LIGHTNING CAUSED LOSS AT THEATER

Bolt Enters Rear of Ben's Theater Building Early This Morning and Completely Wipes out Stage and Furnishings. Water Damage to Other Portions of Building. Members of Fire Department Check Flames When Whole Building Seemed to be Doomed.

Fire which was started from a flash of lightning early this morning burned out the stage of Ben's theater at 1010 Ludington street and damaged the building and contents to an amount estimated at $2,000.

The actual fire loss was confined to the stage of the theater and the roof of the building but the contents of both the first and second floors were badly damaged by water which was thrown into the fire by the members of the fire department.

When the members of the department reached the scene of the fire the entire rear of the building was a mass of flames and that the fire was held to the upper and rear portions of the building shows well the excellent work of the department.

Because of the burning off of charged electric wires in the building the firement fought against the progress of the flames, while constantly in danger of touching a live wire.

The entire exterior of the building and all iron fixtures were heavily charged with electricity and several members of the department received shocks both in entering and during the fight against the flames.

Chief Tulin in passing the side of the building touched a nail which protruded from the wall and received a heavy shock and which slightly burned the tips of three fingers of the left hand.

The fire was discovered by employes of Porter's cafe on the first floor of the building shortly after 5 o'clock immediately following an especially severe flash of lightning.

It is believed that the bolt entered the stage of the theater over the electric wires which passed through the rear of the building as the flames were confined wholly to that part of the theater.

The single flash of flame was all that was necessary to set on fire the light scenery on the stage and within a minute that portion of the building was a roaring furnace.

The fire gained entrance to the attic of the building and was working its way towards the front when the members of the department arrived. By strenuous efforts they succeeded in checking the advance of the flames and after two hours of work had succeeded in extinguishing the last spark.

Because of the fire Ben's theater will be closed until repairs can be made.

The loss to the building and fixtures is fully covered by insurance and immediately after the loss has been adjusted the work of making the repairs will be started by Mr. Salinsky. When the amusement place will again be opened to the public will be announced later and all of the bookings of all companies scheduled to appear at that theater have been canceled temporarily.

HEAVY STORM SWEEPED CITY

Much Damage Caused by Terrible Electrical Storm Early This Morning.

One of the most severe electrical storms in the history of this district swept over Escanaba early this morning causing much damage in many parts of the city.

The storm of this morning was followed by another severe electrical display late this afternoon when the tower of St. Anne's church was struck and a large cross at the summit was torn off.

In addition this morning to striking the home of Charles Anderson at 303 North Sarah street, where Mrs. Anderson was so badly stunned and burned that it is feared that she cannot recover and setting fire to Ben's theater where a loss estimated at $2,000 was caused, two other residences and one church were struck by lightning bolts.

The steeple of the new German Lutheran church on upper Wells avenue was struck by lightning and badly damaged.

The home of Peter Arnold, at 912 Hale street was struck, but the damage was slight.

A flag staff on the home of Judge T. B. White on Michigan avenue was struck but only little damage was done to the building.

Only at Ben's theater building and at the Anderson home did fire follow the electrical flashes, all of the damage being confined in the places to split boards, missing shingles and cracks in ceilings.

OBJECT TO THE SYSTEM

Supervisors Want Special Bill by Legislature Forcing Each District of County to care for Contagious Diseases.

In order that each city, township and village of Delta county may be forced to care for all patients suffering from contagious diseases and to prevent a large expense from annually being loaded upon the county authorities, members of the Delta county board of supervisors will attempt to cause a special act affecting only Delta county to be passed at the next session of the state legislature.

A committee of three members of the board will be named by Chairman William Bonifas according to a resolution passed at the meeting of the county board today, to confer with Delta county's representatives in the state legislature, causing them to carry out the ideas of the supervisors.

It is declared by the supervisors that the present system whereby all contagious disease bills must be referred by each city, township and village to the county for collection, has proven highly unsatisfactory and that the expense of caring for contagious disease patients could be more easily taken care of in the separate districts where epidemics develop.

WOULD SELL THE HOSPITAL

Because it is claimed that the Delta county hospital has proven a constant drain upon the resources of the taxpayers of the county an attempt will be made by the Delta county board of supervisors to dispose of that institution.

A resolution providing for a special committee to be appointed by the chairman of the board to arrange either for the sale or lease of the hospital was introduced at the session of the board this morning by Supervisor Soren Johnson of Gladstone and was passed by a unanimous vote.

It is claimed that for several years the hospital has not been self supporting and if a favorable opportunity to sell or lease the institution is presented it will be accepted.

The committee will be named by chairman Bonifas before the close of the session.

DOCK WORKER BREAKS LIMB

John Mardel, a dock worker, narrowly escaped being instantly killed at the No. 3 North Western dock this morning when he fell from the top of the dock to the platform at the bottom of one of the pockets.

Mardel escaped with a fracture of the right leg and was removed to the Delta county hospital where he will be confined for several weeks.

He was walking on top of the dock when he lost his footing and plunged feet foremost through an opening in the surface and landed on the plank platform several feet below.

