And so "He's moved," and we're glad of it. All day yesterday the postoffice force were busy moving the mail and the postoffice equipment to the fine new federal building at the corner of Ludington and Wolcott streets. The arrangement of the office fixtures and the distributing anew of the great quantity of mail gave Postmaster Coburn and his assistants all they could do yesterday. But at six o'clock last night the work was well in hand and everything was ready for the first mail to arrive this morning.

Last evening throngs of people visited the new building and although they did not, for the most part, make a thorough inspection of the entire building, they were satisfied to look over the ample lobby of the postoffice department and to take a peep at the elegant private office of the postmaster. The lobby of the office presents a very attractive appearance. The large chandeliers, the marble and oak finish, the beautiful interior present quite a contrast to the quarters where the people of Escanaba have been transacting their postal business during the past years.

The work on the building was finished last week and after the general inspector of government buildings had gone over building with the local postmaster, the remaining work of supervision was turned over to Mr. Coburn.

Many people have been going to the federal building today, who have not had the pleasure of seeing the interior, and all have expressed their pleasure and delight that Escanaba can boast of such a public building.

And although it was expected that all the moving would be done a week ago, as already stated, it was postponed till yesterday. "He's moved" and we're glad of it.

er has resumed operations. This mill has recently been overhauled and remodeled, and is practically a new mill. A new boiler and engine, trimmer, edger, nigger, resaw, sawdust blower, etc., have been installed and the mill enlarged sufficiently to cut 25,000 to 30,000 per day. The company has 2,000,000 feet of hemlock logs already on hand to saw, which will keep the mill running for several months and give employment to 25 or 30 men.

KING EDWARD'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD NEXT FRIDAY

Announcement to That Effect Was Made This Morning—Proclamation of the Ascension of George V Read This Morning—Queen Alexandra is Well.

(By Associated Press.) London, England, May 9.—A proclamation was read at St. James palace this morning announcing the ascension of King George V to the throne. The ceremonies were both brilliant and impressive and took place on the balcony of Friar court in the presence of the royal family, a number of public officials and a great throng of the merely curious.

From the castle, heralds, accompanied by high officials and several thousand troops proceeded to London, stopping at various points enroute to read the proclamation to the great crowds that were greeting them everywhere.

ing to the ancient custom, stopped and challenged. The challenge being answered the Lord Mayor gave the order that the procession be admitted. When within the city's limits the proclamation was again read and George V was acclaimed the king of all England.

King Edward's Funeral Friday. It has been officially announced that the funeral of the late King Edward will be held on Friday May 20. The announcement was made this morning from Buckingham palace. Queen Mother Alexandra is reported as well and bearing up bravely under the strain. It was reported that in a paroxysm of grief she had broken a blood vessel, but the report was found to be without foundation.

Bank Receiver at Ironwood Scores in First Case Tried—Thirty Similar Cases to Be Tried at Marquette

Receiver Tillinghast, of the defunct First National Bank of Ironwood, has won his first suit on the "accommodation notes" he found among the bank's assets when he took charge of the institution. The case in question was against Charles Clark, and Hurley, a director of the bank, and the amount of the note $5,000. The case was presented in the United States court at Madison, Wis. Judge Sanborn decided the case in favor of the receiver and against Mr. Clark. It is understood that Mr. Clark will carry the case to the court of appeals.

In connection with the failure there are some 25 or 30 similar cases to be tried in the federal court at Marquette. With the precedent established by the federal court at Madison, the receiver is likely to win all of the cases. The defense of the makers of the notes is that they were given without any consideration to oblige the bank's officers.

ROOSEVELT IS NOT FEELING WELL

(By Associated Press.) Stockholm, Sweden, May 9.—Colonel Roosevelt left for Berlin on a special train this morning. During the night the former president had a little fever and today his voice is inclined to be husky, giving evidence of a slight attack of bronchitis. He does not complain, however and says that he is feeling quite well.

LIVE DEER IS CAUGHT

This morning two deer made their appearance on the beach near the plant of the Mashek Chemical & Iron company and after playing about the location for a considerable length of time, one of them was taken captive by the men and confined in the deer park. It did not seem to mind being taken and seems to enjoy the confines of the park in a manner that would indicate that it was perfectly at home among the many evidences of civilization.

MANY KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Canadian Powder Magazine Causes Havoc at a Baseball Game—Many Seriously Injured—All Were Warned.

(By Associated Press.) Ottawa, Ont., May 9.—It has been found that only ten are dead and fifty injured in the explosion of the magazine of the General Explosives company, which occurred Sunday.

Ottawa, May 9.—An explosion which occurred Sunday afternoon wrecking the plant of the General Explosives company of Canada near Hull, four miles from this city. The country for miles around was laid in waste and many small dwellings in Hull, a mile away, were flattened to the ground.

Baseball Spectators Are Victims.

A baseball game was on near the works, and when fire was seen in one of the small buildings of the plant the crowd swarmed up a hill to get a better view. Warning of the danger came in two minor explosions. A shower of sparks and fragments of the wrecked building fell among the spectators, and there was a rush to get out of what was considered the danger zone.

Some who were aware of the possibilities of danger, when the main magazine was reached pleaded with the crowd to go farther back, but many stood within 1,000 yards of the burning buildings. They were kept on the qui vive by more detonations which sent up showers of burning brands.

Two Fearful Explosions.

