HOOVER TAKES DRY QUESTION OUT OF OHIO

REPLY TO BORAH CONFUSING TO WETS

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. Copyright 1928, by the Escanaba Press. Washington, Feb. 27.—Herbert Hoover's answer to Senator Borah's query as to how the secretary of commerce stands on the prohibition question may take that issue out of the Ohio primaries.

Mr. Hoover flatly announces that he does not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and that he does favor the "efficient, vigorous and sincere enforcement" of laws enacted to enforce the eighteenth amendment, which include the Volstead Act and any other proposals that may be embodied in law hereafter.

This is a "dry" statement as any candidate has made but as far as Ohio is concerned, the friends of Senator Willis, an ardent "dry" are insisting that the people are known by the company they keep and that in Ohio, some of the leaders of the "wet" element are backing the Hoover candidacy. Similarly in New Jersey there are some outstanding "wets" behind the Hoover campaign along with the dries.

Dr. In Ohio Puzled. The Anti-Saloon League has been in somewhat of a quandary over the situation because in Ohio Senator Willis has been the outstanding champion of the league; in fact, it has been suggested from time to time that he might become the Anti-Saloon League's national candidate.

Mr. Hoover having unequivocally favored the retention of the eighteenth amendment and having spoken of it as a "great social and economic experiment, noble in motive, and far-reaching in purpose," which must be "worked out constructively," the friends of prohibition can hardly class him as a "wet." Whether they will insist that he force "wets" not to support him is another question.

On the platform plank he takes the same position as does President Coolidge. In fact, it is doubtful whether Mr. Hoover intends at any stage of the proceedings to veer in any important particular away from the Coolidge policies.

Thirteen Men Die in Mine Explosion

Jenny Lind, Ark., Feb. 24.—(P)—With the finding tonight of the body of Charles Newman, Windsor, Mo., mines 3 and 18 of the Mama Coal company near here had given up their victims, killed in an explosion early today. Newman's death brought the explosion toll to 13, all of whom were recovered. The bodies of all the miners except Newman were brought to the surface during the day by rescue crews, led by W. E. Templeton, president of the mining company. Claud Spiegel, state mine inspector, directed underground rescue work.

COURT RULES AGAINST TAX

Illinois' Two Cent Levy Is Declared Unconstitutional. Springfield, Ills., Feb. 24.—(P)—Illinois' gas tax of two cents a gallon, under which $700,000 to $1,000,000 a month has been collected from motorists since August 1, 1927, was declared unconstitutional today by the state supreme court.

The measure was sponsored by Governor Len Small and was passed in the last regular session of the legislature only after it had been on the brink of defeat repeatedly. While the law provided only a two cent tax, in effect, the tax became three cents a gallon, since the fuel companies added an excise tax to defray the cost of collecting and turning over to the state.

CONTINUES TO DEBATE POINT

William G. McAdoo Asails Governor Smith's Prohibition Views

New York, Feb. 24—(P)—Resuming in the March issue of the American Review of Reviews his long range debate with Governor Smith of New York, William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, asserts the only and fundamental prohibition issue is shall a state be permitted to disregard any part of the constitution which it elects not to obey.

"Police enforcement . . . is the principal and normal function of the state government," Mr. McAdoo says. "Deprived of the effective co-operation of the police organizations of the states, the amendment becomes a nullity. This is what happened in New York and Maryland. Although each of these states ratified the amendment and helped to put it in the constitution, they refuse co-operation; they refuse obedience."

The former secretary's latest pronouncement is in the nature of a rebuttal to Governor Smith who had asserted that the Volstead act was a part of the laws of New York and thus binding on state functionaries.

Is Supreme Law.

The governor quoted article six, section two, of the constitution which reads as follows:

"The constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or in the laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding."

"It does not mean that the Volstead law is a part of the laws of New York state," Mr. McAdoo said, "then I would like for someone to tell me what it does mean."

Mr. McAdoo, in his Review of Reviews article, says this provision has been construed by the supreme court to mean that whenever there is a conflict between the state laws and the constitution the federal law is supreme. "For instance," he continued, "the New York legislature in 1920 enacted a law which Governor Smith approved, permitting the manufacture of beer and wine containing 2.75 per cent alcohol. The Volstead act permits only one-half of one per cent of alcohol. The supreme court of the United States properly held that the New York beer and wine bill was unconstitutional because it was in direct conflict with the Volstead act, therefore it had to yield to the supreme law of the land. The governor of New York, in approving the repeal of the Mellan-Gage law, cites this decision, which in itself conveys quite convincingly the meaning of the constitutional provision he has quoted. I commend the decision of the supreme court of the United States to the governor of New York."

Suggest Extra Financial Aid.

Remarking that New York repealed its state prohibition law in 1923 and that Maryland had never had one, Mr. McAdoo said that, deprived of the effective co-operation of the police organizations of the state, made available only by a state enforcement law, the eighteenth amendment becomes practically a nullity.

As a means of increasing enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, Mr. McAdoo suggested that federal financial aid be given states having their own enforcement acts so that they would not have to shoulder the full burden of extra police to carry on the work.

Watkins Nominated for Attorney of Eastern Michigan

Detroit, Feb. 24—(P)—The nomination by President Coolidge of John R. Watkins, Detroit attorney, to be U. S. attorney for the eastern district of Michigan, was announced today.

The nomination also comes as an announcement of the breaking of a deadlock between U. S. Atty. Gen. John Sargent and Senator James Couzens of more than a year's standing.

Delos G. Smith, former district attorney, resigned February 1, 1927, after which Senator Couzens withdrew one recommendation to bring forward the name of Mr. Watkins. The attorney general failed to recommend Mr. Watkins.

In the interim, judges of the federal court appointed O. L. Smith, former assistant attorney general of Michigan over the objections of Mr. Smith, to serve temporarily.

Mr. Watkins, a graduate of the U. of Michigan law school, has served both as assistant district attorney and assistant corporation counsel for Detroit.

Inoculates Self to Prove Serum Is Not Harmful to Cattle

Adrian, Mich., Feb. 24—(P)—To demonstrate that anti-tuberculin serum for cattle is not harmful, Dr. John Winters, county veterinarian, inoculated himself with a full injection of the serum here today before the Lenawee County Farmers' Institute.

The demonstration came during a debate between Dr. Winters and James Helme, former state senator and a member of the dairy commission. Helme contended the serum was harmful and declared it would not benefit cattle.

Dr. Winters said the injection he gave himself was equal to "a

RARE CHEMICAL NOW SALVAGED

Waste of Copper Smelters Found to Be Highly Valuable

Ithaca, N. Y. (P)—Chemistry's search for an extensive source of germanium, one of the rarest chemical elements, has ended successfully in the scrapheap of the copper smelter.

Dr. Jacob Papish, assistant professor of chemical spectroscopy at Cornell university, has found that germanium is concentrated in the smelter wastes which remain after copper has been extracted from enargite, a common copper-bearing mineral.

No use has been made of germanium because of its scarcity, but the discovery of an apparently inexhaustible supply suggests that the element's long period of idleness is nearing an end.

"The fact that we have not known what to do with germanium," says Professor Papish, "does not mean that it has no use. Elements of such inestimable value as vanadium and radium were once in exactly the position held by germanium today. Chemists had isolated them, but their rarity prevented the experiments necessary to determine their utility. As soon as they were made available in workable quantities, science quickly found work for them to do."

"And so it will undoubtedly be with germanium. Now that we seem assured of a supply, independent of foreign sources, we shall find applications for it. There have already been suggestions that it has medicinal properties, and it has been tried in anemia treatments."

"Because of its quartz-like appearance and properties, it has also been suggested that germanium may some day become a substitute for this mineral, which is becoming rare."

The presence of germanium in enargite was detected by Professor Papish with the aid of the spectroscopic. Enargite was subjected to extremely high temperatures—more than 3,000 degrees Centigrade. Under these conditions every chemical element present in a mineral emits a light characteristic of itself, and it is possible, with appropriate instruments, to distinguish even minute traces of a majority of the elements.

ROADS CUT COSTS

Washington (P)—Last year more than 23,000 motor vehicles were responsible for nearly 150 billion vehicle miles of travel in the United States.

Scientific investigations show that road improvements have resulted in tremendous reductions in the costs of operating motor trucks and automobiles. The federal bureau of public roads is confident that the saving in fuel and oil and in wear and tear on vehicles is much more than the annual expenditures for improved roads.

KING BUYS BEES

Madrid, Spain—King Alfonso, is deeply interested in the science of beekeeping. He has ordered 1,000 hives to be placed in the royal park of the palace and has promised to give further orders for his country estates.

During a visit of the king to the bee society's headquarters he tasted the wines and spirits made from fermented honey and said they were excellent. Many persons prefer them to the wines and spirits made from grapes.

The leading apiculturist of Spain is Antonio Garay Vitorica, who, on his estate at Claveria, Caceres, has 1,500 hives.

HOOVER BACKS COOLIDGE PLAN

Favors Federal and State Cooperation in Flood Control

Washington, Feb. 24—(P)—Secretary Hoover today backed up the administration plan of flood control during 45 minutes of direct statement and cross-examination before the senate commerce committee.

Under rather persistent questioning by the two senators largely responsible for its appearance—Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, and Willis, Republican, Ohio—the commerce secretary approved the flood way, spillway and levee strengthening plan of the war department and insisted that the policy of state participation in the cost should be adhered to.

Refusing to commit himself on the percentage of cost which should be borne by the federal government and the states of the Mississippi Valley, Mr. Hoover urged consideration of the president's recent suggestion that a commission should be set up to study all factors and make its recommendations to congress a year hence.

The secretary appeared in a small committee room off the senate chamber which was crowded with spectators and newspapermen who anticipated a clash between the two candidates for the Republican presidential nominations and Senator Willis who has promised him a fight without gloves for the Ohio delegation.

But no such clash occurred. Adopt Major Items.

Senator Willis propounded only three questions, two of which were so framed that Mr. Hoover need not have answered them, but he did so without hesitation.

Suggesting that his question was one more for determination by congress than the department, Willis asked the secretary whether he thought congress should enact a general flood control plan and leave details to a commission or whether a definite plan should be adopted.

"My own feeling runs in the direction of the adoption of the major items, a flood way and the strengthening of levees," Hoover replied. "It seems to me that will be the most constructive plan, but again that is a matter the war department must advise you on."

The Ohio senator then wanted to know whether the commission advocated by Mr. Hoover should study details of construction or only the financial and economic side of the flood problem.

"Senator, the president suggested that commission," the secretary replied. "The flood plan is an engineering problem; the financing is an economic problem, and I take it that the commission would study the financial and economic side."

"Hawes Does Most Questioning."

"Do you want to express an opinion between the Jadwin plan and the Mississippi river commission plan?" was the third and last question put by Willis.

"No, senator, I'm not competent to do that," Hoover replied.