NEAR TO DEATH IN LIGHTNING FLASH

Mrs. Charles Anderson Struck by bolt at Home on North Sarah Street Early This Morning. Clothing Torn From Body in Shreds While Skin is Seared From Head to Foot. Condition of Mrs. Anderson is Critical and she may not Recover.

While preparing breakfast at her home, at 303 North Sarah street, shortly after 5 o'clock this morning Mrs. Charles Anderson was struck by a bolt of lightning and was so severely burned that it is not believed that she can recover.

All of Mrs. Anderson's clothing was either torn or burned from her body. Lambert Peterson and Lena Anderson who were in the same room with Mrs. Anderson when the bolt of lightning entered were stunned momentarily but were not seriously injured.

Pieces of the dress worn by Mrs. Anderson, torn into shreds and rolled into a loose ball, were found on the opposite side of the room from the point where she had been standing when the shock came, showing the force of the shock and recording another peculiar freak of lightning.

The bolt struck the chimney of the house and descending through the attic entered the kitchen of the Anderson family on the second floor. Mrs. Anderson had already started a fire in the stove and was standing nearby when the shock came.

Immediately after being struck she fell to the floor unconscious while flames which had been started in her clothing enveloped the body. The two occupants of the room were stunned by the shock for a moment but when they regained their presence of mind an attempt was made to obtain water.

It was found that for some reason that the water did not run from the faucet on the second floor and Lambert Peterson rushed to the ground floor where he connected a garden hose and returned to the seat of the fire where he soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames in the clothing of Mrs. Anderson.

Dr. J. E. Youngquist was immediately notified and he hastened to the home where on investigation it was found that Mrs. Anderson's entire body had been badly burned.

The burns were dressed and this afternoon the condition of the patient was reported to be as favorable as could be expected.

Because of the fact that the interior of the kitchen was covered with oil cloth on walls and ceiling, it is believed that the electrical bolt was deflected back and forth across the room by the rubber surface several times before it found a favorable outlet.

From the appearance of the home today it is believed that the bolt descended directly down the chimney and first entered the sitting room by throwing a chimney thimble from its place and passing into the attic where it was again deflected and turned into the kitchen of the second floor. The bolt evidently dashed directly across the top of the room and struck the stove pipe at the elbow crushing it flat.

Mrs. Anderson was probably struck at that time as from the appearance of spots on the walls and ceiling it is believed that the bolt passed back and forth several times before leaving the room through a large hole torn in the ceiling.

The force of the shock was shown when the thimble was thrown from the hole in the chimney and striking an open door, broke the door from its hinges, crushing the thimble flat and leaving a dent in the door where it had struck.

The pieces of cloth which had formed a part of Mrs. Anderson's dress resembled more fragments from a mouse nest, than what had been at the time of the shock whole cloth. A small bundle of the fragments of the dress worn by Mrs. Anderson were found in the window opposite the point where Mrs. Anderson had been standing and rolled nearly together as if much care had been taken in the operation.

Baseball fans of Escanaba encouraged by the decisive victory over Crystal Falls on last Sunday will make a strong effort to maintain the same strong lineup that was presented by Escanaba for the contest of Sunday, for the remainder of the season.

Charles Follo, manager of former Escanaba baseball teams, has consented to act as manager for the team of this year and has already made arrangements for several games with outside teams to be played at South park. Rapid River will come to Escanaba on Sunday afternoon for the first game under the new management. The visiting team will obtain several players from Gladstone and thus strengthened should be able to furnish an interesting contest.

On July 14 the Mariette baseball team will come to Escanaba for a game at South park.

On July 22, the Sault Ste. Marie baseball team will come to Escanaba for a series of three games to be played at South park on July 22, 23 and 24.

SEVEN CARS DEMOLISHED

Seven more cars were demolished in the yards of the North-Western road this morning when an engine drawing a string of empty cars from the dock collided with cars that were being taken to the dock on the same track.

All of the demolished cars were of the old type and the loss will be but light. No one was injured in the accident.

Hearing of Mrs. Ida Secor on Serious Charge Held Open Until July 7.

After hearing the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution in the case against Mrs. Ida Secor, a Thomas street resort keeper charged with enticing Stella Carusel, of Gladstone, 17 years of age, to that place, the hearing was continued until July 7.

No testimony was introduced for the defendant at the hearing of today and after the testimony given for the prosecution has been transcribed Judge O. V. Linden, before whom the hearing was held, will decide whether or not sufficient evidence has been produced to warrant the holding of the prisoner to the circuit court for trial.

Stella Carusel, who it is claimed was enticed to the Thomas street resort, was the principal witness for the prosecution called at the hearing of today. She claimed that she came to Escanaba one week before she entered the resort as an inmate. She said that she went to the place to call on a girl friend and was asked by Mrs. Secor to remain. She admitted that after that time she remained there without coercion but denied that an attempt was made by the keeper, as was claimed by the attorney for the defendant, to induce her to return to her home at Gladstone.

Chief of Police Beitzer and Officer George McCarthy were called to prove the character of the resort kept by Mrs. Secor.

CHASE GOES WITH HILL

It is understood, however, that he will manage the campaign of the Saginaw candidate for senator, and that the result of the campaign will to some extent determine his future employment.

