

SEEK CHANGE OF VENUE FOR HOTELLING

STATES START CAMPAIGNS TO SELECT HOOVER

NEW YORK MOVE REPEATED IN SEVERAL PLACES

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright 1924, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Jan. 15.—The drive which the friends of Herbert Hoover have just started in New York state to line up delegates is significant of what is happening in several other pivotal states.

The desire for uninstructed delegations is growing stronger with the organization men while the friends of the candidates are pressing harder for explicit instructions. In the background is the uncertainty which still surrounds the political future of President Coolidge.

The New York leaders who participated in the conference on behalf of Mr. Hoover included Under-Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and Assistant Attorney-General Donovan as well as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

EQUALIZATION FEE IS UPHELD

Open Hearings of House Committee to Solve Farm Problem

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The much-discussed equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen bill was upheld as a basis for a permanent farm relief system before the house agricultural committee by Chester J. Gray of the American Farm Bureau Federation with the opening of hearings on means of remedying the agricultural situation.

Representing farmers organizations throughout the middle-west and west, Gray advocated the passage of the remodeled McNary-Haugen bill on the ground that it represented the best legislation obtainable. He suggested one important amendment, the creation of advisory councils in each of the 12 federal land bank districts in place of community advisory councils to be established at the discretion of the federal farm board.

This would mean, he said, that emergency situations in all commodities in various regions would be met and dealt with by the councils of the respective regions. Under the present plan separate councils are requested as situations arise respecting any one commodity.

What Leading Lawyers Would Do to Hold Back Rising Tide of Crime

By NEA Service. New Orleans, Jan. 17.—Crime in America has reached a point where it is a sinister menace and a challenge to American civilization, and the nation must take prompt, drastic action.

This is the viewpoint of some of America's most brilliant lawyers, in New Orleans recently for the mid-winter meeting of the executive committee of the American Bar association. A symposium of their views was obtained by NEA Service.

To remedy the situation, the lawyers agreed that these steps are necessary: 1—A great sense of responsibility must be awakened in the heart of the average citizen.

2—Corruption in large cities must be cleaned up so that courts can operate without being subjected to outside pressure of any kind.

3—The powers of trial judges must be enlarged so that they can comment on the facts, the evidence and the probable guilt or innocence of defendants, instead of being limited, as at present, to commenting on the law alone.

4—The powers of the grand jury must be enlarged so that they can comment on the facts, the evidence and the probable guilt or innocence of defendants, instead of being limited, as at present, to commenting on the law alone.

5—The powers of the grand jury must be enlarged so that they can comment on the facts, the evidence and the probable guilt or innocence of defendants, instead of being limited, as at present, to commenting on the law alone.

Washington Suffers When Firebug Sets Twenty-four Blazes

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Twenty-four fire alarms, several believed to be the result of work of a pyromaniac, worked Washington up to fever heat between midnight and noon today and scorched the entire city's fire fighting forces and those of other cities to a dozen blazes in different sections of the capital.

Taking stock of the unprecedented situation, officials found that more than 30 firemen had been slightly injured, industrial property losses estimated at several hundred thousand dollars had been suffered and a psychopathic patient of Walter Reed hospital was being held for questioning.

The question, "Do you think crime in America is increasing, and what do you think should be done about it?" was asked of a number of the most prominent lawyers at the meeting. Here are some answers:

Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president of the American Bar association:

"Crime is increasing. And the remedy for it is a development of individual responsibility among citizens. But the trouble with Americans seems to be that they have become so prosperous that their only thought today is their own wishes, regardless of the law.

Dodge Jury Service.

"Americans dodge jury service whenever they can. And when they get on a jury they seem to be smitten with a mushy sentimentality instead of a clean-cut desire to see the law enforced.

"We don't want any more laws to clean up crime. We've got too damned many laws already.

"One change in legal procedure that is absolutely necessary is for the state judges to have

TAX CUT BILL PUT ON SHELF BY COMMITTEE

SENATE WILL DELAY VOTE UNTIL AFTER MARCH 15

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The $290,000,000 tax reduction bill passed before Christmas before the house was laid on a shelf in the senate finance committee today until after March 15, but Democrats announced their intention to ask the senate to bring it out at an earlier date.

An effort by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee, to obtain immediate consideration of the bill today by the committee was turned down by the Republican majority on a strict party vote, 11 to 9.

Informed by Chairman Smoot of the committee that the administration desired to learn more about the tax returns for this year, which will be revealed partially when first payments are made on March 15, before having a reduction bill enacted into law, Senator Simmons replied upon defeat, "you will hear from us later."

Criticize Garner's Remarks.

In the senate late in the day, Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic member of the finance committee, intimated the attack planned by Democrats would be to have the senate discharge the committee and take up the bill. Meanwhile in the house, members indulged in another argument over the advisability of delay.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the house ways and means committee, reiterated his declaration that Secretary Mellon interested himself in delaying action on the bill until after March 15 because it meant an increase of $50,000,000 in taxes to certain affiliated corporations. Republicans, led by Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, characterized his remarks as "demagoguery." He described as a "deliberate misstatement" the contention of Garner that the change in the bill removing permission for related corporations to file consolidated tax returns would have an effect on the financial interests of Mr. Mellon. He assailed the Texan for creating what he described as false impressions.

HOUSE PUSHES VOTE INQUIRY

Dispute Right of Beck to Sit in House of Representatives

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Pursuing its investigation of the election of Rep. James Beck, Republican, Pennsylvania, the house committee was told today that a tax list containing Beck's name had been removed from the office of the Philadelphia city assessor. This testimony was offered by Maurice Roesch, a clerk in the office.

It precipitated a verbal clash between Beck, who is a former solicitor general of the United States, and Representative Kent, Democrat, Pennsylvania, who is prosecuting the case, which hinges on the contention that Beck was not a resident of Pennsylvania at the time of his election to the house last November.

Beck denied any connection with the removal of the tax list, and when he asked Kent if he knew anything about it, he reported he did not know whether it had been stolen, "but I do know I did not steal any elections."

Kent, in seeking to establish whether Beck had paid taxes in Philadelphia, obtained from Wallace Brownley, chairman of the city's personal tax commission, that the former solicitor general had not paid a personal property tax there in 1926 and 1927.

Secretary Paid Tax.

Kent emphasized that there was an alliance between Beck and Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, whose right to a senate seat has been challenged, that not only was political but was connected with Beck's payment of his 1927 poll tax.

The tax was paid by Vare's secretary, Harry Snow, Beck testified and he received receipt from the secretary. Harry W. Keeley, present tax receiver in Pennsylvania, declared that he had been paid by Snow.

Nine Injured in Blast at Canadian Soo Iron Furnace

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 17.—(AP)—An explosion of a blast furnace in the plant of the Algoma Steel corporation in the Canadian Soo today caused the injury of twelve workmen and shook both cities, breaking hundreds of windows. The two cities are about three miles apart.

Every available physician and nurse in both cities were rushed to the plant and a first-aid station set up within the building. Damage caused by the explosion could not be estimated immediately, due to the force of the blast which flattened several nearby frame structures and caused minor destruction over a large area.

Officials of the plant did not reveal the cause of the explosion.

SOLON HITS AT CAL'S POLICY

Disagree With Armed Intervention in Nicaragua; Like Old Slavery

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, in an address before the Economic club of New York tonight, charged that moral chaos in the state department and moral confusion in the White House are responsible for the activities of the United States in Nicaragua.

"The Kellogg-Coolidge policy," he declared, has led to armed intervention in Nicaragua in behalf of an American-made puppet president foisted upon the people against their will because he is ready at whatever cost to Nicaragua to serve the interests of New York bankers, who for 17 years have mercilessly exploited Nicaragua under the protection of our state department.

"The wide discrepancy between the words and the deeds of the secretary of state and the president destroys all confidence in their leadership. No person of sound judgment can review their recent dealings in Central America without coming to the conclusion that moral chaos reigns in the state department and moral confusion in the White House."

American intervention in Nicaragua, he said, is a "source of profound humiliation to Americans who realize that our government is hand-in-glove with Diaz, a political prostrate in the betrayal of that little republic."

Should Not Repeat Mistakes.

Likening the present activities of the state department to "American protection of the slave trade less than 100 years ago," Senator Wheeler continued:

"It is not my idea of progress to travel in the footsteps of a predecessor when modern reason reveals those steps are false. 'It is not our business to stamp out banditry and supervise elections abroad, at least, until we have settled those problems at home. Our government, in the hands of those administering it, seems obsessed by the idea that by injustice and tyranny it exalts itself."

"But for all its greedy arrogance, dollar diplomacy is doomed. America's conscience will carry us away from Latin-American policy which has brought upon us the hard opinion of the world. The hard common sense of legitimate American business will end the folly of our state department's policy before it is too late."

Mail Clerk Tries to Take Own Life

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 17.—(AP)—William G. Smith, Duluth, railway mail clerk, working on Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic passenger trains between Marquette and Duluth, attempted to commit suicide Tuesday by shooting himself with a .45 caliber revolver. It was reported here Tuesday night by treatment. As the train stopped at Lake Nebagamon, Wis., the engineer heard a shot, looked back and saw Smith fall out of the door of the mail car. According to a member of the train crew who picked Smith up, the clerk said: "I guess I didn't do a good job of it."

Smith was taken to a hospital in Ashland, Wis., and his condition is reported as serious.

DELEGATIONS TAKE LEAD IN HAVANA MEET

AMERICAN AND ARGENTINE BRING UP QUESTION

Havana, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Argentine and American delegations took the lead today in disposing in the first informal meeting of delegates before the first plenary session tomorrow of the sixth Pan-American congress, of one of the admittedly thorniest problems confronting the conference.

Proposed by the Argentines and seconded by Charles Evans Hughes, for the United States, an oral motion was approved today to make open covenants openly arrived at, "the keynote of the sixth Pan-American congress" by establishing a rule of public committee meetings and plenary sessions.

The open committee motion was finally adopted in the understanding that executive sessions could be held in exceptional cases upon the request of committee members.

Chiefs Confer.

There was no change contemplated, it was said, in the rule prohibiting the discussion in plenary sessions of subjects not on the conference's agenda except by a two-thirds vote. This rule, American delegates emphasized, was at the same time a guarantee that vital subjects to the welfare of Pan-Americanism could not be excluded from consideration by mere technicalities and also promote regular procedure in the session by averting unauthorized and irregular discussions.

Today's meeting was held for an exchange of views between chiefs of missions here, to agree upon procedure in conference and to lay a basis for concerted action regarding organization of the plenary. Today's decisions must be confirmed by tomorrow's plenary session.

Delegates Optimistic.

Losing no time in starting work after the festivities of President Coolidge's visit to Havana, chiefs of delegations found themselves in practically unanimous agreement regarding the beginning of the conference, activities and the general policies.

LABOR TO FIGHT AGAINST RULING

Plans Laid for Campaign to Secure Protection From Injunction

Miami, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Plans for organized labor's fight during the present session of congress for legislative protection against injunctions were laid here today by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and were announced by President William Green with the statement that the campaign would begin at once along two fronts.

Acting on instructions from last year's convention in Los Angeles, the council at the first session of its annual meeting agreed to call a conference of all international unions on strike legislation in Washington at a date yet to be named.

Telegraphic instructions also were sent to labor representatives in Washington to arrange conferences as soon as possible with senate committees on various bills dealing with the situation.

The conference of unions, during which formal statement outlining labor's legislative platform and its position on the various bills will be issued, will be set for a date coincident with the committee hearings.

Promised Vote on Question.

The council's action followed closely a denial from Mr. Green of a report that hope virtually had been abandoned for legislative relief at the present congressional session and that all forces would be centered on an effort to elect in 1928 law-makers in sympathy with labor's stand.

"We have been promised a vote at this session on strike injunction legislation," he said, "and we have every reason to hope for favorable action."

REMUS' KEEPER

The fate of George Remus, Cincinnati wife-beater and former millionaire bootlegger, rests with Dr. W. H. Vorbau (above), superintendent of the Lima, O., State Hospital for the Insane. Dr. Vorbau, widely known psychiatrist, has the sole authority to free Remus should he be found sane, following the tests which Remus has been taking.

