

OCEAN HIDES FATE OF LONDON PLANE

CONGRESS TO WIELD CUDGEL NEXT SESSION

LEADERS TO DETERMINE WHO SHALL BE NOMINEES.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright 1927, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Sept. 8.—Already there are signs that Congress will come into its own at the next session. Whatever over-shadowing influence the executive may have had will be to a large extent offset this time by reason of the fact that most of the men in Congress will have a determining part in selecting the presidential nominees in both parties.

Every day reports are coming in that senators and representatives are active in lining up their respective states for the next national conventions. Whether Mr. Coolidge is to be renominated or not is a question which he himself has put up to his party to decide, but that in the last analysis means Congress.

The initiative in legislation will not come from the White House, therefore, but from Congress. Many recommendations will be made by the president in his annual message but they will be in the form of general principles rather than specific endorsements of particular measures. So important is the executive about anything that might suggest dictation to Congress that even the Department of Agriculture will not attempt to recommend a farm relief bill, but will depend upon friends of the administration in Congress to develop a bill along lines known to have the approval of both the president and Secretary Jardine.

President's Hands Free. The entire cabinet is naturally differential to the wishes of the president and will make no move to embarrass him. In fact, there is every reason to believe that despite Mr. Coolidge's disinclination to run in 1928, the cabinet wants him to do so. Under such circumstances, the individual annual reports from the secretaries will conform to the Coolidge policy and will not undertake any departures in recommendations for new legislation.

Broadly speaking, very little that is new will come from the executive end of the government when Congress meets and there will be more opportunity for individual leadership in the senate and the house than has been the case for a long time. On taxation, for instance, the treasury will use its influence as far as possible to get a workable law, but will concern itself for the most part with the questions that relate to the administrative provisions of the existing revenue law rather than rate schedules.

Flood Relief. Much will depend upon the program for flood relief and it is fully expected that the president will outline in only a general way what should be done, leaving it to the secretaries of war and commerce to go more into detail on this in their annual reports.

Dozens of different legislative proposals are coming up which will attract attention; in fact the next session of Congress should prove one of the most interesting in many years. The atmosphere will be unique because the impression is that the republican presidential contest is a free-for-all and this always means more opportunity for the spot light to play on the senate and the house, where would-be presidents as well as makers of presidents naturally abound.

While no definite word has come from the president as to his feeling as to calling Congress into an extra session in November, there is a well grounded belief that the president will be in a better position to make a decision after he has returned to Washington and after members of Congress have indicated the legislative proposals on which they hope to concentrate. Inasmuch as the Smith and Vane contests are bound to take at least a month of time, the argument has been advanced that the new revenue bill will hardly get through before March 15 next, in time to be of immediate value to the tax payers, unless a start is made early in December.

Senate Needs Start. The politics of the situation, so far as the republicans are concerned, would require action as early as possible so that the voters will feel the effects of such reduction as is made. There is a big expense in administering the internal revenue bureau when a rebate or credit has to be given. If the first payment has to be made on March 15 under the

Superior Freighter Still Hard Aground

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Efforts to release the freighter Ralph Budd of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation, which is hard aground on Pine River reef, about seven miles east of the Huron Islands, in Lake Superior, had proved futile at a late hour Thursday, according to word received from the Portage Canal coast-guard. The craft which is resting amidships on the rocks is believed to be in no danger as no heavy seas are running. The crew will remain aboard.

The coastguards, called to the scene Wednesday shortly after the Budd went aground, stood by all night and returned to their base Thursday when it was apparent there was no danger to the stranded vessel.

Three more tugs were expected to join the Sears and Hubbard either late Thursday night or Friday in the efforts to release the Budd.

LEAGUE TALKS DISARMAMENT

Britain Favors Helping Nations, Victims of Aggression.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 8.—(AP)—World disarmament unexpectedly caused a discussion in the council of the League of Nations this afternoon when Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, commenting on a plan for organized financial assistance for a nation, victim of aggression, declared that the project possessed great value and would deter aggression but that Great Britain would want to see a tangible reduction of armaments before supporting the scheme.

Another matter of importance that came before the council had to do with Germany's former colonies. The council decided to increase the membership of the league's mandate commission, supervising these colonies, from nine to ten, and assured Germany a seat in the commission. This is interpreted as meaning the eventual restoration to Germany of one or more of those colonies she lost in the great war.

On the question of financial assistance, the British foreign secretary declared that it would be impossible to consider the project apart from disarmament, and that British parliamentary acceptance also undoubtedly would be contingent on acceptance by all the nations.

The project which was drawn up by the league's financial commission and now goes before the assembly, provides that a nation attacked could contract a loan on the general security of its revenues, but with the assistance of an international guarantee to be contained in a convention which would be open to all nations. No states would benefit from this arrangement unless they signed the convention.

"Miss Tulsa" Wins Pulchritude Award

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—(AP)—"Miss Tulsa" who is Virginia Claire Howard of Tulsa, Okla., was awarded the prize as the most beautiful girl in evening gown by the judges in the inter-city beauty contest on the Garden Pier theatre tonight. She is a blonde and 18 years of age. The second award went to "Miss Illinois," who is Lois Delander, 16, of Joliet. The third award went to "Miss Hammond," who is Anne Howe, 20, an art student in the American Academy of Arts, Chicago.

Mayor of Memphis Puts Ban on Blacks

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Stating there was no use in mincing words, Mayor Rowlett Payne declared in a statement today there will be no negro policemen, no negro firemen, nor removal of restrictions admitting negroes to white parks of Memphis as long as long as I have a voice in the control of the city government.

Michigan Unable to Pay Highway Funds

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Because of the strained condition of the highway fund the state will be unable to pay $1,000,000 to the counties early in September as planned, Frank D. Fitzgerald, business manager of the highway department, said today. He believes, however, a million dollar payment can be made in October. Thus far $2,000,000 has been paid. If another million is added it will leave $2,000,000 to be paid after January 1, when final receipts for the year are available. The counties are entitled to $6,000,000 this calendar year.

Fitzgerald states the Mason county case, where highway work has been halted because the anticipated payment in September must be delayed, was an isolated one. Other counties will be able to proceed as usual, he said.

C. OF C. COST IN CITY LOW, WATKINS SAYS

ASKS WHOLE-HEARTED SUPPORT FOR CHAMBER.

Speaking before the Forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held last night at the Delta hotel, Charles E. Watkins, educational director, spoke of the coming campaign and how Escanaba measures up with cities of similar size in this and other states. He said that the average per capita investment in the Chamber of Commerce in cities of this size in the country was $1.23, while with the splendid record of achievements of the past six years Escanaba had invested but 67 cents per capita, which was far too low.

"The Chamber of Commerce," he said, "is one great organization in the city which moulds public sentiment and creates public opinion which makes possible the worthwhile things."

"No man can discharge his full civic duty with a check book. It takes man power to do the planning and to accomplish results. The time has come when no one should talk of what 'they should do,' but should rather be thinking 'what we should do.'"

"Blue Print of Tomorrow." "Nothing can defeat 500 citizens who are united to build Escanaba greater and we need to remember that the day dream of today is the blue print for tomorrow."

"The modern Chamber of Commerce is the means of creating an atmosphere to which our children will be glad to return and spend their lives after finishing their education," he declared.

"Certainly there can be no doubt in any thinking citizen's mind that the Chamber of Commerce has been a main-spring of progress in Escanaba during the past six years," Mr. Watkins continued.

"Is there any doubt in anyone's mind that we would not now have eleven miles of modern boulevard lighting in Escanaba had it not been for the fact that the Chamber of Commerce started the program when it planned and financed the Ludington street white way?"

"Does anyone in Escanaba doubt that the Chamber of Commerce is responsible for the Upper Peninsula Supervisors association, through which the U. P. Development Bureau has been able to spend five times as much as before in advertising the upper peninsula as a tourist and resort center, and through which the movement was initiated to establish the Upper Peninsula State Fair at Escanaba?"

Many Accomplishments. "Is there anyone who believes we would now have the Danforth Hotel-Friesian association in Delta county, which will mean so much to the future development of the dairy industry in this section, were it not for the Chamber of Commerce?"

"Does anyone doubt that the Chamber has organized and established the present Farmers' Market?"

"Is there anyone so bold as to think that Escanaba would soon be receiving $20,000 additional annually in her primary school fund and Delta county $40,000 additional if the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce had not, practically single-handed, fought the battle that will revolutionize the method of distributing the state primary school fund amounting to $18,000,000 annually?"

"Surely, no one doubts that the Chamber is responsible for these and forty other outstanding things the organization has done for the community that I could mention."

Built for Future. "But past achievement is only a barometer of what may be accomplished in the future. Escanaba can not now stand still. She must either continue to progress or she will regress. If she is to progress, the Chamber of Commerce must be kept at the highest state of efficiency, and that means that right now it needs members and an adequate income guaranteed for another three years. As in every live community there are always many things pressing to be done and Escanaba is no exception to the rule. That is an economic law that governs the progress of every community."

"If the Chamber is to carry on as it should it now needs one hundred loyal citizens to go to the front for it and see that the necessary membership and income are secured for the next three years. I know the citizens of Escanaba will not fail their city and their organization in this critical hour."

Today's Schedule. Mr. Watkins talked to the Elks at their meeting, held after the Chamber of Commerce Forum last night. In the afternoon he addressed the high school assembly.

On today's schedule are a meeting of the physicians, surgeons and dentists in the private dining room of the Delta, and tonight he will speak at a gathering of the Masonic lodge.

LONDON-TO-LONDON AVIATORS LOST

LONG OVERDUE; GLOBE FLYERS ALSO MISSING

BROCK, SCHLEE FAIL TO LAND IN SIAM CAPITAL.

NEWS OF SKIES

Grave apprehension was felt yesterday for the Sir John Carling, London to London plane, which has not been heard from since it took off from Newfoundland Wednesday morning. It was due to arrive over the Irish coast at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The Pride of Detroit, piloted by W. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, which hopped off yesterday from Bangkok, Siam, is many hours overdue, and although the plane may have kept on to Hanoi, French Indo-China, it is believed that the machine was forced down along the hazardous stretch over mountain and jungle.

Phil Wood and "Duke" Schiller were tuning up their plane last night, intending to take off at dawn for Windsor, England. They will search enroute for the Old Glory, home-bound plane, which was not found after flashing a frantic S. O. S. early Wednesday morning 500 miles from Newfoundland.

As sea, sky and land in three widely separated sections of the world were being scanned for the missing aviators, the wave of revulsion against further hazardous flights continued to mount.

The campaign has begun to have results, apparently. Backers of the Royal Windsor flight wired the pilots at Windsor, Ont., a "suggestion" that the entire plan be abandoned and the Junkers pilots, waiting favorable weather at Dessau, were called to Berlin, presumably for similar advances.

