RESPECT FOR NAVAL RULES WAS OBJECT

MAGRUDER SHOULD NOT HAVE GRANTED INTERVIEWS

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright 1927, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Oct. 28.—Naval etiquette and a respect for navy regulations is the only issue which the navy department recognizes in the case of Rear Admiral Magruder. Had the admiral confined his criticisms of naval policy to articles dealing with naval affairs and eliminated some of his interviews with the press which followed he probably would not have aroused the ire of his superior.

Again, if the admiral had addressed his request for an interview with President Coolidge to the Secretary of the Navy in the regular channel of communication for naval officers, his request might not have been denied.

Discussion Not Harmful There is no disposition here to carry on any punitive campaign against Admiral Magruder. So far as the president is concerned the incident is closed and there is no talk of further disciplinary measures.

If Admiral Magruder had made this criticism in a period of real emergency he would have been seriously reprimanded. But it is realized that this is a time of comparative quiet in matters of naval policy and there is no harm in an open discussion of such questions as the economy of construction and the handling of naval yards.

The secretary of the Navy has been disposed from the start to regard the admiral's writings as an opportunity to get constructive criticism instead of making the admiral a martyr. In ordering Admiral Magruder to Washington, the intention is to have him in the navy department, where day by day he can express his views and make his suggestions instead of to the press in interviews that condemn the executive staff and the secretary himself by implication.

Can Resign and Talk Admiral Magruder has the option always of resigning from the navy and expressing himself freely in newspapers and periodicals and in public meetings just as have some of the retired officers like Admiral Fiske and Admiral Sims, but while on active duty the feeling of the navy department is that a naval officer should give the benefit of his service and counsel to his superiors first before appealing to the public through the press.

MAYORS REPLY TO INVITATION

Cheers and Jeers Received at Office of William Hale Thompson

Chicago, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Cheers and jeers echoed in the office of Mayor William Hale Thompson as a result of his latest efforts to promulgate his "America first" proclamation.

Today, as yesterday, replies to his invitation to United States senators, representatives, governors and mayors to join his "America first" foundation were widely divergent in their expressions. Some endorsed it and still others solicited had not replied. Membership, when to those who are "for better citizenship, based on loyalty," and who believed in teaching the constitution and a knowledge of its fundamental laws.

Thompson's organization efforts have for a time overshadowed his previous attempts to purge the schools of what he called pro-British influence and to expunge English tendencies in books on the shelves of the public libraries.

The next session of the trial of William McAndrew, suspended superintendent of schools, who Thompson called "a tool of King George," is next Tuesday. The trial has been the medium for the exposition of what the mayor calls British influence. Out of it, also, developed a Thompson order to have the libraries searched for Anglo-American leanings. This tremendous task rests with the library board.

Despite the varied response to his organization efforts, Mayor Thompson said he is satisfied with the initial returns. He predicted the advantages of such an organization to teach "basic Americanism" would be envisioned and his efforts appreciated.

MISS ELDER IS BUSY IN PARIS

Shops in All Stores; Pays Visit to Mother of Aviator

Paris, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Pathe was mingled with the thrills of a truant tour of the shopping district in fashion's capital for Ruth Elder today.

After slipping away from her guardian angels for a gleeful afternoon looking at gowns, hats and other delights, the girl flew to a visit to Mme. Nungesser mother of one of the two unfortunate aviators who disappeared while flying over the Atlantic.

Mme. Nungesser put her arm affectionately around Miss Elder's neck when the girl presented her with a magnificent gift of flowers. The eyes of both women were moist as they looked at each other.

"You peerless American girls!" exclaimed Mme. Nungesser when Miss Elder had finished. "I feel from the bottom of my heart the sympathy you bring from America—the encouragement that everyone brings from your great country. I know that my boy is alive. I appeal to you who have shown your magnificent courage to lend your help to find him."

Earlier Miss Elder had been truly the "happy Midnette" that the Paris folks have nicknamed her, but apparently with a much fatter pocketbook than any French working girl ever had at her disposal. She outdistanced all followers in her quick flight to the center of Paris fashion, visiting nearly every establishment of importance that offers enticing goods to American women. She is said to have placed enough orders to terrify the average husband.

Grand Jury At Work in Monroe County

Monroe, Mich., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A federal grand jury investigation into an alleged conspiracy to defeat the purpose of the municipal prohibition law, resulting from Circuit Judge George W. Sample's recent one-man grand jury investigation into charges of law enforcement in Monroe county, is now under way. The investigation is being directed from Detroit and Washington federal offices, it was learned today.

The federal inquiry was said to have been started by agents of the department of justice who now are in Monroe county. Their findings, it was said, and those of the local one-man jury will be turned over to Detroit federal officers for their consideration.

LITTLE HOPE IS HELD FOR MEN'S SAFETY

AIR BLAST CAUSES WALL OF SHAFT TO CAVE IN (BULLETIN)

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 29.—(AP)—It was established beyond a doubt late tonight that seven men trapped in No. 2 shaft of the Quincy copper mine are dead. Rescuers expect to reach some or all of the bodies before morning. A rescue crew of 40 men came out of the shaft at 11 o'clock tonight and were relieved by another crew of 30. A small steam hoist, rails and buckets have been lowered in the shaft for use in removing the rock. The rock will be hoisted from the 41st level to the 40th where it will be dumped in the mine skip and hoisted to the surface.

One of the rescuers coming to the surface with the first crew reported that a hand full of men would work at the rescue. The belief is held that some or all of the bodies of the men can be reached within a few hours.

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Seven members of a mining crew were entombed this afternoon by a fall of ground following a so-called air blast in No. 2 shaft of the Quincy copper mine. All are believed to be dead, but their fate will not be positively known until the shaft is cleared of the fallen rock. The accident occurred at 2:15 o'clock at the forty-first level, 4100 feet from the surface. The entombed men are:

George Williams, Arvid Nosko, John Israelson, Ernest Schilling, Emil Alttama, Henry Haiskoiki, and John Konoski. All are married and have families. Whether the men were able to save themselves or were hurled down the shaft or buried by the falling rock is unknown, but it is believed they had little or no chance for their lives. The blast came with such suddenness, followed almost instantly by the fall of rock, that the men were powerless to help themselves, it is feared.

A crew of 11 timbermen were at work retimbering the shaft which was damaged by a fire which broke out July 13 and burned for a week or more from the fifty-third level upwards. While engaged in cleaning out and repairing a damaged loading chute four of the men were sent to the surface to get timber. The four were supervising the lowering of the timber when the blast followed by fall of rock. The explosion was terrific and shortly after three other blasts were felt.

First Serious Accident. The four men, Andrew Aho, George Strick, John Juttinen and Axel Hendrickson, endeavored to get to their fellow workmen but found the shaft choked with rock. Upon giving the alarm a rescue crew of 30 timbermen and miners was lowered in the shaft. The work of clearing the shaft of rock and debris has been started, but it is feared many hours will elapse before the rescuers who will work in relays can clear the shaft sufficiently to determine the fate of the men.