SLAYER WILL PLEAD GUILTY, SAYS GREEN

OWOSSO MAN SECRETLY ARRAIGNED IN GENESEE COUNTY

Flint, Mich., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Adolph Hotelling, murderer of Dorothy Schneider, will be speeded on his way to either the hospital for the criminal insane of a state penal institution, if possible, without returning to Genesee county, Gov. Fred W. Green told the Associated Press today.

The state will make a motion in the Genesee circuit court probably Wednesday morning for a change of venue to Ingham or Ionia county, the governor said. Hotelling's presence will not be required. If the motion is allowed, the prisoner will be taken into court in one of these counties at once and, according to the governor, will plead guilty.

Once the anticipated plea of guilty has been entered a commission of three physicians will examine the slayer. If it is their determination that he is insane he will be sent to the hospital, otherwise to Marquette prison.

The governor decided that the change of venue will be asked for at once, and that it now can legally be granted, after Hotelling was brought back to Genesee county for a brief arraignment late today.

The prisoner was rushed from the Ionia reformatory, where he has been sheltered since a mob threatened the Flint jail Monday night, to the farm yard of State Senator Peter B. Lannon, just inside the county line. Court was held with the prisoner, Justice Frank Cain and the guards sitting in the waiting cars.

Secrecy Surrounds Move.

Hotelling waived examination, in compliance with the agreement that he will plead guilty in subsequent court proceedings. He was bound over to circuit court without bail. Immediately the cars dashed back across the county line and started across country for Ionia.

He will be held in the Ionia reformatory, under heavy guard, until after his court appearance and the determination of the sanity commission, the governor said.

Secrecy surrounded the move by the state today, through which it hopes to send Hotelling speedily behind the bars. It had been decided that the murderer must be arraigned in Genesee county before a change of venue could be sought. No one in the county, save a few newspaper men and officers, knew he was to be returned here. So guarded were the movements of the party that towns through which it passed on the way to the farm yard rendezvous failed to recognize the members.

Fear of a recurrence of the mob scene enacted Monday night impelled the governor and state police to shroud the return of Hotelling in secrecy.

Courts May Object.

Quiet has prevailed in Flint since the hectic hours following the removal of the girl's slayer to Ionia. A crowd of thousands gathered at the jail and finally was dispersed by the bayonets of the national guard.

Reports were circulated that some separate characters might attempt to organize to go to Ionia or Lansing in the hope of seizing Hotelling. As far as could be learned, however, the reports were based principally upon the mutterings of a few. Officers were not inclined to take them seriously.

Whether the Genesee courts will object to the release of Hotelling for his final sentence was a question. One circuit judge was quoted today as saying, "This county is amply able to take care of its own cases."

If the state's motion for a change of venue should be denied, it is possible a supreme court order transferring the case might be sought. Changes of venue usually are granted upon grounds of prejudice or other elements which would deprive the accused of a fair trial.

Diute Over Reward.

The governor expressed the belief it would be foolhardy to attempt returning Hotelling to Flint for a court appearance. He referred to the clamor of the mob Monday night and asserted it would not be safe to make the attempt without again calling out the militia.

While preparations for rushing Hotelling into confinement were going forward, a dispute arose today as to the division of the $4,000 reward posted for the capture of the murderer. John Lothridge, who "saw" Hotelling as the criminal in a dream, thought he should share. Sheldon Robinson, the carpenter who actually provided the tip which enabled officers to arrest Hotelling, appeared to be in line for part of the fund. Archie Bacon, Mt. Morris farmer, who furnished the description and finally identified the killer, also was believed eligible. Lothridge retained a

SOLONS DEBATE ON SEATING MAN

Slush Fund Committee Reports; Smith Is Denounced

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Setting itself to the task of finally barring its doors against Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, Republican, Illinois, the senate today engaged in hours of acrimonious debate and heard a southerner raise his voice in defense of the south against the frequent charge of the disfranchisement of the negro.

A brief report from the special slush fund committee, embodying a resolution denouncing Smith's credentials as tainted "with fraud and corruption" and declaring his seat vacant, furnished the tinder for the verbal sparks that flew so thick and so long that a final vote on the resolution went over until tomorrow.

While few new thoughts were contributed to the discussion, there was present in even greater measure the bitterness that has marked consideration of the case since the senate committee uncovered contributions to Smith's 1926 primary campaign from Illinois public utility officials aggregating more than $200,000.

Reed Assails Cousin. Once more an implied warning to senators from the south that if they voted for the resolution to declare Smith's seat vacant, their own seats might some day be put in jeopardy because of the general disfranchisement of the negro was hurled across the chamber, this time by Senator Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania.

DENY RIGHT TO USE EVIDENCE

Testimony Against Sinclair, Burns and 4 Men Barred From Records

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—More evidence which the government had considered important in its effort to connect Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates with improper surveillance of the Fall-Stclair oil jury, was denied a place today in the record of the criminal contempt proceedings against them.

The prosecution had planned to show that members of the jury were aware they were being shadowed and believed it was being done by government agents, but when James J. O'Leary, assistant district attorney, sought to draw evidence from Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., one of the jurors, the defense objected unless it could be shown his consciousness of the surveillance was due to some act of the respondents. The court upheld this contention.

The government has yet to introduce evidence showing that jurors were approached by the Burns detectives. The defense had admitted the jury was shadowed but has contended that as long as none of the jurors was aware of it, there could be no contempt of court.

The ruling left the government in the position of first having to prove the respondents were responsible for any surveillance noticed by the jurors before the fact of jury shadowing can be introduced as evidence. Burns agents reported during the trial that other persons were shadowing some of the jurors.

Chile Social Workers Party Oppose U. S.

Santiago, Cuba, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Social Workers Congress of Chile, at a meeting today attended by delegates of labor organizations throughout the country, unanimously approved a resolution protesting against the intervention of the United States in Nicaragua. It called attention at the same time to the danger which this intervention would have for all the American countries.

The congress decided to send copies of the resolution to the "Nicaraguan patriots," the Latin-American league of Buenos Aires and other Latin-American institutions.

For claiming that he would not be deprived of his rights.

Residents of Flint and Mt. Morris today milled over the details of Hotelling's confession.

Parallels were drawn in conversations everywhere between the Hickman and Hotelling cases.

OPPOSED TO CHANGE. Flint, Mich., Jan. 17.—(P)—Judge Fred W. Brennan, presiding in the Genesee county circuit court, opposes the granting of a change of venue in the case of Adolph Hotelling, who has confessed the murder of Dorothy Schneider of Mount Morris.

There is no reason now for a change of location for a trial and I will not put Genesee county to the expense of litigation in another county unless I am convinced that Hotelling cannot obtain a fair and impartial trial in our county.

Judge Brennan said. Judge Brennan discounts the possibility of mob violence.

Gov. Fred W. Green declared today following Hotelling's arraignment at Lenoir, Mich., that an agreement had been reached by which a motion would be sought to obtain a change of venue.

Should such a motion be granted, Governor Green intimated Hotelling would plead guilty in court.

WRITES CONFESSION. Ionia, Mich., Jan. 17.—(P)—Adolph Hotelling, who confessed causing the death of five-year-old Dorothy Schneider near her home near Mount Morris, today wrote and signed a confession which involves him in other criminal charges of assaulting Owosso children.

With the clumsy fingers of a carpenter, Hotelling, church elder and once respected citizen, wrote a brief paragraph confessing attacks upon two girls, seven and eight years old. The confession was written in the presence of Sheriff G. P. Lawlock of Corunna county, and his attorney, William A. Seigmiller, in the state reformatory here.

The confession follows: "Wishing to clear up everything in these matters and make a clean breast of it all, I hereby make confession of attacks on Esther Skinner at Oak Hill cemetery, near Owosso, February 27, 1926, and Ella May Horn, near Garland, April 27, 1927."

The Horn child was chloroformed and left unconscious by the roadside. A touring car, the same used by Hotelling when Dorothy Schneider was kidnaped and slain, was driven by Hotelling in the two earlier attacks. His standing in the community, his prominence in the church of which he was a member, and the knowledge that this man never smoked, drank, or in the words of his pastor, "did anything wrong," removed him from suspicion.

The young girls attacked by Hotelling were under medical care for many weeks.

PRESIDENT ON JOURNEY HOME

To Reach Washington Thursday After Attending Havana Meeting

President Coolidge's Special Train, Enroute to Washington, Jan. 17.—(P)—With the cheers of Havana still fresh in his memory, President Coolidge was homeward bound tonight on a schedule for his arrival in Washington early Thursday.

Landing at Key West from the cruiser Memphis early this afternoon he made an automobile tour of the little island city, then boarded his special train for the forty-hour run to the capital.

With him were Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg and Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur.

The Memphis, which seven months ago brought Lindbergh, the flier, to Washington from Europe, was chosen by Mr. Coolidge for the crossing from Cuba in order that a transfer to tenders at sea might be avoided. The battleship Texas, on which he sailed to Havana, cannot enter Key West harbor.

Contrasted with the tumultuous welcome which accompanied his setting foot on foreign soil for the first time since he entered the white house was the quiet but interested crowd that awaited his arrival at Key West.

to be followed in the conference as a whole. The happy solution of the problem of public or executive committee sessions was hailed by all delegates as symptomatic of ease with which apparently difficult problems could be disposed of if good-will were present and the accomplishment introduced a note of optimism into all forecasts as to the congress.

It was pointed out that this was the first instance of complete publicity in a conference of this nature and it was recalled that this very subject gave grounds for much vituperous debate in the 1923 Santiago, Chile, congress, with subsequent criticism of the results obtained.

Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentine ambassador to Washington, took the initiative in bringing up the matter of open committee meetings for immediate discussion and determination.

After the meeting, he expressed great appreciation that Mr. Hughes, in the name of the United States delegation, had immediately seconded his motion, thereby adding the prestige of American approval and securing beyond doubt a majority for his motion.

Ambassador Pueyrredon appealed to other delegates in favor of his motion by declaring that he objected on principle to "private discussion of public affairs," adding that, since questions discussed in the conference will be of world-wide importance, the intervention of public and press ought to be welcomed instead of repulsed.

This morning's session also put on record heads of delegations as favoring the constitution of eight committees to report on topics on the agenda before their presentation to the plenary sessions. A move was made by leaders of some of the lesser delegations to increase this number to 21 making possible the appointment of each delegation head as chairman of one committee. The proposal was rejected on the ground that closer cooperation could be achieved with fewer committees.

Stage

BY LEONARD HALL For New Service

New York—Poor old Flo Ziegfeld! For 20 years the acknowledged master of skin opera, reared from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate, the pitiable Flo now has so many musical show successes on his hands that they are chasing each other all over New York. Alas, poor old Ziggy!

Two years ago Ziegfeld dropped a bucketful of do-re-mi overboard with "The Comic Supplement," a futuristic revue that tried vaguely to compromise with the conventional girl show and landed plump in the middle of the consumme.

Then, last season, he tried "Betsey," cut and basted as a starring vehicle for Belle Baker of vaudeville. It took off dizzily, floundered woefully a few feet off the ground, nose-dived sharply, and crashed horribly, scattering actors and Flo's bankroll all over the surrounding scenery.

Flo's pockets were flattening out dangerously, and his cigar, instead of tilting rakishly toward his nose, began to droop disconsolately toward his breast-bone.

Then things began to break—it was no longer raining rain, but violets, as Al "Mammy" Jolson was once wont to croon. "Rio Rita," his big Mexican musical comedy, was an overnight smash. It still is running brilliantly at the Lyric Theater here.

Encouraged, last fall he did a "Follies" with Eddie Cantor and a board of the Glorified Baby Dolls. He plunged into a musicalization of Edna Ferber's novel, "Show Boat," and now the citizens of the Biggest Main Street in the world are battling toe-to-toe for the coveted passports.

Jerome Kern's score in a beauty, and the more ecstatic reviewers are calling it the thing the best the Old Marster has ever done.

Even while "Show Boat" was fixing on the outskirts, Ziegfeld, his wallet bulging and his heart high, leaped at "Rosalie," his new starring show for Marilyn Miller, with the rubber-jointed dancing comic, Jack Donahue, featured. "Rosalie" slapped Boston to its knees, then opened on The Main Stem, and is another genuine Ziegfeld wow, than which there is none waver.

