SENATORS ARE NOT LIKELY TO BE ACCEPTED

TRIAL VOTE ON SMITH AND VARE SIGNIFY FINAL STAND

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright 1927, by the Associated Press.) Washington, Dec. 10.—The test votes in the senate on the cases of Senator-elect Vare and Smith are significant of the final result that may be expected.

The resolution of the senate denouncing the expenditures in the case of Senator-elect Newberry of Michigan, when $195,000 was spent is the guiding principle among most senators.

On the other side is the viewpoint of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, who says in the absence of any specific law governing expenditures in senatorial primaries, the certificate of a sovereign state should be accepted.

The vote to refer the matter to the Reed investigating committee was a victory for the opponents of the idea of seating either Senator-elect.

Berger Sent Back. In the case of Victor Berger of Wisconsin, who was twice denied the right to take the oath in the house of representatives because he was under indictment in connection with alleged violation of war-time laws, the veteran socialist ran for office again and today sits in the house.

CHINESE LEADER APPEARS AGAIN

Chiang Kai-Shek Assumes Role of Civilian Champion

Shanghai, Dec. 10.—(P)—Chiang Kai-Shek, romantic young generalissimo of the Nationalists before his resignation several months ago, is back on the Chinese stage again. This time he appears in a civilian role as leader of the nationalist movement and not as "generalissimo," a title under which he swept from Canton northward to the Yangtze valley in 1926, bringing Hankow and Shanghai under the nationalist banner.

LINDBERGH GIVEN MEDAL BY CONGRESS

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO HONOR YOUNG AVIATOR

Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—With speed comparable to that made by the Spirit of St. Louis across the lonely Atlantic, the house today voted the congressional medal of honor to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, after he had been the center of an enthusiastic reception on the house floor.

Senate approval still is necessary before the award can be made by President Coolidge. The senate was in recess today and action on the house bill could not be obtained.

The vote of the house was unanimous to consider a bill to confer the medal, the highest award of the nation for its heroes, but members never had a chance to actually vote on its final passage.

"The bill is passed," Speaker Longworth notified his colleagues the minute reading of the measure was concluded and members, instead of voting could only applaud again.

This action came just a few minutes after Lindbergh had been accorded the privilege of the floor. The aviator had been escorted to the chamber by Representatives Tilson and Garrett, the Republican and Democratic leaders, and introduced to the house by the speaker as "America's most attractive citizen."

A moment's pause followed, and Lindbergh, who braved the flight from New York to Paris, stood blushing like a schoolboy in the vast chamber which years ago he frequently visited when his father was a representative from Minnesota.

Tilson then called to his colleagues to form a line and all of the more than 200 members on the floor responded at once. Lindbergh, more cool and collected, grasped the hand of each as they filed by.

Self Defense to Be Sole Plea of Hammer Slayer

Painesville, O., Dec. 10.—(P)—Mrs. Velma West, charged with the killing of her husband, T. Edward West, will base her fight for freedom solely on a plea of self-defense. It was said today by Francis W. Poulson, retained today to head her counsel.

No attempt will be made to prove that she was temporarily insane when she struck West down with a hammer in their home at Perry, O., after a quarrel Tuesday night over her attending a bridge party in Cleveland.

More complete details of the killing were promised by the girl's new chief counsel and this was taken as an indication that her defense will be an elaboration of her statement to Sheriff Edward Rasmussen that she killed her husband after he struck her.

INDICT BERGER FOR PERJURY

Star Witness for George Remus Faces Charge; Released on Bond

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 10.—(P)—Indictment for perjury of John S. Berger, rich Los Angeles, Cal., export promoter and self-styled "star witness" for George Remus, his boyhood friend, was today's outstanding development in connection with the murder trial of the former "King of Bootleggers."

Berger was released on $3,000 bond and his arraignment set for next Monday.

He was seized at a hotel just a few minutes before he was to have boarded a train for home.

A sealed indictment was returned by the grand jury today and Berger's arrest came within a few minutes, verifying rumors that he has swept the court room since he testified a week ago.

The indictment was 1,000 words long but it dealt specifically with Berger's testimony that at St. Louis, Mo., he had not requested Mrs. Remus, for whose slaying here two months ago, Remus is on trial, to give him $25,000 for Remus, and that he had not described the defendant as at that time "broke."

is "Spite Work." The indictment took no cognizance of Berger's dramatic descriptions of Remus' reactions to tales of Mrs. Remus' alleged misconduct poured into his ear. Berger vividly pictured Remus in insane outbursts in St. Louis, Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

SENATE TAKES REST; HOUSE HAS BUSY DAY

LAWMAKERS WEAR AIR OF CONFIDENT SERENITY

Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—Relying momentarily the signs and portents that have forecast a session torn by legislative and political storm, the new congress ended its first week tonight wearing an air of confident serenity.

While the senate was taking a day off, the house opened its Saturday deliberations in a spirit of perfect fellowship by greeting and honoring Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Gathered in unexpectedly from a nearby corridor, blushing and almost overwhelmed, the ace of aviators was welcomed at an informal reception at the speaker's rostrum and unanimously voted a congressional medal of honor.

A good part of the house missed the colonel and the tax debate that followed his exit. Working under rules that required only 100 of the 435 members for a quorum, the leaders frequently would have found even less than the requisite number on hand if they really had counted noses.

But if there was a little agitation on the surface as the week came to its end, there was plenty of dynamite underneath. The new congress now has technically before it all of those legislative subjects which will furnish the fighting points of the session.

The senate's household troubles which have provided several days of debate thus far, have only reached the stage of an armistice. Today the Reed slush fund committee met and prepared to go all over again the question of admitting Vare and Smith to senatorships.

Japanese Want to See Jack Dempsey

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—(P)—Japanese have heard much of the feats of Jack Dempsey and would like to see in person the former heavyweight champion who has been pictured in some remote parts of the country as an eight-foot giant with flowing side-whiskers.

This information is conveyed in an invitation to Dempsey to visit the Orient, sent here in care of "Moose" Tausig. Tausig is a friend of Dempsey and also is known in Japan where he was one of the first to take a stable of American boxers.

Bomber Indicted on Four Counts

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 10.—(P)—Hiram Reed, 24, was indicted on four counts today by a special grand jury in connection with the dynamite explosion at the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse which seriously injured his country teacher sweetheart, Miss Lola Bradford, 23. His bond was set at $20,000. He was charged with assault with intent to kill.

Loren Murchison's Condition Unchanged

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 10.—(P)—The condition of Loren Murchison, noted sprinter, remained unchanged today as a teacher of boxing in two universities in Tokio, assures Mr. Dempsey that "people will come from miles around to see you."

KILLS, GOES TO BRIDGE PARTY

A quarrel with her husband over a bridge party which she desired to attend preceded the slaying of Thomas E. West by Mrs. West (above), 31-year-old blond, according to her confession in the hands of Perry (O.) police. After she had killed him with a claw-hammer and table leg, she went to the party, according to the confession.

QUESTION RIGHT OF COMMITTEE

Senate Has No Authority to Summon Mexican Consul

Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—Authority of the special senate committee to summon Mexican consular officers in its investigation of charges in the Hearst newspapers that a fund of $1,200,000 was raised for four United States senators was challenged tonight by Manuel C. Tellos, the Mexican ambassador to Washington.

The ambassador's statement was made after he had been advised unofficially that the committee was planning to summon Arturo M. Elias, Mexican consul general at New York and half brother of President Calles, between whom most of the purported correspondence relating to the senator appeared to have passed.

"In my opinion Elias will not come to Washington at the summons of the senate committee," Ambassador Tellos said. "He will not be obligated to do so because he can stand on his rights of immunity under international law."

The ambassador said that while there was no treaty of commerce and amity between the United States and Mexico which usually contains a provision giving consular officers immunity from court processes, it was an established practice under international law that such officers were immune from subpoenas.

"The embassy has made two formal denials of the authenticity of the documents," the ambassador added, "and has no further comment to make thereon. The senate has obligated itself to investigate the documents and so far as I am concerned this is purely an affair of the senate."

WEATHER

LOWER LAKES—Winds mostly fresh to fresh southwest; occasional snow Sunday.

CREW OF ONE REMOVED BY COAST GUARD

FOUR MEMBERS OF ALTADOC'S CREW REACH SHORE

(By The Associated Press.) Subsidizing seas Saturday night failed to relieve concern felt regarding the predicament of Great Lakes vessels battered about for two days in one of the worst northwest gales in the history of the area.

Four members of the crew of the Altadoc, hard aground off Keweenaw Point, battled their way ashore to report 31 comrades imprisoned on the disabled steamer were in need of food and medical attention and that the ship was damaged beyond repair.

The E. W. Oglebay, driven ashore off Shot Point near Marquette, was abandoned by her crew and tonight a fire was reported to have broken out in her hold. It is feared the ship will be burned to the water's edge.

One member of the crew of the Agawa, stranded off Mantoulin Island, was removed, but tug boats standing by were unable to rescue the remainder of the crew of 20. Although they are in no immediate peril, the ship is reported fast breaking up.

Fate of the Martian, aground in Thunder Bay in Lake Superior, is unknown as no word has been received from the vessel. The freighter George M. Humphrey, downbound from Detroit to Buffalo, went aground at Bar Point in Lake Erie. Tugs were attempting to free her.

A number of boats that had been overdue at Buffalo reported safe but several are still missing at the Sea. Calumet, Dec. 10.—(P)—The coast guard cutter Crawford, summoned to aid in the work of rescuing the crew of the stranded Canadian ore carrier, Altadoc, arrived off Eagle Harbor Saturday afternoon from Two Harbors, Minn. At 5:30 p. m., the Crawford proceeded presumably to Copper Harbor to lay over for the night.

The rescue ship undoubtedly will go to the side of the Altadoc Sunday morning and remove the crew, bringing them to Copper Harbor. The rescued men later are to be brought to Calumet.

Moderating weather was reported Saturday night by the coast guards at the Eagle Harbor station. The wind had shifted to the southeast, but was accompanied by occasional squalls.

FIRE DISCOVERED

Marquette, Dec. 10.—(P)—Fire was discovered aboard the abandoned Greenleaf, chief engineer, this here at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, three hours after the crew was taken off by the Marquette coast guard and a fishing tug. The blaze was in the stern, the lookout reported. Captain J. C. Hayes and C. T. city, could give no reason for the fire, which can be seen from Marquette.

