

DEATH CLAIMS HELMER KUJALA

Overtaxed Heart Proves Fatal to Escanaba Youth

Helmer Sulo Kujala, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kujala, proprietor of the Escanaba Steam Baths, 1712 First avenue south, died at a local hospital at 7:20 o'clock last night. Death was due to an overtaxed heart.

Helmer was born at Jshpeming and later removed to Rock with his parents, where the family lived for eight years. Seven years ago they moved to this city. He was educated in the Escanaba public schools. He had been employed as a mechanic at the DeGrand Motor company for some time, and was an ambitious young man, ever willing to work. He was of an exceptional muscular build, possessing enormous strength.

Sunday night he attended a moving picture show and on returning home he complained of a pain about his heart. A physician was summoned and he was removed to the hospital.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Leslie, 14, and Reino, 11.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home to be prepared for burial. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Two Courts and Committee Busy on Teapot Dome

Washington, Feb. 7.—(AP)—It took two courts and a senate committee to keep up today with the most active phases of the Teapot Dome oil lease investigation. In one wing of the District of Columbia supreme court, Robert W. Stewart, Standard Oil company witness who refused certain information to the senate committee, argued through counsel for release from the police authority of the senate.

Justice Bailey, who presided, took the Stewart case under advisement, meantime giving counsel for him and for the senate nearly two weeks in which to file briefs indicating that his decision might not come until near the end of the month.

In the criminal division of the same court, with Justice Siddons presiding, government counsel renewed their argument that Harry F. Sinclair, a central figure in all of the Teapot Dome ramifications, William J. Burns, detective defendant, and others be held in criminal contempt for shadowing the jury in the recent Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case.

While these court proceedings were in motion, the senate oil investigating committee vainly sought more information as to what became of the remainder of the liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company, $233,000 of which have been traced from Sinclair to Albert B. Fall, reaching the latter soon after he, as interior secretary, approved the Teapot Dome lease to Sinclair's Mammoth Oil company. The committee will continue its quest tomorrow.

Police Can Use Cheap Cars, Says Mayor of Detroit

Detroit, Feb. 7.—(AP)—If Mayor John C. Lodge uses a small, inexpensive automobile, officers of the police department "can do the same." This was the mayor's edict today when, in pursuance of his strict economy policy, he announced he would permit purchase of no new large and expensive cars for the department this year. Only small and inexpensive cars will be purchased, he said.

Mayor Lodge said further, when told that some of the police inspectors had complained they could not get behind the wheel of a small car, that "we will get them a shoe horn."

The mayor cut to 100, the recommendation of Police Commissioner William Rutledge for 259 additional patrolmen this year. He said he would approve 100 new patrolmen.

At the same time, Mayor Lodge cut the budget requests of the department of parks and boulevards nearly $2,000, a reduction of 32-1-2 per cent from last year.

The request of the welfare commission for an appropriation of $4,438,800 was recommended cut to $2,982,776 by William J. Curran, budget director.

Life Guarantee On London Collars

London (AP)—London collar manufacturers are going Lady Ousulton one better.

Her Ladyship offered to do away with the frayed edges of men's collars if they would have them washed in her Mayfair laundry.

The collar manufacturers now offer to replace collars free of charge as fast as they wear out.

But the collars must be purchased directly from the manufacturer and must be turned in to them again to be washed when they are soiled. The usual charge for washing is made.

Their profit comes from the laundry work and is on the same business principle employed by the manufacturers of safety razors who give the razors away but make their profits from the blades.

FARMER, 63, SENDS CANDY TO RIVAL, 22

and immediately became sick. They were: McCastle; his sister, Laura; her husband, Joe Kaulfurst, and another man, Fred Welner. Fortunately, the sender had miscalculated his dose of strychnine, and in his zeal had placed in the candy what proved to be an overdose for killing an adult, so that the four recovered after the initial illness.

With a vague suspicion in his mind, which he dared not believe, circumstances indicating that his sweetheart was attempting to "do away" with him, the name "Anna" as evidence, McCastle went to the Monroe home seeking an explanation. The surprise, grief and concern of all members of the family allayed his vague suspicions, but only served to make the matter more a mystery, and on their advice, McCastle came to Sheriff Hewitt.

Had Similar Box.

What followed on the part of the officer was a seemingly endless trail of clues, which led down the rural route where the parcel had been mailed without return address, through the Manistique postoffice, and back again to McCastle out in Hawassa where he is employed in a logging camp. With the box, the wrapper, the handwriting of the address, and the little slip "Anna" as the only working material, the sheriff made a round of inquiries, which ended when Smithers was confronted with the completed data.

Even then there seemed a slip. For Smithers produced a gaudy holiday box similar in size to the one received by McCastle, and claimed that it was the one he borrowed from Gertie. This necessitated another round of inquiry, and the alibi was exploded when the second box was identified through the cost-mark as having been purchased at the local John I. Bellaire ten-cent store by Opal Parker, a relative of Smithers, at his request. Opal was also an innocent accessory in the plot. In that she is said to have addressed the original package at Smithers' bidding.