The arrival of "Rosalie" drove the successful "Follies" on tour, and left the sad Ziegfeld with only three big musical hits on and about Broadway. Won't someone start a fund?

All in all, it is a hot season for the Ziegfeld menage. Flo will not run out of Coronas, nor will the missus need worry about the new Easter bonnet. And if little Patricia, pride and joy of the house of Flo, wants a new kiddie car—why, she'll have a new kiddie car, and that will be that!

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 17.—(P)—Michigan State college students who had anticipated some "hot" copy in the latest publication, "The Student," which appeared today for the first time, were disappointed. The publication was a big flop as to "radical" tendencies and was nothing more than a mild rewrite of other campus opinions in this respect.

Court Goes to Scene of S-4 Disaster; Hears Story by Diver

Boston, Jan. 17.—(P)—Weather and sea conditions on Provincetown today, similar to those on December 17 when the coast guard destroyer Paquidram rammed and sank the submarine S-4, sent the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster back to the scene in an effort to obtain as graphic a picture as possible of the situation at the time of the collision.

Members of the court, headed by Rear Admiral Howard H. Jackson, made the trip to Provincetown aboard the destroyer Mahan after three days of inquiry. Those who testified were Thomas Eadie, diver, who worked on the S-4, Lieut. Thomas Fernter, commander of the navy tug Wandank, guardship of the S-4, and Lieut. Henry Hartley, commanding officer of the salvage ship Falcon.

Suit Was Cut Off. The court heard a thrilling story from the driver, Eadie, of his experiences under water on the day after the collision. Eadie was the first diver to descend to the submarine. He located the ship and after inspecting it, came to the surface and another diver, Fred Michaels, went down. Michaels' lines became fouled and Eadie went down and risked his own life to save his companion. After the two were brought to the surface, they were taken to the decompression chamber of the Falcon where after several hours' work, Michaels was restored to consciousness.

The suit was cut off Michaels and he and several others worked for hours on Michaels before consciousness was restored. Lieutenant Fernter told the court that the Wandank remained in Provincetown Harbor during the S-4's tests at the order of Lieut. Com. W. C. Callaway, of the board of inspection and survey, under whose direction the tests were made.

Outposts of Rebel Leader Withdrawn. Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 17.—(P)—Airplane patrols returning from the San Albino today reported that outposts of the rebel Gen. Augusto Sandino had been withdrawn from that region. Sandino's outposts around San Albino have been heavily bombarded for three days, says Col. Louis Bock, marine corps commander.

A marine combat patrol working out of the Quillali district reported today that there was no evidence of rebel activity and it is believed Sandino's forces have retired to El Chipote, which he made his headquarters after the marines took Quillali.

At Jinotega it has been reported that Sandino left El Chipote Sunday, stating that he would go to Jinotega and that his arrival would be announced by the explosion of two bombs. The explosions took place as forecast, but Sandino did not appear and it is believed that the rebel chieftain wanted to warn his followers to leave the town.

A company of marines left for Matagalpa today to strengthen the garrison there.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—(P)—Undeterred by two previous failures, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, British air ace, and Lieut. George R. Pond of the U. S. navy today cruised the airways above California with hopes of breaking the world's record for sustained flight, held by two German aviators.

At 8:09 a. m., today they went aloft in the huge tri-motored Fokker monoplane, Spirit of California with 1,537 gallons of gasoline in the tanks. The pilots said they would try to remain in the air 60 hours. The present endurance record is 52 hours, 22 minutes, 31 seconds, and this time must be bettered by one hour to be officially broken.

Some of the trouble is the fault of the judges. Elect good judges and make it clear that their tenure of office depends on their upholding of the criminal law and any crime wave will be checked. That's why I say it's a problem of personnel."

Ralph A. Van Orsdel of Omaha: "I believe the first step that should be taken is to enlarge the powers of the trial court judges. We have taken our legal procedure from England—with the exception that we limit more power to comment on the guilt or innocence of the accused. The jury, in turn, should confine its attention to the facts and let interpretation of the law remain the judge's job.

"Develop a sense of individual responsibility in the average citizen and you'll find your crime wave lessening by 90 per cent."

R. E. L. Sauer of Dallas, ex-president of the American Bar association: "Crime is on the increase and convictions are lessening proportionately. I think the chief remedy is to give to state judges the powers that the federal judges have today; the power to comment on the evidence and on the apparent guilt or innocence of the accused, the power to instruct the jury in more than the technical interpretation of the law."

"The present system in many states makes the judge merely a referee between two agile mental acrobats, the lawyer for the defense and the prosecuting attorney. It is a bad system.

"On top of that I'm beginning to believe that the moral vision of America is getting badly blurred. It is time we Americans woke up to the seriousness of the situation. One of the most amazing episodes in the history of criminal trials is the action of that Remus jury in petitioning the judge to find a witness not guilty of contempt. I gasped when I read it."

J. Weston Allen, former attorney general of Massachusetts, who supervised the Sacco-Vanzetti trials, put Ponzl in jail and drove the grafting district attorneys Tufts and Pelletier out of office.

"The foundation of a more efficient checking of crime lies in the selection of the men from whom jurors are drawn. But there are other things that can be done. I have sat on a body of lawyers formulating recommendations for changes in criminal procedure. Among our recommendations were that a vote of 10 out of 12 jurors should bring in a verdict, instead of the present system requiring a unanimous verdict. Also, that in misdemeanor cases a jury of only six should be required, and five of these six could bring in a verdict. This would eliminate hung juries and mistrials obtained through methods not unfamiliar to some defense lawyers.

"Judges should be allowed to comment on facts as well as on law. Both the judge and the jury should be allowed to comment to the jury on the fact that a defendant does not take the stand.

"And probation should be extended. In Massachusetts today four-fifths of our convicts are walking the streets in freedom, out on probation, yet Massachusetts has a low record of murders, while Boston has fewer murders than any city of its size in America."

Major Edgar B. Tolman, editor-in-chief of the American Bar Journal: "The problem of checking crime and punishing criminals is a problem of personnel, not a problem of law.

"In Illinois we have one criminal law. In Cook county, where I live, criminals escape punishment in squads and platoons. Yet in rural counties of Illinois, under the same law and with the same legal system, prosecuting attorneys prove their cases and juries convict.

"Some of the trouble is the fault of the judges. Elect good judges and make it clear that their tenure of office depends on their upholding of the criminal law and any crime wave will be checked. That's why I say it's a problem of personnel."

Ralph A. Van Orsdel of Omaha: "I believe the first step that should be taken is to enlarge the powers of the trial court judges. We have taken our legal procedure from England—with the exception that we limit the powers of the trial judge. If a British judge remarks at luncheon that he believes a defendant in his court is guilty, he has a perfect right to do so. But if an American trial judge were to do that, the counsel for the defense would raise a cry that would rock high Heaven and would get a new trial on that one fact alone.

"Let the trial judges instruct the jury in something besides the law. And then tell the jury the verdict is up to them."

Walter H. Eckert of Chicago, chairman of the publicity committee of the Bar association: "It is a disgrace the way jurors are called upon to interpret the law under our present system. The judge should be made the judge of the law, not the jury. Give the judge a wider authority for comment and instructions and your convictions will increase at least 90 per cent."

Judge Jesse A. Miller of Des Moines: "First, get good juries of responsible citizens who feel that when they are called on for jury service they have been given a duty that must be carried out impartially. Then get our prosecutors to work hard to look up the evidence. Under these two conditions, without passing a single new law or revising court procedure in any way, we could get nine convictions out of every ten guilty men who came before the bar."

than he could get in New York state. Not only, however, are some of the Republicans now connected with the federal government interested in the Hoover candidacy but such Republicans prominent in state affairs as Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, former speaker Sweet, William L. Ward and Richard W. Lawrence as well as former U. S. Senator Calder.

Mr. Hilles, Republican national committeeman, and state chairman George K. Morris have advocated a policy of an unpledged delegation. Mr. Hilles indicated in a recent speech in Syracuse that he thought Mr. Coolidge might yet be drafted. The idea of an unpledged delegation is therefore not to be construed as a move hostile to Secretary Hoover but rather as a more cautious policy of avoiding commitment until convention time, when it will be more apparent what can be done about drafting President Coolidge if that should be thought desirable by party leaders.

From the point of view of the Hoover candidacy, however, his friends are proceeding on the assumption that the president is definitely out of the race and will under no circumstances come back into it. They feel that Mr. Hoover will inherit the Coolidge strength throughout the country, especially in the Republican state organizations because neither Mr. Dawes nor Mr. Lowden has been identified with the Coolidge policies. Senator Curtis of Kansas is a strong Coolidge man but his friends are hoping that he will be the beneficiary of any possible collapse of the Hoover boom.

The indications are that the Hoover strength will develop from now on and either grow to a climax and be unable to get the majority or else it will develop such momentum continuously as will assure the nomination. Just how far the Hoover tide will run is too early to say but his friends at least have begun the active political work necessary to give him a real nucleus of delegates by convention time.

Escanaba Debaters Cast for Musical Lose to Marquette

(Special)

Marquette, Jan. 17.—(Special)—The Escanaba high school affirmative debating team was defeated here this afternoon by the Marquette high school negative trio in a debate held in the auditorium of the new high school.

Prof. J. R. Whitaker of the Northern State Teachers' college was the single judge, and stated that he gave the decision to the negative team on knowledge of the question and on the arguments brought forth in the rebuttal speeches.

The Marquette speakers were Verle Malmgren, Edna Johnson, and Leung Loren. The visiting team was composed of William Peters, Dorothy Follo and Helen Snyder.

Large Still Found on Danforth Farm

Frank Choulnard, Danforth farmer, was arrested by members of the sheriff's department yesterday afternoon on a charge of manufacture and possession of moonshine whisky. He will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ranguette this morning.

Several complaints had been received at the sheriff's office regarding the distilling operations at the Choulnard farm, and when the officers raided the place they found in a barn a 100-gallon still in operation, 40 gallons of moonshine whisky and 500 gallons of mash.

Johns; Miss Eileen Patterson, Lansing, and Earl Berg, Grand Rapids. The chorus selections will be made soon.

COUNTY AGENTS MEET FRIDAY

Plan Emphasis This Year on Boys' and Girls' Club Work.

J. E. Turner, Delta county agricultural agent, will go to Marquette Friday and Saturday to attend the annual conference of county agents of the Upper Peninsula. The chief purpose of the meeting will be to outline a program of work for the current year.

E. G. Amos of Marquette, county agent leader in the peninsula, who will preside at the conference, has announced that more emphasis will be placed on boys' and girls' agricultural work this year than on any other phase of farm development, although the agents and other specialists will continue their activities in dairy and poultry farm promotion, crop betterment, cow testing, seed selection, land clearing and other branches of agriculture.

In adopting boys' and girls' agricultural club work as a leader this year the county agents and Michigan State college specialists will be lending a hand to the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, which has laid plans for running a boys' and girls' club train through the peninsula by the spring. For several years the Development bureau and county agents have co-operated in stressing one phase of agricultural work as an outstanding part of their general program. One year emphasis was put on land clearing and a land clearing demonstration train was operated through the district. The next year there was a poultry train. This was followed by a forest fire "special", a dairy train and a "better crops" train.

Widely Known Speakers
R. J. Baldwin, of the Michigan State college, state director of agricultural extension work, will attend the agents' conference here and will give an address. Other agricultural specialists of note who will be on the speaking program are Professor O. E. Reed, head of the dairy extension department at M. S. C.; A. G. Kettner, state leader of agricultural clubs; John B. Willard, director of continuing education, and George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau.

The conference will be attended by all of the 11 county agricultural agents in the upper peninsula. This is the largest number of county agents employed in the peninsula since the state college started its extension work in this part of the state. Until this year the number of agents has never exceeded 10.

BRIEFLY TOLD

Church Dinner Tonight—The members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Episcopal church will serve a dinner this evening from 5 to 8 o'clock in the social room of the church, corner South Sixth street and Third Avenue south. The menu to be served is as follows: Roast pork, roast veal, mashed potatoes, waxed beans, cabbage salad, hot rolls, jelly, apple pie and coffee. The food is all home-prepared and the proceeds are for a worthy cause.

Swedish Mission Ladies' Aid—The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Mission church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors. Mrs. Martha Weidman will be the hostess.