RESCUE ONE MAN

Providence Bay, Ont., Dec. 10.—(P)—One member of the crew of 21 of the steamer Agawa, aground on Manitoulin Island, was taken off the vessel tonight. He said his shipmates were in good physical condition and would stay aboard the steamer, which was driven ashore in the storm Wednesday. A yawl from South Bay took the sailor off.

TUGS NEAR WRECK

ed steamer Agawa today were reported in a position to take advantage of moderating seas and rescue the crew of the vessel. The Agawa grounded two days ago on Advance Reef, Manitowlin Island. Pounding seas thwarted previous rescue attempts, but it was believed the crew of 21 had survived. The rescue tug was not identified.

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 10.—(P)—The four lake freighters aground in the upper lake region, as a result of the terrific gale of the last three days tonight apparently were still at the mercy of the elements. One of the four—the E. W. Ogleby—has been abandoned by her crew and rests on high ground on Spot Point off Marquette, a big hole in bottom and her hold filled with water. Indications that the vessel could not be released before next spring led to the removal of her crew of 22, by a coastguard cutter and a tug.

Little definite information was available concerning the three—the Altadoc, aground at the tip of the Keweenaw peninsula; the Agawa, stranded on a reef off Manitowlin Island. In upper Lake Huron, and a grain carrier reported aground on Angus Island in Thunder Bay, Lake Superior.

The Eagle Harbor, Mich., coast guard crew which worked all of last night in a futile effort to launch a lifeboat to proceed to the Altadoc, has succeeded in breaking through the ice and is now on its way to rescue the crew.

Reports that smoke could be seen still coming from the funnel of the Agawa off Manitowlin, gave rise to hope that the steamer's crew of 21 was still alive.

Efforts of the tug Strathgogie to reach the Agawa were frustrated by the heavy seas and the tug was forced to seek shelter at Tobermory, Ont. With a moderating sea, the tug awaited a shift in the wind before making another attempt. The Agawa has sustained a severe battering by the heavy seas.

Releases boats in ice. Aside from a report that a steamer "Martin" or "Morton" was aground in Thunder Bay, nothing definite has been learned concerning the fourth vessel believed to have met mishap in the terrific gale. Reference to shipping records and vessel movements later suggested the vessel might be the steamer Martin of the Canada Steamship lines. Angus Island, Thunder Bay, is on the Canadian shore of Lake Superior, not far from Port Arthur.

Fears of a recurrence of last year's huge ice jam in the St. Mary's river were relieved today with the release of the three steamers that became icebound in Mud Lake.

The steamer F. B. Squire, for which fears had been felt since she cleared from Port Huron late Thursday afternoon also came safely through the storm. The vessel, coated with ice, drifted into lower St. Mary's river this morning.

The steamer Altadoc apparently ran into difficulties early Thursday morning when it was reported by radio that its steering apparatus had failed and it was necessary to steer by hand. Efforts were made to get into communication with a sister ship, the Prince, and also with the steamer Grammer, but no replies were received. Then, late Thursday afternoon, came a message saying the Altadoc had gone aground on Keweenaw Point.

were until late that morning," said Hardman. "Suddenly the storm lifted enough for us to see, less than 600 feet away, the battered bulk of the City of Bangor. That was the first time we knew where we might be."

Equipment Washed Away. According to Hardman, who, with his three companions, was exhausted by their dramatic escape from the stranded ship, they had sent message after message over their wireless after their boat became disabled.

"But our receiving set went out of commission during the storm, and were unable to receive word from the mainland or from other ships."

The quartet said that during the storm every bit of equipment on the deck was washed overboard and all their portside dories were swept away. A large hole was torn in the prow of the boat, where she grounded on a submerged rock.

As soon as the four men reached Calumet, medical attention was given them. The sailors are Roy Burke, Walter Lacroix, both of Midland, Ont., and John Keats of Duluth, Minn.

The arrival of the men in Calumet was the first word the outside world had received from the Altadoc after her wireless went out of commission Thursday morning.

Crew Fairly Well. Provisions on the boat are extremely low," Hardman said, "and we made up our minds some one must get to shore for new rations just as soon as possible. When the wind subsided we launched our boat and fought off the waves until we suddenly struck shore. Believe me, that was a great feeling."

According to Hardman, all of the crew remaining on the Altadoc including Capt. Richard D. Simpson of Owen Sound, Ont., are in fair physical condition. None of the crew was severely injured with the exception of Burke, Keats and Lacroix. The additional members of the crew are: Engineer J. M. Nickle, Fort Cobert, Ont.; First Mate Ben Silvery, Midland, Ont.; Second Mate Thomas Deneen, Collingwood, Ont.; Wheelman Lawrence Twombly, Midland, Ont.; Watchman Frank Lickard, Midland, Ont.; Robert Curry, Montreal, Ont.; Harry Crawford, Wireton, Ont.; Orville Daniels, Fort Cobert, Ont.; Fireman J. Gabbon, Wireton, Ont.; George Rock, Midland, Ont.; James Crawford, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; F. Blank, Montreal; Edward Spencer and Bruce Hellas, Midland, Ont.; four unidentified deckhands and Carl MacGhee, wireless operator, home unknown.

Sheriff Testifies in Trial of Texas Girl Bank Bandit

La Grange, Tex., Dec. 10.—(P)—Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, 22, former University of Texas co-ed pleaded guilty immediately after her arrest last December for the holdup of the Farmers National bank of Buda, Tex., it was testified here today at her trial on a charge of banditry.

Sheriff George Allen of Hays county told the jury that Mrs. Rogers, after confessing the robbery of the bank expressed a desire to remain in jail until court met, "pleaded guilty and then try to get a parole in about six months with you helping me."

"I have gotten myself into this and will get out of it myself," the sheriff quoted her as saying.

Mrs. Rogers asked him to convey word to her mother that she has robbed the bank and was in jail, Sheriff Allen testified.

The defendant sat unmoved and with eyes downcast while the officer was on the stand.

The sheriff has testified Mrs. Rogers confessed that after holding up the bank and obtaining $1,000 she drove to Austin, placed the loot and her pistol in a candy box and mailed it to herself at the state capitol, where she was employed in the office of Attorney-General Dan Moody, now governor.

Delay Hearing in Smith-Vare Case Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—Further hearings in the case of Senators-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, will await action by the senate on the resolution of Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, reaffirming the authority of the special campaign funds committee.

This was decided today by the committee after more than an hour of informal discussion in the office of the chairman, Senator Reed. The resolution was presented in the senate yesterday, but consideration of it was forced over until Monday by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who led the first to seat Vare.

As soon as the resolution is adopted, Chairman Reed will call the committee together with a view to fixing an early date for opening the hearings on the first of the cases to be taken up. Whether that will be the Smith or the Vare election remains to be determined.

FLOOD CONTROL PROGRAM POOR Valley States Displeased With Recommendations of Administration

Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—The recommendations of the administration for keeping the flood waters of the Mississippi in check, Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, declared today, have fallen short of what the people of the valley have been led to expect by representatives of the president.

Instead of embodying constructive policies the present proposal means merely that the "pork barrel, log rolling method," of meeting the river problem will be continued, he said, terming it a keen disappointment to those interested in flood relief.

What America demands is not a continuance of the pork barrel, shifting, vacillating and heretofore inadequate program," he continued, "but a new, definite, comprehensive and effective policy of flood control in the Mississippi valley."

Although considerable opposition to the administration plan had been indicated in the house, especially among southern and western representatives, none of the members of the body's flood control committee, which is framing the flood legislation, would comment today. They have been studying the program carefully since it was received by congress.

Report is Makershift. The criticism of its opponents in the house is centered about the financial recommendations which would divide the cost of the project between the federal government and valley states with the government paying 50 per cent. The westerners object particularly to the refusal to permit construction of reservoirs on the headwaters of the Mississippi's tributaries in the arid western states.

Senator Hawes especially disapproved the contention that lands along the Mississippi river had to bear 30 per cent of the flood control work. He contended that this part of the report showed a misunderstanding of the situation and declared the whole report a makeshift of engineering recommendations.

Europe Hates U. S. Only in Spots, Says Congressman Burton

New York, Dec. 10.—(P)—Europe does not hate this country, "except in spots," Congressman Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, told the Ohio Society of New York at a dinner tonight. Its real feeling toward the United States, he said, is one of awe combined with jealousy.

"Half a century ago," he said, "our standards were considered by Europeans to be inferior, wild and uncultivated. A remarkable advance in America has brought a concession that our nation is supreme in all things which give influence and power in the world's affairs."

Treaties for the outlawry of war, such as that sponsored by Senator Capper and based on the proposal of M. Briand, French foreign minister, Mr. Burton declared, should not be with France alone, but with other European nations.

"Substitution of law and justice for war," he said, "is an ideal which must appeal to the enlightened people of this and other countries. It is time for America to prove that its protestations of a desire for world peace are sincere and not merely empty declarations."

Miners Prepare for Conference in Italy-France Controversy Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—In response to the labor department call for a conference here Tuesday between coal miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio and northern West Virginia, and representatives of the miners' union began coming in today, but all proceedings were slacked up to await the consideration of Secretary Davis next week.

Immediately after issuing the call last night, he left Washington on a trip to Indianapolis and Chicago, after declaring that no further action or comment would be forthcoming until he had opportunity to study the responses.

House Ready to Act on Tax Bill

Washington, Dec. 10.—(P)—General debate on the tax bill was hurried forward in the house today with leaders hopeful that when the measure is taken up again Monday that members would be ready to proceed with its consideration under rules permitting the offering of amendments.

The discussion today touched upon practically all phases of the tax question, a number of members defending the bill as drafted by the house ways and means committee and others vigorously attacking certain of its proposals.

Representative Hawley of Oregon, senior Republican committee member, took an active part in supporting the measure, arguing that its proposal to reduce the tax rate on corporation incomes from 13 1/2 to 11 1/2 per cent would benefit two-thirds of the wage earners in the country.

The Oregon member cautioned against congress taking action that might cause a deficit in the treasury.

Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, a Democrat, charged that Republican politics had prevented inclusion in the bill of provisions aimed to increase efficiency in administration of the tax law.

IN NEW YORK

Abner Bangs Remembers When We Really Had Cold Weather!

New York.—Nowhere but in a cemetery perhaps can be gained better the impression of sudden emptiness left when the crowding thousands have surged away than in the canyon that is Wall Street on a Sunday morning.

Here through the week life's scramble has been emphasized feverishly; here has been played the great American drama of commerce in the concentrate, and now empty walls.

Impregnable vaults of silence now, those gray blocks of buildings, where the tick of a clock must sound like some great crash.

