"BULL" MARKET TAKES TUMBLE

Raising of Call Money Rate to 6% Checks Price Advance

New York, Apr. 10.—Six per cent call money knocked the props from under the "bull" market on the New York stock exchange today and prices of active shares dropped $1 to $1 1/2 a share.

The break came after an early period of irregularity during which powerful speculative pools had succeeded in marking up about a score issues $1 to $1 1/2 a share to new high levels.

Wall Street had not previously been forced to pay 6 per cent on day to day loans on stock collateral since December 31, 1926, the highest charge since that time having been 5 1/2 per cent.

Reserve banks necessitated by the withdrawal of $35,000,000 in gold during the past six months, the marked incidental to the expansion of British business and the approach of state income tax payments.

The 6 per cent rate is expected, however, to result in a heavy flow of funds here for temporary investment by interior banks, which may force them down again.

Wall Street bankers are of the opinion, however, that the easy money rates which have prevailed for the greater part of the last two years are not likely to return for several months. If then, because the huge bank reserves which made them possible are no longer available.

Selling pressure in the stock market was directed chiefly against the high priced specialties which are believed to have been under pool manipulation. Wright Aeronautics broke from $126.50 to $113.25 and rebounded to $122.25, off $4.25 net. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which soared nearly $45 a share yesterday but was only able to retain $18 of the gain, dropped $12.75 today to $261.

Few Issues Marked Up Radio, which has gradually disappeared from the speculative spotlight, dipped from $183.25 to $174.25, closing at $176.25, off $5.25 net.

Speculation in the rails, which has been quite active of late as a result of recent developments in the eastern consolidation conferences, cooled down somewhat when it became known that first quarter freight car loadings were 4.6 per cent below those of the same period last year.

A few issues showed individual strength, Pere Marquette climbing more than $6 a share to a new high of $138.87 1/2 while New York Central rallied from a low of $174 to $177.50, where it showed a gain of nearly $1.50 on the day.

KLANSMAN TELLS OF MURDERS

Burning alive of seven or eight men, one at Terrell, Texas, where he said a white man was convicted by a "kangaroo court," taken to an isolated spot, tarred and oiled, and then set afire as some 300 or 400 hooded klansmen looked on.

In another instance, he said, a man named Smith was tried, convicted of falling to support his family, and, under direction of Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans was tarred and feathered.

Bombed Their Own Temple. The organization of a band of "Night Riders," also known as the "Battalion of Death," to conduct a reign of terror in Ohio, was told of by J. R. Ramsey, of Dayton, who said he was a former member of the riders.

He said the night riders had bombed their own temple in Dayton in an effort to gain sympathy for the klan and to stir up the klansmen against their opponents.

SON-IN-LAW OF FALL IS 4TH WITNESS

pany, owned by Fall and Everhart as trustee for his wife's estate. He elicited from the witness that he first met Sinclair at the Fall ranch in 1921, but business was not discussed. Later the witness said he and Fall discussed the sale of one-third of the ranch to Sinclair and made a valuation of their holdings.

The value approximated $700,000 and it was decided that a third interest in the ranch was worth a third of that amount or $233,000, he added.

At that time, the witness said, Fall held fifty shares of the company, he held 49 as trustee for his wife and one share for himself. The stock certificates were deposited with the M. D. Thatcher estate at Pueblo, Colo., as security for loans totaling about $148,000, of which $83,000 was due on Everhart's notes for the Tres Ritos, $10,000 on Tres Ritos company notes and $15,000 on Fall's personal notes.

Everhart said that he then brought the stock book to Washington where new certificates were issued, 32 shares to Fall, 32 to Everhart and 33 to Everhart as "trustee." The person for whom he was trustee was not named on the books which were introduced. But they were issued Fall told him they were issued to him as trustee for Sinclair.

Bank Cashier On Stand. The trip here was made in May 1922, and Everhart testified he met Sinclair in Fall's office, accompanied him to his private railroad car and received $188,000 in First Liberty loan bonds and later went to Sinclair's office in New York and received the additional $35,000 in Liberty bonds. While there, he testified, he arranged with Sinclair to advance loans at "reasonable rates of interest" and while there paid the oil man $1,100 for cat-tie that Sinclair had shipped to the Fall ranch. Sinclair, he said, suggested that he have some trails built on the ranch that could be used by the oil man's guests and gave him $1,100 in cash.

Proceeding. Everhart on the stand. L. T. Rule, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Pueblo, and A. S. Booth, vice president of the bank, who is also secretary-treasurer of the M. D. Thatcher estate, told of the bonds being brought to Pueblo, $140,500 being used to retire indebtedness owed the Thatcher company, establish a banking account for the Tres Ritos company, to open another account, temporary, for the same company.

That amount of the bonds was purchased by the Thatcher company, Booth said, and a draft also was sent to Fall at El Paso for $2,309. The remaining $90,000 of the bonds were taken by Everhart to Fall at El Paso and used in paying off indebtedness of the ranch, so that the reorganized company would be free from obligations, the witness said.

Byrd Will Employ Former Companions on Polar Journey

New York, Apr. 10.—(AP)—The little party which will accompany Commander Byrd on his Antarctic expedition, Richard E. Byrd when he attempts to fly over the South Pole will include a liberal leavening of men who have been with Byrd on previous adventures.

A list made public tonight by Commander Byrd of the men chosen so far toward the expedition's complement of 55 shows the names of nine who were with him when he flew over the North Pole from Spitzbergen in 1926, and one who was on the trans-Atlantic flight in the America. In addition, he will have one man who was with George Palmer Putnam's Greenland expedition, and hopes to have two who went with Raold Amundsen to the South Pole.

Byrd himself not only will head the expedition, but will command the ice boat Samson in which the party will go as far as possible. Floyd Bennett, who flew with Byrd over the North Pole, will be chief pilot and second in command of the expedition.

HOWELL LEADS IN NEBRASKA

Maintains Slight Lead Over Spillman in Senatorial Race

Omaha, Apr. 10.—(AP)—Senator R. B. Howell was slightly in the lead of Atty. Gen. Spillman for the Republican U. S. senatorial nomination when 223 precincts out of a total of 1983 in Nebraska reported today's election.

The vote was Howell 11,338; Spillman 9,249, giving the senator a lead of 2,139. On the Democratic ticket, Richard L. Metcalf of Omaha led E. E. Placek of Wahoo by 2,000 votes on returns from the same number of precincts.

William R. Ritchie, Jr., was running slightly behind in his contest for Democratic national committeeman against Arthur M. Mullen, incumbent. McMullen, veteran Democratic leader, had 3,399 and Ritchie polled 2,407 in 143 precincts out of 1983.

The McMullen slate is pledged to support state republican presidential candidates favorable to the equalization fee provision in the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, while the McKelvie slate is pledged to support a candidate in sympathy with the administration agricultural policies of President Coolidge.

Governor McMullen's slate of Republican delegates-at-large all led the McKelvie slate with the exception of Magee. The total vote in 151 precincts out of 1983 in Nebraska, on each delegation was: McKelvie slate 33,789; McMullen 38,667.

AUTO TAX IS CAUSE OF ROW

zens, Republican, Michigan, reported that they were the only ones who could benefit by repeal of the tax. Senator Reed countered by showing price lists which he said showed that the automobile industry had not reduced its prices on parts and accessories after the tax was taken off those articles two years ago.

Senator Reed finally asked Weeks if he knew that the Ford company was collecting the $25,000,000 in "imaginary" freight from automobile owners and Weeks said he did not.

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, interrupted to remark this sounded like obtaining money under false pretenses. Senator Couzens replied there was no false pretense about it whereupon Senator Reed said he got his figures from court records.

Opening of the hearings by the committee developed considerable opposition to the house bill with the American Bar Association leading in this attack. Theatre people through William A. Brady, New York, made a spirited appeal for an increase in the exemption on admissions to include tickets of $3 or $3.50. This was necessary, he argued, if the spoken drama is to be preserved.

