FORD MONOPLANE TO CARRY SUPPLIES TO GERMANS

Detroit, Apr. 19.—(P)—A relief plane was groomed tonight at the Ford airport for a take-off at dawn tomorrow to carry supplies and repairs to the trans-Atlantic German plane Bremen, disabled and stranded on Greenly Island in the frozen northland.

The Ford plane, a tri-motor Ford airplane, is to be piloted by Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen, who were to be accompanied by Thomas Mulroy and Charles J. V. Murphy, the latter a representative of the New York World through which the North American Newspaper Alliance is sponsoring the expedition.

MAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

August Bloomstrom, superintendent of the E. and L. S. railroad and a resident of Wells, was seriously injured in an automobile accident near the St. Paul dock about 12:20 o'clock this morning.

He received an injured chest and neck and had not regained consciousness at an early hour this morning.

Mr. Bloomstrom was on his way home after a trip to this city to purchase some medicine for himself when the accident occurred. The exact cause had not been determined by police officers investigating the case this morning. The car left the road and turned over. It is thought that he may have jumped as the car left the road.

Passerby called an ambulance and he was taken to the St. Francis hospital.

Prize Fight Teas Now Very Popular Down in Florida

Palm Beach, Fla. (P)—Society here drinks its tea not to the languorous strains of the waltz or to the music of the futed violin, but to the thud of fists hammering upon flesh as glistering bodies of prize fighters flash about the sunlit arena.

In other words, afternoon tea with boxing matches has become the vogue of this winter resort. Frequenting by wealthy leaders of society. The bouts do not grace the sport pages, but are chronicled in the society notes, so that one reads of an affair at the Oasis club:

"The afternoon's entertainment for ladies and gentlemen at tea opened with a bout between Mr. Cowboy Eddie Foley, Tulsa, Okla., and Mr. Royal Cox, of Indianapolis. There was no blood.

"The second of the delightful series was between Mr. Ed Spivey, of Columbus, Ga., and Mr. Jack Daley, of Philadelphia. . . . None of these tea topics aroused a great deal of enthusiasm. However, cheers and plaudits came from the social world as Johnnie Callahan, life guard at the Bath and Tennis club, and Jack Firpo, Everglades club chef, tangled.

"The first feature of this bout was Callahan's unexpected retirement to the ropes, with a tendency to hang down, head foremost, on the stone floor of the patio. Firpo, however, accommodatingly grabbed his ankles as they sought to follow after the exiting body. Cheers. This bout was a draw."

Walter Monahan was the referee and among the judges were Walter P. Chrysler, Mrs. George Sloane, James H. R. Cromwell, Mrs. Chrysler, E. F. Hutton, Mrs. Gerhardt M. Dahl and Mrs. William B. Averell.

The guest list included A. J. Drexl, Hiddle, Jules S. Bache, Otto Kahn, Edward T. Stotesbury, Paris Singer, J. Leonard Repligie, whom Gene Tunney visits; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and others whose combined fortunes would reach into several hundred million dollars.

In addition to the tea fights, society sets aside every Tuesday night for bouts staged by the American Legion.

"The Beggars Opera" Being Revived Again

London, England (P)—"Nice" people didn't go to crook plays back in 1728. So when "The Beggar's Opera," which is having a successful revival had its first production at Lincoln's Inn Fields there was a great hubbub. Drury Lane and other prominent theatres had rejected Gay's opera. Highwaymen were so common in those days that managers thought them neither interesting nor polite entertainment.

But the opera proved such a success that King George II went to the twenty-first performance and took the queen and two princesses with him. Rival managers attacked the opera and declared it was encouraging crime, much after the manner moving pictures are denounced today. Yet it has been revived in nearly every decade since its first production and now fills houses in competition with scores of crook and crime plays of more recent vintage.

THE SECRET.

"I thought your wife's name was Elizabeth?"

"So it is."

"Then why do you call her PEERY?"

"Short for Pegasus."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Why Pegasus is feminine for Pegasusus."

"Well, Pegasus is an immortal steed."

"What of that?"

"Not so loud! She's in the next room. You see, an immortal steed is an everlasting nag—so there you are."—Tit-Bits.

SENATE FLOOD BILL OPPOSED BY COOLIDGE

weeks ago. The entire congress was at one time sympathetic with the plight of the Mississippi valley. Today the finger of suspicion is being pointed toward the legislation as containing opportunities for holding up the federal government in the sale price of land needed in the construction project.

East Is Hostile.

In the eastern sections of the United States there is apparent growth of hostility toward the program of flood control in the Mississippi valley because it has already diminished the opportunity for tax reduction. The reasons given by the president for opposing the senate bill on flood control, which is now before the house, will be seized upon by the eastern business interests as an added excuse for re-examination of the whole flood program.

An amended bill is likely to come out of the whole controversy or else there will be no flood legislation at this session of congress, for the president's veto power is still strong enough to be effective.

Lindbergh Pays Visit to Detroit Air Exposition

Detroit, Apr. 19—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh visited the "flying headquarters" of the All-American Aircraft Show at the Ford airport today and went aloft in a tri-motor Ford plane for a flight of 20 minutes above the field.

With Major Thomas G. Lanphier, the Lone Eagle was a guest of Edsel Ford and other Ford officials at a luncheon. Following this, Colonel Lindbergh and Major Lanphier returned to Selfridge Field from where they had flown to the airport this morning in two single-seater army pursuit planes.

Colonel Lindbergh, who flew here yesterday from St. Louis in his new Ryan monoplane, visited the aircraft show at Convention hall after the closing hour of the exposition late last night and then spent the night at Major Lanphier's guest at Selfridge field. He said he was here for an "indefinite visit."

SHOW IN 1929.

Detroit, Apr. 19—(P)—Another All-American Aircraft Show in Detroit in 1929 was assured today, board of commerce officials announced, when airplane manufacturers represented in this year's exposition pledged their support to a similar event next year.

The manufacturers represent virtually all of the aircraft builders and designers in the United States, show officials said.

The aviation division of the Society of Automotive Engineers, holding a series of special meetings this week in connection with the aircraft show, have launched a move for standardization of airplanes in the interest of the future of commercial flying. The engineers have as their objective the reducing of the price of airplanes and standardization so that owners may be able to obtain repairs and replacements in every city and town in the country.

American Syndicate Buys All Rights of Television Devises

London, Apr. 19—(P)—An American syndicate which has just purchased the American-Canadian and Mexican rights of the Baird television device, announced tonight it will begin soon to broadcast nightly programs in which the head and shoulders of speakers will be shown as they talk into the microphone.

The syndicate also says it has taken initial steps to equip steamers of the U. S. lines with televisions. The first ship to be so equipped will be the Leviathan.

Capt. O. G. Hutchinson of the Baird organization said that the syndicate is headed by Joseph Bell Ferguson, Newark, N. J.; Nathan Feistner, Philadelphia, and Charles Izmastark, Chicago, who controls radio establishments in New York, San Francisco, Chicago, New Orleans, St. Paul and many other cities. Messrs. Ferguson and Feistner have been here for a month working on the deal. Mr. Izmastark has been represented by Herbert Pokross of Yonkers.

The syndicate plans to place the television apparatus on the market on the same general lines as are being used here by the Baird company. A monthly magazine is to be issued in connection with this service.

Fort Thomas, Ky., April 19—(P)—Vincent Hambright, Cincinnati Filipino lightweight, was given a newspaper decision over Red Blanchard, St. Paul, in a ten round bout here tonight.

