REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN MAINE SHOWS

LAWRENCE SEES PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECT

BY DAVID LAWRENCE. Copyright 1928, by the Escanaba Press. New York, Sept. 17.—While this end of the state is a Smith stronghold and it is doubtful whether the Maine election has diminished the governor's friends here, there is no disputing the fact that at the various national headquarters and in the business section the overwhelming victory of the Republicans in Maine has had a telling effect.

Psychological impressions—or "breaks" as the vernacular might have it—play an important part in campaigns. And the Maine election was decidedly the best "break" the Republicans have had thus far.

It has started a wave of optimism and confidence among the Hoover followers, which could hardly have been estimated in advance. Conversely, if the Democratic management had ever suspected the psychological value of keeping that Maine majority down, they would have spent more than the nominal sum of $5,000 in precinct workers to bring out the Democratic vote.

Confidence in victory affects the way finances are gathered and it does even more than that—it stimulates the workers. And the Hoover organization is going at top speed now with plenty of enthusiasm.

This is important from a Republican viewpoint because only recently the undertone was one of discouragement about New York and the big eastern states. Today the Hoover people feel they have a good chance to carry New York and an excellent chance in New Jersey though they wince their heads nervously about Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

New York City—that is the rank and file outside of the business leaders—is still behind Governor Smith in incalculable numbers. The Republicans know they must win upstate if at all and they are concentrating on the upper counties though with a good deal of intensive work planned for New York City.

Republicans to Gain. The preliminary surveys would seem to indicate that some gains will be made by the Republicans over their normal vote in the city but the gains Governor Smith will make probably will offset these.

16 DROWN IN LAKE DISASTER

Passenger-cargo Ship Sinks in Lake Huron During Storm

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 17.—(AP) Sixteen men were believed to have lost their lives when the passenger and cargo steamer Manasco foundered in a heavy sea off Griffith's Island Saturday night, word of the sinking was brought tonight by the steamer Manitoba, which picked up five survivors from a life raft.

The Manasco carried a crew of seventeen and was said to have had four passengers. Capt. John McKay, First Officer Osborn, Lons, Pursar, Arthur Middleboro, Roy Fox, an officer, and B. Wallace of Oil Springs, Ont., a passenger, were rescued.

A fifth man, Chief Engineer Tom McCutcheon, had been on the raft, but died from exposure. His body was cast into the sea to lighten the raft, while his clothing was taken for use of one of the others who had been on the raft fifty hours clad only in his underwear.

Messages were broadcast to lake boats to watch for other possible survivors, but small hope was entertained that others had survived during the 60 hours since the Manasco foundered.

Saw Life Boats. The Manasco, with a cargo of cattle aboard, was bound from West Bay, Manitoulin Island, to Owen Sound. A heavy sea was running and when off Griffith's Island, 25 miles north from Owen Sound, the ship foundered without warning.

Capt. McKay said the vessel went down at 3 a. m. on Saturday. As she sank he and his companions clambered aboard a life raft they had flung into the water, but the darkness made it impossible for them to determine what became of the rest of the crew and the passengers.

The raft rode with the tide back and forth across the lake until the Manitoba sighted it today.

GREAT OVATION IS GIVEN G. O. P. CANDIDATE

BY W. B. RAGSDALE (Associated Press Staff Writer) Newark, N. J., Sept. 17.—(AP)—In the face of the greatest demonstration he has witnessed since he was chosen to bear the presidential standard of the Republican party, Herbert Hoover tonight delivered the first stroke of his campaign to win the east.

Speaking here tonight after an automobile tour through a dozen or more smaller towns in the vicinity, the Republican nominee described the tariff and immigration stands of the Democrats as serious threats to the program of labor or a full-time job for every man.

A throng of people that occupied every available inch of space had jammed itself into the 113th Regiment armory to hear the nominee. As he arose to begin his speech, expending his labor views, a wild burst of applause swept through the hall. The cheering continued for several minutes and when the candidate could make himself heard he thanked the people of Newark for the kindly reception that had been accorded him in this vicinity. Then he plunged forth into his speech.

Need Government Aid. This position of the Democrats on tariff and immigration, he told them, might constitute a barrier to the onward sweep of the progress he said had been made during the last seven and a half years.

Although, he said, labor through collective bargaining may improve working conditions, and wages, government aid is necessary if the country's works are to be so operated that a full-time job will exist for every man who will work.

He described the activities of the Republican administration toward leading America out of the unemployment bog into which the country had fallen in 1921, adding, however, that there still were two industries, coal and textile, which had not yet climbed over the top. He pledged himself to carry forward diligently the task of aiding them to their full recovery by every assistance the government can afford.

GANG KIDNAPS LIQUOR DEALER

Canadian Exporter Held for Ransom; Released to Get Money

Detroit, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Samuel J. Low, president of the Carling Brewing company of London, Ont., one of the largest liquor exporting concerns in the Dominion, was kidnaped near Windsor and held for $35,000 ransom, it became known today coincident with an unsuccessful attempt by local police to trap the extortioners.

The ruse failed when a taxi cab driver who had accepted a dummy package, given as the ransom, was lost in traffic by two Detroit detectives assigned to the case.

Low was kidnaped on September 8, police said, and held until last Sunday when he was released in Windsor, after promising his captors to obtain and turn over to them the $35,000. According to police, Low was held in a lonely cottage somewhere in the vicinity of Thamesville, Ont. He was kept blindfolded and shackled to a bed.

Members of Gang. Low was instructed to register today at a Detroit hotel and to await instructions as to how to dispose of the money. He conferred with his attorney, Maj. J. H. Clark of Windsor, and it was agreed that the money would not be paid, but an attempt made to capture the kidnapers. Another man was secured to register at the hotel designated, under Low's name, and the telephone wire to the room was tapped. The man was told to hand the money to a taxi driver who would receive it in the lobby.

After receiving the money, the driver jumped into his car and disappeared as quickly as possible. The kidnapers, police believe, are members of the same band that has been preying on liquor dealers and gamblers of the Detroit area over a long period. Their operations have come to the attention of police scores of times, but few of their victims have been willing to assist police in an investigation.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Threatened by flood waters from the Menominee river, the temporary bridge being used in construction of the $750,000 interstate bridge between Menominee and Marinette, Wis., was saved today when workmen permitted the flooding of one of the big cofferdams holding the water.

AUTO RACES, ATTRACTIONS FILL PROGRAM

ESCANABA - GLADSTONE DAY SET FOR THURSDAY

ESCANABA is proud of the honor of being chosen by the legislature of the State of Michigan, as the location of the Upper Peninsula State Fair. This City feels that it has a heavy obligation in its role of host to the thousands of out-of-town visitors who will attend the fair throughout the week.

The board of managers of the state fair has designated Thursday Sept. 20 as Escanaba-Gladstone Day.

Therefore, as mayor of the City of Escanaba, I respectfully request and urge that all business in the city be suspended at noon Thursday for the remainder of the day, so that all of the people of the city of Escanaba may participate in the Thursday afternoon Airport dedication and Fair program. I also ask that all citizens, cooperate through the week, in every way possible, with the fair managers.

WILLIAM H. NEEDHAM, Mayor of the City of Escanaba, Mich., Sept. 17, 1928.

With the first-day attendance far exceeding the most optimistic hopes of the management, the Upper Peninsula State Fair opened its gates at noon yesterday.

The formal flag-raising was heralded to the crowd with a battery of aerial bombs. There was a short program of addresses, and State Senator Herbert J. Rushton, personally representing Gov. Fred Green, lotted the American flag which ushered in the week's activities at Michigan's newest fair.

The governor has asked me to tell you that he greatly appreciates the manner in which the people of the Upper Peninsula have shown their appreciation of the things he is trying to do for this great empire of the north," Senator Rushton said. "He is sorry he could not be here in person. He is coming, however, later in the week to bring a message of friendship from official Michigan to the north country. He has asked me to thank the board of managers of the Upper Peninsula state fair for the fine accomplishments of the year, and he hopes that you are as proud as he is of their work."

The Ironwood Municipal band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and the crowd stood at attention while the flag was being raised.

Thompson Also Speaks. August Lundgaard, president of the board of managers of the fair, presided. A W. Thompson of Iron Mountain, vice president of the association, responding to his introduction, reviewed briefly the history of the Upper Peninsula, pointed out that it was the first territory in the state reached by the white man, but that, for many decades, it was believed to be suitable only for lumbering. The past few years, he said, have brought agriculture to the front in this territory and he predicted that the fair would be the means of accelerating the agricultural progress of the north. He expressed the hope that the fair in Escanaba would be the means of bringing the people of the Lower Peninsula closer together.

Among the others who were introduced by Mr. Lundgaard were: Dr. C. M. Sjogier of Manistiquet, David Erskine of Allenville, John T. Turnbull of Newberry, Dr. A. Saunders of Stephenson and H. E. Perkins of Marquette, all members of the board of directors of the fair; John L. McNamara, of Detroit, secretary of the Detroit State fair, George E. Harvey, secretary of the Escanaba fair.

Palm Beach Worst Sufferer in Storm; Death Toll Mounts

DISASTROUS WINDS CAUSE DAMAGE AS GREAT AS IN MIAMI IN 1926; PROPERTY LOSS IN MILLIONS

(Bulletin) Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 17.—(AP)—A known toll of 33 dead, 140 injured, an undetermined number rendered homeless and extensive property damage was exacted by the West Indian hurricane that buffeted the lower Florida East Coast late yesterday and then blasted its way inland, available reports showed late tonight.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 17.—(AP)—Through debris littered streets and with improved facilities to care for the homeless and injured, volunteers and officials sought to check the damage wrought by a West Indian hurricane that swept over the Palm Beaches from the Atlantic yesterday afternoon, causing nine known deaths in this vicinity.

The list of injured here stood at more than 100 tonight, while search parties checked further in the area swept by the storm. Members of the American Legion and National Guardsmen, sworn in as special officers, tramped the streets, as the city went under virtual military control, to aid in preserving order and preventing looting.

The two cities tonight were littered with debris from roofs of buildings and homes and shattered glass from scores of windows that caved in under the beating pressure of the storm's fury.

Hospitals Overtaxed. With power off, drinking water short and the gas plant out of commission, restaurants that remained open, and housewives were handicapped in preparing meals, and added to this food supplies were short.

The Good Samaritan hospital, normally equipped to care for 150 patients, was laboring with crippled facilities to give aid to the injured. A portion of the building was demolished during the height of the storm.