In there sit thousands of typewriters. Their millions of sharp staccatos have sounded like the crackling of some great fire for six days and now they are mute. The thousands of people who piled busy hands over the flying keys have deserted the machines where they poured out six hard days of life's thought and effort.

It is as if, some great chorus of mighty voices suddenly were stricken dumb and stood, stark and rigid, without sound.

But tomorrow—as suddenly as the great swell of sound would burst if that huge choir suddenly came to life again—there will be the rush of thousands of feet, the clacking of thousands of typewriters and tickers, the roar of voice upon voice.

That is why it seems so strangely silent today.

The chorus girl who went to the stage just so she might "step out" after the last act with some accommodating Johnny is vanishing from the picture.

Into her place in the line comes the young lady who has studied a year or more, perhaps three, at a dancing school. She has been "graduated" and there is a wise, formal air about her the old crowd did not have.

There are in New York more than a dozen schools, where the classic brand of the dance is placed upon the candidates for the chorus these days. The schools furnish girls to musical comedies by the troupe or the individual.

In the days when chorus girls got $15 or $20 a week for their turns, the stage-door Johnny flash

Misery Bay, Dec. 10. (To the Editor)—While I am perfectly willing to admitly confess that it snowed somewhat this last week and the mercurous thermometer clumb descendantly downward to lowish minimums, I think it is my duty as a journalist to tell my myriads of readers that I have saw climate right here in Misery Bay and its adjuncts that made last week look like a painter's study in green from the hot tropical isles.

The exact year I do not now recollect, but since I was only a mere small boy, it must have been somewhere in the early forties. Or maybe it was the seventies. But so matter. The school teacher which boards at my place says dates no longer are the important thing in history, and that when a thing transpired is not nearly as valuable as what transpired.

Pines All Frost Bitten. That was the year the white pines all got frost bitten, the ed brightly. Now, however, girls' salaries run from $35 to $100 a week, and there are potential Johnnies who don't make that much themselves.

The state of the girls has improved vastly since they do not have to depend upon John any more. They have their own little flats where they play, and where they study hard, looking ahead to better things as "a principal."

There still are Johnnies of course, and always will be while there are lonesome men, but their field has been greatly narrowed.

birds eye maples shivered until you can see the goose-pimples in their wood if you cut them down to this very day, and the Douglas fir trees all froze completely to death, which there has not been any of them left around Misery Bay even yet.

Kind hearted people built bonfires on the ice to keep the fish warm. Beavers were very near exterminated by fighting for each other's fur coats. The woods around my place was full of polar bears, caribous, and Eskimos which they couldn't tell the territory from their friendly Arctic, and the bears and caribous were able to stand it, but most of the Eskimos perished to death from exposure.

Giant herds of walrus filled the waters of Old Misery, and I have got a pair of walrus boots to this day I made when the leader of one of the herds traded me a part of his hide for a couple of matches.

Most of the families moved into their ice houses where they could keep warmer. With my rare knowledge of such climates gleaned from the many years I lived in Duluth, I merely opened the windows of my home and let the cold air go rushing out, which made the place twenty degrees warmer, bringing the temperature up to sixty-five below. The government refused to give me a patent on that idea unless I sent them a working model of the air rushing out and I was unable so to do because I found out there is no such thing as air in Washington.

Fed On Whale Blubber. It is probably possible that if I had not been alively wide awake to the dangerous perils of the situation, the loss of life in this locality would be tremendously immense. It happened that I had just returned back from one of my justly famous Arctic exploration trips and brought with me a goodly supply of whale blubber. By distributing this around with careful judicary, I was able to keep bodies and souls of most of the people together.

As I look back on those days now, it seems like we must of underwent some hardships, but I guess us hardy pioneers didn't mind it so much then. We are a stalworth race of people to whom America owes a debt which they can never amply repay. Anyway, that's what a congressman wrote to me once and I have still got the letter. And the memorolous recollections of that winter make little furries and chilly snaps like we had the other day seem like the warm breathings of verdurant spring time.

Sincerely & Truly, ABNER BANGS, esq

MAKING WINTER PAY.

The time is coming when the snow, the ice and the crisp, invigorating air of the Upper Peninsula will be regarded as an asset, and thoughts of winter will be accompanied with smiles instead of shivers.

Those of us who crouch by the radiators, complaining about the zero temperatures and the high snow banks are blind to the "acres of diamonds" just outside.

Skating is popular here, to be sure. Lots of us do slide down hill occasionally. Many of us take an occasional hike, or ice boat ride.

The Northern Michigan community which first tackled this proposition in a comprehensive way is destined to become famous throughout the continent as a winter sport center, and to reap a substantial harvest.

There is no good reason why the Peninsula shouldn't take the lead and secure the benefits. There's plenty of winter in this region. Just now, lots of it is being wasted, but the waste is not going to continue indefinitely.

G. O. P. TO RULE SENATE. By assuring five western senators, listed as "independents" agreed to help the Republicans organize the senate, after the Republican leaders had assured them that there would be no unnecessary delay in securing a vote on three measures in which the westerners are deeply interested.

were assured their three measures would be acted upon at this session is not readily apparent at this long range. Without entering into the merits of any of the bills, they certainly are proposals worthy of senate consideration.

Nothing ever has been gained in the senate by obstruction. Measures choked to death, and talked to death invariably have risen from their graves to plague the labor later.

ABOLISH WAR? CERTAINLY! Two learned gentlemen held a debate the other night on the question of abolishing war. The decision was that there can be no decision on that question, and we could have written it before the debate ever started.

Should war be abolished? Certainly, just as long as it can. But the habits of Mars are such that there never can be any decision on eliminating the old fellow—while we're human.

Benjamin Franklin thought that war should be abolished. Philosophically the Philadelphia printer was a genuine pacifist, hating war with all the feeling that Quakers hold against it.

Benjamin Franklin was a philosophical pacifist, but he signed the document that was in effect a declaration of war against Great Britain. Inclined to the ways of peace and love though he was, he went to France and won her help in that Revolutionary struggle.

One of the sayings that have become quite popular of late is to the effect that the flapper, though fair to look upon, is really quite dumb. The modern youth of the feminine variety has come to be regarded as a person who probably has to go through "that foolish stage" where her mind turns to wild garments, a rouged face, lipstick and all that.

Sometimes this is true, sometimes not. An Arkansas City flapper of the high school type showed the other day that even a girl who uses rouge and lipstick can think quickly and act in a crisis.

A six-year-old boy fell into a lake near the town. The flapper was the only witness. She saw some men at a distance and shouted to them, but they did not hear. Stripping off her coat, she plunged in and managed to bring the boy to shore.

Now, what to do with an unconscious boy, whose lungs are filled with water? The girl knew, without help from anyone, she applied the first aid knowledge of which she had read casually in the newspapers.

The Blazing Horizon

CHAPTER XVI Two black shadows glided swiftly toward the rear of the Caldwell Tribune. Three men sat silently watching from a window.

"You little boys had better run home and play," he drawled evenly. "You might get burned." The shadows straightened, hesitated momentarily, and then dropped their burdens and ran back to the line of waiting horsemen.

Blake seemed dazed. "What I don't get at all is how you called the turn on them, Craig." "You can say I was lucky," Craig said laconically. "They're not through yet. We'll have some shooting directly."

Craig moved behind the desk. "You two had better duck, too," he advised the others. "Lead will be flying in the windows before we're much older."

Once more the raiders charged past. "They must be full of liquor," announced Craig, "or they wouldn't be taking such chances." He smiled grimly. "I'm aiming high, to keep from hitting horses."

Five minutes later the marshal of Caldwell, leading a motley assortment of men, most of whom had poured forth from the saloon at the sound of continued shooting, was listening to their story.

The marshal said something to one of his followers, who dismounted and came over to Craig. "Here, brother, help yourself to mine. Don't ride him too hard, though. He's a good animal and I think considerable of him."

Half a mile out of town they came upon a riderless horse nibbling grass beside the trail. Beside him lay the sprawled figure of a man. Craig saw it and checked his mount sharply. "Here you are," he said to the marshal, and walked over to the fallen figure and knelt down beside it.

Then he uttered an exclamation. "Cashion! Well, I'll be damned." A queer look spread over his features. "Dead," announced the marshal.

Craig appeared not to have heard him. He was staring abstractedly at his hands, his mind intent on something else. Suddenly he sprang to his feet and spoke rapidly but quietly to the marshal. "Corbett, I'm going to follow the trail a little longer. You can stay here if you want, but—"

"I'm going with you. I'll send some of the boys back with him." He indicated the dead man with a gesture of his thumb. "Did you know you'd hit anybody?" he asked.

"I thought so. I heard one of them let out a little yell. The others must have failed to see him fall off in the dark." "Either that or they didn't think it would pay them to wait." He turned aside to issue a few more brief orders; then he and Craig mounted and rode off again, followed by three others. "You know who it was?" Corbett asked presently.

"Cashion? Yes. Used to be a friend of Tom Benton's. Remember him?" "I've heard some of him. There's a murder charge against him." They rode till daylight showed them the uselessness of pursuing any farther. "They've probably doubled back," Corbett suggested.

to make my actions official?" "You'll promise not to take advantage of me? I don't want Shafer potted just to satisfy a personal quarrel."

"Personally," said Craig, "we've never quarreled. I'll be defending your interest in the thing, all the way through." "That satisfies me," Corbett told him. "You call for me when you get ready to pay your visit."

"I don't know if I can explain. Get this: I come into Caldwell one day, some time after the Harrison shooting, and find Cashion. Just when I'm ready to have him hauled in, Shafer—he's the marshal then—comes to his rescue and puts in a good word. Not long after that Cashion disappears. Now we find him mixing up in Shafer's quarrel. This is Shafer's doing, Corbett; you know that; you're not a fool. All right. Now, who else do you think we might have found in that gang if we'd overhauled them?"

"I reckon you must mean Benton." "That's exactly who I mean. Take my word for it: Shafer is mixed up in a lot of crooked work. It'll be a nice day's work when you put him behind the bars."

"You'd better leave that to me, Craig. It's up to me to talk to him; I'm marshal of Caldwell." "I'm not trying to butt in. I've got what you might call a strong personal interest in this thing and I want to see it through. Why can't you deputize me temporarily

2 NABBED IN LIQUOR RAID

Members of the police and sheriff's departments raided the soft drink parlor of Kasimir Mlikiewicz, 322 Stephenson avenue, yesterday afternoon, and arrested the proprietor and his bartender, William Labednick.