Rebekah Meeting—The Phoebe Rebekah lodge will hold a special meeting Friday afternoon, January 20 at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting is called for the purpose of purchasing necessary supplies for the lodge and all members are urged to attend.

Rebekah Card Party—The Rebekah lodge will sponsor a card party at I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening, January 24. Five hundred will be played.

Church Night Service—Many interesting questions will be considered at the Church Night service of the First Presbyterian church tonight at 7:30, when some problems in the story of Gideon will be considered. The meeting will be led by Harold Lindsay, who conducted unusually interesting ones last winter. Some of the matters for discussion are: Does God call people by visions today? Are miracles performed today? Did God hate the Midianites and love the Israelites? Did God ever, or does he now, speak to people through dreams?

Light Bearers Meeting—The Anna C. Smith Circle of Light Bearers will meet at the First Presbyterian church at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Picture at St. Joseph's—Members of the Parent-Teacher association of St. Joseph's school are sponsoring the showing of a movie picture at St. Joseph's auditorium Thursday evening, January 19, at 8 o'clock. "Peck's Bad Boy" is the film to be shown and some local talent will take part in the program. The advance sale of tickets has been very encouraging to the committee in charge. The proceeds are for a worthy cause and the patronage of the public is solicited.

Schools Will Meet in Debate—The debating team of the Webster school will meet the Barr school debating team at the Barr school Friday, January 20. The speakers for the Webster school are Harold Finman, Glen Sandberg and Kenneth Swanson. The teacher is Miss Ryan. The question will be, "Resolved, that Argentina will be greater than Brazil in twenty-five years."

Y. P. S. Meeting—The Young People's society of the Swedish Baptist church will hold its January social meeting Friday evening at 7:30. A large attendance is anticipated.

Quarterly Meeting—The Woman's Missionary society of the Bethany Lutheran church will hold its first quarterly meeting of the new year tomorrow in the church parlors at 3 o'clock. A brief devotional and business session will be held after which refreshments will be served. All ladies of the church are urged to attend and friends are cordially invited.

Invited to Gladstone—The Evening Star Lodge of this city has been invited to attend a meeting of the Gladstone lodge tonight. The meeting will be held in Wasa hall and will be followed by dancing. Escanaba members are requested to take the 7 o'clock Gladstone street car.

F. R. A. Party—After a short business session at the North Star hall Monday night, the F. R. A. gave a card party that was well attended. Following the next meeting, which will be held February 6, at the North Star hall, a keno party will be held.

Franklin P. T. A. Meeting—The Franklin P. T. A. will meet at the school at 4 o'clock this evening. The program includes a talk by Miss Mary Meighan, given in her well-known and pleasing manner; a play, "Health versus Underweight" by the sixth grade pupils. The play will give many helpful hints towards the care of children's health, especially during the winter months. During the business session, important reports are to be presented. Refreshments will be served. Everyone attending is asked to bring a cup and spoon.

St. Francis Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Simonson are the parents of a son. Linder Peterson of Schaffer, Miss Eva Bustineau of Gladstone, Albert Stedle of Manitowoc, Wis., and Miss Alvena Bergdahl are among the new patients admitted recently. Mrs. John Sowa is doing nicely. The condition of James M. Milligan is still unchanged and no visitors are allowed.

SALESMAN DIES IN HOTEL HERE

Body of Karl Krafft, 43, Found in His Room in Delta.

Karl Krafft, of Chicago, aged 43, traveling salesman employed by Cohen Freidlander & Co., of Toledo, Ohio, was found dead in his room in the Delta Hotel Monday evening at 6 o'clock by employees of the hotel. Mr. Krafft was last seen alive about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. When found the body was on the floor face down, and was in an early stage of decomposition. Investigation disclosed he died of natural causes.

The body was removed to the Allo Funeral Home where a post mortem was held and heart trouble was given as the cause of death.

Besides his wife who was formerly Miss Pearl Powell of Marquette he is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. E. Krafft of Detroit, one brother, Fred Krafft of Lagrange, Ill., three sisters, Mrs. I. A. Picard of Beasmer, Mrs. Edgar James and Miss Alma Krafft of Detroit. His father, the late J. E. Krafft was known to many local residents having been a traveling salesman for thirty years and transacted business in this city for many years. The body was shipped to Detroit last night. It will be met in Chicago by his widow who will accompany the remains to Detroit. Funeral services will be held and burial will take place. L. H. Herberber of Marquette arrived in the city yesterday to take charge of the funeral arrangements.

Navy Recruiting On Quota Basis

During the year of 1927 one thousand nine hundred and thirteen young men from Milwaukee and the State of Wisconsin made application for enlistment in the United States Navy at the Milwaukee Recruiting Station. Of this number only four hundred and six could pass the physical requirements, furnish the necessary references and consent of their parents as required by the Navy, and were finally enlisted and sent to the naval training station at Great Lakes, Illinois, during the past year. At the present time these men are in the various parts of the world where navy is active. Navy recruiting is now on a quota basis, the number of men accepted being limited to six each week in this district.

A SIGNIFICANT STEP

The I. Stephenson Company's decision to change a large section of its flooring mill over for the manufacture of automobile body parts is a most significant one.

Not so long ago, automobile and furniture factories and other industries using forest products, shipped lumber to their plants and did the entire job of cutting it.

The announcement is, without question, the most important industrial step forward taken here in a long time.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE CHAPTER II

(Tuesday, Sept. 11; 8:30 a. m.) It was barely half-past eight on that momentous morning of September the 11th when Markham brought word to us of the event.

I was living temporarily with Vance at his home in East 38th street—a large remodeled apartment occupying the two top floors of a beautiful mansion.

For several years I had been Vance's personal legal representative and adviser, having resigned from my father's law firm of Van Dine, Davis and Van Dine to devote myself to his needs and interests.

On this particular morning I had risen early and was working in the library when Currie, Vance's valet and majordomo, announced Markham's presence in the living-room.

I found Markham pacing restlessly up and down, his hat and gloves thrown carelessly on the center-table. As I entered he halted and looked at me with harassed eyes.

"Good morning, Van," he greeted me, with impatient perfunctoriness. "There's been another half-world murder—the worst and ugliest thus far..."

"By all means," I agreed, with an alacrity which, I fear, was in large measure prompted by purely selfish motives. The Canary! If one had caught the city over for a victim whose murder would stir up excitement, there could have been but few selections better calculated to produce this result.

Hastening to the door, I summoned Currie, and told him to call Vance at once. "I'm afraid, sir," began Currie, politely hesitant. "Calm your fears," cut in Markham. "I'll take all responsibility for waking him at this indecent hour."

"Currie sensed an emergency and departed. A minute or two later Vance, in an elaborately embroidered silk kimono and sandals, appeared at the living-room door. "My word!" he greeted us, in mild astonishment, glancing at the clock. "Haven't you chaps gone to bed yet?"

He stroiled to the mantel, and selected a gold-tipped Regie cigarette from a small Florentine humidor. Markham's eyes narrowed: he was in no mood for levity. "The Canary has been murdered," I blurted out. "Vance held his wax vesta poised, and gave me a look of indolent inquisitiveness. "Whose Canary?"

"Margaret Odell was found strangled this morning," amended calves, more or less. For the first time in many seasons, ranchmen emphasized the "or less" provision of the sale agreements.

Even Cubist Art Is Part of Nature

BARKEEPS HAD COIN TRICKS

The advent of prohibition took from the loiterers of every community one of their favorite entertainments and put nothing forward to take its place. And although some of the feats that so entertained the old timers habits are retold with one's tongue in one's cheek and with a wink of the eye, there were, nevertheless, some stunts that the most proficient performer on the vaudeville stage cannot reproduce.

Probably the most common trick of the old bartenders, according to one who ought to know, was achieved with a stein and enough beer to fill it. Ordinarily, in the larger and more prosperous establishments, the beer keg was located at one end of the forty foot bar. Customers crowded up to the "mahogany" to settle their foot upon the rail, and gave their orders to the bar-keep who was waiting near the keg. Immediately he would draw the beverage into the stein and with a deft twist of his wrist would send the filled glass sliding down the polished bar to stop directly in front of the man who ordered a drink. It was a clever trick, they say, a fascinating stunt that one never grew tired of watching.

But that was just one of the tricks, and it was, by far, the most simple and plausible, one. There is another story about one certain bartender in Escanaba who was a past master at the art of flipping coins. As a result of this proficiency he learned to make two coins, a dime and a nickel, toss them around behind his back and into the cash register. Those who claimed to have witnessed the act, declared stubbornly that the dime always fell in the "dime pocket" in the register and the nickles in the particular compartment constructed for it.

But even that story can be easily believed when the last one is told. It is this last one that causes listeners to look suspiciously into the eyes of the story-tellers, then to stick their tongues in their cheek and to tap their foreheads significantly.

It seemed that the stunt was as follows: A customer would approach the bar and demand a drink of "Rock-an-Rye" which sold for 15 cents. The customer would receive and do away with the liquor and then would turn over to the bartender with a quarter, demanding ten cents in change.

The bartender would turn nonchalantly, measure the distance between himself and the open cash drawer. Then he would flip the coin at the drawer, into which it would drop, with the same motion striking a dime against the side of the box and send it flying back into the waiting hands of the bartender.

It is now time to put your tongue in your cheek.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

PROGRESS OF DISEASES IS HALTED BY DISINFECTION
Some thousands of years ago it was believed that pestilence or plague was due to a general putrid condition of the air and that about by influences wrought by the gods or by the stars.

More than 100 years before Pasteur showed that germs were definitely the causes of various infectious diseases, methods of fumigation consisted of the evaporation of perfumers, with the idea of disguising the odors of putrefaction rather than to get rid of the specific infection.

In 1867, it was customary to put pieces of camphor about the clothing of those who were not sick, and occasionally to throw some camphor on a hot stove with a view to killing infections that might be present.

As soon as Pasteur demonstrated definitely the relationship of certain germs to disease, it became possible to plan disinfection with a view to killing the specific germs.

Since it has been shown that insects act in many instances as the carriers of germs and are thus responsible for the spread of such diseases as typhus fever, malaria and yellow fever, disinfection is as important in these conditions as disinfection in relation to other disorders.

The control of typhus fever involves the isolation of the patient; the killing of all insects, particularly body lice that may be on the patient or his clothing, or on the bed linen; the application of a similar procedure to persons associated with the patient and to his immediate surroundings.

BABY CHICKS

CLOVERLAND'S NEW ELECTRIC HATCHERY will open for business this Spring. Buy chicks at home and save that big loss caused by shipping chicks hundreds of miles, subjected to extreme heat and cold—10% of every box of chicks shipped these long distances are ready to die when you receive them, and do die in a few days.

Buy FOREMAN STRAIN BARRED ROCKS and WHITE LEGHORN CHICKS, hatched near your home and from pedigree, trap-nested flocks that are proven layers and that have been carefully culled and mated by Prof. E. C. Foreman, acknowledged authority on Poultry in the United States and Canada, and who was at the head of the Poultry Department of our Michigan State College for seven years.

Do not take chances on buying chicks from a Hatchery just because they have a big flashy 'ad' in your Poultry Journal. The CLOVERLAND HATCHERY is a Cloverland enterprise, with men behind it who know Poultry; and the most modern Peterstone Electric Incubators are installed in this Hatchery. Come and inspect our flocks—inspect our Hatchery—satisfy yourself that we are producing the kind of chicks that you want. If you are looking for 10c chicks, the kind that originate from unkept barnyard flocks, do not write us,—we do not produce them, but if you are looking for Quality Chicks, the kind that grow into big framed, high producing hens, the kind that will make money for you, give us the order.

We own and operate in connection with our Hatchery, the largest strictly commercial egg farm in the State, and these are the kind of chicks that make up our flocks. Listen, neighbor, the difference in price between a 10c chick, that comes from the unkept, ill-bred, barnyard flock, and a Cloverland Hatchery Chick, is the price of ONE egg—if they lay one more egg during the year than the cull chick, the difference in price is made up,—but instead of one egg more, they lay twice as many—now, which one shall I buy? We guarantee our stock, and we guarantee 100% live delivery.