Scores thronged the Pennsylvania hotel in the heart of the city which virtually had become a refuge center as those whose homes had been demolished or badly damaged congregated there.

Red Cross officials after a hasty check said that fully 90 percent of the buildings in the city had been damaged to some extent and many were beyond repair. None of the city buildings were damaged, except the Central fire station, where the tower was swept away.

Storm Follows Rain. During the height of the storm, many persons who sought safety within the Harvey building narrowly escaped injury when the chimney toppled over and crashed through fifteen floors to the lobby. Otherwise, the building was not materially damaged.

Just what the damage here will total, Red Cross and city officials declined to estimate.

Preceded by squalls and rain yesterday morning, the storm swept inland about 3 o'clock when the wind increased to gale force and rose steadily reaching hurricane force about 4 o'clock and with it the first serious damage. The maximum velocity of the wind was reached between 5 and 7 o'clock and then a short lull followed. After the brief respite the storm struck again but with abated force and continued until after midnight, gradually decreasing in intensity.

Many who believed the storm would strike here had sought safety in stone and steel buildings downtown before the winds struck full force, but others who remained in their homes, took advantage of the lull to seek a haven in more substantial buildings.

Boyton, Delray, Pompano, Stuart, Fort Pierce, and down to Fort Lauderdale, towns were swept by the blow, smaller buildings collapsing before the wind, while many homes were unroofed and otherwise damaged. The Yacht club at Stuart was wrecked. Lake Worth, hard by West Palm Beach, was damaged, with the business section there reporting as having borne the brunt of the blow.

PREPARE FOR REPUBLICAN STATE MEET

EXPECT TO HAVE ALL DIFFERENCES IRONED OUT

Lansing, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Reports of opposition to the organization of candidates for Republican nomination for state offices from the Wayne county group headed by Edward N. Barnard, new chief of the county organization, circulated today as delegates prepared to go to Detroit for the party state convention Wednesday, from several parts of the state game word of opposition activities.

It was claimed by administration leaders that before the convention begins the rumble will have subsided; that the gathering will be one of peace and harmony. In the meantime, however, Barnard and his lieutenants were reported busy attempting to line up a candidate to oppose John S. Haggerty, Secretary of State, and possibly to attempt a round-up of votes which would permit Barnard himself to step into the race for attorney general against Wilber M. Brucker, incumbent.

Leaders spent the day checking lists of the county delegations when they finished they announced that Barnard "could not get anywhere" and inclined to the belief a final count by him would result in complete removal of opposition to the administration slate. More than 800 out-state delegates were claimed pledged to the administration candidates. Barnard presumably has 270 delegates from Wayne. He would need more than 400 out-state to give him a majority of the 1,394 votes in the convention.

Green Backs Haggerty. In answer to rumors that Governor Green was not supporting Haggerty for re-nomination the governor today announced that he is opposed to any attempt to unseat the present secretary of state.

"Haggerty is entitled to re-nomination. In any contest for that nomination I am for him," the governor said.

This announcement gave all the incumbent candidates the bolstering comfort of administration favor. The governor had previously announced his support of his appointees—three supreme court justices and Brucker—and Frank D. McKay, state treasurer and O. B. Fuller, auditor general, all likewise have his endorsement.

That the Barnard organization was attempting to secure an out-state candidate to make the race against Haggerty was indicated by the fact that Frank D. Fitzgerald, business manager of the state highway department and Senator Seth Q. Pulver of Owosso, were "approached" with proposals to make the run. Both turned down the offer of Wayne support to stand by the administration. There were reports that if the anti-administration forces decided to go into the convention with their battle representative Nelson C. Farrier, of Hillman, who has been entertaining a notion he would like to be secretary of state for some time might be urged as their candidate.

Deland Not in Race. As has been said, however, the administration leaders, confident of sufficient strength, believe the fight will be over before it gets started on the convention floor. Many of them will be in Detroit Tuesday and conferences then and Tuesday night may end the Barnard activities.

Among other developments today Charles J. Deland, former secretary of state, conferred with Governor Green. Deland supported Alex J. Groesbeck against Green two years ago. He is a member of Barnard's Wayne county organization. The governor said Deland talked about prospective legislation, the former secretary of state being a nominee for the house of representatives. Deland breathed several criticisms of Haggerty and the department of state. Deland said he was "not interested in the convention" and refused to admit he could be dragged into the race for secretary of state.

Public service facilities and power lines disrupted over area extending 100 miles as far south as Fort Lauderdale and as far north as Fort Pierce. Trains in storm sector unreported.

First reports from Bahamas by radio through Miami and New Orleans said no fatalities at Nassau, the colonial capital, but severe property damage.

WOMAN FLYER VISITING HERE

Lydia Kalishek of Milwaukee Comes for Field Dedication

Miss Lydia Kalishek, Milwaukee aviatrix and a sister of "Babe" Kallishek, well known girl flyer, arrived in Escanaba yesterday to participate in the dedication of the U. P. Airways, Inc., landing field on Thursday and to visit with relatives and friends here.

Probably no woman in the United States is taking a more active interest in the promotion of aviation than Miss Kalishek, who is a former resident of Escanaba. She received her first coaching in flying under her sister six years ago, and since that time has figured prominently in commercial aviation in Wisconsin.

She is secretary of the Milwaukee Light Plane club, press agent for the American Woman's Air Council and served as chairman of the entry department at the Air craft and Airplane Accessory Exposition held in Milwaukee in July. The Light Plane club has in its membership flyers, aircraft building experts and manufacturers, who interested in the light plane field. The organization will hold a light aircraft meet, the first of its kind, next year and Miss Kalishek will take an active part in the staging of it.

Opportunities for Women

The American Woman's Air Council has as its main object the securing of some means of public recognition for the flyers who gave their lives in the pioneering days of aviation and also in its recent development. At the present time, it is conducting a drive for funds to erect a monument to these flying heroes at Milwaukee. The Woman's Air Council also endeavors to promote an interest in aviation among the women of the land.

"The opportunities for women in the aviation field are quite limited at present, but as aviation grows there will be places also for the woman flyer," Miss Kalishek said. "Stunt flying, in which women performers held an important place, is being done less every year as aviation gradually passes to be a novelty and becomes more a means of transport in the minds of the public."

"The establishment of air routes, over which passengers, freight and mail can be carried across country, is the next forward step."

Good Instructors Needed

There is also a crying need for good instructors in flying. So many students are turned out of flying schools who are incapable of obtaining a pilot's license from the department of commerce. A good flyer is not necessarily a good teacher.

"The time will come when a flying instructor must be a college-trained man and much progress is being shown along that line now as a result of the efforts of the Guggenheim Foundation, which has given funds for the establishment of aeronautical courses in universities and colleges. Such training departments are now being conducted in the University of Michigan, Harvard, University of California and the City of New York university."

HOOPER MAKES FIRST SPEECH ON EAST TOUR

(Continued From Page One.) started hundreds of fans and hats to moving in the crowded building as the audience endeavored to start a semblance of breeze from the foggy air. A cloud of blue smoke loomed by the intermittent flashlight shots added to the discomfort.

The candidate's voice appeared to grow stronger as he moved into the body of his speech, pointing to the high standards of living and wages enjoyed by the American working man and various phases that he said had contributed to the progress of labor.

He told of the activities of the government in attempting to eliminate waste in manufacture and in aiding to build up foreign markets for American goods. In addition, he said, the slack could be taken out of occasional unemployment by public works.

Hoover contended that more efficient machinery and new inventions did not add to distress, but that they called for a readjustment of personnel and actually resulted in larger wages and greater prosperity for the man who works.

Bank Bandit Gets $2,457; Patrolman Unaware of Robbery

Detroit, Sept. 17.—(P)—Unnoticed by a patrolman standing nearby a lone robber tonight held up the cashier of the Griswold First State Bank here and escaped with $2,457.

The robber, according to the report to police, walked into the bank, and handed the teller a note which read: "Hand over all the bills. Make it snappy. You are covered. If you think much of your health don't give any alarm until two minutes."

The robber held a pistol thrust from beneath a sweater. The cashier, William Green-side, tossed the man several packs of bills, and the latter fled through a door. As he fled Green-side seized a pistol and fired two shots, one of which struck Ernest Stewart, 21, a patron of the bank, in the left hand.

Patrolman Arthur Reid, on duty at the bank was standing directly behind the cashier but was unaware of the robbery until Green-side began shooting.

AUTO RACING THRILLS CROWD

Speed and Thrills Combine to Make Monday Program Real One

Real speed and sensational driving were shown in the automobile races which were a feature of the opening of the Upper Peninsula State Fair here yesterday afternoon.

The track was in fair condition, in spite of the week of heavy rains, and the drivers showed exceptional daring in taking the turns, bringing the spectators to their feet on numerous occasions.

The front-drive Miller Special, driven by Burt Karnatz, won the first event—a five-mile sprint—in 5:33 2-4, coming from second position in the ninth lap to take the lead from Lynn Eldridge in his Frontenac Special. Eldridge was second; Cliff Hamm in another Frontenac was third and Lynn Eldridge, also driving a "Fronty," was fourth.

In the second five-mile sprint, with another field of starters, Eddie McClure with a Frontenac Special was first; Joe Halsey with a Whitehouse Special was second; Johnny Wohlfel with a Detroit Special was third and Rolan Mallo with a Flint Special finished fourth.

Thrilling Finish

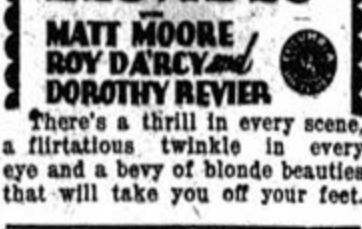

The third event, a ten-mile race, was a thriller. Wohlfel's Detroit fighting through for the lead in the eighteenth lap, losing it to Karnatz in the nineteenth, and smashing through to lead Karnatz "by a hood" at the finish. Karnatz was second, Eldridge and his Frontenac were third, McClure was fourth and Mamm was fifth. Eight machines started. The time was 12:58 3-5.

It was a sea-saw affair all the way. Karnatz and his front-drive Miller came out in front for three laps. Wohlfel forged to the front, by sensational driving on the turns, and led the pack in the fourth and fifth laps. The Miller again came through to take the lead in the sixth, Wohlfel was forced back to fourth position. In the next lap, however, he was back contesting the lead with Eddie McClure. The latter was a factor in the going, throughout the remainder of the race, exhibiting some exceptional driving.