RELATIVE OF CAL ON STAND

Political Byplay Diverts Attention of Senate Coal Inquiry

Washington, Apr. 19—(P)—Political by-play diverted the senate committee soft coal investigation today while William H. Coolidge, of Lancaster, Mass.—who claimed distant kinship to President Coolidge—was on the stand as chairman of the board of the Island Creek Coal company to defend its labor policies.

Occasionally departing from his denial of charges made during the inquiry by the United Mine Workers, Coolidge expressed his views on the League of Nations, child labor laws, immigration, industrial relations and the high cost of living. His observations were prompted, however, by questions of Senators Wheeler and Wagner, Democrats of Montana and New York, respectively.

Prohibition was mentioned by Wagner, supporter of Governor Smith in connection with the Borah questionnaire answered by Secretary Hoover. He expressed the opinion that the commerce secretary, an aspirant for the Republican nomination, had straddled the issue.

"Well, do you think, senator, that the wet and dry question is going to be an issue?" asked Coolidge.

"You can't draw me into it," returned the New Yorker quickly, while the large audience laughed.

Traces His Ancestry.

The operator, whose mining interests are in West Virginia, described President Coolidge as "a fairly good politician" in connection with what he described as the president's past and present position on the League of Nations. Wheeler brought up Secretary Hoover's attitude toward the league, asking whether the commerce secretary was in favor of it.

"Well, he was," replied Coolidge, "and when I ask some of his managers where he is now, I find he has changed."

Smiling genially and joking much of the time, Coolidge traced his ancestry back to what he said was the first family of that name to have landed in this country. That was in 1630, he said, adding that four sons and seven daughters had survived "the first Coolidge."

The operator told Senator Wheeler that President Coolidge and himself were descended from two of those sons, continuing:

"Ten generations back we had a common ancestor. I think there has been no intermarriage between the two branches since then."

Coolidge attributed credit for most of beneficial industrial legislation to civic organizations and the churches, disparaging the claim that organized labor was primarily responsible. He expressed the opinion that government is becoming too regulatory and centralized, characterizing that tendency as the paramount issue before the American people. Regulation of child labor should be left to the industries concerned, he said.

Reads Prepared Report.

"Too many children are being allowed to enter the country," he went on. Wheeler inquired whether he believed in birth control.

"At my age, yes," replied the operator and laughter again swept the room.

A thick-set, round-faced and white-haired man, Coolidge sparred with his questioners during the greater part of the day. Between times he read a prepared statement tracing the history of the Island Creek Coal company and supporting its administration.

"There is no coal problem so far as the company I represent is concerned," he said.

Denying that absentee ownership had resulted "in merely using it not abusing" employees, the operator continued: "It has never been blameworthy in this country for the people of one state to build and develop industries in other states."

Eighth District Picks Delegates

St. Johns, Apr. 19—(P)—Dr. Thomas Dow of Stanton and Britten F. Hall of Belding, were elected delegates to the Republican national convention from the eighth congressional district at the district convention here afternoon.

Former Congressman Joseph Fordney was endorsed for delegate at large from the state, and Dr. Carl Granger of Ithaca and Schuyler L. Marshall of St. Johns were named alternate delegates.

The convention endorsed the administrations of President Coolidge and Governor Green, and urged that the Michigan delegation support Herbert Hoover for the presidential nomination. It also endorsed Senator Seth Q. Pulver of Owosso for the nomination for lieutenant governor. Coleman C. Vaughn of St. Johns, former secretary of state, was chairman of the resolutions committee.

Mr. Fordney, who acted as chairman, delivered a typical Fordney speech on the protective tariff, and predicted that Gov. Al Smith of New York would be the

Pioneer Aviators Form Organization

Detroit, April 19—(P)—An organization, the purpose of which is to perpetuate the accomplishments of pioneer aviators today was formed by leaders of the industry, attending the All-American Aircraft show here.

The association is to be known as the Pioneers of American Aviation, and Glenn Curtiss and Glenn L. Martin were chosen president and vice-president respectively.

Bylaws drawn up, provide that membership shall be restricted to those persons who were "making a living out of aviation in 1916 or prior years and who are still engaged in it, either as designers, builders, pilots or mechanics."

The latter provisions resulted in considerable persiflage among organizers assembled. Roy Kennebshaw, early day American dirigible flier, wished to know if one meal a day or three constituted a "living."

Paul G. Zimmerman, chairman, finally ruled that an average of at least one meal a day constituted a living. Among those admitted to membership were: Eddie Stinson, Grover C. Loening, Charles A. Day, A. V. VerVelle, Matty Laird, Chance Vought, Charles B. Colvin, William B. Stout, J. Lansing Callan, W. E. Doherty, Archibald Black, Walter Beach, Floyd Casana, Ivan R. Gate, Bessie Davis, Beckwith Havena, B. R. J. Hassell, Henry Wacker, James Lamont, Sumner Ireland, Frank Russell, Morris Titterington and Ralph Upson.

Iowa Democrats in Conflict Over Political Power

Des Moines, Iowa, April 19—(P)—Conflicting claims of political strength were made here tonight by Democrats, meeting in their district caucuses, and preceding the state convention tomorrow.

Supporters of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, New York, democratic presidential candidate for nomination adopted a slogan of "26 for Smith," claiming they had that many delegates selected to represent him in the national convention at Houston. Followers of Edwin T. Meredith, Iowa, did not concede Smith control of the state convention, claiming their true strength would be revealed in the vote of unpledged county delegations. Smith enters the convention tomorrow with a total of 551 pledged delegates.

Some internal strife apparently developed in Smith conferences today regarding the choice of the national committeeman. Clyde Herring, the present committeeman, took no part in these discussions, but adopted the attitude that if the state delegations see fit to tender the post to him for another term, he might serve.

One Smith group favored the candidacy of W. W. Marsh of Waterloo, but it appeared there was opposition. Other candidates included Dr. J. W. Reynolds of Creston. Mr. Marsh, however, indicated that he was not a candidate for the post and would support Dr. Reynolds.

Contesting delegates from Polk and Woodbury counties must stay out of the caucuses and convention until such time as the credentials committee of the convention decides on their eligibility, the state committee decided late today.

Man Confesses to $10,000 Robbery

Fires Cause Much Damage in East

New York, Apr. 19—(P)—Forest fires in New York state, New Jersey and Pennsylvania today left a number of families homeless and caused much property damage. In southern New Jersey a forest fire set buildings in the town of Barnegate ablaze and tonight ten dwellings were reported destroyed. State troopers were called out to battle the flames. Several persons were reported to have suffered severe burns.

Apparatus from five municipalities was called to fight a forest fire between Asbury avenue and Eatontown, N. J. Other fires were sweeping over the Flanders mountain near Flanders, N. J., with hundreds of citizens trying to prevent their spreading.

Foreign Auto Is Declared Winner Over Stutz Car

Indianapolis, Apr. 19—(P)—A French Hispano-Suiza stock car today was declared the winner over a Stutz Black Hawk in the 18th hour of a proposed 24-hour automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway when the American machine was withdrawn because of broken connecting rods.

The winner, private property of C. T. Weymann of Paris, France, had traveled 1,357 1/2 miles at the time, for an average of 79.14 miles per hour. The Stutz had gone 732 1/2 miles, having been in the pits more than one-half of the elapsed time for various mechanical repairs. The Stutz was the property of F. E. Moskovics, president of the Stutz Motor Car company. Weymann and Moskovics were said to have wagered $25,000 on the outcome.

More than 600 miles behind the rival car when connecting rods gave way and with less than six hours of running time left, the Stutz was rolled off the track and the race ended at 8:21 o'clock this morning. Neither the Hispano-Suiza nor the Stutz Motor Car company had any interest in the race.