This is our first season and I want you to know that your first order does not mean as much to us as your second. If your first order is satisfactory, you will order again. We want you as a steady, satisfied customer, and we are going to ship the best stock that we are able to produce.

Buy early chicks—early chicks lay early,—when eggs bring big prices. Place your order now, and get 15% discount on your order. This early order discount will make your first payment on your chicks.

Write us for prices and information. We are here to serve you, and we want your business.

$40,000 Fair Building Program Will Start Soon

FAIR BOARD HOLDS MEET

To Advertise for Bids for Grandstand Work in Few Days

The board of managers of the Upper Peninsula State fair at its meeting at the courthouse yesterday authorized its building committee to start at once to carry out a $40,000 building program and transacted other business pertaining to preparations being made for the first state fair in Escanaba next September 17 to 22.

Most of the members of the board were in attendance. Interesting talks on vital problems relating to the fair were made by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of the state department of agriculture, E. G. Amos, Marquette, of the Michigan State college extension department, and G. W. Putnam, director of the Chatham experimental farm.

The proposal of the Michigan highway department to make several improvements to the fair grounds property in return for a right-of-way through the fair grounds for the construction of a new concrete highway from Escanaba to Gladstone was accepted by the board. Plans submitted by the highway department showed that the new concrete road will connect street 11 at Twenty-third street. It will extend northward across the C and N. W. tracks, near the Birds-Eye Veneer plant, turn on a five-degree curve to the right to Twenty-first street at Sixth avenue north. From this point, it follows Twenty-first street through the fairgrounds to Washington avenue to Twenty-third street beyond the C and N. W. Spur. The rest of the route through Pioneer Trail park, connecting with the part of the highway under construction at Terrace Gardens was not shown.

To Advertise for Bids. George E. Harvey, secretary-manager, made a lengthy report of the activities of the board since preparations for the fair were started several months ago. The members of the board accorded Mr. Harvey a vote of appreciation for the work he has done.

The building committee will advertise for bids within a few days for the construction of an additional grandstand, with a seating capacity of 2,500, at the race course. The old stand seats slightly more than 800. Derrick Hubert, Menominee architect, went over the plans and sketches with the fair officials during the day. Bids for the construction work will be asked for as rapidly as the plans meet with the approval of the building committee. The program calls for a performer's stand in front of the two grandstands at the track, additional training barns, poultry and livestock houses, comfort stations, and other buildings.

The Escanaba Daily Press was awarded the contract for the printing of 15,000 premium books. The books will consist of about 75 pages, containing a list of prizes to be awarded for exhibits, descriptive matter concerning the fair and advertisements. The premium book committee was authorized to dispose of several matters pertaining to prizes and other details, and it is expected the copy will be in the hands of the printers early next month.

Committees Appointed. The following committees were appointed: Grounds and attractions, A. W. Thompson, Dickinson, Dr. C. M. Sigler, Schoolcraft and A. A. Lundgaard, Delta; Buildings, J. S. Weidman Jr., Ontonagon, Earl McDonald, Houghton, and L. A. Johnson, Iron; Premiums, H. E. Powell, Ionia, Herbert Perkins, Marquette, and Dr. A. Sanders, Menominee.

The U. P. State fair will apply immediately for membership into the Michigan Fair Secretaries' association, and later will join the national organization. Membership in the American Trotting association will also be secured to aid in the promotion of races at the fairgrounds track. Mr. Perkins, who is a veteran horseman, was appointed director of speed.

Recommendations made at the meeting included: The appointment of outside judges for dairy and beef cattle; provision a camp for the boys and girls club members; appointment of members of the board to serve as directors of the various departments with the aid of superintendents; that the matter of renting the fairgrounds to private enterprises be left to the grounds and attractions committee, who will have power to act as they see fit.

ASTHMA
No cure for it, but welcome relief is often brought by VICK'S VAPORUB
Over 21 Million Jars Used Yearly

IN NEW YORK

New York.—Fickle New York makes and breaks its transient idols with unvarying regularity. It glorifies certain individuals into the status of a vogue, and when this vogue runs its course it is through with them. Meanwhile the favored individuals rather to themselves great followings of sycophants.

Those who cannot see the impermanence of their status are indeed unfortunate. In that they are raised to the Manhattan peak only to be crashed back to earth.

A year or so ago a young man appeared from the ranks of the vaudeville song and dancers. He was given the chance of editing a newspaper column that would reflect the night club chatter and the Broadway slang, the current rags and the snappy side talk. The idea caught on and the rags were passed about.

There was something of the rough-and-slango of the "big street" in it that made Variety, the theatrical magazine, the classic periodical that it is. The "smart" magazines began to notice and, at the present writing, he is quite a fad. Perhaps he will rise above the "fad" class; perhaps he will not. Others, better and worse, have come and gone.

Not so many winters ago, it was the young Michael Arlen, out of London, who was quoted, touted and honored. Manhattan had nothing stronger or weaker with its tea. "These charming people" became more and more charming. Recently someone told me Arlen was critically ill, suffering from tuberculosis and fighting for health somewhere in the Alps. And I'll bet my new Christmas neckties are not what's become of him.

Also, in Manhattan, it becomes "the thing" to be seen at certain eating places if you are to be identified as "among the who's who." For a number of years the Algonquin practically went without competition. It had become "THE place" largely because of the presence of the "round table," where gathered such Manhattan "celebs" as Alexander Woolcott, the critic; Heywood Brown, the columnist; Harold Ross, editor of the sophisticated weekly; a few of the bright young men from Life and Judge—and many such. Thereafter a second circle began to grow about the first.

For a number of years, it's the sort of place where you go to see a film critic, a columnist or something equally divine, a young Russian makes an excellent caricature and frames it on the surrounding wall. It's the sort of place where you point out "personalities" to your Cousin Lillian from Brooklyn, and whisper a magic name. It's the sort of place where the greetings are often just a bit too loud, as though certain persons were trying to give notice of their wide acquaintance. And, sprinkled generously through the crowd, are persons who really "belong." For each of these there are a dozen pretenders.

For, such is the strange state of things, that one who achieves a degree of prominence in New York is likely to have this reputation splatter over and attract attention in other quarters of America.

Meanwhile, the army of rounders come and go and conversation—however meaningless—goes endlessly on, while waiting ears leap upon any new quip which might be serviceable for future "gag" purposes.

But New York does not cling to the latest idol. It demands new faces, new names, new ideas, new that they may sit back in ease in this, cash in on their moment that they may sit back in ease when their brief hour is done.

POWELL TALKS AT FAIR MEET

State Department of Agriculture to Aid U. P. Exposition

Fairs, if properly managed, bring about a better condition in agriculture, declared Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of the state department of agriculture, who spoke before the board of managers of the U. P. State fair here yesterday.

Although manufacturing has become the state's greatest industry, Michigan still holds an important place in agriculture, Mr. Powell said, and he gave statistics on the various crops of the state.

Mr. Powell expressed his belief that a fair should be first of all educational, although he explained it should also provide a means of recreation to those who attend.

"It is my hope," he said, "that farmers who attend the U. P. State fair here next fall will return to their homes to raise better crops and livestock."

To Send Exhibits. Mr. Powell read a letter from the attorney general's office, which indicated that the U. P. State fair would be likely to participate in the contribution of about $100,000 annually from the state to county, district and township fairs to be used as premium money.

He promised that the state department of agriculture would always be ready to assist the U. P. State fair in the way of advertising it and securing exhibits. He advised that the department of agriculture and Michigan State college would send a large list of exhibits here.

Mr. Powell also suggested that an effort be made to have each of the 15 counties of the peninsula enter a dairy herd in competition at the fair next fall. He told of how this plan is carried out at the Michigan State fair at Detroit and he believed that it could be done here. He pointed out that owners of the cows in each herd could enter the animals in the open class. By the making of group shipments from each county, Mr. Powell said that transportation costs would be reduced considerably.

Michigan Crop Statistics. The following crop statistics were quoted by Mr. Powell: Michigan produced last year 6,624,000 bushels of white beans, 29,888,000 bushels of potatoes, giving the state second place in amount and quality produced; 17,916,000 bushels of wheat, 15,000,000 bushels of corn, 4,097,000 tons of hay, 969,000 tons of sugar beets and 9,045,000 bushels of apples. Michigan holds third place in the growing of grapes. California and New York being first and second, respectively.

Chile Consumption Takes Prosperity to Pepper Farmer

Las Cruces, N. M. (AP)—American consumption of chili con carne has brought prosperity to pepper growers in the southwest.

Forty thousand pounds of dried chili pepper were turned out by a dehydrating plant near here during the season just closed. The making of this amount of dried peppers required 200,000 pounds of the pods from the vine.

BUREAU WILL SEND EXHIBIT

Bishop Suggests Several Means of Boosting U. P. Fair

The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau will co-operate with the U. P. state fair officials in every possible way to make the undertaking a success, George E. Bishop, secretary of the organization, told the board of fair managers yesterday at the meeting.

The bureau places an exhibit at the Michigan State fair in Detroit annually, showing the agricultural, mining, lumbering and other industrial features of the peninsula. This exhibit will also be shown at the fair here, it was promised, at the bureau's own expense.

Mr. Bishop called attention to the fact that the time in which officials have to prepare for the fair is becoming short, and that much work still remains to be done. He offered several suggestions as to means of creating a wide-spread interest in the exposition and of adding to the attractiveness of the event.

He suggested the appointment of ten persons in each of the fifteen counties in the upper peninsula for the purpose of boosting the fair project in their respective districts. These committees, Mr. Bishop said, would be composed of representative citizens, such as business men, chamber of commerce secretaries and members of the press, mining, lumbering and agricultural interests.

"It's going to take a public sentiment, crystallized, to put this fair over," Mr. Bishop admonished. "The agricultural exhibits will be a big feature of the fair, but we must not forget our other leading industries, mining and lumbering."

In this connection, Mr. Bishop said it was his dream that two buildings one dedicated to forestry and the other to mining, be established at the fairgrounds. He was of the opinion that the lumbering and mining interests of the upper peninsula would be interested in such a project, and would assist in the work.

In the forestry building, Mr. Bishop explained, could be placed exhibits showing the history of the lumbering industry in the upper peninsula. Exhibits from the forestry experimental stations in this section of the country could also be included in the collection.

Samples of the various ores mined in the peninsula, together with model mine plants, could be used as exhibits in the mining building, he said.

It was indicated at the meeting that efforts would be made to follow Mr. Bishop's suggestions.

STOCK ENTRIES TO BE LIMITED

Only Breeders of State Will Be Allowed to Place Exhibits

Entries of livestock at the first U. P. state fair to be held here in September will be limited only to Michigan farmers and breeders, it was decided at the meeting of the board of fair managers yesterday.

The action followed a general discussion of the question whether the fair would be kept open for exhibits by professional showmen, that is, breeders from other states who show their animals regularly at fairs throughout the country.

Most of the members agreed that the presence of high-grade animals owned by the "showmen" would have a tendency to discourage attempts by upper peninsula farmers to win prizes at the fair. It also was brought out that the housing facilities this fall would not be adequate for the handling of a large amount of livestock.

The question as to whether the exhibits should be limited was first raised by G. W. Putnam, director of the experimental farm at Chatham, who pointed out that this matter would have to be taken into consideration in the making up of the premium list.

Mr. Putnam asked the members of the board whether they wanted the exhibits from the professional showmen from other parts of the country, or did they want to build up show material in the upper peninsula, thus improving the stock.

The experimental farm had declared there were scarcely any livestock showmen in the peninsula, and although there were a few high grade herds, few of the owners would risk the expense to compete with outside herds.

It developed in the discussion of the matter that an array of high grade animals can be gathered about the peninsula, but the main problem would be the bringing of them to Escanaba. Few farmers have displayed any interest in exhibiting their livestock because the benefits did not warrant the expenditure. The professional showman, who is making a circuit of fairs, secures beneficial advertising in winning the ribbons, which to him is more valuable than the prize money.

A plan, whereby the various local fair associations would pay a part of the expense in transporting livestock for exhibits to the U. P. fair here, was suggested by Mr. Putnam. He said that if each county fair would take a financial interest in the project there would be less likelihood that interest would

HOW CAN WOMEN KEEP WELL ENOUGH TO GET UP SINGING?