Karnatz led seven of the twenty laps, McClure led six, Wohlfel led

DEWEY SHOWS NEW SYSTEM

Furnace Company Has An Attractive Exhibit at Fair

The new automatic air circulation system for hot-air furnaces, invented by H. B. Markham of the Dewey Furnace company, was placed on public exhibition for the first time yesterday in the Dewey Furnace company's attractive booth at the U. P. State Fair.

The booth resembles in detail the basement of the average American home, showing the concrete basement walls and exposed joists overhead. A Dewey furnace is shown in full installation, with the hot air pipes leading to the various rooms above and also a cold air pipe which completes the circulation. Another furnace is shown without the casing, so that spectators may view the interior of the heating plant.

The Markham automatic air circulation device is shown in operation in the complete heating plant. It consists of a suction fan, operated by a small electric motor, located in the upper part of the furnace, which serves to boost the warm air an increased distance through the pipes.

Mr. Markham has been experimenting on the device for the last two years, and recently filed application for a patent with the U. S. patent office.

"There are numerous advantages to the automatic air circulation system," Mr. Markham explains. "In large homes where there is some difficulty in making rooms on the second floor comfortable on cold days, the device serves to boost the warm air to these quarters. When a fire is started on a cold morning, the warm air is sent up to the rooms almost immediately. Great savings in fuel are also effected because of the increase in the heating plant's efficiency.

"An added feature is that in the summer time, the furnace takes the place of a ventilating system similar to those used in theatres and other large buildings, operating on the same principle as the electric fan."

TO HOLD CATTLE SALE SEPT. 27

Danforth Holstein Association to Sell 44 Pure Breds

Forty-four head of registered Holstein-Friesian cattle, owned by the Danforth Holstein-Friesian association, will be sold at public auction at the state fairgrounds here on Thursday, Sept. 27. The sale will start promptly at noon.

The Danforth Holstein-Friesian association, composed of Escanaba business men and Delta county farmers, was organized in January, 1924. It was organized primarily to improve the dairy stock of the county.

Each farmer who took a share of stock in the association was entitled to one cow. The cow belonged to the association but the farmer received all milk that she gave and one-half the increase. The association was organized for five years, at the end of which time all original stock and the increase were to be sold at auction.

The original sixteen heifers and a bull were purchased in Livingston county and were all from high producing herds. The cow testing records show that some very good individuals were secured and through the use of a good sire there are thirty-two outstanding female cows which will be on sale. The sale also includes two bull calves that have good cow testing association records, and will be a credit to any herd.

Copies of a catalog, listing all the cattle with their ancestral history and production records, are being sent out to the various county agents in the peninsula by Joseph E. Turner, Delta county agricultural agent. The sale is expected to draw many stockbreeders from all parts of the country. An inquiry was received recently from a county agent in the state of Maryland as to when the sale would be held.

During the last five years of the Danforth association's existence, its activities have been given wide publicity in dairy papers,

GOING RIGHT AHEAD.

WORD from Lansing shows that there is going to be thorough-going inquiry to determine whether the state should go ahead with a cause-way-bridge project at the straits. The governor is quoted as saying that preliminary estimates indicate it to be feasible, and that the state will co-operate with the federal government in making further surveys.

It is, of course, too early for anyone to have a definite opinion, whether the straits can be bridged, or whether, if it be determined that they can be bridged, the prospective cost of the project is within reason. That is as may be. But there is reason for pleasure that the state administration proposes to take measures for arriving at an authoritative opinion on these points, and it will be hoped that the steps toward reaching such an opinion will be taken in rapid succession.

Fifteen cows is the minimum price a young man in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan must pay for a wife. The market, in other words, is stable.

A FUNDAMENTAL MEASURE.

COMMENTING on the recent determination that the purchase of areas sufficient to assure adequate deer yardage would cost a prohibitive sum. Mr. Loutit, executive chairman of the conservation commission, expresses the comforting view that extensive state owned yards are not needed.

As he sees the problem of assuring cover and feed for the deer, it will be largely solved if the forest fire hazard is adequately dealt with. If areas where the deer have been feeding and yarding are cut over, it is only a question of a few years, he says, if they are not burned over, until the cover is restored and the deer find their way back into them.

What Mr. Loutit has to say on this subject emphasizes the undoubted fact that as far as forest conservation and the preservation of game birds and animals is concerned fire prevention is the fundamental measure, and the one to which the commission may well give a large part of its attention. Fire prevention preserves the value in such standing virgin timber as is left and assures the most rapid development of the second growth, and both, in turn, make for sufficient cover and food for game.

The commission has made considerable progress the past few years in increasing the efficiency of the protection of the forests. Losses have of late been comparatively small. But it is to be borne in mind that losses depend to a considerable extent on whether a season is dry to the point of drought, or whether it has been marked by frequent rains. The department has not lately had its dispositions for holding down forest fire tested by the unusual hazards of a period of prolonged drought. Much as they may have been improved, they may well be constantly surveyed to ascertain how, within the limits of reasonable cost, they may be made still better.—Iron Mountain News.

A man in Dickinson county thought he was eating mushrooms—but he wasn't. So don't drag the loaded shotgun through the brush muzzle first.

TO CURB RECKLESS DRIVING. WHILE Massachusetts is having its troubles with the first compulsory automobile insurance law to be attempted in this country, we must not lose sight of the fact that something—if not insurance—must be tried to curb the over-growing recklessness that is spreading over the United States.

In Massachusetts, it has been found that despite the law compelling all drivers to insure themselves against accidents—perhaps because of it—the accident rate has gone up beyond the average and recklessness hasn't been curbed. So the insurance companies have almost doubled their rates in some areas.

A cry has gone up from the populace and the automobile clubs, which opposed such law from the beginning, now point their fingers at the lawgivers and say, "I told you so."

But, whether Massachusetts and its experiment are being judged too soon or not, we must face the fact that something drastic must be done to hold in leash those irresponsible souls who drive like mad through the streets. A minority of the states have laws requiring the thorough knowledge of driving before a license, or registration certificate, is issued.

New York, monthly, revokes scores of drivers' licenses for infractions of traffic ordinances and so keeps the reckless element off the streets. Other states have similar laws by which they can control driving to some extent.

The majority of the states, however, still pass out licenses, or registration certificates, like mere pasteboards. They prosecute after the damage has been done.

Prevention is the essential in the proper control of traffic. If compulsory insurance has proved ineffective, drivers' tests and licenses haven't. Experience points to the wisdom of their adoption throughout the rest of the country.—Soo News.

An insurrection in Spain was put down by arresting all of the insurrectionists. The secret of successful government in some European countries appears to be giving all disgruntled politicians jobs on the police force.

UNKNOWN BRAZIL. EXPLORERS are flocking to regions of climatic extremes. They crowd into the Arctic and Antarctic, and at the same time into the tropics.

Brazil, probably less explored than Africa, with the biggest unknown area yet remaining on earth, seems especially attractive. Successive tragedies do not deter scientific adventurers there, any more than in the Far North. The lure of great spaces infested by poisonous insects and snakes, and no less hostile natives, seems as strong as that of polar ice.

So we find another expedition, this time headed by a Brazilian engineer named Calvo, preparing to lead a party of scientists into the far interior, along a river nearly 1,000 miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide at its mouth, which as yet has not even a name or a place on the map.

Much has been learned if the Brazilian wilderness since Theodore Roosevelt explored and charted his "River of Doubt." Far more remains to be known. Americans are particularly interested, aside from their new-born interest in scientific adventure, because of rubber. For thousands of miles Brazil is "rubber country."

That fact alone is enough to bring exploration, development and enrichment. Rubber will do more for Brazil than coffee has done.—Green Bay Press Gazette.

Immaterial Comments on Some of the More Unimportant and Uninteresting Topics of the Day.

BEAN-HOLE BEANS

Alexander the Great conquered the world but with the harvests of his military successes heaped high about him he died attempting to quaff two gallons of wine at a single gorging. Alexander, in many respects, was an able young man. He had not learned, however, to depend upon well-trained subordinates for some of the more arduous details. The modern army officer, trained in organization work, would have called in a couple of marines and ordered them to do the headquarters staff drinking. Throwing two gallons of wine into two marines would be like throwing two quarts of water into two Bays de Noquet. And Alexander would have lived to seek more wines to conquer. The lesson is obvious.

HOMERIC OBSTINACY

Astronomers now tell us that some of the stars are 1,000,000 light years away from our earth. They are experiencing considerable difficulty in studying these bodies, due to the annoying distance. Attempts have been made to construct better telescopes but the results have not been satisfactory. It is strange that no one has thought of moving the stars nearer. A star 1,000,000 light years away should have no objection to being attracted more closely to the family circle. This will be done some day, when some of our best minds decide to do it. How long that will be only the editor of Sloan's Almanack can tell.

ELEPHANT GIBLETS

Tradition and legend informs us that George Washington never told a lie. We can not, in fairness to our patriotism, question that statement. He who casts doubt upon the tradition in effect calls George Washington a liar. Men have been barred from the shelves of the Boston public library for less. Washington either told a lie or he didn't. If he didn't he was not a liar. There is no middle ground. Do you stand with Washington? Or are you a Tory?

JIM CROW COACHES

Two years are required to build a battleship with a copper bottom. Two weeks are required to build a biplane, and a monoplane, with half as many wings, require only half as many weeks to construct. Neither airplanes nor monoplanes have copper bottoms. Your congressman knows this. Ask him what he is going to do about it. Write to him, today.—H. K. R.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON.

IT SHOULDN'T BE DONE

Two dozen college girls have been working for a month in Chicago to learn at first-hand how working girls get along. These girls had a variety of jobs and their average earnings amounted to $12.52 per week. This paid for their room, board, laundry and cartage, but for nothing else. Such a study and such an experiment are revealing. Girls can live on $12 a week, but that's all. No girl should be asked to do so. There is no place for a mere living wage in this America of ours. If an honest, industrious worker—man or woman—cannot make more than a living wage, something is wrong somewhere.