Smithers Insane?

At the little farm home of the Monroes, relief replaced anxiety yesterday when the family was told that Smithers was in custody. Since the incident connecting Smithers with the candy plot was known, Gertie has been in constant fear of meeting Smithers, and has hardly left the farmyard. The Monroe home is about five miles from Manistique on M-94, and Smithers lived with his brother, Charles, a few rods farther on.

Gertie's mother and grandmother were at loss to explain the twisted mentality in a supposed friend and neighbor which apparently prompted Smithers' actions. He had claimed that he had been engaged to Gertie for four years in statements to authorities. "I'd like to know where he got the authority," said Mrs. Monroe. "He certainly never asked our permission. An old man—and she won't be 18 'till the 25th of the month! Such a thing as he did!—why, it was the act of a brute!"

Although details of the case had barely leaked out, the Monroe family yesterday was visited by many curious neighbors who came to learn more of the unusual happening in the peaceful little Hiawatha community, and Sheriff Hewitt had already received several calls from state papers, seeking details of the strychnine candy story.

LETTERS SHOW HICKMAN SANE

Los Angeles, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Confessions and ransom notes penned by William Edward Hickman were cited in court here today by Dr. Thomas Orblson, prosecution alienist, as evidence that the young kidnaper and slayer of Marian Parker was sane.

In adding his testimony to that of other mental experts for the state that Hickman was not and is not insane, Dr. Orblson declared the defendant's own handwriting offered proof to support the conclusion.

The physician, a member of the Los Angeles county lunacy commission for 15 years, who served as an army psychiatrist in France during the World war, caused a stir in the courtroom when he delivered an attack from the witness stand on the practice of employing alienists for the opposing sides in criminal trials.

Dr. Orblson declared it "was ridiculous that the pomp and ceremony" to bring mental experts into court to testify for defense and prosecution, "He advocated sending defendants who plead insanity before a lunacy commission for a determination of their mental condition. This would save the state the expense of a long and costly trial, he said.

Recalls Walsh's Proposal.

The witness was allowed by the court to expound his theory, despite frantic objections by Richard Cantillon, defense attorney, but the remarks later were stricken from the record. Dr. Orblson testified he had examined Hickman at the request of two professors of psychology and not at the instance of the state.

The physician's attack upon the employment of opposing staffs of alienists recalled a proposal made at the outset of the trial by Jerome K. Walsh, chief defense attorney. Walsh asked that all "hired alienists" be ruled out and that three mental experts from outside the state be called in to examine Hickman and render opinions on his sanity.

Walsh was overruled when District Attorney Sweeney objected.

No person suffering from dementia praecox could have written with such "clearness, even style and absence of flourishes," as Hickman did in penning his confessions, Dr. Orblson asserted.

The testimony was directed at opinions previously rendered in the trial by defense alienists that Hickman is a victim of dementia praecox, a form of insanity.

Defense Wins Victory.

Drawing an admission from Dr. Orblson that the persistent use of "flourishes" in writing was an indication of insanity, the defense shot at the witness one of Hickman's ransom letters with a demand: "How about those flourishes?" With a chuckle, the expert said the note proved his point in that it was written in a deliberately disguised style.

A victory was won by the defense when a statement written by Hickman outlining his "divine guidance" claim was put in to the record through presenting it to Dr. Orblson for examination as to "flourishes." The state previously had succeeded in having the document ruled out.

Jail Breaker Is Arrested at Alma

Alma, Mich., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Thomas Dran, charged with the robbery of a postoffice at Strongs, in the upper peninsula, a year ago, who saved his way out of jail at Sault Ste. Marie and escaped, has been arrested here and is being held for federal officials.

Musical Comedy Star Makes Her Operatic Debut

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Miss Grace Moore, once a choir singer in her home town of Jellico, Tenn., and later a musical comedy star, was accorded the enthusiastic approval of a matinee audience at the Metropolitan Opera house today when she made her operatic debut which she described as "the greatest event of her life."

Miss Moore sang the leading soprano role of "Mimi" in La Boheme. The audience, which included a delegation of 125 Tennessee friends and members of her family, greeted her efforts with prolonged applause and a dozen curtain calls at the conclusion of the performance. As she took the calls, the young singer was showered with numerous bouquets from the galleries and boxes and greeted with the "bravas" of the standees, whose approval is always a delight to the Metropolitan singers.

A slight trace of nervousness which she displayed on making her initial appearance early in the first act disappeared later and before the final curtain she appeared to be completely confident. Edward Johnson, the Canadian tenor, singing the role of "Mimi's" admirer, charmed the audience by his insistence on leaving Miss Moore to finish the curtain calls alone.

After the performance, a reception was held back stage, where the Tennessee admirers of the new opera singer showered her with congratulations.

Supervisors, Tax Officials Gather for Annual Meeting

Lansing, Feb. 7.—(AP)—More than 2,000 supervisors and tax officers assembled here today for their annual meeting. Registration and general discussions occupied much of the time. Wednesday when Governor Green, John H. Morgan, chairman of the state tax commission, W. W. Potter, attorney general, and others will make speeches which will contain, it is expected, suggestions and recommendations.

