

EDWARD HICKMAN GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

LONG SESSION OF CONGRESS IS INDICATED

MAY STAY ON JOB MOST OF THE SUMMER

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. (Copyright 1928, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Jan. 24.—Indications are that the present session of congress may be one of the longest of the "long sessions."

The only urge that normally would cause congress to adjourn would be the two national political conventions in June but a recess over that fortnight might be taken and congress resume its labors thereafter.

This possibility is discussed because of the way many vital issues are crowding the calendar and it is within the power of members to keep congress from adjourning unless action on their favorite measures is taken.

Last March, congress was compelled by constitutional provision to end its session on March 4 and Mr. Coolidge steadfastly refused to call an extra session for flood control or farm relief.

Already the normal reason for haste in passing a tax reduction bill has passed as it has been decided to postpone tax discussion until after March 15.

The fight on a farm relief bill as well as the entire question of flood control will take considerable time and there are signs that railway consolidation, Muscle Shoals and Boulder—will take up little time with the increasing prospect that there will be more discussion of tariff revision, especially to make a record for campaign purposes.

Several inquiries such as that of public utilities, oil lands and resale price maintenance, will take much of the time of the legislators while the controversy over the size of the navy program is only one of a number of things that will come out of the various appropriation bills that will be time-consuming.

Ever since the Coolidge administration started, the president has been able to persuade the leaders to confine their efforts to a minimum of legislation or at least the measures on which there was some hope of agreement.

But the accumulation of important bills now has become such that it is merely a question for administration opponents of whether more advantage will be gained by adjourning congress in June and going into the campaign with a finger pointed at the failure of the party in power to pass needed bills, or whether it will be better

21 Prisoners Dig Way Out of Detroit Jail

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The search of 19 of 21 prisoners who early today dug their way to freedom out of the Elmwood branch of the county jail here in what was described as "the largest wholesale delivery of federal prisoners in the history of the state," assumed international proportions tonight.

Two of the fugitives were recaptured here several hours after the escape, but authorities were combing Canadian border cities as a result of receipt of information that most of the prisoners planned to cross the Detroit river into Canada in their dash for liberty.

City and state police and federal narcotic agents also were scouring Detroit's underworld haunts, believing that some of the fugitives, most of whom were said to be drug addicts, would seek refuge in dives where they might find drugs.

The recaptured prisoners are Robert J. White, found hiding in a brick yard, and William Trudeau, arrested when he applied at a hospital for drug treatment.

Nineteen of the 21 who escaped were held awaiting trials on charges of violating the federal narcotic act. Another was held on a charge of counterfeiting and the other was a state narcotic prisoner. Federal agents said most of the prisoners were desperate for drugs and gave this as one of the reasons for the jail break.

The prisoners, all confined in one cell, dug their way through a brick wall with crude tools fashioned from a plumbing fixture and buckets flattened out. Four prisoners refused to leave the cell, although the way was open to them.

These prisoners told authorities the digging began about 1 a. m. and that the escape was effected about 5:30 a. m. It was discovered by guards at 6:30 a. m.

All except Fuller were classed as small peddlers of "dope," but the majority had long records. The men who refused to leave were Roy Williams, Chester Knight, Ned Perfile and Frank Putz.

Will Transfer Prisoners to New State Pen
Lansing, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The first step toward employing the new Jackson prison, where cell block units are being rushed to completion, to relieve the crowded condition of other state penal institutions was announced today by Arthur D. Wood, pardon and parole commissioner.

From Marquette, where the cell capacity has exceeded 100 prisoners will be transferred to Jackson. They will be those serving the shortest terms. Ordinarily only major criminals are sent to Marquette. From Ionia, where minor offenders are imprisoned, 200 of the longest termers will be sent to Jackson. The transfers will be made within a few days.

EVERHART SAYS SINCLAIR GAVE BONDS TO FALL

MAN WHO HANDLED PAPERS TESTIFIES AT INQUIRY

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair was named today before the senate lands committee as the source of the $230,000 in Liberty bonds received by Albert B. Fall after he had leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve to the wealthy New York oil operator in April, 1922.

This testimony, twice withheld from the federal courts, was given freely by the man who handled the bonds, M. T. Everhart, of Pueblo, Colo., son-in-law of the former interior secretary. He declared that besides this sum, for which Sinclair was to get an interest in Fall's New Mexico ranch, Fall received $2,500 in Liberty bonds and $36,000 in cash as "loans" from Sinclair.

The witness said he did not know whether these were repaid. Received $294,000. At its original inquiry four years ago, which was revived today, the committee received testimony that Sinclair also advanced $25,000 in Liberty bonds to Fall after the latter had retired from the cabinet and before he made a trip to Russia as the oil operator's representative in negotiations with the Soviet government.

Thus, the record now stands that the former interior secretary received a sum total of $294,000 from Sinclair and $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny after the lease of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills California naval oil lands, which since have been recovered by the government.

Testimony at the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy trial here which was halted abruptly last November after Burns' detectives shadowed the jury, was that the $230,000 in bonds which Everhart says Sinclair personally paid over to him were part of a block of such securities which the Continental Trading Company Ltd., a now extinct Canadian corporation, bought in New York out of its profits on the purchase and resale of oil in this country.

The committee will set out now to ascertain if it can, what became of the remainder of the $3,000,000 in profits which the Continental company is alleged to have made by buying oil from the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver and re-selling it to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, the Mid-West Refining company and the Prairie Oil and Gas company.

FALL COMMENTS. El Paso, Tex., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Declaring the transaction was part of a plan by Harry F. Sinclair to purchase a big ranch in the southwest, Albert B. Fall tonight characterized as "open and above board" the deal by which M. T. Everhart testified in Washington today the former interior secretary received $233,000 in Liberty bonds and $36,000 in cash from Sinclair.

Missing Girl Was Working As Maid
Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Ruth Lotteridge, 14-year-old Toledo school girl, for whom a nation-wide search was conducted, was found tonight working as a maid in a Detroit household.

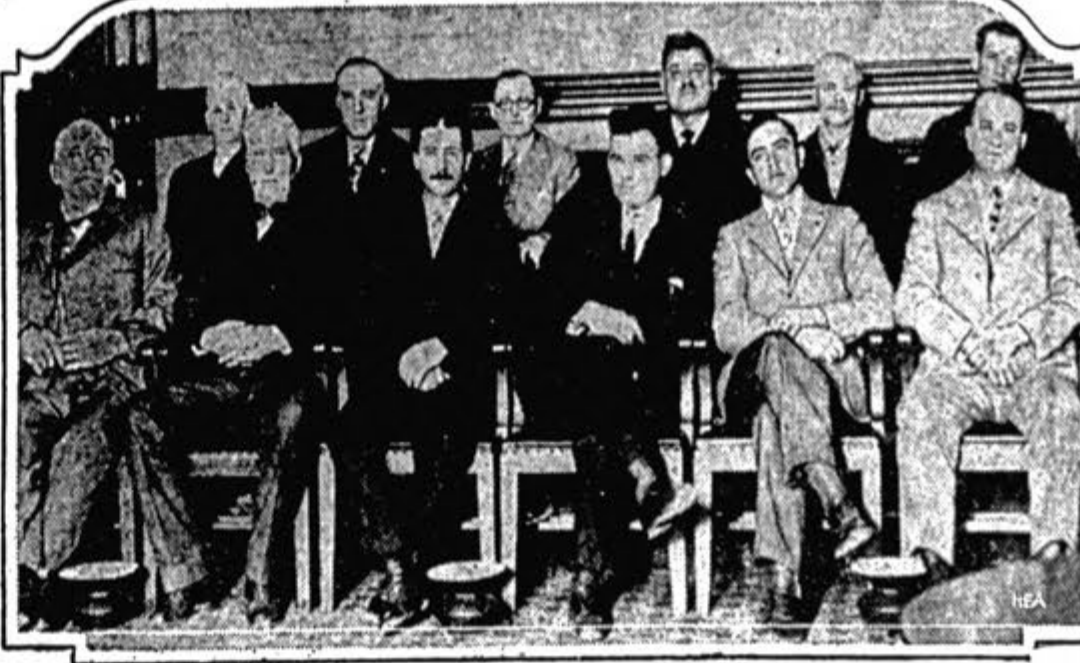

The girl who disappeared January 17 refused to tell police why she ran away from home. She said she went from Toledo to Monroe, Mich., where she spent two days and then came to Detroit and applied for a position as a domestic. Her whereabouts were made known to police by her employer, who saw the girl's picture in a newspaper.

Parents of the girl were notified and are expected to arrive here tomorrow. The girl was taken to a juvenile detention home where she will be held pending their arrival.

Operator of Cigar Store Kills Self
Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The body of Frank McComber, 54, Detroit cigar store operator, was found today in the kitchen of his apartment. A shotgun was found nearby. Police said, following an investigation, they believe McComber killed himself.

The body was found when a neighbor, Mrs. I. J. Marvin, heard a shot and summoned the caretaker who forced entrance into the apartment. McComber's wife had been taken to a hospital this morning for treatment for a chronic ailment and McComber is believed to have been alone in his apartment at the time of the shooting.

STORM WRECKS SCHOOLHOUSE

Lives of Children and Teacher Endangered in Tornado

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Twenty-one school children and their teacher narrowly escaped serious injury on the outskirts of Paducah today in one of more tornadoes which struck in Kentucky and Tennessee and are believed to have spent their energy in nearby Illinois without causing any damage there.

One life was believed to have been claimed by the twister. No estimate of property loss was available because of crippled wire communication facilities. An infant daughter of A. Trice, a farmer, was killed when the Trice home near the village of Gage, Ky., was tossed about until demolished. The tot was caught beneath the wreckage of a chimney. Her body was recovered by her father as the terror-stricken mother looked on.

Much Property Damage. The school demolished was a one-story frame structure at Lang, barely two miles from the center of Paducah. Classes were in progress when the building was struck. The wind tore the school from its foundation and rolled it over on its side. One side was severed in the process and the children crawled to safety before they were sure of what it was all about. They ranged in age from 6 to 14. Miss Hattie Scott, the teacher, was going about her routine duties when the storm struck.

The tornado was believed to have entered Kentucky from Tennessee in the vicinity of Wickliffe, a Mississippi river town. It left ruined structures in its wake before dipping out of Kentucky in the direction of Caseyville, Ill. No damage was reported by residents of Caseyville or other towns in that section of Illinois.