CARLING DOWN?

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Canadian monoplane, Sir John Carling, was believed tonight to have ended its flight to London in that port of missing planes which has engulfed eight others during the summer.

The last of those eight was the American monoplane Old Glory which disappeared yesterday and of which no trace had been found as of tonight.

The Carling, manned by Capt. Terrence Tully and Lieut. James McKeef, took off from Harbor Grace, N. F., at 7:25 a. m., eastern standard time, yesterday, and from the moment it faded from the sight of watchers on the field no eye beheld it.

Electrifying S. O. S. At 3:17 o'clock of the same morning Old Glory, which previously had been reported proceeding swiftly over land and sea sent out its electrifying S. O. S. giving its position only as "five hours out of Newfoundland east." Then it, too, disappeared as if into some secret realm unknown to man. Three men were on board, Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, pilots, and Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror and flight manager for William Randolph Hearst.

Three ships still were combing the sea today for Old Glory, but none knew where to look for the Carling. Since no report had been had of her over the sea, it was impossible even to estimate the probable general position of the disaster, if disaster there was.

Planes Still Aloft? Some saw hope for the two planes in the amount of gasoline they carried. Old Glory's gas could have kept her in the air if she did not plunge in the sea after her S. O. S.—until 8 o'clock tonight. The Carling's supply might keep her up until 4 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Less hopeful persons argue that if either plane was still in the air tonight it surely would have reached land. Had Old Glory continued on its course after the S. O. S. it should have crossed the Irish coast at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Carling should have got there early this morning.

The search for the Old Glory was spurred, if anything, to spur the traditional zeal of men of the sea to rescue work, by the offer of a $25,000 reward to the crew saving the plane's occupants made by Hearst.

The facility that the searchers felt, however, was expressed to all in a wireless sent to his office by Capt. David W. Bone of the Transylvanian.

Search Futile. "Have searched the area with out result," the message read. "Feel little hope of survival."

SCIENCE WILL ABOLISH WAR?

Speaker Makes Assertion in Address to Chemical Society.

Detroit, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Assertion that science will eventually do away with war and eliminate competition in industry and between nations, was made here tonight by Dr. C. E. K. Mees, director of research in the Eastman Laboratories in an address before the American Chemical Society.

Nations building great navies and organizing large armies with their respective accoutrements, find the former obsolete even before completion and the latter ineffective against the products of science, Dr. Mees declared.

The appalling cost of national defense measured against its utility is becoming increasingly apparent, according to the speaker, and it is only a matter of time until war will of economic necessity give way to cooperation between nations.

Already Denmark has given up the idea of national defense, Dr. Mees declared, and except for its police force is unguarded.

Nations, he said, are becoming convinced that the conquest of an unwilling people is an entirely futile operation for any nation to undertake.

The same is true in industry, the speaker declared, saying: "In the radio business progress has been so rapid, the changes so numerous and competition so keen, that despite its phenomenal growth, very small profits have been made."

"In other industries synthetic products develop overnight to replace the original and wreck manufacturing and distributing concerns. Even standard foods, chemicals, wood and every line of necessity in use for generations are becoming obsolete overnight."

Dr. Mees suggested forming of large corporations which do away with competition between industries as the only answer to hazardous conditions produced by rapid change.

"Competition," he said, "must be replaced by cooperation both in international affairs and in manufacturing."

State Starts Suit to Recover Beaver Skins from Trapper

Five Selected on Cline Jury

Rest May Be Chosen Today; Author Charged With Murder.

Hill Will Return to Illinois Town to Clear Himself

Gusher Runs Wild, Then Chokes Itself With Sand and Mud

Lansing, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Suit against Aldage Murray of Spalding will be started by the state in an effort to recover the value of 445 beaver skins Murray took and sold illegally. He recently pleaded guilty to the law violation. He is said to have sold the skins for $6,675.

Murray is an upper peninsula trapper.

Rockville, Conn., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Five jurors were selected yesterday in the murder trial which has as its principal character Leonard Cline, a novelist, whose works have dealt with murder and suicide. Selection of the jury is expected to be completed tomorrow.

Today, the second day of the trial, was much like yesterday. Veniemen followed veniemen, only to be challenged by state or defense or to be excused by the court because of prejudice against the death penalty or of an opinion so fixed that no amount of evidence would change it.

In the group were a manufacturer, two farmers, a carpenter and a laborer who answered to the satisfaction of court, prosecution and defense the questions put to them. Yesterday a storekeeper, two farmers and a poultryman were accepted on the jury.

Local interest in the trial, which is the result of the fatal shooting of Wilford D. Irwin on the Cline place in Mansfield, May 16, had increased today, at one time nearly 100 spectators being in the courtroom, whereas the opening had found 30 the largest number present.

Cline's wife, Mrs. Katherine Cline, and his sister, Mrs. John Wierengo of Grand Rapids, Mich., were present today for the first time. Mrs. Wierengo today wired Mayor John W. Smith of Detroit, Mich.; Ira W. Jayne, presiding judge of the circuit court of Wayne county, Mich.; and Dr. Leo Drotzka, of Detroit, requesting them to come here to lend their moral support to Cline. For a number of years, Cline was employed on Detroit newspapers.

Beaumont, Tex., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Spouting wild for more than 33 hours a gusher in the Spindletop oil field near here, where active development ceased nearly 10 years ago, choked itself with sand and mud late today. More than 34,000 barrels of fluid, most of which was oil, was given up by the gusher.

Shortly before the well was under control, great quantities of salt water gushed from it, and its derrick nearly toppled over. Boulders, mud and tons of sand were carried out by the gusher.

MISTAKEN FOR ROBBER, SLAIN

Detroit Man Not "Tourist Bandit" Police Discover.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Mistaken-identity today caused the first death in the quest of Michigan police for a highway man who has been terrorizing motorists for weeks.

Informed that the so-called "tourist bandit," who has forced many drivers to transport him between Grand Rapids and Lansing and Detroit and other points, had been seen, an Ionia county deputy sheriff shot and killed Albert Murray, of Detroit, early this morning.

An oil station attendant called state police and told them a man resembling the bandit caught a ride in a car that stopped at his station. State police and sheriffs along the route took up the chase. Encountering the car bearing the license number described by the station attendant, the Ionia sheriff ordered it to halt. Instead, it sped away. The officer's car overtook it and Murray was seen crouching on the back seat behind two negro youths, who were in front. Theodore Allen, deputy sheriff, fired into the car and Murray was fatally wounded.

The officer said he thought Murray was holding a gun. Search revealed that neither the victim nor the others in the car were armed. The negro youths said Murray had not threatened them nor forced them to ride, but had merely requested a ride toward Ionia.

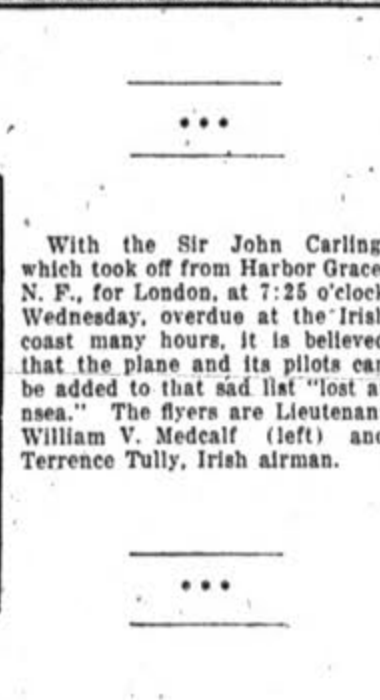

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Harry H. Hill, dapper 22-year-old son of a wealthy surgeon of Streator, Ill., was ready tonight to go back to his home town to try to clear himself of charges that he killed his mother.

In contrast to Hill's hurried and lone flight in his automobile when he read in Streator newspapers that his mother's body had been found in a shallow grave in the cellar of their home, the young prisoner was to be accompanied on the return trip by his father and three Illinois peace officers.

Announcement that Hill would return to Streator without legal resistance came after Hill, through attorneys engaged by his father, Dr. H. C. Hill, to defend him here.

Final Tribute Paid to Wayne Wheeler

Columbus, O., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Final tribute to Wayne B. Wheeler as the "undefeated champion of prohibition" was paid today by hundreds of his friends and fellow workers. Amid floral offerings banked high around the altar of the Central Methodist church here funeral services were conducted by dignitaries of the church and officials of the Anti-Saloon League for which he was counsel. Dr. W. A. Morgan, pastor of the First Congregational church at Chicago, was in charge of the ceremonies. Dr. Morgan was for seven years Mr. Wheeler's pastor in Washington, D. C.

view of rough seas at time of casualty. Am proceeding on voyage.

Some time later the Carmanis, which also had been taking part in the search, wireless:

"Regret search for missing plane Old Glory without result. Weather cloudy. Squally with rough breaking seas. Consider very small chance of survival collapsible boat under present conditions. Am now preceding Great Circle course to Cape Race."

After these two had left three ships remained, but there was little hope that they would find anything.

For the John Carling not one boat turned from its course, for there was nothing to tell which way to turn or where to go.

(By The Associated Press)

The Pride of Detroit is overdue. Coming on the heels of the recent series of aviation disasters, instant apprehension was raised last night when hours passed beyond the time the globe-encircling plane should have arrived at Bangkok, Siam, without a word being received from W. S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee.

Difficulty of communication from that section and the suggestion prior to their takeoff yesterday morning from Rancon, that the day's hop might continue to Hanoi, French Indo-China, served to lessen somewhat the anxiety.

With nearly half their world circle completed, Brock and Schlee left Rancon on the comparatively simple jump of 350 miles to the colorful capital of Siam. Four hours would have been a liberal allowance for the trip in the absence of untoward developments and extension of the jump to Hanoi should not have more than doubled the time of the flight.

Worst Territory.

The Rancon-Bangkok leg of the Pride of Detroit's scheduled route took her over possibly the worst territory to be met in the entire trip.

Not only is the section without any communication, sparsely settled and of exceptionally rough topography, but it is almost barren of spaces usable as emergency landing fields.

It was recalled, however, that in June 1924, the American army world flyers were "missing" in substantially the same sector for two days, but finally reported at Saigon and proceeded to complete their flight.

One telling handicap of the Schlee-Brock plane might lie in the lack of pontoons which would permit them in case they lost their position, to hunt the coast and alight on the water. Lacking marine equipment they are required to continue overland through what has been described as the world's hottest climate, across a terrain of impenetrable jungles and precipitous mountains.

The American army world flyers abandoned a shorter overland route in that zone because of the absence of fields and attaching pontoons, proceeded along the coast.