HIBERNIANS ARE GROWING

Within the last two years the Ancient Order of Hibernians in the United States has grown from a membership of 100,000 to 198,000, a record that has never before been equaled in the history of the order. The increase will be shown in the report now being prepared by the National Secretary, James T. Carroll.

MAY FUSE IN VERMONT

Burlington, Vt., June 28—Percival W. Clement, of Rutland, will be nominated for governor of Vermont at the independent convention of his supporters in session here today, and it is regarded as probable that the nomination will receive the indorsement of the Democrats, whose state convention is likewise in session here.

Mr. Clement long has been a Republican stronghold, but in 1902 Mr. Clement, after being defeated for the nomination for governor in the Republican convention, bolted the ticket and ran as an independent and received only 3600 less votes in the election than the successful Republican candidate, Mr. Clement, was not a candidate at the next biennial election, in 1904, but this year he early announced his intention of running as an independent candidate against the Republican nominee, Fletcher D. Proctor. Many of the delegates in today's Democratic convention are outspoken in favor of William J. Bryan for the presidential nomination.

LYMAN J. GAGE IS 70 TODAY

New York, June 28—Lyman J. Gage, who has made this city his home since his retirement from President McKinley's cabinet, was 70 years old today. Mr. Gage who sometime ago retired from the presidency of the United States Trust company and has now practically severed his connection with all business, prepared to take things easy the remainder of his days. The venerable financier's retirement is well earned as few men have had a more active career in business or financial pursuits. Beginning as an office boy in a bank in Ouedia, N. Y., Mr. Gage rose until he became president of the First National Bank of Chicago, one of the greatest financial institutions in the country. He was three times president of the American Banker's association and served five years as secretary of the United States treasury department.

At Cleveland a most momentous experiment in municipal activity is about to be inaugurated. Though imperfections of the law compel it to assume another form, it is in effect municipal ownership of street railways, under a commission plan, similar to that which was proposed for Detroit during the Pingree regime. In the absence of legal authority to own its railways, and in consideration of the fact that the city has three times endorsed the proposition in its municipal elections, it is proposed to have them acquired by a board of trustees, which is to hold them subject to an agreement to turn them over to the city at the actual invested value whenever the latter shall have obtained authority to receive them. In the meantime they are to be operated by the commissioners on a three-cent fare basis, and with other conditions much more favorable to the public than those now existing. The trustees are to receive fixed salaries for their services and other expenditures are confined to income on their obligations, and to the providing of proper funds for betterments and expansion or the retirement of stocks and bonds. In short, the street railways are to be run on public account, as though already a municipal enterprise, the trustee ownership being merely a legal fiction to get around the obstacle which propriety legislatures have refused to remove.

The essential difference between this plan and the one which was submitted to the people of Detroit a decade ago is the absence of the street franchise provision which was the unquestioned cause of the defeat of the proposal as presented to Detroit. In that transaction there was a section requiring that for guarantee to the vendors of the properties, a contingent franchise, becoming operative in case the trustees defaulted on their obligations, unjust and extraneous as these of the then existing contracts from which it was desired to exempt, while the life of the contingent contract was 45 years. At that time Tom J. Johnson, representing the company, as he now represents the municipality, proposed to consider that provision essential to any agreement that the agreement would be accepted by the owners. His studies of the problem during the intervening decade have evidently taught him much, while public sentiment and even that of the franchise owners have been greatly instructed in the same period. The Cleveland plan does not contemplate the repurchase by the people of any of the immensely valuable privileges they formerly gave away. The existing lines are to be taken over by the trustees only so fast as their franchises expire. A few are already available on those terms, and the system controlled by the new concern will also be enlarged by the inclusion of new lines now under construction.

Detroit is by no means the only American city that will watch with eagerness the progress of the experiment about to be tried. The conviction that franchise monopolies cannot rightly belong to individuals is growing rapidly, and in spite of the steady refusal of politicians to respond to the popular demand the practicability of retaining such values in the hands of the people can be demonstrated, the battle will have been won. If Cleveland leads the way, her example will compel the emancipation of other communities, either by some such system as she has adopted, or by removing the necessity for such indications as she is compelled to practice.

ANTIQUATED FRENCH EXCAVATOR AT PANAMA.

A number of these old French machines are being used on the Panama canal until they can be replaced by modern American machinery, shiploads of which are arriving nearly every week. The American engineers consider these old machines but little better than hand shovels, but use them for the present as a matter of necessity. The laborers at work in the picture are engaged in drilling and breaking up the rock and dirt preparatory to the work of the steam shovels in lifting the debris from the excavation and loading on the cars to be hauled away.

SUNFLOWER TO FURNISH DRUG

Sap of Common Flower may Some day be used in Manufacture of Quinine.

The four scientists that quinine may become too scarce and costly in a few years for general use in ague, pneumonia and other diseases and far too expensive to be used as an excuse in whiskey, need no longer exist. There are two excellent substitutes in sight. One is made from the modest sagebrush plant which grows all over the barren plains and bald mountains of the bounding west. The other is made from the familiar and bounteous emblem of Kansas, the sunflower. The sunflower is neither indigenous nor restricted to Kansas. It will grow wherever corn or potatoes will grow—and in some places where nothing else will grow. It is the best chicken food in the world, chickenologists declare. It is alleged that chickens eating sunflower seeds grow to enormous size and lay every time they think of it. The discovery that the sunflower will supply an efficacious substitute for quinine adds greatly to the value of the plant and suggests a time when even the sandiest spots of the "pina barrens" of Michigan may glow with golden blooms like a mountain sunburst view.