This is the first time in the history of the Quincy mine, which has been operated for many years, that this sort of an accident has occurred, involving possible loss of life. Air blasts, so-called, are more or less of a mystery as to their origin. Some geologists and men long associated with copper mining in the Lake Superior district believe there are earth tremors caused by a slight slipping of strata. Others maintain they are peculiar to Quincy and some other deep mines and are brought about by the settling of super abundant rock in worked-out openings, causing violent compression or air escape where in the mine. Air blasts have been intermittent in occurrence in the Quincy mine for many years, but no particular fear has been attached to them because they have occurred in the upper part or abandoned part of the mine. Quincy No. 2 shaft is 8,900 feet in depth on an incline.

Many anxious relatives and friends of the victims gathered at the shaft immediately after it became known that the men were missing. Powerless to aid, they are keeping constant vigil, but with little or no hope.

Threat of Martial Law Puts Stop to Violence in Colorado Mine Field

Denver, Colo., Oct. 29.—(AP)—The threat of martial law in the Colorado coal fields today put a damper on acts of violence, but the mine strike called by the I. W. W. tightened its hold.

Three airplanes of the Colorado National Guard circled over mining camps of Southern Colorado, keeping a close watch for any trouble, while preparations were completed to dispatch troops in the event Gov. W. H. Adams decides the situation warrants direct military action.

Meanwhile a second detachment of New Mexico troops was sent to Raton, N. M., as a result of the attempt of the I. W. W. leaders to spread the strike to mines near Raton and Dawson.

Gov. R. C. Dillon of New Mexico said he had no reports of outbreaks but wanted to be prepared for any emergency. The detachment mobilized today brought the guard force on duty in New Mexico to about 60,000 men.

With a martial law proclamation ready for his signature, Governor Adams said he would not act until he felt it was absolutely necessary to employ troops in Colorado. No outbreaks were reported anywhere in the state.

STEAMER RAMS FISHING CRAFT Liner President Wilson Sinks Gloucester Schooner

Boston, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A mysterious misunderstanding of a routine "course signal" was given tonight as the apparent cause of the loss of the Gloucester fisherman Avalon with 11 members of her crew.

The schooner was cut in two off Cape Cod this morning when rammed by the liner President Wilson, in a dense fog. In a statement issued after consultation with Capt. Antonio Martinich, the agent for the liner here, declared the liner's course had been altered when a white light was reported dead ahead and that a signal was given to show that the steamer's course had been changed.

"For some unexplained reason the fishing schooner changed her course in a similar direction," the statement said, "and came across the beam of the President Wilson who at the time was almost stopped, precautions already having been taken to slow her up."

The schooner sank in four minutes but before efforts had been made to lower two dories. One overturned.

The three men—only survivors of the crew of 14—were in this boat.

Co-ed and Two Men Killed When Train Hits Motor Coach

Gary, Ind., Oct. 29.—(AP)—A co-ed from the University of Missouri, a St. Louis youth and an unidentified man were killed and eight others, some of them Missouri students, were injured today when a motor coach was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train in Calumet City, Ind.

The bus, carrying about 20 passengers, most of them Missouri students enroute to Chicago for the Missouri-Northwestern football game, was on its way from Davenport, Ia. The dead are: Miss Marguerit Moss, 19, Pawnee, Okla., Missouri student. Ralph Eboads, 21, son of a St. Louis employe of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. An unidentified man about 60 years old.

COUNSEL WILL WIND UP CASE DURING WEEK

GET NO TESTIMONY FROM THREE MEN

Washington, Oct. 29.—(AP)—With the completion of the story of the operations of the short-lived but celebrated Continental Trading Co., L. of Canada, special government oil counsel will complete early next week the presentation of their case to the jury in the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial.

While they have produced witnesses to connect Harry F. Sinclair with the operations of that company, they have expressed scant hope of any direct evidence to show that he ever was in possession of the $230,500 in Liberty bonds which the government contends were once held by the Continental Trading company and subsequently obtained by M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall and used for his own benefit and for that of Fall.

Just as was the case when the civil suit was tried at Cheyenne, Wyo., the government is without the testimony of four men they have sought to elicit information from. Everhart refused to answer a question as to where he got the bonds, standing on his constitutional right that he did not have to answer because his evidence might tend to incriminate him.

H. S. Osler, a Canadian citizen, president of the Continental company, who the government has testimony to show, directed the purchase of the bonds for the Continental company, is unavailable as a subpoena would not hold against him since he is not an American citizen. He declined to give a deposition in Canada for use at the Cheyenne trial.

Two Visiting Europe. The other two men, who, governmental counsel contend, could tell the Continental company in its details, are Harry M. Blackmer, former chairman of the board of the Mid-West Refining company, and James E. O'Neil, former president of the Prairie Oil and Gasoline company. They have been sojourning in Europe since the early days of the oil investigation.

In the absence of these witnesses, government counsel are undertaking to show to the jury that Sinclair was one of those who guaranteed the contract of the Continental with Humphreys and that of all the men concerned in that contract, Sinclair alone had dealings leading up to the lease of the Wyoming naval reserve.

OCEAN FLIGHT IS ANNOUNCED

Four Flyers Will Attempt to Reach Rome in December

New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Another proposed trans-Atlantic flight this year was announced today. Senare Sabelli said he and three companions would attempt the 4,500-mile air jump from here to Rome, late in December, and that he hoped to land in the eternal city on New Year's day.

Sabelli, an Italian war ace, cabled Mussolini of the project, saying: "I consider it my duty to inform you first, as my duty, that my trans-Atlantic flight in December will be with a type of Bellanca especially constructed for a trans-oceanic flight, and hope to bring honor to Italy."

He said he would follow an all-southern route, via the Azores, the north coast of Africa and Sardinia. Besides himself, there will be a navigator, a radio operator and an expert to record and compile scientific data gathered on the trip.

The plane, which will probably be named the New York, is being constructed by Giuseppe Bellanca, the Italian-American designer and builder of the ship down to Germany by Clarence D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine. Confirmation Sabelli's announcement, Bellanca said the plane will have a cruising radius of 112 to 120 miles an hour.

M'NARY BRINGS ANOTHER PLAN

Has Solution for Farm Relief Now Worried G. O. P.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Senator McNary of Oregon, co-author of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill, and new chairman of the senate agriculture committee, came to Washington today bearing a message of hope for a solution of the farm relief problem now worrying Republican party chieftains.

"What form farm legislation takes is not so important," Senator McNary declared, "so long as our guide is the principle that agriculture must be restored to its former place of equality with industry, transportation and labor."

Republicans anxious to vote for farm relief but not in the form of the McNary-Haugen bill found hope in this declaration, while the adherents of the vetoed measure awaited more information as to a substitute.

To the latter Senator McNary spoke in a prepared statement, saying that the surplus problem was still the outstanding issue on farm relief. The equalization fee provision of his vetoed measure, he reiterated, would have provided a means for marketing this surplus, but he added:

Has Not Discarded Equalization. "The export debenture plan endorsed by the national grain board undertakes to do the same thing and if I interpret correctly the statement of (Secretary) Jardine, he would attempt to do the same thing by loaning large sums of money to co-operatives to regulate and withhold the surplus from sale, thereby stabilizing prices by preventing violent price fluctuations."

