auxiliary warships than the 5-5-3 ratio established at Washington for capital ships.

Meanwhile, today's outstanding development in the conversations now going on concerning the proposals for naval limitation put forward by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, was that looked like a considerable weakening in the British attitude of insisting upon reconsideration of matters pertaining to the Washington treaty such as further reduction in the size of battleships.

The immediate cause of this apparent change of front was an official notification made to the British delegation, both by the American and Japanese delegates that they have no authority to discuss at Geneva decisions which were part of the Washington accord.

Would Talk Sizes. Both delegations agreed after earnest representations by the British to cable Washington and Tokyo asking whether it would be possible to examine the question of the sizes of battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers, which were fixed at the Washington conference. It is expected here, however, that both governments will adhere to the original mandates handed to their delegations.

As for the American delegation it seems united in the conviction that any decision to revamp the Washington treaty at Geneva would be nothing short of tragic and certain to meet the condemnation of the American government and people.

W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation, told the press today that he believed it Great Britain's duty to obtain a reduction in the sizes of all types of warships as this was the only proper way of eliminating an armament race.

Viscount Cecil also gently insisted that reconsideration of the sizes of warships fixed at Washington would not constitute scrapping of the Washington treaty but would be merely an agreement among the three interested nations that they would not exercise their full rights under that treaty.

Power Corporations in Peninsula Merge

Cleveland, O., June 24.—(AP)—The merger of 15 electric light and power concerns in Wisconsin and northern Michigan, all subsidiaries of the North American company, which controls the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company, was revealed today.

Properties involved in the merger represent $16,000,000 valuation and financing incidental to the deal will consist of $5,000,000 five per cent bonds and refunding mortgage gold bonds due in 1937.

STORMS TIE UP OCEAN FLYERS

"America" Prepared to Leave at First Rift in Clouds.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 24.—(AP)—A "bad condition" over this side of the Atlantic ocean, which, like a cold, refused to break up tonight, was the element which continued to keep the monoplane "America" unavoidably delayed at home, where it may remain until Sunday or even later.

All set for its sortie to Paris, the big three-motored craft rested at the top of the runway on Roosevelt Field all day, as motionless, but taut, as when it was first run up the incline late yesterday for the take-off. At dawn that was not to be. Forecaster Scarr kept his weather eye open all the day to no avail.

Late today he finally said: "It is very unlikely the conditions will clear in time for a take-off tomorrow morning and there doesn't seem to be much hope for favorable conditions Sunday morning."

"There has been a bad condition over the east for the last ten days or two weeks. Last night it looked as if it might break up. It didn't. And until it does, it wouldn't be much use taking off."

On the other hand, far out to sea, the conditions are quite bully. Flyers in uniforms, sitting in the porch chairs, or tinkering with the gadgets and dials, were fanned and fanned. Bon voyage crowds came and crowds went.

As soon as conditions altered themselves, Commander Byrd said there would be no use waiting for anything else.

Around the "America" rope was strung, while guards of mechanics and policemen kept a watchful eye for possible souvenir seekers. The flyers left the field.

NEW COMPANY TO UNDERTAKE HUGE PROJECT

ROUTES WILL BRING COUNTRY CLOSER TOGETHER.

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has as his objective the establishment at an early date of a passenger-carrying air transport line that will be national in scope.

The famous trans-Atlantic flyer announced just before leaving here late today for New York by airplane that considerable progress had been made in discussion of principles.

Committees have been appointed to prepare the detailed plans of organizing the routes to be established, he said. "I hope to be able to make a further announcement concerning these plans some time during the next few weeks."

Just what place Lindbergh is to have in the general organization was not made clear. His conferences were carried on with Paul Henderson, head of the National Air Transport Inc., which has the largest contracts for transporting air mail; Howard Coffin, airplane designer; Harry S. Knight, Harold Bibby and William B. Robertson, St. Louis backers of his great Atlantic venture; Will B. Mayor, Chester W. Couthell and Casey Jones, an airplane test pilot of New York.

Makes Statement. Colonel Lindbergh's statement was in writing and was handed to newspaper correspondents at Bolling field just before he stepped into an army pursuit plane to fly to Mitchell field, Long Island.

Before entering into the conferences with his assistants in the proposed air venture, Colonel Lindbergh called at the state department to formally accept an invitation to fly to Ottawa on July 2 to participate in the diamond jubilee there of the confederation of the Canadian government.

The invitation was extended by the Canadian government through its minister here and the state department and its acceptance was announced by Secretary Kellogg after a meeting with the flyer and Hume Wrong, the Canadian charge d'affaires.

Before departing for New York Lindbergh also conferred with Postmaster General Bartlett, Glover and Regar. They discussed commercial air development generally and air mail in particular.

Must Advertise. There was a suggestion that contracts for transporting air mail be let without advertising for bids just as are contracts for rail carriage of mail and called now, but attention was called that this could be made possible only by an amendment of the U. S. government law.

On his flight to New York, the flyer is to be accompanied by three other men from his New York-to-Paris three weeks ago. Lindbergh was accompanied by Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commanding officer of Selfridge field, Mich., and Lieut. St. Clair Street, who piloted single-seated Curtiss pursuits of the P-1 type, as did Lindbergh.

The colonel led the V formation of three planes as he did upon his arrival yesterday, but he took the squadron through no maneuvers, making altitude rapidly and flying away directly on his course to Long Island.

Surgeon Murdered for Healing Broken Back

AMMORIAN THAT HE WOULD BE GLAD TO TAKE HIM IN HIS AUTOMOBILE TO AN INDIANA HOSPITAL FOR AN X-RAY OF HIS BACK.

Indiana, Penn., June 24.—(AP)—The successful treating of a broken back seven years ago by Dr. Frank Fisher Moore, well-known Homer City physician and surgeon, was believed by the authorities tonight to have led to the murder of the doctor and the suicide of the man he saved from being a helpless cripple.

Seven years ago the doctor was called on to treat John Ammorian, a Creekside coal miner, whose back was broken in a mine accident. The doctor operated and his fellow surgeons marveled that he saved the miner's life and made it possible for him to walk.

But Ammorian, forced to go about with the aid of a cane, nursed a grudge against the surgeon. He is said to have felt that the doctor could have made a complete cure.

Today the miner hopped into the doctor's office at Homer City and complained that his back pained him. The doctor told Ammorian that he would be glad to take him in his automobile to an Indiana hospital for an X-ray of his back.

They boarded the surgeon's machine. About four miles from here the automobile left the road and overturned. At left it was believed the doctor lost control of the car. Nearby farmers rushed to the scene, only to find that Dr. Moore had been shot three times in the head from the rear, while Ammorian, in the back seat, had three bullets in his temple and a pistol by his side. The doctor was dead when found, but the miner lived for an hour. He made no statement.

Shortly after a coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide, a Creekside mine appeared and established Ammorian's identity. He is survived by a widow and six children while Dr. Moore leaves a widow and two sons, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Caswell of Middletown, Ind.

Bath, Mich., June 24.—(AP)—The Bath consolidated school district board has received and accepted a formal offer from United States Senator James Couzens of Detroit, to rebuild the school house destroyed May 18, last, by blasts of dynamite planted by Andrew Kehoe, Clinton county farmer.

At a brief meeting held in the town hall here Thursday the school board accepted the telegraphic offer of Senator Couzens to rebuild the school building and conferred with Warren S. Holmes, Lansing architect, who designed the building now in ruins.

The school building was destroyed the morning of May 18 when dynamite planted by Kehoe exploded, destroying the entire north wing and wrecking the south wing. Forty-four men, women and children were killed in the first explosion and a subsequent one caused by the firing of dynamite in Kehoe's automobile parked in front of the building.

Senator Couzens visited the scene of destruction, accompanied by Gov. Fred W. Green and members of the Lansing relief committee last Thursday. When news of the disaster reached him in Washington, he had wired Governor Green to rely upon him for assistance in relief of the sufferers.

HUNGER-CRAZY MEN TURN ON REBEL CHIEFS

GORY UNDERGROUND WAR ENDS THREE DAY FAST.

Lansing, Kan., June 24.—(AP)—A short, fierce battle within the ranks of the 328 mutinous convicts in the Kansas penitentiary coal mine resulted in victory late today for the forces favoring surrender and ended the uprising.

Several of the guards were sick when they were brought to the surface. "We have had nothing to eat since Tuesday morning," Charles Nicholson, one guard, told the warden.

"It was an awful thing to go through," Charles Hamlin, another guard, said. "You can't know how awful it was unless you were down there."

Nicholson and John Heslop, pit boss, said they were overpowered about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and along with the other 13 guards, were locked in the electric shop until someone broke out the windows, and told them there had been a battle, and that the mutiny was over.

Fight With Acid. During the battle, it was learned, the obstinate mutiny leaders seized two gallon jugs of acid and fought the others with this. Several men sustained acid burns.

When word reached the surface that the men were ready to come up, the night guards were called to reinforce the day guards about the mine top. The 100 guards, all equipped with shotguns, stood guard over the top as the hoists began bringing the men out.

The electric shop, in which the guards were locked, was only ten by twelve feet in dimension, and the guards were forced to lie down most of the time, they said.

"We had some water, but no food," Heslop related. "Now and then we would see men passing long knives, but as they were masked, we could not tell who they were."

The mutiny broke by nearly forty hours the longest previous mutiny staged in 1900.

In the battle, about 270 men, driven by fear and hunger, after 77 hours of self-imposed incarceration 720 feet below ground, allied themselves against the 50 strike leaders and overpowered them.

BATH ACCEPTS COUZENS OFFER

MICHIGAN SENATOR WILL PAY FOR ERECTION OF NEW SCHOOL.

Bath, Mich., June 24.—(AP)—The Bath consolidated school district board has received and accepted a formal offer from United States Senator James Couzens of Detroit, to rebuild the school house destroyed May 18, last, by blasts of dynamite planted by Andrew Kehoe, Clinton county farmer.

At a brief meeting held in the town hall here Thursday the school board accepted the telegraphic offer of Senator Couzens to rebuild the school building and conferred with Warren S. Holmes, Lansing architect, who designed the building now in ruins.