Counsel General Guenther, of Frankfurt, writes that a Spanish professor, according to German newspapers, has made the discovery that the sunflower yields a splendid febrifuge that can be used as a substitute for quinine. Mr Guenther writes: "Cosmos" calls attention to the fact that more than 10 years ago Moncorvo reported to the therapeutic society of Paris with reference to the same subject. Accordingly the sunflower should not only by its growing exert a great fever dispelling effect but also yield a product which is used advantageously in malarial fever. The common sunflower is originally an American plant. Its original home is stated by botanists to be Peru and Mexico.

PROVE IT ANYTIME.

By the Evidence of Escanaba People.

The daily evidence citizens right here at home supply is proof sufficient to satisfy the greatest skeptic. No better proof can be had. Here is a case. Read it:

Samuel Schonerman, miner, of 528 Stephenson Ave., Escanaba, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a bad case of backache and rheumatism from which I suffered for over five years. I had a dull pain across the loins and down into my right hip and leg to the knee, at times so severe that I could scarcely hobble about and had to use a heavy stick as a support. I would awake at night with terrible pains all through my back and would have to turn over although it was agony to move. I used remedies and rubbed on liniments but kept on getting worse. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to the Mead Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I felt so much better in a short time that I was surprised. I used three boxes altogether and my rheumatism, backache and weakness were all gone and have never returned. You may refer to me as one who can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

STATE LAWS ARE VIOLATED

The majority of the people are ignorant of the fact that it is against the law for any person to sell, give or furnish to any child under 18 years of age any pistol, gun or other mechanical contrivance, especially designed for the explosion of any form of cartridge or any cartridge or material for use in the above named weapons. The penalty for violating this law is a fine of from $10 to $50 or imprisonment of from ten to ninety days. It is also unlawful for any child under 18 years of age to have any of the above material in his or her possession.

This law was passed to prevent the number of fatalities and accidents caused by explosives during the Fourth of July celebrations. In the year 1903 there were 27 deaths from lockjaw in the state of Michigan for the month of July and 415 in the entire United States. In 1904 the deaths in Michigan in July were 5 and in the whole country 108.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED

Berlin, June 28.—Special.—The international wireless telegraph conference which was to have assembled in Berlin today has been postponed until October. The chief reason for the postponement is that a conference at the present time would interfere with the proceedings of the Pan-American Congress to be held in Rio Janeiro next month. The postponement is expected to insure the attendance of all the principal countries of Central and South America.

ANCIENT CASTLE UNDER HAMMER

Paris, June 28.—Special.—The famous Chateau de Vizille, situated southeast of Grenoble, was put up for sale at public auction today. It was in one of the halls of this castle that the Deputies of the municipalities of Dauphiny met on July 21, 1788, and hastened the revolution by demanding the convocation of the States General. The property was long in possession of the Casim-Perier family. A few years ago it was bought by an English syndicate and has since been used as a hotel and club.

STEUBEN TO BE HONORED.

Congress Votes Money for Monument to German Baron Who Aided Revolutionary Patriots.

Utica, N. Y.—The fact that an appropriation has been made by congress for a monument to Baron Frederick William Steuben, to be erected at Washington, and the selection of the sculptors, Albert Jaegers, Adolph S. Weinman and Henry Herring, to compete for the honor of making the design, become of interest to German residents of this country who a few years ago were engaged in erecting a monument over Baron Steuben's grave, in the town of Steuben, Oneida county. They finally succeeded in this object, and when the monument is completed in Washington it will be the second one to this great general, who gave so willingly of his talents and means to the struggling colonists in their war of the revolution.

After the close of the revolutionary war Baron Steuben spent considerable time in New York, living on a farm that was then in what was known as Jones' Woods, near the East Fifty-seventh street of the present day. After long delays on the part of congress to pay him his salary, a grant was finally made to him of a tract of 16,000 acres of land that came to be known as Steuben Patent, and was situated in the northern part of this county. Here the baron built a small, plain house, furnishing it with his camp utensils and the remains of his military chest, and the closing years of his life were mostly passed in this place. He died in 1794.

He had often requested that he be buried under one of his own trees, and that his grave should be left to become overgrown with such shrubs and trees as might spring up naturally. In 1872 several German societies in New York city erected a monument over the grave. This monument stands directly over the grave of the dead warrior, and bears only the word "Steuben" as an inscription. The dense woods upon all sides give it a strange appearance, and the visitor is struck with the loneliness of the surroundings.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Earth's Atmosphere. The atmosphere of the earth acts very much in the same way as does the glass of a greenhouse—it allows the rays of the sun to pass through, but imprisons the heat. Thus it is colder on the top of a mountain than at the sea level, because, though the mountain-top is nearer the sun, the atmosphere is very much less dense.

Desperate Effort. A French tailor, who advertised "English spoken," was sometimes at a loss for the right word. On one occasion, wishing to tell a customer that her skirt was too high, he hesitated a moment, then, with a look of inspiration, he said: "Madame, your curvature is too upstairs."