While he has not discarded the controverted equalization fee, it was obvious that the senator was looking with favor on both sides mentioned by him.

Banker and Wife Killed As Auto Goes Into Ditch

Chicago, Oct. 29.—(AP)—John J. Mitchell, Sr., 74, head of Chicago's second largest financial institution and internationally known as a banker, and Mrs. Mitchell were killed in an automobile accident near here today while enroute from their summer home at Lake Geneva to Chicago to meet a funeral train.

In trying to avoid striking a cluster of automobiles and persons who had halted on state highway M-21 to observe two automobiles which had just crashed in a dense fog. John Bradley, the Mitchell chauffeur, locked the wheels of the big closed car in which Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were riding. The machine spun around and pitched into the roadside ditch.

Bradley, the driver, was thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Mitchell was one of Chicago's richest men in his own right, and besides heading the Illinois Merchants Trust company, with assets of $478,410,000, he was a director in other concerns.

MICHIGAN'S TITLE HOPES ARE JOLTED

GILBERT UNABLE TO PLAY; SUBMITS TO OPERATION

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY (A. P. Sports Editor)

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Michigan's mighty football team hitherto undefeated and its goal line uncrossed this season, was ground into defeat, 14 to 0, by Illinois today, while 67,000 spectators watched Coach Zuppke's cagey warriors score their second startling upset of the western conference championship race.

The defeat virtually dashed Michigan's hopes of winning a third successive Big Ten title. As the shadows of a glorious October day began to descend on Illinois Memorial stadium, a sad band of Michigan players trooped off the field, crushed in defeat. They had reason to be sad, because they battled today without the brilliant services of Lou Gilbert, that backfield ace, sensational open field runner and kicker. Gilbert rated as one of the greatest players in the west, submitted to an operation for an infected elbow an hour before the opening whistle of the game, and was unable to play.

Aerial Attack Weakened. With Gilbert, the key to the Wolverines' attack on the sidelines there was not much zest in the game. The play of the Wolverines was dispirited and colorless, with out the dash of the amazing performer, who a week ago scored all of the Wolverines' touchdowns against Ohio State and has been largely responsible for Michigan's scoring this season.

The forward passage combination of Bennie Oosterbaan, all-American star, and Gilbert, was broken up. How badly the Wolverines miss Gilbert's pointing is shown by the fact that Miller, who averaged the kicker's role today, essayed only 27 yards from the line of scrimmage in his 13 attempts.

The Illinois, playing a marvelous defensive game and unleashing a smashing line attack, got the breaks of the game that enable them to score their two touchdowns. Their first was scored early in the opening period as the result of a blunder by Puckolwartz who was attempting to substitute for Gilbert. The second came when the viciously charging Illinois line broke through and blocked Miller's punt on the 15-yard line in the third period, the ball bounded back across the Michigan goal with Schultz falling on it.

Grange Makes First. Puckolwartz, the sub-halfback was the goat of the situation that resulted in Illinois' first touchdown and the first points scored again Michigan this year. Mills punned from his 45-yard line to Michigan seven-yard line, the ball bounded out of Puckolwartz's arms.

Garland Grange, young redne brother of the famous "galloping ghost" who demoralized Michigan three years ago on this same field by scoring four touchdowns in the first 12 minutes of play, immediately pounced on the ball. As punishment for making this fumble, the unfortunate Puckolwartz was yanked out of the game and when Fullback filled his place, Timm, Illinois halfback, broke away on a wild right end run, crossing Michigan goal line for the touchdown. Mack's kick was high and true, sending between the goal posts for the extra point.

Punt Is Blocked. Nowack was successful in kicking goal both times. In the third period, Miller's punt from the 20-yard line was blocked by the swift charging Illinois.

Crane broke through and batt the ball down, and it bounced back across the Michigan line, W. Schultz tearing through to fall in for the second touchdown.

The Wolverines, fighting over this break, made their real serious threat of the game. For a few seconds they fought fitly, opening up with passes as line plunges, gaining on every attempt. Whittle passed to Oosterbaan for 13 yards and Rich grabbed 17 more on two throws through a pail. When Whittle tossed another pass as a touchdown seemed tall, but Richman intercepted for Illinois on the Illinois 16-yard line and Michigan's threat was over.

The Illinois, revealing Grange's new star, were all set for Michigan's wanted forward pass, but had no trouble in stopping Oosterbaan, sometimes a loss of 12 to 15 yards as he attempted to shoot a pass. Fullback tacklers broke through and dropped him before he could pass.

Grange Is Sensation. Grange, playing end and a five halfback post, added to the family name with his brother sitting in the stands. Grange showed his hard and often, and on

David Lawrence America's Leading Political Writer

DAVID LAWRENCE

The contribution of David Lawrence to the newspaper-reading public is a unique commodity in journalism. It is unique because this dispatch, written and telegraphed daily to 160 of every shade of varying political complexion, is made up of two apparently conflicting elements. It presents facts and interpretative comment on the political and economic developments of the day from a strictly neutral viewpoint, unprejudiced by any preconceived attitude and uncolored by any partisan taint or tenet. And yet, despite this seemingly impersonal quality, it depends absolutely for its value upon the personality of its author.

The specifications upon which this dispatch is written have been created by the dispatch itself; they represent the composite demand of the American newspaper reader. They have set a standard of performance as definite as a chemical formula. The ability to meet this standard is the fruit of 20 years of a peculiar and gruelling apprenticeship, an apprenticeship which laid the foundations for the Lawrence dispatch and finally placed it where it stands today, the cornerstone of the Consolidated Press association, which is the medium of its transmission to some seven million readers.

He Gets the Facts. The history of these two decades, which is really the history of the Lawrence Dispatch in the making, is the story of David Lawrence's newspaper career, and the story of his life as well, for the two can hardly be separated. He began, conventionally enough, as a cub reporter on the Buffalo Express. But he developed—unconventionally, with almost his first whiff of printers' ink, by bringing something into his "copy" that soon made it recognizable as different from the run of the mill. This different "something" was not brilliancy of style or rhetoric or the tenuous fare of the feature writer. It was in the third dimension of depth.

When David Lawrence went out to cover a story he came back with so many facts and so much background that, as he perfected his technique of selection, he was able to tell a straightforward story that left out nothing that the reader wanted to know. The tale was told clearly, simply, completely. The expert was satisfied and the man-in-the-street knew what it was all about.