The baseball game broke up and the remainder of the spectators and players joined the crowd at the fire. Then main magazine exploded. There were two stunning detonations. Everything within a radius of a mile and a half was torn and shattered. Giant trees were snapped off close to earth. barns and dwellings were converted into kindling and even in Ottawa, four miles away, hundreds of plate glass windows were broken.

The scene where the crowd stood resembled a battlefield. Headless, armless and legless bodies were lying about among scores of unconscious forms. To the few who retained consciousness it appeared as though over a hundred had been killed.

The silence which followed the final death-dealing blast was more terrifying than the cries and moans which came with the return to consciousness of the injured.

Panic in the Village.

The shock brought thousands of terror-stricken people into the streets of Hull. Some thought it an earthquake, while others cried out that the comet had struck the earth. In the section of the city nearest the magazine forty small frame dwellings were shattered and many injured were imprisoned in the wreck.

This city was terror inspired scarcely less than at Hull. Rideau Hall the official home of Earl Grey, and the buildings of the parliament had windows blown out. The parliament buildings were damaged. From Rideau Hall the whole vice regal establishment had panic-stricken to the street. Earl Grey ordered the troops to help the authorities at Hull.

FORT WAYNE, IND. HAS NICE LOSS

The Publicly Owned Lighting Plant Is Setting the City Back at the Rate of $2,000 a Month.

Baltimore, Md., May 9.—The publicly owned and operated electric lighting plant at Fort Wayne, Ind., during its first sixteen months of existence, has lost about $30,000.00 of the taxpayers' money, according to the report of Howard P. Page, certified public accountant of Baltimore, who has recently made an investigation of the accounts of the property. This is a loss at the rate of nearly $2,000 a month.

An analysis of the report of Mr. Page simply shows that there is a deficit or loss from operation based on usual business and accounting practice up to this date of $29,784.47; that is, that the total cost of operation from September 1, 1908, to December 31, 1909, including interest and depreciation, have amounted to $86,516.85; and the total gross earnings of all kinds for the same period have amounted to $56,732.38; or a loss of $29,784.47. The report also shows that during the period of the use of meters, from April 1, 1909, to December 31, 1909, the operating expenses, including interest and depreciation, have amounted to $51,918.94; and gross earnings of all kinds were $29,667.64, or a loss of $11,251.30.

HAVE TROUBLE IN QUARRIES

(By Associated Press.) Danville, Ill., May 6.—Sheriff Helmick and a force of deputies have gone to Fairmount, in response to a call for help that was sent out from the Caparis stone quarries where five hundred men went out to strike this morning. The situation among the miners at Westville continues to be serious. Guards have been shot at in the darkness, but they have been injured. The authorities are taking special precautions to protect the mine property.

MADE A MAP OF HIDING PLACE

Prisoner Who Stole it Attempted to Get Map Into Hands of Friends While in Jail—Money Seized by Sheriff.

Marquette, Wis., May 9.—By the very map which Martin Jernek hoped would be instrumental in getting $600 he had stolen into safe hands until he had served his prison sentence, the money was found and restored to its rightful owner.

Jernek was sentenced to serve three years in the Green Bay reformatory at the term of court just past. A guard from the reformatory was in the city Friday and took the prisoner away with him to begin his sentence Friday night.

When Jernek was arrested for stealing $640 from F. J. Gaiser, a cook in Camp No. 7 at Wabeno, the money could not be found on his person. He had succeeded in "planting" it before he was arrested. A man named Adam Golan who had been one of Jernek's chums was arrested in connection with the theft, but through facts which came to the notice of Sheriff Smith during the latter's incarceration, it was established that he was innocent of the theft.

Some time ago a prisoner who had completed his sentence at the county jail was searched, and on his person were found two letters. One had been prepared by Jernek and contained a map showing the location of the spot where he had "planted" the roll of money. Golan showed a disposition to be fair and when his case was nolleed at the May term of court the sheriff placed the map in his hands and Golan sought out Gaiser, from whom the money had been stolen, and together they searched for it. It was found easily with the aid of the map.

This morning Sheriff Smith received a letter from Gaiser saying the money had been found. One $20 bill was missing. Gaiser made Golan a present of $22, and praised him for his honesty and help in finding the money. Its hiding place was off a camp trail near Wabeno.

ALBERTS MUST GO TO STATE REFORMATORY

Tolan Alberts, a Green Bay young man, who recently pleaded guilty in circuit court, this city, to a charge of forgery, was this afternoon sentenced by Judge Richard C. Flannigan to an indeterminate term of from one to fourteen years in the Michigan reformatory at Ionia.

Alberts succeeded in passing several forged checks in this city and was captured later near Green Bay. Before circuit court took a week's recess week before last he was brought into circuit court and arraigned on a charge of forgery. He pleaded guilty and passing of sentence was deferred until this afternoon.

Judge Flannigan is now hearing the case of Clyde Hayden vs. The Chicago Navigation company.

Mrs. J. F. Richardson of this city underwent an operation at St. Luke's hospital in Marquette Saturday. The operation is reported to have been successful and Mrs. Richardson is getting along nicely.

Dr. O. C. Brettenbach left Saturday evening for Oshkosh, Wis., to assist at an operation that was performed Sunday at St. Mary's hospital in that city.

CHARLES BECK DEAD AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Was Only Ill Four Days—Pneumonia Said to Be the Cause—Leaves Wife and Four Children.