INTEREST INCREASES. Rapid City, S. D., June 24.—(AP)—President Coolidge looks upon the non-stop flights across the Atlantic as having greatly stimulated public interest in aviation and while he does not profess to be expert enough to express final judgment, he says in the flights an indication of increasing use of the air in the future.

The flights have demonstrated, in his opinion, that the United States is doing more along aviation transportation lines than any other country and while some European nations may surpass this country in the carrying of passengers, the total mileage covered on this side of the Atlantic is far greater.

He does not believe the flights developed anything new so far as military operations in the air are concerned but he considers that no one could have witnessed the recent fleet review in which airplanes participated and fail to appreciate the good use the navy is making of the air.

CAL WILL VISIT FARM DISTRICT

ANXIOUS TO STUDY "DRY FARMING"; TO ATTEND BIG PICNIC.

Rapid City, S. D., June 24.—(AP)—President Coolidge is anxious to see at first hand how "dry farming" is carried on and accordingly is looking forward to his visit to Ardmore, S. D., on July 16, where a government station is experimenting.

The visit will give him also the opportunity to see 10,000 farmers, since that number is expected to be present at a big basket dinner picnic. The president does not intend to make an address.

Dry farming is a method of raising certain crops not needing a maximum of moisture through rainfall. Flax, alfalfa, seed and some types of corn usually are resorted to.

This type of farming, it was said today at the executive offices, is entirely new to President Coolidge and he is eager to see what progress is being made.

At Ardmore, he will be surrounded by farmers of South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska in an informal gathering. The farmers and their families will sit under shade trees and eat their lunch from baskets.

Make No Promises. Shortly before the men announced their willingness to come to the top, Dr. Charles S. Huffman, chairman of the state board of administration, had assured a spokesman that "we can't promise you anything, except that your demands will be considered fairly and impartially."

The convicts last night had served an ultimatum on the board, demanding more consideration for parole applications and greater privileges under the prison rules.

As the men were brought to the mine head, 12 at a time, each group was met by Warden W. H. Mackey, who said:

"You men go to the laundry, and take a bath, and change clothes. Supper will be ready for you just as soon as possible."

Nothing else was said to the convicts.

MISS MACKAYE TAKES STAND

BELIEVES FEE OF $500 FOR TREATING HUSBAND IS NOT HIGH.

Los Angeles, June 24.—(AP)—Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress, charged with conspiring with Dr. W. J. Sullivan to conceal the facts of the death of her husband, Ray Raymond, testified under cross-examination today that she did not consider the $500 fee which she paid the doctor for treating her husband, unusual.

Paul Kelly, movie actor, is under sentence for manslaughter for the death of Raymond after a flat fight. Sullivan was granted a separate trial which has been set for June 27.

Miss Mackaye said she recalled having paid a physician $600 to have her tonsils and adenoids removed and $300 to have a wisdom tooth extracted.

In bringing charges against the doctor, the state stressed the size of the physician's bill.

She was followed to the stand by Dr. Sullivan, called as a defense witness. He testified that on the way to the hospital with Miss Mackaye he asked her how Raymond got the bruises on his body.

"If we are going eventually to decrease the size of battleships," he said, "it would be good to know about it as soon as possible as the designs of new units must soon be made. Moreover, any tripartite agreement would make it easier for France and Italy to adhere to it at a later date."

Mr. Bridgeman declined to say whether Great Britain would approve cruiser parity with the United States other than the 10,000 ton cruisers authorized by the Washington agreement, saying that the question was still under discussion. This statement

MARRIAGE OF FIRST COUSINS IN SISTER STATE LAWFUL HERE

Lansing, June 24.—(AP)—When first cousins marry in states where such ceremonies are legal the contract is valid in Michigan, the state supreme court held today in deciding a Berrien county will case.

Frank Miller married his first cousin in Kentucky, where such contracts are legal. He moved to Berrien county and when he died other heirs sought to set aside the widow's right to share in the estate, claiming she was not his legal wife under the Michigan laws.

"Our legislature neither declared nor attempted to declare a marriage solemnized in and according to the laws of a sister state shall be denied validity in this state," the court ruled.

A judgment against Horace Dodge, in favor of William Etemo, who was struck by a truck owned by the Dodge boat works interests was upheld.

Missing Car Dealer, Crazy, in Jackson

Jackson, June 24.—(AP)—A man believed to be Charles Sterns, missing South Haven automobile dealer, was found wandering in the business district here late Friday night by Jackson police. He was in a dazed condition. The man was later identified by a local automobile salesman and South Haven police were notified. Sterns' wife will be here for him some time Saturday.

Eight U. P. Cities Cited by State for Pollution of Water

Lansing, June 24.—(AP)—Twenty-two cities have been cited by the department of health and department of stream pollution for contempt of stream pollution orders, and a request sent to W. W. Potter, attorney general, to advise those cities of their delinquency and start court action if necessary.

The letter, signed by Guy L. Keifer, health commissioner, and Leigh J. Young, conservation director, declares that the cities were advised at a series of conferences starting January 12, 1927, of unsatisfactory sanitary conditions and subsequently have ignored orders to arrange for adequate sewage disposal plants.

The two departments have already started action against the city of Lansing which is now in the hands of the attorney general.

The cities in today's communication follows: Three Rivers, Grand Lodge, Greenville, Midland, Manchester, Standish, South Haven, St. Ignace, Munising, Ironwood, St. Ignace, Newberry, Bessemer, Neogee, Allegan, Charlotte, Plaquemine, Monroe, Pentwater, Marquette and Menominee.

TREATY WITH JAPS LOOMING

was felt to indicate clearly that the United States cannot yet count upon British willingness to admit the American right to have the same total tonnage in cruisers as Great Britain.

"Real Economics." Mr. Gibson, explaining the American project declared that "involved real economics, greater than would result from merely reducing the size of individual ships because the United States was willing to go as low as any of the nations at the conference in limiting total tonnage.

The American delegation seems convinced that it will be backed solidly by public opinion in the United States both in resisting any attempt to reopen the Washington treaty or to remove equality between Great Britain and United States in constructing their navies of the future.

Another development today, which was felt to increase the chances of success of the conference was the assurance from the Japanese delegation that Japan would not insist upon her demand for the unrestricted right to build as many submarines as she desired under 700 tons.

NO ENTHUSIASM

Washington, June 24—(AP)—The British proposal at the Geneva limitation conference that 10,000 ton cruisers of Great Britain and the United States be replaced ultimately with 7,500 ton vessels, and that 7,500 tons be agreed upon as the maximum in the future was received in official quarters here without evident enthusiasm.

First criticism of the plan was that such an agreement necessarily would carry beyond 1936 the date possible for termination of the Washington arms treaty with which the hoped for Geneva pact would be contentious.

Heavier cruisers of both countries will not reach the replacement age until after 1936. It was pointed out, with the added objection being expressed that the naval strength of the principal powers may be radically changed at the 1931 conference to be held by the Washington treaty signatories.

No Definite Tonnage

Emphasis again was placed today on the fact that the British proposal does not include a definite tonnage total for cruisers which is a specific recommendation in the American plan. It was recognized also that Great Britain requires many but small cruisers to maintain her colonial contacts while the United States possibly could better meet its needs with few but large ships of wide steaming radius.

The state department professed today to be without private knowledge of how the British and Japanese, who have submitted limitation proposals widely divergent from the American plan, will press them in the conference but it was generally assumed by officials that concessions would soon be made by the two other powers.

CAL WATCHES

Rapid City, S. D., June 24—(AP)—Proposals made by Great Britain, Japan and the United States at the opening of the Geneva armament conference disclose, in the opinion of President Coolidge that the three nations entered the meeting with a sincere desire to further limit naval warfare. It was said today at the summer White House that Mr. Coolidge is watching the conference with keen interest and that he considers it commenced under auspicious circumstances.

While the conference is in progress, however, the president desires to maintain silence as to details of the Geneva transactions because, it was said, he has found that some times his informal expressions have carried an erroneous impression when they were made known abroad.

The visit of Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican house leader, has left the situation regarding a special session of congress unchanged. Until there is a formal indication from the White House that a special session is under consideration, Mr. Coolidge was represented as believing it safe to say that none would be called.

Not Committed

Mr. Coolidge adheres to the recent White House statement in Washington that he has made no commitment. Other than the general recommendations for a judicious tax reduction which he made in his budget address, the president intends to leave this legislation to the house ways and means committee.

He believes the question to be peculiarly the province of that committee and understands that it is already working on surveys to see what can be done.

The president expects numerous visitors at the summer White House but whether Ambassador Herrick, who is returning from France, intends to come is not known.

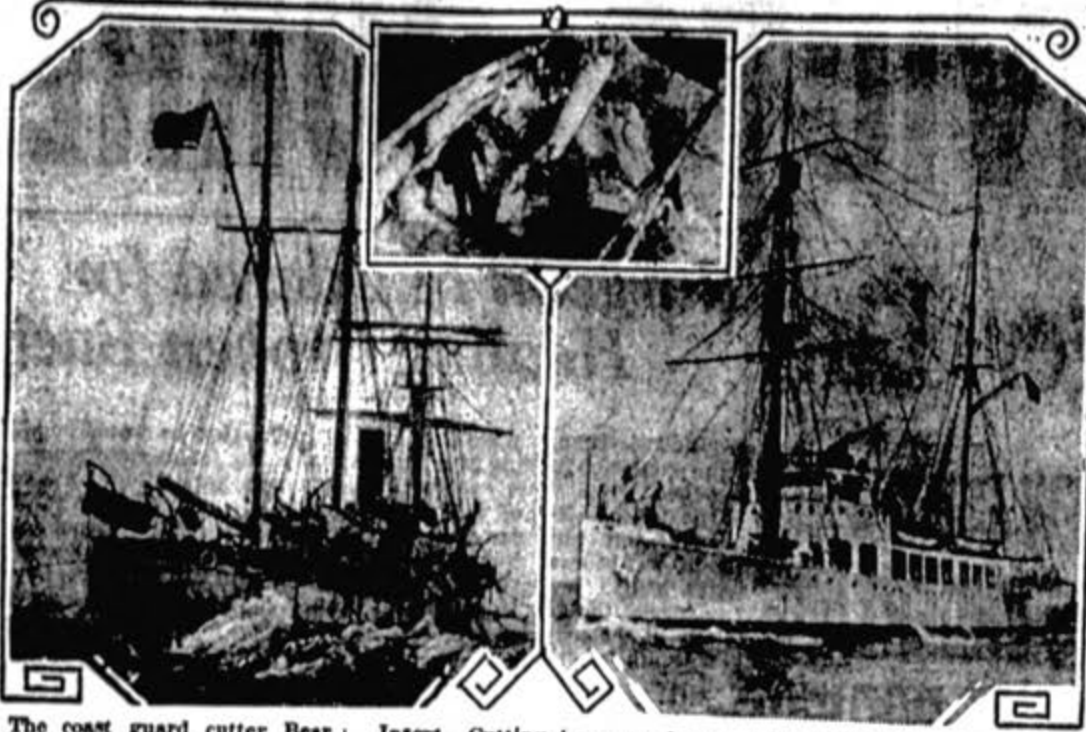

Mr. Coolidge believes it entirely probable that Ambassador Kerrick is carrying a document containing a suggestion from the French government as to procedure for a meeting to discuss a treaty with this country to outlaw war.