Another Stutz and the winning Hispano-Suiza then engaged in a three and a half hour exhibition, the American car winning by 7 1/2 miles, covering 255 miles at an average of 75.71 miles an hour.

Cannot Remove Marines Now

Borah Upholds Administration Plan of Intervention in Nicaragua

Washington, April 19—(P)—A declaration that withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua now would leave that country to strife, turmoil and bloodshed, was made today in the senate by Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee.

Moreover, he said, it would endanger the Liberals, whom senate critics of the administration's policy would protect, and likewise would forfeit whatever faith the Liberals of Central America have in the justice of the course of the American government.

Speaking against the Blaine amendment to the naval bill, which would force the marines out by next Christmas, the Idahoan held the senate floor for several hours, presenting a clear-cut history of events in Nicaragua since the first American intervention in 1910 and responding vigorously to the many interruptions by critics of the administration.

Reminding his audience—and an unusually large number of senators followed his address very closely—that the United States had entered into an agreement with both the Liberals and Conservatives to see to it that a fair election for president is held this summer, Senator Borah said the Nicaraguans had lived up to their part of the agreement by surrendering their arms and implements of war.

For the United States now to violate its part of the agreement would be a betrayal of the people, he added, and probably would perpetuate the control of the Conservatives, bringing on another civil war with ultimate American intervention again.

GOVERNOR ASKS STATE CLEANUP

Annual Spring Proclamation Sets Second Week in May

Gov. Fred W. Green has officially proclaimed May 14-19 as Clean-Up Week. His proclamation follows: "To the People of Michigan: "The attractiveness and beauty, no less than the general cleanliness and healthfulness of cities, villages and individual premises in Michigan merits public acknowledgment. Nevertheless, competent local authorities gave assurance that as yet the peak of attainment has not been reached. Accordingly, and pursuant to the established custom, I hereby designate and set apart the second week in the month of May, 1928, as Clean-Up Week (May 14-19). "Residents throughout the state, more particularly during these six days, will promote safety, sanitation and the public well-being if they will join in renovating their premises of waste materials which winter may have left in its wake. Officers of municipalities, chiefs of fire and health departments, superintendents of streets and public works, as well as owners of private property, by their co-operation, will serve a worthy cause. "The seeming frequency with which proclamations are issued, setting aside periods for specific purposes, should not deter the people generally from contributing their time and effort to this spring-time movement which is intended for the good of all."

SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS.

There is an immediate and definite need for better school playgrounds in Escanaba. Space which is being utilized for play in most of the school yards is greatly curtailed by the display of "Keep off the grass" signs, and the phrase "cinder-pit" more aptly describes several of the play areas than any other combination of words.

The growing of healthy grass may be of more importance than the growing of healthy children but we doubt it. The fact remains, however, that it probably would not be necessary to sacrifice the grass in order to improve conditions very materially. Mothers who daily are binding up wounds and mending clothing as a result of the cinders are emphatically aware of the need for something just a little kinder to children's hands, and children's knees, and children's stockings.

And something just a little cleaner than cinders would be highly acceptable. And if the present restricted areas are to be maintained, more apparatus is needed. This would entail the expenditure of money, to be sure, but so does any other needed improvement. And anyway, the cost would by no means be burdensome, much less prohibitive.

The school playground situation is another topic which has been widely discussed, but which has gone no further than the discussion stage. It needs leadership. A concerted and insistent demand for improvement of conditions would get action, we are sure.

Parent-Teacher associations have shown their interest in the matter on numerous occasions. They realize, better than any other group in the city, how badly a remedy is needed. Men's clubs, dedicated to service, civic building and various angles of child-welfare should be easily enlisted in a Better-Playground movement. Other groups are waiting for someone to take the initiative.

Spring—it is hoped at least—is very near. The "playground season" is just beginning. This is a splendid time for organization and action.

LET'S ALL GET EXCITED. Mr. Texas Rickard, entrepreneur of the padded glove trust, has decided to permit Mr. Thomas Heeney of New Zealand to exchange fist-cuffs with Mr. James Joseph Tunney of Gre'n'ich Village in one of the New York ball parks on July 26. It will not be necessary for readers to memorize that date. There will be another piece in the paper about it later on.

Mr. Rickard has a world's champion who, oddly enough, is willing to fight anybody in the world whom he thinks he can lick—and it happens that this champion thinks he can lick anybody in the world. Such confidence on the part of so young a man is very praiseworthy. Personally, we think he's right. We think, particularly, that he can lick Mr. Heeney. And we think the public thinks so, too.

This fight isn't one of the feet wide.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

THE BROKEN THREAD.
The pattern of my life is changed,
For time has brought a sorrow.
The pattern must be re-arranged
To fit a new tomorrow.
Although my eyes are blind with tears,
Although my hands are weary,
Tomorrow's duty still appears,
Although today is dreary.
The pattern of my life reminds,
However it may alter,
And I must straighten out the skeins,
With hands that never falter.
A thread was broken yesterday,
A thread I loved so dearly,
But I must brush the tears away,
Look bravely, and see clearly.
The pattern of my life is mine,
A thing that I must finish,
Though time may alter its design,
Its brightness may diminish.
A little kneeling by my dead,
A little hour of grieving,
And now I must take up the thread
Of life, and go on weaving.

YES, AND JUST after we finished gluing one of the legs back on a Grand Rapids chair, we read an item which said that for one of every two marriages in that city last year a divorce action was instituted. Golly. Can't they make anything stick down there?

Benton Harbor is going to have its annual blossom parade on May 12. Escanaba hopes that, by May 12, Benton Harbor, also, will be free from snow and looking anxiously towards the coming of spring.

A SWARM OF BEES held up traffic for several hours on a California road. Iron-hand methods would probably have gotten quicker results in this matter, but apparently the authorities chose to pursue a course of arbitration.

UPLIFT. The wise old mule said with a grin "Sir, if you are not blind, You'll find I often figure in The uplift of mankind."

Dapper Dan, the linytpe man, digesting a tasty morsel of the day's news, remarks: "The Svenska Diamantborrningsaktiebolaget, a drilling and prospecting company, according to the Daily Mealticket, has received a contract for the reinforcement of the foundation of the Leaning Tower of Pisa. All they expect to do is prop their name up against the weak side."

WHY SHOULDN'T they do a complete job and straighten the leaning tower? A grocer tried to sell us a straight pretzel the other day, and a pickle conker has been boasting that his pickles are almost free from warts.

RATS BLAMED FOR STARTING BIG FIRE. Maybe Edward Cockrun, late of the conservation department, was wrong after all. Maybe they do carry matches!

LONDON INSURANCE companies have decided not to issue policies on steeple-chasing horses. Things look bad, too, for the Prince of Wales in case he isn't already well-covered.

And speaking of the Prince of Wales, the other wild guess on the opposite side of the table predicts that, if the boy believes himself, he'll fall into a pretty fair job some day.

LOOKS ARE OFTEN woefully misleading. Bull Montana complained to the Glendale, Calif., police the other day that his wife gave him a black eye in a friendly family argument.

"Yes, Mrs. Bybee," Sally answered, her voice almost dying in her throat with fright. "I saw the safe. But I didn't tell anybody."

"You're a liar!" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "You told that David boy that very night! Sneaked off and went walking with him and cooked up this robbery so you two could make your getaway. Thought it was a grand way to get out of the state so the cops couldn't pinch you, didn't you? Didn't you?" she repeated, beside herself with anger, her fingers clamped like a vise on Sally's wrist.