The large attendance was credited to intense interest in the subject of taxation as it affects rural and urban property, which is a question which has recently been agitated by members of the state tax commission. It is anticipated Morgan will recommend a division between land and property in assessments.

John C. Nagel, president of the supervisors' association, in a brief opening address praised the system employed in Detroit and Grand Rapids whereby the city takes care of property owned by aged persons without income, by paying the taxes and securing reimbursement from the state.

W. S. Galbraith, of the Detroit Automobile club, urged caution in driving and a broad view of traffic and highway needs. He went on record as favoring the whipping post and capital punishment for automobile bandits and murders. He also advocated legislation to protect buyers of cars on the installment plan against repossessing agencies which break into garages and sometimes damage property.

Train Dynamited; 5 Soldiers Hurt

Mexico City, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Delayed press dispatches give messenger details of the wounding of five federal soldiers of the military escort, and of the killing of 14 rebels when a train was dynamited between Guadalupe and Manzanillo Sunday.

One car was destroyed in the attack. The federal guard fought against the rebels for more than an hour and then federal airplanes appeared overhead bombing the attackers, who dispersed and fled.

A dispatch from Guadalupe says 14 rebels were captured and executed and five federal soldiers severely wounded.

Heavy movements of troops are being made into Jalisco from garrisons in other states less troubled. The newspaper El Universal Grafico has been informed that in some directions out of Guadalupe only troop trains were running yesterday, all other services being suspended to facilitate military movements. Train services between Mexico City and Guadalupe have been disturbed by rebel bands destroying bridges and tracks, but railroad officials say the damages have been repaired and service resumed.

All regular trains through Jalisco, Guanajuato, Queretaro, and perhaps other disturbed sections are carrying increased military escort for defense against possible attackers.

Plays Jazz and Classical Music

Berlin—Julian Fuhs, who is frequently called the Paul Whitehead of Germany, falls to see why adherents to classical music should get excited about the spread of jazz.

"There's no reason in the world why the two should not, live peacefully side by side. One does not preclude the other. And orchestras play are speedily learning to manipulate the two types of music interchangeably.

"My regular jazz band is composed of twelve members. But when I give a big jazz concert, I simply hire men from the Berlin Symphony orchestra. They seem quite as enthusiastic about our type of music as are my regular members.

"Germany is still far behind America in composing jazz music. But it is learning rapidly."

Fuhs is an American citizen, but has made his home as director of the Fuhs jazz band in Germany since 1924.

DEMOCRATIC TWO-THIRDS RULE STANDS

The flight will be to get a majority but the actual rule will not be changed because of the psychological disadvantage of a change. It is within the power of a majority of the delegates before the rules are actually adopted to put in a majority instead of a two-thirds rule for the selection of candidates but no effort in that direction now is planned. It would not be surprising, however, if after the nominees are chosen a resolution is offered to amend the rules so that the national convention in 1932 will be governed by a majority rule, though each convention can make its own rules and can accept or reject the recommendations of a previous convention. If the majority rule is adopted long before any candidates have developed, however, the assumption is that the democratic convention would then really adopt the same practice as has been in vogue in republican conventions, which require only a majority of the delegates to nominate.

Will Reprimand Student Who Gave Out Literature

Lansing, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gilbert Vander Male, Grand Rapids student at Michigan State college, will be called before the college student council Thursday in connection with the distribution of anti-compulsory military training literature at the annual Michigan State Farm Bureau banquet during farmers' week.

The student council will make no drastic action, in regard to the Vander Male case. A severe reprimand is the only punishment in store for him. He was hunted on the campus today but could not be found for a council meeting this afternoon.

Editorial condemnation was meted out to responsible party or parties today through statements by the editor of the State News and the president of the student council. Referring to whatever agencies might be responsible for the literature the editor of the college paper said:

"If they are mouthpieces of some pacifist or communistic organ, their alma mater should not be Michigan State college."

Expressing regrets of the student body over the attempt to circulate such literature among farmers' week visitors, the president of the student council termed such an attempt as un-spartan and un-American.

Streets Slippery After Rainfall

Pedestrian and vehicular traffic was impeded considerably yesterday on account of the slippery condition of the sidewalks and streets. A light drizzle of rain fell during most of the day and the ice which formed was the cause of several trivial accidents.

Many persons lost their balance while walking on the sidewalks, but there were no reports of serious injuries. City employees spread and along the main thoroughfares yesterday morning, greatly relieving the situation.

Automobiles, trying to negotiate curves at the usual rate of speed, were seen to slide to the opposite side of the street. Others attempting to stop quickly were also shifted out of position. Although there was some accumulation of sleet on the wire rack at the U. S. weather bureau office here, there were no reports of trouble on the lines of the Bell Telephone company or Western Union. All were functioning satisfactorily, it was said.