Done by Envoys. The last developments in such a treaty was Secretary Kellogg's note to the French government, asking for suggestions on procedure but if the question were taken up the president feels it would be done between the American ambassador while a resident in Paris and the French ambassador at Washington in the regular diplomatic manner.

Famous Cutter "Bear" Ends 40 Years of Romantic Service in Arctic Seas

The coast guard cutter Bear, whose wooden hull has withstood Arctic ice packs for half a century.

Insert—Cutting ice away from rigging on the forward deck of the Bear—an every-day job in the Arctic.

The Northland, new steel coast guard cutter which will take up the Bear's charity patrol in Alaskan waters.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Here's June almost gone and the squat little barkentine Bear hasn't pointed her jib boom into the harbor of Nome.

North along the Alaskan coast, native villagers are waiting for the Bear, waiting to bring their wives, children, dogs and chickens aboard and remain there until the Bear puffs on toward her next port of call.

It's long past time for the Bear to load up with medicines and other supplies for the natives and to head north for the last time and the ship that was built to replace her, the Northland, is proceeding down through the canal to follow the annual course of the Bear through the Bering straits and up the coast to Point Barrow.

And the old Bear, which for more than 40 years carried law, health, education, religion, protection and thrills to Kotzebue, Tin City, Aniak and a dozen more remote villages, is on reduced commission. She will be anchored, probably at San Pedro, Cal., to serve as receiving ship, training ship, barracks ship or what have you in the way of menial service.

Fifty-Three Years Old

In 1884 the secretaries of war and navy bought the Bear, which had then seen ten years' service as a Dundee whaler, for the expedition that rescued Adolphus W. Greeley and the survivors of his exploration.

It was said then, as since, that no one ever built a better wooden ship than the Bear. She was planked with six-inch oak under a sheathing of ironbark wood. She has a solid prow. Her timbers athwartship have been known to buckle 12 inches under ice pressure and she has run into everything that floats without noteworthy damage except when $14,000 worth of timber was once knocked off her, but even that didn't cause even a tiny leak. Every year she's been nipped in the Arctic ice, but always came back.

The Bear led the Greeley rescue expedition under Com. Winfield Scott Schley and she was the first important command of this Spanish war hero. The Bear had many narrow escapes before Greeley was rescued and she has outlived all her sister ships of that expedition.

Directly afterward, the Bear abided by the terms of the Washington treaty and urged that American delegates to the Geneva conference do nothing to weaken the sea strength of the United States unless the two other powers are willing to conform to the 5-5-3 ratio for capital ships.

"America will not have an honest bona fide friend in the world," he said. "If our naval and land forces are reduced to a minimum whereby other first-rate sea and land powers can discern the slightest weakness in our armament strength."

French Will Raise Reindeer for Food

Paris—France is about to take a leaf from Alaska's book and raise reindeer for food.

The first herd has already been shipped to Monstier-Saleve, in the department of Savoie, and others will be experimented with in neighboring Alpine districts.

The steadily rising cost of beef and mutton, caused by the domestic shortage and the increasing necessity of importing from abroad, induced the experiment. It is pointed out that reindeer can be grown on land that is otherwise more or less unproductive and that the cost of raising is no more than for ordinary livestock.

Hotel proprietors in the Alps plan to use the growing reindeer to amuse their guests in sleigh-riding and "skijoring," a form of winter sport that has grown greatly in favor recently.

Radio Stenographic Contests Started

Berlin—Radio stenographic speed contests as advertising stunts for schools of shorthand are being tried in Germany with success.

More than 50,000 stenographers participated in the first contest, for which 500 prizes, some of them typewriters, were awarded.

Dictation was broadcast from the Berlin station at the rate of 150 syllables a minute for five minutes. Shorthand experts all over the country listened in, took down the speech and then set in typewritten transcripts. Prizes were awarded on the basis of the largest number of correct words. The winner scored 90 per cent.

SIMULATING SWEATERS. Silk sports dresses, in jumper and skirt models, are using bandings of contrasting silk to fashion stripes like knitted sweaters. Others have applied sweaters.

SUMMER BLOUSES. The separate blouse worn with silk suits as well as tailleurs, comes in charming, vivacious printed chiffons.

FRESH LETTUCE. Lettuce will keep crisp a week if washed and put in a paper sack and placed in a cold but dry place.

BRIDAL BOUQUETS

All white, if the bride elects to follow tradition—or she may choose the color most suitable to her fancy—at any rate they are sure to be correct if entrusted to our making.

Fascists' Bodies Arrive in Naples

Naples, Italy, June 24—(AP)—Thousands of persons today participated in a solemn ceremony at the arrival here aboard the steamer Conte Rosso of the bodies of Joseph Carisi and Michael d'Ambrasio Amoroso, fascists, who were killed in New York on May 30.

Undersecretary Grandi, in behalf of the government, and many prominent persons were present, when the coffins, covered by American and Italian flags, were carried from the ship. The officials marched in a lengthy parade to Plebiscite Square where an impressive commemorative ceremony was held.

Joseph Carisi and Michael Amoroso were slain here by assassins who escaped and were believed to be anti-fascists. The slaying occurred on Memorial Day when they were about to board an elevated train for another section of the city to participate in a parade with hundreds of their black-shirted colleagues.

Dread of Disease Is Called Disease

Paris—Fear of disease, microbes, and all the ills and bugaboos that science has classified, is described by Dr. De Penis as man's worst malady. He names it "hygieneitis."

Dr. De Penis is a physician whose practice has been largely in the colonies. He is now in Indo China, where he finds the Annamites are in a state of terror, worrying over ailments that didn't seem dangerous until science taught them how terrible they are.

"They deprive themselves of all the joys of life for the sake of the joy of living," says one commentator, discussing the doctor's observations. The Annamites have taken hygiene tragically, he says, many of them refusing to eat strawberries, fish, oysters and other foods or to drink wine, because they have been warned of possible contagion.

CHEERY ROOM. A cheery morning room can often be achieved by the addition of canary or primrose yellow curtains, with flowers in pots along the window sills.

Use Hobby Horses As Barber Chairs

Paris—Great wooden hobby horses are barbers' chairs for children in a big department store here.

The children are so pleased with the adventure that they readily obey the barbers' commands to be still. They also are satisfied customers who induce their mothers to bring them to that particular store for all their hair-cutting.

While the children get their hair-cut the mothers are free to spend their money in the store. The department store barber shop is new here. It was intended for bobbed-hair women.

KERCHIEF MODE

The kerchief collar gives a novel touch to new sports wear. And round or square necks are all but hidden by separate knotted kerchiefs.

EVENING FANS

Ostrich fans in black or color are quite the thing for evening. And by their size one judges they are built for use as well as decoration.

Corot's Famous Oaks Victims of Economy

Paris—Corot's oaks must fall beneath the woodman's axe, victims of the high cost of living.

The venerable trees form a superb background for the ancient and picturesque chapel of Sainte Suzanne, at the little village of Mur, near Loudéac, Brittany, and Corot never tired of painting and sketching them. The country folk were proud of their famous trees, but being forced to choose between the trees and higher taxes, the council did not hesitate and sold the oaks to a timber merchant.

PARIS HATS

Paris shows an inclination to introduce as hat trimming loops and ends of ribbon that droop gracefully towards the shoulder used in combination with one or two big flowers on the brim.

33 GRADUATES IN NIGHT CLASS

Fine Program Marks Close of Citizenship School at Rock.

Thirty-three residents of the Rock community were awarded certificates, upon their successful completion of studies in the night citizenship school which ended its work Thursday night.

P. R. Legg, Mrs. Tyne Harju and Miss Eleanor Carlson, teachers, arranged an excellent program for the occasion. There were short addresses by County Clerk George E. Harvey, County School Commissioner C. U. Woolpert, Mr. Legg, Arvid Mustonen, Andrew Kalnula and others. Mr. Mustonen and Mr. Kalnula were also being a member of the Marquette county board of supervisors and the Turin township board of education.

Flags were presented to each of the graduates by Mrs. George E. Harvey, representing the Escanaba Women's Relief Corps.

The Escanaba Junior Municipal band, under the direction of Joseph Greenfield, played several musical numbers. Refreshments were served. The meeting closed by singing "America."

The band was taken to Rock in automobiles driven by Mrs. George Harvey, Mrs. J. J. Bartella, Mr. Woolpert and George W. Brown.

Trading Situation Still Very Spotted

New York, June 24—(AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: The trade, crop and industrial situation is still a very spotted one. The advent of summer finds trade quieter, except where mid-year sales induce buying or where hot weather has stimulated retailing and industry shows a slower pace with buying and output less than a year ago when things were on the upgrade. On the other hand warmer weather has helped crops already planted or up in many areas, and the generally moist soil conditions is a great potential asset. A warm growing season and a late warm autumn seem necessary requisites if yields of late sown food crops and particularly corn, are to prove satisfactory.