Tomorrow has been set for the start of the row over the automobile tax which promises to be one of the main battle points in the bill. Mr. Weeks came forward ahead of the American Automobile Association and its friends, however, he said he represented solely the automobile owners.

SMALL TRAILS EMMERSON BY 141,000 VOTES

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney and Small-Thompson standard bearer in Cook county, running for re-election was in a close race with Judge John A. Swanson, the Demense candidate, although Swanson had an edge of more than 5,000 votes on the basis of returns from one-tenth of the county's precincts.

Emmerson, with a lead of more than 80,000 votes over Gov. Small on returns from 1,413 of the state's 6,634 precincts had an advantage which, if maintained, would give him the nomination by more than 375,000 votes, a greater figure than even the Emmerson forces had predicted.

Governor Small, from his home at Kankakee, declared he expected to carry both Cook county and downstate after hearing reports from more than 500 precincts, but the Chicago Herald and Examiner, which supported him, at 9 o'clock, indicated its belief that he was beaten.

The gubernatorial vote for the 1,413 precincts was: Emmerson, 22,301; Small, 141,449. Glenn maintained a majority of more than 22,000 votes over Colonel Smith, with returns from 1,003 precincts which gave: Smith, 114,292; Emmerson, 92,222.

Three hundred of Cook county's 3,056 precincts gave Judge John A. Swanson 34,874 votes for State's attorney and Robert E. Crowe, 27,677 ballots.

RECORD VOTE. Chicago, Apr. 10.—(AP)—When the polls closed at 5 p. m., in Illinois' state-wide primary, it was believed that the intense interest aroused by terrific Republican factional strife and beautiful weather had poured a record vote into the 5,757 boxes throughout the state in an election unexpectedly free from disorder.

Locked in the boxes were the political futures of some of Illinois' outstanding Republican leaders, as well as her presidential preferences and her selections for candidates for all state and county offices, 27 representatives in congress and a U. S. senator to fill the place of Col. Frank L. Smith after the senate twice rejected him.

In only a few instances were there Democratic contests, and in the main the organization men virtually assured of nomination. In Chicago, where the passions aroused by factional fights were expected to blaze into violence, there were the usual reports of intimidation, slugging, kidnapping and ballot box stuffing, but the aggregate did not reach the proportions election officials had feared.

Two Men Shot. An hour before the polls closed, with admittedly the most dangerous two-hour period to follow, two men had been shot, five kidnaped, three beaten and there had been scores of reports of hoodlums cruising wards and intimidating voters. One such group was reported armed with a machine gun.

W. H. Hale Thompson, Chicago's third time mayor, did not face the voters today, but his strength was tested in the races of Robert E. Crowe, seeking nomination for a third term as state's attorney, and Gov. Len Small, also a third term candidate.

With Crowe, Thompson heads a powerful Republican faction in Chicago, which in this election joined its strength with the "downstate" power of Governor Small against the Lowden-Denney ticket. Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden was the only presidential candidate named on the ballot, although the voters had the privilege of writing in others. The Democratic leaders urged that the name of Gov. A. E. Smith of New York be written in.

GIRL STOWAWAY FOUND ON SHIP

Customs Officers Discover Young Woman When Searching Boat

Boston, Apr. 10.—(AP)—A girl who had been a stowaway on board the Shipping Board steamer Culbertson for nearly a month, was discovered here today by a special customs squad searching the vessel for contraband liquor. She gave her name as Flora Gonzales, 25, and said she boarded the vessel at Montevideo, Uruguay, March 13.

When the customs men opened a locker in the boiler room they found what appeared to be a diminutive member of the "black gang" clad in an old torn shirt, overalls, sneakers and cap. There were several blankets in the room and a container for water and remnants of food indicated that a member of the crew had been supplying the stowaway during the voyage.

The girl will be questioned by immigration officials. She speaks only Spanish. She said her father lives in New York. Capt. Hadsted of the Culbertson said he had been plagued by stowaways on this voyage. Six who came on board at Santos, Brazil, were found just before sailing and sent ashore. At Victoria, the next port of call, five more joined the ship. These suffered so greatly from thirst that they revealed themselves four days later. One of them, an old man, was so crazed by his sufferings that he jumped overboard and was drowned. The remaining four were turned over to the immigration authorities here for deportation.

Marines Looking for Original of Leatherneck Song. Washington, Apr. 10.—(AP)—The marine corps has begun a search for the original of its song that ends with "If the army and the navy ever look on heaven's scenes, they will find the streets are guarded by the United States marines."

General John A. Lejeune, commandant, has requested Major J. C. Pegan to obtain the three original stanzas of the song which has been sung by the leathernecks in many climates, and known by all students of native ditties. The reason for the request is that during the past three decades many parodies have been written and many verses of an unsavory tone have been inserted. It is the corps' desire to obtain the original hymn before it is totally forgotten.

Letters have been sent to all the retired officers of the marines who were asked to give their versions of the original hymn. But there is where the joker appeared. Most of them replied, each with a different version. Son of Wayne Co. Sheriff Guilty; Gets Ten Days. Detroit, April 10.—(AP)—Conrad Stein, son of Sheriff Edward F. Flyers Decide to Wait for Better Weather Conditions

Baldonnal Airdrome, Irish Free State, Apr. 10.—(AP)—After a prolonged conference over tonight's weather report, the crew of the Junkers monoplane/Bremen decided not to start for the United States tomorrow. Capt. Hermann Koehl and Col. James Fitzmaurice, pilots of the machine of Baron Von Huenefeld, backer of the flight, agreed on the decision.

The weather charts showed that southerly winds in the Atlantic had veered to a westerly direction with a velocity of 20 to 30 miles at the surface and of 25 to 45 miles at a height of 2,000 feet. There are many cloudy patches and occasional squalls of rain, snow and hail, which hold the visibility to from six to twelve miles.

Ben J. Gallagher Falls Into Water, Has Narrow Escape

Marinette, April 10—Ben J. Gallagher, whose tug is being used by the cities of Marinette and Menominee in the reconstruction work on the draw-bridge, narrowly escaped with his life after falling into the river, but was too dazed to know how he managed to save himself.

Gallagher was walking on an icy plank from the dock to the boat of Capt. Oron Angvall, first ward warden, when he lost his footing and fell into the water, his head striking the Angvall boat and cutting a deep gash across his nose and under his eye.

Although Gallagher said he called for help, neither a man who was working in the cabin of the Angvall boat nor a member of Gallagher's own crew, who was in the tug, which was nearby, heard his shouts. Gallagher, stunned and dazed by the fall, managed to clamber up the dock to safety. The water next to the dock is about 20 feet deep. Gallagher resumed his work and said he felt no ill-effects from the wetting he received.

Escanaba Proposed As North Terminal of Air Mail Route

That cities in this region are "far behind the procession" in the promotion of aviation and airports, was the word brought back to Escanaba yesterday, from Milwaukee, by Earl J. French, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce airport committee, and S. J. Murphy, Jr., of Upper Peninsula Airways, Inc. Mr. French and Mr. Murphy attended a conference, called by the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, for the purpose of laying the ground work for establishment of two air mail routes northward through Wisconsin. One of these lines, it is proposed, would terminate in Superior and the other in Escanaba.

"Most of the Wisconsin cities have gone into aviation seriously," said Mr. French. "They have already established or are preparing to establish municipal airports. Oshkosh now has a port upon which any type of ship may land. Green Bay is doing the same. Fond du Lac has two options to buy, one of which will be exercised by April 15. Appleton has leased a tract of land with option to buy. So have Wausau and Eau Claire. Marinette has done nothing towards the acquiring of an airport location, but action has been promised.

"Escanaba has a privately owned airport which will be available for planes carrying United States mails."

One Terminal Here One of the routes proposed, Mr. French said, runs from Milwaukee northwest to West Bend, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Wausau, Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls and terminates in the twin ports, Duluth and Superior.

