

BIBLE STUDY IN SCHOOL ILLEGAL

W. W. Potter, Attorney General, Passes Opinion on Question

Lansing, Feb. 9.—(AP)—In an exhaustive opinion today, W. W. Potter, attorney general, held it is illegal to divert the time of teachers or pupils to the study of sectarian religion or to use sectarian text books in the public schools of Michigan.

The opinion was requested by the board of education of Lansing. It was said an effort was being made by an organization to establish brief courses in bible and religious study. The attorney general held that as a matter of law, such procedure would be illegal, and that as a matter of principle it would not be permissible to use books presumably of Protestant leanings to the exclusion of those of other sects, denominations or faiths.

"Everyone shall be at liberty to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, the constitution of the state provides," the opinion declared. "The reading of sectarian books is not permissible even though those children whose parents object may be excused from attendance during the period. It is illegal to divert the pupils from their educational courses, to use school buildings for religious teachings, to establish or maintain the teaching of sectarian religious subjects or to use sectarian books. The law provides that schools providing religious courses shall not be eligible to participate in the primary school fund."

The opinion held that if parents wish their children educated along religious lines they may send them to private, parochial, or sectarian schools and that the public schools are not the place for sectarian instructions.

It is possible the opinion will affect Michigan State college and the state normal schools.

Assessing Officers Not in Accord with Plan of Chairman

Lansing, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The assessing officers of the state expressed in emphatic terms today that they are not in accord with the proposal of John H. Morgan, chairman of the state tax commission, that land and buildings be assessed separately for taxation purposes.

The Michigan Association of Supervisors, in the closing session of its three-day annual convention, tabled a resolution approving the Morgan plan. The vote in favor of killing the resolution was overwhelming. The large majority of the 200 or more delegates expressed themselves as fearful that the division of values and Morgan's scheme to assess buildings on a reproduction cost, less depreciation basis, would increase the tax burden in the agricultural and smaller communities.

Morgan's proposal Wednesday precipitated a bitter debate with M. E. McPherson of Kent, also a member of the tax commission, censuring the plan.

Upon the recommendation of both McPherson and Morgan the supervisors adopted a resolution urging a larger appropriation for state tax work so the revaluation of counties could be speeded.

The association delayed action on the proposed resolution.

Pastor Who Killed His Wife and Son Is Adjudged Insane

Riverhead, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Rev. Claude H. Priddy, who killed his wife and two sons with an axe, February 1, was declared insane in a report returned today by a lunacy commission appointed by the court.

Dist. Atty. G. W. Hildreth said County Judge George H. Furman told him he would sign papers tomorrow to commit Priddy to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matawan.

Priddy told police after the killings he had learned recently that he was afflicted with an incurable disease and feared his sons had inherited the malady. He resigned from the ministry in 1903, and recently had been a partner in a Farmingdale, L. I., enterprise.

Protest Entry of Great Britain's Team in Olympics

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Great Britain's entry into the Olympic hockey competition was protested today by French officials who charged that the British squad included two Canadians.

The protest, made to the Swiss Olympic committee, was filed by Franz Reichel, secretary of the committee. The identity of two players involved was not disclosed.

The Swiss body will make known its decision on the protest tomorrow.

Divorced Husband of Mrs. Hill May Have Killed Her

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Council for Harry Hill attacked the prosecution today, trying to show the divorced husband of Mrs. Eliza Hill might have been connected with her death. The state's contention that the wealthy former wife of Dr. H. C. Hill was shot by her son August 4 or 5, was met with defense testimony of six witnesses that they saw her after that date. She appeared in a grocery and drygoods store in the streets of her home town, Streator, on August 10, 11, 12 and 13, according to the testimony.

A divorce decree obtained by Dr. Hill in Reno in 1925 was offered as an exhibit by chief defense attorney Arthur Shay today who held that the document might show a motive for the murder on the part of someone else other than the young man. The divorce decree was not legal in Illinois.

"That leaves Dr. Hill with a possible motive," argued Attorney Shay, and so that extent dispels the motive as to Harry Hill.

State's Attorney Russell O. Hanson argued the divorce decree would have no possible effect in aiding the jury to decide the guilt or innocence of the defendant. The defense will end its case early tomorrow, Attorney Shay told the court.

French Aviators Will Fly From New York to West

Washington, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Joseph and Lebric Dieudonne Costes, French trans-Atlantic fliers, today turned aside from a round of official and social activities long enough to complete plans for a transcontinental flight from New York to San Francisco and to discuss the possibilities of commercial air routes from Europe to South America.

Plunged into the midst of an official welcome upon their arrival here yesterday afternoon from Montgomery, Ala., the two Frenchmen gave today almost wholly to a round of entertainment in their honor, spending only a short time during the morning inspecting their plane, the Nungesser-Coll. They found it in excellent condition for their flight to New York Monday morning.

In making the announcement of their proposed flight from New York to San Francisco, the fliers said they probably would stop at Detroit, Chicago, Omaha and Salt Lake City. They hope to return to France by the way of the Pacific.

Mrs. Coolidge Stricken by Cold

Washington, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Coolidge was stricken with a slight cold tonight and was unable to attend the dinner of President Coolidge for Speaker and Mrs. Longworth.

Her illness was described at the White House as not serious but the cold was thought by her physician to be such that she better remain in her room.

IDENTITY OF GIRL MYSTERY

Young Woman Claims to Be Noblewoman; May Be Peasant

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A frail, nervous young woman—center of an international controversy as to whether she is a peasant girl or grand duchess—was whisked off the liner Berengaria today in a manner as mystifying as all that has been known of her since she appeared in a German asylum, saying she was a daughter of the late Czar Nicholas II.

Although the secretary of Mrs. William B. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, several days ago confirmed reports that the woman, Mme. Anastasia Tchaikovsky, was coming to be the guest of Mrs. Leeds, it was learned at the Leeds home at Oyster Bay, Long Island, tonight that she had not been taken there. Mrs. Leeds now is in the West Indies.

The shy little woman buried her pallid face, said to have been battered by the butt of a red guard's rifle, in her fur as she walked down the gangplank, accompanied by her nurse. She seemed not to hear the stream of questions shouted by reporters, or to notice the booming flashlights of the photographers.

By prearrangement she was rushed down a freight elevator and away in an automobile, which quickly was swallowed up in the traffic.

She was accompanied in the car by Gleb Rotkin, son of the late czar's physician. He last saw the Grand Duchess Anastasia when she was 17, he 19, and he asserted that he knew this woman to be the same person.

However, in Europe she is said to be regarded as a poor peasant girl, suffering from hallucinations of grandeur. Surviving members of the Romanoff family have declared her an impostor.

Princess Xenia, member of the former Russian nobility, is said to credit her story.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Bootleg War Led to Double Shooting

Detroit, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Police officials tonight had virtually established, they said, that a liquor feud led to the killing here late last night of Cloyd Beck, 35, and the critical wounding of his brother, Roy, 32.

The brothers were shot by three assassins in a car which drove up beside a car in which the two were riding and peppered them with a volley of bullets. Cloyd was killed and Roy shot five times, was taken to a hospital where it was said he probably will not live. Inspector Robert McPherson, in charge of the investigation, said he learned that a truck load of Canadian beer found near the scene of the shooting was owned by the Beck brothers. He believes the killers may have sought to steal the liquor or that the shooting was in revenge.

Thomas C. Wilcox, chief of the department of justice bureau, said Roy had been sought nearly a year on charges of conspiracy to extort money from bootleggers and bribers of federal prohibition agents. Police say both Beckes were well known bootleggers and wealthy.

Prohibition Views of Hoover, Willis Sought by Borah

Washington, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Hoover and Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio were invited today by Senator Borah to make a public expression of their views on prohibition.

Calling attention that their friends had placed them in line for the nomination for the presidency, Senator Borah said he was sure they would feel free to express themselves "upon this important issue."

A similar questionnaire recently was addressed by Senator Borah to Senator Curtis of Kansas, an avowed candidate for the presidency, who replied that he was in favor of the vigorous enforcement of the prohibition laws.

record so far as I can find out." In sharp contrast to the sonorous periods of the district attorney, was the quiet, low-voiced plea of Atty. Richard Cantillon in his last argument for the defense. He condemned the prisoner's confessed crime but urged the jury to consider him insane in its commission.

Cantillon recalled the evidence that he asserted tended to show the taint of insanity in the Hickman family and asked the jury to believe that the strain was continued in the son.