The storm was felt at Wickliffe, Kevil, Gage, Lamont and Paducah in Kentucky, and at Franklin, Tenn. Several houses were unroofed in the latter town but no casualties were reported.

SOUTHERN CITY HIT. Columbia, S. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A terrific wind storm hit Columbia tonight, causing considerable damage. The storm struck shortly after 2 p. m. and first check-up failed to disclose serious damage or loss of life.

Hold 3 Youths As Robbery Suspects
Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Police are holding three youths for investigation in connection with 24 to 30 store robberies here in recent weeks. Albert Dixon, 25, one of the trio has confessed to complicity in seven hold-ups and has implicated Guy Cherepak, 20, and John Molnar, 21, the other two under arrest, police announced.

Abandon Attempt to Unite Banks
Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Negotiations that have been under way for several weeks for the consolidation of the Griswold First State and the American State bank of Detroit, have been definitely abandoned. It was announced tonight.

Coincident with the announcement it was revealed that Calvin H. Newman has resigned as president of the Griswold institution.

ARMY ENGINEER BURIED AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The body of Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, U. S. A., retired, builder of the Panama canal, was buried today with imposing military ceremonies in the historic cemetery of the U. S. Military academy on the plains overlooking the winding Hudson river.

This was the wish of the man who separated two continents in one of the greatest engineering triumphs of the ages. His grave is near the mounds of Gen. Winfield Scott, Gen. Daniel Butterfield and Gen. George B. Custer.

The beat of muffled drums and the slow measures of the funeral dirge sounded as the full corps of cadets was drawn up after the simple services in the post chapel. The flag-draped coffin was carried to the burying ground on an artillery caisson.

A squad of cadets from Company B—the company General Goethals commanded when he was a cadet—fired a volley as the coffin was lowered into the grave, and the shots echoed and re-echoed through the surrounding hills.

Then—the plaintive notes of "taps" from a cadet bugler, and the academy had given its final honors to one of its most distinguished sons.

Rev. H. Percy Silver, a former academy chaplain, and an old friend of the family, was in charge of the service in the chapel.

HEFLIN ASSAILS NEWSPAPERMEN

Senator Calls Reporters "Liars" and "Hickorynuts"

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Writers from the senate press gallery were made today by Senator Hefflin, Democrat, Alabama, on objection to some of the account of his speech yesterday in which he assailed his critics and renewed his attacks on the Catholic church and Governor Smith of New York.

Obtaining recognition of the body the Alabama senator confined his remarks to denials of statements written in stories published in two Washington papers. He referred to the writers as "liars" and "hickorynuts."

Mr. Hefflin denied published assertions in the Washington News that he said he would quit the Democratic party if Al Smith were nominated for president. He gave notice that he was going to ask the senate to take some action against newspaper men "who lie about me," if he found any more of it.

Serves Notice on Hearst Then, he turned to the headline in the Washington Herald, a Hearst paper, which read: "Heflin's Blasphemous Speeches Senate," and he said that in using the name of the Savior in debate yesterday he was directly quoting some newspaper men and was not using the language as his own.

"I want to serve notice right now on Mr. Hearst," Hefflin shouted, "that if he continues I will read some affidavits that will shut some of his hickorynuts out of this gallery."

DENY RUMOR OF RANSOM LETTER

Continue Search for Missing College Girl; Clue Fails

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A rumor that a $4,000 ransom demand has been made on the parents of Francis St. John Smith, missing Smith college student, was denied today by State Detective Joseph V. Daley, who has been directing the 11-day search for the girl.

The detective said, however, that St. John Smith, father of the girl, received a "crank" letter from Detroit which stated that she was in that city. Daley said the investigators were convinced that the letter was the work of a "crank," but asked Detroit police to investigate because the writer had signed his name as "Mitchell R. Spring," and gave his address. The Detroit police, Daley was informed today, found no person by that name at the given address.

Trace Down Another Clue. Daley said that no ransom was mentioned in the letter, which Smith has received since he arrived here to assist in the search for his daughter.

During the day another clue, which seemed to point to a former Cornell university athlete, was eliminated by the investigators. The athlete, twice an inmate of insane asylums, was for a time the manager of an inn on the edge of the Smith college campus.

Daley and his associates located the Cornell man in a Hartford hotel and he quickly convinced them that he knew nothing about the missing girl, who, her college mates said, had often lunched at the inn.

Several reports that the missing girl had been seen came from scattered points during the day.

Newspapers Should Publish More Crime News, Says Editor
Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Newspapers do not publish enough crime news, Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, declared today at the convention of the Associated Ohio Dailies.

Mr. Patterson said he believed publication of more of this class of news acts as a preventative of crime. He mentioned particularly the publicity given the Snyder-Grav murder trial and the life of Ruth Snyder.

He cited figures comparing 347 murders in Chicago last year to 27 in London and ascribed the condition as due to the printing of murder stories in great detail by English newspapers.

Injured in Fall; Girl Will Be Sent to Insane Asylum
Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Miss Irene Billings, 18-year-old waitress, who leaped or fell from the third story of an apartment house here last December 11 to save herself from an assault, may be committed to an institution for the mentally deficient, as a result of head injuries she received in the fall, authorities said today. Her mother filed application in probate court today asking that Irene be sent to a "institution where she could be treated for her mental condition."

TO DETERMINE IF SLAYER OF GIRL IS SANE

MEMBERS OF FAMILY TO ATTEND COURT SESSIONS

Los Angeles, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Closely guarded and held very incomunicado, William E. Hickman, the 19-year-old kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker, tonight awaited the opening tomorrow of his trial to determine whether he is sane or insane.

The prisoner, who usually has greeted newspaper men and others with smiles, nursed his fellow prisoners, guards and visitors today. He was given some sunlight exercise under the escort of guards who accompanied him to the roof of the county building housing the jail.

Members of the Hickman family, the defendant's mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, and his brother, Alfred, are here from Kansas City, and his father, Thomas Hickman, from El Paso, to take part in the trial. Mr. and Mrs. Hickman were divorced some years ago.

Hickman was indicted on two counts charging him with the kidnapping and murder of the Parker girl whose mutilated body he bartered to her father, Perry Parker, Los Angeles bank official, for $1500.

When arraigned, the accused youth pleaded "not guilty by reason of insanity," to each charge and under provisions of the new California statutes pertaining to such a defense, was ordered to trial before a jury to determine his sanity.

Must Have Passes. At the time of the arraignment, Superior Judge Carlos Hardy informed Hickman that by entering a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," he admitted commission of both crimes. Legal authorities said if Hickman is found sane, the next step would be pronouncement of sentence.

Less than 325 persons aside from court officials and attaches and the jury will be able to witness the trial. Fifty of these will be newspaper men and women.

Judge Hardy, who will preside, late today signed the passes for admission and only those holding them will be permitted through the barricades built in the corridor fifty feet from the court room door.

PANAMA IS HOST TO 3 AVIATORS

French Flyers and Lindbergh Guests of Central American Nation

Colon, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Panama tonight again played host to three world-famous aviators, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrun.

While the American air hero was off on an adventure—aligator hunting—after his undersea trip in a submarine yesterday, Costes and Lebrun arrived here from Barranquilla, Colombia. They made the more than 400-mile trip in slightly more than four hours, encountering cloudy weather and contrary winds.

Although Colonel Lindbergh had expected to be at the field to welcome the French flyers, he had not returned from his alligator shooting trip when they arrived. The colonel, with three army aviator comrades, went off early this morning in a launch to the old French canal where alligators are found.

The American flyer planned a further rest before his resumption of his good-will tour Friday, being scheduled to go to Perlas Islands for some deep sea fishing and then back to the islands where there is a famous pearl fishing industry. He had lunch today at Coco Solo as guest of the naval base there. In the absence of Colonel Lindbergh from France field on the arrival of the French flyers, Colonel Fisher, commandant at the field, received Costes and Lebrun, who were his guests at luncheon.

Argentine Asks Cut in Tariff
Havana, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentine ambassador to Washington, and head of the Argentine delegation to the sixth Pan-American conference, announced tonight that his delegation would not sign any convention that did not incorporate as the duties of the union the studying means and ways to reduce, if not to abolish completely, high tariff duties in inter-American commerce and supervise the application of agricultural and sanitary quarantines.

FLIVVER PLANE IS FORCED DOWN

Brooks Attempts to Fly From Detroit to Miami

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Harry Brooks remained aloft nine and one-half hours today in a "flivver" plane, but failed in an attempt to make a non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami. Bad weather conditions were too much for him and he made a forced landing on top of a hill half a mile from Emma, a suburb of Asheville.

Brooks took off from the Ford airport at 7:15 a. m., at Detroit. He landed at 4:45 p. m., reporting that he had encountered bad weather from the start.

Flying alone, Brooks said he had battled strong head winds every foot of the way. Ice formed on the wings at high altitudes over the Appalachian mountains. At lower altitudes visibility was poor.

Brooks looked over his plane, then went to the home of J. A. Richburg to spend the night. He said he would telephone Henry Ford, owner of the plane, to ask permission to return to Detroit and start the flight again.

Although he said the plane functioned perfectly all the time and he had enough gasoline to complete the trip, Brooks said he was forced to land because he feared he would be unable to get through the remainder of the mountains. He passed over Asheville at 3:24 p. m., and battled headwinds for another hour before turning back.

The wind was blowing so hard, he said, that it took him only ten minutes to return to Asheville from a distance he had spent an hour reaching.

Flying Conditions Bad. Brooks said he passed over Columbus, O., early this morning not more than 50 feet above the ground. He later passed over Chillicothe, O., where he dropped a message which was forwarded to Detroit. He was sighted over Johnson City, Tenn., flying low, at 2:25 p. m.

Efforts to fly at a high altitude over the mountains, the pilot said, resulted in ice formation on the wings of the plane. He then tried flying low, and while the ice melted, removing that danger, a light rain was falling and visibility was so bad he could not make out his landmarks at any distance. The head winds, he said, also appeared to be becoming worse.

Taylor Knocks Out Cleveland Fighter

Milwaukee, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., tonight defeated Phil Zwick, of Cleveland, by a knockout in the second round of a scheduled 10-round match. Taylor sent Zwick to his knees with a sharp left to the body. After he was counted out he insisted he had miscalculated the referee's count.