The other route is along Lake Michigan from Milwaukee to Fort Washington, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Two Rivers, Green Bay, Marquette, Menominee and Escanaba.

These two lines would join with the Minneapolis, LaCrosse, Madison and Milwaukee national route with Milwaukee as the terminal.

Chances for the development of the route which has Escanaba for its northern terminal would depend, a good deal, on what action is taken at Marinette. Mr. French believes. Green Bay is ready to receive the flyers as soon as the route is established. Upper Peninsula Airways, Inc., has a field here which could be utilized. The Marinette project is still in very indefinite state, but Mr. French is confident that because that point forms an important link in the chain and would serve two good-sized cities, it will be quickly completed.

Will Make Survey More than 100 men attended the conference in Milwaukee. Representatives of the cities were urged to make a survey to determine the amount of air mail that could be expected. Adequate ground facilities, it was stated, were necessary to assure the starting of the lines.

"This is a pioneer service that will be followed with parcel post, express and then passenger service," declared Carl Herzfeld, chairman of the Association of Commerce air service committee, who presided. "We are going to count physical connections between Wisconsin cities by the minute rather than the hour and with other states by the hour instead of by the day.

"The most adequate problem in establishing the smaller cities with terminals in the national airway system is adequate ground facilities," declared Phillip Shumway, who is making a survey of sentiment and conditions for extending the air mail service. "We are beyond the novelty stage and entering into the commercial basis."

Steps necessary to interest the postoffice department in establishing an air mail line were explained by Peter F. Piasecki, Milwaukee postmaster. "Assured satisfactory poundage and that there are proper landing fields and ground equipment, the government will be only too glad to start this new service," stated Postmaster Piasecki.

The routes were detailed by James W. Fisk of the association air mail committee.

The interest of the cities to be served on the routes was described by E. J. French, Escanaba, Mich.; Fred Schlitz, Appleton; R. F. Malta, Green Bay; A. T. Sands, Eau Claire; E. T. Markle, Fond du Lac; Edward R. Smith, Oshkosh; Benjamin Alexander, Wausau; Edward W. Moeckey, Manitowoc, and E. S. Eastman, Marinette.

ONE FARMER'S VIEW.
Taking a cross-section of the debate at Washington, on farm relief legislation, the reader gathers the impression that conditions in the corn and wheat states are deplorable, that the farmers have their backs against the wall, and that something in the nature of a political revolt is threatened unless congress, at this session, passes some sort of relief legislation.

One of the leading newspapers Kansas—the Topeka State Journal—recently printed in its open forum column, a copy of a letter sent to President Coolidge by J. L. Galbreath a practical farmer in that state.

Mr. Galbreath's views are illuminating to those of us who are forced to take only the politicians' views of the situation, and who from this distance, have drawn a somewhat different picture.

"I have a 40-acre farm five miles southeast of Topeka and a 240-acre farm three miles from Coldwater," says this farmer's letter to the president. "I am making money on my farms. I have no use whatever for either the new or old McNary-Haugen bill.

"I think the old McNary-Haugen bill was a fraud and I think the same of the new proposed McNary-Haugen bill. I believe them both fakes. I don't want any aid from congress.

"I know many 'dirt farmers' in Kansas, and with but few exceptions they are all against the McNary-Haugen bill. I know some 'political' farmers who favor it.

"Believe that our own Kansas representatives would be against McNary-Haugen bill if it were not for politics but they seem afraid they would lose farmer votes if they did not vote for McNary-Haugen bill. We don't want federal aid but some assistance from Providence—rains and plenty of sun, which we usually get in sunny Kansas.

"Senator Charles Curtis has known me for thirty-five years. (Signed) 'J. L. GALBREATH, Farmer.'

Mr. Galbreath's views of course, may be the views of only one farmer in that territory. We have an idea, however, that they are typical of the views of large numbers of farmers in the 'farm relief' belt, and that farm relief, in the final analysis, will have less effect on national politics than many voters have been led to believe.

The Winter's child looked on a world Wherein the clouds of snowflakes whirled, And Summer's child beheld a land Whose roads were dust and rivers sand.

GIRL ALONE

CHAPTER XXI

It was a sad, listless little "Princess Lilla" who cupped tiny brown hands about a crystal ball and pretended to read "past, present and future" in its mysterious depths as the afternoon crowd of the carnival's last day in Stanton milled about the attractions in the Palace of Wonders. There was the crack of an unsuspected whip in the voice of Gus, the Barker, as he bent over her after his oft-repeated spiel:

"Snap into it, kid! These rubes is lousy with coin and we've got to get our share. You're crabbin' the act somethin' fierce 's afternoon. Step on it!"

Sally made a valiant effort to obey, but her crystal-gazing that afternoon was not a riotous success. She made one or two had blunders, the worst of which caused a near-panic.

For she was so absorbed in her own disappointment and in contemplating the effect of her news upon David, when she should tell him that she was an illegitimate child of a woman who had abandoned her, that her eyes and in-tuition were not so keen as they had been.

Although there had been a sharp-faced shrew of a wife clinging to his arm before he vaulted upon the platform for a "reading," she mechanically told a meek little middle-aged man that he was in love with a "so beautiful girl wis golden hair" and that he would "marry wiz her."

After the poor husband had been snatched from the platform by his furiously jealous wife and given a most undignified paddling from her hastily removed shoe—an "added attraction" which proved vastly entertaining to the car-nival crowd but which caused a nival crowd to find their way back into handbags and trouser pockets—Sally felt her failure so keenly that she leaned backward in an effort to be cautious.

"For God's sake, kid, snap out of it before the next show!" Gus pleaded, mopping his dripping brow with a huge purple-bordered white silk handkerchief. "I'm part owner of this tent, you know, and you're hittin' me where I live. Come on, at's a good girl! You get it—whatever's eatin' on your face! This ain't a half-bad work—not a-tall! What if that shik of yours is trillin' Nita around? Reckon he's just after her!"

"Her—grouch her?" Sally seized upon the unfamiliar phrase in order to put off as long as possible the full realization of the heart-stopping news he was giving her so casually.

"That's right. You're still a rube, ain't you. A grouch bag is a show business way of sayin' a performer's got a wad salted down to blow with or buy a chicken farm or, if it's a hard-on-the-eyes dame like Nita, to catch a man with. Nita's got a roll big enough to choke a boa constrictor. I seen her countin' it one night when she thought she was safe. She was, too. I she was the last to that Jane it was the world, now listen, broad in the world. Now listen, kid, you have a good, hard cry in the dress tent before the next show and you'll feel like a new woman. That's me all over! Never tell a wren to turn off the faucet! Nothin' like a good cry. I ain't been married four times for nothin'."

Sally was a little to hear no more. She rushed out of the Palace of Wonders, a frantic, fantastic little figure in purple satin trousers and gold-braided green jacket, her red-saddled feet spurning the grass-studded turf that divided the show tent from the dress tent. And with the tears which Gus, the Barker, had sagely recommended, she collided with another figure in the "alley."

"Look where you're going, you little charity brat, you—" And Nita's harsh, metallic voice added a word which Sally "Ford" had sometimes seen scrawled in chalk on the high board fence that divided the boys' playground from the girls' at the orphanage.

So Nita had listened! She had been eavesdropping when Mrs. Bybee had told Sally the shameful things she had learned from Gramma Bang about Sally's birth and abandonment!

"You can't call me that!" Sally gasped, rage flaming over her, transforming her suddenly from a timid, brow-beaten child of charity into a wild-cat.

Before Nita, the Hula dancer, could lift a hand to defend herself, a small purple-and-green clad fury flung itself upon her breast; gilded nails on brown-painted fingers flashed out, were about to rip down those painted, sallow cheeks like the claws of the wild-cat she had become when power-

ONE OF THE THINGS we solemnly promised our doctor we wouldn't get unduly excited about, was the primary election held in Chicago yesterday. Consequently, those of you who rely exclusively upon this column for the news of the world and its environs will have to look on Page One of the outcome of that event. You'll probably find it top-of-matter, next to pure reading matter. If the news department fails you, we'll step up with the dope on it tomorrow. In the meantime, Robert E. Small, Len Thompson and Big Bill Crowe will have to get along without words of encouragement, direction or advice from us.