Long Visit. Prof. Baldwin, of Johns Hopkins university, has just returned, from Mexico, where, at the request of the Mexican government, he has spent six years inspecting the educational system of that country as a guest of President Diaz.

"Faustlike of Herself." A Massachusetts woman is something of a Mrs. Malaprop. While visiting a friend in Dorchester she was recalling old times and gossiping of her friends and acquaintances, when she said: "Poor sis, poor sis: She's a mere facetious of her old self."

FABLE OF FIRST NAPOLEON

Tale That Is Supposed to Have Been Written by the French Emperor.

The "Bulletin de la Societe des Amateurs de Jouets de Joux Anciens" publishes an interesting fable discovered by Vicomtesse de Clairval and attributed to Napoleon I. The Chevalier de Beauterne confirms the assured authorship with these words: "The fable is indubitably the work of Napoleon I. It is his style and character. Moreover, the original exists in the collection of the duke of Saxe-Weimar, and the question is only whether it was composed at Brienne or in the military school. It is too perfect to be the product of boyhood. The fable seems rather to be a composition of the time when Napoleon competed for the prize of the Academy of Lyons." Mme. Walllex, however, who in 1858 for the first time called attention to this fable, is of the opinion that it was composed at the College of Brienne, in 1782. The Imperial fable is entitled: "The Dog, the Rabbit and the Hunter," and its contents are as follows: "Caesar, a renowned sporting dog, has cornered a rabbit. "Surrender," he commands, with a loud voice; "I am Caesar, famous for his bravery all over the world." "And if I surrender, what then? Jeannot, the rabbit, asks with a trembling voice, while recommending her sinful soul to God. "Then you'll die." "Die! And if I see?" "Even then you will surely die." "Thus whatever I do, I must lose my life," said the little rabbit. "Well, since I cannot avoid death, I shall, with your kind permission, take my chances in flight." "And saying this, the rabbit runs away. But no sooner does the hunter perceive it than he shoulders his gun, aims, shoots, and—killing the dog. And the moral of the fable? God helps those who help themselves."

SECOND FRANCHISE IS BEFORE COUNCIL

New Administration by Action of Last Night now has Question of Obtaining a Pure Water Supply for City Fairly Before it. Future Action Will be Watched With Much Interest. Harry P. Lucas Renews Request for Franchise to Furnish Artesian Water to Consumers of Escanaba.

The question of obtaining a pure water supply for the city of Escanaba is now fairly before the new administration of the municipal government, in all of its many phases.

By the submission of a complete franchise to the council last night by Harry P. Lucas, under the terms of which it is agreed to furnish to the consumers of Escanaba an artesian water service, all of the different features of the water question in Escanaba that have before been considered by other councils, are now presented to the members of the present governing body of the city to reach a decision. The new franchise was last night referred to the special committee of the council who already had the franchise of the Escanaba Water company in charge.

The second franchise presented to the council last night by Mr. Lucas is similar in all details to that presented to the old council early in this spring and which was held in abeyance by the former governing body in order that the water question could be taken up by the new council.

It is asked that the franchise shall be granted to the new company for a term of 20 years and with a hydrant rental contract executed by the city for a period of ten years.

It is provided in the proposed franchise that in the event of its acceptance that the city shall agree to rent a total of 120 fire hydrants from the company.

Seventy of these hydrants shall be paid for by the city at the rate of $20 a year and that 50 of the hydrants shall be paid for at the rate of $38 a year.

It is agreed that in the event of the franchise being awarded to the new company by the council that work on the construction of the system shall be started within 60 days after action by the council and must be completed as speedily as possible.

It is agreed in the franchise that in the event of its adoption the water supply shall be given for the fire department city hall, all offices occupied for city purposes, public schools, parochial schools, public library, churches and church property, city hall, city hall, public buildings, city parks and playgrounds, and for all other public purposes.

Following are the principal rates to be charged consumers by the terms of the new franchise in the event of its adoption:

Asthma Sufferers Should Know This.

Foley's Honey and Tar has cured many cases of asthma that were considered hopeless. Mrs. Adolph Buesing, 701 W. 3rd st., Iavenport, Iowa, writes: "A severe cold contracted twelve years ago was neglected until it finally grew into asthma. The best medical skill available could not give me more than temporary relief. Foley's Honey and Tar was recommended and one fifty cent bottle entirely cured me of asthma which had been growing on me for twelve years, and if I had taken it at the start I would have saved years of suffering." Ellsworth's Drug Store.

SECOND CHAPTER IN KLOMAN DEAL

Suit has been started in the United States court of Chicago by Alfred S. O'Leary, R. H. Costello, Harvey Gibson and Robert Cheney, all of Hartford, Conn., against Harvey K. Flagler, president; William P. Dickman, treasurer, and other officers and stock holders of the Flagler Iron & Steel Co. It is sought to recover $90,000, and it is alleged that that amount was obtained from the plaintiffs by the sale of stock by means of false representations.