REVIEW OF CASE.
Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A few hours after Marian Parker, 12-year-old twin daughter of Perry M. Parker, Los Angeles bank official, was lured from a high school here last December 15 by a young man, one of the greatest man hunts in American criminal history was launched.

The chase ended December 23 near Pendleton, Ore., when Chief of Police Tom Gurdane and Motorcycle Officer Buck Lieuallen, watching for a green sedan which the Los Angeles office of the Associated Press reported had been stolen by the kidnaper and murderer, stopped the car and arrested William Edward Hickman on the Columbia river highway.

Before Hickman had been captured, he had, according to his confession later, killed the Parker girl, dismembered her body and sold the torso to Marian's father for $1,500.

Received Letter From Girl.
When Marian failed to return from school her father notified the police his daughter had disappeared and the man hunt was on. Parker received two telegrams signed "George Fox" and "The Fox," instructing him not to do anything until further orders and warning him not to notify the police.

The following day, December 16, a special delivery letter, signed "The Fox," threatening death of Marian if $1,500 ransom in $20-treasure notes were not paid. A letter from Marian urging her father to comply with the demand was enclosed.

On Saturday, December 17, another ransom letter came, chiding Parker for notifying the police and insisting the police withdraw before anything more was done. Parker complied. At 7:15 o'clock that night, Parker received a telephone call setting what proved a final rendezvous in a dimly lighted street. It was there that Parker paid Hickman the $1,500 and received a part of his daughter's body, thrown into a gutter by the murderer. Finger Prints Gave Clue. Poses of citizens and police began the search which soon disclosed the murderer to be Hickman. Rewards totalling more than $50,000 were pledged for the capture of the killer.

The first clue consisted of finger prints on the automobile abandoned by the kidnaper-slayer. The apartment where Hickman lived was searched as a result of finding a towel from the apartment wrapped around one of the girl's amputated limbs. While police searched the apartment Hickman sat up in bed and told them he hoped they found the "fend."

On December 18, Hickman held up the driver of a green sedan, stole the car and started north. He was identified by a Seattle haberdasher who changed one of the $20 bills during a purchase. From Seattle Hickman started south again to Portland and then east over the Columbia river highway where he was arrested. He said he was going to Kansas City where his mother lives.

Father Final Witness.
On his way back to Los Angeles, Hickman confessed his crime. Jerome Walsh, 25-year-old Kansas City lawyer, was retained to defend the youth and instructed him to plead "not guilty by reason of insanity," under California law. Hickman's trial was set for January 23, but began a day later after the trial judge disqualified himself.

Judge J. J. Trabucco was named to preside and after a jury was obtained testimony relating principally to insanity was started. The final witness was the father of the kidnapped and slain girl who identified Hickman as the man to whom he paid $1,500.

Police Arrest Fred LaLonde Following Raid

The soft drink establishment of Fred LaLonde at 1205 Ludington street, was visited by members of the police department last night, who found three pint bottles of alleged moonshine whiskey. LaLonde was arrested on charge of sale and possession and will be arraigned in Judge James S. Doherty's court today.

LaLonde is now awaiting hearing on charge of possession of liquor. He was arrested early in the week and demanded a preliminary examination which was set for Monday.

SENATE WARS ABOUT THIRD TERM ISSUE

President Coolidge in the debate insisted that the precedent any tradition applied to two full terms or rather to two elections and that Mr. Coolidge was elected only once and is entitled to a second full term.

Another significant fact is that notwithstanding Mr. Coolidge's statement in August and his re-election in December, there persists talk of nominating him and it has grown to such proportions that his political opponents have precipitated debate on the subject and are behind a formal resolution to express their views on it.

NADEAU WOMAN ADMITS GUILT

Mrs. Catherine Merrill to Be Tried for Theft and Forgery

Marinette, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Catherine Merrill, 34, admitted thief and self-confessed forger, is expected to be arraigned in justice court some time this afternoon on a warrant sworn out by her father, John Kashkia of Peshtigo, charging her with grand larceny of $500, but Dist. Atty. Norman B. Langt indicated today that she may be turned over to Menominee authorities to face the more serious charge of forgery.

Mrs. Merrill, whose difficulties over money have puzzled herself as well as officers investigating her "high finance," was arrested Monday afternoon by Sheriff Oscar Dahl and Undersheriff Edward O'Hearon at Nadeau, her home, with the assistance of Deputy Sheriff Clifford Brown of Stephenson.

Members of the sheriff's department declared that Mrs. Merrill admitted that she had appropriated $110, which her father had given her to pay taxes, but denied that she stole $500 from a trunk, where he had $880 secreted. She admitted that she stole articles from a Marinette store, officers said, and they are checking up other business places in the belief that she may be connected with more thefts of that nature.

Admits Forgery.

Mrs. Merrill also admitted the forgery of her husband's and father-in-law's names to notes in a Powers bank, officers said, and stated that she had used $1,000 cash, which her father had given her, to pay up some of the notes and the remainder of the money for upkeep of the house. Mrs. Merrill was said to have confessed that she still owed $350 to the Powers bank for the forged notes.

The woman is also said to be on parole for five years from the federal court, her alleged convictions and subsequent parole arising out of deals with mail order houses. Mrs. Merrill was said to have received goods on approval from one mail order house and then returning the articles to another mail order house, the latter company refunding the money she alleged to pay for merchandise.

2 Bound Over on Possession Charge

After a hearing before Justice of the Peace James E. Doherty yesterday afternoon, Justin "Mollie" McCarthy and William O'Donnell were bound over to circuit court on a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

The two self-styled members of the "bottle gang" were arrested by police several days ago when they were found in a drunken condition on the streets. Both McCarthy and O'Donnell have been arrested several times within the past year on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Their bond was fixed at $200 each, which they failed to furnish.

Why We Do Not Quote Comparative Prices

About a year ago a prominent Arctic explorer brought his Eskimo guide back to New York. When Ikko returned to his native village he reported that they had lived in a huge igloo on the banks of the Hudson where they fished each day and caught enormous quantities of seals. To have told the whole truth would have shattered his reputation for veracity.

Often it is difficult for us, to refrain from talking too much about the amazing values our buying power makes possible, but even as Ikko, we value the good opinion of our neighbors. We prefer that our advertising, underestimate the values we offer, rather than to tell the whole truth—when the truth has the outward semblance of a falsehood.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

BY S. C. HAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

"Stop! Stop! Don't torture me so," Vance pleaded. "I know I'm insane. Been given to hallucinations since birth; but—Mereful Heavens!—I've never before had one as crazy as this."

On that point at least, my dear Vance, we are in complete and harmonious agreement," smiled Markham.

Just then Swacker came in and handed Markham a letter. "Brought by messenger, and marked 'immediate,'" he explained.

The letter, written on heavy engraved stationery, was from Doctor Lindquist, and explained that between the hours of 11 p. m. and 1 a. m. on Monday night he had been in attendance on a patient at his sanitarium. It also apologized for his actions when asked regarding his whereabouts, and offered a wordy, but not particularly convincing, explanation of his conduct.

He had had an unusually trying day, it seemed—neurotic cases were trying, at best—and the suddenness of our visit, together with the apparently hostile nature of Markham's questions, had completely upset him. He was more than sorry for his outburst, he said, and stood ready to assist in any way he could.

It was unfortunate for all concerned, he added, that he had lost his temper, for it would have been a simple matter for him to explain about Monday night.

"He has thought the situation over calmly," said Vance, "and hereby offers you a neat little allibi which, I think, you will have difficulty in shaking. An artful beggar—like all these unbalanced pseudo-psychiatrists. Observe: he was with a patient. To be sure! What patient? Why, one to ill to be questioned. . . There you are. A cul-de-sac masquerading as an allibi. Not bad, what?"

"It doesn't interest me overmuch," Markham put the letter away. "That pompous professional ass could never have got into the Odell apartment without having been seen; and I can't picture him sneaking in by devious means. He reached for some papers. . . And now, if you don't object, I'll make an effort to earn my $15,000 salary."

But Vance, instead of making a move to go, sauntered to the table and opened a telephone directory. "Permit me a suggestion, Markham," he said, after a moment's search. "Put off your daily grind for a bit, and let's hold polite converse with Mr. Louis Mannix. You know, he's the only presumptuous swain of the inconstant Margaret, so far mentioned, who hasn't been given an audience. He hanker to gaze upon him and hearken to his ruse. He'd make the family circle complete, so to speak. . . He still holds forth in Maiden Lane, I see; and it wouldn't take long to fetch him here."