MRS. BELLE THOMPSON

3101 E. 44TH ST., EAST LAKE, TENN.
Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy.

But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too.

She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 3101 E. 44th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for any letters sent to me."—Mrs. JENNIE BOLLEMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

JURY ACQUITS JOHN SOLIGNY

John Soligny, Mueller township, was found not guilty in justice court Tuesday on a charge of possession of venison at a time prohibited by law.

Complaint in the case was filed by Peter Powers and George Gish, officers of the conservation department, who testified at the hearing. Soligny and Mrs. Soligny were the only defense witnesses.

Jurors in the case were: Joseph W. Scott, E. R. Monroe, Claude Smith and Herman Kiefer.

MYSTERY AT GERO.

"Mulligan! Mulligan! Where the h— is Mulligan?" This famous slogan, known the world over, has been brought to the screen in "The Gorilla," weird, shrieking, blood-tingling mystery comedy-drama scheduled for tonight at the Gero theater.

Charlie Murray, with Fred Kelsey, play the demon detectives, Mulligan and Garry. This, in itself, is a guarantee, but the picture includes the combined efforts of Edward Small, the producer, and the same man who made "The Cohens and the Kellys" and "McFadden's Flats," and Alfred Santell, the director of "The Gorilla," who was the megaphone wielder of "The Patent Leather Kid." These, with the all-star cast composed of Tully Marshall, Alice Day, Claude Gillingwater, Walter Pidgeon, Brooks Benedict, Aggie Herring, Gaston Glass, Syd Crossly and, of course, the gorilla himself, promise the greatest thrill entertainment.

The slogan of "Mulligan! Mulligan! Where the h— is Mulligan?" became world-famous when eight road companies, in addition to the New York and London companies, toured the United States.

MEETING TODAY.

Reports of officers will be submitted at the regular meeting of the M. E. Aid society to be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the church recreation rooms. Mrs. V. Marin, Mrs. Ira Crawford and Mrs. Arthur Cockram will be the hostesses.

DAVENPORT PILLOWS

Silk, satin and other fancy pillows grow dingy so easily that they should be removed and cleaned often. A gasoline bath for several at once is a good idea.

BARE FLOORS

If you will run your vacuum cleaner over the bare floors before dusting them, you will find much less work in store for you.

REGULATE-DONT PURGE BOWELS

Harsh Physics, Calomel, Salts and Purgatives Soon Lose Effect

Here is a pleasant, harmless laxative, system cleanser, stomach tonic and bowel regulator which everyone troubled with constipation, biliousness or a sour, gassy stomach should try.

It is known as "VINCO". Made of Herbs, Roots and Bark (no dope). Does not gripe or sicken. Your druggist will refund money if you do not get relief from the first 25c box.

Laxative, system cleanser, stomach tonic and bowel regulator which everyone troubled with constipation, biliousness or a sour, gassy stomach should try.

Use only "VINCO" to regulate the bowels, stop bloating and relieve indigestion. Learn the difference between harsh physics and gentle, harmless "VINCO".—Adv

NEWBERRY AND MANISTIQUE DO BATTLE FRIDAY

One of the big games on the Manistique high school basketball schedule will be run off at the gymnasium Friday night when the Newberry high school team comes here to clash with Coach Bill Cook's varsity crew.

Manistique's conference games have been chalked up in the defeat column thus far, but all have been by close margins, and the locals are looking for a lucky break to favor them in getting revenge against Newberry this week. Due to the close rivalry between the two towns, the event is expected to draw a big crowd.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends at Manistique and Germfask for their kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of our father, Alfred Bruce Roblin.

Mrs. Charles Hancock, George and Leon Roblin.

TRIO NEXT ON LYCEUM SERIES

Due to a change in lyceum course bookings, the appearance of Branch Riekey at the Manistique auditorium will be on January 30 instead of January 23, according to announcement by the Woman's club committee in charge of the local lyceum series.

The next number in the series will be the Garay Sisters, noted European concert trio, who appear here Friday, January 27. Miss Elizabeth Garay and Miss Yalanda Garay are natives of Budapest. Each began the study of music at the age of seven years.

Elizabeth, violinist, was a pupil of Professor Zaire of the National Academy. Yalanda, violinist, is a product of the Royal Academy of Budapest, and was a pupil of Kovacs and Toldes. They were considered most brilliant among the pupils at the National Academy, where they remained until late in 1920, when they undertook their first European concert tour.

They have had remarkable success in their concert work in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Italy and they have achieved tremendous success in some of the most important music and art centers of Italy, including Bologna, Genoa, Milan, Rome and Florence. The ease and perfection with which they render the most difficult selections from the greatest masters is remarkable.

Wherever they have appeared—Pome, Florence, Budapest and other centers of culture in Europe, or among the simple peasants of their native land—these amazing young artists have won the hearts and affections of those who have listened to them. During the first few months of their first American tour they completely captivated the hearts and the admiration of their audiences. They will have the support of a capable piano accompanist.

F. ARCHAMBEAU SUMMONED BY DEATH MONDAY

Frank Archambeau, 402 Alger avenue, died at his home here Sunday evening. Mr. Archambeau was 65 years of age, and leaves a wife and six children.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home this afternoon with Rev. V. E. Holmsted officiating.

Poultry Expert Arrives in City

Having accepted a position at the C. M. Sigler poultry farm, W. C. Lampert has moved his family to Manistique, and taken over his duties at the Indian River ranch and hatchery.

Mr. Lampert comes from Belvidere, Ill., and is a professional poultryman, having been in the business for 10 years.

Remodel Building For New Physician

Dr. Edith McLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McLeod, 315 Oak street, has opened up a practice in Manistique, and will shortly occupy office quarters in a building adjacent to the McLeod residence. The place is being thoroughly remodeled and refitted throughout.

The biggest ocean wave ever measured was 675 feet long.

Federated Clubs Meeting in Texas

May 29 to June 6

Washington, Jan. 17—New England club women are nothing if not forehanded in planning their activities. Although the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs to be held in San Antonio, Tex., does not convene until May 29-June 6, New England has its excursion planned. Its itinerary arranged and printed matter thoroughly circulated throughout Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Besides visiting several cities in Texas in addition to San Antonio, the club women will make stops in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee, and a side trip into Mexico is also announced.

"Singing Massachusetts" is the name chosen by that state for its delegation, and it promises to be a big one. A singing rally will be held early the coming spring and in this a chorale contest will be featured. The winner of the contest will head the "Singing Massachusetts" delegation in its march south under the slogan, "On to San Antonio." Always active in Federation affairs, Massachusetts has a special interest this year, as it is presenting the only candidate yet announced for the office of first vice president, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, now recording secretary of the federation.

CUT SLATE WITH CABLE. Washington—The Bureau of Mines has introduced the use of wire cable as a saw, materially reducing the waste in quarrying operations. A three-strand cable runs as an endless belt, the cable replacing the saw blade and sand grains carried in the spiral grooves acting as the teeth.

NAME MEMORIAL COMMITTEE

Splendid Program Follows Business Meeting of Club

Appointment of a perpetual committee for the Hancock Memorial fund, the gift of Mrs. W. H. Corbett and her brothers to the Child's Welfare club of Gladstone, was made Monday night at the business meeting of the club preceding the open "Music Night" program.

The members are: Mrs. J. D. McDonald, chairman; Mrs. James T. Jones and Mrs. Henry Rosenblum. This committee will have continuing charge of the Memorial fund and complete authority on the handling and disposal of it. The Hancock Memorial, a generous gift to the Welfare club work, is the income of an investment of $10,000. It has been established in honor of the Memory of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore N. Hancock, early residents of Gladstone, by Mrs. William H. Corbett of Superior, formerly of this city and president of the Welfare club for a number of years, and her brother, John Hancock, Luke R. Hancock and Frank B. Hancock.

Appointment of this committee, a matter of great importance, was the chief consideration of the business meeting. Program Enjoyed. The open "Music Night" program following giving an entertainment of varied numbers presented by exceptional talent, thoroughly illustrating its topic, "The Origin and Progress of Music in America."

The program was well arranged, and credit for its success is due those who took part and the committee in charge of the evening. Mesdames Heimer Skogquist and John M. Olson, Skogquist and Misses Agnes Olson, Ethel Emmons, Gertrude Mueller and Maurie McDonald.

THEATRES

AT THE RIALTO. Three contrasts of life are afforded in the powerful comedy-drama of father-love "The Prince of Headwaters." Sam E. Rork's latest production for First National pictures and featured on the program of the Rialto theater today only.

First, with Lewis Stone and Priscilla Bonner, the action is laid in a picturesque studio apartment of Paris.

Then the story shifts to the John Cable home in Boston. It fairly radiates luxury and New England civility; there is dignity in every corner.

Finally the story moves to the "Ritz Hotel of New York," where extravagance and luxury and lavishness are emphasized in many ways, particularly in the party affairs of four college boys, Robert Agnew and his father, Pierre (Lewis Stone), the headwater, who is unknown to his son.

Besides Mr. Stone, Priscilla Bonner and Robert Agnew, the cast of the comedy-drama includes Lilyan Tashman, E. J. Peckoff, Ann Rork and others. John Francis Dillon was the director and the photoplay is Jane Murfin's adaptation of Garrett Fort's Liberty magazine story also titled "The Prince of Headwaters."

WASA ORDER SOCIAL AT HALL TONIGHT

Wasa Order will hold a business meeting and a social this evening at Wasa hall, beginning at the usual hour.

A number of members of the Evening Star lodge of Escanaba will come here for the social. The business meeting will be featured by a discussion of activities which will be undertaken by the lodge during the coming year.

DANCE THURSDAY

Groleau's Blue Rhythm Kings will furnish the music for the dance to be given at Wasa hall Thursday night. The party given Thursday of last week was well attended.

FRUIT COMPOTE

For a change in breakfast fruits, make a compote of cooked figs, dates and apricots and put in a few sections of fresh grape fruit.

GINGERBREAD DESSERT

Hot gingerbread, baked in individual muffin tins, with raisins and nuts, makes a fine dessert served either with whipped cream or cooked soft custard.

INEXPENSIVE ROAST

Shoulder of mutton, veal or lamb makes an inexpensive but tasty roast if stuffed with chestnut dressing. Serve with cranberry jelly.

Girls Start Hike, Finish By Airplane

A hike to Escanaba isn't unusual these days but a hike to Escanaba and a return trip by airplane is something of a novelty, and a group of girls of the Gladstone telephone exchange are the first to complete their hike by air.

The girls, Dora Raiche, Mrs. Hazel Rovin and Mabel Skogquist, made the trip Monday, hiking to the neighboring city and flying back to Gladstone. They enjoyed a supper party following their return here.

NORWAY HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Two Preliminaries Arranged; Williamson Referee

Norway the team that took Gladstone's chances of championship in last year's tournament to task when it defeated the Kellen after they had beat Kingsford, is on the basketball schedule for Friday night, scheduled to meet Coach Kell's cagers here on the floor of the Gladstone high school gymnasium.

There will be three games on the program for Friday night, with the contest between Norway and Gladstone the main event.

At 7 o'clock, the Junior girls team will meet the Senior girls. Miss Lucille Webb is coach.

The second game at 7:30 o'clock will be between the Buckeye five and the 1. Stephenson quintet of Wells.

The Norway-Gladstone game will be called at 8:30 o'clock. Williamson of Gwin will referee the game.

ANNUAL PARISH SUPPER TONIGHT

Informal Business Meeting After Trinity Church Supper.

The annual parish supper and business meeting of Trinity Episcopal church will be held this evening at the church beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Rev. John Crippen Evans of Escanaba, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal church of that city and of Trinity Episcopal, will be present.

The parish supper will be for the members of the congregation. Following it there will be an informal business gathering with reports of the past year's activities within the church and a general discussion of them.

WELFARE CLUB MEMBERS PARTY ON THURSDAY

An invitation is extended to all members of the Child's Welfare club for the party which will be held Thursday evening at the Eagles' hall.

The affair will be an old-time party with games of all kinds, bridge and other card contests, and dancing arranged for the evening. Refreshments will be served.

A special committee is in charge of arrangements.

BANQUET AT CHURCH TONIGHT

Missionary Society Will Entertain Standard Bearers.