MRS. SCHLEE AFRAID.

Detroit, Sept. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Edward F. Schlee, whose husband with William S. Brock are reported long overdue in a flight from Rancon, India, to Bangkok, Siam, on their world-encircling flight, burst into tears tonight when informed by the Associated Press, that the airplane, Pride of Detroit, was reported among the missing.

"My friends told me today Mrs. Schlee had landed safely in Bangkok," she said. "I am afraid."

Mrs. Schlee had received occasional cables from her husband bearing encouraging messages, but has not heard from him or of his plans within the last two days.

"Of course they may have one on to Hanoi, French India," she said, "but I'm afraid."

PLAN TO SEARCH.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 8—(AP)—Bill Wood and "Duke" Schiller, Windsor-to-Windsor flyers, who had planned to remain in this city until tomorrow suddenly changed their plans tonight and returned to Harbor Grace, announcing that they intended to embark tomorrow on a search for the Old Glory plane and its occupants.

Persons who talked with the men before they left St. Johns, believed that Wood and Schiller could attempt the trans-Atlantic flight, looking for signs of the Old Glory on the way.

SEARCHLIGHTS FLASH.

Croydon, Eng., Sept. 8—(AP)—Colored searchlights will flash all night in Croydon field and all night lights are burning in hope of guiding the Sir John Carling should it manage to reach the London area. Hope that the Canadian plane will reach its destination is slight as the visibility is less than with low hanging clouds and much rain. Only professional flyers, air ministry officials and reporters are keeping all on the rain-swept field in the hope that the Carling may weather the storm.

Optimism faded tonight among men who had expected to hear of the Carling had made a forced landing even if it managed to reach Ireland or England. There is much speculation among flyers as to whether the lights from thousands of houses and English coast were bright enough to guide the plane through such gray weather.

Papers Comment.

Newspaper comment was anything but comforting, the papers recounting 11 lives already lost this year in Atlantic and Pacific flights.

An air ministry official said tonight that in his opinion there no longer is any hope that the plane would reach Croydon. If it accomplished the ocean crossing he thought it would descend immediately on reaching land.

Among those who paid a brief visit to the airfield today were the two sisters of Captain Terry Tully, pilot of the overdue Canadian plane. They left the field nearly heartbroken at the absence of news.

Four Die Suddenly.

Their anxiety was all the greater as fate seems to have pursued the men members of the family. Of four brothers one is missing in the present Atlantic flight, one was killed in the war, another died suddenly from a heart affection, while the fourth was killed in a motor accident.

SEEKS LEGISLATION.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 8—(AP)—The Canadian parliament may be asked to pass legislation at its next session to stop trans-Atlantic flying to and from the Dominion. It was intimated tonight by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, in referring to recent requests made to the government to prevent air flights from Canada across the Atlantic ocean.

The prime minister said the government at present was powerless to stop such flights from this country. The Royal Windsor, the last Canadian plane to attempt to reach England, remarked Premier King, now was outside of Canada in any event. (The Royal Windsor is at present at Harbor Grace, N. F.)

Should Discontinue.

The government, intimated the prime minister, was of the belief that the people of this country were strongly of the view that these hazardous flights should discontinue. It was hoped that public opinion might have the effect of deterring men of wealth from financing attempts to cross the Atlantic.

"There is room over land for experimental flying," the premier said.

France Has School to Train Shepherds

Paris (AP)—Shepherding is becoming a science in France. A school of shepherding is operating at Rambouillet.

The school is a government institution fostered by the ministry of agriculture. It teaches many things that the shepherds with their crooks, painted by artists and described by poets, never bothered about.

There are no picturesque costumes. Students are not judged by their ability to sing or pose. They have to study the game of shepherding with a view to making a profit on sheep. About all the romance left in the profession is the sheep dog.

MICHIGAN BAR HOLDS MEETING

Knappen Pleas for Relief From Bureaucrats in Address.

Jackson, Sept. 8—(AP)—Relief from the multitude of laws and the bureaucratic government which are confounding American citizens today was urged here Thursday by Stuart E. Knappen, of Grand Rapids, president of the Michigan State Bar association in his formal address at the opening session of the thirty-seventh annual convention of the association.

"Veneration for enacted law which Lord Bryce found the outstanding national characteristic of America seems no longer a guiding principle," Knappen said. "Introduction of efficient business methods in the law office was advocated by Dwight G. McCarty of Emmetsburg, Ia., a nationally known authority on the scientific management of law offices. The Iowa man warned the attorneys against wasting time in dealing with unnecessary details.

The attorney should keep money belonging to clients in a separate fund, not concluding that he had the right to borrow it as he wishes," Mr. McCarty argued. Fees should be based on the actual cost of the legal service, he claimed.

Delegates to the convention, numbering upwards of 200, were welcomed by Judge Benjamin Williams at the opening of the Thursday afternoon session. Henry C. Walters, of Detroit, vice president of the association, responded. Committees on audit, nominations and resolutions were appointed and reports were presented by Prof. H. F. Goodrich of Ann Arbor, secretary, and Don T. McKone, of Jackson, treasurer of the association.

"No Hat Brigade" Has French Recruits

Paris (AP)—The "No Hat Brigade" is making an impression on Paris. American youths who parade without headgear have been reinforced by some English and a few timidly daring Frenchmen who want to be "very sport."

The first hatless man here was reputed to be Eudeline, manager of Eugene Criqui, who was world's lightweight champion for a few weeks. Some of the sleek-haired summer resort youngsters followed his lead at the time but got scant sympathy. Since many Americans and some English have been roaming the streets without hats the French are taking courage, and are doubtfully discussing the advantages.

The principal objections to the custom are tradition and the inability to make a thoroughly conventional salute. It is the opinion of the rigid formalists that there can be no merit in standing uncovered in the presence of women or an elderly man if there is no hat to remove.

DELICIOUS DRINK.

A delicious variation of iced coffee is made by shaking together one cup clear coffee, two tablespoons of vanilla ice cream and a teaspoon of melted chocolate.

MINT FLAVOR.

Chocolate topped by whipped cream that has been flavored with mint has a piquant taste quite delightful and satisfying.

COOKING VEGETABLES.

A good rule to remember while cooking vegetables is to cover all vegetables grown under the ground and leave uncovered all that grow above.

STICKING DOORS.

To prevent bureau drawers and doors from sticking, rub surfaces thoroughly with hard, yellow soap. It acts as a lubricant.

CAKE FLOUR.

If you unexpectedly run out of "cake flour," substitute with bread flour to each cup of which one tablespoon of cornstarch has been added.

WINTER WOOLENS.

Now is the time to get out winter woollens, bedding and draperies to have them aired, cleaned if necessary and thoroughly mended for cold days.

PLANES DISPLACE DOGS.

Juneau, Alaska—With airplanes coming into use all over Alaska for freight transportation, dogs are being used less and less on the trails. Consequently, there is an over-supply and hundreds of huskies, abandoned, have reverted to the wild state and are becoming the most dangerous kind of marauders.

SEVERE RAIN STORM FLOODS UTAH MINES

Price, Utah, Sept. 8—(AP)—Many mines were flooded, unharvested crops beaten down and railroad service paralyzed in this district today by a terrific storm during which five inches of rain fell. No loss of life was reported.

Streets here and in nearby mining camps located in mountainous canyons were changed into small rivers which drove inhabitants to higher levels. Eight Denver and Rio Grand passenger trains were tied up by washed out tracks. Four railroad bridges were swept away by the flood waters.

About 200 motorists were marooned near Huntingdon Canyon. Several towns were without water, beyond reserve reservoir supplies because of breaks in municipal water service pipe lines.

During the height of the storm today, a physician, Dr. James McDermid, of Price, with two other men, braved the high waters of Willow Creek to reach the home of a rancher and perform an emergency operation. The three left their automobiles stranded and waded through water a mile and a quarter to the ranch home.

STOWAWAY SENT BACK.

New York—Miss Fannie Cianci, 15, went aboard the steamship Caledonia to bid some friends goodbye. She did not hear the warnings for visitors to leave and was carried 150 miles to sea. When she tearfully explained her plight, she was transferred in a lifeboat to a passing liner and brought back here.

The average life of an ostrich is 80 years.

present law because Congress passed a new measure too late, and if the second payment on June 15 is to be made under a new revenue law, considerable confusion is inevitable which does not redound to the credit of the party in power.

The sum and substance of the situation is that if an extra session of at least a month would precede the regular session, it would give the republicans a better opportunity to make a record for themselves before the adjournment in June than would be the case if the Illinois and Pennsylvania contests should absorb a month or more of the time of Congress. The tactics of the democrats will naturally be to delay as much as possible and frustrate the desire of the republicans to make a legislative record.

Six Months Available.

Congress is not likely to stay in session during the national convention, so practically only six months time is available, which is hardly enough considering the fact that flood legislation, tax reduction, farm relief and contested elections all have to be disposed of, entirely apart from the usual appropriation bills and the many other measures which, while not of major importance, nevertheless manage to be brought to the floor for debate.

English Clubmen Temporarily Made Homeless; Cleaning

London (AP)—There's a great mixup in clubland these days. Many a member goes around to his favorite club only to find it closed and in the hands of the cleaners and refurbishers.

There is compensation for him, however, in the fact that a notice on the door states comfortingly that the So-and-So club a few doors distant will take him and care for his wants while his own club-home is being doctored up for the winter season.

This retortive cleaning-up process applies to both men's and women's organizations. As soon as one club undergoes its ordeal by bucket, scrub and paint brush it is re-opened and extends courtesies to members of some other club which has in turn to stand the ordeal.

LONDON GIRLS PREFER BUSES TO SUBWAYS

London (AP)—Lord Ashfield is trying to discover why it is that women prefer buses.

He is working hard to induce more people to travel on tubes and thus relieve the congestion of London streets. Men listen to the appeals for more tube travel, but women are deaf. They continue to storm crowded buses and shun underground transportation.

One explanation of the popularity of buses is that women are able to do a little window shopping from the top of the open buses, and do not begrudge the added time it takes to make long trips.

It has been found that highly trained business women, who are efficient office workers, patronize the underground quite generally. But housewives, waitresses and young shop assistants prefer buses.

FEDERAL TROOPS TO PROTECT AMERICANS AT MEXICAN MINES

Mexico City, Sept. 8—(AP)—Federal troops have been ordered to protect American lives and property at the American-owned Amajac gold and silver mines, north of the town of Del Rio, state of Nayarit. The American embassy recently made representations to the Mexican foreign office after receipt of a telegram from the consulate at Mazatlan, saying that American lives and property at the Amajac mines were "seriously menaced."