Markham had swung half round in his chair at the mention of Mannix's name. He started to protest, but Vance's suggestions were not the results of idle whims; and he was silent for several moments weighing the matter. With practically every other avenue of inquiry closed for the moment, I think the idea of questioning Mannix rather appealed to him.

"All right," he consented, ringing for Swacker; "though I don't see how he can help. According to Heath, the Odell girl gave him his leave a year ago."

"He may still have hay on his horns, or like Hotspur, he drunk with cholera. You can't tell," Vance resumed his chair. "With such a name, he'd bear investigation, wouldn't he?"

The young and old will be well entertained. Owing to the fact that the Marionettes entertainment will be held this evening, the committee in charge has engaged the orchestra for an extra hour to furnish music for late arrivals at the party.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public and the advance sale of tickets points to a large attendance. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

The hall has been appropriately decorated for the occasion and all who attend are assured to get their money's worth of pleasure. Should this party prove as successful as anticipated by the members of the auxiliary, another will be given in the near future for the young people of this city and surrounding places.

ARNTZEN CO. BUILDS BOATS

Local Lumber Concern Will Take on Promising Specialty

The manufacture of boats will, in the future, be a leading specialty of this city, it was made known here yesterday. The boats will be designed particularly for outdoor motors and will be of a type of construction and quality which the builders believe will make them highly desirable and popular.

Although the boats are being built of oak and cypress, they are light in weight and easy to handle. The models already completed are a little more than 15 feet in length and will accommodate eight to ten people without discomfort. They are sturdy, safe and good-looking. "We have had considerable experience with boats and in boat construction," said Mr. Arntzen yesterday. "Strength without unnecessary weight, speed in the water, durability and looks are the qualities we are trying to combine in the new product. I believe we have succeeded pretty well and I think the public will agree with me when they see the boats."

"We expect to keep a force of men busy, all the time on boats. We have, in our mill, excellent facilities for turning out the parts we need rapidly and efficiently, and we will have a good-sized stock on hand when the boating season opens."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

The story for "Running Wild" W. C. Fields' new Paramount starring comedy, which Gregory La Cava directed, boasts of two authors long identified with successful writing for both screen and stage.

The original idea was furnished by Director La Cava who, before he earned his right to a megaphone, wrote scenarios for Johnny Hipes, Charlie Murray, Lloyd Hamilton, Jack White and other comics.

La Cava's thought was expanded and the adaptation prepared by Roy Bryant, a recent recruit from the stage. Bryant arrived at Escanaba writing via a tortuous route that led him through the roles of jockey, pianist in a honky-tonk, graduate of Bethany College, actor, stage director and playwright.

AT THE STRAND.
"A Boy of the Streets," Charles T. Vincent's famous stage hit, is now screen entertainment, according to Manager Brown of the Strand theatre, who promises this feature Friday and Saturday.

Johnny Walker is being featured with such well known Betty Francisco and others of screen players as Mickey Bennett, equally established reputations, under Charles J. Hunt's direction.

The story concerns the struggles of an elder brother who faces many pitfalls while attempting to protect his young brother in a congested city.

PINEAPPLE PRESS AGENT MUFFS HIS CALORIES

A part of the system of modern advertising involves the use of free newspaper space obtained by astute publicity agents for what is presumably educational or news matter. Instead of the purchase of advertising space for what is actually promotional material.

An organization in New York City sends regularly to newspaper editors some bulletins about pineapple, with the idea that the material will be printed to educate the housewife.

It usually contains statements as to the value of pineapple as a food, some other information as to the availability of pineapple, and a few recipes.

If such publicity material were invariably accurate, there could be little quarrel with it even though it is actually planned for salesmanship purposes. However, accuracy does not seem to be a prime object of the promoter.

In a recently issued bulletin, it is said that the caloric value of the pineapple is not high, that the fruit sugar present is not fattening, and that the pineapple therefore is a valuable substance in a reducing diet.

Eight and two-tenths ounces of pineapple supply 3.7 calories in protein, 5.3 in fat, 90 in carbohydrates. It compares therefore with dried currants, apples, raisins and oranges.