Weekly bank clearings were $9,570,416,000, an increase of 4.6 per cent over last year. Outside of New York there was an increase of 1.8 per cent.

Nelson Wins High University Honors

C. Hjalmar Nelson, sophomore at the University of Wisconsin, has been awarded the Legislative Scholarship, exempting him from the payment of non-resident tuition for the year 1927-28, for scholastic proficiency the past year. As only 100 students of the university receive this honor each year, and winners of the scholarship are selected at large from the student body of 8,000, the honor is bestowed in recognition of only exceptional and brilliant accomplishment.

Mr. Nelson was valedictorian of Nicholson-Erickson.

Among the pretty June weddings is the one which took place at the parsonage of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church in this city Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Rev. E. Knutsen performed the ceremony uniting Miss Rina Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nicholson of Stonington, and Martin Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Erickson of Stonington, in marriage.

The attendants were Miss Bertha Erickson and Oscar Nicholson. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Stonington to the home of the bride's parents where a six o'clock dinner was served to sixty guests. The couple left for a trip to Sault Ste. Marie after which they will make their home at Stonington.

The bridal gown was of pink georgette crepe and the bridal bouquet was of American beauty roses. The bridesmaid's gown was of peach color silk trimmed with beads and she carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sydmark and family and Mr. and Mrs. Christ Nicholson of this city.

mythical heroes. We are tied down, and we need a Knight of the Upper Air.

THE WOMEN STILL PURSUE. Granting that the ladies are entitled to the vote and that they have their place in politics, it seems a dead shame that the female politicians can't leave some symbol of man's former glory as a man's reveal at which he can enjoy himself and still kid himself that he is boss.

The handwriting on the wall was writ large in box car letters at White Plains, N. Y. the other day, when the Women's Republican Club met the Westchester County Board of Supervisors on the greenward and played 'em a game of baseball.

Time was when the baseball game between the county courthouse and the city hall was a man's game, in which only the flabby male office-holders could indulge and acquire Charley horses and stiff arms.

But the times, as Shakespeare said, are out of joint. The old order has changed for something that is beyond comprehension.

Lindbergh, apparently, is the direct antithesis of Antaeus. He needs to soar up into the empty air every now and then to regain his energy.

The first few days Lindbergh spent in America on his return from France were pretty strenuous. Indeed, it became observed that the young man was under quite a strain.

At all events, Lindbergh, at the end of his second day in New York, found himself at his front door an hour after midnight. He was tired, glad to be alone in the cool night.

He did not, instead he headed for Roosevelt field, borrowed a plane, flew to Washington, got his own plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, flew back, and then amused himself for half an hour by cutting up aerial capers high over the heads of the mechanics below.

Then, when he finally came down, Lindbergh was himself once more. He was jovial, cheerful, carefree. He laughed and chatted with the reporters, who had tried his patience rather severely the day before.

And it is just that trait, we believe, that puts the finishing touch on this young hero. It relates him to the eagle, wheeling and circling high above the earth, eternally free and eternally removed from the time-stained, careworn earth.

Fat Parisian Voted "Prince of Gourmets"

Paris—The "Prince of Gourmets," the king of good livers, is Maurice Curnonsky, unofficially elected the best judge of things of the table. Curnonsky, a writer, whose real name is Maurice Edmond Sailland, is cut on Falstaffian lines. No one disputes that he probably knows more about the inns and restaurants of Paris and the provinces than anyone else. It is remarked, however, that for the first time a leading authority on dinners is a man whose knowledge of wines is rather finely drawn, because he is charged only with too little respect for Burgundy wines and a faulty judgment of their relative merits.

Jungles Breath

CHAPTER XXV

He was sorry, terribly sorry the thing had happened, Wilson went on. He hoped Elise wouldn't hold it against him. Wouldn't she take his two pistols? Though they would leave the fazenda without a weapon, he'd be delighted to give them to her. And of course she needn't worry about Villapa now. He was perfectly able to take care of everything.

She refused a loan which would have seemingly left him helpless, expressed her delight that his condition had so improved, and made ready to return to Porto Verde.

Wilson indignantly insisted on sending a bodyguard for at least part of the journey in order to prevent a repetition of her misadventures during the afternoon. Accordingly he sent for twenty of his laborers, armed them with machetes clubs, and axes, gave them horses and ordered them to accompany the travelers. "Sorry I can't go with you," he said obsequiously, his great drawn eyelids opening and shutting quickly as though they were too weak to bear the light of the torches flaming in the laborers' hands. "Terribly sorry. Feel I'm shirking. But you know how it is. . . . you know how it is. . . . after fever. . . ."

The cavalcade set off, the torches outlining men and horses in fantastic dancing red against the black and threatening sky. Uphill, downhill they rode, through the ravine where they had been ambushed, then through the swollen creek which formed the road to Porto Verde. The three travelers constantly searched the darkness for some evidence of renewed activity on the part of their attackers. But their efforts were wasted. They heard nothing, saw nothing. A short distance from the Porto Verde fazenda Elise, after consulting Villapa, sent their escort back to Villapa. The rain, which had ceased for a few hours, began to fall again in torrents. Elise tightened the raincoat about her slim neck. Suddenly she drew a sharp breath.

Villapa turned. "What's the matter?" he asked quietly. "Nothing. Only I've just thought about Tinky. Nervously, unconsciously she quickened her horse. "A thousand things can have happened to him while we've been away. Anything can have happened."

"But nothing has happened. Be sensible. You've been a good soldier all day, a perfect soldier. I couldn't have asked for a better. Don't weaken and start being feminine. . . . at the last minute. Tinky'll be all right. Here. You'd better have a cigaret."

She took a light from his shielded hand and let her fingers linger gently upon his moment. Then she put the cigaret to her lips.

She smoked pensively a moment. "I'm not a good soldier," she said at length. "You're only trying to keep up my spirits. I'm a bad soldier. So wretched that I'd be given a dishonorable discharge in any respectable army. This morning you told me not to go to Villapa. I went. You were right. I was wrong. Then, when we were captured, I did nothing but sit on a log and stare weakly into a fire. You, though bound hand and foot, first freed yourself and then freed me."

"Tomorrow I'm going to be a still worse soldier. I'm going to run away from the battle. And frankly, as far as Tinky is concerned, you were right when you said I'd be glad to get away before. I want to get him to some place where things can't happen with the ease they did today. If there were a boat out tonight, I'd take it. Yes, it seems to me, all in all, I'm a pretty poor sort of Amazon."

The rain had extinguished Villapa's cigaret. He struck a match to light it. By the flickering flame Elise saw that the bandage was no longer on the wound he had received in his wrist two days before. She snatched his hand and before he could prevent was binding it gently and effectively with a clean handkerchief. "I'm a grateful Amazon, at least," she murmured, brightening. "Even you can't keep me from being that."

They reached the fazenda. Elise hurried to find Tinky. He was in her bedroom, sleeping soundly. The jovial Hannah was sitting in a chair beside him. In the next room sat Schwartz, smoking a vast meerschaum pipe. He looked up and greeted Elise as she entered.

Assured that the child was safe, though it was close onto midnight, Elise hurried to leave prepared for her two guests and herself. The three of

SOMETHING NICE.
One night I lay upon my bed,
And, my, the things that I went through:
The moon was shining overhead,
There wasn't any reason to,
But in the shadows on the wall
I saw an ogre big and tall,
And, though I knew it was a chair,
My rocker looked just like a bear.
I tried to count myself to sleep,
At first by ones, and then by fives,
(My dresses made me fairly creep,
For there they hung, like Bluebeard's wives.)
And then I cried, and Mother came,
And said, "That shortcake is to blame,
Now listen, dear, while Mother sings,
And try to think of pleasant things."
I thought of trees—beside the door
The shadow seemed a great big tree,
My closet seemed a trygods store,
And all the things belonged to me.
I guess that goblins, imps and elves
Are things we just think up ourselves;
So, children, all take my advice
At night, and think of something nice.

German-American Postal Time Cut

Berlin—The time needed for letters from Germany to travel great transcontinental distances has been appreciably reduced by an arrangement between the American and German postal services. Post cards and letters may now be mailed from Germany to points in the United States, Mexico, western Canada and the Far East via the United States Air Mail Service by paying a surcharge of 90 pfennigs (22 1/2 cents) per post card or per 20 grammes of letter mail. As soon as the mail arrives by fast steamer in New York it is transferred to the airplanes. Motorcycle taxicabs are used in several American cities. needs in the afternoon and they come home long after bedtime at night. —GILBERT SWAN.

All A-Tingle with Health!

A bouyant sensation you never experienced before in your bath

A bath with Jap Rose Soap is better than medicine. It just makes you over. When you bathe with Jap Rose you can actually feel its invigorating effect on your skin.

Jap Rose does far more than merely cleanse the surface of the skin. Its mild, soothing oils go deep into the pores, bringing out all clogging impurities.

Use this fragrant, bubbly soap not only for the bath, but for silky, lustrous hair and a beautiful complexion. Jap Rose will work wonders with skins which have become dull and coarse.

That gentle after-tingle denotes the glow of health.

Special Sherberts and Ices Made to Your Order

BASKET :-:

a moderate oven to brown and puff the meringue.

Breakfast—Blackberries, cereal cream, eggs poached in milk on toast, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Clear soup, toast sticks, spinach salad, rice custard pudding, milk tea.

Dinner—Spanish liver, baked new potatoes, string bean salad, rhubarb jelly with whipped cream, crisp cookies, milk, coffee.

Spanish Liver.

1 pound calves' liver, 2 slices bacon cut 1/4 inch thick, 8 tiny silver skinned onions, 2 cups carrot balls, 1/2 cup broken fresh mushrooms, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 2 cups canned tomato pulp, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon paprika.

Cut liver in 1/2-inch slices. Cut bacon in strips 1/2 inch wide. Lard liver slices with bacon strips. Peel and parboil onions. Scrape carrots and cut into balls with a French vegetable cutter. Dice can be made if vegetable cutter is not at hand. Clean and break mushrooms through a strainer. Put liver, vegetables, mushrooms, tomato pulp and water into a casserole. Cover and cook in a moderate oven for 3 1/2 hours. Mix flour, salt and paprika. Slowly stir in enough cold water to make a thin paste. Stir into the gravy in casserole on top of the stove. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Return to the oven for 15 minutes. Serve from casserole.