After an illness of but four days, Charles Beck, one of the best known of the residents of this city, died at 117 North Charlotte street at about eleven o'clock this morning. Last Friday Mr. Beck was too ill to attend to his business and the attending physician immediately saw that he was suffering from pneumonia and ordered him to bed. His condition did not improve and all efforts to save his life were without avail.

large number of the Scandinavian voters. He had lived until next Friday would have reached the age of 47 years.

The deceased was a native of Sweden but had made his home in Escanaba for twenty-three years and in that time has served the city and county several years as alderman and supervisor. He was a good politician and controlled to a certain extent a

Besides a wife and four children, Mr. Beck is survived by a brother, Peter Beck and one married sister, Mrs. August Billoth, both of whom are residents of this city.

As an active member of both the above lodges will have charge of the funeral ceremonies, which will probably be held next Wednesday.

The news of the death of Mr. Beck was received with a shock by his many friends in this city, for the majority of them did not know that he was ill and it was hard to believe that he had been claimed by death.

THE COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT

Explanation of What It is and What Results Have Been Obtained by It.

W. H. Allen, of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, Ex-President Elliot, of Harvard, and Mr. J. E. Bryce, famous historian and British Ambassador to the United States, call the city form of government now in force in the United States a dead failure.

In case Escanaba should like to try a new form of government the Mirror takes pleasure in introducing the "Commission" form of government. Some of its essential features are as follows:

A commission of five men is elected from the city at large, which looks after all the business of the city. In fact, all municipal power is in the hands of these men, who are heads of departments. They make laws and execute them; they collect the taxes and they spend the money.

The men are nominated by the people at large and upon presenting a petition signed by a certain number of the voters, they become candidates. On the primary ballot the names of the candidates for mayor are arranged alphabetically without party emblem, and voters are instructed to vote for one. The names of the candidates for councilmen are arranged in the same order with instructions to vote for four. At the regular election following, the two candidates for mayor, who receive the largest number of votes on the ballot. The eight aldermanic candidates securing the highest number of votes, are submitted in the same way and five are selected from the ten names voted upon. Thus the voters have two opportunities to approve or disapprove of a man—first at the primary election and second at the regular election, and they know the man for whom they vote as the simplicity of the commission plan enables them to become familiar with each of the commissioners. The voter needs no

DISCOURAGEMENT.

William Allen White of Emporia, Kansas, has the knack of saying things original and of the kind that comes from real men close to the people. And he is known as such by a number of admirers here. Hence The Mirror reproduces an editorial that recently appeared in Mr. White's paper The Emporia Gazette, under the caption at the head of this. It will certainly be of interest to many and is as follows:

"There was something like consternation in one of the large churches at Afton last Sunday when the pastor announced his resignation, together with the resignations of two or three of the church officers, who had been his lieutenants.

"He is an able man, and the church members were proud of him and they were shocked when they learned that he was going to leave. He made no secret of his reasons for leaving. He had taken charge of the church when it was badly run down and in debt, and he had built it up the best he knew how. He had worked night and day for the good of that synagog. When he arrived, the music was so poor as to be disputable. He organized a fine choir, and no church in the town had better music. In a hundred ways he had improved the whole institution, and throughout his work he had been chilled and depressed by the listlessness and indifference of the people. They took everything as a matter of course; they were glad to see the church building up, but they never lent a hand unless they were prodded; they never had a word of encouragement for anybody; the fine music seemed to stir up no more enthusiasm than the poor music.

"The pastor's resignation was the talk of the town on Monday. He is one of those unusual preachers who are as popular with the men about town as with their own congregations, because of their human qualities. His action was regretted by scores of men who had never attended his church or heard him preach.

"He is a sensitive, high strung man, and the discouragement he has received was so profound that he is going to quit the ministry altogether, and he announced that he was open to an engagement in any other line of business.

"Thousands of men who are doing their best in one way or another will sympathize with him, and understand just how he feels. The desire for sympathy and encouragement is as natural to man as the appetite for victuals. The well-balanced man delects flattery, or praise that is insincere, but, unless he is a confirmed misanthrope, he hungers for some evidence of appreciation when he has done his best, and knows that his best is good.

"There would be better work done all along the line, if we were not so miserably in the matter of giving encouragement. Every public official who is worth the room he occupies will take a greater interest in his work, and do it better, if the people let him know that they are watching him and admiring his curves.

"Every clerk will throw more enthusiasm into his work, if his employer has a kind word for him now and then.

"One of the greatest tragedies in this country ever produced appeared in a certain city when he was a young man and encountered a frost. Afterwards, when his fame filled the world he always refused to appear in that city, although magnificent induc-ments were offered. Until the day he died he never forgot the wound he received there.

"Nearly all men who have in them the capacity for distinguished work, in any line, are sensitive and nervous. An idle word will make a greater impression upon them than a club will make upon the man of phlegmatic temperament. The graveyards of the world contain the ashes of countless men and women who might have been counted great, had they not been chilled by ridicule of their talents. There might have been more than one Shakespeare, there might have been a dozen Miltons, had the gospel of encouragement been preached in all ages.

"It is possible that you are helping to doom some soul to obscurity by carrying around a frozen face. It is also possible that you may do a great deal of good in the world by being generous with your commendation when you find something to commend.

"Meanwhile the members of that Afton church will be looking around for another preacher."

THE TAXATION MUDDLE.