PREPARATION

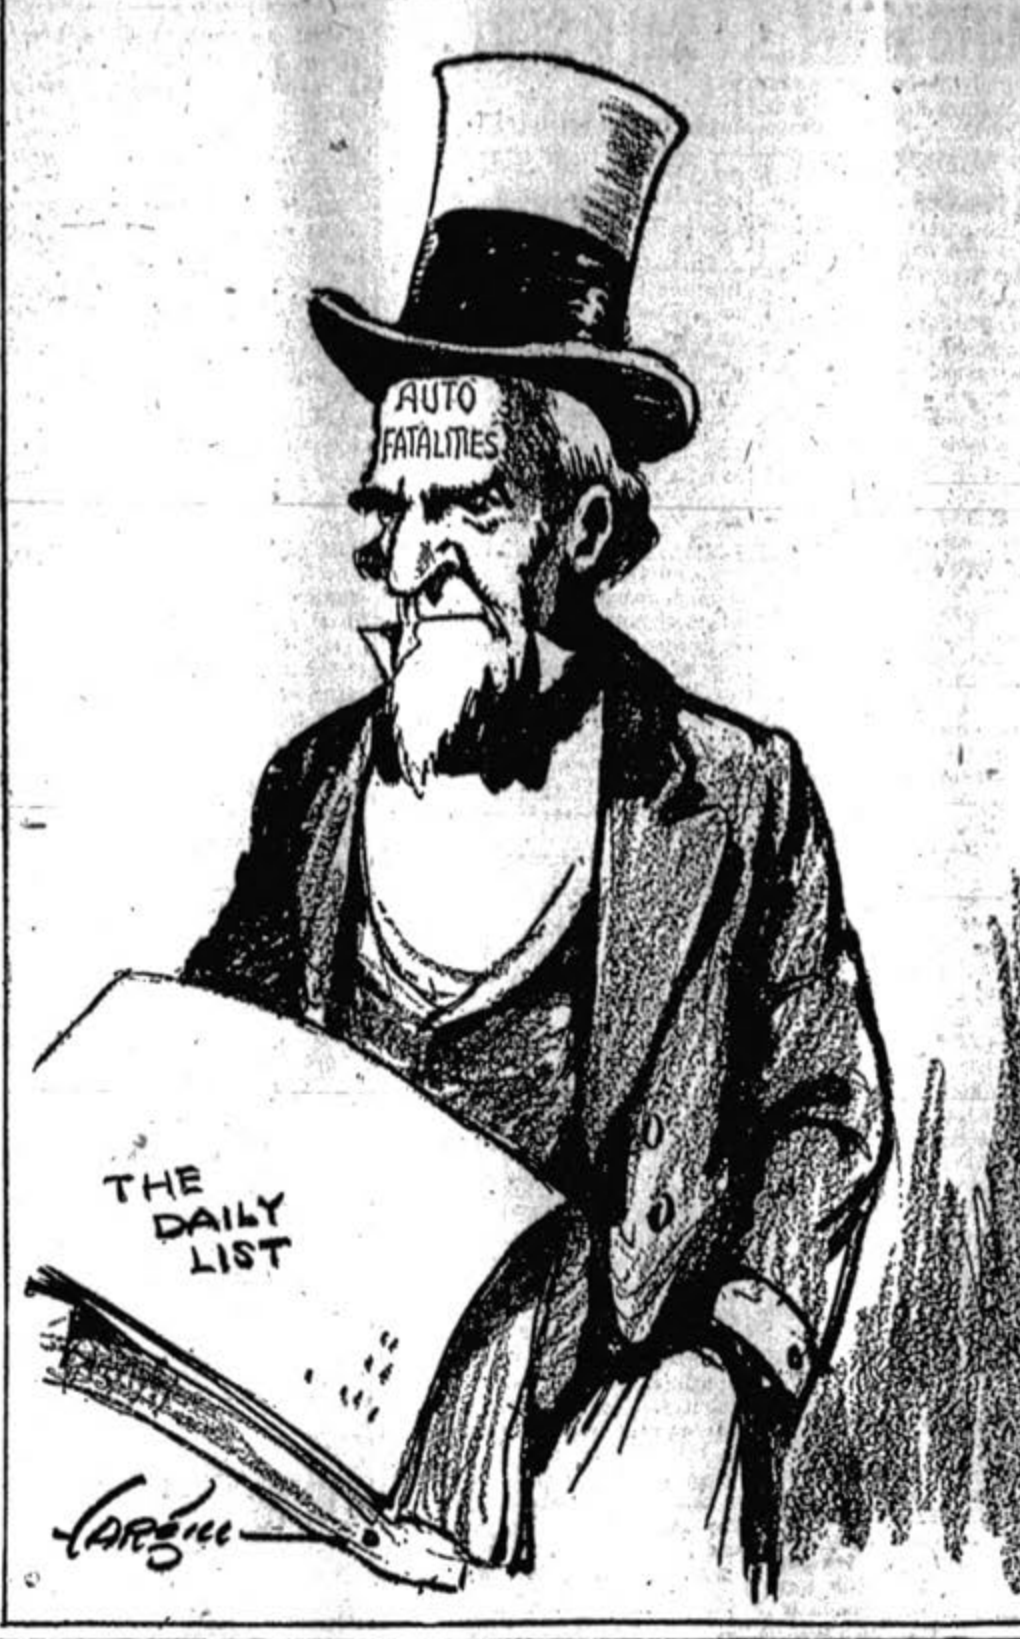

A Cincinnati woman, speaking of "Catholic Charities" and the Schools," emphasized that the purpose of schools is to prepare children "for life." This is the big idea. Too many schools are apparently designed to prepare pupils to do this, that or the other thing. There is much preparation for earning a living and not enough for living. In many instances there is preparation for neither. Schools seem to be in a place in which the boy or girl can kill time until old enough to support himself, or until he becomes of age. The problem of schools is to prepare for life—to give some understanding as to what it is all about.

NEW KNOWLEDGE

Speaking of education, the knowledge of the average reader ought to be greatly expanded by the remarkable new Encyclopedia of Social Sciences, the first volume of which is to be published early next year. The encyclopedia, when complete, will have 15 volumes and contain 10,000,000 words. It will cost $1,000,000. Scientific associations are cooperating and the work will be done by both American and foreign scholars. From this book we should get a birdseye view of what progress we have made in this system of living together that we call civilization.

The Encyclopedia will discuss all known topics in the social sciences, including economics, sociology, history, political science, anthropology, ethics, philosophy, law, education, psychology and art. Controversial subjects will be taken up in an impartial manner, being written about by scholars whose interest is indirect and unbiased.

CHAPTER XXVII LYNDY PUZZLES RALPH ARMITAGE.

Lynda was walking by without saying a word, but Emily grasped her arm.

"Come back and tell me, my dear, if Ralph is all busted up. Tell him I said it's hard luck to have one's reputation, one's body, bones and heart, and one's fun, all lost at once. Don't be too sympathetic, Lynn, and try to mend Ralph's worries by smashing your own fair fame."

"Will you never be serious, Emily?" Lynda asked. "Can't you realize that this is just business?"

"Yes, I realize that it is the business arm is most adept in."

Lynda passed on and entered the car. When she felt her head touch the gorgeous cushions she closed her eyes. What if what Emily was hinting were true; was she entering the path her mother had walked? But here seemed to be lined with white violets instead of primroses, she thought, as she caught the fragrance of perfume from a great bed of flowers, as the car was entering the gates of the estate. In a moment the car drew up before the marvelous entrance, whose carved marble had been brought from Italy by the elder Armitage.

A demure maid met her at the door. Lynda handed the maid her little red hat that she had pulled down over her shining black hair that morning.

By some miracle, at that moment, all this magnificence faded, and in her mind's eye she saw

David Kenmore at the other end of the kitchen table, in her own little house, helping her with the dishes. She almost wished she hadn't come. She wished she was back at the old home, with David wiping dishes.

As she entered the sitting room of Ralph Armitage's suite, she heard him say:

"Bring Miss Fenton in here, Parker."

She followed the trim maid into the other room, where Ralph was lying bolstered up with pillows, on a magnificent Empire bed.

As she came in he tried to move, but could not.

"Come over here, quickly," he commanded. "You know, I've been thinking all the morning of that bed of white violets down at the gate. You know they were my mother's favorite flowers—and I rather hated to think I was such a sentimental fool as to imagine that it was because you were coming. The air seemed laden with their fragrance today."

He was very pale, and there were drawn lines of pain about his mouth; but it seemed to Lynda that his eyes had lost some of their somber sadness, when she came close to the side of the bed, where she could look into his face.

"I do catch the fragrance of white violets! I didn't imagine it!" he said, triumphantly, as with his left hand he clasped hers, and pulled her nearer. "Lynda, let me look at you. You see, I can't turn in this confounded cast."

PREVENTING SPREAD OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS EXPLAINED

By DR. C. C. PIERCE.

The practical side of the infantile paralysis problem resolves itself into three main lines: Prevention, treatment for the early fever before paralysis has set in, and later treatment. We have just about as good a conception of the spread of this as most other diseases of children. It is primarily carried by people, not by things, so that in times when the disease is prevalent, it is safest to protect children against very close personal contact, particularly with any member of the family who mingles with the general public.

As a rule neither those who have the disease, nor well people, carry the germs for any great length of time. Infection comes by way of the mouth or nose, therefore all milk should be well pasteurized, and all eating utensils which may have been used or handled by others should be thoroughly washed with hot soda. At present the most promising form of treatment for the early stage of the disease before paralysis begins, is the use of human blood serum from persons who have very recently recovered from an attack. The use of this human serum demands expert technique in preparation and administration. It is also necessary that the physician be called at the first signs of illness and that he be prepared to diagnose the disease without paralysis.

Under these conditions it seems that the resulting paralysis is likely to be less than without the use of serum, but it must be remembered that even without treatment many cases of the disease occur which leave no paralysis whatever.

The name "infantile paralysis" is a poor one, since it does not cover the cases in older children and adults, nor the cases without paralysis. A somewhat better term is "acute poliomyelitis," which means an inflammation of the gray matter of the spinal cord.

To aid in the serum treatment, it is urged that all cases be reported promptly, and that the afflicted, over 10 years of age, volunteer some of their blood two or three weeks after recovery from the stage of fever.

TOADS AND LIZARDS.

Do you recall that tale of old, That tale in fairy stories told, The one no mother ever skips, About a maiden from whose lips Fell creatures having claws and stings, Like toads and lizards and such things?

You thought it just a tale no doubt, But it's the truth, as I've found out, While walking down a certain way I met the very maid today, And every time she spoke a word 'Twas something vulgar that I heard.

'Twas "goah" or "Darn" or something worse I wouldn't put in honest verse. The maiden never spoke at all, But toads and lizards she let fall, And you can guess about how well I liked the lips from which they fell.

DIET AND HEALTH

CHILDREN USING LEFT HAND NOT ABNORMAL AFTER ALL

Left-Handedness. Mrs. D.'s little girl is inclined to be left-handed. The little girl has just started school and the teacher has asked Mrs. D. if she shall teach her to write with her right or left hand. Mrs. D has heard that forcing a left-handed child to write with its right hand makes her inclined to be stupid. She herself does a lot of things with her left hand, but she writes with her right, but "of course," she adds, "I don't know how bright I am!"