The formation of ice on the trolley wires gave considerable trouble to the street cars.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

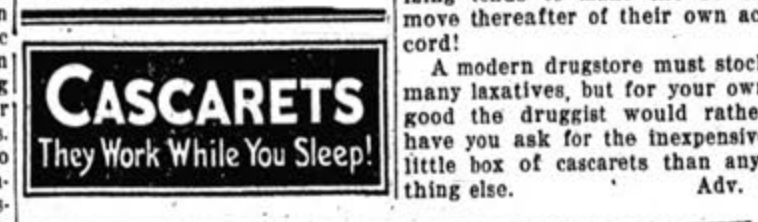

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation!"

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

Your first cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern druggstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of cascarets than anything else.

H. G. Wells Had Hopes of Fame

Bromley, England (AP)—H. G. Wells says he has given up all hope of ever being world famous, now that the little home in High street, Bromley, where he was born, has been sold to make way for modern improvements.

When feeling particularly good, he says, he was fond of peeping a hundred years or so into the future and seeing tourists in droves making pilgrimage to this Kent village and piously examining a tablet in bronze bearing an inscription something like this:

"Here, on September 21, 1866, was born H. G. Wells, novelist."

He day dreamed that there was a "Kodakian" there, perhaps—like it, Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon—and that this "Kodakian," or his soft-voiced assistant, would conduct the visitors from room to room, showing where the little boy Herbert George did his studying in the evening and point out to them the very window where he looked out onto the great and mysterious world, and then onto the very bedroom where he saw the first rays of light.

But alas, remarked Mr. Wells, the house wreckers have already done their worst.

BY LEONARD HALL For NEA Service

New York.—If it isn't big, it doesn't belong on this narrow slit of stone called Manhattan, where buildings are the tallest, basements the deepest, women (says it) are the more beautiful, and men can make more money (say they) than any other beings erect upon two legs.

Now Manhattan has the biggest play that ever smacked a woody audience fair on the brow. It is "Strange Interlude," written by the acknowledged king-pin of American playwrights, Eugene O'Neill, and produced by the Theatre Guild.

When I say big, I do not only mean in size and weight, although the actual playing time of its nine acts is four hours and thirty minutes, not counting an hour and 20 minutes given the audience to go out for a snack halfway in the show. The curtain goes up at 6:15.

It's real bigness is in its very creation. It is almost incredible that one dark-browed, somber-looking little man could conceive, plan and put on paper this enormous, heart-rending play. It stands as O'Neill's masterpiece—everything he has ever written before is a Singer Midget by comparison.

O'Neill was in a perfect frenzy of creation when he wrote this amazing play. Disdaining petty loves and hates, he has splashed great daubs of color on a canvas the size of an Iowa barn. He has tried to paint the whole picture of a human life in one theatrical evening—to answer all the riddles of existence in four and a half hours of blazing words.

To do this he takes one vivid, passionate girl from school-days to the door-step of old age. He almost viciously tells of her thwarted hopes, her little joys, her maze of loves and hopes and agonies. Through all its length runs the thread of desperate human futility. We see the ashes that remain after the fires of life have burned themselves away.

What is O'Neill's answer to those of us who feverishly seek happiness down the years? Simply that it is a stern and almost hopeless chase all the way, and that the better part of life comes alone toward the setting of the sun, when we experience the end of all passions and the beginnings of peace. It is far from a new idea, particularly among poets, but never has it been shown as poignantly as in "Strange Interlude."

It is a great play, in any league, and its splendid Guild production is one of the real events in the history of the American theater.

Its length is due in large part to the fact that O'Neill employs the trick of having his characters speak their real, and bitter, thoughts as well as the actual conversations they are having with each other. He handles the dialogue magnificently, most of the time—playing off the terrible truth against the sweet alibi with stunning power.

Lynn Fontaine crowns her acting career with her work in the leading role. All the actors seem inspired by O'Neill's piece.

If you fall to see "Strange Interlude" on a visit to New York, you will miss an astounding play, some gorgeous acting, and remarkable novelties in writing and playing. But most of all you will miss a glorious, soul-stirring adventure in the world of make-believe.

The veteran William A. Brady—famous as fight promoter, theatrical producer and the husband of Grace George—is acting again. He stepped into a leading male role in his own production of a play called "A Free Soul," and has been putting on the grease paint ever since.

To do this he had to join

Equity, the actor's union. But Bill didn't seem to mind, though Equity causes managers a good deal of pain in the soul and the wallet now and then.

The last time Brady appeared before the footlights was in 1919, at the time of the actor's strike—which the actors won, by the way.

Earning Money Out of Waste

Samuel Crowther in the Country-Gentleman says, "A corporation has no mystic powers. The greatest corporate economies are in the direction of earning money out of what is now waste."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) agrees with Mr. Crowther's deduction. This Company believes that by utilizing material which otherwise would be waste and converting it into usable products, it is performing a service of signal value to society.

One of the greatest corporate economies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been its ability to earn money out of waste. Through the years this Company has been striving to get out of the natural resource, petroleum, all of its potential usefulness to man.

In addition to gasoline and oil, hundreds of by-products have been developed to meet hundreds of various needs.