Breakfast—Shredded fresh pineapple, cereal, cream, broiled cottage ham, creamed potatoes, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of asparagus soup, croutons, sliced tomatoes, cream cheese sandwiches, vanilla cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Broiled hamburger steak, twice-baked sweet potatoes, new cabbage with hot dressing, cream puffs garnished with strawberries, whole wheat rolls, milk, coffee.

New Cabbage With Hot Dressing. Two cups very finely shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon ground mustard, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1-3 teaspoon pepper

LOCALS MEET COOKS AGAIN

Dirt Will Fly When Old Rivals Have It Out.

Gladstone and Cooks will have the opportunity to become better acquainted Sunday when the local teams will meet on the baseball diamond. When the two aggregations were last together, for two hours and forty-seven minutes, to be exact, they left with the game, 11-9.

Due to costly errors on the part of Gladstone in the last encounter with Cooks, the victors may have formed erroneous impressions. Things have happened since that game. Time has seen Cooks knocked from the first place which they occupied after the Gladstone victory down to third. It is a safe guess that there will be a great deal of work in store for the Cooks nine before they are able to push the locals from their position at the head of the league's ratings.

In short, Gladstone is out to win. Gregory has resigned from the baseball squad so it is expected that Earl Peterson will be a permanent face in the line-up. The usual performers are expected to do the heavy work for Vene's men.

A few carloads of Gladstone fans are going to Cooks for the game.

CITY BRIEFS

Donald Campbell arrived Thursday from Alma to spend the summer vacation at the home of his parents. Mr. Campbell has completed a four-year course at Alma college.

Miss Helen LaFaver has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. K. Carson of Escanaba. Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Empey and sons, Louis, George and Freeman returned Thursday evening from Ann Arbor after the close of the commencement exercises at the university when Louis was graduated. George, who has also been attending the university will spend the summer at the home of his parents.

Mrs. Soren Johnson and daughter Dorothea returned Wednesday from Marquette. Miss Johnson, who has been attending Northern State Normal will spend the summer with her parents in this city.

Mrs. Matt Miller is confined to her home due to a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. George LaComb left Friday morning for her home in Marquette after spending a month visiting at the home of Mrs. Joe Grawey. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Menuler of Escanaba. They will stop at Peshtigo to attend the wedding of Mr. Menuler's sister.

Fine Goods to Be Offered for Sale

A pantry sale, conducted under the auspices of the Sunday school of the Westminster Presbyterian church, will be held today at Dehlin's Drug store, beginning at 2 o'clock.

A wide variety of foods will be offered for sale. They are home-baked beans, cookies, white bread, graham bread, doughnuts and cakes.

Attention will be given to orders sent by telephone. The sale is for the benefit of the Sunday school.

Services at Perkins Sunday Afternoon

Rev. C. E. Olsson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church of Gladstone, will conduct services at the Lutheran church at Perkins Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:00 o'clock.

NOVELTY CLOCK.

A new white stocking takes a green clock down from the garter top that ends in a green aeroplane.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Love makes the world go around when it should be asleep.

Gladstone Batters Increase Decimals

Gladstone gave itself a boost as a result of last Sunday's baseball outing with the Escanaba Northwesterns. The local boys' prowess with the stick in the recent game gave them a team average of .300, a decided change over last week's .249.

Junior Gibbs who walked to the plate for the first time in last Sunday's game and made a hit in his initial try has a perfect average. The others have decimals to their credit as follows: Bud Gibbs .371; A. Kircher .364; Chaffield .353; M. Kircher .350; Switzer .333; Bovin .300; Johnson .281; Peterson .260; Brock .166; Vandeweghe .140.

Presbyterians Will Make Improvements on Church Property

At a special congregational meeting of the Westminster Presbyterian church held Thursday evening in the church auditorium the board of trustees were instructed and authorized to have the exterior of the church and the manse painted. The color is to be ivory trimmed with willow green.

It was also decided to remodel the basement, making the dining room larger and more convenient. Other improvements will include changes in the kitchen and installation of a furnace.

The cost of the contemplated improvements and alterations will approximate $2,000. The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm over the proposed projects displayed.

Rev. Kallman Leaves Soon; Open Air Services Sunday

Rev. J. A. Kallman of New York City who during the past several weeks has been acting as pastor of the Swedish Baptist church in this city will preach his last service Sunday before returning to New York.

In addition to appearing at the morning service, he will speak in the afternoon at an open-air service at the Sam Sigfried farm at Stonington.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

CHURCH MEET OPENS SUNDAY

Local Delegation Goes to Superior Conference at Iron River.

Rev. C. E. Olsson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, will head a delegation of Luther League members from the local church which will leave Monday for Iron River to attend the annual meeting of the Superior conference, to be held at Sunset lake.

Members of the Gladstone group who will attend besides Rev. Olsson, are the Misses Edith Lindberg, Jennie Jackson, Elva Gabrielson, Ellen Anderson and Dorothy Martin. Delegations are expected from the various Lutheran League units in the upper peninsula and northwestern Wisconsin.

The conference formally opens Sunday, June 26, and will continue until July 4. The Gladstone delegates expect to return next Friday.

A splendid group of speakers will address participants in the conference. These include Dr. Miller, dean of the Lutheran Bible Institute of St. Paul, Rev. Wyman, Sunday school secretary for the Augustana Synod, and Dr. J. W. Johnson, secretary of Foreign Missions, Rockford, Ill.

It is expected that a number of Gladstone people will motor to Iron River to attend day sessions of the conference.

Ladies' Aid Makes Donation to Church

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Westminster Presbyterian church it was voted unanimously to give the sum of $250 toward the improvements being made by the church.

FORMER LOCAL MAN MARRIED JUNE 18TH

News were received yesterday of the marriage of Miss Mildred Jean Kampine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Pembine of Chicago Heights, Ill., to Dennis B. McCarthy, Jr., of Marinette, Wis. The wedding took place June 18 at Chicago Heights.

The senior McCarthy was former resident of Gladstone before going to Fond du Lac. The late groom is a graduate of Gladstone high school and is at present engaged in business at Marinette.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy will be at home after July first at 1835 Dunlap avenue, Marinette.

LAST RITES ARE HELD FOR KIPLING MAN

The body of Elmer Johnson, popular Kipling young man who died Sunday at the St. Francis hospital in Escanaba, was laid to rest Thursday afternoon at Fernwood cemetery, Rev. C. E. Olsson of the Swedish Lutheran church of Gladstone officiating at the funeral rites.

Services were held at the home of the deceased at 2 o'clock and at the Lutheran church at 3:30. Pall bearers were Burdette Switzer, Orrie Switzer, Michael and George Vargo, Louis Brock and Henry Gustafson.

The many floral offerings and the host of friends attending the funeral were evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

THEATRES

AT THE LYRIC.

What were the sorrows of Satan? The popular conception of Satan has usually been that of a sinister individual who derived great pleasure from the work of conducting a subterranean rotisserie. Worries, cares and sadness have always been foreign to his supposed make-up.

Marie Corelli gave him a new description in "Sorrow of Satan." She made Satan a tall, powerful, graceful, polished man of the world. Unlimited wealth was at his disposal. Prince Lucio de Rimanes; a prince with a mysterious realm somewhere, who knew everybody worth knowing, but about whom little was known. He moved in the highest social circles. Paris, London, Berlin, Moscow were all familiar to him.

She chose to emphasize the ancient idea that Satan was a fallen angel. Throughout, when he pursues his occupation of putting temptation before weak characters he is saddened by success. Those are his sorrows!

The central characters are the Prince, Mavis Claire, a novelist, supposed to be Marie Corelli's idealization of herself; Geoffrey Tempest, a young writer, and Lady Sybil.

Adolphe Menjou as Satan, Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Lya de Putti are featured in D. W. Griffith's second Paramount production, "Sorrow of Satan," shows at the Lyric the last times

AT THE COMMUNITY.

The feature for this afternoon's matinee is titled "Frenzied Flowers." The second chapter of "Trooper 77" will be shown.

Some of the famous hand-carved war bonnets of the Thinglet and Aleut tribes of Indians are displayed in "Rocking Moon," a thrilling Metropolitan picture which comes to the Community theater tonight.

The bonnets are more than 50 years old and all are hand-carved and decorated with ivory and seal and walrus fur.

The story of "Rocking Moon" tells of the romance and adventures of a girl who owns a blue fox farm in Alaska. Her battles with fox thieves and fur traders, and the complications arising when two men vov love for her, provide many of the thrills in the picture.

Barrett Willoughby, a native Alaskan, wrote the story which George Melford directed in Sitka, Juneau and other Alaskan cities.

In the cast are Lillian Tashman, John Bowers, Rockliffe Fellows, Laska Winter, Luke Congrave, Eugene Pallette and Evelyn Bellie.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE GOING TO TROUT LAKE

About 12 young people from Manistique are planning to attend the Michigan Baptist assembly, which opens today at Birch Lodge, Trout Lake.

C. W. Moore, proprietor of the lodge, has made special preparations for this gathering, and will house all delegates at his hotel on the shore of Trout lake. Boats and other equipment of the place will be placed at the disposal of the visitors.

Rev. Joseph Gross of the First Baptist church, Manistique, is dean of the assembly, and registrations have been made with him by young people from various parts of the peninsula planning to be present at this meeting, which continues until July 2.

Among the speakers of note who will act as leaders in the courses of study offered at this unique recreational gathering will be Missionary L. C. Kitchen, late of Blimpore, Bengal, who is in America on a furlough from work in the Far East.

On Sunday, June 25, there will be a morning service of worship and inspiration. Dr. John E. Smith, executive secretary of our state convention will be the speaker. There will be a 4 o'clock vesper service, and an evening B. Y. P. U. service in charge of associational officers. The program on each of the following days will have some unique special features, to be announced later; and some elements of surprise will be reserved for the occasion.