All this reminds of the Kloman case deal, which was given no small amount of newspaper space about two years ago. The Kloman Iron company included among its prominent stockholders Marquette county men, among them E. J. Maps and J. H. Primeau. The officers of the company entered into an agreement for the sale of the mine, located near Republic, in good faith. The Flagler concern at once took steps for regaining the property, which had been operated in the early days of the range, but which had been abandoned for twenty or thirty years. Pumps were put in, the workings unwatered and every evidence was given of a bona fide intention to resume operations. In many minds there was suspicion of the plans of the Flagler Iron & Steel company, and it was greatly augmented when the officers of that concern sent forth alluring circulars in which the Kloman was played up as a very valuable asset, whereas it was generally known in this region that the value of the mine, was practically unproved, it not having been explored or tested during its long period of idleness.

Three Physicians Treated him Without Success.

W. L. Yatey, Paducah, Ky., writes: "I had a severe case of kidney disease and three of the best physicians in Kentucky treated me without success. I then took Foley's Kidney Cure. The first bottle gave immediate relief, and three bottles cured me permanently. I gladly recommend this wonderful remedy." Ellsworth's Drug Store.

MAN HAD IRON MOUNTAIN NERVE

Having seced his nerve in Iron Mountain, William Willis went forth to try it in the world and became a highway robber in Wisconsin. He fled from the consequences to the Soo, but was arrested and returned to Wisconsin. On the way he sprang through the car window, but was seized by the police and the banner of sin was waved for three miles on the outer walls of the city. The officer hanging on to one leg and the conductor naturally "poking" the other. When at last a brake was applied and jerked the bell cord to stop the train, the former Iron Mountainer showed symptoms of apoplexy and a deranged stomach, but it was believed he would be able to stand trial.

Cleanliness is the first law of beauty; also the second and third. No matter what your complexion is, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will cure them. 35c a tin. Tea or Tablets.—Hill Drug Co., both stores.

OAK FURNISHES THE TAN BARK

Assurance is Given That World is not Short of Tanning Material

It is a mistake to think the world is running short of tanning material. Some 200 years ago, when George I. came over from Germany and consented to sit on the throne of England, there was a royal commission appointed to inquire into the best methods of retanning the parks with oaks, so as to provide the tanners with material. The wars of Cromwell had devastated the public and private parks of the kingdom. The discovery of stately pines on the hills of New England had solved the problem of finding material for building ships for all time, it was thought.

Unless the parks could be replanted to oaks and the area of those parks enlarged, England was going to run short of tanning soon. It was a very serious question, and one which was urgent. As the duties of a royal commission are very similar to those performed by a board of trade, nothing came of the movement, though within the next century all the parks had been filled with oaks, and England was producing more oak bark for tanning than could be used with profit, a condition which has prevailed ever since, though the stand of trees has not been reduced in any way.

In spite of Lomlock from America and gallants from Arabia and iodine preparations from seaweed, and sweet fern from Spain, it seems as if the oak is going to furnish the tanning supply for the future. Because there are oaks standing in new forest that were grown trees when William Rufus went on his fatal hunting expedition, is no sign that the average oak is of slow growth.

If one will make careful measurements of oaks he will find they grow rapidly until they are more than a foot in diameter at the butt. Just how fast oaks grow can be learned without much trouble. An instance comes from Brewer which is beyond question. In the spring of 1870 William C. Stone, of South Brewer, received a small box of sprouting white oak acorns from Wrentham, Mass., by mail. He planted them on the side of a clay ridge overlooking Perobscot river.

The land was hard and not rich—just an ordinary grass field. Three of the acorns survived and developed into trees. About three years ago Mr. Stone cut out the central tree to give room for those on the outside. It was 35 feet tall and 5 1/2 inches in diameter at the butt, so large that he made two ax handles from the butt cut. The remaining trees are now becoming stately, and are gaining at the rate of 10 per cent a year, which is a good interest on the investment.

Feel Impending Doom.

The feeling of impending doom in the minds of many victims of Bright's disease and diabetes has been changed to thankfulness by the benefit derived from taking Foley's Kidney Cure. It will cure incipient Bright's disease and diabetes and even in the worst cases gives comfort and relief. Slight disorders are cured in a few days. "I had diabetes in its worst form," writes Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind. "I tried eight physicians without relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man." Ellsworth's Drug Store.

BOAT WAS TOP HEAVY

There was a quick scramble on the part of the crew of the steamer Robert Holland when that vessel suddenly careened and sank in twenty feet of water in Lake Superior but all escaped without injury.

The accident was one of the oddest that ever happened to a lake boat. The Holland was coming down the bay when the deckload of lumber shifted without any visible cause. The loss of cargo on one side caused the steamer to immediately list in the other direction so badly that water poured into the hold through the batches causing it to quickly fill and sink.

Capt. Lennon attributed the accident to the fact that there was little coal in the bunkers and the deck load made the craft top heavy.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

BEGIN WORK THIS WEEK

The contract for excavating the inside harbor for the new government naval training station at North Chicago has been let to Harry E. Overstreet of Chicago. It is to be from 100 to 300 feet wide, 500 feet long, 10 feet deep and will be surrounded by concrete walls. Sixty thousand cubic feet of earth will be dredged out and used to fill the ravine and building site. A dredge will arrive this week to commence the work.