This has meant keeping closely in touch with the changing needs of man—anticipating new requirements—keeping a finger on the pulse of progress.

It has meant constant, never-ending scientific work.

Did you ever stop to think where the oil for a sewing machine comes from? How asphalt is made? What's in the polish you use to brighten the finish of your car?

These products were not found in the earth as they are. They did not happen! Whose ideas were they? You will never know!

Patient men of science worked them out in the quiet of unknown laboratories, experimenting, making thousands and thousands of tests. The petroleum products that you use today are the achievements of years of effort. The reason they give such satisfaction is because they were slowly, gradually, carefully perfected to give the results desired.

The development of by-products from petroleum has helped to keep the cost of production of major products at a minimum—and has earned money out of waste.

Adequate capital, adequately equipped scientific laboratories—the time and effort of a staff of men scientifically trained and endowed with special abilities—have made it possible for the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to earn money out of waste—and to pass on the benefits to all the people of the Middle West.

There is nothing mystic about the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) or its powers. It is simply a group of hard working people earning money, earning respect, earning friendship by "delivering the goods". Its powers are the powers of earnest effort and sincere purpose.

Does your daughter attend school regularly?

MANY GIRLS are absent from school for a few days each month because of illness. In many cases this is unnecessary because young girls—as well as older women—can be strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Girls suffering from run-down condition, sleeplessness, nervousness, and loss of appetite, should gain new strength and vigor from this Vegetable Compound.

The following testimonials show what the Compound has done for other schoolgirls.

Miss Louise Louthan
Route #2, Charleston, Ill.

NERVOUS AND DIZZY
Charleston, Illinois—"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was nervous, weak and dizzy. At last she was so well off that she was out of school for four months. The Vegetable Compound has improved her in every way and she has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be." Mrs. Alice Louthan, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

SICK AND WEAK
Camden, New Jersey—"When my daughter was twelve years old she was hurt at the playground. She was sick and weak for some time after that and was not able to go to school regularly. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her wonderfully, and she now goes to school every day. She has gained in weight and has a better appetite than she had before taking it." HOOVER IN OHIO.

Ohio friends of Herbert Hoover are showing unusual political courage in their decision to enter the primary fight in that state against Senator Frank B. Willis.

The decision forecasts an active and energetic nationwide campaign on the part of the secretary of commerce for the Republican nomination.

This sort of campaigning always is popular with the American public, although it does not always win nominations.

If Mr. Hoover wins in Ohio, or if he merely succeeds in becoming "second choice" of the Buckeye state, it can be said that the fight there was a success.

"BIG" OIL MEN.

Whether "Col." Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil of Indiana will get away with what he did remains to be seen.

"Those enlightened men of large affairs who believe that popular good will is a real business asset and deplore the hostility of government toward industry would not, if they could have witnessed it, have been greatly cheered by Mr. Stewart's performance.

"Col." Stewart could personally do more by himself to revive the old public resentment against Big Business than all the Morgans, Willards and Youngs have done to wipe it out.

"In a slightly polished way "Col." Stewart looks remarkably like Senator Frank B. Willis, the pride of Westerville, Ohio.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

OLD APPLE TREES. Old apple trees grow tired of bearing. Young apple trees are always wearing Blossoms in Spring, and fruit in Fall.

I wish that some old apple tree, Some harvest season, this could see; Some mortal kneeling on the sod, Thanking the tree, and thanking God, For all the apples that there be.

Old apple trees grown tired of bearing; Old horses weary of the wearing Of ancient harness; even men Weary a little now and then Of all the taking and not caring.

I wish some night that some old sire Would find youth grateful for the fire, The table, and the roof, and all, Perhaps old trees less soon would fall, Perhaps old hearts less soon would fail.

bruise each other in the rush to do his bidding. "But it was not so much his personal appearance, which—except that he does look like Willis—is not, after all, exciting, that stirred the emotions. It was his manner. It is not exaggeration to say no more truculent, patronizing, contemptuous and blandly superior witness ever has been seen in Washington.

"The fact is that listening to "Col." Stewart you got the impression that this committee, charged by the senate with trying to get at the facts concerning a transaction which the supreme court has declared rotten and part of the proceeds of which has been traced to a former cabinet official branded by the court as corrupt, was extremely impertinent to call these old men with bad memories before it and ask them pointed questions."

A GOOD JOB.

The National Football Rules committee, exercising a brand of good judgment and common sense which too often has been missing from its deliberations and conclusions, succeeded this year in improving rather than muddling the football rules.

Two of the rules adopted in New York Monday completed tasks undertaken last year but uncompleted. The new rules define a backward or lateral pass, in order to obtain the protection intended in the 1927 book, must travel at least two yards.

One of the chief complaints by football fans has been the difficulty of learning the rules. The average spectator found himself in a continual state of confusion.

And very frequently some of the keenest experts in the game—those who officiated the Notre-Dame-Southern California contest in Chicago for instance—were unable to agree on interpretations and applications of the rules.