Wife Leaves Him; Man Takes Life

Jackson, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The body of George Malovry, 30, was found in his farm home in Bronson today where he had ended his life by slashing his throat with a razor. Relatives who found the body said he had recently quarreled with his wife and she had left him to make her home in Jackson. A daughter also survives.

Thrifty Frenchmen Used Stamp Twice

Paris (AP)—Those thrifty Frenchmen who carefully "recovered" the anti-tuberculosis stamps on letters and used them again are out of luck. The government has decided to cancel all stamps of the sort, even though they are not official. Evidence that in some cases stamps were being used three or four times led to the decision.

Some persons, thinking the new anti-tuberculosis stamps were an issue of the postoffice department, used them as regular stamps. In each case the receiver of the letter paid the bill.

MOST POPULAR

Miss Evelyn Hoskins in Knoxville, Tenn., has been chosen as the most popular co-ed at the university of Tennessee, the ward carrying with it the title of queen in the R. O. T. C. regiment of the university. Here is a close-up of Hoskins.

MARINES START ON LONG HIKE

Will Have Psychological Value

(Continued From Page One.) was the scene last summer of a desperate fight between the marines and the Sandino forces. The American marines of the eleventh regiment which left Leon on Sunday for their 130 mile hike to the north, must pass over rough country, the roads and trails becoming more difficult as they penetrate into the remote mountain and jungle country.

The construction of a road between the city of Leon near the coast and Ocotol, principally for the use of the military forces, was begun last week by J. A. Willey, an American engineer. The Nicaraguan government has appropriated funds for the road work and the construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

In addition to the practical advantages of the road, it is hoped that its construction also will have a psychological value in the pacification of the disturbed areas. The road will pass through many important villages between Leon and Ocotol and marine officials believe that continual passing along it of marines and pack trains will have a stabilizing influence in the territory.

Since Leon, as a main railroad center, is geographically the logical point from which to ship supplies to Ocotol, the marine quartermaster detachment has been transferred from Managua to that city.

SEVERAL REBELS KILLED

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Between six and ten rebels have been killed by United States marine corps patrols in the vicinity of El Chipote in the past few days, marine corps headquarters was informed today.

The region where the rebel general Augustino Sandino has been active has been extremely quiet since a bombing attack by American planes ten days ago, but today Col. Louis Mason Gulick, in command of operations against the rebels, was notified that marine patrols had established contact with rebels several times in the last day or so.

Major Archibald Young, commander of the marines in the affected section, reported that a column of marines had established itself on the slope of El Chipote mountain. Sandino fled to El Chipote after marines captured his former headquarters, Quilali, from him in a battle December 30.

A week ago Saturday marine airplanes bombed El Chipote heavily and air patrols later reported the town showed every evidence of desertion. Since then the region has been quiet, with marine patrols cautiously feeling their way toward the rebel chieftain's headquarters.

Bellere Troops Broken Up

Col. Gulick today said it was fairly well established that Sandino had been wounded in the bombing raid, but it is not known how seriously.

Dancer Too Heavy; Contract Stands

Berlin (AP)—A truly "weighty" question came up for decision before the lower court when Fraulein Lu, a dancing girl of 17, brought suit against the director of the troop who had summarily discharged her for getting too fat.

It transpired during the proceedings that Fraulein Lu had signed a two-year contract as one of the girls of a traveling dancing troop 18 months ago when her weight avoirdupois was barely 85 pounds.

Since then, however, she has been putting on flesh so rapidly, despite the splendid physical exercise of dancing every night, that today she tips the scales at 166 pounds.

"That," said the director of the troop, "is no weight for a dancer, who should never in any circumstance be heavier than 95 pounds. Can your honor imagine my putting Fraulein Lu on the stage in short ballet skirts?"

The judge could not and agreed on principle that 166 pounds was a bit excessive for an ideal terpsichorean artist. He felt obliged, however, to inform the director that, as unfortunately the so-called "weight clause"—now introduced in most contracts with film artists—has been omitted there was nothing for it but the director to put up with Fraulein Lu's somewhat substantial assistance in their nightly dancing act until the expiration of her contract in six months.

"HIP POCKETS" IN NEW AUTOS

Detroit Show Displays Many New Accessories on Latest Models

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Some of the new models being shown at Detroit's twenty-seventh annual automobile show this week are equipped with everything from vanity cases to "hip pockets" on rear doors.

Brilliant colors in leather upholstery, described by exhibitors as "a style note" in response to demands by women, are featured in many of the displays with the hues matching the color of the body stripes. Aluminum leather, obtained by giving the leather a metallic finish, also is featured in the upholstery. Lap robes and small pillows, always matching the upholstery, are to be found in some of the cars.

Many cars are equipped with vanity cases fully stocked with rouge, lipstick and powder puffs. Other "accessories" to give the cars the feminine touch are hand mirrors, ivory-headed pencils and perfume containers.

At least one car is equipped with "hip pockets" on the rear doors in which a pint flask would fit, and another car has the same tendency with two "glove compartments" on the back of the front seat.

As a successor to the ornamental radiator cap on the car features a "streak of lightning" on the front of the radiator.

Today, the fourth day of the show, saw another huge crowd at Convention hall to view the 300 exhibits. The attendance so far, officials of the show said, has surpassed that of any previous automobile show here here. Interest, they said, also is much keener.

Voice On Record That of Confucius

London, England (AP)—"Hullo! Are you there? This is Mr. Confucius! Confucius is the name. Yes, from China."

Something similar to this issued from a phonograph in Queen's Gate Hall, South Kensington, during a lecture by Dr. Neville Whymant, an Oriental scholar, on the American medium Vallantine.

Mr. Confucius was a learned gentleman who lived from 551 to 479 B. C. He was "brought up-to-date" by the medium, and recorded in black and wax.

Dr. Whymant described how, as an expert in languages, he attended a series of mediumistic sittings in New York, at which queer vocal sounds were "coming through."

At length came the words "Kung Fu Tai." No, it was not Confucius swearing. It was Confucius' family name.

Dr. Whymant quoted a proverb uttered by Confucius: "Ask not of an empty barrel much fish."

One of the London papers said this proverb "was perfectly applicable to the record, which was good entertainment considered as a barref. It was impolite, the audience felt, to ask the barrel to produce the fishes of indisputable authenticity."

LIKE O'LEARY'S COW.

Beatrice, Neb.—The ghost of Mrs. O'Leary's cow came to Nebraska the other day and caused $5000 damage to buildings on the Kennedy farm near Fairbury. The cow that kicked over a milk-er's lantern was saved as was other stock in the barn.

OUTNURMIS NURMI

Committee on Int'l Law Busy

Havana, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Commercial aviation, frontier police, the incorporation of international legal principles in conventions and the establishment of a Pan-American tribunal at Havana for the adjudication of disputes occupied the attention of the committee on Pan-American conference today.

All these problems will be the subject of further study and consideration before they are presented for the decision of the conference itself.

Commercial aviation was brought to the forefront by Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of the American delegation, who brought in amendments to the proposed commercial aviation treaty which would alter the treaty in at least one important respect.

One amendment provided for granting to signatory countries the right to agree among themselves as to what zones shall be prohibited to civilian aviation—excepting from the provisions of the convention only military and government controlled aviation.

French Woman to Present Book to Mrs. Lindbergh

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Mme. Bous de Jouvencel, distinguished French woman, who came to the United States to present Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, with a book containing the autographs of many of her distinguished countrymen, arrived in Detroit today.

She was met by a committee composed of William P. Rutledge, police commissioner; Joseph Belanger, French consul here, and Mrs. Belanger; Ralph H. Booth; Ora Nelson Forrin, former ambassador to Sweden, and Mrs. Forrin. With a police escort, she was taken from the Michigan Central station to her hotel and later was formally welcomed at the city hall by Mayor John C. Lodge.

Mme. Jouvencel will make her presentation to Mrs. Lindbergh tomorrow at the home of Henry Ford.

Officer Suspended From Police Force

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Police Lieut. Earl Stephens, secretary-treasurer of an organization known as the International Association for Identification, was suspended from the police department today following an investigation into his activities in handling affairs of the association.

Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge said Stephens hired two men to prepare the minutes of the last association convention, held in Memphis, Tenn., and then made false statements in letters to business firms in several cities, soliciting memberships and funds for advertisements to appear in booklets to be issued. Rutledge said subscriptions were received in response to letters from firms in Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

COMMITTEE ON INT'L LAW BUSY

Three Important Points Are Discussed at Pan-American Congress

Havana, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Commercial aviation, frontier police, the incorporation of international legal principles in conventions and the establishment of a Pan-American tribunal at Havana for the adjudication of disputes occupied the attention of the committee on Pan-American conference today.

All these problems will be the subject of further study and consideration before they are presented for the decision of the conference itself.

Commercial aviation was brought to the forefront by Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of the American delegation, who brought in amendments to the proposed commercial aviation treaty which would alter the treaty in at least one important respect.

One amendment provided for granting to signatory countries the right to agree among themselves as to what zones shall be prohibited to civilian aviation—excepting from the provisions of the convention only military and government controlled aviation.

Discuss Fletcher's Plans.

Under the original clauses any plans engaged in postal, customs, police or other government service—privately owned or otherwise—was exempt from the terms of the treaty. Under the amendment only "aircraft owned, controlled and operated by the contracting state" in connection with these services, are exempt. No discrimination is made as between national and foreign privately owned planes.

Mr. Fletcher's proposals were discussed by the committee particularly the amendment allowing special agreement between countries to specify the prohibited zones for military purposes.

Enrique Olaya, Colombian minister at Washington, was of the opinion that a commercial aviation convention if it were desired to advance air communications, should, above all, bear a Pacific stamp, avoiding all appearance of a military measure.

The Fletcher amendment, Senor Olaya added, thrust military connections in an otherwise pacific article to a point that "opens the possibility of local military alliances in America."

The amendments were received favorably, but will be reported back to the committee at some future date.

Hughes Opposes Move.

Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentine, advocated the closest cooperation among the border patrols of adjoining countries and also the right of pursuit of criminals attempting to escape across the border. He recommended a treaty containing such provisions.

The separation of well-established and indisputable legal principles from those not firmly established and their incorporation in conventions as suggested by Santiago Key Alaya, Venezuela, was opposed by Charles Evans Hughes. He said he believed that it was too early to take such a step. He proposed that the committee wait until the reporters had presented their recommendations.