When David Lawrence left high school in Buffalo for Princeton university he left the local room of the Buffalo Express for the job of Associated Press correspondent at Princeton. A desk telephone with a "head-set" was a part of his dormitory furniture, and while its blatant ring was never permitted to disturb harmonies of "Old Nassau," neither did Cicero nor Euclid prevent a certain pea-green youngster from scooping his professional competitors by scoring a clean "beat" on the death of Grover Cleveland. This happy marriage of the humanities and the headlines was typical of an attitude that never let the vicissitudes of later years interfere with the eternal quest for the "big story" of the day.

cornerstone of a service devoted to non-partisan interpretation of news by disinterested specialists. So, from the day of his first important assignments, hardly a page of the current history of America has been turned without somewhere showing among its records a word of comment or interpretation typed with the flying fingers of David Lawrence. Through these busy years he has shared the romance of the profession. There was one story shouted from a shrapnel-sprayed housetop to a telegraph operator inside, while Mexican revolutionaries played out their little game within sight; there were midnight rides through the Virginia mountains with a quick-triggered posse and feudists lurking in the shadows, and other news adventures such as are part and parcel of the newspaper man's experience. But it is not such chapters that record the significant growth of the Lawrence Dispatch.

More important are the long and unromantic nights of study, the long days of consultation and research, the headwork that ferreted out the hidden sources and the "leg work" that brought the story home. Through the perturbed and uncertain days of America's neutrality, so hard to understand at the moment, the terse, simple and understandable stories of David Lawrence explained America's course. There were the painstaking and unending interviews, the ceaseless separation of chaff from wheat, the miles of travel from coast to coast, the careful checking and rechecking of data, discounting the wish that fathered the thought, assaying with enthusiasm that befogged the truth. It was this kind of "reporting" that predicted the victory of Woodrow Wilson over Charles Evans Hughes and brought vindication for sticking to a story that nobody else believed.

As his horizon widened, as his experience embraced Europe as well as North America, and as he plumbed the economic strata that lie beneath the life, political and social, of America, David Lawrence's reputation for depth as well as breadth of view spread among the leaders of American thought and action. His sources multiplied, his duties increased. But never did his devotion for his first love, "the big story of the day," diminish.

Today, as on that first day when he picked out on the typewriter with doubt and trepidation his first "piece for the paper," an account of a high school debate, the story that goes to telegraph operator or compositor is still the work of his own hand and brain. His resources have multiplied; he has spread before him each day the complete diary of the government's activities in his own paper, "The United States Daily"; he has an ever-increasing circle of friendships in the official and business world, his personal obligations and interests are many—a home and family to which he is devoted, literary work, consultations, social and professional engagements. But never very far in the background, always close to the surface of the sub-conscious, hovers his nemesis and his comforter, his master and his slave, "the big story of the day."

COMMITTEE TO MAKE NEW BILL

Shadows Hang Over House Members Preparing Measure

Washington, Oct. 29—(AP)—Three political shadows hovered over members of the house ways and means committee who returned to Capitol Hill today to prepare a new tax bill.

Positions to be taken by two of the factors, the administration Republicans and the Democrats, already have been defined fairly well, but some uncertainty remains concerning the views of the third element, the independent Republican group in the senate.

The treasury department, charged with administration of the nation's fiscal business, has indicated it will insist that the prospective tax cuts be well under $300,000,000 and in the drafting of previous tax bills the views of treasury officials always have carried considerable weight with the committee.

Whether Republican leaders in the house and senate will be prepared to support a reduction far below the $300,000,000 mark remains to be seen, but all of those who have spoken publicly in recent weeks have indicated that they would give serious consideration to such recommendations as Secretary Mellon and his assistants might make. The actual recommendations of the treasury will not be made known until the committee meets Monday to begin drafting a measure.

The Democrats have announced through their spokesmen on tax matters, Representative Garner of Texas, ranking minority member on the ways and means committee, that they would insist upon a reduction of between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000.

On the other hand, the western independent Republican senators who hold the balance of power in the senate have intimated that they did not look with sympathy upon a large tax reduction at the present time.

Five Injured When Auto Strikes Pole

Five persons were slightly injured about 10:15 o'clock last night when the small coach that they were riding struck a light pole north of No. 5 ore dock. Robert Selkirk, owner of the car, received only minor scratches. Sidney Reelings, driver of the wrecked machine, suffered a deep gash on the head. The other occupants, Audrey Andrews, Madeline Beer and George Grab, sustained cuts and bruises. All except Selkirk were taken to St. Francis hospital.

SOCIAL

Hallowe'en Party. Pupils of the Pine Ridge school gave an entertaining and enjoyable Hallowe'en party, Friday evening. Proceeds from the party were for a fund to purchase a Victrola for the school. An interesting program had been arranged by Miss Margaret Hefferman, who is teaching there.

Birthday Dinner. Miss Dorothy Hodgkins entertained a group of friends at a six o'clock dinner, Friday evening, in honor of her birthday anniversary. Following the dinner, she and her guests attended the Hallowe'en party held at the Pine Ridge school.

Pythian Sisters Anniversary. The Pythian Sisters celebrated their thirtieth anniversary, Friday evening, with a banquet and program at the Knights of Pythias hall. Dora Norman acted as toastmistress and arranged a very interesting program, as follows: "A History of the Order"—Mayme Folio.

Reading—Helen Snyder. Concertina Solo—Joseph Greenfield. "Good Bye, Sweet Day (vocal solo)—Mrs. E. F. Lucas, with concertina obligato by Joseph Greenfield.

Paper on Loyalty—Emma Bloomstrom. Recitation—Lee Magnuson. Viola Green, grand officer of the lodge, presented two charter members, Mary Rose and Martha Gray, with flowers and spoke briefly on their faithfulness to the order. Indianapolis Still Boasts Two Mayors; Dispute Is Delayed

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29—(AP)—The multiple majority situation of Indianapolis trickled off into legal underbrush today with the certainty that the status quo—two mayors in office and two more in the offing—will be maintained until next Monday afternoon.

At that time Judge Joseph Milner in superior court will rule on the motion of Ira M. Holmes, appointed through former Mayor John L. Duval, to have the court dissolve its order temporarily restraining Holmes from interfering with Claude E. Negley, appointed acting mayor by the city council.

Today, rival counsel of the major claimants argued the question before Milner. They presented such contradictory analyses of the situation that he took the case under advisement. Public interest slumped once the spectacle of dual control had lost its edge and operations of municipal departments, except those involving finances, had the appearance of normality.

RETURN PLANE TO NEW YORK

Mrs. Grayson Disappointed; Will Strive for Success

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Grayson tonight announced the return of her amphibian plane, the Dawn, to New York tomorrow with the words: "In my disappointment today I can only strive for a bigger, greater success for tomorrow."

Mrs. Grayson made known her decision in a dramatic way at the flying camp she had maintained here for almost three weeks, when with only a few moments warning she handed a typewritten statement to the newspaper men.

The purpose of the return and the consequent postponement of the proposed flight to Copenhagen was to confer, she said, with Igor Sikorsky, builder of the plane, it appeared probable that this would eliminate the Dawn from any trans-Atlantic flight before spring.

"I wish to ascertain," she said, "why the plane gained altitude, then lost 400 feet, according to Pilot Wilmer Stultz on our third attempt at the end of four hours when the plane was approximately 1,000 pounds lighter, causing him to turn back and abandon the flight on which we had set our hearts."