"Every man imagines at some time or other that he is afflicted with heart trouble and is likely to die more or less suddenly," says a medical man in one of the country's other good newspapers. In the other hand, some men act as if they were afraid they haven't and won't.

SPEAKING OF POLITICS, of the real, old-fashioned, mud-and-thunder, wagon-spoke variety a friend of mine who has seen a good many presidential campaigns, recalls that in 1844, down in Wisconsin, he and the other Republican kids of the neighborhood sang this song to the kids whose fathers were Democrats:

"Now Copper-heads don't you feel cheap Since Lincoln was elected? You need not run and hide your heads For that's what you expected. You danced around the ballot box, You thought you'd rule forever. Will you bow down to copper-heads? We loudly cry, 'No Never!'"

Our own personal recollections hardly travel backwards that far but we remember a bit of doggerel which we heard many times in the first political campaign which made an impression on our memory. It was:

"William Jennings Bryan, Settin' on the fence, Tryin' to make a dollar Out of fifteen cents."

It is barely possible that some of the rest of you readers may recall some stuff of this kind. We'd like to print it, if you'll send it along to us.

aching feet from dancing on roughboard platforms. Just before the last show Sally wandered out into the midway from the Palace of Wonders, money in her hand which Pop Bybee had advanced to her. But it was lonely "playing the wheels" all by herself, and although Eddie Cobb fixed it so that she won a big Kewpie doll with pink malleine skirts and saucy, marcelled red hair, there was little thrill in its possession. When a forlornly weeping little girl stopped her tears to gaze covetously at the treasure, Sally gave it up without a pang, and wandered on to the salt water taffy stand, where one of her precocious nickels went for a small bag of the tooth-resisting sweet.

SIMEON PICKED TO BLOCK HERB?

Convention Keynote Is Hopeful of Drafting Cal

BY RODNEY DUTCHER. Washington, April 10 (NEA).—Your correspondent cannot help being impressed by the probable significance of the honor which has been thrust upon the senator from the undeniably great state of Ohio.

It is difficult to dodge the impression that the election of the Hon. Simeon as keynoter for the Republican National Convention was compassed after careful forethought by those gents who hope to draft President Coolidge for renomination and by those other gents who pretend to hope to draft the president as a means of reducing the delegate strength of the candidate they oppose.

Anyone who has heard Senator Simeon make a speech knows that he is not exactly the best inspirational orator the party could produce. And neither is he an ideal keynoter from the standpoint of prestige or popularity.

True, he was boomed as a presidential possibility the other day by zealous Ohio colleagues, but this has been regarded generally as rather an ornamental gesture.

Booster for Coolidge. The one thing which has brought great fame to the Hon. Simeon is the fact that of all those who have shouted for the renomination of the Hon. Simeon's close friend, Mr. Coolidge, he has shouted loudest, longest, oftenest and most passionately.

Again and again he has reiterated that Mr. Coolidge had not closed the door—that he would never answer the party's call in its hour of need.

Aside from that, the only thing that might have been expected to weigh more heavily against Senator Simeon's chances as a keynoter than his lack of assets for the job was his relative unavailability.

For all men in public life, the Hon. Simeon is perhaps the only one who can be called a liar without fear of a libel suit. Senator Simeon admitted on the Senate floor that in his efforts to help Mr. Coolidge he had prevaricated to newspaper men at the White House. The evidence is on page 2978 of the Congressional Record, where you will find that the mendacious Simeon said: "Then I added what was not true, but I wanted to get it across."

He Admits It. Now there are many men in public life who are far greater liars than the senator from Ohio, but there are few who admit being liars at all.

Whether it is more honorable to lie and deny it or to lie and admit it, the fact remains that a reputation for mendacity would primarily be counted against a man when the parties pick their keynoters.

We now seem to have demonstrated that some remarkably cogent reason was behind the selection of Cousin Fess. Was that reason the fact that he could make a heck of a good speech in praise of Mr. Coolidge and so get the delegates roused up over the president with a good four-and-a-half-minute outburst for "Our Cal" when Fess had concluded? Probably not, for any keynoter would be forced to brag a great deal about Mr. Coolidge and there are several others who could do it more effectively than the Hon. Simeon.

A Coolidge Move? Apparently the only logical deduction is that such gents as Chairman William M. Butler and Vice Chairman Charles D. Hillis of the Republican National Committee were anxious to strengthen the impression among the brethren that Mr. Coolidge was still a potent factor. Even the most obtuse politician, anxious to hitch onto the proper bandwagon, could not avoid being struck by the fact that the party's big bosses had chosen from the entire field this one man known to all as the most vociferous of the Coolidge draftsmen.

In other words, the Fess selection appears to be the latest move in the "block Hoover" game which has been going on for several weeks. Hillis, Mayor Thompson of Chicago, State Chairman George Morris of New York and former National Chairman William R. Wilcox, one by one, have marched out of the White House after seeing Mr. Coolidge with asseverations that Mr. Coolidge could still be nominated and that sentiment for his renomination was strong. Chairman Butler being Chairman Butler, his silence after a similar visit was placed in exactly the same category.

If the Hoover strength can be broken up at the outset by the idea that Mr. Coolidge is receptive—and many delegates whom Hoover counts as his are for Coolidge first—it may not result in a stamped out Coolidge, but it may wreck Hoover.

Under the auspices of the Escanaba Women's Relief Corps an interesting and well arranged program was offered to entertain the graduating class and their guests. A feature of the exercises was a four reel movie film entitled "The Highest Law." The picture greatly emphasized the value of American Citizenship and also showed what American citizens really mean. Other features of the program were speeches by Mr. Danielson, naturalization officer, and Mr. John Norton, general manager of the Daily Press. The work accomplished by the Women's Relief Corps in arranging the program for the exercises is especially noteworthy. The complete program follows:

- 1. Invocation—First verse "America." 2. Talk by Mr. Danielson. 3. Solo—Mrs. Kress, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 4. Talk by Mr. Norton. 5. Violin solo—Isadore Stein, accompanied by Pearl Olson. 6. Presentation of Diplomas—Mr. Flannigan. 7. Presentation of Flag—W. R. C.—Mrs. Auerbach. 8. "The Highest Law"—Four reels. 9. After reel one—Song by H. Gold Embs, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 10. After reel two—Song by William Ramspeck, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 11. After reel one—Song by Isadore Stein, accompanied by Pearl Olson. 12. Flax Salute. 13. Last verse of "America." After the program refreshments were served by the Escanaba Women's Relief Corps.

Night School Turns Out Largest Class in Its History

Thirty-eight pupils were graduated last night at the Webster school from the Citizenship class which met evenings at that school during the winter. The graduating class is one of the largest in past years. The teachers of the class were Mr. Flannigan and Miss Olson.

Under the auspices of the Escanaba Women's Relief Corps an interesting and well arranged program was offered to entertain the graduating class and their guests. A feature of the exercises was a four reel movie film entitled "The Highest Law." The picture greatly emphasized the value of American Citizenship and also showed what American citizens really mean. Other features of the program were speeches by Mr. Danielson, naturalization officer, and Mr. John Norton, general manager of the Daily Press. The work accomplished by the Women's Relief Corps in arranging the program for the exercises is especially noteworthy. The complete program follows:

- 1. Invocation—First verse "America." 2. Talk by Mr. Danielson. 3. Solo—Mrs. Kress, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 4. Talk by Mr. Norton. 5. Violin solo—Isadore Stein, accompanied by Pearl Olson. 6. Presentation of Diplomas—Mr. Flannigan. 7. Presentation of Flag—W. R. C.—Mrs. Auerbach. 8. "The Highest Law"—Four reels. 9. After reel one—Song by H. Gold Embs, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 10. After reel two—Song by William Ramspeck, accompanied by Mrs. Ramspeck. 11. After reel one—Song by Isadore Stein, accompanied by Pearl Olson. 12. Flax Salute. 13. Last verse of "America." After the program refreshments were served by the Escanaba Women's Relief Corps.