The dispatch described the situation as serious but gave no details. The consulate reported that federal troops already had been ordered to the mines, but the embassy made representations nevertheless as a matter of precaution. The embassy is not informed as to the number of Americans involved.

The president of the Amajac Mining company is W. L. Barclay, of Williamsport, Pa.

DETROIT SEA FLYERS PLAN FLORIDA JUMP

Detroit, Sept. 8—(AP)—The Stinson-Detroit airplane, "American Girl," with Miss Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, alternating at the controls, plans to take off from the Ford airport at dawn Friday on a non-stop flight to Tampa, Fla. The 1,100 mile flight is the first of three prior to their planned departure from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., on a trans-Atlantic journey to Paris, France.

The monoplane was flown to the Ford airport today, tested, oiled and fueled and the flyers are determined to take off at daylight.

From Tampa they plan to fly to Lakeland, Fla., spend two days there and then hop to Wheeling, W. Va. From Wheeling they will fly to Roosevelt field and hope to be prepared for the Atlantic hop by Thursday or Friday of next week.

The flight south follows a compass course over Toledo and Columbus, O., and Tifton, Ga., to Tampa, consuming between 12 and 13 hours.

The plane is in splendid condition according to Haldeman and both he and Miss Elder are confident their long flight across the Atlantic will be successful. Miss Elder is undismayed by the recent tragedies of the air.

FRANCE INIMICAL TO GOOD GOVERNMENT, SAYS INDIANA HEAD

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 8—(AP)—True representative government has deteriorated through political timidity induced by the bullying of fanatical minority groups such as the Ku Klux Klan, the Anti-Saloon League and their subsidiaries, Attorney General Arthur L. Gilcom declared in an address here today.

"The fear of the political power of these petty group bosses makes timid officials respond to their will and causes many weak politicians and candidates for office to compromise for their support," Gilcom said.

Gilcom charged the political parties with shrinking from carrying out their campaign promises in government when objection is raised by leaders of the Anti-Saloon League and the Klan.

The attorney general said he believed the day of "super-government by mysterious and fanatical imposters" is about over in Indiana. He held that the power of Hiram Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is Hoosier politics is crumbling fast.

FARM BUILDINGS ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Four thousand dollars loss was inflicted by fire of unknown origin which destroyed two houses and a barn owned by Ludwig Brandos at South Ford River at 11:30 o'clock last night. About $1200 damage is covered by insurance.

Flames were leaping from the large barn at 11:15 when Esther Simolson, a neighbor, discovered the blaze. Before help could be summoned the house and barn adjoining were burning briskly. Lacking fire-fighting facilities, the crowd which gathered, could do nothing to extinguish the fire which lit up the country-side for miles around.

All three of the buildings were vacant.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar Moran and Miss Opal Wallace of Detroit, Mrs. Fred Furgere of Racine, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Furgere and Gen. Donald of Escanaba returned from Iron Mountain where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burke.

SEARCHLIGHTS FLASH.

Croydon, Eng., Sept. 8—(AP)—Colored searchlights will flash all night in Croydon field and all night lights are burning in hope of guiding the Sir John Carling should it manage to reach the London area. Hope that the Canadian plane will reach its destination is slight as the visibility is less than with low hanging clouds and much rain. Only professional flyers, air ministry officials and reporters are keeping all on the rain-swept field in the hope that the Carling may weather the storm.

Optimism faded tonight among men who had expected to hear of the Carling had made a forced landing even if it managed to reach Ireland or England. There is much speculation among flyers as to whether the lights from thousands of houses and English coast were bright enough to

DEMPSEY OKED, DOCTOR STATES

Applies for Boxing License From Illinois Commission.

Lincoln Fields, Crete, Ill., Sept. 8.—(P)—After being carefully examined by Dr. Joseph L. Russell, physician for the state athletic commission, Jack Dempsey started his final two weeks of training today, boxing five rounds with six sparring mates.

Dr. Russell pronounced the former world's heavyweight champion to be in perfect condition. Dempsey's heart, he said, was very good. His blood pressure was normal and he otherwise responded to tests perfectly. Dr. Russell made his examination to comply with Dempsey's application for a license to fight.

Dempsey, in the opinion of experts, looked good after his two-day layoff. He boxed mainly to acquire speed and perfect defense for left hands. He started off with a swift round against Tom Moran, junior lightweight champion, and then took on Rocky Russell of San Diego, Cal., Norman Links, Roy Williams, a negro middleweight of Chicago; Oak Till, and Denny Krueger, in the order named.

Lakeville, Ill., Sept. 8.—(P)—Refreshed by two days of rest despite the sticky heat that has settled over the Cedar Crest country club, Gene Tunney will resume his labors tomorrow to fit himself for defense of the heavyweight championship against Jack Dempsey at Soldiers' Field on the night of September 22.

The cut inflicted in Tunney's eyelid by Chuck Wiggins in a sparring bout Tuesday has now healed to a mere line that scarcely shows through the eyebrow. During the six rounds of boxing planned for tomorrow, Gene probably will wear an eye protector of special design to guard against reopening of the wound. The champion, as a rule, never wears the customary leather helmet of the training ring.

Uzcudum Fights to Draw with Heeney

New York, Sept. 8.—(P)—Paulino Uzcudum Spanish heavyweight, and Tom Heeney, champion of New Zealand, fought 15 rounds to a draw tonight at Madison Square Gardens.

Paulino, slightly the heavier, forced the fighting at the way taking, pushing blows without flinching for the privilege of smashing Heeney's mid-section with alternate rights and lefts and his jaw with hard-driven uppercuts. The New Zealander stood back when possible and drove straight lefts to the iron jaw of the on-coming Spaniard.

Paulino weighed 195 3-4; Heeney 193.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—(P)—The semi-windup between Tommy Herman, Philadelphia, and Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., also ended in a technical knockout, the chairman of the state athletic commission stopping it in the seventh round to save Petrolle from further punishment. Herman weighed 136; Petrolle 133 3-4.

Billy Wallace, Cleveland, stopped Al Gordon, Philadelphia, in the third round of their 10-round bout.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

ADRENALIN PROVES AGENT IN RELIEF FROM ASTHMA.

It has been well established for several years that the human being may become sensitized to the dust of dandruff from the hair of animals and that his response to this sensitization may be in the form of bronchial asthma or similar disturbances of the breathing apparatus.

Several years ago a prominent physician showed that a group of children were suffering from bronchial asthma due to the inhalation of dry dust resulting from rabbit hair that was present in pillows, comforts, toys, clothing and other articles. Now it has been shown that it is possible to make animals sensitive to horse dandruff by inhalation, and the reaction is invariably in the form of bronchial asthma.

When guinea pigs had little pledgets of cotton filled with dry horse dandruff placed in the nose and after an intervening period were subjected to dosages of horse dandruff, they developed symptoms of shortness of breath and changes in the body indefinitely associated with the asthmatic attack.

As with human beings, so also with the animals, relief could be had by the use of epinephrine or adrenalin, a substance taken from the glands lying just above the diaphragm, which has been found to be of value in alleviating such attacks.

Suicides Increase When Business Falls Off.

An investigation relative to occupations of suicides is difficult because some persons pursue several occupations; because the classifications of occupations are frequently doubtful and because some occupations are illegal—as, for example, that of professional bootlegger, gambler, tramp or criminal.

A man who may have been a banker all his life falls when well advanced in years; he takes a position as clerk or bookkeeper and after trying this for several months he commits suicide.

His death is credited to the occupation of clerk or bookkeeper, but not to banker, although obviously the latter occupation and its failure is more directly related to the suicide.

In old statistics saloon keepers ranked highest of all persons committing suicide. More recent statistics submitted to careful analysis indicate there is not any particular occupational group that manifests a predominating suicide tendency.

It is a significant fact that suicide rates for persons in military service will invariably be higher than those of the general populace. This is true of the United States army and navy, as well as for those of all other countries, although the rates for our troops are low as compared with those of the military services of the European races.

When there is a financial depression, the suicide rate increases, although in a few instances it has decreased in relationship to a shortage of money and a demoralization of business. Five times out of six a depression of business in the history of the United States was followed by an increase of the suicide rate. Not so much the ups and downs of the national prosperity are concerned as the sudden loss of considerable amounts of wealth.

Iron Trade Review

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 8.—Iron Trade Review today says:

With the mental hurdle of August and Labor Day holiday now past, the iron and steel industry appears to be regaining its morale and the markets generally are looking better. The improvement is spotty both as to products and districts, and in some cases is largely sentimental but the atmosphere is one of renewed vigor.

August bookings of steel producers, while not coming up to the average of the last five years, registered a slight increase—as much as 15 per cent with some makers. There is a unanimity of opinion that September will continue this gain but producers chagrined by the false upturn in July are chary about looking farther than one month ahead.

The eastern and Chicago markets are more buoyant at the moment than the Pittsburgh market, due chiefly to the check under which the automotive industry has been operating. In fact, with the summer holiday and vacation season now past, the automotive situation remains the sole impediment to the customary fall pickup in the Pittsburgh and Cleveland districts and it is probable that uncertainty on this score should be eliminated shortly. The Chicago mills are benefitting from the decision of some consumers to cover more adequately against expected improved demand for their finished products.

Steel making operations are averaging just over 70 per cent, with the tendency slightly upward. Finished steel prices having weathered the stress of August with fair success, they are expected to hold, but a more complicated competitive situation has arisen. In reaching out for business beyond their normal territory some producers have been predicated their delivered prices upon the quotations of producers in the invaded territory. Some apparent shading, especially by northern producers in making sales in southern territory, is thus explained. The Bethlehem Steel company has organized a ship operating subsidiary, with 12 bottoms now available, for transporting its products to the Pacific coast and is reported planning a ship line on the Great Lakes.

Twenty-seven representative British steelmakers, alarmed by a flood of foreign material which may reach the record height of $243,000,000 this year, have agreed to give rebates amounting to $1.21 per ton on plates and sections and $1.82 to $3.04 on beams to hold their home markets.

Omfaha, Neb., Sept. 8.—(P)—William L. FORGING AHEAD.

Escanaba's schools—public and parochial—opened this week with enrollments which establish an all-time record. That is merely another indication of the steady growth of the city.

Two of the nation's leading chain store organizations—concerns which carefully check economic conditions before making a move—recently selected Escanaba as the location for new stores.

There is talk in many parts of the country about business lumps. No such slump has been noted in Escanaba. This city has been steadily forging ahead.

Civic improvements, too, are progressing. New pavements are being laid. The beauty of the Huntington Park beach, marred by weeds which crept in after the water receded, is being restored.

It is decidedly impressive to note that virtually all of these improvements were included in the Chamber of Commerce program of work for the year—a program made up, not by any group of individuals, but by the membership of the chamber responding to the annual "work" questionnaire.