The proposed basin is at the entrance to Peshigo creek. The work will require four months. Work on two steel bridges, the mess hall, officers' quarters and dormitories will begin about August 1.

SUPERVISORS IN CONTEST

Warm Session Preceded Adoption of Equalization Board's Report by Board Members.

After one of the warmest contests that have ever marked a session of the Delta county board of supervisors, the report of the board of equalization as to the valuation of taxable property in each ward and township of the county was accepted this afternoon.

The valuation of property in the city of Escanaba was finally fixed against the objections of all of the supervisors from the different wards of the city, at $1,137,000, which however is $1,001 less than the valuation placed on property in the city one year ago.

That property in the city of Escanaba was assessed at figures ridiculously low and in contrast to property in other parts of the county, were claims freely made by county members of the board at the meeting of this morning. City members of the board claimed that credits that maintained in the city were not different from those that held true in the townships

RUNAWAY WAS SPECTACULAR

After becoming frightened while standing unattended in front of Hirs & Gleich's bakery on Ludington street a team of horses attached to a heavy delivery wagon belonging to that company, figured in a spectacular runaway on Wells avenue shortly after 6 o'clock last night.

The horses turned from Ludington street at Georgia and after proceeding on that street to Wells avenue turned west and ran at a wild clip on that street until opposite the Richter Brewery, when the team crossed a vacant lot and proceeded west to Stephenson avenue.

On reaching Stephenson avenue, the team collided with a telegraph pole bringing them to a stand still after badly damaging the harness and wagon.

Unpunished Offenders.

There are things which to sensible souls constitute a disturbance of the peace, and yet for which there is no adequate punishment prescribed by law, very truly observes a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. A man in a short coat and silk hat is an offense of this kind, and a fat woman in a "rainy-day" skirt and peck-a-boo waist is another. There are legions of them. They offend the artistic sense, and mar the face of nature. Now and then some aesthete person, made desperate by these abuses, takes the law into his own hands and inflicts punishment, usually at severe cost to himself. For instance, if the man who stabbed Thomas Reed for playing a guitar in an undertaking establishment is caught, he may be sent to the penitentiary. Such is the injustice of our laws. What is needed is a corps of armed censors of things in general, something between a police and a humane society force, and vested with authority to arrest offenders against good taste. A special court for the trial of such offenders could be provided, and the keepers of mechanical musical instruments, the street-car whistlers, platform chumps and persons who talk at the play at all, could have justice meted out to them. As long as such offenders are left unpunished by law, so long will there be "unexplained" murders and assaults, for they "get on the nerves" of people who have artistic sensibilities, and these people become aroused to desperate deeds, braving even martyrdom for the holy cause of good taste. The world would welcome such a department of justice as we have suggested, if some one would take the initiative to secure the proper legislation. Here is the opportunity for some ambitious reformer to endeavor himself to the masses and make Folk, Hadley and Jerome to pale their ineffectual fires in the bright light of his genius.

YOUNG COUPLE ARE WED IN A LIVERY STABLE.

Brate Father of Bride Follows Elopement Pair, But Fails to Stop Ceremony.

Elgin, Ill.—A livery stable is not the most romantic place in the world for a wedding to take place, but it was good enough for a Geneva young man and an Aurora girl one day recently. It was an elopement. Papa—the bride's papa—was in hot pursuit. The matrimonially-inclined couple went to the courthouse for a license and rushed a messenger to the residence of Justice Irving L. Howell.

Justice Howell, who has been in the marriage business for several years, and who is always thoroughly equipped for such emergencies, started for the courthouse on the run, but the anxious couple could not restrain their desires for the matrimonial plunge, and so had fastened down the street in the direction of the justice's office, and the justice met them near the livery barns of August Cedersstrom.

With bated breath the would-be groom explained to Justice Howell that there was but a minute to be wasted on the marriage service as the bride's father was on his way from Aurora. The party entered the livery stable, where Justice Howell whipped out his memorandum book and the service was on. The knot tied, the happy pair hurried up the street and caught an electric car, leaving Geneva by the same car on which the bride's father had arrived from Aurora in company with an officer, the two men having alighted from the car at the courthouse further down the street.

Race Suicide Inefficient.

Race suicide has not prevented the human family from making a fair showing, for it now numbers 1,430,000,000 noses. Of Papa Adam's children 250,000,000 go naked, 700,000,000 clothe only the middle part of the body, while 600,000,000 are accustomed to envelop the whole body with some kind of garment; although in summer the women in the last class are somewhat inclined to revert to aboriginal styles of dressing the body from the standpoint of decoration rather than protection from the inclemencies of weather and the observation of man.

ENTERTAINMENT WAS EXCELLENT

One of the attractive entertainments of last week and mention of which was inadvertently omitted was that given at the Peterson opera house by the pupils of St. Anne's Grammar school.

All of the different musical and literary numbers of the program and also drill numbers by certain classes were excellent and reflected great credit upon the instructors of the school who had the training of the pupils for the event in charge.

The entertainment was attended by a large crowd of the patrons and friends of the school who were generous with their applause at all stages of the program.

NEW TYPE OF AIRSHIP

BROOKLYN CLERK SAYS HE HAS SOLVED AIR NAVIGATION.