Labednick is charged with the sale of intoxicating liquor, and Mlikiewicz is charged with keeping a place and possession of liquor. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Henry E. Ranguette, and demanded a hearing which was set for 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, December 13. They furnished bonds of $500 each for their release.

Santa Claus Here; Hundreds Greet Him

Arrival of Santa Claus, himself, in Escanaba yesterday, caused a quickening of the Christmas spirit. The venerable old saint "flew down from Nova Scotia," it was announced at the Fair store, where he was received before going to the Coliseum for the welcoming party. More than 1600 persons saw him there, it was estimated. The Escanaba Boys' band gave a half-hour program, and Santa Claus spoke briefly after which he handed out packages of "crackerjack" and souvenir post cards.

St. Stephen's Church Will Be Completed by Christmas

St. Stephen's Episcopal church will be reopened for services on Christmas eve, the midnight celebration of Holy Communion. The church has been closed since the late summer while the reconstruction has been going on. John Lindsey, the contractor of the building, has been rushing the work on the church part of the edifice to meet the Christmas opening date, while the basement social rooms may be delayed a few days after the completion of the church part. The St. Stephen's Fellowship is assured, however, that the social rooms will be ready for the second annual Frolic which will be held on December 30.

Much Favorable Comment.
Much favorable comment has been expressed about the exterior treatment of the church building, the old English country chapel lines, the artistic use of the mortar in the brick laying and the antique low entrances especially are noted. The interior will follow the same lines as before, with the exceptions that the steps entering the church nor are enclosed so as to overcome the snow and ice problem.

Other changes within include the new hand-carved reredos which is being presented to the parish by the woman's auxiliary. The reredos was designed for St. Stephen's church by Nyhagen of Chicago and executed in the American Seating company's plant at Grand Rapids with members of the Oberammergau passion play cast doing the wood carving. A new hand-carved oak credence from the same hands is being placed in the sanctuary as a memorial to the late Loftus J. McMartin. On Christmas eve will be used for the first time a solid silver chalice, the gift of Mrs. C. C. Royce and children in memory of

C. C. Royce. The reredos, credence, the chalice, and the new silver paten presented by Miss Delight Mashek's class of girls will be consecrated sometime early in the spring by Bishop Harris.

New Boys' Choir.
A feature of the midnight service of the new church will be the first formal appearance of the rector's boy choir of twenty members. The choir procession will be led by the new crucifer, Robert McIntyre, who will be followed immediately by Richard Carleton, the first wearer of the choir honor cross. The honor cross will be awarded from month to month to the boy with the highest honor score.

MOST ROADS IN COUNTY OPENED

Traffic to Menominee, Manistique and Marquette Resumed

All trunk lines in Delta county, excepting M-69 from Narenta to Schaffer, were open to automobile traffic yesterday, coincident with the breaking of the snow blockade on the principal highways throughout the upper peninsula.

Working throughout Friday night, the county snowplow crew on M-35 reached Lathrop at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, opening the road to Marquette.

Traffic between Escanaba and Menominee was resumed yesterday morning after the bad stretch between Ford River Switch and Bark River had been plowed late Friday night. The Gray Transportation company's bus resumed its service to Marinette yesterday, and the bus operating eastward to Manistique and St. Ignace also left the garage.

US-41 to Munising was also open.

ed yesterday, the Alger county crew breaking through to the Delta county line with its plow.

Work of plowing the peninsula road to Stonington was started yesterday afternoon, and it was expected that the job would be completed on that stretch this morning. The county crew placed one of the tractor plows on the Cornell road yesterday afternoon to plow the stretch from Duranceau's corners in the Flat Rock community to the county line near Hendricks.

Plowing of M-69 from Narenta will be started today, and snow removal will be carried on as far as Whitney, beyond Schaffer.

The city crews continued their snow removal work yesterday, and hauled a considerable amount from Ludington avenue. In order to give the city adequate fire protection during this cold spell, much of the efforts were concentrated in the removal of snow at the hydrants about the city so that they would be accessible in case of fires.

Plumbers have been kept very busy this week, thawing out frozen water pipes. Contrary to usual occurrences during cold spells, there were no disastrous fires this week. The fire department responded to only two calls, one fire being caused by the igniting of a blanket used in thawing out a water pipe, and the other was a small blaze caused by overheating of a furnace. No damage was done in either fire.

No Legion Honors for Olympic Teams

Paris (AP)—The red ribbon of the Legion of Honor, which is more or less generously given to all manner of men who bring honor upon themselves or their country, is to be denied to the French athletes who go to the Olympic Games of 1928.

The French Senate, in voting a 2,000,000 franc appropriation to send a team to Amsterdam, stipulated that no Legion decorations were to be accorded to any of the athletes, however successful.

Why this decision was made the public doesn't know. Parliament only reluctantly appropriated the money to send the team to Amsterdam, the appropriation having once been voted down.

"The best brakes ever developed for a motor car"

are on the Reo Flying Cloud—Try them out

"Every automobile manufacturer and every automobile engineer . . . who has subjected Lockheed Internal Hydraulic Four-Wheel Brakes to the most severe competitive tests, acclaims them the best brakes ever developed for a motor car."

THE HYDRAULIC BRAKE CO.
Automobile Topics, October 1, 1927.

The Reo Flying Cloud was the first car to have these brakes.

It appeared in January, 1927. We said then that we thought these were the best brakes any car, regardless of price, ever had.

Now comes the Hydraulic Brake Company, which makes other types of brakes than the Internal Hydraulic, but they know, as engineers know, which are the better.

They make tens of thousands more sets of external hydraulic brakes than they do of these internal hydraulics, yet they endorse the latter as the "best."

More costly? Yes. But Reo policy is to give the best regardless of cost.

But try them yourself

The best proof of this claim to the "world's best brakes" is a test that you make for yourself. So we hope you will ask for a demonstration. We want you to take a Flying Cloud out on slippery, greasy roads or streets. We want you to learn for yourself how swiftly, yet gently, they halt you in a straight line when you must STOP.

Be sure to try them out.

THE TINYMITES
Story by Hal Cochran - Pictures by Knick

The Tinies didn't hesitate, but walked right through the monstrous gate. Old Santa shouted, "Here we are, in famous Santa land. You soon will see all kinds of toys - which make up for girls and boys. Our task this year will be real fun, since you're to lend a hand."
The Tinies smiled and looked round. Ah, what a pretty place they'd found! In all directions they could see small toyshops towering high. They followed Santa down the street. And then they heard some music sweet. It came out of the music shop, as they were passing by.
"What is that place?" wee Carry cried. "I'd surely like to go inside. It sounds like little horns and things. I'd like to blow one, so. Why, once I played right in band, and say, the way I played was grand. I made some pretty music, though it's rather hard to play."
"We make these things for dolls to wear," said Santa. "but they will not care if each of you pick something out. Take something to protect your clothes, or they'll get dirty, goodness knows." So, every little Tinymite put on some overalls.

Engaged 22 Years, Miss Sues Suitor

Belfast, Ireland (P)—Twenty-three years ago, on a summer's moonlight night, Samuel Marshall, a young farmer, asked Miss Moore to marry him.

The two were engaged until last year, it was revealed in the high court here when counsel for Miss Moore asked the lord chief justice for an order in a breach of promise suit.

The attorney explained that Miss Moore, living at Ballynure, County Antrim, was to bring an action for damages against Marshall to whom she had been engaged from 1904 until 1925.

The order was granted. The world war reduced Germany's population to about what it was in 1908, census estimates indicate.

SECOND SACCO-VANZETTI CASE BREWS IN MURDER OF FASCISTI

Clarence Darrow Goes to Defense of Pair Held as Slayers

BY RICHARD MONTAGUE

New York—Two months and three weeks before Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti died in the electric chair a double murder was committed in New York which eventually may excite as much unrest and bitterness in radical groups throughout the world as the famous case of the Boston anarchists.

The victims of this double murder were Joseph Carisi, 39, and a tailor, and Nicholas Amoroso, 22, and a printer. Both lived in the Bronx. Both were Fascists. Sentiment for and against Fascism plays a most important part in the case, into which the famed Clarence Darrow has been drawn as a defense counselor.

A Red Necktie.
The men were attacked near the bottom of steps leading to the third avenue elevated station at 152d street, the Bronx, last Memorial day. Carisi was walking with about 15 other Fascists, all bound for a parade on Riverside drive. Amoroso followed about a block behind.

At the bottom of the stairs Carisi stopped to buy a paper while his companions went on up the stairs.
Suddenly a man wearing a red tie rushed up and pulling a long knife out of his sleeve, stabbed Carisi six times in the neck. Carisi fell forward and his companions plied down the stairs and gave chase to his assailant. They soon lost him and had about decided to return when they heard a shot.

Amoroso had been attacked by another man near the place where Carisi had been stabbed. The second assailant stabbed Amoroso in the side and then, apparently realizing that the wound was not a severe one, pulled a revolver from a hip pocket and shot him through the heart. The second slayer also escaped. Both Carisi and Amoroso died on the way to a hospital.

At first Carisi's companions told the police they had not witnessed his death. It was reported later they said they could identify both assassins. Now at least five are ready to act as witnesses for the prosecution.

A crowd of 10,000 persons attended New York funeral services for the murdered men. The bodies then were transported to Naples, Italy, where they were received with the highest official fascist honors. A military display marked the burial rites.

Six weeks after the murders, 10 arrests had been made. Finally the New York police, acting on information said to have been given by Fascists, raided the offices of Il Nuovo Mondo and Il Martello, Italian anti-Fascist newspapers in New York.

At the former office they made two arrests, at the latter three. In the office of Il Martello the detectives claimed to have found two automatic pistols and four stiletos. They explained the raid by saying that they were searching for weapons.

Earlier in the day a raid on two Brooklyn homes had resulted in the arrest of Calogero Greco, 35, and Donato Carrillo, 37, both clothing workers and anti-Fascists. Greco is single, Carrillo is married and has three children.

Charge Police Aid.
They were taken, with the men arrested at the newspaper offices, to the Highbridge police station and questioned. After hours of grilling all but Greco and Carrillo were released. They and another unnamed man were charged with the murder of Carisi and Amoroso. Later they were indicted. The third accused has not yet been arrested. Greco and Carrillo have been in jail since July. They assert they are innocent.

Anti-Fascists, communists, liberals and many conservative Americans who have followed the Greco-Carrillo case so far believe that it may have grave consequences.