There is a good deal of evidence accruing that children who are naturally left-handed and are forced to write with the right hand may develop some little speech defects—stammering or stuttering, etc., or perhaps squinting or other muscle twitching. Not all children do this—it may depend upon the degree of left-handedness—but enough are so afflicted to make it a rule that left-handed children should be allowed to use that hand to write.

Dr. Samuel E. Orton, in the September issue of Hygiene, in the article on Training the Left-Handed, finishes in this way: "I cannot express myself too strongly in saying that the attempt to make right-handed children of naturally left-handed, is a dangerous proceeding and a fundamental, physiologic error."

Left-handed people are not abnormal. Even though 95 percent of us use the right hand for acts requiring accuracy and attention, and only 5 per cent use the left.

Most of the nerve fibers in the brain controlling motion cross to the opposite side in the upper part of the spinal cord, so the right side of the brain controls the motion of the left side of the body, and the left side of the brain controls the right. (It is because of this crossing of the fibers that an injury to one side of the brain affects the other side of the body.)

Does this mean, then, that left-handed persons have a somewhat greater development of the right side of the brain, and right-handed persons the reverse? Or, is there from birth a greater development of one side of the brain and this acts as a determining factor in the development of the opposite side of the body? This is not known.

The cause of left-handedness is not known. Numerous theories, such as the one I spoke of—the greater development of the right side of the brain than the left—and imitation in children, habits, etc., have been thought of. The most probable cause is heredity. Some authors believe that right-handedness and left-handedness are remnants of our primitive ancestors, who in their fights with beasts and each other, used either the right or left hand. Those who used the right were more successful, for with the other hand they protected the heart; therefore, among users of the right hand there were more who succeeded in the struggle for existence!

Berlin Cafe Offers "World" to Guests. Berlin—Another "League of Nations" is making a bid for popularity.

On the Potsdamer Platz, one of the great downtown centers of gayety, work is progressing on a new entertainment cafe for which Leo Kronau, who devised the "Street of Nations" for San Francisco in 1914, worked out the plans.

Elevators convey guests in a twinkling to "Constantinople" or the "Rocky Mountains," at their will. Or the visitors may select the castle-crowned banks of the Rhine or a cool Spanish vineyard with Carmens and toreadors for atmosphere.

Cunning panoramic and lighting effects produce the illusion of sitting in a tavern on the Great Hungarian plain, where gypsy maidens dance, or the scene may be shifted to the banks of the Bosphorus, where weird Turkish music is played and smoke from narghiles curls up lazily.

Does this mean, then, that left-handed persons have a somewhat greater development of the right side of the brain, and right-handed persons the reverse? Or, is there from birth a greater development of one side of the brain and this acts as a determining factor in the development of the opposite side of the body? This is not known.

"You're right, I don't care, Hal. In fact, I rather hoped—if I thought at all in the second before I lost consciousness—that I would take the count. But, as usual, I only succeeded in getting myself reams of publicity, as usual."

"And the prettiest girl I ever saw to entertain you," said Hal Galbraith with her breath.

"I saw Pamilla Sheston as I was coming out here, Ralph, and she wanted me to bring her with me. I had all I could do to make her understand that no woman was admitted. She'd think I was an awful liar if she could see you, Miss Fenton."

"I'm glad you knew better than to bring that woman here," broke in Ralph, querulously. "I don't think I could have stood her, and this pain, together."

"Have you and Pamilla quarreled, Ralph?"

"No, not at all. I've just grown tired of her constant assumption of possession, that's all."

Hal Galbraith looked at Lynda, and a curious, one-sided smile curled his mouth.

COOLIDGE DISCUSSES POLITICS

Fair Enough!

The Ironwood Municipal band demonstrated its ability, yesterday, to handle a musical assignment like the fair in true, "big-time" style. Its music, in the grandstand at both sessions, was greatly appreciated. The band is under the direction of F. C. Gorman, who is in charge of music in the Bessemer public schools. The musicians opened their Escanaba stay, Sunday night, with a concert on the terrace at the Ludington hotel. They will remain here throughout the week.

Horsemen are greatly pleased with the new barn, although it is not big enough to hold all of the animals which will race here. The barn has a capacity of about 55 animals, with quarters for their handlers. There were 73 horses at the track last night. The new structure has been named "Rush-ton Speed Barn." In honor of State Senator Herbert J. Rushton.

The two batteries of loud speakers in front of the grandstand worked splendidly yesterday. The crowd could hear every word of the announcements perfectly. It is far and away superior to the old "megaphone" system.

John L. McNamara, secretary of the Detroit State Fair, is handling the entertainment program, and he is keeping things moving. There are no tedious waits between events. Jack Winnings, who will start the races during the remainder of the week, also has a deserved reputation for getting "snap" into the proceedings.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is maintaining a general information booth in the exposition building. Among the service there will be the finding of rooms for out-of-town visitors. The booth was a busy place on the opening.

To assist in relieving congestion at the gate, and accommodate those who do not want to stand in line to go past the ticket window, general admission tickets to the fair have been placed on sale in three downtown drug stores. They are the Mead Drug company, the West End Drug store and the Hill Drug store.

Among the many exhibits at the Northern State Fair is the forest fire fighting department under the direction of Henry Ross who is assisted by Fire Warden Joseph Parent. This exhibit is very interesting. The equipment used in fighting fire is displayed at this booth. Men, showing the forests in Michigan, their exact location and the manner of locating the fire from towers where the fire wardens are on duty. The two men in charge will gladly explain the various pieces of fire fighting apparatus used in their share of forest conservation work.

There have been many fish stories, at all times, even out of fishing season, but the following is a true story and anyone who does not believe it may go to the fair and visit the first display at the right of the entrance in the south wing of the big exposition building. Species of fish which live in Michigan waters are shown in large numbers. Glass cases with running water, each one containing a different species of fish, are attracting much attention. Included are black bass, rock bass, small mouthed bass, large mouthed bass, lake trout, German brown trout, speckled trout, sturgeon, sunfish, northern pike, gold fish, yellow perch, dogfish, suckers, bullheads and others. One large case contains several species and this is labeled the "Happy Family."

The wild life exhibit of the state conservation department is unusually attractive. The out-of-door "zoo" with its pheasants with their beautiful plumage, four bears, fox, deer, geese and beavers was surrounded by crowds who were eager to watch these birds and animals. What we were looking at the exhibit a beaver took a bath and it was indeed interesting to see the big fellow wade around in the water. When he came out of the water he sat on the edge of the large vat and rubbed his woolly body very much the same as human beings rub soap over his body while bathing. The beaver uses his front paws to rub his fur after bathing and after a thorough rubbing, jumps back into the water for a rinse. The indoor exhibit has a large display of furs which were secured from state trappers. There are a large number of fox skins, racoon, coyotes, beaver, muskrat, weasel, mink, skunk, otter, wolves and one large bear skin. The men in charge explain the manner of tanning the skins; how the animals are caught and the value of each kind of fur.

"Where do we eat?" The answer is "everywhere and anywhere" for there are so many booths, tents and concessions that no one need go hungry during the fair. The ladies of the First M. E. church have a tent where they serve breakfast, dinner and supper and lunches at all hours. Ice cream, pasties, home-made pies, coffee and doughnuts. At noon potatoes and meat and sandwiches and baked beans are served. The ladies of the Swedish Lutheran church have a large tent where regular meals are served. The prices are very moderate and with the gas connected to their booths the ladies are prepared to serve anything from a sandwich to a full meal. Breakfast begins at 6:30 o'clock, dinner at noon and supper from 5 to 8, and lunches at all hours. The Norwegian Danish church members conduct a booth where meals can be had at all hours. Lunches of every description and hot coffee and pie or cake is served. The ladies of All Saints' church at Gladstone are serving hot meals and lunches. They plan to serve a chop suey supper one day this week. The menus will be announced later.

FLORAL EXHIBIT ATTRACTS MANY

Large Assortment of Flowers at State Fair Grounds

The flower exhibit at the Northern State Fair is a blaze of color and lovely form as one enters the south end of the first exposition building at the east end of the grounds. There are magnificent color tones in the dahlias, both the old-fashioned pom-pom varieties and the exotic modernizations, the cacti-dahlias. One of these has a rosy pink blossom as large as a peony in full bloom.

Gladioli rear their spikes of bell-like flowers in glowing tints of red, pink, rose, white and salmon. One entire tier is devoted to asters which are such extraordinary fine flowers for the average grower, since they are decorative in the garden and are equally adaptable for home decorations and so beautiful in the sick room.

One beautiful plant has a plum-like blossom of deep scarlet. Coxcomb is its name and yesterday this beautiful plant was the center of attraction.

Probably few people realize that calendula or ordinary pot marigold could provide such a sweep from palest cream to deep orange. Cactus plants, a variation of the columbine with tink star-like flowers, old flower friends and some that we never saw before, all shine forth in their serene beauty. Surely the most hardened and unobservant could not pass this department without stopping to gaze on the beautiful display.

Other flowers shown include pansies, bachelor buttons, larkspur, baby breath, cosmos, sweet peas in all the beautiful pastel shades, golden glow, daisies, scabiosa (also called morning bride), verbenas, hydrangeas, mignonettes, snap dragons. The plants are too numerous to mention all the varieties but there are some exquisite plants which prove the care and attention the owners have given them. Cacti, baby breath, palms, several varieties, rubber plants, baby chrysanthemums, coleus, several kinds, ferns, Boston lace and Vernon, snow on the mountain with its pretty leaves of white and green, calla lilies, amaryllis, begonias, angel wing, rex, and others, flowering spruce, and a new plant never shown at any local fair is the baby's tears. This plant has small leaves in clusters, the leaves are oblong and glister. It is well named, "baby's tears."

A plant of unusual interest in the Japanese eye glass. Its leaves are silvery and fine in texture, resembling silk, wax paper. This plant must be seen to be appreciated and anyone looking over the varieties is welcome to ask for this special plant, as it is well worth seeing.

A large ground hemlock in bloom is also on display, and several beautiful myrtle plants.

Aix, the famous French watering place, has just added an eighteen-hole golf links.

EXHIBIT SPACE FAR TOO SMALL

Buildings at Fair Not Large Enough to House Livestock

Live-stock barns and exhibit buildings at the Upper Peninsula State Fair are not nearly large enough. This fact became apparent Sunday, and became more and more emphatic yesterday morning. Barn space for at least 200 additional-cattle could be used, without difficulty at the fair grounds. Additional pens for hogs and sheep had to be constructed hastily, by the department staffs and several tents have been erected to take care of the overflow of cattle and other stock.

The demand for space in the exposition building far exceeded the 32,000 feet of floor space available and many exhibitors were forced to place their displays in tents or booth outside. That dairy cattle, in years to come, will continue to be a major department was obvious. Blue-ribbon winners from numerous county fairs, and splendid animals from the leading dairy farms of the up-state district, were brought here by the car.

Smarter, Roomier, More Comfortable—With Famed Victory Performance Made Still More Brilliant

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages.

The wide Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers. JOHN ERICKSON CLUB ORGANIZED

Temporary Committee Is Selected; 150 Persons Attend

Organization of an Escanaba chapter of the John Erickson Republican League of America was gotten away at a meeting of Scandinavian-American citizens at the city hall last night.

Rev. C. Albert Lund was named temporary chairman; Carl E. Anderson, temporary secretary; Elmer Swanson, temporary vice president; and temporary treasurer, Henry Carlson. Permanent officers and committees will be appointed at another meeting to be held in the near future. About one hundred and fifty persons were in attendance at the enthusiastic meeting.

Frank Torell, Chicago, national organizer of the John Erickson League, was the principal speaker. He outlined the purposes of the organization, stating that primarily its aims were to create and maintain an active interest in public affairs among the Scandinavian people.

Mr. Torell also gave an illustrated lecture with the use of motion pictures of the recent American tour of Gustavus Adolphus, the Swedish crown prince, the flight of Charles A. Lindbergh and the unveiling of the John Erickson memorial some time ago.

The local John Erickson Republican clubs are political clubs with social features for American citizens, men and women, of Scandinavian descent. At all times their members promote better citizenship and honest government; endorse constructive public policies; support the best available candidates for elective and appointive offices; vote at all elections, and seek to enlist others to do so, it was explained by Mr. Torell.

Librarians to Hold Meeting Here Today

Upper Peninsula librarians will gather at the Carnegie Public Library here today at the U. P. Round Table meeting to discuss various problems of their work.

Among the principal speakers will be Mrs. Frankhauser, state librarian, and Mrs. S. W. Brennan, president of the Escanaba library board. Sessions will be held both in the morning and afternoon. No books will be circulated during the day.

Oil Lessee Loses Right if Indian Land Yields Gas

Oklahoma City, Okla.—The policy of the federal government in leasing Osage Indian lands for oil and gas separately has brought about an unusual situation in the fields of northeastern Oklahoma. Gas lessees must turn over their wells at cost if oil is found and holders of oil rights surrender the holes they drilled if gas is discovered.

When eastern Oklahoma was yet Indian territory, the interior department sold gas leases on the restricted Osage lands to several large companies, reserving oil rights. Each lease covered several thousand acres.

When oil was found on the Indian property, the government sold oil leases on ground already leased for gas. Discovery of oil by the holder of a gas lease requires him to surrender the flowing well to the man who purchased the oil rights, the latter paying expenses incurred in drilling. The same rule applies conversely when gas is struck by an oil lease holder.

A trick of the trade has caused the government to place five conservation officers in the Osage fields to see that the leases are respected. A driller can "mud off" gas and drill to a deeper oil sand, instead of giving the gasser to its lawful owner.

Cuban Minors and Movies.

Havana—Cuban motion picture theater owners, including more than 100 in Havana, threatened to close their theaters in protest against a law prohibiting children less than 14 years of age from attending the movies after eight o'clock at night. President Machado rescinded the law, but the government may still forbid admission of minors to theaters in the instances of individual film presentations.

"Safety City" Exhibit Attracts Throngs at Fair

One of the most novel exhibits in the exposition building at the U. P. State Fair grounds is "Safety City," a metropolitan community in the miniature which is designed to show eighteen different causes of traffic accidents. The exhibit is being staged by the Michigan Mutual Liability company in connection with the Michigan state police.

In addition, the state police will conduct an essay writing contest on traffic safety among the seniors of Escanaba high school and St. Joseph's high school. Students writing the ten best essays will each be awarded a "Lucky Lindy" medalion, and a silver plaque of Theodore Roosevelt will be given to each school for permanent possession. The name of the student who submits the best essay of each school will be placed on the Roosevelt plaque.

Taken From Movie Set.

The "Safety-City" exhibit is made up of the movie set used in the film, "Little Old New York," with some changes to give it the appearance of the city of Detroit. The river front is shown, with a fleet of vessels and a hydroelectric power plant. The old home of Col. Lindbergh has been placed in the set, and on the outskirts of the city are shown the Ford Airport with its beacon and aeroplanes in mid-air. In the background can be seen the Penobscot building, Book-Cadillac hotel and other Detroit skyscrapers.

Miniature automobiles crawl along the streets, their headlights glaring, since the objects are electrically controlled. Virtually every detail in metropolitan life is graphically shown in the "Safety City" exhibit.

Teaches Safety Lessons.

The chief object of this model city is to help teach safety lessons so vitally important to man, woman and child, who would protect themselves against the traffic dangers of a great metropolitan city.

Its thousands of moving parts include over 200 automobiles and other vehicles, motorbuses, street cars, trains, boats and more than 200 pedestrians, factories in operation, windmill, lighthouse, traffic signals and even a graveyard, where those who have disobeyed traffic safety rules have finally gone.

Street and country-side scenes are dotted with replicas of those things familiar to the automobile driver, and the dangers of driving under varying conditions are most vividly portrayed, including the various causes of traffic disasters.

The change from day to night is accomplished by means of special lighting equipment. Darkness comes on; factories, office buildings, homes and waterfalls are illuminated; lights appear in trains, automobiles and traffic signals, and the moon and stars appear.

The exhibit is in charge of Frank Emery of Detroit and State Trooper Hall.

U. S. AVIATION EXPERT HERE

Inspecting Planes, Checking Up on Pilots' Ability

O. D. Murphy, of the U. S. department of commerce, of Washington, D. C. federal aircraft inspector for the state of Michigan, arrived in Escanaba yesterday morning to inspect the planes and examine the pilots in service at the Upper Peninsula Airways flying field here. Mr. Murphy will remain in Escanaba until after the formal dedication of the field on Thursday afternoon and will then proceed to Hixney, where he will be present at the dedication of the new flying field at Hixney Park.

Mr. Murphy, who is an expert pilot, will make a complete examination of the planes in use at the local field, previous to the dedication, and will examine the pilots at the flying field here as to their qualifications.

"The work over which I have supervision in Michigan can be summed up in the statement that I am the representative of the department of commerce at Washington, with instructions to protect the interests of the public at every flying field in Michigan," said Mr. Murphy yesterday. "By some I am looked upon as a policeman, but I do not consider my work in that sense in any particular. The public is entitled to know whether or not the planes in service at their flying fields are safe for flying and they are also entitled to know whether or not the pilots who use those planes have the qualifications of a safe pilot. In other words, my work is fundamentally and finally centered in the protection of the public."

Protests against the practice of "urgent" calls by people who have no need for urgent treatment were recently filed before the Derry Board of Guardians of Ireland by Dr. W. A. McQuady, the medical officer.

The tea room, under Mrs. Peterson's management, will specialize in chicken dinners and other "home-made" specialties which were so popular in the former place.

Eight Couples Remain in Marathon Dancing Contest at Coliseum

Three couples dropped out of the $2500 marathon dancing contest at the Coliseum over the week-end, leaving eight pairs of hoof-shakers still in the competition with the general public showing increased interest in the affair. The contest, which started at 11 o'clock Friday night, has attracted large crowds every night and even during the day.

Leg muscle strain suffered by the girl partners was responsible for the elimination of the three couples. Robert Kittson, Marinette, complained that his partner, Marcella Paier of Escanaba, was still in condition to go on with the dance but that she dropped out in order to fill a Sunday evening engagement with a boy friend. They quit dancing Sunday morning after being 27 hours on the floor.

Marcella, however, maintains that she had forgotten the date when she signed up for the marathon, and when she realized that there was a conflict she just had to quit dancing, that was all there was to it.

"I never broke a date on a boy friend in my life, and I'm not going to do it now," Marcella asserted as she retired from the floor, despite the earnest pleadings of her partner to continue.

Prall Girl Exhausted

Linda Ehrinberg, the frail little girl who had some difficulty in finding a partner until Joe LaValley, who had just come to town from the tall timber popped up, was unable to withstand the gaff at the end of 49 hours of dancing. They quit Sunday evening.

Irene Martineau, Escanaba, and Earl King, Marinette, quit as the hand of the clock marked 42 hours since the marathon got underway.

Lightship Will Be Discontinued About October 1

Days are numbered for the lightship Lansing Shoal, which for years has guarded waters in the vicinity of shoals from which it received its name. The lightship is to be discontinued there about Oct. 1, according to advice from Capt. C. H. Hubbard of the federal building, Milwaukee.

In the Lansing's place will be a modern lighthouse, air diaphone fog signal, radio beacon and direction finder. The new light is of 35,000 candlepower, and will be visible 16 miles. The change is in line with the policy of the lighthouse bureau to discontinue lightships wherever practicable and replace them with stationary lights. In addition to the Lansing Shoal ship, manned by six Manistique men, the old Squaw Island light station and fog signal will also go into the discard.

Throughout Schoolcraft county are evidences of nature's preparation for the annual style show in Autumn foliage, and bright colors will again be in vogue for well dressed trees. Vivid splashes of various shades of crimson have appeared on maples, usually the first to adopt the new fall modes, as Dame Nature passes over the country with her paint brush. The effect is particularly noticeable out in Hiawatha, on M-94, and the early fall scenery is attracting scores of additional sight-seeing motorists.

ATTENDANCE AT HIGHEST MARK IN FOUR YEARS

Records at the office of Principal H. Wilson show an enrollment at Manistique high school higher than it has been for four years. 168 French Towns May Tax Tourists

Paris—Taxing the tourist is the privilege of 168 towns and cities in France. The government taxes them coming and going, but only 168 municipalities are allowed to tax them for staying. Last year these appointed places garnered tens of millions of francs out of the pockets of Frenchmen and foreigners. The "sojourn tax," as it is called, is levied on all visitors to places designated as resorts. The hotel tacks the tax onto the bill, and hands the money over to the city, which uses it to clean the streets, keep the lights burning and similar things. A town that considers itself a watering place or a health resort or amusement center must apply to the government for the privilege of being allowed to tax visitors. The tax varies from 1 1/2 percent to 3 percent and more. Nice, on the Riviera, led all the other towns in collecting "sojourn taxes" last year, the visitors paying 2,965,000 francs into the municipal till. Vichy came next with 1,291,000 francs, followed by Cannes, Menton, Biarritz, Royand, Le Touquet and Dinard. Expensive Deauville was far down the list, with less than 300,000 francs collected, because its season is a short—if merry—one.

