HEFLIN HELPS AL SMITH, IS CAPITAL VIEW

ALABAMA SOLON ON DEFENSIVE SIDE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. Washington, Jan. 25.—Is the Hefflin episode in the United States Senate helping or hurting the chances of Governor Al Smith?

That is really the question which is heard more than any other on Capitol Hill. In fact if there were not a democratic national convention coming in June with the certainty that Governor Smith's candidacy will there be considered, the speeches of the Alabama senator would not have carried the significance that they do today.

The republicans looking on are not so sure that the Alabama senator is injuring the Smith chances, indeed there are some who are ready to believe the whole incident will help the candidacy of Mr. Smith. They reason that the religious quarrel was bound to have broken out sooner or later and that if the party debates it as early as January the issue will have lost a good deal of its force before June.

Now On Defensive. Several days ago when Mr. Hefflin made his first speech, that aroused the ire of Senator Robinson, democratic leader, he was plainly on the offensive. The speech of the Alabama senator on Monday of this week was, however, a defense. He was answering attacks from his own states and particularly from newspapers and citizens who had invited Senator Robinson to come to Alabama to speak.

When the democratic conference was called recently to determine what should be done about the challenge to Mr. Robinson's leadership issued by Mr. Hefflin, there was a certain element in the party who believed it was a mistake even by inference to appear to be repressing the views of a senator no matter what subject they might cover. Interference with the right of a senator to express his own opinions is not relied on the democratic side of the chamber as a matter of tradition. So when the final resolution upheld Mr. Robinson's leadership, it carried with it no repudiation directly of Mr. Hefflin's remarks.

This in turn caused the issue to turn on how Mr. Hefflin himself felt about guaranteeing free speech to his opponents. His remark in the senate debate that Mr. Robinson would be "tarred and feathered" if he came to Alabama and made the speech he had delivered against Senator Hefflin was of course broadcast through Alabama and led to assurances that Mr. Robinson could come without being tarred and feathered.

Mr. Hefflin states that he in-

PRIVATE LAWS NEW OBSTACLE

U. S. Delegate Raises Objections at Pan-American Meet

Havana, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The problem of the codification of international private law proved a stumbling block at the meeting of the committee of the Pan-American conference on that subject today. After Eduardo Espinola had presented a long study of the question, in his report, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, of the American delegation, caused a commotion by announcing the opposition of the United States to the projected code.

"The United States delegation," said Judge O'Brien, "is not free to vote for the adoption of the code as it is now presented, because questions that are involved would be to us domestic questions. We have, as you know, 48 states each sovereign and each having conceded to the general government certain powers. But the general government is bound by the constitution of the United States."

Desire to Cooperate. Antonio Bustamante of Cuba previously had endorsed a fixed law code for the American republics, and later he explained the exact proposals. After a consultation between Judge O'Brien and James Brown Scott, Judge O'Brien went into further detail as to the attitude of the United States which he said was not one of the dissenters. He requested that the proposal be submitted for full study by the American delegation and that its attitude be gauged according to action taken in the future.

"Our desire," he added, "is to

Youth Confesses to Killing Officer

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A confession from James Lowell Morehouse, 22, Battle Creek youth, that he shot and fatally wounded Cleo Platt, Eaton county deputy sheriff, last December, was obtained today according to state police. Morehouse fled from his usual haunts after the crime and was arrested in Sturges, Tuesday. He was confronted with Hawthorne Sutton, his alleged accomplice in a string of robberies.

Sutton, according to the police, charged that Morehouse fired the first shots, and the latter, after first denying any connection with the affair, finally admitted he did the shooting.

The deputy was shot when he attempted to halt a car speeding through Charlotte. The shots were fired from a following machine. It has been discovered that several youths in the cars were returning from the robbery of a store in a nearby village.

"Flivver" Plane Makes Short Hop

Spartanburg, S. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Coming here from Asheville, N. C., instead of going to Greensboro, N. C., as he had planned, Harry Brooks brought his Ford flivver plane down at the local airport late today. He covered the seventy miles from Asheville where he was forced down yesterday in his attempt to make a non-stop flight from Detroit to Miami, in 35 minutes.

Unable to take off from the hill top where he landed yesterday, Brooks ordered his plane towed to the Biltmore estate of Mrs. John F. Clegg. He had intended to go to Greensboro for gasoline before going to Washington on his way back to Detroit, but to avoid darkness he decided at the last minute to make the shorter flight.

MOVEMENT TO NAME REED IS GIVEN START

OPEN CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS FOR MISSOURIAN

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The movement to have Senator James A. Reed of Missouri nominated for president by the Democrats was given impetus today by the opening of campaign headquarters here. They are in charge of Lee Meriwether of St. Louis, who said he was acting with the "full knowledge and consent" of the Missouri senator.

Samuel Fordyce, chairman of the Missouri state Democratic central committee, will have general charge of the Reed campaign and will divide his time between eastern headquarters here and western headquarters at Louisiana, Missouri. The headquarters at Louisiana are to be under the direction of Edward A. Glenn, who conducted the late Champ Clark campaign for the presidential nomination in 1921.

Meriwether who described himself as one of Senator Reed's "devoted supporters" said that he was rapidly organizing a staff with which to launch a nationwide campaign.

"The state of Missouri is back of him to a man," said Meriwether in a formal statement, "and I am authorized to say he is in this contest to a finish."

The headquarters here are in the Hotel Washington where Senator Reed makes his home while in the capital.

Started Flood Control. Although Senator Reed has never committed himself publicly as to his presidential candidacy, his friends for some time have declared that he would be in the race for the nomination that will be made in June at Houston, and have predicted that he will not seek re-election to the senate this year.

Declaring in his statement today that "for some months, thousands of people in all parts of the United States have been urging him to become a candidate," Meriwether asserted that "in Missouri and in the country at large, more than any other man, Senator Reed represents opposition to corrupt control of the government and the purchase of elections."

"He has always stood as the champion of the constitution and for protection of legitimate property rights," continued Meriwether. "He is a constructive

Option on Fort Wayne Given to City of Detroit

Detroit, Jan. 25.—(AP)—An option conferring the right to purchase the Fort Wayne military reservation to the state, the county of Wayne or the city of Detroit, for a period of six months, was submitted to the county auditor yesterday by the war department.

County officials were unable to forecast probable action on the matter.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A Lansing man who consulted a physician because he feared he "might become a Hickman or a Hotellins," had been sent to a hospital. Upon the advice of the physician he will remain there until he has recovered from his obsession.

The man is said to have declared the recent crimes weighed upon his mind until he feared the consequences.

CURTIS FAVORS VOLSTEAD ACT

Kansas Senator Replies to Borah's Questionnaire on Prohibition

Washington, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The efforts of Senator Borah of Idaho to put all Republican presidential candidates down on prohibition drew from Senator Curtis of Kansas a statement today that he favored rigid enforcement of the dry laws and was opposed to repeal of either the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act. It also presented another prohibition debate in the senate with verbal contributions from both the wet and dry camps.

Curtis expressed his views on prohibition in replying to a questionnaire on the question which Borah is sending to all avowed candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Kansas senator declared his opposition to a state determining the alcoholic content of liquor and pointed to his record years ago as prosecuting attorney for Shawnee county, Kansas, in closing illicit saloons as proof of his dry views.

Law Here to Stay. Later, Senator Borah said that he was not prepared to say whether Senator Curtis' reply was satisfactory as he had not had time to study his letter.

But Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, a leader of the wets, declared in the senate he was more or less in accord with the reply, because although it was "unquestionably dry, it was not bone dry."

"Nowhere in the letter can I find that he is not in favor of amending or modifying the Volstead act by congress," declared the Maryland senator. As the debate proceeded Senator Shepperd, Democrat, Texas, took up the cudgel for the dries, declaring the prohibition law was "here to stay."

HEAR DOZEN WITNESSES IN OIL INQUIRY

CONTINUE INVESTIGATION OF FALL-SINCLAIR ACTIONS

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Half a dozen witnesses passed in rapid succession today before the senate lands committee but none of them shed any material light on the main subject of inquiry—what became of the three million dollars of profits made by the Continental Trading Co., Ltd. of Canada, in the purchase of oil in this country.

Of these profits, $233,000 have been traced from Harry F. Sinclair to Albert B. Fall after the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve in 1922, but it appears now that the committee is going to encounter serious difficulties in getting track of the remainder.

The Sinclair payments to Fall recounted in detail yesterday by M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of the former interior secretary, were touched upon briefly today. Everhart testified that to obtain his one-third interest in Fall's New Mexico ranch holdings for which it was claimed $233,000 in Liberty bonds were delivered to Everhart, Sinclair would have to depend upon the words of Fall and Everhart.

To Call Stewart. To counterbalance part of Everhart's testimony that $90,000 of the Sinclair Liberty bonds were used by Fall to pay off the $90,000 balance due on the Harris ranch which the former cabinet officer purchased in November, 1921, Senator Walsh of Montana, the prosecutor, read into the record previous testimony of Will Ed Harris that Fall paid $10,000 in cash; $45,000 in December, 1921, and the remaining $45,000 in April, 1922, a month before Sinclair paid over the bonds.