It is emphasized the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce has been added to these civic improvement items, the thousands of letters of inquiry about Escanaba the Chamber has answered; the work it has done in driving the year; the information it has collected and furnished industrial prospects—and a thousand and one other matters, large and small it has handled.

Ninety-nine per cent of this work that could not have been done by any other organization or group.

When anyone tells you Escanaba is slipping, give him a rousing horse-laugh. When he tells you the Chamber of Commerce is not been actively on the job, to horse laughs should be his lot.

PUBLIC MUST TAKE STAND. Partridge in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan are facing extinction has thrown about the remaining birds, all of the protection it can employ. But mere passing of laws and regulations will not save the birds. Adverse weather conditions and lease have had a great deal to do with the scarcity of partridge.

It is true, but the birds' most vicious enemy today is not the forces of Nature but the guns of outlaw hunters. There aren't warden enough to patrol all of the woods of the peninsula all of the time. This fact is well-known to the game bandits. If the partridge is to be preserved, a strong and vigorous public opinion must throw its influence against the bird's destroyers.

The partridge in the past has been one of the strong links in the peninsula's chain of wild-life assets. The bird does not belong to the sportsman. It belongs to all the people. Not more than ten per cent of the people are bird hunters. And only a very small per cent of the bird hunters are game bandits.

Killing partridge this year is a serious offense against all the people. Public opinion must be marshaled back of the birds if they are to be preserved.

THE BADGE OF COURAGE.

It is all very well to ride in an airplane, imposing the care of your life in the pilot at the controls. He knows the tricks of the air and has had experience. But stepping into a plane alone and voyaging across a lake or an ocean when you've never flown or landed a plane before in your life is something different.

Charles Levine may be a publicity seeker. He may lack tact in his business affairs with men, especially aviators, but there's one trait that cannot be denied him—courage. Like the boy who starts riding a bicycle and doesn't know how to stop it, Levine flew from Paris to Croyden, England, across the English channel, and then had to circle around over Crayden field until another plane came up and told him how to get to earth.

Levine may never win any medals for his exploits, and may not even gain popularity among his own people. But he wears a badge of which he can be proud—the bright badge of courage.

HERE'S A QUEER QUIRK.

During the discussion of certain border problems the other day at Washington by the officials who administer our prohibition law and members of the Royal Canadian Customs Commission, the quaint and very interesting fact popped out that the flow of Canadian liquor to this country is not nearly as big an issue as the flow of American liquor into Canada.

Here we have the paradox or vicious circle or whatever you call it on a dry country shipping liquor into one for the most part wet.

We complain that laxity of Canadian enforcement is playing havoc with our dry law. The Canadians reiterate that our 99.44 per cent poisonous industrial alcohol is simply killing them off. The Canadians regard deaths from poison liquor as distinctly bad business.

If we must have poison liquor, let's keep it at home.

Sees Universal Leisure "When Atom Is Split"

London (AP)—In half a century or so hardly anyone will have any work to do, says Dr. Percy Buck, professor of music in the University of London.

"In fifty years from now every human being will have a vast amount of leisure on his hands," explained Dr. Buck, to the university teachers attending the summer vacation lecture course.

"If once the Atom is split—and that is bound to happen in a certain number of years—there will be no need for coal, gas, electric light, steam or anything else like that. Think of it! We will be able to run a train from London to Edinburgh for half a penny, and to light the whole of London or New York for less than one single penny."

REASON ENOUGH. "What was your husband frothing at the mouth about this morning?" "I made a mistake and gave him a lump of coal for breakfast." —Merry-Go-Round.

The PENNY PRINCESS by Anne Austin

CHAPTER XLIII When Jerry Macklyn threw open the door the prince was discovered fighting pose, with a stool raised aloft to strike the invader, whoever it might be. "Don't be ridiculous, Ivan," Vivian Crandall called over Jerry's shoulder. "Drop that stool and then sit on it. But I don't believe I asked you to drop your jaw also. You might look a little glad to see me, since you made such elaborate plans to insure my visit."

Jerry chuckled and stood aside to let her pass. He stood with Vee-Vee, just outside the door, while Vivian Crandall took her former husband firmly in hand. "What? No welcome, Ivan?" Her voice was cool, contemptuous, amused.

The prince had dropped the stool, obediently, and stood staring at her, his pale blue eyes almost popping from his head, his cheeks dyed crimson. "Well, what are you going to do? How did you get here?" he asked at last.

"My dear Ivan, I am a very charitable and long-suffering woman, as you have good cause to know," Vivian Crandall answered him coolly. "I have come to get you out of a most embarrassing situation—for my sake, not for yours. I dislike intensely being laughed at, and if the world knew that my divorced husband had succeeded in abducting me and holding me prisoner for two days in a shockingly primitive little cabin like this, I am afraid I should never be able to live it down. I don't seem to remember you as enjoying jokes at your expense, either," she mused, her eyes narrowing as she studied him.

"What the devil does this mean, Vivian?" Ivan demanded. "Ivan!" Vivian chided him mockingly. Her tone changed abruptly, became hard and brisk. "How did you get here? By car?" "Yes," he answered surlily. "Unless those damned kidnapers stole it, it's parked behind the cabin."

"Will you see if the car is still there, Mr. Macklyn?" Vivian asked. While Jerry was away on his errand, Vee-Vee slipped into the back room and began to pack her suitcase, after a word as to her intentions to Vivian Crandall. She heard Jerry return, could distinguish his words as he told the ex-princess that the car had not been taken.

"That is very good," Vivian Crandall replied. "Now, Ivan, you are at liberty to return to New York as fast as that car can take you. I think, however, that you will find the climate does not agree with you, and that you will be very glad to take the next boat to Paris."

"I haven't any money," the prince blurted out. "You never had any money," Vivian reminded him mockingly. "I should dislike to think of you as hungry, since you do so enjoy eating, so if you will be a very discreet little prince I feel sure that you will find a fairly respectable sum of money waiting for you at my attorney's in Paris. Will twenty-five thousand dollars tide you over until you can land at other houses?"

The prince gasped like a drowning man who sees a life-boat thrown to him; then cupidly gleamed in his popping blue eyes. "That's a ridiculous sum for the story that I can tell to the New York press," he began.

"Story?" Vivian's voice and face expressed intense surprise. "My dear Ivan, did I wrong you when I said you disliked to be laughed at? Of course if you insist on making yourself ridiculous, on telling how you kidnaped your divorced wife and tried unsuccessfully to compromise her into a re-marriage with you, you can do so, of course. The yellow journals might conceivably pay you five thousand dollars for the thriller."

The prince yielded under her scorn and her logic, but there was a stubborn gleam in his eyes as he demanded: "What kind of cock and bull story are you going to tell? You haven't been here with me. Where have you been?" "Ivan, when I divorced you in Paris a few weeks ago, you lost all rights to hold me accountable for any of my thoughts or actions," Vivian Crandall reminded him serenely. "You also lost all claim upon my fortune. But—I don't believe I shall miss twenty thousand dollars."

"You said 25 thousand!" "Did I?" she smiled. "I am afraid I was too generous. On second—or rather third—thought—you will find 15 thousand dollars waiting for you at my attorney's in Paris, on condition that you leave immediately and say nothing to anyone about what has happened in this cabin. And every time you make an objection the sum will be five thousand less."

"All right," the prince agreed so hastily that Jerry Macklyn burst into a roar of uncontrollable mirth. "Now, don't let us keep you, Ivan," Vivian said with sweet courtesy. "I am sure you are eager to be on your way—to Paris. My friends and I are going to have a very good lunch out of your cupboard. I shall cook it myself."

Within 15 minutes the roar of an automobile motor told the three in the cabin that the prince was indeed eager to be on his way—to Paris. "All I regret is," Jerry Macklyn mourned, "that I didn't have a chance to spank him."

Two girls scoot in now, and trust Jerry to provide the makings for a real meal. I know all the shops in this neighborhood, and I bet some of them will remember me, too. They've got good cause to, he chuckled reminiscently. "I hope," said Vivian Crandall, as the two girls mounted the stairs to Vivian's apartment, "that Jerry's real meal will prove a pacifying one, for everything now depends on Paul. And Paul," her voice was tender but a little rueful, "is a very masterful man. He may refuse to let me go on with my plan—and I have good cause to know that when Paul says 'no,' he means 'no.'"

OLD MASTERS

When to the sessions of sweet silent thought I summon up remembrance of things past, I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought, And with old woes new wall my dear time's waste; Then can I drown an eye unshed to flow, For precious friends hid in death's dateless night, And weep afresh love's long since cancelled woe, And moan the expense of many a vanished sight; Then can I grieve at grievances foregone, And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er The sad account of fore-bemoaned moan, Which I now pay as if not paid before; But if the while I think on thee, dear friend, All losses are restored, and sorrows end.

By Douglas Malloch Copyright 1927 by Douglas Malloch LET'S DO. If we can say some word this morning That starts the day in proper style, That's just as useful as adorning Ourselves with satins all the while— And so let's smile. Oh, I am sure there's many a neighbor And many a stranger passing by That we could hearthen at their labor And many a morning beauty— And so let's try. And our own task will seem the lighter, The day be glad the whole day through, And all of life seem fatter, brighter, If you help me and I help you— And so let's do!

C. M. C. HAS MANY PUPILS

Local School Adds 2nd Year Course in Business Administration.

With the largest enrollment in the history of the school for this time of the year, the Cloverland Commercial College opened for its fall session on Tuesday. Mr. L. Walker, head of the local business school which has placed numerous graduates in responsible positions in various industries, reports that virtually all the seats have been taken, and that seating of additional students due to come from now until winter will be a real problem.

A second-year course in business administration is being offered for the first time this fall. This course includes such well known subjects as organization and business management, financial management, business psychology, investment and speculation, advertising, credits and collections and case studies in business. Special courses in foreign languages have been started also, classes in Latin, French and Spanish being in charge of Mrs. E. J. MacMartin, former instructor in languages at the Escanaba high school.

To Teach Accountancy. Rev. H. C. McDonald of this city will devote part of his time in teaching the higher accountancy classes. Reverend McDonald, who has master's and doctor's degrees, is also a certified public accountant. Miss Blanche Charlebois will direct the work in the shorthand and typing department, and Mr. and Mrs. Walker will conduct the other classes.

Instruction in the piano is again being offered. The Sherwood course, equal to one year of conservatory work, will be taught by Mrs. Mabel Summers, and Mrs. Cora Hicks Brace will give piano lessons to the elementary students.

When the night classes open on October 1, two additional instructors will be employed, Mr. Walker says.