"I have arrived at this conclusion after making these attempts and giving 100 per cent cooperation to my flying personnel, whose experienced judgment I have always heeded and after careful analysis have decided expert opinions and further tests are advisable before attempting another take-off. In making this decision, I believe I am exercising common sense and good judgment."

BRIEFLY TOLD

Scandinavian Fraternity — A large delegation of members of the North and Morning Star lodges will go to Bark River at 1:30 p. m., today, where a special meeting will be held in the town hall for the purpose of initiating a large class of candidates who desire to join those societies. The lodges have already a large number of members in that locality and this will be the first time a meeting has been held there. After the meeting a luncheon will be served by the lodge in charge of the members of Bark River, and will be followed by a social hour. Escanaba members are requested to meet at the North Star hall at 1:30 o'clock. Arrangements are being made for the initiation of a large class of new members in both societies on Friday evening, November 4 at the North Star hall. Members from Gladstone and Manistique have been invited for this occasion and a large delegation is expected from each of the sister lodges. The meeting will be followed by a luncheon, program and other social entertainment. The local Scandinavian lodges have enjoyed a phenomenal growth in membership the last two years and have now passed the 1200 mark to a great extent due to the low cost and the liberal settlements received by the members in case of sickness and accident. A new set of by-laws have lately been adopted which increased the funeral benefits for deceased members an additional $25.

Car Owners Should Prepare for Winter

Precaution Now Means Savings in Winter Operating Costs

Escanaba, Mich., Oct. 30—It's time for the car owner to prepare for cold weather. This is the reminder issued by E. O. Anderson of the Escanaba Motor company, who advises attention to batteries, oil, tires and brakes as a precaution against winter annoyance.

The following suggestions made by Mr. Anderson hold good for most cars: 1. Have battery checked and if necessary charged to insure vigorous cranking in cold weather. Have generator cleaned and charging rate advanced to maintain battery in proper condition.

2. Switch to lighter oil at the first indication that the starter is having hard work cranking the engine. 3. See that tires are sound. It is less troublesome to repair them now than to make emergency changes in cold weather.

4. Have brake action equalized, particularly on two-wheel brake cars. "The newer the car, of course, the less the chance of interrupted service due to cold weather," said Mr. Anderson. "With the new Buicks, for instance, most of these preparations may be omitted. Buick for 1928 is equipped with an automatic charging control which prolongs the life of the battery by preventing over-charging. The charge is adjusted for winter and summer operation without any attention. Addition of water is all the new Buick's battery is likely to need for a long time.

5. Sufficient alcohol should be added to radiator to prevent damage by freezing, but not until weather requires it. "The crankcase oil in Buick for 1928 need not be changed very often. It must of course be replenished from time to time, and as cold weather approaches, these replenishments should be made with lighter oil.

"Unless they are very evidently out of adjustment, the Buick brakes will need no attention in preparation for winter. But for the average car, they should be checked over carefully, for icy streets and badly-equalized brakes are a dangerous combination.

"Pretty nearly every one who is driving a car today can remember when the majority of owners jacked up their automobiles for the winter, drained the oil and water, and deflated the tires. Today that is almost unheard-of. There is no reason why, with a little extra care, the modern motor car should not go through the winter without a single interruption of service."—Adv.

beautiful forward pass out of the air for a gain of 12 yards. Grange gave the crowd its first thrill when he received the opening kickoff and returned sensationally, almost getting away for a touchdown, as the "galloping ghost" did in 1924.

Tim, the Illinois right halfback, also came in for his share of the glory, by ripping off some sensational end runs, once getting away for 24 yards.

Refuses to Believe That Son Is Dead

Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 29—(AP)—The former dowager Empress of All the Russias, Maria Fiodorovna, refuses to believe that her son, the Czar of Russia, is dead. Hope of seeing him again she says, is aiding to keep her alive, despite the fact she is growing steadily weaker as her eightieth birthday, November 25, approaches.

Her imperial majesty is still holding in her belief that the czar was not murdered 10 years ago at Ekaterinburg.

Mexican General Killed in Action

Nogales, Ariz., Oct. 29—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports to the Herald staff said that Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, Mexican federal commander, state of Vera Cruz, was killed in action when a second major engagement with rebels under Gen. Arnulfo Gomez and Ignacio Madaya, was fought at La Perla.

Woman Leaps From 22nd Story Window

Detroit, Oct. 29—(AP)—Rebecca Weinstein, 47, leaped from the window of a physician's office located on the twenty-second floor of the Eaton Tower here today, falling to her death on the roof of a four-story building. She was suffering from a nervous disorder.

New Yorker in Paris

Paris.—In the copybooks, when as a child at school, there appeared a sentence which we had to re-write many times, which thus has been cemented in my memory. "The French are a happy people."

And, after a week in Paris, I never again shall be able to laugh at a Scotch story.

For instance: In the rooms of each hotel are two electric lights. But such are the connections that it is impossible to have them both lighted at the same time. Press one button and the left light goes out; press the other button and the first light goes out.

In wash rooms and such they do not trust you with the lights. Light flashes on only when you turn the lock. When you unlock the door it automatically goes out.

Dozens of taxi-drivers knock duty around the noon hour, again around midnight—but go home. And unless you seem to be going their way they will turn you over to another driver. The other night I had half a dozen drivers before I found one who would accommodate me. Finally I just mentioned my name and an overjoyed old fellow came and on either side because I was going but a few blocks from his home.

Reason, I later found, is they have to buy their own taxis and won't drive the taxi unless they have a fare. They insist on eating a meal at home to save New York taxi-driver to moon and drive home see what happens!

Man Killed in Ohio Coal Strike; Hold Non-Union Workers

Stuebenville, O., Oct. 29—(AP)—Jefferson county chalked up its first death today in the labor troubles between union sympathizers and non-union coal miners. Joe Pettitt, 19, was shot and killed one mile from Dillonvale by one of four non-union workmen who were enroute to a mine of the Winston-Deer company to seek employment.

An organized search of county roads on which bands of idle men took part ended an hour later in the capture of the four near Martins Ferry, 20 miles from Dillonvale. They were registered as Linda May, 27, of Ironton; W. L. Cupp, 40, of Salamannac, N. Y.; Orville Heugel, 19, New Wingold, Pa., and John Lange, 35, of Toledo.

May is alleged to have fired the fatal shot. Parasol ants derive their name from the fact that they cut large pieces out of leaves for making nests and then march along carrying the pieces over their heads like umbrellas.

THE NATIONAL SPORT. The national sport! Baseball carries the title but football packs the wallop.

Baseball carries the title but football packs the wallop. No other game even approaches the popularity football has attained during the last few years.

One does not have to single out the major universities for the proof of this assertion. It is proven in almost every community—big and little—in America every Saturday during the gridiron season.

While interest in baseball, throughout the country, has been slipping for several years, football's popularity has been gaining leaps and bounds. It is the most strenuous, and the most colorful of American sports.

BRITAIN TO THE BRITISH. When some distinguished American goes to London he is apt to be welcomed at a big banquet which eloquent speakers are very sure to pull that hands-off-the-sea stuff.