The refusal of the Michigan State Telephone company and a majority of the wire-using corporations of this state to pay the taxes imposed upon them by the recently enacted advance tax law produces another muddle in state finance which might have been avoided, had the legislature been considerate in its enactments. As a matter of actual justice no change from the old specific tax system was necessary in the case of the wire using corporations. They were occupying the public highways and as such were held to be particularly liable to taxation. Under the specific tax law the company with small capital earning much money was taxed well up, while the one which earned but a meagre return upon large investment was not lacerated by the tax-gatherer. The new method made a complete ad valorem assessment and charged a rate higher than any local rate charged in the state, except in a few selected cases. The fact that a really intelligent commission had to do with the application of the law, and that it did not apply it with all severity, was the one redeeming feature of the application of the tax. The result is that the companies have received so sensible a shock in the change of their tax systems that they were almost forced to resist the application of the law, if they could find ground upon which to do so.

The ground is found in the law itself. Eminent counsel has agreed that it is technically defective, in that its title does not convey an intimation that it is a measure for the taxation of telegraph and telephone companies. In the body of the law itself there is contained an exemption relative to companies earning less than $500 per year. The weight of authority is to the effect that while the legislature may exempt a whole class of subjects of taxation, it may not exempt some members of one class and tax the rest. The rule of taxation was to be impartially applied to all the members of the same class. This doctrine has been laid down in so many cases by state and federal courts that it is no longer questioned.

The action of the wire using companies does not mean that they are averse to paying taxes at all. Most of them have entered their taxes under the old law, which shows their willingness to pay a fair impost, at any rate. The attack upon the law and its success are likely to raise the question anew in the coming legislature, and a return to the specific system is not impossible. The pendulum of public opinion has been of late swinging away from the ad valorem system of taxing utilities quite as noticeably as, early, it swung toward the ad valorem plan. A higher specific rate will be the true method of reforming the taxes upon these subjects of public taxation.

Fashion Hints

The New Veils

SOME of the new veillings for spring are elegant and becoming, and some of them are elegant and not at all becoming when worn directly over the face. The dotted and spotted nets belong to the first class and the fine chantilly veils that are made in designs with borders belong to the second class. These veils are intended to be worn with hats having brims wide enough to hold them away from the face. They are to hang straight down from the brim all round and to be thrown easily back over the hat, where they form a fine accessory, giving the touch of elegance, which is the mission of good lace. One may buy the chantilly veils in white, brown, blue or ecru as well as in black. But nothing can equal black for elegance. These veils are very fashionable for this season. The fact that they fail to perform all the functions of the face veil of net or other open meshed tissues, cuts no figure with my lady of fashion. She resorts to a hair net to hold her straying locks in place and hies her on her way rejoicing in the possession of the floating lace, blowing as it will about or away from her face.

There are innumerable "complexion veils" of all sorts of net with favor leaning toward heavy fibers and rather large dots or figures. They are drawn over the face and about the hat securely and serve the useful purpose of keeping the hair tidy as well as enhancing the appearance. Experts say that these veils appear to lighten the color. Whatever they do women are wedded to them and wear them constantly, using more care each season in making their selections.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

GIRL'S SAILOR DRESS.

Serge or linen are the best materials for girls' sailor dresses; the one illustrated here has a well-plaited skirt, the plaits arranged from a wide box plait down center of front. The bodice also has a box plait down center of front. The upper part of blouse is prettily cut and joined to the lower part in a wrapped seam. The collar and cuffs are of butcher-blue linen.

Material required: Five yards serge 48 inches wide.

Bound With Ribbon.
Persian-patterned pongee is used for soft scarf-like decorations on some of the best new hat shapes of black or dark blue faced with black.

The cut edges of this 12-inch wide pongee are bound with 2-inch black taffeta ribbon stitched on by machine.

Where wire is needed in the bow it is run through the casing made by the binding.

New Foulard.
In green, blue and white, a piece of printed chameleon foulard is one of the best expressions of the season's changeable silk.

The green and blue form a shaded background, and the white dot printed over this shadow surface gives an impression of an equal division of the three color notes.

CLOAK FROM PAISLEY SHAWL.

Without Destroying Valuable Material, Clever Woman Constructed Pretty Garment.

A good looking wrap made from a fine old India shawl is seldom seen. One dislikes to cut so valuable an heirloom, and it is difficult to drape without cutting.

One woman has solved this problem so that a useful and stylish evening cloak resulted.

A yoke was made from dull mahogany toned chiffon velvet that brought out the soft tints in the shawl. This formed a point at the back reaching to shoulder blades, and in front it narrowed to the waist line on each side.

The shawl was draped in this yoke so that it fell in graceful folds. The fullness was shirred slightly in lengthwise gathers just below the yoke at the back, the gathers concealed by two large bronze gold ornaments on each side of bias fold of velvet.

The front of yoke was fastened with hooks and eyes and was crossed by simulated frogs of copper colored braid, with bronze gold ornaments on each side.

New Bows.

The newest spot for a bow is at the front of the bodice, just below the yoke. This is of a different color from the frocks and is usually made of liberty satin. It is not full and loose, but long and trim. The loops and ends are the full width of the ribbon and are laid out in flat lines.

These touch up not only dress costumes for theater, restaurants and informal dinners, but they are worn on simple house frocks. The more vivid colors are used to give brilliancy to simple gowns such as white, gray or black.

Among the colors are apple green, plum, purple, parrot green, turquoise, blue, geranium, red and black, with rhinestone center.

A Plain Tunic.

One of the plainest and most easily accomplished tunics for the amateur is an oblong square of coarse net hung over a silk or linen costume at both front and back.