Before the inquiry was resumed, Senator Walsh directed L. L. Stephens, general counsel of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to communicate with Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, at Havana, Cuba, and advise him that the committee wanted him to return to Washington for questioning.

Stewart, who is chairman of the board of the Indiana Standard Oil company, was one of the four men who guaranteed the contract of the Continental company to purchase 33,333,333 barrels of oil from the late A. E. Humphries, and Walsh wants to find out what he knows about the Continental and what became of its profits.

Wilson's Petitions Contesting Election Lack Evidence

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Dividing on strictly party lines, the senate elections committee voted today to dismiss for lack of particularities the petition of William B. Wilson, Democrat, contesting the election of Senator-William S. Vare, Republican, Pennsylvania, but agreed to give the contestant 25 days in which to file an amended complaint.

Immediately after the vote, which was 8 to 6, Senator Reed of Missouri, chairman of the slush fund committee, which unearthed heavy expenditures in Vare's primary campaign, announced that tomorrow he would ask the senate to direct the elections committee to "proceed forthwith" in considering Wilson's contest in counting the ballots in six Pennsylvania counties.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS IN LOS ANGELES COURT

DEFENSE CHARGES HARDY WAS BIASED AND PREJUDICED

Hall of Justice, Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Swift and unexpected moves that ended in the defense scoring a prime victory, that of obtaining a new judge by charging bias and prejudice to the jurist assigned the case, marked the opening day of the sally trial of William E. Hickman, kidnaper and slayer of 12-year-old Marian Parker.

Superior Judge Carlos Hardy filed an affidavit consenting "in the interest of justice and the speedy hearing of this trial" to remove himself from the case.

Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco, veteran prominent jurist of California, tonight was appointed to preside over the trial.

Judge Trabucco, who comes from Mariposa county, has been a California jurist for thirty years. For several months he has been acting as a relief judge in Los Angeles county courts.

Striking swiftly after the trial was called to order this morning, Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney, defending Hickman, entered an exception to Judge Hardy. The defense charged bias and prejudice on three separate grounds and the court denied that such was true. Forty minutes after the trial opened adjournment was taken until after noon to give the petition more consideration.

Swift Action in Senate. After an hour's conference with Superior Judge Victor McLucas, Judge Hardy decided to file a counter affidavit. In this affidavit denying the harboring of any bias or prejudice, Judge Hardy in effect disqualified himself from the trial.

District Attorney—Asa Keyes, chief of the state's attorneys, vigorously opposed the court's action and urged the overruling of the defense's exception. Keyes refused the legal opportunity of conferring with the defense counsel to select a judge mutually acceptable and the procedure of naming Judge Hardy's successor to the judicial council, empowered by law to so act in such a situation.

The swift action of the morning session was eclipsed by the afternoon session which lasted only twenty minutes. Adjournment was taken until Thursday morning.

Hickman remained quiet and apparently little moved by the court actions.

Action on Air Line Petition Delayed

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A hearing set for today before the public utilities commission on the petition of the Wright Aeronautics corporation for permission to issue securities to finance an aerial taxi, freight and mail line and conduct a flying school, was postponed until next week. The incorporators, who gave the names of Curtis O., and G. B. Wright, were said to be not directly connected with the famous Wright brothers. The commission desires more information than is immediately available. The company submitted a list of assets showing it possesses two planes. Representatives of the concern said one of the proposed projects was to transport passengers from Detroit to St. Louis in a week. The commission ordered that all available data be secured for a later hearing.

CIVIC LOYALTY SPEAKER'S PLEA

Forum Crowd Hears Inspiring and Informative Addresses

An inspiring appeal for civic loyalty by Rev. John B. Hubbard, and an interesting summary of the city health department's recent survey of the local water situation by Dr. Harry J. Defnet, were the highlights of the Chamber of Commerce Forum meeting in the Delta hotel last night.

"Community Conscious" was Rev. Hubbard's subject. "Patriotism necessarily begins at home," he said. "After all, the United States is here in the community in which we live. We cannot be loyal to our country unless we first are loyal to our home community. Traitors to the United States, in times of national stress, are shot. Traitors to their home communities in times of stress manage to escape the firing squad.

"We are mutually dependent upon each other, and the community depends on all of us. The future is in our hands. If the town goes to the dogs it is our fault. If it goes forward we can claim the credit. If we depend, for progress, on the possibility that someone will come along and toss prosperity in our laps, we won't deserve that prosperity when it arrives, although the chances are it will never arrive."

Don't Be Blood-Tick!

With characteristic eloquence and force, he pled for alertness, thoroughness and co-operation in the solution of civic problems.

"The blood-tick on the town's back is a parasite, sucking its existence from an unwilling source and giving nothing in return," he said. "The mistletoe is also a parasite, but it is at least beautiful and affords some cheer. So it isn't necessary for even a parasite to be wholly useless, ugly and despised.

Dr. Defnet listed as some of the principal causes of the objectionable creosote flavor in Escanaba's city water, the lack of dilution in the winter months, the shortage of rainfall, the pollution by industrial plants and deposits of industrial wastes in the bay, shifting currents and the lack of sunlight and air while the bay is covered with ice.

"The bay," he said, "is really like a great river which has overflowed its banks. It is 15 miles long, from 1,000 feet to 3 1/2 miles in width, and from 12 to 65 feet deep. Thirteen rivers empty into it, draining an area of approximately 1500 square miles.

"The only source of pollution is the industrial plants who now have discontinued the practice but who, during many years, deposited great quantities of wastes in the bay.

"When the rivers are covered with ice, between freeze-up time in the fall until break-up time in the spring, only one-fifth as much water flows into the bay, as flows during the other periods of the year. Dilution during the summer is absent during the ice months. The wind and the sunshine which provide aeration during the summer are absent in winter, and cold water holds more gases in solution than warmer water. These are some of the contributing factors in the winter-time flavor.

"We have tried all sorts of processes in an attempt to find a method of treating the water to remove the creosote taste, but thus far we have been unable to find anything practical.

"Test holes in the ice, made this winter, and in previous surveys, indicate that if the intake pipe were extended across the channel, a better supply of water might be secured. That would be tremendously expensive.

"Escanaba's city water is tested at frequent intervals. It may not taste well but it is pure. It can harm no one. It is a question whether we want to spend the money necessary to extract a harmless taste from the water three months in the year."

W. J. Hatton, who built the plant and supervised the laying of the present intake pipe, explained to the forum that the United States government, at the time the plant was constructed, refused to permit the laying of the intake further than 2600 feet from the plant on the ground that ships dropping anchor in the channel might ruin the city's water supply.

Thomas J. Riley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided. Rev. J. C. Evans led the group singing, and there was a dinner program of music by Leduc's snappy dance orchestra.

tended to expunge that remark from the congressional record because he meant it in "laughter" as it usually does when the galleries indicate their humorous feelings; but the Alabama senator, in any event, now says he meant it in fun and that the Arkansas senator can come to Alabama and will be protected.

So the issue is not as serious as it appeared to be last week and there is a little more tendency toward harmony on the democratic side of the chamber than there was and it is not likely that the Alabama senator will permit himself to be used as a means of dividing democratic senators.

Robinson a Candidate.

The firm way, on the other hand, in which Senator Robinson met the religious issue struck a responsive chord among most of the democrats and it would not be surprising if the Robinson speech were the keynote of the next democratic convention and that the Arkansas senator may be the temporary and permanent chairman of the convention and deliver the same note. His aggressive leadership has won him the respect of the entire senate chamber. Mr. Robinson has not come out for Governor Smith and it is likely that his friends in Arkansas will vote for him as a candidate for the nomination. But his friendly attitude toward the Smith contingent has put him in line for first consideration if a deadlock should prevent the selection of Governor Smith.

statesman. Years before such terrible emphasis was given the necessity of controlling our great rivers, as was given by the recent devastating floods, Senator Reed advocated a comprehensive policy of protecting the country from such floods. The policy he advocated as long as five years ago is now being recognized as one of the best means of solving this important question.

Need Another Jackson.

"The service which Senator Reed rendered in helping to perfect the federal reserve act is recognized at the time by President Wilson and is now known to all who keep posted as to current events.

"One hundred years ago it required a powerful personality like Jackson to wrest the United States from the control of corrupt interests. Today, with a similar danger confronting the country, it is fortunate in having a man like Senator Reed to perform the same sort of service that was performed by Jackson a century ago. When two million dollar slush funds are used in a single state to buy a single seat in the United States senate, it is high time to have another Andrew Jackson in the White House. Senator Reed is such a man. That is why we shall work unceasingly to secure his nomination in June and his election in November."

The contest which Wilson has brought is wholly apart from the challenge to Vare's right to sit in the senate made by Reed as chairman of the slush fund committee. That case against Vare has been referred to Reed's committee with instructions to conduct a further inquiry into both the primary campaign and the general election.