Invents Machine That Is Winged Like a Bird and Has a "Pulling Propeller" in Front Instead of a Screw.

Brooklyn.—After 15 years' patient study and experimenting Charles W. Clark, a clerk employed in the installation department of the Edison Electric Illuminating company, of this city, has, he believes, brought to perfection a machine for the navigation of the air of practical utility. It differs essentially from all flying machines invented up to this time, the nearest approach to it in principle being Prof. Langley's aeroplane, on which the government spent $70,000, and Israel Ludlow's box-shaped kite, which came to a disastrous ending at the foot of West Seventy-second street a few weeks ago.

The most radical departure made by Clark is his entire elimination of the gas bag or hot-air bag, method of gaining and maintaining an elevation, and therein is the only suggestion of the aeroplane principle. He sails through the air precisely as a great bird, with outstretched wings, and motion is maintained by the revolution of a device at the front of his machine. It cannot properly be called a propeller, because it draws the machine forward instead of pushing it. The construction of this "propeller" is Clark's secret, which he is confident will solve the whole problem of aerial navigation.

The flying machine proper consists of two large flanges, or wings of bamboo frame work, covered with canvas. They have an area of 200 square feet each, and instead of being flat as in the aeroplane are convex on their upper surface. The concavity is just like the hollow under the wing of a bird and the cushion of air which fills these cups is the sustaining power of the machine, sufficient, as the inventor has demonstrated to his own satisfaction, to keep it aloft even when the motor is not in operation.

From the rear of the machine projects a three-flanged rudder, controlled by slender steel cables, that lead to the hands of the operator, who is seated on a saddle, like a bicycle saddle.

This rudder is the most important part of the mechanism, apart from the "pulling propeller." It has four functions—steering to the right or the left, and lifting or lowering the forward part of the machine. When the forward edge of the wings are elevated, while the machine is in motion, the air rushes into their concavity, and the machine rises; when they are depressed the machine descends.

The motive power is furnished by a 100-horsepower gasoline engine, amply strong, in front of the operator. The bamboo frame and canvas weigh 100 pounds, so with an aeronaut weighing 150 pounds in charge, the total weight to be lifted is 250 pounds.

"I am satisfied beyond a shadow of a doubt," said Mr. Clark to a New York World reporter, "that I have mastered the secret. The balloon as a lifting force is of course no longer considered. I gave that up 14 years ago. I got my first idea by skimming a thin sea shell on the beach. I saw that when it was skimmed cup down, it rose in the air until its force was exhausted and then fell. It occurred to me that if I could construct a machine on the principle of the sea shell and could continue the flight, I could make it rise as long as I could keep it in motion.

"To satisfy myself that the principle of skimming the sea shell was correct, I built a machine of bamboo and canvas. In Dudley, N. J., and without any motor at all was able to ascend by having three or four boys pull the machine along the ground with a cord. So long as they kept the machine in motion I could steer it in any direction and go up or come down as I liked.

"That convinced me I had struck the right principle, and I went ahead on the propeller until I perfected it. Now I am satisfied I can sail through the air at high speed and keep away from the earth as long as the fuel for the motor lasts."

SHOWS GOOD GROWTH

ENGLAND'S TRADE WITH HER COLONIES INCREASING.

While Exports to Foreign Countries Decrease, Report Shows Those to Possessions of Empire Grow Steadily.

London.—A striking development in England's colonial trade is shown in a board of trade blue book recently issued.

Since 1900 there has been a continuous increase in the exports from the United Kingdom to the colonies, while imports have been covered in a remarkable manner from the setback encountered in 1901 and 1902, and are now $15,000,000 better than in the former year.

The total trade of the United Kingdom and the colonies was just under $232,000,000 last year, and of the increase $14,000,000 is represented by exports of articles of food and drink.

Imports from British possessions have risen in these five years to the value of $10,377,000, and England's exports to them have gone up steadily by $17,500,000.

A more striking fact is that England's export trade to the colonial part of the empire is increasing while her export trade to foreign countries is decreasing.

The volume of imports from foreign countries, as distinguished from the colonies, keeps on steadily growing. Since 1900 it has increased to $17,585,980, while British exports to foreign countries, though higher, in value in 1904 than in any of the preceding three years, are still $1,533,951 below the total reached in 1900.

England has been drawing less of its raw material from the colonies since 1900, when the value was a little more than $70,000,000, while it is now less than $48,000,000.

The colonies, however, have been supplying the home country with more food and drink, also amounting under this head having increased from $26,370,000 in 1900 to $37,440,000 last year.

An increase in the manufactured goods supplied in competition with home work, from $36,370,000 in 1900 to $46,857,000 in 1904, has gone entirely to foreign countries.

Analyzing on corresponding lines the total export of goods manufactured in the United Kingdom, an increase from $223,800,000 to $243,820,000 in five years is found, but it is the colonial consumers England has to thank for the whole of it. Colonial requirements of home manufactures have risen from $2,000,000 in 1900 to $29,370,000 last year, while the requirements of foreign countries have slightly diminished, the exact fall in value being $1,400,000, or from $146,857,000 to $145,457,000, but one value was much below the latter total in 1903, 1902 and 1901.