They reach from the band to almost the hem, and are slightly gathered at the girde line. Their finish is a strip of insertion or of ribbon velvet, mitered at each lower corner and invariably sewed on by hand to insure the net against pulling and drawing.

In the case of the somewhat stout figure, the separate halves of this plain tunic are held together at each side by bows of the ribbon velvet or by straps of the insertion.

SPOKANE MAIL MAN HOLDS THE RECORD

(Special to The Mirror.)

Spokane, Wash., May 9.—Sjur J. Berven, fifty-three years of age, who recently completed his twentieth year as a carrier at the Spokane post office, probably holds the service record in the United States, having missed only two working days. One of these was because of an injury sustained in a runaway, the other through sickness. His route covers twenty miles, hence he has walked more than 125,000 miles and carried about 870,000 pounds of mail, an average of seventy pounds a day.

Berven is a native of Sweden, where he was a school master before settling in Iowa, where he taught in country schools until coming to Spokane twenty-five years ago. There no were six carriers when he entered the service in January, 1890, while today seventy-eight men are required to handle the mail.

He and Thomas R. Jones are the only survivors of "The Big Six," as the first squad was known. He has worked under six postmasters and has saved enough from his salary ranging from $850 a year to $1,200, to provide his family, composed of his wife and four children, with a comfortable home and open a modest bank account. He will remain in the service.

JOHN MURPHY PASSES AWAY

Well Known Menominee Lumberman Dies After an Illness of Three Years—He Lived in Menominee 45 Years—Held Funeral This Afternoon.

John Murphy, Sr., superintendent of the Spaulding Lumber Co., for forty years and one of the best known lumbermen in Menominee county, died Saturday morning at 5:30 o'clock at his home, 1004 Stephenson avenue, Menominee. Pernicious anaemia was the cause of death.

Mr. Murphy was taken ill about three years ago, while working for the Spaulding Lumber company at Wilmington, North Carolina. His condition was critical for some weeks but when he was able to travel he was brought to Menominee where the family have since resided. Shortly after the new year he began to fail again in health, and for the past six weeks has been in a serious condition.

John Murphy was born at Miramichi, New Brunswick, Canada, on April 19, 1845. When a lad of 20 years he came to Menominee county, where he has resided for the past forty-five years, with the exception of the one year spent in North Carolina.

In 1889 he was united in marriage to Miss Anna McCullough, of Cedar River, and besides his wife is survived by three daughters and one son.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family home, the services to be in charge of the Masonic order, of which the deceased was a member.

PUT UP THE SCREENS; KEEP OUT THE FLIES

Have you begun to do that screening yet? Today is the best time to do it. Delay may prove expensive, if not sorrowful. The fly is just beginning to get his just deserts of recognition as the leading villain in the pathological drama. Though small in size, he does not appear so when one measures the stature of his deeds, and the measures necessary to exterminate the pest. To destroy all the wolves in North America would be on account of the conformation of the mouth of the fly, it cannot bite; yet no impression is stronger in the minds of most people than that this insect does occasionally bite. The germs of disease cover his body. Flies multiply very rapidly. One able bodied house-fly laying her first batch of 120 eggs in May will produce a progeny that will reach into the sex-illions by September.

The water and milk supply should be particularly guarded. Several months ago, in a letter directed to the Merchants' association of New York. Dr. A. R. Frantz, secretary of the Delaware state board of health, said:

"My board acknowledges the grave dangers of polluted water and milk supplies, and in all epidemics has especially investigated these acknowledged sources of infection. My opinion as to the transmission through the medium of flies is that they are common carriers of typhoid bacilli."

The fly can be exterminated by determined, persistent effort. Will you assist in the good work?

BACHELORS' CLUB TO BE IDEAL IN SUMMER

Spokane, Wash., May 9.—Ralph Hunt, president of the Blue Mountain Bachelors' Club of Washington, has issued a statement from headquarters at Dayton, announcing that the organization will cease active operations until harvest, as its members are too busy with their orchards and farms to discuss affairs of the heart. He reports also there are more than 1,000 letters on file, the writers representing every state in the union and all the provinces and territories in Canada. They are being classified and the campaign will be resumed early next November, when it is expected to launch the national organization with branches in the large centers of population in the United States and Canada.

The club reports that it has been instrumental in finding mates for a score or more of prosperous bachelor farmers and orchardists during the last four months, and so far, President Hunt says, everybody appears to be satisfied and pleased with the arrangements.

HEAVY CARS NOT COSTLY.

High Priced Touring Machines Can Be Run Economically.

HOW IT IS FIGURED OUT.

Cost of Gasoline, Tires, Etc.—Highest Ideals of Satisfaction in Traveling Are Attained in Modern Cars—Weight of Car Adds to Comfort.

It is a growing belief among the leading manufacturers of the higher priced heavy touring type of cars that the comfortable, efficient, seven passenger machine cannot be made lighter than the present most approved practice accomplishes. Many contemplating purchasers stand aghast at the heavier appearing machines and charge up to the disadvantage of this class of cars a greater consumption of gasoline and added wear and tear on tires, with a general advance in all around upkeep.

This is a fallacious theory, all claims to the contrary notwithstanding, according to the manufacturers who are constantly combating the general impression prevailing against the heavy touring cars, and they bring statistics and figures to bear in support of their argument.