This fall's enrollment includes students from many communities in upper Michigan outside of Escanaba. Gladstone is sending a delegation of 17; Newberry 2, Iron Mountain 1, Trenary 3, Rock 2, Rapid River 2, Manistique 2, Rapid River 5, Ingalls 1, Carney 1 and Michigamme 1. High school graduates are availing themselves of the opportunity to obtain specialized business training at the Cloverland Commercial College. In connection with this fact, Mr. Walker explained that out of 130 students enrolled last year, 100 were high school graduates and three were university graduates.

The local college, equipped with modern business office appliances and employing experienced university graduates as instructors, can offer just as well rounded a course in business education as any commercial school in the country.

Description of Courses. The secretarial course subjects are: bookkeeping, corporation accounting, stenography, typewriting, the arithmetic of business, English and spelling, correspondence, business law and forms, filing and card systems, calculating machine work, commercial papers, general secretarial work, dictaphone and mimeograph.

The general business course includes such subjects as bookkeep-

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE STRAND.

A cowpuncher by profession—and a baseball player by instinct! This is the role Tom Tyler, Western star, chose for his newest picture, "Out of the West," to be shown at the Strand today. Tom plays the part of a cowboy who wins a job on the Bar X ranch by his ability to play ball. However, baseball furnishes only part of the thrills and suspense in this picture rippling with action. There is plenty of roping and riding, done in a fashion to warm the heart of the most critical cowboy, and the gripping climax offers something new and entirely different for screen entertainment. Frankie Darro and Sitting Bull are much in evidence and guarantee a generous dividend of laughs. Others in the cast are: Ethan Laidlaw, J. O'Connor, Alfred Harston, Gertrude Claire and Harvey Furey. The continuity was written by Wyndham Gittens from the story by Frederick Mindlin. Robert De Lacey is respon-

AT THE DELFT.

Thomas Meighan, hero of many a romance, drama and comedy enters a new field with his current Paramount production, "Blind Alleys," arriving at the Delft today. The new vehicle can only be described in one way. It is melodrama—fast, thrilling, very impossible but—and this is more important—superbly entertaining! "Blind Alleys" presents Tom as a marine captain, newly married to a charming Cuban senorita. On the first night of their honeymoon they arrive in New York and proceed to buck up against a series of events which separate them. Meighan is struck by an auto and removed to a hospital and Greta Nissen, his wife, finds herself embroiled with a gang of desperate thugs. Frank Tuttle, director of "Lovers in Quarantine" and "A Kiss in the Dark," is said to have created for the screen exactly what Owen Davis visualized when writing the story. Emmet Crozier prepared the screen play.

Gentlemen:—
A word of appreciation for your Lucky Strike cigarettes.
On May 29th last, I was operated upon for gastric ulcer and appendicitis. The day after I wanted a smoke real badly and asked my doctor. He advised strongly against it stating that even a slight cough would "rip me open" and cause additional pain, and if you've had the experience you know that to be so. However, I had a package of "Luckies" in my coat pocket and persuaded my nurse to get them. She did and I smoked eight that day. To make it short I smoked all the two weeks at the hospital with nary a cough or throat irritation or the least discomfort, and by the way, smoking was prohibited at the hospital but nurse kept my door closed and window open so I enjoyed my smokes to the full extent.

I am just a school teacher in a small town and not setting a good example to my pupils because I smoke, I suppose, but there is certainly "pep" in Lucky Strikes.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. McPherson

The Maintenance Is Built Into Concrete Streets

When the street in front of your home or place of business is paved, you naturally want to be sure that the pavement chosen will be the most satisfactory and economical that money will buy.

Before you decide this important matter, investigate thoroughly the investment advantages of portland cement Concrete Pavement.

Be sure you know what a standard Concrete Pavement is. You can recognize it by the pleasing light gray color. It is made of a definitely proportioned mixture of sand and pebbles, or broken stone, held together by that tenacious binder, portland cement.

Our booklet R-4 tells many interesting things about Concrete Streets. Write this office for your copy.

Wells Leads List of Non-Residents in Escanaba High School.

Wells leads in the number of non-resident students who are attending Escanaba high school, according to a list made public of non-resident pupils enrolled this week at the school. The total number of out-of-town students this year is 89, indicating a substantial increase over last year.

The increase in non-resident enrollment can be attributed in some measure to a vigorous program of extension work which was conducted last year by Escanaba high school organizations in the county graded schools for the purpose of encouraging Delta county students to attend Eskey high. The high school band gave a series of concerts in rural schools and this advertising work was substantiated by extension work done of the Eskey Boosters club. The eighth graders of the county, when writing their grade examinations last May, were the guests of the board of education at a luncheon in the school cafeteria, which preceded a tour of the school buildings and grounds. At the conclusion of this entertainment, each eighth grader was given a copy of "What's What in Eskey High," a booklet which explains fully the institutions and traditions of the local high.

List of Non-Residents.

The list of non-resident students enrolled at Escanaba high school follows:

Wells—Elsie Vandeville, Edmund Thimlung, Bernice Nelson, Theodore Meleski, Stanley Meleski, George Maule, Harry Decent, Francis Crosswell, Mabel Boomer, Jack Blomstrom, Marie Roddy, Inez Thimlung, Eleanor Kempe, Sarah Roberts, Esther C. FOSTER CITY ITEMS.

(Chas. B. Wheeler, Corr.)
Foster City—A survey of crop conditions in this district recently made reveals that the conditions as now existing are very poor with no hopes for improvement as the season is too far advanced. With little rain since early in July the ground is fairly baked and pastures in the poorest of conditions for many years. However, the copious rains in the earlier part of the season was followed by an abundance of hay which is the only crop that is good. The killing frost in August laid the potato vines to the ground, making crops in this district the poorest in many years with the exception of rye and barley which are very good.

Town Board Meets.
A special meeting of the Town Board was held Tuesday evening to consider the granting of a franchise to the Wisconsin and Michigan Power Company for an extension of electric power to Foster City from Twin Falls. The franchise was granted with no expense to be incurred by the township and to be ratified by the voters. No definite date has been set for the work to begin. This is a step forward and undoubtedly will meet with the approval of many and be of benefit to the community.

Personal Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Worden of Iron Mountain made a brief call here Labor Day.
Homer Grondeau of Sagola called here this week.
Ole Kiefton and family have moved to Felch where they have erected a new house.

John Curtis and Carl Hansen, employed at Newberry visited their parents here this week.

Marguerite Milligan is attending high school at L'Anse.

Lawrence Larson arrived home from Chicago this week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson.

Clothing Requested for School Children

Several Escanaba families, with children of school age, are not able to send their children to school because of the lack of clothing. It was discovered yesterday, Carl E. Anderson, city clerk, in charge of the city welfare department, will accept any clothing no longer needed by Escanaba families and will distribute it immediately to the needy children.

A number of serious cases were discovered when children who were expected in school were not present during the first days. An investigation revealed that in some cases only one suit of overalls was possessed for each child.

Old shoes, stockings, suits, caps, trousers, dresses or sweaters and other articles of wearing apparel can be readily used. People wishing to help the unfortunate families may call Mr. Anderson at the city clerk's office.

There are three million volumes in the United States Library of Congress.

OBITUARY

MISS GRACE FISH.
Word received in the city yesterday announced the death of Miss Grace Fish, of Chicago, at the home of her parents. Miss Fish became ill in May and passed away after several weeks of intense suffering, due to kidney trouble. The family formerly lived at 1010 Ninth avenue south, and the daughters, Grace, Meta and Maude, were employed at the local telephone exchange.

Miss Fish is survived by her parents and two sisters of Chicago and a brother, Claude Fish, who resides in California.

Funeral services were held in Chicago.

DOROTHY ANN WEBB.

Dorothy Ann Webb, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Webb of St. Paul, died at the home of her parents in St. Paul Wednesday afternoon, according to word received by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Larson, 714 South Twelfth street.

Mrs. Webb, before her marriage, five years ago, was Miss Laura Larson of this city. She moved away from Escanaba about seven years ago to make her home in St. Paul.

John Larson, a brother of Mrs. Webb, left last night for St. Paul to attend the funeral, which will be held there today.

MRS. T. J. KELLEY.

Word was received in this city yesterday of the death in Manitowoc of Mrs. T. J. Kelley, mother of Mrs. M. J. Ryan, 623 South Eighth street. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left for Manitowoc Wednesday and were present when Mrs. Kelley died following a paralytic stroke. Catherine, Edward and Richard Ryan will leave this morning to attend the funeral services which will be held Saturday. Mrs. Kelley had many friends in Escanaba who will learn of her death with deep regret.

CLUB MEMBERS AT STATE FAIR

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 8.—(P)—Delta county's contingent of boys and girls club winners reached the Michigan state fair here late last night.

Six boys, one girl and one club leader, in charge of County Agent Joseph E. Turner, made the trip by bus with other peninsula club winners, coming to Detroit by way of Chicago. They are entered in the boys' and girls' club building and will remain at the fair until Saturday morning when they will start on the return trip to the upper peninsula by way of the straits. They expect to reach their homes by Sunday night.

Rapid River Man to Have Hearing

William Cardinal of Rapid River will have a hearing before Justice of the Peace Henry E. Ranguette at 2 o'clock this afternoon on a charge of speeding.

Cardinal was arrested in Rapid River sometime ago by Deputy Sheriff Carl Carlson, and when stopped by an officer, put up a fight in an effort to resist arrest. It is probable that he will also answer a charge of resisting an officer.

No So-Called "Sales", But Equal Treatment Every Day

We never hold so-called "sales" of any kind nor do we name comparative prices.

We always sell our goods at the lowest possible price consistent with prevailing market conditions.

When we mark down some article of merchandise to its replacement value, the former price is forgotten.

It is obvious enough that we never mark UP a price!

Our aim is to serve well all the time with fair, equal treatment alike to everybody.

Two Boys Return From Motor Trip to Pacific Coast

Walter Antonson, 16, and Basil Tilbert, 15, local boys, who left here for Los Angeles, Cal. August 1 with plans of entering an aviation school, arrived in Escanaba Saturday evening, having covered a distance of 3700 miles in their Oakland coach. The two boys had planned to secure work while studying aviation and upon arriving in Los Angeles found that no one under the age of 18 could be enrolled.

Work was scarce, and after seeking employment for several days, they wired Harry Tilbert of this city, father of Basil, and he advised them to return home as there were only seven more days before school opened. They repaired the car and left Monday afternoon, August 23, at one o'clock and arrived here Saturday evening, September 3, at 10 o'clock, having covered the distance in five days and nights. Both boys took turns at the wheel while the other slept.

"Sandy" Basil's pet airald, who accompanied the boys to California, nearly all the remainder are buried off the running board on the way to this city and was run over by a passing car while he lay on the pavement. He was injured and the boys drove to the office of a veterinary surgeon where the animal received attention and the veterinary advised shooting the animal. Basil tenderly lifted "Sandy" into the tonneau of the car and brought him safely home where he is being cared for.