"Oh, please!" Sally moaned, writhing with a pain of which she was scarcely conscious, so great was her fear and bewilderment at this unexpected charge.

"Sally certainly didn't go with him," Pop Bybee interposed reasonably. "Sure she didn't!" his wife shrieked with angry triumph. "She couldn't! She was buried under the tent! If it hadn't been for the storm she would be here now, working on your sympathies with them dyin'-calf eyes of hers—"

"Better let me handle this, honey," Pop Bybee interrupted again, this time more firmly. "Turn the child loose. Ain't a bit of use breaking her arm. Now, folks, I might as well tell you all just what happened, and then try to get to the bottom of this matter. When the worst of the storm was over Mrs. Bybee left the show train to look for me, to see if I hadn't been out of the stateroom all evening till then—not since she'd put some money into the safe right after supper. She found the boy Dave starting out to look for Sally, and she ordered him to stay on the train to keep an eye

GIRL ALONE

CHAPTER XXIX

"Everybody tumble out! Pop Bybee wants us all in the privilege car," a carnival employe shouted, running down the sleeping car and pausing only to thrust a hand into each berth, like a Pullman porter awakening his passengers.

But Sally was already dressing, getting her dress on backward and sobbing with futile rage at the time lost in reversing it. When she was scrambling out of her upper berth, a tiny hand reached out of the lower and tugged at her foot.

"Don't forget me, Sally," the midget commanded sharply. "And for heaven's sake, don't take an' you'll make yourself sick, crying like that. Of course your David didn't rob the safe. I'm all dressed."

Sally parted the green curtains and stretched out her arms for the midget, who was so short that she could stand upright upon her bed without her head touching the rounded support of the upper berth. Little Miss Tanner ran in to Sally's arms and clambered to her shoulder.

"It's that Nita," she nodded her miniature head emphatically. "I always did have my suspicions about her. Always turning white as a sheet when a policeman hove into sight."

"But David's missing, too," Sally sobbed, as she hurried down the aisle which was becoming choked with frowny-headed women in all stages of dress and undress. "Of course he didn't do it—"

"Hurry up, everybody! Don't take time to primp, girls! A man bawled at them from the door. They found most of the men employes and performers of the carnival already assembled with the Bybees in the privilege car. Pop Bybee's usually lobster-colored face was as white as a sheet, but his arm was gallantly about his wife's shoulder. Mrs. Bybee still wore the black saten petticoat and red sweater in which she had hurried from the show train to the carnival immediately after the storm. Her reddened eyes showed that she had been crying bitterly, but as the carnival family crowded into the privilege car she searched each face with fury and suspicion.

"Come here to me, Sally Ford!" she shrieked, when Sally entered the car with "Pitty Sing" riding on the shoulder.

"Now, honey, go easy!" Pop Bybee cautioned her futilely. "Better let me do the talking—"

"You shut up!" his wife commanded angrily. "Sally, you knew where I kept the money! You saw the safe! Oh, I was a fool, all right, but I wanted to show that I trusted you! Huh! Thought I'd wronged you by accusing you of taking presents from my husband! Tell him you saw the safe! Tell him!" And she seized Sally's wrist and shook her so that the midget had to cling tightly to the girl's neck to keep from being catapulted to the floor.

"Yes, Mrs. Bybee," Sally answered, her voice almost dying in her throat with fright. "I saw the safe. But I didn't tell anybody."

"You're a liar!" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "You told that David boy that very night! Sneaked off and went walking with him and cooked up this robbery so you two could make your getaway. Thought it was a grand way to get out of the state so the cops couldn't pinch you, didn't you? Didn't you?" she repeated, beside herself with anger, her fingers clamped like a vise on Sally's wrist.

"Oh, please!" Sally moaned, writhing with a pain of which she was scarcely conscious, so great was her fear and bewilderment at this unexpected charge.

"Sally certainly didn't go with him," Pop Bybee interposed reasonably. "Sure she didn't!" his wife shrieked with angry triumph. "She couldn't! She was buried under the tent! If it hadn't been for the storm she would be here now, working on your sympathies with them dyin'-calf eyes of hers—"

"Better let me handle this, honey," Pop Bybee interrupted again, this time more firmly. "Turn the child loose. Ain't a bit of use breaking her arm. Now, folks, I might as well tell you all just what happened, and then try to get to the bottom of this matter. When the worst of the storm was over Mrs. Bybee left the show train to look for me, to see if I hadn't been out of the stateroom all evening till then—not since she'd put some money into the safe right after supper. She found the boy Dave starting out to look for Sally, and she ordered him to stay on the train to keep an eye on it, in case tramps or crooks tried to board it. There wasn't anybody else on the train. That right, Mother?"

He turned to Mrs. Bybee, who nodded angrily. "She told him she'd look after Sally, but he'd have to stand guard on the train. She didn't say anything to him about the safe—just told him to patrol the train while she was gone. The safe is under a seat in our stateroom, and far as we knew, nobody knew where it was, except Sally here, who happened to come into the stateroom when my wife was counting a day's receipts."

"I can't think of any other way I can," she thought for a moment. "Please, Mr. Bybee," Sally interrupted, memory struggling with the panic in her brain. "Someone else did know! Nita knew! When I left the stateroom that last day in Stanton I saw Nita disappearing into the women's dressing room, and I thought she'd been listening. She—"

In sternerly. "How do you know she'd been listening? Any proof?" "Yes, sir!" Sally cried eagerly. "Mrs. Bybee had been telling me that she'd found out that Ford isn't my real name, that the woman I always thought was my mother wasn't really my mother at all. She said she guessed I—that my mother was ashamed I'd ever been born. And that same day Nita called me a—bad name—that means—"

"She could not go on! Sobs began to shake her small body again and her face was scarlet with shame.

"That's right!" Gus, the Barker, edged toward Bybee through the crowd. "I found Sally lighting into Nita for calling her that name. And Nita didn't deny she'd done it. Reckon that proves she was eavesdropping, all right. And if she was listening in, she was probably peeping in, too, or heard Mrs. Bybee talking about the safe. Was the door open, ma'am?"

"I don't know!" Mrs. Bybee snapped. "Yes, it may have been it was awful hot. And I didn't know anybody was on the train."

"It was open a little way," Sally cried. "I remember distinctly. Because I worried about whether Nita had overheard what Mrs. Bybee had been telling me. And there's something else—something that happened that night, when David and I were walking. Memory of that blessed hour in the moonlight brought tears to her eyes, but she dashed them away with the wrist which bore the marks of Mrs. Bybee's rage.

"What was it, Sally?" Pop Bybee asked gently. "All we want is to get at the truth of this thing. Don't be afraid to speak up."

"I hate being a tattletale," Sally whimpered. "I never told on anyone before in all my life! But David and I were sitting under a tree, not talking, when we suddenly heard Nita's voice. She couldn't see us for the tree, but we peeped around the trunk of it and we saw Nita and a man walking awfully close together, and Nita was talking. We just heard a few words. She said: 'No monkey business now, Steve. If you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out! Fifty-fifty or nothing—'

Military Strategy of War General Is Condemned in Trial

Coburg, Ont., Apr. 18.—(AP)—The military strategy that led Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian Corps in the World war, to attack the Germans on Armistice day, was condemned today by defense witnesses in the trial of General Currie's $50,000 libel suit against W. T. R. Preston and F. W. Wilson.

The high point of the day's proceedings was the dismissal from the court room by Justice Rose of Col. John A. Currie, former commander of the Toronto Highlanders. Currie was called by the defense, which is endeavoring to establish the truth of statements in an article written by Preston, which was published in Wilson's paper, The Port Hope Guide.

