

REED IS GIVEN STATE SUPPORT

Is Voted Triumphant Return to Leadership in Missouri

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 28—(P)—Missouri democracy today voted Senator Jim Reed a triumphant return to leadership of the party in his home state on a platform assuring the veteran Missourian of a block of 36 votes in his fight for the Democratic presidential nomination at Houston.

In striking contrast to the wave of anti-Reed bitterness which swept the state eight years ago, the name of Reed today dominated the platform, adopted by the state convention. It instructed the state's delegation to vote for the senator's nomination as a unit so long as his name remains before the national convention.

Peace and harmony marked the meeting and there was none of the animosity that sprang up against the senator in 1920 when he even was refused a place on the state delegation to the San Francisco national convention.

"His services in the United States senate have excited the admiration of all the people and we acclaim him a peerless champion in the cause of good government," the platform declared.

The convention elected W. T. Kemper of Kansas City as national committeeman without opposition, and named Mrs. Charles R. Paris of St. Louis, wife of Federal Judge Paris, as national Democratic committee woman to succeed Mrs. Emily Newell.

Woman, 104, Enjoys First Airplane Ride

EDITOR'S NOTE—Mrs. Catherine Fenton of Jamestown, N. Y., who celebrated her 104th birthday on January 10, took her first airplane ride today and wrote the following story, copyrighted by the St. Petersburg, (Fla.) Times and the Associated Press, giving her impressions of the experience.

BY CATHERINE FENTON, St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 28—(P)—My life-long ambition has been gratified, and I am happy, oh, so happy!

This afternoon, I had the privilege of taking an airplane trip with George Haldeman, the pilot who took Ruth Elder on her flight across the Atlantic, and I'll venture to say that Ruth was no more thrilled or happier for her experience than I was this afternoon.

When I celebrated my 104th birthday recently, I told the newspaper reporters that my ambition was to make a flight, and today Mrs. Evelyn Barton, founder of the Three Quarter Century club of St. Petersburg, told me she had arranged for Mr. Haldeman to take me up.

I was as excited as when I had my first sweetheart, and could hardly wait to be bundled into the automobile and be hustled out to the flying field.

Owing to an injury to my knee, it is necessary for me to go about on crutches, and I had to be helped into the plane. My daughter, who was standing near by, said I couldn't go. She was afraid I would get hurt getting into the machine, but I had my way.

When I was inside, I was very much surprised; the cabin was big enough for six people. We were very comfortable on the wicker chairs, and the interior was much as the inside of our family sedan.

Wanted to Handle Plane. The motor was started and the propeller started to hum. The movie men were climbing all over the plane, and I was afraid we wouldn't get started. But we did.

Off went the plane, bumping down the field, just like an automobile over a rutted road. There was a smooth place it seemed. But then I looked out and realized it was smooth because we were already in the air.

I watched the little arrow in the dial on the front of the plane climb higher and higher as we went up. Mr. Haldeman was driving with a wheel just like an automobile wheel, and as there was a duplicate of it in front of the vacant seat along side him, I wanted to try it, but owing to my injured leg, I couldn't get up front.

The Gulf was far below us and looking away out there to the west, with nothing but water in sight. I thought I could imagine how Mr. Haldeman and Ruth Elder must have felt when they were out over the Atlantic with nothing but water about them.

We sailed about for a long time, and I enjoyed every minute of the time. We had gone perhaps 20 or 30 miles, and I reflected on that long trip across the Atlantic as a young girl, when Scotland, where I was born, when it took our old sailing ship about a month to make the trip and the ox carts in which we travelled overland to make our home in the wilderness.

"Trip Was Wonderful." Changes have come, and even greater changes are coming in the future. The human race is only learning to use its mind, and it is not possible to foretell what will happen in the next hundred years.

If one had predicted the flight I made this afternoon back when I was a girl, they would have been burned as witches or placed in the insane asylum. I confidently believe that aviation will become the accepted mode of travel in America.

But the trip was wonderful. I could have stayed there all day and never gotten tired. But Mr. Haldeman had to get back, so we started back to the landing field.

Softly the plane dropped down toward the earth and then we struck the ground, just as easy, taxied around the field and came to a stop.

And the welcome we received. The people clapped their hands and called "Smile, grandma, smile," as if I wasn't grinning from ear to ear and having the time of my life.

I hope to try it again some time. I think it would be lots better going to our home in New York and back every year than coming by train or automobile.

TO INCREASE PRISON LABOR

Will Double Number of Convicts Employed on Highway Projects

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 28—(P)—The state will use more than twice as many prison inmates on highways work this year as in any other season, Arthur D. Wood, commissioner of pardons and paroles announced today.

Instead of the approximately 600 inmates on road work in 1927 about 1,250 will be sent out. To accommodate them, three new prison road camps will be established at Ovid, Allendale and Lowell. These will supplement the existing camps at Belding, Cambridge Junction and Grand Rapids. In addition prisoners will be sent out from Ionia and Jackson to nearby projects.