Lansing Pastor Will Preach at Baptist Church

Rev. Morgan L. Williams of Lansing, director of religious education of the Michigan Baptist state convention, will be the preacher at the First Baptist church next Sunday at the morning service at 10 o'clock. He is an attractive and forceful speaker who always has a fine message, especially for young people. The public is cordially invited to hear him.

There will be no evening service, as the pastor and his family are leaving for Trout Lake today to attend the Young people's assembly of which he is the dean.

Dime Store Doors Open This Morning

Today is the opening day for Manistique's ten-cent store, new addition to the Cedar street business places.

Under the direction of John I. Bellaire, manager, a force of assistants was busily engaged yesterday in putting the stock in place, ready for the opening of doors this morning.

Consolidation Urged For German States

Berlin—Consolidation of the German republic into a union of four great states, including Austria, instead of the existing 18 more or less autonomous federated states which are continually squabbling among themselves, is advocated by Dr. William Kuelz, former minister of interior, as the only salvation of the republic.

Prince Bismarck's mighty stroke in effecting a union of the federated states under one emperor, Dr. Kuelz believes, must be carried to completion by further consolidation to end strife and save governmental expenses.

Dr. Kuelz proposes that the whole of north Germany be combined as one state, Prussia. Saxony, Thuringia, Hesse and several smaller states ought to be combined into a state called Central Germany; while Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Baden and others would become South Germany. Austria, which millions of people on both sides of the border already regard as part of the German reich, would become the fourth state.

Bobbed Hair Taboo by Holstein Women

Berlin—The north German state of Holstein holds a unique record in that there is not a bobbed head to be found among its native women.

If the traveler succeeds in discerning a short-haired representative of the gentler sex, he will find that she hails from elsewhere than this former grand duchy.

CITY BRIEFS

Mrs. John Dupont returned Friday morning from Green Bay where she has been visiting relatives and friends for the past two weeks.

William Wilson of Detroit arrived in Manistique Thursday and is visiting with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson.

Leaving this morning for Detroit, Mrs. J. H. Van Dyck will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Beaudoin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ryan and son, Verle, left this morning for Traverse City.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Oimstead of Marquette motored to Manistique Thursday and were guests at the home of Rev. C. S. Risley.

Leaving Thursday for Detroit, Mrs. Gertrude Craver and daughter, Jeannette, will visit relatives and friends.

Edna Van Dyck returned from Detroit Thursday after a two months visit with her sister, Mrs. Jack Beaudoin.

Milton Halsey, World war veteran, is in Waukegan, where he is receiving medical treatment.

Miss Myrtle Petersen is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Harold Sarfran, at Boyne City, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Davis and son, Allen of Detroit motored to Manistique Thursday and are guests at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, Cedar street.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Emlaw of Powers motored to Manistique Friday.

J. Joseph Herbert left yesterday for Iron River to attend the upper peninsula convention and reunion of the American Legion.

Attorney Herbert is a past commander of the Michigan department.

Leaving early this morning, Dr. H. L. Mead of Manistique will be among those in attendance at the U. P. dentists' gathering, which convenes today at Iron River. Dr. Mead plans to return this evening.

William Wilson is visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, 146 North Cedar street.

J. A. Vienza of Munising and Julius Thorsen of Newberry were in Manistique yesterday on business for the conservation department.

LUMBER REVIEW

In its weekly market review, the American Lumberman, Chicago, says:

Volume of business in lumber during the last week has been rather disappointing. Orders for softwood reported by 284 mills were seven percent below their production, which is curtailed, but shipments fully equalled the production, so that mill stocks showed no accumulation.

The manufacturers as a general rule are a little more eager for business than they can ship at once, and some of them have been willing to grant price concessions to secure it. A good many, however, are taking a longer view of the market, and in the expectation that there will be an early improvement in business, are holding their quotations firmly.

Building activity appears well maintained if consideration is given to special conditions. The May permits for 486 cities, as compared with those for May of last year, decreased 445,220,000, or eleven percent. The decline in Florida permits alone amounted to almost twenty-five percent of this. The decline due to flood conditions in the Mississippi Valley is hard to estimate, but directly or indirectly the floods greatly restricted building operations at river towns in a number of states. It is notable that permit total for Mississippi and Missouri was forty per cent lower. Of course this territory will be in the market for large quantities for rehabilitation work, which is just getting under way. Country trade in the middle West corn and wheat States is backward, because bad spring weather so delayed planting that intensive field work is now necessary, while a very large area in the Mississippi Valley has been taken out of the market temporarily by the inundations.

The hardwood market probably eased off a little during the last week. Buyers have been holding back in the expectation that an increase in mill output would bring more favorable prices, and they have been able to buy for a little less. Many hardwood producers hold the opinion, however, that this easing up is only temporary, and assert that when the relation of supply to demand is better understood, quotations will go above their highest recent levels.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

GENIUS—BORN OR MADE? "Youths who achieve eminence are characterized not only by high intellectual traits, but also by persistence of motive and effort, confidence in their abilities, and great strength or force of character."

This conclusion of the psychologists of Stanford University, who studied the characters of 300 eminent men and women of history to determine the factors that make for success, is most significant. The superior young men pursued high ideals, developed significant interests, and created new expressions of scientific and philosophical thought before they had reached the age of manhood.

Among the examples cited to prove this contention is the fact that Milton had written an ode pronounced by an eminent critic as perhaps the most beautiful in the English language, before he was twenty-five years old. Hume had defined his views before he was twenty-five. Peel was chief secretary for Ireland before he was 24. Raphael had painted the Granduca Madonna at 21. Beethoven was appointed chamber musician to the king at 18. Newton had developed his views of light and colors before he was 20. Bacon wrote a philosophical work before he was 20. Montaigne had sketched his "Spirit of Laws" at a similar age, and the Englishman, Jenner, even before 20, had thought out the processes that led to his discovery of vaccination for smallpox, a boon that freed mankind from one of the greatest scourges that impeded the progress of civilization.

The genius appears usually in a superior family, in which he has superior possibilities for education and other inspirational factors in his environment. In childhood he is likely to display superior intelligence, superior talents and superior traits of character.

While many an eminent man may not meet these qualifications, the appearance in childhood of a combination of the highest degree of general ability, special talent, seriousness of purpose, and indomitable persistence may be greeted as indicating a capacity for adult achievement of high rank. The wise parent will do everything possible to give such a child even more opportunity.

The gifted youth of today is the leader of the future. Heredity sets some limits, but within these limits adequate training may raise a boy to the greatest possible stature.

In concluding, the psychologists quote the poet Horace, who, some thousands of years ago, arrived independently at similar conclusions: "Tis only from the sturdy and the good that sturdy young are born; in steers, in steeds, appear the merits of their sires; nor do fierce eagles beget timid doves. Yet training increases inborn worth, and righteous ways make strong the heart; whenever righteousness has failed, faults mar even what nature has made noble."

Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, Ohio, June 23.—Iron Trade Review today says: Secondary buying of track material, accelerated inquiry for third quarter pig iron and brisker contracting in coke brighten an iron and steel market that is otherwise lapsing rapidly into summer quietude. The industry is drifting into the third quarter with interest of consumers lagging beyond expectations.

Production has been further curtailed. Steel corporation subsidiaries reducing their steelmaking rate to 75 per cent while independent operations have shrunk to about 70. Two steelworks stacks have been blown out at Chicago, making four dropped in three weeks. At no time in the first half year have producers retrenched so sharply as in the past fortnight.

A spotty price situation is the sequel to the scanty buying of consumers. Pig iron prices are off 25 to 50 cents a ton in eastern Pennsylvania, No. 2 foundry in the Mahoning valley is down 75 cents to a range of $17.75 to $18 and quotations in almost all other districts are easy. Some third quarter contracts for heavy finished steel are being written at 1.50c. Pittsburgh on attractive lots while 1.85c applies to small business. Contracting for cold finished steel for third quarter delivery is being done at 2.30c. Pittsburgh. A price of 2.45c, Pittsburgh on wire nails is an increasing factor in the market, this representing another recession of $1 per ton. Slight shading that has developed in black and blue annealed sheets is ascribed by the mills wholly to exceptional circumstances.

Chicago mills are entertaining inquiry for 120,000 tons of rails, including 50,000 tons for the Pennsylvania, and the accompanying 35,000 tons of track fastenings. Two more Buffalo blast furnace interests have closed on their coke requirements for the last half and another for the third quarter, each order calling for approximately 15,000 tons monthly. It is understood that 3.25 was the minimum quoted. The spot market for beehive furnace coke is up 10 cents, to $3, and supplies are scarce.

Specifications to strip mills against second quarter contracts carrying prices in effect prior to the recent advance have been heavy. A fair portion of this business has come from the automobile industry. On the other hand, shrinking specifications for sheets from the automotive industry have prompted lighter mill schedules in the Mahoning valley.

Thirty-six thousand tons of pipe will be required for a gas line from Louisiana to Texas, with additional tonnage in prospect for extensions. Demand for iron and steel scrap along the Atlantic seaboard for export to Europe has reached fair proportions in the past week and aroused dealers' hopes that the tide of receding prices may be turned.

The Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products declined 5 cents in the past week, due to weakness in pig iron prices. This index stands at $36.55, compared with an average of $36.76 for May.

Johann Sutter, on whose land in California gold was discovered, died in poverty.

Sunday AT Arrowhead Inn Indian Lake BIG CHICKEN DINNER With all the trimmings Phone R-2610

Cherry had left the house at three o'clock that afternoon, a particularly mild and springlike day in April, bound for the shopping district, according to her casual announcement to Faith. Cherry had taken no interest as yet in shopping for a layette for the baby that was expected in August, and Faith had had a throb of hope that Cherry would come home with her arms full of fascinating parcels.

It was still incredible to her that childish, tiny Cherry was to be a mother, and Cherry's own attitude toward the approaching event was such that Faith hardly dared mention it to her. She longed to talk with Cherry about it, frankly, wonderingly; to know how Cherry felt in her mind and heart about the child that was to be hers—hers so strangely and completely, since she had elected to thrust its father out of her life.