There is one brand of American soluble coffee that can't get into England. The customs house maneuvers it. The same thing is true of a popular brand of American cigarettes.

THE FIELDS OF YOUTH

My boy, the same things grow the same. On every plant and bush and tree, Whatever other fellows claim, Whatever fruit they try to see.

My boy, the fruits of idleness Are just the same as long ago, And none the harvest will possess, Who lets his evil habits grow.

My boy, no lie will do for truth, And no excuse will do for toil, Whether you till the fields of youth Or stir the garden's fertile soil.

Your life is at its springtime now, Your books your field, your school your plow.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

CHAPTER XL (Wednesday, June 19; 1 p. m.) When we were again outside Markham asked: "How in heaven's name did you know she had put up her jewels to help Pyffe?"

"My charmin' metaphysical deductions, don't y' know," answered Vance. "As I told you, Benson was not the open-handed, big-hearted altruist who would have lent money without security; and certainly the impetuous Pyffe had no collateral worth $10,000, or he wouldn't have forged the check. Ergo: someone lent him the security."

"Now, who would be so trusting as to lend Pyffe that amount of security except a sentimental woman who was blind to his amazing defects? Y' know, I was just evilminded enough to suspect there was a Calypso in the life of this Ulysses when he told us of stopping over in New York to murmur au revoir to someone."

"When a man like Pyffe fails to specify the sex of a person, it is safe to assume the feminine gender. So I suggested that you send a Paul Pry to Port Washington to peer into his matrimonial activities: I felt certain a bonne amie would be found. Then, when the mysterious package, which obviously was his security, seemed to identify itself as the box of jewels seen by the inquisitive housekeeper, I said to myself: 'Ah! Leander's misguided Dulcinea has lent him her gewgaws to save him from the yawning dunceop.'"

"Nor did I overlook the fact that he had been shielding someone in his explanation about the check. Therefore, as soon as the lady's name and address were learned by Tracy, I made the appointment for you. . . . We were passing the Gothic-Renaissance Schwab residence which extends from West End avenue to Riverside drive at Seventy-third street; and Vance stopped for a moment to contemplate it."

Markham waited patiently. Al length Vance walked on. "Y' know, the moment I saw Mrs. Banning I knew my conclusions were correct. She was a sentimental soul, and just the sort of professional good sport who would have handed over her jewels to her amorous."

"Also, she was bereft of gems when we called,—and a woman of her stamp always wears her jewels when she desires to make an impression on strangers. Moreover, she's the kind that would have jewelry even if the larder were empty. It was therefore merely a question of getting her to talk."

"On the whole, you did very well," observed Markham. Vance gave him a condescending bow. "Sir Hubert is too generous. But tell me, didn't my little chat with the lady cast a gleam into your darkened mind?"

"Naturally," said Markham. "I'm not utterly obtuse. She played unconsciously into our hands. She believed Pyffe did not arrive in New York until the morning after the murder, and therefore told us quite frankly that she had phoned him that Benson had the jewels at home."

"The situation now is: Pyffe knew they were in Benson's knave, and was there himself at about the time the shot was fired. Furthermore, the jewels are gone; and Pyffe tried to cover up his tracks that night."

Vance sighed hopelessly. "Markham, there are altogether too many trees for you in this case. You simply can't see the forest, y' know, because of 'em."

"There is the remote possibility that you are so busily engaged in looking at one particular tree that you are unaware of the others."

A shadow passed over Vance's face. "I wish you were right," he said. "It was nearly half past one, and we dropped into the Fountain Room of the Ansonnia Hotel for lunch."

Markham was preoccupied throughout the meal, and when we entered the subway later, he looked uneasily at his watch. "I think I'll go on down to Wall Street and call on the Major a moment before returning to the office. I can't understand his asking Miss Hoffman not to mention the package to me. It might not have contained the jewels, after all."

OLD MASTERS As toilsome I wandered Virginia's woods, To the music of rustling leaves kicked by my feet (for 'twas autumn), I marked at the foot of a tree the grave of a soldier; Mortally wounded he and buried on the retreat (easily all could I understand), The halt of a mid-day hour, when up! not time to lose—yet this sign left. On a tablet scrawled and nailed on the tree by the grave, Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

Long, long I muse, then on my way go wandering, Many a changeful season to follow, and many a scene of life, Yet at times, through changeful season and scene, abrupt, alone, or in the crowded street, Comes before me the unknown soldier's grave, come the inscription rude in Virginia's woods, Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade. —Walt Whitman: As Toilsome I Wandered Virginia's Woods.

How to Make Old Houses More Comfortable

HERE'S good news for those families whose houses are uncomfortably hot in summer or hard to heat in winter.
A new invention, BALSAM-WOOL insulation, can be built into the roofs of old houses, thereby keeping outside the sun's blistering heat in summer and keeping inside the heat from the furnace in winter.
Here is how BALSAM-WOOL works. It is a thick blanket which is resistant to the passage of heat and cold. The sun's rays which beat down on the roof cannot penetrate this blanket. Thus even upstairs bedrooms remain surprisingly cool in the hottest weather.
In winter the heat from your heating plant that naturally rises is kept in the house by the BALSAM-WOOL blanket. And the cold is kept out. You burn less fuel, yet the house is always comfortable.
BALSAM-WOOL can be quickly installed in your roof by a carpenter without any muss or fuss. Remodeling isn't necessary. We'll be glad to tell you what the cost of BALSAM-WOOL will be for your house. If you can't call, write or phone. We have literature and samples.

Balsam-Wool

A blanketing material for the walls, roofs and ceilings of houses. A heat insulator and a sound deadener. A fuel saver and a comfort and health factor that should be built into every house.

The number of Ton and 1/2-Ton trucks in use today is far greater than that of any other capacities—for these are the units used by thousands upon thousands of retail merchants to meet the requirements of modern delivery service.

And because Chevrolet offers the greatest value available in each of these two sizes, both the Chevrolet Ton and 1/2-Ton trucks are leading the world in popularity.

Come in—and see for yourself what Chevrolet offers you in comparison with other trucks. Note the advanced, modern design in every unit—the sturdy, oversize construction—the wide variety of body types. Go for a trial load demonstration, and test the certainty of Chevrolet's power—its handling ease—its flexibility in traffic.

Then look over the economy records established by Chevrolet trucks in every line of business—records which definitely establish Chevrolet as the world's most economical haulage unit with the world's lowest ton-mile cost.

Then you'll know why Chevrolet is the world's largest builder of gearshift trucks—with undisputed leadership in both the Ton and 1/2-Ton fields!

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands

Brooklyn, New York.—Mrs. G. Hegmann of 228 Schaeffer St., was in a run-down condition and could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night. Her story is not an unusual one. Thousands of women find themselves in a similar condition at some time in their lives. "I found your advertisement in my letter box," wrote Mrs. Hegmann, "and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got relief." Mrs. Hegmann also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Medicine and Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation, with good results. She says, "I am recommending your medicines to all I know who have symptoms the same as mine, and to others whom I think it will help. You may use my statement as a testimonial, and I will answer any letters sent to me by women who would like information regarding your medicines."
There are women in your state—perhaps in your town—who have written letters similar to this one telling how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped them.