IN NEW YORK

New York—The circus, to the New York youngster, is nothing more or less than a vast, underground building which covers a block of territory. There is nothing of the smell of damp, fresh ground in the early morning; nothing of the excitement of lying half awake for fear of oversleeping the coming of the circus trains; no miles of walking across fields and lanes to reach the grounds; none of the thrills that come with the mechanical processes of putting the show together, of watching the stake drivers and finally thrilling to the climax of the big top rising to what seem, at the time, tremendous heights.

The "biggest show on earth" comes ambling, rather than rushing, into Manhattan about this season. New York is its rehearsal point. Its winter hibernation season ended, it comes out of winter quarters and empties its wonders miles from the view of small boys. It's a long trek to the Madison Square Garden and those peeps the New York youngsters get as sneak peek from the sidewalk, as police shove them away from the mysterious doorway down which disappear the wagons and the lumbering elephants.

Within the Garden, morning after morning, the "acts" go about their business of being "limbered up." A man in overalls puts a group of trained dogs through their paces; an acrobatic act, fresh from Europe, tries to pick up the American customs in circus behavior; the "glittering galaxy" assembles in a side corner to prepare for the rehearsal of the bigger-and-better opening number. The great gardens spin with a discordant activity. It is, for the moment, a triumph of the individual performers. Soon, under the preparation of the super-director, who pices the show together as a child makes a jigsaw puzzle, they will all become cogs in the great machine and begin their mechanical rounds. Soon they will be clocked and timed and stop-watched until their acts click off to the harmony of a prescribed routine. Soon they will be off and away to the road, to bring sleepless nights to millions of small boys the country over.

At times like this, I'm glad I wasn't a small boy in New York. I'm glad my boyhood was spent in Laport county, Michigan, and Port Huron and Saginaw and Bay City.

Spring was a thrilling season then, what with the circus posters appearing on the barns, and the first wintergreen berries to be found in outlying woods, and a bunch of wild violets to be taken home as a peace offering to parents who had long since heard the news that you had played hooky from the afternoon session of school; what with frogs beginning to croak in the ponds and pussy-willows growing fat along the shores and cat-tails luring from the safety of a marsh; what with the ransacking of closets for last year's marbles and the careful shining up of the "glassies" and "alloys."

New York youngsters, I have so often noticed, are handicapped even as marbles. They must play from the safety of street gutters or take chances on being hit by passing autos; they must seek out tiny earthen spots in public squares and keep their shooting within a radius of a few feet.

"I Wish I'd Known"

THERE'S always a new experience ahead-- something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged--and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry--and furniture, draperies, silverware, china, talking machines, oil-burners, gas-stoves, automobiles claim your dollars and call for your choice.

A baby comes--and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, baby-carriage, foods, toys.

Next--what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Once more, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining-room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better, and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make those decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasions to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else?"

SENTENCED

figure in the "poison candy" plot was sentenced by Judge Runnels in Schoolcraft county circuit court to serve from ten years to life in the state prison at Jackson, with a recommendation of ten years.

THREE RECEIVE PRISON TERMS AT MANISTIQUE

Three terms in Jackson prison and one in the Schoolcraft county jail were imposed by Judge H. W. Runnels in Schoolcraft county circuit court Tuesday morning.

Five men who pleaded guilty to criminal charges on the previous day faced the judge for sentencing yesterday, and their cases were disposed of as follows: Joseph Smithers, murder; hard labor at Jackson prison, with a maximum term of life, a recommendation of 10 years by the court.

Ralph Bebe, burglary; hard labor at Jackson, maximum five years, minimum of nine months fixed by the court, and a recommendation of one year by the court.

Robert Morrison, larceny; hard labor at Jackson, maximum fixed by law, at five years, minimum six months fixed by the court, and recommendation by the court of six months.

Frank Farrand, circulating obscene pictures; Schoolcraft county jail, maximum one year, minimum one year, recommendation one year.

Richard Lynts, burglary; continued for sentence on his own recognizance until the June term of court.

In passing sentences on the quintet of prisoners, Judge Runnels reviewed briefly the conditions in each case, and told defendants of the various elements which had been considered in fixing penalties.

Smithers, who is 63, was eligible for "pardon" on account of his age and the fact that he had no previous bad record. However, the evidence showed that his act had been planned and premeditated with intent to commit murder, and sentence was passed on that basis.

Lynts, the only one of the group to be given a stay of sentence, is only 20 years of age, and has a wife and child. On his promise to get a job and make good, the judge continued the case for sentence at the June term.

LIFE SENTENCE LAST CHAPTER IN POISON CASE

A shriveled, stoop-shouldered old man stood before Judge H. W. Runnels in circuit court at Manistique Tuesday morning, and heard the court pronounce upon him a penalty for an attempted murder, a sentence which carries a maximum term of life in the Jackson penitentiary, with a minimum of 10 years recommended by the court.

The prisoner at the bar was Joseph Smithers, 63, Hiawatha township farmer, and his appearance in court yesterday supplied the concluding chapter in a case which came into national prominence.

In the court room when sentence was imposed were Gertie Munroe, 17, whom Smithers claimed was betrothed to him at the age of 14, and George McCastle, 22, the third party in the triangle, whom Smithers plotted to kill by means of poisoned candy because he objected to the younger man's intimacy with the girl.

Smithers was arrested February 6 by Sheriff J. M. Hewitt, who had been working quietly and single-handed on the case for nearly a month. The "poison candy" case was known later to newspapermen throughout the country, first came to light January 6, when McCastle received a box of candy, containing supposedly from Miss Munroe, and containing a slip of paper on which was written the word, Anna, name of Gertie's sister.

Four people partook of the candy, including McCastle, his sister Laura, her husband Joseph Faulstich, and a neighbor, Fred Wolbert. All became violently ill, and their lives were saved only by prompt emergency methods and the fact that the candy contained what was later learned to be an overdose of strychnine.

Sheriff Solves Plot. Seeking the sender of the poisoned sweets, which circumstances indicated had come from his sweetheart, McCastle tramped through the snow from camp to the Munroe home. Members of the girl's family were unable toathom the mystery, and the matter was referred to Sheriff Hewitt the next day.

With the box, wrapper, and sample of the candy as his only clues, the local officer began to trace a net of evidence which finally surrounded the widowed farmer. An analysis of the candy showed the presence of large doses of strychnine. Then the parcel was traced. Sheriff Hewitt learned that Smithers had been to the Munroe home, which adjoins his own, and had asked for a candy box, saying that he had a package to send in the mail. He took the box, but later when confronted with it, produced another similar box which he claimed was the original he had borrowed from Gertie. This alibi was exploded when Sheriff Hewitt found that Smithers had ordered another box purchased at a local store, and the arrest followed February 6.

Smithers was taken when first questioned by Prosecuting Atty. V. I. Hinson and Sheriff Hewitt, and refused to admit any knowledge of the case. He was arraigned before Justice W. A. McKinney February 7, but was bound over for trial in circuit court, being held without bail at the county jail. Later, when confronted with the evidence gathered on a conspiracy by the sheriff, he admitted his guilt in a confession to the officer and the prosecutor. Monday he pleaded guilty before Judge Runnels.

According to Smithers' story, he had been intimate friends of the Munroe for many years, and had been betrothed to Gertie for three years. He and his brother-in-law had an adjoining farm, and he had often helped with the work at the Munroe place.

When Gertie started keeping company with McCastle, he decided the young man was not good enough to associate with the girl, and thus began the scheme to do away with the rival.

He poisoned the candy, addressed it to McCastle, and mailed it in Alphonse Verrobert's mail box on the rural route. The package came through the Manistique postoffice and back out to the young man, who was working at a Hiawatha woods camp.