The Standard Bearers of Allee Memorial Methodist Episcopal church and the mothers of the girls, will be the guests of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the church this evening at the annual Heritage banquet.

The banquet will be served in the parlors of the church beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Following the banquet will be a program for which these numbers have been arranged by Mrs. J. F. Richardson.

"We Are Standard Bearers," song Standard Bearer girls. Vocal duet, selected—June and Fern Woodhall; Aleene Hufford, accompanist.

ASPIRIN

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by a Bayer Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; its use avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Bayer Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetlicacidester of Salicylicacid

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heart-burn, bloating, nervousness, headaches and worst of all you get thin, pale and weak. If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after our meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it. Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Diapepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

STOCK SALES AVERAGES. Twenty Twenty Date Industrials Railroads Tuesday -- 153.03 144.56 Monday -- 152.24 144.29

New York, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Stock prices drifted rather aimlessly today in the quietest full session since last July.

There was little in the day's business and financial news to influence the price movement.

A few good 1927 earnings reports by small companies, particularly Mullins Manufacturing and Newport Mining, made their appearance during the day and initial dividends were authorized on the common stocks of Deer and company and the Kroger Grocery and Baking company.

U. S. Steel common and General Motors failed to break out of the narrow trading area within which they have been fluctuating for the last fortnight.

National Tea broke 8 points on a few sales. American Snuff, Houston Oil and Jewel Tea were also conspicuously heavy.

Spanish peanuts dropped 6 points to 17.08 cents and Japanese yen twice as much to 46.73 cents.

HERMANVILLE

(Gene Sturm, Corr.) At the annual stockholders' meeting of the Hermansville Community club, held Monday evening, January 16, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—L. W. Rowell. First Vice President—G. Harold Earle. Second Vice President—John C. Taylor.

A very delightful banquet was served to all the stockholders present which was enjoyed to the utmost. B. Vescolani acted as toastmaster at the banquet and kept the crowd going all the while.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Stewart E. Earle left yesterday morning on a business trip to Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sturm and family motored to Iron Mountain Sunday.

Mrs. Axel Osterberg suffered a broken arm caused by slipping on ice near her home.

Fred Harrington and Peter Masie motored to Daggett Sunday.

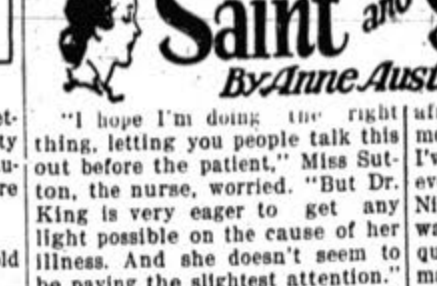

A number of local high school students attended the basketball game held at Powers Sunday afternoon between the Milwaukee Mountain team and the Iron Mountain high school.

Morris Miskler had the misfortune of spraining an ankle while attending the Snow Carnival at the Community Club.

Escanaba High School Defeats St. Joseph, 19-12

LARGE CROWD SEES CONTEST

Scoring Punch of Orange and Black Too Much for Saints

A large enthusiastic crowd of basketball fans saw the Orange and Black of Escanaba high school triumph over the Purple and Gold of St. Joseph's in a hard fought game at the high school gymnasium last night, by a 19-12 score. The game was fast and well played by both teams. Referee Williamson of Gwin called but fifteen personal fouls throughout the game, seven on Escanaba and eight on St. Joe's.

Snyder of the high school settled matters for Escanaba with four goals from the floor after St. Joe had held Escanaba to an eight to five score at the half. Pelin, diminutive floor guard, played brilliantly for the winners, starting his first game for High. Gustafson proved a nemesis to the purple forwards, forcing them to shoot from the floor.

Fitzharris, purple mite, led the Saints' attack with two field goals and a free throw. Moreau stood out in defense.

The first quarter started with Stegath scoring from the floor. Pelin followed suit under the basket. After the Esky forwards had blown several easy shots Fitzharris tossed one from the foul line. Olson and Snyder brought the Escanaba total to 6 as the quarter ended.

Play speeded up after Fitzharris opened the second quarter with a beautiful shot from a difficult angle. After some weird basket shooting by the high school forward trio, Kohlman scored from far down the floor to bring the score 6-5. Gustafson made good on a charity toss and Pelin ended the half with a free throw after blowing the first shot.

Directly after the third quarter started Fitzharris sifted through the entire Escanaba defense for a field basket. Snyder immediately followed with a basket from the side of the floor, making the score 10-7. Stegath made good on Fitzharris' foul. Time out, St. Joe Skopp heaved one for St. Joe from mid-floor and Snyder retaliated with two baskets in rapid order. The third quarter ended with the score 15-9 in favor of the high school.

Kohlman started the final period by converting Fitzharris' missed free throw into a field goal directly under the basket. Snyder again disturbed the draperies from the center of the floor, the ball dropping in after circling the hoop several times. Olson followed soon after with a pretty heave from the sidelines, running the Escanaba total to 19. Milecki brought St. Joe's score to twelve after being fouled by Pelin. The game ended with neither team having further opportunity to score.

SPORT SLANTS

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Jan. 17—(AP)—Serious consideration has been given with in the last few days to a proposal to shuffle football dates so that the Army-Notre Dame football game in New York next fall will furnish the cadets a substitute for the cancelled clash with the Navy on November 24.

Notre Dame's previous schedule commitments, coupled with the fact that the Irish face a long jaunt to the Pacific coast to play Southern California probably will prevent a shift for the Army's benefit, but both Knute Rockne and "Bill" Jones, the rival coaches, are understood to have discussed the idea and expressed mutual enthusiasm for it.

The two teams are slated now to meet at the Yankee stadium on November 1. So far as the Army is concerned it would be a simple matter to defer the contest two weeks to fill the yawning gap in the cadet schedule. Rockne and Notre Dame, much as they would like to accommodate West Point, may find it impossible to step into the breach. It may be easier for the Hoosiers to do so, however, now that their intersectional fray with U. S. C. at Los Angeles has been put back a week to December 8. Army and Notre Dame have agreed to a 1928 game. If the break between the Cadets and Middies persists it would not be surprising to see the intersectional game occupy the climax date on West Point's schedule next year, at any rate.

The American tennis ranking list for 1927 will not be disclosed until the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association, in Chicago, February 11, but there is no doubt of the position of William T. Tilden at the top.

Big Bill will be the No. 1 man for the eighth successive year, thereby equalling the record of the late William A. Larnend. However, it is a somewhat hollow satisfaction for the tall American, who has been forced to yield the national title to Rene Lacoste for the last two seasons.

"Little Bill" Johnston, fourth in the 1926 list, may be shoved further down the list by the rush of younger talent toward the top, or the aged California may not be ranked at all since he figured in so little competition outside the Davis cup.

It would not be surprising to see the first ten fashioned somewhat along this order:

1. Tilden; 2. Alonso; 3. Hunter; 4. Lott; 5. Hennessy; 6. Jones; 7. Johnston; 8. Doeg; 9. Van Ryn; 10. Jones.

Campus Comment

BOB MATHERNE

Older and heavier men are needed for crew material at Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia. If those schools are to have their crews on equal terms with crews of other schools.

That's the opinion of Rusty Callow, former coach at Washington and now in charge of Pennsylvania crews.

Not a new idea is this one of Callow's. It is based on observations made during the years when Washington's crew easily stood out as one of the best in the annual Poughkeepsie regatta.

"You can't expect boys to beat men, especially in a contest where endurance counts so much," says Callow.

The man of the west, especially around the Pacific slope, are older and heavier than the men of eastern crews. Maybe that is because they often delay in entering college and do not, as is the case in the east with the exception of perhaps at Princeton, Harvard and Yale, enter college just after leaving high school.

"I've always wanted old and heavy men on my crews. I encourage every man who comes out to stay out, and I am going to do that at Penn. Endurance is an asset decidedly vital in crew racing, and the men who stick it out four years often make good varsity material in their last year in college.

"There's hope for these eastern schools if they will only develop older and heavier material."

How well pleased must Coach David A. Armbruster be with his swimming squad at Iowa. He has five "T" men, nine others who swam in intercollegiate meets last year and eleven sophomores who were awarded swimming numerals last year. This squad will represent Iowa against five Big Ten opponents and also in the various championship meets this year.

A Denver law student is literally fighting his way through school. He is Joe "Awful" Coffee, a great favorite with Denver fans. Coffee, who has been winning his recent fights handily, also serves as assistant football coach for his school.

Charles Hyatt, Pittsburgh basketball forward, showed Big Ten opponents in four games on a recent trip how to make points. Hyatt scored 60 in four games. This caused Big Ten officials and players to gasp a bit as Cummins, of Purdue, was high scorer in that conference last season with only 124 points.

STAFF WANTS TO RACE DUBE

World's Champion Seeking Series of Matches in Peninsula

Art Staff, world's professional ice skating champion, is seeking to arrange a series of match races in the upper peninsula with Peter Dube of Escanaba, the peninsula champion.

In a letter from Staff's manager, B. A. Sunde, it is suggested that these races be arranged in Escanaba, Marquette, Houghton and Calumet.

"Staff is willing to defend his title against anyone, at any time, over any distance," his manager declares. "He is particularly anxious to procure matches with some of the better known professionals and would like to arrange a series of races with the veteran Dube, to be held in the upper peninsula."

Dube also is willing and if rink managers can be interested in the proposition, the matches probably will be held. "While I am not anxious to take Staff on in the 220-yard and 440-yard events, I think I can give him plenty of action in the events from a half-mile up," Dube declared last night. "I'm doing what I can to arrange for the series of matches. The presence of a world's champion should be a drawing card for rink managers, and anyone who has held a clock on me this year knows that, in all of the events from 880 yards upward, I can furnish Art with plenty of competition to make things interesting."

Dube expects to enter the international professional skating meet which will be held in the New Olympia rink in Detroit next month.

Unfortunately, Escanaba has no rink where such an attraction could be staged.

Gopher Sextet Beats Michigan

Detroit, Jan. 17—(AP)—Minnesota's better conditioned hockey team outclassed the University of Michigan sextet at the Olympia arena here tonight, outplaying the Wolverines from goal out to score an impressive 3 to 0 victory in the first western conference game for either team.

The Gophers outspeeded the Wolverines and only the splendid defensive play of Capt. Steve Jones, Michigan goalie, prevented Minnesota from burying Michigan under a barrage of tallies. The feet forwards from the north broke through the shaky Michigan defense almost at will to level drives at Jones from all ranges and angles. The three shots that beat him were from inside, giving him no chance to save.

Rickard Arranges Two Heavyweight Elimination Bouts

New York, Jan. 17—(AP)—Tex Rickard's plans for developing a suitable opponent for Gene Tunney underwent another shuffle tonight when the promoter outlined a program matching Tom Heeney and Jack Delaney for March 1, and Johnny Risko and Jack Sharkey for March 12.

Those matches are now tentative but Rickard stated definite arrangements probably would be made before he departed for Miami tomorrow night for a conference with the champion.

The NUT CRACKER by Joe Williams

Jimmy Johnston announces he has bought 10 per cent of Jack Sharkey. Mr. Johnston would make no statement as to what part of Sharkey he had bought, that which fights or that which pops off.

He may be wanting to use that 10 per cent just for purely personal reasons, having trouble with garrulous neighbors, or a debate with a telephone operator.

None of the British heavyweights recently has been subdued. Mr. O'Goofy remarks, perhaps because most of them have been laid out long ago.

One manager offered several dollars for a good wrestler the other day. Probably some delicate owner who will serve him on rye.

Some valuable opportunities in this field are being overlooked by the stockyards people.

Butter and egg men might find something to their liking in this market, although some of the stock isn't so fresh.

Mr. O'Goofy just asked if those 600 millionaires at Tex Rickard's banquet were all former heavy-weight champions.

No, not all. For the six-day bike racers were there, too, and they're not millionaires, although they can flash a long roll.

Cook, the ice hockeyist, was there, and he's not so wealthy, either, although he can cut quite a figure.

Speaking of football improving college relations, you'd almost think that the Princeton-Harvard, Navy-Army eleven were filled with relations by marriage.

Maybe it's just as well the Navy and Army did break off. Now we can save the grenades for the next war.

Maybe we should send Lindbergh to Annapolis and West Point.