Senator Hawes, who did most of the questioning, sought time and again to draw the secretary out on what he said was a plan to divide the cost 80 per cent for the federal government and 20 per cent for the interested states, but he was unsuccessful.

The commerce secretary was insistent that he could not be expected to reconstruct the recommendations of another department of the government. "It is my duty to support the proposals made by my colleagues," he said.

Hunt Says Hickman Threatened to Kill Him Before Holdup

Los Angeles, Feb. 24—(P)—Fear of death as a motive for banditry was the defense offered late today by Welby Hunt, for his part in the attempted holdup and killing of C. Ivy Toms, druggist, on Christmas Eve, 1926.

Through his counsel in his joint murder trial with William Edward Hickman, already sentenced to hang for the Marion Parker murder, Hunt painted his companion in crime as a "Simon Legree of the underworld, enforcing obedience to his orders on pain of death."

A. Gray Gilmer, attorney for Hunt, followed the closing of the

Torch Killer Is Still At Large

Bernardsville, N. J. Feb. 24—(P)—The torch killer of Miss Margaret Brown was still at large tonight.

State troopers said during the day that his identity was known, that he was a middle-aged professional man of high social standing, but after Prosecutor Bergen denied anything definite was known about the killer.

"If I knew him and where he was," said the prosecutor, "I would go out and get him."

In the afternoon, Miss Brown whose gasoline-soaked body was found flaming like a human torch behind a hot dog stand on the Bernardsville, Morristown road Monday night, was buried quietly at Fort Lee.

Police investigation centered around clues furnished by a man and a woman. The woman told of seeing a blue sedan parked on Monday night at the place where Miss Brown's body was found and there was some hope that she might be able to help in tracing ownership of the car. The man told of being near the scene of the crime last night and is being questioned concerning the killing by a man who drove up in a blue sedan.

On the theory that this inquisitive automobilist might have been the killer, drawn back to the scene of the slaying by some morbid power stronger than his will, police kept watch over the Brown funeral today on the chance that the man they sought might attend.

Unevenness Still Noted in Commerce, Dun's Report Says

New York, Feb. 24—(P)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

"No change from the decided unevenness of commercial conditions was either expected or witnessed during the present short week. Reports from individual trades still reveal sharply varying features, an expansion in some branches contrasting with hesitation in other quarters, and irregularities in commodity prices continuing marked. The holiday naturally reduced the volume of transactions, but the forward trend in some of the principal lines, which has been the most encouraging phase this year, was maintained and in certain cases moderately extended. Recent gains in the steel industry, reflecting the enlarging needs of automobile makers and some other manufacturing interests, have been fully held, while some divisions of textiles have experienced a distinct upturn. Such favorable tendencies as exist, however, are qualified by the greater emphasis placed upon the labor situation attention being focused more closely on evidences of unemployment. The comparatively mild and open winter in different sections has lessened demands for seasonable goods, thereby reacting adversely upon factory operations in numerous instances and lowering working forces and the public buying power."

FIRST EVIDENCE IS INTRODUCED

Hiram Reed, Young Farmer, Being Tried on Bombing Charge

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 24—(P)—The first evidence that the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse was wrecked by dynamite last December was introduced by the state today in its fight to send Hiram Reed, a young farmer, to prison on a charge of bombing.

The prosecution claims Reed put the explosive in the stove that burst and seriously injured the teacher, Iola Bradford. The defense has indicated its doubt that dynamite caused the tragedy with which it holds Reed had nothing to do.

Following descriptions of the explosion by 10 former pupils of Miss Bradford, Theodore Paris took the stand to clinch the state's claim that dynamite was used. He testified he was thoroughly familiar with the explosive having long used it in quarrying rock and helping his father dig wells.

Paris said he was the father of five of the pupils in the Pleasant Valley school and the morning of the explosion he met the bleeding and crippled teacher staggering up the road toward her sister's home where he was employed.

Children Tell Same Story.

After carrying the girl into the house, the farmer went back to inspect the school. An odor of dynamite filled the room, he said, and there were other evidences of it having been used.

As each child mounted the witness stand, Miss Bradford smiled reassuringly but most of them were so frightened their voices shook. One of the boys, Albert Paris, 9, during a heated argument between attorneys, slipped from the witness chair and was almost out of the courtroom when Judge Frank Hays laughingly called him back. Albert thought they were through with him. The stories of the children were much the same. They heard a loud explosion, the ground and walls of the school shook. The teacher staggered, screaming, from the building, her face and dress covered with blood.

Supply Salesman On Stand.

The state expects to wind up its case shortly with an attempt to introduce Reed's confession. Although Reed was indicted on several charges including an attempt to kill the girl about to become a mother he is being tried on the bombing charge.

Everett Bailey, school supply salesman, described a piece of battered iron found in the school as similar to parts used in school stoves. Wayne B. Cooper, school director, on cross-examination, said he saw several bushels of soot carried away.

working within plain sight of the bank lobby, and a dozen customers, were forced to lie down.

Believe Gangsters Did Work.

Two bandits vaulted into the cashier's cage and scooped up currency and cash. Six cages were systematically rifled. About $25,000, locked in one cage, was overlooked.

Twenty employes, working within reach of revolvers, were forced to the floor before they could grab the guns.

Detectives assigned to the case expressed the belief that Chicago and St. Louis gangsters, working with local men, staged the robbery. Pictures of several known Chicago and St. Louis underworld characters were identified by employes and customers.

The bandit "general" swung one machine gun to and fro while barking commands to his men, but the gun was not fired. It was the second time within a month that a machine gun had been used in a bank robbery here.

Frozen Body of Detroit Man Found

Pontiac, Feb. 24—(P)—The frozen body of Justin Harold Kilne was found in his home at Clawson today. Coroner O. C. Farmer said he believed the man had been dead for two weeks.

Kilne, who lived alone, had not been seen by neighbors for three weeks. Becoming alarmed because of his long absence, a neighbor investigated to find the body stretched on the floor. Cause of death is unknown.

Kilne was known to have a brother living in Detroit and a brother-in-law living in Jackson.

JAMES IN LINE FOR PROMOTION

U. P. Congressman Next to Hold Military Affairs Assignment.

BY CLERGUE C. SCHILLING.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 24. (Special)—When Rep. John M. Morin of Pittsburg made it known that he was seeking the senate toga now held by Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania the newspaper correspondents began to speculate as to what would happen between the Mellon and Vore forces. It is generally agreed that should Morin get into the race seriously the result will be a fight between Mellon and the Philadelphia politicians who supported and controlled the election of Mr. Vore.

Be that as it may, the point of this observation is that Michigan and particularly northern Michigan will be benefited by this scrap which is being fought in Pennsylvania. The minutes John Morin steps out of the House to run for the senate he will leave vacant the chairmanship of the important committee on military affairs and that vacancy will be filled by Rep. W. Frank James of Hancock, congressman from the Eleventh district.

James Influential.
Congressman James served as acting chairman of the committee during most of the sixty-ninth Congress due to the absence of Morin and took such an active part in the Muscle Shoals, aviation and Army housing legislative problems that he became to be regarded by the War department and by the membership of the house as a power in all matters in which the war department was interested.

When James succeeds to the chairmanship of military affairs Michigan will have the second important chairmanship since Ex-Rep. Joseph W. Fordney retired from the head of the all-powerful committee on Ways and Means. There is no other Michigan man, save James, who is in line for an important chairmanship for a considerable time because in both Ways and Means, Appropriations, Merchant Marine and Post Office and Post Roads the Michigan men are too far down the line to be considered because custom of the house has decreed that the chairmans be named in order of seniority. However it might be noted that Rep. James McLaughlin of Muskegon went into the upper half of the Republican group on Ways and Means when Chairman William Green resigned to accept a judgeship. McLaughlin moved from eighth to seventh place. There are fifteen republicans and ten democrats on that body.

Census Important.
Not only has Michigan no chance for a major chairmanship but it has only one other ranking member on a committee and that is Rep. Clarence McLeod of Detroit who is second on the Census committee. That is an important committee from a Michigan point of view at this time when reapportionment in the burning question. Both Rep. McLeod and Rep. Robert H. Clancy have been fighting for two additional congressmen from Michigan which would become a reality under the reapportionment bill which they seek to have reported out of the Census committee. There is some talk that if a bill is not reported soon they will circulate a petition to take the bill away from committee and carry their fight direct to the floor of the house.

Talks on Health

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

JUST WHAT SHOULD BABY DO WHEN AT THAT AGE?
Most mothers are convinced that their children are unusual in precocity as well as in physical development, but few actually know just what status a child should have attained at any given period in its growth.

The state of Pennsylvania publishes a baby book which is contributed to mothers in that state without charge in order to keep them informed relative to simple facts about childbirth and baby care. In this booklet the facts are related in a simple, straightforward manner that anyone can understand.

In one brief table the bulletin provides a statement as to the normal development of the child which is especially helpful. A normal baby will show the following characteristics as it grows:

- 1—A steady gain in weight.
  - 2—A good appetite, no vomiting or "spitting up."
  - 3—A clear, soft, pink skin.
  - 4—Bright eyes, with a contented expression.
  - 5—Peaceful sleep, with mouth and eyes tightly closed.
  - 6—Constant growth in stature and intelligence.
  - 7—Alert little muscles that make the body spry and active.
  - 8—Regular bowel movements of natural color, number and consistency.
  - 9—From third to fourth month, coos.
  - 10—From third to fifth month, laughs aloud.
  - 11—From the fourth month, hold his head up unsupported.
  - 12—From the fifth to seventh month, reaches for toys and holds them, begins to talk; likes attention; begins to cut his teeth.
  - 13—From the seventh to eighth month is usually able to sit erect, hold the spine erect and will try to creep.
  - 14—From the ninth to tenth month will try to bear his weight on his feet.
  - 15—From the eleventh to twelfth month can pull himself up and stand with help.
  - 16—At one year can usually speak a few single words and at the end of the second year can make short sentences.
  - 17—At the fourteenth month the fontanelle begins to close. It is fully closed from the eighteenth month to two years.
- The only words not clearly understandable in this list appear in the last statement. The fontanelle is the soft spot on the top of the baby's head.
- Probably more mothers worry about the failure of this spot to close early in the baby's life than about any other condition.

GIRLS PLANNING SUMMER CAMP

To Hold Rummage Sale to Obtain Money to Finance Project

The Girls Athletic association of the Escanaba high school is already making plans for the holding of the girls' summer camp near Fayette at the close of the school year. The camp will last two weeks and will accommodate 25 girls.

In order to obtain funds to finance the project, the organization will hold a rummage sale at the office of the Steele-Wallace Corporation, Stephenson avenue, Saturday, March 3. Contributions of old clothing and other articles are solicited, and anyone having goods to donate is asked to telephone 1341-W, leaving name and address where the materials can be secured.