Since his arrest in February, the gray-haired, grizzled farmer has been an inmate of the county jail, and has been a model prisoner. He will be one of three to be taken to the Jackson penitentiary this week by Sheriff Hewitt.

Entertains Friends at Birthday Party Robert Hansen entertained a number of his friends Monday afternoon, the occasion being his eighth birthday anniversary. Games were played, after which lunch was served to the following guests: Leon and Billy Duquette, Raymond Chandanis, Elmer Bravik, Kenneth Lindgren, Bruce Smith, Leonard Gota, Lovd Parker, Marvin Mercer and Jack Soukup.

Judge Commends Local Sheriff and Prosecutor

Officiating for the first time in circuit court at Manistique, Judge H. W. Runnels of Sault Ste. Marie yesterday had occasion to comment from the bench on the very effective way in which the local sheriff and prosecuting attorney have handled evidence in criminal cases, doing away with the need of a jury for an entire year.

"This was an agreeable surprise to me," said Judge Runnels. "A good many hundred dollars have been saved for the county, and the court and officers have been spared a lot of extra work. The main thing, however, is the saving to the taxpayers."

Sheriff Hewitt and Prosecuting Attorney Hinson deserve a great deal of credit for the very effective way they have handled all these cases.

THEATRES

AT THE RIALTO. John Gilbert, who is featured in modern love dramas, might well be proud of his work in the William Fox production of Alexander Dumas' powerful novel, "Monte Cristo," which has been revived for today at the Rialto because of popular demand.

That Gilbert has excelled his character creations in the Dumas drama since he left the Fox studio is difficult to conceive. For as Edmond Dantes, the virile first mate of the Clipper Pharon, boyishly happy in his love for Mercedes, the lovely village maid, and then as the mysterious Count of Monte Cristo, the grim and crafty avenger, the star accomplishes his delineations with thorough artistry.

PLAYGROUND BENEFIT SHOW ON APRIL 18

Insurance policies aggregating more than $100,000 were taken out by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios on the strings of polo ponies used in filming William Haines' new starring picture, "The Smart Set," which will be shown by the Parent-Teacher association as a benefit for the playground, April 18.

The ponies were collected from various fields along the entire Pacific coast and the string that Haines used was shipped especially for the picture from a famous polo club in the East.

Jack Holt, who plays an important part in the production, brought with him a string of his own thoroughbreds, valued at $100,000. Several ponies belonging to "Snowy" Baker, former film star and now a polo coach and player of international repute, were also used.

Individual policies of $2,000 each were taken out on the animals not already insured for the period of the production. Private policies on the lives of the director, Jack Conway, William Haines and other members of the cast totalled $1,000,000. The company was forced to take out these policies because of the dangerous nature of the polo sport which furnishes a background for most of the action of the picture.

"The Smart Set" is an original story of the British-American polo contest staged at Meadowbrook field on Long Island and was written for the screen by Byron Morgan. The cast includes Hobart Bosworth, Alice Day, Constance Howard and Coy Watson, Jr.

There will be a matinee with a special price for children at 3:45 o'clock and two evening shows.

All Major League Teams Go Into Action Today

GOOD WEATHER IS PROMISED

Expect More Than 250,000 Will Turn Out for Opening Games

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The great American baseball jamboree, with all its accompanying fanfare and flag-raising, cheers and tears, baskets and fumbles, bursts out today along the entire major league front after a preliminary flourish in Washington.

With more cheerful weather than that marking the opening game and ceremonies in the nation's capital, fandom may turn out in excess of 250,000 for the eight inaugural affairs this afternoon and shatter all major league records. It will be attracted by curiosity in the American League, to see whether it's all true about the Yankees slipping or whether the other clubs have a chance, and in the National League by interest in the start of the greatest free-for-all that ancient circuit has ever had in prospect.

The biggest jam is expected at the Polo Grounds, where close to 65,000 may turn out to see Rogers Hornsby lead the Boston Braves into the den of the New York Giants and test the results of the greatest trade of the off-season.

Dope Still Remains Intact.
Chief interest, however, will focus upon the battles that bring together in each league the two clubs generally picked to stage the main event of the pennant campaign. In these the Pittsburgh Pirates, National League champions, will invade the grounds of their powerful rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, while the world's champion New York Yankees pry off the lid with the colorful Athletics at Philadelphia.

The last-minute scrambling of the "dope" has not shaken up the pennant prospects except perhaps to hallow the idea that the Chicago Cubs will spring an upset in the National League. The Pirates and Cardinals stand as twin favorites, with the Cubs leading in the odds. If the Cubs don't spring a surprise, the Giants may. Then there are the Braves, Reds and Robins, all eager, anxious and equipped to break into the limelight.

The whole question in the American League appears to rest on how much of the 19-game lead enjoyed by the Yankees last season may be whittled away. The Athletics hope to begin the whittling process today. The Senators and Tigers may be in the running but not even their own followers are very optimistic. The White Sox are picked to win the race for second division honors.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
PIRATES—Second base plugged by Sparky Adams and the Waners ready to put on a bigger and better act. Pitching staff lacks good southpaw but strong enough if Grimes, Kremer, Hill, Meadows, the veterans, come through.

CARDINALS—Great pitching staff, with old Pete Alexander as good as ever, counted on to offset weaknesses on left side of infield and in outer works.

CUBS—Infield only outstanding weakness but team as good a pennant prospect as any if it is only half as good as the outfield. Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson, one of the greatest trios in the game. Club also has best catcher in league, Hartnett, and capable pitching staff with one big star, Root.

GIANTS—Chances depend on how well Cohen fills Hornsby's shoes at second base. Rest of infield first class, catching and outfield improved and team as a whole in better starting shape than year ago. Pitching staff needs Aldridge.

BRAVES—Fired with "spirit of '14" by addition of Hornsby and Bell to infield. Pitching staff has big possibilities but outfield below standard.

REDS—One of the greatest second sackers in game, Critz, and good twirling troupe led by Cuban, Adolfo Luque. Like Giants, club in better starting condition than in 1927.

ROBINS—Another "dark horse." Greatest pitching staff in either league, led by Vance and Petty, but infield still weak despite steady influence of Bancroft. Quantity in outfielders but quality questionable.

PHILLIES—Unanimous choice for last place, outclassed by all other clubs despite work of few outstanding stars such as Jimmy Wilson, Fresno Thompson and Fred Leach. Star pitcher, Ulrich, in hospital.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.
YANKEES—Same band of murderous maulers, same seasoned inner and outer defense without the prospect of a weak spot unless it develops behind the bat or on the mound where some veterans are missing and others slowing up.

ATHLETICS—Brains-plus a d d plenty of reserve strength available if the aging legs of Cobb, Speaker and others slow up the machine too much. Plenty of punch and good pitching prospects, if the staff is in shape, as well as the best catching in the league.

SENATORS—Excellent defense and helped by Sleser's bat but get-away affected by ailments, some pitching uncertainties and question marks at shortstop and centerfield.

TIGERS—Powerful attack, revamped and strengthened infield but stitching doubtful unless White-

Hooks and Slides

There are a number of reasons why Tom Heeney was selected as the opponent for Gene Tunney in the next heavyweight championship fight, but the big reason and the compelling one was that Tunney insisted upon his choice.

There were other angles that contributed to Tex Rickard's decision to give the air to the other challengers and select Heeney. He is a big fellow, he has a creditable record and he has that international tint, if it is not actually color, that Rickard may be able to daub up into a good advertising picture.

Heeney also is honest. No one doubts his purposes or questions his motives and after all the talk of a "fixed fight" in which he won the championship, Tunney would like to have a man in there beyond reproach.

The big thing which influenced the selection of Heeney, however, was the conviction of the champion that he would look better in beating Heeney than he would, for instance, in beating Johnny Risko or Paulino.

Gene Sure to Win.
Tunney, even though he has boxed only 10 rounds in almost two years, should have no trouble in winning from Heeney on points. He won't knock him out, you can bet on that. Winning on points may be an unsatisfactory performance for a heavyweight champion in defense of his crown, but Tunney is used to it and he may be educating the public away from the idea that a champion ought to murder his man.