Some scientist says you can't live more than four weeks without sleep. Have you ever noticed how healthy-looking most British heavyweights are?

Police who put up ropes to keep back the curious from a London fire were busy 90 minutes rescussitating British boxers who saw the hempen strands and collapsed.

Joe Beckett is said to have fainted sensationally in a London music hall. He passed out when the symphony boys began to re-sin up their strings.

It turned out, after all, that a few guys were only trying to string him.

Merrile England has her dukes, it seems, but nobody who knows how to use them.

Joel Olson Given Yearling Numerals

Ann Arbor, Mich. (Special)—Joel Olson, of Escanaba, freshman at the University of Michigan, was one of eleven in the physical education class to win his yearling football numerals this week. The awards were made this week.

Olson played tackle on the physical education team that clashed with other local elevens here last fall. He was one of the most consistent players on the team and is likely varsity material for next year, having weight and experience.

Olson is taking a course in coaching here. He was graduated from the Escanaba high school in 1922, after making a stellar record on the high school grid squad.

THREE CHAMPS CHALLENGED

Meeting of New York State Athletic Commission Gets Missiles

New York, Jan. 17—(AP)—Champions of the heavyweight, light-weight and bantamweight divisions ran into a barrage of challenges today at the bi-weekly meeting of the New York state athletic commission.

Right on the heels of an unsatisfactory showing against Tom Heeney, Australian champion, Jack Sharkey posted $2,500 with the commission in support of a challenge of Tunney's heavyweight division.

The boxing fathers decided today Gene still has months to spare before answering an opening bid. In view of the champion's title defense against Jack Dempsey in Chicago last September, six months rest is allowed a titleholder between championship matches.

Two challenges for Sammy Mandell's lightweight honors sprouted today when Bruce Flowers, Yorkers negro, added his deft to that of Sid Terris, the latter in view of Mandell's aversion to risking his title in New York, the commission suggested that Flowers fight Terris for the "logical contendership."

Mandell, who has not risked his class since he defeated Phil McGraw in Detroit last July, is under indefinite suspension here for failure to meet Terris. A match between Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast star, and Terris, scheduled for February 24 at Madison Square Garden, was ruled out owing to agreement of 137 pounds as fighting weight. The commission ruled Terris must stay in the 135-pound class. An attempt will be made to substitute Flowers for McLarnin, Archie Bells, Brooklyn bantamweight, and Kid Francis of Italy, sought recognition of their 15-round bout in Brooklyn, February 13, as a 126-pound title affair.

Sharkey Reinstated.
Although Bud Taylor, Terre Haute blonde, is not recognized here as the bantamweight champion, the commission conceded the bout only "contendership" recognition.

Cleaning up of loose ends here and there, the board formally reinstated Jack Sharkey as a result of his draw bout with Heeney. The Boston sailor was indefinitely suspended when an injured left hand prevented his meeting Heeney last month.

You Pinochle Sharks Shoot at This One

One big thrill comes to every man, once in a life time, and this unusual event came to Gus Asp at a pinochle tournament at Nick Thinnis, last Sunday morning. In a three-handed auction pinochle game, Herman Lull, Nicholas Kintzinger and Gus Asp, Gus held a 1500 hand, which constitutes a perfect hand, holding a double sequence in spades.

At another table, during the tournament, Nick Stockemer, a good authority on pinochle, met a 2d fate. Nick held 600 queens, 28 twentys, 40 pinochle, and the duce. He bid 600 melded 690, held five trumps in diamonds and failed to get a trick, and was set back 1290.

In a recent dispatch from Terre Haute, Ind., Charles B. Bryant held a 1500 hand in pinochle, after which he fainted. Gus did everything but faint.

Old-time authority on pinochle claim a perfect hand comes to one only once in a lifetime, and most times it don't.

Hooks and Slides

HARD YEAR AHEAD

Sammy Mandell, the recognized holder of the lightweight championship, was placed in what the boys call the frying grease frequently during the past year and he'll be in there this year because he has not been what is fancied as a fighting champion. Just what are the specifications of a fighting champion cannot be fully defined because there are so few of them.

The name of Tommy Loughran comes to mind when there is any mental exercise given to the definition of a fighting champion, but he is one notable exception.

Mandell's name appeared frequently late in 1927 as the winner of bouts here and there, but they weren't big "here and there" and the boys insinuated that Eddie Kane had been so successful in finding virgin territory that Rand-McNally wanted him to take charge of the new map.

Most of the criticism directed against Mandell and Kane came from the east side of New York where two ghetto boys, Sid Terris and Ruby Goldstein, mounted the push carts and cried out that they weren't getting a square deal. Most of the fight talk that comes out of New York is heard and believed because the boys in that neighborhood can talk loud and they have convincing gestures.

Rights of Champions
It would seem, however, that Mandell hasn't been such a terrible champion. He will agree with you, and so will Kane, that he is not a Joe Gans or a Benny Leonard, but they would have you tell them, how do the present champions of the other classes compare with their predecessors of that period which is fondly recalled as the good old days of the three American jacks—John L. Dempsey and McAllister.

Mandell hasn't defended his title for a long time in places, at weights or over distances that the New York Commission regards as championship requirements, but in refusing to be blackjacked into a match in New York he has merely exercised the rights that champions have taken unto themselves.

Mandell has just as much right as the other champions to hold out for his price. The lightweight championship cost him $20,000. He had to guarantee that Rocky Kansas would get $50,000 for defending his title and when the gate didn't come up to the proper figure Kane had to dig down and make the purse good.

There was no scandal attached to this deal Kansas didn't dive. He was merely protecting himself financially in the event that he lost. Guaranteeing of purses to champions by challengers is a necessary part of all present-day matchmaking.

Kane has held out that if he had to go into his pocket to guarantee a purse, the gentlemen behind Terris and the other challengers should do the same thing, but it seems those gentlemen are not so sure that their fellows can beat Mandell. The first crack at Kansas was considered a sure thing and Kane bid highest for it.

Kane Names Terms
Kane told Jess McMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker, not long ago that Mandell was ready to fight in New York and that they would not bring their opponent along in a suitcase. He mentioned the price and McMahon said it was not exorbitant. But Kane had other terms.

He insisted that an air-tight and financially bonded promise be given him that Terris or any other opponent selected would agree to give Mandell a return bout within a specified time in Chicago, in the event that Mandell lost. It was suggested that Kane have Terris' managers put up his purse as a bond that this provision be fulfilled, but nothing came of it because Chicago was Mandell's neighborhood.

Kane then wanted to know if Terris was a stranger in New York.

"If we come into New York we will have two strikes on us," Kane said. He explained that he had faith in the honesty of New York officials but that the judgment of some of the judges and referees had not always been backed by the public. The boys on the shelves in the Garden do yell when "Sidneh" is fighting and some of the judges have been known to have very sensitive ears.

Before you put Mandell on the nan remember that the New York Boxing Commission never has slapped a suspension on him and that Rickard has not made any violent protest that he was sitting on his title.

Rickard did say in an interview that Mandell was one of the champions due for a flop in 1928 and that Billy Wallace was the boy likely to do it—but when Rickard made his ranking of the 1927 lightweights he named Mandell first, Goldstein second, Terris third. He didn't mention Wallace up there at all.

The Escanaba high school negative debaters will engage tonight with the Manistique affirmative team in their second debate this season. The Manistique debaters will come to the Escanaba auditorium this evening with a record of victories over Sault Ste. Marie, St. Joseph and Gladstone, with twelve debating points to their credit toward the upper peninsula debate championship. The local debaters have strengthened their arguments since their debate with St. Joseph last week and their coach, Clarence Zetzel, is quite confident that his proteges can conquer the high touted Manistique speakers.

The Manistique debaters are George Nicholson, Ion McKilligan and Marjorie Morrison. All are experienced and forceful speakers. They will be accompanied to this city by their coach, Miss Elms Bishop. The Escanaba negative team will be composed of Rita Auerbach, Hilding Olson and Marquerite Ehn.

The question to be debated will be the same as that discussed in previous debates this season: Resolved, that the direct primary system of nominating candidates for public office in the United States should be abolished.

The chairman of the contest will be Senator H. J. Rushton who will represent the Delta County Bar association. The expert judge system will be used to decide the winner. Prof. F. R. Copper of the Northern State Teachers college will act as judge.

The Escanaba high school assembly orchestra, directed by R. W. Nordling, will furnish the entertainment before and after the debate.

Frank LaValley, 41, of Marinette, was arrested here yesterday and will be arraigned in justice court today on a charge of operating a confidence game in connection with the issuance of several checks.

According to a confession made to sheriff's and police officers here following his arrest, LaValley is wanted for similar activities in Duluth and St. Paul, where he adopted several other fictitious names.

Using the name, Frank Bell, the Marinette man deposited $25 at the State Savings bank at Gladstone on Monday. He cashed several small checks with Gladstone merchants, and then came to Escanaba yesterday. He issued a $10-check to the Boston Store, one for $5 at Schram's Toggery and was presenting a $15 check at the Fair Savings bank store when he was nabbed by local officers.

Escanaba authorities were notified of LaValley's activities by Mr. Stein of the Leader store, who refused to cash a check, and in the meantime, Gladstone and Escanaba merchants had called the Gladstone bank for information concerning the account. In the check book, LaValley had several other checks bearing the names of other Escanaba merchants. LaValley is married and is the

Mining Engineer Is Charged With Using Mails to Defraud

New York, Jan. 17—(AP)—Accused of "ballooning" Idaho copper, Walter H. Weed, nationally known mining engineer who assisted in the survey of Yellow Stone Park, and George Rice, stock broker and editor of the Wall Street Iconoclast, and Walter K. Yorston of Boise, Idaho, were indicted today on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The charges grew out of the promotion of the copper stock, allegedly through a publicity campaign conducted in Rice's publication. The indictments, returned by the federal grand jury after hearing evidence for six weeks, accuse the three men of holding options on 1,300,000 shares of stock at 10 and 12 cents and selling them for as high as $7.25.

Rice is said to have played the stock on the Boston curb at 56c. Between March 1925 and March 1926, the stock went up to $6.25. Assistant United States Attorney Peck charged that this was accomplished by "ballooning" the stock to readers of Rice's paper.

Part of the allegations set forth in the indictment charge that Rice used reports regarding progress of the work at mining claims which Weed had made to him. It is further charged these statements were misrepresentations and fraudulent. Yorston formerly was president of the corporation.

Senate Opposed to Cut in Tariff Rates

Washington, Jan. 17—(AP)—Taking an exactly opposite position to that of the senate, the house today went on record against any downward revision of the tariff.

Upon motion of the Republican leader, Tilson of Connecticut, the house voted 183 to 164 to table the McMaster resolution declaring for a scaling down of "excessive" important levies. The senate approved the proposal, 54 to 34.

In the house, Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the minority leader, advocated referring the question to the ways and means committee where the tariff like revenue legislation must originate. On the vote seven Democrats, De Rouen, Kamp, Martin, O'Connor, Spearling and Wilson, all of Louisiana, and Casey of Pennsylvania, joined with 175 Republicans to table the proposal.

THIEVES TAKE HOLSTEIN CALF

Pure Bred Stolen From Ferguson Farm; Re- wards Offered

More than one hundred dollars in rewards is offered to anyone furnishing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thieves who stole a pure bred Holstein calf from the Dan Ferguson farm in Danforth sometime Sunday night.

The calf was taken from the barn, and hauled away in a car. It is apparent from automobile tire tread marks found on the premises. The animal, which was about two and a half months old, weighed from 125 to 150 pounds, and was valued at $150 by the owners. It being jointly owned by Mr. Ferguson and the Danforth Holstein-Friesian association. The color of the calf is black with white spots. The legs are white from the knees downward.

Fifty dollars is offered as a reward by the county, the owners offer an additional fifty and a small sum has been posted by the sheriff's department.

In connection with the theft, Sheriff Swanson issued a warning to farmers in the county to keep their homes, chicken coops and barns under lock and key as a safeguard against robbers. It is suggested that if any farmer sees any suspicious persons prowling about their premises that they notify members of the sheriff's department at once.

All information furnished to the sheriff's department with regard to the theft at the Ferguson farm will be kept in strict confidence. Sheriff Swanson announced.