All the inmates placed on highway work will be short termers approaching the expiration of their sentence, Wood said. Control over them will be centralized to avoid conflicts. Canteens will be limited to the sale of a few ordinary articles to discourage squandering money. The prisoners will be paid a graduated scale, from five to ten cents an hour, depending upon their willingness and ability. Gambling will not be permitted and there will be no camp favorites, such as a few prisoners who were allowed to visit dances and carnivals in neighboring towns two years ago.

The doubling of the number of inmates on highway work involves additional projects undertaken by the state on its own account. Although no definite 1928 building program has been completed, it was stated the prisoners will be employed on U. S. 127, near Rome, M-60 southwest of Jackson, paving M-21 between Owosso and St. Johns, and from Saranac and Saranac, M-43 south of Ionia, 2 1/2 miles on M-44 near Belding, 3 miles on M-66, between Belding and Greenville, paving M-50, from Grand Rapids west through Ottawa county to U S 31 and some work on the same route on West Bridge street shoulders and paving.

HOOVER, SMITH HOLD LEAD IN FIRST ROUNDS

many months, is being shaken by the reports of activity in the southern states on the part of favorite sons and other candidates. The democratic favorite sons are numerous and include several senators. The outstanding ones at the moment would seem to be Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Senator George of Georgia, Senator Reed of Missouri, Representative Walsh of Tennessee, and Evans Woolen of Indiana. There is a recurrence of talk about Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war in the Wilson administration. He comes from the progressive wing of the party. He has declared for Al Smith and the Ohio delegation will be predominantly for the New York governor, but for second choice, Newton Baker is being talked of again.

There are enough favorite sons in the field to block Al Smith's nomination. The rumor that Governor Smith would withdraw his name if not nominated before ten ballots is going the rounds. In other words he will not lend himself, it is assumed, to a prolonged fight. If this is true the anti-Smith block will simply hold out for ten ballots and veto the Smith nomination. There are rumors, too, that Smith finally will not consent to have his name before the convention, but this is merely the conjecture of politicians, with whom in some instances the wish is known to be father of the thought.

Smith and Hoover Lead. Governor Smith is still the leading candidate but his nomination is being threatened by the activities of favorite sons who may never form an actual coalition but who may by their persistent votes on roll call after roll call have the effect of blocking the Smith nomination.

Presidential politics may be summed up in a sentence—Herbert Hoover and Al Smith are fighting to hold first place with all kinds of maneuvers and strategy being developed to take the lead from them.

CONFESSION IS CAUSE OF FIGHT

Attorneys Battle Over Written Statement of Hiram Reed

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 28—(P)—Hiram Reed's confession of dynamiting the Pleasant Valley school house was the center of a bitter fight today at the trial of the young farmer on a bombing charge.

A dozen state witnesses testified to his admission of guilt in putting dynamite in the school stove in an attempt to avoid fatherhood and marriage with Iola Bradford, the 23-year-old teacher.

The arguments and testimony were not heard by the jury, which was sent from the room so Judge Hayes might decide as to the admissibility.

The girl's father, Rev. Herbert Bradford, a retired Presbyterian minister, was in court today for the first time. Her mother attended every session except yesterday's when her daughter was on the witness stand.

State's Attorney on Stand. The defense made a motion after the state called its last witness to strike out all the testimony regarding the confession. This was overruled.

The first defense witness was the state's attorney himself, Russell O. Hanson. Through Hanson, Atty. George Spranger showed that a phrase in the first confession written by Hanson and signed by Reed was garbled. He kept the state's attorney on the stand only a moment and then subpoenaed the county jailer.

The state's witnesses, consisting chiefly of the sheriff, his deputies, members of the state's attorney's staff and persons who happened to be at the Pleasant Valley school when Reed was taken back there, told a graphic story. They said Reed admitted putting the dynamite in the stove and being the father of Miss Bradford's unborn child.

He told some of the witnesses, according to the testimony, he had never intended to marry the girl. Miss Bradford showed no emotion when she heard this, and Reed himself was very quiet.

The first match was made by John Walker, a druggist at Stockton-on-Tees, England, in 1827; safety matches were invented by Lundstrom of Sweden in 1855.

Fail to Find Body of Flyer

Melbourne, Fla., Feb. 28—(P)—

Rekindled by the sighting in the seat today of an object resembling a human body, hope flared on tonight as searchers continued their efforts to locate the body of Harry Brooks, Ford chief pilot, missing since his flivver monoplane dived into the ocean here last Saturday.

The object sighted by watchers on the shore near the inlet, 15 miles south of here, was gone when a seaplane reached the spot after the pilot was informed that no boats were available at the inlet. Vessels later were brought to the spot. Meanwhile, the land patrols paced the beach for a long distance in the vicinity of where the monoplane fell and aided by policemen on motorcycles kept watch for the possibility the tide may yet cast up the body as it did the plane yesterday and parts of its equipment last night.

At the same time, boats combed a 30-mile stretch at sea and seaplanes added their eyes to the constant vigil. Although no definite plans yet have been made, citizens of this place talked today of holding a public funeral service on the beach in case the body remained unaccounted for.

Fishermen, pointing to the residual construction of the shallow ocean floor near here, still held to the theory that the body, if not devoured by sharks, may be found under one of the reefs and thrown out by the tide at any surge.

