FOREIGNERS MISINFORMED ABOUT COURT

HOLD U. S. AT FAULT IN RADICALS' TRIAL.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright 1927, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Aug. 30.—Judging by the reports from American embassies and legations the amount of misinformation which prevails about the constitutional system of the United States has not been diminished through the publicity given the Sacco-Vanzetti trial.

The world still believes that the federal government could have intervened and saved the lives of the two Italians. And by the world, one means popular opinion, which only in a few instances did the editorial writers of prominent journals abroad seek to affect.

The fact that a state like Massachusetts has absolutely sovereign control of the police power so far as crimes committed within her borders are concerned does not seem to have seeped in. The various legal moves made in an effort to draw in the supreme court of the United States went unexplained to foreign opinion. As a consequence, reports reaching here show that all Americans are condemned for the slow and tortuous process by which Massachusetts arrived at her final verdict, and the American government is somehow held at fault for not having intervened and asked Massachusetts to give the offenders a new trial.

No Interference. The amount of intervention which the federal government has done with respect to state crimes can be numbered on the fingers of the hand. President Wilson did not interfere with two state governors, but he had no power to change the result. It was simply the prestige of the presidential office which was being brought to bear. President Coolidge would have realized how futile would be his own appeal as it was his own state and he actually had sat in the same governor's chair.

Nevertheless, American diplomats are obliged now days to do a lot of explaining, just as they have had to explain away the commitment made at Paris by President Wilson and the repudiation by the senate of that act. Knowledge of the American constitutional systems appear woefully lacking in foreign countries and the Sacco-Vanzetti case has served only to reveal the ill-effects of such a situation.

The American government has been advised to be sure that most of the demonstrations have nothing to do with the merits of the case and that the communists need very little excuse to provoke outbreaks on the part of workers. Every incident that illustrates alleged injustice to the "proletariat" is used as a basis for propaganda and agitation. The foreign governments who are able to control their press did not at first realize that the denunciations which they permitted of all things American would only fan the flames of communism and anarchy.

No Counter Steps. Were the Sacco-Vanzetti case to happen over again it is doubtful whether the conservative European governments would have afforded such free play to the American sentiment.

The federal government naturally regrets that anything should arise to prejudice world opinion against the United States even for brief intervals but it is powerless to offset such impressions as are produced. American diplomats as a rule do not give interviews to the press of foreign countries on points involving the good opinion of the United States. During the war much attention was given to this kind of thing and rarely was any editorial statement or speech made attacking the United States that some answer was not immediately dispatched. There is not machinery available for such purpose now and the department of state has no appropriation for cable tolls to its embassies and legations anywhere. Even the American explanation of its position on the war debt question has never been printed in full abroad. The Sacco-Vanzetti case is bringing in many reports from other lands of how bitter is the feeling against America but so far as can be ascertained no official steps are being taken to correct such impressions.

WORLD FLYERS IN BELGRADE: RUN INTO FOG

PLANNED TO REACH TURKEY; COVER 500 MILES.

Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Five hundred miles were added to the record of the "Pride of Detroit" today, when the American aviators, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, landed at the airrome near Belgrade at 12:03 o'clock. They went into the air at 8:25 in the morning at Munich, intending, if conditions were favorable, to fly to Constantinople, 1,000 miles away. But they encountered rain and fog, which delayed progress and they decided to come down at Belgrade.

A warm welcome awaited them, and the airmen remarked smilingly that they did not regret the stop over, even at the expense of earth inductor lamps, and also followed the Danube river, when visible. One of the needs of the airmen is good maps, and these will be provided by Captain Sondermayer, Jugo Slav ace, who made a Belgrade-to-Bombay flight this year. He also gave the Americans valuable information concerning air currents and atmospheric conditions.

Altogether, Brock and Schlee feel that they have made good time. From America to Belgrade in four days is a world's record, and they hope to continue their record-making voyage. Their speed at times today was over 100 miles an hour, but on occasions they slowed down because of the fog, to make certain of their bearings. When information that severe thunderstorms prevailed over Bulgaria, they decided to stay for the night at Belgrade and start for Constantinople early tomorrow morning.

A motorboat conveyed the flyers from the airrome to the city, where they paid a visit to the American legation and were entertained at dinner by the Jugo Slav Aero club.

IMPRESSED GERMANS. Munich, Germany, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The round-the-world flyers, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, during their brief halt here with the "Pride of Detroit," did their share in impressing the easy-going citizens of the Bavarian capital with the progress and achievements of American aviators.

This was the second time within a trimester that a brace of airmen from the United States had descended upon Munich, and this time the people marveled at the precision with which the Americans adhered to their running schedule. The muscheneers were told that the "Pride of Detroit" would land Monday afternoon, and it did. Brock and Schlee got away at 8:30 this morning, as they had announced.

Schlee "Regular Fellow." The Munich citizens took Schlee specially to their hearts on account of his Bavarian parentage, and voted him a "regular fellow" for the quickness with which he disposed of a large stein of the brew for which Munich is famous, just after the plane landed.

When the crowds saw the initials which had been scribbled on the machine at Croydon, England, they fought for a chance to add their own to the list. One poetic effusion in German read: "A happy journey to the end. 'Is wish you by a German friend.' Those few who were able to say that their names were being carried around the world by the American plane were 'cocks of the walks' in Munich today.

Will Not Canvass Protest Petitions Against Gas Tax Detroit, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The petitions filed by the Detroit Automobile club and the city of Detroit, protesting against the three-cent gasoline tax law, passed by the 1927 legislature, will not be canvassed or certified until the next general election, John Haggerty, secretary of state, declares in a letter written to Thomas Farrell, Wayne county clerk. The secretary of state said his decision follows that of Atty. Gen. W. W. Potter who ruled recently that the law was not subject to a referendum. Howard D. Brown, head of the legal department of the automobile club, declared today he would apply at once to the state supreme court for a writ of mandamus in an attempt to force the secretary of state to accept the petitions.

CAL MAY CALL EARLY SESSION

Said to be in Favor of Convening Congress in November.

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 30.—(AP)—President Coolidge is holding an open mind on the convening of congress or at least the senate into special session a month ahead of the regular meeting time in December.

Pending further conferences with congressional leaders on his return to Washington, he is declared by recent visitors to be ready to listen to argument for an early session.

Senator Jones of Washington, Republican whip of the senate, declared today after a conference with Mr. Coolidge that he thought the chief executive was sympathetic to a special session of the senate.

Urge Senate Meeting. An early meeting of the senate was urged by Senator Jones in order to give that body an opportunity to discuss the contents against the seats of Senator Smith of Illinois and Vane of Pennsylvania, both Republicans.

While he felt the president was interested in such a program, it is known that Mr. Coolidge wants to confer with Sen. Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, before reaching a decision. Senator Curtis, who was unable to accept an invitation to come here this week, has announced opposition to a special session of congress.

Choose Ambassadors. This question along with the problems of selecting ambassadors to Mexico and Cuba and a new governor-general of the Philippine Islands, will likely await the return to Washington the last of next week of Mr. Coolidge. The president will be at his desk again on Monday, Sept. 12, probably leaving here on the night of Friday, September 9.

One stop will be made at Brookings, S. D., where he will dedicate the library of State Agricultural college. Senator Jones, who is chairman of the senate commerce committee, did express disapproval today at the determination of Mr. Coolidge to put the government merchant fleet all in private hands. "We must continue to cooperate the merchant marine," he said, "in order to defend our foreign commerce and serve us in the event of war."

BELIEVE LONE FLYER MAY BE STORM VICTIM

VENEZUELAN GOVERNMENT JOINS IN SEARCH.

Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Some confirmation that an airplane was sighted over the delta of the Orinoco river Saturday afternoon has been given to the government by the telegraph operator at Ciudad Bolivar. He reports that the inhabitants of Macareto, a village in the delta, declare they saw an airplane flying to the southeast about 3 o'clock that day. A heavy storm broke over the delta region about one hour before the sighting of the plane. Since then, no word of the machine has reached the telegraph station. The government, however, is making every effort to follow up this trail in the hope of finding the airplane and aiding the aviator.

A report reached Caracas on Monday that an airplane was sighted over the delta of the Orinoco river at 3 p. m., Saturday, flying in a southerly direction, leading to the belief that it might be the machine in which Paul Redfern set out from Brunswick, Ga., last Thursday with Brazil as his destination.

Brunswick, Ga., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Three days and nights have passed without definite news since the time for Paul R. Redfern's scheduled arrival at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, brought no plane down from the skies but hope for the aviator's safety continued tonight to be fed on the belief of his wife that "Paul somehow landed safely somewhere."

With hope for an extended search along the 500 mile route to Brazil apparently abandoned, Paul J. Varner, chairman of the flight committee, announced that "now we can only wait and hope."

The navy department has informed Varner that it has no vessels close enough to the plotted route to make a systematic search in time and the coast guard, limited in its operations, is giving such assistance as it can along the coast of Florida among the Bahamas. Meanwhile, most expectations were turned toward Venezuela and the Guianas, where the state department has requested investigation of a report that a mailman saw an airplane heading south over the delta of the Orinoco river last Saturday.

Relatives of Escanaba Woman Killed, Hurt in Wisconsin Wreck

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Joseph G. Ryan, Chicago, driver of the automobile which yesterday afternoon crashed head-on into another Chicago car on Highway 41, eight miles north of this city, causing the death of three and the injury of several others, has been placed under arrest at Theda Clark hospital, Neenah, on a charge of manslaughter. Ryan sustained a broken arm and bruises in the accident. His wife and son, Arthur, who were riding with him, escaped with minor hurts. The toll of dead taken on the other car remained at three to date, although two more occupants of the machine are in a critical condition at Mercy hospital here.

CHICAGO MOVIE HOUSES CLOSE

Move Is Protest Against Demands of Labor Unions.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Half a million movie fans in Chicago went without their favorite amusement today while theater owners kept their houses closed as a protest against demands of labor unions.

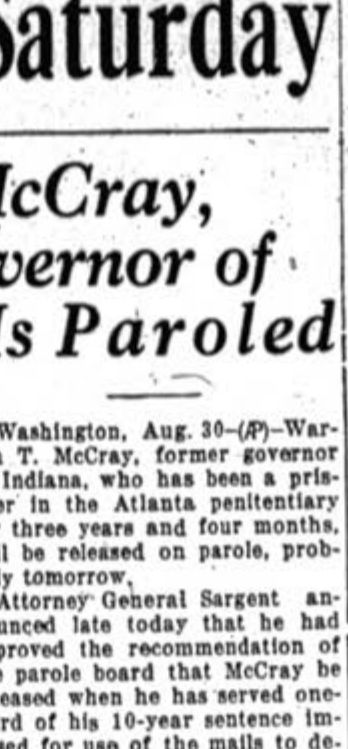

Vaudville also was missing from the city's list of entertainments as all theaters with the variety bill were affected by the closing.

Starting as an objection by the Orpheum circuit management to the refusal of the Motion Picture Operators union to reduce the staff of operators in a recently acquired theater, the controversy quickly involved 350 theaters showing pictures. The closing order was sent out yesterday.

London to London Non-Stop Flight Plans Are Changed

London, Ont., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The proposed London-to-London non-stop flight became a "one-stop" project today when Capt. Terrence Wood, Lieut. Medcalf announced they would stop to refuel at Harbor Grace, N. F. Four hours before the take-off the flyers discovered their plane, the St. John Carling, would not carry 500 gallons of gasoline with safety. With loose cans of fuel in the fuselage, they pointed out, there was too great a danger of fire at the take-off. Last Monday they left London airport with only 350 gallons. They said they will fly on that plan "as soon as the weather is favorable."

CAPT. LESLIE HAMILTON

BURY ARMOUR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 30.—(AP)—While the massive organ in the fashionable Fourth Presbyterian church pealed forth the plaintive strains of "There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding," the great and the humble rubbed shoulders here today at the funeral of J. Ogden Armour.

The socially great, the politically prominent and men and women from "back of the yards" whom the packer had helped during his life time mingled with employees of the packing concern for whom one-fourth of the Michigan avenue church was reserved.

Ten years ago the packer, who died recently in London, expressed the wish that music be played at his funeral and had always admired the "Long, Long Trail," and today his wish was not forgotten. In accordance with another desire, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" was sung.

In the absence of the Rev. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the church, the services, simple in character, were conducted by the Rev. Cornelius Steffens, assistant pastor, and by Dr. Johnston Meyers of Emmanuel Baptist church, a friend of the Armour family.

The industries which Mr. Armour had developed throughout the world halted operations during services.

Burial was in Graceland cemetery beside his mother who died three weeks ago.

Anti-Flogging Bill Passed by Alabama Senate

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 30.—(AP)—The Tompkins anti-flogging measure, making it a felony to whip or assault any person in Alabama while wearing a mask, was passed by the senate today without debate. The vote was 19 to 0. The bill now goes to Governor Graves for signature.

Touches Live Wire on Dare; Is Unhurt

Clare, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Accepting a dare from a boy companion to touch a live wire carrying a voltage of 2,500, Arnold, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knapp, was knocked unconscious today but miraculously escaped fatal injury. Other than badly burned hands the boy apparently escaped injury.

PRINCESS IS PASSENGER IN BRITISH PLANE

PRINCESS LOWENSTEIN WERTHEIM

BAD WEATHER FAILS TO DELAY TRIP.

Upavon, England, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel F. F. Minchin started at 7:31 o'clock this morning on a trans-Atlantic flight to Ottawa, Canada.

Princess Lowenstein Wertheim, who is financing the flight, was aboard the plane, the St. Raphael.