Story Hour to Be Library Feature

Beginning a feature which will continue regularly throughout the fall months, a story hour for children in grades one to four will be conducted at the Carnegie Public Library Saturday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. Stories will be read to the group of youngsters in the children's room of the library.

Washington—A check of latest official records shows that there were 77,771 deaths in the American Expeditionary Force, including those on transports. Of this number, 46,284 bodies have been returned to the United States. Nearly all the remainder are buried in France.

Teachers to Be Reception Guests at Church Tonight

All plans are now complete and the First Presbyterian church is in readiness for the reception to be given for all of the teachers of the public schools at 8 o'clock tonight in the social room.

Some of the city's best musical talent will appear on the program. The decorating has been under the able direction of Mrs. George Eastwood. Mrs. Leiper and Mrs. Ziegler will preside at the punch bowl; ten girls from the Westminster circle will serve; Jean Mickelson and Carol Gould will present each guest with a flower, and Mrs. Waldo Roberts is chairman of the cake committee.

The teachers will be received by all of the officers of the various adult organizations of the church, as the total membership of the church is 520, and there are not accommodations for so many at a reception.

Murdered sleep.

SLEEP that brings no soothing rest. Empty muscles back to weary bodies! No wonder people crack and break when precious sleep is murdered.

What a tragedy that so few realize the suffering constipation causes! It ruins health and wrecks beauty. It saps strength. It murders sleep! It sickens the body and causes disease after disease. And it could all be so easily relieved. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation safely, promptly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

No need for habit-forming pills! How different from dangerous pills and drugs—which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak a few moments to bring out all its flavor. Serve with other cereals. In soups. Try recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Don't accept a part-bran substitute. Insist on genuine Kellogg's. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants—on diners. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

Why part-bran products fail!

ALL-BRAN has "bulk!" This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines—gently distending them—purifying, removing poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so

Who Killed Alvin Benson?

THE GIRL

FROM the first, District Attorney Markham believed firmly in the guilt of Muriel St. Clair. But Philo Vance, his friend, laughed at him. "Y' know, Markham," he said, "I was afraid for a moment you were actually going to send for the manacles. And if you had, you'd have regretted it to your dying day . . . She couldn't have done it, y' know."

Markham submitted his evidence, and Vance scorned it. "Worthless," he said.

Philo Vance was convinced that indicatory or circumstantial evidence was not only useless in the solution of a crime, but it often led to the conviction of innocent persons. The only evidence he recognized was psychological.

"The murderer," he told Markham, "inevitably leaves the imprint of his personality on the crime, just as the painter leaves something of his character on the canvas."

It meant nothing to Vance that Miss St. Clair had dined with Benson late the evening of the fatal shooting; that her gloves and handbag had been found in the room with his body; that her attitude had been one of flippancy and defiance beneath the questioning of the district attorney. The girl was, to Vance's way of thinking, psychologically incapable of being Benson's murderer.

You will be amazed at the methods of Philo Vance when you read "The Benson Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine. These methods are in themselves an innovation in detective fiction, and the working out of the complicated Benson mystery contains new thrills for the most experienced readers of the detective story.

Philo Vance is superb. He is destined for a place in the hall of fame reserved for the immortal sleuths of fiction.

The "Benson Murder Case" begins Thursday, September 15, in THE PRESS. Watch for it.

Cubs Whip Cardinals, Take Third Place in League

BOMBARD FOUR HURLERS, 11-7

Root Turns in 25th Victory; Schulte Hits for Circuit.

St. Louis, Sept. 8.—(P)—Slamming four pitchers for 16 hits, the Chicago Cubs took the final game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals today, 11 to 7, and went back into third place in the tight National League pennant race. The Cubs now are leading the Cardinals by one percentage point.

The two teams got an even break on the series. This was the 25th victory of the season for Charley Root, who kept the Cardinals' hits well scattered except in the fifth and seventh. Schulte hit a homer with one on in the fifth.

MANY CHANGES IN ROELS' TEAM

Snyder, Gustafson, Big Linemen, Shifted to Backfield.

Several important, unexpected changes in the lineup of the Escanaba high school football team will be observed by local fans when the Highlanders make their first appearance before a crowd of enthusiastic fans September 24. The changes, although they at first seem to be more or less out of the ordinary, will undoubtedly make the strongest combination the Highland mentor can devise. Roels has been thinking things over and has weighed his material carefully with the result that he has changed Snyder and Gustafson to the backfield. Last year Snyder was rated as one of the best ends in the peninsula and Gustafson chucked up as a massive, versatile lineman who could play either guard or tackle and do it well.

Putting both of these heavyweights on the ball-carrying end of the game seems at first thought to be rather strange, but Snyder in less than a week of practice has proved himself a competent, shifty and plunging backfield man. Whether Roels expects Gustafson to fill the vacancy made by Deslets, last season's plunger, is unknown, but fans who have watched the workouts thus far are "banking" that if the plan isn't right he will find plenty of sub-backfield material from last year. The Roelers were put through several plays yesterday to accustom them to pivoting, dodging and taking the ball from center. Blocking and tackling was given a heavy play along with general first-week coaching.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—(P)—Jack Groos, Salem, N. J., knocked out Romeo Rojas, Chile, tonight in the first round of a 10-round bout. The knockout blow, a hard left to the stomach, came one minute and 59 seconds after the fight started.

Class C Coaches Meet at Manistique to Arrange Schedule

Manistique, Sept. 8.—(Special)—Football coaches representing six upper peninsula Class C schools will meet at the high school in this city at 10 o'clock Saturday morning to prepare a schedule of athletic contests and a set of rules for the coming seasons. The schools that will be represented are Newberry, Munising, Baraga parochial (Marquette), St. Joseph's parochial (Escanaba) and Manistique. Following the meeting at the school, the group will gather at the Arrowhead Inn for the noon lunch.

MACKMEN TRIM TIGERS, 9 TO 1

Grove Fans Eight Players, Slams Out Long Homer.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—(P)—The Athletics defeated the Detroit Tigers in the opening game of the series today by a score of 9 to 1. Lefty Grove fanned eight of the Tigers in winning the 19th game of the season and also hit a home run, a single and a sacrifice fly that accounted for three runs. Sammy Hale hit for the circuit in the first inning. Detroit's only run came in the fifth inning on three singles and an error. Manush beat out a roller and went to second on Fothergill's single. Tavenner singled along the third base line and Manush scored when Hale threw wide toward first. With Fothergill on third and Tavenner on second, Woodall grounded out and Stoner fanned.

The Tigers did not threaten during the next four innings. Harry Hellman, who appears to be battling honors in the major leagues, went hitless in four times at the plate. Hale Opens Scoring. Hale, Philadelphia's third baseman, opened the scoring in the first inning when he drove out a home run. The Athletics scored again in the third and in the fifth pushed in three more on four hits. Boley filed out. Grove singled and stole second. Gehring threw out Bishop. Grove taking third. Hale singled to score Grove and French singled. Tyrus Raymond Cobb doubled, scoring Hale and French and Cochrane was walked. Cobb took third and Cochrane second on a wild pitch but Dikes flew out to Gehring.

Grove hit a home run over the right field fence in the sixth inning. Holloway relieved Stoner in the seventh and in the eighth walked Cochrane. Dikes singled and Cochrane scored on Jacobson's sacrifice fly. Boley singled and took second on Holloway's throw to third. Grove's fly to Hellmann scored Dikes and Bishop singled, scoring Boley. Tavenner tossed out Hale.

HAGEN LEADING WESTERN OPEN

Champion Gets Par 70 in First Round of Annual Meet.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—(P)—Walter Hagen today duplicated his practice round of par 70 and took the lead at the end of the first round in defense of his title as western open golf champion. Hagen was exact par on both nines of No. 4 course of Olympia Field club, which was one stroke better than the next best score, shared by Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis.; Dick Grout of Okmulgee, and Eddie Murphy of Chicago.

There were two other perfect scores, however. Tommy Armour of Washington, American and Canadian open champion, and Al Watrus, of Grand Rapids scoring 72 each on No. 1 course, whose par is two strokes higher than that of No. 4. Hagen and the others who played No. 4 today will take their turns on the first links tomorrow.

Armour Recovers. Armour's par scoring today was a distinct recovery from his final practice rounds in which he took 82, including 45 blows for the final nine of the fourth course. He was a trifle erratic today, driving so nearly out of bounds on the first hole that he played a provisional ball and hooked into Butterfield Creek on the 10th, where he took seven. The National Open champion, however, got four birdies and was over par on only three holes. Chick Evans, playing with Armour and keeping up his record recovery from a long slump got a 73, going one above par on four holes and bagging three birdies. Hagen owed his leading score to an eagle three on the 515-yard first hole, where he sank a long approach putt from off the carpet for he went one above par on three holes and got only one birdie. This was Walter's second eagle on the hole, for he sank a 30-foot putt there two years ago in his victory over William Melhorn in the finals for the professional golfers' championship. His card with par: Par out..... 344 443 434-35 Hagen out..... 345 443 444-35 Par in..... 444 345 344-35-70 Hagen in..... 443 355 344-35-70 The leading cards on No. 1 course: Par out..... 443 543 445-36 Watrus out..... 443 543 444-35 Armour out..... 434 543 346-36 Evans out..... 453 544 435-37 Par in..... 543 434 445-36-72 Watrus in..... 443 435 455-37-72 Armour in..... 734 434 344-36-72 Evans in..... 634 424 454-36-73 There were a half-dozen 72's on the fourth course, which many experts pronounce as difficult as No. 1, less than 100 yards longer. These 72's were made by Harry Cooper, of Los Angeles, who lost the play off for the national open to Armour. Bob MacDonald, Tom Kennett and Walter Kennett of Chicago, Neal McIntyre of Indianapolis and Vincent Elder of Olean, N. Y.

MICHIGAN ENTRIES. Chicago, Sept. 8.—(P)—Following are the first round scores of Michigan entries in the western open tourney: Nick Weber, Grand Rapids, 41-36-77. George Welsh, Lapeer, 40-38-78. M. Three Rounds Were Enough Dempsey's Greatest Knockouts for Jack to Wallop Miske

It took Champion Jack Dempsey less than three rounds to knock out Billy Miske when they fought at Benton Harbor, Mich., in September, 1920. Miske had shot a left hook to Dempsey's jaw. It surprised the champion. Jack, delaying a moment, sent a teasing light left at Miske and then followed with a left hook that sent him down for a count of nine. A right cross to the jaw ended the bout. But experts were unanimous in their opinion that the fight had been decided by that smash in the opening round, that pile-driving right to Miske's heart that caused the St. Paul battler to grunt in pain.