While the senate committee was acting in the Vare case, a house elections committee continued to hear evidence on the right of the senator-elect's chief counsel, James M. Beck's right is challenged on the ground that he was not a legal resident of the district when elected. The cooperate in every way possible, but to take no definite stand before an examination.

Senator Bustamante said there were two tendencies looking to the solution of the question of codification of international law—the first, a gradual progressive code and second the adoption of a fixed code of international private law. He expressed himself as in favor of the second plan with regard to private law, and the first for international public law.

BILLION LOST ON STOCK LIST

Value of Securities Drop When Chicago Rediscunt Rate Jumps

BY STANLEY W. PRENSHIL, (Associated Press Financial Editor.)

New York, Jan. 25.—(P)—One billion was written off the quoted values of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange today by the sweeping reaction inspired by the unexpected raising of the Chicago federal reserve bank rediscunt rate. The decline, which ran from $2 to $8 a share in the active issues was an orderly one, and the day's sales, which ran above 234.4 million shares, were not unusually large. Recoveries reduced many of the earlier losses and in a few instances, particularly in the public utility group, sent stocks to new high records.

Heavy liquidation of stocks undoubtedly was influenced by the rather general belief that the higher Chicago rate was intended at least in part, as a warning against a further expansion of speculative credit. Easy money has been widely recognized as the background for the recent advance in stock prices, which measured by the averages of leading industrial and railroad issues recently have been selling within a few points of their record high levels. Therefore, the recent stiffening in time money rates, followed by the higher Chicago bank rate and the prospect of similar increases by other federal reserve institutions, caused somewhat of a shock in speculative circles.

An avalanche of selling orders from all sections of the country poured into brokerage houses overnight. Scenes of wild confusion greeted the opening gong and in several of the active issues it was several minutes before opening prices could be agreed upon. U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Radio, Montgomery Ward and other industrial leaders showed opening declines of $2 a share or more. Some of the more volatile specialties such as Greene Cananea Copper, Midland Steel Products preferred, Warren Brothers, Case Threshing Machine and Express cracked 5 to 8 points a share.

Powerful speculative people who have amassed fortunes for their sponsors in recent "bull" market activities, strenuously resisted the liquidation movement. As soon as the first outbreak of selling had spent itself, and many of the small speculators and investors had dumped their holdings "at the market," a brisk recovery was set in motion. Gold Dust, which had sagged to $8 on the first onslaught of selling, quickly rallied to 95, as against a low of 92 on Monday, fell below 90 in the early afternoon and then shot up to a new high record at 97. Laclede Gas soared nearly 20 points to a high point of 238. Federal Light and Traction, First National Stores and Youngstown Sheet and Tube also reached new high ground. Hupp Motors, which dipped below 37 in the morning, was lifted above 35 for a small fractional gain on the day; one block of 10,000 shares changing hands around the high level.

With 17,400,000 shares of stock outstanding the net loss of 24 points in General Motors represents a decline of $43,500,000 in aggregate market value.

The present "bull" market frequently referred to in Wall Street as the "Coolidge" market, has been under way since the spring of 1924, exceeding in duration all previous major upswings of the present century. Only one serious reaction has taken place, the drastic collapse of March, 1926, and this proved to be only temporary in character.

SOLON ASSAILS STEAMSHIP CO.

Says Dollar Lines Are Controlled by British Interests

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—Senator Oddie of Nevada, Republican, and Senator Fletcher of Florida, a Democrat, joined today in an attack upon the Dollar shipping interests of the Pacific coast, each declaring on the senate floor that the company was controlled by British interests.

Dollar Line ships, Senator Oddie asserted, are operating under British and Japanese flags. His information was reliable, he continued, coming from the department of commerce and other sources which he considered authoritative.

Senator Fletcher declared that the Dollar interests bought "the finest ships on the ocean at much less than their value," and now were "laying for" the 35 shipping board vessels on the Pacific coast and "expect to get them sometime in February."

The allegations were made during discussion of the provision of the Jones bill providing that no more shipping board vessels may be sold except by the unanimous consent of the members of the board.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, who is opposing this section on the grounds that no ships could be sold under such conditions and that it would mean permanent government operation of the merchant marine, declared that "not a single ship sold by the shipping board can be put under a foreign flag except by consent of the board."

"Yes, but they can put them in the coastwise trade and when the time limit expires they can put them into the regular oceanic trade lines," replied Senator Fletcher.

Deny Charges

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—(P)—Emphatic denial of charges by Senators Oddie and Fletcher that the Dollar Steamship line was British-controlled was made tonight by Captain Robert Dollar, president of the line. Captain Dollar said:

"To put it mildly, the statements of the senators are inaccurate, wholly incorrect and we might believe absurd. If the senators would refer to the records of the United States Shipping board they will find all the material necessary to correct their remarks. Nothing else need be said."

ALL AMERICAN SHIPS

New York, Jan. 25.—(P)—Every vessel now operated by the Dollar Line sails under the American flag. Stanley Dollar, vice president of the line, told the Associated Press tonight when informed of charges made in the U. S. senate today by Senators Oddie of Nevada and Fletcher of Florida, that the line was British controlled.

"We sold the last of our British vessels a few days ago," he said. "We have none now. Every one of our vessels now sails under the American flag. We are operating no vessels under the Japanese flag," he said in answer to Senator Oddie's statement that the line was operating ships under the Japanese flag. "We have never owned a vessel under the Japanese flag in our history."

Attack Unjust.

"As for Senator Oddie's statement that we hope to secure the 35 freight ships on the Pacific coast, he knows nothing about it. He does not know whether we are going to bid on them or not. Bids have been advertised for and as an American citizen, I have a right to bid if I want to, but I have never made public my intentions in the matter.

"The whole attack is so untrue and unjust, and so absolutely unfounded that it is hardly worthy of notice; but I give you

COSSGRAVE VISITS House and Senate

Washington, Jan. 25.—(P)—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State executive council today repaid a debt of 150 years standing. Addressing the senate after he had shaken hands with each of its members in an impromptu reception, the Free State executive said: "Benjamin Franklin came to my country a hundred and fifty years ago and told the Irish parliament that the Irish people and the Americans alike were fighting for freedom. I have now come to repay the visit of that great man." The visit to the senate was the climax of the third busy day of the Irish president has spent in Washington. It came after he had first paid homage to the father of the country during a visit to the home of George Washington at Mt. Vernon, and had visited informally with representatives during a recess of the house. He left behind him a message addressed through Speaker Longworth and the members of the house to American people, expressing gratitude for American assistance in the fight for Irish freedom. Later, he visited the library of congress and between times he lunched with the overseas writers at the National Press club. A dinner with Secretary Kellogg was on his program for tonight. Both senate and the house acknowledged the presence of their distinguished visitor by recessing a few minutes.

Several Suspects Held in Hunt for Frances Smith

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—(P)—Emphatic denial that the girl who yesterday made application here for a passport to France is the missing Frances St. John Smith, was made here today by Miss Catherine Shirley of 850 West Peachtree street, who said that the young woman "who had been positively identified," as the missing Smith college student is her sister, Beulah Shirley of Alpharetta, Ga.

Miss Catherine Shirley, who is the daughter of O. C. Shirley, ordinarily of Milton county, said that her sister made application for a passport yesterday, spent the night with her and left early today to return to her home in Alpharetta.

"My sister plans to go to Paris to study music, just as she did in making application for the passport," Miss Catherine Shirley stated tonight, "and she intends to go by way of Houston, Texas, to join a friend who lives there."

Miss Catherine Shirley said that her father and mother were at present visiting another daughter in Miami, Fla., and would return home Saturday.

FACTS IN THE MATTER

"The Dollar Line," he asserted, "is not only one of the largest ship owners under the American flag, but is the largest owner of passenger tonnage and the only company engaged in the trans-Pacific trade wholly under that flag—and has been for years."

Measure Set Aside

"I am in favor of selling ships when all seven of the board members favor it, but I am not willing to sell them on the say of four members," continued the Florida senator. "The British," he added, "have the idea that we are going out of business and while they know we won't sell ships to the British, they think we will sell them to the international mercantile marine which is British controlled."

The debate was brought to a close when Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, sponsor of the measure, moved that it be laid aside until tomorrow when he hoped to obtain a vote.

TRENARY HAS $12,000 FIRE

Weiland Pool Room and Bazille Home Burned to Ground

Trenary, Mich., Jan. 25 (Special)—A loss of about $12,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed a pool room, a residence and an unoccupied building here this morning, and seriously threatened for a time about a dozen other structures in this village's Main street.

The blaze started in the kitchen of the living quarters above the Orville Weiland pool room and barber shop, and rapidly spread throughout the building. Mrs. Weiland, who was upstairs, was forced to make a hurried exit, not having time to remove any clothing or other personal belongings from the place.

About one hundred and fifty men composed a bucket brigade, which carried water from a number of pumps in the vicinity. A small gasoline pumper in the Davis general store was put to work, and a small stream was played on nearby buildings which were threatened.

From the Weiland building, the flames leaped over to a residence occupied by Jesse Brazille. The fire fighters succeeded in removing several pieces of furniture and clothing from the home before it was completely enveloped in flames.