Upavon, England, Aug. 31.—(AP)—(Wednesday)—Captain Leslie Hamilton was making preparations shortly after six a. m., this morning to start on his trans-Atlantic flight to America. He planned to be accompanied by Col. F. F. Minchin.

When Hamilton and Minchin came on the flying field in readiness to start their flight to Ottawa, Canada, they found a wind blowing from the east at about 25 miles an hour. They took their plane, the St. Raphael, from one field to another in order to gain the best position for the take-off.

Princess Goes Along. Princess Lowenstein Wertheim, who is financing the flight, drove on the field while the aviators were preparing to leave, and she became so interested in the preparations and prospects that she suddenly said she had altered her mind and would go with them.

Princess Lowenstein was accompanied by the Most Rev. Francis Mostyn, Roman Catholic archbishop of Cardiff, who blessed the plane and bade the airmen Godspeed. He said he wished he might go with them.

It was while the princess was adding her felicitations, that she suddenly announced she would make the journey.

Weather Bad. She was undeterred by the fact that British military flight officers under Wing Commander Vernon Brown were suspicious of the weather and warned Hamilton that they doubted he would be able to take-off in such a wind with a heavy load of 4 1/2 tons of fuel.

The officers had also received a report that the flyers would have to face a headwind about ten miles an hour over the Atlantic. Hamilton and Minchin, however, continued their preparations and supplies for the trip were put aboard the plane. These consisted of emergency army rations for two days, strong coffee in a vacuum bottle and "sleep averting" tablets.

SEEK FLOGGERS OF AGED MAN

Eight Masked Men Used Knotted Ropes as Weapon.

Akron, O., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Portage county officials pushed an investigation into the flogging of Alfred Harris, 55, Kent, Ohio, by eight masked men armed with knotted ropes, early today and indicated tonight that they would be ready to question suspects tomorrow.

Harris was said by physicians at the hospital tonight to be suffering from the severe shock and lacerations on his back. He staged a dramatic scene in the hospital today when Police Chief George Trabern, of Kent, entered the room where Harris was talking to Pat Hutcherson, private detective and former sheriff, whom Harris hired to apprehend his assailants.

Harris bitterly denounced Trabern and his administration of the Kent police department. Harris circulated a petition containing 700 names to Gov. A. V. Donahoe in an investigation of the Clayton Apple murder at Kent two years ago, which he claimed Trabern has bungled.

FAIL TO ELECT NEW CHAIRMAN

Farrell to Direct U. S. Steel Corporation Temporarily.

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Failure of the directors of the U. S. Steel corporation at the regular meeting today to elect a chairman of the board and of the finance committee to succeed the late Elbert H. Gary, leaves active direction of the corporation for the present, at least, in the hands of President James A. Farrell.

Under the by-laws of the corporation, the directors are empowered to elect the finance committee from their own group and to designate a chairman. In the absence of such chairman, the by-laws state, the president presides at meetings of the directors and of stockholders and "subject to the board of directors and the finance committee, he shall have general charge of the business of the corporation relating to manufacturing, mining and transportation and general operation."

Lindy Offered Million If He'll Get Married

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh can have $1,000,000 by going through a real marriage ceremony in front of a movie camera and $5,000,000 more by accepting the business offers tendered him since he made his non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, says Commander Fitzhugh Green, the lone eagle's chief secretarial aide, in Popular Science monthly.

Commander Green says that among the 3,500,000 letters and 100,000 telegrams and cables Col. Lindbergh received were at least three proposals that the young flyer join in an attempt to reach the moon by a rocket shot from the earth.

Lindbergh also has received thousands of proposals of marriage. The aviator's mail included also 14,000 packages. Lindbergh poems, sent in his mail, numbered 5,000 and upwards of $10,000 was received in return postage.

Col. Lindbergh answered many of the letters in longhand, but thousands found their way to the waste basket.

Dry Chief Plans to Double Patrol on Great Lakes Border

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Announcement of plans for doubling the border patrol along the international boundary between Buffalo and Lake Huron was made at the treasury today by Assistant Secretary Lowman, in charge of dry law enforcement, who also said that he proposed to inquire immediately into enforcement conditions in the Pacific northwest.

The secretary said the plans contemplated increasing the patrol force in the Buffalo-Huron area, which also includes Detroit, from 200 to 400 men as rapidly as possible and that Summer C. Sleeper, formerly in charge of the main patrol, would be assigned to head the enlarged unit.

The prohibition enforcement unit proposed, it was added, to transfer agents from other sections into this area and that Sleeper would cooperate in the patrolling of the border with Thomas E. Stone, selected last week to take over the office of administrator for the Michigan district.

Lowman in referring to the Pacific situation said Roy C. Lyle had been summoned to Washington to explain "why so much liquor flows into the northwest." He expects to confer tomorrow with Lyle who is administrator for Washington, Oregon and Alaska.

Discussing the Huron-Buffalo situation, the secretary expressed belief that conditions had improved materially in the last three weeks, adding that the prohibition bureau proposed to put forth every effort to stop smuggling from Canada into the United States.

Meanwhile the royal Canadian customs commission, conferring with American officials here, devoted its concluding session today to the question of preventing smuggling across the international boundary. It was also said at the meeting that unless some arrangement for further co-operation could be made that additional American coast guard vessels would be placed on the Great Lakes.

African Lion to be Passenger in Non-stop Flight

Los Angeles, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A full-grown African lion will occupy the passenger's seat in the first attempted non-stop air flight from Los Angeles to New York City.

The plane which will be a duplicate of the craft which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh piloted across the Atlantic, is scheduled to start in about three weeks. It is being built by the B. F. Mahoney Aircraft corporation of San Diego, builders of the "Spirit of St. Louis," and will be ready for tests within a few days.

Announcement of the proposed flight was made by Louis B. Mayer, motion picture producer of Culver City, near here. Mayer said the attempt to transport the beast to New York City by air was projected as a means of determining the feasibility of moving animals quickly from one point to another for show purposes.

Spider Web Hobby Is New Craze in Collecting Line

London—The collection of spider webs is the newest craze of English collectors who have plenty of time to devote to their hobbies.

The cobwebs are gathered carefully during the warm weather, sprayed with shellac and pressed between two pieces of glass. Collectors call them spidergraphs, and say they are as different from one another as fingerprints.

SPANISH WAR VETS GATHER

20,000 March in Opening Parade at Detroit.

Detroit, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Under bright banners and past solid lines of cheering spectators, veterans of the Spanish-American war, some 20,000 strong, marched today to the tunes of "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," and "Dolly Gray." Behind a line of mounted policemen marched the chief of staff and his assistants, and then the 48 departments, each preceded by massed national colors, and a band of five and drum corps.

Leading the Michigan delegation marched Gov. Fred W. Green and Mayor John W. Smith, each veterans of the war with Spain.

The men wore their campaign hats, blue woolen shirts and khaki trousers. The veterans were addressed this morning by Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff who declared the United States must have reasonable military preparedness and a peace-time establishment capable of rapid expansion in case of war.

Among the resolutions adopted today were included ones demanding the maintenance of military forces equal to those of any one country in the world, one asking the erection of a veterans' memorial-building in Washington, D. C., and one advocating the use of stern measures against violence by radicals.

The delegates accepted unconditionally the invitation of the president of Cuba, Gen. Gerardo Machado, presented by Cayetano De Quesada to hold their 1928 encampment in Cuba.

Upshaw Asks W.C.T. U. Support of Plan

Minneapolis, Aug. 30.—(AP)—William D. Upshaw, former congressman from Georgia, tonight wired the National W. C. T. U. to ask President Coolidge to appoint no consular or diplomatic representative who drinks intoxicating liquors at home or abroad.

Describing himself as "the man who wore your white badges eight years on the floor of congress," Mr. Upshaw also urged that foreign nations be requested to "consider our great moral battle and send no representatives to this prohibition country who will claim diplomatic immunity for transporting and serving liquors outlawed to American citizens."

The telegram, forwarded through the Georgia delegation and referred to a standing committee for action, congratulated the convention for its part "in not permitting any backward step by our white ribbon comrades" and "in demanding a militant plank for prohibition enforcement in party platform."

"I feel," Mr. Upshaw's wire continued, "that it would have a wholesome and far-reaching effect if the convention were to ask our president to appoint no consular or diplomatic representative who drinks intoxicating liquors at home or abroad."

ELECT OFFICERS.

Minneapolis, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Retirement after 19 years' service, of his 72-year-old "corresponding secretary," prevented the National Women's Christian Temperance Union today from re-selecting all its officers for a year of unprecedented "anti-wet" activities.

Announcing, in the words of President Coolidge, that "I do not choose to run for re-election," Mrs. Frances P. Parks of Evanston, Ill., formally retired from office, one of the most important in the organization.

Her successor, elected unanimously, is Mrs. Anna Marden Deyo of San Francisco, president of the California W. C. T. U., and a pioneer in the national movement.

Flyer Found Guilty by Court Martial

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Thomas B. Williamson, naval aviator, was found guilty today by a court-martial of having violated flying regulations when he swooped over the northwest section of Washington on the quiet Sunday afternoon of July 24.

Six charges were placed against the young flyer and he was found not guilty on four of them. The sentence will not be announced until Secretary Wilbur reviews the case.

During the trial which developed a conflict of testimony, one witness declared Williamson flew past the window of his apartment.

Whereabouts of Army Flyers in Mexico Unknown

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Aviation circles tonight were without information concerning the whereabouts of Capt. C. H. Reynolds and Staff Sergeant Gus Newland, army flyers, who made a forced landing in Mexico Saturday.

Although advices from Mexico City said orders for their release had been sent to Mexican officials who detained them for investigation, no word from the men had reached army headquarters tonight.

The aviators were reported yesterday to have landed near Ojinaga, Chihuahua, but a telegram from the military commandant here to Consul General A. P. Carillo here said he had been unable to locate the flyers or their plane.

No explanation could be given here for failure to hear from the flyers, and some expressed opinion that they may have been lost in the Carmen mountains.

Profits Race to Deplete American Oil Supply, Fear

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—A race for profits threatens to deplete America's oil resources, the mineral law section of the American Bar association was told today in a tripartite message.

Hubert Work, secretary of the interior and chairman of the federal oil conservation board, and Henry L. Doherty, father of the pool plan for conserving petroleum and gas resources, warned that oil waste is a national menace and declared that the mineral law section, through the American Bar association, should advise the federal government to ask the next congress to provide conservation legislation.

James A. Yeasay of Tulsa, Okla., general counsel for the Carter Oil company, although agreeing that the oil industry is in a demoralized condition, due to over-production, starting last November, said it was his opinion that federal legislation to control the industry would be unconstitutional.

ASK TROOPS AT MEXICAN MINES

Second Request for Protection of Americans Sent.

Washington, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Because of confusion as to the exact situation at the Amparo mine, near Guadalajara, Mexico, the state department said today that the American embassy at Mexico City had been sent renewed instructions to urge that adequate protection be afforded Americans at that place by Mexican authorities.

The report from the mines relayed by American Vice-Consul Satterthwaite at Guadalajara, said no troops had arrived at that time, although Mexico City press advices quoted the war office as saying that a military detachment had restored order at the mining property.

The consul's message added that no "visible protection" was being given according to a dispatch from the mines which also said that "although tension is less, at present, the situation is serious as work is stopped and we see nothing to prevent more violence."

Officials here still are inclined to regard the incident as almost entirely a labor disturbance and not an anti-foreign radical outbreak as at first feared. They have called on Satterthwaite for fuller reports, however, in addition to sending new instructions to the embassy in Mexico City.

The department also received a report from John W. Ives, vice consul at Mazatlan, that the state military chief was personally directing movements of 300 troops sent against bandits in the vicinity of Acahoneta. Miss Florence Anderson of Los Angeles was recently killed by bandits who attacked a train in this region, and Ives said he had been informed that the band responsible for her death had been dispersed by the troops.

George Bogmar of Cornell suffered internal injuries which may prove serious and his two companions escaped with a few cuts and bruises when their car was forced off the road near No. 1 dam at 12:15 this morning. Bogmar is at St. Francis hospital. The extent of his injuries were not known.

FAVORS HALT OF CROSS SEA STUNT FLIGHTS

Assistant Secretary of Navy for Move

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Curtailling of trans-oceanic flights by stunt flyers when such adventures are of negligible value to science and are inspired by the pursuit of the dollar, is favored by Theodore Douglas Robinson, assistant secretary of the navy.

"It is my opinion there should be some sort of government supervision through the proper channel, which is the department of commerce, to put a halt to these dashes of stunt flyers, who are mainly actuated by the financial rewards that are offered by individuals," he said here tonight.

"Every move in aviation which has a scientific value is to be encouraged to the utmost degree, but I firmly believe that the stunt flights—often made in planes which are not adequate for the demands placed on them—should be brought to a stop.

"There is no American, and every man in the navy is proud of him, who has done more for the advance of science in the aviation field than Commander Byrd.

"The North Pole and trans-Atlantic flights of Commander Byrd have been of tremendous value to science and his coming flight to the South Pole will add a great deal of important information."

Mr. Robinson as well as Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., were here for a visit to the New York state fair.

Arrest 26 as Spies in British Service

Leningrad, Russia, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The political police have arrested an alleged group of 26 spies, charged with espionage in behalf of the British intelligence service in Finland. Most of the accused, including several women, hold various positions in the army, navy and civil institutions and are alleged to be in charge of a British naval captain with headquarters in Finland.