Since the camp will be open to only 25 girls, a competition is being carried out in the girls' athletic department to decide what girls will be awarded the privilege of enjoying the two weeks' outing. Honor points are awarded the girls for proficiency in both athletics and scholarship and by the observance of certain health rules. Participation in hiking, soccer, basketball, track and baseball offers some of the means by which the girls can gain the coveted points.

The summer camp will be situated on a picturesque spot in the scenic Garden Bay region, between the village of Garden and Fayette. Atty. J. C. Baker of Escanaba is contributing the use of the land to the Girls' Athletic association. The facilities used by the Boy Scouts on their camping trips there some time ago, will also be available to the young women.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cromulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cromulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Cromulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Cromulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after cough or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

RADIO OWNERS LIKE LAWRENCE

Political Writers to Continue Air Lectures on Government.

David Lawrence, known locally for his daily Washington dispatch on national affairs in the Daily Press, has received, after a year of broadcasting, the approval of the radio fans resulting in a renewal of the invitation from the National Broadcasting Company to make a weekly radio talk on government over the "red" network.

In the recent radio hearings held by the Senate Committee in Washington, it developed that David Lawrence, like other speakers on the N. B. C.'s programs have their fates decided by the radio fans much as the gladiatorial combats were settled by the "thumbs up" or "thumbs down" of the Roman populace. When asked by Senator Hawes of the Committee as to how speakers like David Lawrence were selected, Mr. Aylesworth, president of the N. B. C., responded that the public was the final judge and that the "complaints or commendations" of the fans decided the merit of a speaker.

David Lawrence was chosen, Mr. Aylesworth said, because of his reputation for fairness and non-partisanship and he made his talks without compensation as a "public service."

Catholic Press Day to Be Observed by Parochial Class

The Junior Class of St. Joseph's High School is sponsoring Catholic Press Day Tuesday, Feb. 28th. Extensive preparations are being made and keen interest is shown in the affair. A joint meeting of the P. T. A. of the two parochial schools will be held on the same day. The two organizations will attend the exhibition program in a body.

The pastors of the local churches will be the speakers of the day. A prize has been offered for the best poet. Material for the exhibit has been gathered from all sections of the globe and the exhibition is one of great interest.

IN NEW YORK

New York.—Now and then the subway sardine turns into a whale and slashes about in the water, leaving confusion and turmoil in his wake.

Now and then, on a rain-splashed day, with the wind whipping a minor waterfall around the Times building, the half-light of the under-ground station becomes a terrifying spectacle. Standing at safe distance and watching the battle of milling mobs, I often have imagined that in such a scene is captured the spirit that moves the masses in time of revolution. Life, limb and the rights of others are forgotten. It becomes a great mob struggle for the clicking turnstiles, with women, children and old folk caught helplessly in the struggling stream.

Here are people who, just a moment before, hurried through the streets, more or less human beings, possessed of the usual decencies and chivalrous attitudes. Once they have joined the turbulent river, however, they are changed to snarling, pushing, fighting organisms, ready to bowl over anything that stands in their way.

It is not often that these scenes are staged. Ordinarily, the subway sardine is a long-suffering creature. He is willing to be crushed and pressed into sandwich shape, while clinging precariously to a strap. He stands the sudden turns of the train and the sudden stops at stations. He grows accustomed to having his feet trod upon and his coat all but pulled off him.

But when storms sweep the mid-town belt, an unusual strain is put upon the Times Square station at the rush hour. Thousands upon thousands pour in out of the street, choking the runways and the walks that lead from shuttle to main stem and from up-town to down-town platforms. The sweating figures in the "nickel-change" stands try to handle the crowd and finally give it up.

Just a few days ago, I saw a mob, angered because the change windows had been choked, sweep down upon the gates, carrying the train guards ahead and crashing through the turnstiles—not one of them paying their fare. Police reserves with riot sticks came dashing in suddenly out of the rain, turning the melee into chaos.

A New York mob, in full swing, is a baffling and terrifying study in human nature displaying its ugliest moods.

This is another of those "little stories" from off Broadway: He was a composer of very popular musical shows. She was a comedienne in the girly-girly attractions. They married and, after a time, found things didn't go along so well. So they divorced. Yet he still composes music for shows in which his ex-wife appears, and thinks her one of the best performers on the "big street." He is generally to be found in the audience several times a week, watching her capers. He almost invariably sends her flowers on opening night, and many other nights as well. She still keeps an eye on the songs he writes for the shows and gives him tips. They say that they're two of the best friends on Broadway. Yet they couldn't stay married.

THINK WHAT YOU WISH.

Scientists at the University of Chicago are about to begin a series of experiments designed to prove "that thinking is a chemical process."

These men recently concluded a long study of nerve reactions, and agreed, as one of them says, that "thought processes are no more mysterious than the contraction of a muscle."

The human race has progressed a distance since the time when it was believed that the soul left the body each night, so that if a man were awakened suddenly his soul could not get back to him but would be a lost wanderer forever.

So, having emerged from blind ignorance, our scientists see no reason why they cannot solve the ultimate mysteries. If man is a machine, why not take him apart and see what makes him tick?

Easy, perhaps. It may be that the thoughts that led to the writing of "Adonajs," for instance, were no more mysterious than the chemical reaction that makes sedlitz powders fizz when you pour water on them.

Make your own answer. Your reply is as good as another man's. We are entitled to believe what we wish. Those who think that life is a mere chemical formula may think so; and those who believe that it is a strange, incomprehensible mystery, founded in the great deeps and striving painfully upward in obedience to some inner spark that defies all analysis—they, too, may think as they wish.

A few years ago an Irish patriot was condemned to death by the British. Seated in his cell awaiting execution, he penned these lines:

"I would boldly teach the antique faith that fighting is the only noble thing, and that he alone is at peace with God who is at war with the powers of evil."

It will be no easy task to reduce that man to a mathematical equation. A cry like that, hurled in defiance from the shadow of death, bespeaks something more than a mere plus b equals c. In that man's equation there is an x—an unknown quantity; puzzle over it as you will, there is a residue there that will escape your test tube.

The wise men of science have their theories; we can have ours. And in ours we can leave room for wonder and hope.

POPULAR IDOLS.

Charlie Paddock, sprinter, writing in McClure's magazine, explains why it is that Finland, a small nation wrapped in ice and snow for the greater part of the year, is able consistently to produce such marvellous distance runners. He gives all the credit to Hannes Kolehmainen, who became the idol of the country by his sensational victories several years ago. Kolehmainen was emulated by every young man in Finland; he gave his time to teaching boys how to run; and today Finland has many great runners.

A popular idol is a good thing for a country. Lindbergh, in America, is stirring young men, to new achievements in aviation. If we are pre-eminent in aviation half an dozen years from now, Lindbergh can take much of the credit.

MURDER IN CANADA.

Canadian authorities, preparing to execute a young woman for murder, are reported highly surprised at the wave of protest rising from the United States.

They simply don't understand, that's all. They don't realize that one of the inalienable rights of the free-born American citizen is to put his murderers on a pedestal; to be soft-hearted about them when they get arrested; to acquit them, in 99 cases out of 100, and to shed many mawkish tears over the 100th who chances to get her just deserts.

EDUCATING PARENTS.

More than 600 people attended the first North Carolina Institute on Parental Education, and heard speakers set forth the parents' responsibilities toward his child.

In the old days we heard a great deal about the child's duties toward its parent, and less of the parent's duties. The new way is better. It is idle to tell a child to honor his father and mother if the father and mother have not done their level best to give the child the wisest, most kindly training possible.

ONE ON THE BREWERS.

Andrew J. Volstead, writing to the Women's Christian Temperance Union, reveals that the famous "one-half of one per cent" as the dividing line between intoxicating drinks, was fixed, not by prohibition workers, but by the brewers themselves.

Before prohibition, he says, the brewers who were compelled to pay a license took the matter up with the treasury department and suggested that all beer containing one-half of one per cent of alcohol should be treated as intoxicating. This was done, and thus a standard already existed when the prohibition law came into effect.

It is rather humorous that this standard should have been fixed by the brewers themselves. But somehow it isn't surprising. Throughout the long fight for prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League's best ally was the liquor trade; by its blind, selfish excesses it did more to hasten its own downfall than all of its enemies put together.

TRADE WARS.

It is getting so that the ultimate consumer smiles benignly every time any kind of "trade war" is announced.

First the auto makers launched a price war, with the result that all of us found luxurious, capable cars offered for sale at unheard-of low prices.

Now several railroads in the middle west have started a passenger train fight. One road began it, with new de luxe trains, low fares and more convenient schedules. Its rivals are falling into line. Each is trying to outdo the other in the matter of service to passengers.

This may furrow the brows of the various passenger-traffic managers, but it is simply swell for the chap who wants to ride.

OBVIOUSLY.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

Markham sat glowering into space. "I don't at all like the Cleaver end of this affair," he said. There's been something damned wrong about him ever since Monday.

"And I say," put in Vance, "doesn't the gentleman's false alibi take on a certain shady significance now, what?"

"You apprehend, I trust, why I restrained you from questioning him about it at the club yesterday. I rather fancied that if you could get Mannix to pour out his heart to you, you'd be in a strong position to draw a few admissions from Cleaver. And behold! Again the triumph of intuition! With what you now know about him, you can chivy him most unconscionably—eh, what?"

"And that's precisely what I'm going to do," Markham rang for Swacker. "Get hold of Charles Cleaver," he ordered irritably. "Phone him at the Stuyvesant Club and also his home—he lives round the corner from the club in West 27th Street. And tell him I want him to be here in half an hour, or I'll send a couple of detectives to bring him in handcuffs."

For five minutes Markham stood before the window, smoking absently, while Vance, with a smile of amusement, busied himself with the Wall Street Journal. Heath took himself a drink of water and took a turn up and down the room. Presently Swacker reentered.

"Sorry, Chief, but there's nothing doing. Cleaver's gone into the country somewhere. Won't be back till late tonight."

"Hell! All right—that'll do," Markham turned to Heath. "You have Cleaver rounded up to-night, Sergeant, and bring him in here tomorrow morning at nine."

"He's in his pajamas and faced Markham. "I've been thinking, sir; and there's one thing that keeps coming up in my mind, so to speak. You remember that black document-box that was setting on the living-room table? It was empty; and what a woman generally keeps in that kind of a box is letters and things like that."

"Well, now, here's what's been bothering me; that box wasn't limmed open—it was unlocked with a key. And, anyway, a professional crook don't take letters and documents. You see what I mean, sir?"

"Screamed of mine!" exclaimed Vance. "I abase myself before you! I sit at your feet! The document box? Of course! Skeel didn't open it—never—in this world! That was the other chap's handiwork."

"What was in your mind about that box, Sergeant?" asked Markham. "Just this, sir. As Mr. Vance has insisted right along, there mighta been some one besides Skeel in that apartment during the night. And you told me that Cleaver admitted to you he'd paid Odell a lot of money last June to get back his letters. But suppose he never paid that money; suppose he went there Monday night and took those letters. Wouldn't he have told you just the story he did about buying 'em back. Maybe that's how Mannix happened to see 'em there."