To prevent the spread of the fire to other buildings, several sticks of dynamite were judiciously applied to the burning home, causing the structure to collapse.

The warehouse of the Davis company store caught fire, and was not extinguished until the walls were badly charred. The Joseph Horn man store was in the path of the fire, but the flames were effectively blocked by galvanized sheet iron roofing and siding material on the structure. One small empty building adjoining the pool room was burned to the ground also.

The heat was so intense that window panes across the street were broken. The Rapid River fire department arrived with a force of six men about 11 o'clock, and had the blaze under control shortly afterward. The fire started about 9:30 a. m.

A few of the show cases and the barber chair were removed from the lower floor of the larger building, as well as the stock of candy, cigars and tobacco. Two pool tables were included in the loss. Mr. Weiland carried insurance to cover about one-third of the loss. Just last week, he reduced his insurance by about $1300. Mr. Bazille carried no insurance, it was said.

Mr. and Mrs. Collin Greene and family of Burnt Bluff were visitors at the Elliott home at Sac Bay Sunday afternoon.

Someone has lost a Guernsey heifer, about a year old, right ear tipped and tag No. 25377. High school basketball players going to Rock last Friday night had a gay time long before the game opened. It took them nearly two hours to get from Garden to the trunk line. They had to spend much of the energy, which should have been spent on chasing a basket ball, on lifting their two cars out of the snow drifts.

At one point of the road where a car was stuck, and another car lined up behind it waiting for the traffic signal to say "Go," the boys could not wait for such a signal and passed anyway. It was a hard trip and one or two of the party suffered frost bitten ears and noses.

Tom traversed some of the most rugged mountains in Arizona, but true to his tradition of years on the range, he steered clear of the sheep country.
Tom is supported by Dorothy Dwan, Wallace MacDonald, William Conklin, Stella Essex, Elmo Billings, Edward Peil, Sr., Buster Gardner and Harry Gripp. Lew Seltzer directed the production.

Greater Beauty with matchless super six performance

Tomorrow's Vogue
Hudson crowns a long succession of triumphs in the new Super Sixes which dealers are now showing.

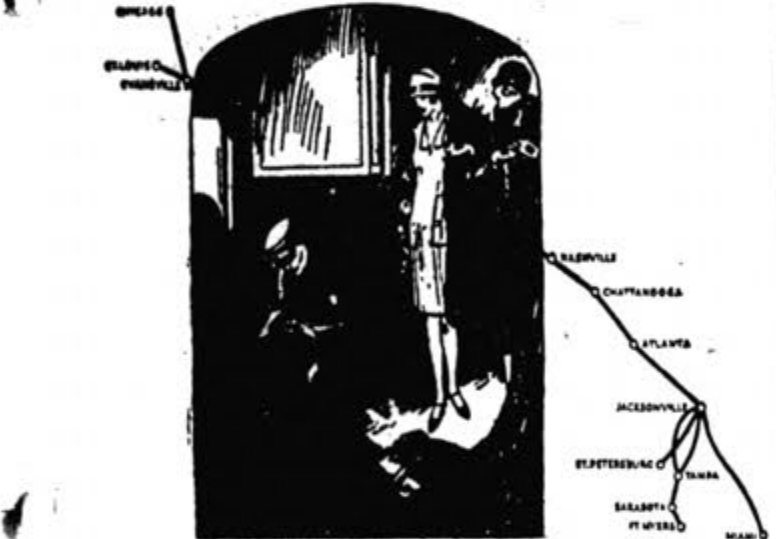

The resources which achieved and led the mechanical possibilities of the day, have been brilliantly employed to create and lead a new mode of beauty, comfort and luxurious appointment.
For Hudson now introduces Tomorrow's Vogue.
As dramatic as the first introduction of the Super-Six principle, the high-compression motor toward which all builders aim.

As boldly original as the Coach, which turned the trend to closed car dominance.
As revolutionary as the companion invention to the Super-Six principle, the high-compression motor toward which all builders aim.

With higher, narrower radiator, with vertical shutters, saddle lamps, full crown fenders and low sweeping lines, here is Hudson beauty in gloriously new guise.
And in all models, every value of body and chassis heretofore known, is surpassed. You will agree without hesitation the moment you see them.
A new and glorious thrill is in store for you when you take your first ride.
Three lines of Hudson bodies are presented—the Standard, the Custom Designed and the Custombuilt—and two chassis—the 118-inch and the 127-inch.

WINTER SPORT CARNIVAL.

The gift of $50 made anonymously, for the purpose of providing prizes for youngsters who show superiority in skating and other winter sports, will make possible the staging of a grade school carnival in Escanaba next month. Other prizes will be added to the list and the carnival will undoubtedly occupy a central place in the interests of the boys and girls who are eligible for competition.

The event has considerably more significance than a mere "play day" for school children. It is a start in the organized winter sport field, in a community whose activities along that line have not been as extensive as they might have been.

THE SENATE CLOWN.

Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama attempted last week to precipitate a landslide of sentiment against the candidacy of Al Smith. He succeeded only in exploding a firecracker, the effect of which was no more far reaching than the noise it made. The next day, Heflin was on the defensive, repudiated by his colleagues in the senate, attempting to explain his action. That, also, failed to register so he turned his guns on the press gallery.

Newspaper correspondents in Washington need no defense. Many of them were reporting proceedings of the senate long before Tom Heflin arrived, and most of them will be there a long time after Tom Heflin has been tossed into the discard. It is not unusual for a man of Heflin's stripe, however, when he finds himself "out on a limb," to attempt to divert the attention of the public to other things, and the newspapers are always convenient.

In the view of many astute political observers in Washington, Senator Heflin's tirades have helped rather than hindered Al Smith's chances for winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Heflin has become the senate clown and it is doubtful whether he be taken seriously again, even by the small group of bigots whose views on religion coincide with his own.

A FLYER FROM SPOKANE.

Orofino is a small town in Idaho, with 1000 people. The other day floodwaters cut off the town from the rest of the world. There was no way for horse, automobile or train to reach it. And Orofino was without bread.

But sufficient for the day are the inventions thereof, and it was no time at all until a plane roared out of the west with enough yeast to keep Orofino baking for a week. It was carefully dropped from low altitude, the people got it and ate their bread again, as usual. The emergency had been met.

But who brought the yeast to Orofino? Brief dispatches from the west named the aviator only as "a Spokane flyer." It was a brave deed, an act of mercy, and the man who flew to Orofino with that yeast made life just a little better for 1000 people confronted by a serious emergency.

Most of us never will know his name. We only will know that Orofino needed yeast and that "a flyer from Spokane" made the trip. And to most of us, this is enough.

It is no great story any more when there is a man to meet the emergency. We have become so accustomed to seeing dangerous, disconcerting situations met by brave co-operation, that the name of the hero has become secondary with us to the work he has done. We know there is a man in Spokane who carried the yeast to Orofino. The people of Orofino got their yeast, and the excitement ended as soon as they got it.

We are becoming matter of fact about brave deeds in the air, too, served on Armistice Day.

and the awe with which we behold aviators a few years ago is gradually blending to the same respect we have for the family doctor, the telephone lineman, the man who fixes a leaky pipe, repairs a broken street car trolley, unclogs a stalled automobile, puts out a fire.

But the flyer from Spokane has become today just "the man who fixes" crossed telephone wires or heals a broken pipe line. The hero of the air has joined the great unnamed army of "trouble shooters," who go quietly about their heroic work day in and day out as part of their job.

MOVING MOUNTAINS.

To widen your horizon it is best to go up on a mountain. If you can't do that, however, it will serve just as well if you can level the hills and mountain peaks that surround your valley. The mountain peak is better, but the alternative is very good.

It is this second plan that we may say American civilization is now attempting. The ordinary man of a century ago had a very limited horizon. He was, in a way, sunk in a valley of ignorance and unhappiness. The fears, the superstitions, the physical limitations and the economic boundaries that hemmed him in were much the same as those that had cramped the spirit of his remote cave man ancestor. There had been some progress, but it had been minute and painful.

Then began that amazing series of inventions, discoveries and adaptations that brought about the industrial revolution and the age of science.

The old confining hills were cut away. Things that obscured the vision of man a century ago are now sunk below the horizon. A long list of new forces were placed at the service of the common man. Science killed old superstitions, found new ways of healing the sick, arranged in a thousand ways to make man's life easier and more pleasant. The old guild worker vanished before the modern factory, with the result that things which formerly would have been the exclusive privilege of the wealthy became the matter-of-fact necessity of the average man.

Because of all of this, even the poorest man today has, in many ways, a better life than the rich man of a hundred years ago. All of this, we may say, constituted a levelling of the hills, the horizon of each one of us was vastly increased.

Today there are certain evidences that we need now to take another step; we need to ascend the mountain peaks. We have our great scientific and industrial achievements, and they have given us a broader outlook than was possible to our grandfathers. Yet, seemingly, we have not yet learned how to use them. Materially we have gone far, indeed; but still we lack the complete vision that will tell us how to use these new servants of ours to the best advantage.