The average big car runs ten miles to a gallon of gasoline. At an average cost of 15 cents per gallon this is 1 1/2 cents a mile, and with an annual mileage of 10,000 miles—admittedly a high but not unusual mileage of the heavier capable cars—it would show an expenditure of $150.

A heavier big car might only make eight miles to a gallon of gasoline, which would be an additional fuel cost of 20 per cent, or $30 per annum, easily made up in the item of repairs to which the lighter cars are, of course, more susceptible than the machine properly designed and built with weight proportionate to the work which it is called upon to accomplish. And this does not take into account the greater ease and comfort to be obtained from the solid "car of the road," the very weight of which can but be a source of comfort to its touring occupants.

In the matter of tire cost the figures are equally interesting. The additional cost per set of 36 by 5 inch tires used for the heavier cars over 36 by 4 1/2 inch tires, with which the average lighter touring cars of the best makes are equipped, is $64. The owner who makes 10,000 miles will use up two complete sets, or $128 more tire money on the heavier than the lighter big touring machine. The latter has about the same relative amount of weight on its tires as the heaviest car has upon its larger tires.

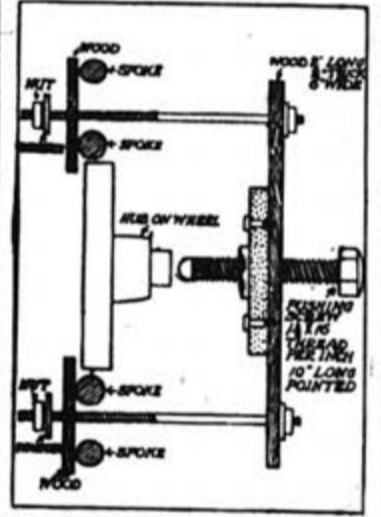

According to the weights which are taken as standard by the tire companies after exhaustive research and years of expensive experience, a 4,000 pound car on 36 by 5 inch tires is easier on tires than a 3,700 pound machine is on 36 by 4 1/2 inch tires, an authority which goes far toward dissipating a popular belief with no foundation in fact.

Admitting the additional cost of $30 for gasoline and $128 for tires, the manufacturers of the highest priced and heaviest touring cars assert that this is saved on the lighter cars entirely at the expense of the comfort of the occupants and the real wearing strength and true life of the car.

Use the Oil Can Often. If the auto owner would protect himself from the annoyances attendant upon a car that needs no horn or signaling device to announce its approach let him look over his new car and note the multitudinous levers and linkage, springs and brake mechanism which are prone to wear and then let him go straight away and hunt up the oil can. These parts wear slowly, almost imperceptibly, and the rattle and clatter that proceed from them after a season of inattention are of almost unbelievable extent.

A New Tight Wheel Remover.
One of the most annoying things that a motorist has to contend with now and then is a tight wheel. There are many methods used in trying to remove the wheel, and, while some may answer the purpose, the majority of them are useless. The illustration

HOW THE TIGHT WHEEL REMOVER WORKS shows a method that is sure to remove the tightest wheel on any bearings or shaft. It has been tried many times, and never yet has it failed to remove the tightest wheel. The method is a simple one. The illustration fully explains itself.

A REPUTATION.
How It Was Made and Retained in Escanaba.

A good reputation is not easily earned, and it was only by hard, consistent work among our citizens that Doan's Kidney Pills won their way to the proud distinction attained in this locality. The public endorsement of scores of Escanaba residents has rendered invaluable service to the community. Read what this citizen says:

Mrs. E. Steinke, 615 Wells Ave., Escanaba, Mich., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for a number of years and would not be without them in the house. The statement we gave for publication several years ago, was correct in every respect and I am perfectly willing to have my name used in the local papers as an endorser of this remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills can be procured at the Mead Drug Co. and will never fail to bring relief if given a fair trial." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo New York, sole agents for the United States.

Aviation Costly.
A writer in the London Graphic figures out that it costs about $5,000 before the ordinary individual can attempt to fly, this sum including not only the aeroplane itself, but a shelter for the flying machine, tools needed for the countless repairs, etc. He asserts, also, that every return to earth is marked by the necessity of $10 worth of repair and readjustment. No wonder that flying is not a popular amusement.

THEATRICAL

The Peterson:—Miss Blanche Walsh, who has scored a sensational success in Jules Eckert Goodman's powerful drama, "The Test," will appear in that production at Peterson's opera house tomorrow (Tuesday) evening.

"The Test" has been pronounced by competent critics to be one of the strongest plays produced in America in many years. It deals with conditions which are the topic of the world today and runs the gamut of human emotions. The author has gone into the very souls of men and women, their passions and their emotions, and has drawn a picture which stands out in splendor as a story of deep heart interest to men and women in every walk of life. The scenes are laid in New York. Miss Walsh as Emma Eltyngne, declares the part to be the greatest of her career as an emotional actress.

The Peterson:—In some respects Al. W. Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the most important of the season's productions. In the first place it serves to exploit the masterpieces of two of Europe's noted artists, i. e., Ralph Brun's elaborate painting entitled "The Celestial City," and Martz Verlon's picture of the New Orleans slave mart; and secondly it has brought back into prominence the memories of that grand old woman, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and serves to reveal the beautiful lessons really to be learned by careful attention.

Like a poorly composed book, there are many versions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" now being forced upon the public under embossed covering, which are detrimental in the greatest degree. They are usually short-lived for the people of today are not to be hoodwinked as easily as those of not so many years ago. It is a nervous headaches or other nervous ailments, bad circulation or cold feet? If so, go to your druggist and get a pair of ELECTROPODES. We have arranged with him to sign a binding, legal contract with you, agreeing to refund the money if they fail to cure. $1.00 if they cure, and not one cent if they don't.