A committee organized to direct defense of the two men charges that the arrests were unwarranted by the evidence, and that the New York police are assisting the Fascists in a vendetta against the opposition. The committee has retained Clarence Darrow, Chicago, and Arthur Garfield Hays of New York as defense attorneys. A defense fund of $20,000 has been sought.

Well-known individuals interested in the defense of Greco and Carrillo include Norman Thomas, noted liberal educator and lecturer, who helped organize the Greco-Carrillo Defense committee. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation; Robert Minor, editor of the Daily Worker; James P. Cannon, national secretary of the International Labor Defense, and John Dos Passos, Michael Gold and John Howard Lawson, playwrights.

"The fuss that has been made over this case is a lot of bunk," said John E. McGeehan, district attorney of Bronx county. "It is an ordinary case, that's all, and it will be treated in the ordinary way."

"I'm not interested in whether these men are Fascists or whether they aren't Fascisti. No Fascisti have tried to influence me and it won't make any difference to me if they do.

"Will Have Able Counsel."
"There were two murders committed and we have a number of witnesses who say they saw them. They identified the accused out of a line-up. If Clarence Darrow is going to defend these men they certainly will have the benefit of able counsel. They won't be able to complain that they weren't well represented. Personally, I'll be glad if they are proved innocent and get off. That is for the trial to determine."

There also is the Fascist point of view. It is given by Count Ignazio Thaon di Revel, president of the Fascist League of North America. After denying that the league attempts to deport anti-Fascists or conduct a spy system among the New York Italian colonies, Count di Revel said:

"We rely on the American courts to settle the case of Greco and Carrillo. I think there is a strong case against them, but whether they are guilty is for the court to decide. We have not attempted to influence the police or the court and will rely on the decision of the jury."

QUITS FLYING

London (AP)—Mrs. Maurice Hewlett, widow of the author and Great Britain's first and most famous airwoman, has given up flying to make a world tour, after which she will probably live in San Francisco.

Mrs. Hewlett started flying in 1910 after seeing Panhard and Latham fly. She brought a Farm plane and after taking lessons piloted it herself, being the first woman in England to obtain a pilot's licence.

France Abandoning Professors' Gowns

Paris (AP)—High-priced black and scarlet silk robes are out of fashion with French professors. They can't afford them. Their salaries average about that of a good mechanic and those who are rich—or whose wives are—generally have abandoned the rich robes so as not to flaunt their evidences of wealth before poor colleagues.

The Sorbonne before the war offered a picturesque ceremony each winter at the formal inauguration of the university year. Many of the rich robes were adorned with gold buttons. Rarely now is an elaborate costume seen.

Cheering in Church Approved by Pastor

London—Staid pew-holders were shocked when hearty cheers burst forth at the conclusion of the sermon at a war memorial service in Islington chapel—but the preacher liked it.

The cheering came from ex-service men who agreed with Rev. J. Shepherd when he urged battlefeld pilgrimages and pictures of real warfare as means for encouraging permanent peace.

Some of the congregation attempted to stop the shouts of approval which rang through the church in such unaccustomed fashion. But the demonstration lasted several minutes.

"It was the first time I have heard cheering in church," said the minister, "though I have been cheered after a service when I was with the armies."

Copper Plates Foil Bank Vault Thieves

New York (AP)—Science has found a new way to foil the vault burglar. Research workers employed by the copper and brass industry report that copper plates, built into vault doors, will frustrate the attack of the oxy-acetylene torch, most potent tool of the professional crackman.

In laboratory tests it took a torch of pure copper seven inches thick. It is estimated that a burglar would need six hours time to burn his way through a 20-inch door containing a 15-inch plate of the metal.

Copper's resistance to oxy-acetylene is explained by the fact that it is a rapid conductor of heat. A torch developing a temperature of 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit works through the first few inches of a copper plate in comparatively short time, the experiments showed. However, the flame loses its efficiency as the metal conducts the heat rapidly away before the bulk of the metal is raised to a fusing point, thereby rendering the torch ineffective.

Research experts estimate that burglars planning to open a vault protected by copper would require oxygen and acetylene tanks weighing 900 pounds, quite too cumbersome a burden to smuggle into a bank building.

NEW ELECTRIC TUBES TO ACT AS SAFETY AID

New York—Experiments with photo-electric tubes reveal that many new uses may be expected of them in the automatic operation of every day-devices, according to S. M. Kintner, manager of the research department of the Westinghouse Electric company.

With the highly sensitive grid-glow and photo-electric tubes, Kintner said, safety devices may be developed to greater efficiency. For instance, the approach of a train can be made to light crossing warnings and light up stations. In the same way, a motorist approaching a cross roads gains the right-of-way and automatically sets the crossing light.

The vibration of an airplane motor as the ship approaches a landing field at night can be made to turn the switches that light the field. A photo-electric tube device may be used to open garage doors as soon as the headlights of an approaching car strike it.

BOOKS FOR TINY FLATS

London (AP)—Book space is so limited in British flats and small houses that publishers are catering to the needs of bookbuyers who live in such houses. Mrs. Garnett's translations of Chekov's short stories have been combined in one volume of 840 pages. All of H. G. Wells' short stories have been issued in one volume, and many other new volumes contain as many as 1,000 pages of the work of famous authors, past and present, printed on very light India paper.

Author Won't Alter 'Small Town Folk'

Paris (AP)—Montmartre stands in the same relation to Paris as Coney Island and Greenwich Village to New York, believes Allan Updegraff, American author living in Paris. His latest novel, "Whatever We Do," carries out his contention by showing a couple from Missouri "who do not go wild in the city of light."

"I have none of the hate of the small town and small town folks that seems to be popular in literary circles just now," he says. "I ran away from Springfield when a boy but I am proud of it. One finds the same type of person in Paris, Chicago and New York as in the small towns of America. I like that type and am not bent on reforming it."

MEXICAN SILVER MINES PROBED

Smithsonian Obtains Samples of Ores for Study

Washington—About 40 cases of specimens weighing two tons constitute the collection which the Smithsonian Institution has acquired from the silver mines of five States of Mexico, according to an announcement just issued by the institution.

These mines, it was stated, which date from 1558 and which have produced over a billion pesos in silver—more than any other area in the world—were examined during the past summer by the expedition of the institution and the Mineralogical Museum of Harvard University.

The announcement says: According to Dr. W. F. Foshag, leader of the expedition, the mines have been in almost continuous operation for nearly 400 years. Besides their age and wealth, they are distinguished by two of the mining wonders of the world. These are two octagonal shafts sunk in the ground to a depth of 1,200-1,500 feet and measuring 30 to 40 feet in diameter.

Shafts Are Hand-Drilled.

These shafts, says the Smithsonian mineralogist, were sunk in the early 1800's, hand drilled and with black powder as an explosive. They were made octagonal to permit eight windlasses to be operated at once. Thirty horses supplied the motive power for each windlass and each windlass drew up 16 bulhulds of water or the equivalent in silver ore at a time.

The Smithsonian-Harvard expedition was the second in a series designed to make the first systematic survey of Mexican mineral deposits yet undertaken. In spite of the vast wealth of Mexico's mineral resources, and the age of mining in that country, no attempt has ever been made to describe systematically the mineralogy of the land.

This summer, Dr. Foshag, who was accompanied by Harry Bertram of Harvard, visited mining areas in the states of central and northern Mexico, including Guanajuato, Zacatecas, Durango, Chihuahua and Sonora. He collected some 40 cases of specimens weighing two tons. His specimens included a group of 15 gypsum crystals measuring as much as five and a half feet in length. It is planned to reconstruct in the National Museum a section of the crystal cave from which the specimens came.

In addition Dr. Foshag obtained several series of minerals for the Roebeling collection in the Smithsonian. He made purchases from the endowment provided by John A. Roebeling.

Dr. Foshag reports receiving the warmest cooperation from the Secretary for Foreign Relations at Mexico City, who corresponds to the American Secretary of State.

NINE YEARS OF BEING A WORLD WAR HERO

For "Lost Battalion" Rescuer, They End in a Hunt for a Job

By Abraham Krotoshinsky

As Told to Richard Montague
Nine years ago I came back from the World War a "hero." It was the man, they said, who had saved the Lost Battalion when it was surrounded by the enemy. I had got through the German lines after 35 others had failed, and I've the rest of the army the position of the battalion. The army made a flank attack on the German and finally saved 180 of the original 250 men in the battalion.

I received the Distinguished Service Cross. When I got back to New York, a convalescent after gas attack, Governor Smith gave me the Conspicuous Service Cross of New York state. I was honored many times and invited to numerous ceremonies and parties. Here were so many of them that I can't remember them all.

A Farmer in Palestine.
Then Nathan Straus offered to take me to Palestine. I made arrangements to get a 40-acre farm near under a scheme which gave me 40 years to pay, and left for Palestine. There I took up farming.

It was dairy and general farming. I had some cows and grew wheat and barley. In Palestine it rained. After a while I found I was making a loss. Palestine is not a good country for general farming. For wheat and barley. There is not enough water. Then it doesn't rain the crops die because they haven't any system irrigation. They depend on nature too much and nature often fails them.

Too Much Footwork.
The system of dividing the land in Palestine is not good, either. People live in colonies and go to their different pieces of land. To give some people land in the colonies would be unfair to the others. So each gets a piece of land near at hand, another piece farther away and another still farther away. The division is equal enough but you get a lot of time walking around your pieces of land. It would be better if each family could live near its own farm.

I well, I stayed in Palestine for four years and lost everything I had—about $6,000. Two children had been born to us and after I had sold all the furniture I had just enough money to pack the family on a boat and bring them back to New York. When I got here I couldn't get work. For two months I walked the streets looking for a job. Then I got one with a rag dealer, keeping track of the stock. It paid $22 a week.

I kept the job two months and then I couldn't exist on $22 a week. I hadn't told the boss about my war record. When I look for a job I don't go around boasting about what I did in the war. I go after it without asking favors, just like anybody else would.

Well, I quit, but I couldn't find any other job. Sometimes I would walk around all day without anything to eat and come home too tired to do anything else but lie down. I didn't say anything to my wife because I'm not a fellow who talks much about my troubles. But I certainly felt downhearted.

The family was suffering for lack of food. My wife and I could get along fairly well on bread and tea or coffee but that kind of food is not good for kids. Judith, my eldest girl, is only 3 1/2 years old and Hanna is only 1. They needed better food, but we didn't have any to give them. We were in pretty bad shape for clothes, too, and still are.

Veterans' Body Aids.
Finally a member of the Jewish Veterans of the Wars of the Republic heard about me and now that organization is trying to help me. The thing got into the papers, too, and since then I have had a couple of offers of help.