In other words, we must advance spiritually and mentally as much as we have advanced physically. We must adjust our minds and our spirits to the new day. We must broaden our horizons now, not by removing any extraneous limitations, but by raising ourselves to a point where we can look beyond those things that can never be moved—those great facts like death and love and loneliness and spiritual hunger—and see more clearly the way we are to go.

ONE NOTES a growth in the tendency of book reviewers to compare characters in modern fiction with Mr. Pickwick, Mr. Micawber, and other folk from the pages of Charles Dickens. The reviewers are on safe ground, Dickens, we opine, is talked about considerably more than he is read. Few, indeed, we believe, are those who voluntarily wade through his almost endless pages of talkative description, observation and moralization. If he is read at all, the reader is prompted by a sense of duty, not by the pleasurable anticipation which should serve as a mainspring for the attack of fiction. Because a reviewer sets him up as a target at which modern writers may shoot, it does not necessarily follow that the reviewer has an intimate acquaintance with him. In fact, it may be accepted as a pretty safe bet that the reviewer's comparisons are based on second-hand information. It is easy, for instance, to compare a statesman with Abraham Lincoln but we have never heard of a real student of Lincoln making such a comparison. Nor have we ever heard of a sport writer who knew Bob Fitzsimmons, Hans Wagner or Willie Heston comparing modern athletes with them. Distance, as Will Shakespeare said to Sport Hermann, lends enchantment to the viewpoint.

Grove Patterson thinks that metropolitan newspapers do not print enough crime news. One way to remedy the situation would be to conduct a nationwide campaign for more and better crimes.

ALBERT EINSTEIN played a group of violin solos at a recital in Berlin the other day. John Erskine is appearing in three piano recitals this year. To complete the orchestra, Henry Ford should be permitted to enter with the either on which he has been performing for the last six or eight months.

"I am no Isalah or Ezekiel, sitting up in the rarified atmosphere looking down at the plodding folk below," confesses Irvin Cobb. "Unless Irvin has reduced considerably since our eyes last feasted upon him, it would take considerable rari-fied atmosphere to support him."

CHARLES W. BRYAN has decided not to enter the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. His decision was reached almost by acclamation.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE CHAPTER IX

"He went in with Miss Odell and stayed about half an hour," Jessup said. Markham's eyes brightened, and there was a suppressed eagerness in his next words. "Then he arrived about eleven, and was alone with Miss Odell in her apartment until about half past eleven. You're sure of these facts?"

"Yes, sir, that's correct," the man affirmed. Markham paused and leaned forward. "Now, Jessup, think carefully before answering: did any one else call on Miss Odell at any time last night?"

"No one, sir," was the unhesitating reply. "How can you be so sure?" "I would have seen them, sir. They would have had to pass the switchboard in order to reach this apartment."

"And don't you ever leave the switchboard?" asked Markham. "No, sir," the man assured him vigorously, as if protesting against the implication that he would desert a post of duty. "When I want a drink of water, or go to the toilet, I use the little lavatory in the reception-room; but I always hold the door open and keep my eye on the switchboard in case the pilot-light should show up for a telephone call. Nobody could walk down the hall, even if I was in the lavatory, without my seeing them."

One could well believe that the conscientious Jessup kept his eye at all times on the switchboard lest a call should flash and go unanswered. The man's earnestness and reliability were obvious; and there was no doubt in any of our minds, I think, that if Miss Odell had had another visitor that night, Jessup would have known of it.

But Heath, with the thoroughness of his nature, rose quickly and stepped out into the main hall. In a moment he returned, looking troubled but satisfied. "Right!" he nodded to Markham. "The lavatory doors on a direct, unobstructed line with the switchboard."

Jessup took no notice of this verification of his statement, and stood, his eyes attentively on the district attorney, awaiting any further questions that might be asked him. There was something both admirable and confidence-inspiring in his unruffled demeanor.

"What about last night?" resumed Markham. "Did you leave the switchboard often, or for long?"

"Just once, sir; and then only to go to the lavatory for a minute or two. But I watched the board the whole time." "And you'd be willing to state on oath that no one else called on Miss Odell from ten o'clock on, and that no one, except her escort, left her apartment after that hour?"

"Yes, sir, I would."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Jessup closely during the interview, spoke. "By the bye, Mr. Jessup," he asked carelessly, "were you yourself by any chance, a bit fascinated—let us say—by the charming Miss Odell?" "For the first time since entering the room the man appeared ill at ease. A dull flush overspread his cheeks. "I thought she was a very beautiful lady," he answered resolutely. Markham gave Vance a look of disapproval, and then addressed himself to the operator. "That will be all for the moment, Jessup." The man bowed stiffly and limped out. "This case is becoming positively fascinating," murmured Vance, relaxing once more upon the davenport. "It's comforting to know that some one's enjoying it," Markham's tone was irritable. "And what, may I ask, was the object of your question concerning Jessup's sentiments toward the dead woman?"

NEW TEST FOR DRUNKS.

London—An English justice ruled that if two litres of a man's breath contained 1.5 milligrams of alcohol, the man was 50 per cent drunk and guilty of drunkenness. Then someone discovered that a football bladder would hold about two litres of breath. Now when an Englishman, brought in for drunkenness, denies the charge he is forced to blow up a bladder. If the evidence shows him to be more than 50 per cent drunk, the magistrate invariably holds it conclusive and hands out a stiff fine.

WIEMAN WILL ADDRESS BOYS

Michigan Head Coach Booked as Boys' Conference Speaker

Head Coach "Tad" E. Wieman of the University of Michigan will speak at the banquet session of the Older Boys' Conference at Sault Ste. Marie, February 18th. Wieman won recognition as a football coach on Michigan's football team, and after his graduation from Literary School, became a member of Yost's coaching staff. "Tad" is credited with the development of the great lines on Michigan's teams the last nine years. Several All-Americans, Jack Blott and Bob Brown, centers, and "Butch" Slaughter, tackle, were developed under Wieman. Last fall, when administrative duties in connection with the new stadium became burdensome to Yost, "Tad" Wieman took over the direction of Michigan football activities, one of the youngest coaches at a big school. During his college days, Wieman was selected as a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, served as president of the Student Christian Association and was prominent in all campus activities. The big gym at the Sault high school will be crowded with boys delegates eager to hear him.

Campbell on Job
George W. Campbell, of St. Louis, Mo., will again be the conference song leader. Boys who have heard him at the last three conferences will be glad to sing with him again. Simeon Oliver, known as the Eskimo pianist, is coming as Mr. Campbell's accompanist. During several sessions the conference will be divided into discussion groups, when the boys will have an opportunity to discuss problems confronting them with boys of other towns. These discussion groups will be in charge of Mr. Earl W. Brandenburg of Chicago, who will handle an opening forum and coach the discussion leaders. Registrations are already beginning to come in to the Conference office. Any boys, fifteen to twenty years of age, may attend, providing his registration is approved by the chairman for his town. A special rate of fare and one-half has been granted by the railroads.

SAULT POLICE GET BIG STILL

Sault Ste. Marie—A complete moonshine still, 14 gallons of mash and about eight gallons of moonshine liquor, valued at between $1,500 and $2,000, were confiscated by police Monday night in a raid on the home of Israel Hutt, 430 Emaline street.

The still, capable of producing 20 gallons of moonshine every 24 hours, was in an upstairs room and was operating. The mash was also found on the second floor of the house. The liquor was found in three jugs in a cupboard beneath the stairway.

Hutt was to be arraigned before Judge John A. Colwell in justice court this afternoon. If bound, over, he will appear before Judge Louis H. Peard in circuit court next month on a charge of possession and manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

Included in the distilling apparatus taken by police from the Hutt home was a 50-gallon copper boiler, a four-burner gasoline stove, a copper coil, and 14 barrels. The corn mash was dumped on the ground in front of the house during the raid.

Hutt admitted possession of the still and liquor this morning, and said the outfit was capable of producing 20 gallons of moonshine every 24 hours. The still has a capacity of a half barrel of mash, producing an average of 10 gallons of moonshine every 12 hours. It is estimated that moonshine selling wholesale in the Sault at from $6 to $7 a gallon, giving Hutt an income of approximately $120 a day. The cost of manufacturing a gallon, according to Hutt, is about $1. Two hundred pounds of sugar is used in the mash necessary to make 20 gallons of liquor. This costs $14. Corn costs about $1.10. Yeast costs $2.50, making a total of $17.70. Gasoline brings the total cost of production to about $18.50 for 20 gallons.

The yield of 20 gallons a day or almost a gallon an hour does not always hold true for a 50-gallon still, Hutt said. Sometimes the yield is much less, bringing down the profits.

"When you figure everything, and the chances of getting caught, I guess there is nothing in the business after all," he said this morning.