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT

one to tell him how to vote; neither does he need anyone to tell him who is responsible for all legislation. Besides, he knows how the affairs of the city are managed and what returns he is securing for his taxes.

Another great advantage which the commission plan offers, is that when the men are elected, they must devote their entire time to their work. Instead of the infrequent meetings, under the present system, the commission council meets at least twice a week and as many more times as necessary, with a clear understanding of the city's needs. When a petition is presented, it is decided upon the same day. The commissioners can afford to devote their time to the work, for they are well paid for their services.

The commission system eliminates politics in elections. It is impossible for politics to enter into the nominations or elections under this form of city government, as the officers are elected by the city at large. Under other forms a political machine can control a majority of votes in a majority of wards and thus control the city council, but in the commission plan of government to do this the "political bosses" would have to buy a majority of the votes of the whole city and this would be impossible.

When politics is eliminated, it stands to reason that better men will be elected, men who are better equipped for the work.

Councilman Ernest A. Sherman, one of the commissioners of Cedar Rapids says that "the commission has done more to awaken civic pride in Cedar Rapids since April, 1908, than all that happened during the more than fifty years that the city was operated under its special charter."

We are not arguing for a theory, but for a form of government which has been successful in the past, which is in active operation in many cities at the present time, and a system which we have every reason to believe will be successful in the future. We know that the commission form is meeting the needs of the people, because no place can be found where it has been tried and proved a failure. Its rapid growth is an evidence of its success. Galveston adopted it in 1901. Since that time some sixty cities, representing 3,000,000 people, have adopted its essential features. In Texas, fifteen cities use the Galveston plan. In Kansas sixteen cities have the Des Moines plan. Boston, Buffalo, Tacoma, St. Joseph and Memphis, all cities of over 100,000, have adopted commission government.

Hon. Seth Low, former mayor of New York, and ex-president of Columbia University, strikes the keynote of the success of the commission plan of government, when he says that "everything that tends to interest the voters of a city in the public questions that concern the city, makes for the public spirit and for public welfare, and this plan carries that idea as far as possible."

In Houston, before the commission plan was adopted, the government was inefficient and dishonest. For years the annual expenditures had exceeded the income by $18,100,000. After adopting the commission system a $400,000 floating debt was paid off in one year out of the ordinary income of the city. The city's taxes were reduced ten per cent at the same time. In the health department alone, there is a saving from $100 to $150 per month. In Des Moines every department has shown an increase in efficiency and an increased total of business transacted at a decreased cost. The water rates have been reduced from thirty to twenty cents per 1000 gallons. These results have been accomplished by the adoption of common every day business principles. Thus the city becomes a purely business proposition. The cities are the business enterprises, the citizens the stockholders and the dividends are the good results obtained in every department.

An essential feature of the commission form of city government is the fusion of the legislative and administrative bodies. To this the success of the commission system is largely due. The state and national legislation are general in their nature and scope. The extent of territory and the variety in local needs have naturally demanded a separate law-making body. President Eliot recognized this fact when he said that the work of the city council is not concerned with far-reaching policies of legislation. There is no occasion for two or even one separate legislative body. Dr. Albert Shaw writes that so indistinguishably blended are the legislative and administrative departments of a city that it is impossible to separate one from another. Hence, a commission council is superior to an isolated council because the councilmen must have a direct and technical knowledge of the city's affairs and because the councilmen are representative of the whole city.

Why then do we have satisfactory legislation under the commission form? Simply because its membership is small, its sessions are held oftener and because each member has a direct knowledge of the city's needs for each is a head of a department. In this way legislation becomes merely a business proposition. A good example is furnished of this when the Cedar Rapids commission council met to legislate on repairing an old bridge. The commission of public safety told in what respects the bridge was unsafe. The commission of public property knew how much land the city owned abutting the bridge, the commission of streets explained what alterations should be made in the approaches, and the commission of finance knew in just what way the city could best pay for the improvement. This shows the thoroughness with which a commission council is able to legislate.

Another strong element in favor of the commission form of city government is that it gives unbiased representation through city representation rather than ward. City legislation demands it and in this the commission council is far superior to the isolated council. There is no desire to favor one ward more than another as the commission is representative of the whole city. The commissioner could not afford to do it as it would prove disastrous to him as he is individually responsible for his department and is therefore forced to insist upon impartial representation of the entire city.

Ex-Mayor J. M. Mead, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "I am free to say that the Iowa charter comes nearer covering my idea of the perfect city charter than anything I have ever seen." We have shown you some of the advantages of the commission system, i. e. that it is much more simple than other systems; that its council is far superior to the present and gives superior legislation and unbiased representation; that the commission system does eliminate politics in elections and is not a theory but a form of city government which has proven successful, efficient and better equipped in every way for meeting the needs of the people more than any other of our present forms.

WEXFORD LAND GOES BEGGING

Lansing, Mich., May 9.—State Land Commissioner Russell placed on sale between 800 and 1,000 acres of land in Wexford county at Cadillac last week for back taxes for which he was unable to receive a bid. The Commonwealth Power Co. put in a claim for the land, contending that they secured it by right of purchase at $3 per acre.