William J. Mulcahy, commander of the Bronx County American Legion, offered to give me a clerical position in his law office to tide me over until I get something better. And I've just heard that the Jewish Agricultural Society has offered me some kind of a job. I'd like farming again and I'll take that job if it is a good one.
I don't want charity but I would like to have a job. It's all right to be a hero, but in my case it hasn't paid very well.

Paris Stage Folk Have Own Church

Paris—Paris now has its "Little Church Around the Corner," just like New York.
The chapel of the Holy Sacrament, not far from the presidential palace, has been made the church of theatrical folk and all other sorts of artists. Cardinal Dubois approved the idea and a mass for the late sleeping fraternity is held every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The first service was in memory of actors killed in the war.

The church was set apart for artists at the suggestion of the "Catholic Union of the Theater."

FINED DIME FOR BOOZE
Jersey City, N. J.—Because he had waited four weeks in jail before his trial was called, Louis Totar was fined 10 cents for possessing liquor. This is not the smallest liquor fine, however. Two years ago Federal Judge Lynch fined a man 5 cents and, when the prisoner couldn't produce it, the judge paid the fine himself.

ANOTHER CASE OF MODERN YOUTH!

IT'S THAT OF SARAH KARP, 23, WHO MOTHERS BROOD OF SEVEN ON $25 A WEEK—AND FIGHTS FOR PRIVILEGE!

BY MARIAN HALE

Philadelphia—Nothing is a sacrifice that keeps a home and family together.

Sarah Karp, serious, old-fashioned girl of 23, with unobbed hair and unrouged lips and cheeks, believes this because she lives it.

Sarah is little mother to a brood of five brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Abe, 18; Sammy, 16; Sidney, 14, and Harry, 12. The sisters are Dorothy, 10, and Ruthie, 7.

"A year ago I promised my dying mother that I never would let the children get separated," Sarah said. Since then she has toiled day and night—cooking, sewing, cleaning, washing—mothering and managing her brood on an average income of $25 weekly.

Without a murmur she gave up her own social life. She has no dates—"because the children need somebody home."

Recently, her father, who remarried after Sarah's mother died sought in court to have the younger of the children sent to an institution, contending he could not afford to continue paying $15 a week toward the brood's support. But Sarah battled for her wards. She won legal custody of them all.

She Won Her Case!
"I dressed them all up and marched them to court," she explained, eyes flashing. "I just told the judge how I had worked since I was 12 to help support the family. I just asked the judge if the children didn't look as if I could take good care of them."
Take care of them she does in a manner to demand admiration.

They own their mother's old home on Monroe street in Philadelphia's Ghetto—the first red brick house beyond the push carts. It was directed.

"The boys and I fixed it all up," Sarah said proudly, as she showed me a bright blue, freshly painted kitchen with white fixtures, dining room with big-flowered wall paper and the family golden oak "set," and three rooms upstairs, spotless in new paint. Sammy, inept plumber, put in a bathroom; Sidney, electric lights.

"You see, we boarded off the front room to rent to a dried-beans-and-peas jobber," Sarah explained. "And we rent the top floor. It pays for our coal and almost $10 a month besides." "Max sends me $5 from Canada, where he is working. Able gives me $10 of his $11 a week. Sammy earns $5 a week working after school. It takes just about $20 a week to feed us all. You know vegetables and fruit are cheap here, and I know the best cheap cuts of meat."

Sarah's day runs about 14 hours, but she does no complaining. She knows all the tricks of turning collars and cuffs on the older boys' shirts, and eventually making them over for the little fellows. Patches are a big part of her life. She even can cut the boys' hair. She darns all the socks, and makes pretty jersey dresses, with a bit of gay embroidery, for the girls.

Knows Education's Value.
"I was brought up so poor that I'm not a bit afraid of having to do without things," Sarah said. "But I would love advantages for the children. I always wanted to improve myself and went to night school for years to learn English and bookkeeping. I always look on the bright side of things and even though I couldn't get my education, I'll be happy if the children get theirs. That's why I keep the five young ones in school. I think education makes a person broadminded and better."

"Sid is going to be a lawyer and Harry a doctor. Dorothy and Ruthie, I hope, will teach school until they get married."

CURFEW RINGS AGAIN
Fulton, Mo.—Promptly at 8 o'clock each night the curfew will ring in Fulton. After a lapse of several years, city council has instructed the town marshal to toll the warning bell again.

She marched her brood right into court, did Sarah, and told the judge to see for himself whether they seemed well cared for! In the photograph, Sarah is shown (center) with three of her brothers and sisters. The brothers, left to right, are Sidney, Sam and Harry. The sisters are Dorothy (left) and Ruthie.

AVIATORS HOP TO MILWAUKEE

Schrader and Patajes Buck Heavy Wind in Night Flight

Flying in darkness most of the way and bucking a heavy wind, Harold Schrader, 23, pilot, and Wilfred Patajes, 23, mechanic, successfully completed a hop from Escanaba to Milwaukee last night in three hours' flying time. The distance of their flight was approximately 260 miles.

Schrader, a native of Milwaukee, purchased a plane several weeks ago and came to Escanaba to obtain instructions in flying under Artzen, well-known local aviator and flying instructor. He received about ten hours' flying instruction under Mr. Artzen's eye, and altogether had only thirty hours of solo flying experience before making his first long distance flight last night.

Mechanic Patajes will be remembered as one of the principals in the sensational crash of his home-built aeroplane recently near the athletic field. Luckily, Patajes escaped without injury and his experience failed to shake his nerves. The two youthful aviators hopped off late yesterday afternoon and as they were winging their way toward Milwaukee they encountered darkness at Sturgeon Bay. They maintained a straight course and made a perfect landing at Hamilton field three hours later, after circling about the airport three times in order to get their bearings. The plane's motor functioned perfectly the entire distance, the aviators reported.

Upon their arrival, they telephoned to friends here, telling of their experiences. Patajes, who is a mechanic at the Escanaba Motor company's garage, is expected to return by train this morning, but Schrader will remain in Milwaukee for the winter. The latter, however, expects to return to Escanaba next summer to continue his studies in aviation under Pilot Artzen. Artzen has seven flying enthusiasts under his tutelage now, and from indications there will be several new planes stationed in Escanaba next summer.

Their self-esteem has been increased by a system of licensing and definite "stands" where each is supreme. The license, which must be framed and on display in view of all customers, bears a photograph of the man, his name, age and other personal details as well as his scale of prices, which must be the same for all.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

CONTROL OF MENTALLY DEFECTIVE HUGE TASK

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles by Dr. Fishbein on mental defects and mental hygiene.

Educators realize that the most pressing problem of today in relation to health is the control of the mentally defective. There are today more hospital beds in the United States, more institutional rooms for persons suffering with mental defects, than for any other group in the population.

Heredity Leads An analysis of mental diseases indicates that bad heredity is responsible for about 35 per cent of the cases; alcohol and narcotics for anywhere from 10 to 15 per cent; the social disease, syphilis, for about 10 per cent, and general causes, such as bad mental training, disturbances of the glands, injuries and infectious diseases, for the remainder. On Jan. 1, 1924, there were about 335,000 patients with mental diseases in American hospitals. This means that one person in every 300 in the United States was in a hospital for mental disease. Each year more than 50,000 people are admitted to hospitals for the insane.

Average Cost When the figures are estimated, it is found that the average cost of maintaining such a patient per year is approximately $244, making an annual cost of state hospitals about $75,000,000, and the average loss of earning power about $240,000,000.

In another manner of expression of figures, it is pointed out that the cost is about as much to take care of the mentally defective as it is to educate persons in colleges and universities.

Macaroni Becomes Important Export

Washington (AP)—The ships which once brought 110,000,000 pounds of macaroni to the United States every year still are macaroni-laden, but outward bound.

This country since the World War, has become not only a macaroni exporter, but an important factor in the world macaroni trade. Figures of the Department of Commerce show that American trade has changed from 107,000,000 pounds of macaroni imports and no exports in 1913 to 2,200,000 pounds imports and 5,500,000 pounds exports for the first eight months of 1927.

Italy, which once sold the United States more than 70 per cent of the macaroni it produced, or upwards of 140,000,000 pounds annually, now sells this country only about 14 per cent, or slightly more than 30,000,000 pounds. Italy still is, however, the greatest producer.

Virtually every country in the world, with the possible exception of Italy, now is importing American-made macaroni. Even Italy imported it during the years her own industry was idle.

America's best customers this year have been Canada, the United Kingdom, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Australia and Cuba, but exports have been fairly heavy to China, Java, New Zealand, Honduras and Panama.

REDSKINS HAD FOOTBALL

Defiance, O. (AP)—The writings of an historian of a century ago have been unearthed here showing that the Indians played football then. One side was made up of braves and the other of squaws, and when one team put the ball over the other's goal the match was won.

ASK AUTOISTS TO HEED SIREN

Should Park at Curbing When Fire Truck Approaches

Attention to the ordinance which requires that automobiles and other vehicles clear the right-of-way upon the approach of fire fighting apparatus has been called by the city traffic authorities as the result of a traffic accident occurring Friday afternoon.

Rule "H" of Section 3 of the traffic ordinance reads as follows: "That upon the approach of any fire apparatus, police patrol or ambulance, every vehicle shall draw up as near as possible to the right curb and remain at a standstill until such apparatus, patrol or ambulance shall have passed. The driver of a street car shall immediately stop his car and keep it stationary upon the arrival of any fire apparatus."

In responding to a call to 304 Ludington avenue Friday afternoon, the fire truck was forced to swerve widely to the right to avoid crashing into an automobile which was traveling westward in the street. As the truck swayed to the right, it struck an automobile parked in front of the Madalla and company store. Fenders on the Madalla car were smashed and the body was badly crushed. An old blanket, which had been used for thawing out water pipes in the basement of a building, had ignited, but no damage was done.

New York.—Miss Rosabelle Whitely, a maid, disobeyed her employer and got a raise. She was told to pack Mrs. L. F. Foster's jewelry in the case Mr. Foster was taking on a motor trip. The case was stolen from the car, but later it was discovered that Rosabelle had forgotten to put in the $45,000 worth of jewels.

Because, in the first place, it's a practical gift that nearly every man will appreciate and in the second place the Firestone tire not only gives more mileage but it dresses up a car like a first class shoe shine does a used pair of shoes. Three and nine-tenths percent out of every 5 auto owners in Escanaba and surrounding territory prefer Firestone tires because of proven results." Your Family's Health Comes First

Insist on Scientifically Pasteurized Milk

Healthy, happy children! What joy mothers find in that phrase. To every mother, the health of her family comes first. That is why mothers insist that their families get the right kind of food.