Faith wondered, too, how Cherry felt now about Chris Wiley, her husband of a day, her co-defendant in a murder trial. She wondered, knowing how her own heart leaped at the mere mention of Bob's name, how Cherry could have loved Chris so utterly and then lost her love so completely. Was there still a trace of the old fascination, a memory of the old thrill, to tug at her nerves and to bring the tears to her eyes which Faith so often surprised in them?

And so Faith waited for Cherry's return with shy hopefulness that Saturday afternoon. She was eager to get to sewing on the baby things. Her fingers ached to be setting tiny stitches in mist-sheer tulle and in cream-white flannel soft enough and warm enough for tender new flesh. Secretly, as if it were for a child of her own—oh, heart-stopping thought!—she was already knitting a dainty, fleecy little white nightgown, on which she would embroider tiny blue forget-me-nots. It was odd how she felt that the baby was to be hers, rather than Cherry's.

"Where is Cherry?" Bob asked as they sat down to dinner that evening.

"She said she was going shopping," Faith worried. "I suppose she has let the time slip away without realizing it is so late."

An appetizing plate of dinner was set in the warming oven for the absent girl, and Mrs. Lundy whirled through her work in the kitchen, then came scowling into the living room for a last word with Faith before leaving for the evening.

"I've made her a custard. It's in the ice box. She'll need it to keep up her strength. Traipsing all over town, wearing herself out!" she added in a grumbling voice that ill concealed her anxiety.

Faith and Bob sat hand in hand throughout the evening, making a pretense of casual, carefree talk, but their ears were strained for the ringing of the telephone or the sound of the key in the lock of the big, oak-beamed front door.

"Oh, Lord, I can't stand this!" Bob jumped to his feet at last and went charging up and down the living room in great, angry strides. "Where the devil do you suppose she is?"

They waited, tight with suspense, miserable, looking at each other with fearful eyes that glanced quickly away. And then, at last, at half past twelve it was, there was the sound of a car stopping at the curb, followed by the high, sweet music of Cherry's laughter.

TOMORROW—Defiant Cherry tells of her last "fling."

Probably few Manistique people who use water know that their supply at present comes from the old reservoir on Lakeside instead of the new tank at the pumping station tower.

The change was made this week by the water works department, without any delay to service, to enable workmen to apply two coats of graphite paint to the new tank on Deer street. First it was necessary to clean the inside of the old tank, a job which was done under the supervision of Victor Martin, water commissioner. The bottom and sides of the old reservoir were scraped and scrubbed, after which the tank was filled to the top and flushed out. The rust scales accumulated in the Lakeside tank, unused for some time, were removed as carefully and thoroughly as possible, so that it is expected little or no discoloration of the water will result.

The new tank at the pumping station will be given two coats of paint, both inside and out. The work is in charge of F. C. Dunham of Escanaba, a specialist in this type of renovating.

FIRM TONE IN STOCK MARKET

Table with columns: Date, Industrials, Railroads. Rows: Friday, Saturday, Sunday, etc.

New York, June 24—(AP)—The stock market displayed a firm undertone today in the face of week-end realizing sales and the uncovering of new weak spots by bear traders.

The day's business was rather colorless in character. Bear traders made no concerted effort to follow up the advantage gained yesterday, although they did succeed in uncovering several new weak spots.

Motors, which were freely sold yesterday on gossip concerning the introduction of the new Ford models, rallied briskly on reports that the official announcement will be delayed for a few weeks.

COULDN'T HELP IT. A city man visiting a remote village noticed they had neither library nor movie. "Whatever do you do here when it rains?" he asked of one of the inhabitants.

"Oh," replied the man, "we let it rain." —Tit-Bits.

WHAT, NO ROUGE? Muskegon, Mich.—The choir at the Swedish mission here was unable to sing during a recent revival campaign. Because they were dressed in modern fashion, with short skirts, rouge and bobbed hair they were forbidden by the evangelist to take part in his services.

SHAMEFUL TASK. Springfield, Ill.—Late one night, A. M. Utt, one-armed man, was stopped by a bandit. Told to "stick 'em up," he replied that he had only one to stick up, "Ain't you ashamed to rob a one-armed man?" asked Utt. Said the bandit: "I never was so mortified in my life, but business is business."

Bud Taylor Retains Bantamweight Championship

CARRIES FIGHT TO CANZONERI

20,000 Witness Ferocious Ten Round Battle in Chicago Ring.

Chicago, June 24—(P)—Buddy Taylor, the Terre Haute terror, retained his claim to the world's bantamweight championship tonight by winning the judges' decision over Tony Canzoneri of New York, in a furious 10-round battle.

The fight, staged on Wrigley field, was witnessed by a crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 with receipts exceeding $65,000.

The stalling pace set by Taylor from the very start evidently influenced the two judges and Referee Choyinski to cast the ballots in his favor.

Taylor carried the fight to his youthful challenger, punishing him badly with a heavy body attack and forcing him to break ground.

Canzoneri attempted to box at long range but showed a surprising willingness to slug with the recognized title-holder in spirited exchanges in the center of the ring.

In these exchanges, Tony was usually on the receiving end with Taylor piling into him with jolting rights and hard lefts.

Canzoneri repeatedly danced away and circled around Taylor, to escape Bud's driving body attack.

Canzoneri's most effective weapon was a long left that he continually popped into Taylor's face. By the tenth round, he had Taylor's left eye closed, but Canzoneri was bleeding from the mouth almost from the first round.

The decision was received with shouts of approval.

Taylor opened up with a furious attack, driving Canzoneri to the ropes at the start of the first round and proceeded to carry the fight to the challenger. He nailed Tony with two or three hard rights, drawing blood from Tony's mouth and Taylor was bleeding from the mouth too, before the round was over.

Taylor centered his attack on the body in the second round, while Canzoneri attempted to box Bud at long range. Their heads were bobbing from an exchange of rights that kept the crowd in an uproar.

Canzoneri traded punches for punch in the third, forcing Taylor to break ground for the first time. Tony inflicted the greater punishment, planting half a dozen rights on Taylor's chin and dropping left hooks to the body.

Canzoneri danced around Taylor in the fourth, spearing him with lefts to the face and frequently landed two or three times without a return.

He nailed Bud with three hard rights but near the close of the round Taylor ripped into him, trading rights in a wild exchange in the middle of the ring. Canzoneri had the round by a wide margin.

Effective Left Hook. Canzoneri employed his left hook effectively in the fifth, shooting it to the body and jaw, with Taylor puzzled and retreating.

Taylor took the play away from Tony in the sixth, chasing Canzoneri around the ring under a heavy body attack. He ripped hard lefts to the body, interspersing them with short rights that kept Tony going away. For 10 seconds, just before the close of the round, they slugged in the center of the ring, with Taylor having the shade.

The seventh was a thriller with both scoring effectively with left hooks to the body and right crosses to the chin and with little to choose between them. Taylor, however, did most of the leading with Tony countering.

Taylor's body attack was so swift the eighth that Tony was forced to hang on. Buddy pumped lefts and rights to the body with Tony backing away and circling around trying to spear Bud with long lefts.

Taylor won the ninth by his aggressiveness. He pelted Tony furiously to the body but received several left hooks going in to close action. Bud's left eye was starting to close when the tenth opened.

They stood in the center of the ring in the closing round, trading punches for punch, with Tony trying to nail Bud on the chin and Taylor driving his blows to the body. Tony forced Taylor to the ropes under a heavy attack, but Taylor, with his left eye closed, gamely fought back with honors fairly even.

Ernie Peters, an Indian flyweight of Chicago, and Tommy Milton of New York, weighing 115 pounds, boxed a furious six round draw in the second preliminary. Milton was nearly upset by a wild right in the fifth round but made such a courageous finish that the judges were unable to determine a winner.

Tommy Grogan, a junior lightweight of Omaha, won the verdict over Don Davis of Chicago, in another six rounder. Davis substituted for Joe Medill who

Malloy Easily Wins District Golf Meet

Detroit, June 24—(P)—Johnny Malloy, youthful Ann Arbor golfer, will wear the Detroit district championship crown another year.

He won the right to retain the title by defeating Larry Kinsner of the Detroit Golf club, five and four, to go this afternoon in the last round of 36 holes played during the day.

After trailing two up on the turn in the morning round of 18 holes, Malloy hit his stride and was two up at the finish of the route. Malloy had difficulty with his irons going out, missing shots which usually are his most dependable.

Kinsner apparently tired during the afternoon competition, and Malloy was six up at the turn.

Senators Vanquish Boston Sox, 5 to 3

Boston, June 24—(P)—Hollis Thurston drove in three runs for Washington and helped the Senators materially in defeating Boston 5 to 3 in the first game of the series.

In addition to pitching sterling ball, Thurston made two singles and a double, each hit bringing in a run. The last three men in the Washington batting order were responsible for four of the five runs. Bill Moore started his first game behind the bat for Boston and turned in a good performance.

The Score: R. H. E.
Washington 001 012 010—5 11 0
Boston— 011 000 010—3 8 2
Thurston and Ruel; Harris, Whingfield and Moore.

THE REFEREE

How old is Lester Bell?—G. K. J.

Bell was born Dec. 14, 1901. Who were the three leading tennis players in the west last year?—R. J. N.

The Western Lawn Tennis Association rated George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, Lucien E. Williams of Chicago, and John Hennessy of Indianapolis, as the three leading players in the order named.

was unable to pass the medical examination because of an infected tooth. Grogan carried the fight to the Chicagoan, forcing him to break ground, but he was unable to upset him.

Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino bantam sensation, in his first American engagement, knocked out the veteran Abe Attell Goldstein of New York, former bantamweight champion, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round semi-windup.

ROOT STEPS ON PIRATES, 4 TO 2

Timely Hits Give Cubs 3-Run Lead; Cuyler Hits Homer.

Pittsburgh, June 24—(P)—Charley Root stopped the Pirates with seven hits today while Chicago beat Pittsburgh, 4 to 2, in the opener of a two-game series. Timely hitting enabled the Cubs to pile up a three-run lead before Cuyler put a home run into the right field stands in the sixth. Doubles by Beck and Adams together with Webb's single gave Chicago two runs in the third. In the fourth Stephenson opened with a double, took on a single by Grimm and scored what proved to be the deciding run on Hartnett's sacrifice fly. Barnhart of the Corsairs who has hit in 13 successive games, was stopped.