Whether "Col." Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil of Indiana will get away with what he did remains to be seen.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

(Wednesday, Sept. 12; 9 a. m.) The following day, which was Wednesday, not only brought forth an important and, as it appeared, conclusive development in the Odell case but marked the beginning of Vance's active co-operation in the proceedings.

Heath was waiting impatiently when we arrived. His eager and covertly triumphant expression plainly indicated good news.

"Things are breaking fine and dandy," he announced when we had sat down. He himself was too elated to relax, and stood before Markham's desk rolling a large black cigar between his fingers.

"I was at the office when they brought him in, and I sent Smitkin with the ring up to Harlem to see what the maid had to say about it, and she identified it as belonging to Odell."

"But, I say, it wasn't a part of the jewelry the lady was wearing that night, was it Sergeant?" Vance put the question casually.

"Of course it did," murmured Vance, lapsing into lethargy. "And that's where we're in luck," declared Heath turning back to Markham. "It connects Skeel directly with the murder and the robbery."

"I'll say we did," replied the sergeant; but his tone was troubled. "We had him up all night giving him the works. And the story he tells is this: He says the girl gave him the ring a week ago, and that he didn't see her again until the afternoon of day before yesterday. He came to her apartment between four and five—remember the maid said she was out then—and entered and left the house by the side door, which was unlocked at that time."

"He admits he called again at half past nine that night, but he says that when he found she was out, he went straight home and stayed there."

"His alibi is that he sat up with his landlady till after midnight playing Khun Khan and drinking beer. I hopped up to his place this morning, and the old girl verified it. But that doesn't mean anything. The house he lives in is a pretty tough hang-out, and this landlady, besides being a heavy boozier, has been up the river a couple times for shoplifting."

"What does Skeel say about the finger-prints?" "He says, of course, he made 'em when he was there in the afternoon."

"And the one on the closet door-knob?" "Heath gave a derisive grunt. "He's got an answer for that, too—says he thought he heard some one coming in, and locked himself in the clothes-closet. Didn't want to be seen and spoil any game Odell might be playing."

"Most considerate of him to keep out of the way," drawled Vance. "Touchin' loyalty, what?"

LEANNESS SOMETIMES IS INHERITED CONDITION. Many persons who are thin have inherited a type of body structure and body physiology which makes it difficult for them to increase in weight or to gain even after eating tremendous amounts of food. If the muscles are strong, if the person has considerable endurance, and if he is not always suffering from one of another infectious disease, it is likely that

Berlin Has Reading Room for Blind

Berlin (AP)—The first library reading room for the blind in Berlin was opened with a solemn ceremony. Frau Noerenberg, chief librarian of the Charlottenburg Library, has added, as a special branch for the sightless, a large room where they can be among themselves and into which she has had the fairly large collection of literature for the blind transferred, to be catalogued and issued to readers by a woman librarian who is also blind. This represents a tentative attempt publicly to supply the blind with reading matter. Thus far the library consists of about 32 huge volumes adapted for their special purpose by embossed blind script and embracing reading matter for the educated as well as the unlearned, mainly in the form of periodicals of fiction, fine arts, popular science, religious subjects etc. For the present the reading room will be open every Thursday afternoon from 4 to 7:30 p. m.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT. "The Chinese Parrot," an absorbing story of love and intrigue that reaches from the sunny shores of Hawaii to the sun-baked sands of Death Valley, California, has been booked as the special attraction to be shown at the Delft today and tomorrow. Marian Nixon, Edmund Burns and Hobart Bosworth head the long and well-known list of players in the picture, which was directed by Paul Leni, ace of foreign directors, who was recently brought to this country by Carl Laemmle, President of Universal pictures and is now under long term contract to that organization. The picture is a screen adaptation of Earl Derr Biggers' story of the same name that created a sensation when published in the Saturday Evening Post a few months ago. In the screen version all of the dramatic tensions and mystery of the story is retained while the wider scope, possible in the filming is added. In addition to the players already mentioned those included in the cast are Florence Turner, K. AT THE STRAND. With one of the most notable casts of the season assembled for the weird mystery drama, "London After Midnight," Lon Chaney's new starring vehicle, is coming to the Strand today. The new production is an elaborate story hinging on weird happenings in a haunted manor house in England, and the strange belief of "vampires" or "un-dead," held to by the peasantry in Europe, figures as an important detail in the strange plot. Chaney plays a Scotland Yard detective who employs hypnotism as a means of solving the strange mystery behind the "ghosts" of the haunted castle. Marcelino Day plays the heroine, as ward of a strange millionaire about whom the plot centers, and Conrad Nagel the romantic lead as the capitalist's secretary. Henry B. Walthall plays the eccentric millionaire, and Polly Moran, Edna Tichenor and others of note are in the cast. The story is an original one by Browning, scenarized by Waldemar Young.