Hill Says Father Had Nothing to Do With Murder

Three Important Points Are Discussed at Pan-American Congress

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Harry Hill, standing at the side of his mother's shallow grave, told authorities his father had nothing to do with the killing. It was related today from the witness stand at the youth's trial on a charge of murder. The information was obtained from William Robb, chief of police, after the jury had been excused from the room.

Judge Joseph Davis decided the jury should not hear the conversation at the graveside in the basement of the Hill home because the question might be raised as to whether Harry was under duress at the time he made the statement. Chief Robb described again today the scene in the basement when the body was discovered and told of his having warned Harry, previously, to stop passing checks on his mother's account.

Find Boy's Body in Turbine Pit

Benton Harbor, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The body of 7-year-old Martin Touck, missing since Sunday, has been found in the turbine pit of the Indiana and Michigan Power company's dam at Berrien Springs. The boy had fallen into the St. Joseph river and had been drawn into the machinery of the dam, authorities said. His father, E. J. Houck, is employed at the dam.

Detroit Asks Green for Extra Session

Temporarily Condemnation Cases Which the Council Had Authorized

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A petition asking Gov. Fred W. Green to call a special session of the state legislature to consider proposed legislation authorizing an increase in the borrowing power of the city of Detroit, was voted today by the city council.

The council also decided to abandon for the present all but two proposed street widening projects and condemnation suits involving in all approximately $200,000,000 in property and 15,000 land owners.

Mayor John C. Lodge, who in his first address to the council after assuming office, had cautioned against extravagance in city government, declared today Detroit is compelled to abandon temporarily condemnation cases which the council had authorized.

The council also voted to rescind its action in voting for condemnation of land at the mouth of the River Rouge for a sewage disposal plant. The council's action halts, among other projects, the widening of Woodward avenue from the center of the city northward.

Officer Suspended From Police Force

Detroit, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Police Lieut. Earl Stephens, secretary-treasurer of an organization known as the International Association for Identification, was suspended from the police department today following an investigation into his activities in handling affairs of the association.

Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge said Stephens hired two men to prepare the minutes of the last association convention, held in Memphis, Tenn., and then made false statements in letters to business firms in several cities, soliciting memberships and funds for advertisements to appear in booklets to be issued. Rutledge said subscriptions were received in response to letters from firms in Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

Plays Violin at Benefit for Aged

Berlin (AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein laid aside relativity and other mathematical theories recently and appeared before the public as a violin virtuoso of more than average ability.

The Jewish "Aid for the Aged" society gave a benefit concert at the historic Kaiserhof Hotel. Several professional musicians, among them Sigrid Onegin, contralto who has repeatedly sung in America, and Francesco von Mendelssohn, cellist and grandson of the great composer, lent their assistance. Prof. Einstein, non-professional, joined them. He played Schubert and Beethoven selections with a mastery that, according to the critics, placed him on a par with his professional co-entertainers.

Einstein is a familiar figure at musical events. Then, however, he sits in the audience.

Clock Marks Time Each Quarter Hour

Paris (AP)—The hardest working clock in Paris, after sixty-five years of faithful toll, may soon be retired on a pension.

The instrument, created by Detouche, clock-maker to Emperor Napoleon-Third, has been in service since 1863 in the Conservatory of Arts and Crafts. During these years it has rung more strokes than any other clock in Paris since it sounded between eight o'clock every evening and eight the following morning the full hour at each quarter hour. That is to say, at three quarters after midnight it peals 27 strokes—an unusual performance always startling to passers-by unaccustomed to the laboriousness of Detouche's masterpiece.

Is Unethical to Solicit Customers

Berlin (AP)—Employing touts for soliciting customers from the street was designated by the Prussian supreme court of appeals as "an unethical and highly reprehensible business proceeding."

The proprietor of a shop for men's furnishing goods, who had been accused by a competitor of this malpractice, was discharged with a reprimand and the admonition that if he or anyone else ever repeated the offense he would be fined 3,000 marks.

THEIR GREATEST MAN.

Somewhere in Belleville, N. J., there are two extremely fortunate men. Each of these men has an extremely fortunate son, and the family of each man is, we feel sure, a mighty happy one.

We don't know the names of any of these people, and we have never been in Belleville. But here's what leads us to make the statement written above:

Six hundred and twenty-eight schoolboys were asked, "Who would you like to be?" More than half of the boys—363, to be exact—answered—naturally enough—"Lindbergh."

And away down at the bottom of the list were two votes cast for "Dad."

Which, we repeat, makes us confident there are two extremely fortunate men, with fortunate sons and happy families, in Belleville.

The percentage of boys who are able to make their fathers their chief idols is, probably, about two in 628.

"Ja—that's right." The man nodded his head affirmatively several times. "Only I don't lock it—"

Heath paused and finally lighted the cigar on which he had been chewing at intervals during the past hour.

"Now, tell me about that side door," he went on, with undiminished aggressiveness. "You told me you lock it every night before you leave—is that right?"

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

CHAPTER VIII

Heath shot Vance a cunning look. Then, after a moment's frowning contemplation of the knob, he waved his hand to the detective who had brought the maid in.

"Take her back to the reception-room, Snitkin, and get a detailed description from her of all the Odell jewelry. . . . And keep her outside; I'll want her again."

When Snitkin and the maid had gone out, Vance lay back lazily on the davenport, where he had sat during the interview, and sent a spiral of cigaret smoke toward the ceiling.

"Rather illuminating, what?" he remarked. "The dusky demselle got us considerably forrader. Now we know that the closet key is on the wrong side of the door, and that our lady of joy went to the theater with one of her favorite lovers, who presumably brought her home shortly before she took departure from this wicked world."

"You think that's helpful, do you?" Heath's tone was contemptuously triumphant. "Wait till you hear the crazy story the telephone operator's got to tell."

"All right, Sergeant," put in Markham, impatiently. "Suppose we get on with the ordeal."

"I'm going to suggest, Mr. Markham, that we question the janitor first. And I'll show you why." Heath went to the entrance door of the apartment, and opened it. "Look here for just a minute, sir."

He stepped out into the main hall, and pointed down the little passageway on the left. It was about ten feet in length, and ran between the Odell apartment and the blank rear wall of the reception-room. At the end of it was a solid oak door which gave on the court at the side of the house.

"That door," explained Heath, "is the only side or rear entrance to this building; and when that door is bolted nobody can get into the house except by the front entrance. You can't even get into the building through the other apartments, for every window on this floor is barred. I checked up on that point as soon as I got here."

He led the way back into the living-room.

"Now, after I'd looked over the situation this morning," he went on, "I figured that our man had entered through that side door at the end of the passageway and had slipped into this apartment without the night operator seeing him. So I tried the side door to see if it was open. But it was bolted on the inside—not locked, mind you, but bolted."

"And it wasn't a slip-bolt, either, that could have been jimmied or worked open from the outside, but a tough old-fashioned turn-bolt of solid brass. . . . And now I want you to hear what the janitor's got to say about it."

Markham nodded acquiescence, and Heath called an order to one of the officers in the hall. A middle-aged man, with sullen features and high cheek-bones, stood before us. His jaw was clamped tight, and he shifted his eyes from one to the other of us suspiciously.

Heath straightway assumed the role of inquisitor.

"What time do you leave here at night?" he had, for some reason, assumed a belligerent manner.

"Six o'clock—sometimes earlier, sometimes later." The man spoke in a surlily monotone. He was obviously resentful at this unexpected intrusion upon his orderly routine.

"And what time do you get here in the morning?" "Eight o'clock, regular."

"What time did you go home last night?" "About six—maybe, quarter past."

Jessup made a good impression from the moment he entered the room. He was a serious, determined-looking man in his early thirties, rugged and well built; and there was a squareness to his shoulders that carried a suggestion of military training.

"That's how I had it figured out, sir," returned Heath. "But wait till you hear what the phone operator has to say."

"And the phone operator's post," mused Vance, "is in the main hall half-way between the front door and this apartment. Therefore, the gentleman who caused all the disturbance hereabouts last night would have had to pass within a few feet of the operator both on arriving and departing—eh, what?"

"That's it!" snapped Heath. "And, according to the operator, no such person came or went."

Markham seemed to have absorbed some of Heath's irritability.

"Get the fellow in here, and let me question him," he ordered. Heath obeyed with a kind of malicious alacrity.

"I don't know his name, sir. But I have seen him several times before when he has called on Miss Odell."

"You could describe him, I suppose."

"Yes, sir. He's tall and clean-shaven except for a very short gray mustache, and is about forty-five, I should say. He looks—if you understand me, sir—like a man of wealth and position."

Markham nodded. "And now, tell me; did he accompany Miss Odell into her apartment, or did he go immediately away?"

"His full name was William Elmer Jessup, and he had been attached to the 308th Infantry of the 77th Division of the Overseas Forces."

IRON MT. GETS TEACHER MEET

Iron Mountain—Members of the seventh district of the Michigan Education association, comprising the upper peninsula of Michigan, will hold their 1928 annual convention in Iron Mountain.

The announcement is brief in itself, but it brings to a happy conclusion which for three years has been handled about and which was settled only yesterday morning when the seventh district executive board, composed of Mrs. Cora Jeffers, Painesdale, C. R. Cobb, superintendent at Bessemer, and E. T. Cameron, Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Education association, visited the city, surveyed the accommodation facilities, and agreed to place the convention here.

The 1928 meeting will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 4, 5 and 6, and the sessions will be divided between a local theatre and the auditorium of the Iron Mountain high school.

The controversy—for such it had come to be known—had its beginning at the annual meeting in 1925, when the assembled teachers voted the 1926 sessions to Ironwood. A few days before the opening date, however, a contagious epidemic broke out in Ironwood, and that community, after having made elaborate preparations, had to forfeit the meeting, which was given to Marquette.

As has been the case for the past several years, the Iron Mountain delegation went to Marquette in 1926 100 per cent strong and pledged to the effort of bringing the 1927 meeting to this city. The effort was successful insofar as the sentiment was concerned, for the majority of the teachers assembled voted to hold the 1927 session here.

Changed to Ironwood. Later, however, the district executive committee, recalling Ironwood's elaborate preparations for the 1926 session, recommended that the session be conceded to Ironwood, and the Iron Mountain authorities agreed to the switch.