McDowell Program Given by Woman's Club Wednesday

The center and the music of Edw. J. McDowell occupied an important place on the program of the Escanaba Woman's club given yesterday in the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. John J. Walsh gave a most interesting talk on McDowell life and the founding of the Petersborough colony, and musical numbers by Mrs. Thomas St. Jacques, Ulrich Zachaty and Mrs. Victor Fillion were of McDowell compositions. Mrs. St. Jacques sang "To a Wild Rose" and "At Close of Day." Mr. Zachaty, violinist, played "From an Indian Lodge," "An Old Trysting Place" and "Told at Sunset." He also played obligatos for Mrs. St. Jacques' vocal numbers. Mrs. Fillion was accompanist for both artists.

The club's business session was an interesting one. It included the usual club song, the minutes, a report of the Christmas Seal sale and the state tuberculosis convention given by Mrs. Miles Thomas, an address on several club business matters by Mrs. A. E. Ellsworth, president, and a discussion of the municipal water and gas problems by Mrs. J. J. Cox.

New members received in the club were Mrs. J. Fontana, Mrs. W. F. Shepeck, Mrs. P. St. Mitchell, Mrs. H. H. Shepeck, Mrs. W. E. S. Hauser and Mrs. Roy Neff-bonne.

The club decided to give a dance at the Casino on February 17. At the close, a tea and a reception in honor of Miss Pease, the new Carnegie librarian, was held.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MUSICAL TRIO AT MANISTIQUE FRIDAY NIGHT

Two lycum numbers, both sure to prove big drawing cards, are to be presented at Manistique during the next few days as a part of the course sponsored by the Manistique Woman's club.

Friday evening of this week, patrons of the local entertainment series will have an opportunity to hear the Garay Sisters, noted concert trio, fresh from successes abroad, and on Monday night, January 30, comes the feature number of the program, Branch Rickey, who will speak on "Twenty Million Hero Worshipers."

The concert at the auditorium tomorrow night will be presented by Elizabeth Garay, violinist, and Yolanda Garay, violinist, both superb artists. They will have the assistance of a capable piano accompanist, and will give a program of varied interest.

It was while traveling in Europe recently that a director of the Redpath bureau had the opportunity of attending a concert given by the Garay Sisters in Florence, Italy. These remarkable young artists made upon him such an impression that he immediately opened negotiations for an American tour. Their success on this side of the water has been instantaneous.

Natives of Budapest, these young women began the study of music at the age of seven. They were considered most brilliant among the pupils at the National academy, where they remained until their first European concert tour in 1920.

Judge Attending Two Conventions

Probate Judge Edmund Ashford left last night for Chicago, where he will attend a convention of title and abstract men on Friday and Saturday. After a visit in the Illinois metropolis, Judge Ashford will continue on to Ann Arbor, Mich., and will be present at a meeting of the Michigan Crippled Children's society on February 3 and 4.

The sessions will be at the University hospital, and noted speakers will discuss various new phases of the crippled children's aid, a work in which Judge Ashford is much interested at Manistique.

He expects to be absent from the city for more than a week.

Ed Cookson left last night for Milwaukee to spend two or three weeks with his son, who operates a filling station on Twelfth street.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have hollow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches — all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. LEGION BOOKS 3 BIG GAMES AT LOCAL GYM

Three home games have been booked by the Manistique Legion basketball team for the next three weeks.

The first battle of the series will be Wednesday evening, February 1, when the Iron Mountain team comes here for a return engagement. On the following Wednesday, February 8, the Escanaba Independents are scheduled to appear at the local gym, and February 17 has been tentatively set aside as the date for a same here with the Neenah-Menasha (Wis.) "Yellowjackets."

With these three games in prospect, Manistique fans are assured of some excellent cage entertainment for next month. The Legion lovers, in their last home performance, gave a classy exhibition, easily trimming the Escanaba squad that invaded the city on that occasion. Enthusiasm over the band of basketball prodigies by the Manistique veterans is raving to the support of the outfit, and this gives promise of good attendance for the coming contests.

Talks on Health By Dr. Morris Fishbein

CARE SHOULD BE TAKEN IN USING ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS. The Journal of the American Medical Association calls attention again to the fact that the broadcast sale of apparatus giving ultra-violet rays is likely to result in harm to the public.

Of course, no harm can result from the use of ultra-violet colored incandescent lights, such as are used in some barber shops to stimulate the growth of hair. In such cases the only difficulty is that the light is absolutely without any effect on the hair and the purchaser gets only the vision of purple for his money.

Days That Are Not Real. Neither does this refer to the imitation ultra-violet ray apparatus that is sold by some electrical concerns for home treatments; unless the ultra-violet is produced by a carbon arc or by the circulation of the electrical current through mercury vapor enclosed in quartz glass there are not any real ultra-violet rays for the purchaser, at least not sufficient to have any appreciable effect.

It has long been known that practically every apparatus or drug that is powerful for good may also do harm.

Nevertheless, the promoters of these machines are selling them to bath institutes, swimming pools, massage parlors, beauty parlors and barber shops, where the rays are administered by technicians who have never studied the human body and who have no conception of the dangers.

BIRTHS OUT-NUMBER DEATHS IN GLADSTONE Records for 22 Years Show Three to One Ratio

Gladstone's birth rate has consistently out-numbered its death rate, about three to one, according to the records of the city hall, just compiled, covering a period of 22 years.

The figures, which start with the year 1906 and include the year 1927, show that practically every year since the opening of the records, that births have outnumbered deaths, three to one, a splendid showing for the health conditions which have prevailed as well as for the growth of the city.

The highest number of births was in 1912, when there were 179, compared with 53 deaths. The lowest number was in the year just past, 1927, with a number of deaths equal to that in 1915, 34.

The statistics for the 22 years are as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Year, Births, Deaths. Shows a consistent trend of more births than deaths over the 22-year period.

Totals ----- 3120 1092 The average number of births for the 22-year period is 141.8, and the average number of deaths, 49.6.

Only a Cent a Day Is French Army Pay

Paris (AP)—French soldiers still receive only a cent a day pay, just as before the war, but their food now costs the government twenty cents a day.

It has displaced bread as the most expensive part of army rations. It accounts for eight cents. The soldier gets six cents worth of bread, two cents worth of wine and coffee and four cents are expended for vegetables and trimmings.

Soldiers also get their tobacco at about one-fourth commercial prices.

GOVERNMENT ON SMOKE

Warsaw—Tobacco users of Poland pay nearly one-third the total cost of government. The tobacco monopoly of the country was taxed about $115,000,000 last year, while the total government budget is given at $386,000,000.

TODAY IN SPORTS

TELEGRAM WAS ONLY A "HOAX"

Sharkey Has No Agreement to Meet Tunney After Risko Match

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The elements of a farce entered the so-called heavyweight elimination business today, with the customary details of suspense, the faked telegram and the grand climax all involved in the signing of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko for a 15-round match in Madison Square Garden on March 12.

The state picture yesterday revealed Jess McMahon, Tex Rickard's matchmaker, hurrying to Boston for consultation with Sharkey's manager, haggling for 24 hours over terms, finally conceding Sharkey a "shot" at Gene Tunney as the reward of victory over Risko and, with this flourishing climax, clinching the match.

It turns out, instead, that there was no haggling, except to give the appearance of protracted controversy; that the match was ready to be signed at any time; that the reported telegram from Tex Rickard, promising Sharkey the first bout with Tunney, was only a hoax to influence Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager; and that no assurances were given to Sharkey about a title engagement.

Issues New Statement

The Joker in the plot, whether calculated or not, was that Buckley, zealous to help the Sharkey ballyhoos, gave out to newspapers in Boston as authentic the text of Rickard's alleged telegram, which, in fact, had been framed by McMahon as a decoy.

Today, Buckley, in Boston, had this to say: "It may have been real or they have sent one to themselves and put one over on me. I don't know. Of course, all the contract calls for a fight with Risko but one thing is certain, I was promised a bout with Tunney if Jack shows well against Risko and I'll take that bout or not sign."

McMahon's version was: "Sharkey signed only for Risko. No conditions or strings are attached to it about a future title bout with Tunney or a match with anyone else. The Sharkey-Risko bout has the same status as the elimination series as the Heeney-Delaney bout on March 1. If Buckley took that telegram seriously it's his own funeral. We fixed it up as a decoy, but had no intention of its getting into print. I had no communication at all with Rickard. It wasn't necessary."

Marinette Billiard Team Beats Locals

Playing the first elimination match to select a team to meet Green Bay, the Marinette Goodfellows 14.1 billiard team defeated the Escanaba Goodfellows 294 to 234 at the local establishment last night.

The high run of the match was made by Neal Miller, visiting cue artist, and the high average of 4.8-10 was made by John Goodfellow.

The Marinette squad consisted of John Goodfellow, John Bobbery, Ernest Walk and Neal Miller. The locals were William Burnelle, Curtis Johnston, Ewald Alonson and Harry Christenson. February 8 the local team will journey to Marinette for a return match.

Two more matches will be played between the two teams, the winner of two out of three to meet the Green Bay quartet. In the event of an Escanaba victory the Marinette, a coin toss will decide where the final match will be held. If the Marinette team scores another victory, Escanaba will be eliminated from the match, and Marinette will meet the Green Bay team for the championship of the three cities. A silver loving cup will be awarded the winning team by the Goodfellows stores.