This land is valued at $54 per acre by the company, it is claimed, and it is said that they will need about 40 acres of it to complete the power merger which they have under way. It is claimed that the company did not look up the tax title to this land when they purchased it and that taxes remained unpaid for several years and as a result reverted to the state under the delinquent tax act.

Edward Hines Lumber Company Started Suit Against Two Men Who Picked Up Floating Lumber Lost From Carrier.

Chicago, May 9.—Suit was instituted in the circuit court Saturday by the Edward Hines Lumber Co. of Chicago, which brings a libel action in admiralty against a cargo of lumber, washed overboard on the night of May 2 from the schooner Delta, and against Louis Crystal, 322 Beulah St., and H. P. Meyer, 716 Superior St.

It is alleged by the complainants that Meyer and Crystal hauled away the cargo valued at $140, soon after it was washed ashore near their homes and while the schooner Delta was in plain sight and giving the distress signal. The complaint sets up that offers that have been refused were made to both Crystal and Meyer to pay them for their trouble in hauling away the lumber. The plaintiffs pray that a process be issued and Crystal and Meyer be cited to appear in court and show cause why they should not return the lumber to the consignees.

Witely Reasoned.

From the diary of Samuel Pepys: "The generality of mankind please themselves in the easy delights of the world, as eating, dancing, drinking, hunting, which we see the meanest men do best. A gentleman never dances so well as the dancing master; and an ordinary fiddler makes better music for a shilling than a gentleman will after spending 40. And so in all the delights of the world almost."

A Cure for Nerves.

The "nervy" girl will find that an hour's sewing is a wonderful nerve soother. She can sew in all her little irritations, her fancied injuries and generally become her normal self again when she has finished a long seam. One of the most neurotic and excitable women, the famous George Sand, wrote in praise of the soothing powers of needlework, and every girl who tries this simple remedy for nerves will doubtless confirm her testimony.—Home Notes.

New Tuberculosis Cure Based on Medicine

Did it ever occur to you that the reason medical doctors have so little success in curing Tuberculosis is because they really do not practice medicine? But what is going to cure the patient?—Bokman's Alternative has cured and is curing many a case of Consumption. Let those speak who know. Here is a specimen:—

Telling every sufferer to gorge himself with eggs and milk is apparently the limit of modern treatment. Certainly a person afflicted with a wasting disease should be well fed with wholesome, nourishing food, but frequently raw eggs in quantities cause digestive breakdown, and then no food nourishes. As for milk, a very good food for many, but a producer of biliousness for some.

Any diet that keeps a Consumptive well nourished is the right one, but what is going to cure the patient?—Bokman's Alternative has cured and is curing many a case of Consumption. Let those speak who know. Here is a specimen:—

90 Savannah St., Rochester, N. Y.

Gentlemen: On Jan. 2, 1907, I was operated upon for Tubercular Peritonitis at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, N. Y. After the operation my physicians gave me up. I was then urged by a clergyman to take Bokman's Alternative, which I did. My weight at the time was 72 lbs. I began to improve and steadily gained in health and strength. I now weigh 125 lbs., and am absolutely cured.

MENOMINEE MEN IN CALIFORNIA

Michigan Capitalists Buy One of the Largest Mills in the State of Washington—Pay $250,000 for the Property.

William Donovan, Sr., formerly a well known lumberman of Menominee but who, for the past several years, has been running a sawmill at Eureka, Cal., and a coterie of other former Menominee men have purchased one of the largest sawmills in the state of Washington. The mill will cut 30,000,000 feet of Washington fir and cedar yearly. The purchase price is given as $250,000. With the permanent departure of Mr. Donovan from Menominee one of the few remaining prominent lumbermen of that city will have disappeared, following the trend of all of that craft toward the west. For many years his mill was one of the busiest in Menominee. It was among the very few that ran day and night and the greater part of the year at that time.

MICHIGAN IS NOW GUARDING THE TREES

The Trespass Department is Satisfied With its Efforts—Wexford Man is Caught With the Goods After Posts Had Been Fitted to Stumps—Heavily Fined—Story.

Lansing, May 9.—Stopping ratters on state timber was never vigorously pushed until the last legislature provided for a state trespass agent or supervisor of trespass under the public domain commission act. Since then there has been a merry war in some counties and much indignation has been expressed because trespass agents were "snooping" around looking for the men who had taken timber from state lands.

So long had state lands been cut over that the practice had become recognized as a requisite of nearby timber men. Of late, however, this attitude has changed somewhat and Supervisor Glen Munshaw is highly pleased over the success of Trespass Agents Imler and Woodbury in securing the conviction before a jury in Wexford county of a man charged with looting state lands of about 800 posts. He was fined $125.

Supervisor Munshaw states that the agents found a road leading from the house of the trespasser to a piece of state land and at a railroad siding they found the posts. Cutting off the ends of some of the posts they took them to the state lands and found the stumps from which they had been cut by reason of the post ends matching the stumps.

Escanaba fans yesterday afternoon enjoyed seeing a good ball game and had the further satisfaction of seeing the home team win against Rapid River. For an exhibition contest early in the season the game was fairly tight and well played, although errors were numerous on both sides.

Nolden for Escanaba and Devet for Rapid River were the opposing twirlers, with the former having the best of the argument. Nolden struck out nine men and issued but one free pass to first, while Devet fanned four men and walked three. Seven hits were made off each pitcher.

The game occupied but an hour and twenty-five minutes and was umpired by Buckley, the old reliable. Following is the score of runs, hits and errors by innings:
