

REPUBLICANS BEST FOR U. S. - HOOVER

COLORADO PUT ON THE LIST AS DOUBTFUL

TARIFF VIEWS MAY BE DECISIVE FACTOR

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright 1928, by the Escanaba Press. Denver, Colo., Sept. 27.—Lots of things can happen between now and election day to swing sentiment but at this point in the campaign Colorado is a close state. This is another way of saying that the majority will be twenty thousand either way. Considering that the Republicans have been carrying it by 100,000 since the days when President Wilson won Colorado in 1916 the admission by Republicans that they may get 20,000 is an indication of how matters have changed.

Governor Smith is stronger here than any Democratic nominee since Wilson. He is particularly the favorite in the cities. He will probably carry Denver and may come near it in Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Trinidad. But the country districts will poll a heavy vote against him.

The New York Governor had a wonderful reception here. The crowds gave him a fanatical welcome. While the speech was of profound importance as a strategic move in the whole plan of campaign it was not, however, what the average man expected. As one was expressed in: "The Governor talked about water and they wanted to hear about fire."

Wet-Dry Issue. The truth in Denver is interested in the Wet and Dry question and would have preferred an open and free discussion of the Volstead Act. The radio will have to supply that as the campaign progresses and Governor Smith hits into that theme in his eastern speeches.

The Governor's attack on the power companies made a deep impression. He wanted to win Senator Norris of Nebraska and judging by the favorable comment which Mr. Norris made about the address Mr. Smith succeeded though the Nebraska senator hasn't said he will vote for the New York Governor.

The Denver speech was deliberately planned because Senator Norris said the Democratic platform had glossed over the doings of the power companies. What the Houston platform omitted, Governor Smith supplied and in abundant measure. The speech coming on the heels of the announcement that the power companies had been distributing a speech by Herbert Hoover indicates clearly that the line-up in this campaign so far as the utilities are concerned will be largely against Governor Smith.

Views Were Crossed. In the western states, however, where men like Senators Norris and Howell and Walsh have been hammering away at the power companies, some of the newspapers which have been doing the heckling and which are supporting Hoover now have kind words to say about Governor Smith's Denver speech.

The Governor's discussion of Boulder Dam was aimed at Arizona and California, whose residents presumably were listening in on the radio. Colorado is the only one of the seven compact states which the Governor intended to visit, so he devoted his time here to water power.

But an incident which may overshadow everything else that Governor Smith did while visiting here still has its echoes and may cost Smith the state. A group of beef sugar farmers came to his hotel and went away convinced that the New York Governor would favor the retention of the present tariff on sugar, if not a higher one. The farmers only shook hands with the Governor but they talked at length with one of his trusted advisers, Judge Proskauer. They gave out an intimation saying the Governor was for a tariff on sugar. But when the Governor reached Cheyenne and the reports were brought to his attention, he said he had not discussed the tariff. Immediately the intimation was broadcast that the repudiated the Proskauer viewpoint for if he were not doing so then he could have ignored the matter and let it rest. Promptly on the publication of this statement the Democratic state chairman was on the telephone trying to reach Governor Smith in Montana to endeavor to get a clarifying statement.

So Governor Smith confronted with the first specific test as to whether he is for a protective tariff as his platform indicates realizes that in sections he visits.

Mayor of Flint Arrested on Election Fraud Charge

HAVE PARDON HOPE

Because of an error in the mittimus under which Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr. were sent to Joliet, Ill., penitentiary four years ago, for the murder of Bobby Franks, they are eligible for parole in six years, according to Hinton Clabaugh, chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles. Loeb is at top, and Leopold, below.

JUST REGULAR PRISON INMATES

Penitentiary Official Denies Leopold and Loeb Are Favored

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Warden Elmer Green of Joliet penitentiary issued a formal statement today not agreeing with Hinton Clabaugh, head of the state board of pardons and paroles, who charged in an address this week that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, slayers of Bobby Franks, are receiving special favors in the prison and that they may apply for parole in seven more years, due to an error in the commitment papers.

Warden Green said Loeb is working now in the same place as when Mr. Green became warden in 1926. He said Loeb runs errands and does typing, has no authority over any other prisoners and is subject to the same rules and regulations as all other prisoners.

Leopold, the warden said, was doing clerical work in the shoe factory, but at the request of the chaplain was transferred to the library, where he does clerical work. He also scrubs floors and shines shoes, the warden said. The conduct of both prisoners was described as good.

The warden said he was responsible for assigning men to work and added that men must be fitted to do clerical work. He took exception to Mr. Clabaugh's statement that the youths could apply for parole in seven more years.

Under a life sentence, he maintained, prisoners must serve a minimum of 20 years before they can apply for parole and under the 99 year sentence for kidnaping, they must serve at least one-third of the term. The warden's statement suggested that Mr. Clabaugh's charges were made through a desire for "personal publicity."

11 ARRESTS MADE AFTER JURY INQUIRY

CITY OFFICIAL SAID TO HAVE STOLEN BALLOTS

Flint, Mich., Sept. 27.—(AP)—William McKelghan, mayor of Flint, was arrested here today charged with theft of election ballots and stuffing of ballot boxes.

The arrest was the outgrowth of a grand jury investigation into alleged irregularities in connection with the recent state primary election. The executive was released on bond tonight to appear for examination October 5th.

While McKelghan was not a candidate for office in the election he took a prominent part in the campaign in support of Louis McGregor, Republican candidate for prosecutor, and Delbert D. Woolsey, candidate for state representative. Both candidates were elected by slender margins.

The mayor is the eleventh person arrested as the result of the inquiry, which is reported to have discovered more than 1200 faked ballots at three of the city's polling places. The warrant against McKelghan charged that genuine ballots were stolen from the booths and others, which turned the tide of the election, substituted.

Toombs Paid for Shepherd Defense, Records Reveal

Chicago, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A referee in bankruptcy delving into the affairs of Roy C. Toombs, St. Louis and Chicago financier, and the defunct Toombs & Faily brokerage house which he headed, today found that the brokerage concern had financed the defense of William Darling Shepherd, tried and acquitted of the murder of his wife, William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan," four years ago.

O. R. Daily, vice president of the brokerage concern, told Garfield Charles, the referee, that the company had advanced approximately $50,000 to the man accused of inciting his ward with typhoid germs in order to cause his death and gain possession of his estate.

The money, Daily said, has not been repaid, although it was understood that Shepherd was to repay the money and turn over to the company for investment the $2,000,000 McClintock estate. Shepherd under terms of a will drawn only a few days before McClintock died, was given virtually the entire estate but relatives of McClintock are contesting the will and the estate still is involved in litigation.

U. P. Airways Asks Right to Sell Securities

Lansing, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Upper Peninsula Airways today asked the state public utilities commission for permission to incorporate and issue $30,000 in securities to finance an air passenger service and an aviation school. The company proposes to use the money for the purchase of a 75-acre tract for an airport on the outskirts of Escanaba at $9,000, acquire a substantial building, one airplane at $2,750 and incidental material and equipment.

The officers were listed as Olaf Magnuson, Walter Arntzen, E. J. Tounignant, Stephen J. Murphy, Jr. and C. Harold Westcott, all of Escanaba, except Tounignant, who lives in Ontonagon. Indications were the permission will be granted.

TO INVESTIGATE LIQUOR RUMORS

Charges Made That Fraternity Parties Are of "Whoop" Variety

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A federal investigation into rumors of the use of liquor at the University of Michigan was urged by President Clarence Cook Little in a letter today to Dean Joseph Bursley.

While stating that he believed the reports were "grossly exaggerated," Dr. Little said an investigation by federal agents "to establish the correctness or incorrectness of the rumors in question" was desired.

The university president suggested that the fraternities and their alumni; the student council and the university authorities should join in making the request for a federal investigation, stating that they should welcome an opportunity to prove that the rumors were not founded on fact.

Dr. Cook wrote that "if the matter could be brought to a head by October 10 or 15, I should think that it would be of a later date."

Reports Exaggerated, Belief. "Ever since coming to Michigan," Dr. Little said, "I have been conscious of the harm done the University by rumors of drinking and uncontrolled behavior at fraternity dances and house parties."

"I know that we have all cooperated in efforts to meet the situation and we believe the reports are grossly exaggerated. Nevertheless, I have been repeatedly asked by students, alumni, and citizens of the state why no effort is made to check up on the situation."

"In my opinion the university is not the agent to conduct such an investigation, although for the protection of the fraternities as well as itself, it should, in my opinion, see that such an investigation is made."

Dr. Cook suggested that the Department of Justice be requested that one or more federal agents be delegated to Ann Arbor for a period sufficient to conduct the investigation.

Body of Missionary Sent to Old Home

Detroit, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The body of the Rev. W. H. Law, veteran lakes missionary who died here last night following a brief illness, was sent tonight to his former home at Hessel, Mich., for burial.

Law was 76 years old. His many years of service as a missionary among the Indians, light-house keepers and coast guard forces over the Great Lakes and along the American seaboard, won him the title of the "Sky Pilot of the Great Lakes."

"The Bishop of Out There." His first mission was on Manitow Island. Later he moved to Rosedays, near Sault Ste. Marie, and again later to Hessel. He had resided for the last 25 years in Detroit, although he made trips each year into Upper Michigan.

Medical Meet to End Today

Detroit, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The 108th annual convention of the Michigan Medical Society will end tomorrow following election of officers. Awarding of the 1929 convention to Jackson was announced today. Dr. H. E. Randall, of Flint, retiring president, gave his annual address tonight. Gov. Fred W. Green also spoke.

MILL WORKER WAS GIVEN BATH OF TAR

NEWEST OUTRAGE IN KENOSHA STRIKE IS REVEALED

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 27.—(AP)—A barn "with a sliding door near which is a pig pen" was sought in vain today by officers hunting the place where Harold Hendrickson, employe of the Allen A. Hostery company, was "seared with hot tar" by kidnapers last night. A strike, which has been marked by bombings and disorders, has been in progress at the plant since February 16.

The barn and the pig pen Hendrickson saw when a blindfold slipped from his eyes for an instant as he was being led through a farm yard, he said. But he was unable to give the searching parties little information of the direction or distance he was carried. Other clues, however, supplied by him are expected to lead to arrests of suspects late today or tomorrow.

Four masked men last night stopped the automobile in which Hendrickson was riding with his two sisters, Marie and Olga. They were on a highway six miles south of here. He was ordered at the point of a gun to get out of his machine and into the one occupied by the quartet. A scuffle ensued in which the sisters came to the aid of their brother. Marie was struck on the head with the butt of a gun.

Burns Not Critical. Hendrickson told officers that after he was thrown into the automobile his abductors drove for probably 15 minutes and stopped in what appeared to be a barn yard. Inside the barn, Hendrickson said, he was thrown into an oat bin and his shirt torn open at the neck.

Then, with taunts at "a man who would take an honest man's job," one of the quartet poured hot tar onto his body. He was taken back to the car and after driving for about an hour and a half his captors took him out and placed him at the side of the road, still bound. A blanket was put over him. He worked his way free and made his way to the farm of Willis Steinbach, who took him home this morning.

Predicts End of Interurbans on Michigan Road

Lansing, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The end of interurban service on all divisions of the Michigan Electric Railway was forecast today when state public utilities commission granted permits for paralleling motor truck freight service. The Southern Michigan Transportation Co., had previously secured permits to operate passenger buses parallel to its interurbans. It was said by members of the commission that as soon as permission is granted by the court which governs the M. E. R. route, electric service will be abandoned in favor of motor vehicles, with the present exception of the Flint-Bay City branch. That is scheduled to go probably later.

The permits authorize the Southern Michigan company to carry freight between Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids; Jackson; Battle Creek and Kalamazoo; Jackson; Lansing and St. Johns; Grand Rapids and Lansing; Grand Rapids, Grand Haven and Muskegon; Owosso and Flint, Kalamazoo and Allegan.

The company stated fifty trucks have been ordered for the new service.

Automobile Thief Escapes from Jail

Lansing, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Charles White, 21, awaiting sentence on a charge of stealing an automobile, escaped from the municipal jail here this afternoon by removing a number of bricks from the wall. Two other prisoners incarcerated in the block refused to accompany White when he took his departure.

White had already had three felonies against his record and a possible life sentence was in store for him on this latest offense. It is believed that he had outside aid who furnished him with tools to accomplish his escape.

WOMEN POLITICAL SPEAKERS NO GOOD, SAYS WILL ROGERS

New York, Sept. 27.—The whole campaign has switched from Hoover and Smith to Mrs. Willibrand. Now I need to think no one in the world could possibly make a poorer speech than some man politician but after attending both conventions and various dinners and public affairs, I have found that any woman politician can make a poorer political speech than a man any time they try. I don't know why it is but it just looks like the wrong women are in politics for I have heard other women on other subjects make brilliant speeches. I believe their cause would be further ahead if they would just vote and not try to explain publicly why.

JOHN COOLIDGE IN AUTO CRASH

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The New Haven Journal-Courier will say tomorrow that John Coolidge, son of an automobile, was the driver of the automobile owned by Gov. John H. Trumbull which crashed into another vehicle causing serious injuries to Wilfred Veno, hockey player, and minor injuries to his mother, Mrs. Mary Veno, early today.

The young railroad clerk was on his way to work in the New Haven road's office building after having spent the night at the governor's home in Plainville. In the machine with him was William Cunningham, the governor's chauffeur. Both were uninjured, although the automobile was wrecked. Motorcycle policeman Henry Miller, who investigated the collision, was called to the office of the coroner this afternoon and up until late tonight had made no report to headquarters.

Young Coolidge made his report to a policeman and went to work, a bit tardy because of what had happened. Tomorrow he will answer a summons and give his story to Deputy Coroner J. J. Corrigan.

The inquest will be behind closed doors. It will be held under latitude of a law which permits a coroner to inquire if death appears imminent, although in this instance, Wilfred Veno, 30

Plan Organized Drive on Detroit Kidnaping Gangs

Detroit, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Plans for an organized effort to rid Detroit of gangs of kidnapers and "racketeers" were understood to have been discussed at a closed conference today between Robert M. Toms, prosecuting attorney, and heads of the police department.

The plan, if any, was decided upon was not revealed by the authorities at the conclusion of the meeting. Toms refused to make any comment and James Spritt, superintendent of police, said: "We are not going to shout our plans from the housetops and let the men we are after guide themselves accordingly." Spritt recently proposed a sweeping grand jury investigation into recent kidnapings here.

PARTY WILL BENEFIT ALL OF COUNTRY

CANDIDATE GIVES ADDRESS IN WASHINGTON

BY W. B. RAGSDALE (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover described the Republican party today as one of action for the benefit of the country without regard to sectional or special interest.

Addressing a delegation of first voters from Virginia, the Republican presidential nominee said that the party must approach the host of new problems that have arisen in the "same forward-looking attitude of mind which we have given to the other problems of the past."

The candidate interrupted a renewed study of the eastern political situation to receive the delegation. Between times, he put in additional strokes upon his equalization speech which is now near its final shape.

In a series of conferences with party leaders, Hoover again took up the eastern problem. Representative Franklin D. Fort, of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican national committee, breakfasted with the nominee and gave him a report covering his observations of the situation during the past several weeks in New England.

New England Better. Shortly after noon, Senator George H. Moses, chairman of the eastern campaign, advisory committee, and Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, spent considerable time with the candidate.

Fort said after his conference that the situation in New England has improved considerably in the last month. New Hampshire, where a primary fight has just ended, is fast healing differences within the party. He confidently predicted a Republican victory there in November.

Moses agreed that on the whole the eastern situation had improved, but added that Massachusetts was extremely difficult to analyze. While 115,000 new voters have registered in that state, the senator said that no accurate analysis of the registration figures could be made until after the end of the supplemental period for placing names upon the list.

Prohibition Uncertainty. Some of the Republican wards in Boston have shown a larger increase than have Democratic wards in that city, he said, but added that this was not a fair measure of the Republican strength in the state, because of the Democratic complexion of Boston.

It is hard to define to what extent the state will be influenced by the prohibition issues, Moses declared, adding that a further element of doubt was brought into the equation by the high percentage of Catholic voters in the state.

"They are having a poll in Massachusetts on prohibition," he said, "and I am hoping that the Republicans will stand by the party in the national election and express their prohibition preferences in the state poll."

Before meeting the delegation from Virginia, Hoover also conferred with Horace A. Mann, director of the southern campaign, who only recently returned from a visit into Tennessee.

The nominee told the first voters that "the decision as to the party with which you would ally yourself in your first vote is one of the most important decisions in your life."

Nominee Applauded. Thomas L. Proctor of Richmond, who headed the delegation, told Hoover that the group came to him "on the basis of good citizenship," adding that the nation needed his heart, his mind, and his knowledge at this time.

Vigorous applause greeted the nominee as he took his place on the dais in the hallway outside his office. At the conclusion of his brief talk, the visitors fled past the candidate to clasp his hand, and after posing for their pictures at the entrance of the building, they sent up lusty cheers for Hoover.

Other callers during the day included Walter S. Hallahan, Republican national committeeman from West Virginia, who reported that the party organization was functioning smoothly in that state and that it could be expected to roll up a victory for Hoover and Curtis. Tariff and Tammany are the issues there, he said.

COAST GUARD INQUIRY LOOMS

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Seymour Lowman, left, and Representative W. W. Chalmers, of Toledo.

Washington, D. C.—Promiscuous firing at pleasure craft by coast guardsmen makes a congressional investigation appear imminent.

Complaints of federal crews firing on innocent yachts and other pleasure boats in their efforts to curb rum running have been pouring into Washington since last spring, when the Great Lakes coast guard force was augmented by a dozen new cutters.

When coast guardsmen fired on a Buffalo, N. Y., yacht a few weeks ago which carried among its men and women passengers Frank Raichle, Buffalo attorney and law partner of Colonel William J. Donovan, assistant United States attorney general, officials at Washington began to take notice.

The latest incident occurred recently when a coast guard crew is alleged to have fired on two boats owned by Carlton Baumgartner and Lloyd Hixon of Toledo, O. Congressman W. W. Chalmers of Toledo has requested treasury officials to investigate the affair, and it is expected he will insist on a congressional inquiry.

Lowman Approves.
Assistant Secretary of Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of government prohibition enforcement, has approved the action of coast guardsmen in firing at boats which failed to heed signals. He has stated that in all cases no shots are fired until after both flag or whistle signals have been ignored. In the instance of the Buffalo craft, at least, no warning was given before the coast guard crew opened fire, according to the passengers aboard the pleasure craft.

According to Lowman, a special circular was sent out by coast guard headquarters early this year urging that care be exercised in stopping suspected boats.

Danforth Ass'n Herd Brings Sum of $4325 at Public Sale Here

Forty-four head of pure-bred cattle of the Danforth Holstein-Friesian association brought in a sum of $4,325 at the public auction sale held at the U. P. state fair grounds yesterday afternoon. The sale marked the liquidation of the affairs of the Danforth association, which was organized five years ago by Escanaba business men and Delta county farmers for the purpose of bringing pure-bred stock into this agricultural region.

William Bonifas of Escanaba, well-known lumberman, who also operates a large stock farm on the Garden peninsula, made the largest purchase, his bids on ten head amounting to $1152.50. Mr. Bonifas has been building a fine herd of pure-breds on his farm, and the acquisition of the Danforth association group will make considerable improvement to the herd.

Lucy Segis Lyons Pontiac, a six-year-old which has a cow testing association production record of 395.3 pounds of butter fat, brought the highest price in the sale after some spirited bidding between Mr. Bonifas and George Ferguson of Danforth. Mr. Bonifas gave $305 for the cow. A bid of $310 by Mr. Ferguson, after the auctioneer had announced the sale was closed, was not honored. Ferguson had been keeping the cow on his farm, and valued it highly.

William Dorais and F. H. Vandenberg, Marquette county dairymen, purchased 17 head at the sale, and the remainder stays in Delta county. All interested in the Danforth Holstein-Friesian association expressed themselves as highly pleased with the termination of the organization, and it goes down on record as the most successful organization of its kind in the United States. Dairymen from all parts of the country has shown interest in the project, and have written for information concerning its methods of operation.

The sale also serves to distribute the pure-bred stock to different parts of the county. Mr. Bonifas' purchase shifting a part to the Garden peninsula while others remain in the Danforth community.

Col. C. Wesley Grages of Menominee was the auctioneer.

The buyers were as follows:

Improve Glass by Utilizing "Waste"

Corning, N. Y.—The practice of utilizing waste to make something of economic value, a standard usage in American industry, is done one better in the glass-making business. In this industry, waste is used to improve the original product.

It is found that glass is better if a fair sized percentage of the same kind is mixed with the raw materials that are melted to produce this grade. At the Corning Glass Works here, the practice is to mix with the raw materials certain carefully figured proportions of clean, broken glass that has not become contaminated with iron or other impurities.

Instead of "waste" this remnant and broken glass mixture is called "cullet."

SAYS DRECO MADE HER FEEL BETTER ALL OVER

Young Local Lady Was Quite Run-down When She Started On New Preparation.

The widespread popularity now enjoyed by Dreco has come strictly thru merit. Hundreds of people today owe their present good health to this excellent plant and herb compound and many local folks call on the Dreco man at the Drug Dept. of the Fair Store daily to tell how it has helped them. Dreco builds up the entire system, ending suffering and pain, and brings new strength and vigor to the worn-out tissues.

As an example of the excellent results which may be expected from the use of Dreco, read the following statement from Miss Linda Ehrenberg, 325 North 10th St., this city. She says:

"I have suffered, for many years from a general run-down condition. My stomach distressed me after every meal and I was a chronic victim of constipation. Pains in my back made my work a burden and at times I would get very faint and dizzy. Upon arising in the morning I had a coated tongue and a bad taste in my mouth and felt very weak and tired.

"Dreco has overcome every one of these complaints. I now feel stronger and more energetic, my appetite has returned and I feel more cheerful than in years. It is now a pleasure to take care of my household tasks and I can give Dreco all the credit."

The Dreco Man is now at Drug Dept., Fair Store where he is daily explaining the merits of Dreco to numerous local people and presenting everyone who is interested with a valuable health booklet free. Adv.

CHILDREN'S STORY HOUR

A Quaint Little Fable About Animals Containing a Great Moral Lesson.

PAPA CHIPMUNK came home from a hard afternoon's work on the golf links and settled down to read his paper before dinner. The telephone rang.

"Tell 'em I ain't here," he growled.

Mamma Chipmunk answered the telephone. "No he is not here," she said sweetly, "will you leave a number? Yes, thank you Mr. Raccoon."

"Was that Joe Raccoon?" demanded Papa Chipmunk.

"Yes, dear," said Mamma Chipmunk.

"You might have wanted to talk to him. Did he give you a number?"

"No, dear."

Papa Chipmunk growled.

"I merely took you at your word, dear," his wife reminded him.

"Well, you might have used a little judgment."

Mamma Chipmunk paid no attention.

"I wonder what Joe wanted?"

"He didn't say, dear."

"No, and you didn't ask him of course not."

"No, dear. Why should I. You said you weren't here."

"Well, I didn't know it was Joe calling."

"Neither did I, dear."

The telephone rang again.

"Tell 'em I ain't here," said Papa Chipmunk.

Mamma Chipmunk wrinkled her nose. "Tell 'em yourself," she said graciously. "From this time on you are your own telephone liar."

CHAPTER XXXVI

RALPH FINDS SOMETHING NEW

"Go out to the telephone desk and ask Wilson to come here," Ralph Armitage told Lynda. "I want him to move me over in reach of the phone. Pamilla will be calling up again in a minute, and I will answer her myself."

Lynda went out and brought Wilson back, and Ralph's great leather chair was pushed nearer to the phone, which had begun to ring again.

Lynda, at her employer's request, took down the receiver and held it to his right ear, as Wilson left the room.

"Yes, Pam, this is Ralph talking. What do you want?"

Lyn was near enough to hear her strident voice at the other end of the wire. Pamilla was saying: "Why didn't you send me word to come and see you? I had all ways thought, in fact you told me, that no woman was allowed in your home unless she was especially invited by your father, so, of course, I stayed away. But Hal told me yesterday that he met a young woman there, and you had evidently invited her to luncheon."

Ralph answered: "It was my secretary. I had to answer some important mail. I told Hal that I did not want to see anyone. I don't want to be bothered by any kind of spurious sympathy, and certainly, Pam, you must realize that a dislocated shoulder and three broken ribs are not conducive to ardent love making, or even feeling like making it."

"But Ralph, you can't have been hurt so very badly, as you are down to the office now. I'll come over and see you there."

"Can't you understand, Pam, that a man has to get to his business as soon as possible, even if he must forego the pleasure of social calls from his feminine friends. I cannot see you this morning. In fact, I don't know when I will be able to see you. As soon as possible I will write you, but don't expect a letter very soon, for my right arm is strapped down at my side."

Lynda's mouth quirked up a little at the corners, for she remembered in the note he had sent her the night before he had said that he had learned at college to write, after a fashion, with his left hand.

Whatever Pamilla Sheston returned in answer to this was not audible to Lynda, but it evidently made Ralph angry, for with an ugly exclamation, he said: "I don't care what you do. Amuse yourself any way you please, even to putting on a petting act on the afternoon."

With this he hung up, and turned to the girl beside him.

"I expect you are very tired holding that receiver to my ear for so long."

Lynda was not as tired as she was embarrassed to have heard the conversation, but she knew of no way of getting out of it. She was greatly relieved, however, when she saw Ralph's face brighten, and his lips smile as he turned his head toward her.

"I wonder," he said, as if to himself, "what that woman would think if she knew that all the time she was talking to me, you were holding the receiver to my ear, and that I could feel the warmth of your hand where you held my head against it?"

"Well, that's that," he continued, and apparently dismissed Miss Pamilla Sheston and her affairs from his mind, then and there.

"Come over on the left side and sit on the wide arm of this chair again, Lynda. Do you know why I made this torturing drive down here today?"

"No, Mr. Armitage."

"It was because I knew I could not wait until Wilson would drive here and bring you back to me. The girl did not speak. Her cheeks became pinker. She had moved on the broad arm of the leather chair where she could look at him, and her purple eyes seemed wild of youthful expectancy."

He suddenly felt much ashamed that he had been talking to Pamilla Sheston in her presence. It was as if he had hurt her in some way.

"Lynda, Lynda, what have you done to me?" he asked. "Why am I restless and unhappy when I cannot look at you, cannot hear your voice? Do you know that you have changed my whole outlook on life since I saw your black satin head bent over the typing machine out there in the office?"

"Are you a little delirious, Mr. Armitage, or do you always talk to your secretaries in this way?"

"How would you answer that question, my dear girl, having seen Miss Callie?"

Lynda chuckled. Ralph managed to get hold of her hand. "You know in your heart, sweet, that I have never said to any woman what I am saying to you. I did not really want you to be my secretary. I only wanted you near me, and I could think of no other way at the time that it could be done."

"That's what Emily Andrews told me," said Lyn, demurely.

"That girl is altogether too clever, but she is right. My first great anxiety, when I found that I could not keep my thoughts or my eyes from straying toward you, was how I could get you in here. I wanted to be able to see your sensitive mouth, and when, through some freak of coquetry, you covered up its trembling sweetness with lipstick, I was miserable."

"Thank God, you could not paint your eyes differently. Their purple shadows and violet high lights still intrigue me. I have never known anyone who gave up her thoughts so completely through her eyes as you, Lynda."

"I think I shall have to wear goggles."

"I should like you to do so for everyone else but myself. Don't you know, dear, that however much you try, you are utterly without sophistication. Every moment that I am with you tells me that before I saw you, I did not know that such a girl was alive today."

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

THE WEEK of October, seventh has been officially designated as Fire Prevention Week in Michigan. So many special weeks have been hurried, with great masses of propaganda, at the public that those which have real merit may not be received with the enthusiasm with which they are entitled. Fire Prevention Week is one which should not be permitted to pass unheeded.

Here in Escanaba, the fire department has made inspections at certain intervals, calling the attention of proprietors of business houses and industrial plants to fire hazards that lurk in attics, cellars and other half-hidden nooks and corners. This has been an effective check against the carelessness which is the underlying cause of a great majority of fires.

Fire Prevention Week extends this campaign to the homes, reminding the owners that their garrets and basements should be kept free from rubbish, that chimneys should be cleaned, and that other conditions which spell danger should be removed.

Proper observance of the week can—and will—prevent thousands of dollars of fire losses during the year in this community.

AN ACE OF PEACEFUL FLIGHT

THE COUNTRY first heard of Art Goebel when he won the Dole race to Hawaii, a flight that took the life of Miss Mildred Doran and four others, the two men who accompanied her and two flyers in a second plane that was lost. In the face of that double tragedy, the public was in no mood to be impressed by Goebel's successful flight or to applaud him as he might have been applauded had all of the contestants arrived safely, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

But that was not to be the last time that the name of this Los Angeles aviator would appear in the news of spectacular events in the air, and it was not to be the last time he would win an air race. He was the first to complete the recent trans-continental "nonstop" race, although neither he nor any other contestant crossed the country without stopping, and he did not receive the prize he sought. Before entering this race, he broke the record for nonstop flight eastward from coast to coast, and his time from the East coast to the West coast was better than the nonstop record, though he was down for more than an hour in Arizona. And now he has won a race from Los Angeles to Cincinnati for a prize of $3000.

To be sure, a swift plane is just as essential as good piloting, perhaps more essential, in any air race. Yet there is a "We" element in every outstanding achievement in flying and the plane has a share of the credit. Goebel's feats make him one of our premier aviators. And it is gratifying to see that, denied the larger prize for the transcontinental race, in which he was forced down by stormy weather, he receives a reward for his Cincinnati flight.

A BATTLE LAKE, MINN., HAS A GIRL REPORTER 9 YEARS OF AGE. She probably writes most of the "personality stuff" about the presidential candidates some of the syndicates are sending out.

A JOB FOR EVERY MAN. SEVEN YEARS AGO, when the Republican party took over the management of the government, more than 5,000,000 American workmen were unemployed. The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, in a report to congress, stated that, of this number of jobless men, 3,900,000 were ordinarily employed in manufacturing industries, 250,000 in mining industries, 800,000 in transportation industries, 450,000 in the various trades, and 335,000 in domestic and personal service. The situation, at that time, was described by Herbert Hoover as "the most difficult unemployment crisis that the country had ever faced."

Today, despite the unfounded charges of those who preached calamity in the hope of making themselves popular among the uninformed and unthinking, there is no general unemployment. Proof of this does not depend upon the figures of the United States Bureau of Labor statistics alone, although the bureau's statistics are always reliable. It may be found in the steadily increasing savings bank deposits in industrial communities—Escanaba for instance; in the increasing memberships in building and loan associations, in the increase in the amount of industrial insurance, in the increased sales of retail stores, and also in the increased sales of automobiles, radios, talking machines and other non-essentials in industrial cities. If millions of wage earners were in idleness and without prospects—as some of the Democratic leaders allege—would these unmistakable and undeniable evidences of prosperity exist? They could not exist.

And during these seven years, there has been a net increase of 250,000 in immigrant population, for whom jobs have been found in American industry. There has been a steady drift of labor from the country to the city, estimated at 250,000 a year, a total of 1,750,000 during the seven years.

So the figures show that, in seven years, 5,000,000 idle men have been put back to work and in addition, employment has been provided for 4,000,000 more.

At the same time wage levels have increased, the buying power of every dollar in the pay envelope has increased, and conditions surrounding employment have so improved that there are fewer labor disputes involving employees that ever before in the history of the United States.

Frequent Vision Tests, Necessary

Washington—The importance of semi-annual examination of the eyes of school children was emphasized today by Surgeon General Cummings in announcing the results of a public health service investigation.

Of nearly 2,000 children examined by a research worker, 45 per cent were shown to be in need of glasses. While 60 per cent apparently could read normally on the usual vision test chart, 32 per cent of these were found to be definitely farsighted, and consequently were straining their eyes in all close work.

This chart, it was brought out, could be counted on to disclose almost all cases of nearsightedness, but its unreliability in the early stages of farsightedness pointed to the necessity for special training on the part of examining physicians. Examination every six months was recommended because of the rapidity with which nearsightedness may progress once it has begun.

The children examined, it was explained, could be considered representative of the general school population.

"If a thorough examination had been made of the vision and proper steps taken for the correction of defects instead of waiting for symptoms to develop," the announcement said, "it is probable that many persons who are wearing glasses today would not have to do so."

Rambling Clubs Keep British Girls in Open

London—British women are outdoing men in their enthusiasm for walking.

With the arrival of sunny weather after a week-end trekking through the country-side away from the busy main roads, searching out the many wonderful bits of scenic scenery within easy reach of London. In all of these parties the girls outnumber the men by at least two to one.

Rambling clubs are springing up all over England and nearly every big business firm in London has its own club, the members of which, male and female, stoutly shod and hatless, every Sunday take train to some country village from whence they set out on their wanderings. Each carries a light rucksack containing macintosh and luncheon, and they walk many miles before they reach their destination from which they take the train home.

Who's Who and Timely Views

SUCCESSFUL HARNESSING OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER FLOODS PREDICTED.

By JOSEPH RANDELL
U. S. Senator from Louisiana.

I am firmly convinced that we can successfully harness the floods of the Mississippi river and the other great rivers of the nation. It will not be accomplished immediately and there will have to be additional surveys and studies, and you must remember that it is the greatest problem we have ever been called upon to solve and it takes time.

The recent flood control act is a monumental piece of legislation. The result of it, ultimately, will be the controlling of the floods of the Mississippi river. But I think there are certain amendments that must be made with respect to several features of the flood control act before the work can progress satisfactorily on particular sections involved. I mean particularly the proposed spillways opposite Cairo and at the head of the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins.

Plans have not been agreed on by the friends of the flood control project in the lower Mississippi valley.

I believe the work is progressing very well, however, and that the prospect is that it will be pushed speedily.

I believe that the floods of the Mississippi can be harnessed satisfactorily within the next 10 years, if congress displays the same wise spirit toward the solution of that great problem, the greatest we ever have had in the history of this country, as was shown toward the Panama canal in the carrying out of that great project. In the case of the Panama canal project, plans were adopted and engineers were told to proceed as rapidly as good business would dictate. The result was that the Panama canal was completed and ready for use within 10 years.

Of course, all is dependent on the plans hereafter to be adopted and also on the evolution of machinery for moving dirt and erecting revetments in the river channel. There have been marvelous advances in recent years in these machines. It is possible that future improvements will greatly reduce the cost.

In my estimate of approximately $650,000,000 of total ultimate cost for Mississippi flood control, I include the work on the main river—that is, the Mississippi—and on the lower stretches of the great tributaries, such as the Red, Ouachita, Yazoo, Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers.

DOUGHNUTS.

Mother calls them doughnuts,
Grandma doesn't, though;
Grandma calls them friedcakes,
Just like long ago.
Grandma comes to visit,
Then we always say,
"My, but wouldn't doughnuts
Just be fine today!"

Grandma doesn't listen,
Doesn't seem to hear;
Grandma's rather deaf in
One convenient ear.
Then we all remember,
Then we all repeat,
"My, but wouldn't friedcakes
Just be fine to eat!"

Grandma gets her apron,
Asks about the fat,
Mixes flour and sugar
And milk and all of that.
Then we say to Grandma,
When it's time to dine,
"My, your dough—your friedcakes
Certainly are fine!"

Some folks call things one thing,
Some folks something new,
But it doesn't matter
Really which you do.
When you want some doughnuts,
It won't hurt to say,
"My, but wouldn't friedcakes
Just be fine today!"

DIET AND HEALTH

By Lulu Hunt Peters M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

BABY HAS STRONG WILL; POWER; MOTHER'S MUST BE STRONGER.

Answers to Mothers.

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.

—Jewish Proverb.

Can't Make Her Eat.

"Dear Doctor: I am a young mother of a 13-months old baby girl. I seem to have a terrible time feeding her, as she will not eat any solid foods whatever. Her vegetables are put through a sieve and beef slice put over them so that they look like liquids. This is the only way I can get her to take them. Anything that she puts into her mouth that is in the least way solid, she vomits. She is a healthy, normal child in every respect, but I'm just about ready to give up.

Children should begin to have solid foods in the form of cereals, in very tiny amounts, around five or six months of age. A little later vegetables and fruits are added. Orange juice can be begun in the second or third month. At first, such foods must be strained; but the babies can have little pieces of toast to nibble on around seven months.

You probably didn't begin to feed your baby her solid foods early enough, Mrs. R. How much milk is she having? Children who take over a quart a day will be satisfied so that they often do not care for other needed foods. Occasionally even a quart of milk will do this. In such cases, the milk has to be cut down to as low as a pint and sometimes less.

Evidently your baby has a very well developed will power, and you may have to let her go quite hungry until she will take solid foods. Offer them to her without milk or broth, and if she does not take them, take them away and do not allow her anything except water—not even the milk—until the next meal time. She will undoubtedly cry and be unhappy and you will be unhappy, but you will have to persist. Warn your neighbors so they won't report you to the S. P. C. C. If possible, have this starvation period supervised by a physician.

On such a meager diet as your baby is getting it may be possible that he has incontinent scurvy and rickets, both of which would make him anemic, his muscles weak and sore; and he might have a sore mouth from the scurvy, which would make him reject solid foods. But his inability to talk, to say only "mama" and "papa" at the age of almost two and a half years, does make it seem that he is mentally retarded. But I wouldn't give up hope. Yes, the eclampsia might have caused it.

Eclampsia is preventable in the majority of cases. Our pamphlet on the diet during pregnancy and nursing goes into this subject.

You might have to do as I advised Mrs. R. above for his eating habits.

And please take that walker away from him! These contraptions seem to do more harm than good. I have had many complaints from mothers that children who use them will not walk alone, for they do not give the children a chance to develop and depend upon their own muscles.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have.

Hardy's Books in Demand

Following the death of Thomas Hardy a few months ago there has been a great demand for his first editions of his works. A bibliography of Hardy, published in 1916, includes the highest prices paid for his first editions of that period, "Judge of the Ob-cure," which then was stated to be worth "about $150, not scarce," brought $650, and "Two in a Tower" and "The Woodlanders" commanded correspondingly high figures.

AIR CONGRESS PLANS MADE

Escanaba To Participate In Meeting at Menominee

Definite plans for the coming Upper Peninsula Air Congress, to be held at Menominee Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12 and 13, were completed at a meeting held at the office of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, yesterday morning.

The congress will be held under the joint auspices of the Menominee Chamber of Commerce and the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and its purpose will be to awaken in the minds of the people of the upper peninsula the necessity for the establishment of permanent and temporary flying fields in all parts of the peninsula and to take steps looking to the establishment of air mail, express and passenger service between the peninsula and Lower Michigan and Wisconsin points.

Five official delegates from every county in the peninsula will be invited to attend the congress and in addition special invitations will be issued to all newspaper publishers, all county road engineers, all air-port owners and flyers and the managers of all council-manager governed cities of the district. In the list of five official delegates from each county will be included the chairman of the county board, mayors of cities and villages and other prominent citizens.

Plane from Detroit. Assurance has already been given that a big Ford tri-motored plane will be sent from Detroit to Menominee, carrying some of the leading aviation experts of the Michigan metropolis. In addition arrangements have been made to permit the Selfridge Field pursuit squadron to accompany the big Ford plane on the Menominee trip. Every airplane from the upper peninsula, many lower peninsula cities and from several points in Wisconsin will send planes to Menominee for the big meeting. It is estimated that at least 25 planes will be anchored at the Menominee airport when the meeting opens. Sessions of the congress will be held on both Friday and Saturday, with a big banquet, arranged by the Menominee Chamber of Commerce, on Friday night.

Find Quick Method for Analyzing Soil

East Lansing, Mich.—A rapid, simple, inexpensive method for making a mechanical analysis of soils, which gives land owners an idea of their usefulness and heretofore has taken weeks to accomplish, has been worked out by George J. Bouyoucos of the Michigan agricultural experiment station.

By using a soil dispersing machine, a soil hydrometer and a special cylinder which cost about $25, he has been able to make satisfactory analyses in 15 minutes which show the relative amounts of sand, silt and clay or colloids in the specimens examined. Where it is desired merely to determine the proportions of the combined sands and the combined silt and clay, only one minute is required.

"The results obtained by the hydrometer method," he says, "have been compared with the results of the mechanical analysis method on 30 different soils. The mechanical analysis on these soils was performed by the United States bureau of soils."

"Both methods agree in the combined sand, coarse silt, and clay, or colloids, but they disagree in the finer silt. The mechanical analysis classifies this fine silt with the coarse silt, whereas the hydrometer method classifies it with the clay, because it has more of the characteristics of clay."

From an academic standpoint, he concedes, "we are not justified in classifying the finer silt with the clay, or colloids, but, logically, there may be justification for it," when some of the silt has the same characteristics as clay. In many questions of soils, he holds, "it seems to be more desirable to have due regard for facts rather than to insist on academic and arbitrary rules."

Recalls Maximilian

93-Year-Old Grandmother, Survivor of Ill-Fated Mexican Court, Lives in American Town

Highlandville, Mo.—Gone from the capital of Mexico are the trappings of royalty, gone all trace of the sad and handsome emperor, Maximilian, and his beautiful bride, Carlotta. The pages of history have closed upon them and the world forgotten their tragic story. However, in the mind and stories of Grandma Katie Kentling, as she sits in her little home here in this southwestern Missouri village, Maximilian and Carlotta live again. For she knew them and was with them in that fatal hour so long ago.

Grandma Kentling wasn't always Grandma Kentling. Many, many years ago she was a girl in Budapest, Austria, sweetheart of the brisk young bandmaster, Wilhelm Heidle.

To the New World. Heidle was private bandmaster to the Archduke Maximilian of Austria and when the ill-fated young man was sent by Napoleon III of France to become emperor of Mexico, Heidle and Katie, now his bride, went along.

Katie became a maid in waiting for the young wife of Maximilian and served her for six years. "The world looked bright and beautiful to the young folk as they set out on the great adventure, attached to a new royal house in a new world.

But tragedy was just around the corner.

Maximilian Executed. When the United States demand that foreign troops be recalled from American soil, Maximilian lost his military support and in June, 1867, native Mexican troops, under General Don Benito Juarez, marched into Mexico City and made Maximilian, younger brother of the powerful Franz Josef, emperor of Austria, prisoner.

The young emperor was tried, convicted and shot.

Grandma Kentling

Royal Bandmaster Heidle and his bride were among the six court followers who bribed their way to safety and reached the United States. Heidle, weakened by exposure on the trip, died, and in after years his widow married Frank Kentling, general merchant of Highlandville.

Today Grandma Kentling, who knew the great kings and queens of the world, likes to tell the story of the unfortunate empress who managed to return to Europe where grief over her loss made Carlotta quite mad.

"Ah, such a lovely girl," says Grandma Kentling, "so brilliant and so active, so kind and very generous. And to think that just

OBITUARY

MRS. E. H. FULLER. The funeral of Mrs. E. H. Fuller of Green Bay was held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church with Rev. Fr. Bonaventure Klifoye, O. F. M., as celebrant at the requiem high mass which was attended by a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Many floral and spiritual offerings were received at the home of Mrs. A. J. Beery, 307 South Seventh street, where the body lay pending the hour of the funeral services.

The pallbearers were William Weissert, Peter Jaegers, Frank Jaegers, Leslie Farrell and Paul Radmacher.

Out-of-town relatives included E. H. Fuller and family, Maurice, Harold, Branch, Mildred and Patricia, Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martens, Mr. and Mrs. William Martens, Mrs. Ed Wilke, Milwaukee.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery in the family lot.

last January she died. Poor, mad, Carlotta, dead 60 years after her heart had died within her.

"And Maximilian? Such a fine fellow, with the eyes and the soul of a poet. I used to see him walking about in the moonlight and hear him talk about Mexico's eternal springtime. He was too good for his own good. A wonderful man with hair like gold and a voice that I shall always hear to the end of my days."

And so at 93 that is Grandma Kentling's great pleasure, to sit in the warm sunlight of a summer day and tell the little children of Highlandville the story of that sad young couple whose golden hopes ended against the bullet-spattered walls of a Mexican hut, a story the little children never quite understand.

Mountain Streams Used for Irrigation

Barley, Idaho (AP)—Streams of underground water, fed by the melting snow on mountain peaks, are being studied here by engineers and geologists in an effort to connect irrigation systems with the subterranean flow.

Reclamation officials are inclined to believe that there are many localities where this plan can be applied successfully. If the surface slope approximates 30 feet to the mile and the water table lies at a depth not greater than 12 feet, the plan may be profitably used, they say.

H. F. Deardorff, a farmer living in the Raft river valley of southern Idaho, developed the idea. He sank test wells to find the height of the water table at different seasons and pumped from these test holes to ascertain the volume of flow. The trench was started from a point desirable for an irrigation stream and followed a straight line up the slope to the foothills, gradually growing deeper as it progressed.

When the trench reached a depth of five or six feet, about 50 rods from the starting point, it began to fill with underground water. Thereafter the bottom of the trench was maintained at water level and continued up the slope. Digging was stopped 75 rods from the starting point, with the ditch eight feet deep, and a full irrigation stream coursed into the farm land below.

Paris Demands Full Dress at Opera

Paris—Husbands who have to be coerced into full dress have had bad news from the Paris Opera. The informality which sprang up during the war is to be banished by strict insistence on evening dress in the boxes and famous inner circle, not only on Fridays, but on Wednesdays as well. By autumn only Mondays and Saturdays will be left for the sartorially lazy to visit the Temple of Music. Tuxedos, which the French call "smokings," will be accepted, but not encouraged.

Strange Mysteries Never Solved!

Thousands of new readers of The Sunday Milwaukee Journal are enjoying the fascinating new feature: "The Unsolved Mysteries of History," by Albert Payson Terhune; a great new adventure serial by E. Challenge Flavor Test

Hoot Gibson (with arm on Catherine Crawford's shoulder) and his company, making the Challenge Flavor Test while shooting scenes for this remarkable new picture at the world's championship rodeo show at Chicago's Soldier Field.

JELKE GOOD LUCK MARGARINE

ONE of the many representative groups of people who have made the famous Challenge Flavor Test is Hoot Gibson, idol of Young America, and the entire cast appearing in Universal's new masterpiece "The King of the Rodeo."

Two slices of bread, one spread with GOOD LUCK and the other with the most expensive spread-for-bread, were tasted and judged by the twenty-nine players. The entire company then was polled with the question, "Which is which?"

TWENTY-FOUR confessed themselves unable to answer—could not distinguish one from the other. The other five tried to guess and three guesses were wrong.

You may have thought that you and your family could tell the difference. If the Challenge Flavor Test shows that you are mistaken, then you have been missing a wonderful opportunity to save money. Make the test today. Let your family decide.

DAY OF CHEER ON GRIDIRONS

Chicago, Sept. 27—(P)—This was a day of cheer for most coaches of the Big Ten, particularly those at Ohio State, Chicago and Illinois.

Ohio State's cheer was occasioned by the announcement that Byron Eby, flashy Buckeye halfback, had made up his scholastic deficiency and was eligible for competition.

At Illinois, physicians announced that "Frosty" Peters, another backfield ace, had not fractured his left arm in yesterday's scrimmage as it was feared.

Coach "Doc" Spears at Minnesota continued to drive his men through long, hard scrimmages. The tentative Gopher first-stringers showed poor defense against the aerial attack.

Ken Bartholomew, sophomore back, continued to perform sensationallly at Wisconsin. The Dayton, Ohio, youth made several spectacular runs in scrimmage, passed and punted well.

NO LEADERSHIP, SAYS AL SMITH

Democratic Candidate Again Assails Republican Administration

BY PAUL F. HAUPERT (Associated Press Staff Writer) St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 27.—(AP)—In another assault on his Republican opposition, Gov. Smith tonight held that the "fundamental weakness" of the Harding and Coolidge administrations has been a lack of leadership.

The Democratic presidential nominee touched on the farm problem, again assailing the Republicans for a failure to work out an effective relief program, and declared that there was a whispering campaign to misrepresent his stand on inland waterway development and immigration.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the St. Paul auditorium after spending much of the day in nearby Minneapolis, Smith recalled that as governor of New York he had favored, like his Republican predecessor, the so-called all-American route through the state for a waterway between the Great Lakes and the sea. He reiterated, however, the real news expressed in his acceptance speech, to be guided by the finding of engineering experts as between this route and the proposed St. Lawrence river waterway.

Endorses Vetted Bill.
As for immigration, the Democratic candidate declared "there is no issue between either the parties or the candidate on the question of sustaining and keeping in full force and effect the restricting features of the present immigration laws."

"Where they are to be amended for the relief of hardship," he said, "we are in accord."

As in his speech last week in Omaha, Gov. Smith endorsed the principle of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill, and contended that "if there was any division of opinion in the United States with regard to the policy of putting agriculture on an economic equality with industry, it was the duty of the president to iron out that difficulty."

"The congress, speaking for all the people, offered a program," he said. "The president vetoed it, and offered nothing in its place."

The Democratic standard bearer accused the Republicans of doing little or nothing in recent years in the way of comprehensive inland waterway development, and of being niggardly in making appropriation for such work and flood control.

Discusses Immigration.
He insisted that the Republican party platforms in recent years had failed to come out for development on the lakes to the Atlantic route in reference to the other, and quoting Herbert Hoover's acceptance speech, contended that his opponent also had failed to take a clear-cut stand in that controversy.

With regard to immigration the Democratic nominee said that "the whippers would have the people believe that I favor a letting down of the restricting bars and an opening of the flood-gates that immigration may pour into the country. 'Nothing,' he added, 'could be further from the truth.'

The Democratic and Republican platform planks on immigration, the New York governor asserted, both declare, in different language, for preservation of laws limiting immigration.

The Republicans, he went on, "speak of amendments to the immigration laws which would do away with undue hardships that deprive the immigrant of the comfort of society of those bound by close family ties."

"The Democratic platform provides for the same thing in different language. The Republican candidate in his speech of acceptance parallels the Republican platform with relation to unnecessary hardships upon families, but he further says:

"As a member of the commission whose duty it is to determine the quota basis under the national origins laws, I have found it impossible to do so accurately and without hardship."

"With this," Smith added, "I agree."

Hits Party History.
In developing his contention that during the last two Republican administrations the presidents have failed to show a leadership of thought of the American people, Gov. Smith declared:

"Because of lack of such leadership in the national administration, not one large, constructive achievement can be pointed to in the record of the last seven and a half years; and if the American people will search back through their minds they can see this is sharp contrast with the Wilson and Roosevelt administrations. Wilson and Roosevelt were leaders."

"The whole history of the last two Republican administrations suggests that some hidden control, strongly reactionary, in its tendencies toward the great questions of the government, has been in a position to dictate party policy from behind the scenes and delay the progress of the great public developments which interfered with its plans or program. For that reason prominent members of the Republican party have walked out of its ranks and openly declared hostility to their party and disagreement with its reactionary tendencies."

COUNTY TO PAY LESS STATE TAX

Although Schoolcraft county's share of the state tax is nearly $7,000 lower this year than it was in 1927, it is not expected that this will make any change in the local tax rate, due to the decrease in valuation and assessment.

NEWBERRY TILT ON "FAST TIME"

Home fans are looking forward to the Manistique-Newberry football game at the celery city tomorrow as one of the grid classics of the season. Scores of fans are laying plans to attend the game, and the Manistique high school band expects to make the trip and help produce the pep for the green and white warriors. Manistique high is out to win and break the jinx that has prevented them from trimming Newberry up brown for the past six years.

Determination and dope are on the side of the home crew, and if lady luck smiles the coveted victory will be brought back to town Saturday night.

Manistique people planning to attend the tilt are reminded that Newberry is still on fast time, and that the game scheduled for 2:30 Newberry time will be at 1:30 Manistique time. This will necessitate an early start for those who want to see the whole contest. The battle will unquestionably be a close one, and will be hard fought from start to finish.

Coach Bill Cook of Manistique has the advantage of knowing his men over a period of years, while Coach Sims is starting his first season at Newberry, with new material to work with, and few letters men back on his squad. So far, Manistique has lost but one conference game, and a win over Newberry tomorrow will bring renewed hopes for the Little Flye pennant to the home camp.

Next week's mix-up is a non-conference event at Gladstone.

Fire Department Gets Flue Sweep

Fire Chief C. E. Underwood has called attention to the fact that he has secured an expert chimney cleaner who will be in Manistique during fire prevention week, October 7 to 13.

Reservation for chimney cleaning jobs may be made by leaving orders at the fire department, and the work will be done in the order received.

Removal of soot from flues will be one of the major preventative precautions to be observed during the national campaign.

Business Meeting Scheduled Oct. 4

The annual business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held next Thursday, October 4. Reports of all the departments of the church will be given and the officers for the ensuing year will be elected. The ladies of the church will serve supper at 6:30 p. m. There will also be a social hour. All members of the church and those who are interested in the welfare and the work of the church are urged to attend this meeting.

Hold Social at Church Tonight

The young people of the First Baptist church, the senior and intermediate B. Y. P. U. societies, will hold a social in the church parlors this evening beginning at 7:30 p. m. Every member can bring two guests. Games, songs and a good time will be enjoyed by everyone. Refreshments will be served.

Zasu Pitts is noted as one of the most wistful of all screen players so she plays the role of a wistful little German girl in Universal's comedy of the American Army of Occupation, "Buck Privates," which is at the Gero Theatre tonight.

Lya de Putti and Malcolm McGregor play the leading roles while Eddie Gribbon, as the hard-boiled top sergeant, plays opposite Miss Pitts.

But in "Buck Privates" her role is a decided departure and she gets her man.

Twenty-four hardware dealers and clerks, representing Escanaba, Powers, Rapid River and Gladstone, met here Wednesday evening for the annual group meeting of dealers of this district.

The session opened with a dinner served at 7 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. F. J. Corbett.

Following this was a program. Talks were given by Charles A. Ireland of Ionia, Mich., who was formerly president of the National Hardware association and by Charles F. Nelson of Marine City, Field secretary.

Now it comes to you vacuum-sealed in the new, tall key-can. Both the vacuum process and the improved key-can belong exclusively to the M.J.B. Company and are available only to M.J.B. users.

HARD PRACTICE IN PREPARING FOR OPENER

Team Begins Season at Crystal Falls Saturday

Stiff workouts have been the order of the day in the Kell camp this week in preparation for the opening of Gladstone's 1928 football season on Saturday at Crystal Falls.

The Gladstone coach has been putting his men through steady hard practice in fundamentals.

Plenty of attention is being given to the building up of the backfield, which, this year, with the exception of Liberty who was with the squad last season is inexperienced.

Little is known of Crystal Falls' team this year and it is too early in the season to predict just what the Kellmen will be able to do, but the coach is confident that, with the new material rounding into condition as it should, Gladstone will make a first rate showing.

Announcement of the men who will make the trip to Crystal Falls will be made today. The team will leave Saturday morning, going by car.

Aid Supper Well Attended

NEW YORK STOCKS (Last Sales)

Table listing various stocks such as Am. Chem. & Dye, Am. Can., Am. Car & Fdy., etc., with their respective prices.

BY STANLEY W. PRENSHIL

New York, Sept. 22.—(P)—The stock market displayed a complete reversal of trend today, breaking sharply in the last hour after a spirited, but irregularly distributed rally in the early trading.

Fears of a huge increase in Federal Reserve Bankers' Loans, which proved to be unfounded, probably inspired the selling movement.

Call Money Drops. A reduction in the call money rate from 6 1/2 to 6 per cent, with loans arranged in the "outside market" as low as 5 1/2, furnished the chief stimulus for the early buying movement.

Argentina was shipping $12,500,000 in gold to this country, although the statement that the proceeds would be used to pay off the expiring Argentine government loan were denied by that country's bankers.

Failure of the Argentine government to renew the loan here was attributed to the high interest rates prevailing in New York.

Trails developed much stronger selling resistance than the industrial due to the strong buying support created by the announcement that freight traffic in the week ended Sept. 15 had touched a new high level for the year.

Bears Swat Industrials. Popular industrials were the targets of "bears' attacks in the late selling movement.

Popular Industrials were the targets of "bears' attacks in the late selling movement. U. S. Steel Common, which had established a new record high at 161 5/8, broke to 157 1/4 and rebounded to 158, off 3-4 net.

General Motors dropped from an early high of 215 1/4 to 209 and closed at 210, off 4 1/2 net.

Wheat, Cotton Advance. A slightly firmer undertone in Sterling Exchange, with cables on London reported at $4.85, and a slight discount on the Canadian dollar were the principal developments in the foreign exchange market.

Most of the commodity markets were higher. Cattle rallied about $2 a bale on buying influenced by reports of colder weather.

San Salvador, the capital of Salvador, now claims a population of at least 84,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Broadening out of export business in wheat from North America helped give an upward tilt today to the wheat market here.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1/4c higher. Corn finished 3-8 to 3/8 at 1c off, oats unchanged to 3/8 up, and provisions varying from 1/2c decline to a rise of 5/8.

Prices at Liverpool did a good deal to focus the attention of wheat traders today on evidence of better export demand.

Canadian wheat being shipped to Italy, specific mention being made of our vessel carriers to take Canadian wheat to Italy.

Harvard scientists, after years of work, have figured out that a bee travels 43,776 miles in collecting one pound of honey.