"That's not unreasonable," Markham acknowledged. "But where does it lead us?"

"Well, sir, if Cleaver did take 'em Monday night, he mighta held on to 'em. And if any of those letters were dated later than last June, when he says he bought 'em back, then we'd have the goods on him."

"Well?"

"As I say, sir, I've been thinking. Now, Cleaver is outa town today; and if we could get hold of those letters—"

"It might prove helpful, of course," said Markham coolly, looking the sergeant straight in the eye. "But such a thing is quite out of the question."

"Still and all," mumbled Heath. "Cleaver's been pulling a lot of raw stuff on you, sir."

OUT OUR WAX

By Williams

"It takes more than a motive to arouse unpleasant suspicion."

"Maybe so. Only I didn't want to be drawn into it.—You can't blame me for trying to keep clear of it."

Markham leaned over with a threatening smile. "The fact that Miss Odell had blackmailed you wasn't your only reason for lying about the summons. It wasn't even your main reason."

"Cleaver's eyes narrowed, but otherwise he was as calm as a graven image."

"You evidently know more about it than I do. He managed to make his words sound casual."

"Not more, Mr. Cleaver," Markham corrected him, "but nearly as much.—Where were you between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday?"

"Perhaps that's one of the things you know."

"You're right.—You were in Miss Odell's apartment."

"Cleaver sneered, but he did not succeed in disguising the shock that Markham's accusation caused him."

"If that's what you think, then it happens you don't know, after all. I haven't put foot in her apartment for two weeks."

"I have the testimony of reliable witnesses to the contrary."

"Witnesses!" The word seemed to force itself from Cleaver's compressed lips.

Markham nodded. "You were seen coming out of Miss Odell's apartment and leaving the house by the side door at five minutes to twelve on Monday night."

"Cleaver's jaw sagged slightly, and his labored breathing was quite audible."

"And between half past eleven and twelve o'clock," pursued Markham's relentless voice, "Miss Odell was strangled and robbed."

"What do you say to that?"

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

NO. 12. Salaries paid employes constitute one of the largest items of business expenses. To be allowed as a deduction such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal services actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services. Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate to the compensation, are rendered is not deductible as "salary." Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services.

AUTHOR URGED ENGLISH GIFT

Thomas Hughes Prompt Contributions to Library

Rugby, Eng.—Thomas Hughes, author of "Tom Brown's School Days," was responsible for the large collection of English books given to Chicago as a nucleus for a new library after the disastrous fire attributed to Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

Consequently Rugby boys and graduates are interested in the campaign Mayor Thompson is waging against history books which are supposed to be British propaganda.

Hughes made several visits to the United States, the first in 1870. He became interested in the Rugby model cooperative movement also brought many volumes from Germany and other considerable money there.

His mother and her younger son remained in the Tennessee colony, however, and she died there ten years later.

On a visit to Chicago, after the fire of 1871, Thomas Hughes set to work persuading his friends to contribute books for a new municipal library. A special feature of the collection was a label or bookplate in every volume which bore the inscription, "Presented to the City of Chicago towards the formation of a Free Library after the Great Fire of 1871, as a mark of English Sympathy."

The British government contributed many volumes. Oxford University sent 234 volumes. Cambridge also contributed and among the individual donors were James Bryce, Samuel Smiles, John Bright, Lewis Carroll, Walter Besant, Gladstone, Charlotte M. Yonge, Christina and W. M. Rossell, Charles Kingsley, Herbert Spencer and many other notable Englishmen and Englishwomen of the day. The British donation totalled 7,000 volumes and the Rugby model cooperative movement also brought many volumes from Germany and other considerable money there.

WHO WERE KIND.

I've forgotten who were rich, I've forgotten who were poor. For it doesn't matter which. Money never does for sure. Nothing matters much but this. When your glance is cast behind. When you think of friends you miss. You remember who were kind.

I've forgotten who were wise, I've forgotten who were not. For a fellow's folly dies. And his wisdom is forgot. But I never shall forget. Monday a friend I used to find. Of the people that I met. I remember who were kind.

I've forgotten who were great, I've forgotten many men. Many men who used to hate. Never do recall again. But I always find a few. In my memory enshrined: Yes, of all the men I know, I remember who were kind.

21 DAIRYMEN ON HONOR ROLL

Delta County Farmers Secure High Production From Cows.

Twenty-one Delta county farmers have been placed on the national honor roll of the National Dairy association, signifying that their dairy herds have had an average butter fat production of 366 pounds or more per cow during a 12-month period. Russell Horwood, upper peninsula specialist, presented the dairymen with their honor certificates yesterday.

Delta county's dairy industry is forging ahead satisfactorily, according to Mr. Horwood, who points to the fact that of 70 dairy farmers in the entire upper peninsula placed on the honor roll, almost one-third of the number were dairymen of this county. There are some counties in upper Michigan that have more cows, but none of them can boast of the high production records attained by Delta county herds.

County Herd Average 346.5. The 21 honor herds were composed of 261 cows, which scored an average production of 346.5 pounds of butter fat during the period from July 1, 1926 to June 30, 1927.

This is an exceptionally good record when one takes into consideration the fact that the average per cow in the United States is only 160 pounds, said Mr. Horwood. "The state average per cow is 175 pounds, while the 30,000 cows in 102 dairy herd improvement associations in the state averaged 300 pounds of butter fat."

The 21 herds at that time were members of two cow testing associations in Delta county, but both organizations have disbanded since. The last association to remain ceased activity last October, and reorganization could not be effected because insufficient members could be induced to join. Delta county farmers of late have shown an interest in the project, and it appears likely that another herd improvement association will be formed next spring.

Cafemeyer Herd Leads.

According to Mr. Horwood, the value of such an association is apparent from statistics which show the U. S. average cow, which produces about 160 pounds of butter fat, pays only $30 above the cost of its feed, while the state average cow pays about $35 above. On the other hand, the cows of the testing associations of the state pay their owners $90 above the feed cost per cow.

Leon Cafemeyer, with a herd of 12 cows, had the high average production with 401.2 pounds of butter fat.

The farmers placed on the honor roll are:

19.3 Inches Snow Fell This Month

A total of 19.3 inches of snow has fallen thus far this month, according to H. E. Spindler, U. S. weather observer. Records show that the bulk of this snowfall came Wednesday and Thursday when 10 inches fell.

The record for continuous snowfall this winter was during a three-day period last December when 12.5 inches was measured. This was on December 6, 7 and 8.

Eastern counties of the peninsula were still digging themselves out of the snow yesterday. According to reports received at the state highway office here, sections of all roads in Mackinaw, Chippewa, Luce, Alger and Schoolcraft counties were blocked. Highway M-77 between Seney and Grand Marais was impassable.

The Delta county road commission crews have been working night and day since Wednesday with all available snow fighting equipment. All main trunk lines were open yesterday, but some of the county roads in the rural sections were still in bad shape. The plows had pierced the Garden road up to the village of Garden yesterday, but the stretch from there to Fairport was not expected to be cleared until today.

FUTURE TUNNEYS AND DEMPSEYS

With the ball on its own ten-yard line and the winning touchdown threatening, the Navy has an inspiring song—"Fight, Navy! Fight Like Hell!" And, from the above picture, they start their fighting young at Annapolis. Spike Webb, boxing instructor at the Naval Academy and the coach of two Olympic teams, teaches the rudiments of the manly art to the sons of officers stationed at the academy. Most of his pupils are in the paperweight class, as you can see from our photograph, and a few of those giants in the front row look like they couldn't hold the pillow gloves up much longer.

OBITUARY

HARRY MILLER.

Funeral services for Harry Miller were held Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the Alto Funeral Home when Rev. R. C. G. Williams, pastor of the First M. E. church officiated at the services.

MISS ELVERA SWANSON.

The body of Miss Elvera Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Swanson arrived yesterday from Chicago and was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home.

Later in the afternoon it was removed to the family home on the State road where funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. J. H. Hanson, pastor of the Swedish Mission church, officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH BELANGER.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Belanger, 1207 South First Avenue will be held this morning at nine o'clock at St. Patrick's church when a requiem high mass will be read by Rev. Fr. R. Bergeron.

Mrs. A. LeBeau of Ironwood, formerly Miss Mae Belanger, and Richard Belanger of Grand Rapids have arrived to attend the funeral services. Owing to illness another daughter who lives in Minnesota will be unable to come to this city.

The close friends who will act as pallbearers are J. H. Davis, Donald Duffy, Hector Fillion, Cavill Murphy, J. B. Bedore and Ernest Seymour.

Burial will be in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where her husband was buried seventeen years ago.

WORRIES OF A WARDEN

Columbus, O.—Warden P. E. Thomas of the state penitentiary has many worries. But when John Weber, serving life for murder, swallowed the temperature, it was sufficiently unusual to warrant more than casual attention.

Although a thermometer had been put down had been put down Thomas' temperature went up. Physicians attribute this to the fact that the prisoner had seen it to chew the tube before swallowing. They soon controlled both temperatures and Weber will return to his life job with the state.

"EASY MARK" COMING SOON

Masons Will Present New Broadway Comedy February 29

"The Easy Mark," the well-known Broadway comedy which will be presented in the Masonic auditorium February 29 by a splendid New York cast, abounds in comedy characters.

First and foremost, of course, comes the "easy mark" himself—Sam Crane. You will laugh every time this lovable dreamer, who thinks in millions, and yet can't hold a twelve dollar-a-week job, opens his mouth.

Then there's Hattie, his sister. You'll like her, but still she's a somewhat sharp-tongued young lady, with a gift for cutting "wise cracks."

There's Joe Page, the bashful young engineer in love with Hattie. Joe talks of love in the most uproariously funny way. It's an effort for him to declare himself to his sweetheart. At the time he wants to get married "so he can get his mind back on his work."

Another great comedy character is Charlie Hatfield. As a cock-sure youth with an ego-complex, he is a "scream."

And last, but not least, comes old Amos. We don't know what his last name is, or if he ever had one. He's just Amos, and he looks like an Amos. He is an aged veterinarian who has been done out of a job by Henry Ford's ever-increasing output of flivvers. When he starts to roast Ford, he stops the show.

With such an array of comedy characters to keep an audience in continuous laughter, it is not hard to see why "The Easy Mark" scores such a phenomenal success wherever it appears.

Wm. C. Sutherland, Sault Ticket Agent, Retires on March 1

Sault Ste. Marie—William C. Sutherland, joint passenger agent for the three railroads leading into Sault Ste. Marie for 38 years, and an employee at the local railroad offices since 1888, will retire from active service March 1. It was announced yesterday by W. G. Miller, general agent here.