CHURCHES NAME LABOR SUNDAY

Two Groups Hold Many Deals in Common Says Federal Council

The church and labor hold many common ideals," declares the Labor Sunday Message for 1927, issued by the Federal Council of the Churches through its commission on social service. The statement recommends that ministers throughout the country give special attention on next Sunday to the "moral issues to which both labor and religion are committed."

More specifically the message suggests that the churches express their interest in the abolition of child labor, the protection of workers against unemployment, the payment of a wage "sufficient both to sustain and enhance life" and "the right of workers to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

Commenting on the interest in Labor Sunday throughout the churches, Rev. Worth M. Tippy, D. D., Social Service Secretary for the Federal Council of the Churches, said:

"Recent years have witnessed a great increase in the observance of the Sunday before Labor Day as Labor Sunday in almost all denominations. Ministers are no longer content to deal only with matters of individual piety. They are profoundly concerned with everything that affects human welfare and are therefore studying and discussing the spiritual issues involved in the social and industrial life of our day. The recognition of Labor Sunday is one of the most striking evidences of the enlarged horizon of religious life and thought today."

Many Common Ideals.

The full message is as follows: "The Church of Labor hold many common ideals. The Gospel of Jesus the Carpenter, which is the foundation of the Christian church, rests upon the love of God, who is the Father, and the service of all men, who are brothers. The social ideals of labor rest upon the essentially religious principles of service and sacrifice, of creative work, of brotherly friendliness, and of social justice. In the support of these common ideals, labor and the Church stand together."

"On this Sunday, devoted to the cause of labor, it is appropriate for every church to reaffirm its support and allegiance to the common moral issues to which both labor and religion are committed. The church holds that human personality is sacred, and opposes all forms of exploitation tests against the employment of children of tender years in denial and human degradation. It proclaims their right to growth and education, and the employment of men and women for over-long periods of labor. It stands for the payment of wages sufficient both to sustain and to enhance life, the right of workers to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and protection against unemployment and occupational accidents and diseases.

Not Vague Ideals.

"It is fitting, too, that every church should continually affirm its belief in the application of the principles of Jesus in every industrial relation. The spirit of goodwill expressed in advancing forms of industrial cooperation can reconcile the differences between management and men, and eliminate the human and material wastes of conflict. That these statements are not vague ideals, but are actual programs coming to pass, is shown by the proposals of the American Federation of Labor for cooperation with management to increase efficiency and production, and by the growing number of instances where labor and management are actually working together for these same purposes.

Concern for Workers.

"Unceasing concern for the lot of the workers, their wives and children, is the inevitable expression by the churches of that love which led Christ to turn to the multitudes, and to become the passionate advocate of their welfare. The labor movement is the self-conscious organized expression of the workers' struggle for a more abundant life. It is impossible for the Church of Christ to devote itself passionately to the welfare of the masses of the people and not to have sympathetic relations with organized labor. This does not mean that the church should become partisan, but rather that it must fulfill the commands of Christ in expressing His intense human interest. In fact the church has a right to expect the support of its members, in principle at least, in its efforts to lift the status of the underprivileged. In striving for the better life for them the church finds itself touching elbows with labor, and they together may perform a great service in the promotion of a more just and brotherly order in America."

HERMANVILLE CITIZEN DIES

Mike Van Court Passed Away While Being Taken to Hospital.

Hermansville, Aug. 30—(Special)—Mike Van Court, age 42, was taken by death while on the way to the hospital at Menominee. It was deemed best as a final attempt to remove the sick man from his residence in the hopes that it would be of some help to have the patient receive medical attention at the hospital, but the condition of Mr. Van Court was so serious that he succumbed before the automobile reached Daggett.

Mr. Van Court has been a resident of Hermansville for several years, being in the employ of the Wisconsin Land and Lumber company.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Catholic church of Hermansville this morning. Father Hollinger officiated. Burial will be in the family lot at Stephenson. The deceased leaves to mourn a wife and seven small children.

OBITUARY

JOHN W. FOSTER.

Word was received in Escanaba yesterday morning of the death at Gogebic Lake of John W. Foster, president of the Foster Construction Company of Milwaukee and well known in this city. Mr. Foster had been in ill-health for several months, suffering from an affection of the heart, and had gone to his summer home at Gogebic lake, near Watermeet, in the hope that his condition might be improved. His condition gradually grew more critical and death came early yesterday morning.

The body will be taken to Big Rapids, Mich., Mr. Foster's boyhood home, where the funeral service will be conducted on Thursday.

The company headed by Mr. Foster constructed the Delft theater building in this city and many other buildings in the peninsula. He was a close personal friend of Postmaster John A. Semer who will go to Big Rapids to attend the funeral.

MRS. PAULINA BITTNER.

Mrs. Paulina Bittner, West Ford River, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Cholger, at noon yesterday. She was 74 years of age. Mrs. Bittner had been ailing for the past few years but had been confined to her bed only ten days. Death was due to heart failure.

The aged woman had been a resident of this district for the past 35 years. Her husband died about three and a half years ago. Some time ago a son was killed when run over by a tractor at his Ford River farm.

Deceased is survived by six daughters, and one son: Mrs. Charles Chenenan, West Ford exception was the Rapid River turkey case tried in Gladstone last week. The thieves were caught and convicted—something unusual in poultry stealing cases of the past—largely because of the reward.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE. Despite the efforts of good-intentioned statesmen like the Frenchman, Briand, and the German, Stresemann, to bring about a better feeling between their respective countries via Locarno pacts and Thoiry conversations, there are people on both sides who explode whenever they have a chance.

A German, to make capital for his party or for pacifism, prints a yarn to the effect that monarchical officers in the German Reichswehr are clandestinely building up a big German army.

Immediately a French paper prints two columns about it and virtually says: "See—condemned out of their own mouths! They are a menace to France and to the peace of the world. All the more reason why we should not evacuate a single French soldier from the Rhine-land."

A Berlin paper promptly declares that the whole thing is made up out of whole cloth. And a Paris paper answers: "Of course! Who expects a German to admit anything?"

So the vicious circle is repeated and bad blood stirred up. Verily, it looks as if Europe never will learn.

FLAPPING GRANDMA. A grandmother, standing blithely on the threshold of 60 years, has taken first prize for having the best pair of ankles among the summer visitors to Penobscot Bay, Me. A sparkling new vista of grandmotherly existence thus invites.

Who remembers way back when grandmother, with a pair of spectacles and a ball of yarn was wont to sit upon her dignity in a corner of the domestic hearth? Who remembers when we used to look upon grandma as a sort of sacred thing to her face—though there were things about the creaky old girl that were just a little bit funny, too?

All these new wrinkles—grandma trading her ball of yarn for a dance program, and the like—disclose very hopeful signs, very. There is no longer any need for whatever hypocritical reverence was once accorded her gray hairs. There is no longer any need of pitying her because she must sit on the sidelines and now has no part in the race. No need of any further pampering of grandmas, if you please, she's getting around quite nicely by herself, thank you!

Grandmother used to work hard. There was a day when grandma was glad to retire to the chimney corner; she was just "too blamed played out" to carry the burdens further.

Modern household devices have helped in this evolution of the venerable lady. She isn't tired at all any more. She craves action. Let's go, grandmas! Slip on your glad rags and let's have a party. Grandma is dead, long live grandmas!

The Piffle Hook

WHENEVER we see a dog chasing an automobile we wonder what he'd do with it if he caught it. Michigan's new trapping law has nothing to do with snaring a husband. Mr. Clancy indicates that he believes murderers ought to be locked up for a few weeks at least. Just about the time a feller starts reading the new motor vehicle law he has to lay it aside for the new football rules. Practical jokers are neither jokers nor practical. Most automobile speeders speed so that they will have time to park somewhere and wonder where they were going and why. Or what have you?

WHEN A MANISTIQUE visitor ambled over to Old Danny Danielson's Daily Press office in Manitowish and insisted on having his trousers pressed, Dan turned the job over to a tailor. It seems to us that to one who has conducted a colyum—and Dan has—the request was modest, moderate and easily granted. But perhaps Dan has drifted away from the benignant influences of his paragrafing days.

Hap Church, publicity director for the State Fair at Detroit, has sent us a story purporting to show that Helen of Troy was the apex of history's first love triangle. Church knows well enough that Helen of Troy and her squabbling suitors were dead and gone long before triangles were invented by Elinor Glyn.

Bavarians Oppose Tax on Bachelors

Berlin—Germany does not take kindly to Mussolini's idea of taxing bachelors. If the temper of the Bavarian legislature may be accepted as an indication of the feelings of all Germans. When the Bavarian budget was brought into the diet recently, some member, in the hope of increasing the state's income, proposed a tax on bachelors similar to that decreed by Mussolini. The minister of finance, opposing the suggestion, declared that the cost of determining the size of the tax in each case and the additional personnel required for insuring its collection were out of all proportion to the results expected. The diet sided with the minister and voted down the bill.

The PENNY PRINCESS

Jerry Macklyn knew then how a condemned man feels when he is reprieved. He literally collapsed into his chair. "Say that over again and say it slowly. Remember I'm a weak man, Rosemary," he begged, grinning wanly at her.

"I said," Rosemary laughed, "that I saw Vee-Vee Cameron this morning. I was in the Bronx subway. We were just pulling into the Seventy-Second street station when the train stalled in the tunnel for a minute. You know how it is—to let another train pass," she explained breathlessly.

"Yes, yes, go on," Jerry urged her impatiently. His brain was whirling. So Vee-Vee had escaped somehow. God bless her! She was in the city, would be here any minute—but that, on the face of it, was ridiculous, unless the kidnappers had returned her to New York. All of his hideous worry for nothing! But oh, the relief!

"I saw a girl pushing her way to the doors to get out at Seventy-Second. She had on glasses, Mr. Macklyn, like she used to wear, but I saw right away it was Vee-Vee. I had just been reading in the paper where this Vivian Crandall had been kidnapped and that she'd been using Vee's name and I didn't know what in the world to make of it. You know, for a minute I had the wild idea that it was our Vee-Vee that had been kidnapped, and I tell you I was scared."

"That was a wild idea!" Jerry agreed weakly, mopping his forehead with his handkerchief. "What did you say to her?"

"I didn't have time to say much," Rosemary rushed on. "It was a funny thing, Mr. Macklyn, but I had one of those booklets in my hand—you know, 'The Modern Story of an Ugly Duckling,' and I'd been comparing Vee-Vee's picture with that Vivian Crandall's in the paper."

"I thought I told you not to let anyone at all see those booklets, that they were not to go out of this office!"

"I know, Mr. Macklyn," Rosemary flushed. "But I'd just taken it home for mother to see. Surely, mother doesn't matter. And anyway what harm can it do for Vee-Vee to have one of them? The story's about her—"

"You gave Vee-Vee one of those booklets!" Jerry demanded.

"Yes, I did," Rosemary burst into tears. "I don't see what you're so sore about! I was just saying to her, 'Vee-Vee,' I said, 'I've just been reading in the papers about Vivian Crandall and I was scared to death it was you. I never was so glad to see anyone in my life,' I said."

"And what did she say?" Jerry urged her weakly, collapsing again and closing his eyes.

"She didn't answer me. She was just looking at the booklet I held in my hand, open to her picture." She said, 'Let me see that, please,' as if she was startled. I remembered what you'd said about Vee-Vee not wanting the booklets to be sent out, because she didn't want everyone to be calling her 'The Peach Bloom Girl' and I said, 'Oh, we're not sending them out. Vee-Vee, until you come back from your vacation. I just took this one home to show mother. Here, you can have it,' I said, and she took it, and just then the train jerked into the Seventy-Second street station and Vee-Vee pushed her way on out of the car."

"I didn't have a chance to say anything else and neither did she but she turned at the door and smiled at me and waved. Gee, I was glad to see her. But what I can't figure out is why that Vivian Crandall used Vee's name, unless they were friends or something—and why, Jerry, is that why Vee-Vee had herself all fixed up to look just like Vivian Crandall? We girls have all been talking about it—how much our Vee-Vee looks like Vivian Crandall. Do you suppose she did it on purpose, so that he'll could use her name and pretend to be Vee-Vee, just to fool people and get a rest from the reporters and everything?"

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Jerry Macklyn held himself rigidly to his desk all that day, not even leaving his office for lunch least a telephone call which he was more than half expecting and ardently praying for would come and find him gone. It came at 4 o'clock when he had almost given up hope. Rosemary was out of the office, as she had been most of the day, resting with other employes about the sensational kidnapping of Vivian Crandall, who had so strangely used Vee Cameron's name, so Jerry answered the phone himself.

"Mr. Macklyn!" a low, pleasant voice—the voice of a cultured woman—came clearly over the wire.

"Yes, this is Mr. Macklyn," Jerry answered, his heart knocking against his ribs.

"I am calling in reference to an advertising booklet, published by your firm. I was given your name by your switchboard operator as the advertising manager of the Peach Bloom company," the low voice went on firmly, without a quiver.

"Good girl! A thoroughbred!" Jerry applauded her silently. Then aloud he said, "That is correct. I am the advertising manager of the Peach Bloom company. Is there anything I can do for you, Miss—?"

"I am going to make a rather extraordinary request of you, Mr. Macklyn," the cool, musical voice went on. "If you are the author of the booklet, 'The Modern Story of an Ugly Duckling,' I feel sure you will understand without any further explanation on my part. My request is that you meet me as quickly as possible in my apartment, No. 4-B, East 181st street, the Bronx. Apartment No. 4-B, Ring the bell three short rings. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly," Jerry assured her, and a click of the receiver at the other end of the line was his answer.

"Whew!" Jerry sank back in his chair. "Jerry, my boy, you've got the biggest job of your life ahead of you! And I don't even know whether or not you're fit to kiss a princess' hand or to smack her on both cheeks, like that Frog general did when he planned a medal on me in France."

Jerry knew his Bronx. He had been born on Rivington street, on the lower East Side, had fought his way up-town with fists and brain, bringing his mother with him and establishing her in a decent home in the Bronx, which had seemed like Paradise to him after the pushcart district in which he had passed the first 13 years of his very active life. His mother was dead now, and Jerry's $25,000 a year as one of New York's cleverest advertising men, could not buy her any of the luxuries he had promised her when he was a boastful, fighting, ambition-ridden little red-headed "Irisher."

The address which Vivian Crandall—he had not the slightest doubt that it was she—had given him was two blocks from the flat building in which his mother had died six years ago. It was like coming-home to get out of the familiar subway station, to pass the same old cigar store and "sea food" restaurant. But why was Vivian Crandall living in that neighborhood like this? Decent enough, but people by the big families of low-salaried men, the sidewalkers pushed by stout, placid-looking women of all ages, ambling from shop to shop, buying provisions for dinner.

In spite of the heat and the noise and the overcrowdedness of it, Jerry loved it all, for it had been home to him for ten years—the happiest ten years of his life. He sniffed the mingled odors of over-ripe fruit, wilting vegetables, fresh-baked bread, and fish—tons of fish, offered for Friday's dinner—and found them sweet in his nostrils.

The building which he sought was a four-story "walk-up" flat house; that is to say there was no elevator and no doorman. Certainly a most amazing place for a Crandall to live, if she did live here! He scanned the four-row battery of bells and mail boxes, found the "4-B" easily enough, and read the card in the little slot below the number, as he pressed the bell three times.

"Craig" was the one word on the card, neatly lettered in ink. So she was Miss Craig here; odd how those assuming an alias instinctively retain their initials. Crandall—Craig!

Now, if she'd just called herself Callahan, I know I'd like that woman, princess or no princess," Jerry grinned to himself, as the automatic "clicker" in the inside door of the vestibule told him that his ring was being answered.

POLITICAL BRAVERY

William Hale Thompson, brazenly and blatantly defies the United States government to force the people of Chicago to install water meters, so that the quantity of water, withdrawn from Lake Michigan and poured into the drainage canal may be limited to 8,500 cubic feet a second.

Mayor Thompson's defiance is based on the assertion that the politicians at Washington will not dare to jeopardize Chicago's Republican vote by making a move which would be unpopular in the Illinois metropol.

Mr. Thompson knows—if he knows anything—that Chicago's consumption of water is excessive, that the tremendous waste of water there is due to "flat-rating," and that 8,500 cubic feet a second is adequate to furnish Chicago with all the water the city really needs and more.

He also admits that the war department's ruling is just when he resorts to political threats to back up his own stand.

The people of other cities on Lake Michigan do not want to see Chicago swept by a pestilence caused by a shortage of water. Here in Escanaba, we'd sacrifice a good many more miles of shore line if the sacrifice were necessary to save lives down there. We are willing to give Chicago all the water the city actually needs. But we feel that Chicago—William Hale Thompson included—ought not to demand more than is necessary. If the excess is needed up this way.

Metering is a fair, just and equitable way of determining the quantity of water needed, eliminating waste and insuring the consumer as well as the distributing agency a square deal.

It will be interesting to note whether the administration at Washington has the courage to call Thompson's noisy bluff.

WELL WORTH IT. The Delta county board has been asked to authorize payment of a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of two men found guilty of stealing poultry.

The case is the first instance of poultry raiding since the reward became effective some months ago. Figured on that basis, the reward is one of the best-paying investments Delta county has made in a long time.

Previous to the offering of the reward, Delta county farmers lived continually in a state of panic. Their farms and gardens were raided continuously. Thousands of dollars worth of poultry and other property were stolen during the summer and autumn, and a large volume of valuable property was destroyed by marauders and hoodlums, raiders and thieves. The reward came as a result of a series of articles in the Press which pointed out the gravity of the situation.

The reward system, as its sponsors were certain, has reduced the number of raids to a point where it may truthfully be said they have stopped altogether. The one

Bavarians Oppose Tax on Bachelors

Berlin—Germany does not take kindly to Mussolini's idea of taxing bachelors. If the temper of the Bavarian legislature may be accepted as an indication of the feelings of all Germans. When the Bavarian budget was brought into the diet recently, some member, in the hope of increasing the state's income, proposed a tax on bachelors similar to that decreed by Mussolini. The minister of finance, opposing the suggestion, declared that the cost of determining the size of the tax in each case and the additional personnel required for insuring its collection were out of all proportion to the results expected. The diet sided with the minister and voted down the bill.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE THINGS WE NEVER WEARY OF. The things we never weary of— This is the only way to prove The things worth while. If love can tire It was not love, it was desire. And if a song or if a word Can sound less sweet when often heard 'Twas but a semblance all along, 'Twas but a tune and not a song.

Things that never weary, these are worthy. Colors please, If the eye shall find too bright garment once that gave delight, seemed the costume of a queen grows common, often seen. 'Twas not beauty—for no eye can see true beauty die.

Send me weary of the things I see. Oh, let the song one sings Have a let the garb we wear Introduce none will turn to stare. All our lives with these, changing harmonies: duty, and true love, never weary of.

church parsonage Tuesday marked the marriage of Miss Betty Hornblad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hornblad, 1328 Stephenson avenue, and John P. Decker, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Decker, 602 South Sixteenth street. Rev. C. A. Lund, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, which took place at 11 o'clock.

The bride was charming in a gown of tan satin with hat and accessories to match. She carried a corsage of California roses. Miss Anna Hornblad, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of green georgette with a green hat. Her bouquet was of butterfly roses. Albert Johnson, a close friend of the couple, was best man.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Decker, accompanied by the other members of the bridal party, and the bride and groom's parents, motored to Marinette where a 2 o'clock wedding dinner was served at Hotel Marinette. From Marinette, Mr. and Mrs. Decker continued by motor to Chicago and points in Illinois and Ohio where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their future home in Detroit.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba high school and has been living in this city since graduation. The groom was formerly employed by the Chicago Northwestern railroad in this city, going to Detroit, where he holds a responsible position with the Fisher Body company.

Pawlicki-Jepsen.
 Miss Pearl Pawlicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pawlicki of Hurley, Wis., was united in marriage to Louis Jepsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jepsen, 1105 Lake Shore Drive, at a pretty wedding, taking place at St. Patrick's parsonage at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Rev. Fr. Bergeron performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a brown velvet suit with accessories to match and carried a corsage of sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Frances Pawlicki, a sister. Roy Olson, a close friend of the groom, was the other attendant.

A wedding breakfast was served at the F. R. Hoyle residence, 315 Ogden avenue. The home was decorated in a scheme of rainbow colors with a profusion of garden flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Jepsen left for Milwaukee to spend their honeymoon and they will visit for some time at the home of the bride before returning to this city to make their home at 1108 Tenth avenue south.

Both of the young wedded couple as well known in this city, Mrs. Jepsen having taught the sixth grade in the Franklin school. Mr. Jepsen is local and county representative for the Milwaukee Journal.

Several pre-nuptial showers were held for the bride during the past month.

English Youth Fail to Be Conventional in Matter of Dress

London—English tailors and fashion makers are in despair about the future.

Only middle-aged, or elderly men, wear top hats, spats and formal morning attire at the race tracks. Youngsters go in any sort of a business suit, or even in golf attire. Many of the young men go bareheaded.

This is a shock to the hatmakers and tailors who have specialized for centuries in fitting gentlemen and would-be gentlemen out with proper attire for the Ascot and Goodwood.

The generation which served in the Great War and the youngsters who have grown up since the war refuse to accept pre-war traditions. They dash about in small motor cars, dressed so shabbily that their elders shudder when they see them on the dance floor. Hotels and inns cannot bar patrons any longer because they are not formally dressed. At tea and at dinner the floors are filled with young men in plus fours and golf shoes and young women in equally informal attire.

Old Resident of Menominee Passes

Menominee, Aug. 30.—Col. Fred S. Norcross, for 23 years prior to his resignation in 1925 identified with the city clerk's office and for 46 years a popular figure here, succumbed to an apoplectic stroke at 11:25 Monday morning. Colonel Norcross was engaged in conversation with an old friend, W. B. Gregory, when he was stricken. The recent was 78 years of age and until the time of his death had enjoyed good health with the exception of a slight stroke suffered some years ago.

Old Beheading Axe Preserved in Case

London—Visitors to the British Home Office in Whitehall still see a relic of the Cato-Street conspiracy in 1820 in a beheading axe which is kept in a glass case.

The axe has never beheaded anyone, but it was made to behead the conspirators. The five persons convicted were sentenced to be beheaded in the ordinary way but the authorities decided to hang them first and not take any chances. The beheading was done in public immediately afterward on the scaffold. It was performed with a surgeon's amputating knife by a masked "resurrection man" who was paid twenty guineas for his services.

A school in Oklahoma City last fall offered to accept cotton in payment of tuition and about 200 students took advantage of the opportunity.

Are you fighting against middle-age?

ONE OF the most critical periods of a woman's life comes between 45 and 50. Most women dread the approach of middle-age because they know, only too well, the depressing ailments it brings.

The best preparation for this period a woman can have is a good physical condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her to gain strength and energy. It builds up the appetite and induces natural sleep. The following letters were written by women of middle-age.

AFTER LONG SUFFERING

South Omaha, Nebraska.—"After fifteen years of terrible suffering each month with sick headaches I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have felt my health steadily improving. After taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me. I also was troubled with nervousness. I am feeling fine now and do all my work myself. I am the mother of six, and manage an eight-room house without anybody to help. I feel that I am entirely well. Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., So. Omaha, Nebraska.

Air Mindedness

From the beginning the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has given faith and support to the cause of aviation.

It was among the first to develop a satisfactory fuel and lubricant for aviation use and it supplies the major part of the demand today. It is among the first industrial concerns to own a company airplane.

This Company identified itself promptly with the pioneers of the air because it held a vision of the "flying age" now begun and believed that by aiding in the development of aviation it might broaden its service and increase its usefulness to the people of the Middle West.

The American public has a part to play in the development of aviation. It must become "air-minded."

No more is thought of flying in the Eastern Hemisphere than is thought here of travel by train or motor. The whole world is traveling by air. The Germans, the British, the French and the Italians have all opened regular air service ranging from the cities of Europe as far away as Africa and Asia.

America, having given the airplane to the world and perfected it to its present degree of reliability should be at the front in the development of popular air travel. America must keep step with its inventors and its aviators.

We are living in stirring times. The whole world has thrilled to the exploits of winged pioneers this year. World records have been broken—new trails blazed—by daring heroes of the air. American manhood and American machines have written a proud chapter in aviation history.

These recent glorious deeds fire the imagination and their real meaning is worthy of thought. Aviation is more than a thrilling sport. It is a new and relatively safe means of transportation.

Public confidence is needed to stimulate the development of commercial aviation. Certain facts in our aviation history should help us to become "air-minded."

Last year there were only two fatal accidents in the air mail service. That means one casualty to each 1,288,000 miles flown!

Colonel Lindbergh has traveled the equivalent of eight times around the earth without an accident. In his signed story in the New York Times he said, "I have made 7,190 flights, totaling 1,823 hours and 40 minutes on a conservative estimate. Last year I flew 763 hours. In all, I have carried 5,951 passengers and I am glad to say I have never had an accident, either to them or to myself."

Business men are becoming convinced that the risk has been taken out of aviation. Air-mail is used with no more question of its efficiency than of older forms of postal service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes in the future of aviation and desires to further the cause. By giving publicity to these facts it is helping bring about the realization that aviation in the air—as on the land—is the initial to progress in this

WORLD NEWS—IN WORD AND PICTURE

Farmer Spends 30 Years Creating A Model Eve's Garden

Lucas Kas.—The Black Hills of South Dakota may be the best place for a president to spend his vacation; California may be the next thing to Paradise, and the Garden of the Gods may be in Colorado, but—

If you're looking for the Garden of Eden, lighted by electricity, come to Kansas.

Adam and Eve are here, also Cain and Abel, the serpent, and the apple. You can come and see them for yourself.

Built on Moses' Plan

When Moses wrote in the Book of Genesis his description of the famous garden where Adam fell and Eve pushed him, Moses may or may not have had an idea that his description would be used as a plan and specifications for a twentieth century reconstruction of the garden, but that is just what has happened.

The re-creator of Eden is S. P. Dinamoer, prosperous and retired farmer of 84, who 30 years ago set himself to work rebuilding the Garden.

His job is now just about done, and for a job, it's a pretty good job.

Re-creator Dinamoer has followed Moses just as closely as he could.

Moses says that man was formed "out of the dust of the ground." Dinamoer made his Adam out of the dust of the garden, too, only he mixed in cement.

And there's the secret of this whole Eden-in-Kansas project.

It's all built in cement, even to the square and compass apron girl about Adam's loins, to show that the original ancestor was a "jiner."

Twenty-nine cement trees, some of them 40 feet in height, a stony-eyed cement Eve, a wormlike cement apple, a cement serpent are all in the garden.

Cement birds and beasts perch on the cement limbs of the cement trees looking for cement in sects which aren't there.

Was the building of this Garden of Eden a good idea?

Just ask Dinamoer.

Married Girl of 20

Dinamoer attributes his health to the fact that he lives in the Garden of Eden.

Three years ago, when he was 81, Dinamoer was married to a beautiful young lady of 20, who is now hostess of the Garden and shows visitors about, point out the snake and other properties.

The Dinamoers have a lovely little two-year-old daughter, Emily Jane, who has never known a day of sickness and has never taken a dose of medicine.

And back of the soldier is a woman, who is after him.

MOVING MOUNT SPREADS FEAR

Wyoming Mountain Already Has "Death and Destruction" Record.

Jackson, Wyo.—(AP)—New landslides in the Jackson Hole country have revived the fear among ranchers that Wyoming's "moving mountain" has not yet ended its career of destruction and death.

Two years ago, after a tremor, some 60 million cubic yards of earth and rock came sliding down the side of Sheep Mountain into the Gros Ventre river, forming a dam a mile and a quarter long, half a mile-wide and almost 200 feet high across the stream, and impounding above it 70,000 acre-feet of water.

Railroad, federal and state engineers examined the dam last year, and expressed belief that it would never break, but last May the earth moved again, the dam gave way, and a wall of water, 20 feet high, poured down the valley, bringing death to seven persons, wiping out the town of Kelly and doing other property damage estimated at $500,000.

Now new slides have occurred at Pinedale, 60 miles south of Jackson, and almost all the residents of the valley have quit their homes and moved to higher ground, fearing further heavy slides and subsequent floods.

The break in the dam, in the belief of John B. Crapo, Utah geologist, resulted from earth movement similar to but smaller than the one which first brought the mountainside down into the creek. He is convinced after a study of the site that a fresh landslide, along the side of the lake formed by the impounded water, caused the lake to rise to the proportions of a tidal wave and to overflow the dam, carrying before it the easily movable earth at the top of the dam.

Other theories have been that the break in the dam was caused by earth tremors, and that water had gradually weakened the earthen barrier.

John A. Whiting, Wyoming state engineer, inspected the dam after the break and found that the flood had cut a channel through the barrier to a depth of 35 feet. Even this outlet, he said, left so large a body of water impounded that another flood is possible, but believes that giant boulders embedded in the dam would halt another break.

German War Captain Now New York Waiter

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS, NEA Service Writer.

New York—The ups and downs—mostly downs—of the past decade have changed the uniform of William Marx from the imposing gold braid and buttons of a captain in the 74th Imperial German Field Artillery to the standardized serving suit of waiter No. 513 in a New York hotel.

In one uniform he snapped his commands to thousands of enlisted men. His slightest word won immediate attention and compliance. In the other, it is he who must stand at attention and execute the orders of the diners upon whom he waits.

He's Philosophical.

"The fortunes of war!" he told me with resignation. Then bowing his tuxedoed figure to the military precision of a dapper officer he added:

"But it's preferable to war, even if you can't work up the spirit in the kitchen that you can at the front."

Marx's English is excellent and correct. So is his French, Russian, German, Italian and Greek.

"You can make more money being a waiter than teaching languages," said he. "And if you are broke, unknown and friendless, the quickest way to get money in your pocket is to start in with a tray and operate between the chef and the patron. At the end of one day, you have a few coins to rattle in your pocket."

Occupation "A Landing Field."

He continued a little ironically: "Working in any good New York eating place, you join a cosmopolitan group. You meet German and Russian officers serving today the very type they commanded before the war. You find writers, philosophers, musicians and strugglers in all lines, as well as the typical waiter, just as in a landing field until they can get a new start toward something nearer their heart's desire."

Marx's goal is to get back into aviation service—in this country. He had three year's experience in the air during the war, and flew considerably on the western front.

He first donned a uniform in 1914, and fought during the entire conflict, being wounded eight times. On his face are several bad scars. With the Armistice in 1918 he joined the Russian legions serving in the White Army under General Wrangel against the Bolsheviks. Later he returned to Makhovka, in southern Russia, where his family had lived and where they owned large coal mines. But the town and the mines had been wiped out during the fighting. All trace of the Marx family and their property was gone.

How He Got Here.

"I was without relatives," he related. "What money I had was in Russian rubles or paper marks—equally useless. My one thought was to get to the United States. First I went to South America, where I made nothing in coffee in Brazil. Then I came to New York, working my way northward as a stoker on a passenger liner.

"Here I tried to get pupils for languages. Then I wanted to translate books or be an interpreter—but I should have starved while I waited.

"Then I struck bottom. I began as a bus boy, and in nine months I had a good job as a waiter. Now I'm making money. When I get enough, I will get out."

Fourteen hours a day balancing a tray takes care of most of his waking hours.

"But I have recreation," he said. "I go home, change my costume, have an hour or so with Kant, Nietzsche, Shaw or some other philosopher. Then I do a little writing of my own, and on my free day I explore New York. It's a wonderful city with wonderful possibilities. And if fortune has any more up for me—I want to experience them here."

ROUNDS WORLD ON A BICYCLE

"We" Set Out With $14 And Cycled 27,000 Miles.

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS, NEA Service Writer.

New York—Airplanes—trans-Atlantic hops—"round-the-world" flights? Pooh! Give Bertil Hult the good old-fashioned bicycle!

This Swedish boy and his hiker formed a "We" combination in 1925 that has endured for more than two years. During that time "they" saw the world together, visiting 53 countries and cycling something like 27,000 miles—and they are still pale.

Except for water jumps, Hult used no other means of transportation in going "round the world."

Why He Went.

"I wanted to see India," was the explanation when he arrived in New York. He had just cycled across country from San Francisco, and was on his way back to Stockholm. "I didn't have the money for the trip, so I decided to make an adventure of it.

"There was the equivalent of 14 dollars in my pocket when I left home, not knowing just where my next franc, peseta, lira or what have you would come from. Three of my friends started out with me, and after the first few months it was not so hard for I began selling the story of my trip and checks began to dot my course."

From Sweden they crossed into Germany, cycled into France, over the Pyrenees, and then shipped across the Mediterranean from Gibraltar.

Those Rough Riffs.

"In Morocco," Hult went on, "we got lost in the Rifian mountains. Abd-el-Krim's tribesmen captured us and for 21 days we were prisoners of war. A French attack on the twenty-second day helped us to escape. We were the first white men to cycle over the burning sands of northern Africa."

New difficulties beset them in Turkey.

"Because," he explained, "when we arrived there in February, we had to be arrested to find out that the laws forbid strangers to walk, ride, or cycle on the roads of that country. After being in the hands of Turkish gendarmes—gentlemen none too gentle and humane—eight days, they arrested us as Russian spies, and would not be convinced that we were mere tourists."

Hult himself was dumped into a political prison under the Bosphorus where his companions were murderers, thieves and enormous rats. Only by bribing a policeman to take a message to the Swedish ambassador was release effected.

About this time, his companions had given up seeing India and so Hult continued on alone.

"I disguised myself as a Mecca, the holy city of Arabia," he admitted. "I had a terrible time escaping when an Arabian noticed white skin around my waist while I was taking a bath. Finally I got on a sailing vessel bound for British India."

"In India, I got the worst of the moon, sun and heat. I was the first man to cross the continent from Bombay to Delhi and Calcutta on wheels, eye on motor wheels. In the borderland of Afghanistan I was captured by terrorists and Pathan tribes, losing all my possessions, and also my courage—nearly!"

A Quick Exit.

"Northern Kashmir introduced me to the country where women rule the land and have several husbands each. I got out quickly. I followed the Indus along the Himalayas range to Silma, where the old Roman road took me to Benares. I traveled through the Bengalee jungles over Assam, one of the wildest spots in the world, with snake bites and injuries aplenty. Then I went through Burma, Siam and the Malay states into China where I was detained five weeks because of the war. I was in Shanghai when it fell last spring."

Having "done" the world, Hult believes that there is much repetition in cities.

"See Benares, Constantinople and New York and you have seen the three cities worth seeing," says he. "Benares for its religious rites, Constantinople for its beauty and its blending of the ancient, medieval and modern, and New York for its skyscrapers and its modernity."

And as for Girls—

In America, Hult prefers the west coast to the east, from the point of picturesque views. Hult, 23, admits that he has met attractive girls in almost every land. For looks he likes the little Japanese girls, but he finds oriental women lacking in intelligence—as judged by a European. He thinks French women particularly charming and friendly, and not nearly so wild as they are painted. American flappers are new and interesting type to him, but he is still loyal to the daughters of his own race.

"I wouldn't do it again," he concluded, speaking of his two years and more of cycling. "But now that it is over, and I'm still alive, I wouldn't exchange the experience for the best college education in the world."

Bath, Michigan Is New Mecca for Host of Curious Tourists

BY ALLENE SUMNER, NEA Service Writer.

Bath, Mich.—The Town of Dead and Dying Children has become a playground for the tourist.

It was in May that Andrew Kehoe, school board official, crazed by ever-mounting taxes, craftily placed his bombs under the new consolidated school building, killing himself and more than 40 school children.

Dry-eyed, stunned, crushed, Bath buried its dead, took the white ribbons from its doors, and tried to forget.

Then came the tourists, sniffing like ghoulies at this Town of Dead Children. Here was a thrill indeed.

There are guards at our tomb of the Unknown Soldier, keeping that marble mausoleum undefiled by the souvenir shark's knife. But Bath has no guards at its mausoleum of death. The town is too poor. Bath can only endure. Swarms of Autos.

The white-haired town cobbler, old Felix Marshel, tried to dull the pounding in his own heart by pounding, pounding at his shoes. The more the tourists came, the more he pounds.

"Sundays are days of horror," he says. "The automobiles come like swarms of beetles. They park up to the very doors, fighting to get parking space nearest the house that lost the most children. Then they start a dash to the door and begin their questions."

"How many children did you lose, please?"

"Were they badly mangled?"

"Would you show us pictures of the ones that were killed?"

"Did they live long after they were hit?"

"Then they trot down to the schoolhouse—what's left of it—they've whittled it away and carried away bricks until there's hardly anything left to tear down."

Writing Their Names.

"They write their names on the blackboards in the very rooms where those little kids were blown to pieces. Sweethearts draw hearts with arrows in them and put their initials within the hearts."

The white-haired cobbler finished his shoe.

"Know what they remind me of?" he asked, his back still bent, his arms still for a moment—like a swarm of flies around carrion.

Bath has not started its new school building yet.

Families without children, homes now like bare, brown trees with all the blossoms and fruit stripped from the boughs, cannot be expected to be much interested in school houses.

Besides, the few uninjured children and the others who are now beginning to come back home are by day from hospitals in nearby cities, some crippled, some sightless, some deaf, shuddering at the very thought of going back to school in the fall.

No children swarm the summer streets of Bath. One may see two or three pallid youngsters, clinging to their mothers' hands, limping perhaps, silent and with age-old misery in their childish eyes.

Uncurtained windows show where family after family, unable to bear the sights and sounds of a town once made awestruck by happy children, have left the stricken city.

Next door to the schoolhouse where souvenir hunters fight for alibers and bricks, stands the house where "Old Man DeBar" lived alone. The house is honey-combed as though shot full of shrapnel.

"Old Man DeBar" saw the torn and mangled limbs of little children rain through the air. For days he wandered about the town in a numb stupor, until his Detroit friend came and rescued him from the Town of Dead and Dying Children.

Next door to the abandoned DeBar house stands that of Mrs. Chet Church. Its windows are boarded up and vines pulled down from the porch. Mrs. Church moved away. She couldn't stand that rubbish heap of death just two doors away. Besides, the tourists' questioning were too much for her nerves.

But they say that every few weeks she comes back to ramble through the empty, terror-haunted rooms for a day, then disappears again.

Josephine Cushman, substitute telephone operator, is going to school in Holt, Mich., this fall. Her little brother Ralph was one of the 40 children hurled through the air that mad day when Andrew Kehoe fired his bomb of death.

Josephine wouldn't be alive to go to school this fall, either, if Ralph hadn't been afraid "the other kids would laugh at him when his big sister wanted to be in his class that fatal day."

"I didn't have any school that day myself because our grade was having exams," Josephine says, "and he never had gone to school without me and I wanted to take him, but he wouldn't have it."

"People just haven't the heart to go to the new building going," says Mrs. David Harta, whose little grandson, Bobby, was one of the mangled 40.

"We organized a 'school bus' and all went down to tear down what the explosion and the tourists had left of the schoolhouse, but we had to quit; tears were so streaming down our faces, the men's as well as the women's, that we had to stop."

There is a postmistress in Bath these days. Glenn Smith, the postmaster, was killed that awful day, and his wife, who lost her father and nephew in the same crash, is carrying on.

Land Can't Be Sold.

"We can't sell and get out," she says, "because nobody buy a square inch of land near Bath these days."

And Sunday after Sunday the thousands of tourists come. The impoverished little town must pay a traffic cop to untangle cars that career together on Andy Kehoe's farm. They tried doing without him on Sunday and there was another bad accident.

Bath just can't stand one more hurt on their soil, so the officer was put back again.

"If they'd only stop tormenting us with questions," moan those left in Bath, Town of Dead and Dying Children.

EDWARD TUCK—AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE SANS PORTFOLIO

Paris—Next to Ambassador Herriot, there is no American held in greater esteem here than Edward Tuck, retired New York banker, whose charities and philanthropies have done much to cement good feeling between France and the United States.

In recognition of his generosity and his public spirit, he has been made a Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor, and is decorated by Edouard Herriot, minister of Public Instruction and Fine Arts, at the Chateau Bois-Franc.

Imitation Ermine Important in Mode

Paris—Black velvet and white rabbit skin worked to look like ermine promise to be frequent companions in the winter styles. Similar combinations are frequently worked out in colors. Dyed skins take on the rich tones of velvet with hardly a shade's difference in color.

The house of Max is showing a magnificent black velvet and white ermine evening cape. There is a tall shapely collar on the cape which stands up like an Elizabethan ruff.

Autumn Styles Show Decline in Satins

Paris—At least one of the important style makers expresses himself as tired of satin and declares he will use none of it in his fall and winter models.

His shimmer makes it monotonous, he says, and in his collection dull materials with metal thread will be largely substituted for satin in afternoon and evening dresses. This same dressmaker is advocating brocaded chiffon velvet of small pattern.

Velvet Shoes in Style for Winter

Paris—Velvet shoes in shades to match gowns, are expected to have immense popularity this winter for wear with the velvet evening dresses Paris is designing.

The softness of velvet for shoes, which is their greatest charm, is causing some opposition to the fashion.

Colored Tablecloth Preferred by Paris

Paris—Color has invaded the dining room and snow white nappery is no longer necessary in Paris.

The most fashionable hostesses some prefer damasks of yellow or pale creaming. Many select such table covered coverings as the heavy Banquet to that lots of natural color which is the most richly embroidered in the rich self colored thread or gayly be cost cared in cross stitch.

In Hollywood

BY DAN THOMAS, NEA Service Writer.

Los Angeles.—Saw Emil Jennings who is at work now on his second film to be made in the United States, and it is to be called "Hitting for Heaven." Sounds as if they're grooming the giant of "Variety" to the tossing of meringues. Hollywood is a bit like the army in that respect; if you're a blacksmith they make a barber out of you. One of the extras from "Beau Sabreur," the sequel to "Beau Geste" now being filmed, staggered in the other day from the desert with his heart wouldn't permit him to carry on, a temperature of 110 in the shade—it does take a good stout heart. Or, in any temperature, in this tickle colony. Speaking of "Beau Sabreur," it is being hailed as the original bee's mustachios in the way of pictures. Gary Cooper is the star, and helping him out are some 1500 soldiers and bodies who are at Redock, in the Mojave desert. Saw Fred Datig, the cheerful young man who has to see 250 people about jobs every day. He's casting director for Paramount and says he has to turn down only 250 applicants a day. He's getting so that he can tell just what a job-seeker is going to say by the way the applicant holds his mouth. Had lunch with Esther Raiston who is about to build one of those "dream homes." She has a lot in Bryn Mawr, heart of Hollywood's exclusive hillside residential district. When you buy a lot there you have to save for twelve years to be able to put up some kind of shack to decorate it, Miss Raiston told me.

Personal: Harold Lloyd left the other day for New York where he'll use the Yankee Stadium for some baseball shots.

With "Shanghai Bound," his newest vehicle in the cutting rooms, Richard Dix has left Hollywood for a vacation in the mountains. He's fishing and hunting, and his only companion is his valet-companion, "Scotty."

Charles Rogers, who played the leading role in "Wings," keeps up practice on the trombone by the playing of which he worked his way through the University of Kansas.

Duke Kahanamoku, famous Hawaiian swimmer, is cast as a Hawaiian for the first time in his screen career in Clara Bow's latest production, "Hula."

THEY'VE STAYED MARRIED TWO-THIRDS OF A CENTURY

Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Spratt, stars at staying out of divorce court.

By NEA Service.

Ellenboro, N. C.—Jack Spratt and his wife gained Mother Goose fame for being unusually well-mated. Another Spratt family has set a real life record for domestic felicity.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. Spratt have stayed married two-thirds of a century. They have spent their 66 years together in the peace of the Carolina mountains and seem to have incorporated that peace into their lives.

They recently celebrated their anniversary at the home of a son, J. S. Spratt. Sitting beside his "sweetheart," Mr. Spratt explained the secret of their matrimonial success.

No Arguments.

"We've just lived along in love," he said. "We were married just as I left for the war back in '61, and when I came out alive we were so glad that we got started right. If the old lady gets to arguing, I just leave her alone and let her have her way while and all is well. Or if I am cantankerous, she backs out and lets me have my way, and so we never get mad at the same time."

"We've never really had a cross word between us."

Both are hard workers. Spratt at the age of 89, does chores around the farm of his son; where they live now. When younger, he ran his own farm, where Mrs. Spratt did all the housework and bore nine children, all of whom inherited their parents' love of farm life and became farmers or farmers' wives.

Each night he reads to his wife from a Bible that has been in his family for 150 years.

E. W. MILLER IS REELECTED AS MODERATOR

A delegation of 14 Manistique people were in attendance at the annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Baptist association, held in the Baptist church at Marquette on Sunday and Monday. Two local men were named as officers in the association. E. W. Miller, moderator, was re-elected for another year, and Dr. D. E. Sells was made secretary of the Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. activities. The delegates selected Sault Ste. Marie as the place for the next annual meeting in 1928.

Those present at the Marquette association gathering from Manistique were: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Miller, Mrs. Ida MacLaurin, Miss Edith Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. W. Owen, Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Gross, Mrs. A. C. Dayton, Mrs. F. Greenwood, Mrs. E. M. Carson, O. G. Quick, Robert Quick and Leo Settergren.

Reverend Gross and Mr. and Mrs. Miller were among those taking part in the program, the former leading the praise service which opened the meeting Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Miller, as moderator, took charge of the business session Monday forenoon, and Mrs. Miller presided at the discussion on women's work during the afternoon of the same day.

Speakers heard at the gathering included: Rev. H. C. McDonald of Escanaba; Rev. F. L. Curry, D. D., Lansing; Rev. Frank Kurtz, D. D., Hyderabad, India; Rev. T. E. Mack of Kingsford, and Rev. G. E. Brennehan of the Soo.

Chicago Worker Will Speak at Baptist Church

Miss Mary A. Hyndman, identified for 15 years with Alken Institute, well-known Baptist Christian center at Chicago, will speak at the First Baptist church in Manistique on Thursday evening of this week at 7:30 p. m.

Described as a forceful, interesting and fascinating speaker, Miss Hyndman will tell Manistique people of her work in Chicago during the years she has served as general superintendent of Alken Institute. She is known as an organizer and teacher in Bible campaigns and as a children's evangelist. Her work has been interdenominational. At Chicago, where she established a world record in attendance for nine consecutive years, the enrollment at the daily Bible school included people of 30 different nationalities, with 575 Catholics, 251 Protestants, 9 Jews and 210 of no religious affiliation at all.

Previous to her 15 years at Alken Institute, Miss Hyndman served ten years at the Jackson, Michigan Y. M. C. A., and was a teacher for two years at the Chicago Evangelistic Institute, a large interdenominational missionary training school. Her appearance at the Baptist church in Manistique is expected to draw a big attendance.

FIRE DESTROYS WOOD AT LIME COMPANY PLANT

It is estimated that between 1200 and 1500 cords of wood were destroyed in a fire which broke out Saturday on the property of the Manistique Lime and Stone company at Marblehead.

Crews of firefighters worked all day to keep the blaze in check, and called for assistance from the Manistique city fire department. A spark from some local source is given as the cause of the fire, which had assumed serious proportions when first discovered.

CITY BRIEFS

A baby girl was born Monday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Leo McNamara.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McNamara and children returned Monday evening from a motor trip to Rochester, Minn.

After a three months' vacation at their cottage at Indian Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Critten and children left yesterday morning for Detroit.

Mrs. E. T. Lundstrom and children left Sunday for a week's visit with relatives and friends at Newberry.

After a two weeks' visit with relatives, Henry New, William New, Mrs. M. C. Zerick and son, Robert, and Miss Clara Weiland left Tuesday morning by motor for their homes at Pittsburgh, Pa. They were accompanied by Joseph New of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sidebotham and family, who have been the guests of friends for the past week, left this morning by motor for Tiffin, Ohio.

Miss Lorraine Doyle left this morning for Gladstone, where she will be a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Norton for one week.

Mrs. William Gonyea left Monday for the Soo for a short visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Young of Howell, Mich., are guests this week at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. H. Wilson, Range street. They were accompanied by another daughter, Miss Alma Young, who is a teacher of language at Jackson high school.

Chief Maxwell of the Cadillac fire department, accompanied by his family, stopped over for a visit with Chief C. E. Underwood at Manistique on Sunday while touring the upper peninsula on a vacation trip.

Taking a ten-day vacation, Elmer Boal and family left this week on a motor jaunt to Almont, Ont., and other points in Canada.

Mrs. Joseph Scott left Thursday evening for the Copper Country, where she will temporarily take the territory of one of the Maccabee district managers.

DON CAMERON IS PROMOTED AS RADIO MAN

In a wire received yesterday from San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cameron were advised that their son, Donald, had been made third radio man on the mine sweeper Brant.

The local boy has been in the U. S. navy only 13 months, and has received steady promotions. At the end of the first ten months, he was made seaman first class, and his recent rise to the radio rating puts him in line for first radio man.

He recently visited his parents in Manistique, returning to join his fleet just before their start for the west coast from New York.

MANISTIQUE HIGH SCHOOL GRID SCHEDULE OPENING EARLY

Football practice will get away to an early start for the members of the Manistique high school squad, who have a game booked for the second week of school. The opening tilt will be played on the home grounds September 17, and will be a "conference" game, with Munising high as the opponent.

Coach W. J. Cook's crew has an excellent schedule in prospect for this season. There will be five home games, three of which are conference events. The entire schedule is as follows:

- Sept. 17—Munising here.
- Sept. 24—Escanaba here.
- Oct. 1—Newberry here.
- Oct. 8—Gladstone here.
- Oct. 15—St. Joe here.
- Oct. 22—Newberry there.
- Oct. 29—Open.
- Nov. 5—Soo here.
- Conference games.

Jardine Sends Note Thanking Observers for Flood Darnings

Washington—During the Louisiana flood a service was performed by Dr. I. M. Cline and his assistant, Willard McDonald, which "should be made a matter of illuminated record in your archives," Secretary Hoover told Secretary Jardine in complimenting the government's "weather men" at New Orleans.

In response, Mr. Jardine has forwarded the following message to Dr. Cline and McDonald:

"I do not know of any series of acts which has more thoroughly realized the ideals of a genuine public service by professional knowledge, outstanding ability and complete devotion to the interests of the people, than your work in relation to the Mississippi flood. Your interpretations of conditions and your warnings were of unsurpassing accuracy."

Dr. Cline made a series of day to day estimates of the flood and its progress for more than two months of its movement from Cairo, Ill., to the Gulf.

"We came to rely upon them," Secretary Hoover says, "and to build the whole organization of our rescue work upon them. With the advance information they gave, we were able to interpret it into a saving of thousands of human lives. Moreover, the issue of these warnings to the public by Dr. Cline in such terms as to give confidence and understanding, resulted in a great saving of life and property without any action on our part."

"His office was in service day and night, meeting any demand we might make. Without it, I believe New Orleans might have gone under water."

Prof. C. F. Marvin, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau, is impressed by the widespread appreciation.

"While Dr. Cline's work stands out notably," he says, "invaluable aid was given by our officials at St. Louis, Cairo, Memphis, Vicksburg, Little Rock, and other places. In 35 years of flood forecasting, the weather bureau has given from eight days to four weeks notice in advance of the crest of every flood."

Entertains Guests at Arrowhead Inn

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gero, Jr., and Benjamin Gero entertained 15 guests at a 6:30 dinner Monday evening at Arrowhead Inn. After dinner the guests enjoyed a session of bridge at the Benjamin Gero residence, 244 Arbutus avenue. Mrs. Joseph Baldwin received ladies' first prize, and the gentlemen's high score was awarded to George Kinastig.

Regular Meeting of Star Saturday

A regular meeting of the Manistique Eastern Star has been announced for Saturday evening, September 3, at 8 p. m.

Farm "Hard Times" Reported in Britain

London (P)—British farmers, as well as American, have experienced difficult times during the past few years.

The average level of prices of agricultural produce is lower than in any year since 1915, says a report on the prices and supplies of agricultural produce and requirements in England and Wales issued by the ministry of agriculture.

Wheat shows the least change in price among cereals. Barley and oats have fallen sharply compared with 1924-25, but whereas barley has shown some recovery, oats were only 18 per cent above pre-war level. Potatoes, owing to short crop in 1926, have recovered during the present harvest year from the low prices prevalent in 1924-25.

Both fat cattle and fat sheep have fallen heavily in price. Fat pigs, on the other hand, are well above 1924-25 prices, and in view of the lower prices of feeding stuffs, the prices of fat pigs have proved remunerative.

Milk has declined somewhat after being virtually stationary for three years, but has fallen steadily, and cheese after showing an improvement in 1926-27, has fallen sharply to the low level of 32 per cent above pre-war.

Poultry and eggs are both lower. The index numbers for fruit and vegetables both showed an improvement in 1926-27, but have fallen heavily since.

The general declining tendency is even more marked during the first months of this year. For the six months ending in March the average has been below the corresponding months of the previous year. These lower averages have been due very largely to the reduced prices of fat stock and milk, which constitute more than half the output from British farms.

The decline in the price of fat cattle has been relatively very sharp, prices of these during the past six months have been about 11 per cent lower than a year earlier.

O. P. CHATFIELD PASSES AWAY

Death Takes Old Resident, Former Mayor of Escanaba.

Oliver P. Chatfield, 75, and prominent in Escanaba civic life for a number of years, and for the past five years a resident of Gladstone, passed away Tuesday morning at the family home, Central avenue.

Mr. Chatfield had been ailing for some time suffering from a general breakdown and at various times since early summer had been confined to his bed for periods of several days.

His death came peacefully at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Chatfield was born October 27, 1852 at Marengo, Ill. His marriage to Lou McNamara, of Marinette, Wis., took place in Chicago, September 6, 1893. Shortly after his marriage he moved to Marinette where he was engaged in foundry work.

In November, 1902, he moved to Escanaba, founding the Chatfield Brass and Iron Works, which industry he was actively engaged in until coming to Gladstone.

He came to this city in 1922, opening the Chatfield Iron Works in partnership with his son, Benjamin C. Chatfield. He retained his interest in the foundry here until ill health forced his retirement from active labor.

Served as Mayor.

During Mr. Chatfield's residence in Escanaba he was prominent in civic life, holding the office of Mayor of Escanaba under the mayor-aldermanic form of government for two terms, and serving as a member of the Board of Education and as a member of the Board of Supervisors.

His death Tuesday ended a long life of earnest industry and of unselfish service in the interests of the communities in which he lived.

Mr. Chatfield is survived by his wife, his son, Benjamin C. Chatfield and by a daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Dora Wall of Goodman, Wis.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home at Escanaba to be prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held from the funeral chapel at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial will be in Marinette.

SEA SLAYER?

Mrs. Mary Waite, stewardess on the S. S. American Trader, photoed as she was arrested on a charge of murder upon her arrival in New York. It is alleged that she slew Louis Fisher, refrigeration engineer of the vessel, by pouring acid down his throat.

CITY BRIEFS

Leland and Harold Mackie and Tony Belanger have returned from a visit at Milwaukee, Manitowac and other points in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Beatrice Racine will arrive here Sunday from Gwin to resume her duties as an instructor in the Gladstone public schools.

Mr. and Mrs. John Noblet and grandson, Eugene Noblet, are leaving this morning for Cadillac to visit their son, Nbold Noblet.

Miss Geraldine Barron has returned to her home in Flat Rock after spending part of her vacation with her uncle, John Noblet.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weydemann of Chicago who visited with their uncle, August Van Gysel for one month left last night for their home. They also visited with relatives in Escanaba during their visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Longline and children and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jeanson and children of Marquette spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Sward.

Miss Helen Sward, who visited for a week at the Jeanson home, returned to Gladstone with them. Edward Jeanson, who has been at the Sward home for a week's visit returned to Marquette with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dehlin and sons, Charles and James, and daughter, Alice, and Mrs. James P. Barrett left Saturday for Flint where they will visit at the Robert Barrett home.

Mrs. Joseph LaFrambois and Mrs. Ed Johnson called at the Adolph Johnson home at Perkins Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Noreus, sons, Billy and Robert, and daughter, Ruth, will return today from a camping trip at Round Lake.

Miss Marie Devereaux has returned from a visit of two weeks with relatives in Minneapolis.

Mrs. Lloyd Gunn of Green Bay is visiting with relatives in Gladstone.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Woodhall returned Monday evening from a two days' visit with relatives in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The condition of Mrs. Platt Barnum, who has been ill for some time, is considered critical.

Near Finish of Main Sewer Work on Delta Avenue

Construction of the main sewer in the Delta avenue job between Eleventh and Fourteenth streets is progressing rapidly and will probably be completed within a day or two.

As soon as this work is completed, the job of placing the lateral connections will begin.

The work is in charge of E. E. Engstrom, contractor.

German Bishops Censure Abuses

Berlin—A scathing censure of prevailing alcoholic abuses is contained in a pastoral which the bishops at conference in Fulda caused to be read from the pulpits of all Catholic churches in Germany recently.

In strong language the letter sets forth that fabulous sums are daily being squandered for alcoholic debauches and that alcohol has come to dominate all public festivities, club meetings, family parties, and even simpler forms of amusement on the Sabbath, and has frequently led to violent excesses. It points out that "from all spheres complaints are increasing about the rapid spread of the alcohol habit. In recently published statistics on the startling increase of alcoholism a forecast must be seen of a life of misery for the masses."

Painted Line Cuts Russia and Poland

Warsaw (P)—All that divides the Polish frontier from the Russian, in a remote eastern corner, is a painted line.

At one point a wide road is crossed by two bars, one red and white indicating the end of Poland, then a few meters further on one entirely red, marking the beginning of the Soviet territory.

Between the two bars is a neutral zone, a sort of nobody's land, where Poles and Soviets meet to settle minor border incidents such as the crossing of the frontier by a cow or hen.

Falconry Near End As English Sport

London—Falconry, that old and honorable sport, which in the Middle Ages disputed for first place with hunting and jousting, is fast disappearing.

The Old Hawking Club, the last to keep alive the ancient sport, has just gone out of existence.

Falconry is still practiced by some persons in private. They obtain their falcons, however, in Holland. Occasionally a rider is to be seen following the flight of the falcon on horseback.

ASSESSMENTS ARE CONFIRMED

Commission Hears Utility Reports at Meeting.

The Gladstone city commission took care of regular procedure in connection with the Delta avenue sewer assessments and heard regular reports at the meeting, held Monday evening in the city hall.

Claude E. Hawkins, mayor pro tem, presided in the absence of Mayor I. N. Bushong. Other members of the commission were present as well as City Manager F. E. Buchner and Atty. Glenn W. Jackson.

The special assessment rolls for main and lateral sewer construction on Delta avenue between Eleventh and Fourteenth streets were confirmed and the city clerk directed to endorse them.

The assessments have been divided into two equal installments payable on or before September 20, 1927, and September 20, 1928. Interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum will be charged on any balance remaining unpaid and the balance plus the interest charges will be spread on the general tax roll.

Regular utility operating income statements covering the first four months of the fiscal year, through July 31, were submitted by the city manager.

There was no other business, the meeting adjourning at an early hour.

IMPROVEMENTS TO STAGE ARE COMPLETED

An improvement in the Senior high school building has been completed with remodeling of the assembly room.

The stage now measures 19 by 36 feet, 300 square feet having been added.

A velvet curtain for the front of the stage has been purchased through funds raised by the Class of 1927.

The extending the stage and buying the curtain constitute the first steps in plans for constructing a well-equipped stage in the assembly room. Improvements will be added from time to time, these to include additional curtains for back and sides which will be used instead of backdrops and scenery, the building of an archway, replastering and redecoration of the room. A doorway will also be cut in the rear leading to the mid-stairway platform.

A play will be given later by the Forensic League to raise funds for payment of labor on the stage.

ANNOUNCE MENU FOR LUTHERAN CHURCH SUPPER

Plans for the supper which will be served by the ladies of the Swedish Lutheran church on Labor Day have been completed.

The menu will be as follows: roast veal, meat balls, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, creamed carrots and peas, cabbage salad, celery, beet pickles, rye bread, white bread, cake, ice cream and coffee.

Serving will begin at 5 o'clock and continue until 8 o'clock.

Mission Aid Meets Thursday

The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Mission church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church parlors. Mrs. Albin Nelson will be hostess. All members are asked to be present.

LOCAL MAN GENERAL CHAIRMAN

William Prails, well-known railroad man of this city, has been elected general chairman of engineers. It was announced yesterday. Mr. Prails will have an office in Minneapolis.

The term of office will extend for four years. Mr. Prails succeeding Fred Kilp of Minneapolis. The election held by electors from each district, was held Friday, August 26, at Minneapolis.

The honor accorded Mr. Prails follows his service as local chairman of the division, which office he has held for the past few years.

FATHER-SON BANQUET HELD AT COMMUNITY

Annual Event Held Here Sunday Evening

The Gladstone Rotary club held its annual Father and Son banquet Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Community auditorium, with Rotarians and the sons of Rotarians present.

The regular luncheon was postponed, the banquet in the evening taking its place.

Ernest Pierce of Marquette, the speaker of the evening, gave a splendid talk on "Boys." Mr. Pierce, chairman of the Upper Peninsula Y. M. C. A., stressed the value of encouraging boys to get in touch with the Y. M. C. A., and High clubs and their ideals. His talk was illustrated by examples which clearly pictured each point he emphasized in his talk.

Mr. Pierce, who is also manager of the Lake Superior Engine works and a member of the Marquette Rotary club, also entertained with readings.

A program of music was given during the dinner with Van Kniesels, director of music in the public schools, directing it and two selections were given by the Rotary quartet—C. C. Strickland, Floyd Marble, E. A. Erickson and Noble Swenson.

The banquet was in charge of the boys' work committee of which J. T. Jones is chairman. It marked the last meeting of the series sponsored by the committee.

THEATRES

AT THE LYRIC.

Sparkling youth, the bright lights of Broadway, love among the beauty shops, and the steadfast determination of a woman to find love, are the chief ingredients of "Slaves of Beauty," a Fox Films production which begins a two day run at the Lyric theatre today.

This picture, directed by J. G. Blystone, is based upon a very human story written by Nina Wilcox Putnam, one of the most observant authors in America. Holmes Herbert and Olive Tell have the featured roles.

Love interest centers about a woman who had happiness right at her elbow, but was always seeking it just around the corner. The cast includes Richard Walling, Sue Carroll, Mickey Bennett and Mary Foy.

HEAVY SELLING HAS NO EFFECT

STOCK SALES AVERAGES.

Table with columns: Date, Industrials, Railroads. Rows: Tuesday, Monday, Week ago, Year ago, High 1927, Low 1927, Total stock sales.

New York, Aug. 30.—(P)—Stock prices encountered increased selling resistance in today's market, but with few exceptions, they withstood repeated efforts of bear traders to unsettle the general list.

High grade industrials were again the stock market leaders. U. S. Steel common, General Electric and American can being among the score or so issues to attain new high ground.

Renewed weakness of the oil shares followed the publication of the poor Atlantic Refining earnings report, which showed a net loss of nearly $1,500,000 in the first half of 1927 as compared with a net income of nearly $3,250,000 in the same period of 1926.

A bear attack carried U. S. Steel common down to 190 1/2, but a run-in of the shorts caused a quick rally to around the 200 level, the final quotation representing a net loss of 1 1/2.

Foreign exchanges held firm in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85-16 and French francs just under 3.92 cents.

IN NEW YORK

New York.—You never can tell in New York where and when you will come upon an author getting "atmosphere."

Edith Wharton prefers to remain in that aristocratic old atmosphere of lower Fifth Avenue, where Washington Square bursts into Greenwich Village.

Edna Ferber is to be found at every important first night opening in the Manhattan theater. She knows her Broadway, and she studies her theater types first hand.

The Norrises—Katherine and Charles—are "everywhere" . . . theater openings, concerts, lectures and elsewhere.

Carl Van Vechten made himself the chief exponent of Harlem by practically moving into the "nigger heaven" long before writing "Nigger Heaven."

Felix Reisenberg, ex-sea captain, after writing, "East Side, West Side," became secretary of the Explorers' Club so that he would not lose touch with those friends who went out for high adventure in the faraway places.

A friend tried it one morning, but he got this reply: "Well, we tried it out over in Jersey the other night and I got a big hand. I'm going to steal that show."

Helen Wills Crowned American Tennis Queen

REGAINS TITLE LOST YEARS AGO

Defeats Betty Nuthall of England in Two Sets.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 30—(P)—Helen Wills, 21-year-old California girl with the "poker face" and "royal strokes," again is the tennis queen of America.

In a title match packed with thrills and color, Miss Wills turned back the plucky challenge of "Beaming Betty" Nuthall, 16-year-old English star, and carried off the National Women's single championship for the fourth time in five years.

The scores were 6-1, 6-4, decisive enough to leave no doubt of the American girl's superiority, but likewise revealing the story of a final stirring rally which blonde and blue-eyed Betty staged before accepting defeat.

Rally in Second. Overwhelmed in the first set, seemingly put to rout by the withering fire that came from Miss Wills' flashing racquet, Miss Nuthall fought back brilliantly, matching drive for drive in a spurt that fell only one game short of a denouncing second set.

It was a spectacular magnificent rally by which the English girl pulled up from the count of 1-4 to take three of four games from the hardest hitter than women tennis has ever developed. It exhibited Betty as a campaigner with resources far above the average for her years and the determination of a fighter that refused to know when he "kicked." It aroused to tremendous enthusiasm a gallery of 5,000 fans who sympathized with the English girl in spite of an evident desire also to see the California girl regain the throne so rightfully hers.

Result Inevitable.

This was the drama of a match otherwise one-sided but it didn't last long. The result was inevitable from the outset. It was the case of an experiment, resourceful star with entirely too much power for a younger, more aggressive but less seasoned opponent. This power checked Betty's dash and settled the question of women's supremacy for 1927.

By her triumph, Miss Wills completed a campaign of victory here and abroad that leaves no question of her place at the top of women's amateur ranks for this year. In an unbroken winning streak, she won the highest honors of British tennis at Wimbledon and regained the American title she was forced to default last year after an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Nuthall lost her second bid for an American championship when she and her partner, Joan Fry, were defeated in the doubles final. The title went overseas to Britain anyway, for the victors were Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree and Mrs. E. H. Harvey. They won by scores of 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in an all-English final that took the doubles cup overseas for the second time in five seasons.

"Big Four" Still Safe After First Round of Doubles

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 30—(P)—America's 1927 "Big Four" in tennis were undisturbed by first round competition opening the 48th annual doubles championship tournament at the Longwood Cricket club here today.

William T. Tilden 2nd, and his partner this year, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., in about a half hour of easy play eliminated the inter-mountain champions of Salt Lake City, Earl Pierce and Lee Buttles, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1.