POOR SOULS RITES TODAY

The annual Poor Souls celebration will be held this afternoon at 2:30 at St. Joseph's cemetery. The services will begin with a procession in which the school children, adults, altar boys, choir and clergy will take part. At the appointed time the procession will wend its way around the cemetery. During the procession the rosary will be prayed while the celebrant blesses the graves. The procession will be brought to an end at the foot of the crucifix. A sermon by Rev. Fr. Herbert on a subject appropriate to the occasion will then follow. Immediately after the sermon the "Liberia" will be chanted by St. Joseph's choir, and the Absolution will be given by the celebrant.

The order of the procession will be as follows: Cross-bearers and Holyites, school children, adults, altar boys, choir and clergy. Every boy is urged to take part in these devotions as a token of love in memory of his departed relatives and friends. The conduct of each individual during these services should be appropriate to the occasion and place. Those having autos are requested to meet the street cars in order to assist those who would otherwise have to walk from the line to the cemetery.

Tuesday is the Feast of All Saints, a Holy Day of obligation in the Catholic church. The masses will be at 6, 7:30 and 9 a. m., the last being a high mass with benediction. Devotion to the "Little Flower of Jesus" will be held after all the masses. Confessions will be heard Monday afternoon and evening.

Wednesday is Poor Souls Day. At 8 o'clock in the morning, a requiem high mass will be sung for all the deceased members of the parish. A plenary indulgence can be gained on this day at each visit to the church, provided the usual conditions are fulfilled, namely, reception of the sacraments and a prayer for the intention of the Holy Father.

In case of rain, the Poor Souls services will be held in St. Joseph's church at 2:30 p. m.

Because of the absence of one of the fathers, there will be no 6:30 o'clock mass this and next week.

Maud Ballington Booth Foremost Woman Orator

Maud Ballington Booth, famous prison worker, will appear in the high school auditorium next Thursday night, November 3, at 8 o'clock, under auspices of the Escanaba Woman's club.

Mrs. Booth is conceded to be one of the ablest woman orators in America. She has fire and magnetism—gifts of the highest oratorical order—sustained and animated by deep conviction, high purpose and burning earnestness.

After hearing Mrs. Booth, Wilbur French, a prominent Washington editor, wrote:

"Mrs. Booth is a mite of a woman. 'Little Mother' is her name among convicts and ex-convicts from Maine to California, and she calls them all 'My Boys.' But she is so brimful of savoir faire, of fire and energy that you can think of her only as one who would easily move mountains, which she frequently does. Her face is supremely earnest—lovingly earnest—its instinctive tendency strengthened by a lifetime labor among the outcasts and outlaws. She has the perfect composure of a personality wholly submerged in a message. Her remarkable voice is all music—penetrating, without a hard or raspy note. Her enunciation is perfect. There is no apparent effort, neither is there any difficulty to hear. The words are soft and musical. Her face, her manner, her sentiments are all the inspiration of earnestness, but there is no surfeit, for pathos and humor, comedy and tragedy drift absolutely side by side down the same silver stream. You laugh with tears in your eyes."

The following announcement also is made: "To prevent confusion, it should be noted that Mrs. Ballington Booth has no connection with the Salvation Army. Her husband is the president of the Volunteers of America."

The anniversary of the First Methodist church will be celebrated on November 13-15. It was announced yesterday by the Rev. R. C. Williams. The principal speaker at the Sunday morning services will be Dr. Frank L. Leonard, superintendent of the Marquette district. At the evening service a cantata, "The Two Harvasts," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Edward Lucas. On November 14, the Ladies' Aid society of the church will serve its annual supper.

Band Rehearsal to Be Held on Tuesday

The weekly rehearsal of the Escanaba Municipal band will be held on Tuesday night, instead of Monday night, it was announced yesterday by Director Joseph Greenfield.

Methodists Plan Observance of Their Anniversary

The anniversary of the First Methodist church will be celebrated on November 13-15. It was announced yesterday by the Rev. R. C. Williams. The principal speaker at the Sunday morning services will be Dr. Frank L. Leonard, superintendent of the Marquette district. At the evening service a cantata, "The Two Harvasts," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Edward Lucas. On November 14, the Ladies' Aid society of the church will serve its annual supper.

Mrs. Joseph Pettit of Hancock, Mrs. Walter Dion, Lake-Linden, Mrs. Josephs Lacombe, Marinette, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Derouin, Ford River Switch and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pepin of Ford River were in the city yesterday to attend the funeral services which were held for Miss Gertrude Demers.

OBITUARY

BABY WELSH.
Funeral services for Baby Emma Welsh, infant daughter of Mrs. William Welsh, 321 Ludington street, were held at the Allo Funeral home Saturday afternoon with Rev. J. B. Hubbard officiating. Burial was in Lakeview cemetery.

MISS GERTRUDE DEMERS.
Rev. Fr. R. G. Jacques was the celebrant at the requiem high mass Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Anne's church when funeral services for Miss Gertrude Demers were held. A number of floral and spiritual offerings were received at the home of her brother, Joseph Demers where the body lay pending the hour of the funeral services. The pallbearers were Ed Lavalley, Arthur Pepin, Lawrence Pepin, Dorrance Picard, Victor Pepin and Arthur Lavalley.

Out-of-town relatives included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pepin, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pepin, Ford River Switch, Mrs. Joseph Pettit, Hancock; Mrs. Walter Dion, Lake Linden, and Mrs. Joseph Lacombe, Marinette, Wis. Burial was in St. Anne's cemetery.

MRS. GILDO MINNUCI.
Funeral services for Mrs. Gildo Minnucci of Iron Mountain, formerly Miss Jeanette Vincent of Wilson, Mich., were held Saturday at 9 a. m., at St. Patrick's church with Rev. Fr. Raymond Bergeron as celebrant at the requiem high mass. The close friends of the family who carried the casket to and from the funeral car were James Bedore, J. Long, H. Kahlow, E.

Police to Enlarge Force But Little Grief Is Expected

Although police are keeping a sharp lookout for mischief on Halloween, little fear is expressed that the youthful pranks of today will cause much damage or inconvenience. Years of police vigilance and education have made the modern Halloween a social season, rather than a time when it is taken for granted that property destruction and unauthorized removal of gates, etc., is part of the necessary ritual during the evening's entertainment.

A number of deputies will be placed about the city this year. While every attempt to curb the reckless tendencies of the more venturesome youth, it is understood that fun about town will be overlooked. The fact that Halloween falls on Sunday may curb the restless spirits somewhat. In a social way, Halloween will be celebrated quite extensively. Numerous parties have been planned and as many already have been held.

Mrs. D. Liberty of Wells left yesterday for a visit at Chicago.