Each Member of Tennis "Big Four" Turn in Victories.

Wimbledon, Eng., June 24—(P)—American players had a field day here on the fifth day of the Wimbledon tennis championships. They won "four and a half" victories today with no defeats, not including the success of an American-Japanese doubles team.

Each member of America's "Big Four"—Helen Wills, Elizabeth Ryan, William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter—won a victory in the singles. Each of them reached the quarter-finals with the exception of Helen Wills, who is a round behind her teammates in the play.

Watson M. Washburn paired with Takekichi Harada, Japan, won over the Hon. C. Campbell and St. James Mahony, Ireland, in the second round of the men's "half victory" for the Americans came when L. A. Godfree and D. M. Grieg retired in the third set of their match against Tilden and Hunter in the second round of the men's doubles. The Americans were leading, 6-0, 10-8, and the third set was tied at 2-all when the English pair withdrew on account of an injury to Grieg's knee.

Hunter was the only one of the "Big Four" to have a real battle in the singles today. The others all won in straight sets.

Hunter's entry into the quarter-finals was disputed today by J. C. Gregory, who ranks among England's first five players. Their meeting was a battle royal with Hunter finally emerging the victor by scores of 4-6, 7-5, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Tilden had little difficulty in disposing of Christian Bousaus, young French player to reach the quarter finals.

Helen Wills eliminated Miss Eileen Bennet of England 7-5, 6-3, after the English girl had made a very creditable showing.

ALBANIANS IN MOURNING FOR HERO OF OLD

Kruja, Albania (P)—The Albanians still wear mourning for Georges Skanderbeg, a national hero who died 500 years ago. Had he succeeded in driving the Turks out of Albania he perhaps would have been the country's first king.

There is widespread belief that Ahmed Bey Zogu, president of the republic, aspires to become king. His picture is coupled with that of Skanderbeg and the government party seems to appreciate the Kruja sentiment.

In Kruja, the most ancient of the Albanian towns and the last to yield to the Turks, tribal customs and tribal loyalty prevail over everything else, but the cult of Georges Skanderbeg, which still wears black for him, shows that there is a sentiment that goes beyond the tribe. The mourning takes the form of black wool running over the shoulder, or balls of black sewed upon the breast of the jacket.

Synchronize Radio Lecture With Film

Berlin (P)—Scientific circles believe that a valuable adjunct to scientific research and for medical and scientific instruction has been found in a newly invented film running synchronously with a lecture many miles away, which was demonstrated for the first time before an assembly of prominent physicians and scientists at the "Kaiserliche Friedrich Haus."

The significant innovation, as explained by Dr. Schroeter of Berlin, is the result of a new contrivance which the inventor, Count George Arco, demonstrated as an adaptation to the Carouss Radio System for broadcasting pictures, whereby it becomes possible to turn out the identical film simultaneously in several localities far apart from each other. A lecture and the corresponding demonstrations, in Berlin, for example, may be heard and seen at the same time at Hamburg and Munich.

RETAINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Bud Taylor, bantam champ, led his challenger, Tony Canzoneri, a merry battle last night. Taylor retained his title by decision.

TIGERS HAMMER HOSE 2ND TIME

Bengals Go on Rampage, Force Faber Out in Sixth Frame.

Chicago, June 24—(P)—Detroit made it two straight over Chicago today by hammering out a 9 to 4 victory.

The victors collected 16 hits for a total of 26 bases, driving Red Faber off the hill in the sixth inning.

Rip Collins managed to keep Chicago's hits well scattered and was given perfect support, two snappy double plays breaking up promising Sox rallies.

Beginning with two runs in the second, after going scoreless in the first, the Tigers made at least one run in each of the subsequent innings, with the exception of the fourth and ninth.

Two were down through Fothergill grounding out and Hellmann being thrown out by Faber when the Tigers made their two counters in the second. Blue singled and Tavener got another on a perfect hit-and-run play. Tavener then stole second and Bassler was purposely walked. Blue and Tavener crossed the plate when Collins drove out a double to right field on the first ball pitched to him.

After adding one each in the third and fifth, the Bengals pushed across three runs in the sixth. Tavener began the parade when he doubled to center, and Bassler's double behind him allowed him to go home. Bassler was held to second when Collins bunted toward third, and Warner subsequently forced Collins. While Faber held the ball the Detroit third baseman stole second and both runners went in on Gehring's single. The latter went to second on the throw but after Manush had singled and beat his way to second the inning ended when Fothergill grounded out and Hellmann flied out.

The Detroit team made one run each in the seventh and eighth to complete the day's count.

AUTO ACCIDENT INJURIES FATAL

Ogontz Farmer Dies Day After Crash in Local Hospital.

Alfred Webert, 38, Ogontz farmer, who sustained internal injuries when pinned underneath a truck on the road to Ensign Thursday, died a few minutes after being admitted to a local hospital at 5:30 o'clock last night.

Following the accident Thursday, Mr. Webert was taken to his home, slightly shaken, but apparently not seriously hurt. Yesterday morning his condition did not seem much worse but Dr. James Mitchell of Gladstone was called. On his advice Mr. Webert was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Webert and Angus Constantino were returning to their homes at Ogontz from Ensign in a truck Thursday when the car struck a hole and overturned in the ditch. Mr. Constantino was thrown out, unhurt, and summoning help was able to lift the car off of Mr. Webert who was pinned underneath. The pair continued on to their homes, apparently none the worse for the accident.

The deceased is survived by his wife and six children: Grover, Mildred, David, Luella, Gerald, Floyd; his mother, Mrs. Andrew Webert; two brothers, Oscar and Herman Webert; three sisters, Mrs. Dave Constantino of Ogontz, Mrs. Ed. Rudenberg of Bay View, and Mrs. Henry Tamms of Milwaukee.

The body has been taken to the Allo Funeral Home to be prepared for burial and will be taken to Ogontz this morning. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. C. A. Lund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, of this city, officiating. Burial will be in the Ogontz cemetery.

French Girls Trade Intuition for Logic

Paris—(AP)—Reason is replacing intuition in the make-up of the modern French girl, say educators, and yet she retains all her womanly charm.

The study of Latin is given credit for this, and its intensive study is said to be making girls the keepers of classic traditions. The boys are turning to science and the "useful" arts.

Mental gymnastics are involved in an understanding of Latin, teachers explain, but when the language is mastered the girls seem to get great pleasure from the Roman literature. They like Virgil best of all. They admire Lucretius and Livy and get much fun out of Tacitus.

The clarity of language and thought and exactness of form of the Latin classics, in the opinion of Pierre Desirat, who gathered the ideas of principals, train the girls to reason instead of "feeling."

G. B. S. Would Let Dead Spenser Rest

London—(AP)—Bernard Shaw is not in favor of opening Edmund Spenser's tomb in Westminster Abbey to see if William Shakespeare was among the writers who threw original manuscripts into the grave at the time of the Elizabethan poet's burial in 1599.

"If a man puts a poem into a grave, it is either of no value or he keeps a copy of it," was Shaw's comment upon a plan now being agitated.

Shakespearean students are equally divided as to the probability of finding a new Shakespeare manuscript among those deposited by the principal authors, poets and playwrights of the day as a tribute to the departed author of "Faery Queen."

Sir Johnson Forbes-Robertson, Sybil Thorndike and John Buchan favor the plan, while Shaw, Sir John Martin-Harvey and Sir Sidney Low believe it to be of no consequence.

Queerest Museum in London Dock District

London—One of the quaintest and least-known museums in London is in the Dock district of Stepney, housed in a building once used as a mortuary.

Dockers who find curios when unloading ships bring them to this building for classification. Giant spiders, cockroaches, scorpions, lizards and snakes from all parts of the world are captured and brought along in jars, but other curios are also collected by the keen dockers and placed in the "museum."

The Stepney borough council has taken over the upkeep, and the children of this poor district are keenly interested in the exhibits.

Student Suicides Blamed On Exams

Berlin—A wave of student suicides during the spring high school and university examinations has precipitated a controversy between parents and educators in regard to abolition of written semester tests.

More than twenty students, principally boys, are known to have killed themselves in Berlin alone in the last month.

The ministry of education blames parents for a majority of the deaths because it believes children are too severely disciplined at home for failure to make the grade. Parents and some educators contend, however, that examinations are the root of the evil.

Parliament Balks at Dyed Kippers

London—(AP)—British M. P.'s are very fond of kippers for breakfast, but they don't care for them dyed. Kippers which have been dipped and colored and touched up generally to give them an appetizing appearance and which originally might have been herrings have appeared on the market, and some of the fish even got into the parliamentary restaurant.

T. Johnston, Socialist, of Dundee, heard about the camouflaged fish and immediately smelt a mouse, so he raised a question in the House of Commons with the view of putting a stop to the practice on the ground that the working people were getting an inferior grade of fish which had been "peppered" up to resemble the kind the rich folk eat.

Mr. Johnston contends these so-called kippers were thought to be inferior herrings unfit for curing and by the dyeing process were made saleable in districts where the working people live.

Captain G. Northcote Crisford, an expert on fish curing, says the dye is harmless and will come out if the fish is soaked in water. Mr. Johnston, however, wants the government to pass a pure fish bill so that neither herrings nor kippers nor any other fish out of the water might be tampered with by the dyers and cleaners.

OBITUARY

THEODORE JASPER.
Theodore Jasper, 57, died at his home in Carney at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon from an attack of pneumonia which had been afflicting him for only a few days. As his condition had not been deemed serious, sudden death came as a severe shock.

Mr. Jasper was a prominent Carney resident, having held the office of township supervisor for several terms. At the time of his death he was township treasurer and member of the school board.

He is survived by his wife and adopted daughter, Miss Frances Pardi, a brother, Henry, and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Veeder and Mrs. William Fazer, of Powers.

The body has been taken to the Allo Funeral Home to be prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Bruno's church, Nadeau, Rev. Fr. F. Sperline, celebrant at the requiem high mass. Burial will be in the Nadeau cemetery.