Augustana Cagers Go On Road Trip

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 25.—Although practically eliminated from running in the Little Nineteen race, Augustana college's cage team has not lost hope and is determined to make a better showing in its two road trips this week. The Vikings go to Galesburg Thursday evening to play Knox and then depart Saturday for Carthage to meet the down-state school team that evening.

The big trouble with the team so far has been a poor eye for making baskets. Anxious to win as many games as possible, Coach Swedberg has drilled his men on offensive work since the Bradley game last week, and believes that Augustana will show improvement in making goals the remainder of the season.

PROFITS OF FOOTBALL

The University of Pennsylvania recently published a financial report of the athletic association showing a profit of $363,000 on football, and Notre Dame is said to have cleared $500,000 over operating expenses. Other smaller institutions are reporting profits of from $10,000 upward.

Figures such as these offer material to critics who maintain that commerce is becoming too great a factor in college athletics. In the east, Pennsylvania has been accused of considering only the gate receipts in drawing up the football schedule, and Notre Dame has been criticized for too much patronage of the railroads in traveling around for big money games.

Pennsylvania, however, is trying to pay for one of the finest athletics plants in the country, situated near the heart of a great city, and Philadelphia looks upon Franklin Field as a civic monument.

Notre Dame also is preparing to build a big stadium at home, and anyone who does not know and who cares to investigate can find out with little trouble that athletics have to pay for themselves at every college.

If there is any doubt that profits from athletics do not go back into athletics, the financial reports can remove the doubt.

Army-Navy Again

In criticism of the commercialization of the college athletics, it happens too frequently that only one side of the story is given. The same holds of other classes of criticism.

The Navy, for instance, gave out the information that no Western Conference football teams would give the Army a game to replace the canceled series this year. The inference was permitted, if not actually suggested, that the Big Ten colleges would not associate with an institution with loose eligibility rules.

It is true that the big Western Conference teams regretted indirect invitations to play the Army this year, but not entirely, if at all on the grounds of questionable eligibility rules.

Several of the Western Conference colleges have made known that they could not play the Army this year because their schedules already had been completed and others quoted the policy of the conference against booking games with eastern teams that would not agree to home-and-home games.

The Navy apparently forgot to mention these minor little things. And the public heard only one side.

Has Thankless Job

Credit is due to any man who assumes the thankless and payless job of regulating boxing, but it seems that Tom Donohue, president of the National Boxing Association, is assuming too much authority.

The National Boxing Association is a sort of mythical organization and it is not recalled that this organization ever publicly made a czar out of Donohue to rule and regulate as an individual in a one-way court.

Donohue recently announced that Mickey Walker, Sammy Mandell and Joe Dundee would have to sign articles within 30 days to defend their titles or be banished into the exile that the N. B. A. seems to control.

Well, that's okay. The champions who will not defend their titles ought to be spanked, even if the spanker hasn't any official right to do the spanking.

Like Dempsey's Case

But little Mandell gave the esteemed president of the N. B. A. a pertinent question: "How can I sign articles until some promoter offers them to me? I'll fight any of his challengers if the match is offered to me in the usual way."

Mr. Donohue might profit a little by recalling the experience of William Muldoon, that great czar of New York, who demanded that Jack Dempsey sign an agreement to fight Harry Williams.

Dempsey signed the agreement and the commission found itself in the middle as a matchmaker and promoter and the game was on the verge of a knockout before Muldoon had to back down.

They never fought, it may be remembered.

FILIPINOS ARE REAL FIGHTERS

Villa, Fernandez and Tenorio Furnish Plenty of Proof

BY WERNER LAUFER

NEA Service Sports Writer

The boys who compile the big dog geography text books have evidently overlooked something.

In treating the exports of the Philippines, much space has been given over to the amount of sugar, coffee, copra, and so forth, that is yearly sent out from those tiny specks in the Pacific, but not one word of the game little brown men that have come over to win the hearts of the American fight lovers. How come?

Just how many of these two-fisted brown atoms have entered this land during the past decade is hard to guess, but right now two of their rank are among the elite in their respective divisions and seem destined to share ring laurels with the late Pancho Villa, first of the Polynesians to win world championship honors in the roped enclosure.

We refer to Ignacio Fernandez, featherweight, and Lope Tenorio, lightweight, both of whom are in our midst gunning for a crown.

Fernandez, the featherweight, made his American debut early last summer by stopping Abe Attell Goldstein in less than a round at Chicago. Since then he has vanquished Joe Lucas, Johnny Farr, Harry Forbes and his stringing encounters with Archie Bell, Tony Canzoneri and Dominic Petrone will live long in the memory of the bugs who appreciate action.

Tenorio is a late importation who started his American campaign on the coast, where he troubled even so good a performer as Jimmy McLarin.

Since then he has bested Russ Whalen, Dick Hoppe and Billy Adams and just recently he turned back the highly feared Stan Loayza, Chilean technical knockout, with a seven-round technical knockout.

Now his manager, Ike Dorgan, has offered $50,000 to Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, to give the brown "fury" a shot at the coveted diadem.

Philippine fighters have come to play an important part in our fight history. With the success of Pancho Villa, who garnered both the national and world flyweight titles in our rings, the punch throwers from the islands have been coming in droves. Their coming has stimulated interest in the smaller divisions as the Filipinos, without exception, are the most furious boxers in the ring today.

They fight with all the viciousness of their bolo-throwing ancestors and have readily adapted themselves to the American code of glove tossing.

Boxing was introduced in the Philippines by American soldiers on duty there, the natives taking to the game with such eagerness that it is now the leading sport of the islands. Much credit for the development of the game must go to Frank Churchill, now a leading boxing impresario.

He discovered and prepped Pancho Villa for the world flyweight title.

Under Churchill's direction, the brown "buzz-saw" won the American flyweight honors from Johnny Buff and shortly after annexed the world title by putting the snore on the great Jimmie Wilde, Villa, whom death cut down in the midst of his triumphs, was regarded by some critics as the greatest flyweight that ever lived.

Churchill next presented Pete Sarmiento, one of the most pleasing fighters ever to trade a punch. Although never a champion Sarmiento piled up a record that will go down in boxing history. Sarmiento piled up a record that will ever ready to mix and win renown by his punching accomplishments.

Churchill still makes a specialty of Philippine ringmen, having such capable performers as Fernandez, Johnny Hill and Speedy Dado under his wing at this time.

Should Fernandez or Tenorio trip up the champion in their respective classes, it would seem in order to put an addenda to that big red book. That addendum would add fighters to the list of Filipino exports.

Speaker Given Release From Washington Club

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Tris Speaker today had apparently passed out of the drama as far as the 1928 Washington Senators are concerned. Clark Griffith, president of the club, announced today that the famous "Spoke" was unconditionally released, effective February 15.

Informed of the action, Speaker had little to say at Georgetown, S. C., where he is visiting while on a hunting trip.

"Too much salary and a desire by the baseball public at Washington for a younger club," were given by Griffith as the reason for releasing the centerfielder.

Speaker's comment was "I am the property of the Senators until February 1, and there the matter rests."

Press Skating Derby Will Be Junior Carnival Event; Hockey Teams Organized

A Daily Press half-mile ice derby for grade school boys will be one of the features of the Junior winter sports carnival to be held in Escanaba next month. A silver loving cup will be awarded to the grade school—public or parochial—which produces the best half-mile, and medals will be given to the individuals who win first, second and third places.

The Press derby will be only one of the events on the day's program. There will be other skating events, with suitable awards, for boys and girls in the city's seven grade schools. Hockey games for school boys teams, also will be a part of the day's activities.

The boys will be able to give the fans some mighty creditable hockey. Father Bergeron predicts. All Grades Eligible.

The date for the carnival will be set, definitely within a day or two. In the meantime, youngsters who expect to enter are urged to get busy, get into training if they are skaters, and get their dogs in shape if they expect to enter this field.

Skating and dog racing contests are open to any boy or girl in either public or parochial schools of Escanaba.

BREAKS FENCES IN MINORS BUT NOT IN THE MAJORS

Cleveland, Ohio (NEA)—A fence buster in the minors, but just another flop in the majors!

That's the story one gets in the passing of Nick Cullip from the Indians here to the Buffalo Bisons for the sum of $8,000. Nick just wouldn't do as major league material.

When the New York Giants first brought Cullip to the majors, about five years ago, he was hailed as another Babe Ruth. His slugging activities in the Western League warranted the belief.

But Cullip couldn't make a go of it. So he spent a season in Atlanta and one at St. Paul, where he again tore up all the fences in those two leagues.

In 47 games last year Cullip hit only 231 and so he is back in the minors.

DETROIT SWAP WITH ST. LOUIS

Tigers Apparently Rooked, and Strength Badly Needed

BY BILLY EVANS

When major league clubs make trades, the big thought is to strengthen weak spots by giving away surplus material at positions where a club seems well fortified.