Committee Will Start Taking Testimony Soon

Washington, Feb. 28—(P)—The taking of testimony in the senate investigation of conditions in the central bituminous field where union miners have been out of work for nearly a year, will be started next week, it was announced today by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, who heads the committee of inquiry.

The sub-committee of five, of which Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, is chairman, returned here today after a five days' trip of inspection in the Pennsylvania fields and will make its report upon the arrival of one of its members, Senator Wagner, who went direct from Pennsylvania to his home in New York.

This report will contain the findings of the sub-committee on its inspection in the Pennsylvania district where officials of both the United Mine Workers and the operators of the larger Pennsylvania coal companies were interviewed during the time the sub-committee spent in the field around Pittsburgh.

These officials will be summoned here before the entire committee to present their statements as to the controversy. In addition, the committee is expected to summon officers of the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio railroads as a result of charges during the senate debate on the Johnson resolution for the inquiry to destroy the Mine Workers' Union.

MOB ATTACKS WORKERS; 15 ARE INJURED

The mine would be opened today with non-union workers. Reports said that upward of 150 non-union diggers would be brought in, but this morning only 20 men had entered the workings.

Immediately after the crowd, among which there was many women, set foot on the mine property last night, they attacked the commissary where the guards were quartered. Sticks and stones were hurled. Although machine guns and shotguns were stored in the building the guards were able to drive the crowd away with tear bombs. Early today the crowd reappeared but left when warned other measures would be employed to drive them away. They left without any further trouble.

Seven men were arrested and taken to Columbus to be arraigned in federal court. The mine recently was granted an injunction to protect it from depredations at the hands of union sympathizers.

DETROIT MAN IS FREED OF CHARGE OF KILLING GIRL

Detroit, Feb. 28—(P)—George L. White, purchasing agent for the Briggs Manufacturing company, charged with negligent homicide in connection with the death of Miss Louise Gordon, was acquitted today by a jury in circuit court. The jury recommended that he not be permitted to drive an automobile for five years.

Rising suddenly with tears streaming down his cheeks, White voluntarily promised he would follow the jury's recommendations.

Miss White was fatally injured when struck by White's automobile while standing in a safety zone the night of December 7, last.

The jury had considered the case for nearly seven hours and had returned to the court room twice for instructions. In his charge to the jury, Judge Adolph Marschner had declared that White was not charged with driving at an excessive speed, and had not been drinking, but that he was charged with driving recklessly.

PROHIBITION NOT ISSUE!

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28—(P)—Prohibition was brushed aside as a campaign issue by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, as he entered California today to wage a fight, he said, against "corrupt Washington" and for a "united Democratic party."

Taking a day off from speech making, the Democratic presidential candidate confined his public utterances to newspapermen who surrounded him shortly after his arrival here today. They popped the inevitable question which newspapermen at other stopping places have put to the senator, and asked him about prohibition.

"I don't think prohibition is an issue in this campaign," the silver-haired campaigner growled, holding the arm of his chair with a fist holding an unlighted cigar. "Prohibition is on the statutes and until the law is changed by the people, there it is, and, of course, it must be enforced. If you want to settle that issue now, disband the Republican and Democratic parties—they are both split on it—and fight it out with prohibition and anti-prohibition parties."

"The first issue, in my humble opinion, is to get rid of the crooks and scoundrels who are running the government—to set up an honest government which will try to act in the interest of the people."

Speaks in Frisco Friday. Remembering that he had been in public life for 30 years, the senator said "the people ought to know how I stand on most things." He recalled his answer in Phoenix last night that if he had the power to name judges and law officers to enforce the Volstead act, he would name men who would enforce "all laws with justice and fairness."

Definite announcement was made today that the senator would speak in San Francisco on Friday night. Tentative arrangements have been made also for stops at Reno, Nevada; Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah; and Frankfort, Kentucky, on the return eastward. Only one day will be devoted to both Ogden and Salt Lake City. At Frankfort he will address, by invitation, the Kentucky state legislature.

Roof of Train Shed Collapses; 1 Hurt

Cincinnati, Feb. 28—(P)—Burying one empty passenger train and missing two others by a narrow margin, a section of the Central Union depot crashed today, injuring one man and causing about $15,000 damage.

Louisville & Nashville No. 34 from Atlanta had unloaded its passengers and its crew awaited a signal to back into the yards when the steel and wooden trusses and metal roof over an area 300 by 200 feet dropped without warning, covering five tracks.

C. H. Bruen, a switchman, was cut about the head and body.

Ontario Liquor Board Presents Financial Report

Toronto, Feb. 28—(P)—The liquor control board of Ontario, in a financial statement submitted to the legislature today, reported total sales of wine, spirits and beer during its first five months of operation of $17,533,659, and net profits of $2,804,760.

Motor Accidents Not Increased by Liquor in Canada

Toronto, Feb. 28—(P)—Although he said the increase in accidents was due largely to the increase in motor cars, Attorney General Price, in denying the contention that government sale of liquor had increased motor accidents, quoted to the legislature today figures to show an increase in motor accidents in the United States since the introduction of prohibition.