Again last year Iron Mountain appeared at Ironwood, determined to bring back the 1928 session. And once more the teachers assembled, by an overwhelming majority, signified their preference for Iron Mountain. That, it was thought, settled it. But shortly thereafter there were rumblings of a lack of approval on the part of the district board in placing the 1928 meeting here. Inadequate accommodation facilities were given as the cause, and little encouragement came from repeated efforts on the part of local school authorities and other interests towards getting some definite word.

Communications were interchanged between local school men, members of the Iron Mountain Chamber of Commerce and district and state educational officials, culminating in the visit today of the district executive board members.

Padlock Worried Pety Some, But All's Well Now

William Pety, cigar maker, found himself literally "between the devil and the deep blue sea" for awhile yesterday after U. S. Marshal Martin Brown served notice that he would have to move out as a result of Federal Judge Raymond's decree that the building at 200 South Tenth street be padlocked.

Pety has his cigar factory on the second floor of the building, the first floor of which was formerly occupied by Nick Walsh, convicted bootlegger. According to the government regulations regarding the operation of cigar factories, permission must be secured from the internal revenue bureau to change the location of the place of business. An inventory of the stock must be taken and other details attended to before the change can be made, necessitating about two weeks' time before the preliminary arrangements are finally completed. Violation of these provisions carries a penalty of a fine of $500 or more.

It is not necessary to take a "VINCO" every night, but even if you did no harmful effects would follow and there is no danger of forming the laxative habit when you use Old Reliable "VINCO." Adv.

Pety got into communication with the deputy revenue collector at Marquette, but this official agreed it was a puzzling situation and he advised Mr. Pety to get in touch with the internal revenue bureau's office at Detroit. Late yesterday afternoon, he received word from Detroit stating that he could move his cigar stock and equipment at once without following the usual lengthy procedure.

On a Basis of Mutual Benefits

Russell Conwell, in his biography of John Wanamaker, explains that great American's business success in one paragraph.

"Because he thought of the people first, of their needs, of how he could serve them most helpfully, economically, honestly, and of profit last, they thought of him first when shopping was to be done, and the business grew.

The growth of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a closely parallel case. This company has put service first and profits last. The needs of the people of the Middle West have been its chief concern. It has thought constantly of how it could serve them most helpfully, honestly and economically.

They in turn have thought first of this Company when in need of petroleum products. More and more they have come to depend upon it. Thus it has grown and is growing.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) proved, as Mr. Wanamaker proved, that successful business is built on a basis of mutual benefits—benefit to the owners of the business—and benefit to the public.

Mr. Wanamaker made money. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) makes money. But in both cases money making represents the smallest part of the achievement.

Service—reaching to all people and all places in the Middle West—the same service for all, whoever they are, wherever they live—service that never fails from day to day and from week to week and from year to year—service that is expanded to meet expanded needs, improved with improved knowledge—that sort of service is the aim and the achievement of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Whether you live in the heart of Chicago or spend your days on a far-away farm, if you are in the Middle West, all the resources of this Company are at your service.

Scientists are at work in its laboratories for you. Engineers and mechanical experts are investigating and testing. Men are drilling wells and driving tank wagons and working in offices. Directors are managing and planning.

Twenty-nine thousand men and women are working at their various tasks, employing the capital of 55,000 stockholders, with one purpose—to make the best products from petroleum it is possible to make and to bring them to you where you need them—at a price which is fair and equitable.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands first in the hearts of the people of the Middle West because this Company has proved by its far-reaching, unflinching service that their needs are its first concern.

New York.—There are always sixty odd shows running, or staggering, on and about Broadway, but the biggest show the Largest Main Street knows is a real, glossy, 18-carat first night.

Such an exhibition has everything but a county fair greased pig. The fun begins long before curtain time, and it is outside the theater.

There seems to be a large percentage of the population of New York that enjoys nothing better than to gape and gasp outside a Times Square theater as the celebs and near-celebs get out of their Rolls-Royces and Tin Taxis and sweep magnificently into the play-house.

This mob arrives on the scene as early as eight o'clock. "Blooie!" go the photographers' flashes as the dabobs arrive a little later, and extra coppers flatten out the crowd to allow the clients to get into the lobby.

If the opening is a big musical piece, there always is a seat in Row A for Mayor Jimmy Walker, who probably makes a speech. The rest of the house is made up of social, financial, political and theatrical lights, from big blazing areas to dimmer candles.

Formal dressing is quite universal at these struggles, though New York dramatic critics can almost be picked out by the fact that they stick pretty closely to business suits. No doubt they feel that they are workmen at their trade, and are not called upon to follow the dictates of after-dinner fashion as do those who go to see and be seen.

First night audiences, particularly those down front, are notoriously late in checking in. They linger longer over pre-theater dinners, and thus are forced to do a lot of ankle kicking and umbrella tripping to get to their allotted pews.

Intermissions are great social events. Half the premier-audience knows the other half, and there is a deal of excited conversation. The foyer and the lobby are packed to suffocation.

If the author or the producer can be hauled before the curtain to take a bow between acts, it is racket is staggering.

Once the play is over and ticketed a hit by the friends of the management the guided patrons jam out, talking gaily. Hundreds are waiting to gape at the brain.

REVIVING LIFE IN ONE WHO HAS BEEN ELECTROCUTED

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ruth Snyder, recently electrocuted in New York, had hopes of escaping the prison autopsy and being "brought back to life" after her electrocution in New York. The body was rushed to a physician and injections of adrenalin chloride and artificial respiration used in the hope of restoring life. The plan failed because an autopsy was insisted upon, but the story awakened interesting comment. This article tells how artificial respiration may "bring back life" four hours after a victim seems dead.

Thousands of lives have undoubtedly been saved by the immediate and continuous application of artificial resuscitation measures as soon after drowning, asphyxiation by gas, or electrocution as is possible.

Artificial respiration may be accomplished either by manipulations carried on by persons trained in the art or by the use of artificial devices. Most important, however, is the immediate application of such manipulations and it is obvious that the machines are not constantly available, whereas persons trained in first aid are now available in practically every great industry.

How It's Done

The United States Public Health Service has issued a brief outline as to the proper methods of resuscitation. In brief, the directions follow:

- 1.—Lay the patient face down, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at the elbow and with the face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing.
- 2.—Kneel straddling over the patient's thighs. Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back with fingers resting on the ribs, the little fingers just touching the lowest rib, with the thumb and fingers in a natural position, and the tips of the fingers just out of sight.
- 3.—With arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the patient. The shoulder should be directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. Do not bend your elbows. This operation should take about two seconds.
- 4.—Now immediately swing backward so as completely to remove the pressure.
- 5.—After two seconds, swing forward again. Thus repeat deliberately from 12 to 15 times a minute the double movement of compression and release, a complete respiration in four or five seconds.

Still Hope in Four Hours

Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored, if necessary, four hours or longer, or until a physician declares the patient is dead.

As soon as artificial respiration has been started and while it is being continued, an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest, or waist. Keep the patient warm. Do not give any liquids whatever by mouth until the patient is fully conscious.

To avoid strain on the heart when the patient revives, he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand up. If the doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, he should be given some stimulant, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water or a hot drink of coffee or tea. The patient should be kept warm.

Do Not Move Patient

Resuscitation should be carried out at the place where the patient received his injuries. He should not be moved until he is breathing normally of his own volition and then carried only in a lying position. Should it be necessary, owing to extreme weather conditions, to move the patient before he is breathing normally, resuscitation should be carried on during the time he is being moved.

A brief return of natural respiration is not a certain indication for stopping the resuscitation. Not infrequently the patient, after a temporary recovery of respiration, stops breathing again. The patient must be watched, and if natural breathing stops, artificial respiration should be resumed at once.

In carrying out resuscitation it may be necessary to change the operator. This change must be made without losing the rhythm of respiration. By this procedure no confusion results at the time of change of operator and a regular rhythm is kept up.

HANK WOULDN'T POSE.

Toledo, O.—Henry Ford doesn't work on Sunday; neither does he want anyone else to do so. When on a recent Sabbath he was broached by an ambitious reporter and photographer for a story and picture, Henry replied: "This is Sunday, my boy. No one should work on the Sabbath unless it's absolutely necessary. Getting a story or a picture of me isn't."

AT THE DELFT.

Few strong characters, involved in real dramatic situations, rather than a large cast with little for the players to do, is one of the features of "Body and Soul," which will be shown at the Delft today and Thursday.

The cast of this dramatic production consists of but four people, though there are several others who play what is known in studio parlance as "bits." Each of these four principals plays a vital part in the story—a part which would disrupt the entire drama were it withdrawn.

There is Aileen Pringle, the Swiss peasant girl who, through force of circumstances, weds a derelict English doctor.

The doctor, one of the strongest dramatic film roles of the season, is played by Lionel Barrymore, famous on stage and screen and member of the noted Barrymore family—a name synonymous with good acting.

T. Roy Barnes, famous as a comedy character actor on both screen and stage, has the role of the funny Swiss postman, whose antics precipitate a crisis in the life of the doctor and his beautiful wife.

The fourth character is that of the young Swiss mountaineer, who saves the girl when the doctor brands her and carries her away to his cabin, high in the Alps. This role is taken by Norman Kerry.

"Body and Soul" is based on Katharine Newlin Burt's novel, "The Branding Iron."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE STRAND.

Wallace MacDonald portrays the villainous role of Keechle, the famous cattle rustler in Tom Mix new Fox Production "Tumbling River," the Wednesday and Thursday feature at the Strand.

MacDonald is one of the best known heavies on the screen and has been the menace to hero and maid in many large productions.

Mr. MacDonald always adds a bit of polish and intrigue to his characterizations.

He was born in Nova Scotia, Canada, and all of his early life was spent in the mountains of the north. At an early age however, he decided to join the stage and was a well known troupier of the legitimate until he entered the ranks of the screen and fought his way up to one of the best known western actors.

Mr. Mix is also supported by such well known troupers as Dorothy Dwan, Ed Pell, Sr., William Conklin, Harry Gripp and others.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS "Help You Stay Well"

Raps Culture of British Pictures

London (AP)—Pictures in the homes and galleries in this country cannot be relied upon for the cultivation of good taste and a sense of beauty among children, says a board of education report. "England is not sufficiently provided with galleries," says the special committee which has been considering selection of pictures for public elementary schools.

While schools are better equipped in this respect than they were fifty years ago "the position is still unsatisfactory." Too many pictures in the homes are of little account, as chance probably directed their original entry, and as a rule they arouse no emotions and they excite no pleasures or pain because their possessors hardly ever look at them of conscious intention.

Children are far more catholic in their likings for pictures than is often supposed, the committee's report continues. "Experiments which have been made to test the power of appreciation of young children show that their natural and unguided taste is surprisingly sound."

"It is only later that their tastes deteriorate under the influence of the street advertisement, the comic picture postcard, the newspaper, and the cinema."

In the stage, roughly up to the age of 11 or 12, the child is said to show a decided preference for pictures which illustrate a story already known to him through the pages of literature or history or which suggests a story he can weave for himself.

"The liking for pictures in which the appeal is impersonal—landscapes, seascapes, cloudscapes—come later and, as a rule earlier in the case of girls than of boys."

The committee suggests, care should be exercised to secure only adequate and good reproductions for schools and that the masterpieces of great artists should be used.

Mayor Finds Berlin Cleanest Capital

Berlin (AP)—Mayor Miguel Romualdez of Manila, who is on a tour of study of European cities, finds that Berlin is the cleanest big city he has seen anywhere.

"The only metropolis that anywhere approaches Berlin for cleanliness is Washington," he told the Associated Press correspondent. "The whole population of Berlin seems to cooperate with the authorities in keeping the city free from dirt. You don't see people throwing things onto the streets. They take pride in depositing waste in the baskets provided therefor."

Does illness keep you from your work?

A GIRL who earns her living—whether in store, office, factory or home—realizes the necessity of regular attendance at her place of employment. For this reason she works on day after day. When she becomes tired out and run-down, she feels that she must keep at her work without taking time to rest.

Thousands of girls have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored them to a normal physical condition, and has made them fit for work. These two women testify to that fact:

HEALTHY AND STRONG

Silverton, Oregon.—"I am writing to tell you how much your medicine has helped me. I was doing cannery work, canning, sealing, etc., but had to quit work when sick as I would be so weak I could hardly walk across the room. A friend of mine told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have found relief when sick and it helps me more each time. Every one says I am a healthier and stronger girl. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends." Julia Schmidt, 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon.

LOOK AS YOUNG

Fruitdale, South Dakota.—"I felt badly. It seemed like my back broke all to pieces and I couldn't stoop down to get anything from the floor. Then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So I did, and it sure has helped me. I can work all day long and I feel so good. I am 38 years old and I look just as young as if I were 20. I am glad to answer letters from any one about this medicine because it has done me good." Mrs. Francis F. Fajardo, Box 31, Fruitdale, South Dakota.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy cascara.

Cascaring the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional cascara will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morning—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this: what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children go to take a cascara. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another cascara is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives? Adv.

PRICE ADVANCE SLOWING DOWN

STOCK SALES AVERAGES. Twenty Twenty Date Industrials Railroads Tuesday -- 187.45 145.53 Monday -- 186.54 145.78

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The rally in stock prices, having been under way for five consecutive days, showed signs of slowing up today despite violent advances of 5 to 30 points in a few specialties.

The increase from 3 1/2 to 4 per cent in the rediscount rate of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank, which was announced after the close of the market, took Wall Street by surprise, although the possibility of higher rediscount rates has been one of the reasons advanced by one of the conservative brokerage houses for recommending a lightening of long commitments.

One likely effect of the higher Chicago rate is a reduction in the amount of funds sent into New York. Heavy influx of out-of-town funds is reported to have been of the contributory causes to the recent ease of the New York call money market.

U. S. Steel common touched a new high on the current recovery at 149 1/4, and then slipped below 149 for a small fractional net loss. Time money and commercial paper rates were unplaced. A drop of nearly 15 points in Spanish Pesetas to 16.90 cents, and a jump of 8 points in Japanese yen to 46.81 cents, were the only changes of consequence in the foreign exchange market.

Chicago Potatoes. Chicago, Jan. 24.—Potatoes, receipts 77 cars; on track 254; total United States shipments 601 cars; demand and trading slow; market dull; few early sales reported; Wisconsin stacked round whites, 11 1/2 to 12.50; Minnesota stacked round whites, 11 1/2 to 12.50; Ohio, round whites, 11 1/2 to 12.50; Idaho stacked round whites, 11 1/2 to 12.50; partly graded, 11 1/2 to 12.50; New York state—Florida, bushel, grades and samples; blue triumphs, 11 1/2 to 12.50.

HELD AS CHILD, TORTURED, DIES

Robert Pitts of Greenup, Ky., and his housekeeper, Marie Frazier, pictured above, are held without bond at Winchester, Ky., charged with the torture and slaying of three-year-old Mary Magdalene Pitts. The woman alleges the father beat the girl to death. The father declares the housekeeper held the child over a stove until its back was blistered, then rubbed salt and turpentine into the wounds.

IN NEW YORK

New York.—Oldsters who come to Manhattan, with years of experience and judgment behind them, are almost invariably amazed to find extreme youth sitting in places of great responsibility.

Young men, scarcely out of their teens and with the college doors but recently closed behind them, are given opportunities in New York with which they might not be trusted elsewhere. For New York cries for youth and young ideas, and is generally ready to gamble on the results.

Not long ago a national magazine, with a circulation of about a million or more, gave the position of editor to a young man of about 22. A dozen reporters came to interview him. The youth, peering timidly out the door, concluded that he did not care to run this gamut. A moment later he appeared outside the door and asked the reporters what they wanted. They replied that they were waiting to see the new boy editor.

"He isn't in," replied the boy editor. "Who are you?" asked the reporters. "I'm the office boy and I have been instructed to tell you to come later in the day," said the editor.

He would have escaped with this deceit but for a girl reporter, who had chanced to see his photograph before leaving her office. Waiting until the others had gone, she cornered him and got an interview.

They tell a story of a certain young man from a leading "sophisticated" magazine who went out to get an interview with a dignitary from London. The Englishman took one look at him and remarked: "I think you had to get back and tell your editor to send you back to school."

"Oh," said the youth, with a twinkle in his eye, "I can't. This is the editor's day to go to school."

Every few months Wall Street reports a seat on the exchange sold to the "youngest member." "Boy skyscraper builders," "boy merchant princes" and "boy millionaires" are a commonplace of the newspaper notices. The most successful young writer of musical comedy scores is Oscar Hammerstein, Jr., who is credited with having made nearly two million dollars and who has yet to reach his thirties.

Saint and Sinner

For the first time since Faith had known George Pruitt, he faltered. To her agonized cry, "I can't have Cherry's life spoiled. There must be some way out!" he could return no satisfactory answer.

Faith was furious with him, then abjectly remorseful. "Please don't be angry with me, George. You've always been so wonderful to me. I don't know what I'd do without your friendship and help. Oh, George, there's nothing left for me to do but to tell Cherry the truth—that I went insane with jealousy of her and Bob and wanted to kill myself, that I'm ashamed of this I've done because I'm a sinner."

"No, Faith!" George stopped her sternly. "You can't do that! Don't you realize that your goodness is more real to Cherry than God's, that it is your influence that has been her only hope in her headlong, selfish career? If you show Cherry your clay feet, confess what you call your baseness to her, you'll destroy that influence. Cherry would be more deeply hurt than you could guess. She talks to me about you, like an adoring child about a saintlike mother."

Francis Conchon, (Corry.) C. C. Brown installed the furnace in the theatre and will be giving showing pictures on the screen this Wednesday. The first picture will be "Her Honor the Governor" starring Pauline Frederick.

The snow storm Thursday night and Friday tied up all automobile traffic until late Saturday afternoon. The Escanaba-Munising bus was snow bound two miles south of Chatham for nearly two days. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Christian are the parents of a baby girl, born Friday, Jan. 20.

Friday's examinations were postponed until Monday on account of the snow storm Thursday night which snowbound two of the school buses. Examinations were completed Monday. The electric current was turned on here Saturday evening at six o'clock.

Rev. Fr. J. Guertin of Rapid River said Mass here Sunday. James McNamara spent the week end in Trenary. Roland Glusner was a visitor here Sunday afternoon. The Munising-Escanaba bus line had to put three buses on Monday on account of the heavy business.

Julius Sivila was called on the jury at Munising this week. Oliver Snow, former railroad agent for the Soo Line here, has been promoted as auditor on the main line. J. Decker, representative of the Reynolds Tobacco Co. was snow bound here two days during the storm last week.

buyers, saleswomen, lawyers and such are well under thirty. The stage, of course, demands youth, even as the screen. The head of the most successful of the new motion picture concerns stepped out of Harvard and had a bit of banking experience to fit him for the business world. He has built his company into a great financial success.

They tell a story of a certain young man from a leading "sophisticated" magazine who went out to get an interview with a dignitary from London. The Englishman took one look at him and remarked: "I think you had to get back and tell your editor to send you back to school."

"Oh," said the youth, with a twinkle in his eye, "I can't. This is the editor's day to go to school."

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE WHEREAS, default has been made in the terms and conditions of that certain real estate mortgage hereinafter described by the non-payment of the four amortization installments of $100.00 and $100.00 Dollars ($200.00 each, due May 8, 1926, November 8, 1926, May 8, 1927, and November 8, 1927, and tax paid by the mortgagor on March 25, 1927, in the sum of One Hundred Fifty-eight and 54/100 ($158.54) Dollars, for the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, the entire amount claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage as of the date hereof for said delinquent installments and taxes being Three Hundred Eighty and 42/100 Dollars ($380.42).

"But how can the whole wretched tangle into which I've gotten poor Cherry be unraveled otherwise?" Faith pleaded despairingly. "I simply don't know," George confessed ruefully. "I don't deserve to get happiness out of all my suspicion and craziness and lying," Faith told him. "But, oh, George, I am happy! If it weren't for this wrong that I've done Cherry, I'd be ecstatic. For Bob loves me, George, and I—I adore him!" "Then forget everything else but those two big facts," George advised gently, but Faith saw that he winced with pain.

"I'm not going to let you take so much from you and—give you nothing," she said pityingly, her hand tightening over his. "You've given me your friendship and you've let me help you. That's more than I have a right to expect," George said gruffly, turning away from the boy. "Don't bother about me. Just get well as fast as you can."