Milwaukee Badgers Will Meet Packers

Green Bay, Wis.—The Milwaukee Badgers will face the Green Bay Packers in their first game of the professional football season here next Sunday. The Badgers are carrying virtually the same men who played last year with the addition of several strong players to bolster up the positions where they were weak. Fahay and Neacy will be at end positions; Orle Lane and Ashmore will be regular tackles, with Art Mpran, another former Marquette man, will fill in at the tackle position. The guards are Dunnigan former Minnesota grider, and Engelking, a 247-pound importation from California, Hollister and Curtin, who played quarter last year, will be back again calling signals. Woods, another product of California, will be at fullback, and at half will be the same trio which per-

Wells Will Clash With Railroaders

The Wells and Chicago & North Western nines, both members of the Delta-Schoolcraft amateur baseball league, will meet in a post-season contest at the Wells diamond on Sunday afternoon. Jonas and Wuryley will form the battery for the Railroaders. Wells will be called for pitching duty for the Wells team, while Couillard will be on the receiving end. Both teams have been playing classy ball all season, and a post-season contest should be a real attraction for baseball fans. The brain of the average man weighs 48 ounces. formed last season, Bryan, Murphy and Helmsch. Don Crane, rates as the best center Marquette ever had, will again be at his old place.

YANKEES TRIM BROWNS, 2 TO 1

Hoyt Wins Pitching Duel From Jones, Former Teammate.

New York, Sept. 8.—(P)—The New York Yankees hung up their 19th straight victory from the St. Louis Browns today, Waite Hoyt winning a pitching duel against Sam Jones, a former teammate, by 2 to 1. It was Hoyt's 20th victory of the season. He yielded only three hits, one being Ken Williams' 17th four-bagger. Jones gave but four safeties. Ruth drew three bases on balls in four times up. RED SOX 10; INDIANS 8. Boston, Sept. 8.—(P)—Boston defeated Cleveland in a see-saw game today, 10 to 8, the result being due largely to the hitting of Rothrock and Tobin. Pitchers Shaute and Underhill experienced difficulties in the sixth and seventh innings, mainly because of their wildness, and the Red Sox piled up seven runs to overcome the Indians' early lead. TILDEN'S SPEED UPSETS COCHET

American Wins in First Round of Davis Cup Tourney.

Germontown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—(P)—Wielding as potent a racquet as he has ever flashed in international tennis competition, "Big Bill" Tilden turned the tables on his French rival, Henri Cochet, today and enabled America to break even with France in the first two matches of the Davis cup challenge round. Tilden, with an attack of dazzling brilliance, outstroked and outplayed Cochet in four thrilling sets, decided by scores of 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 8-6, after the matchlike game of Rene Lacoste had crushed "Little Bill" Johnston by the stunningly decisive count of 6-2, 6-2. Johnston's rout was as tragic and complete as Tilden's triumph was spectacular. The little Californian was only a shadow of his former self, lacking control as well as power in a vain fight against the flawless defense and tactics of Lacoste. Tilden, in contrast, seldom has reached such astonishing heights of stroking genius. Slumping now and then, especially in the second set, he always was able to lift his game to brilliant heights to outvolley, outdrive and outmaneuver France's most brilliant performer.

Tilden, as a result, is the rock upon which rested tonight America's hopes of successfully defending the Davis cup in the race of the most formidable challenge to this country's team in eight years. So convinced were America's strategists of this, as well as of Johnston's decline, that they switched their plans suddenly after today's play, announcing that Francis T. Hunter, instead of "Little Bill" will pair with Tilden in the doubles tomorrow against Jacques Brugnon and Jean Bortrau. Four hours previously it had been declared Johnston and Tilden would carry the entire burden. To keep the Davis cup, the Americans will need a triumph in the doubles tomorrow as well as a victory by Tilden over Lacoste in Saturday's singles, for Johnston, on his form today, probably will have a slim chance of upsetting Cochet in the remaining singles battle.

Coliseum Dance—A large crowd attended the dance at the Coliseum on Wednesday night. The Blue Aces, a new dance orchestra, furnished delightful music for the occasion. The same organization will play for a dance that will be held at the Coliseum next Wednesday night, September 14. Manager Flath announces that the dance nights will be changed to Fridays, starting with Friday, September 21. A double orchestra will fill the bill on this occasion.

Westminster Circle—A preliminary meeting of officials and committee chairmen of Westminster Circle, First Presbyterian church, was held in the manse yesterday afternoon when plans for the winter's work were laid. One of the features of the program will be a play. Mrs. John B. Hubbard was patroness at the meeting.

Advisors Selected—Two high school organizations and one class met yesterday at the Escanaba high school to select class advisors for the coming year. The selections made follow: Esby Mortarboard, Miss E. Mack; Orange and Black society, I. Soderberg; Senior class, Mr. Taylor and Miss Hubert. Selection of other class advisors will be made this week with class officer elections slated for next month.

Resume Services—Services at the Swedish Methodist church will be resumed next Sunday morning and evening following the return of Rev. O. R. Palm from the annual conference in Duluth, Minn. Reverend Palm was accompanied by Mrs. Palm.

Pastor Will Leave for Conference at Port Huron Monday

Rev. R. C. G. Williams, pastor of the First Methodist church will leave Monday morning by motor for Port Huron to attend the annual Detroit area conference of the church. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Williams, their son, Rev. Leslie Williams of Stephenson, and Miss Thelma Sawdy. Miss Sawdy after a week in the Lower Peninsula will go on to Chicago to attend the Bush Conservatory of Music.

The party will stay, during conference week, with another son, Rev. Jack Williams, at Avoca. Rev. Leslie Williams will occupy his brother's Avoca pulpit at the morning service on Sept. 18, and the senior clergyman of the family will preach in the same church at night. Among the conference speakers this year will be Bishop Joseph F. Berry of Pennsylvania who will be guest at a "homecoming" banquet and who will deliver the conference sermon; Dr. Joshua Stanfield; Dr. M. P. Burns of Philadelphia; Bishop Brewing of Toronto; Dr. Raymond V. Johnson; Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris; Dr. Ralph Diffendorfer, secretary of the church's board of foreign missions, and many other notables.

MORE U. P. FIRE TOWERS HINTED

Michigan May Use Trucks to Facilitate Fire Fighting.

Lansing, Sept. 8.—Possible establishment of more fire towers in the upper peninsula, the addition of fire trucks to the forest fire-fighting equipment, the proposed building up of the state game refuge areas, improvements and expansion at the state fish hatcheries and a campaign to enforce more strictly the beaver trapping regulations, are among the points which the department of conservation will take up in its new program, according to Leigh Young, director of the state commission.

Measures for strengthening the fire protective unit and for building up the fire-fighting equipment are now under consideration, according to Director Young. There are 14 forest fire districts in the state, he said, with seven located in the upper peninsula and seven in the lower. Two fire-fighting pumper trucks have already been added to the equipment in the upper peninsula and next year it is the hope of the commission to have each of the 14 districts provided with similar equipment.

One man would be assigned to each truck, ordered to care for it and be ready for a call at any time, he declared. The approaching season is one in which there is great danger from forest fires, Young warned, and careful observance is necessary, especially in the upper peninsula.

The state department proposes to put an end to persistent complaints about illegal beaver trapping, according to Young. Persistent complaints of trouble caused by the beavers will result in state game wardens being sent to the locality, he said. The wardens will investigate, and if they find reason to believe that trapping is necessary, they will assign state trappers to the affected area. The animals will then be shipped to various points throughout the state where individuals have started beaver farms.

The establishment of game refuges in both peninsulas is another undertaking which is receiving the serious attention of the department at the present time, Young said. A tentative program for extending the private game refuges, under state supervision, and for adding new refuges to those already owned and operated by the state is being drawn up.

Young reported that the first hatcheries throughout the state were being operated efficiently. State men will be sent out to "plant" fish in the future, he announced.

IN NEW YORK

New York—Few people realize how vast is the army that awaits the opportunity of dispensing amusement to American audiences. Only one who has studied the "at liberty" notices over periods of time can sense the comedy, tragedy, pathos and irony of the struggle to somehow, somewhere make a living at what Broadway is pleased to call the "show racket."

Strangely enough few of these "at liberty" folk are on Broadway; they are scattered over the nation, some in tiny hamlets of which I have never heard, some in farming communities, some in cities. Between the lines one often reads actual desperation.

Out from a notice spring such words as these: "Married, must have position at once." The word "must" is capitalized. And the notice comes from Carrington, Ga.—whether that is!

"At liberty," in the show world, is a refined way of saying "out of a job," or "expecting to be."

Let me give you a few examples of one afternoon's delvings into the appeals that find their way to Broadway.

Here's one from Staten Island, just across the river from Manhattan: "Young man, 26, will consider any offer. Could do female impersonating. Will someone please teach me dancing suitable for female impersonating and let me pay after I get an engagement!"

And here's a fellow in Gloomington, Ill., who is "the highest still walker doing the black bottom."

Of course you smile. But think of the hours that probably went into learning this.

Here's another who can "do a strong man act, a barefoot dance on red hot stove, a human encyclopedia (answering all questions correctly) necromancer and polyphonism." If this isn't enough he has a wife who is a wrestler ready to meet all comers.

So versatile, and yet out of a job. All he asks is a chance with a medical show, which isn't asking much.

But the prize, it seems to me, goes to a fellow in Laredo, Texas, who announces that he has for sale: Baby boa constrictors . . . 18 and 20 inches long. You can raise them and have a fine pet."

Yes, bo! How the neighbor's children would love these dainty seven-foot playmates!

Wine Area Shrinking as Earth Grows Cold

Paris—(P)—The earth is cooling much faster than savants think, is the conviction of wine-growing experts. As evidence they point to the fact that the area in which vines can be grown to advantage is gradually receding.

A century ago wine was made in the north of France, and no longer than 40 years ago there were 50,000 acres of vineyards in full growth around Paris. This area now is too cold for growing wine grapes.

Touraine growers are beginning to realize the danger of the increasing dampness and express fears for the future of their hitherto prosperous industry.

Breeders and trainers of canaries claim that both the voices and the tempers of the songsters are spoiled by jazz music.

PORRIDGE VOLCANO. Johannesburg, South Africa—Streets in the industrial district here were filled with boiling porridge recently when fire destroyed a large milling establishment. Firemen poured tons of water on the blazing mill and the water swelled the great quantities of crushed oats which burst the walls and flower into the streets. Natives made a hearty meal.

ANTI-MILDEW COVER. If you will cover jam jars with some grease-proof paper, and seal it on with paraffin, you will find that your jam never mildews.