Mr. Sutherland will be succeeded by T. R. Tamblin, now Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad passenger agent at Hancock. Mr. Tamblin is expected to arrive here to acquaint himself with his new duties the latter part of this week.

Mr. Sutherland, who will continue to make his home in the Sault, has long been one of the prominent citizens of the city. He has been active in fraternal organizations and at the present time is director of the Great Lakes Mission. Mr. Sutherland began his railroad career in Detroit when he drove a horse-drawn street car. At Salem, Mich., he learned telegraphy and in January, 1888, he came to the upper peninsula as a telegraph operator for the Soo Line railroad at Delta Junction. He was transferred to Manistique, and March 1 he came to the Sault as assistant to Frank E. Ketchum, then joint passenger agent here. In 1907 he succeeded Mr. Ketchum as agent for the Soo Line, South Shore and Canadian Pacific lines here.

Mr. Sutherland is 67 years old. He lives at 320 Peck street and has one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Sorenson.

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—Stewed rhubarb, cereal, cream, toasted salt codfish, corn bread, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Oyster fritters, tomato sauce, carrot and pineapple salad, butterscotch cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Stuffed breast of veal, beet in orange sauce, macaroni salad, banana cream pie, milk, coffee.

New carrots are grated and combined with fresh shredded pineapple to make a delicious and healthful salad. This can be combined with lemon gelatine and served with a cream mayonnaise or the vegetable and fruit smooth and prevent sticking. Add placed in a nest of head lettuce and served with French dressing.

Banana Cream Pie.
2-3 cup granulated sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 cups scalded milk, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 bananas, 5 tablespoons powdered sugar, baked pie shell.

Mix granulated sugar, cornstarch and salt. Heat milk in top of double boiler and slowly add to dry ingredients, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water for 15 minutes. Stir to keep milk smooth and prevent sticking. Add yoiks of eggs slightly beaten and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat and let stand until cool. Add vanilla and bananas cut in thin slices. Turn into baked pie shell and cover with whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry with the powdered sugar folded in when whites are stiff. Bake 12 minutes in a slow oven to puff and brown the meringue.

Breakfast—Canned cherries, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs with cheese, radishes, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked rice and nuts, stewed tomatoes, boiled fruit salad, milk, tea.

Dinner—Breaded veal cutlets, potatoes au gratin, steamed spinach with hard cooked eggs, pickled beets, lemon pie, milk, coffee.

Baked Rice and Nuts
2 cups cooked rice, 1 cup nut meats, 1/2 pound mild cheese, 2 eggs, 1 tbspl butter, 1 cup milk, 1/2 tsp salt, 1-3/4 tsp pepper, paprika.

English walnuts, almonds, Brazil nuts, pecans or hickory nuts can be used separately or together. The almonds should be blanched before using. Add nut meats with salt and pepper to rice. Beat eggs slightly with milk and stir into mixture. Grate cheese and add. Turn into a well-buttered baking dish, dot with butter and sprinkle with paprika. Cover and bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Uncover and brown the top. More cheese can be added if a decided cheese taste is wanted. One-half pound cheese can be used if wanted. Keep in mind that a mild cheese is always desirable for cooking.

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, ham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of split pea

soup, croutons, macedoine of vegetables, stale cake pudding, tea, milk.
 Dinner—New England boiled dinner, apple, celery and cheese salad, Indian pudding, milk, coffee.
 The luncheon dessert provides an excellent way to use up cake that has "gone begging." The pudding is nourishing and suitable for small children as well as adults.

Stale Cake Pudding.
 1 1/2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 4 tbsps sugar, 1 tsp vanilla, few grains salt, stale cake.
 Beat yolks of eggs slightly with 1/2 tbsps sugar and a few grains of salt. Heat milk in double boiler and slowly add to first mixture, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture coats a silver spoon. Arrange a layer of cake cut in slices in a well-buttered baking dish. Pour over a layer of custard and continue layer by layer of custard and cake until all the custard is used. Cover and let stand for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake in a slow oven for 20 minutes. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold in remaining sugar. Add vanilla and pile over top of pudding. Bake in a slow oven for 8 minutes to cook and color the meringue. Let cool and serve.

Breakfast—Stewed figs with lemon, cereal, cream, creamed eggs on toast, graham add date muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Ham and celery scalloped with cheese, water peas and orange salad, rice pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Pan fried filets of haddock, potatoes au gratin, new beets, jellied fruit salad, shredded fresh pineapple, plain cake, milk, coffee.

Cheese Scalloped Ham and Celery
 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham, 1 cup diced parboiled celery, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.
 Melt butter, stir in flour and when bubbling slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add salt and paprika. Arrange ham and celery in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish. Pour over sauce, cover with grated cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted. Serve from baking dish.

BREAKFAST—Sections of grape fruit, eggs scrambled with rice, crisp broiled bacon, graham and raisin muffins, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Baked potatoes, creamed salmon, sliced hot house tomatoes, luncheon sticks, milk, tea.

DINNER—Frenched pork tenderloin, apple sauce, mashed yellow turnips, baked corn, grape juice sponge, milk, coffee.
 No cereal is included in the breakfast menu and unless small children whose breakfast consists of cereal are present at the table a cereal is not necessary. Rice and the muffins take care of the nutriment usually furnished by "porridge."

Luncheon Sticks
 Four tablespoons butter, 3-4 cup light brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 cup finely chopped nut meats, few grains salt.
 Melt butter in a smooth sauce pan. Add sugar and heat over a low fire, stirring constantly. When thoroughly blended remove from heat and let cool. Add unbeaten egg and beat mixture hard. Sift flour, salt and baking powder and add to first mixture. Mix well and add nuts and vanilla. Spread the mixture in a shallow, square pan lined with paraffin paper and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from pan and let cool. Then cut in narrow strips and serve.

The melting of the sugar with the butter gives a delicious flavor to these little sticks.

MISS BUDZIS MARRIED IN GREEN BAY Wedding Performed There On Tuesday, February 9

Announcement of a marriage which will be of interest to a number of Gladstone people is that of the wedding of Miss Lucille Budzis of Green Bay, formerly of this city, to Mr. Leslie Putnam of Green Bay.

The wedding was performed at Green Bay at the Cathedral, at a high mass at 7 o'clock, on Tuesday, February 9.

The bride wore a gown of changeable green taffeta with a hat of the same shade and carried a bouquet of pale pink roses.

Her two bridesmaids were attired in peach taffeta with hats of the same color and they carried arm bouquets.

Following the ceremony an elaborate breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gunn, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, with whom she has been making her home.

The wedding dinner and reception were held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Putnam left after the ceremony on a wedding trip. They are making their home at 1388 Eliza street, Green Bay.

Mrs. Putnam is a graduate of Gladstone high school for the past two years making her home in Green Bay, where she was engaged in alteration work in one of the Green Bay stores.

Mr. Putnam is in the plumbing business, located in Green Bay. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Budzis of this city.

Floyd Marble Films Tournament

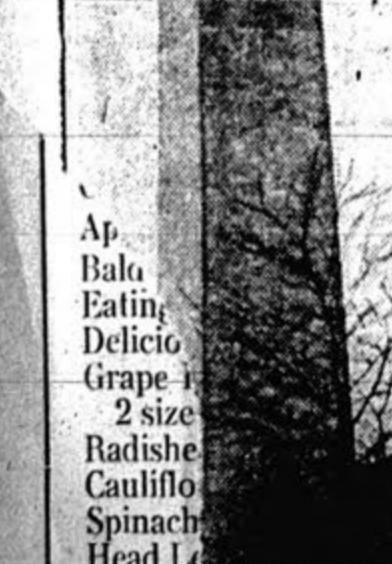

A number of interesting films of the Ski tournament at Ishpeming on Washington's birthday, were taken by Floyd Marble of this city, using his special motion picture camera.

The filming of the scenes attracted considerable attention from the spectators at the meet. Mr. Marble and his brother, William Marble both attended the event.

U. S. Once Held Million Indians, Say Ethnologists, Tracing Decline

Washington—The white man's diseases, his unfamiliar forms of dissipation and his firearms were the principal causes of the decline of the Indian race on the American continent north of Mexico. This is the burden of the first comprehensive scientific study of the aboriginal population of America, undertaken about a quarter century ago by the late James Mooney for the bureau of American ethnology and just published by the Smithsonian Institution, as compiled from his manuscripts.

MRS. CONGLETON PASSES AWAY AT SANATORIUM

Mrs. Frank Congleton, of St. Ignace, a resident of Gladstone for some time, died Thursday morning at the Delta-Menominee county sanatorium where she had been a patient for some time.

Mrs. Congleton was thirty-three years of age at the time of her death. The body was brought to Gladstone to the Swenson Brothers undertaking establishment Thursday morning and Friday morning it was taken to St. Ignace where funeral services will be held and burial will be made.

Mr. Congleton and a daughter, eight years old, who survive, accompanied the body. The family has made a number of friends here since and the sincere sympathy of many will be extended to them in their loss.

Mr. Congleton is in the employ of the MacGillis-Gibbs company.

FUNERAL HELD WEDNESDAY AT CARNEY

Funeral services were held at Carney Wednesday for Mrs. Sarah Maria Frock, Gladstone, R. F. D. No. 1, whose death came suddenly Sunday after a heart attack.

Mrs. Frock who was 79 years of age had lived with her aged husband in a small home at West Gladstone for a number of years. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Swenson Brothers.

OLD PIONEER PASSES AWAY

Charles Swift, Early Resident of County, Dies at Phillips

Word was received here late Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Archie Swift, 1514 Wisconsin avenue, of the death of Mr. Swift's father, Charles H. Swift of Phillips, Wis. Mr. Swift passed away Thursday afternoon after an illness of four months' duration. He was 83 years of age. Surviving are his wife, and daughter, Mrs. James Mahoy, also of Phillips, and Mr. Swift of this city.

Funeral services will be held Sunday with burial in Phillips where Mr. Swift has resided for the past 15 years. Mr. Archie Swift will leave here to attend the services. Mr. Swift was one of Delta county's pioneers and he was widely known in this vicinity, particularly among the older residents. He formerly lived at St. Jacques and before that at Nahma.

His death will be a matter of regret to all who knew him.

Woman Lawyer Wins First Case

Berlin—A woman lawyer's pleading for a repentant girl-mother accused of strangling her newly born baby was successful in moving the court to pronounce a much more lenient sentence than the one asked by the public prosecutor.

At Moabit criminal court, Frau Erna Hassliacher defended her first case. In a dramatic appeal to the court for mercy, she said: "I am the mother of two children. Every woman who has suffered the pangs of childbirth can testify that she is at that time bereft of will, that she is seized by the most dreadful paroxysms of agony and terror. How much more in the case of this poor creature who was left helpless to face her shame alone?"

The court reduced the sentence of 2 1/2 years demanded by the prosecution to one of four months, and paroled the accused for the rest of the term.