Milk—pure, safe, wholesome milk is the finest all year around food. No other food possesses to such a degree the nutritive elements of milk. If your family gets plenty of good milk you are laying a firm foundation of health for your loved ones. That is why you should insist on scientifically pasteurized milk. Pasteurization is the scientific assurance that milk, chosen for its purity and wholesomeness, is safe when delivered to you. First, make sure the milk you give your family is scientifically pasteurized, then let your children have all they want.

Know the Milk You Drink

The milk sold by the Consumers Milk Products is produced in clean, wholesome surroundings. Every step of the way from the farm to your door, its original purity, goodness and richness are safe-guarded by the most exacting methods. Scientific pasteurization gives the added SAFETY.

New York, Dec. 10. (AP)—An adverse federal court decision against the St. Louis & O'Fallon railroad put rail values under the capture clause, and brought about a liquidation of railroad shares in today's stock market.

Southern Pacific had been lifted to 126 7/8, the highest price since 1910, but the stock sank to 123 3/4 and then rallied to 124, off 15 1/8 net.

At the Strand: "Birds of Prey," a melodrama starring Priscilla Dean. A real story of our much-discussed "younger generation"—but not a tale of flappers, cake-eaters or jazz parties—is coming to the Delft Monday and Tuesday.

"The real story of the modern girl," said Miss Weber, "has not been told on the screen. Instead, she has been represented simply as a type. There is no type for the younger generation of today. A few years ago they were nothing but types but a change has crept in."

"The girl of today refuses to be pigeon-holed into any particular type. She has a mind of her own which is usually a very good one and she insists on using it without domination or parental influence."

AT THE STRAND. "In Old Kentucky," a thrilling and romantic story of love and race horses, comes to the Strand Monday and Tuesday.

The picture is based on an original screen play by A. P. Younger, scenarist of "Brown of Harvard," "Thillie the Toller," "Twelve Miles Out," "Slide, Kelly, Slide," and other big film features, but was suggested to the author by the famous old Charles Dasey melodrama of the speaking stage.

BARAGA BEATS ST. JOE, 29-6

Flashy Marquette Team Has Little Trouble Defeating Locals

The Baraga Parochial high of Marquette basketball squad swamped the local St. Joseph's quintet, 26 to 6, last evening at the Escanaba high school gymnasium.

The Marquette team displayed a smooth running offense, and a very tight defense, although it weakened somewhat in the later stages of the game. Shroeger, star right forward, proved the main cog in their attack, scoring 12 of his team's points. Labranche and Connolly also showed well, contributing seven and six points, respectively.

Inability to loop them was the main cause of St. Joseph's downfall. They failed to score in the first quarter, the score being 15 to 0. In the second quarter, Baraga added four more while St. Joe's garnered their first field goal, the score standing 19 to 2 at the half.

Defensive play also featured the third period, Baraga collecting five additional points, while Kohlman added two for St. Joe's.

The game was fast and clean and was well handled by Referee Soderberg.

In the preliminary, St. Joe Reserve won from Roushorne's Yankers, 16 to 12.

Following are the lineups and summaries:
BARAGA: Shroeger (12)...RF...Kohlman (4) Lynch (4)...LF...Fitzharris (2) Connolly (6)...C...Mileski LaBranch (7)...RG...Moreau Tinkham...LG...Vandenboom Substitutions—Baraga: R. Announcement was made by President Alva Bradley, president, and Billy Evans, general manager. Peckinpaugh will make his first appearance as leader of the Indians at the annual winter meet of the major leagues in New York next week.

'STIQUE QUINT BEATS NAHMA

Nahma, Mich., Dec. 10—(Special)—Coming back with a flashy offensive in the final half, the Manistique Legion quintet nosed out a victory over Nahma, 24 to 22, in a nip-and-tuck basketball fracas here tonight.

The Nahma casters led at the half, 12 to 10, but led by Orr and Bergland. Schoolcraft scoring ace, the Manistique five piled up 14 points in a dazzling attack which also reduced the scoring chances of the locals.

Warner, speedy right forward, shone brilliantly in tonight's game, scoring several sensational throws and netting 12 points for his team.

The lineup:

Farmers Important To Urban Payrolls

Washington—Farmers pay indirectly, $2,500,000,000 of the wages of urban employees, federal data reveals.

They supply materials for industries employing more than half the country's industrial workers and about an eighth of the total railway freight tonnage. Their products constitute nearly half of the value of American exports, and they pay in taxes about one-fifth the total cost of government.

Capital invested in farms and farm equipment is more than the total capital now invested in manufacturing plants, mines, quarries and railroads.

TO BREAK POLE VAULT RECORD

Southern California Coach Predicts Barnes Will Set New Mark

BY BILLY EVANS.

"For unusual achievements under trying conditions!" When the University of Southern California athletic committee recently awarded Lee S. Barnes, captain-elect of the 1928 Trojan track team, a merit monogram on the above basis, those officials told in one short sentence the remarkable vaulting career of the far-western star.

The Barnes family is not one of independent means and throughout his entire college career, Lee has been the chief support of the family. His mother also works.

For three years Lee Barnes trained under the greatest of all hardships—competing while his father lay at home an invalid with death often near at hand.

Lee's daily schedule during the 1927 season when he reached his greatest performance, was one of efficiency; he guarded every moment preciously. Every morning Barnes attended classes from 8 o'clock until noon. Each morning, he had one vacant hour, 60 minutes in which to train toward the goal of the world's greatest vaulter, which he had set for himself.

At 1 o'clock every afternoon, Lee began work at a gasoline station, supplying motorists with gas and oil until closing time at night. The dull moments through the day he spent in studying and not once during his three years at Southern California has Barnes ever been on the "failure" or even the "danger" list for scholarship.

Barnes received one day off a week in this full-time job. He took it on Saturdays so that he could compete for the Trojan team that day. On trips, Barnes has had to miss only a few hours from regular duty on Fridays, returning in time to start work Sunday noon. His co-workers are on duty at these times and Barnes always pay them back by relieving them. Whenever the Trojan star journeys to the intercollegiate or National A. U., meets, he is forced to lose money needed by the family.

Fraternities have been rapped in print of late, but here's an answer. With Lee and his mother both away from home, it is necessary for someone to do the housework, cook the meals and give the invalid father necessary care. The Barnes family cannot afford a nurse and fraternity brothers of Lee Barnes have for the past three years, done these things to show their loyalty to Lee.

On February 28, 1926, in the first meet of his varsity career, Barnes cleared 13 feet 5-8 inches for a new American record. Later, on May 15, 1926, he broke his own mark by doing 13 feet 8 inches at the Pacific coast intercollegiate at Stanford. At the national intercollegiate he was forced to take second to Sabin Carr of Yale and later at the A. A. U. meet dropped to third place. Few knew that "trying conditions" caused his failure.

In spite of his limited time to practice, Barnes was consistent at 13 feet 6 inches during the entire 1927 season. Not once did he fall below 13 feet. Three times he soared over the 13 feet 6 inch marker. And then at the I. C. A. U. meet, he boosted his own mark to 13 feet 9 1/2 inches. Only he and Sabin Carr remained in competition.

The bar went to 14 feet. Barnes had tried this height once in 1926 and twice in 1927. Carr had attempted this mark 12 previous times. Both vaulters missed twice. Throughout that entire meet, Barnes vaulted first among all contestants and Carr last. Barnes tried his third time. He cleared the cross-piece and toppled off coming down. On one of his first attempts, he had been forced to try again. On Carr's 15th effort of his career, he established the present world's record.

In the athletic code of Southern California there is a clause awarding merit letters to members of coast championship teams in football, basketball and baseball. In track such awards come only from an intercollegiate championship, an Olympic championship or a world's record. Barnes had done none of these since becoming a Trojan. So he was granted an award for "unusual accomplishments under trying conditions" by the professors on the committee, thus showing that to all pedagogues, athletics is not "a deadly sin."

And as an ending Coach Dean Cromwell, his mentor, speaks: "As surely as I know my name I know that next season Lee will break the world's pole vault record."

MAY WIN FOUR LETTERS. Tex Rosen, Rutgers' athletic star, is likely to win four letters in major sports this season.

Wolverines Are Guests of Alumni

Detroit, Dec. 10—(AP)—The University of Michigan football team, its coaches and former athletes, who performed under the tutelage of Fielding H. Yost were feted tonight at the annual alumni breakfast.

The former Judge William Heston, Yost's all-time All-American halfback, presented retiring members of the 1927 squad with gold tributes.

High tribute was paid Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's first three-year All-American. W. Colburn Standish, president of the Alumni Association of Detroit, declared "Bennie Oosterbaan pulled through rough games wherever it was humanly possible. Oosterbaan is the first Michigan man to make an All-American team three times in succession, the first western All-American team man to hold the same position successively and the third western man to make the All-American team three times."

English Burglars Believe in Tipping

London—(AP)—The tipping evil has become so intolerable in England that even burglars are victims of its abuse.

Two boys saw a pair of burglars as they left a London house with a nice load of swag. Shaking with fright at being witnesses to such an event, the lads politely asked the housebreakers if they had been stealing apples. The thieves handed the boys sixpence and hustled away before an alarm was given.

Whitney, director of the company's research laboratory, is with him.

YANKS MAY REPEAT

Miller Huggins, not given to talking, was quoted the other day as saying his New York team was certain to repeat next season unless an unforeseen and unexpected run of injuries should rob it of its strength.

He went even further and said the Yanks ought to stay out in front for two more years before the opposition got really dangerous.

Analyzing the cold facts, it must be admitted that on the surface Miller Huggins didn't appear as if he exaggerated the possibilities of the New York club.

True, his pitching staff isn't getting any younger and Babe Ruth cannot be expected to go on forever hitting home runs, just when they are needed, yet the Yanks boast not only a great offense, but a mighty good defense.

It is a patent fact that the very excellent defense which the New York club presents, is lost sight of almost entirely because of the team's devastating offense.

Koenig Much Improved

No club can be classed as a great aggregation unless it has a smooth working combination at short and second.

In 1926, New York had a spectacular pair at those two positions in Lazzeri and Koenig had his erratic moments. Several of them proved rather costly in the 1926 series.

Last season Koenig was a different ball player. A year's experience had given him poise, erased the tendency to be nervous and polished off what few rough spots he had, so there were few better shortstops in either league.