Elks Inter Club Golf Match Put Over Until 10th

"The Escanaba Elks have been given to understand that the enthusiasm of the 20 Manistique Elks, who were coming here September 3 to play a golf match has dwindled considerably," said a statement issued at the local club yesterday. "Finding the lineup which the Escanaba club would put on the field was a most formidable one, the Manistique team has requested a postponement of one week, until September 10, presumably in order to get more time for practice. It is rumored that a special meeting is being held in Manistique to get some new golfers into the ranks. While the Escanaba members need no further practice, they have been very glad to accommodate their opponents by granting the extension of time."

Boston Wins From Cincinnati Reds in 11 Inning Fray, 2 to 1

Boston, Aug. 30—(P)—Hugh McCullough led the better of Pete Donohue in a pitchers' battle that went eleven innings today and Boston defeated Cincinnati, 2 to 1. The former Giant star held the Reds to four scattered hits and up to the ninth the visitors had obtained only one safe blow.

The score: R. H. E.
Cincinnati 10 000 000 1 4 0
Boston 001 000 000 01 2 14 3
Donohue and Samworth, Harvard; McCullough and Urban.

Dempsey Spends Day in Idleness Except for Hike

Chicago, Aug. 30—(P)—Jack Dempsey indulged in another day of idleness today, his second day in a row away from the boxing gloves. He had expected to crawl into the ring with his sparring partners, but Manager Flynn at the last minute decided to suspend operations, after deciding that Dempsey's seven mile hike on the roads today was sufficient.

Along about 2:30 o'clock, after Dempsey had taken his daily nap, he looked out the window and saw about 2,500 people outside the gates of Lincoln Field, muttering and murmuring because they could not pay their $1.10 to see him box.

Dempsey knew they were disappointed because the newspapers said he would go into action this afternoon. So he motioned the gatekeeper to let everybody in free and sent seven sparring partners out to provide the glove entertainment.

PIRATES-PHILS SPLIT DOUBLE

Philadelphia Takes First, 3-2; Loses Second, 12 to 6.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30—(P)—The Phillies held Pittsburgh to an even break in a double-header today, winning the first game by a 3 to 2 score in ten innings and dropping the second, 12 to 6. Hub Pruett outpitched Kremer in the opener and gained the verdict when his teammates clubbed two runs over in the tenth after the Pirates had scored a run in their half of the inning.

First game: R. H. E.
Pittsburgh 100 000 000 1 2 7 0
Philadelphia 000 010 002 3 9 0
Kremer and Spencer—Pruett and Wilson.

Second game: R. H. E.
Pittsburgh 030 210 402 12 15 2
Philadelphia 002 020 000 6 10 0
Meadows, Dawson, Miljus and Gooch; Scott, Decatur, Sweetland and Wilson.

Tunney Gets Seven Rounds in Despite Chilly Weather

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 30—(P)—Despite chilly squalls that tore through the Green, Tunney's quarters on the edge of Lake Pleasant today, the heavyweight champion edged in a seven-round workout of two sparring partners and a light punching bag, in continuing his program of conditioning himself for his battle with Jack Dempsey at Chicago next month.

The bag took a licking for three rounds while Chuck Higgins, Indianapolis light heavyweight, and Billy Vidabek, faced the title-holder for two sessions apiece.

Wiggins worked the heavy-weight king at top speed every moment of the six minutes allotted him. Tunney stopped to grin at the veteran's antics at times and slow the pace when clean right smashes dropped Wiggins' chin, but for the most part the going was hot and heavy.

By rolling his head, Chuck found he had much more success than Vidabek in avoiding Tunney's right counter to the jaw. Gene switched at times to a body attack and drew grunts from Wiggins with well-timed left hooks to the stomach.

TRY AD WOLGAST FOR INSANITY

Former Michigan Lightweight Champ Held in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Aug. 30—(P)—Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion of the world, was taken into custody here today on an insanity complaint sworn to by an associate of Jack Doyle, boxing promoter, who five years ago was appointed guardian of the former fighter.

Wolgast, with nothing left of the fortune he made in the squared ring, has been a fixture about the Jack Doyle bungalow. Friends said he was in splendid physical condition, as he had trained steadily for five years for a "phantom" match for a bout which he believed was to be another "shot" at the crown he once held.

Wolgast has been appearing daily at the gymnasium with a request for sparring partners. He seemed satisfied, according to Doyle's associates, with the assurance that they would be ready for him "tomorrow."

Officials of the gymnasium said the insanity complaint was made since Wolgast recently had become quarrelsome and it was difficult to control him. Hearing on the complaint was set for September 6.

Wolgast, who is 35 years old, was born in Cadillac, Mich. He won the title from Battling Nelson at Point Richard, across the bay from San Francisco, in 1910, after 40 rounds of fierce slugging and punching. Wolgast dropped the title in 1912 in San Francisco to Willie Ritchie, tonight.

GRADS HARD TO REPLACE

Yost Will Have Task Filling Football Holes.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(P)—The men lost from the University of Michigan football team last season are what the coaches are wont to refer to as the "class" of the team, according to statements from athletic officials here. By the "class" is meant the men who, through individual ability, have lifted the team above the commonplace. Eight lettermen are gone while five other men who played in games are not on the list of this year's candidates.

"Class" is present in the list of the letterman. From the backfield these include Capt. Bennie Friedman, Walter Weber and John Molenda, while the line absentees include William Flora, John Lovette, Sidney Dewey, W. H. Heath and Kent McIntyre.

The five other absentees from games are: James Oade, A. M. Hughes, H. G. Tomko, Wayne Cowell, Herman Mieshe and H. E. Rose. Oade was a letterman of the 1925 squad, but left school before the completion of the 1926 season. About ten other men of the squad last year are not to return, showing a large change in personnel in the course of one year's time.

Friedman, Lovette and Weber are the losses that will occasion the coaches the most worry in filling their places. Friedman, an All-American quarterback, and Lovette, an All-Conference lineman, and Walter Weber failed to leave successors in the Michigan camp when they left. The quarterback position is especially without a claimant because the Cleveland youth was so necessary to the play of the team that little opportunity has been offered Yost for the usual breaking in of a successor.

BASEBALL

New York, Aug. 30—(P)—Defeating the league-leading Chicago Cubs, by 7 to 5, for a clean sweep of a three-game series, the fast-traveling New York Giants today advanced to within two and a half games of first place. The victory was their seventh straight, and their 22nd in the last 28 games. Only the Pirates, who did it twice, have been able to beat the Giants in their present home stand of 14 games.

INDEES DEFEAT NAHMA, 10-6

Victory Puts Escanaba Bunch in Tie for First Place.

The Escanaba Independents went into a tie with Gladstone for first place in the Delta-Schoolcraft League by winning from Nahma Sunday afternoon, 10 to 6.

The Indies with two runs in the opening stanza held the lead until the fourth inning when Nahma scored four runs. Tebo of Nahma had hit a homer in the third with one on, thus giving the Nahmites a 6 to 4 lead at the end of the fourth.

In the fifth Schwabach took Burns' place on the mound, and Nahma was held scoreless for the rest of the battle.

Next Sunday the Indies will clash with the Northwesterns at Escanaba and on Labor Day with Manistique.

Bait Casting Will Feature Program at Detroit State Fair

Detroit, Aug. 30—A pool 150 feet square has been built on the state fair grounds for national and state fly and bait contests this fall.

Other features on the program this fall include the state title horsehoe pitching tournament, the winner to face the woman champ of the country in exhibition matches.

A better babies contest as usual has attracted many entries. A horse show will be held nightly in the Coliseum. On the track, racing will be staged five week days with motor events on Saturday. Four new horse barns provide 500 stalls for harness racers.

The state will conduct its annual boys school for the lad from each county with the best eighth grade examination marks.

An old-fiddlers' contest is a new feature.

VANCE TRIMS CARDS, 5 TO 3

St. Louis Sent Back to Third Place in National.

Brooklyn, Aug. 30—(P)—Dazzy Vance and his Brooklyn Robin teammates handed the St. Louis Cardinals a 5 to 3 beating today that shoved them back to third place in the league. Vance fanned eight men with his fast ball and allowed but six scattered hits. The speed ball king also helped to win his own ball game by getting a single and a double in four times up, driving in one run and scoring twice.

The score: R. H. E.
St. Louis 100 000 200-3 6 0
Brooklyn 101 000 215-5 13 2

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT... BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Perfect Comfort for the woman driver

The steering column is adjustable to suit your convenience

Buick for 1928 is extremely thoughtful of feminine comfort. One indication of this consideration is Buick's new steering column, which may be adjusted to the most comfortable position for women, as well as men.

And in addition, Buick for 1928 has a new steering wheel—slender to fit feminine fingers—yet deep and solid to provide the firm grip men demand.

Buick for 1928 pleases women because it is easier to drive—because it is more comfortable to ride in—because it is the style-leader among motor cars. That's why you see so many Buicks at fashionable gatherings, and on the smartest boulevards.

MASONS WILL HEAR LECTURE

Chapter Here Arranges for Address by Grand Lecturer.

George W. Leedle of Marshall, grand lecturer of the Michigan Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, will come to Escanaba Friday, September 9, to deliver an illustrated lecture on his recent three-months' visit in Palestine. Mr. Leedle will be accompanied to Escanaba by Stanley A. Farnum, of Cassopolis, grand high priest for the state.

Mr. Leedle, a life-long student of Masonry, went to Palestine for the purpose of studying the country and the Masonic associations and traditions there. He took his camera along and came back with about 100 splendid pictures which had a distinct Masonic interest. He is a speaker of unusual ability and his lecture has been enthusiastically received by Masonic bodies before which he has appeared in other parts of the country.

Officers of Delta chapter announced last night that members of the "Blue" lodge here would be invited to join members of the local chapter for the purpose of hearing Mr. Leedle's lecture.

New Students Asked to Register Today, Tomorrow, E. H. S.

Classification of new students at Escanaba high school should be completed by Thursday night, Prin. John A. Lemmer announced yesterday. Students who have not already completed their classifications are asked to do so today and tomorrow. There will be a meeting of all new students in the high school auditorium Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock. Changes in several textbooks will make it advisable for students in all classes to refrain from buying second-hand books until they are certain they are getting the right ones, Mr. Lemmer said.

Lockers will be available Monday morning, it was also announced.

Delta County Gets Sanatorium Check From Dickinson

The Delta county fund for the tuberculosis sanatorium at Powers was increased to the extent of $45,325 yesterday upon receipt of a check for that amount from C. A. Clark, of Gladstone, treasurer of the Delta-Menominee-Dickinson county sanatorium.

The money was put into a special fund for maintenance of the institution, and not accredited to the county general funds.

Menominee and Delta counties each received checks for that amount in payment for a one-third interest in the institution bought by Dickinson county. The contract called for $90,000 from Dickinson county to be divided between Delta and Menominee counties, the $325 representing half the accrued interest on the amount since the date of sale.

MacNider, Wife, Make Successful Forced Landing

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 30—(AP)—A successful forced landing was effected here today by the army transport monoplane C-2, carrying Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war, and his wife. The plane had run out of gasoline. MacNider and his wife were attempting to catch the capitol limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad after missing the train at Chicago.

The pilot made a perfect landing. After refueling the plane took off for Garrett, Ind., 45 miles from here, with twenty minutes to catch the train.

Bird Season Will Open in Michigan on September 16th

It is expected that the usual small army of hunters will line all bay and lake shores in Michigan before daybreak, September 16, when the annual first day slaughter of ducks begins.

During the past few years the tremendous increase in number of hunters has given prominence and almost truth to the saying "more hunters than birds." After a few days the ducks are more wary and have a tendency to stay out of range and the number of hunters decreases rapidly.

The duck season will be open until December 31 as usual. The partridge season will remain closed this year, but it will be lawful to take, wilson and jack snipe, geese, yellow legs, rails and coots beginning Friday, September 16.

AMUSEMENTS

BRINGING UP FATHER.
"Bringing Up Father in Politics," the 1927 edition of the series of cartoon musical comedies, will be seen at the Delft theatre tonight. Like its predecessors of the series, the show is built around the antics of Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and other characters in the cartoons with a liberal sprinkling of music, dancing and novelties.

The chorus this year is said to be unusually capable in the song-dance portions of the show as well as easy on the eyes. The song numbers are tuneful and snappy and the costumes elaborate.

Others of the Bringing Up Father series have been well received here and this edition is not expected to prove the exception.

AT THE STRAND.
United States marines helped Tom Mix make scenes aboard the battleship California for "The Broncho Twister," starring Mix, which will show at the Strand Wednesday and Thursday. The California is flagship of the Pacific fleet and Mix and his company were guests of Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander-in-chief.

Lieutenant Colonel R. B. Sullivan, Marine corps officer on the admiral's staff, ordered Captain R. Griffin and sixty Marines in overseas uniforms to report to O. O. Dull, director in charge of "The Broncho Twister" and they worked through all the battleship scenes with Mix.

The appearance of Mix on the California is his first on a warship. The scenes picture marines returning from France at the end of the war.

Helen Costello has the featured feminine role. Others in the cast are Paul Nicholson, Doris Lloyd, Otto Fries, Dorothy Kitchen, Malcolm Walte and George Irving.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH MERRIAM.
The body of Miss Sarah Merriam, 65, who died at the family home, 521 South Seventh street, Saturday, was laid to rest at Lakeview cemetery yesterday afternoon, Rev. R. C. G. Williams of the First Methodist church officiating at the ceremony. Funeral services were conducted at the Anderson funeral home at 2:30 o'clock.