PRE-GLACIAL RIVER FOUND

Flood Helps Geologists Uncover Interesting Data

New York—The New England floods of last November offered at least one demonstration that the glacier which covered parts of the United States thousands of years ago still exerts an influence on the people dwelling in those districts, says Arthur D. Holmes, director of research for the E. L. Patch company of Stoneham, Mass.

Discussing the importance of water in modern life, in a paper made public by the American Chemical society, Mr. Holmes asserts that conditions established in glacial times were responsible for heavy property losses in the flood at Cavendish, Vt.

When the Black River overflowed its banks it washed out the main street of the village, leaving in place of the thoroughfare a yawning chasm 40 to 100 feet deep and 200 feet wide at the bottom. An inspection of this chasm by a geologist showed that the street had been directly above the channel of a preglacial river, Holmes says, and that this channel had been filled with material deposited by the receding ice sheet.

"It is claimed by geologists," he continued, "that the land now occupied by the city of Boston was once submerged by the ice sheet 350 feet below its present level. The glacier slowly moved southward until it reached the locality now marked by the terminal moraine which extends across Pennsylvania and then in a slightly southward direction across Ohio as far south as Cairo, Ill."

Dawes Praises Women's Clubs

Washington, D. C.—The letter of the vice president of the United States, Charles G. Dawes, to Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which was read at the recent meeting of the board of directors held in Washington, was for two reasons one of the most interesting of the many communications coming before that body. First because of the high position of the writer and because he laid special stress upon what he characterized "The first duty of American citizenship"—voting, a civic duty which the General Federation urges. Mr. Dawes' letter follows: THE VICE PRESIDENT'S CHAMBER, WASHINGTON, June 9, 1928 My Dear Mrs. Sherman: Regretting as I do my inability to accept your invitation to greet personally the members of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs I appreciate your kindness in permitting me to speak in this manner to that representative group of distinguished women. The great organization of American women represented at this annual directors' meeting has the year just passed been committed to two policies which seem to me to be of outstanding service to our country. The General Federation has sought to raise the standard of the American home. To see an organization with such influence devote its attention to the home is comforting in this modern age when all about we witness the entry of women into business, industry and the professions. I would not detract from the valued contributions of women in their new spheres of activity but the fact remains that women alone can make a new home. There her greatest influence is exerted, there her greatest contributions to society are made, and there her greatest success—if success be measured in terms of service—is achieved. The federation through its affiliated clubs and their individual members have addressed themselves to another work vital to the welfare of the republic by entering upon a campaign to bring out the vote in our nation, state, county and city election. This work may well be carried forward this year in view of the forthcoming general election. In the presidential election of 1924, only 52 per cent of the voters availed themselves of the great privilege of the franchise and thus performed the first duty of American citizenship. If the American government is to be a success the American people must vote. Indifference in the attitude of the American public toward the franchise is the greatest existing menace to American institutions. With best wishes for the continuation of your effective work in these lines of endeavor, in the new year, I am Very sincerely, CHARLES G. DAWES.

Trapper's Day Long, His Work Has Lots of Variety

When the Michigan state trapper has located a suitable "signal station," found a regularly used trail or other likely location for his wolf traps and has made his set, carefully erasing so far as possible, his signs of his own presence, his troubles are all over. He is at all sure to catch a wolf or coyote at that place, writes Ben East in the Ann Arbor Daily News. Probably his most bothersome foe is snow. If he is fortunate enough to get a period of several days with only very light snow he is very likely to make a catch. The light snow serves to cover his tracks and the wind also aids by drifting over any signs he may have left at the set. Snow comes often, however, in midwinter in northern Michigan and heaps up to a depth of three or four feet in the woods. A single heavy fall, burying the traps a foot or more under the drifts, may undo the work of several days on the trapline for the wolf. Rabbits interfere. Nor is the snow the only handicap the trapper faces. His traps are frequently sprung and his sets disturbed by creatures which he has no desire to catch. Chief of these are the big snowshoe rabbits of the north. Although the pads of fur on their feet act in the nature of snowshoes an enable these big white bunnies to travel as they please across the drifts, they prefer the easier going to be found in a trail. If traps are set in a trail made by wolves or coyotes, in the hope the animals will return over the same route, very frequently rabbits following the tracks blunder into the traps. By the time the rabbit has finished his futile struggle to escape he has so disturbed the set as to render it useless for wolves. They are suspicious of any place in the trail that presents an unusual appearance. Hawks and owls also sometimes spring the traps. More frequently, however, these feathered raiders come down and feed upon a rabbit which has been caught by accident and is held helpless in the trap. In that case a smaller trap set the following night besides the partially devoured rabbit usually ends the bird's career. The trapper starts out shortly after daybreak, usually on snowshoes. Little of his line, if any, can be covered at this season with a car owing to the deep snow. In summer by following old lumbering roads and making short excursions into the brush afoot to visit his sets the trapper is able to go over much of the line with a car, but in winter it is a different story. Snowshoes afford a favorite means of winter travel with most of the northern trappers. Skills are used sometimes but they find less favor for the brush and timber country than do the webs. Visits Signal Stations. The trappers' circle for the day probably will total a score of miles. Here he visits a muskrat house on a wide level expanse of marsh, being careful not to approach too close. Two traps are hidden under the snow near the side of the house. Again he swings aside to inspect a set beneath a lone pine tree on the side of a wind-blown ridge. The pine and the muskrat house are signal stations used by traveling wolves and coyotes as meeting places where scent may be left. Next the trapper comes to traps he has not visited for weeks and must dig them out from under the snow, using one of his snowshoes for a temporary shovel. It is by no means easy to locate a trap thus buried under the drifts in the thickets and tangled windfalls of the north woods and the trapper must exercise considerable power of memory in recalling the exact place where he made the set. At noon he halts for lunch, seeking a spot in the lee of a ridge or thick clump of trees where he will have some protection from the wind. "Never light a fire when you stop for lunch," advises the experienced north country trapper. "It only melts the dry snow on your clothing and leaves you wet and uncomfortable for the balance of the day." He carries a cold lunch and supplements it with hot tea or coffee from his thermos bottle. Later in the day a fresh trail of his wolves or coyotes may cross his snowshoe tracks of a previous trip. The animals came up at a trot but a score of feet away they saw the hated trail of the trapper and they broke into long bounds, clearing the snowshoes tracks without touching them. A Set on the Trail. The gray hunters are headed for a deer yard in a swamp two or three miles distant and their coming means trouble. The trapper unstraps his snowshoes, leaving them in the trail and follows the wolves for 100 feet into the woods, stepping in their tracks. There he drops two traps, covering them with a light sprinkling of snow. The wolves may return on their own trail, running in their footprints for the sake of easier going. There is no chance to fasten these traps to a clog and bury it beneath the snow so the trapper merely wires the two traps together and covers them chains and all. Then he comes back, using the same tracks, steps out into his snowshoes and goes on. Only a woodsman, passing the place, would be aware that he had turned aside at all. So it goes, day after day, the experienced wolf pitting his knowledge of the woods, his craft at trapping, his ability to hide even his own tracks against the suspicion and watchfulness and cunning of his quarry.

OBSCENE "ART" BRINGS ARREST

Distribution of obscene pictures and photographs is charged against Frank Farrand, Manistique photographer, who is being held at the county jail for examination this morning before Justice W. A. McKinney. Farrand was arrested Thursday by Sheriff J. M. Hewitt and was arraigned in justice court. Several immoral photographs were found in his possession, and it is expected that he will be bound over to Circuit court following the hearing this morning. The complaint charges that he did "import, print, publish, sell and distribute obscene prints and pictures manifestly tending to the corruption of the morals of youth, and did then and there have in possession for the purpose of sale, exhibition, loan and circulation." Women subjects in some of the pictures were identified as local residents, and others were expected to be named at the hearing today. Farrand formerly conducted a studio and film service shop on River street.

EVOLUTION NOT DEAD QUARREL

Science League Will Keep Topic Constantly Alive.

San Francisco—The war between anti-evolutionist and teacher of evolution, according to an informal report of the Science League of America, is likely to continue in 1928. The substance of a survey, made public by Maynard Shipley, president of the league, sets forth that advocates of anti-evolution bills, defeated in various legislatures in 1927, plan to revive the issue this year. The league also declares that there is an organized and well financed effort to "pudge" the public libraries of the country of books and magazines regarded as "too modern." The crusade against evolution, the Science League's report asserts, did not die at Dayton, Tenn., scene of the Scopes trial, but got renewed inspiration there. The Science League of America is an organization of scientists, consisting largely of university professors and research workers. George E. Coleman, research bacteriologist of the Hooper Foundation, University of California, is secretary-treasurer and Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, heads its national advisory board. In the league's resume of activities for and against evolution it says in its report that in Florida, Arkansas and Louisiana anti-evolution bills passed the lower house of the state legislatures, but were killed in the senate, in some cases by a close vote. In Oklahoma, Alabama, Malpe, West Virginia, North Carolina and Missouri the bills were defeated in the lower house, but in the case of Missouri by a narrow majority. In California, Delaware, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Minnesota the bills were killed in committee. In each case, says the report, the advocates of the measures say they will renew their effort at the next session. In 1928, it is declared, the opponents of the evolutionary theory will center their attack on Arkansas through an initiative measure which now has 9,000 names out of a necessary 12,800 necessary to qualify an initiative petition. The only two states having laws prohibiting the teaching of evolution at present are Tennessee, which passed the law in 1925, and Mississippi, which passed a similar law in 1926. The report also deals with teachers and professors dismissed, allegedly for their views with regard to evolution and other doctrines considered by some as not in accord with religious teachings. An instance of this as cited by the report is Des Moines University, where it is declared 20 or more members of the faculty were dismissed because they could not answer satisfactorily a questionnaire in which questions were asked touching their views. The report continues: "Prof. W. G. Burgin was dismissed from Winthrop college, South Carolina, because of his anti-fundamentalist views in scientific matters; and in Brooklyn, Charles A. Wagner was discharged as a high school instructor because he taught evolution in his geography classes."

Inventory Sales Draw Pickpockets

Berlin—This year's inventory sales brought greater crowds into the downtown shops than ever before in Berlin's history. It also brought an aggregation of pick-pockets including not only German men and women wanted by many a police department, but also attracted professional thieves from foreign countries. A case in point is Marcella Santi, known to the European police under many aliases. She had "worked" in Brussels, London and Amsterdam during the pre-Christmas shopping season, but always managed to slip away to the next country before she could be caught in the act. Reading of the inventory sales in Berlin, she decided to "earn" her living there. German detectives had their eye on her, however, and caught her in the act of opening a lady shopper's handbag and deftly taking the purse. The police reported the arrest of several other pickpockets with international records. In Mexico, chocolate beans were once used widely for currency.

Amusement Hall Opens Up Today At Manistique

Announcement has been made that a new amusement hall will open its doors to the Manistique public tonight. The location is the second floor of the Riverside Grocery building, North Houghton avenue. Music, lunch and games will be features of the opening this evening, and a prize is to be awarded for the most suitable name suggested for the place.

Message Reports Death at Pontiac

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cameron received a message from Pontiac yesterday, telling of the death of their little grandson, two months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Matthews of Pontiac. Arrangements have been made to have the burial at Manistique, and the parents are expected to motor to this city, arriving today. Mrs. Matthews was formerly Miss Bonnie Cameron.

WILD HORSE AT GERO.

Hugh Allan had to be athletic to take the leading male role opposite June Marlowe in "Wild Beauty," starring Rex, the King of Wild Horses, which is featured at the Gero theater tonight. Allan is a first-rate horseman, an excellent swimmer and one of the best golfers on the West Coast. His equestrian abilities were taxed in this thrilling role in "Wild Beauty" when he had to ride a wild horse to victory in a race. The skittish animal nearly threw him several times, but his training in the saddle saved him from a spill which less experienced riders would have taken over the horse's head. As to swimming Hugh has never set any record because he engaged in the sport for the pleasure of it and has never been timed but as to golf he holds a club record which will take a long time to break. He has a "ringer" score on a 72 par course of 51.

Merry-go-Round to Start Today

A new series of merry-go-round doubles is scheduled to start today at the Braunt bowling alleys and a big list of entries is expected. The program for the coming week in the city bowling league is as follows: Monday—Mannies vs Westside. Tuesday—Auto Co. vs K. of C. Wednesday—Braunts vs Lieds.

MARKET NEWS

RAILWAY SHARES SHOW STRENGTH

STOCK SALES AVERAGES. Twenty Twenty Date Industrials Railroads Friday - 180.83 140.89 Thursday - 180.88 139.94 Week ago - 180.08 138.78 Year ago - 180.90 134.79 High 1928 - 188.36 147.41 Low 1928 - 178.85 138.36 Total stock sales 1,783,100 shares.

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Railroad shares showed fairly consistent strength throughout today's stock market, but industrials wobbled erratically in reflection of the play of opposing speculative forces. Net gains in the rails ran from 1 to 4 points. Standard industrials showed little change but several of the industrial specialties ran up 3 to nearly 10 points and a number showed losses of 3 to 7 points. Trading was only moderate in volume, the day's sales falling slightly below 1,800,000 shares.

The unexpectedly large reduction of $91,000,000 in brokerage loans brought only a temporary flurry of buying at the outset of the market. Selling pressure was quickly renewed against International Nickel and some of the other vulnerable pool favorites with the result that the general market was headed downward before the end of the first half hour.

Call money held steady at the renewal rate of 4 1/2 per cent despite the calling of about $25,000,000 in bank loans during the day. Other monetary accommodations were unchanged. Shipment of $2,250,000 gold to Argentina was announced by New York bankers.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. The weekly mercantile reviews continued to report irregularity with no changes of importance. Bethlehem Steel raised its price on heavy steel products, meeting the earlier advances of subsidiaries of the U. S. Steel corporation and Midwestern Independents. U. S. Steel common continued to drag, closing 1-3/8 lower at 139 7/8.

General Motors moved within a range of 2 points, closing fractionally higher at 126. Bayuk Cigars ran up 10 points to a new top at 131 1/2 and closed near the top.

Commodity markets pointed upward. Foreign exchanges were slightly reactionary, with sterling cables again below $4.88.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK. Chicago, Feb. 24 (AP)—Crop damage from a wide extent of domestic winter wheat territory led to a brisk advance in wheat values today after an early dip. Buying here on a broad scale was further stimulated as a result of advices that export houses and mills were active purchasers of wheat at Winnipeg. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-2c to 1c net higher, with corn at 1-8c to 1-2c decline, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 1c. Corn rallied temporarily with wheat, but averaged lower as a result of fine weather for corn movements. The bulk of today's corn receipts here went to industries and elevators. Canada was reported bidding more actively for new Argentine corn, May-June shipments. Oats fluctuated with corn. Provisions reflected upturn in hog values and in cotton.

THREE CHEERS FOR FRANCE'S LINDBERGH'S

This picture was taken just after Lieut. Deudonne Costes and Lieut.-Com. Joseph LeBrix swooped down on Bolling Field, Washington, in the plane that carried them from Paris across the South Atlantic, through Mexico and into the United States. Left to right are Lieut. Costes; French Ambassador Paul Claudel; Lieut.-Com. LeBrix and Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

AMUSEMENTS AT THE DELFT The Frank Winninger Company tonight will offer "Potash and Perlmutter, Detectives," to the audience at the Delft. The play is the last of the series of plays relating the adventures of the two famous partners, Abe and Mawruss. In this "chapter" the pair inherit a detective agency and the inheritance is so framed that they must operate the establishment for one year or forfeit a large sum of money. So they become detectives. Frank and Adolph Winninger will be seen as the partners.

"A Dutch Blockhead," was the offering again last night and enjoyed Frank's work as the villain—thoroughly detestable but as thoroughly funny. There will be no Saturday matinee, Sunday afternoon "The New Stenographer" will be given as a matinee and the engagement will close Sunday night with "High Stakes."

AT THE STRAND The cast of "The False Alarm," now showing at the Strand Theatre, is one of the most popular appearing in any picture production at the present time. The days when stars were identified solely with one producing company are a thing of the past, excepting in one or two instances, and players of wide fame and popularity go from one studio to another, as offer lists.

INSULIN TREATMENT Is Standardized Geneva—Sufferers from diabetes henceforth will be able to obtain a uniform insulin treatment wherever they may travel in the world, thanks to the standardization of insulin worked out by the health section of the League of Nations. The standard has been accepted almost universally.

PRINCE OF WALES Raps Stiff Shirts London—Soft evening shirts may be put on the fashion map by the protests the Prince of Wales made against starched fronts in his speech before the Birmingham Jewelers. W. Knightsmith, the father of toastmasters who drafted the attention for His Lordship's "Stiff and So" at every important public dinner in London, suggests that if prominent personages would wear soft shirts on dress occasions the public will gladly fall in line.

Bobbed Hair Is Out for Officers' Wives

Berlin (AP)—Bobbed hair does not conform with the regulations for the German navy, the commanding admiral of the Baltic naval station has decreed. In an injunction to the naval officers under his command, the "big chief" censured "this objectionable form of headdress" favored by many wives and daughters of naval officers who were ordered to induce their ladies to adopt a more befitting method of wearing their hair—as soon as possible.

JIM M'LARNIN TRIMS TERRIS

Irishman Whips Way to Front Rank of Lightweights

BY EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer.)
New York, Feb. 24—(P)—A new title sensation—young Jimmy McLarnin of the baby Irish face and placid mien—came out of the west tonight and flattened Sid Terris, pride of New York's lightweights, with just two punches.

Labeled as the next lightweight champion and scheduled to battle Sammy Mandell for the crown next summer, the stocky little celt from Los Angeles stalked calmly into the Garden ring and before 18,000 spectators—the most doubling fight fans in the world—definitely established his title class for all time.

There was just a little fainting of the head, a little movement of the shoulders, and a short right-hand punch to the chin that put a fear of forked lightning into Terris' heart. Then as Sid tried his left hook, another tiny bolt of leather-lightning, travelling so short a distance that half the spectators missed its flight, crashed full on the point of Terris' chin.

Bout Lasts 1 Min., 47 Sec.
As if his legs suddenly had been cut from under him with a giant scythe, Terris dropped flat on his face, head plowed in the glove of his right hand, while the referee tolled 10 and the largest crowd of the present in-door season howled in acclaim of an Irish warrior.

The bout lasted one minute and 47 seconds and even in that short time there was little action until the crashing climax. Terris, bounding, dancing bolt of lightning, shot out to set the pace at the opening gong.

He did, too, for over a minute, while McLarnin stalked him carefully, rolling his head from Terris' leads with both hands cocked for the kill. Almost at the start, Jimmy sent a whistling right past Sid's ear that brought a pained expression to the bounding one's face.

Then Terris landed a left hook, his sole offensive contribution of the evening. A flurry on the ropes, the rebound to the center of the ring, and then the flash of leather and the thud of Terris' fall from the front ranks of the lightweight contenders.

Sammy Dorfman, East Side featherweight, smacked Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., negro, into defeat in an eight-round semi-final. Dorfman scaled 12½; Suggs 12.

Dominick Petrone, Harlem featherweight, won an eight-round decision over Low Perletti, Hometown rival in a slambang duel.

Willie Siegel, 130½, of New York, defeated Walter Babcock, 132½, of Jersey City, in a four-round preliminary.

FOUR RECORDS SET AT MEET

Michigan College Athletes Compete in Eighth Annual Carnival

East Lansing, Feb. 24—(P)—Four new records were established here tonight as athletes of Michigan's colleges competed in the eighth annual Michigan State college of indoor relay carnival. Frank Glaser of Marquette U. pushed the pole mark up to 12 feet, 4 inches. Cline of the Central State Teachers' college leaped 5 feet, 11½ inches to a new high jump mark, and the Michigan State Teachers' college two mile relay team established a new record of 8:39.1.

Failure of Harold McAtee to rise to his usual form spoiled an expected struggle for honors in the pole vault. Close finishes marked a majority of the events, although previous performances in the meet had placed the majority of the records beyond the reach of the competing athletes.

The University of Michigan two mile relay team took the measure of the Michigan State quartet in a special number. Wilmarth, State college runner, led during one leg of the race, giving his opponent an advantage that was never overcome. The time of 8:38.7 bettered the old record of 8:41.6.

The summaries:

Shot put—Won by Alman, Ypsilanti normal; second, P. Smith, Michigan State college; third, Tillotson, Michigan State college. Best distance 43 feet.

40 yard dash (special)—Won by Beck, Ypsilanti normal; second, Boyd, Ypsilanti; third, Peterson, M. S. C. Time: 04.8.

40 yard dash (open)—Won by Lang, M. S. C.; second, Hester, Ypsilanti; third, Trepz, Marquette. Time: 04.7.

40 yard low hurdles—Won by Spence, Detroit City college; second, Taylor, Ypsilanti; third, Thompson, Marquette. Time: 1:05.2.

50 yard high hurdles—Won by Thompson, Marquette; second, Lovin, Kalamazoo; third, Munro, Ypsilanti. Time: 05.6.

(Spence, Detroit City college, won, but was disqualified for upsetting all the hurdles.)

440 yard relay (open)—Won by M. S. C.; second, Marquette; third, Ypsilanti; fourth, Detroit City. Time: 47.7.

Matched Relays.

880 yard relay for junior colleges—Highland Park Junior college defeated Flint Junior college. Winner's time 1:47.3.

880 yard relay—Marquette U. defeated M. S. C. Winner's time 1:41.9.

880 yard relay—Ypsilanti normal defeated Kalamazoo normal. Time 1:42.5.

880 yard relay—Detroit City defeated Central normal. Time 1:42.9.

One mile relay—M. S. C. defeated Marquette U. Time 3:48.8.

One mile relay—Ypsilanti defeated Central. Time 3:55.9.

One mile relay—Detroit City defeated Kalamazoo. Time 3:50.6.

Pole vault—Won by Glaser, Marquette; McAtee, M. S. C., and Cushman, Kalamazoo, tied for second; fourth, Whitney, Ypsilanti. Height 12 ft., 6 in.

300 yard dash (open)—Won by Land, M. S. C.; second, Hendon, M. S. C.; third, Duguid, Central normal; fourth, Knutson, M. S. C. Time: 36.2.

880 yard matched relay for freshmen—Won by Detroit City college; second, Ypsilanti; Michigan State college team disqualified, only three entered. Time 1:43.

High jump—Won by Cline, Central; second, Lovin, Kalamazoo; third, Munro, Ypsilanti; fourth, Spade, Ypsilanti. Height 5 ft., 11½ in. (New record, old record 5 ft., 11-3-8 in.).

Two mile relay—Won by Ypsilanti; second, Kalamazoo; third, Marquette. Time 8:39. (New record, old record 8:39.5).

Two mile relay—U. of Michigan defeated M. S. C. Time 8:38.7. (New record, old record 8:41.6.).

ESCANABA QUINT PLAYS Stalling Game; Loses to Gladstone, 4 to 0

With Escanaba playing a stalling game during the first half and Gladstone working the same system during the second half, the Uppay five hesitated to a 4-0 victory over Coach Roel's Orange and Black basketballers.

The low score is rivaled only in one other case in an upper peninsula game. Five years ago the Vulcan high school quintet eked out a 3 to 0 victory over the Norway five.

At the tip-off, Gustafson, Escanaba guard, grabbed the ball and held it for nearly four minutes while his teammates protected him. The stalling continued through the first period, with the fans booing "for action." At the opening of the second period, the same tactics were employed, but Kircher, Uppay forward, broke through the defense and made good on a chance for a field goal. At the tip-off Gustafson again nabbed the ball and kept out of harm's reach until the half whistle sounded.

Coming back for the third period, Gladstone, determined to beat Escanaba at their own game, handed the ball to Kircher who tucked it under his arm for the entire period.

The fourth period displayed the most action of the game. Kircher had another chance at the basket but missed. However, he netted another two points on his third and last chance at the loop.

Rouman, who committed a double foul, was responsible for the only other mark on the scorer's book. Lambert, Escanaba forward, failed on both chances to profit on the charity tosses.

With the fans shouting for play and more of it, Williamson of Gwin, who handled the whistle, was helpless to remedy the situation.

IOWA DEFEATS ILLINI, 41 TO 27

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 24—(P)—Iowa overpowered the Illinois basketball team, 41 to 27, in a brilliant finish tonight. Both teams played a wild rough game with much fumbling.

The Illini seemed content to take long shots most of the time, despite their lack of success. Doen came back to the squad after a fortnight's illness, but he was one of the two Illini sent out on personal fouls.

Wilcox, Iowa's high scoring center, also went out on personal fouls but the Hawkeyes had the game stowed away before he retired.

ON SPORTS
BOB MATHERNE

Modest Harry Gill may be on the coaching staff of the United States Olympic team this summer and if the Illinois mentor is chosen it will be no more recognition than his record deserves.

For 25 years Gill has been in charge of track at Illinois. While he is not one of those fellows who always are telling you what they have accomplished, you can look at the records of Illinois teams to see that he has been a success over this span of years.

Gill, fight for the shortstop berth on that club. Reeves was with the Senators last summer, but Gill was in the minors.

Athletes developed by Gill scored 35 points in the Paris games, more points than those made by any other university and more than twice as many points as athletes from Harvard, Princeton and Yale combined made.

Gill has developed many famous athletes in his career, probably the most celebrated being Harold Osborn, who established new world indoor and outdoor records in the high jump and won the decathlon in the Olympic games.

Perhaps Gill won't land a berth on the Olympic coaching staff, but it won't be because he is underserving of the honor and doesn't know his stuff about handling men and track athletes.

PITCHERS ARE AGAIN HOLDOUTS

Usual "Thorn in the Thumb" Bothering Baseball Managers

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24—(P)—The problem of pitchers who might be classed as holdouts, usually the first thorn in the side of major league managers, continues to harass some baseball bosses as the initial week of the 1928 training season draws to a close, but so far as the Washington Senators are concerned, Clark Griffin has only one of his regulars to worry about.

Griffin was notified at Tampa today by Fred Marberry and Garland Braxton, both counted for regular mound duty, that they had agreed to terms and were starting for the training camp to sign contracts. With Tom Zachary having signed earlier in the week, only Sam Sam Jones remains away from the fold.

He, however, with several other flingers from various clubs, has until March 1 to make known his intentions, an earlier managerial edict having pronounced that none would be considered actual holdouts until that date.

Among other pitchers from whom no word has been received and whose contracts are unsigned are Flint Rhem of the St. Louis Cardinals; Jimmy Ring, of the Phillies; Dazy Vance, of the Brooklyn Robins; Waite Hoyt, of the New York Yankees, and Charlie Ruffing, of the Boston Red Sox.

Possible holdouts in out departments will not begin to concern managers until full squads report after March 1.

Meanwhile, the training program of virtually all clubs on the ground continues in preliminary stages and probably will not be accelerated for another week when second squads reinforce the Cardinals at Avon Park; the Braves at St. Petersburg; the Phillies at Winterhaven; Athletics at Ft. Myers; Senators at Tampa; the Browns at Palm Beach, and the Red Sox at Brandon. It will be Sunday before camps are opened by the Yanks at St. Petersburg; the Robins at Clearwater, and the Cincinnati Reds at Orlando, although a small squad of Brooklynites is expected tomorrow morning.

M. S. C. ENDS SEASON TONIGHT

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 24—(P)—Michigan State college will close its basketball season here Saturday night when it will attempt to avenge a former defeat at the hands of Marquette university earlier in the season.

Marquette is one of the four teams which have turned back the Spartans this year. A repetition of its strong defense as displayed against Sparta earlier in the year may end State's winning streak of five straight games. The East Lansing institution has won ten games to date.

Only the selection of Schau at guard and Felt at center is certain in the starting lineup for State. Denherder and Van Zylen comprised the forward combination given credit for the Detroit victory last year, but Marquette's defense may force Coach Ben Van Alstyne to start Dickson or Grove. McGillicuddy or Russo will get the call at the other guard.

Frosh Girl Team Defeats Juniors

The Freshmen Girls of Escanaba high school defeated the Juniors, 12 to 10, in an overtime basketball game Thursday evening. The Seniors girls triumphed over the Sophomores in a one-sided game by a 9 to 0 score.

During the illness of M. Ollason, keeper of Suleskerry Light-house, off the coast of Scotland, he was treated by a doctor on shore who daily prescribed treatment by radio until Ollason was strong enough to be taken 40 miles to Suleskerry.

Garden Quintet to Play Esky Chokers

Garden, Feb. 24 (Special)—The Garden city team will clash with the Herringchokers, one of the strongest amateur quintets of Escanaba, on the local floor Saturday night. A large crowd is expected to attend.

Champion Defeated Semi-finals of Handball Tourney

Detroit, Feb. 24—(P)—Albert Hobelman of Baltimore, defending champion, was eliminated in the semi-final of the National Y. M. C. A. hand ball tournament here tonight by Joe Griffen of Detroit, Michigan state champion.

The result furnished the biggest upset of the tournament, as Hobelman was an overwhelming favorite to retain the title. The score was 21-16, 21-10.

In the other semi-final contests, George Nelson of Brooklyn, National A. A. U. champion, defeated Otto Berg of Toledo, 21-10, 21-7. Nelson and Griffen will meet for the title tomorrow night.

Dakota Boxer Wins Referee's Decision

Detroit, Feb. 24—(P)—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., lightweight, won the referee's decision over Spug Meyers of Pocatello, Idaho, in a slashing ten-round contest here tonight. Meyers after receiving a belting in the early rounds that had him groggy, came back with a furious rally in the closing sessions, but was unable to overcome the big lead piled up by his opponent.

Joe Medill, Chicago lightweight, received the verdict over Johnny Mellow in the six-round semi-final. Sammy Silverberg, Detroit lightweight, was awarded the decision over Len Darcy, also of this city, after six rounds of nip-and-tuck fighting.

Al Root, Detroit heavyweight, won the decision over Murray Gillett of New York in a close six-round contest.

Les Marriner, former University of Illinois football player, knocked out Fred Rivers of Ford, Ontario, in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout. The men are heavyweights.

Leonard Price, Detroit heavyweight, paved his way to a four-round decision over Russ Haymaker of Windsor, in the opener.

EXPERT TALKS ON HERD CARE

Horwood Conducts Four Dairy Meetings in Delta County.

The importance of using a pure bred sire was stressed by Russell E. Horwood, U. P. dairy specialist, in talks on "Herd Management" before Delta county dairy men in four communities on Thursday and Friday.

The feeding of the dairy cow and calf, which was discussed at previous meetings, is one of the main requisites in successful herd management, Mr. Horwood explained at the outset of his talk. Equally as important, however, is the matter of breeding.

"Every animal has its capacity for limit of what it can produce," Mr. Horwood said. "By using sires whose dams have made a record that is considerably above the average production of the herd, we can increase the ability of the offspring in production."

"A proven sire is an animal who has daughters that have higher production records than the dam. More of such sires should be kept in use."

Two Stores Here Being Improved

Extensive improvements are now being made to the interior of the L. A. Erickson and the Manning & Sullivan stores. Both places were considerably damaged by fire a few weeks ago.

Work on the Erickson store will be virtually completed today, while major repairs to the Manning & Sullivan shoe shop will get under way Monday.

The work of redecorating the walls and ceilings and installing various fixtures will in no way interfere with the usual business operations of the two establishments, it was announced.

Fountain pens were used as long ago as 1600.

BRIEFLY TOLD

Escanabans in Florida: Henry A. Robb, of Fort Pierce, Fla., a former Escanaban, writes: "Last Monday we drove over to Okechobee to meet Mr. and Mrs. C. M. PYTHIANS CALL ROLL OF LODGE

Appleton Clergyman Gives Splendid Address at Banquet

Some of mankind's greatest benefactors lie in unmarked graves, their names forgotten, their achievements unsung, Rev. Henry S. Gately of Appleton told members of the Knights of Pythias at the Escanaba lodge's annual roll call banquet last night.

There are no monuments to the memory of these men. Their names are not written in the halls of fame. They were the unknown soldiers in the army of civilization.

Rev. John B. Hubbard was toastmaster. A splendid musical program was furnished for the occasion by "Bill Lang's Gang" and C. Arthur Anderson sang two solos which were greatly appreciated.