That is one big reason why New York is going to be in the running for several years. It has three young infielders in Lazzeri, Koenig and Gehrig, who are certain to continue to improve for several years. The first two named form an ideal keystone combination.

The Yankee infield can make double plays with the best of them and it's two-ply killings that cut off runs and save ball games.

Class to Veterans

The veteran members of the pitching staff are not going to get any better and a few of them may slip a trifle but there is still plenty of good pitching left in the old members of the Yankee hurling staff.

But, while the veterans are slipping, Huggins comes to the front with George Pipgras, who pitched such a beautiful game in the second contest of the world series. He should be a big winner next season.

BASEBALL MART OPENS TUESDAY

Major League to Open Its Annual Meeting Next Week at New York

New York, Dec. 10—(AP)—Amid the rumbling of minor league objection to the draft rule, owners and managers awaited only the opening of the annual joint meeting of the major circuits here Tuesday to loose the usual flood of baseball chatters into the trading mart.

For the first time in 27 years, B. B. Johnson, retired president of the American League, will not take part in the distributions and the spectre of trouble between the fiery founder of the junior circuit and K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, will not hang over the session.

Landis will preside at the meetings Tuesday and Wednesday and this year will have the entire support of E. S. Barnard, new head of the American League, and John A. Heydler, National League president, fellow members of the advisory council now functioning in harmony for the first time.

The rumple among minor leagues over changes in the draft rule probably will echo through the meetings, although baseball men say there is little possibility of a fresh outbreak.

Objection now has been raised by the smaller leagues to the modified draft rule, a bargain made by Class AA circuits with the majors, giving the latter the right to draft players of previous big league experience. However, the willingness of the major circuits to bid almost without restraint for proven minor league stars virtually eliminates the draft controversy as a matter of genuine moment, critics point out.

Michigan Coaches Consider New Rules

Ann Arbor, Dec. 10—(AP)—Michigan high school coaches today considered major questions relative to officiating basketball and football games and voted to increase the scope of the meetings held in the fall and winter.

Motions ruling that officials be chosen from those who attended the meetings and to determine definite amounts to be paid officials for their services were considered but not adopted.

The coaches did, however, approve the suggestion that regular clinics for study of football and basketball rules be established at which specialists on defense and offense would appear to discuss and present the technique of officiating.

Suffered Worst Season

Wallace Wade's football team at Alabama suffered its most unsuccessful season this year since Wade has been in charge there.

There is every reason to believe that Willy Moore, old in years but young in the big leagues, should continue to be effective with his very deceptive slinker.

The outfield is all that could be desired. Earl Combs, in center, is one of the greatest players in the big show. On a team with such outstanding stars as Ruth, Pennock, Gehrig and others, Combs hasn't received anything like the recognition he deserves.

Yes sir! Careful analysis of the facts makes it seem Manager Miller Huggins did no idle boasting when he said the Yanks look like champions for a couple of years more.

American Pair Win Bike Race

New York, Dec. 10—(AP)—A pair of youthful homebreds, Freddie Spencer of Plainfield, N. J., and Charles Winter of New York, tonight won the 43rd International six day bicycle race with a lead of 588 sprints points over the "Red Devils" of France, Georges Fandot and Gabriel Marcellis. The leaders were tied in mileage and total laps at the close of 144 hours racing.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

The Van Swerincens, railroad men, are backing the Cleveland Indians' ball club. Maybe the team will steam up a little now.

The Indians usually make a swell start, but can't make the grade. The Vans will see that all the switches are closed.

The deer season opened in Pennsylvania the other day, but that isn't the only place where the boys hunt the bucks.

John McGraw says it's too hot in Florida to train for baseball. That state seems good for only hot teams like the Yankees.

Judging from the number of gent's who are suing for shares in Mr. Tunney's earnings, Gene is just one of the small stockholders in the heavyweight title.

Capablanca, defeated champ, says the artistic part of chess has been practically killed. We've often wondered if the same thing hadn't happened to the six-day bicycle races.

Looking for New Coach

Alabama Poly, is considering applicants for a new coach, is said to have considered more than sixty coaches.

Will Be Strong Trio

Addition of Kiki Cuyler to the Chicago Cubs' outfield will make the Wilson-Stephenson-Cuyler trio one of the best in the league.

ITALY FOREGOES HOLIDAYS

Rome—Premier Mussolini believes stoutly that every man and woman in Italy should do a full day's work. In order that time may not be lost by workers he issued an order recently forbidding the cessation of work on holidays. Even on the fifth anniversary of the black shirt march on Rome, work went forward.

University Five Has Little Trouble to Defeat State College

Ann Arbor, Dec. 10—(AP)—The University of Michigan basketball team in its opening game of the winter season, easily defeated the Michigan State college quintet, 43 to 23, here tonight. Raber scored 19 of Michigan's points.

Michigan led, 20 to 10, at the half and continued to pile up scores in the second half.

Michigan State appeared to be playing a waiting game in the first half, opening up an offensive in the

"I Wonder

It's a snappy evening in December. You're driving the family downtown to the theatre. Suddenly this thought comes to your mind—"I wonder if there's enough anti-freeze in my radiator to keep it from freezing while we're in the theatre!"

An unpleasant feeling, isn't it? But why have it? You won't need to "wonder" about radiator protection this Winter if your car is safeguarded with Ivo Radiator Glycerine, the permanent anti-freeze. Ivo's protection is permanent because glycerine's higher boiling point keeps it from evaporating or boiling away. You can operate your engine at a higher, more efficient temperature without fear of losing your protection. You're safe even when an occasional warm spell happens along in Winter.

New Building Holding up In Many Sections-Babson

NEW BUILDING HOLDING UP IN MANY SECTIONS

Babson Bullish on Small Houses
Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 9.—During the past few weeks, Mr. Babson has been making a survey of the different sections of the country regarding the building situation as it exists at the present time. In this connection he has consulted the leading Chambers of Commerce as well as making an extensive personal study. His conclusions are as follows:

General Building Declining
"Facts show very clearly that building in the general sense, is falling off. This is not in accordance with many published statistics, but the reason is that these building statistics include road building, bridge building, and the building of court houses, school houses, etc. Public building is increasing, but private building is declining, and one generally has in mind private building when discussing building in general. Current figures show a falling off in connection with the building of factories, office structures, hotels, and apartment houses. Furthermore, I believe that 1928 will show a falling off in the building of small stores.

"The building of small houses, however, has held up especially well. Current figures indicate that 1927 will show more five to seven room homes built than any previous year. Furthermore, the outlook is good for 1928 for this class of house. Although the apartment house is still a favorite, the automobile is making it continually possible for more and more people to live in the country and suburbs. In most suburbs there is a great demand for small houses within walking distance of the railroad station or car line. I believe that more houses are being built today to sell at from $5,000 to $12,000 than ever before in the history of the country. Furthermore, 1928 will also make a good showing along these lines.

Building Active in South
"Although building, at the present time, is either falling off or else at a standstill in many sections, I find that many of the Southern and Southwestern states are holding up well. Many of the cities in the states of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Georgia are holding their own in the building lines. It is further interesting to note that much of this new building is in the form of small houses.

"Among the several other states that have shown good reports for building, are Arizona, Colorado, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Ohio, and New Jersey. Reports from Wilmington (Delaware) indicate that the number of building permits for this year will be greater than for any year since 1919. The city showing the greatest increase in building is Beaumont (Texas), while Tulsa (Oklahoma), Phoenix (Arizona), Pueblo (Colorado), and Davenport (Iowa) show large gains. Other cities showing considerable gains are Hartford (Connecticut), Buffalo and Syracuse (New York).

Allentown and Lancaster (Pennsylvania), Augusta and Macon (Georgia), Cincinnati (Ohio), Nashville (Tennessee), Minneapolis (Minnesota), Boise (Idaho), and Long Beach (California). The principal Canadian cities with building gains are Edmonton, Montreal, and Toronto.

Good Road Building
"I note with interest the large sums of money being expended at present for the building and maintenance of the highways of the country. Many sections are today putting in fine roads and in this way attracting business through tourists, etc. Good roads are one of the best means of getting business. These improved highways draw new people who build homes and open new lines of business; in this way the investment is made good. While we as motorists may not like the 'gasoline tax' it is, nevertheless, a fact that an increasing number of states are adopting this method to help finance state road construction and maintenance; and it undoubtedly removes some of the burden from the general tax payers to those who use the highways. In principle it is similar to charging toll for the use of a canal or bridge.

"The state of Texas is spending large sums on its roads and in reports from several cities in Texas, I find this to be one of the largest expenditures of the year. Alabama is also spending a great deal as a bond issue of $25,000,000 is reported for the building and maintenance of its roads. Wilkes-Barre (Pennsylvania) reports more road building than for years. There is also considerable money being spent for roads in California, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, New Jersey, and Massachusetts. Every road newly constructed or improved is a stimulant to the building of individual residence houses. Good roads and the automobile have played a large part in the development of suburban property.

Building and General Business
"Building is divided into three groups. (1) Speculative building, including building for investment,

This depends very largely on the cost and ease of borrowing money. Although money rates are low at the present time, banks are showing more discrimination. (2) General residence building, with special reference to homes selling from $20,000 upward. This character of building depends largely on the general prosperity of the country. That is, the profit which people are making. When people are prosperous they build a good home. When they are not they get along with their present home. (3) Small homes, used by wage workers. The building of these homes depends largely on the employment situation, although prohibition has been a great factor and still is a great factor today in causing many small homes to be built by wage workers.

"As the employment situation is very closely allied with general business this means that building in 1928 will largely depend on general business conditions in 1928. If employment continues good as at present, a large number of small houses will continue to be built. At the present time the Babsonchart shows general business to be normal. I cannot close a discussion of the building situation without referring to the direct relationship between home ownership and good citizenship. The renter of a home ought to be a good citizen, but he often is a bolshevist at heart. When a man owns a home, however, he becomes a loyal citizen. As that great labor leader, William B. Wilson, so often said, 'No man was ever known to raise the flag of anarchy over his own hearthstone.' Therefore, we all should get behind home building and keep it prosperous, remembering that if the above is true, the real estate man, the house contractor, the insurance agent, the furniture dealer, and all who are directly or indirectly connected with home building are contributing a substantial part toward improving the citizenship of our country."

The period in our history when the greatest number of former presidents were alive at one time was between 1861 and 1862. The ex-presidents living then were Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan. Only one former president, Chief Justice William Howard Taft, is alive today.