AT THE RIALTO

May McAvoy in "A Reno Divorce" a Warner Bros. production comes to the Strand today only. This picture is acclaimed as one of the most brilliant of modern comedy-dramas. It was written, and directed by the versatile Ralph Graves who also plays the romantic lead. May McAvoy plays the part of a thrill-seeking young society girl. Her speeding car knocks down the young man proves to be her hero. Menace appears in the form of a divorced couple, a drunken driver, a wheel of chance, counter-schemes, and complications galore sweeping the story to a great climax. In the cast are Hedda Hopper, Robert Ober, William Demarest, Anders Randolph and Edward Duvon. While ultra-modern, "A Reno Divorce" is intensely human. It is a play to see and to remember.

DEDICATION ATTENDED BY MANY PEOPLE

Services Held in New Church for First Time. Dedication ceremonies were held Sunday, marking the opening of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Twelfth and Minnesota avenue. Two services were held, marking the formal opening of the new church, and in the evening there was a special showing of slides. The dedication was attended by a large number of people, members of the congregations, and friends, members of other congregations in Gladstone and neighboring communities. At the morning service at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. C. Doehler, Escanaba, was the speaker and at 2:30 o'clock the speaker was Pastor H. Kirchner of Stambaugh, member of the Mission Board, Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod at Wisconsin. The slides of Lutheran Mission work among North Carolina negroes were shown at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Kurt Geier of Peotigo. A dinner and a supper were served to visitors with members of the Ladies' Aid society of the church, in charge. Services, before the opening of the new church, were held in the Swedish Lutheran church.

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Establishment of new high prices for the year by General Motors and U. S. Steel Common featured the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Buying orders were again distributed over a broad list with the airplanes, coppers, oils, foods, motors and steels presenting outstanding points of strength. Although there were several blocks of 10,000 shares or more, the bulk of the day's trading was in relatively small lots, with the ticker half an hour or more behind the market during the greater part of the session. The day's sales were 4,226,400 shares.

Lowering of the call money rate from 7 to 6 1/2 per cent, due largely to the temporary surplus of funds resulting from the Sept. 15 turnover, helped to create bullish enthusiasm. The August foreign trade report showed an export excess of $34,000,000 with the gold movement showing a small balance of imports for the first time in eight months. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates. Sterling exchange held around the point where further gold shipments from London to New York are expected.

U. S. Steel common touched a new peak at 160 3-8 and then dropped back to 159, unchanged on the day. General Motors closed 1 3-4 points higher at 208 1/2 after establishing a new peak at 211 1/2, with buying influenced by the publication of the August retail sales report, showing a gain of 18.2 per cent above the same month last year, and by expectations of a substantial extra cash dividend at the November meeting of directors.

Heavy accumulation of the copper shares was in direct response to the increase in red metal prices on Saturday. Federal Mining & Smelting soared 23 points to a new peak at 157 and then eased to 155 1/2, and Cerro de Pasco was bid up 6 5-8 points to 100 1-8, both new high records. Other coppers to better their previous 1923 tops were Anaconda, Chile, Granby, Kennecott and Calumet & Hecla.

Oils changed hands in tremendous volume as a result of the efforts being made to bring about a world curtailment of crude, but some of the active speculators lost their gains and closed fractionally lower. Pierce Oil Preferred ran up 8 1/2 points to a new high at 72 1/2 and closed at the top. Atlantic Refining, Skelly, White Eagle and Richfield also moved into new high ground. Studebaker and Chrysler climbed to new high prices, but were unable to retain all their gains. Motor Products showed a net loss of 3 points at 183 after having receded to a new peak at 193. Briggs, Timken and Murray Corporation recorded substantial gains.

Among the many stocks to sell at their best prices of the years were Advance Rumely Common, Brooklyn Union Gas, Case Threshing, Central Alloy Steel, California Packing, Household Products, Johns Manville Roger Stores, May Department Stores, National Enameling, Westinghouse Electric.

Final quotations also disclosed a fairly long list of net declines, but most of these were held to a point or two. Bro. Shoe, Continental Baking, Cuyamoc Fruit, Gillette Safety Razor and Transu & Williams Steel were conspicuously heavy. Selling of Por to Rican Tobacco A and South Porto Rican sugar was inspired by reports of heavy property damage and large loss of life in the tropical storm which swept over that country.

Rails lost ground after an early outburst of buying had carried Missouri Pacific, Kansas Southern and St. Louis Southwestern into new high ground for the year. Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat lost a fraction of a cent a bushel and cotton advanced 75 cents to $1.25 a bale. Coffee showed little change. Raw sugar was slightly firmer and refined sugar a shade lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Despite stubborn opposition, wheat prices yielded in some degree to pressure of increasing supplies. The corn market likewise recorded the last curtailment of available stocks of corn turning out to be less than most traders had expected.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1/4 to 3/4c net lower. Corn finished 1/4 to 1/2c down, oats unchanged to 3/4c higher, and provisions varying from 1/4 to 1 1/2c decline to a rise of 2c.

Profit-taking sales in the corn market today tended to pull down prices near close, supplementing the bearish effect of disappointment over the corn supply supply which disclosed a reduction of only 314,000 bushels for the week. Earlier the trend of values was upward, with European buying and September deliveries ascending to the highest price since June 6. On the other hand, country of ferings were somewhat larger, and the cash corn trading basis was off 1 to 1 1/2c with weather conditions generally favorable for maturing the crop. Oats receipts were scant, and the oat market held firm.

Carnegie Library Notes

A librarians' Round Table meeting of the Upper Peninsula Library Association will be held at the Carnegie Public Library Tuesday of this week, Sept. 18. The library building will be closed to the public all day Tuesday. It is hoped there will be a good representation of librarians and trustees from libraries in this vicinity in attendance at the meeting. The program Tuesday morning will consist of addresses by Mrs. Mary Frankhauser of Lansing, state librarian, and Mrs. S. W. Brennan, president of the board of library trustees of the city. At the afternoon session there will be a question box and discussion of the problems presented.

Among the most popular of the newer books in the library at present are Swanson by John Galsworthy, Diana of the North Country by Miriam Mosger, The Window by Alice Grant Rosman, and Tide of Empire by Peter B. Kyne.

The library circulation Thursday totaled 409. Of that number 232 books were circulated at the Webster school station which is open Thursday afternoons from 2:00 until 3:30.

Marching Afloat, Recollections of Men, Women, and Music by John Philip Sousa has been in circulation at the library for a number of weeks. The Book Review Digest says of this volume: "Sousa's memories of his musical career as band leader and composer go back to his first lessons for a beginning and march along to the present, down a pleasant pathway of friendship and fame."

Among the new books which will be put into circulation this week are the following:

Ludwig, Emil: Goethe; the History of a Man.
Walden, Arthur T.: A Dog Punter on the Yukon.
Wells, H. G.: The Open Conspiracy.

Fiction.
Aldrich, Bess Streeter: A Lantern in her Hand.

TRENARY NEWS

Due to the fact that Mr. Albin Berg of Rapid River, who has been working at the Trenary Meat Market, has seriously injured two fingers for which he had to quit work. His place was filled by Mr. Francis Finlan of Trenary.

Many exhibits from Trenary schools and the Trenary 4-H club exhibits were put up Monday evening and Tuesday morning at the Alger County Fair. The school exhibits were taken care of by Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn and the club exhibits by Miss Ellen Syranen of Chatham and Miss Eunice Little of Trenary. School was dismissed Friday so the children will all get a chance to go and see their exhibits and are looking forward to having a good time.

The boys are cleaning the church basement at the Methodist church Friday evening. That is one good sign of cold weather coming.

Work on the roads was progressing quite rapidly when the heavy rain fall which we have had lately checked the usual run of work. The roads which are being prepared for the gravel were so muddy that all cars had to go by the old route.

Herman Fireman, son Raymond and daughter Nora and her husband are visiting friends and relatives here until home in Watertown, Wisconsin. The young couple are on their honeymoon. Rainy weather does not permit much sight-seeing.

Miss Eunice Little and Miss Ruth Gilliland of Trenary are giving a canning demonstration at the Chatham Fair Friday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. Miss Little is the local club work and takes quite an active part in it.

Because of the rain the last week the men at Peterson's Construction Camp on day shift got to attend the Alger Co. Fair, otherwise they would have had to work. They are the only ones that were thankful for the rain. It didn't improve the roads any.

Miss Mary Finch of Winters, Mich., has quit school and is doing housework at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Stevens, also of Winters, Mich.

Walter Bickel of the Peterson Construction company, fell from the door step of the sleeping shack Tuesday evening and broke a bone in his hip. He will be laid up for at least two weeks.

The Misses Mable and Katherine Hill and Miss Velma Mills and Miss Anna De Lash went picking hazelnuts Thursday evening. They are preparing for the winter evenings already.

The State Nurse, Miss Giltner of Lansing, Michigan was here Thursday in business.

Willard Quarfoot of Ladoga, Mich., was making wedges Thursday evening when the axe suddenly slipped and cut two of his fingers. One of his fingers were cut completely off and the other had a terribly long gash in it. The doctor has been quite busy lately, he is on the road two thirds of the time.

Mr. Peter Hill, Mr. Lum Mills, and Mr. John Gassner attended the Chatham Fair.

B. L. Gregg took Mr. Asa Elmers book to the Chatham Fair. They are planning to raffle it off.

Of 802 SOS messages broadcast in England last year, 340 were successful, 396 failures, and in 66 cases the result was not known.

Home Tested Recipes

Next week recipes for cooking meats and vegetables will be given each day. Later on recipes for menus for two will be published and each day this column will contain interesting recipes for appetizing dishes.

MUSTARD PICKLES.

1 quart onions, chopped.
1 quart small cucumbers, sliced thin.
1 large cauliflower, chopped fine.
3 green peppers, cut fine (remove seeds).
4 quarts water.
1 pint salt.
Pour salt and water over vegetables and heat enough to scald. Turn into colander and drain.

TOMATO CATSUP.