Currie had been ordered from the witness stand yesterday after being threatened with imprisonment for contempt of court, when he persisted in answering questions barred by Justice Rose. For the same reason, he was ordered from the court room today and placed in custody of Coburg's chief of police with orders that he was not to be readmitted.

"Why?" "You can shut up a book."

She said: 'No monkey business now, Steve. If you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out! Fifty-fifty or nothing—'

"I don't know!" she answered, her big blue eyes imploring him to believe her. "We couldn't see their faces. We just recognized Nita's voice and her yellow hair that looked almost white in the moonlight. He wasn't tall, not any taller than Nita, and I guess he wasn't very big either, because they were so close together that they looked like one person. We didn't hear the man say a word. Nita was doing all the talking—"

"Nita would!" a voice from the crowd growled. "Reckon I can tell you something about this, Pop. I was just ready to bally-hoo the last performance of the 'gritlie' show when Nita come slouching up to me, pulling a long face and a song-and-dance about being knocked out with the heat. Bessie had fainted at the last show and I thought Nita might really be all in, so I told her she could cut the last performance and go to the dress tent. I never seen her hair nor hide of her again, and—"

he paused significantly. "I don't reckon I ever will."

"No, I reckon you won't, not unless the cops nab her," Mrs. Bybee cut in bitterly. "I always said she was a snake in the grass! And on her shoulder, patted her cheeks reassuringly. "No, no! I didn't even tell David where the safe was! I didn't David didn't get it. He couldn't! David's good! He's the best man in the world!"

"Then where is he?" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "Why did he blow? I left him to guard the train, didn't I? And he ain't here, is he? He wasn't here when we got back from the carnival lot after the tents was raised. If he's so damn good, why did he blow with Nita and this Steve you've made up out of your head?"

"Now, now, Mother," Pop Bybee soothed her, but his eyes were troubled and suspicious. "Reckon we'd better notify the police, folks. I hate to call in the law. I've always said I was the law of this outfit, but I suppose if I've been harboring thieves I'll have to get the help of the law to track 'em down. Ben, you and Chuck beat it down the tracks to the police station and give 'em a description of Nita and Dave and this Steve person, as much as Sally's been able to tell us any way—"

"I ain't forgot they was both wanted by the police when they joined up with us! As I said before, if it hadn't been that she was buried under the freak tent, she'd have skipped with Nita and Dave. You roped Nita in on your little scheme, didn't you, because she'd had more experience cracking safes than you or the boy?"

"That's right, ain't it?" the old lady demanded fiercely of Sally. Sally shrank from her in horror, but the midget, still perched

PLEASE, Mr. Bybee!" Sally ran to the showman and seized both his hands in hers. "Please don't set the police on David! I know he's innocent! There's some reason why he isn't here—a good reason! But he didn't have anything to do with the robbery. I know that! But if you tell the police he's been with the carnival they'll find him somehow and put him in jail on those other charges—and me, too! It doesn't matter about me, but I couldn't live if David was put in jail on my account! Oh, please! You've been so good to us!" COUNCIL OKES ROAD PROJECT

Authority was given by the city council at its meeting last night to the state highway department to construct the proposed Escanaba-Gladstone highway within the city limits.

According to the plans submitted by the highway engineer of the highway department, the new road will start from the intersection of Ludington and Twenty-third streets and will extend northward past the fair grounds location. Similar permission was given by the county board of supervisors to construct the road through Pioneer Trail Park to connect with the bay shore which now being graded near Terrace Gardens.

Work on the construction of the part of the road within the Escanaba city limits will be started in the near future, according to advices from the highway department, and it is assured that the project will be completed before the staging of the first Upper Peninsula State Fair.

The construction of this new road will be of immense benefit to the fair as it will improve traffic conditions at that time. The motion to approve the routing of the new road was presented by Councilman John K. Stack, and was supported by Councilman Richard Hoyler.

The council last night decided to defer the appraisal of the local gas plant until the members of the body had secured more detailed information concerning the utility. City Manager T. F. Kessler was asked to present a bi-monthly financial statement relative to the operation of the plant.

It was decided to include in the annual budget the amounts needed for the paving of nine blocks within the city as a result of demands being made for improvement of certain streets. These were designated as South Eighth street from First avenue south to Sixth avenue south, Fourth street from First avenue south to Lake Shore Drive, and Thirteenth street from Ludington to First avenue south. It is expected petitions will be circulated eventually.

J. B. Moran was appointed member of the park board to fill the unexpired term of Richard Hoyler. It was also voted to appropriate $500 for advertising Escanaba's advantages as a summer resort in a leading Chicago newspaper.

The public hearing on the city budget was set for May 17.

Soo Line Dock At Superior Will Not Be Operated

Superior, Wis.—The Soo Line ore dock here will not be operated this season, arrangements having been made to handle all shipments over the Northern Pacific ore dock, which will operate day and night to handle the double tonnage. The Soo Line dock, a wooden structure, is in need of repair and will have to be replaced if the new plan does not work out. The combined tonnage under the new arrangement will exceed 2,000,000 tons, it is expected.

RIFT IN D. A. R. RANKS APPEARS

Washington, Apr. 19.—(AP)—The long expected open rift in the harmony of the thirty-seventh continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution finally appeared today with every indication that it will promptly be squelched tomorrow. The break came when Mrs. St. Omer Roy, delegate from Fort Scott, Kansas, and secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, submitted resolutions of protest against the "black listing" of speakers, by some D. A. R. chapters, the alleged "dictation" of national policies by the national officers, and the national defense program. Later she sought recognition on the floor to bring up the subject but was ignored. The resolutions committee will consider the resolutions tomorrow and may report them out to the congress at once. If not reported out by the necessary two-thirds vote of the committee they may be ordered out by any delegate. Even their most ardent supporters, however, do not expect favorable action by the congress.

Support of the national officers and policies now under fire was reaffirmed during the day in reports by national officers and state regents, and the society's stand for national defense and against "subversive influences" was emphatically reiterated by Mrs. William Sherman Walker, chairman of the national defense committee and herself even more the object of attack than Mrs. Alfred J. Broseau, the president-general. The patriotic theme of national defense, which ran through all the day's business, culminated at the night session in an address on "Old Ironsides" by Secretary Wilbur. After she was refused recognition on the floor, Mrs. Roy complained of "steam roller" methods and said that as "a daughter of the founders of the country" she had a right to be heard. She was promptly rebuffed by her own state regent, Mrs. W. B. Campbell of Wichita, Kan., by Honorary President-General Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, also of Kansas, and by the chairman of the resolutions committee, Mrs. Henry B. Joy of Detroit. Mrs. Joy denied that her committee had ever refused consideration of the resolutions, and the two Kansas officers said the protest did not represent the united opinion of the Kansas delegation. Mrs. Helen Tufts Baile of Boston, secretary of the committee of protest, was in the gallery during the session as was William Allen White, Kansas publisher "black-listed" as a speaker by the Massachusetts chapter. Mrs. Baile said that the resolutions of protest are directed not so much against the national officers of the society, as against the "powerful influence of big industrialists and munitions manufacturers" who in turn, she left, direct both the D. A. R. and the American Legion. "This investigation will not end here," she said, predicting a similar one in the American Legion. "Thousands of D. A. R. members

RHEINHOLDSEN IS NOT GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict After Deliberating 10 Hours 45 Minutes

Otto Rheinholdsen of Stoughton was found not guilty of manslaughter and negligent homicide by a jury in circuit court here yesterday. The jurors returned the verdict at 12:15 o'clock noon after deliberating for 10 hours and 45 minutes.

The charge against the Stoughton young man grew out of an automobile collision occurring last October 23 on the Stoughton road near Ogontz, resulting in the almost instant death of Armour Girard, Masonville youth, who was driving a car which collided with an automobile driven by Rheinholdsen.

The trial opened Tuesday morning. About a dozen witnesses were called by the state and a half dozen additional witnesses testified for the defense. The case was given to the jury at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and at 11 p. m. when no agreement was reached, the jury members were allowed to go home. They resumed their deliberations at the opening of yesterday morning's court session.

Attorneys N. C. Spencer and H. J. Rushton defended Rheinholdsen, while the prosecution was handled by Prosecuting Attorney Glenn W. Jackson. The courtroom was crowded at both morning and afternoon sessions when testimony was being taken.

Because of the absence of the defendant, the case of Earl St. Clair Dahn, charged with violation of the prohibition laws, was continued to the next term of court.

A default judgment of $508.04 and $21.50 in costs was rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Rosenberg Brothers company vs. Art Nordgren. Joseph Gibbs & Sons company of Perkins was awarded a default judgment of $456.92 against Ferdinand Lancour, and a judgment of $315.50 in their case against William Besson. Court costs in each case amounted to $21.50.

The case of the Collins Land & Lumber company vs. Archie Boudah did not come up for trial, settlement being made out of court.

All jurors were excused from service until May 7, when several trials are scheduled to be held. Sentences will be given by Judge Bell Saturday morning.

GUARD YOUR FEET Arch Supports Aren't Always Proper Remedy for Faulty Or Flat Feet.

The average person who develops aching feet is inclined to place most of the blame on fallen arches, particularly since the rejection of many men in the draft during the World War called attention specifically to this condition.

The first reaction on the development of the desire for an arch support is to purchase one of the many devices exhibited for sale in shoe stores, drug stores, or other stores of popular merchandising. Undoubtedly shoe salesmen in some places receive commissions on their sales of arch supports and are inclined to urge them upon anyone who comes in to purchase shoes.

Faulty Muscles

The absence of proper muscle power in a foot or the relaxation of ligaments may produce conditions demanding temporary assistance in the form of bandages or supports. On the other hand, one effect of the support is to prevent proper action of the muscle and to produce in this way a vicious circle which inclines toward progression of the condition rather than toward a cure.

No two feet are exactly alike. Obviously stock arch supports, though helpful in some conditions, may be vicious in others.

Flatfeet are due in most instances to the loss of the tone of certain muscles which have the function of holding up the arch of the foot. To correct the condition the muscles must form new habits and stay in a shorter position. Experts advise exercise of such muscles with a view to bringing into action fibers that will serve to carry on the load.

Baby's Feet Padded

The sole of the foot of the baby does not appear to have an arch, but this is due only to the fact that the foot is heavily padded with fat. When the child reaches the age of three or four, the development causes disappearance of much of this fat and it is seen that the arch is always present. Proportionately the arch in infants is just about the same as in the adult. These things can also be determined by the use of the X-ray.

The proper time to take care of the feet is obviously before permanent defects have developed.

Examination of the child at the time it enters kindergarten may show the necessity for modifying the shoes temporarily so as to lift one heel or throw the weight on one or the other side of the foot in order to insure proper development.

HICCUGHS USUALLY ARE SLIGHT; MAY BE SEVERE

Between the chest and the abdomen lies a great muscular structure called the diaphragm. Above the diaphragm are the heart and lungs; below it, the stomach, intestines, liver, pancreas, spleen and other organs.

When one breathes the diaphragm contracts, enlarging the chest cavity and helping the lungs to expand. In order for any muscle tissue to contract, a stimulus comes to it through a nerve. The nerve that controls the contractions of the diaphragm passes from the upper part of the spinal cord in the region of the neck.

If this nerve is irritated at any spot it becomes stimulated and the stimulation causes a sudden spasmodic contraction of a diaphragm that is called a hiccup.

Many cases are known for hiccoughs, including overeating, the swallowing of air which distends the stomach. Hiccoughs resulting from such causes are of no serious significance.

The cure consists usually of controlling the diet or taking a swallow of water which will wash out food material lying in the tube that leads to the stomach.

In the case of a baby, it may be held on the back, which will cause it to expel the air which may be distending its stomach or esophagus and thus leading to hiccoughs.

In some cases the stimulation of the nerve results from poisons associated with infections such as infantile paralysis or epidemic encephalitis. The latter condition has been called American sleeping sickness.

In these cases the hiccoughs may be severe and go on for long periods of time, indeed actually to the point of exhaustion. The treatment of such conditions is a long and serious matter and it is only by the treatment of the fundamental condition that the hiccoughs are to be controlled.

The Arabs were the first to discover the art of refining sugar, with the Egyptians a close second.

Leaps from Bay Window of Box Car to Tragic Death!

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A couple of years ago, a team of horses belonging to the Von Platen-Fox company of Iron Mountain very foolishly wandered onto a Chicago & North-Western railroad track. A train was in the vicinity. The train couldn't stop. The horses didn't. There was a dull thud, etc. But instead of suing the railroad for damages, Mr. Fox wrote a letter to the company admitted that his horses used poor judgment, that they were responsible for delaying the train, and he asked permission to reimburse the railroad for the time, trouble, mental anguish and expense occasioned by the delay to the train. Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER XIX.

Frank Lloyd, superintendent of the Peninsula Division, was seated in his office here yesterday, digesting his morning mail, when the following communication fell under his gaze:

"Dear Sir: While shipping a train load of our good horses from Pentago to Iron Mountain, the track was so rough that one of them jumped out of the car door and committed suicide or died of a weak heart. We would thank you to send us a check for $600 on receipt of this letter, or we shall have to proceed with the law. I might add that the color of this horse was gray, age was six years old, and one of our finest animals.

"Permit me to suggest straightening out the curve at McGovern and leveling up the track, and reducing speed.

"Yours in haste,
"VON PLATEN-FOX CO.
"M. J. Fox, Pres."

CHAPTER XX.

Mr. Lloyd immediately went into executive session with members of his staff. Reports from the scene of the catastrophe were carefully scanned and discussed. This was a situation which demanded delicacy and finesse. And then the super-perfect road-bed, he thought the train was standing still.

"Yours sympathetically,
"F. R. LLOYD, Supt.,

CHAPTER XXI.

The letter, having been written, was placed with other outgoing correspondence and started on its way to Mr. Fox. At the hour of going to press, no reply had been received.

Incomplete Reports Indicate Campaign Will Be Success

Men on the firing-line in the Salvation Army campaign were still at work yesterday. Most of them were waiting until their districts had been completely covered before they turned in their reports to headquarters, and consequently no totals were available last night.

It was said, however, that the outlook is optimistic and that if the work is pushed through to a conclusion with the same energy which has characterized it thus far, the campaign will be a success and the Salvation Army will have working capital for some months to come.

Quota has been set by the Salvation Army advisory committee. It costs about $175 a month to maintain the post here. The budget is carefully made and the money paid to the Army workers each month. The more money contributed in this campaign, the longer it will be before another drive will have to be carried on. It is the hope of the committee that funds sufficient to carry on for at least 15 months will be raised.

Many Contributors.

Workers continued to report that they were being courteously and generously received everywhere, and that the Salvation Army has firmly established itself in this community as an organization which is doing things worthy of enthusiastic support.

The number of individual contributors this year will be exceptionally large, it was said, due to the manner in which the slogan, "Everyone give something," has been impressed upon the people. Numerous contributions have been received by mail by M. N. Smith, treasurer, of the committee, from people living outside of the district being covered personally by solicitors.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

"The Thirteenth Hour," which will be shown at the Delft Friday and Saturday, is based on the old theory commonly accepted, that a criminal is typified by a certain type, that a person's face and demeanor and general appearance betray his criminal tendencies; if he has them to any marked degree. That this is not actually so is indicated by the study of criminology. "The Thirteenth Hour" reveals this theory as false, thereby adding greatly to the tense interest that pervades it. For the criminal mind, about which the entire action of the plot revolves is depicted throughout the greater part of the picture as a mild-mannered, harmless, altogether lovable old man, a benign professor who is, apparently, buried in his books. It is this dual personality of his, this combination of two seemingly complete and distinct personalities that makes all suspicion rebound from him.

With Lionel Barrymore in the leading role as Neville Leroy, a mysterious professor interested in occult science, the cast of "The Thirteenth Hour" includes Charles Delaney, Jacquelin Gadsdon, Fred Kelsey, Polly Moran, Napoleon, the German police dog, and others of note. It was adapted for the screen by Edward T. Lowe, Jr.

AT THE STRAND.

Grim mystery and sinister shadows embellish the latest return to the screen of Bert Lytell, well-known film star, who, after an extended vaudeville tour, comes back in "Alias the Lone Wolf," a vivid drama based on the famous novel by Louis Joseph Vance, which Columbia Pictures will present at the Strand today and Saturday. This is Lytell's third appearance as the "Lone Wolf," as he has already been starred in two other Vance stories of this mysterious French underworld enigmas.

A. McDonald, aged Garden weather prophet, bird lover and naturalist recalls that in the month of March somewhere between fifty and sixty years ago, the weather was very mild during the early part of the month and the robins came in full force. But the weather took a sudden change and the thermometer went below zero and remained for several days. A feature of the gathering which caused much merriment, was an operation which was performed on Kenneth Heafield who was suddenly seized with sickness during the evening. IN NEW YORK

New York—In addition to all her other troubles, the pretty chorine who wants to get along must be ready to rouse herself from her beauty sleep at the call of her show's publicity man in order to be present at everything from a flower show to an automobile display.

Wherever cameras are pointed in Manhattan there you will find a chorine trying to crash into the picture. Strangers invariably wonder how Follies beauties so incidentally drop out of nowhere at almost every public function. The answer is that they are always carefully "planted." Every conceivable device is used to keep them in the limelight.

Strangely enough, in most discussions concerning these products of Broadway everything is stressed except the word "work." And work is what the chorine knows little else but. We are all inclined to tell about her heartaches and her woes, her successes and her scandals, her temptations and her virtues, but the hours she has to put into labor somehow go neglected.

Not the least of the heart-breaks that come to the ladies of the chorus grow out of the fact that after the struggle to get her job, the weeks of rehearsal and the nights of effort on stage, her show fails to click and closes. Rehearsals mean hour after hour of actual physical effort, with an endless repetition of routine steps.

Yet, I should say, chorines seem to me to get more fun out of their work than any group of people I know. They approach their daily stunts with a gaiety that seems incredible when one considers the day-in-and-day-out nature of their occupations. And one hears extremely little complaint, such as comes from stenographers, clerks and others who are called upon for a little extra effort. In the code of the chorine there seems to be no such term as "extra effort." Extra matinees, midnight performances—it's all in their lifetime. Discipline doubtless plays a large part in this attitude, for no group of rookies ever underwent any great course of discipline than does the average lady of the ensemble.

The recent explosion in Wall Street, which kept tickers operating long after closing time, created a run on bookkeepers such as even Manhattan had never seen before. The enormous trading in stocks necessitated extra staffs in almost every broker's office. Bookkeepers who happened to live out of town suddenly moved into the city and took rooms at hotels.

At a result clerks who formerly were to be found at Coney Island now can be seen of week-ends strolling the boardwalk at Atlantic City rubbing elbows with their bosses who cleaned up millions. Broadway has also found these bonanza days of Wall Street helpful to its pocketbook. With millions in ready money loose in the city, the law of "easy come, easy go" is applying, even as in the gold camp days. I am told that never in years have the dice games of Broadway been so many and so large. In one resort tens of thousands have changed hands nightly.

There is no ritzier gesture than riding in a wheel chair at Coney Island. Coney Island is accustomed to traveling on its feet. The truck driver who can set his sweetie up to a chair ride is indeed a sport. And no prouder moment can come into the life of a 10-cent store clerk than that in which he walks up to the wheelers and says, "Chair, please!"

The woman who cut corners with health

FOR a long time she had gotten by. Living on shoe-string energy. Cutting corners with health. But now she was paying. Enthusiasm, fun, play—they were almost total strangers. Now, the least little thing tired her completely out.

What a tragedy that so many people let constipation go on neglected, doing its deadly work. Constipation saps vital strength. Thieves youth, mars beauty. And it frequently leads to serious disease in the end.

And the pity is that it is so easy to relieve. So simple to prevent. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring prompt relief. Pleasant, safe prevention!

ALL-BRAN is effective and natural

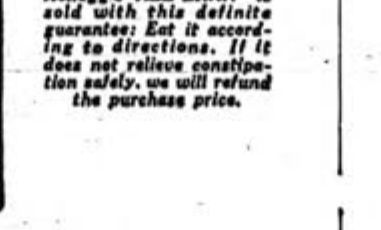

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation in a natural way. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. It carries moisture throughout the intestines—gently exercising them, sweeping out poisonous wastes. Part-bran products seldom contain sufficient bulk to be completely effective. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran.

So much better than harsh drugs

ALL-BRAN brings lasting relief. Far better than habit-forming pills and laxatives whose dose must be constantly increased and which are only temporarily effective. An appetizing cereal food. ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cookery, too. Mix it with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

But be sure you have genuine Kellogg's. Don't take chances with part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee. Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Chemical Plant to Suspend Operations Temporarily May 1

Unfavorable market conditions will necessitate a suspension of activities at the plant of the Delta Chemical company on May 1, it has been announced by officials of the company. No estimate of the time the plant might be idle could be made, but officials expressed the hope that the shut-down would not be a protracted one. Some necessary repairs to the plant, and re-lining of furnaces will give employment to some of the men during the suspension, it was said. About 185 men are employed at the plant and about 125 in woods operations.

When it is noon in New York it is 6:30 a. m. in Honolulu, Hawaii.

BY THE NEA BOOK SURVEY

"We are demanding to know what it is all about, this experience of ours. We will no longer be put off by ancient platitudes, dominated by those who tell us we ought to do this, or ought to believe that. The younger generation in particular emphasizes this uncompromising refusal to continue like sheep on the straight and narrow paths where our ancestors have sickened and died."

Dr. Seabury Believes It's About Time

Dr. Seabury believes it's about time this younger generation was given its magna charta. It's high time, he holds, that the oldest stopped misinterpreting the youngsters and began to cooperate with them, so that the processes of normal development under the present rules of life can get under way. Don't get the term "normal development" confused with the old moralizing definitions. Be sure to give proper weight to "the present rules of life."

Italian Court Balls Stop at 2 A. M.

Rome (AP)—Two o'clock in the morning sees the end of court balls at the Quirinal Palace. To dance after this hour is not "Fascist" and the royal family thinks the example should come from above. This was the closing hour for the first court ball of the season given in honor of the 20-year-old Princess Giovanna. As far as King Victor Emmanuel was concerned, it did not begin much before the buffet supper was served at midnight. He appeared at eleven thirty and together with Queen Helena, the princes, princesses and several noblemen of his court made a "circle" for the presentation of guests.

Through a generous arrangement with Paul Wickert, manager of Terrace Gardens, the local Legion post expects to stage a dance which will be one of the most attractive spring social events. The affair is also being held as a source of revenue since during the winter and spring the opportunities for securing financial help are few.

The Wolverine orchestra has been engaged for the evening and a good time is assured all who attend.

Tigers Nose Out Browns in Close Contest, 9 to 8

FOUR HURLERS GIVE 18 WALKS

Detroit Has Little Difficulty in Defeating St. Louis

St. Louis, Apr. 19.—(AP)—Four hurlers issued 18 walks in four and a half innings, 11 by Detroit pitchers, but the Tigers won over the Browns, 9 to 8, here today.

Easterling of the winning club lifted the ball out of the lot for his second homer in as many days, while Guy Sturdy, hitting for Gray in the fifth, clouted the ball out of the lot, driving across a run ahead of him.

Three Grand Rapids Boxers Picked for Olympic Tryouts

Detroit, Apr. 19.—(AP)—Selection of nine Grand Rapids amateur boxers to compete in the final Olympic tryouts at Boston next Monday and Tuesday was announced tonight by the Michigan Amateur Athletic Union.

There are two boxers in the flyweight, featherweight, welterweight and light heavyweight classes and one in the bantamweight. The team will be managed by E. D. Bennett, of Grand Rapids, who will be assisted by Coach Ed Giblin and Trainer Thomas Frazier. It leaves for Boston Saturday.

Three of the nine named, James Kerr, flyweight; Chester Karstens, featherweight; and Martin Levandowski, light heavyweight, won the championship tournament held at Olympia, March 22-23. These three also hold the state titles for their weight with the exception of Levandowski who is the heavyweight champion.

Lester Quillen, flyweight; Henry Schmid, bantamweight; and Willis Hoffman, light heavyweight, all state champions, and Leo Jasinski and Chester Roberts, welterweights, and Carl Schmid, featherweight, complete the group.

Leo Jasinski won the middle states A. U. championship and was eliminated in the first round of the national junior bouts. Roberts won the western Michigan title and was third in the state meet.

Stanley Kaul defeated Frank Unkigt in the state final in the welterweight class but was passed up in the selection for the junior championships. Both are from Detroit.

Carl Schmid, the other boxer named for the Olympic finals, was recommended on the basis of his showing in the state meet, where he lost to Chester Karstens in the final bout.

Surnames were first used toward the end of the tenth century in England.

Campus Comment

Now that California again has defeated Washington in their annual race, the boys who like their crew races are waiting for Pennsylvania to dip its oars in a race to see just what Mr. Rusty Callow has done.

Mr. Callow hardly can be expected to put out an outstanding crew this year at Pennsylvania, but it won't be many years, if he is allowed to handle things his own way, before the Penn crew will be dangerous every time they take to the water.

It took a very attractive offer to get Mr. Callow to leave his post at Washington and this attractive offer was made by the Penn officials merely because Mr. Callow had a very nice reputation as a coach of crews.

In less than a month, Mr. Callow's crew at Pennsylvania will be seen in action against Yale and Columbia. Perhaps, it might be added that Columbia and Yale have very excellent crews and have great hopes of representing the United States in the coming Olympic games.

Suppose Mr. Callow's crew surprises these two powerful opponents? It hardly is likely that the Penn oarsmen will, but if they do, Mr. Callow will be hailed far and wide by Penn alumni as a savior to Penn crew history. And if his crew is not so much—well, he has had a lot of obstacles to overcome in his new job and one can't make championship crews overnight even though one is ever so good at this business of coaching.

Two of the most famous halfbacks in the middle west this past season were Glenn Pressnell and "Blue" Howell, of Nebraska. Pressnell received All-America notice. Now, Pressnell is taking the part of a demure Italian maiden who is violently in love with her sweetheart, Mr. Howell, in the annual production of the dramatic club at Nebraska.

BRAVES TAKE CLOSE GAME

Nose Out Giants, 9-8; Hornsby's Single in 10th Brings in Score

New York, Apr. 19.—(AP)—Hornsby's single in the tenth scoring Brandt, gave the Boston Braves a 9 to 8 decision over New York as the Giants closed their stand here today. The visitors came from behind in the ninth when Farrell's single scored Hornsby with the tying run. Reese for the Giants and Farrell for the Braves hit home runs. Cantwell blew an early lead, and Faulkner was unable to stem the Boston rallies.

Pirates Defeat Cardinals, 13-10

Pittsburgh, Apr. 19.—(AP)—The National League baseball champions bowed before the St. Louis Cardinals in the Pirates' first home game of the season today. St. Louis pounded seven Buccoener pitchers to win, 13 to 10, in a badly played ball game that was witnessed by a crowd of 30,000. The length of the contest, three hours and two minutes, was believed to have set a new mark in this city.

DEMAR IS STILL MARATHON KING

Smiling Typesetter and Sunday School Teacher Wins Boston Race

Boston, Apr. 19.—(AP)—Clarence H. Demar, the wiry, smiling little typesetter and Sunday school teacher of Melrose, is still the king of American marathon runners, but there is a new crown prince of the realm, Jole R. Ray, long time monarch of the millers.

Demar, in as brilliant a race as he ever has turned in, stepped out over his favorite hills and dales today to win the classic Boston A. A. marathon in record-smashing style from the greatest distance running field ever assembled. The heroic figure of this astonishing spectacle, however, was gallant little Jole, who finished third in the first marathon of his career with as gritty an exhibition as any foot racer ever has known.

He lifted Demar on the shoulders of cheering admirers as he broke the tape, seemingly as fresh as when he started, in 2 hours, 37 minutes, 74-5 seconds, shattering the course record for the full marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards he set last year.

Ray collapsed when Stocky Jimmy Henigan of Boston, came trotting in second, fully two-thirds of a mile behind Demar, but finishing the route for the first time in his career and springing one of the biggest surprises of the year.

But there was a thunderous outburst, the greatest ovation of all, for Ray, weary, feet bleeding and blistered, as he forced himself through the finishing stretch and to the tape in third position, some 300 or 400 yards behind Henigan. They carried little Jole for the finish too, but it was because he had collapsed after competing in gallant fashion the greatest test of his career.

Stepping out of his class on comparatively short notice, Ray, for a decade the greatest of American millers, exceeded the most optimistic expectations of his followers by forging toward the front from the start, remaining in a contending position for fully 20 miles of the rugged route and holding second place until forced to yield to Henigan's superior stamina a mile and a half from the finish.

YANKS, BOSTON SPLIT DOUBLE

Babe Ruth Clouts Out First Circuit Smash of Season

Boston, Apr. 19.—(AP)—Babe Ruth made his first home run of the season here today as the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees divided the Patriots' Day double header. The Sox won the morning game, 7 to 6, by late rallies after the Yankees had piled up a lead of 6 to 0 in the early innings, but the New York team came back to win, 7 to 2, in the afternoon engagement, halted by rain at the end of the sixth inning.

Ruth's home run came in the fifth inning of the afternoon game. Harold Witte, the southpaw who gave the Yankees trouble last season, was pitching and nobody was on base. The drive sailed far over the heads of the fans lining the outfield and found a resting place in the right field bleachers, to the intense delight of the 30,000 spectators.

Gehrig remained one up on the Babe in the 1928 renewal of their home run feud.

Ken Williams hit a home run for the Red Sox in the afternoon game. It was his third of the season.