MISSING MAN RETURNS HOME

Gunnar Norman, 27, of Rapid River, for whom searching parties combed the woods in the Whitefish section all day Monday, returned suddenly to his home about 7 o'clock Monday night. He was wet, hungry and very tired and unable to give a coherent account of his wanderings. Norman disappeared Monday morning when he started for work. He did not arrive at Whitefish where he is employed by Oscar Froberg. Two years ago he disappeared in much the same manner and was found in the woods a week later, having suffered a temporary mental breakdown. Searching parties made strenuous efforts throughout Monday to find him, but did not succeed. Shortly after night fall, Norman reappeared at the home of his parents, with whom he lives. Although he apparently was weak and very tired, there are no ill effects from his day's wandering which are likely to prove serious, it was said. Fifth Ave. Sets New Hair Vogue

"On the El and in the Subway, everywhere I go nowadays, I see girls here in New York who are doing their hair the new way," says pretty Leona Newell, 6250 Anna Place, Glendale, L. I., now appearing on Broadway in the "Greenwich Village Follies." "I can tell girls who are using it, by the way their hair seems to sparkle. It looks so soft, too, and it's always neat. This way just suits me. I haven't much time to give my hair, and it takes just a second to put a few dashes of Danderine on your brush when you use it. It certainly makes your hair look grand. Mine needs shampooing only once a month, too, since I'm using Danderine." Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair and restores its natural sheen and lustre. It keeps bobbed hair in place without showing. It stops dandruff. Drug stores everywhere sell millions of the 35c bottles. A fragrant toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl. Adv.

Drama Critics Say They Are Needed

Paris—Dramatic critics are the guardians of the public's good taste if not its good morals.

This modest admission has been wrung from the Association of Parisian Critics by the attempt of theatrical managers here to remove first-night privileges from the Gentlemen-of-the-Press.

If the theater-going public were left to its own unaided devices according to the critics, it might find out what it likes but it wouldn't be able to judge which plays to approve on their aesthetic or intellectual merits. That's where the critics come in.

"We," they say, "accomplish a necessary intellectual function for the theater."

This is stimulating, protecting and keeping pure the good taste of the public. If the verdict of the critics did not supersede the low and material verdict of the boxoffice, dramatic art would die. No one would know what it meant.

Among the minor responsibilities of the self-respecting critic, according to the Association, are these: to express politely but freely judgments on plays and players; to merit the confidence of the public by limpid sincerity; to battle for ideas not interests; stimulate and support originality; to check the commercialization of the theater.

"Our writings may be quickly forgotten but they form the bases of a historical understanding of the drama."

"We," concludes the critics, "are the servants of the dramatic music and of the public at the same time."

Orchestra Declines Ovation for Leader

Berlin—For the first time without the memory of concert goers, the musicians of the state opera orchestra have refused to get up and share in the ovation given their director. This action was a protest against the new custom of advertising the subscription concerts solely by the names of the conductors.

For over a hundred years the subscription concerts offered by the symphony ensemble of the Prussian opera were known as "Konzerte der Staats-Kapelle." The conductor was mentioned only in a sub-line, as were also the soloists.

This tradition has been discarded. The concerts now go by the names of the two conductors of the series. As "Klemperer Concerts" and "Kleiber Concerts."

The orchestra feels slighted. Klemperer opened his series and at the end of the concert made a gesture to the orchestra asking it to get up and acknowledge the tribute paid by the public. Stolidly the musicians remained in their seats. As one of them afterward put it, "We want to preserve at least a remnant of our self respect."

Denies That Coin Flip Guided Choice

Oxford, England (AP)—A flip of a coin did not decide which political party Lord Birkenhead should join. Lord Birkenhead made that very clear here.

It was at an Oxford Union society debate when the story was first sprung as part of the ammunition of the side opposing the secretary of state for India who is a staunch Conservative.

"That story about the toss of a coin has been going the rounds for years as characteristic Liberal peasantry," exclaimed the cabinet member. "It has every quality of a Liberal joke. In the first place it was a lie; in the second, it was not funny; and in the third, it was calculated to give offense."

"I want to deny the story here and now as a stupid and foolish invention."

Demolish Haunted Castle in Scotland

Aberdeen, Scotland (AP)—Slains Castle, lashed at its base for centuries by roaring waves which in their time have kept such notables as Samuel Johnson awake all night, is being demolished.

It became too old and spooky for any earthly use. The last remnants of furniture, oak beams and the like were sold at auction some time ago.

For centuries Slains Castle, built sheer on the cliffs jutting above Cruden Bay, was the seat of the Earls of Erroll, lord high constables of Scotland. In 1916 the estate was sold to Sir John Ellerman, shipowner, who disposed of it in 1923 because of what he considered exorbitant taxation, and it has been empty ever since.

The last tenants were Lord and Lady Oxford, several summers ago, and it was there that Lady Violet Bonham-Carter, then Miss Violet Asquith, had an exciting adventure when she became lost among the crags during a heavy mist.

Residents in the neighborhood for years have never gone near the old castle at night, especially in winter, because of the eerie sounds emanating from the structure as the North Sea winds whistle through the floorings of its numerous ghostly chambers.

Dr. Johnson and Boswell were regally entertained at the castle on their tour of Scotland in 1773, and Johnson greatly admired its noble site, but the famous writer and lexicographer complained bitterly that he did not sleep a wink at night because of the dreary pounding of the waves below his bedroom window.