Faith had every intention of obeying him, for she was consumed with a desire to get back into her own home and to begin her new life as a beloved wife, joyously cured of the disease of jealousy. But a day, two days, three days dragged on and still the doctor would not release her from the hospital. She admitted to herself that she was strangely weak, that the sight and odor of food was more apt to nauseate her than to arouse her appetite. Dr. King, beset with Bob's anxious questions, was frankly puzzled, and then on the fourth day light seemed to pour in upon the problem and he abruptly ordered her to be taken to the operating room for an examination.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

Sharkey Signed to Meet Johnny Risko March 12

TUNNEY WILL MEET WINNER

Rickard's Elimination Tournament Takes on New Aspect

(BULLETIN) Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 24—(P)—Tex Rickard tonight denied all knowledge of a reported Boston despatch whereby Gene Tunney would be willing to meet Jack Sharkey in a title bout if the latter first defeats Johnny Risko decisively.

Boston, Jan. 24—(P)—In a deal that shuffled entirely a new aspect into Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament, Jack Sharkey of Boston was signed here last night to meet Johnny Risko of Cleveland at Madison Square Garden on March 12, the winner to meet Gene Tunney.

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, came to terms with Jess McMahon, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, after a deadlock of almost 24 hours on the matter of a Sharkey-Risko bout under any terms.

McMahon came to Boston yesterday to sign Sharkey for the Risko bout with the understanding that the winner would meet the victor of the impending Jack Delaney-Tom Heeney fight on March 1 to determine Tunney's first 1928 opponent. Buckley flatly refused to consider either Delaney or Heeney as prospective opponents and the conference broke up about dawn today.

McMahon telegraphed Rickard at Miami, Fla., for instructions and received the reply that Tunney would be willing to meet Sharkey on condition that the Boston ex-salior decisively whipped Risko in a bout to run nothing short of 15 rounds. When Tunney's views were conveyed to Buckley at a second conference today, the Boston manager agreed to the bout and the contract was signed.

What disposition is to be made of Delaney and Heeney was not mentioned by Rickard in his telegram to McMahon here. The wire said:

"I have talked with Tunney and he agrees to accept Sharkey as an opponent if Jack wins over Risko in decisive title. The distance of the bout must be 15 rounds. Tunney wouldn't agree to Delaney because of his (Delaney's) refusal to meet Risko at more than ten rounds. Sharkey must abide by the same decision.

"Tunney thinks highly of Risko in view of his decisive victories over Delaney and Paulino."

SPORT SLANTS

BY ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor.) New York, Jan. 24—(P)—The cards for this year's big heavyweight deal seem beset by like aspirants who talk more like champions than contenders.

The two Jacks in the deck, Delaney and Sharkey, are conceded just now to be outstanding challengers outside of Jack Dempsey but both have developed strange ideas about what they will do, who they will fight and when.

Behind it all are the rival managers of the Sharkey and Delaney backers, each intent upon checkmating the other and making sure of a "big spot" for 1928.

Both want to have one of the two prospective cracks expected to be taken at Gene Tunney's chin this year. They concede the other to Jack Dempsey but neither is willing to concede his rival anything.

Sharkey gained a lap on Delaney by filing his formal challenge for a match with Tunney with the New York State Athletic commission but Delaney's manager offset this by making a secret trip to New London, Conn., and filing a similar challenge with the president of the National Boxing association, which has power in 26 states.

One of the principal contenders for a place on this year's American Davis Cup go, is Edward ("Bud") Chandler of California. The former intercollegiate champion, now a student at Harvard is preparing for a comeback after a year of inactivity. Chandler's studies kept him too busy for much tennis last year, with the result that he did not make much impression in the national championships or big tournaments.

In 1926 Chandler was the sensation of the younger talent. Big, rangy and powerful, he showed every prospect of future greatness.

In the opinion of the veteran California coach, W. C. ("Pop") Fuller, Chandler "when right, is far ahead of Lott, Doeg, VanRyn and Heeney," all of whom probably will be in the new "first ten" ranking list.

WALTER JOHNSON SAYS: Some years ago when I had a rather bad season, I made up my mind that when I left it was through as a big leaguer, I would retire. I had hoped to get a chance in the world series before getting to that point in my career.

The big chance finally came in the world series of 1924, when Washington won the right to meet the New York Giants of the National League. That was after 18 years of service.

How I lost my first two games is now a matter of history. The first defeat was a heart-breaking 12-inning affair. At the start of the final game of the series it seemed as if I would go down as the "goat."

Then came my chance, when Washington tied the score in the eighth inning of the deciding game, and I was rushed in as relief pitcher. We won in 12 innings. That game also won the series for Washington and erased me from the "near-goat" class.

When I went to my home at the close of the 1924 series I had made up my mind that I was through; I had every intention of retiring. An alluring salary and the thought of Clarke Griffith that I might help to win another pennant, caused me to come back. I have had two pretty good years since.

However, last season I found it an effort to pitch, a broken leg suffered in spring training making the task all the more difficult. I didn't feel that I could no myself or my club justice, so I quit.

The coming season I am to manage the Newark club of the International League. I am also going to try to do a little pitching. But take it from me, if I early discover I can't win in the minors, I will once again retire as an active pitcher, for I fully realize one cannot win ball games on past performance.

Rapid River High Wins Easily from Cooks High Team

Cooks, Jan. 24—(Special)—The Rapid River high school basketball team defeated Cooks high, 44 to 6, at Cooks Monday night. The game was rather one-sided, the Rapid team scoring almost at will, but it furnished some good entertainment. In the two preliminary contests the Rapid River second team defeated the Cooks seconds 17 to 8, and the Rapid River girls defeated the Cooks girls, 11 to 6.

The Cooks high school pupils served an enjoyable lunch to the visiting boys and girls after the game.

Ramblers to Meet Buckeyes Tonight

The Ramblers basketball team will go to Gidstone tonight to play the Buckeyes on the Community club's court. Both teams have shown plenty of stuff to guarantee an interesting game for upbay fans.

Independents Will Play at Niagara

The Escanaba Independents will face next week two serious threats to their record of five victories and no defeats thus far this season. The local basket shooters will journey to Niagara, Wis., next Monday night to play the Niagara Badgers, a snappy semi-pro quintet which has been cleaning up on some of the best teams in the vicinity of the paper mill town.

"A HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT"

Dempsey Was Responsible for New Madison Square Garden

BY HENRY L. FARRELL, NEA Service Sports Writer Baseball's greatest monument, the million-dollar Yankee stadium, is often referred to by the more practical-minded as "the house that Ruth built." Official baseball does not feel flattered that any individual instead of the great pastime itself should be considered as the inspiration for the greatest plant of its kind in the world.

Perhaps it was the great love of the public for the national pastime and an unwavering faith in its integrity that demanded of baseball such a plant. Perhaps it was merely a coincidence that the stadium happened to be built at the same time that the Babe was lambasting baseballs all over the geography. And perhaps it was merely coincidental that when the Babe happened to break a record that had been set down as permanent the Yankee owners found it necessary to spend many more thousands in increasing the seating capacity of that park.

Coincidences as applied to this particular case are the bunk. It was the Ruth who made necessary the erection of the Yankee stadium and who made it pay.

There stands in the heart of the playground district of New York, a three-million-dollar monument to the sport of boxing, Tom Rickard's new Madison Square Garden is not solely a fight arena. It is used for other purposes, as the Yankee stadium is used also for amusement outside of baseball. But it was the profits of big boxing that enabled Rickard to get the backing for the finest enterprise of its kind in the world.

As the Yankee stadium is the "house that Ruth built," even more so, in the last analysis, is Madison Square Garden "the house that Jack built" and the builder, if it be necessary to mention, was Dempsey.

Gene Tunney may be right in his claim that he has a public as large as Dempsey's and that the former champion always was overrated as a drawing card. Tunney also may have just grounds to complain that Rickard is too partial to Dempsey; but listen to this little story and you may understand why the garden was built on Dempsey and why Rickard should like him.

It was back in the early days of 1919. Tex Rickard had the itch to put on another heavyweight championship fight. The war was over and the customers were crying for some recreation. Rickard had Jess Willard, the big champion, to use as he wished, but he couldn't find another man big enough and with a reputation to furnish the kind of an attraction he had conceived in a dream.

Then along came Dempsey knocking them here and there, hither and yon. One punch or two punches and they all dropped. The color of Dempsey's career and his dynamic personality appealed to the showman instinct of Rickard, but he kept thinking—"he's too little. Then Fred Fulton, the only big man Rickard had in mind, was knocked dead by Dempsey before the customers were seated and Dempsey immediately became the card.

"Maybe we can make Dempsey big enough," Rickard told one of his associates and they went to it.

It then became necessary to find a place for the fight and after chasing a lot of angles Rickard was given the best of reasons—in fact, perfect reasons—to know that the fight would not be tossed out of Ohio. Rickard went to Cleveland to consult with an old friend, Matt Hinkle, a millionaire sportsman and a great boxing fan.

From here on Hinkle can tell the story: "Rickard told me what he had done and what he had in mind," Hinkle said. "After lengthy consideration of all angles, we decided that Toledo was the place where the contest could be staged with least difficulty. When all the preliminary details had been attended to, I thought that Rickard would be jubilant. But he wasn't.

"He just sighed, leaned back in his chair and said: 'Mat, this is my last fight. I'm through with this business. It ain't worth the while. Monkeying around with politicians and reformers, favors here and favors there and more worry for the money than than any other racket in the world. I'm through after this one.'

"I told Rickard I thought the fight ought to be just the start for him. The public wanted something like it for diversion and he knew how to do it. "Rickard thought for a moment and then went on: 'No, the next one would be harder. There won't be any one for Willard. He'll kill that fellow. There might be a chance if that little Dempsey could win. I could get that Carpenter fellow over there in France.' "I jumped Rickard about Carpenter. I said he never was a

Winter Sports Carnival for Boys and Girls Will Be Staged in February

Plans Under Way for Big Ice "Roundup" Next Month

Initial plans for the staging, next month, of a winter sports carnival for grade school boys and girls of Escanaba, were laid yesterday following the announcement by Rev. Fr. Raymond Bergeron of St. Patrick's church, that he had received the sum of $50 from a winter sport enthusiast here to be used for prizes. The name of the donor was not made public, at his own request.