"It would be foolish to say that the increase is due to the Volstead act," he said, "but the fact remains that in a prohibition country you have the most appalling record in the world. The increase, no doubt, was largely due to the increase in motor cars, and so it has been here.

He said that crime in the United States was rampant and drunkenness had increased tremendously since prohibition. He read statistics from the States dealing with bootlegging, alcoholic deaths, crime, and fatalities, lawlessness, juvenile delinquency to support his claim that prohibition was compared with government sale.

Weather Injures Seed Peanut Crop

Washington—Federal authorities warn that immediate steps should be taken to safeguard the supply of seed peanuts for the plantings to be made next spring.

The present emergency is a result of unfavorable weather in parts of the peanut producing sections during the growing season in 1927.

Now economic importance as a crop, peanuts are depended upon by eastern seaboard growers for much of their farm profits. Price trends this winter and the growing commercial demand for peanuts are likely to stimulate the planting of an increased acreage in 1928.

In Virginia and eastern North Carolina the demand is largely for Bunch and Jumbo seed, while in the south growers want seed of the Spanish and improved Spanish varieties. Farmers who have well matured, plump peanuts free from mold and discoloration are advised to save carefully a supply of seed for their own and their neighbors' use.

Nebraska's rivers and lakes have a surface area of 712 square miles, slightly less than one per cent of the state's area.

Bakersfield, Cal., Feb. 28—(P)—A series of earthquakes shook the oil fields on the outskirts of this city tonight. One of the shakes was accompanied by a roar resembling an explosion.

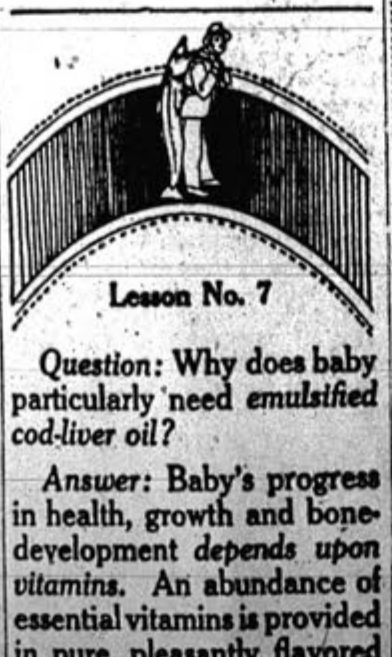

The severest shocks were felt in Olddale and Oil Center, two oil communities about three miles north of this city. Reports from those communities said there were eight or nine shocks.

The shocks began shortly after 7 o'clock with the rattling of doors and increased like a violent windstorm, the final shock

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home.

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health.

I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. FRANK DINDORE, Box 239, Lancaster, Ohio.

Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—Mrs. EDWARD PRASINO, 614 Sturgis Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

CHURCH PRESS DAY OBSERVED

Large Crowd Attends School Program at St. Joseph's

Had St. Joseph's high school auditorium been twice as large, it would scarcely have accommodated the crowd that appeared yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to hear the program prepared by the students of St. Joseph's high school in a fitting program, marking the observance of Catholic Press Week.

The juniors had entire charge of the activities. The juniors artistically decorated the auditorium with many beautiful posters, the work of the pupils of St. Anne's and St. Joseph's parochial schools.

The students vied with one another in the preparation of posters suitable for the occasion and the variety, coloring, designs and original ideas were indeed marvelous. A prize is to be given for the best poster illustrating the need of Catholic literature and a committee composed of persons who are in no way connected with the parochial schools will be chosen to judge the posters which will remain in the auditorium during the balance of this week.

Publications Shown. Various Catholic newspapers, magazines and periodicals were displayed and subscriptions were solicited from those present through original advertising schemes of the juniors.

The members of St. Anne's and St. Joseph's P. T. A. held a joint meeting in connection with the program at which Mrs. George Fish, president of St. Joseph's P. T. A., presided.

for tourist business in 1927," says the A.A.A. "was the trend away from the tourist camps and toward the hotels and tourist homes catering to motorists. The latter enjoyed a heavier business than in the previous year, despite weather conditions that somewhat handicapped the annual vacation movement. In this trend, amounting to an increase of twelve per cent in business, is seen a clear indication of the position of the resort hotel as a permanent fixture in the rest and play life of the motorist.

"The figures for last year show that 29,000,000 people in 7,250,000 cars patronized hotels and tourist homes. On the basis of last year's figures, the total of this class of motorists should soar to 32,000,000 this year.

"Figuring four people to a car and allowing each occupant an expenditure of $7.50 a day, for an average period of ten days, the army of motorists patronizing hotels and resorts would spend nearly two and a half billion dollars in 1928.

"Wandering in nomad fashion, as lured by climate, scenery and history, more than 11,000,000 campers used their cars last year for vacations. The caravan numbered about 2,750,000 automobiles, including those cars lited out for housekeeping and as trailers. This would justify the estimate that more than 12,000,000 campers will use over 3,000,000 pleasure cars to visit the great outdoors this year.