WEST POINT.

Cheering crowds—the thrill of the great Army-Navy football game—dress parade at West Point, with the cadet corps in spectacular maneuvers; the romantic old battlements of the great school for Uncle Sam's officers as a background for a romance as sweet as a zephyr—these are some of the ingredients of "West Point." William Haines new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle now playing at the Rialto theater.

It is a story of youth, love and romance—with laughs and thrills comedy and heart throbs deftly blended into an evening of glorious entertainment. And, of course—there's a William Haines.

As the "wise cracking" young football star who comes to West Point to learn, through bitter experience, what the spirit and tradition of the cadet corps means, Haines has an ideal role. He exercises his unique gifts for comedy in the opening scenes, showing his training at West Point, and plays a sensational game of football in the big Army-Navy game, staged during the actual contest.

The bulk of the picture was actually taken at West Point, with the cadets as a huge cast. The dress parade and other maneuvers are thrilling and inspiring; the boat scenes, filmed on the famous old "De Witt Clinton" on the Hudson, are rarely beautiful, and the entire spirit of the play is refreshingly new and inspiring in its spontaneous genuineness.

Joan Crawford makes a very charming heroine and one can't wonder at her being the belle of the corps, and Ralph Emerson and Neil Neely, as Haines' cadet associates, are convincing in their roles and uniforms.

CITY CHAMPIONS TO BE DECIDED

Managers of Competing Teams Will Meet Saturday

The Daily Press announces at this time the third annual city basketball tournament to be run off March 7, 8 and 9, under their sponsorship.

Two successful tournaments have preceded the 1928 meeting. The annual tourney idea was started in 1926 when the Class of 1925 capped honors.

Rules of entry have been so arranged to prevent forming of teams for the sole purpose of entering the tournament.

1. No basketball letter man from any high school, college or university will be permitted to play.

2. All players must have played with the team entering the tournament at least five times, such information to be taken only from the files of The Press.

3. There will be no shifting of players after the lineup is once decided.

4. The squads will be limited to eight players each.

5. No player who has ever played with or against a paid player will be permitted to enter. Players of local professional teams will not be permitted to play.

6. Regulation basketball rules will govern all playings.

7. An entrance fee of $2 will be required of each team entering. The fee is to be paid when team signs up for play.

MEHLHORN WINS TEXAS TOURNEY

"Wild Bill" Lives Up to His Nickname in Shooting Course

Willow Springs Golf Club, San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 7.—(P)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn won the Texas open golf crown today with an aggregate score of 297 for the 72-hole event.

The Pittsburgh professional lived up to his nickname in taking the laurels from a field of stars after a closing 36-hole drive in which he shot one brilliant round of 65 for 18 holes.

With the victory, Mehlhorn acquired a purse of $1,500. Harry Cooper, with a 298, won $800, and the "wee Scot," Bobby Cruikshank, won third money of $500 by finishing with an even 300.

"Wild Bill" shot good and bad golf. He established a new course record of 81 in the first nine of the morning and his 68 equalled the course record for 18 holes.

Cruikshank, in the meantime, collected a 75 in his last round. A mistake of the scorer almost gave Bobby a 299, but the little Scotchman returned to the statistician and pointed out the mistake.

Tommy Armour of Washington, national open champion, was the only other player who could have caught Mehlhorn on the last round. He could have tied by parring the course and he made a good start in this direction, but he fell down on the last three holes and finished in a tie for fifth and sixth with a total of 304.

Armour was tied with Ed Dudley of Hollywood, Cal., and Joe Turnesa of New York. J. W. Kenney of Toledo, O., and Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., were next with 305 each.

ICE CARNIVAL MAJOREVENT

All Grade School Youngsters in City Eligible to Compete.

With a program of ice skating races, dog races and hockey all for boys and girls of the public and parochial schools, the winter sport carnival to be staged here on February 18 should be a highly interesting event.

It was hoped that the complete program would be completed in time for announcement today, but a temporary delay in completing arrangements for one or two of the events was encountered yesterday.

One of the big events of the day will be a championship hockey match in the hockey pen in the ring near St. Patrick's church when the two leading teams of youngsters will decide the Escanaba Junior title.

Boys and girls who have "sled" dogs also will have a chance to show their speed.

SPORT SLANTS

B YALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor.) New York, Feb. 7.—(P)—For going on 14 years, the tall leader of the Athletics, Connie Mack, has been trying one combination after another in his attempt to climb back to the American League heights he found so comparatively easy up to 1914.

Mack failed to find the winning touch with Ty Cobb in the machine last year, it is difficult to figure how Tris Speaker will be of any more aid than the Georgian, if as much.

The North Escanaba Roughrousers turned the tables on the Daily Press Typewriters, trimming them 22 to 12 at the Webster gym last night.

The Roughrousers played a strong defensive game the first three quarters, and then netted an array of baskets during the closing period. Schou, flashy press center, was held to no field goals. B. Johnson led the scoring for winners with 11 points to his credit.