6 quarts tomatoes.
1/2 cup brown sugar.
3 tablespoons salt.
1 1/2 tablespoons black pepper.
2 tablespoons ground cinnamon.
1 tablespoon allspice.
1-1/4 cups vinegar.
Remove stems from tomatoes, cut into small pieces; put all ingredients together in kettle and allow to simmer slowly until cooked down to one half. This will take about four hours. Stir occasionally to keep from burning. Strain and pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot. This is a highly seasoned sauce to serve with meats and baked beans.

GORN SALAD.

18 ears corn.
1 head of cabbage.
3 green peppers.
2 quarts white vinegar.
4 onions.
1/2 pound powdered mustard.
3 cups sugar.
1-1/4 cup salt.
Cut corn from cob after it has been boiled; chop cabbage, peppers and onions fine. Mix all together and boil 20 minutes. This may be kept in a stone crock and will keep all winter. Cover jar with cloth and plate.

PUCK STARTS EXTRA DRILLS

Not satisfied with the showing made by the Hilltoppers in yesterday's scrimmage at the athletic field, Coach William Puckelwartz announced that an extra practice session will be on the program for this week. Chalk talks are planned for the evenings in addition to the afternoon workouts to give the gridders a chance to brush up on the various plays.

The Puckmen open their 19-28 football season next Saturday with Manistique here. The Schoolcrafters lost to the strong Munising team in a hard-fought game last Saturday, but indications are that they are prepared to give the Escanaba eleven a real scrap.

Coach Puckelwartz put the first string men against George Grab's Reserves in a scrimmage session yesterday afternoon, and in the second half pitted the regulars against "B" team, composed of candidates for regular squad.

The first team was composed of the following: center, Breitenbach; guards, Hart and Brown; tackles, Gaborie and Gustafson; quarterback, Don Anderson; halfbacks, Pettin and Gilbert Byrnes; fullback, LeChapelle. The second string squad had the following lineup: Center, Glavin; guards, Wicklander and Baldwin; tackles, Landon Johnson and Leonard Johnson; ends, Groesbeck and Swanson; quarterback, Villemure; halfbacks, Schram and Stanley Burns; fullback, Stanley Johnson.

The scrimmage resulted in minor injuries to several players, none of whom will be out of next Saturday's game as a result. Clark Glavin sprained a wrist, while Landon Johnson received several bruises when kicked on the leg.

Henri Cochet Defeats Francis T. Hunter to Win U. S. Net Title

BY F. G. VOSSBURGH (Associated Press Sports Writer) Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 17—(AP)

In one of the most memorable matches of tennis history, a terrific battle in which every second was packed with drama and every stroke carried a thrill, Henri Cochet of France today defeated Francis T. Hunter to win the U. S. Net title. Hunter, 34-year-old veteran from New Rochelle, N. Y., in the final for the United States national singles championship.

The wonderful little Frenchman came from behind to win the grip-ping five-set struggle by scores of 4-6, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, with the aid of as steadily and spectacular a net attack as this historic tennis battleground has ever seen. Thus, for the third time in the last three years, France triumphed over the home courts and the title American courts classic and the title goes again to France where it was borne in 1925 and 1927 by Rene Lacoste, just now a Paris business man.

Overcome Lead. In overcoming a commanding lead piled up by the opportunist Hunter in the early sets, Cochet proved himself one of the greatest of champions. A prince of the tennis realm whose name is full worthy to go down on the list of winners of this title beside that of his fellow "musketeer," Lacoste, Bill Tilden, Bill Johnston, Maurice McLoughlin and the rest.

With the count two sets to one against him at the intermission, Cochet appeared to face a superhuman task. The crowd of six thousand, strongly for Hunter, was howling and shrieking at the almost totally unexpected hope for victory for the American. Cochet more than proved his mettle in those last two sets, when, although he never could out-game Hunter, the embodiment of courage, he called forth from the wells of youth, another ounce or two of energy which enabled him to rally to the fore court and win the match and championship by wielding his rapier racket in marvelous smashes at close range.

TY COBB WILL QUIT BASEBALL

"Georgia Peach" Feeling Advancing Age; Veteran of 25 Years

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 17—(AP)—Ty Cobb is going to retire from baseball at the end of the present season, his 24th in the American League.

The "Georgia Peach" has felt the effect of his advancing years, and Davis c is a member of the Philadelphia Athletics' roster. He has watched Jonnie Mack parade youngsters into the field to give the New York Yankees battle for the 1928 pennant.

"Guess it's time to get out of the game and play with my kids before they grow up and leave me," Tyus Raymond Cobb said today.

"After all," he said, "I'm just baseball tired and want to quit." "I will be leaving baseball with a lot of regrets and still with a light heart," said Cobb. "It's hard to pull away from a game to which one has given a quarter century of his best manhood and which paved the road to lift me to a place of prominence and affluence."

Ty said he would like to retire as a member of a pennant winning organization this year, not that he is selfish, but because he wants to see Connie Mack, the square man in baseball, win the flag.

In Baseball Scandal. The memory of Cobb on the eve of his departure from the game, goes back to August 28, 1905, when he joined the Detroit Tigers. With the opening of the 1907 season he became the greatest all-around player in the history of the pastime. He continued to lead until he took over the managing end of the Detroit club when Hughie Jennings dropped the reins. He led the league in batting for nine straight years and held many other records.

Cobb left Detroit and Tris Speaker left Cleveland two years ago when they were accused of betting on a "sure thing" in baseball. These charges were not upheld. The Georgia Peach hired out to Connie Mack and the Gray Eagle, after playing a year with Washington, also joined the Athletics.

BOXING

New York, Sept. 17—(AP)—Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles negro welterweight, won from Cuddy de Marco, of Pittsburgh, on a technical knockout in the fourth round of a 10 round bout at Dexter Park tonight. Demarco went down for counts of nine in the first and second rounds and was being punished severely when the referee halted the uneven struggle in the fourth. Gans weighed 140; Demarco 146.

ROBINS 7; REDS 3

Brooklyn, Sept. 17—(AP)—A rally in the sixth inning that netted them five runs enabled the Brooklyn Robins to even their series with the Cincinnati Reds today by a 7 to 3 score. A walk, four hits and a pair of sacrifices accounted for the five Brooklyn runs. Gilbert's double with the bases full drove in three tallies and was the big feature of the tally.

Pete Donohue pitched the whole game for the Reds and yielded 14 hits although he held a lead when the Robins started their batting spree. Cincinnati 000 020 100—3 6 0

Three Run Outburst in 8th Breaks Up Pitching Battle

Detroit, Sept. 17—(AP)—A three-run outburst in the eighth inning today broke up a pitching battle between Fred Marberry and Owen Carroll, and gave Washington a 4 to 3 victory over the Tigers. It was the third straight win for the Senators. Goose Goslin hit safely in his twenty-third consecutive game when he beat out a grounder to Gehring in the first inning.

RAILS DEFEAT LLOYDS, 4-0

Van Effen Held the Lloyds Down to Six Hits and the Railroaders Won a 4 to 0 Victory in an Interesting Game at the C. & N. W. Baseball Field Sunday Afternoon.

Although the Menominee crew were able to get men on bases often, they seemed to lack the necessary punch to bring in the base runners to the home plate. The Lloyds had three men on bases in the eighth and two on in the ninth, but each time as throughout the previous frames Van Effen tightened up in the pinches and retired the side.

The Railroaders started hitting the pill in the initial frame, netting one run. In the second, they scored two more and the one tally in the third inning ended the scoring spree. The Lloyds played air-tight ball from then on.

Murray Boyle, who made his first appearance in a Northwestern uniform Sunday, played an exceptionally good game at second base, and also got a nice hit. All other members of the squad played a fine brand of baseball.

About five hundred persons witnessed the encounter. Efforts are being made by the Railroaders' management to book a game for next Sunday.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Regicide and patricide—guilty of the murder of both king and father!

With the double crime upon his soul, Czar Alexander the First of Russia ascended to the throne left vacant by the assassination of his father, Czar Paul the First.

While his hands had nothing to do with the kerchief which tightened around the neck of the unhappy Paul, Alexander was none the less guilty of his death for he was fully aware of the conspiracy and sat in his room in the Palace of St. Michael waiting the new Czar.

The whole conspiracy with its tragic fruition is depicted with graphic realism in Emil Jannings latest starring picture, "The Patriot," which Ernst Lubitsch now directing for Paramount, now showing at the Delft Theatre.

Directing such players as Florence Vidor and Lewis Stone in support of Emil Jannings in what is said to be his greatest characterization, the master European director offers "The Patriot" as his effort and contribution to the screen.

AT THE STRAND.

"Beware of Blondes" is a crook drama of an unusual sort. For the production, which is coming to the Strand Monday, there were constructed a number of massive sets and engaged a strange assortment of players. Among the sets are a palatial jewelry store, ocean liner and street in Honolulu. The players come from all quarters of the globe. Matt Moore, Roy D'Arcy and Dorothy Revier have the featured roles.

Loud Speaker For Police

Policemen in some cities of Germany are being supplied with portable loud speakers which have been recently invented. With them the officers give announcements, handle crowds and perform other services. The apparatus consists of a horn, batteries, microphone and a sectional pole to support the horn. Orators, bosses of street gangs and others who address a number of people may take up the idea.

Mr. Francis Boyle FRIEND TOLD ESCANABA MAN ABOUT DRECO

Had Been Complaining For Seven Years—Got Complete Relief in One Month.

"Dreco has improved my physical condition in every way," said Mr. Francis Boyle, 318 No. 13th St., this city, in a recent conversation with the Dreco man at the Drug Dept. of the Fair Store.

"For seven long years I had been run down in health," continued Mr. Boyle, who is a turn table operator at the C. & N. W. Shops. "About a month ago I read in the paper how Dreco had helped Mr. Frank Sarrow, who is a friend of mine, so I asked him about this new preparation and he advised me to start on it at once. I did this and in just one month it made a new man of me."

"I am now free of the awful distress in my stomach and I can eat anything now. The pains in my back and limbs have vanished. I can sleep soundly at night and I seem to have more strength and pep than I have had in a long, long time."

For decades physicians have prescribed the same roots, barks, herbs and leaves from which Dreco is made. In Dreco these herbs are combined with rare skill to produce the best remedy for stomach troubles, sluggish bowels, impure blood and other complaints.

The Dreco Man is now at the Drug Dept., Fair Store, where he is daily explaining the merits of Dreco to numerous local people and presenting everyone who is interested with a valuable health booklet free.—Adv.