"The camper spends three times as long away from home as the hotel tourist and on a basis of $3.30 per day, per person, nearly a billion and a quarter dollars will be left along the gasoline trail by this class of motorist.

"These tentative estimates for 1928 may appear large, but they are in reality conservative and are based strictly on the figures for the past few years and the normal growth that each year has brought."

Michigan will get a large measure of this business. The Upper Peninsula, of course, will furnish summer entertainment for hundreds of thousands of the visitors. Governor Green recently declared that the tourist business, before many years, would be worth more to this state than the lumber industry in its palmy days. The governor will not have to wait long to see his prediction a reality.

FOUNTAIN PEN, given to Babe Ruth by the Boy Scouts of Burlington, Ia., was found the other day on an ash pile in Menominee. Mystery shrouds the chain of circumstances which placed it there. It is barely possible, however, that Mr. Ruth, being a practical man, believes that fountain pens should be writing instruments as well as ornaments and decided to sacrifice unsupported beauty for an article of both beauty and utility. And who would have thought of looking for anything of value in a Menominee ash pile? "This world," as Cleopatra remarked to Oliver Cromwell, "is the queerest planet I ever inhabited."

Men In Majority at Oxford University

Oxford, England.—Oxford University, although possibly the best known educational institution in the world, has a much smaller student enrollment than the scholastic cities known as American universities. The University year-book for 1928, which has just been issued, gives the number of undergraduates as 6,053, the matriculation for this year being 1,503.

Unlike American universities, however, the proportion of women to men students is very small. The enrollment being divided into 5,126 men and 927 women, which means women are less than 20 per cent of the whole student body. The number of women students has decreased in the last several years, although the University authorities have suddenly become alarmed at the number of women students to the extent of passing a regulation forbidding their number to increase beyond a certain proportion.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

CHAPTER XXXVIII
As Lindquist talked he became more and more agitated. The nerves about his eyes had begun to twitch, and his shoulders jerked like those of a man attempting vainly to control a chill.

"Remember, sir, I was suffering agonies, and my hatred of Spotswoode seemed to cloud my reason. Scarcely realizing what I was doing and yet operating under an irresistible determination, I put my automatic in my pocket and hurried out of the house."

"I thought Miss Odell and Spotswoode would be returning from the theater soon, and I intended to force my way into the apartment and perform the act I had planned. . . . From across the street I saw them enter the house—it was about eleven then—but when I came face to face with the actuality, I hesitated. I delayed my revenge; I played with the idea, getting a kind of insane satisfaction out of it—knowing they were now at my mercy. . . ."

His hands were shaking as with a coarse tremor; and the twitching about his eyes had increased. "For half an hour I waited, gloating. Then, as I was about to go in and have it over with, a man named Cleaver came along and saw me. He stopped and spoke."

"I thought he might be going to call on Miss Odell, so I told him she already had a visitor. He then went on toward Broadway, and while I was waiting for him to turn the corner, Spotswoode came out of the house and jumped into a taxicab that had just driven up. . . . My plan had been thwarted. . . . I had waited too long. Suddenly I seemed to awake as from some terrible nightmare. I was almost in a state of collapse, but I managed to get home. . . . That's what happened—so help me God!"

He sank back weakly in his chair. The suppressed nervous excitement that had fired him while he spoke had died out, and he appeared listless and indifferent. He sat several minutes breathing stertorously, and twice he passed his hand vaguely across his forehead. He was in no condition to be questioned, and finally Markham sent for Tracy and gave orders that he was to be taken to his home.

"Temporary exhaustion from hysteria," commented Vance indifferently. "All these paranoiacs are hypernervous. He'll be in a psychopathic ward in another year."

"That's as may be, Mr. Vance," said Heath, with all enthusiasm that repudiates all enthusiasm for the subject of abnormal psychology. "What interests me just now is the way all these fellows' stories hang together."

"Yes," nodded Markham. "There's undeniably a groundwork of truth in their statements."

"But please observe," Vance pointed out, "that their stories do not eliminate any one of them as a possible culprit. Their tales, as you say, synchronize perfectly; and yet, despite all that neat coordination, any one of the three could have got into the Odell apartment that night."

"For instance: Mannix could have entered from Apartment 2 before Cleaver came along and listened; and he could have seen Cleaver going away when he himself was leaving the Odell apartment.—Cleaver could have spoken to the doctor at half past eleven, walked to the Ansonia, returned a little before twelve, gone into the lady's apartment, and come out just as Mannix opened Miss Frisbee's door."

"Again," the excitable doctor may have gone in after Spotswoode came out at half past eleven, stayed twenty minutes or so, and departed before Cleaver returned from the Ansonia. . . . No; the fact that their stories dovetail doesn't in the least tend to exculpate any one of them."