The date for the carnival will be set within the next few days. The third or fourth week in February has been suggested. Definite announcements along this line will be made later.

The events will include: Skating races for boys. Skating races for girls. Dog races for boys. Dog races for girls. A school boy hockey team tournament to decide the city championship. Ice boat races and possibly some other odd events.

Others to Be Added. It is probable that other prizes will be offered as soon as more details have been worked out. The speed skating events would be staged on the municipal rink, the hockey games in the pen being constructed for the use of the boys who are being taught the game by Father Bergeron, the dog races on a convenient street, and the ice boating on the bay.

All of the events except the ice boating would be limited to boys and girls in the public and parochial grade schools of Escanaba, according to present plans. It is the firm belief of many winter sport enthusiasts here that in order really to build a demand for activities of this character, the start should be made with the boys and girls who do not need to be "sold" on the idea, and who will put into their competition, a great deal more enthusiasm than older athletes.

The $50 gift received yesterday will go a long way towards providing prizes. Other gifts, however, can be used. Those interested are asked to call H. K. Rammel at the Daily Press office. More details will be announced at an early date.

Billiard Champion Leads Challenger

Philadelphia, Jan. 24—(P)—Defending his world's three-cushion billiard championship for the third time in four months, Otto Reisel, Philadelphia, tonight took a commanding lead over Tim Denton, Kansas City, in the first block of the 300 point challenge match. The Philadelphian won the block 60 to 45.

The United States was one of the last great nations to adopt the national budget system.

Highlanders Journey to Marquette to Do Battle Friday

The Escanaba Highlanders will relieve the strain of mid-semester exams when they journey to Marquette Friday to play Carroll Rush-ton's Red and White quintet. The Roellers have been practicing with a view that will be a decided aid to them in their battle with the Prison City lads in the new Gravaat gymnasium. Spirited by their victories over St. Joseph and Menominee last week, the local squad is all set to add Marquette to their list of victories.

While Coach Roels and his Highlanders are traveling to Marquette, the Reserve squad will travel in the opposite direction to tussle with Powers at the Powers gym on Friday night. This is the Reserve's second game with the Powers aggregation. Last Friday the Reserve scored a victory over the Saultorium City lads and they are confident that they can repeat their performance at Powers.

Two Champions Put Under Ban By Commission

New York, Jan. 24—(P)—Two champions of the National Boxing association—Frenchy Belanger of the flyweights and Benny Bass, featherweight star—came under the ban of the New York state athletic commission today.

Bass, storm center for many months in the controversy between two of boxing's ruling powers over the leadership of the 126-pound division, was indefinitely suspended along with Phil Glasman, his manager, and the pilot's entire stable of boxers, for "running out" of a match with Tony Canzoneri in Madison Square Garden next Friday night. Belanger, Canadian youngster, suffered the same punishment for failure to answer a summons to appear before the commission.

Drastic action against Bass and his manager followed the commission's inquiry today that Bass is scheduled to fight Wilbur Cohen, New York negro, in Atlantic City next Monday night. The Philadelphian had his match with Canzoneri recognized in New York as the featherweight king postponed his match until February 10 because of illness. The commission decided that any sickness, discovered a week ago that permitted Bass to fight Monday night but prevented his appearance three days earlier called for summary treatment.

GAZZING THE AMATEURS

Charley Paddock's recent assertion that Helen Wills, Bob Jones and several other stars were not amateurs in the strict spirit of the rules was rather surprising when the source was considered.

If memory does not fail Paddock was up once or twice before officials of the Amateur Athletic Union and was asked to explain some of his activities that were thought to have come under that mooted classification of "indirect benefits."

It takes a brave young man and one who must feel quite secure in his position to cast pebbles when rocks might be hurled back at him by counter-belligerents. Regardless of his qualifications to sit in judgment upon the athletic morals of the distinguished amateurs in other branches of sport, the point made by Paddock is well taken, as is known to all those familiar with the activities of most of the athletes who are supposed to get no returns of any kind for their services.

Paddock maintained that Jay Gould, the court tennis star, was the only real amateur of his acquaintance that he had so much money he had no inducement or temptation to become a semi-pro.

Gentlemen Athletes Gould is generally accepted as an amateur in the strictest interpretation of the word, but there are others, although Paddock may not know of them, who have no fear of an investigation, although very few of them are absolutely spotless.

And those who are expected as being beyond reproach are wealthy and of the class known to the British as "gentlemen athletes." For a number of years the line was so finely drawn in England that a tradesman or a man who worked for a living could not compete in the same class with a gentleman.

On one occasion the application of Jack Kelly, one of America's greatest oarsmen, for entrance in the Diamond Sculls race was refused because he worked for a living.

Kelly had to wait for the 1920 Olympic games to get revenge and he got it in Brussels by giving a terrific beating to Jack Bessford, the British champion.

Taylor and Sangor met about a year ago, the latter winning the decision.

this amateur problem it would seem that the British did have the only way in drawing a line between an amateur and a professional or semi-pro that was cheat-proof. If the rule is enforced in its strictest spirit only a rich man or a lord or a duke could play in amateur games.

The Amateur Sports Mrs. Mollie Mallory, for years are all from the wealthy class or they couldn't be playing polo. The average man couldn't keep himself supplied with boots and saddles, let alone a string of ponies at from $5000 a head upward.

Rowing is another sport that is not bothered much in this country with amateur problems but as a British writer said at the last Olympic games—"Rowing? That's not a game, it's a bloomin' prank."

The liberal interpretation of the American amateur rules applied to the writing of newspaper and magazine articles, is the cause of complaint, if they are such, directed against Helen Wills and Bobby Jones.

The question of whether their articles find a market because of the names of the authors and that their names give their products a higher market value than the works of other writers could be answered only by the editors as the copy of the young tennis and golf stars seems to be in demand.

Suspension of Milwaukee Boxer Lifted by Ass'n

Chicago, Jan. 24—(P)—Suspension of Joey Sanger, Milwaukee featherweight boxer, was lifted today by the Illinois athletic commission, when he agreed to box for Promoter Jim Mullen in Chicago, February 9.

Sanger, who was suspended when he failed to appear for a bout December 9, will meet Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., in Promoter Mullen's second of a series of elimination bouts to develop a western contender for the now vacant featherweight crown.

Taylor and Sangor met about a year ago, the latter winning the decision.

13 BUILDINGS ARE PADLOCKED

In the event the place is used for the sale or manufacture of liquor. Hotels Must Close. Household goods and merchandise were being removed from most of the buildings affected yesterday. The Colonial hotel and the Michigan hotel on Stephenson avenue were dealt hard blows by the padlock decrees since their hostilities, which did a comparatively large business, were forced to suspend operations. Truck loads of household goods were being hauled away from these two places up to late yesterday.

Two Others Pending. Action on two other buildings in the city was withheld by the court. The building owners and soft drink parlor operators involved in the padlock proceedings are: Brandenberg Estate, 111 North Tenth street, John Burke, Marcel LaFleur, 1209 Ludington, both owner and operator. Noe Daut, 1324 First avenue north, Louis Savard. Mrs. Malvina Pepin, 300 South Tenth street, Frank Rubens. (Mrs. Pepin allowed to occupy upstairs part on filing of $1,000 bond.) Joseph LaFleur, 1213 Ludington street, both owner and operator. Napoleon LaChapelle, 1123 First avenue north, Gust Dahl and Gust Peterson.

to use the publicity opportunities that a continuous session of congress gives to the opposition party.

Plenty of Work. Congress, to be sure, has enough on its hands to keep a session going without much interruption until the regular session of next December. This will become more apparent in the next few weeks when important committee reports will be brought in, many of them requiring extensive debate. During a campaign year also, the tendency of congress to debate is greater than in other sessions as congressional speeches usually play an important part in the literature of presidential and congressional campaigns.

In the quarter ending September-30, 1927, 83,947 boy babies and 80,062 girl babies were born in England and Wales.

J. W. King, 85, Former Resident of Escanaba, Dies

J. W. King, for many years a resident of Escanaba, died at the home of his daughter in Los Angeles, Cal. Monday morning, according to word received here by friends. Death was due to heart disease. "Billy" King first came to Escanaba in 1856 and for some time engaged in the meat market business. Afterwards, he moved to Payette, where he was employed at the furnace which was operating there at that time, but returned to Escanaba in 1899. For about ten years he was employed as an engineer at the water works plant here, and for fifteen years prior to his moving away from the city, late in 1925, he was employed as a watchman at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway's docks. In his earlier days, Mr. King was active in politics here and served as councilman from the seventh ward for several years. He was 85 years old at the time of his death.

By its form and vast dimensions it offers the greatest interest to archaeologists and students of the history of the Roman occupation. TRADE WAR IS NOT IN SIGHT

Coolidge Says Naval Officials Are Seeking Appropriations

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—In the opinion of President Coolidge there is no need to take seriously the sanguinary predictions of American army and navy officials that the United States is about to war with its commercial rivals. This announcement of the president's views, made at the White House today, came in reply to a statement attributed to Rear Admiral Charles Y. Plunkett, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, in which he warned that an outbreak of hostilities was not far distant. Such a stir was created in European newspapers that the White House felt impelled to explain that declarations of this nature are the usual way in which officers of the national defense attempt to work up domestic sentiment at a time when army and navy appropriation bills are about to be considered in congress. Although willing to concede that it is the duty of defense officers to work for the best interests of the elements they serve, Mr. Coolidge is displeased with the turn their war-like attitude sometimes take, but so far as he can see there is nothing to be done. If he should publicly point out the inadvisability of their statements he feels that he would only be accused of muzzling free speech. He believes he can simply recommend to the army and navy officers that they consider the welfare of their country in a larger sense. This latest White House gesture towards allaying suspicion of American aggressiveness comes as prologue to possible further airing of the position of the United States defense when congress takes up shortly the administration's proposal for a $740,000,000 rounding out of the navy.

Dividend of Ten Per Cent Declared by Broom Company

Directors of the Escanaba Broom company at their meeting on Monday voted to pay a 10 per cent dividend to the stockholders. The year 1927 was one of the best in the history of the local manufacturing concern. Officers of the company express themselves as optimistic over prospects for 1928. An increase in the demand for the product of the Escanaba Broom company has been noted in recent months, and plans are to steadily increase the production of the plant during 1928 with the expectation that the production will be doubled before the termination of this year.