TALE OF 40 YEARS' WORK AMONG THE INDIANS TOLD BY PRIEST

Trapped By Blizzard, Saved By Dogs Making Rounds of State Missions

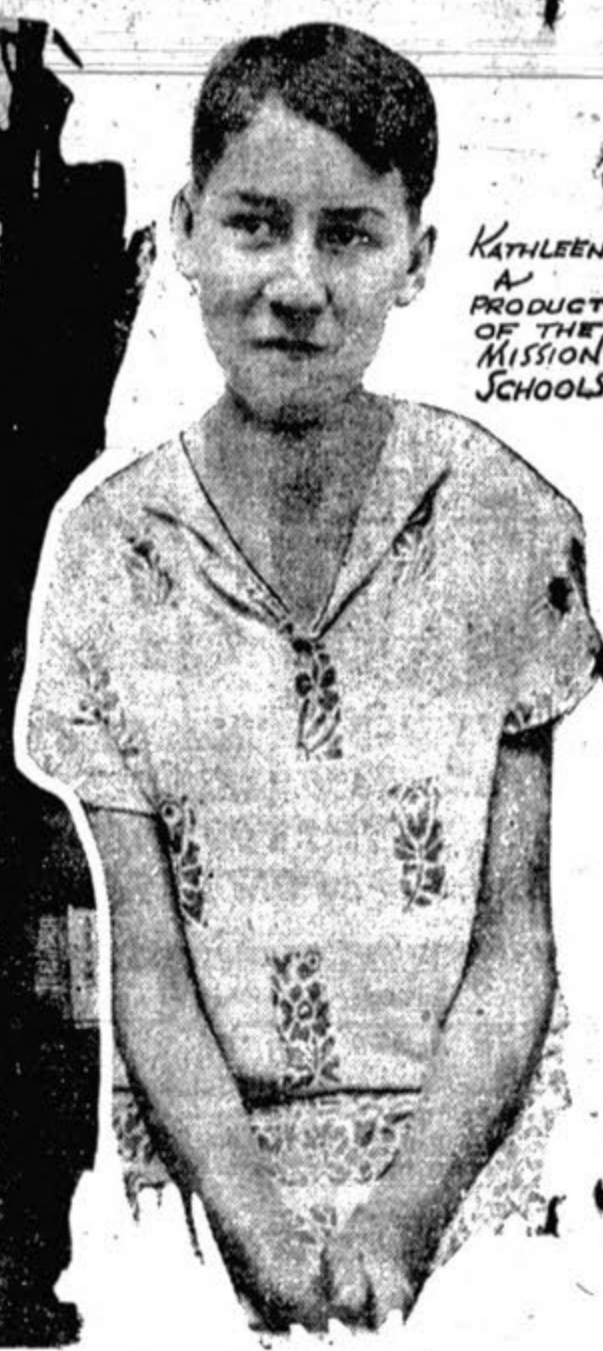

AT 70 FR. GAGENIEUR IS STILL ACTIVE AMONG THE INDIANS.

THE INDIAN BIRCH BARK HOME HAS GIVEN AWAY TO LOGS, BUT THE SETTING OFTEN IS STILL THE FOREST PRIMEVAL

THE MISSION CHURCH IN GARDEN RIVER

KATHLEEN, A PRODUCT OF THE MISSION SCHOOLS

BY FRED E. JANETTE. (Picture and story are used here through the courtesy of the Detroit News.)

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—Forty years ago there came from Montreal to Manitoulin Island, in Northern Lake Huron, a young Jesuit priest, to revise a book of liturgy for the Indians of the Ma' nitoulines.

And among the Indians he remained to carry on the work begun by the Jesuits in 1620. Today, at 70, but still active, his work is still among the Indians. Though stationed in Sault Ste. Marie, Rev. Fr. William Francis Gagenieur is a familiar figure in the 40 missions that stretch from the lower islands in the Soo River to the middle reaches of Lake Superior and down to the region of Green Bay.

At 70, Fr. Gagenieur is still active among the Indians. The Indian is an individualist. Centuries of contact with the white man have not changed the basic mental attitude of conservatism that from the beginning has been the problem of the missionary.

River in Mackinac county there are still many Indians who know no English and who cling to their ancient customs—too often to their ancient superstitions and pagan practices.

At his brow in the effort to recall a polysyllabic Indian name. The house of the chief, a white washed cabin like the rest, stood on a little eminence at the near end of the straggling street.

kick in the ribs. The chief spoke briefly in the Algonquin tongue, addressing himself to the crowd in front.

kick in the ribs. The chief spoke briefly in the Algonquin tongue, addressing himself to the crowd in front.

"The red man clings to his ancient customs and his language. When I came among them nearly 40 years ago," he said.

WOOD Dry and green wood—anything you may want. Tamarack of any lengths for the fireplace.

SERVICE THE GALLANTRY OF OLD, REFLECTED IN BUSINESS METHODS OF TODAY

POLITENESS—the gallantry of the ancient days, when fair ladies and handsome men wore the silks and satins of royal courts—is one of the ingredients of "Service."

MORE AND MORE GLASSES WILL BE WORN That is a safe prophecy. The detriments of imperfect vision will be better understood from now on, and the benefits of an improvement in-vision generally realized.

FROLIC PLANS ARE COMPLETE

Orange & Black Society to Entertain Large Crowd.

Tomorrow night marks the opening of the seventh annual Orange and Black society's "Hallowe'en Frolic." The fun will start at 8 o'clock sharp and continue until ten, and from the advance ticket sales it looks as though the high school auditorium will be filled to its capacity.

This week, under the able direction of Mr. Soderberg, the Orange and Black advisor, the finishing touches have been added. Every member of the society has spent his utmost effort to learn the songs and to make the frolic a success. Nothing has been spared or nothing is lacking. Everything is set.

The stage will represent the beautiful grounds of a luxurious country club. A special act by Miss Alta Trombly will be one of the features. She will act as the guest-soloist in the evening's entertainment. A uniformed band consisting of 33 pieces under the direction of A. W. Nordling, will play. Mr. Day and Hilding Olson will provide the accompaniment for the songs.

Assurance that many parents are panning on attending is shown by the advance adult ticket sale. Other tickets are selling very rapidly and everything points to a sell-out. The Motorboard girls will act as ushers.

MAYOR INVITED TO AIR CONFAB

Aviation Field Conference Will Be Held in Chicago

Mayor George G. Geniesse, of Escanaba, has been invited by Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, to attend a National Conference on Air Ports, to be held in Chicago, December 12 to 15, for the purpose of arranging for the constructing of landing fields in all progressive cities.

It had not been decided, yesterday, whether Escanaba would be represented. This city, it was pointed out at the city hall, has taken the lead in aviation in this section, its eight or nine privately owned airplanes being as many as are owned in all the rest of the peninsula.

Mayor Thompson's invitation announces that he is anxious to see Chicago use "her unlimited resources to establish passenger, express and air mail service with all American cities," but this is now impossible because of the lack of landing fields in many towns.

Mr. Thompson believes that the Air Ports Conference will greatly stimulate interest in commercial aviation, and result in placing many of the smaller cities on air maps while the country is being chartered.