THE SOUTHEAST WIND.
There's a southeast wind, and it looks like rain.
There's a splash of wet on the windowpane.
Oh, many a southeast wind will blow,
And bring you many a rain, I know.
But the thing to do is the rain to face
And to watch the sky for an open place.
In God's good time, and when God thinks best,
The wind again will blow from the west.
I wish, if I had my way,
It would blow from the west all day,
It would blow from the west for you,
The world be bright, and the sky be blue.
Southeast wind is a part of life,
Care, and a bit of strife.
God thinks best, and not till then,
It will blow from the west again.
Southeast wind, and it blows for all,
The clouds will come, and the rain will fall.
I fear, for the Father knows,
That aches, every wind that blows.
I do not fear the rain to meet,
I'll be brave and a soul still sweet.
I'll be brave and a soul still sweet,
I'll be brave and a soul still sweet,
I'll be brave and a soul still sweet,
I'll be brave and a soul still sweet.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

NO. 15.
Losses arising from fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualty, or from theft, are deductible and need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. The term "other casualty" within the meaning of the statute, is one arising through the physical force of nature—for example, a flood or frost.
Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure or convenience is deductible. Should circumstances attending a loss of jewelry leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced, or lost from his person, a claim for loss would not be allowed. It must be established that the jewelry was stolen.
A loss for embezzlement is deductible for the year in which sustained.

Michigan Republicans to Hold Harmonious Convention

Detroit, Feb. 28.—(P)—A scene decidedly different from that of two years ago will be presented by the Republican state convention here April 25. At the time of the 1926 convention Cass Technical high school, where the convention was held, teemed with policemen, and riot squads were awaiting a sudden call to convention headquarters.

This year only the routine of meeting, naming seven delegates at large and the listening to the keynote oration will occupy the time of the 1,394 delegates who will attend the party convention. County conventions will be held in Michigan on April 11.

Spring Surprise. Factional strife within the ranks of the party which developed in the Wayne county convention of 1926 carried over to the state convention, causing a bitter legal fight, brought state and city police to the convention in that year. There was, however, no disturbance on the convention floor.

The 1926 battle began on September 14, primary election day when a group headed by Edward N. Barnard, attorney for the Detroit Federation of Labor and the jitney operators, and Frank X. Martel, president of the labor organization, succeeded in electing nearly 300 delegates to the Wayne county G. O. P. convention. The total number to be elected was 694.

The opposing faction, headed by John S. Haggerty, chairman of the committee, and Milton Carmichael, secretary of the Wayne county Republican committee, and which for years before elected a controlling slate to the county convention, had no advance knowledge of the Barnard group's intentions. As a result a near-fight was on the county convention floor, and the Haggerty group withdrew and held a convention of their own in another room. Police were called to quell the disturbance.

Held Under Guard. Following the county convention fracas, the state convention was held in Detroit, and the convention hall was placed under police guard. In spite of the undercurrent of feeling, the convention passed quietly, and there was no disorder to mark the occasion.

This year the convention will be no more than a formality, according to present indications. Michigan will name no favorite son to be presented before the national convention. The hearing of the keynote speech, always an important part of the ceremony, will be followed by the naming of delegates and the possible endorsement of a nominee. Gerritt J. Diekema, of Holland, is chairman of the state central committee.

Just a Formality. Governor Fred W. Green has announced that Chase S. Osborn will not be a favorite son candidate in the presidential primary. Friends of Osborn believe that the statement means the ex-governor will seek the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Michigan.

The delegates of the state convention from the several counties of each congressional district will meet at the convention hall on April 25 in a district caucus to select persons for the following positions, to be presented to the State convention for confirmation, according to the proclamation of the chairman:

One vice chairman, one assistant secretary, one member of the committee on credentials, one member of the committee on permanent organization and order of business, one member of the committee on resolutions, one candidate for elector of president and vice-president of the United States.

Seven delegates-at-large are to be named, with seven alternate delegates-at-large.

PAROLE RULES TO BE CHANGED

Better Check on Probationed Persons Seen in Revision

Several changes to the parole agreement, tending to make more strict the stipulations agreed to by a convicted person in receiving his parole by the Delta county circuit court, are proposed by Parole Officer John Judson. That he would approve the revision has been indicated by Judge Frank A. Bell.

One change would permit enforcement officers to search without the usual warrant the person or any vehicle, personal and real property under the control of the individual under parole. The second revision to the agreement is that the paroled person engage in a legitimate occupation, trade or business if physically and mentally able and remain so engaged during his probationary period, unless he is prevented from doing so by circumstances beyond his control.

Must Make Reports. Paragraph nine of the present agreement would be changed to read as follows, according to Parole Officer Judson's third proposal:

"He shall make a report to said probation officer in person or in writing each month and oftener, if so requested by the said probation officer, and in making such report he shall state the nature of the business, trade or employment which he shall have engaged in during the preceding month and if employed, by whom."

In the present agreement, it is not stipulated that the paroled person state in what occupation he is engaged during the period.

The two latter changes are proposed, apparently, to influence paroled law violators, particularly those classified as prohibition law offenders, to earn their livelihood in a legitimate occupation.

The first proposal, wherein the paroled person would agree to allow officers to search without a warrant, is meant to give officers a better opportunity to check up as to whether that person was abiding by his agreement. Cases have arisen where the officers knew a paroled person was storing liquor in his home, but unable to procure any evidence of sale, the authorities were unable to secure the necessary warrant to make a search.

The revision would make paragraph one of the agreement read as follows:

"He shall not drink or have in his possession or under his control either upon his person or in his dwelling or in any other building, room or place whatsoever, any intoxicating liquor except such as he shall have lawfully obtained upon the prescription of a physician in regular practice and lawfully authorized to practice his profession in the state of Michigan and he consents that, upon request at any time or times, by the said assistant probation officer, the sheriff, deputy sheriff, chief of police or any member of the police of the cities of Escanaba or Gladstone to search of his person or any vehicle, personal and real property under his control."

It was learned here yesterday. Hartwig is the only freshman to win a place on a Michigan debating team in years. It was said recently when it was announced that he had been retained on the squad.

Campaign Against Unlicensed Dogs Starts Tomorrow

Owners of unlicensed dogs are subject to arrest and imposition of fines after March 1, according to the law, it was pointed out at the police station yesterday.

Chief of Police John J. Toland said that a campaign against unlicensed dogs would be started tomorrow. Equipped with the "pole and snare," the members of the police force will patrol the city with instructions to pick up all dogs without tags.

Only 155 licenses have been sold thus far while it is estimated there are 500 dogs in the city.

If there are any persons who have dogs for which they do not care to provide protection and wish to have them killed, they may take them to the police station for disposition by the "gas route."

OH, GIRLS, TODAY IS FEBRUARY 29TH!

Girls, today is February 29, and there are just the best chances! On this day in Leap Year, you know, you're supposed to propose to somebody, so why not pick a live one? Here are three nice boys, and aren't their smiles too cute? Gene Tunney up there to the left. What a big, manly fellow! He's champion of something, too, they say. Isn't he perfectly killing? That blond boy in the middle! Wouldn't his smile just make your hair curl? That's Lindbergh. He's an aviator, but very, very bashful. You'll have to handle him with care, girls; he never flies so well as when he's flying away from the ladies. There to the right is a prince! The crown prince of Great Britain. They say he falls off his horse often—maybe he'd fall for you. But anyway, today is February 29, and you're supposed to propose to somebody—so why not aim high?

Path Company Will Play New Comedy in Masonic Auditorium
"The Easy Mark," popular Broadway comedy, will be presented in the Masonic auditorium tonight by a company sent to Escanaba by the Roadpath Lyceum Bureau. The public is invited to attend, and promised a most satisfactory evening's entertainment. "The Easy Mark" is a story of life in the middle-west. It deals with everyday small town folk, their fortunes and misfortunes, joys and sorrows. Sam Crane, the "easy mark" of the play, is a small-town youth with big-town ideas. Descended from hardy pioneers, this youth finds a clerkship in a clothing shop or general store irksome. He seeks bigger things to do. He wants to make big money, not for the sake of possessing it, but because his heart aches at the hard life his mother is leading; because he wants to assure the future happiness of his only sister, and because he wants to attain a degree of material independence which will justify him in asking Mary, the pretty school teacher, to share life with him. Has All Elements. All through the play Sam, stumbling blindly in his efforts to extricate himself from the coils of fate, displays an ingratiating sense of humor that makes him loved by all. "The Easy Mark" is compounded of heart-stirring pathos, love, hilarious laughter, and a plot that furnishes many new and highly comical twists. It will be presented here by a fine cast of New York actors.

IN NEW YORK

New York.—Just across the street from where I write, an army of workers struggle with the stubborn rocks of Manhattan's undercrust. Day by day a jagged hole has been taking shape. Bricks have been tumbling from what was once a trim red building and the cold Greek lines of a corner bank have been turned into the jagged shapelessness of a decayed tooth. Not that this is an unusual scene in New York. It just happens that not so many months hence a 30-story hotel, the largest in the world, will be shutting the light from my window. Men and women will literally be dwelling in the clouds. The corner statistician tells me that there will be 2500 rooms; that once the hotel is filled and all the attendants are present, a city of 10,000 people will stare into my humble window. Employed in looking after it will be as many tollers as are required to maintain and police a city of that size. It is when such imagination-ticklers as this move in upon you, that one begins to grow fearful and a bit awed by the giant whose growing power you like to forget.

Believe it or not, there's an old fellow in Union Square who spends his declining years making voices for dolls. As every good little girl knows, dolls can now say mama and papa and, hence, there must be inventive folk in the world who manufacture the voices. But this old fellow has dedicated his life to increasing their vocabulary. Just now he's hard at work on a very tough doll which will not be welcomed in the best families. For this doll is going to say: "Go to h—." Needless to say it will be modeled after

One of the products of the Arntzen Boat Works, which commenced operations a month ago for the manufacture of outboard motor family boats, will be placed on display next week at the F. H. Baldwin printing office. Three of the boats have been completed with the exception of applying the finishing touches with varnish and paint, and a fourth is under construction. Since announcement was made that the Arntzen Brothers would engage in the boat manufacturing business, many interested persons have visited the shop at 1924 Ludington street. The building of boats by private individuals also has been stimulated, according to retail lumber dealers who have sold lumber for boat building purposes. The craft, which will be displayed in the business district here, has an over-all length of 15 feet 2 inches and is 48 inches in width. It is of sturdy construction, although not cumbersome, having cypress planking, oak frames and keel and mahogany gunwale and deck. A revival in popularity of motor boating has been noted in this section in recent years. One lake resort owner reports that last summer his boats were much in use and that at times he was not able to supply the demands of vacationists who desired to rent them. He displayed much interest in the type of boat being made at the Arntzen plant and indicated that he would need about a half dozen additional boats at his resort next summer. Although they intend to cater mostly to the local business the first year, the Arntzen Brothers intend to do considerable advertising in the national motor boating and outdoor magazines. Upper peninsula newspapers also will be used, it was said. They have secured the agency for the Johnson Outboard Motor, which will be used to equip the Arntzen boats if the customer so desires. For the present, only the family type will be built, but if there is a demand created for the speed-boat model the latter will be included in the line.

BY LEONARD HALL For NEA Service New York.—Bandy-legged little Sir Harry Lauder again has provided a Broadway theatrical sensation. Read the reviews and you won't hear much about him, for the merry lads and lassies of Times Square ever are chasing after new gods. But the Scotsman is scoring a triumph, none the less— even though there is no band before his tent in this mad carnival. Sir Harry was engaged to play a four-week engagement at the Knickerbocker theater here— an unprecedented New York stay for the veteran comic. Then the stop-over was extended a fortnight—Lauder's people wouldn't let him go! When most performers speak of "their public," there usually is more than a little hope, and some nooey, in the use of the phrase. But in Lauder's case it is literal, tremendous, and faithful.

can bring down their emotions and shake them to cheers. They cry with him—such a gathering is more like a household of dear friends than an assembly of an actor to amuse it. They sing with him, they laugh with him. It doesn't seem to make a particle of difference what Sir Harry does up there, and as a matter of fact he is doing just about what he always has done. He has a power over his people that defies description and eludes analysis. Seemingly, he is everlasting. His farewell tours are beginning to rival Patti's. Recently he lost his beloved wife. His one adored son fell in the World War. And yet he goes on and on—bolder and grayer, but no less ardent in the pursuit of his life work. The older and sweeter Lauder's songs are, the more they are enjoyed. He is the everlasting troupier who has made his millions happy. It would do your heart good to see these quiet family folks pouring into the Knickerbocker and coming out amused and delighted by the presence of an old friend. They know what they're going to get when they enter. They get it, and are happy. They'll tell you that he can farwell for them just as long as he's able to totter. And the chances are that he will. The wettest spot on earth is in East Bengal, India, with its 429 inches of rainfall per year.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE

GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little Cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascaring is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges—that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day

New York, Feb. 28-(AP)—Speculation quieted down considerably in today's stock market, but prices displayed a stronger undertone.

The general market appeared to be waiting for some outside development to lift it from the rut in which it has been traveling for the past week or more.

U. S. Steel common opened fractionally lower today at 138 7/8, eased slightly below that level and then ran up to 140 3/8, closing just under that figure for a large fractional gain.

Hudson, which was strong yesterday, ran into heavy profit-taking and closed fractionally lower at 84.

Packard also lost ground, but good gains were recorded by Pierce Arrow preferred, Mack Trucks and Nash.

Rails showed practically no changes of importance. Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading, with sterling cables ruling unchanged around $4.88.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the commodity markets. Cotton futures broke about $1.50 a bale. Grain futures yielded fractionally on reports of increased Argentine offerings of wheat.

IN NEW YORK

New York—On the eve of Washington's birthday I am reminded that no adventure in all Manhattan offers such rich reward to the amateur explorer than taking the trail left by the "father of our country."

Somehow few people think of New York in terms of Washington, or revolutionary scenes of historic reminiscence. New York immediately connotes bright lights, Broadway, skyscrapers and big business, speakases, night clubs and wild life.

At Broad and Wall Streets the rush and tumble of the stock exchange crowds all but hides from view the bronze statue that marks the place where General George Washington was inaugurated in 1789.

So, hustling along in perplexity toward the Bowling Green, you next come upon the lunchers packing into Fraunce's Tavern, where the little balcony recalls the historic farewell address of Washington to his troops.

And, gazing through the relics, you come upon those elaborate wine bills that the modern biographers of the country's father have made so meter pilgrimage is desired, you can start on the march to the upper Two Hundred's, on the trail of the Battle of Harlem.

Or, if a quieter pilgrimage is desired, you can start on the march to the upper Two Hundred's, on the trail of the Battle of Harlem.

On route you may detour to the Jumel Mansion—the house about which hangs so many memories of high gentry; the scene of an early day sophisticated life that recalls the plots of what so many are pleased to call "modern" novels. Betty Jumel, you may recall took Aaron Burr as her second husband. But their wedded life lasted no longer than that of the much-discussed modern marriage. After the hectic Betty, the house was occupied by her niece and became the rendezvous of the literary and art group of the time, that of whose "goings on" can match any yarn that ever came out of Greenwich Village.

Here army court-martials were held and eventually Washington moved his office into the old building.

Some Cigaret Lighters were apparently made for people who don't smoke.