On the surface, a club may appear to be getting considerably the worst of a transaction, yet the manager of the club may be perfectly satisfied with his deal, feeling that he has accomplished the thing he set out to do—plug up certain holes in his lineup.

Unquestionably, the big deal since the close of the season was the one that involved the Detroit and St. Louis clubs of the American League. This deal called for the transfer of Outfielder Heinie Manush and First Baseman Lu Blue to the Browns, for Outfielder Harry Rice, Pitcher Van Gilder and Shortstop Galloway.

The baseball experts seem to be unanimous in the opinion that St. Louis got all the better of the deal, that Manager Moriarty of Detroit took one right on the chin and is still staggering.

There is no doubt as to the class of Manush and Blue. The first named is one of the best hitters in the game, a good outfielder, while Blue is generally ranked next to Lou Gehrig among the first sackers. I have yet to talk with a scribe who believed Detroit got anything like a proper return.

However, I am positive that if you discussed the matter over with Manager Moriarty of the Tigers, it wouldn't take him long to convince you that the deal was a good one for Detroit, that he had plugged up several glaring weak spots on his club by the wholesale transfer.

Last season Detroit hoisted an outfield that could hit 'em a mile and was far better than average in the field, with the exception of throwing. That was the one glaring fault in the Detroit outfield.

No doubt that was the spot Moriarty desired to strengthen when he made the dicker. In Harry Rice, he gets one of the greatest throwing outfielders in the game, a player who also measures up to the ability of Manush in other departments of play.

Another defect in Detroit's defense last season was the lack of a relief pitcher. The illness of George Dauss, which kept him out of the game all season, played havoc with Detroit's chances. I believe I am conservative in saying Dauss would have saved at least a dozen games for the Tigers that went into the lost column.

In getting Van Gilder, Moriarty is gambling with a pitcher who is plenty of stuff and a giant physique. I am sure his thought

St. Joe to Play Baraga Quint at Marquette Friday

No high school basketball games are to be played in this city Friday night, both the Escanaba and the St. Joseph high school quintets being looked to play at Marquette.

Coach E. M. Hinn is drilling his Parochial cagers hard this week in preparation for their second encounter with the Baraga Parochial basketeers, leaders in the Cleveland Conference race.

The Baragans have won every game this season, including a 25 to 9 victory over St. Joseph high school earlier in the season. A victory over Manistique two weeks ago has given the local boys considerable confidence and with all the team members displaying improved form, they feel that Coach "Bud" Finch's cagers will not find things as easy as they did in the first game.

MILBURN, POLO STAR, RETIRES

Americans Have Youngsters to Take Veteran's Place

BY HENRY L. FARRELL, NEA Service Sports Writer
 "I'm through. It's time for some of the young fellows to take over the responsibility and the work of keeping the polo cup in the United States."
 With these words Devereux Milburn, the greatest back in the world, star and hero of every American "Big Four" since 1909 and one of the best known sportsmen in the world, served notice that the United States will have to defend the international cup without him in the future.
 "I'll be 49 when the time comes for the next cup matches. That's too old. The young fellows will have to step in some time and there is no better time than right now. If I kept on playing, I might be kept on the team through sentiment and I would be depriving some young player of a place that belongs to him."
 Fortunately, and perhaps it influenced his decision to make room for youth, the United States Polo Association is in good circumstances to develop a successor for Milburn without risking a fatal weakness in the next Big Four.
 Of the four players who overwhelmed the British All-India challengers last summer in the cup matches, three remain who are almost certain of their places. They are Tommy Hitchcock, the world's greatest forward, Malcolm Stevenson, who recently was raised to a ten-goal handicap man with Milburn and Hitchcock, and Watson Webb, an eight-goal man.
 For the vacant place, if Milburn sticks to his decision, the association has a number of most promising and brilliant young players headed by Bobby Strawbridge, Winnie Guest and Captains Wilkinson and Gerhardt of the United States Army.
 Guest who drew international attention when he was playing at Yale, was first named as a regular on the 1927 Big Four instead of Stevenson, but such a political storm arose within the association that a change was made and Stevenson was moved up to the first team.
 It is rather significant that since then, and largely as a result of his brilliant game in the international challenge matches, Stevenson was moved up to a ten-goal position, which stamps him as one of the best players in the world.
 Polo and tennis are very closely related as international sports. With a few minor exceptions they are the only games that are played under universal and standard rules all over the world and their trophies, the international polo cup and the Davis tennis cup, are the most treasured trophies in the world.
 The only hope that foreign nations had to win either trophy was to wait for years until American stars became too old to play. They figured that when Milburn and the Whiteheads, the Waterburys and the stars of the earlier days passed from the team, their successors would decrease the power of the team and make it a more even match for foreign teams.
 But players have come along to take their places and fill them so well that the foreign prospects for a number of years to come is almost hopeless. Fine players and piles of money are necessary to polo success and the United States is well fortified with both.
 Foreign nations aspiring for Davis cup figured their only hope to become the ranking tennis power of the world depended upon their ability to develop young players for the time when Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston faded. And they figured correctly.
 Tilden and Johnston faded as all athletes have to fade and France stepped in and took the cup and France probably will hold it for years until some nation comes along with youngsters good enough to beat Larose, Cochet, Brugnon and Borotra when they slide.
 France, however, is developing young players to take their veterans' places when they have to be filled and they may be building up a reserve as the American polo leaders have done.
 The American tennis prospects are very gloomy. There are only three promising young players, George Lott, John Hennessey and John Doe, and they haven't developed with the consistency or the speed necessary to get American tennis back to its old place of glory.
 These youngsters are getting better every year, to be sure, but there is yet room for improvement. Unless they improve much during the year, the prospects will continue dark.
JOY-RIDE IN HEARSE.
 New York—Two men and a girl, with rather rare taste for pleasure rides, made off with a hearse belonging to the Bellevue Hospital. They drove it all over town, and abandoned it in an outlying district where police recovered it on the tip of a nearby resident.

Secretary to Be Responsible for M. S. C. Funds

Lansing, Jan. 25.—(P)—Most of the responsibility for the handling of Michigan State college finances was shifted from the president to the secretary by action of the state board of agriculture, in executive session today.
 While the president will assist in the formation of the budget, finances of the college in the future will come under the direct responsibility of the secretary, the board decided following a recommendation to that effect from the finance committee.
 The secretary and finance committee will assist in the formation of the budget, a departure from past practice. Work on the budget for the fiscal year 1928-9 will begin immediately after the approval of the board before the spring term. It will be the first time that any work has been done on the budget before April.
 C. M. Ferguson, assistant professor of poultry husbandry, and C. E. Cormany, assistant professor and research assistant in farm crops, had their resignations accepted by the board. They will leave February 3, for Bogota, Colombia, as the only two Americans to be located at the new government experiment station there.
 The Colombian government later will develop this station into an agricultural college. Leaves of absence asked by the two men were not granted.
 Three delegates each from Greenville and Cadillac were granted a hearing this afternoon to urge the location of a college potato experiment and demonstration at one of the cities. The choice will not be decided until the next monthly meeting of the board.

Woman Resigns as Dean of College of Home Economics

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(P)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, resigned today as dean of the College of Home Economics, Syracuse university.
 She is under accusation of financial irregularities in her conduct of enumeration of the 1925 state census. Announcement of the resignation was made by Chancellor Charles W. Flint.
 The resignation of Mrs. Knapp, against whom criminal action has been taken by the special commissioner appointed by Governor Smith to investigate the census enumeration, was contained in a telegram to the president of the trustees of the university.
 "In full knowledge of my own integrity and in justice to the university," the telegram said, "I place my resignation in your hands until such time as my good name is cleared before the world."
 The place from which the telegram was sent was not revealed by the university officials.
 Mrs. Knapp's resignation follows within three days, the climax of Commissioner Randall J. LaBouef's report of his investigation, recommending grand jury consideration of serious charges against Mrs. Knapp and four of her aids and within 24 hours of rumored meeting in New York of the special committee named by the university trustees to handle the case.
 It was denied at the university that the dean's resignation had been requested.

Chance to Buy English Prison

London, England.—(P)—If any American interested in collecting English antiques wants a couple of good old jails, he can have them for a song, provided it's a song with a few banknotes.
 English prisons, fully equipped, complete with galleys and condemned cells, graveyard, warden's house and grounds, are for sale in groups. Since the war the prison population has shown a great decrease.
 Although the Home Office, has advertised the jails in such alluring fashion as "the large and substantially built prison, with the adjoining detached villa, formerly the governor's house, offers have been few."
 Twenty prisons are now for sale, but most of them are going begging.
 One can get a good prison for anything from $25 to $100,000. The prison Stornoway, in the Hebrides was sold, everything included, for $25. The Newcastle prison, however, brought $135,000 and the Carlisle prison, $80,000.
 The County Down jail at Downpatrick went for $100. Brecon Prison, in the mountains of Wales with beautiful scenery and all the aspects of a summer resort, received a bid of $4,000, and there was no sale.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day and keep them up half the night?
 If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.
 Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.
 The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!