Heeney is built for the champion. A big, slow fellow who plods into his men. A fair boxer without much of a punch. A stand-up fellow who follows every orthodox move of boxing. After one or two rounds in which Tunney can size him up in safety, he ought to be safe to make the fight his way for the rest of the distance. Tunney likes to coast along and size up his men before he goes to work on them.

The sizing up with Dempsey was dangerous, as dear Gene can tell you, but with Heeney the process should not be enough to draw more than a healthy pink to the cheeks of his classic countenance. With Risko or Paulino it would be different. It would be of no benefit to apply scientific analysis to their styles.

Because Risko and Paulino have a way of setting themselves for what a blind man would expect to be the delivery of a right-hand punch and then deliver a left-hand swing to the belly or to any spot above the chin or below the knees.

Heeney Suits Gene
Tunney, if he is still as good as he seemed to be against Dempsey (excluding the 14 seconds he was on the floor), ought to beat Risko or Paulino, but he would be roughed up considerably and he does not choose to be cuffed around in the presence of his distinguished friends.

Heeney also is anything but a fast man and Tunney's great speed in reverse gear ought to get him out of any unexpected difficulties. Heeney is also such a sincere, earnest worker that he would pursue Tunney when the champion took to flight.

Risko and Paulino also are chasers, but they have such contrary ways of doing things that they might decide to stand still and watch Tunney run backwards. That would be a terrible thing and it would make a horrible impression upon the millionaires, as it did when Dempsey invited him unsuccessfully to fight when he came up after his nap in Chicago.

Heeney will cash in on his reputation for being safe and regular in his methods. Tunney knows how to beat him now. He doesn't know how to beat Risko or Paulino and he might not know after the fight.

Pirates Defeat Fort Wayne, 11-1

Paducah, Ky., Apr. 10—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates pounded out an 11 to 1 win over the Fort Wayne team of the Central League here today. Pittsburgh collected 14 hits from Pinkin and Kohlenberg, including home runs by Waner and Gooch.

The Score: R. H. E. Pittsburgh 031 223 000—11 14 0 Ft. Wayne 000 000 100—1 4 4 hill and Gibson stage comebacks. WHITE SOX—1927 model of the old "hitless wonders." Flashy defense with $123,000 cap in Bill Cissell. Two great pitchers in Lyons and Thomas but more punch needed.

INDIANS—Reorganization process still under way and not much prospect of doing better than last year. Pitchers look good but inner and outer defense not up to first division standard.

BROWNS—Almost an entire new cast but act not improved enough to escape depths. Pitching staff has possibilities and outfield has real star in Schulte.

RED SOX—In same class with Browns. More punch with Ken Williams in outfield but main hope is to get out of eighth place.

RISKO IS JUST A TOUGH BUM

No Reason for His Winning Fights, But He Does

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Less than a year ago Johnny Risko spent a week in an argument with Cleveland promoters to get one-half per cent more of the gate receipts than the promoters offered him to fight Jack De Mave. "Sixteen per cent is all we can give you, John," they told him. "Eighteen or nothing," he parried.

"Let's compromise at 17 then," they suggested.

"Seventeen and a half and I sign," Risko demanded.

The matchmaker called his backer and asked him about the price. "Give him 17 1/2, but keep him guessing. Make him come back a couple of times," the backer said.

Risko came back to the office every day for a week. What he spent in time, shoe leather and gasoline must have consumed the extra half per cent he got because his purse was only $450.

This gave him the reputation of being thick-headed and a sap.

The same Risko is now in the big dough. He got $24,015 eight months later for whipping Jack Sharkey in New York and in another six months it might be that he will be dragging down close to a half million as the challenger's end of a championship fight or in other large shots.

His friends say that he now has one hundred grand socked away and that a great many of those grands are socked away so safely that they will stay socked. For a boy just a few years out of a bakery that is not so bad.

Considering that he is generally rated as a dumbbell it might be considered unusual that he would attempt to do his own business with crafty promoters. At the time of the negotiations for the De Mave fight, mentioned above, the promoters were struck with the same thought.

"Why don't you let Danny talk business for you?" they asked him, referring to Danny Dunn, his manager.

Risko then referred to a story told about the manager of Billy Wallace, high ranking Cleveland lightweight, which the promoters say is a true story.

Wallace was offered a fight and his manager was told to ask for $15,000, to put up an argument for $12,500 and to take not less than $10,000.

When he went to do business with the promoters he said: "We want $15,000; we ought to get at least $12,500, but we won't take a cent less than $10,000."

"Sold for $10,000," the promoters said and they signed the contracts.

Risko had the right idea of naming his price and sticking to it, but he finally decided to let Dunn do all his business for him after a later experience.

He was offered a good percentage to fight Romero Rojas in Cleveland and some promoters in Akron were after the same match. He decided he might get more money in Akron, saying that the Cleveland fans were smarter, that they knew Rojas was a bum and had been stiffened all over the country and that he wouldn't draw much of a house.

He went to Akron for a no-decision fight, took a fine lacing from Rojas and got $375 for his end.

He then got smart and realized that he had better confine himself to the fighting end of the business.

Dunn is now doing his business and although some of the wise guys say he doesn't know much about the racket he knew how to put the chill on Tex Rickard when he called on the promoter the day after the Sharkey fight.

"You can see Rickard in thirty minutes," he was told by the secretary.

"Tell Rickard I'm in Cleveland if he wants me," Dunn said.

"That's the way to handle them guys," Risko said. The result was that Rickard had to send for Dunn and Dunn was placed in that advantageous position of listening instead of talking.

Risko may look and act like a dumb-bell, but you don't have to be a mental giant if you can sock. Dunn doesn't rate with the Flynn and the Johnstons on the list of smart managers, but he's in the big money. And that's that.

Winter Baseball.
Mobile, Ala.—While most sections of the country are talking basketball, hockey and other winter sports, the Winter Baseball League, an amateur group, is attracting large crowds here.

Athletics Defeat Phillies in Benefit Contest, 2 to 1

Philadelphia, Apr. 10—(P)—The Philadelphia Athletics and the Philadelphia Nationals wound up their training season with a benefit game at Shibe park, the American Leaguers winning 2 to 1.

Brooklyn Robins Beat Yanks, 7 to 2

Brooklyn, Apr. 10—(P)—Brooklyn evened its four-game spring series with the New York Yankees by taking the concluding contest today, 7 to 2.

Clark and Ehrhardt held the champions to three hits while Campbell and Thomas were reached for ten safeties by the Dodgers.

The score: R. H. E. New York (A) 200 000 000—2 3 2 Brooklyn 000 320 11x—7 10 0

Vanderbilt Evens Series With U. of Michigan, 4-3

Nashville, Tenn., Apr. 10—(P)—Vanderbilt evened the series with the University of Michigan in a baseball game here today, taking an early lead of four runs to gain a 4-3 victory. The play was ragged, both teams committing numerous errors.

Holtzman was nicked for four runs, two each in the second and third innings, yielding to Moffett who held Vanderbilt to one hit. Michigan's only runs came in the fourth inning.

The score: R. H. E. Michigan 000 300 000—3 8 4 Vanderbilt 022 000 00x—4 5 5

Holsman, Moffett and Kelliher, McCoy; Hawkins and Oliver.

Biggest Deal of Winter.

The trade of Rogers Hornsby by the New York Giants for Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Walsh of Boston was the most important trade of the winter months.

Red Sox Beat Senators, 7 to 5, in Opening Tilt of Big League Baseball

Washington, Apr. 10—(P)—While 20,000 fans shivered under chilly eastern blasts, President Coolidge inaugurated the 1928 American League baseball season here today by tossing out the first ball. Then the Boston Red Sox proceeded to defeat the Washington Senators, 7 to 5, in a somewhat listless game.

There were all the usual opening formalities, including the flag raising, the marching of bands and the reception to the president, who stood bareheaded as the army played The Star Spangled Banner.

The chief executive's toss of a new ball from his box in the grandstand proved somewhat wide, but Umpire Owens saved him from a wild pitch by making a lunging one-hand catch.

Mr. Coolidge remained only during the first inning, returning then to the White House. He was bundled up in a great coat, but unlike hundreds of the spectators he was not fortified with blankets about his knees and feet.

Milton Gaston, a recent acquisition from the St. Louis Browns, was the starting pitcher for Washington, a role so long held by one of the greatest of the master, Walter Johnson, now ill in a sanitarium here following an attack of influenza. Gaston failed to go the route, giving way to a pinch hitter after the Red Sox had found him for four hits and three runs in the seventh inning.

After getting away to a bad first inning when the Senators scored three runs on one hit, MacFayden finished out the string for Boston, holding the Senators to seven hits.

Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, who is contesting with George Sisler, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, responded to a large floral horseshoe gift from friends in the Cosmopolitan club by turning in several nifty bits of fielding and hammering out four successive hits, three singles and a double, scoring one run.

The NUT CRACKER

By Joe Williams

SAW A STORY BY BABE RUTH IN THE PRINTS THE OTHER DAY, AND WAS CONSIDERABLY SURPRISED TO SEE THAT HE'S PICKING THE YANKEES TO WIN THIS YEAR.

Anyhow, it's a good thing the Yanks don't have to play the whole season against those southern ball teams.

The World's Toughest Game
Those who think the World War was a tough contest probably never have seen a hockey game. The idea in hockey is to kill everybody you see.

ALWAYS AFTER A HOCKEY SEASON, THE CENSUS TAKERS START COUNTING NOSES. IN A LUCKY SEASON USUALLY ONLY ABOUT 25 PER CENT OF THE POPULATION HAS BEEN KNOCKED OFF.

Hockey is listed in the dictionary of destructive pastimes in the same class as St. Patrick's Day, extemporaneous Saturday night brawls and the Chicago bombings.

When a player signs up with a hockey team he must go to the hospital for a couple of weeks before the season opens and train on knockout drops. When he is able to drink four buckets of ether without wabbling he is in trim for the opening game.

Boxers are supposed to pack wallop. But when you get petted on the derby-rack with one of those shiny poles you just know you're eliminated.

Hockey is just that nice a game that when an alderman in Chicago gives his bodyguard a night off, the lads always go to a hockey game to improve themselves in the gentle art of getting your man.

Boxing makes one a master of one's self and gives one self-control, so sayeth Gene Tunney. But there may be worse things than not being master of one's self, too, we think.

Oklahoma Runner Retains Hold on Lead in Marathon

Clinton, Okla., Apr. 10—(P)—Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., continued to lead the cross-country marathon in elapsed time after today's 50-mile grind from Sayre, but did not increase his margin over Peter Gavuzal of Southampton, England, who is in second place. Payne's margin after Monday's jaunt was one hour, 24 minutes and 43 seconds. Today he and Gavuzal came in with the same time, 8:21:40.

Since the long trek began in Los Angeles, March 4, Payne has been on the road 234 hours, 54 minutes and 37 seconds. The Englishman's time was 236:19:20.

Neither of the leaders led the way today. Ed Gardner, Seattle negro, setting the pace in 6:40:50. He was followed into the 35th control point by Guisto Umek of Italy in 7:10:31.

The 12-ton motor cruiser following the runners crashed through a small bridge today and tore away part of the superstructure, but none was injured and the truck proceeded under its own power. C. C. Pyle, promoter of the race, "Red" Grange, one of his assistants, newspapermen and officials had left the bus before it crossed the bridge.

FARM MEASURE LIKE FOOTBALL

Relief Bill Being Tossed Around to Aid Dawes, Says Brookhart

Washington, April 10.—(P)—A charge that the farm relief problem has been made a political football to bring Charles G. Dawes to the fore as a presidential candidate and give him a campaign issue was made in the senate today by Brookhart, the Republican independent from Iowa.

The Iowan declared that legislative action on the question had been held up by those friendly to the vice president to precipitate the issue into the final stages of the pre-convention campaign but this assertion was denied by McNary of Oregon, co-author of the bill.

While the senate was continuing its debate on the subject and linking it with politics, it developed that President Coolidge believes that nothing has occurred to make the equalization fee of the measure conform to his ideas of constitutionality. As he sees it, the bill contains several provisions which he criticized in his veto of a similar measure last year, but the fee still stands out as most objectionable to him.

There was no indication today whether the president would sign or veto the bill, but he is hopeful that congress may yet pass a measure conforming to his outlines given in messages to congress.

While Brookhart was bringing Dawes into the presidential and farm relief picture, the vice president was not present all the time. He left the chamber just before Brookhart got under way, although the Iowan advised him to stay as he intended to discuss presidential candidacies but returned before the senator had finished.

Brookhart Opposes Measure. Brookhart veered the debate to the bill's effect on the presidential campaign after the senate had begun to vote on amendments to the proposal but had struck some snags that had slowed up action.

The husky Iowan, who in 1924 was in the LaFollette for president camp, and today is a foe of the McNary-Haugen bill, told the senate that the vice president was running for the presidency as a supporter of the proposal, which, in his judgment should be called "the Dawes bill."

He said that George N. Peek, of the corn belt committee of 22 which has been active in behalf of the McNary-Haugen bill, was really Dawes' campaign manager.

Declaring that Peek had come to him and had sounded him out as to how he regarded Dawes as a presidential candidate, Brookhart said he had told him the vice president would not do, "as he was tied in with the big banking and oil interests and connected with the deflation policy of the federal reserve board of 1920."

"Now we can determine the real meaning of the long statement by Mr. Peek criticizing the agricultural policies of Herbert Hoover, which was inserted in the congressional record this

LEGION PLANS MEMORY TRAIL

Will Plant Trees Along One of State Roads in This Vicinity

Memorial trees will probably be planted by Cloverland Post, American Legion, along one of the new state highways in Delta county, as a result of action taken at a meeting of the Post held last night.

The Legionnaires heard an intensely interesting address by J. E. Turner, county agricultural agent, on reforestation in general, and tree-planting in particular, and then instructed Commander Tom Beaton to appoint a committee to work out details with the forestry bureau of the state conservation department, the state highway commission and other agencies interested.

Elmer Swanson was appointed chairman of the committee, and its membership included a number of Legion men well-versed in forestry.

Mr. Turner discussed the present timber situation in the state, the need for forest fire protection, and told of some experiments that are being carried on by various agencies and departments.

The "memorial highway" plan, he said in response to questions, could be worked out without difficulty if the Legion cared to sponsor it. The plan was greeted enthusiastically by the veterans.

"Father Tom" Dregnac, of Perronville, Post chaplain, talked briefly on European methods of conserving timber wastes and urged the members of the local post to study all forestry legislation and projects carefully and use their influence to bring about a constructive program in Michigan.

Memorial Day Harry Compher was appointed chairman of the Post's Memorial Day committee and got busy at once to work out plans for the observance of the holiday.

The post went on record as favoring, unanimously, the national Legion bill, now before congress, providing for conscription of capital, industry and labor as well as man power in time of war.

The post's regular meeting day was changed from the second Tuesday of each month to the second Monday of each month.

The entertainment feature of the evening was contributed by Hal Rammel who combined "nut" recitations, stories and card manipulation in his twenty-minute skit.

The meeting was followed by a cafeteria lunch prepared by the post's unofficial chefs, Ted Baldwin and Ed Moersch.

convention from the first and 13th districts who would "take orders." In Kent both Green and anti-Green adherents denied knowledge of the caucuses.

A last-minute flare-up in Ingham county may end in the courts. While there were no direct charges of maneuvering for delegates, it was claimed the first ward caucus was illegal because notices were not posted.

There was talk of seeking an injunction to prevent the delegates named by that caucus from taking their seats in the county gathering.
